13. The prosecution has not placed on record the apposite medical certificate prepared by the doctor concerned holding communications therein of the complainant standing subjected to physical beatings by the respondent herein. Omission of the aforesaid factum when construed in tandem with the factum qua the F.I.R qua the relevant occurrence standing belatedly lodged before the Police Station concerned significantly also when the relevant delay stands inexplicated, stirs an inference of the allegations constituted in the F.I.R. holding no truth rather theirs being a result of mere concoction on the part of the complainant.

14. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Sessions Judge has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Sessions Judge does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

15. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.

CMP No.7039 of 2016 in CWP No.1402 of 2016.
Reserved on: 25.10.2016.
Date of Decision: November 08, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Government issued a notification for opening Government Degree College, which is the subject matter of the writ petition- an application for interim direction was filed, which was allowed and the order was stayed – it was prayed that interim direction be vacated – held, that Government formulates the policy upon number of circumstances based on its resources – it would be dangerous, if the Court is asked to test the utility or beneficial effects of the policy based on the facts set out in affidavit – Court cannot strike down a policy or decision merely because it feels that another decision would have been fairer and more scientific, logical or wiser- the wisdom and advisability are not amenable to judicial review unless the policies are contrary to statutory or constitutional provision or arbitrary or irrational or an abuse of power – the Government has right to frame policy and there is no need to raise any grievance, if the policy is changed- the policy will not be vitiated merely because it has been changed- the Government has discretion to adopt a different policy to make it more effective – the decision to open a new college is not malicious, arbitrary or whimsical – the matter is also pending before Hon'ble Supreme Court of India- the decision to open the college cannot be stayed indefinitely- prayer allowed and the stay order vacated. For the Respondents: Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Ms.Archana Dutt, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

CMP No.7039 of 2016.

The instant petition has been filed by the petitioners claiming therein the following reliefs:-

"a. Quash the notification dated 16th May, 2016, Annexure P-11 in so far it relates to the opening of the Government Degree College, Jandaur, District Kangra, H.P.

b. Prohibit the respondents from opening or starting Government Degree College Jandaur, District Kangra, H.P. from the Academic Sessions 2016-2017 and constructing building and creating infrastructure for the Degree College at Jandaur."

2. The respondents in the year 2012 decided to open eight colleges including the one at Kotla Behr. On 02.03.2013, the college at Kotla Behr was de-notified and the said decision was challenged by one Harbans Lal Kalia by medium of CWP No.1526 of 2013. This petition was decided alongwith bunch of petitions which pertained to the other colleges as de-notified vide notification dated 02.03.2013. This Court upheld the decision of the respondents, as would be clear from para-43 of the judgment which reads thus:-

"43. We may now turn to writ petition No.1526 of 2013 in respect of Government Degree College at Kotla Behar in Kangra District.The original record produced before us contains a communication, purported to be dated 15th June, 2012, sent from the office of the then Chief Minister addressed to the Principal Secretary (Education), mentioning that during the tour to Dehra, District Kangra, on 9th June, 2012, the (then) Chief Minister made announcement to start a Government Degree College at Kotla Behar, Tehsil Jaswan, District Kangra, from current academic session i.e. 2012-13. The communication calls upon the Principal Secretary (Education), Government of Himachal Pradesh, to take immediate action to comply with the said announcement made by the (then) Chief Minister and send compliance report within 15 days. It is in this backdrop, the Department moved into action and after completing the necessary paper work, issued notification on 23rd June, 2012 within the prescribed time. Notably, the decision to start new College is sought to be justified on some report prepared in the year 2003. However, no attempt was made by the dispensation to examine other relevant factors before taking the final decision. The Government Senior Secondary School was, obviously, compelled to set apart three rooms from its building to accommodate the College. That inevitably compromised the quality education imparted to its students. Besides, only 16 students were finally admitted in this College for the academic year 2012-13. In other words, the three reasons recorded for closing this College cannot be discarded nor can be said to be mala fide or unreasonable. The fact that the local Gram Panchayats were supportive of setting up the said College cannot be the basis to ignore the opinion recorded in the impugned decision, which is taken in public interest. Accordingly, even this petition ought to fail for the same reasons."

3. It would be evident from the aforesaid decision that the considerations which primarily weighed with the Court to uphold the decision of the Government was that the opening of college at Kotla Behr would have inevitably compromised the quality education to be imparted to the students and, therefore, the reasons given by the respondents for closing the college could not be discarded nor said to be tainted with malafide or unreasonable. It was also observed that merely because the Gram Panchayats had been supporting the setting up of the colleges could not be the basis to ignore the opinion recorded in the decision of the Government which had been taken in public interest.

4. It was pursuant to the decision rendered in CWP No.1526 of 2013 alongwith other batch of petitions that the respondents formulated the guidelines for setting up the colleges vide notification dated 02.01.2014. Later, vide notifications dated 15.01.2014 and 24.02.2014, the Government took decision to open various new colleges, but college of Kotla Behr was not included in the aforesaid notifications. However, strangely enough, the petitioners filed a writ petition therein again assailing the notification dated 02.03.2013 whereby the respondents had already de-notified the college at Kotla Behr. This petition came to be allowed and the decision dated 02.03.2013 which as stated above had already been upheld in CWP No.1526 of 2013 came to be quashed and set aside vide judgment dated 20.07.2015.

5. The matter is now sub-judice before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition C.C. No.21698 of 2015 and the judgment and order passed by this Court on 20.07.2015 has been ordered to be stayed vide order dated 29.02.2016.

6. On 16.05.2016, the Government issued yet another notification for opening Government Degree College at Jandaur, District Kangra, which decision is the subject matter of the instant petition. The petitioners have assailed the notification on the ground that the same was arbitrary and irrational and taken with a view to frustrate the decision rendered by this Court on 20.07.2015 and that the respondents have not been guided by sound policies and doctrine of good governance in the State.

7. Alongwith the writ petition, the petitioners filed an application for interim directions and vide orders passed by this Court on 27.05.2016 the notification dated 16.05.2016 was ordered to be stayed.

8. The respondents have filed their reply wherein they have raised preliminary objections regarding the very maintainability of the petition on the ground that it is more than settled law that Court should be chary from interfering in policy matters and infusing or imposing its assessment of the policy, especially, when the same does not suffer from any malice or arbitrariness. On merits, it is averred that the decision of the Government to establish college at Jandaur was taken as the same would benefit the general public of the area as it would cater to the areas of Sanasrpur terrace Suelkhad, Nari Ghati, Ghati Bilwan, Jandaur, Katola, Bathu, Tippari, Ghamroor, Gangret, Dharmshala Mahantan, Gindpur Malon, Bari and such other backward adjoining areas. It is further averred that the area in question is semi-hill area and only one major district road passes through the same. Moreover, as the mode of transport is very limited and the students, particularly girl students cannot conveniently travel long distances and, therefore, after taking into consideration the judgment rendered by this Court on 18.06.2013 in CWP No.1468 of 2013 and after keeping in view the guidelines issued on 02.01.2014, the respondents have decided to open a college at Jandaur.

9. At this stage, the learned Advocate General has prayed for vacation of the interim orders dated 27.05.2016 on the ground that these orders virtually amount to sitting over the judgment rendered by this Court in CWP No.1468/2013 and that apart this Court ought not to interfere with the policy matters, particularly, when the decision of the respondents is not tainted with malafide and is not even otherwise arbitrary and illegal.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

10. Shri K.D.Sood, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has vehemently argued that the decision taken by the respondents for not re-starting the Government Degree College at Kotla Behr and issuing notification to open the same at Jandaur which is 3 kilometres away from Kotla Behr is arbitrary, irrational and has been brought about with a view to frustrate the decision rendered by this Court on 20.07.2015. He further argued that the decision has been taken without taking into consideration the local conditions ignoring the comparative advantages of Kotla Behr vis-à-vis Jandaur like Kotla Behr was having no institution of higher studies, but was having sufficient feeder institution as there were 11 Government Senior Secondary Schools in the vicinity with a strength of more than 1000 students. The decision was taken by the respondents in haste and amounted to discrimination to the people of the area and the decision had been taken only when there was change of guard in the State.

11. On the other hand, Shri Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General, for respondents No.1 to 3, would vehemently argue that the decision by the respondents had been taken in the larger public interest that too strictly in accordance with the guidelines dated 02.01.2014. It is further argued that the policy cannot be vitiated only on the ground of change of Government as the Government has discretion to adopt a different policy or alter or change its policy calculated to serve public interest and make it more effective. The choice in the balancing of pros and cons relevant to the change in policy lies with the authority and until and unless proved to be in conflict with Wednesbury's reasonableness or arbitrary, irrational, bias or malafide should not normally be interfered with.

12. It cannot be disputed that when the Government forms a policy, it is based upon number of circumstances on facts, law including constraints based on its resources. It is also based upon expert opinion. It would be dangerous if Court is asked to test the utility, beneficial effect of the policy or its appraisal based on facts set out on affidavit. The Court would dissuade itself from entering into this realm which belongs to the executive (Refer: State of Punjab and others versus Ram Lubhaya Bagga etc. etc. AIR 1998 SC 1703).

13. It is well settled that the Court cannot strike down a policy on decision taken by the Government merely because it feels that another decision would have been fairer and more scientific or logical or wiser. The wisdom and advisability of the policies are ordinarily not amenable to judicial review unless the policies are contrary to statutory or constitutional provision or arbitrary or irrational or an abuse of power. (See: Ram Singh Vijay Pal Singh and others versus State of U.P. and others (2007) 6 SCC 44, Villianur Iyarkkai Padukappu Maiyam versus Union of India and others (2009) 7 SCC 561, State of Kerala and another versus Peoples Union for Civil Liberties, Kerala State Unit and others (2009) 8 SCC 46.

14. Thus, what emerges to be a settled legal proposition is that the Government has the power and competence to change the policy on the basis of the ground realities. A public policy cannot be challenged through PIL when the State Government is competent to frame a policy and there is no need to anyone to raise any grievance if any policy is changed. The public policy can only be challenged where it offends some constitutional or statutory provisions (Refer: State of Madhya Pradesh versus Narmada Bachao Andolan and another (2011) 7 SCC 639).

15. It is trite law that Article 14 of the Constitution applies also to matters of governmental policy and if the policy or any action of the Government, even in contractual matters, fails to satisfy the test of reasonableness, it would be unconstitutional.

16. While the discretion to change the policy in exercise of the executive power, when not trammelled by any statute or rule is wide enough, what is imperative and implicit in terms of Article 14 is that a change in policy must be made fairly and should not give impression that it was so done arbitrarily or by any ulterior criteria. The wide sweep of Article 14 and the requirement of every State action qualifying for its validity on this touchstone irrespective of the field of activity of the State is an accepted tenet. The basic requirement of Article 14 is fairness in action by the state, and non-arbitrariness in essence and substance is the heart beat of fair play. Actions are amenable, in the panorama of judicial review only to the extent that the State must act validly for a discernible reason, not whimsically for any ulterior purpose. The meaning and true import and concept of arbitrariness is more easily visualized than precisely defined. A question whether the impugned action is arbitrary or not is to be ultimately answered on the facts and circumstances of a given case. A basic and obvious test to apply in such cases is to see whether there is any discernible principle emerging from the impugned action and if so, does it really satisfy the test of reasonableness. (See: Union of India & Anr. versus International Trading Co. and Another (2003) 5 SCC 437.

17. It is equally settled that the Government policy can be changed with the changing circumstances and only on the ground of change, such policy will not be vitiated. The Government has discretion to adopt a different policy or alter or change its policy calculated to solve the public interest and make it more effective. The choice in the balancing of pros and cons relevant to the change in policy lies with the authority.

18. What would be the extent of the powers vested with the Court to review policy decision was the subject-matter of recent decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Essar Steel Ltd. versus Union of India and others AIR 2016 SC 1980 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

> "30. Before we can examine the validity of the impugned policy decision dated 06.03.2007, it is crucial to understand the extent of the power vested with this Court to review policy decisions.
> In the case of Delhi Development Authority (AIR 2008 SC 1343) (supra) on issue of judicial review of policy decisions, the power of the court is examined and observed as under:
> > "An executive order termed as a policy decision is not beyond the pale of judicial review. Whereas the superior courts may not interfere with the natty grittiest of the policy, or substitute one by the other but it will not be correct to contend that the court shall like its judicial hands off, when a plea is raised that the impugned decision is a policy decision. Interference therewith on the part of the superior court would not be without jurisdiction as it is subject to judicial review.
> > Broadly, a policy decision is subject to judicial review on the following grounds:
> > (a) if it is unconstitutional;
> > (b) if it is de'hors the provisions of the Act and the Regulations;
> > (c) if the delegatee has acted beyond its power of delegation;
> > (d) if the executive policy is contrary to the statutory or a larger policy."
> 31.Thus, we will test the impugned policy on the above grounds to determine whether it warrants our interference under Article 136 or not. Further, this Court neither has the jurisdiction nor the competence to judge the viability of such policy decisions of the Government in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution of India. In the case of Arun Kumar Agrawal v. Union of India (2013) 7 SCC 1, this Court has further held as under:
> > "This Court sitting in the jurisdiction cannot sit in judgment over the commercial or business decision taken by parties to the agreement, after evaluating and Assessing its monetary and financial implications, unless the decision is in clear violation of any statutory provisions or perverse or for extraneous considerations or improper motives. States and its instrumentalities can enter into various contracts which may involve complex economical factors. State or the State undertaking being a party to a contract, have to make various decisions which they deem just and proper. There is always an element of risk in such decisions, ultimately it may turn out to be a correct decision or a wrong one. But if the decision is taken bona fide and in public interest, the mere fact that decision has ultimately proved to be a wrong, that itself is not a ground to hold that the decision was mala fide or done with ulterior motives."

(emphasis laid by this Court)

In the case of Villianur Iyarkkai Padukappu Maiyam v. Union of India (2009) 7 SCC 561, it was held as under:

> "It is neither within the domain of the courts nor the scope of judicial review to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise or whether better public policy can be evolved. Nor are the courts inclined to strike down a policy at the behest of a Petitioner merely because it has been urged that a different policy would have been fairer or wiser or more scientific or more logical. Wisdom and advisability of economic policy are ordinarily not amenable to judicial review. In matters relating to economic issues the Government has, while taking a decision, right to "trial and error" as long as both trial and error are bona fide and within the limits of the authority. For testing the correctness of a policy, the appropriate forum is Parliament and not the courts."

A Three Judge bench of this Court in the case of Narmada Bachao Andolan v. Union of India (2000) 10 SCC 664 cautioned against Courts sitting in appeal against policy decisions. It was held as under:

> "234.In respect of public projects and policies which are initiated by the Government the Courts should not become an approval authority. Normally such decisions are taken by the Government after due care and consideration. In a democracy welfare of the people at large, and not merely of a small section of the society, has to be the concern of a responsible Government. If a considered policy decision has been taken, which is not in conflict with any law or is not mala fide, it will not be in Public Interest to require the Court to go into and investigate those areas which are the function of the executive. For any project which is approved after due deliberation the Court should refrain from being asked to review the decision just because a petitioner in filing a PIL alleges that such a decision should not have been taken because an opposite view against the undertaking of the project, which view may have been considered by the Government, is possible. When two or more options or views are possible and after considering them the Government takes a policy decision it is then not the function of the Court to go into the matter afresh and, in a way, sit in appeal over such a policy decision." (emphasis laid by this Court)

A similar sentiment was echoed by a Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of Peerless General Finance & Investment Co. Ltd. v. Reserve Bank of India (1992) 2 SCC 343, wherein it was observed as under:

> "Courts are not to interfere with economic policy which is the function of experts. It is not the function of the Courts to sit in Judgment over matters of economic policy and it must necessarily be left to the expert bodies. In such matters even experts can seriously and doubtlessly differ. Courts cannot be expected to decide them without even the aid of experts."

A perusal of the above mentioned judgments of this Court would show that this Court should exercise great caution and restraint when confronted with matters related to the policy regarding commercial matters of the country. Executive policies are usually enacted after much deliberation by the Government. Therefore, it would not be appropriate for this Court to question the wisdom of the same, unless it is demonstrated by the aggrieved persons that the said policy has been enacted in an arbitrary, unreasonable or malafide manner, or that it offends the provisions of the Constitution of India."

19. It would, thus, be clear from the aforesaid exposition of law that broadly a policy decision is subject to judicial review on the following grounds:-

(i) if the policy fails to satisfy the test of reasonableness, it shall be unconstitutional;

(ii) the change in policy must be made fairly and should not give impression that it was so done arbitrarily of any ulterior intention;

(iii) the policy can be faulted on the ground of malafide unreasonableness, arbitrariness or unfairness etc.;

(iv) if the policy is found against any statue or Constitution or runs counter to the philosophy behind these provisions;

(v) it is dehors the provisions of the Act or Legislations;

(vi) if the delegatee has acted beyond its power of delegation.

20. It cannot be disputed that it is within the complete domain of the State to select a site for construction of college which decision obviously would be taken after taking into consideration various factors in mind. The Court has very limited jurisdiction to interfere with such policy matters.

21. Direct authority on the subject is judgment rendered by an Hon'ble Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra and others versus Lok Shikshan Sanstha and others AIR 1973 SC 588 wherein while dealing with the State Policy in the matter of giving permission to start educational institutions, it was held that the High Court should not interfere so long as fundamental rights and principles of natural justice are not violated and it would be apt to reproduce para-9 of the judgment which reads thus:-

"9. Before we deal with the above contentions advanced before us on behalf of both sides, it is necessary to state that the High Court in the judgment under attack has made certain observations regarding what according to it should be the policy adopted by the educational authorities in the matter of permitting the starting of a new school or of an additional school in a particular locality or area. It is enough to state that the High Court has thoroughly misunderstood the nature of the jurisdiction that was exercised by it when dealing with the claims of the two writ petitioners that their applications had been wrongly rejected by the educational authorities. So long as there is no violation of any fundamental rights and if the principles of natural justice are not offended, it was not for the High Court to lay down the policy that should be adopted by the educational authorities in the matter of granting permission for starting schools. The question of policy is essentially for the State and such policy will depend upon an overall assessment and summary of the requirements of residents of a particular locality and other categories of persons for whom it is essential to provide facilities for education. If the overall assessment is arrived at after a proper classification on a reasonable basis, it is not for the courts to interfere with the policy leading up to such assessment."

22. A similar issue with regard to shifting of school from one place to another came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Raj Shikshan Prasarak Mandal versus State of Maharashtra and others (2001) 10 SCC 75 and it was held that the High Court should not interfere with the Government order granting permission to shift the school in absence of it being malicious, arbitrary or whimsical and it is apt to reproduce para-3 of the judgment which reads thus:-

"3.....The shifting of the school from one place to the other or having an ashram school at one place is not governed by any statutory rules and it is in fact a policy decision of the Government. So long as the government decision is not actuated with any malice or is not the outcome of an arbitrary and whimsical act, the same should not be interfered with by a court of law under Article 226 of the Constitution of India....."

23. Similar reiterations of law can be found in CWP No.621 of 2014 titled as Nand Lal and another versus State of H.P. & others, CWP No.7115 of 2013 titled as Sher Singh versus State of H.P. & others, CWP No.4625 of 2012 titled as Gurbachan versus State of H.P. & others, CWP No.3862 of 2014 titled as Surinder Kumar versus State of H.P. and others, CWP No.2927 of 2015 titled as Rikhi Ram and another versus State of H.P. and others, CWP No.359 of 2016 titled as Ranjan Singh and others versus State of H.P. and others, CWP No.1764 of 2012 titled as Meena Kumari versus Union of India and others and CWP No.1307 of 2016 titled as Mohan Dutt and another versus Union India and others.

24. As we are only dealing with the prayer of vacation of stay, we need not to delve in detail in merits of the case. Suffice it to say that prima facie we do not find the action of the respondents in opening the college at Jandaur to be either malicious, arbitrary or whimsical. That apart, the decision taken by the respondents cannot be termed to be unconstitutional or dehors the provisions of any Act or Regulation or even notification dated 02.01.2014. The decision is not even contrary to the statutory provision and larger public policy, but appears to have been taken after due care and consideration.

25. In addition to the aforesaid, it appears that the petitioners at the time of passing of interim orders had not even brought to the notice of this Court the fact that the decisions qua de-notifying the Degree College at Kotla Behr dated 02.03.2013 had already been upheld by this Court in CWP No.1526 of 2013 titled Harbans Lal Kalia versus State of Himachal Pradesh and another.

26. Moreover, no reliance, at this stage, can be placed on the judgment rendered by this Court in CWP No.1526 of 2013 (supra) as the same has been stayed and the matter is now sub-judice before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

27. That apart, the petitioners during the course of hearing of this petition had repeatedly sought adjournments, firstly, on the ground that they wanted to move a transfer petition before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition C.C.No.21698 of 2015 as mentioned in para-5 (supra) and thereafter after having preferred a Transfer Petition (Civil) No.1173 of 2016 sought adjournment on the ground that the application is likely to take up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. However, the facts remains that the application though stands filed, yet no orders till date have been passed thereupon.

28. As observed earlier, the decision to open a college at Jandaur, prima facie, appears to have been taken in the larger public interest and, therefore, the said decision cannot be stayed indefinitely. We are, therefore, of the considered view that the interim order passed by this Court on 27.05.2016 whereby the notification dated 16.05.2016 (Annexure P-11) to the extent it pertains to the opening of Degree College at Janduar has been stayed deserves to be vacated. Ordered accordingly. However, it is made clear that in case the respondents open the college at Jandaur, the same shall be subject to the final outcome of this petition. The application is accordingly disposed of in the aforesaid terms.

11. Following documentaries evidence adduced by parties.(1) Ext. P1 is the notice. (2) Ext P2 to Ext P4 are envelopes. (3) Ext. PW2/A is field book. (4) Ext.P5 is jamabandi pertaining to the year 2005-06. (5) Ext P6 is the letter issued to General Manager by landlord. (6) Ext.P7 & P8 are reply of the letter to landlord by General Manager. (7) Ext.P9 & Ext P10 are letter issued to Labour Inspector by landlord. (8) Ext P11 is reply of letter to landlord by Labour Inspector. (9) Ext.P16 is rent deed. (10) Ext.R1 to Ext R83 are receipts of rent. (11) Ext.R84 to Ext R86 are copies of passbooks. (12) Ext.R87 to Ext.R91 are copies of cheque books.

12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that it is proved on record as per testimony of RW3 Narinder Singh that demised premises was subletted to Harinder Singh and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that Sh Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh are real brothers. Court has carefully perused testimony of RW3 Narinder Singh recorded by learned Rent Controller. It is well settled law that testimony of witnesses recorded in judicial proceedings should be read as a whole and should not be read in isolation in order to determine the disputed facts. RW3 Narinder Singh has specifically stated in positive manner when he appeared in witness box that demised premises is in his possession and he is running demised premises. RW3 Narinder Singh has specifically stated in positive manner that he is proprietor of business running in demised premises. RW3 Narinder Singh has denied suggestion that he has sublet demised premises to his brother Sh Harinder Singh. It is well settled law that in order to prove subletting initial onus is upon landlord to prove subletting. It is well settled law that in order to prove subletting the relationship of lessor and lessee between tenant and sub tenant should be proved in accordance with law. It is well settled law that under section 105 of Transfer of Property Act 1882 the transferor is called the lessor, transferee is called lessee, price is called the premium and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent. In the present case landlord did not prove relation of lessor and lessee between Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh. There is no evidence of payment of premium between Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh. In the present case there is no evidence of payment of any rent by Harinder Singh to Narinder Singh. Landlord did not adduce any eye witness of subletting from locality in present case. There is no document of subletting placed on record on behalf of landlord in the present case executed by Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh. Hence it is held that ingredients of subletting of demised premises are not proved on record in present case between Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh. It is proved on record that Harinder Singh is real brother of tenant Narinder Singh. It is well settled law that assisting brother in business did not fall within definition of subletting. See AIR 1998 SC 2773 title Kala and another Vs. Madho Parshad Vaidya. See AIR 1999 SC 3087 title Resham Singh Vs. Raghbir Singh and another. See 1998 (9) SCC 688 title Benjamin Premanand Rawade Vs. Anil Joseph Rawade.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that revisionist filed application under order 41 rule 27 CPC for placing on record additional evidence and learned Appellate Authority did not allow application for additional evidence which cause miscarriage of justice to revisionist and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has perused record of learned Appellate Authority carefully. Learned Appellate Authority has allowed application filed under order 41 rule 27 CPC by landlord vide order dated 21.3.2014 and letter No. 1070 and 1071 have been allowed to be exhibited and have been exhibited as Ext PX and PY subject to cost of Rs.200/-. Hence plea of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that learned Appellate Authority did not allow application under order 41 rule 27 CPC is devoid of any force.

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that learned Rent Controller did not frame proper issues as per pleadings of parties and on this ground revision petition be allowed is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Learned Rent Controller framed issues on 1.12.2010 in the presence of learned Advocates and there is recital in order sheet that issues were read over and explained to the parties. Landlord did not claim additional issue before learned Rent Controller. Even landlord did not file any application before learned Rent Controller for framing additional issues. In the present case parties went to trial fully knowing the rival case and led all evidence not only in support of their contentions but also in refutation of other parties. It is held that non framing of issue is not fatal to landlord in the present case. See AIR 1963 SC 884 (Full bench) title Nedunuri Kameswaramma Vs. Sampati Subba Rao.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that it is proved on record that Sh Narinder Singh is exclusive proprietor of M/s Madhur Steel Furniture Udyog in Sultanpur locality and Sh Harinder Singh is exclusive proprietor of M/s Niranjan Singh and Sons in demised premises as per documents furnished before Sale Tax office and Labour department and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Landlord did not examine any official from Sale Tax office and Labour department. In the present case landlord himself appeared as PW1 in witness box and examined PW2 Om Parkash patwari who proved only tatima (Field map) Ext PW2/A placed on record and examined PW3 Umesh who is posted in courier service. Landlord did not examine any official from Sale Tax office and Labour department in order to prove subletting of demised premises. Hence adverse inference under section 114(G) of Indian Evidence Act 1872 is drawn against landlord in present case.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that learned Rent Controller has ignored documents Ext P7 and Ext P8 placed on record and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has perused document Ext P7 carefully. Document Ext P7 has signed by General Manager District Industries Centre Chamba HP. Landlord did not examine General Manager District Industries Centre Chamba in Court who has signed document Ext P7 placed on record. It is well settled law that contents of document can be proved by way of witness who is signatory to the document as per Indian Evidence Act 1872. It is held that document Ext P7 did not prove subletting of demised premises between Narinder Singh and Harinder Singh. Court has also perused document Ext P8 placed on record. Document Ext P8 is certificate issued by General Manager District Industries Centre relating to registration of M/s Madhur Steel Furniture Udyog Julakhari Chamba HP. Document Ext P8 did not prove subletting of demised premises in favour of Harinder Singh by Narinder Singh.

17. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority has committed grave error by ignoring the fact that landlord had served number of notice upon tenant regarding subletting and tenant did not rebut the allegation of subletting and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that non-filing of reply to notice issued by landlord prior to litigation in court did not mean that subletting of demised premises is admitted by tenant in judicial proceedings. There is no document on record in order to prove that tenant has admitted subletting in favour of Harinder Singh qua demised premises in judicial proceedings. It is well settled law that when response is not filed by adverse party to notice issued prior to litigation then aggrieved party can claim costs of entire litigations from adverse party.

18. It is well settled law that concurrent findings of fact of learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority should not be disturbed by High Court unless findings of learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority are perverse. In the present case it is held that findings of learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority are not perverse but are based upon oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record. See AIR 1991 SC 455 title Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan Vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 title Indore Municipality Vs. K.N.Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 title P.Udayani Devi Vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 title Gurdial Singh Vs. Raj Kumar Aneja. In view above stated facts and case law supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Relief).

19. In view of findings on point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Orders of learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority affirmed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. File of learned Rent Controller and learned Appellate Authority along with certify copy of order be sent back forthwith. Revision petition is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

For the Petitioner : Mr. Hamender Singh Chandel, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Maan Singh, Advocate, for respondent No.1 and 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge .

This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is directed against the order passed by the learned trial Court on 15.3.2016 whereby the applications filed by the respondents No.1 and 4 under Order 9 Rule 4 CPC have been allowed and orders dated 19.3.2011 and 21.11.2012 whereby these respondents had been proceeded ex-parte has been ordered to be set aside.

The facts in brief may be noticed thus.

2. The petitioner has filed suit for recovery against the respondents which is pending before the Learned trial Court. The respondents No.1 and 4 were duly served and did not contest the suit for 4-5 years and it is only thereafter that they filed applications for setting aside exparte order, which applications as observed above has been ordered to be allowed by the Learned trial Court.

3. The grievance of the petitioner is that the application(s) filed by respondents No.1 and 4 could not have been allowed as the same was based on falsehood. He has invited my attention to the application firstly filed by respondent No.1 wherein it is averred that the respondent has been serving in the Indian Army for the last 3 years and remained posted in the most sensitive areas. In addition to that he also remained on deputation with VIPs and as such did not receive any notice from the Court and was proceeded exparte on 19.3.2011. He further invited my attention to the summons issued to respondent No.1 which were infact duly received by his wife and at the time the respondent No.1 himself was available at home.

4 As regards, the respondent No.4, the application filed for setting aside the ex parte order discloses that the only reason given for non-appearance is that she was residing at Ludhiana and came to know about the pendency of the case when she visited her native place. Where as, the notice issued to respondent No.4 which has been appended as Annexure P-1 with the petition discloses that the petitioner had personally received the summons on 16.2.2011 and therefore the explanation offered by her, like the one offered by the respondent no.1, is totally false.

5. Ordinarily, this Court would not interfere with matters which pertain to setting aside of exparte orders as it is more than settled that when technicalities are pitted against substantive justice, then obviously substantive justice has to prevail. However, the said principle would not apply to a case where a party does not approach the Court with clean hands, clean mind and a clean heart.

6. It is proved on record that the defence set up by the appellant was absolutely false. In Maria Margarida Sequeria Fernandes v. Erasmo Jack de Sequeria, (2012) 5 SCC 370, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that false claims and defences are serious problems with the litigation. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

> 84. False claims and defences are really serious problems with real estate litigation, predominantly because of ever escalating prices of the real estate. Litigation pertaining to valuable real estate properties is dragged on by unscrupulous litigants in the hope that the other party will tire out and ultimately would settle with them by paying a huge amount. This happens because of the enormous delay in adjudication of cases in our Courts. If pragmatic approach is adopted, then this problem can be minimized to a large extent."

7. In Dalip Singh v. State of U.P., (2010) 2 SCC 114, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that a new creed of litigants have cropped up in the last 40 years who do not have any respect for truth and shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. The observations of the Supreme Court are as under:-

> "1. For many centuries, Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e., 'Satya' (truth) and 'Ahimsa' (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system which was in vogue in the pre-Independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has over shadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings.
> 2. In last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final."

8. In Satyender Singh v. Gulab Singh, 2012 (129) DRJ, 128, the Division Bench of Delhi High Court following Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. (supra) observed that the Courts are flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties due to which the judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming Courts" time for a wrong cause."

The observations of Court are as under:-

> "2. As rightly observed by the Supreme Court, Satya is a basic value of life which was required to be followed by everybody and is recognized since many centuries. In spite of caution, courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court. Indeed, it is a nightmare faced by a Trier of Facts; required to stitch a garment, when confronted with a fabric where the weft, shuttling back and forth across the warp in weaving, is nothing but lies. As the threads of the weft fall, the yarn of the warp also collapses; and there is no fabric left."

9. In Sky Land International Pvt. Ltd. v. Kavita P. Lalwani, (2012) 191 DLT 594, Delhi High Court held as under:-

> "26.20 Dishonest and unnecessary litigations are a huge strain on the judicial system. The Courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court.
> 26.22 Unless the Courts ensure that wrongdoers are denied profit or undue benefit from the frivolous litigation, it would be difficult to control frivolous and uncalled for litigations. In order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the Courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that the Courts" scarce and valuable time is consumed or more appropriately wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases. It becomes the duty of the Courts to see that such wrong doers are discouraged at every step and even if they succeed in prolonging the litigation, ultimately they must suffer the costs. Despite settled legal positions, the obvious wrong doers, use one after another tier of judicial review mechanism as a gamble, knowing fully well that the dice is always loaded in their favour, since even if they lose, the time gained is the real gain. This situation must be redeemed by the Courts."

10. The judicial system has been abused and virtually brought to its knees by unscrupulous litigants like the respondents No.1 and 4.. It has to be remembered that Court's proceedings are sacrosanct and should not be polluted by unscrupulous litigants.

11. In A. Shanmugam Vs. Ariya Kshatriya Rajakula Vamsathu Madalaya Nandhavana Paripalanai Sangam and ors. (2012) 6 SCC 430, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"27. The pleadings must set forth sufficient factual details to the extent that it reduces the ability to put forward a false or exaggerated claim or defence. The pleadings must inspire confidence and credibility. If false averments, evasive denials or false denials are introduced, then the court must carefully look into it while deciding a case and insist that those who approach the court must approach it with clean hands."

12. In Kishore Samrite Vs. State Of Uttar Pradesh and ors. (2013) 2 SCC 398, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:

"32.The cases of abuse of process of court and such allied matters have been arising before the courts consistently. This Court has had many occasions where it dealt with the cases of this kind and it has clearly stated the principles that would govern the obligations of a litigant while approaching the court for redressal of any grievance and the consequences of abuse of process of court. We may recapitulate and state some of the principles. It is difficult to state such principles exhaustively and with such accuracy that would uniformly apply to a variety of cases. These are:

32.1. Courts have, over the centuries, frowned upon litigants who, with intent to deceive and mislead the Courts, initiated proceedings without full disclosure of facts and came to the courts with 'unclean hands'. Courts have held that such litigants are neither entitled to be heard on the merits of the case nor entitled to any relief.

32.2. The people, who approach the Court for relief on an ex parte statement, are under a contract with the court that they would state the whole case fully and fairly to the court and where the litigant has broken such faith, the discretion of the court cannot be exercised in favour of such a litigant.

32.3. The obligation to approach the Court with clean hands is an absolute obligation and has repeatedly been reiterated by this Court.

32.4. Quests for personal gains have become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood and misrepresent and suppress facts in the court proceedings. Materialism, opportunism and malicious intent have over-shadowed the old ethos of litigative values for small gains.

32.5. A litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands is not entitled to any relief, interim or final.

32.6. The Court must ensure that its process is not abused and in order to prevent abuse of process of court, it would be justified even in insisting on furnishing of security and in cases of serious abuse, the Court would be duty bound to impose heavy costs.

32.7. Wherever a public interest is invoked, the Court must examine the petition carefully to ensure that there is genuine public interest involved. The stream of justice should not be allowed to be polluted by unscrupulous litigants.

32.8. The Court, especially the Supreme Court, has to maintain strictest vigilance over the abuse of the process of court and ordinarily meddlesome bystanders should not be granted "visa". Many societal pollutants create new problems of unredressed grievances and the Court should endure to take cases where the justice of the lis well-justifies it. [Refer : Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors. (2010) 2 SCC 114; Amar Singh v. Union of India & Ors. (2011) 7 SCC 69 and State of Uttaranchal v Balwant Singh Chaufal & Ors. (2010) 3 SCC 402].

33. Access jurisprudence requires Courts to deal with the legitimate litigation whatever be its form but decline to exercise jurisdiction, if such litigation is an abuse of the process of the Court. In P.S.R. Sadhanantham v. Arunachalam & Anr. (1980) 3 SCC 141, the Court held:

> "15. The crucial significance of access jurisprudence has been best expressed by Cappelletti:
> > "The right of effective access to justice has emerged with the new social rights. Indeed, it is of paramount importance among these new rights since, clearly, the enjoyment of traditional as well as new social rights presupposes mechanisms for their effective protection. Such protection, moreover, is best assured be a workable remedy within the framework of the judicial system. Effective access to justice can thus be seen as the most basic requirement the most basic 'human-right' of a system which purports to guarantee legal rights."
> 16. We are thus satisfied that the bogey of busybodies blackmailing adversaries through frivolous invocation of Article 136 is chimerical. Access to justice to every bona fide seeker is a democratic dimension of remedial jurisprudence even as public interest litigation, class action, pro bono proceedings, are. We cannot dwell in the home of processual obsolescence when our Constitution highlights social justice as a goal. We hold that there is no merit in the contentions of the writ petitioner and dismiss the petition."

13. There is a legal duty cast upon a party to come to the Court with the true case or defence and prove it by true evidence. The Court of law is meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the Court, must come with clean hands and a person whose case is based on falsehood has no right to approach the Court and can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation.

14. Adverting to the impugned order, it would be noticed that the learned Court has simply chosen to rely upon the contents of the application only because the same was supported by the affidavit of the respondents. Despite the factual aspects being disputed, it did not care to verify the factual position from the records and proceeded to allow the application by observing that expression sufficient cause should be construed to advance substantial justice and the Court should not take strict and pedantic approach and that the petitioner could conveniently be compensated by imposing cost and then proceeded to award Rs.1,500/- as cost.

15. Obviously, learned trial Court has fallen in error in relying upon the contents of the averment which were clearly belied by the documents placed on record more particularly the summons that have been received back after the service of respondents No.1 and 4. Therefore, the ultimate award of costs would be no panacea in such cases, since the mischief cannot be repaired. The order passed by the learned Court below is clearly unsustainable and is therefore set aside.

16. Consequently, the petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their cost. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

Hari Singh ....Petitioner.

Versus

State of H.P. & others. ...Respondents.

CWP No.338 of 2015.
Reserved on : 25.10.2016.
Date of Judgment: 08.11.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Land was allotted in consolidation – aggrieved from the allotment, proceedings were initiated before Consolidation Authority – writ petition was filed against the order passed by Consolidation Authority- held, that the land adjoining to the road is commercial- petitioner is claiming land adjoining to the road – the Consolidation Authorities had not taken commercial nature of the land into consideration while passing the order- writ petition allowed- matter remanded with a direction to re-hear the parties and to decide the same afresh. (Para- 6 to 8)

For the petitioner Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

For the respondents Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Pushpinder Singh Jaswal, Dy. Advocate General, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner against the respondents praying therein for the following substantive relief :

> "That the orders dated 25.3.2000 (Annexure P-2), 23.2.2001 (Annexure P-4) and 20.12.2014 (Annexure P-9), may kindly be quashed and set aside by issuing a writ of certiorari."

2. As per the petitioner, the consolidation proceedings were initiated in Muhal Chail/51 by the consolidation staff in the year 1988 and the same was completed in the year, 1992. The petitioner and respondent No.3 are entitled to equal shares in the property of Shri Karam Singh. Prior to consolidation Khasra Nos.237 and 242 old, which were situated near the road side were given new Khasra No.237 are 190 and 191. Old Khasra No.242 is given new Khasra numbers i.e. 195 and 196. Khasra No.191 and 195 were allotted to the petitioner and Khasra No.190 and 196 were allotted to respondent No.3. The front side area of Khasra No.191 is 28 karam and front side area of Khasra No.195 is 11 karam, similarly the front side area of Khasra No.190 is 10 karam and Khasra No.196 is 30 karam. Total 40 karam front side area was allotted to respondent No.3 and total front side area of 39 karam was allotted to the petitioner. Respondent No.3 with malafide intention and ulterior motive without filing any objection and appeal directly filed revision under Section 54 of the Consolidation Act before the Director of Consolidation, Shimla, on 6.11.1999 after more than seven years. The Director of Consolidation, Mandi, remanded back the case to the Consolidation Officer, Mandi, to decide the case after verifying the spot and hearing the necessary parties, vide order dated 25.3.2000. It is further averred that respondent No.3 has sold her front side area allotted to her in Khasra No.190 to Smt. Chamba Devi and others through sale deed No.29 dated 1.2.1993. Respondent No.3 has further sold Khasra No.196 to Mitar Dev and others through sale deeds No.158 dated 19.4.1995, 102 dated 3.3.1994, 134 dated 8.6.1993 and 54 dated 6.2.2001 and mutation No.273, 381, 290, 292 and 452 have been attested after the sale of Khasra No.190 and 196, as a whole to Smt. Champa Devi and others. The Consolidation Officer, Mandi, without verifying the spot and considering the directions issued by the Director Consolidation dated 25.3.2000, allowed the case of respondent No.3 on 23.2.2001 and cancelled the area of Khasra No.191 measuring 0-2-6 and 195 measuring 0-5-5 total area measuring 0-7-11 bigha, which was allotted to the petitioner and allotted the same to respondent No.3 in lieu of Khasra No.38/1 measuring 0-7-11 bigha. The petitioner and respondent No.3 are entitled to equal shares in Khasra No.242 old, new Khasra Nos.195 and 196. Thereafter, the petitioner filed an appeal under Section 30 (3) of Consolidation Act, before the Settlement Officer (Consolidation), Bilaspur, H.P, against the order of Consolidation Officer, Mandi, dated 23.2.2001, the same was allowed, vide order dated 28.11.2001, in which the order dated 23.2.2001, was set aside by holding that respondent No.3 has already allotted 40 Karam land on the front towards road side, as there is total area of front 79 karam of the petitioner and respondent No.3, which was jointly owned and possessed by them before the consolidation proceedings. Thereafter, respondent No.3 filed an appeal under Section 30 (4) of the Consolidation Act, against the order dated 28.11.2001, which was dismissed by Additional Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, on 19.7.2013 confirming the order dated 28.11.2001. Respondent No.3 challenged the order dated 19.7.2013 by filing revision petition before respondent No.2, the same was allowed, vide order dated 20.12.2014.

3. Respondents No.1 and 2 has not been filed reply to the petition.

4. In reply on behalf of respondent No.3, it is averred that the consolidation proceedings were carried out in the area, during the year 1992-93 and the Consolidation staff had prepared a scheme for carrying out the consolidation, wherein it has been provided that the land adjacent to the road would be allotted to the persons, who are in its possession. Replying respondent was in possession of the land adjacent to the road, as such the same was to be allotted to the replying respondent, but the same was wrongly allotted to the petitioner. Khasra No.196 is not a part of Khasra No.242 and in fact is an independent number, which was exclusively in possession of the replying respondent, as such the same was allotted to the replying respondent. Khasra No.237 (old) is measuring 0-4-17 bigha and khasra No.242 (old) is measuring 0-13-10 bigha. After completion of the consolidation proceedings Khasra No.237 was renumbered as Khasra No.190 and 191. After consolidation proceedings Khasra No.242 was renumbered as Khasra numbers 194 and 195. From the perusal of Aks Musabi, it revealed that the front of Khasra No.190 is 10 Kara and the front of Khasra No.191 is 28 Karam. Similarly front of Khasra No.195 is 11 Karam. Khasra No.196 was in exclusive possession of the replying respondent and the front of Khasra No.29 karam. Before consolidation proceedings replying respondent was in possession of 23 Karam of land in front of the road in Khasra No.237 (190 & 191 new) and 11 karam of land in front of the road in Khasra No.242 (194 & 195 new). During consolidation proceedings, replying respondent was only allotted 10 karam of land, on the road front in Khasra No.237, as such there was a deficiency of 13 karam in the share of replying respondent of the land on the front of the road in Khasra No.237. Similarly, no land on the road head was allotted to the replying respondent in Khasra No.242, despite the fact that the replying respondent was in possession of 11 karam of land in this khasra number on the front of the road prior to the consolidation. Replying respondent was in actual physical possession of the land and even after completion of the consolidation proceedings, the petitioner does not interfere in the possession. Replying respondent remained under bonafide belief that since the scheme provided for the allotment of land in front of the road of the persons, who are in its possession, as such the same would have been given to her. The petitioner for the first time interfered in the peaceful possession of the replying respondent in the year 1999, at that time the replying respondent inspected the revenue record and she was surprised to know that the wrong entries have been made in the revenue papers with regard to her possession in Khasra No.191 (new) and Khasra

No.195 (new). Respondent No.3 is an illiterate lady and was not aware about the entries changed during the consolidation proceedings and she came to know about the same only in the year 1999, when the petitioner interfered in her peaceful possession. Respondent No.3 was not aware about the illegality committed by the officials, as she remained under the bonafide belief that the possession on the road front would not be disturbed, as such the replying respondent was not filed objections under Section 30 (2) of the Consolidation Act. The possession of the land was with the replying respondent, but due to the fault of the officials of the consolidation department the entries in the revenue record were wrongly made, as such the replying respondent filed a revision petition before the Director, Consolidation of Holdings in the year 1999, the same was allowed, vide order dated 25.3.2000 and remanded the matter to the Consolidation Officer, Mandi. The petitioner never challenged the order dated 25.3.2000 before any Court and the same became final between the parties. The Learned Consolidation Officer, Mandi, visited the spot on 23.2.2001 in the presence of the parties and it was found that the replying respondent has been allotted 13 karam of less land in Khasra No.191 and 11 karam of less land in Khasra No.195 despite the fact that the replying respondent was in exclusive possession of the said land and she was entitled for the allotment of the same, as per the scheme. The present writ petition is not maintainable because the replying respondent has been allotted the share to which she was entitled, as per the scheme. The consolidation staff while carrying out the consolidation proceedings had made a mistake which had resulted in loss of share to the replying respondent on the road head and the mistake of the Consolidation staff has been corrected by the Consolidation Officer, Mandi, while passing the order dated 23.2.2001.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case minutely.

6. At this stage, the only dispute is with respect to the land to be allotted to the parties only on the basis of the value of the land adjoining to the road and not on the basis of production out of the land. It cannot be disputed these days that the land adjoining to the road is commercial land and the categories of the land, as in the earlier times of consolidation/partition were 'आठआना', 'बाराआना', 'छेहआना' and 'one rupee', even when the land was adjoining to the road. In the present case, the petitioner is claiming the land adjoining the road near to the land allotted to respondent No.3.

7. After going through the order dated 20.12.2014 passed by the learned Revisional Court, this Court finds that the learned Revisional Court has not taken into consideration these facts. It is true that at the time of allotment of the land in the partition or consolidation, the possession of the parties is to be protected. At the same point of time, if the scheme doesn't provides for the protection of the possession, the petitioner is entitled to the equal shares alongwith the road side. So, I find that the learned Revisional Court while answering the findings has not taken into consideration the scheme, which was prepared prior to the consolidation, but the said scheme has neither referred nor discussed in the judgment. When the rights of the parties decided on the basis of some document, it was incumbent upon the learned Revisional Court, to have discussed the scheme in brief, which was prepared. At this stage, this Court finds that it is for the Revisional Court to come to the conclusion after reappreciating the scheme and the fact that in case, the scheme doesn't provide, the land of equal quantity i.e. the land near the road is required to be given to the parties equally, as has been done by the consolidation authorities at the additional stage and if there is scheme the learned Revisional Court is required to discuss the scheme in brief. At this stage, the matter requires appreciation of the document, as the parties looses his right to come to this Court by way of writ petition, this Court finds that the only order which can be passed at this stage is to direct the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, to reconsider the case of petitioner and respondent No.3 afresh in view of the observation made hereinabove.

8. Resultantly, the impugned order dated 20.12.2014 passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, H.P, is ordered to be quashed and set aside with a direction to rehear the parties and to decide the revision petition afresh. Parties are directed to appear before the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, H.P, on 5th December, 2016. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, for compliance.

9. In view of the above, the petition is disposed of, so also the pending application (s), if any. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, parties are left to bear their own costs.

CMPs No.2040 & 8367 of 2016 in CWP No.529 of 2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A writ petition was filed against the setting up of biomedical waste plant pleading that it would affect the environment – a status quo order was passed by the Court- the application was filed to vary the order – held, that Executive Engineer, I & PH had issued NOC subject to the condition that existing/proposed water supply scheme and irrigation scheme shall not be disturbed – 33 conditions were also imposed – held that petitioner had not shown violation of any mandatory requirement of law, whereas, NOCs had been obtained from all the statutory authorities- in case of failure to abide by the conditions, respondent No. 8 would be liable in accordance with law- Application allowed and interim order vacated with liberty to authority to take action for violation of the condition, if any. (Para- 12 to 14)

For the Petitioner : Mr. Ravinder Singh Jaswal, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate, General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1, 3 and 5 to 7.
Nemo for respondent No.2.
Mr.Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India with Mr.Ajay Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.4.
Mr.K.D.Shreedhar, Senior Advocate with Mr. Yudhbir Singh Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

CMP No.2040 of 2016.

The petitioner/applicant has moved this application for producing on record additional documents which according to it are necessary for just and proper decision of the case.

2. Only respondent No.8 has contested the application and in turn placed on record plethora of documents.

3. The writ petition is only at the stage of completion of pleadings and, therefore, the application is allowed and documents accompanying the application as also the reply are taken on record and the parties shall be free to refer to them during the course of final hearing. Application stands disposed of.

4. This application has been filed by applicant/respondent No.8 for vacation of the interim orders dated 31.03.2016 (should be 30.03.2016) whereby this Court stopped the functioning of respondent No.8 Unit.

5. The instant writ petition has been filed in so-called public interest by 'Manav Kalyan Sanstha' which is a registered Society under the Societies Registration Act and appeared to be aggrieved by the setting up of a Bio Medical Waste Plant by respondent No.8 at Village and Post Office, Dugiari, Tehsil and District, Kangra, H.P. The establishment of the Unit, according to the petitioner, is proposed along the Manjhi Khad and, as a result thereof, the water sources in and around Manjhi Khad would be contaminated, the ambiance and quality of air as a result of discharge of toxic smoke would be affected from the discharge out of the 30 feet chimney erected in the plant. It is averred that the Bio Medical Waste Treatment Plant is being established without proper inspection of the site and the petitioner apprehends that the provisions of Act, Rules and Guidelines governing such Bio Medical Waste will be thrown to the winds and ultimately affect the health of residents of the area, who will have to bear the brunt only because of the inaction on the part of the official respondents.

6. The petitioner alongwith the main petition filed CMP No.908 of 2015 wherein directions were sought to the effect that respondent No.8 be directed to stop the operation of the Bio Medical Waste Treatment Plant (for short 'Plant') during the pendency of the petition.

7. The case appears to have been placed before the learned Vacation Judge and the following order came to be passed on 14.01.2015:-

> "CWP No.529 of 2015-C
> Notice returnable within six weeks. List thereafter.
> CMP No.908 of 2015.
> Notice in the above terms. It is made clear that while constructing the Bio Medical Waste Treatment Plant, all the mandatory requirements shall be scrupulously followed. The persons responsible for construction work shall be personally liable for any breach of The Environment (Protection) Act, 1986 and the Rules framed thereunder. It is also made clear that water sources near the place of construction, shall not be polluted."

8. Despite the aforesaid order, the petitioner during the vacations filed another miscellaneous application being CMP No.1500 of 2015 wherein the petitioner again made a similar request for directing respondent No.8 to stop the construction work of the plant. However, in view of the earlier order dated 14.01.2015, the subsequent application i.e. CMP No.1500 of 2015 was held to be not maintainable, as is evident from the order dated 16.02.2015 which reads thus:-

> "CMP No.1500/2015.
> In view of earlier order dated 14.1.2015, passed in CMP No.908/2015, the present application is not maintainable. The same is dismissed."

9. The matter thereafter came up for consideration on 24.04.2015 and the Court directed that the pleadings be completed within four weeks. On 28.05.2015, the petition was admitted. However, despite the matter having already been admitted, it was again listed on 01.01.2016 under the head "Admission Matters After Notice". By this time, the only changed circumstance was that respondents No. 1, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 8 had already filed their replies wherein they had opposed the petition. However, despite this the petitioner obtained order of status quo which as observed earlier had already been denied to it at the initial stage. Eventually, the case was listed on 30.03.2016 on which date respondent No.8 was restrained from operating its Unit.

10. What is material at this point of time is the reply of respondent No.6, Executive Engineer, Irrigation and Public Health Department, Shahpur Division, wherein it has categorically been averred that the 'No Objection Certificate' to set up a Servicing-Destroy of Bio Medical Waste had been issued by it subject to the condition that existing/proposed water supply schemes and irrigation schemes will not be disturbed. It is further averred that the existing Lift Irrigation Scheme, Dehrian and LWSS, Samirpur Tiara, Phase-I, are situated approximately 1 Km. and 1.5 Km. away from the plant. It is further submitted that while granting 'NOC' for setting up of the above Unit as many as 33 conditions have been imposed which are required to be strictly adhered to and complied with by respondent No.8 and in case of breach, respondent No.8 would be liable for civil and criminal action or both. It is also pointed out that the Pollution Control Board has also issued 'No Objection Certificate' which again is subject to certain mandatory conditions which have to be complied with by respondent No.8.

11. Respondent No.8, who is the Project proponent while filing reply to the writ petition has raised preliminary submissions specifically stating therein that the project being set up by it would in no manner affect the ecology and environment of the area as the project is using highly advanced technology whereby it will destroy the bio medical waste. It is also pointed out that a lot of investment has been put into the plant and the petition has been filed only on the basis of the apprehension which stands dispelled by the inquiry ordered by the Deputy Commissioner on the complaint filed by the petitioner, copy whereof has been annexed as Annexure R-8/2 with the reply. It is further averred that it was only after obtaining all the requisite permissions and 'No Objection Certificates' from all the concerned authorities that respondent No.8 established the Unit and thereafter invested huge money on this plant. Further, the work of the plant had been completed before filing of the writ petition and all the equipments, machinery and D.G. Set which are necessary for setting up the plant have already been installed in the plant and the same had been running smoothly.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

12. Applicant/respondent No.8 has sought vacation of the interim orders on the ground that the petitioner has failed to point out any violation of any mandatory requirement of law. Whereas, on the other hand, applicant/respondent No.8 has obtained all the permissions, NOCs and other statutory and non-statutory clearances and after investing approximately one crore, out of which Rs. 70 lacs have been obtained by way of loan and had thereafter installed the plant. It has further been claimed that the life of the plant is hardly 5 years and had already started functioning on 26.12.2015, but had to stop its operation in view of the interim orders passed by this Court on 30.03.2016. Not only this, the monthly installment payable by applicant/respondent No.8 is Rs. 2,73,000/- per month.

13. We have gone through the contents of the writ petition and are prima facie of the view that the petitioner has not even remotely pleaded any violation of any statutory or non-statutory provisions and most of the pleas raised by it are far too general and more in the realm of speculation. Whereas, on the other hand, the specific case of the respondents, more particularly, respondent No.8 is that it had already obtained statutory and non-statutory clearances, NOCs and other requisite documents which are essential for making the Unit functional. That apart, we find that the 'NOC' granted by the Pollution Control Board is subject to as many as 33 conditions and we see no reason that in case respondent No.8 violates or chooses not to comply with any of these conditions, it would definitely invite action as permissible under the law. In addition to that, since we are keeping the petition pending, the petitioner would always be at liberty to approach this Court in case of violation of any condition (s) of the NOCs/clearances, or the provisions of the various legislations or rules framed thereunder. But, for the present, we are not inclined to restrain respondent No.8 from operating the Unit, particularly, when it has obtained statutory and non-statutory clearances, NOCs etc. and also invested an amount of nearly one crore rupees.

14. Accordingly, the application is allowed and the interim order dated 30.03.2016 is vacated. However, the petitioner/non-applicant is at liberty to approach this Court in case there is serious violation on the part of respondent No.8 of any of the conditions subject to which the NOCs/clearances have been granted in its favour or in case there is violation of any statutory enactment or rules framed thereunder governing the field. Even otherwise, the permission to run the Unit shall be subject to the final outcome of this petition. The application is accordingly disposed of in the aforesaid terms.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

This appeal is directed against orders, dated 27th March, 2015, 28th April, 2015, and 27th July, 2015, passed by the learned Single Judge in Execution Petition No. 1 of 2005, tilted as H.P. State Industrial Development Corporation versus M/s United Electronics (India) Ltd. and others (for short "the impugned orders").

2. At the very outset, we deem it proper to record herein that the appellants have filed this appeal while invoking the jurisdiction of this Court in terms of Order 43 Rule 1 (j) of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short "CPC") and is not an appeal as per the mandate of Section 96 of the CPC, as recorded in the cause title.

3. Learned counsel for the parties argued the case at length.

4. It is profitable to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, which have given birth to the instant appeal.

5. Decree Holder-Himachal Pradesh State Industrial Development Corporation (for short "HPSIDC") earned decree in Civil Suit No. 8 of 1999, titled as Himachal Pradesh State Industrial Development Corporation Limited versus M/s United Electronics (India) Ltd. and others, was constrained to file Execution Petition in the year 2004, i.e. on 31st December, 2004. Notice was issued on 4th January, 2005, remained on the dockets of the Court without service and ultimately OMP No. 138 of 2008 was filed by the Decree Holder-HPSIDC on 9th April, 2008 for attachment of the immovable property of Judgment Debtor No. 1, i.e. M/s United Electronics (India) Ltd. (for short "Company"), as described in para 3 of the said application. Thereafter, another application, being OMP No. 451 of 2008, was filed by the Decree Holder-HPSIDC under Order 21 Rule 54 read with Section 151 CPC. Warrant of attachment was ordered to be issued vide order dated 17th September, 2008.

6. OMP No. 315 of 2009 came to be filed by the Decree Holder-HPSIDC under Order 21 Rules 66 and 67 CPC read with Section 151 CPC on 9th July, 2009, for issuing advertisement qua sale of the attached property. The learned Single Judge directed to issue the proclamation vide order, dated 15th July, 2009.

7. The Judgment Debtor-Company moved OMP No. 413 of 2009 under Order 21 Rules 58 and 59 CPC read with Section 151 CPC on 18th August, 2009, for settling the process of auctioning the property afresh. It is apt to reproduce the relief sought for in the said application herein:

> "That it would be in the interest of justice and fairness of law to allow the present application and settle the process of auctioning of the property afresh so that the Judgment Debtor is able to once and for all settle the alleged dues of the HPFC and PNB the other two secured creditors."

8. The learned Single Judge, vide order, dated 25th August, 2009, passed in OMP No. 413 of 2009 (supra), ordered that sale of proclamation would disclose the value of the property as assessed by the Decree Holder and details of all encumbrances attached thereto. It was also provided that the sale would be subject to confirmation by the Court.

9. The Decree Holder-HPSIDC filed reply to the said application, i.e. OMP No. 413 of 2009, on 2nd September, 2009. Rejoinder thereto came to be field on 9th October, 2009. The application was disposed of vide order, dated 22nd October, 2009, by providing that no further orders were required to be passed in view of order, dated 25th August, 2009.

10. On 8th July, 2011, the Decree Holder-HPSIDC moved OMP No. 241 of 2011 seeking permission of the Court to carry out fresh evaluation of the assets, which was allowed by the learned Single Judge on 23rd August, 2011, and a direction was issued to the Decree Holder-HPSIDC to carry out fresh evaluation of the movable and immovable property. Fresh valuation report was ordered to be taken on record vide order, dated 19th October, 2011 in OMP No. 373 of 2011, with a further direction to sell the attached property by way of public auction after drawing the proclamation of sale. The Collector, Solan, was directed to ensure that an officer not below the rank of Tehsildar would conduct the auction. It is profitable to reproduce relevant portion of order, dated 19th October, 2011, herein:

> "Attachment of the property was ordered on 31.08.2007. The attached property, i.e. the immovable property comprised in Plots No. 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24, Industrial Area, Barotiwala, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh, alongwith building and machinery standing thereon be sold by way of public auction. Proclamation of sale be published in the Tribune (Chandigarh Edition), Amar Ujala (Chandigarh Edition) and the Economic Times (Delhi Edition). Proclamation of sale be drawn up by the Registry and proclamation be published on or before 19th December, 2011, and sale shall take place on 7th January, 2012. The Collector, Solan, shall ensure that an officer not below the rank of Tehsildar shall conduct the auction.

The HPSIDC shall take necessary steps and furnish the proclamation charges within two weeks from today."*

11. The said order was not complied with and on 19th December, 2011, fresh direction was issued for proclamation of the sale and the sale of the property.

12. The Decree Holder-HPSIDC filed OMP No. 62 of 2012 on 21st March, 2012, for the survey, zoning and planning of the property on the ground that no bids were received in spite of wide publicity and to explore the possibility of selling the property in question at higher price. It is worthwhile to reproduce the relief sought in the said application herein:

> "In view of submissions made above the application may kindly be allowed and permission may kindly be granted to Decree Holder Corporation to get the survey, zoning and planning of the property done and direction may also be issued to the Judgement Debtors to extend necessary cooperation in the matter."

13. Vide order, dated 2nd April, 2012, OMP No. 62 of 2012 was granted with a direction to the Decree Holder-HPSIDC to go for the survey, zoning and planning of the property and the Judgment Debtors were also directed to extend necessary cooperation in view of the fact that nobody turned up for auction. Order, dated 2nd April, 2012, reads as under:

> "Report of the Collector received. As per report nobody turned up for auction.
> The present application has been moved for seeking permission to allow the decree holder to get survey, zoning and planning of the property. Further for seeking direction to the JDs to extend necessary cooperation in the matter. In view of the fact that no one had turned up at the time of auction, decree holder is also interested to take part in the ensuing bid as such it intends to survey the property for the purpose of bid. As such, the application is allowed. Decree holder may get the survey, zoning and planning of the property done and JDs shall extend necessary cooperation in the matter. The application stands disposed of. Dasti copy. List on 24.5.2012."

14. Thereafter, time was sought on various dates/ hearings to comply with order, dated 2nd April, 2012, quoted hereinabove.

15. On 1st May, 2013, an application, being OMP No. 190 of 2013, under Section 151 CPC came to be filed by the Decree Holder-HPSIDC for fixation of the date for auction of the attached property.

16. The Judgment Debtor-Company filed reply to the said application on 14th May, 2013. Rejoinder was filed on 13th June, 2013, and the application was disposed of vide order, dated 3rd July, 2013, the operative portion of which reads as under:

> "In view of the above, the application is allowed and the attached property, as aforesaid, is ordered to be put to sale as per schedule of sale to be fixed by the Addl. Registrar (Judicial) and intimated to the contesting parties through their learned counsel, on taking requisite steps by the petitioner/DH within two weeks from today. It is further ordered that in order to identify the aforesaid Plot No. 42, with a view to segregate the same from the attached property, a panel of local commissioners comprising of Ms. Charu Gupta and Ms. Meena Thakur, Advocates, is appointed, who shall carry out the requisite demarcation before the attached property is put to sale, on a date to be fixed mutually in consultation with the learned counsel for the contesting parties. In this exercise, the panel of local commissioners would be assisted by the Tehsildar, Barotiwala alongwith the field revenue staff and the Executive Officer, Baddi Barotiwala Nalagarh Development Agency (BBNDA), Baddi at Jharmajri, or any other senior officer appointed by him for this purpose, so that there is no difficulty in identification and demarcation of the aforesaid Plot No. 42. Fee of the Members of the panel of local commissioners is fixed at ₹ 25,000/- (rupees twenty five thousand only) each, inclusive of conveyance charges etc., which shall be payable by the contesting respondents/JDs No. 1, 3 and 5. The panel of local commissioners shall submit their report to this court within 15 days from execution of the Commission, under intimation to the parties through their learned counsel. The parties through their learned counsel/authorized representatives shall be free to assist the panel of local commissioners in execution of the Commission. Let copies of this order be sent by the Registry to the Tehsildar, Barotiwala and Executive Officer, BBNDA for information and compliance.
> The application stands disposed of in the above terms."

17. The warrant of sale after execution was received alongwith the report of the Local Commissioner and six bank drafts, the mention of which has been made in order, dated 3rd October, 2013. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of order, dated 3rd October, 2013, herein:

> "As per report of the Registry, warrant of sale has been received back after execution along with the report of the Local Commissioner and six bank drafts, amounting to ₹ 1,13,65,000/- (one crore, thirteen lacs, sixty five thousand only), being the sale proceeds, which be invested by the Registry in a Fixed Deposit on usual terms....."

18. On the request of the learned counsel for the parties, the matter was ordered to be listed on 7th November, 2013, with a direction to the parties to file objections against the sale, if any.

19. OMP No. 4266 of 2013, filed on 24th October, 2013, under Order 21 Rules 58 and 59 CPC read with Section 151 CPC, are, in fact, objections to the sale filed by the Judgment Debtors-Company. We deem it proper to reproduce para 8 of the application/objections herein:

> "8. That it would be in the interest of justice and fairness of law to allow the present application and settle the process of auctioning of the property afresh so that the Judgment Debtor is able to once and for all settle the alleged dues of the HPFC and PNB the other two secured creditors."

20. The Decree Holder-HPSIDC filed reply to the said application/objections on 26th November, 2013. It is apt to reproduce para 8 of the reply herein:

"8. In reply to para 8 is submitted that the JD's may be directed to produce better buyer as earlier the property was auctioned more than 9 times but no bids were received."

21. Thereafter, on 12th December, 2013, the auction purchaser filed OMP No. 4341 of 2013 under Order 21 Rules 94 and 95 CPC read with Section 151 CPC for issuance of sale certificate after confirmation of sale. Parties were directed to file reply vide order, dated 18th December, 2013. Both the applications, i.e. OMP No. 4266 of 2013 and 4341 of 2013, came up for consideration on 8th January, 2014, were ordered to be listed on 19th March, 2014.

22. The Execution Petition was ordered to be listed for settlement on 23rd April, 2014, in view of the agreement arrived at between the parties, as is recorded in order, dated 19th March, 2014. The case was adjourned on 23rd April, 2014, 20th May, 2014, 23rd June, 2014 and 14th July, 2014, for settlement. Thereafter, on 13th August, 2014, the Judgment Debtors-Company moved OMP No. 349 of 2014 under Section 151 CPC for settlement. It is apt to reproduce the relief sought in the said application herein:

"It is, therefore, respectfully prayed that the present application be allowed and the next documents be taken on record and appropriate orders may kindly be passed by this honourable High Court, keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the matter and direct the Judgement Holder/Corporation to settle the dispute under one time settlement, keeping in view the precedence on this issue.

b. It is humbly further prayed that any other direction or order may kindly be issued by this Hon'ble High Court keeping with the orders passed on 3rd of July 2013 on account of the legal implications of the same."

23. On 22nd October, 2014, a letter was produced before the learned Single Judge by the learned counsel for the Decree Holder-HPSIDC, in terms of which the Judgment Debtors were called upon for discussion qua one time settlement. The Judgment Debtors were directed to attend the office of the Decree Holder- HPSIDC during the course of that day with a further direction to the Decree Holder- HPSIDC to file objections in case the negotiation was not acceptable and the matter was ordered to be posted on 19th November, 2014.

24. The perusal of order, dated 19th November, 2014, does disclose that the Judgment Debtors failed to comply with the directions made by the learned Single Judge vide order, dated 22nd October, 2014, and the Judgment Debtors were directed to deposit the outstanding decretal amount within three weeks, failing which the Decree Holder- HPSIDC was directed to take appropriate steps including qua detention of the Judgment Debtors in civil imprisonment. It is profitable to reproduce order, dated 19th November, 2014, herein:

The affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioner-DH reveals that consequent upon the order passed on the previous date, the authorized representatives of JDs, present in the Court on the previous date, did not visit the office of the DH as directed by this Court. It being so, JDs to deposit the outstanding decretal amount within three weeks, failing which the petitioner-DH to take appropriate steps, in accordance with law, including qua detention of the JDs in civil imprisonment. List on 15th December, 2014."

25. The Judgment Debtors failed to deposit the decretal amount, but, a statement was made by the learned counsel for the Judgment Debtors before the Court on 15th December, 2014, that they intend to settle the matter. The matter was referred for mediation, which failed, as has been recorded in order, dated 13th March, 2015. In the said order, it has also been recorded that the attached property stood already sold in an open auction for the consideration of ₹ 1,13,65,000/- and the parties were directed to produce a better buyer, who would be ready and willing to purchase the attached property in a sum over and above the one in which the same had been purchased by the auction purchaser.

26. In terms of order, dated 27th March, 2015 (impugned order-I), Decree Holder and Judgment Debtors had not filed the objections to the sale, but had sought one more opportunity to find out better buyer(s), if any, available, was granted with the command that in case the parties fail to do so, the sale of the property shall stand confirmed automatically in favour of the auction purchaser without reference to the Court and the matter was posted for 28th April, 2015. Order, dated 28th April, 2015, (impugned order-II) provides that the Decree Holder as well as the Judgment Debtors failed to produce the better buyer and the execution petition was ordered to be closed in terms of order, dated 27th March, 2015.

27. Thereafter, on 26th May, 2015, Judgment Debtors filed OMP No. 156 of 2015 under Section 151 CPC for recalling orders, dated 27th March, 2015 and 28th April, 2015, which came to be dismissed vide order, dated 27th July, 2015 (impugned order-III).

28. Being dissatisfied, the Judgment Debtors have filed the instant appeal thereby calling in question the impugned orders, on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

29. Learned counsel for the Judgment Debtors-appellants was asked to justify the maintainability of the appeal. It was argued that the impugned orders have been passed by the learned Single Judge on the applications in terms of Order 21 Rule 92 CPC, thus, are appealable in terms of Order 43 Rule 1 (j) CPC.

30. Learned counsel for the respondents argued that the impugned orders do not fall within the scope and ambit of Order 43 Rule 1 (j) CPC. Further argued that the appeal is not maintainable, the Judgment Debtors are caught by law of waiver and have virtually objected to the sale proceedings.

31. It is profitable to reproduce Order 21 Rule 92 CPC herein:

> "ORDER XXI
> EXECUTION OF DECREES AND ORDERS
> .....
> 92. Sale when to become absolute or be set aside. - (1) Where no application is made under rule 89, rule 90 or rule 91, or where such application is made and disallowed, the Court shall make an order confirming the sale, and thereupon the sale shall become absolute:
> Provided that, where any property is sold in execution of a decree pending the final disposal of any claim to, or any objection to the attachment of, such property, the Court shall not confirm such sale until the final disposal of such claim or objection.
> (2) Where such application is made and allowed, and where, in the case of an application under rule 89, the deposit required by that rule is made within sixty days from the date of sale, or in cases where the amount deposited under rule 89 is found to be deficient owing to any clerical or arithmetical mistake on the part of the depositor and such deficiency has been made good within such time as may be fixed by the Court, the Court shall make an order setting aside the sale:
> Provided that no order shall be made unless notice of the application has been given to all persons affected thereby:
> Provided further that the deposit under this sub-rule may be made within sixty days in all such cases where the period of thirty days, within which the deposit had to be made, has not expired before the commencement of the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2002.
> (3) No suit to set aside an order made under this rule shall be brought by any person against whom such order is made.
> (4) Where a third party challenges the judgment-debtor's title by filing a suit against the auction-purchaser, the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor shall be necessary parties to the suit.

(5) If the suit referred to in sub-rule (4) is decreed, the Court shall direct the decree-holder to refund the money to the auction-purchaser, and where such an order is passed the execution proceeding in which the sale had been held shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be revived at the stage at which the sale was ordered."

32. The said provision of law mandates that when the application is not made under Rules 89, 90 or 91 CPC or when such application is made and disallowed, the Court shall make an order confirming the sale and thereupon the sale becomes absolute.

33. The order must contain the following ingredients:

(i) that the sale can be made absolute when no application under Rules 89, 90 or 91 CPC has been filed; or

(ii) when such application is made and disallowed; and the sale has to be confirmed.

34. As discussed hereinabove, the Judgment Debtors, though, had moved an application, being OMP No. 413 of 2009, for settling the process of auction afresh, which was not granted, but the sale was ordered to be kept subject to the confirmation by the Court, vide order, dated 22nd October, 2009. The said order has not been questioned. Thus, the Judgment Debtors are estopped from questioning the process of attachment and auction of the property.

35. The Judgment Debtors have also not questioned the orders made by the learned Single Judge on the applications moved by the Decree Holder-HPSIDC, the details of which are given hereinabove, thus, cannot now question the process of attachment and auction of the property.

36. OMP No. 4266 of 2013 filed by the Judgment Debtors, are, in fact, objections to the sale, but the same have not been pressed by them by seeking adjournment for settlement and obtaining best buyer, i.e. a buyer, who would be ready to pay the price over and above the amount paid by the auction purchaser, is suggestive of the fact that the Judgment Debtors have not questioned the process of attachment or sale/auction on any grounds contained in Order 21 Rule 90 CPC or any other Rule. Thus, the Judgment Debtors are precluded from questioning the impugned orders.

37. Order, dated 27th March, 2015 (impugned order-I) is only an order of confirmation of sale. This order nowhere discloses that any application was made and it was disallowed, thus, the same does not fall within the scope and ambit of Order 21 Rule 92 CPC and is not appealable.

38. It is profitable to record herein that the Judgment Debtors did not question order, dated 27th March, 2015, though it was a default order. They failed to take steps in terms of order, dated 27th March, 2015, and order, dated 28th April, 2015 (impugned order-II), came to be passed by the learned Single Judge in terms of which the Execution Petition was disposed of as party satisfied. In fact, the confirmation order has been made in terms of order, dated 27th March, 2015.

39. Order, dated 27th July, 2015 (impugned order-III), in terms of which OMP No. 156 of 2015 came to be dismissed, is not an order of review. No review petition was filed. The application was filed under Section 151 CPC for re-calling orders, dated 27th March, 2015 and 28th April, 2015.

40. We wonder when the remedy of review was available, why application for re-calling the orders was made. The dismissal of such application does not fall within the ambit and scope of Order 21 Rule 92 CPC.

41. Our this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the High Court of Madhya Pradesh in the case titled as Gopilal and another versus Sitaram and others, reported in AIR 1968 Madhya Pradesh 196. It is apt to reproduce paras 6 and 7 of the judgment herein:

"6. No appeal lies under Order 43, Rule 1(j) from an order dismissing an application under Order 21, Rule 90 or an order dismissing an application for restoring the application under Order 21, Rule 90. Under Order 43, Rule 1(j) an appeal lies from an order under Rule 92 of Order 21 "setting aside or refusing to set aside a sale". Now, when no application is made under Order 21, Rule 90 or where such an application is made and disallowed, the Court is required to make an order confirming the sale. If the application made is allowed, then the Court has to make an order setting aside the sale. When no application is made under Order 21, Rule 90, there is no question of appeal against an order confirming the sale. Clause (j) of Order 43, Rule 1 does not provide for an appeal against an order confirming the sale. Under that clause, an appeal lies against an order under Order 21, Rule 92 setting aside or refusing to set aside a sale. When an application under Order 21, Rule 90 is made, and is dismissed for default or is not pressed by the applicant, it may be taken for the purpose of Rule 92 of Order 21 that it has been disallowed and the result of disallowing is that the sale is confirmed But it cannot be held that when the application is dismissed for default of appearance or when it is not pressed then there is a refusal on the part of the Court to set aside the sale The word "refusal" means "a denial or rejection of something demanded or offered" There can be no "refusal" unless there is a request or demand When, an application under Order 21. Rule 90 is dismissed for default or when it is not pressed, there is no demand on the part of the person applying for setting aside the sale and the Court is not required to consider whether the sale should be set aside or not. Thus, when an application under Order 21, Rule 90 is dismissed for default of appearance and the sale is confirmed, there is no refusal to set aside the sale and such an order is not appealable under Order 43, Rule 1(j). A fortiori, an order dismissing an application for restoring the application under Order 21, Rule 90 dismissed for default of appearance is also not appealable.

7. On the question whether an appeal lies from order dismissing an application under Order 21, Rule 90 for default or from an order dismissing an application for restoring the application under Order 21, Rule 90, the decisions are conflicting. In Kali Kanta Chuckerbutty v. Shyam Lal, AIR 1917 Cal 815(2) it has been held that the language of Order 43, Rule 1(j) is wide enough to cover a case of an application to have a sale set aside dismissed for default. The reasoning given in this case was that the effect of such an order is to confirm the sale under Rule 92. But, as pointed out earlier, under Clause (j) of Order 43, Rule 1, an appeal lies against an order refusing to set aside a sale and not against an order confirming the sale. This decision was followed in Narendra Nath v. Rakhal Das, AIR 1925 Cal 510 where also it was ruled that the effect of the dismissal of an application under Rule 90 is to confirm the sale under Rule 92 and hence an appeal lies against the order. But in a later case, namely, Basaratulla v. Reazuddin, AIR 1926 Cal 773, it was held that an order of dismissal for default is not a confirmation of the sale and does not preclude the party from making a fresh application and that such an order is not appealable under Order 43, Rule 1(j). In that case Page J. observed that :--

> ". . . . .in dismissing the application for default when neither party appears on the case being called for hearing, the Court does not refuse to set aside the sale, but in the absence of the parties refuses to consider whether the sale should be set aside or not."

Page J. however, reached the conclusion in Basanta Kumar v. Khirode Chandra, AIR 1928 Cal 25 that where a person applies under Order 21. Rule 90 but the application is dismissed for his non-appearance and the opposite party is present and ready to contest, the order dismissing the application is an order under Order 43. Rule 1(j) and is, therefore appealable To us it seems that in principle there is no distinction between an order passed on an application under Order 21, Rule 90 dismissing it for default for non-appearance if one party and an order dismissing it for non-appearance of both the parties. The decision in AIR 1926 Cal 773 (supra) was not followed by the Calcutta High Court in Ansarali v. Bhim Sankar, AIR 1929 Cal 407(2). In that case it was held that when an application under Order 21. Rule 90 is dismissed for default, whether for non-appearance of one or for non-appearance of both the parties, it is disallowed under Rule 92 and that it is the disallowing of the application under Order 21, Rule 90 which corresponds to the order refusing to set aside a sale within the meaning of Order 43, Rule 1(j), and, therefore, such an order is appealable. In our judgment, the expression "where such an application is made and disallowed" occurring in Rule 92 means that where such an application is made and rejected. But it is not every order of rejection that has been made appealable under Order 43, Rule 1 (i) but only that Order of rejection by which the Court on a demand being made by a person to set aside a sale refuses to set aside the sale. This stands to reason as a party who has allowed his application to be rejected by default or for non-prosecution cannot really complain that the Court has refused to set aside the sale on a prayer being made by him. The Patna High Court has in Rampratap v. Triloknath, AIR 1957 Pat 465, following AIR 1928 Cal25 (supra) and AIR 1929 Cal 407(2) (supra), held that an order dismissing an application under Order 21, Rule 90 for non-prosecution is appealable under Order 43, Rule 1(j), the reason given being that if the application is disposed of on merits and is dismissed, the result is that the sale is confirmed; likewise if the application is dismissed for non-prosecution, the result is the same, namely, that the sale is confirmed. As we have stated earlier, the question of appealability under Order 43, Rule 1(j) does not depend upon whether the order under Order 21, Rule 92 results in the confirmation of the sale but on the fact whether the order is one refusing to set aside the sale or setting aside the sale. It is not necessary to note the decisions of other High Courts which are in similar vein. The reasonings given in these decisions, with all respect to the learned Judges deciding the cases, do not appear to us to be reconcilable with one another. We would respectfully say that Page J. rightly observed in AIR 1926 Cal 773 (supra) that when an application under Order 21, Rule 90 is dismissed for default, the Court does not refuse to set aside the sale. In our view, an order dismissing an application under Order 21, Rule 90 for default or an order dismissing an application for restoring the original application under Order 21. Rule 90 is not appealable under Order 43. Rule 1 (j).”

42. The High Court of Punjab and Haryana in the case titled as Bakhsho versus Pakhar Singh and another, reported in AIR 1985 Punjab and Haryana 322, held that the order passed by the executing Court confirming the sale is not appealable under Clause (j) of Order 43 Rule 1 CPC in absence of the objections under Order 21 Rule 90 CPC. It is profitable to reproduce para 6 of the judgment herein:

“6. The learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that the sale in favour of the auction-purchaser was confirmed by the executing Court on 22-12-1983. The petitioner did not file objection under S. 21, R. 90, as she did not come to know about the auction for want of proclamation of sale in terms of O. 21 R. 66 of the Code. The sale in favour of the auction-purchaser stood confirmed by the time the petitioner came to know of it. The petitioner did not approach the executing Court for relief, because the sale already stood confirmed. It is under these circumstances that the petitioner has filed the present revision wherein the prayer made is that the sale by auction in favour of Balbir Singh respondent be set aside for want of proclamation under O. 21, R. 66 of the Code. This contention is also without any merit. The petitioner has not sought the relief of getting the sale set aside from the executing Court so far. It is incorrect that the petitioner could not seek relief in this respect from the executing Court, because the sale in favour of the auction-purchaser stood confirmed. If the petitioner had filed objections for getting the sale set aside, the order passed would have been appealable under Clause (j) of O. 43, R. 1 of the Code. The present revision against the order of the executing Court, confirming the sale in favour of the auction-purchaser in the absence of objection under O. 21, R. 90 of the Code is rather misconceived."

43. In the case titled as L. Balu versus Periasami and others, reported in AIR 1988 Madras 114, it has been held, in para 7, that an order, passed under Order 21 Rule 92 CPC, confirming the sale on the ground that no application to set aside the sale has been made, would not come within the purview of Order 43 Rule 1(j) CPC and would not be appealable.

44. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in the case titled as Smt. Shanti Devi versus H.P. Financial Corporation and others, reported in 1997 (3) Sim. L.C. 256. It is profitable to reproduce para 3 of the judgment herein:

"3. The language in the Rule 1(j) of Order 43, is very significant. The rule talks only of an order setting aside the sale or refusing to set aside the sale. In this case, the order refusing to set aside the sale was separately passed on the application filed by the Appellant under Order 21, Rule 90, Code of Civil Procedure, The order has become final as there is no appeal against the said order by the Appellant. The present appeal, which is now filed, is against an order confirming the sale. That is not mentioned in Rule 1(j), as set out above. This order cannot be called an order setting aside or refusing to set aside the sale. Hence, the appeal is not maintainable."

45. The sale of property on low price in view of the fact that the Decree Holder and the Judgment Debtors failed to bring a best buyer, who would have paid the amount more than what the highest auction purchaser had paid, despite granting several opportunities, cannot be said to be a material irregularity and the objections raised by way of OMP No. 4266 of 2013, which too was virtually not pressed by seeking adjournment for settlement and obtaining best buyer, are of no consequence.

46. Keeping in view the facts of the case, the appellants-Judgment Debtors are caught by estoppel and waiver.

47. Our this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Privy Council in the case titled Raja Shyam Sunder Singh and others versus Kaluram Agarala and others, reported in AIR 1938 Privy Council 230, the relevant portion of which reads as under:

"As regards the appellants' objection to the sale proclamation, their Lordships consider that the waiver of the necessity for a fresh proclamation necessarily implied a waiver of objection to any defect appearing on the face of the sale proclamation, as appellant 1 must have been fully aware of its terms in view of his miscellaneous appeal to the High Court. The facts in this case are stronger against the said appellant than those in Girdhari Singh v. Hurdeo Narain Singh, 1876 3 IndApp 230 in which this Board held that the waiver covered any objection to an error in the statement of the Government revenue, as the judgment-debtor must have had the opportunity of seeing the copy affixed in the Court House. This objection of the appellants accordingly fails.

As regards the appellants' three objections to the attachment, their Lordships find it unnecessary to consider the correctness of the findings of the Subordinate Judge, and they have not heard the respondents on this question. Their Lordships do not consider that the waiver of any necessity for a fresh sale proclamation would imply a waiver of the right to object to any of the three irregularities in the attachment found by the Subordinate Judge."

48. In the case titled as Vidya Bhan Prakash versus The Second Additional District Judge, Mathura and others, reported in AIR 1988 Allahabad 204, it has been held that unless there is nexus between the inadequacy of price fetched and the irregularity or fraud in conducting the sale, the sale cannot be set aside. Further held that where the inadequacy of price was the result of factors other than material irregularities or fraud, proviso to Order 21 CPC did not come into force. It is apt to reproduce paras 17 and 18 of the judgment herein:

> "17. Sri S.R. Misra, Advocate appearing for the judgment-debtor, has during the course of his arguments relied upon a decision of the Andhra Praidesh High Court in the case of Satyanarayana Soni v. State of Andhra Pradesh (1987) 2 Cur CC 118. It has been held in this case that unless there is nexus between the inadequacy of price fetched and the, irregularity or fraud in conducting the sale, the sale cannot be set aside. It has further been held that,
> "Therefore, if a party, who has an interest in the property sold in execution of the decree is affected by such sale, he has to establish on facts proved to the satisfaction of the executing court that by reason of irregularity or fraud he sustained substantial injury and that injury has been resulted on grounds of material irregularity or fraud either in publishing the sale proclamation or conducting the sale."
> During the course of its judgment, the Andhra Pradesh High Court has relied upon the aforesaid earlier decision of its own Court in Ramdasjee's case AIR 1965 Andh Pra 334. It has held that any material irregularities per se will not invalidate a sale. Such irregularities will have the effect of a voiding the sale only if the connection is established between them and the inadequacy of price realised at the sale". It was further held that inadequacy of price proprio vigpre would not result in avoiding the sales. There must be correlation between the damage suffered by the judgment-debtor and the material irregularity complained of if the inadequacy of the price is the result of factors other than the material irregularities complained of the proviso to Order 21 Rule 90(1) cannot come into operation." As stated earlier the same is also the view taken by the Supreme Court in the case of Radhey Shyam (AIR 1971 SC 2337) (supra).
> 18. On the findings recorded in the present case by the courts below, the decision cited on behalf of the respondents in the case of Satyanarayana Soni (1987-2 Cur CC 118) (Andh Pra) (supra), in my opinion does support the case of the petitioner. In our case, the execution court had dismissed the objections of the judgment-debtor and the lower appellate court had recorded a finding that no substantial injury had occurred to the judgment-debtor by reason of irregularity or fraud contemplated by the provisions of Sub-clause (2) of Order XXI Rule 90 of the Code of Civil Procedure."

49. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Jaswantlal Natvarlal Thakkar versus Sushilaben Manilal Dangarwala and others, reported in AIR 1991 Supreme Court 770.

50. Keeping in view the merits of the case and the orders passed from time to time, the mention of which has been made hereinabove, we are of the opinion that the impugned orders are the best orders, which could have been passed by the learned Single Judge.

51. Our this opinion is supported by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Janak Raj versus Gurdial Singh and another, reported in AIR 1967 Supreme Court 608. It is apt to reproduce para 4, relevant portion of para 8 and para 24 of the judgment herein:

> "4. Before referring to the various decisions cited at the Bar and noted in judgment appealed from, it may be useful to take into consideration n the relevant provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. So far as sales of immovable property are concerned there are some specie provisions in O. XXI beginning with R. 82 and ending with R. 103. If a sale had been validly held, an application for setting the same aside can only be made under the provisions of Rr. 89 to 91 of O. XXI. As is well known, R. 89 gives a judgment-debtor the right to have the sale set aside on his depositing in Court a sum equal to five per cent of the purchase money fetched at the sale besides the amount specified in the proclamation of sale as that for the recovery which the sale was ordered, less any amount which may, since the date of sale, have been received by the decree-holder. Under sub-r . (2) of R.92 the Court is obliged to make an order setting aside the sale if a proper application under R. 89 is made accompanied by a deposit within 30 days from the date of sale. Apart from the provision of R. 89, the judgment-debtor has the right to apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground of a material irregularity or fraud in publishing or conducting it provided he can satisfy the Court that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of such irregularity or fraud. Under R. 91 it is open to the purchaser to apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold. Rule 92 provides that where no application is made under any of the rules just now mentioned or where such application is made and disallowed the Court shall make an order confirming the sale and thereupon the sale shall become absolute. Rule 94 provides that where the sale of immovable property has become absolute, the Court must grant a certificate specifying the property sold and the name of the person who at the time of sale was declared to be the purchaser. Such certificate is to bear date the day on which the sale becomes absolute. Section 65 of the Code of Civil Procedure lays down that where immovable property is sold in execution of a decree and such sale has become absolute, the property shall be deemed to have vested in the purchaser from the time when it is sold and not from the time when the sale becomes absolute. The result is that the purchaser's title relates back to the date of sale and not the confirmation of sale. There is no provision in the Code of Civil Procedure of 1908 either under O. XXI or elsewhere which provides that the sale is not to be confirmed if it be found that the decree under which the sale as ordered has been reversed before the confirmation of sale. It does not seem ever to have been doubted that once the sale is confirmed the judgment-debtor is not entitled to get back the property even if he succeeds thereafter in having the decree against him reversed. The question is, whether the same result ought to follow when the reversal of the decree takes place before the confirmation of sale.

7. .....

8. ..... Nothing has been urged before us which would lead us to take a contrary view. Under the present Code of Civil Procedure, the Court is bound to confirm the sale and direct the grant of a certificate vesting the title in the purchaser as from the date of sale when no application as is referred to in R. 92 is made or when such application is made and disallowed.

24. For the reasons already given and the decisions noticed, it must be held that the appellant-auction purchaser was entitled to a confirmation of the sale notwithstanding the fact that after the holding of the sale the decree had been set aside. The policy of the Legislature seems to be that unless a stranger auction purchaser is protected against the vicissitudes of the fortunes of the suit, sales in execution would not attract customers and it would be to the detriment of the interest of the borrower and the credition alike if sales were allowed to be impugned merely because the decree was ultimately set aside or modified. The Code of Civil Procedure of 1908 make ample provision for the protection of the interest of the judgment-debtor who feels that the decree ought not to have been passed against him. On the facts of this case, it is difficult to see why the judgment debtor did not take resort to the provision of O. XXI, R. 89.The decree was for small amount and he could have easily deposited the decretal amount besides 5 per cent of the purchase money and thus have the sale set aside. For reasons which are not known to us he did not do so."

52. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Hukumchand versus Bansilal and others, reported in AIR 1968 Supreme Court 86. It is worthwhile to reproduce paras 8 and 9 of the judgment herein:

"8. It is on these principles that we have to decide whether the trial court was correct. We have already indicated that the sale was held on April 7, 1958, and in the normal course it would have been confirmed after 30 days unless an application under R. 89, R. 90 or Rule 91 of Order XXI was made. Besides this case is, as we have already assumed, analogous to the case of a final mortgage decree. The judgment-debtor mortgagor had the right to deposit the amount at any time before confirmation of sale within 30 days after the sale or even more than 30 days after the sale under Order XXXIV, Rule 5 (1) so long as the sale was not confirmed. If the amount had been deposited before the confirmation of sale, the judgment-debtors had the right to ask for an order in terms of Order XXXIV, Rule 5 (1) in their favour. In this case an application under O.XXI R. 90 had been made and therefore the sale could not be confirmed immediately after 30 days which would be the normal course; the confirmation had to await the disposal of the application under Order XXI, Rule 90. That application was disposed of on October 7, 1958 and was dismissed. It is obvious from the order sheet of October 7, 1938 that an oral compromise was arrived at between the parties in court on that day. By that compromise time was granted to the respondents to deposit the entire amount due to the decree-holder and the auction-purchaser by November 21, 1958. Obviously, the basis of the compromise was that the respondents withdrew their application under O. XXI, Rule 90 while the decree-holder society and the auction-purchaser appellant agreed that time might be given to deposit the amount upto November 21, 1958. If this agreement had not been arrived at and if the application under Order XXI, Rule 90 had been dismissed (for example, on merits) on October 7, 1958, the court was bound under O. XXI, Rule 92 (1) to confirm the sale at once. But because of the compromise between the parties by which the respondents were given time upto November 21, 1958 the court rightly postponed the question of confirmation of sale till that date by consent of parties. But the fact remains that the application under Order XXI, Rule 90 had been dismissed on October 7, 1958 and thereafter, the court was bound to confirm the sale but for the compromise between the parties giving time upto November 21, 1958.

9. Now let us see what happened about November 21, 1958. On November 20, 1958, an application was made by the respondents praying that they might be given one day more as November 21, 1958 was holiday. No order was passed on that date, but it is remarkable that no money was deposited on November 20, 1958. When the matter came up before the court on November 22, 1958 no money was deposited even on that day. Now under Order XXXIV, Rule 5 it was open to the respondents to deposit the entire amount on November 22, 1958 before the sale was confirmed, but no such deposit was made on November 22, 1958. On the other hand, counsel for the respondents prayed to the executing court for extension of time by 14 days. The executing court refused that holding that time upto November 21, 1958 had been granted by consent and it was no longer open to it to extend that time. The executing court has not referred to Order XXI, Rule 92 in its order, but it is obvious that the executing court held that it could not grant time in the absence of an agreement between the parties, because Order XXI, Rule 92 required that as the application under Order XXI, R. 90 had been dismissed the sale must be confirmed. We are of the view that in the circumstances it was not open to the executing court to extend time without consent of parties, for time between October 7, 1958 to November 21, 1958 was granted by consent of parties. Section 148 of the Code of Civil Procedure would not apply in these circumstances, and the executing court was right in holding that it could not extend time. Thereafter it rightly confirmed the sale as required under Order XXI, Rule 92 there being no question of the application of Order XXXIV, Rule 5 for the money had not been deposited on November 22, 1958 before the order of confirmation was passed. In this view of the matter, we are of opinion that the order of the executing court refusing grant of time and confirming the sale was correct."

53. In the case titled as M/s. Kayjay Industries (P) Ltd. versus M/s. Asnew Drums (P) Ltd. and others, reported in (1974) 2 Supreme Court Cases 213, the Apex Court has held that the Courts are not bound to adjourn the sale till a good price is got, it being a notorious fact that court sales and market prices are distant neighbours. Further held that mere inadequacy of price cannot demolish every court sale. It is apt to reproduce paras 7, 9 and 10 of the judgment herein:

"7. Certain salient facts may be highlighted in this context. A Court sale is a forced sale and, notwithstanding the competitive element of a public auction, the best price is not often forthcoming. The judge must make a certain margin for this factor. A valuer's report, good as a basis, is not as good as an actual offer and variations within limits between such an estimate, however careful, and real bids by seasoned businessmen before the auctioneer are quite on cards. More so, when the subject-matter is a specialised industrial plant, which has been out of commission for a few years, as in this case, and buyers for cash are bound to be limited. The brooding fear of something out of the imported machinery going out of gear, the vague apprehensions of possible claims by the Dena Bank which had a huge claim and was not a party, and the litigious sequel at the judgment-debtor's instance, have 'scare' value in inhibiting intending buyers from coming forward with the best offers. Businessmen make uncanny calculations before striking a bargain and that circumstances must enter the judicial verdict before deciding whether a better price could be had by a postponement of the sale. Indeed, in the present case, the executing Court had admittedly declined to affirm the highest bids made on 16-5-1969, June 5, 1969 and August 28, 1969, its anxiety to secure a better price being the main reason. If Court sales are too frequently adjourned with a view to obtaining a still higher price it may prove a self-defeating exercise, for industrialists will lose faith in the actual sale taking place and may not care to travel up to the place of auction being uncertain that the sale would at all go through. The judgment-debtor's plea for postponement in the expectation of a higher price in the future may strain the credibility of the Court sale itself and may yield diminishing returns as was proved in this very case.

9. The first respondent's counsel, Shri Parekh, drew our attention to condition No. 3 in the present proclamation of sale which is as follows :

> The highest bidders for the two lots shall be declared to be the purchasers of the respective lots, provided always that he or they are legally qualified to bid, and provided that it shall be in the discretion of the undersigned Receiver holding the sale to decline acceptance of the highest bid for any lot when the price offered for any of the two lots appears so manifestly inadequate, as to make its acceptance inadvisable. The highest bid offered by any bidders for any of the two lots shall be subject to the sanction and approval of the District Judge, Thana.

Form 29 prescribed in Appendix E to the Code contains condition No. 3 which is in like terms. The Court's activist obligation to exercise a discretion to make a fair sale out of a Court auction-and avert a distress sale - is underscored by this provision. In all public sales the authority must protect the interests of the parties and the rule is stated by this Court in Navalkha and Sons. v. Ramanya Das, (1970) 3 SCR 1 = (AIR 1970 SC 2037) thus :-

> "The principles which should govern confirmation of sales are well established. Where the acceptance of the offer by the Commissioners is subject to confirmation of the Court the offerer does not by mere acceptance get any vested right in the property so that he may demand automatic confirmation of his offer. The condition of confirmation by the Court operates as a safeguard against the property being sold at inadequate price whether or not it is a consequence of any irregularity or fraud in the conduct of the sale. In every case it is the duty of the Court to satisfy itself that having regard to the market value of the property the price offered is unreasonable. Unless the Court is satisfied about the adequacy of the price the act of confirmation of the sale would not be a proper exercise of judicial discretion."

Be it by a receiver, commissioner, liquidator or Court this principle must govern. This proposition has been propounded in many rulings cited before us and summed up by the High Courts. The expressions 'material irregularity in the conduct of the sale' must be benignantly construed to cover the climax act of the Court accepting the highest bid. Indeed, under the Civil Procedure Code, it is the Court which conducts the sale its duty to apply its mind to the material actors bearing its mind to the material factors bearing on the reasonableness of the price offered is part of the process of obtaining a proper price in the course of the sale. Therefore, failure to apply its mind to this aspect of the conduct of the sale may amount to material irregularity Mere, substantial injury without material irregularity is not enough even as material irregularity not linked directly to inadequacy of the price is insufficient. And where a Court mechanically conducts the sale or routinely signs assent to the sale papers, not bothering to see if the offer is too low and a better price could have been obtained, and in fact the price is substantially inadequate, there is the presence of both the elements of irregularity and injury. But it is not as if the Court should go on adjourning the sale till a good price is got, it being a notorious fact that Court sales and market prices are distant neighbours. Otherwise, decree-holders can never get the property of the debtor sold. Nor is it right to judge the unfairness of the price by hindsight wisdom. May be, subsequent events, not within the ken of the executing Court when holding the sale, may prove that had the sale been adjourned a better price could have been had. What is expected of the Judge is not to be a prophet but a pragmatist and merely to make a realistic appraisal of the factors, and, if satisfied that, in the given circumstances, the bid is acceptable, conclude the sale. The Court may consider the fair value of the property, the general economic trends, the large sum required to be produced by the bidder, the formation of a syndicate, the futility of postponements and the possibility of litigation, and several other factors dependent on the facts of each case. Once that is done, the matter ends there. No speaking order is called for and no meticulous post mortem is proper. If the Court has fairly, even if silently, applied its mind to the relevant considerations before it while accepting the final bid, no probe in retrospect is permissible. Otherwise, a new threat to certainty of Court sales will be introduced.

10. So viewed we are satisfied that the district Court had exercised a conscientious and lively discretion in concluding the sale at Rs. 11.5 lakhs. If the market value was over 17 lakhs, it is unfortunate that a lesser price was fetched. Mere inadequacy of price cannot demolish every Court sale. Here, the Court tried its best, time after time, to raise the price. Well-known industrialists in the public and private sectors knew about it and turned up. Offers reached a stationary off indefinitely in recovering its dues on baseless expectations and distant, prospects. The judgment-debtor himself, by his litigious exercises, would have contributed to the possible buyers being afraid of hurdles ahead. After all, producing around Rs. 11.4 lakhs openly to buy an industry is not easy even for apparently affluent businessmen. The sale proceedings had been pending too long and the first respondent could not, even when given the opportunity, produce buyers by private negotiation. Not even a valuer's report was produced by him. We are satisfied that the District Judge had committed no material irregularity in the conduct of the sale in accepting the highest offer of the appellant on September 3, 1969."

54. We have gone through the entire record and the proceedings drawn by the learned Single Judge/executing Court and are of the view that no irregularity has been committed in attaching the property, conducting the auction proceedings and confirming the sale.

55. Having said so, the appeal, on the face of it, is not maintainable. Even otherwise, on merits also, as discussed hereinabove, the appeal deserves to be dismissed and is dismissed accordingly alongwith all pending applications.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Sh. Rajinder Kumar Verma. .....Plaintiff.

Versus

Smt. Anita Verma & ors. .....Defendants.

Civil Suit No. 13 of 1997
Date of order: November 8, 2016.

Partition Act, 1893- Section 4- A Local Commissioner was appointed to partition the property in accordance with the preliminary decree- another Local Commissioner was appointed to sell the property – Local Commissioner sold the property but the parties were not willing to pay 50% increase – property in Himachal could not be partitioned due to non-corporative attitude of the parties- a fresh Local Commissioner was appointed – objections were filed to his appointment- objections dismissed as baseless – Local Commissioner directed to partition the property in accordance with the preliminary decree. (Para-2 to 15)

For the plaintiff Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisth, Advocate.

For the defendants Mr. N.S. Chandel Advocate with Mr. Dinesh Thakur, Advocate, for defendants No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Anuj Gupta, Advocate, for defendant No. 4.
Mr. N.K. Thakur, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Jamuna Kumari, Advocate, for defendant No. 6.
Defendant No. 5 in person.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

The present suit after passing preliminary decree for partition of the suit land is presently at the stage of partition thereof by a Local Commissioner to be appointed by this Court before the final decree is passed.

2. It is seen that vide order passed on 2.3.2004 in an application registered as CMP No. 440 of 2003 filed in this suit Mr. Bhupender Guprta, Senior Advocate was appointed as Local Commissioner to partition the suit property in accordance with the preliminary decree and submit the report to this Court. Mr. Gupta, however, failed to do so because as per the record the parties i.e. all co-sharers have not cooperated with him in getting the suit property situate within the territory of the State of Himachal Pradesh partitioned. As regards the suit property A-1/12 Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi Mr. Naresh Sharma, Senior Advocate came to be appointed as Local Commissioner to put the same to auction. The Local Commissioner has sold that property in auction and auction purchaser had deposited the earnest money also in the Registry of this Court. However, the application registered as OMP No. 4229 of 2013 filed by the auction purchaser with a prayer to confirm the sale was dismissed because the same being lease hold could have only been sold in auction subject to the payment of 50% of the sale consideration to Delhi Development Authority towards unearned increase. The parties to the suit were not ready and willing to part with 50% sale consideration, therefore, the permission to confirm the sale as sought was declined and as the proceedings qua conversion of the property aforesaid from lease hold to free hold were already initiated, therefore, the parties were directed to pursue the same and ascertain the status thereof as well as apprise this Court also qua the same.

3. On 23.6.2015, when the matter came to be listed before this court, time was sought on behalf of the plaintiff to ascertain the current status of the proceedings qua conversion of the property i.e. A-1/12, Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi. At the same time, learned Counsel on both sides had come forward with the proposal that the property situated within the territorial jurisdiction of this court can be partitioned with mutual understanding. Consequently, the following order came be passed in this matter on that day:-

> "Learned counsel representing the plaintiff seeks time to pursue the matter with Delhi Development Authority qua conversion of the property i.e. A-1/12, Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi from lease hold to free hold. Allowed. Let the Court be informed about the current status on the next date.
> 2. Learned counsel on both sides further submit that so far as the property situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the State of Himachal Pradesh is concerned, the same can be partitioned with mutual understanding. They further submit that at the first instance this matter can be fixed for presence of the parties and thereafter if necessary to refer the same for compromise through mediated settlement. List for presence of parties on 18th August, 2015."

4. Consequent upon the order ibid the parties did not appear on 18.8.2015 and even on the next date i.e. 22.9.2015 also it is only the plaintiff who was present in person. On the joint request made by learned Counsel on both sides the dispute was referred to learned Mediator appointed with mutual consent for negotiate settlement. The order passed on that day reads as follows:

> "Only plaintiff is present in person. Defendants, however, are not present.
> Learned Counsel on both sides are hopeful qua partition of the property situated within the State of Himachal Pradesh with mutual understanding. They pray for referring this matter to a Mediator for settlement. On their joint request, Mr. Naresh Sood, Senior Advocate is appointed as Mediator to conduct negotiations between the parties in this matter. The date for trying conciliation is left open to be fixed by learned Mediator under intimation to learned Counsel representing the parties on both sides. Administrative Coordinator, main Mediator Centre, HP High Court to render all required assistance to learned Mediator in conducting the negotiations.
> List on 16th December, 2015."

5. However, the efforts to settle the dispute amicably were failed as the parties did not agree for the same. An order to this effect came to be passed on 6.4.2016, which reads as under:

> "Mediation failed. On the joint request of learned counsel representing the parties on both sides, list on 26th May, 2016."

6. The matter when came to be listed before this Court again on 26.5.2016 a detailed order taking note of the delay occurred in expediting the proceedings in the suit on account of non-cooperative attitude of the parties on both sides came to be passed and prima facie opinion formed to adjourn the same as sine-a-die. The prayer made to appoint someone as Local Commissioner to partition at least the suit property situate in the state of H.P. though was not found to be in order in view of the non-cooperative attitude of the parties on both sides and also that in the opinion of this Court the appointment of the Local Commissioner was also not likely to serve any purpose, however, this Court agreed to appoint Local Commissioner subject to the parties to file their respective affidavits indicating therein a common name to be appointed as Local Commissioner and also undertaking to render all assistance to the Commissioner so appointed during the course of partition proceedings initiated by him. The matter as such was adjourned for the purpose with further observation that if the steps as directed are not taken the Court may proceed to pass appropriate orders in the matter including its adjournment as Sine-a-die. The order passed on 26.5.2016 also reads as follow:

> "Plaintiff Rajinder Kumar Verma is present in person and Dhananjay Verma son of Shri Ashok Kumar Verma (defendant No.5), is also present.
> 2. It is seen from the record that Mr. Bhupender Gupta was appointed as Local Commissioner vide order passed on 2nd March, 2004 in OMP No.440 of 2003 to effect partition of the suit property consequent upon the preliminary decree passed in the suit. Learned Local Commissioner has submitted the report on 2.11.2005. He could suggest the manner in which the property namely A-1/12 Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi could have been partitioned. As regards the other suit properties situate in the State of Himachal Pradesh, no proposal could be made perhaps on account of the parties did not cooperate during the course of the proceedings having taken place before learned Local Commissioner. The property at Delhi could also not be partitioned in the manner as suggested by the Local Commissioner, of course, the same, pursuant to the order passed by this Court, was put to auction by Shri Naresh Sharma, Advocate, who was appointed as Local Commissioner. The sale could not be confirmed as the parties on both sides raised objections to the report of the Local Commissioner. Subsequently, an application registered as OMP No. 4229 of 2013 came to be filed by auction purchaser for confirmation of the sale was dismissed on merits whereas OMP No.4319 of 2013 filed by the plaintiff for cancellation of the sale was dismissed being premature vide judgment dated 2.4.2015. The plaintiffs were directed to apprise the status of the proceedings qua conversion of the property A-1/12 Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi from lease hold to free hold. The instructions as sought, however, have not yet seen the light of the day. No doubt, learned counsel on both sides are hopeful that the suit property situated within the State of Himachal Pradesh can be partitioned with mutual consent and it is for this reason the matter was referred for mediation, however, the mediation is also failed.
> 3. This matter is pending in this Court right from the year 1997. Preliminary decree was passed long back on 3.7.2003. It is on account of non-cooperative attitude of the parties on both sides, the partition of the suit property could not be effected. Learned counsel on both sides though pray for appointment of Local Commissioner, afresh, however, taking into consideration the past conduct of the parties, it may not be possible to the Local

> Commissioner, if appointed, again to effect partition, unless and until, a joint prayer is made in this Court by the parties on their respective affidavits in support thereof and there being consensus between them qua the person to be appointed as Local Commissioner. As prayed, the matter is adjourned to 14th June, 2016 for taking appropriate steps in the light of this order. If no steps are taken appropriate orders including adjourning this matter sine-a-die will be passed".

7. The plaintiff and defendants No. 1 to 4 have filed the affidavits as directed and consented for appointment of Mr. Naresh Sood, learned Senior Advocate as Local Commissioner. Defendants No. 5 and 6 who were exparte also appeared and filed application for setting aside the exparte order. The application OMP No. 262 of 2016 filed by defendant No. 5 was allowed vide order dated 10.8.2016 and while setting aside the exparte order passed against him he was permitted to join the proceedings in the suit from the stage as on 10.8.2016 onwards. Similar order came to be passed on 14.9.2016 in the application, OMP No. 342 of 2016 filed on behalf of defendant No. 6. On 10.8.2016 when defendants No. 5 and 6 appeared before this Court they both came forward with the submissions that the parties i.e. all co-sharers are permitted to settle the dispute amicably in an outside court settlement. They were allowed to do so and also to discuss the matter with the remaining co-sharers i.e. plaintiff and defendants No. 1 to 4. The following order came to be passed on 10.8.2016:

> "Affidavits on behalf of defendants No.1 to 3 is also stated to be filed during the course of the day. Defendant No.6, who was proceeded against exparte on the last date, is present in person. If so advised, he may file appropriate application for getting the exparte order set aside. Defendants No.5 and 6 submits that the issue pertaining to the partition of the joint property can be decided by all the co-sharers (parties to the suit) themselves in an outside Court settlement. Learned counsel representing the plaintiffs and defendants No.1 to 4 have, however, certain reservations in this regard as according to them the suit property can only be partitioned by a Local Commissioner appointed by the Court. Anyhow, defendants No.5 and 6, if so advised, may discuss the matter with the plaintiffs and other defendants and if possible to settle the issue qua partition of the suit property by way of negotiation and inform the Court on the next date. In case their proposal is not acceptable to the plaintiffs and defendants No.1 to 4, they may also file their respective affidavits, in terms of the orders passed on 21.6.2016 so that Local Commissioner to effect the partition of the suit property amongst all co-sharers can be appointed. List on 14th September, 2016."

8. When the matter came to be listed on 14.9.2016 this court was informed that defendants No. 5 and 6 have not discussed the matter with the plaintiff and defendants No. 1 to 4 in terms of the order ibid while defendant No. 5 was granted one more opportunity as last and final in this regard, the submissions made on behalf of defendant No. 6 that he is also not averse to the appointment of local commissioner and also filing an affidavit to this effect, were taken on record. The order passed on 14.9.2016 is also reproduced here as under:

> "This Court has been informed that defendants No. 5 and 6 have not discussed the matter with the plaintiffs and defendants No.1 to 4 in terms of the order passed on the previous date. Defendant No. 5 who is present in person has sought some more time for the purpose, which though is allowed, however, as a last and final opportunity. On behalf of defendant No. 6 Mr. N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Advocate on instructions from Ms. Jamuna Kumari, Advocate submits that the said defendant is not averse to the appointment of the Local Commissioner and also for filing an affidavit to this effect. However, some more time has been sought for the purpose, which is granted. Let defendants No. 5 and 6 now to file their respective affidavits in the light of the order passed on 26.5.2016 within four weeks. List on 25.10.2016."

9. Now the affidavit filed by defendant N6. 6 is also on record and he has also no objection in case Mr. Naresh Sood, Senior Advocate is appointed as Local Commissioner, however, defendant No. 5 in the affidavit he filed submits that he has objection to the appointment of Mr. Naresh Sood, Senior Advocate as Local Commissioner, however without assigning any reasons therefor.

10. The position explained hereinabove make it crystal clear that plaintiff, defendants No. 1 to 4 and 6 are in favour of appointment of Mr. Naresh Sood, Senior Advocate as Local Commissioner to effect the partition of the joint property situate within the territorial jurisdiction of the State of Himachal Pradesh amongst the co-sharers. The objection to such appointment on behalf of defendant No. 5 being without any reason and justification is uncalled for. The record reveals that the conduct and approach of the said defendant had been non-cooperative throughout during the course of proceedings in the suit. He allowed himself to be proceeded against exparte during the course of proceedings in the suit. The date i.e. 26.5.2016 when the parties on both sides sought time to file their affidavits and agreeing therein for the appointment of some common person as Local Commissioner, defendant No. 5 was exparte. The exparte order was set aside vide order dated 10.8.2016 passed in OMP No. 262 of 2016 and he was permitted to join proceedings in this suit from that day onwards. Therefore, objection to the appointment of Local Commissioner he raised otherwise is also meaningless. One person cannot be allowed to hamper proceedings in the suit that too without any justifiable cause therefor. He even failed to make the other co-sharers agree for settlement of the dispute in an outside court settlement despite opportunities including last and final granted in this regard. The objection he raised as such is rejected. However, taking a lenient view this Court defers the penal action i.e. burdening him with exemplary costs at this stage.

11. In view of the above, I appoint Mr. Naresh Sood, learned Senior Advocate as Local Commissioner to effect the partition of the suit property situate in the State of Himachal Pradesh in terms of the preliminary decree passed in this suit. Mr. Sood while executing the partition shall be at liberty to seek expert assistance. The parties on both sides are directed to render all assistance to learned Local Commissioner as mutually agreed upon and undertaken by them in their respective affidavits. Liberty to defendant No. 5 also to join the proceedings before the Local Commissioner, if so advised. However, in view of the reasons hereinabove there shall be no impact of his absence during the course of partition proceedings because this Court has reasons to believe that learned Commissioner shall effect the partition of the suit property in accordance with law and in terms of the preliminary decree as well as in the better interest of all the co-sharers.

12. The tentative remuneration of learned Commissioner is fixed at Rs.2,00,000/- to be borne by the parties on both sides in equal shares. The amount in question be deposited in the Registry of this Court within four weeks. The incidental expenses, if any, incurred upon by the Commissioner shall also be borne by the parties in equal shares. The final remuneration of the Commissioner is left open to be considered and assessed after the receipt of the report.

13. Learned Commissioner shall inform the parties through learned Counsel representing them and also defendant No. 5 to remain present in person on the date, time and the venue for effecting partition which is left open to be fixed by him. Learned Commissioner to submit the report to this Court on or before 30th April, 2017. There shall be a direction to the Registry to handover the record of the case as and when any request in this regard is made by learned Commissioner.

14. Learned Counsel representing the parties on both sides further submit that Mr. Naresh Sood, learned Senior Advocate can be appointed as Local Commissioner to effect partition of the property, A-1/12, Safdarjung Enclave, New Delhi also. Previously, it has been noticed that it was not possible to partition the suit property by metes and bounds and it is for this reason the same was ordered to be put to auction. The auction proceedings also did not mature for the reasons recorded in the order dated 2.4.2015 passed in OMP Nos. 4229 and 4319 of 2013 as neither the auction purchaser nor the parties were ready to part with 50% of the sale consideration towards unearned increase in favour of Delhi Development Authority. Learned Counsel on both sides to ascertain there being any change in the rules and regulations if any to chalk out that the suit property situate at Delhi can now be partitioned or not. If it is possible to do so the authority of the Commissioner can be extended to partition the said property also in due course as and when the status of the rules and regulations governing lease hold property under the partition of Delhi Development Authority is placed on record.

15. The copy of this order and also that of the preliminary decree passed in this suit be supplied free of cost to learned Local Commissioner.

(Para- 17 to 25)

For the petitioners: Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. B. Nandan Vashisth, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Petitioner No. 1 is an educational trust, having established a Senior Secondary Public School and is also running B.Ed. College in the name and style of 'Shimla College of Education'. In order to introduce new professional course i.e. Diploma in Elementary Education (hereinafter referred to as the Course in question), it applied to respondent No. 2 i.e. Northern Regional Committee, National Council for Teachers Education (for short 'NRC'), initially in December, 2008, which application was rejected by respondent No. 2 vide letter dated 15.1.2009 constraining it to again apply, however, this application also came to be rejected on 16.5.2009 solely on the ground of delay. Thereafter, petitioners, time and again, applied to the respondents for grant of permission to run the course in question, but the said requests as also the appeal were rejected by the respondents on different counts till 13.8.2010, the details of which have been given in the writ petition.

2. Left with no option, the petitioners preferred a writ petition being CWP No. 5944 of 2010 and during the pendency of this petition, respondent No. 2 carried out the inspection of the institution and in view of this development, the writ petition was disposed of vide judgment dated 23.4.2012 with a direction to respondent No. 2 to take appropriate action in light of the inspection report as also the action taken by the management of the institution.

3. The respondents again decided against the petitioners, constraining it to file an appeal before the Appellate Authority, which was accepted and the matter was again remanded to respondent No. 2 with a direction to conduct inspection of the institute afresh. The inspection was conducted in the first week of March, 2013, upon which respondent No. 2 issued show cause notice, dated 31.5.2013, calling upon the petitioners to submit a list of its teaching faculty members for the B.Ed. course, which the petitioners were already running. Petitioners filed reply to the show cause notice, which was considered by respondent No. 2 in its meeting held on 27th and 28th June, 2016, wherein it was observed as under:-

> "…Therefore, the NRC came to the conclusion that the institution is running the B.Ed. Course without approved faculty since the grant of recognition by the NRC, NCTE. It is a violation of the provisions of the NCTE Regulations. "

4. On the basis of the above observation, show cause notice was issued to the petitioners and the application for grant of permission to run the course was decided to be kept in abeyance. However, in the meeting held by respondent No. 2 on 28.1.2014, it was decided to withdraw the affiliation granted to the petitioners in respect of B.Ed. course. This constrained the petitioners to file an appeal, however, no decision was taken on the appeal, the petitioners again moved this Court by filing a writ petition being CWP No. 1062 of 2014, which was disposed of vide order dated 1.5.2014 with a direction to the Appellate Authority to decide the appeal within six weeks.

5. Subsequent thereto, the appeal of the petitioners was allowed and matter was remanded to respondent No. 2 whereafter, in the 235th meeting of respondent No. 2 held on 15.04.2015 to 18.04.2015, the recognition in respect of B.Ed. course was restored. As regards granting of recognition in favour of the petitioners for running the course in question, a letter of intent dated 24.4.2015, was issued in its favour. In compliance to the said letter, the petitioners requested the H.P. Board of School Education (for short 'Board') to constitute a selection committee in accordance with the letter of intent issued by respondent No. 2 for constitution of a selection committee for the selection of faculty/staff for running the course in question.

6. The Board, in turn, directed the Principal, district Institute of Education and Training, Shamlaghat to constitute a committee for the selection of faculty members. The said selection committee held meetings on 2.5.2015 and 6.5.2015 respectively and vide letter dated 14.5.2015 granted its approval of the teaching faculty and this committee recommended the names of ten (10) fresh teachers exclusively for D.EI.Ed. programme and also included list of six (6) teachers and Principal, already working in the B.Ed. college for D.EI.Ed. programme.

7. The case of the petitioners for recognition was thereafter taken in the 238th meeting held between 20th to 31st May, 2015, however, certain objections were raised which were responded to by the petitioners vide representation dated 4.6.2015. The case of the petitioners was thereafter taken up in the meeting of respondent No. 2 held on 30.6.2015 and 1.7.2015, wherein the recognition for running the course in question was again refused and against the said decision, petitioners filed the appeal before the Appellate Authority and also approached this Court by way of CWP No. 3279 of 2015. The said writ petition was disposed of vide order dated 6.8.2015 with a direction to respondent No. 2 to examine the case of the petitioners.

8. The case of the petitioners was again considered in the 242nd meeting of respondent No. 2 held between 1st to 3rd September, 2015, wherein also recognition was not granted to the institution for running the course in question, against which, the petitioners preferred an appeal to the Appellate Authority. The petitioners also preferred writ petition, being CWP No. 3945 of 2015, before this Court, which was disposed of vide order dated 17th September, 2015, with a direction to the Appellate Authority to decide the appeal within a period of six weeks. When the appeal was not decided, a letter was written to the Member Secretary of respondent No. 1 for listing the appeal of the petitioners, but when no action was taken, the petitioner filed CWP No. 4283 of 2015, which was disposed of vide order dated 30.11.2015, with the following directions:-

> "Learned counsel for the parties stated at the Bar that during the pendency of the writ petition, appeal was heard, the matter has been remanded and the lis is pending before respondent No. 2. Their statement is taken on record.
> 2. In the given circumstances, we deem it proper to dispose of this writ petition with a direction to respondent No. 2 to decide the matter after hearing the parties within three weeks and report compliance before the Registrar (Judicial). The writ petitioners are at liberty to seek appropriate remedy at appropriate stage."

9. In compliance to the aforesaid orders, the case was again taken up by respondent No.2 in its 246th meeting held on 9th to 12th December, 2015 and was rejected on the basis of the earlier grounds.

10. This constrained the petitioners to again approach this Court by way of CWP No. 4755 of 2015 and vide judgment dated 22.3.2016, the decision taken by the Appellate Authority in the proceedings of the 246th meeting, in so far as it pertained to the petitioners was quashed and respondents were directed to pass orders afresh within a period of three months.

11. The respondents were further directed to take into consideration the decision made by the Member Secretary, National Council for Teachers Education on 16.11.2015 whereby he had clearly observed that the petitioners have taken steps to remove all the deficiencies and the operative part of the decision reads thus:-

> "AND WHEREAS Appeal Committee noted that the Letter of Intent under Section 8(13) was issued to institution on 24.04.2015. The appellant institution furnished to N.R.C. on 30.5.2015, a revised list of faculty approved by the duly constituted selection Committee of the Himachal Pradesh Board of School Education, Dharamshala. There is valid evidence that the appellant institution had taken steps to remove deficiency in the earlier select list. Committee also noted that the appellant institution vide its letter dated 22.06.2015 addressed to R.D., N.R.C. had furnished a further revised list of faculty approved by the Himachal Pradesh Board of School Education on 17.05.2015 in which names of faculty which were erstwhile noticed to be working as B.Ed. faculty were replaced by new faculty exclusively selected for the D.EI.Ed. course. Appeal Committee noted that the appellant institution as well as N.R.C. got entangled in leveling unnecessary allegations and counter allegation. The crux of the case is that the appellant institution was found fit for conducting D.EI.Ed. course subject to fulfillment of certain conditions and the institution has finally completed the formalities under intimation to the N.R.C. The refusal order dated 09.07.2015 is not justified and hence the matter deserved to be remanded to N.R.C. for taking note of the revised list of faculty and, if need be, after getting the overwriting (erasing) verified through the issuing authority. The NR.C. may thereafter take further action as per the Regulations."

12. In compliance to the aforesaid directions, the respondent No. 2 vide its 252nd meeting held between 19.4.2016 to 2.5.2016, again rejected the case of the petitioners and same reads thus:-

> "The Prof. Y.K. Sharma was not present at the time of this decision.

The original file of the Institution alongwith other related documents, NCTE Act, 1993, Regulations were carefully considered by NRC and following observation was made:-

- In compliance with the order of Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh at Shimla, dt. 16.3.2016 in CWP No. 4755 of 2015, the applicant institution letter dt. 02.03.2016 was considered by the Committee and NRC decided the land for the proposed programme (D.EI.Ed. course) is on private lease basis which is contravenes the provisions of 8(4)(i) of the NCTE Regulations, 2014. Hence, grant of recognition is refused.
- Further, a complaint letter by Narendra Thakur, Counsellor, Kamla Nagar, Ward No. 6, Shimla was received in this office on 12.04.2016 against the institution may forward to Secretary, H.P. Board of School Education, Dharamshala, Kangra, for necessary action.

Hence, the Committee decided that the application is rejected and recognition/permission is refused u/s 14/15(3)(b) of the NCTE Act, 1993, FDRs, if any, be returned to the institution."

13. It is this order which has been assailed by the petitioners on the ground that the same is against the principal of natural justice and in complete violation of the order dated 30.11.2015 passed by this Court in CWP No. 4283 of 2015 whereby the respondent No. 2 was specifically directed to decide the matter after hearing the parties. It is further claimed that the decision is also vitiated on the grounds that the respondents have rejected the case of the petitioners under Rule 8(4)(i) of the NCTE Regulations, 2014, whereas, petitioners have met all the objections as has been raised by the respondents from time to time.

14. Lastly, it is averred that the respondents have adopted pick and choose policy in respect of the petitioners and they have been discriminated in as much as similarly situated institutions have been granted six months time to remove the deficiencies.

15. The respondents have filed their replies, wherein apart from setting out certain allegations against the faculty appointed by the respondents, it has been pointed out that the case of the petitioners has been rejected on two counts. Firstly that the land where the institute is situated is on a private lease basis, which is in contravention of the provisions of Clause 8(4)(i) of NCTE Regulations, 2014. Secondly, a complaint had been received from one Narender Thakur against the petitioners.

16. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

17. At the outset, we may observe that the petitioners appear to have been dragged into unnecessary and unwarranted litigation, which could have conveniently been avoided in case the respondents would have acted fairly and impartially. We observe so because the complaint filed by Sh. Narender Thakur, Councilor could not have formed one of the basis for rejecting their case for grant of approval, more particularly, when the contents of the complaint have not even been spelt out.

18. That apart, admittedly, no inquiry was conducted on such complaint and even copy thereof was not supplied to the petitioners so as to enable them to make representation. Therefore, the action of the respondents is clearly in violation of natural justice and fair play.

19. Adverting to the other ground for rejection, which is regarding the land for the proposed programme, being on a private land and not in the name of the institute, suffice it to say that as per the recognition order placed in case of other institute, the respondent No.2 itself has granted six months time to have the land transferred as would be evident from clause 7 of the recognition order dated 2.3.2015 (Annexure P-11) wherein it is clearly provided as under:

"7. In case if the land is in the name of the Society/trust, the land is to be transferred within six months in the name of the institution, failing which action shall be initiated to withdraw the recognition. It shall be essential on the part of the institution concerned to get the needful done in this regard and intimate about the same to the respective Regional Committee alongwith the new land documents within the stipulated time."

Therefore, this is clearly a case of invidious discrimination wherein the petitioners alone have been discriminated against, whereas other similarly situated societies/trusts have been granted six months time to have the land transferred in the name of institution.

20. Not only this, we in view of the earlier order passed by the appellate authority further find the action of the respondents to be unsustainable, whereby the respondents had already granted six months time to the petitioners to establish their ownership over the property through legally permissible documents and to show their ability to transfer the land and built up area thereupon in the name of the institution, as would be evident from the order dated 13.10.2015, relevant portion whereof reads thus:

"AND WHEREAS Committee noted that application for M.Ed. course was made by Shimla Educational Society Trust on 30.12.2012 and the name of appellant college is Shimla College of Education. The land documents enclosed with the application consist of a Lease Deed. The lease is granted by Shimla Education Society in favour of the Shimla College of Education. Committee further noted the relevant contents of clause 8(4) (i) & 8 (4) (iii) of the NCTE Regulations, 2014 which lay down as under: (i) No institution shall be granted recognition under these regulations unless the institution or society sponsoring the institution is in possession of required land on the date of application. The land free from all encumbrances could be either on ownership basis or on lease from Government or Government institutions for a period of not less than thirty years. In cases where under relevant State or Union territory laws the maximum permissible lease period is less than thirty years, the State Government or Union territory administration law shall prevail and in any case no building shall be taken on lease for running any teacher training programme, (ii) The society sponsoring the institution shall be required to transfer and vest the title of the land and building in the name of the institution within a period of six months from the date of issue of formal recognition order under sub-regulation (16) of regulation 7. However, in case, the society fails to do so due to local laws or rules or bye-laws, it shall intimate in writing with documentary evidence of its inability to do so. The Regional Office shall keep this information or record and place it before the Regional Committee for its approval.

AND WHEREAS keeping in view the above provisions of NCTE Regulations, 2014, Appeal Committee is of the opinion that so long as appellant society is able to establish its ownership rights over the property through legally permissible documents and also able to transfer the land and built up area thereupon in the name of the appellant institution within 6 months after the grant of recognition, there is no objection to the appellant society's leasing out the land to the applicant college.

AND WHEREAS Appeal Committee, having considered the submissions made by appellant and the relevant clauses of the NCTE Regulations, 2014 decided to remand back the case to N.R.C. with a direction to process the application as per Regulations, 2014.

AND WHEREAS after perusal of the memorandum of appeal, affidavit, documents available on records and considering the oral arguments advanced during the hearing, the Committee concluded that the appeal deserves to be remanded to NRC with a direction to process the application as per Regulations, 2014.

NOW THEREFORE, the Council hereby remands back the case of Shimla College of Education, Sanjauli, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh to the NRC, NCTE, for necessary action as indicated above." (underlining supplied by us)

21. The respondents could not have sat over the order passed by the appellate authority and it is only when the petitioners would have shown their inability or failed to comply with the terms of the appellate authority, could they have rejected the case of the petitioners.

22. We are really at a complete loss to understand and as to how and why the respondents have once again rejected the case of the petitioners, that too, on the ground of violation of provisions of clause 8 (4) (i) of the Regulations. Undoubtedly, the respondents are vested with the authority to grant or refuse the recognition but the same has to be in accordance with law and the rejection cannot be left to the whims and caprices of the authorities (respondents), as is clearly reflected in the instant case.

23. It is unfortunate that the petitioners have repeatedly been compelled to approach this Court and within a span of five years have been constrained to file the seventh petition, earlier ones being:

1. CWP No. 5944/2010 decided on 23.4.2012
2. CWP No. 1062/2014 decided on 1.5.2014
3. CWP No. 3279/2015 decided on 6.8.2015
4. CWP No. 3945/2015 decided on 17.9.2015
5. CWP No. 4283/2015 decided on 30.11.2015
6. CWP No. 4755/2015 decided on 22.3.2016

24. That apart, the petitioners have time and again been compelled to approach the appellate authority against the action/inaction of the respondents.

25. In view of aforesaid discussion, we have no hesitation in allowing the petition and accordingly the same is allowed. The decision taken by respondent No.2 in its 252nd meeting held on 19.4.2016 to 2.5.2016 is quashed and set aside and the petitioners are permitted to start the course in question, i.e. D.El.Ed course for the session 2015-17. However, this would be subject to the petitioners transferring the land and built up area thereupon in the name of the institute within a period of four weeks.

The petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Narain Dass Chauhan .....Petitioner

Versus

State of H.P. .....Respondent.

Decided on: 9th November, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Section 447, 323, 341, 504, 506 of I.P.C and Section 3(1)(g), 3(1)(r) and 3(1)(s) of the Schedule Caste and Schedule Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989- the petitioner applied for bail- held, that the offence punishable under the provisions of atrocities Act is not against an individual but against the society as a whole- particularly the weaker section of the society- however, considering the age of the petitioner, the bail application allowed subject to furnishing personal and surety of Rs.1 lacs. (Para-1 to 3)

For the petitioner Mr. Bimal Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Kusum Chaudhary, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

The petitioner who has been booked by the police of Police Station, Kotkhai in a case registered under Sections 447, 323, 341, 504, 506 of the Indian Penal Code and 3(1)(g),3(1)(r)3(1)(s) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 had surrendered before this Court on 18.10.2016 and filed this application with a prayer to enlarge him on bail. Though he is in custody, however, vide order dated 18.10.2016 was ordered to be not arrested subject to the outcome of this petition. The interim order so passed came to be extended from time to time with a direction to the accused-petitioner to continue to join the interrogation.

2. The record produced by the investigating agency reveals that besides the commission of an offence under the provisions of Indian Penal Code, the accused-petitioner has committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Atrocities Act also. The offence, therefore, he committed is not only against an individual i.e. the complainant but also the society as a whole, particularly weaker section of the society. Therefore, in all fairness though the prayer he made for being admitted on bail should have been declined, however, keeping in view his advanced age i.e. 79 years and also the submissions persuasive in nature made on his behalf by Mr. Gupta, learned arguing counsel and also that there being no complaint that he was not available to the investigating agency for the purpose of interrogation as and when called upon to do so, a lenient view of the matter has been taken, of course subject to the accused-petitioner not indulging in an illegal activity of this nature in future and maintain peace and good behavior in the area. As regards the apprehension of the investigating agency is that if admitted on bail, he may again torture and try to win over or influence the complainant who lives alone in the village, though, it is not expected from the accused-petitioner to do so, however, in case any such instance is brought to the notice of this Court either by the complainant or the investigating agency, he will be dealt with sternly in accordance with law including the cancellation of the liberty of bail against any such act and behaviour on his part.

3. In view of the above, I allow this application and order to release the accused-petitioner on bail subject to his furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned Judicial Magistrate, Rohroo/Jubbal. He shall further abide by the following conditions:-

(a) make himself available for interrogation as and when called upon to do so;

(b) not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever.

(c) not make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer.

(d) not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

4. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses his liberty or violate any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

5. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone. Petition stands disposed of accordingly.

It is pleaded that thereafter civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 was filed by judgment debtors. It is pleaded that judgment debtor died and his LRs were impleaded in civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 which was disposed of on 1.8.1997 by learned District Judge Mandi (H.P.). Matter was compromised before learned Appellate Court inter se parties and appeal was not pressed and appeal was dismissed as withdrawn. It was ordered that statements of parties and their counsel recorded would form part of order. It is pleaded in execution petition that judgment debtors have intentionally and voluntarily violated decree of learned Trial Court by way of alienating suit land in favour of Hasan Ali on dated 20.10.1998 registered on 21.10.1998 in consideration amount of Rs.150000/- (Rupees one lac fifty thousand) before partition of suit land. It is prayed that judgment debtors be detained in civil prison and property of judgment debtors be also attached. It is further pleaded that sale deed dated 20.10.1998 registered on 21.10.1998 executed by judgment debtors in favour of Hasan Ali be cancelled.

3. Judgment Debtors Nos. 1 to 6 filed objections in execution petition. It is pleaded that sale deed has been executed by judgment debtor in favour of Hasan Ali in accordance with law. It is pleaded that civil suit No. 71 of 1992 was decided on 31.8.1998. It is pleaded that after decision of civil suit No. 71 of 1992 judgment debtors were legally competent to execute sale deed qua land mentioned in decree sheet. It is pleaded that judgment debtors have alienated suit land in favour of Hasan Ali after receiving legal opinion from Advocate. It is pleaded that Hasan Ali is bonafide purchaser for consideration. Prayer for dismissal of execution petition sought.

4. Per contra separate objections filed by Hasan Ali purchaser of suit land pleaded therein that he is bonafide purchaser of land mentioned in decree sheet for valuable consideration of Rs.150000/- (Rupees one lac fifty thousand). Prayer for dismissal of execution petition sought.

Kundan Lal further pleaded that he simply supplied the copy of record of right on demand as per H.P. Land Revenue Act 1954 while discharging his official duty. Prayer for dismissal of execution petition against Kundan Lal Patwari sought.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that order of learned Executing Court is contrary to law and contrary to proved facts is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case it is proved on record that civil suit No. 1 of 1988 titled Nika Ram vs. Nandu was decided by Civil Court and prohibitory decree was passed by Civil Court against Nandu judgment debtor to the effect that judgment debtors would not sell the land mentioned in decree sheet till its partition. It is also proved on record that thereafter appeal No. 77 of 1996 was filed before learned District Judge Mandi title Roshan Lal and others vs. Nika Ram and others and civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 dismissed on 1.8.1997 by learned District Judge Mandi as withdrawn. Statement of co-appellant Shyam Lal and learned Advocate D.N.Pathak were recorded by learned District Judge Mandi on 1.8.1997 and Shri Shyam Lal and learned Advocate D.N. Pathak appeared on behalf of appellants before learned District Judge Mandi have given statement on 1.8.1997 that appellants namely Shyam Lal and others would not alienate the suit land in any manner till partition of suit land take place in accordance with law and subject to decision of suit filed by respondents which was pending before learned Civil Judge Sundernagar titled Khalelu and others vs. Radha and others. It is also proved on record that learned District Judge Mandi H.P. has specifically mentioned in order dated 1.8.1997 passed in civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 that statements of parties and their Advocates shall form part of order. It is held that undertaking given by Shyam Lal and learned Advocate D.N.Pathak on behalf of other judgment debtors is binding upon Roshan Lal, Shyam Lal and Chetri Devi. It is held that Roshan Lal, Shyam Lal and Smt. Chetri Devi cannot be allowed to flout undertaking given in civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 titled Roshan Lal and others vs. Nika Ram and others decided on 1.8.1997.

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that after decision of civil suit No. 71 of 1992 decided on 31.8.1998 titled Khalelu and others vs. Radha and others judgment debtors were legally competent to alienate land mentioned in decree sheet in civil suit No. 1 of 1988 in view of statements given on dated 1.8.1997 by Shri Shyam Lal and learned Advocate D.N. Pathak in civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Undertaking given by co-appellant Shri Shyam Lal and Mr.D.N. Pathak before learned District Judge Mandi on dated 1.8.1997 is quoted in toto:-

> "I have the instructions to state that the appellants undertake not to alienate the suit land in any manner till partition of suit land in accordance with law and subject to decision of suit filed by the respondents which is pending before learned Civil Judge Sundernagar titled as Khalelu versus Radha and others. The appeal may be dismissed as withdrawn."

Court has carefully perused the contents of undertaking cited supra. Court is of the opinion that undertaking is not alternative in nature subject to decision of civil suit No. 71 of 1992 titled Khalelu and others vs. Radha & others but undertaking is additional undertaking subject to decision of civil suit No. 71 of 1992 titled Khalelu and others vs. Radha and others. It is held that word 'And' is always used for additional purpose and not used for alternative purpose. It is held that word 'Or' is always used for alternative purpose. In the present case word 'And' has been used in the undertaking given by Shri Shyam Lal and learned Advocate D.N. Pathak in civil appeal No. 77 of 1996 decided on 1.8.1997.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that judgment debtors have alienated the suit land in favour of Hasan Ali as per advise given by learned Advocate and on this ground revision petition be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Judgment debtors did not examine learned Advocate in order to prove fact that judgment debtors were advised by learned Advocate to execute sale deed qua property mentioned in decree sheet passed in civil suit No. 1 of 1988 prior to partition. Plea of judgment debtors that they have alienated land mentioned in decree sheet as per advise of their Advocate is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof).

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that judgment debtors have not wilfully disobeyed the decree passed by Civil Court is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record beyond reasonable doubt that judgment debtors have failed to obey decree of civil Court having an opportunity of obeying decree by way of executing sale deed in favour of Hasan Ali on 20.10.1998 registered on 21.10.1998 in consideration amount of Rs.150000/- (Rupees one lac fifty thousand) before Sub Registrar Sundernagar Mandi (H.P.).

17. It is well settled law that High Court cannot reverse the findings of fact of learned Executing Court unless findings of facts are perverse. See AIR 1991 SC 455 Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 The Municipal Corporation Indore vs. K.N. Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 P.Udayani Devi vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao and another. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 Gurdial Singh vs. Raj Kumar Anjela. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra it is held that order of learned Executing Court is not perverse. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Relief)

18. In view of findings upon point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Order passed by learned Executing Court dated 28.12.2011 in execution petition No. 8 of 1999 is affirmed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Record of learned Executing Court be sent back forthwith along with certified copy of order. Revision petition is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Khem Chand .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 561 of 2008
Decided on : 09/11/2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279 and 337- Accused was driving the car rashly and negligently, which hit the informant causing injuries to her – accused was tried and convicted by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held in appeal that the medical evidence does not establish the prosecution version – material witness was not examined – the

Appellate Court had rightly acquitted the accused, in these circumstances appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A. G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Neel Kamal Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, whereby he reversed the findings of conviction recorded upon the accused by the learned trial Court and acquitted the accused respondent herein for his allegedly committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 337 IPC.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 9th July, 2002 at 3.40 p.m. on duty pharmacist, DDU Hospital, Shimla, informed Police Station, Sadar, Shimla that a lady has been brought to the hospital in an injured condition. On this information H.C Lal Singh and constable Rai Singh were sent to DDU Hospital for investigation vide daily diary Ext.PW-9/A. The complainant made a statement Ext.PW-2/A that her daughter in law was admitted in Ripon Hospital, Shimla for the last 10-12 days and she came to Shimla to see her. When she wanted to cross the road near Ripon Hospital, a red coloured car came and hit her from right side. The car was being driven rashly and negligently. She has stated that she suffered injuries on the right side of the body. The number of the car was noted by her nephew Ramesh Kumar. In the meantime, a Traffic Police constable came there and stopped the car. She was taken to hospital by Ramesh Kumar and other people. Upon the aforesaid statement, formal F.I.R was registered. The Investigating Officer prepared the site plan on the spot and took into possession the offending vehicle. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. A charge stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 337 IPC to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. He did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused whereas the learned Sessions Judge returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge standing not based on a proper appreciation by him of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by him of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. In sequel to the victim injured standing struck with the vehicle allegedly driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused respondent herein, she begot injuries on her person, injuries whereof stand reflected in MLC Ext.PW-6/A. The injuries which stand pronounced therein stand testified by PW-6 to arise by user thereon of a blunt weapon. Also in Ext.PW-6/A there occurs a disclosure qua on the victim standing brought for examination before PW-6 hers divulging to the latter qua hers standing struck by a bus. The aforesaid revelation occurring in Ext.PW-6/A when holds an apparent contra-distinctivity vis.a.vis. the ascription made by her in the F.I.R qua hers begetting the injuries pronounced in Ext.PW-6/A on hers standing struck with the vehicle allegedly driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused respondent herein does scuttle the vigour of the ascriptions made by her in the F.I.R. embodying therein qua the accused while negligently driving his vehicle, his striking her also denudes the vigour of her testimony holding therein communications in tandem therewith. Furthermore, with PW-6 in her testification proclaiming therein qua the injuries reflected in Ext.PW-6/A standing caused by user of blunt weapon also perse when holds no connectivity with the testification of the injured victim wherein she discloses qua hers standing entailed with injuries reflected in Ext.PW-6/A on hers standing struck with the car purportedly driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused/respondent herein whereupon cumulatively hence with dichotomy also occurring intra se the testification of the victim vis.a.vis the testification of PW-6 qua the cause of injury delineated in Ext.PW-6/A, renders the genesis of the prosecution case embodied in the F.I.R. to stand not convincingly established.

10. Be that as it may, the prosecution had relied upon the testimony of PW-5 a purported eye witness to the occurrence who in his testification lends corroborative succor to the testification of the victim injured. However, his testimony wherewithin communications are held of his sighting the accused/respondent herein to strike the victim/injured at the place pronounced in site plan comprised in Ext.PW-8/A also wherewithin he pronounces qua the car driven by the accused purportedly in a rash and negligent manner arriving thereat from the lift side, does not command any probative vigour significantly when it is in rife contradiction with the relevant manifestations occurring in Ext.PW-8/A, contrarily wherein the car allegedly driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused stands disclosed to arrive from a side other than the one divulged by PW-5 whereupon his testimony is to be concluded to stand ridden with a vice of invention besides concoction also thereupon when apparently he was not available at the site of occurrence his testification in purported corroboration to the testification of the victim injured who has deposed as PW-2, is legally unworthwhile.

11. Be that as it may, even though the sole testimony of the victim/injured was sufficient to constrain this Court to return findings of conviction upon the accused respondent nonetheless with the aforesaid reason assigned by this Court for dispelling the vigour of her testimony contrarily prods this Court to conclude qua her version loosing veracity. Also the vigour of her testimony stands denuded by the factum of hers deposing qua at the relevant time when she alighted from the bus, one Ramesh in simultaneity with her also alighting therefrom whereas with the aforesaid Ramesh standing neither cited as a prosecution witness nor obviously his statement coming to be recorded whereas his testimony constituted the best evidence to lend succor to the prosecution case. Consequently, when the adverse effect of his non examination stands construed in entwinement with the inference aforestated qua the testimony of the injured wanting in any tenacity also when is construed in coagulation with the legally frail testimony of a purported eye witness to the occurrence who deposed as PW-5 whereupon an inference qua its hence wanting in any legal vigour is erectable, constrains this Court to conclude qua the propagation made by the prosecution standing bereft of truth.

12. The learned Deputy Advocate General has contended of with PW-2 in her testification comprised in her examination in chief divulging therein qua hers while after alighting the bus hers taking to proceed to DDU hospital wherebefore she testifies qua hers looking around for ascertaining whether the vehicles from the apposite side had arrived thereat whereupon with hers despite hence adhering to the standards of due care and caution hers standing struck by the vehicle driven by the accused while its standing driven by him at a brazen pace, when has remained unrebutted does hold visible echoings of the defence acquiescing to the inculpation of the accused respondent. However, the aforesaid submission stands negated preeminently when Ext.PW-8/A makes a disclosure of the purported incident occurring in close proximity to the road leading onwards to the DDU hospital whereat uncontrovertedly the victim/injured alighted from the bus whereon she was aboard as a passenger besides when the vehicle driven by the accused respondent stands not displayed by invincible evidence to stand driven on the inappropriate side of the road rather when it stands displayed by Ext.PW-8/A to occur at point 'E' thereof location whereof, is in close proximity to the road leading to DDU hospital, begets an inference of the victim injured abruptly arriving at the relevant site of occurrence unnoticing the car driven by the accused which came from the apposite direction wherefrom hence it is to be concluded qua her testimony qua hers adhering to the standards of due care and caution being incredible contrarily it is to be concluded of her abrupt appearance at the relevant site causing the mishap bereft of any element of penally inculpable negligence.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Sessions Judge has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Sessions Judge does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

14. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

(Para- 9 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Ms. Jamna Kumari, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Una, District Una, H.P., rendered on 31.05.2008 in Case No. 156-III-2002, whereby, he acquitted the accused/respondents herein for theirs allegedly committing offences punishable under Section 379 of the IPC and Sections 41/42 of the Indian Forest Act.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 29.4.2002 C. Yash Pal No. 364 was present at village Ghaluwal whereat he received a secret information that accused Parveen and Vijay Kumar are dealing in sale of stolen timber in Punjab and that on that day also they have gone to Dulehar Brahmna forest in the tractor to fetch timber and that if a naka is laid on the border of Punjab and Himachal Pradesh they can be apprehended red handed. This information was passed on by C. Yash Pal to ASI Baldev Ram,I/C P.P. Haroli who met him at Pubowal who recorded his statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. on the basis of which FIR No. 228/2002 under Sections 379 IPC and 41 and 42 of Indian Forest Act was registered in P.S Una. Thereafter, SI Baldev Ram laid a naka on the border of Himachal and Punjab at Brahmnawala Forest and intercepted a Sonalika Tractor Trolley which was not bearing any registration number. On checking the accused persons were found sitting in the said tractor and fuel wood weighing about 20 quintals of different species was found loaded therein. On demand by SI Baldev Ram the accused persons could not produce any permit for transporting the fuel wood loaded in the tractor. Upon this SI Baldev Ram seized the tractor alongwith the fuel wood loaded therein in the presence of Sh. Krishan Gopal, Prem and H.C Jagtar Singh. During further investigation conducted by SI Baldev Ram it was found that the accused persons had stolen the fuel wood by cutting about 40 trees of different broad leave species from land bearing Khasra No. 326 situated at Mohal Bhariyara, Mauza Dulehar, Tehsil Haroli and converted the same into fuel wood and that they were transporting the same to Punjab without possessing any valid permit. Therefore, after completion of investigation the SHO P.S Una found the accused persons guilty under Section 379 IPC and Section 41/42 of Indian Forest Act, 1927.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused were charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Section 379 of the IPC and under Sections 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 13 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded by the trial Court, in which they claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, they did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Under recovery memo Ex.PW11/A fuel wood holding a weight of 20 quintals stood recovered from the relevant tractor which at the relevant time stood occupied by the accused/respondents. The accused/respondents stood detected by the Investigating Officer concerned to not hold a valid permit under the Himachal Pradesh Forest Land Transit Rules for transporting it in the relevant vehicle also with the owner of the land wherefrom purportedly it stood stolen in his previous statement recorded before the Investigating Officer concerned making a disclosure therein qua trees standing felled from his land constrained the Investigating Officer to in his report prepared under Section 173 of the Cr.P.C., report whereof stood furnished before the learned trial Court, conclude qua offences constituted under Section 379 of the IPC and under Sections 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act standing committed by the accused/respondents. In sequel thereto the accused/respondents faced trial.

10. On conclusion of the trial qua the offences aforesaid, the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate on holding an incisive perusal of the evidence on record concluded qua the charge to which the accused/respondents stood subjected to not standing proven by adduction of emphatic evidence.

11. The reasoning as stands assigned by the learned trial Court for pronouncing an order of acquittal qua the accused/respondents stands founded upon the factum of with PW-11 and PW-13 contradictorily deposing qua the place whereat the relevant seizure occurred, significantly, with PW-11 deposing qua the relevant seizure occurring about 10-12 kilometers away from the territorial boundaries of the State of Punjab whereas PW-13 deposing of the relevant seizure occurring at a place wherefrom the territorial boundary of the State of Punjab stands located at a distance of ½ kilometers, it therefrom recorded a conclusion, conspicuously, when the relevant demarcation for ascertaining qua whether the naka whereat the relevant seizure occurred falling within the territorial jurisdiction of the State of Himachal Pradesh or within the territorial jurisdiction of the State of Punjab, qua hence the relevant seizure not occurring within the State of Himachal Pradesh rather it occurring within the territorial domain of the State of Punjab. However, the aforesaid reasoning as stands propounded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate to record an order of acquittal qua the accused/respondents herein may not hold any tenacity unless evidence stood adduced by the prosecution marking the factum of the tractor whereon fuel wood stood carried emanating from the territorial domain of the State of Himachal Pradesh. However, for the reasons ascribed hereinafter, the prosecution has miserably failed to adduce the aforesaid relevant best evidence whereupon this Court is interdicted to conclude of the tractor whereon the relevant illicit timber stood transported originating from within the territorial domain of the State of Himachal Pradesh. (a) Recovery memo Ex.PW11/A whereunder the accused/respondents recorded their statement whereby they identified the place held in the ownership of PW-9, whereat they axed trees for converting therefrom fuel wood allegedly carried in the relevant vehicle occupied at the relevant time by them not standing preceded by any disclosure statement. Consequently, with Ex.PW11/A remaining unpreceded by any disclosure statement constrains a conclusion of the recitals occurring therein standing prodded by duress besides compulsion exerted upon the accused by the Investigating Officer concerned during the period whereat he subjected them to custodial interrogation. Also it hence appears qua the Investigating Officer concerned inventing besides preceding the making of Ex.PW11/A his suo motto discovering the relevant place whereat the relevant purported fellings occurred whereafter he obviously proceeded to record an engineered recovery memo borne on Ex.PW11/A, memo whereof obviously holds no probative sinew. The effect of the aforesaid inference is hence the imperative ingredient for Ex.PW11/A to hold efficacy embodied in the factum of the relevant identified place reflected therein standing held within the exclusive knowledge of the accused/respondents remaining unsatiated. (b) PW-9 the owner of the land whereupon the relevant fellings occurred omitting to identify the accused to be the persons who had proceeded to fell trees growing upon his land. (c) The Investigating Officer concerned not placing on record the apposite scientific evidence obtained from the Forest Institute, Dehradun, comprised in a report prepared by its relevant officer in sequel to his visiting the relevant khasra number whereat the relevant felling of trees occurred, wherewithin unfoldments occur qua the fuel wood allegedly carried in the vehicle whereon the accused/respondents were aboard at the relevant time, standing felled therefrom. Omission of adduction by the prosecution of the aforesaid best evidence cannot constrain a conclusion qua the fuel wood as stood carried in the relevant vehicle wherefrom its seizure occurred standing axed from trees growing upon khasra No.326 whereupon it is but natural to conclude of the fuel wood borne on the relevant vehicle not originating from khasra No.326 rather its occurrence thereon originating from a place other than khasra No.326. Consequently, when khasra No.326 stands concluded to be located within the territorial domain of the State of Himachal Pradesh wherefrom the relevant fellings did not occur, the imperative conclusion therefrom is of the fuel wood which stood carried in the relevant vehicle originating from outside the territorial domain of the State of Himachal Pradesh, whereupon, this Court is prodded to record a conclusion qua their being no necessity for the accused to hold the relevant permit for carrying the fuel wood in the relevant vehicle.

12. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

13. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court in favour of the accused/respondents herein is affirmed and maintained. Records be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Smt. Vijaya Devi and others .....Appellants.
Versus
Resident Engineer .....Respondent.

FAO No. 103 of 2007.
Decided on : 9th November, 2016.

Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Deceased was electrician and he died during the course of his duty- compensation of Rs.3,38,880/- was awarded by the commissioner with interest @ 12% per annum- held in appeal that interest is to be awarded from one month after the fatal accident- an amount of Rs.25,000/- was deposited which is not sufficient considering that ultimately an amount of Rs.3,38,880/- was awarded- therefore, employer is liable to pay the penalty on the awarded amount – the amount of Rs.40,000/- imposed as penalty. (Para-4 to 7)

For the Appellants: Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal arises from the impugned order rendered by the Commissioner under Workmen's Compensation Act, HPSEB, Shimla-3, (for short the "Commissioner"), whereby compensation quantified in a sum of Rs. 3,38,880/- stood assessed qua the claimants, successors-in-interest of one Jai Singh, who uncontrovertedly during the course of his performing employment as an electrician under the respondent suffered fatal injuries.

2. The appellants herein standing aggrieved by the rendition of the learned Commissioner hence concert to assail it by preferring an appeal therefrom before this Court.

3. The instant appeal stands admitted by this Court on 14.05.2007 on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:

> 1. Whether provision of Section 4-A (3) (a) & (b) of the Workmen's Compensation Act is mandatory, when the due amount of compensation has not been paid within one month from the date of accident?

2. Whether the award passed by the ld. Commissioner deserved to be modified when there is no reasoning for ignoring the interest as well as penalty part to the claimants/appellants?

3. Whether the appellants are entitled to get the interest on the compensation amount as awarded by the learned Commissioner below?

Substantial questions of law Nos. 1 to 3.

4. The learned counsel appearing on either side do not contest the findings recorded by the learned Commissioner qua the predecessor-in-interest of the claimants/appellants herein suffering fatal injuries during the course of his performing employment as an electrician under his employer. However, the only address made herebefore by the counsel for the appellants for assailing the impugned order stands harboured upon the factum of it omitting to in detraction of the mandate enshrined in Section 4-1 (3) (a) of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, wherewithin an obligation stands cast upon the Commissioner to on the compensation amount determined under Act, his levying interest thereon at the rate of 12% per annum, levy of interest in the aforesaid percentum on the compensation amount determined under the Act stands mandated in judicial verdicts to commence from one month elapsing since the fatal accident, whereas, in the impugned order the Commissioner omitting to levy on the compensation amount assessed qua the claimants interest thereon in the manner aforesaid, whereupon he contends qua the order impugned hereat standing modified.

5. The aforesaid submission addressed before this Court holds absolute concurrence with the relevant mandate encapsulated in the Act besides is in tandem with judicial verdicts. Consequently, it is accepted. Since apparently the impugned order has not begotten compliance therewith it stands modified to the extent that the amount of compensation assessed therein qua the apepllants/claimants shall beget interest @12% per annum from one month elapsing since the fatal accident. The provisions of Section 4A of the Act read as under:-

> "4-A. Compensation to be paid when due and penalty for default.-
> (1) Compensation under section 4 shall be paid as soon as it falls due.
> (2) In cases where the employer does not accept the liability for compensation to the extent claimed, he shall be bound to make provisional payment based on the extent of liability which he accepts, and such payment shall be deposited with the Commissioner or made to the workman, as the case may be, without prejudice to the right of the workman to make any further claim.
> (3)Where any employer is in default in paying the compensation due under this Act within one month from the date of it fell due, the Commissioner shall-
> (a) direct that the employer shall, in addition to the amount of the arrears, pay simple interest thereon at the rate of twelve per cent per annum or at such higher rate not exceeding the maximum of the lending rates of any scheduled bank as may be specified by the Central Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, on the amount due; and
> (b) if, in his opinion, there is no justification for the delay, direct that the employer shall, in addition to the amount of the arrears and interest thereon, pay a further sum not exceeding fifty per cent. of such amount by way of penalty;"

6. Furthermore the mandate of Section 4-A (3) (b) of the Act which stands extracted hereinabove, stands espoused by the counsel for the appellant to stand infracted. Since an obligation stands cast therein upon the employer to in immediate sequel to the ill-fated occurrence make provisional payment of compensation, inconsonance wherewith the counsel for the respondent contends of with a sum of Rs.25,000/- standing deposited before the learned Commissioner hence compliance with the relevant mandate of the Act standing begotten. However, the aforesaid submission is unacceptable as a meager amount of Rs.25,000/- cannot be construed to be proportionate to the liability of the respondent herein towards compensation qua the dependents of the workman, significantly, when during the course of his performing employment under the respondent, he suffered his end. However, since ultimately an amount of Rs.3,38,880 stands assessed as compensation qua the appellant herein, the imposition of penalty upon the respondent herein for its omitting to beget compliance with the relevant mandate of the Act in a sum equivalent to the amount of compensation assessed under the impugned award would be improper. Consequently, statutory penalty in a sum of Rs. 40,000/- (Rs. Forty thousand only) stands imposed upon the respondent herein. Accordingly, all the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the appellants and against the respondent.

7. For the reasons recorded hereinabove, the instant appeal is allowed and the award impugned before this Court is modified to the extent that the compensation amount Rs.3,38,880/- as assessed by the learned Commission qua the appellants/claimants shall carry interest at the rate of 12% per annum from one month elapsing since the fatal accident which occurred on 6.8.2005. The respondent herein is also directed to pay statutory penalty quantified in a sum of Rs.40,000/- (Rs. Forty thousand) to the claimants/appellant herein for its omitting to comply with the mandate of Section 4-A of the Act. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

11. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionists and Court also perused entire record carefuly.

12. Following points arise for determination in civil revision petition:-

Point No.1 Whether revision petition filed under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of civil revision petition?

Point No.2 Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that as per Order 1 Rules 3 and 5 of CPC revisionist should be impleaded as co-defendant in civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Chande Ram and others is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused relief clause of present civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Chande Ram and others. Jiwa Nand plaintiff did not seek any relief against revisionist in present civil suit. In present civil suit filed by Jiwa Nand sale agreement dated 20.7.2010 executed between revisionist and deceased Ram Chand is not under dispute. Revisionist Chander Sen has also already filed civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand for specific performance of agreement dated 20.7.2010 executed between Chander Sen and deceased Ram Chand which is pending for disposal before Hon'ble H.P. High Court.

14. It is well settled law that plaintiff is dominus litis of his suit. It is well settled law that plaintiff has legal right to choose his own adversary against whom he seeks relief. It is well settled law that when there are no allegations against person who sought to be impleaded as co-party in civil suit or when there is no cause of action against the person who sought to be impleaded as co-defendant in the suit then application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC should not be allowed. It is well settled law that any decree or order passed by Court did not affect any person who is not party in judicial proceedings except in cases of decree in rem. See AIR 1993 Allahabad 8 Mohd. Farooq vs. District Judge Allahabad and others.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that deceased Ram Chand has executed sale of agreement dated 20.7.2010 with revisionist qua suit land and on the basis of agreement of sale revisionist is necessary party in civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Chande Ram and others as per Order 1 Rule 10 (2) CPC is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that as per Section 54 of Transfer of Property Act 1882 a contract for sale of immovable land itself does not create any interest or charge upon immovable land. It is well settled law that contract for sale creates rights in personam and did not create rights in estate. See AIR 1981 Delhi 291 Jiwan Dass Rawal vs. Narain Dass. See AIR 1987 Delhi 36 Imtiaz Ali vs. Nasim Ahmed. See AIR 1981 Calcutta 404 Amulya Gopal Majumdar vs. United Industrial Bank Limited. See AIR 1995 Allahabad 316 Indira Fruits and General Market vs. Bijendra Kumar Gupta.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that possession of suit property was given to revisionist by deceased Ram Chand father of Jiwa Nand plaintiff vide agreement for sale dated 20.7.2010 and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand and others is pending before Hon'ble High Court on the basis of agreement of sale dated 20.7.2010. In civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand pending before Hon'ble H.P. High Court Shri Jiwa Nand plaintiff son of deceased Ram Chand is already impleaded as co-party. It is held that proper relief in accordance with law will be granted to revisionist Shri Chander Sen by Hon'ble H.P. High Court in civil suit title Shri Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand and others.

17. It is well settled law that while exercising revisional powers under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 High Court can interfere only when order of learned Trial Court is perverse. See AIR 1991 SC 455 Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 Indore Municipality vs. K.N. Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 P.Udayani Devi vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao and another. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 Gurdial Singh vs. Raj Kumar Anjela. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra it is held that order of learned Trial Court is not perverse and it is also held that order of learned Trial Court is also not illegal. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Relief)

18. In view of findings upon point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Order passed by learned Trial Court dated 27.8.2014 passed upon application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC is affirmed. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court On 30.11.2016. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Record of learned Trial Court be sent back forthwith along with certified copy of order. Revision petition is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also disposed of.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present civil revision petition is filed under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 against order dated 27.8.2014 passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Manali whereby application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC by revisionist is dismissed.

Brief facts of the case

2. Shri Jiwa Nand plaintiff filed civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Dile Ram and others before learned Civil Judge for declaration to the effect that plaintiff is in possession of suit land under agreement of sale dated 7.11.2003 executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of plaintiff and defendant No. 2 for sale consideration amount of Rs. 471200/- (Rupees four lacs seventy one thousand two hundred). Additional relief of declaration also sought to the effect that judgment and decree passed in civil suit No. 3 of 2004 by learned Civil Judge Manali dated 25.2.2004 is illegal, void, inoperative and same was procured by defendants Nos. 1 to 3 on false facts by way of playing fraud upon Court and plaintiff is not bound by same. Additional declaration also sought to the effect that mutation No. 3304 dated 31.3.2004 is also illegal, void, inoperative. Additional relief of specific performane of contract dated 7.11.2003 in favour of plaintiff and co-defendant No. 9 also sought. Additional consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction also sought. 11. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionists and Court also perused entire record carefuly.

12. Following points arise for determination in civil revision petition:-

Point No.1 Whether revision petition filed under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of civil revision petition?

Point No.2 Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that as per Order 1 Rules 3 and 5 of CPC revisionist should be impleaded as co-defendant in present civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Dile Ram and others is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused relief clause of present civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Dile Ram and others. Jiwa Nand plaintiff did not seek any relief against revisionist in present civil suit. Sale agreement dated 20.7.2010 is not disputed in present civil suit. Revisionist has also already filed civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand which is pending in Hon'ble High Court of H.P. for specific performance of contract dated 20.7.2010 executed by deceased Ram Chand in favour of Chander Sen.

14. It is well settled law that plaintiff is dominus litis of his suit. It is well settled law that plaintiff has legal right to choose his own adversary against whom he seeks relief. It is well settled law that when there are no allegations against person who sought to be impleaded as co-party in civil suit then application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC should not be allowed. It is also well settled law that when there is no cause of action against person who sought to be impleaded as co-party in civil suit then application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC should not be allowed. It is well settled law that any decree or order passed by Court did not affect person who is not a party in suit or civil proceedingts except in cases of decree in rem. See AIR 1993 Allahabad 8 title Mohd. Farooq v. Disrict Judge Allahabad and others.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that deceased Ram Chand has executed sale of agreement dated 20.7.2010 with revisionist qua suit land and on the basis of agreement of sale revisionist is necessary party in civil suit title Jiwa Nand vs. Dile Ram and others under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that as per Section 54 of Transfer of Property Act 1882 a contract for sale of immovable land does not create any interest or charge upon immovable property. It is well settled law that contract for sale creates rights in personam and did not create rights in estate. See AIR 1981 Delhi 291 Jiwan Dass Rawal vs. Narain Dass. See AIR 1987 Delhi 36 Imtiaz Ali vs. Nasim Ahmed. See AIR 1981 Calcutta 404 Amulya Gopal Majumdar vs. United Industrial Bank Limited. See AIR 1995 Allahabad 316 Indira Fruits and General Market vs. Bijendra Kumar Gupta.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that possession of suit property was given to revisionist by deceased Ram Chand father of Jiwa Nand plaintiff vide agreement of sale dated 20.7.2010 and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand and others is pending before Hon'ble High Court on the basis of agreement of sale dated 20.7.2010. In civil suit title Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand pending before Hon'ble H.P. High Court Shri Jiwa Nand plaintiff son of deceased Ram Chand is also impleaded as co-party. It is held that proper relief in accordance with law will be granted to revisionist Shri Chander Sen by Hon'ble H.P. High Court in civil suit title Shri Chander Sen vs. Jiwa Nand and others.

17. It is well settled law that while exercising revisional powers under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 High Court can interfere only when order of learned Trial Court is perverse. See AIR 1991 SC 455 Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 Indore Municipality vs. K.N. Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 P.Udayani Devi vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao and another. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 Gurdial Singh vs. Raj Kumar Anjela. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra it is held that order of learned Trial Court is not perverse and it is also held that order of learned Trial Court is also not illegal. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Relief)

18. In view of findings upon point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Order passed by learned Trial Court dated 27.8.2014 passed upon application filed under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC is affirmed. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court On 30.11.2016. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Record of learned Trial Court be sent back forthwith along with certified copy of order. Revision petition is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also disposed of.

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. Dhananjay Sharma, Advocate vice to Mr. Naveen Pathania, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.3, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, H.P. rendered on 21.07.2008 in Police Challan No. 72-II-04, RBT No.437-II-4, whereby, he acquitted the accused/respondent herein for his allegedly committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 506 of the IPC read with Sections 181, 184 and 196 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that complainant Ram Narain, Sub Inspector, Enforcement, South Zone, Shimla, made a report at Police Station, Hamirpur, that he had accompanied Dy. S.P. Satish Kumar to Hamirpur. On 20.03.2004, at about 9.15 p.m., he alongwith Rafiq Mohammad and Harnam Singh were going towards rest house through the road that is lying in front of the rest house. A well built person came driving scoooter No. HP-22-2952 in a rash and negligent manner and drove it upon him from the wrong side. He at once took a jump and saved himself. When scooter driver was called to stop, he started abusing them and threatened them to his high contacts. One Banarsi Dass Malhotra, who tried to intervene, was also abused. He was threatened by the scooter driver. On the basis of the aforesaid facts, an FIR was registered in the police station concerned. The police started the investigations in the case and completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 506 of the IPC read with Sections 181, 184 and 196 of the Motor Vehicles Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The victim/complainant is alleged to be struck by a scooter bearing No. HP-22-2952 on account of it at the relevant time standing driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused herein. The prosecution would succeed in establishing the charge to which the accused/respondent herein stood subjected to trial only when the prosecution witnesses consistently depose qua the material factum of the accused/respondent herein at the relevant time negligently driving it also the prosecution by cogent evidence forthrightly unveiling the identity of the accused. The complainant in his testimony has communicated therein qua the scooter at the relevant time being driven on the inappropriate side of the road whereupon it almost struck him, whereas, his by jumping aside overting its striking him, whereas, PW-1, an independent witness to the occurrence has contradictorily deposed of the scooter at the relevant time occupying the appropriate side of the road. Be that as it may, even though occurrence of the aforesaid minimal contradiction intra se the testimony of the victim vis-a-vis the testimony of an independent witness to the occurrence, who testified as PW-1 would obviously not per se render rudderless the propagation of the prosecution. However, the crucial factum of PW-1 and PW-4 conjointly feigning ignorance qua the identity of the accused besides qua the apposite number borne on the number plate of the scooter whereas evidently with both at the relevant time walking along with the complainant hence held the capacity to disclose in their respective testifications the apposite number borne on the number plate of the scooter also to unanimously depose qua the identity of the accused, whereas, theirs omitting to do so cannot with aplomb lend any impetus to any formidable conclusion of the scooter bearing No. HP-22-2952 at the relevant time standing driven by the accused at the relevant site of occurrence nor it can be convincingly concluded qua the accused at the relevant time driving it wherefrom it is inapt to conclude qua the charge for which the accused/respondent stood tried warranting any inference qua it standing cogently proven.

10. Be that as it may, despite the occurrence taking place at a distance of 15 meters from the police station concerned, whereas, the Investigating Officer visiting the relevant site of occurrence a day subsequent to its taking place, in sequel, the omission of the Investigating Officer to in prompt sequel to the occurrence visit the relevant spot constrains an inference of the spot map prepared by him being a sequel to a machination of engineering and invention deployed by the Investigating Officer whereupon no reliance is imputable.

11. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

12. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court in favour of the accused/respondent herein is affirmed and maintained. Records be sent back forthwith.

Date of Decision: 10th November, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 338- Accused was driving Swaraj Majda – he hit his vehicle against the bus due to which occupants of the bus sustained injuries- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial court- held in appeal that the prosecution witnesses deposed that the Swaraj Majda was heavily loaded and was being driven at a slow speed- it was moving upward- the Bus on the other hand was being driven with the high speed and on the inappropriate side of the road- the prosecution version was not proved, in these circumstances – appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. R.L. Chaudhary, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Judicial Magistrate, Court No.4, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. rendered on 18.06.2008 in Police Challan No. 263/1/04/03 or 263/II/04/03, whereby, he acquitted the accused/respondent herein for his allegedly committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the IPC.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 13.02.2003 at about 11.45 a.m., at place Hanogi Bridge, accused was driving Swaraj Mazda bearing registration No. HP-33A-535 and was coming from the side of Pandoh and a bus bearing registration HP-37-2559 was going towards Kullu and since the accused was driving the Swaraz Mazda in a rash and negligent manner, so he dashed the vehicle against the bus due to which the occupants of the bus sustained injuries. On the aforesaid facts, FIR was registered in the police station concerned. The police started the investigations in the case and completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 19 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. A collision occurred inter se a swaraz mazda driven at the relevant time by the accused/respondent and a bus driven at the relevant time by PW-10. In sequel, to the collision which occurred inter se a swaraz mazda and a bus , the driver of the bus begot on his person injuries reflected in Ex.PW9/A whereas other occupants of the bus also sustained injuries on their respective persons. The prosecution version stood consistently testified by the prosecution witnesses. Unfoldments occur in the deposition of PW-13 qua at the relevant time a fully loaded swaraz mazda occupying the correct side of the road. Both PW-2 and PW-3 consistently depose qua at the relevant time the relevant vehicle driven by the accused moving upwards. Also they in their respective testifications make articulations therein qua its being heavily loaded besides it standing driven at a slow speed. Contrarily, they depose qua the bus driven at the relevant time by PW-10 whereon they were occupants standing driven at a high speed. The depositions of the aforesaid prosecution witnesses make vivid unfoldments qua (a) the swaraz mazda truck driven at the relevant time by the accused/respondent moving upward; (b) it being heavily loaded; (c) it standing driven at a slow speed and (d) its occupying the correct side of the road. Moreover, the depositions of the aforesaid witnesses underscore the factum of obviously the vehicle driven at the relevant time by PW-10 occupying the inappropriate side of the road also its at the relevant time standing driven at a brazen pace by PW-10. The effect of the aforesaid testifications of the prosecution witnesses qua the relevant bus driven at the relevant time by PW-10 occupying the inappropriate side of the road and its being driven at a brazen pace when read in coagulation with the evident testified fact qua the relevant vehicle driven by the accused occupying the correct side of the road also with its at the relevant time standing driven by the accused at a slow speed imperatively warrants an inference of PW-10 being negligent in driving his bus. Consequently, any imputation of penal negligence to the accused/respondent herein is unwarranted.

10. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

11. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court in favour of the accused/respondent herein is affirmed and maintained. Records be sent back forthwith.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.
Versus
Ravinder Kumar ....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 647 of 2008.
Date of Decision: 10th November, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 338- Accused was driving a Trolla, which crushed the right foot of the informant – the accident had taken place due to the negligence of the accused- the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed – held, that as per the prosecution case the informant was hit from the rear – she should have sustained injuries on the back but no injury was found on her back – the defence version that the informant was in the process of alighting from the stair case is made probable by the testimony of PW-1 – the prosecution version was not proved, in these circumstances and Sessions Judge had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed. (Para- 9 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Sheetal Vayas, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The accused/respondent herein stood convicted by the learned trial for his committing offences punishable under Section 279, 337 and 338 of the IPC. On his standing aggrieved by the verdict by the learned trial Court, he carried an appeal therefrom before the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P. whereby the latter reversed the findings of conviction recorded upon the accused/respondent by the learned trial Court. The State of H.P. stands aggrieved by the verdict of the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur whereupon it by preferring an appeal herebefore concerts to beget its reversal.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 9.9.2004, the complainant had gone to Mehre Bazar. After purchasing some articles, she was proceeding towards the bus-stand at Mehre on her own side at about 4.40 p.m., and while, she was in front of Punam General Store, a jeep trolla came from behind in a rash and negligent manner and crushed her right foot. She made a cry and the trolla was stopped by the driver. Its number was HP-21-0545. The trolla driver disclosed his name as Ravinder Kumar. It is stated that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of Ravinder Kumar. On the aforesaid facts, FIR was registered in the police station concerned and thereafter the police completed all the formalities relating to the investigations.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 12 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, the accused examined two witnesses in his defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the accused/respondent herein. In an appeal preferred by the accused/respondent before the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, the latter set aside the conviction and consequent sentences recorded by the learned trial Court against the accused/convict for his committing the offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the IPC.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Hampur, H.P.. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The victim/injured PW-7 sustained injuries as pronounced in Ex.PW10/A. The injuries borne thereon make a vivid portrayal qua hers suffering injuries on the right toe of her foot. However, the version propagated by the prosecution in the relevant FIR comprised in Ex.PW9/A is qua the accused/respondent while rashly and negligently driving his vehicle his striking the complainant from the rear. Though, the victim/injured has deposed in tandem with her previous statement comprised in Ex.PW7/A also though the site plan purveys succor to her testification, however, the factum of hers suffering an injury on the right toe of her foot on hers standing struck from the rear by the relevant vehicle allegedly rashly and negligently driven by the accused is per se, a sheered blatant concoction arising from the factum of thereupon the victim/injured would not stand entailed with injuries on the right toe of her foot, it facing a direction opposite to the one whereat she stood struck. Contrarily, she standing struck from the rear warranted infliction of injuries on her back besides in sequel thereto she imperatively was to suffer a fall with her face falling on the road, whereon also injuries were enjoined to occur. However, reflections occurring in the apposite MLC comprised in Ex.PW10/A do not bear out the propagation of the prosecution qua hers standing struck from the rear, conspicuously, when thereupon as aforestated she was to suffer injuries on her back besides on her face, whereas, with Ex.PW10/A omitting to pronounce the aforesaid factum, in sequel, the vigour of the prosecution case loses its creditworthiness besides its tenacity.

10. Be that as it may, one of the prosecution witnesses, namely, PW-1 Meenakashi Devi has conceded to the suggestion put to her by the learned defence counsel while holding her for cross-examination qua one foot of the victim occupying the road whereas the other foot occupying the stair case of a shoe shop whereupon credence is acquired by the espousal of the defence of the victim being in the process of alighting from the stair case of a shoe shop, whereas, hers omitting to take due care and caution qua arrival thereat of the relevant vehicle, she yet alighting from the stair case of a shoe shop whereupon her foot stood crushed under the tyres of the vehicle driven by the accused/respondent, also the efficacy of the aforesaid inference gets enhanced significantly when the aforesaid revelations stand unborne in the relevant testifications of the prosecution witnesses whereupon a sequel is derivable qua their testimonies not warranting imputation of credence thereto also therefrom it is to be concluded qua the factum/injured abruptly arriving at the relevant site, whereupon, the accused/respondent hence stood precluded to sight her whereupon hence any purported negligence imputed to him cannot hold any element of penal inculpability.

11. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Sessions Judge has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Sessions Judge does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

12. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in favour of the accused/respondent herein is affirmed and maintained. Records be sent back forthwith.

State of Himachal Pradesh .....Appellant

Versus

Vijay Kumar ...Respondent

Decided on: 10th November, 2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 363, 376, 342 and 506- Accused kidnapped the minor prosecutrix from the lawful guardianship of her parents and she was taken to a hotel, where she was subjected to sexual intercourse- she was threatened by the accused- the accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held in appeal that the prosecutrix was 18 years and 8 months old at the time of making the application – the school certificate is not admissible because no evidence was led to prove the source on the basis of which the date of the birth of the prosecutrix was recorded – the entries in the parivar register are not primary evidence regarding the birth of the person- it was admitted that there were over writing and cutting in the birth register, which makes it difficult to rely upon the entries in the same – the person at whose instance the entries were recorded was not produced in evidence – the radiological age of the prosecutrix was 15½ to 17 years which could be 3-4 years more or less on either side – the prosecutrix admitted that she used to talk with the accused for 15 minutes to 1 hour, this shows that prosecutrix and accused were acquainted with the each other – she was taken from Solan to Deonghat in a broad day light – she had not raised any hue and cry, which shows that she was a consenting party – on other occasion also she had not raised hue and cry, although the incident had taken place in thickly populated area- prosecution case was not proved beyond reasonable doubt and the accused was rightly acquitted- appeal dismissed. For the appellant: Mr. M.A. Khan and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs.
For the respondent: Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

State of Himachal Pradesh aggrieved by the judgment dated 17.07.2012, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Solan in Session Trial No. 28FTC/7 of 2010, is in appeal before this Court. It is seen that learned trial Judge has acquitted the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the accused) of the charge under Sections 363, 376, 342 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. The allegations against the accused in a nut-shell are that on 2.6.2010 and 13.7.2010, in the morning hours, he kidnapped the prosecutrix, a minor from the lawful guardianship of her parents and she was taken to hotel 50 miles stone near Deonghat, where she was subjected to forcible sexual intercourse in Room No. 102 and thereby he has committed an offence punishable under Section 363 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code. As per further allegations against the accused, on 2.6.2010, the prosecutrix was wrongfully detained in Room No. 102 of hotel 50 miles stone after 12.00 noon for about 2-3 hours and also threatened to do away with her life by throwing 'Tezab' if she disclosed the factum of her kidnapping by him and subjecting her to sexual intercourse in the room of hotel to anyone and thereby committed an offence punishable under Section 342 read with Section 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

3. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds inter-alia that despite of the direction evidence as has come on record by way of own testimony of the prosecutrix and her father PW-16 as well as by way of testimony of PW-6 Jagdeep Singh, the owner of hotel 50 miles stone near Panch Parmeshwar Temple, Solan, the same has not been appreciated in its right perspective and the trial Court has proceeded to record findings of acquittal mechanically and without application of mind. The testimony of PW-16 that while going to his residence in police line Solan from market, he got attracted to the place of occurrence on hearing cries of people gathered there and school girls present and noticed that the accused had caught hold hand of his daughter the prosecutrix and that on seeing him the accused had fled away from the spot is also not appreciated in its right perspective and to the contrary, the accused has been acquitted of the charge on presumptions and assumptions.

4. The grouse of the appellant-State, therefore, in a nut-shell is that learned trial Court has erroneously ignored and brushed aside the cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution. In order to show the involvement of the accused in the commission of the offence and that he has been acquitted erroneously without application of mind, the findings recorded by learned trial Court are stated to be perverse and as such, the impugned judgment is not legally sustainable.

5. The nature of the offence, the accused allegedly committed is not only heinous but also grievous in nature because as per the allegations, he has not only removed the prosecutrix, a minor from her lawful guardianship, but also subjected her to sexual intercourse against her will and without her consent. It is, however, yet to be determined by us that occurrence has taken place in the manner as claimed by the prosecution or not and also that the prosecution has been able to establish its case that the prosecutrix at the relevant time was a minor and kidnapped as well as subjected to sexual intercourse forcibly.

6. Before coming to the factual matrix and also re-appraisal of the evidence available on record, it is desirable to take note as to under what circumstances it can be inferred that the prosecutrix, a minor has been kidnapped from the lawful guardianship of her parents and under what circumstances she can be said to have been subjected to forcible sexual intercourse. A bare perusal of Section 361 IPC reveals that if a female under 18 years of age is enticed away by a person from her lawful guardianship without the consent of her guardian, such person can be said to have committed the offence of kidnapping. The essential ingredients to constitute an offence of kidnapping, therefore, is enticing away a minor form her lawful guardianship without the consent of her guardian or any other person legally authorized to consent on behalf of such guardian of minor. Such person can be said to have committed an offence of kidnapping punishable under Section 363 of the Indian Penal Code.

7. Now if coming to the commission of offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code in a case of minor, the commission of such an offence can be inferred once it is established that the prosecutrix has been subjected to sexual intercourse and it is not required to prove that she was not a consenting party to such an act on the part of the accused. However, in a case where the prosecutrix is not minor, the prosecution is required to plead and prove beyond all reasonable doubt that such cardinal intercourse with her was against her will and without her consent.

8. Now if coming to the legal principles attracted in a case of this nature, in State of Punjab Vs. Gurmeet Singh and others, AIR 1996 SC 1393, the Apex Court has held that the own statement of the prosecutrix if inspires confidence is sufficient to bring the guilt home to the accused. The apex Court in order to ensure that an innocent person is not implicated in the commission of an offence of this nature, while taking note of the judgment in Gurmeet Singh's case supra has however diluted the ratio thereof in Ranjit Hazarika Vs. State of Assam, (1998) 8 SCC 635 and held that the statement of prosecutrix cannot be universally and mechanically applied to the facts of every case of sexual assault, as in its opinion, in such cases, the possibility of false implication can't also be ruled-out. Similar was the view of the matter taken again by the apex Court in Vimal Suresh Kamble Vs. Chaluverapinake Apal S.P. and another, (2003) 3 SCC 175. While placing reliance on this judgment and the law laid down by the Apex Court in the judgment supra, this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 481 of 2009 titled State of Himachal Pradesh V. Negi Ram, decided on 27th May, 2016 has held as under:

> "15. Therefore, the legal position as discussed supra makes it crystal clear that irrespective of an offence of this nature not only grievous but heinous also, the Court should not got swayed merely by passion and influence only on account of the offence has been committed against a woman and rather keep in mind the cardinal principle of criminal administration of justice, that an offender has to be believed to be innocent unless and until held guilty by the Court after satisfying its judicial conscience on the basis of given facts and circumstances of each case as well as proper appreciation of the evidence available on record."

9. It is also worth mentioning that in a case of this nature, it is the age aspect of the prosecutrix which assumes significance.

10. Now if coming to the factual matrix, the prosecutrix being born on 10.11.1992 was approximately 18 years and eight months old on 26.07.2010, when she made the application Ext. PW-5/A to the Station House Officer, Sadar, District Solan for registration of a case against the accused. Even if the date of occurrence is taken as 2.6.2010, in that event also, she was approximately 17 years seven months old at that time. In order to prove her age below 18 years school certificate Ext. PW-16/A, date of birth certificate Ext. PW-22/A and the extracts of parivar register Ext. PW-10/B has been produced in evidence. The school certificate Ext. PW-16/A has been produced in evidence by her father PW-16 Narender Pal Singh. The same in the present form is not legally admissible because no evidence has come on record as to what was the source on the basis of which the date of birth of the prosecutrix has been recorded as 10.11.1992 in this document. The entries in the parivar register being not primary evidence qua the birth of a person are also not legally admissible in evidence nor on the basis thereof, it can be said that such person was born on the date mentioned therein. Now if Ext. PW-16/A and Ext. PW-10/A are excluded from the evidence, there remains only Ext. PW-22/A, the date of birth certificate issued by the Registrar, Births and Deaths, Gram Panchayat, Maan, Tehsil Arki, District Solan, H.P. PW-22, who has proved this document is Ravinder Kumar, Registrar, Births and Deaths, Gram Panchayat, Maan, Tehsil Arki, District Solan. True it is that he had brought the birth register and while in the witness box has deposed that the birth certificate Ext. PW-22/A has been issued by him on the basis of entries in the said register, however, in his cross-examination he has admitted over writing and cutting in column No. 5 of the register and that the entries at

Serial No. 46 in the said register are in different ink. He has also admitted over writing and cutting in the entries made at Serial No. 47, 48 and 49 of the register. He has also admitted rubbing of entries at Serial No. 46 in the register. The abstract of register was obtained by the police during the course of investigation and as such this witness while in the witness box has proved the abstract of register, which is Ext. D-1. Overwriting and cutting in the entries against Serial No. 46 of the register qua the birth of prosecutrix renders the prosecution case that she has been born on 10.11.1992 as highly doubtful. The extract of register, Ext. D-1 makes it crystal clear that there is overwriting against entries at Serial No. 46. Otherwise also, it is Yasoda Devi, the grand mother of the prosecutrix at whose instance as per version of PW-22, the entries qua birth of the prosecutrix were entered in the birth register, was a material witness who could have told us that the prosecutrix was born on 10.11.1992 and that she had disclosed her correct date of birth to the Registrar, Births and Deaths, Gram Panchayat, Maan. As per version of PW-22, said Smt. Yasoda Devi is known to him and that she is alive. She, however, has neither been associated nor cited as a witness to the reasons best known to the prosecution. On the other hand, if coming to the opinion of Radiologist encircled red at point 'B' on the reverse of the MLC Ext. PW-24/A, the radiological age of the prosecutrix at the relevant time was 15½ to 17 years. The margin of two years, though as per the testimony of PW-24 Dr. Tanzin Chhokit the same may 3-4 years on either side, if taken into consideration, the age of the prosecutrix at that time was more than 18 years. Otherwise also, the age of the prosecutrix if taken above 17½ years, she had already attained the age of discretion. In the given facts and circumstances to be discussed hereinafter, therefore, it cannot be said that she was below 18 years of age and removed from her lawful guardianship by the accused without the consent of her parents. Being so, it cannot be said that the prosecutrix was minor below 18 years on the date of occurrence.

11. Before coming to the merits of the case, it is desirable to take note of the own admission of accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. His answers to question No. 2 to 8 reveal that he has admitted the prosecutrix a student of Government Girls Senior Secondary School, Solan and that he is owner of Balero bearing registration No. HP-11-3765 (used in the commission of offence). He has also admitted that the students of Badhalag were taken to Chandigarh, Kurukshetra and Renuka side for picnic and his vehicle was also hired for the purpose. It is he who had driven the vehicle during the period the students were taken for picnic. Though it is denied that he had obtained the cellphone number of the prosecutrix, however, according to him it is she who herself had asked for number of his cellphone. He also admits that he started calling the prosecutrix over her cellphone from his cellphone number 98054-38872. The prosecutrix also admitted in her cross-examination that she used to talk with accused continuously for 15 minutes to one hour at a time. She also used to call him from her cellphone. The explanation that she had been doing this due to fear is neither plausible nor reasonable. The accused also admits that he was subjected to medical examination vide MLC Ext. PW-1/B and that his vehicle HP-11-3765 was taken in possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-7/A. It is thus seen that the accused and prosecutrix were well acquainted with each other. They used to talk with each other because as per prosecution case also, if believed to be true the accused had taken the number of cellphone of the prosecutrix. The controversy, therefore, lies in a narrow compass because it is to be seen from the evidence available on record that the prosecutrix a minor below 18 years was kidnapped by the accused from her lawful guardianship and subjected her to sexual intercourse.

12. On 2.6.2010, in the morning on her way to school from her quarter in Police Line, Solan at 11.30 a.m the accused was sitting in his Bolero and met her on bye pass near police line, Solan. He offered lift to her at the pretext that he will drop her near school, however, when they reached near Saproon bye pass, instead of taking turn towards Saproon chowk, he drove the vehicle towards Deonghat side. She tried to get the vehicle stopped but accused did not agree, therefore, she had altercation with him, but of no avail. She was taken to hotel at Deonghat and subsequently to a room in the said hotel. There he committed rape with her forcibly and also man handled her. He threatened her to throw acid on her body in case she disclosed the incident to anyone else. He removed her clothes including salwar and subjected her to sexual intercourse forcibly.

13. It cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that the prosecutrix had reasons to withheld the occurrence from her parents because the explanation that she was threatened not to disclose the incident to anyone, failing which, the accused will throw acid on her, is neither plausible nor reasonable. This Court has also failed to understand as to how the prosecutrix could have forcibly taken away by the accused, that too, from Solan town. As per her own admission in the cross-examination, the locality from police line Solan onward is thickly populated up to Deonghat. The hotel at Deonghat is touching the road. A 'Dhaba' also exist on roadside near the hotel. Room No. 102, where she was allegedly subjected to sexual intercourse situate below the restaurant/dhaba. She has not denied that in the restaurant no person was taking meal, however, expressed her ignorance as to how many persons were taking meal there. She was taken to the hotel in a broad day light i.e. 12.00 noon. As per her version, they both went walking through stairs up to the room. She also admitted that on the gate of police line at Solan, there are shops of a single owner. In view of such evidence as has come on record by way of her own testimony, even if it is believed that she was taken to hotel and subjected to sexual intercourse, it cannot be said that such an act on the part of the accused was forcible and contrary to her consent and against her will because had it been so, she could have raised hue and cry as it was not possible for the accused to have prevented her from doing so and also driving the vehicle simultaneously, that too, in Solan town and on Solan bye pass road, which as a matter of fact, is national highway and a very busy road. Being so, it would not be improper to conclude that she had voluntarily accompanied the accused and whatever happened on that day, she was a consenting party thereto. The prosecutrix for the purpose of commission of an offence under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code was not minor below 16 years of age and rather more than 17½ years of age on that day. At the relevant time a female below 16 years of age used to be minor so far as the commission of an offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code is concerned.

14. Now if coming to the incident of 13.07.2010 that she was taken by the accused in the same vehicle to the same hotel. He allegedly tried to subject her to sexual intercourse forcibly inside the vehicle, however, he did not succeed in his attempt to do so and he administered beatings to her inside the vehicle. Her testimony in cross-examination that they could not reach in the hotel on that day as a result thereof, the accused parked the vehicle at an isolated place on the national highway where he tried to subject her to sexual intercourse cannot also be believed to be true for the reason that it was not possible for the accused to have assaulted her sexually on road side, had she been not a consenting party for the reason that on national highway there always remain flow of traffic and she being a young lady, the accused would have not made an attempt to assault her sexually on road side in the vehicle. How the accused could have driven the vehicle at a high speed and fighting with the prosecutrix also simultaneously. He could have also not prevented her from breaking glasses of the moving vehicle and driving the vehicle also simultaneously. This part of her statement in cross-examination also seems to be merely an afterthought. The incident of 13.7.2010 is also not disclosed by her to her parents as according to her she was threatened by the accused.

15. Now if coming to the incident of 26.7.2010, the accused caught hold her hand near ITI Solan at such a time when she was coming back from her school. On raising hue and cry other persons gathered there. As per prosecution case, even school girls were also present there. Had it been so, it is not known as to why no-one from the locality or other persons gathered there or the school girl(s) were not associated by the police during the course of investigation and cited as witnesses to prove this aspect of the matter beyond all reasonable doubt. In the given facts and circumstances and taking into consideration the own conduct of the prosecutrix, it is not safe to place reliance on her own testimony and that of her father PW-16. Had the occurrence of 26.07.2010 been taken place in the manner as claimed by the prosecution, the local people or anyone else gathered at the alleged place of occurrence would have voluntarily come forward to assist the police in the investigation of the case in order to bring guilt home to the accused and to ensure that he is convicted. The possibility of the prosecutrix having voluntarily accompanying the accused on that day and when seen by her father PW-16, a false case was engineered and fabricated at the instance of her father to implicate the accused in this case, cannot be ruled-out.

16. It is significant to note that as per the complaint Ext. D-1, PW-16, the father of prosecutrix had mercilessly beaten up the accused. The allegations in the complaint also find support from the testimony of Dr. Lalit Mahajan who on being taken to the hospital by the police had examined the accused on the next day i.e. 27.7.2010 and issued MLC Ext. PW-1/B. PW-1 has noticed multiple reddish abrasion on upper half of back, swelling and bluish sicolouration below both eyes in infraorbital region and swelling on nasal bridge. PW-1 has also stated that injuries mentioned in the MLC can be caused by way of beatings. In his cross-examination conducted on behalf of learned defence counsel, he has stated that the injuries as disclosed in the MLC were recent. Therefore, the possibility of the accused having been beaten up by none-else but by the father of the prosecutrix, cannot be ruled-out. Nothing has come on record as to that any inquiry was made on the application, Ext. D-1 submitted by the mother of the accused to the police. We, therefore, find the present a case where the prosecutrix was in the company of the accused on 26.7.2010 and the case was registered at the instance of her father PW-16, who was working in Police Department as Head Constable at Solan at the relevant time. PW-16 even had administered beatings also to the accused may be on account of that they both were seen in the company of each other. The evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of prosecutrix and that of her father is, therefore, not suggestive of that the prosecutrix was kidnapped from her lawful guardianship by the accused and that she was subjected to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will in Room No. 102 of Hotel 50 Mile Stone.

17. The statement of PW-6, the owner of Hotel 50 Mile Stone has also been pressed in service. He while in the witness box has stated that the accused and prosecutrix were identified by him in the Court to be the same persons who had come to his hotel on 2.6.2010 in vehicle HP-11-3765 around 12.00 noon. The accused had introduced the prosecutrix as his wife. He further tells us that Room No. 102 was got booked by the accused and the entries Ext. PW-5/B were made by him in the register. He has identified the bed sheet, Ext. P-6, which according to him was lying spreaded on the double bed on 2.6.2010 and on 27.7.2010 also. Interestingly enough, his testimony in cross-examination reveals that the hotel situates on road side and there is 'Dhaba' of his brother where the services of Amar Deep have been engaged for prepration of meal. The accused and prosecutrix were not quarreling with each other, however, according to him gone to the room quietly. He did not over hear the cries or shouting from the room. He remained in the hotel during the night also. As per his version, the bed sheets and other clothes being used in the hotel are changed on each and every occasion after use of the room. The father of the prosecutrix was known to this witness. He tells us that those persons found to be quarreling with each other are not being allowed to stay in the hotel. The prosecutrix and the accused had gone for a walk in the evening, however, it is only the accused who had returned at 8.00 p.m. to the hotel and not the prosecutrix. Even if his testimony in his examination-in-chief is believed to be true and it is believed that the accused had taken the prosecutrix on 2.6.2010 to his hotel, it would not be improper to conclude that she had gone there voluntarily because as per version of this witness, the accused and prosecutrix were not quarreling with each other and rather went quietly to the room. Not only this but on the reception, the accused had introduced her being his wife to this witness. It is not known as to why the prosecutrix has not agitated against such conduct of the accused. Therefore, the evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of PW-6 Jagdeep Singh also does not support the prosecution case.

18. Now if coming the to the medical evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of PW-24 Dr. Tanzin Chhokit and the MLC Ext. PW-24/A, no doubt, at the time of medical examination of the prosecutrix, in her opinion, based upon local and physical examination of the prosecutrix, the possibility of sexual activity was not ruled-out, however, the duration of such activity could not be ascertained. The final opinion was left to be given after the receipt of the Chemical Examiner's report and the report of Radiologist. The report of chemical examiner was received from the FSL, no blood and semen was detected on public hair, external genitalia, vaginal swab and salwar of the prosecutrix. Human blood was detected in the sample of blood of the prosecutrix, shirt and bed sheet but the result was not conclusive in respect of blood groups. No semen could be detected on other exhibits sent for analysis. The blood was detected in traces on underwear, however, the same was insufficient for further examination. Semen was not detected on the exhibits examined. The medical examination report Ext. PW-25/F was produced before the Medical Officer, PW-24. She, however, has noticed only gist and the results and failed to give her final opinion as to whether the prosecutrix was subjected to sexual intercourse or not, nor said that her opinion remained the same even on perusal of the report of chemical examiner also. On the other hand, result of the examination of the exhibits sent to the laboratory for analysis is not suggestive of that the prosecutrix was subjected to sexual intercourse.

19. In view of the discussion made hereinabove, the offence punishable under Section 341 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code has not been made out for the reason that the prosecution has failed to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that the prosecutrix was kidnapped by the accused form her lawful guardianship without the consent of her parents and that she has been subjected to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will. Being so, there is no question of wrongful confinement of the prosecutrix in Room No. 102 of hotel 50 Miles Stone. It cannot also be believed that the prosecutrix was threatened with dire consequences including throwing of acid on her by the accused. Thyerefore, the charge under Section 341 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code as framed against the accused also fall to the ground.

20. There is no need to discuss the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW-7 Dharam Singh, PW-9 Naveen Kumar, Senior Assistant, office of Registering and Licensing Authority, Arki. The accused has not disputed the prosecution case qua his vehicle was taken into possession by the police along with its keys. PW-8 Vir Bhadra Tekta, Lecturer English, PW-18 Randhir Thakur, Lecturer Economics, PW-19 Narinder Pal Singh, Computer Teacher, PW-20 Tripta, Lecturer Sociology and PW-21 Veena Gupta, Lecturer Maths are formal in nature because they were working as Lecturers in Government Girls Senior Secondary School, Solan at the relevant time and as such had produced the record and deposed that the prosecutrix did not attend the classes on 2.6.2010. PW-10 Ravinder Kumar, Panchayat Sahayak, Gram Pachayat, Maan and Ravinder Kumar, Deputy Registrar, Births and Deaths, Gram Panchayat, Maan have produced the record pertaining to the date of birth of the prosecutrix, which has been duly considered hereinabove and the findings already recorded.

21. The official witnesses i.e. PW-4 LC Sandhya, PW-11 LC Neelam Kumari, PW-12 HHC Narender Prakash, PW-13 Constable Sanjay Kumar, PW-14 HC Pradeep Kumar, PW-17 HC Chander Mohan, PW-23 HC Rakesh Guleria and PW-25 ASI Dharam Sain, the Investigating Officer are formal as they remained associated during the investigation of the case in one way or the other, whereas, PW-25 has conducted the investigation of this case also. Their testimony could have been used as link evidence had the prosecution been otherwise able to establish beyond all reasonable doubt that the prosecutrix was kidnapped by the accused from her lawful guardianship and subjected to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will.

22. In view of the re-appraisal of the given facts and circumstances of this case and also the evidence available on record, in our considered opinion, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. The accused, as such, has rightly been acquitted of the charge framed against him. The judgment under challenge is neither perverse nor can be said to be legally and factually unsustainable. The same is accordingly affirmed.

23. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. Personal bonds furnished by the accused shall stand cancelled and surety bonds discharged.

Mr. P.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the judgment and award, dated 5th June, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 42 of 2008, titled as Tilak Raj versus Shri Avtar Singh & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,64,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and appellant-owner was saddled with liability (for short 'the impugned award').

2. The claimant, driver and insurer have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The owner-insured has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned Counsel for the appellant-owner/insured argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling him with the liability and the amount awarded is excessive.

5. Thus, the following questions are to be determined in this appeal:

1. Whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the owner-insured with liability and discharged the insurer?
2. Whether the amount awarded is adequate?

6. In order to determine the aforesaid questions, it is necessary to examine the pleadings of the parties and record.

7. The claimant had invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 6,00,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

8. The respondents resisted and contested the claim petition by filing replies.

9. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether the petitioner has suffered injuries due to rash and negligent driving of Qualis, bearing No. PB-18-J-0074 by its driver-respondent No. 2, as alleged? ..OPP

2. If Issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner/claimant is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? …OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form?…OPRs

4. Whether the vehicle in question was being driven by respondent No. 2 at the time of accident in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy? …OPR-3

5. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question at the time of accident?…OPR-3

6. Relief."

10. The parties led evidence. The Tribunal after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the driver was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, the owner-insured has committed willful breach, saddled him with liability and discharged the insurer and granted compensation to the tune of 3,64,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum in favour of the claimant.

Issue No. 1

11. There is no dispute qua findings recorded on issue No. 1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are upheld.

12. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with Issues No. 3 to 5.

Issue No. 3

13. The respondents have not led any evidence to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable, thus have failed to discharge the onus. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issues No. 4 & 5

14. The Tribunal has held that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and the same was in the name of Jaswinder Singh, son of Shri Karam Singh and not in the name of Sarvjeet Singh, son of Shri Balbir Singh. Further, it has recorded that there was no evidence on the record to show that the owner-insured had engaged the driver after exercising due care and caution and has taken steps as required under law while engaging driver.

15. Having said so, I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly recorded the findings that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and the owner-insured has committed willful breach. Thus, the findings, recorded by the Tribunal on issues No. 4 & 5 are upheld.

16. The Tribunal has assessed the monthly income of the claimant-injured at Rs. 5,000/- per month and held that the claimant has suffered 25% permanent disability and granted him compensation to the tune of Rs. 15,000/, under the head 'loss of dependency'. The claimant-injured has not questioned the same. Accordingly, the same is upheld.

17. The age of the claimant-injured was 35 years at the time of accident. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of '16'.

18. The multiplier of '14' is applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR

2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120.

19. Thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 1250 x 12 x 14 = Rs. 2,10,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

20. The amount awarded under the other heads is maintained.

21. Accordingly, the claimant-injured is held entitled to total compensation under the following heads with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization,

(i) loss of dependency :	Rs. 2,10,000/-
(ii) Medical expenses :	Rs. 14,000/-
(iii) Attendant charges, special diet and transportation:	Rs. 15,000/-
(iv) Loss of income:	Rs. 15,000/-
(v) Pain and suffering:	Rs. 30,000/-
(vi) Loss of amenities of life:	Rs. 50,000/-
Total:	Rs. 3,34,000/-

22. Now, the question is- who is to be saddled with liability.

23. As discussed hereinabove, the owner-insured has committed willful breach. The claimant is the third party.

24. It is a beaten law of the land that right of third party cannot be defeated and even if the owner-insured has committed breach, the insurer has to satisfy the award, with right of recovery.

25. Viewed thus, the insurer is saddled with the liability, with right of recovery.

26. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insured stated at the Bar that an amount of Rs. 25,000/- stands already deposited before the Registry.

27. The insurer is at liberty to lay a motion before the Tribunal for recovery of the amount.

28. The insurer is directed to deposit the awarded amount minus the amount already deposited by the owner-insured before the Registry within a period of eight weeks from today.

29. The Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant-injured, strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award after proper identification, through payees' account cheque and by depositing the same in his account.

30. The impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove and the appeal is disposed of.

31. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

RSA No. 235 of 2007
Reserved on : 1/11/2016
Date of decision: 11/11/2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 5 or 38- Plaintiff pleaded that he had given four rooms to the defendants as licencee- he demanded the possession but the defendants threatened to demolish the rooms – defendants pleaded adverse possession – the suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that the evidence in support of adverse possession was not satisfactory – the ingredients of adverse possession were not established – plaintiff is recorded to be the owner in the copy of jamabandi, which carries with it a presumption of correctness- the suit was maintainable without joining the co-owners – the evidence was properly appreciated by the Courts – appeal dismissed.(Para-7 to 12)

For the appellants: Ms. Seema Sood, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. H.C.Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

Both the learned Courts below concurrently rendered a decree vis.a.vis the plaintiff qua mandatory injunction whereupon the defendants were mandated to hand over possession of licensed premises borne on Khasra Nos. 264, 257 and 258 situated in Chak Khalinda, Pergana Matiana, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla, H.P. besides both the learned Courts below rendered qua the plaintiff a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendants from raising any construction or carrying any construction on the existing construction. The defendants standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded verdicts of both the Courts below preferred herebefore the instant appeal whereby they concert to seek their reversal.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that the plaintiff is the owner in poosession of Khasra Nos. 264, 257 and 258 situated in Chak Kalinda to the extent of 3/4th share alongwith Kamlesh who is owner of 1/4th share. The defendants were co-villagers, who were in need of accommodation for their use. The plaintiff gave one room over Khasra No. 258 and three rooms over Khasra No. 257 to defendants as licensee. The defendants are in possession of four rooms as licensee. The plaintiff demanded the possession from the defendants but the defendants threatened to demolish the same and refused to handover the possession. The defendants have collected the construction material. Hence, it was prayed that defendants be restrained from raising the construction and be directed to handover the possession.

3. The suit is opposed by filing written statement, taking preliminary objections regarding the lack of maintainability, suit being barred for non joinder of necessary party and for misjoinder of cause of action. It was specifically denied that plaintiff is the owner in possession of the land bearing Khasra No. 257 and 258. It was asserted that the father of the defendant No.1 constructed one single storeyed house over the land bearing Khasra No. 257 showing his hostile animus over the same. The possession of defendants No. 1, 3 and 4 is open, visible and hostile to the true owner. The defendants No. 1, 3 and 4 have become the owners of the land bearing Khasra No. 257 by way of adverse possession and the revenue entries are wrong. The defendant Bimla constructed three rooms in the year 1980 over Khasra No. 258. The possession of the defendants No.2 is continuous since 1980 and she has become the owner by way of adverse possession. The possession of the defendants was also found by the settlement staff. The plaintiff came to know about the revenue entries and wants to take advantage of the same. Therefore, a false suit has been filed. Therefore, it was prayed that this suit be dismissed.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the possession of the defendants over the suit premises and land is that of licencee, as alleged? OPP.

2. If issue NO.1 is proved in affirmative, whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is also entitled to the relief of possession by way of mandatory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.

4. Whether the suit in the present form is not maintainable? OPD.

5. Whether the suit is bad for misjoinder of parties and cause of action? OPD.

6. Whether the defendants No. 1, 3 and 4 have perfected their title qua Khasra No. 257 by way of adverse possession, as alleged? OPD.

7. Whether the defendant No. 2 has also perfected her title in respect of Khasra NO. 258 by way of adverse possession, as alleged? OPD.

8. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the defendants.

6. Now the defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 26/07/2007 this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

> "1. Whether the suit is groverned exclusively Article 64 (old article 142) of the Limitation Act?
> 2. Whether the purchase of shares of other coshares except that Smt. Kamlesh contrary to the restrictions imposed vis.a.vis transfer of the said shares by way of sale, mortgage, gift, etc. incorporated in Revenue Record (Jamabandi) vide report No. 115 dated 13.11.1969 to the knowledge of the plaintiff respondent or her predecessor in interest perfects her title and possession as alleged and makes her competent to file the suit?
> 3. Whether plaintiff respondent can be deemed to be legally competent to create interest in the suit land by alleged delivery of possession as licensees of four rooms located in Khasra No. 257 and 258 thereof in view of Report No. 115 dated 13.11.1969 and the restriction on transfer imposed thereby?

Substantial questions of law.

7. The premises existing upon the suit land contrarily stand contended by the litigating parties hereat qua the defendants' standing in the year 1992 inducted thereon as licensees whereas defendant No.1 espouses qua theirs acquiring/perfecting their title thereon by prescription arising from elapse hereat of the statutorily prescribed period of limitation commencing from the year 1950 whereat their predecessor in interest raised a construction thereon whereafter she contends qua hers continuously holding its possession of premises existing on Khasra No. 257. On the other hand the defendant No.2 has espoused qua construction standing raised by her upon Khasra No. 258 in the year 1980 whereafter she canvases of hers continuously since thereat upto date with a animus possidendi holding its possession whereupon with their statutorily prescribed period of time elapsing therefrom she espouses qua hers becoming its owner by adverse possession. Initially the veracity of DW-1 testify qua her predecessors in interest raising a construction in the year 1950 upon Khasra No. 257 is bereft of vigour especially when DW-3 testifies qua the father of defendant Surmi expiring about 45 to 46 years ago. Also with his testifying qua the predecessor in interest of defendant Surmi raising a construction upon Khasra No. 257 about 40 years back whereas with his rendering his testification in the year 2003 wherefrom on 40 years standing computed hitherto imperatively nails a conclusion of the father of defendant Surmi purportedly raising construction upon Khasra No. 257 not in the year 1950 as deposed by Surmi rather his purportedly raising construction thereon in the year 1963 whereupon reiteratedly he omits to lend succor to the deposition of DW-1 qua her predecessor in interest raising construction upon Khasra No. 257 in the year 1950. In aftermath, the aforesaid plea raised by defendant No.1 warrants its standing discountanced it remaining in the realm of unsubstantiation. Also defendant No.2 espouses qua hers raising a construction on Khasra No. 258 in the year 1980 factum whereof is in rife contradiction to the testimony of DW-1 wherein she testifies qua her predecessor in interest raising construction upon Khasra No. 257 in the year 1950. Moreover, the factum aforesaid espoused in the testification of defendant Bimla is ridden with a vice of in veracity significantly when she has omitted to recite the name of the mason who had constructed the house in the year 1980 on Khasra No. 258.

8. Be that as it may with defendant Surmi besides defendant Bimla abysmally failing to establish the factum of construction standing raised respectively by them upon Khasra No. 257 besides upon Khasra No. 258 respectively in the year 1950 and in the year 1980, concomitantly the assertion respectively made by them qua theirs since thereat holding with an animus possidendi, possession of the suit property cannot stand ingrained with any virtue of truth. The effect of the aforesaid failure on the part of the defendant Surmi besides on the part of defendant Bimla to establish the relevant factum aforesaid constrains a derivative qua their assertion qua theirs respectively since 1950 besides since 1980 commencing with an animus possidendi possession of the suit land wherefrom with the statutorily prescribed period of limitation elapsing therefrom upto date theirs hence perfecting their title thereto, not warranting acceptance. Fortification to the inference aforesaid stands marshaled by the fact of DW Surmi omitting to specifically recite the name of the owner of Khasra No. 257 and 258. Though DW-2 has testified qua the plaintiff holding ownership of the suit land nonetheless her testification qua the aforesaid facet is bereft of credence significantly when she has feigned ignorance qua the owners of houses adjacent thereto. Moreover with hers not assigning any special reason qua hers holding knowledge qua the plaintiff holding ownership of Khasra No. 257 and 258 renders her testification qua the plaintiff holding ownership of the suit land whereon the disputed premises stand raised to be susceptible to skepticism. In aftermath it is to be concluded with aplomb qua with both not holding knowledge qua the plaintiff holding ownership of the suit property whereas for theirs obtaining success in their espousal qua theirs acquiring title thereto by adverse possession the identity of the real owner whereagainst the apposite plea is canvassed is enjoined to emerge by adduction of invincible evidence, contrarily with non emergence of the identity of the true owner of the disputed suit property constrains a deduction qua the plea of adverse possession asserted by the defendants qua the suit property holding no vigour, it being speciously raised for want of the indispensable besides imperative ingredients for it to hold success embodied in upsurgence of the identity of the person whereagainst it is asserted, hence remaining unsatiated.

9. Uncontrovertedly, reflections stand borne in Ext.P-1 comprising the Jamabandi qua the suit property wherewithin unveilings occur qua the plaintiff being the owner of the suit property besides the Jamabandi for the year 1982-83 shows the plaintiff to be the co-owner in possession of the suit property, likewise copy of Jamabandi qua the suit property comprised in Ext.P-4 pertaining to the year 1992-93 shows the plaintiff to be owner in possession of the suit property. Presumption of truth as carried by the aforesaid exhibits has remained uneroded also when for reasons aforesaid the plea of adverse possession reared by the defendants qua the suit property founders, the presumption of truth held by the reflections carried therewithin acquire conclusivity. Also the testification of the plaintiff qua the defendants standing inducted as licensees in the suit property in the year 1992 acquires corroborative vigour from the deposition of PW-2 besides when the testification of PW-2 on its wholesome appraisal holds credibility, it warrants its acceptance.

10. The learned trial Court on the issue of maintainability of the suit arising from lack of impleadment in the array of plaintiff other co-owners, had recorded thereon a finding adverse to the defendants, finding whereof stood anvilled upon pronouncements of this Court occurring in Ajmer Singh Vs. Shamsher Singh, AIR 1984, P&H 58 and Kanchna Vs. Bishan 2003(3), SLJ 700 wherein a mandate is encapsulated qua a co-sharer holding entitlement as a plaintiff to institute a suit for injunction without his joining in the array of plaintiff the other co-owners of the joint suit property. The aforesaid mandate encapsulated in the aforesaid verdict warrants reverence. Consequently, the suit of the plaintiff for relief of injunction is maintainable even without hers joining in the array of the co-plaintiffs other purported co-owners of the jointly recorded suit property.

11. Be that as it may, since invincible evidence stands adduced qua under the purported report No. 115 of 13.11.1969 prepared by the Patwari concerned whereupon an interdiction stood cast upon the plaintiff to acquire the share of other co-owners in the suit property concomitantly when thereon she stood incapacitated to institute the suit against the defendants besides when it holds no tenacity its holding disconcurrence with the apposite rules, though imperatively warranted the learned trial Court to strike an apposite issue thereon whereas with the defendants at the time whereat the learned trial Court struck issues on the contentious pleadings of the litigating parties acquiescing qua the issues as stood struck for trial inter se the litigating parties rather is a vivid display of the defendants standing estopped to espouse herebefore qua on the aforesaid factum the concurrently recorded verdicts of both the Courts below warranting reversal also when any acceptance of the contention of the defendants anvilled thereupon would unnecessarily sequel a de novo trial of the suit despite the defendants at the apposite stage waiving the striking of the aforesaid issue(s) thereon by the learned trial Court. Contrarily thereupon on ground of estoppel arising from waiver forestalls on anvil thereof any argument in consonance therewith.

12. For reasons aforesaid this Court concludes with aplomb of the judgements and decrees of the Courts below standing sequelled by theirs appraising the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom it is obvious that the analysis of material on record by the learned Courts below not suffering from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather they have aptly appreciated the material available on record. I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgments and decrees of the both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Substantial questions of law stands answered against the defendants. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. No costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Chattar Singh .....Appellant-Plaintiff.

Versus

Gauri Singh and others ....Respondents/defendants.

RSA No. 630 of 2012.
Reserved on : 04.11.2016.
Decided on : 11th November, 2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that defendant is obstructing the passage to his house and is not allowing him to carry the construction material – defendant denied the existence of the passage- the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held in second appeal that plaintiff had proved the existence of the path by the spot map, oral testimony and the revenue record- however, no satisfactory evidence was led by the defendant- the Appellate Court had wrongly discarded the evidence on the ground that no demarcation was conducted- however, the demarcation was not required- appeal allowed- judgment of Appellate Court set aside and the suit of the plaintiff decreed.

(Para-8 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Vikas Rathore, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned trial Court had decreed the suit of the plaintiff wherein he had claimed injunction against the defendants for restraining them from causing interference in his using path existing on abadideh land for facilitating his accessing his house. However, in an appeal carried therefrom by the aggrieved defendants before the First Appellate Court, the latter Court reversed the verdict of the learned trial Court. The plaintiff standing aggrieved by the pronouncement of the learned First Appellate Court has proceeded to through the instant appeal assail it herebefore.

2. The brief facts leading to the lis inter se the parties are that the plaintiff is permanent resident of Muhal Ahju/10, Tehsil Jogindernagar, District Mandi, H.P. and owns a considerable property there. House of the plaintiff is stated to be built over abadi deh land comprised in khasra No.487/1 and is in existence for last more than 90 years which requires immediate repairs. It is further averred that defendants without any right and authority are creating active interference on the path existing on the spot and leading to the house of the plaintiff and they are not allowing him to carry any building material for repair of the said house and are also not allowing him to repair the path by laying pucca cemented concrete. This path is alleged to be existing between khasra No.79 and 490 and passes through one side of the court yard of the house of the defendants and then it reaches to the house of the plaintiff. This path is in existence since the time of the forefathers and has always been peacefully used and enjoyed as a matter of right. Hence the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed the written statement wherein they have taken preliminary objection qua maintainability, cause of action etc. On merits, it is admitted that the house of the plaintiff exists over abadi deh land. It is denied that there is any passage over the abadi deh land ever enjoyed by the plaintiff and others. It is further stated that allegations are vague for want of any spot map and measurement of the passage. Other allegations are denied and it is stated that the suit is without any merits and it be dismissed.

4. The plaintiff/appellant herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendants/respondents, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether there exists any passage over the suit land, as claimed? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction as prayed for? OPD
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action and locus standi to file the suit? OPD.
5. Whether the suit is bad for want of better particulars? OPD.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, it decreed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendants/respondents herein before the learned first Appellate Court, the latter Court while allowing the defendants' appeal, reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein has instituted herebefore the instant Regular Second Appeal assailing therein the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 10.09.2013, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree of the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

a) Whether the findings of the First Appellate Court are result of complete mis-reading, mis-interpretation of the evidence and material placed on record and against the settled position of law?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

8. The propagation of the plaintiff qua his standing entitled to user of path, entitlement whereof stood espoused to arise from its prescriptive user commencing since times immemorial, stood countenanced by the learned trial Court. The learned trial Court while pronouncing qua the plaintiff holding an entitlement to use the suit land as a path for accessing his house existing ahead of the house of the defendants stood founded upon (a) the relevant path occurring in abadi deh land; (b) spot map Ex.PW3/A proven by PW-3 holding depictions of a path existing on the suit land besides it unraveling qua its standing blocked by the defendants. It therein also holding manifestations qua the width of the path upon the suit land holding dimensions of about 1 ½ feet; (c) PW-4 while proving spot map Ex.PW4/A also corroborating the testimony of PW-3; (d) jamabandi qua the suit land holding reflections of it being abadi deh land, a part whereof has remained unconstructed, whereon PW-3 and PW-4 unanimously depose qua existence of a path thereon and (e) DW-2 Jayawanti Devi in her testification acquiescing qua existence on the suit land a path holding a width of 1 ½ feet besides hers in her cross-examination acquiescing qua the plaintiff using it in good faith.

9. Even though the aforesaid manifestations unraveled in the testifications of the aforesaid witnesses make a vivid portrayal of the plaintiff thereupon emphatically sustaining his plea qua existence of a path measuring 1 ½ feet on the suit land also thereupon his obviously sustaining the factum of his holding a prescriptive right qua its user commencing since times immemorial besides when the defendants omitted to adduce the relevant germane evidence proclaiming the factum of the plaintiff holding a facility to access his house through an alternative path than the one whereon he asserted a prescriptive right of easement, when imperatively enjoined the learned First Appellate Court to concur with the verdict recorded by the learned trial Court, it on the score of (a) Ex.PW3/A not standing supported by any demarcation report and (b) no reflection in the relevant tatima in personification of the measurement of the path, interfered with the verdict pronounced by the learned trial Court. However, the aforesaid verdict recorded by the learned First Appellate Court on anvil of the hereinabove assigned reasons holds no weight, significantly, when there occurs no dispute inter se the litigating parties qua one encroaching upon the land of the other, whereupon there was hence no enjoined necessity for the learned First Appellate Court to insist qua preceding the preparation of Ex.PW3/A a demarcation standing conducted of the relevant spot, more so, when the width of the path delineated therein stood also acquiesced by the defendants' witnesses. Also with the suit land standing reflected in the apposite revenue record to be abadi deh land whereon save and except the constructed portion, clinching evidence stands embodied in Ex.PW3/A and Ex.PW4/A besides acquiesced by the defendants' witnesses qua a path holding a width of 1 ½ feet existing thereon whereupon the portrayals occurring therein warranted acceptance as tenably done by the learned trial Court rather than theirs standing discountenanced as untenably pronounced in the impugned verdict recorded by the learned First Appellate Court.

10. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as stand arrived at by the learned first Appellate Court standing not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the apposite findings, the learned first Appellate Court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial question of law is answered in favour of the plaintiff/appellant and against the defendants/respondents.

11. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is allowed and the judgement and decree rendered by the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi on 22.8.2012 in Civil Appeal No.77 of 2012 is set aside. In sequel, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Devision), Jogindernagar, District Mandi, H.P. on 9.9.2011 in Civil Suit No. 77 of 2005 is affirmed and maintained. Consequently, the suit of the plaintiff is decreed and the defendants are restrained from causing any obstructions or hindrance through themselves or their family members, agents and servants qua the user of the path holding width of 1 ½ feet, shown in Ex.PW3/A and Ex.PW4/A, by the plaintiff which is situated over abadi deh land in Mohal Ahju/10, Tehsil Jogindernagar, District Mandi, H.P. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending application(s) also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff was owner in possession of the suit land- land was given to defendant No.1 on payment of rent of Rs.1 per annum- the defendant No.1 constructed a house on the suit land – the lease was terminated and an agreement was executed- plaintiff paid Rs.300/- to defendant No.1, defendant No.1 removed the material of the house from the suit land and shifted to Village B- the defendant No.1 sold the suit land in favour of defendant No.2 and defendant No.2 is threatening to interfere in the possession of the plaintiff- the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held in second appeal that plaintiff has admitted that construction raised by him was demolished – the document required registration and could not be looked into in absence of the registration – khasragirdawari was not produced – plea of adverse possession was also not established- the suit was rightly dismissed by the Trial Court- appeal dismissed. (Para-7 to 10)

For the appellant: Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Anil Kumar God, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P., whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Senior Sub Judge, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, Himachal Pradesh, Camp at Ghumarwin. The plaintiffs standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below, concert through the instant appeal constituted before this Court, to beget reversal of the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that the plaintiff was the owner in possession of land measuring 0-2 biswas, bearing Khasra No. 95, situated in village Lethwin. In the year Sambat 2010 B.K the suit land was given on lease to defendant No.1 on payment of rent of Rs.1/- per annum. The defendant No.1 had constructed a house on the suit land. Lateron the lease was terminated in the year Sambat 2025 B.K. when the defendant No.1 executed an agreement and the plaintiff paid Rs.300/- to defendant No.1. The defendant No.1 had removed the material of house from the suit land and he permanently shifted to his native village Barota. Thus, the suit land had been coming in possession of the plaintiff since Sambat 2025 B.K. But the defendant No.1 had illegally sold the suit land vide sale deed dated 18.08.1994 in favour of defendant No.2. The defendant No.2 had threatened to interfere with possession of plaintiff and to raise construction on the suit land. Hence, the suit.

3. The suit was contested by defendants. They filed written statement, wherein they raised preliminary objections about maintainability of the suit and cause of action. On merits of the case, the defendants refuted entire case of the plaintiff. They further alleged that possession was not handed over to plaintiff nor any agreement was executed by defendant No.1 in favour of defendant No.2. The defendants refuted entire case of the plaintiff and they prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for relief of declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.

2. Whether in the alternative the plaintiff is entitled for possession? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land by virtue of adverse possession? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD.

5. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

6. Relief.

5. On appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff besides the learned Additional District Judge, affirmed the findings of the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiffs/appellants herein has instituted before this Court the instant Regular Second Appeal wherein they assail the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 8.5.2007, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether both the Courts below have acted beyond their jurisdiction in applying the provisions of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act to the land which was Abadi and by no stretch of imagination was covered by provision of the said Act, to hold defendant No.1 to declare defendant No.1 to be non occupancy tenancy having acquired proprietary rights?

7. Whether both the Courts below have committed grave illegality and irregularity in misreading Ext.P1 the mutation which was not attested by a competent officer? Have not both the Courts below exceeded their jurisdiction in relying upon Ext.P1 which was illegal null and void and did not confor any provision of law and rule of procedure?

8. Whether both the Courts below have committed grave illegality in ignoring from consideration the material document Ext.PW-2/A by wrongly invoking the provisions of registration Act by holding that the document is inadmissible for want of registration, when no such objection regarding admissibility was raised during the course of the trial and when the said document was admitted in evidence?

9. Whether the lower Appellate Court has committed grave illegality and irregularity in rejecting the application filed by the plaintiff appellant for amendment of the plaint?

10. Whether both the Courts below have acted with material illegality and irregularity in presuming the title in favour of the defendant No.1 thereby holding defendant No.2 to be owner by misreading the pleadings and evidence?

11. Whether both the Courts below have acted in excess of their jurisdiction in dismissing the suit of the plaintiff to be non maintainable without properly considering the alternative plea raised by the plaintiff for recovery of possession and mis-construing and misunderstanding the plea of perfection of the title raised by the plaintiff."

Substantial questions of law.

7. In the plaintiffs' concert to obtain qua the suit land a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction from the Civil Court for thereupon the defendants standing restrained from interfering with their possession qua it, it was imperatively incumbent upon them to by clinching evidence substantiate the trite factum qua theirs extantly holding possession of the suit land. The deceased sole plaintiff in the endeavour aforesaid had relied upon Ext.PW-2/A whereunder he espuoused qua his obtaining possession of the suit land whereon he raised a construction. However, in his plaint he acquiesces qua the construction raised by him on the suit land standing demolished whereafter his cultivating it. The impact if any of Ext.PW-2/A for clinching the factum of the plaintiffs in pursuance thereto holding possession of the suit land stands effaced by the factum of its holding a recital therein qua a sum of Rs.300/- passing as consideration from the plaintiff to defendant No.1 whereupon under the provisions of Section 17 of the Indian Registration Act its registration was compulsory whereas it remained unregistered, obviously thereupon no bestowment of title qua the suit land ensued vis.a.vis the deceased sole plaintiff. Apparently hence the gravamen of the deceased sole plaintiffs' concert to thereupon assert qua his holding possession of the suit land gets belittled besides scuttled.

8. Be that as it may, the counsel for the plaintiff relies upon Ext.P-1 wherewithin reflections are held qua the plaintiff holding possession of the suit land, described therein as 'Gair Mumkin Abadi', for making an espousal herebefore of his holding possession of the suit land. True it is of the apposite reflections aforesaid held in Ext.P-1 do carry a presumption of truth, presumption whereof carried by them unless belittled by cogent evidence would acquire conclusivity whereupon hence the plaintiff would succeed in establishing his holding possession of the suit land. However, even if no cogent evidence in rebutting the reflections held therewithin stands adduced by the defendants yet the efficacy of the reflections held therewithin stand denuded given the plaintiff acquiescing in his pleadings qua the aforesaid structure raised by him on the suit land standing demolished whereafter he espouses qua his cultivating the suit land. In sequel, it was imperative for the deceased sole plaintiff to adduce efficacious evidence in portrayal thereof. The deceased sole plaintiff has omitted to adduce the relevant best evidence comprised in the apposite reflections borne on Khasra Girdawaris whereas with defendant No.1 executing qua the suit land a registered deed of conveyance comprised in Ext.DW-1/A with defendant No.2, in sequel whereof mutation comprised in Ext.DA stood attested, pronounces upon the factum of the defendant No.2 holding possession of the suit land. The aforesaid pronouncements emerging from the exhibits aforesaid were enjoined to be subjected to an assault thereon standing constituted by the deceased sole plaintiff yet he omitted to mount an assault qua the efficacy borne by the relevant pronouncements occurring in Ext.DW-1/A and Ext.DA. The effect of his omitting to constitute an assault upon the efficacy of Ext.DW-1/A besides of Ext.DA unveils an inference of his acquiescing to the relevant manifestations which occur therewithin in display of defendant No.2 extantly holding possession of the suit land wherefrom it is apt to conclude of his pretextually canvassing qua his holding possession of the suit land.

9. The deceased sole plaintiff had canvassed qua his perfecting his title qua the suit land by way of adverse possession. However, the aforesaid plea stands propounded by a catena of judicial verdicts to be unavailable for its standing canvassed by the plaintiff also judicial verdicts expostulate qua the aforesaid plea being unavailable for its standing raised in the affirmative by the plaintiff contrarily it being available for its standing reared in-repudiation to the apposite assertions espoused by the deceased sole plaintiff. In aftermath, the ensuing apt conclusion is of the deceased sole plaintiff standing disabled to raise the aforesaid plea besides hence merit if any in the aforesaid plea gets benumbed by the factum, for reasons aforesaid his acquiescing to defendant No.2 extantly holding possession of the suit land.

10. For reasons aforesaid this Court concludes with aplomb of the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below standing sequelled by theirs appraising the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom it is obvious that the analysis of material on record by the learned Courts below not suffering from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather they have aptly appreciated the material available on record. I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the concurrently recorded judgments and decrees of both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Substantial questions of law stand answered against the plaintiff. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. No costs.

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that D had not executed any Will and the Will propounded by defendant No. 1 is a forged document – the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that execution of the Will was proved by marginal witnesses and the scribe – the Will was duly registered and was read over and explained to the deceased – testimonies of the witnesses were not shaken in the cross-examination – Sub Registrar proved the endorsement – Courts had wrongly discarded the Will – appeal allowed- judgments of Courts set aside.(Para-7 to 11)

For the appellant: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree recorded by the learned District Judge, Mandi, H.P., whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Civil Judge, (Jr. Division), Court No.3, Mandi, District Mandi. The defendant Chabbi Ram standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions against him by both the learned Courts below concerts through the instant appeal constituted before this Court, to beget reversal of the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that plaintiff filed a suit for declaration and permanent injunction against the defendants with the allegations that Shri Dile Ram, husband of the plaintiff and father of defendants was owner in possession of the land comprising Khata Khatauni No. 24/26, measuring 14-19-1 bighas situate at Mauja Dhar, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P. Dile Ram was residing and being looked after by the plaintiff as well as the daughters. The defendant No.1 was not having good relations with the plaintiff and her husband and was residing separately for the last 30 years. The defendant No.1 never rendered any assistance to Shri Dile Ram. Dile Ram did not execute will in favour of defendant No.1. Dile Ram was suffering from senile dementia and was not in sound disposing state of mind. The will was fake document manufactured under suspicious circumstances without making provisions for the maintenance of the plaintiff. The defendant No.1 got the mutation of the estate of Dile Ram attested in his favour on the basis of Will without notice to the plaintiff and proforma defendants and the same was illegal, null and void. The plaintiff and proforma defendants were in possession of the suit land and were entitled to inherit the property. The defendant was attempting to dispossess the plaintiff and proforma defendants from the suit land. So, the plaintiff has filed suit for declaration that the plaintiff and proforma defendants being widow and daughters had succeeded to the suit land and the Will and mutation in favour of defendant was wrong, illegal, null and void, alongwith a decree for permanent injunction restraining the defendant from causing interference in the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land.

3. The defendant contested the suit and rasied preliminary objections about maintainability, locus standi, cause of action and estoppel. On merits the defendant averred that the defendant was residing jointly with the plaintiff and his father and helping them. The defendant was unemployed Matriculate and the father of defendant to get government service deliberately got the family of the defendant recorded separately in the Parivar register. The defendant used to pay the electricity bills. Dile Ram had executed a valid will in sound disposing mind in favour of the defendant. The last rites of Sh. Dile Ram were also performed by the defendant. The defendant was in possession of the suit land. The mutation has also been attested in favour of defendant. The plaintiff has filed the suit on the provocation of proforma defendants No. 2 and 3. The proforma defendants admitted the case of the plaintiff.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the Will dated 26.5.2003 is the result of fraud and is a fake document as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiff is in physical possession of the suit land? OPP.

3. Whether the deceased Dile Ram has executed a valid Will in favour of defendant No.1.

4. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standing to file the present suit? OPD.

6. Whether no enforceable cause of action has accrued to the plaintiff? OPD.

7. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by the own act and conduct to file the suit? OPD.

8. Relief.

5 On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the defendants.

6. Now the defendant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 17.05.2010, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

"Whether the findings of the learned trial Court as well as first Appellate Court are result of complete misreading and misinterpretation of the evidence and material on record and against the settled position of law?

Substantial question of law.

7. Under Ext.DW-5/A embodying therein a registered testamentary disposition of deceased testator, the latter alienated the suit property qua the defendant Chhabi Ram. However, both the Courts below concurrently concluded of DW-5/A not standing proven to be validly and duly executed. The conclusion aforesaid concurrently recorded by both the Courts below stood anchored upon the factum of a marginal witness thereto while testifying as DW-6 not therein making any communication in tandem with the apposite statutory parameters engrafted in Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, tritely qua his seeing the deceased testator embossing his thumb impression thereon in his presence nor also his making any articulation therein qua his thereafter in the presence of deceased signaturing it.

8. True it is qua on a circumspect scanning of the testimony of DW-6, its omitting to unveil the aforesaid apposite communications. However, both the learned Courts below blunted the effect of Ext.DW-5/A after its execution occurring on 26.5.2003 at the Judicial Court Complex, Mandi, it on the same day standing carried to the office of the Sub Registrar concerned for its standing presented thereat for registration besides both the Courts below blunted the effect qua on its standing presented for registration before the Sub Registrar concerned the latter accepting it for registration pre-ponderantly also both the Courts below undermined the effect of a signatured endorsement occurring thereon holding unfoldments of the Sub Registrar concerned on reading over and explaining its contents to the deceased testator also on his thereupon drawing satisfaction qua the deceased testator comprehending them besides accepting the factum of occurrence of his thumb impressions thereon, his thereupon signaturing the apposite endorsement which occurs in Ext.DW-5/A. Both the Courts below also apparently had made short shrift of the factum of the deceased testator at the time contemporaneous to Ext.DW-5/A standing registered by the Sub Registrar concerned his embossing his thumb impression thereon. Moreover, the tenacity of the factum qua the marginal witnesses thereto also contemporaneous to Ext.DW-5/A standing registered signaturing it also visibly stands negated by both the Courts below.

9. Be that as it may, DW-6 has rendered a testimony qua the deceased testator at the time whereat Ext.DW-5/A stood registered his thereat in his presence embossing his thumb impressions thereon also in his testification he has voiced qua his thereat in the presence of the deceased testator thereat signaturing it. The veracity of the signatures of DW-2 occurring on the endorsements recorded by him in Ext.DW-5/A besides the authenticity of the portrayals held therein qua on the contents Ext.DW-5/A standing read over and explained by him to the deceased testator whereafter his comprehending them also his accepting his thumb impressions occurring thereon, all stand efficaciously testified by the Sub Registrar concerned. The aforesaid testification of DW-2 qua the factum aforesaid has remained unrebutted whereupon this Court is constrained to impute vigorous sanctity to his signatures occurring on the relevant endorsements manifested in DW-2/A besides obviously this Court stands prodded to likewise impute sanctity to the recitals of the relevant signatured endorsements. The testification of a marginal witness to Ext.DW-5/A also the testification of the Sub Registrar concerned acquire a paramount virtue of truth inference whereof stands fostered by their relevant testifications qua the factum probandum deposed by them remaining un-shattered during the course of a rigorous cross-examination to which they stood subjected to. Also the counsel for the plaintiff while holding the aforesaid to cross-examination omitted to unearth any elicitation therefrom manifestive of the thumb impression of the deceased testator occurring thereon being fictitious or their signatures occurring thereon likewise being fictitious. Want of cross-examination of the aforesaid witnesses by the learned counsel for the plaintiff qua the aforesaid relevant facet erects an inference of the plaintiff acquiescing to the factum of the thumb impressions of the deceased testator occurring on Ext.DW-5/A standing not stained with any vice of fictitiousness also his acquiescing to the factum of the signatures of the marginal witnesses thereto not suffering from an alike taint. Thereupon it was insagacious for the learned trial Court to merely on DW-6 a marginal witness to Ext.DW-5/A omitting to depose in tandem with the apposite statutory mandate vis.a.vis its execution at the initial stage whereafter it stood registered whereat the apposite statutory mandate stands concurrently testified by DW-5 and DW-6 to beget satiation to conclude qua its thereupon not standing proven to be validly and duly executed.

10. Be that as it may, as aforestated the import besides efficacy of the testimony of the Sub Registrar besides the testimony of the marginal witness to Ext.DW-5/A who deposed as DW-6 stood disimputed credence by the concurrently recorded renditions of the Courts below merely for want of DW-6 not deposing stricto sensu in tandem with the apposite statutory parameters enshrined in Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, tritely qua the deceased testator embossing in his presence his thumb impressions on Ext.DW-5/A also his not testifying qua his in the presence of the deceased testator signaturing it. Any emphasizes by the learned Courts below upon statutory satiation standing lent by the testification of a marginal witness thereto, who testified as DW-6 for thereupon Ext.DW-5/A standing concluded to be proven to be validly and duly executed is for reasons ascribed hereinafter unwarranted (a) the plaintiff for reasons aforestated acquiescing to the factum of the relevant signatures occurring thereon holding a virtue of truth. (b) With DW-6 testifying qua at the time contemporaneous to Ext.DW-5/A standing registered the deceased testator in his presence embossing thereon his thumb impressions whereafter he similarly in the presence of the deceased testator signatured it, testification whereof when remains uneroded subsumes the effect of the earlier part of his testification pertaining to an era whereat it remained unregistered wherein he has omitted to make a pronouncement in tandem with the apposite statutory parameters, omission whereof begot an inapt sequel from both the Courts below qua hence Ext.DW-5/A not standing proven to be validly and duly executed. In making an inapt inference both the learned Courts below remained grossly mindful only to the trite factum qua thereupon though it constituting a stage earlier to the acceptance of Ext.DW-5/A for registration by the Sub Registrar concerned qua hence the relevant testamentary disposition standing unproven by the relevant testification of a marginal witness thereto qua its standing validly and duly executed by the deceased testator nonetheless the factum of Ext.DW-5/A not thereat i.e. prior to its registration standing proven to validly and duly executed stood overridden by its subsequently standing presented for registration by deceased testator Dile Ram whereat the imperative statutory compliances qua the mandate of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act stood begotten. Both the learned Courts below in relegating to the realm of oblivion the factum of accomplishment qua the apposite statutory parameters standing begotten at the stage contemporaneous to the registration of Ext.DW-5/A rather theirs contrarily emphasizing upon the testimony of DW-6 rendered qua the occurrence of execution of Ex. DW-5/A at a stage prior to its registration whereon the apposite statutory parameters stood not accomplished whereupon they concluded qua its not standing proven to be validly and duly executed, hence naturally besides visibly misdirected themselves in law. (c) It is a settled proposition of law mandated in Theresa vs. Francis, AIR 1921 Bombay 156 besides in Smt. Asharfi Devi vs. Tirlok Chand and others, AIR 1965 Punjab 140 qua the relevant signatured endorsement occurring in the relevant registered testamentary disposition unveiling therein qua on its contents standing read over and explained to the deceased testator by the Sub Registrar concerned whereafter he on comprehending its recitals besides accepting the occurrence thereon of his signatures mark/thumb impression besides with the Sub Registrar concerned emphatically deposing in tandem thereof, testification whereof remaining unshred also with a marginal witness thereto deposing qua at the stage contemporaneous to the registration of the relevant testamentary disposition of the deceased testator the latter embossing his thumb impressions thereon in his presence whereafter he thereat in the presence of the deceased testator signatured it hence lending corroborative succor to the testification of the Sub Registrar concerned whereupon the latter is construable to be an attesting witness to Ext.DW-5/A. The natural corollary thereof is of though the testimony of DW-6 apposite to the stage contemporaneous to the registration of Ext.DW-5/A is in absolute concurrence with mandate of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act yet infirmity if any gripping it gets scuttled in the evident face of this Court concluding qua the testimony of the Sub Registrar concerned who testified as DW-6 holding a pedestal alike a marginal witness thereto besides his being construable to be an attesting witness qua Ext. DW-5/A. Herebefore significantly the testification also of a marginal witness to Ext.DW-5/A for the aforesaid reasons preeminently rests the factum of his proving Ext.DW-5/A to be validly and duly executed dehors assumingly the Sub Registrar concerned being not construable to be a marginal witness to Ext.DW-5/A. For all the reasons aforesaid a firm inference is galvanized qua Ext.DW-5/A standing proven to be validly and duly executed. The counsel for the plaintiff has contended of with an endorsement occurring in Ext.PW-2/A disclosing qua Ext.DW-5/A standing accepted as a sale deed renders vulnerable to suspicion the other embodiments recorded therein. However, the mere factum of a signatured recital occurring in Ext.PW-2/B portraying qua its being a sale deed would not erode the efficacy of the testification of DW-6 besides of the Sub Registrar concerned qua it holding embodiments of a testamentary disposition of the deceased testator, also the aforesaid construction on anvil of Ext.PW-2/A would be untenable given the recitals in Ext.DW-5/A holding loud portrayals qua it being a testamentary disposition of the deceased testator.

11. The result of the above discussion is that the appeal preferred by the defendant/appellant herein is allowed and the substantial question of law is answered against the plaintiff. The judgements and decrees rendered by the both the Courts below are set aside. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of accordingly. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the appellant: Mr.Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Malay Kaushal, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr.O.P. Negi, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 20th May, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.74 of 2006, titled Daulat Ram vs. Krishan Lal and others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Facts of the case, in brief, are that on 11.6.2004, at about 9.30 a.m., the claimant was going to Dharamshala from Bilaspur in Maruti Car bearing No.HP-24A-1048. When the said car reached near Damri in District Hamirpur, a truck bearing No.HP-23A-1470, being driven by driver Amar Singh rashly and negligently, hit the Maruti Car in which the claimant was traveling, resulting into injuries to the claimant in his right leg and multiple injuries on the whole body, was taken to Zonal Hospital, Hamirpur, fromwhere was referred to IGMC, Shimla where he remained admitted as indoor patient. Hence, the claim petition for compensation to the tune of Rs.8.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given therein.

3. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues were framed:

> "1. Whether the injuries sustained by the petitioner on 11.6.2004 at about 1.30 P.M. near Vill. Damri, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P. were due to rash and negligent driving of Truck No.HP-23A-1470 by respondent No.2, as alleged, if so, its effect? OPP
> 2. If issue N.1 supra is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled to compensation, if so, to what extent and from whom? OPP
> 3. Whether the present claim petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties, as alleged? OPRs.
> 4. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven by its driver without valid and effective driving licence as alleged? OPR-3
> 5. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven without valid documents i.e. registration certificate, fitness certificate, route permit, as alleged? OPR-3.
> 6. Whether accident took place as a result of contributory negligence of petitioner and respondent No.2 as alleged? OPR-3

4. In order to prove his claim, the claimant stepped into the witness box as PW-1 and also examined three other witnesses, namely, Dr.M.I. Ahmad as PW-2, Hari Chand as PW-3, and Amar Nath as PW-4. On the other hand, driver of the offending truck appeared as RW-1. Respondents also examined RW-2 Naresh Kumar and RW-3 Usha.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, held that the claimant has failed to prove that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver Amar Singh, which findings, factually and legally, are incorrect and wrong for the following reasons.

6. The claimant has specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the driver of the offending truck, namely, Amar Singh, had driven the offending truck rashly and negligently on the fateful date, and had caused the accident in which the claimant sustained injuries. The respondents have not specifically denied the said averment made by the claimant. All the witnesses examined by the claimant have stated that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending truck. Rapat dated 11th June, 2004, was entered in Police Station, Hamirpur and has been proved on record as Ext.RW-2/A by Head Constable Naresh Kumar, who appeared as RW-2. He has admitted that the rapat Ext.RW-2/A was recorded at the instance of the claimant and one other person.

7. In the given circumstances, the lodging of FIR is immaterial and cannot be a ground to dismiss a claim petition.

8. The findings recorded by the Tribunal are erroneous and against the concept of granting compensation. The Tribunal, while dismissing the claim petition, seems to have applied the standard of proof required in criminal proceedings, which is against the spirit of awarding compensation in accident cases. The Tribunal has to keep in mind that the victims of a vehicular accident have to establish prima facie that the injury or the death was due to the rash and negligent driving of a motor vehicle.

9. It is beaten law of the land that the Courts, while determining the cases of compensation in vehicular accidents, must not succumb to the niceties and hyper technicalities of law. It is also well established principle of law that negligence in vehicular accident cases has to be decided on the hallmark of preponderance of probabilities and not on the basis of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Furthermore, the claimants claiming compensation in terms of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act), is not to be seen as an adversial litigation, but is to be determined while keeping in view the aim and object of granting compensation.

10. My this view is fortified by the judgment of the Apex Court in Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, (2013) 10 SCC 646.

11. The Apex Court in Savita vs. Bindar Singh & others, 2014 AIR SCW 2053, has held that at the time of fixing compensation, courts should not succumb to niceties or technicalities of law. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 6 of the said decision hereunder:

> "6. After considering the decisions of this Court in Santosh Devi (Supra) as well as Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh (supra), we are of the opinion that it is the duty of the Court to fix a just compensation. At the time of fixing such compensation, the court should not succumb to the niceties or technicalities to grant just compensation in favour of the claimant. It is the duty of the court to equate, as far as possible, the misery on account of the accident with the compensation so that the injured or the dependants should not face the vagaries of life on account of discontinuance of the income earned by the victim. Therefore, it will be the bounden duty of the Tribunal to award just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation judging the situation prevailing at that point of time with reference to the settled principles on assessment of damages. In doing so, the Tribunal can also ignore the claim made by the claimant in the application for compensation with the prime object to assess the award based on the principle that the award should be just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation."

12. A reference may also be made to the decision of the Apex Court in Sohan Lal Passi v. P.Sesh Reddy and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627, in which, in paragraph 12, it was observed that the courts, while deciding claim petitions, must keep in mind that the right of the claimants is not defeated on technical grounds. Relevant portion of paragraph 12 of the said decision is reproduced hereunder:

> "12. ..... While interpreting the contract of insurance, the Tribunal and Courts have to be conscious of the fact that right to claim compensation by heirs and legal representatives of the victims of the accident is not defeated on technical grounds. Unless it is established on the materials on record that it was the insured who had wilfully violated the condition of the policy by allowing a person not duly licensed to drive the vehicle when the accident took place, the insurer shall be deemed to be a judgment debtor in respect of the liability in view of sub-section (1) of Section 96 of the Act. It need not be pointed out that the whole concept of getting the vehicle insured by an insurance company is to provide an easy mode of getting compensation by the claimants, otherwise in normal course they had to pursue their claim against the owner from one forum to the other and ultimately to execute the order of the Accident Claims Tribunal for realisation of such amount by sale of properties of the owner of the vehicle. The procedure and result of the execution of the decree is well known."

13. This Court also, in the recent past, in series of judgments, has followed the similar principle and held that granting of compensation is just to ameliorate the sufferings of the victims and compensation is to be granted without succumbing to the niceties of law, hyper-technicalities and procedural wrangles and tangles.

14. Having said so, I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the claimant has failed to prove that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending truck. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are set aside, and it is held that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending truck, namely, Amar Singh.

15. Before issue No.2 is determined, I deem it proper to decide issues No.3 to 6 at the first instance.

16. Onus to prove issue No.3 was on the respondents, have not led any evidence to prove the same. However, I have gone through the claim petition. The respondents have failed to show how the claim petition was not maintainable due to non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties. The Tribunal has rightly decided the said issue against the respondents and the said findings are accordingly upheld.

17. In order to prove Issue No.4, the insurer was to plead and prove that the driver of the offending truck, namely, Amar Singh, was not having a valid and effective driving licence, has not led any evidence. However, I have gone through the pleadings and the record. Copy of the driving licence has been proved on record as Ext.RA, a perusal whereof does disclose that the driver of the offending truck had valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are also upheld.

18. As far as issue No.5 is concerned, it is for the insurer to plead and prove, by leading evidence, that the owner of the offending vehicle had committed willful breach, has not led any evidence. In the absence of any evidence having been led by the insurer, the Tribunal has decided this issue against the insurer and the insurer has not challenged the said findings, either by way of appeal or cross objections. Thus, the said findings recorded by the Tribunal have attained finality. Notwithstanding that, I have gone through the record. Smt.Usha, Clerk from the office of RTO, Bilaspur has been examined as RW-3, who has stated that the offending truck was having all documents at the time of accident. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.5 are also upheld.

19. Issue No.6 pertains qua contributory negligence of the claimant and the driver of the offending truck, namely, Amar Singh. The insurer has pleaded in its reply that the accident was the outcome of contributory negligence. The Tribunal has recorded the findings that the accident was not the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending truck, which findings have been set aside by this Court while discussing issue No.1 supra and it has been held that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending truck. Accordingly, this issue is governed by the findings returned on issue No.1 and is accordingly, decided against the insurer.

20. Now the question is, to what amount of compensation the claimant is entitled to. Due to the accident, the claimant sustained fracture on his leg and injuries on his body, was firstly taken to Zonal Hospital, Hamirpur wherefrom was referred to Indira Gandhi Medical College, Shimla remained admitted there till 23rd June, 2004. Discharge slips are placed on record as Exts.PW-1/A and PW-1/B. The claimant suffered 15% permanent disability, as per disability certificate Ext.PW-2/A. PW-2 Dr.M.I. Ahmad has stated that due to the injury sustained by the claimant, he would face difficulty in sitting on the ground and going upstairs/downstairs. In cross examination, this witness has admitted that the disability is in regard to the lower limb and not qua whole body.

21. The claimant has not placed on record anything about the amount he spent for the purchase of medicines etc. Thus, keeping in view the facts of the case, the injury sustained and the disability suffered, I deem it proper to award a sum of Rs.1,30,000/- in favour of the claimant, under the following heads:

Sl.No.	Heads	Amount
1.	Pain and sufferings	Rs.35,000/-

2.	Loss of amenities of life	Rs.35,000/-
3.	Attendant charges	Rs.5,000/-
4.	Transportation charges	Rs.10,,000/-
5.	Future medical treatment	Rs.10,000/-
6.	Medical expenses incurred	Rs.30,000/-
7.	Special diet	Rs.5,000/-
	Total	Rs.1,30,000/-

22. The amount of compensation shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of impugned award till deposit.

23. The factum of insurance is admitted. Therefore, the insurer is saddled with the liability. The insurer is directed to deposit the entire amount alongwith interest within eight weeks from today and on deposit, the same be released in favour of the claimant forthwith through bank account.

24. The appeal is allowed and stands disposed of accordingly.

For the petitioner. : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate, wit Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondent : Ms. Parul Negi, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way this revision petition, petitioner has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, in Criminal Appeal No. 56 of 2008, dated 14.06.2010, vide which learned Appellate Court, while accepting the appeal filed by the State, set aside the judgment of acquittal passed in favour of the petitioner by the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 1, Sundernagar, in Police Challan No. 379-I/2004, dated 18.06.2008 and convicted the petitioner for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279, 304-A of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as IPC) and Section 187 of the Motor Vehicle Act (hereinafter referred to as M.V.Act) and sentenced him to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,000/- for commission of offence punishable under Section 279 of IPC, simple imprisonment for a period of eighteen months and to pay a fine of Rs. 5,000/- for commission of offence punishable under Section 304-A of IPC and simple imprisonment for a period of one month and to pay a fine of Rs. 500/- for commission of offence punishable under Section 187 of M.V.Act. All the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

2. The case of the prosecution was that on 30.08.2003, at around 4:15 p.m., accused was driving Scooter bearing No. PB-10Z-3934 in a rash a negligent manner on National Highway-21 resulting in an accident and the death of Smt. Larju Devi at village Bhour after which the accused fled away from the spot. As per prosecution, on the fateful day, complainant Ram Pyari and her mother-in-law Smt. Larju Devi were on their way back home after attending the 'Kirtan' and while walking on the roadside, Smt. Larju Devi was hit by Scooter bearing No. PB-10Z-3934 being driven by accused in a rash and negligent manner which caused fatal injury to her. It was further the case of the prosecution that after causing the accident, accused fled away from the spot leaving Smt. Larju Devi bleeding to death. Information regarding accident was conveyed at police station Sundernagar through police station Balh, on which police party headed by HC Pushap Raj alongwith HC Karam Singh No. 5, Constable Baldev Lal No. 226 and Constable Ram Lal No. 142 reached the accident site at village Bhour where complainant Ram Pyari get recorded her statement under Section 154 of Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Cr.P.C.'), on the basis of said statement of complainant, FIR No. 217/03 dated 30.08.2003 was registered against the accused for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A of IPC at police station Sundernagar. The body of the deceased was sent for postmortem by the police. During the course of investigation, the offending Scooter was seized alongwith documents of the same. The scooter was subjected to mechanical examination and report of the mechanic who examined the same mechanically was also obtained, as per which, there was no mechanical fault in the Scooter. Photographs of the accident site were taken, spot map was prepared and statements of witnesses under Section 161 of Cr.P.C were recorded by the Investigator. Investigation revealed that death of Smt. Larju Devi took place on account of rash and negligent driving of the accused, who was driving his aforementioned Scooter on aforesaid date, time and place on National Highway No. 21. After the completion of investigation, challan was filed in the court and notice of accusation was put to the accused for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A of IPC and Sections 187 and 196 of M.V. Act, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. On the basis of evidence led by the prosecution both ocular as well as documentary, learned trial Court held that prosecution had failed to prove that the accused had committed offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A of IPC and Sections 187 and 196 of M.V. Act beyond reasonable doubt and on these bases, learned trial Court acquitted the accused by giving him benefit of doubt. While arriving at the said conclusion, it was held by the learned trial Court that the factum of death of the Smt. Larju Devi on 30.08.2013, at about 4:15 p.m. at village Bhour on National Highway No. 21 was not in dispute. It also took note of the fact that in his statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C, accused had admitted that he was driving the said Scooter. It was further held by the learned trial Court that the point for consideration which survived was as to whether the death of Larju Devi was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the accused or not. Learned trial Court held that the FIR which was registered against the accused was on the basis of complaint of Smt. Ram Pyari recorded by the police under Section 154 of Cr.P.C. Ext. PW1/A. Learned trial Court further held that complainant Ram Pyari entered the witness box as PW1 and a perusal of her statement demonstrated that in fact she had not witnessed the accident since she was walking ahead of her mother-in-law when Smt. Larju Devi was hit by the Scooter. Learned trial Court further held that complainant as per her own admission did not saw the Scooter coming and hitting her mother-in-law. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that as the accident took place behind the back of the complainant, her statement to the effect that the accident took place on account of rash and negligent driving of the accused becomes a highly improbable version. It further held that since complainant did not saw the accident taking place, therefore, under these circumstances, statement of the complainant to the effect that Scooter was being driven by the accused in a rash and negligent manner and in a high speed was unacceptable. Learned trial Court further held that PW2 Shri Thakru Ram who as per prosecution was an eyewitness also did not further the case of the prosecution since this witness had also admitted that he came to the spot after the Scooter had hit Smt. Larju Devi. It was further held by the learned trial Court that his statement did not clearly establish the manner in which the accident took place. On these bases, it was concluded by the learned trial Court that the statements of PW1 and PW2 did not prove that the accident in fact took place on account of rash and negligent driving on the part of the accused. Learned trial Court further held that besides this, there was no evidence whatsoever to clearly establish that the accused in fact had fled away from the spot after causing the accident. On these bases, learned trial Court acquitted the accused by holding that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

4. In appeal, learned Appellate Court while setting aside the judgment of acquittal so passed by the learned trial Court held that it was not a fact in dispute that the accident took place and the deceased died on account of injuries which she suffered from the said accident. Learned Appellate Court further held that it was well settled law that test in accident cases was that whether accident could have been avoided by the respondent if he had exercised diligence which ordinarily a cautious person using the road in similar circumstances would have exercised. It further held that the question whether certain act is rash or negligent cannot be answered in the abstract and it must depend upon the time, place and nature of the road. Learned Appellate Court further held that spot map Ext. PW7/D demonstrated that the road where accident took place was 22 feet wide and the same was a straight road and there was enough space on the right side of the accused and accused could have easily seen the deceased, who was going ahead of him on the road as it was broad day light. Learned Appellate Court further held that in these circumstances, accused could have avoided the accident by sewering his scooter to the right or by stopping it as a prudent driver. It further held that he could have at least sounded the horn and warned the deceased. By relying on the report of the mechanic, learned Appellate Court held that there was no mechanical defect in the vehicle and it appeared that there was no effort on the part of accused/respondent to avoid the accident. Learned Appellate Court further went on to hold that the testimonies of PW1 and PW2 clearly established that the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the accused who also fled away from the spot after causing the accident and it was clear from the statements of these two witnesses that the deceased and the complainant were walking on the left side of the road and the Scooter being driven by the accused came from the back side and dashed against the deceased and dragged her on the road up to 8 to 10 feet. Learned Appellate Court further held that act of the respondent of hitting the deceased from the back and dragging her was nothing but an act of rash and negligent driving. It further held that statements of PW1 and PW2 who were eyewitnesses to the accident demonstrated that no suggestion was put to them that deceased suddenly appeared in front of the Scooter ridden by the accused nor this was so stated by the accused in his statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. On these bases, learned Appellate Court held that it was of the firm view that no two views were possible as from the evidence of PW1, PW2 and PW7, the only conclusion which could be drawn was that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the Scooter being driven by the accused. On these bases, learned Appellate Court set aside the judgment of acquittal passed by the learned trial Court and convicted the accused for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279, 304-A of IPC and Section 187 of M.V. Act.

5. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment so passed by the learned Appellate Court, the petitioner preferred the present appeal.

6. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that the judgment of conviction passed against the present petitioner by the learned Appellate Court is perverse and the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court were not only erroneous but were also not borne out from the records of the case. Mr. Vaidya further argued that in fact a perusal of the impugned judgment clearly and categorically demonstrated that the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court were not based on material on record but were based on conjectures and surmises and assumptions drawn by the learned Appellate Court. It was argued by Mr. Vaidya that the perversity with the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court was that the said Court lost sight of the fact that in criminal matters, adjudication cannot be made on the basis of conjectures, surmises and assumptions, but the findings must be returned on the basis of material which is produced before the court concerned. It was further submitted by Mr. Vaidya that the conclusion arrived at by the learned Appellate Court that PW1 and PW2 were eyewitnesses to the accident was a totally perverse conclusion and was a result of complete misreading ad misconstruction of statements of these two witnesses. He further argued that even the spot map was totally mis-appreciated by the learned Appellate Court as learned Appellate Court lost sight of the fact that it was not as if the deceased was hit on the side of the road but she was hit in the road where even otherwise a pedestrian was not to ordinarily walk. It was further argued by Mr. Vaidya that the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was a well reasoned judgment and keeping in view the fact that there was a judgment of acquittal in favour of the petitioner, the learned Appellate Court should not have had interfered with the same in the peculiar facts of the case especially in view of the material which was placed before the Court by the prosecution. On these bases, it was urged by Mr. Vaidya that the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court was not sustainable in law and the same be set aside and the petitioner be acquitted.

7. Ms. Parul Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General, on the other hand, argued that the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court was neither perverse nor it could be said that the finding of guilt returned by the learned Appellate Court was not substantiated from the records of the case. Ms. Negi submitted that learned trial Court had erred in acquitting the accused as it stood established beyond reasonable doubt from the material which was placed on record by the prosecution that the accused was in fact guilty of offences for which he was charged. She further argued that learned Appellate Court had rightly concluded that it stood established from the record especially from the statement of PW1 and PW2 who were the eyewitnesses to the incident that the accident had taken place on account of rash and negligent driving of the accused. She further argued that the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court to the effect that accident was avoidable if he had exercised diligence which ordinarily a cautious person using the road in similar circumstances would have done was based on correct appreciation of evidence placed on record and same called for no interference. On these bases, it was urged by Ms. Negi that as there was no merit in the revision petitioner, the same be dismissed.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the Courts below.

9. Before proceeding in the matter, it is relevant to take note of what is the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court. It is settled law that the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court does not extend to re-appreciation of evidence. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the High Court in exercise of its revisional power can interfere only if the findings of the Court whose decision is sought to be revised is shown to be perverse or untenable in law or is grossly erroneous or glaringly unreasonable or where the decision is based on no material or where the material facts are wholly ignored or where judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or capriciously. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjaysinh Ramrao Chavan Versus Dattatray Gulabrao Phalke and Others, (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 123, that unmerited and undeserved prosecution is an infringement of guarantee under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In this case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the purpose of revision jurisdiction is to preserve the power in the Court to do justice in cases of criminal jurisprudence.

10. Coming to the facts of this case, a perusal of the statement of PW1 (complainant) demonstrates that she cannot be termed as an eyewitness because she has not seen the occurrence of the accident. It has come in the cross examination of PW1 Ram Pyari that the age of the deceased was about 80 years and she was somewhat hard of hearing. She has also admitted that when the accident took place she was walking ahead of her mother-in-law and she came to know about the accident only when she heard the noise. She stated in her cross examination that she did not saw the Scooter coming and hitting her mother-in-law. It has also come in her statement that she became unconscious after the accident and gained consciousness after 1 ½ hour. Her testimony also does not seems to be trustworthy as besides being closely related to the deceased, on the one hand, she stated that after the accident she became unconscious and gained consciousness after 1 ½ hour and on the other hand, she stated that family members reached the spot in ten minutes.

11. A perusal of statement of PW2 Thakru Ram demonstrates that it has come in his cross examination that when he reached the spot, deceased was lying on the spot and that he had not witnessed the accident taking place.

12. The Investigating Officer had entered the witness box as PW7. He stated that he prepared the spot map on the spot which is Ext. PW7/B and also took photographs of the spot. In his cross examination, he stated that he reached the spot at around 4:30 p.m. Now, incidentally, a perusal of spot map which is on record as PW7/B demonstrates that road where the accident took place was 22 feet wide and towards the side on which the deceased was walking alongwith PW1 six feet road was available in addition to the mettle road. Mark B on the said spot is the position where the body of the deceased was lying after the accident and mark B is not on the side of the road but is almost midway between the side of the road and centre of the road. Therefore, it is evident from the spot map that the deceased was walking on the main road when the accident took place. Now, as I have already discussed above, there is no eyewitness to the occurrence of the accident as neither PW1 nor PW2 has seen the occurrence of the accident. Learned trial Court while appreciating this aspect of the matter and after taking into consideration the entire evidence placed on record by the prosecution came to the conclusion that the prosecution was not able to prove beyond reasonable doubt the guilt of the accused. Learned Appellate Court while setting aside the findings so returned by the learned trial Court has justified the conviction of the accused by raising doubt that as the road where the accident took place was 22 feet wide and it was a straight road and there was sufficient space on the right side, the accused could have easily seen the deceased and could have avoided the accident by sewering his Scooter to the right or by stopping it as a prudent driver or he could have at least sounded the horn to warn the deceased. These findings have been used by the learned Appellate Court to convict the accused. I am afraid that the conviction passed on the abovesaid findings returned by the learned Appellate Court cannot be said to be sustainable in law. It is settled law that in order to convict a person, his guilt has to be established by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt. In other words, if there is some doubt in the case of prosecution, then he deserves the benefit of doubt. In the present case, the petitioner could not have been convicted for committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A of IPC on conjectures and surmises as has been done by the learned Appellate Court. It has not been appreciated by the learned Appellate Court that the accident had taken place on a National Highway where unfortunately the deceased, who was 80 years old and also hard of hearing, was not walking on the side of the road but was walking almost in the road, which road as per statement of daughter-in-law of deceased (PW1), was frequented by thousands of vehicles everyday (PW1 had stated in her statement that about 10 thousand vehicle ply on the said road everyday). Not only this, the findings returned by the learned trial Court that PW1 and PW2 are eyewitnesses to the occurrence of the accident are perverse findings because neither PW1 nor PW2 has seen the occurrence of the accident and this is prima facie evident from the perusal of their statements itself. In these circumstances, in my considered view, the judgment of conviction passed by the learned Appellate Court against the accused setting aside the judgment of acquittal in his favour passed by the learned trial Court is not sustainable as the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court are not borne out from the records of the case but are perverse findings based on conjectures and surmises and are contrary to the evidence on record. Learned Appellate Court has also not appreciated that there was no cogent evidence produced on record by the prosecution to conclude beyond reasonable doubt that petitioner had fled away from the accident site after causing the accident.

13. Learned Appellate Court also did not appreciate that it is settled law that Appellate Court shall not reverse the judgment of acquittal because another view is possible to be taken. It has not been appreciated that the Appellate can overrule or otherwise disturb the trial Court's acquittal if it has 'very substantial or compelling reasons' for doing so. Honble Supreme Court in Mohammed Ankoos and Others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad, (2010) 1 Supreme Court Cases 94 has held

> "12. This Court has, time and again, dealt with the scope of exercise of power by the Appellate Court against judgment of acquittal under Sections 378 and 386, Cr.P.C. It has been repeatedly held that if two views are possible, the Appellate Court should not ordinarily interfere with the judgment of acquittal. This Court has laid down that Appellate Court shall not reverse a judgment of acquittal because another view is possible to be taken. It is not necessary to multiply the decisions on the subject and reference to a later decision of this Court in Ghurey Lal v. State Of Uttar Pradesh1 shall suffice wherein this Court considered a long line of cases and held thus : (SCC p.477, paras 69 -70)
> 1. The appellate court may review the evidence in appeals against acquittal under Sections 378 and 386 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973. Its power of reviewing evidence is wide and the appellate court can reappreciate the entire evidence on record. It can review the trial court's conclusion with respect to both facts and law.
> 2. The accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The accused possessed this presumption when (2008) 10 SCC 450 he was before the trial court. The trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption that he is innocent.
> 3. Due or proper weight and consideration must be given to the trial court's decision. This is especially true when a witness' credibility is at issue. It is not enough for the High Court to take a different view of the evidence. There must also be substantial and compelling reasons for holding that the trial court was wrong.
> 70. In light of the above, the High Court and other appellate courts should follow the well-settled principles crystallised by number of judgments if it is going to overrule or otherwise disturb the trial court's acquittal:
> 1. The appellate court may only overrule or otherwise disturb the trial court's acquittal if it has "very substantial and compelling reasons" for doing so.
> A number of instances arise in which the appellate court would have "very substantial and compelling reasons" to discard the trial court's decision. "Very substantial and compelling reasons" exist when:
> (i) The trial court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong;
> (ii) The trial court's decision was based on an erroneous view of law;
> (iii) The trial court's judgment is likely to result in "grave miscarriage of justice";

(iv) The entire approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal;

(v) The trial court's judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable;

(vi) The trial court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declarations/report of the ballistic expert, etc.

(vii) This list is intended to be illustrative, not exhaustive.

2. The appellate court must always give proper weight and consideration to the findings of the trial court.

3. If two reasonable views can be reached--one that leads to acquittal, the other to conviction--the High Courts/appellate courts must rule in favour of the accused."

Therefore, in view of the above discussion, the revision petition is allowed and the judgment of conviction passed by the Court of learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi dated 14.06.2010 is set aside and the petitioner is acquitted of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A of IPC and Section 187 of M.V. Act as the prosecution has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the petitioner had committed the said offences. Fine amount, if any deposited by the petitioner be returned to him in accordance with law. The criminal revision petition is disposed of accordingly. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

National Insurance Co. Ltd. ..... Appellants

Versus

Saroj Kumari and others ..... Respondents

Date of decision: 11.11.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Number of claimants are three, therefore, 1/3rd was to be deducted from the monthly income towards personal expenses – Tribunal had fallen in error in deducting 1/4th – monthly income of the deceased was Rs.4,000/- and after deducting 1/3rd loss of dependency comes to Rs.2700/- per month – total loss of source of dependency is Rs.2700 x 12 x 16= Rs.5,18,400/-. (Para- 4 to 6)

Cases referred:

Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121

Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120

For the appellant: Mr.Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr.H.S. Rana, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Nemo for other respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 21st April, 2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan camp at Nalagarh, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.40NL/2 of 2008, titled Saroj Kumari and others vs. Beer Chand and others, whereby the claim petition was allowed and compensation to the tune of Rs.6,26,000/-, with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal.

3. During the course of hearing, the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellant-insurer submitted that the impugned award is bad only to the extent that the Tribunal has wrongly deducted 1/4th amount towards the personal expenses of the deceased, whereas 1/3rd was to be deducted.

4. I have gone through the impugned award. The number of claimants, in the instant case, is three. Therefore, in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, 1/3rd was to be deducted from the monthly income of the deceased, towards his personal expenses. The Tribunal has fallen into an error in deducing 1/4th and the impugned award needs to be set aside to that extent.

5. The Tribunal, after making discussion in paragraph 9, assessed the monthly income of the deceased at Rs.4,000/-. After deducting 1/3rd towards the personal expenses of the deceased, the loss of source of dependency comes to Rs.2,700/- per month.

6. The Tribunal has applied the multiplier of 16. Thus, the total loss of source of dependency comes to Rs.2,700/- x 12 x 16 = Rs.5,18,400/-. The amount awarded by the Tribunal under the other heads is maintained. The rate of interest is also maintained.

7. In view of the above discussion, the claimant is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.5,68,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till the same is deposited.

8. Having said so, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified to the above extent. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, through their bank accounts, strictly in terms of the impugned award and the excess amount, if any, alongwith interest, be released in favour of the insurer through payee's account cheque. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

FAO No.181 of 2011:

For the appellant: Ms.Nevadeta Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr.Jagdish Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr.Vijender Katoch, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice

Both these appeals are the outcome of common award, dated 7th October, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(I), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., (for short, the Tribunal), whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.12,60,050/, alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum, came to be granted in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short, the impugned award).

2. Feeling aggrieved, the claimant questioned the impugned award by the medium of FAO No.181 of 2011 on the ground of adequacy of compensation, while the insurer has assailed the impugned award in FAO No.1 of 2011 on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in saddling it with the liability.

3. Facts, as pleaded in the claim petition, are that the claimant, on 24th April, 2005, was traveling in Maruti Car No.HP-19-7000, being driven by respondent No.2, namely, L.R. Sharma. When the said car reached near Banikhet, it rolled down the road and fell into a rivulet, resulting into injuries to the claimant, was taken to Public Health Center Banikhet, Tehsil Dalhousie, fromwhere was taken to Dr.Anil Singh Nursing Home, Pathankot, whereafter to Dr. Kalra's Hospital at Pathankot, underwent medical tests, was referred to Dayanand Medical College and Hospital Ludhiana remained under treatment upto 12th May, 2005 and thereafter from 12th May, 2005 to 19th May, 2005 at IGMC, Shimla. It was also claimed that the claimant sustained permanent injury, was a practicing lawyer and was earning Rs.20,000/- per month. Thus, the claim petition was filed for compensation to the tune of Rs.32,50,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

4. Respondent No.1 resisted the claim petition by filing reply. Respondent No.2 (husband of the claimant) also filed reply wherein it has been admitted that the claimant sustained injuries in the accident in question and that he was holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed:

"1. Whether the petitioner suffered injuries due to the rash and negligent driven of Maruti car No.HP-19-7000 by respondent No.2? OPP

2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative to what amount of compensation the petitioner is entitled to and from whom? OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR-1

4. Relief."

6. The statement of the claimant as PW-1 was got recorded through Local Commissioner. In addition, the claimant examined Dr.Sandeep Puri as PW-2, HHC Prittam Chand as PW-3, Dr.J.S. Chandel as PW-4, Dr.Viyom Parkash Bhardwaj as PW-5. On the other hand, the insurer examined Ashok Kumar as RW-1.

7. The Tribunal after scanning the pleadings as well as the entire evidence held the claimant entitled to Rs.12,60,050/- as compensation alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum, and saddled the insurer with the liability.

8. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of FAO No.1 of 2011 on the ground that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is excessive and that the Tribunal has wrongly fastened the liability on the insurer inasmuch as the insured has committed willful breach.

9. The claimant has challenged the impugned award by way of FAO No.181 of 2011 and prayed for enhancement of compensation.

10. Following questions arise for determination in the instant appeals:

i) Whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability?

ii) Whether the amount awarded by the Tribunal is adequate or otherwise?

11. The factum of insurance is not in dispute. The claimant-injured is a third party, therefore, her claim cannot be defeated on flimsy grounds.

12. It is beaten law of the land that the insurer has to plead and prove that the owner of the offending vehicle has committed willful breach of the terms and conditions contained in the policy and mere plea here and there cannot be a ground for seeking exoneration.

13. The Apex Court in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531, has taken the similar view. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment hereinbelow:

> (i) .....
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in subsection (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings; but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.
> (vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

14. It is also profitable to reproduce para 10 of the latest judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 hereinbelow:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran ingh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is 8 :fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

15. Thus, it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy, has not led any evidence to that effect, has failed to discharge the onus.

16. Having said so, question No.i is answered accordingly and it is held that the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability. Accordingly, the appeal filed by the insurer, being FAO No.1 of 2011, is dismissed.

17. PW-2 Dr.Sandeep Puri has stated that the condition of the claimant-injured was critical and she has to carry this injury throughout her life, and that the injury has affected her brain. It has also come on the record that at the first instance, the disability certificate was issued wherein it was mentioned that the claimant suffered 20% permanent disability. Thereafter, the condition of the claimant deteriorated and the claimant was again examined by the Medical Board, which issued the disability certificate whereby the disability was assessed at 51%. The said disability certificate has been proved on record as Ext.PW-1/A. Accordingly, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly relied upon the disability certificate Ext.PW-1/A and held that the claimant suffered 51% permanent disability.

18. Insurer had moved application under Section 170 of the Act before the Tribunal for contesting the claim petition on all grounds, which was granted. Thus, the insurer can question the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

19. The learned counsel for the appellant/claimant argued that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is meager and is required to be enhanced accordingly. It was submitted that the Tribunal has not properly assessed the income of the claimant-injured and also awarded paltry amount under the heads pain and suffering, medical expenses and transportation charges. It was further submitted that the Tribunal has also not taken into account the effect of the disability suffered by the claimant.

20. It appears that the Tribunal has not assessed the compensation properly and rightly. Thus, in the facts of the case, question arises as to what is adequate compensation. In order to determine the said issue, the evidence of the claimant is required to be appreciated.

21. PW-2 Dr.Sandeep Puri, DMC Hospital, Ludhiana, has stated that the claimant remained admitted in the hospital for 25 days, has to undergo medical treatment throughout her life and has to lead her life below normal.

22. PW-4 Dr.J.S. Chandel stated that the disability certificate dated 6th January, 2007 bears the signatures of Dr.Viyom Bhardwaj, examined as PW-5, who stated that Ext.PW-1/A (disability certificate) dated 6th January, 2007 bears his signatures.

23. The disability certificate, dated 6th January, 2007, Ext.PW-1/A, proved on record by the claimant shows that she suffered 51% permanent disability. The said fact has been proved by the claimant through her statement as well as from the statements of PW-4 and PW-5, though it has been pleaded in the claim petition that the claimant suffered 20% permanent disability. Another disability certificate, dated 31st December, 2005, has been proved on record as Ext.RX, which does disclose that the claimant suffered 20% permanent disability. The first disability certificate issued on 31st December, 2005 and the second disability was isused on 6th Janury, 2007. It appears that after the issuance of the first disability certificate, the percentage of the disability has increased which has affected her physical frame, for which reason the Medical Board examined the claimant afresh and the second disability certificate dated 6th January, 2007 was issued, whereby the disability has been shown to be 51%, which stands proved by the claimant by leading evidence.

24. Having said so, the compensation is to be assessed keeping in view the disability suffered by the claimant i.e. 51%.

25. The Apex Court in R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787 and Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771, has clearly laid down the principles as to how compensation has to be awarded in cases where the claimants have suffered permanent disability and how the assessment is to be made.

26. The Apex Court in its latest decision in Jakir Hussein vs. Sabir and others, (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his/her life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the whole life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.
> 18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

27. The claimant-injured was an Advocate by profession. The disability suffered by the claimant has shattered her physical frame and, in all probabilities, she would not be in a position to do the job of an Advocate, as she would have been doing prior to the accident.

28. It has been pleaded by the claimant in the Claim Petition that she, at the time of accident, was earning Rs.20,000/- per month. No evidence has been led by the claimant in support of her assertion that she was earning Rs.20,000/- by practicing as an Advocate.

However, by guess work, it can be said that the claimant-injured was earning not less than Rs.10,000/- per month.

29. The accident had taken place on 24th April, 2005, whereafter, as pleaded in the claim petition, the petitioner remained admitted till 19th May, 2005 in different hospitals, which fact is borne out from the material available on the record. After discharge from the hospital, the claimant would have also remained out of profession for a considerable period, say, for, six months.

30. The discussion in the preceding paragraph shows that the claimant, after sustaining the injury, remained admitted in the hospital for about one month and also would have remained out of profession for about six months, for treatment. The income of the claimant, as has been held above, was Rs.10,000/- per month. The Tribunal has gone astray in not awarding anything for the period during which the claimant remained under treatment. The Tribunal must have appreciated the fact that the claimant was forced to remain out of practice because of the injuries sustained by her and not as per her own choice. Thus, the claimant was to be awarded compensation under the head 'loss of earning during treatment'. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.10,000/- x 7 = Rs.70,000/- under the head 'loss of earning during treatment'.

31. From the above discussion, it can safely be held that the claimant lost earning capacity to the extent of 50%. Thus, after making deduction, future loss of income, per month, to the claimant can be said to be Rs.5,000/-.

32. The claimant was 50 years of age at the time of accident. Having regard to the judgment of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120 read with the 2nd Schedule attached with the Act, it is held that multiplier of '11' is just and appropriate, and is applied accordingly.

33. Having said so, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.5,000 x 12 x 11 = Rs. 6,60,000/- under the head 'loss of future income'.

34. The Tribunal has also lost sight of the fact that the claimant suffered a lot, which fact is evident from the statement of Dr.Sandeep Puri (PW-2). Not only this, because of the disability suffered by the claimant, she has to struggle throughout her life. In the given circumstances, read with the law laid down by the Apex Court, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings'.

35. The claimant is also deprived of all comforts and amenities of life. The Tribunal has not awarded anything under the head 'loss of amenities of life'. Keeping in view the facts and the law laid down by the Apex Court, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

36. The claimant would have also spent at least 100/- per day i.e. Rs.3,000/- per month on account of special diet during the period of treatment. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.3,000/- x 7 = Rs.21,000/- under the head 'special diet'.

37. Keeping in view the expert evidence, the claimant has to undergo medical check-ups/treatment, at intervals, throughout her life and I deem it proper to award Rs.20,000/- under the head 'future medical treatment'.

38. Compensation awarded by the Tribunal under the heads 'medical expenses', 'transportation charges' and 'attendant charges' is maintained.

39. Having glance of the above discussion, the claimant is awarded Rs.11,40,150/-, under different heads as under:

Sl.No.	Heads	Amount
1	Loss of earning during treatment	Rs.70,000/-
2.	Loss of future income	Rs.6,60,000/--
3.	Pain and sufferings	Rs.1,00,000/-
4.	Loss of amenities of life	Rs.1,00,000/-
5.	Attendant charges	Rs.25,000/-
6.	Special diet	Rs.21,000/-
7.	Future medical treatment	Rs.20,000/-
8.	Medical expenses incurred	Rs.1,34,150/-
9.	Transportation charges	Rs.10,000/-
	Total	Rs.11,40,150/-

40. The Tribunal has also wrongly awarded interest at the rate of 9%, which is on the higher side. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281*; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892*; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738*; Smt. Indiro and others*, being the lead case, decided on* 19.06.2015.

41. Accordingly, it is held that the amount of compensation shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization.

42. In view of the above discussion, the impugned award is modified. The Registry is directed to release the amount, alongwith interest, in favour of the claimant, forthwith, through her bank account, and the excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the insurer through payee's account cheque.

43. Both the appeals stand disposed of accordingly.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 7.4.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MACT Petition No.1-S/2 of 2012/07, titled Smt.Santosh and others versus Sh. Satpal and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,73,800/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Claimants, owners, drivers and insurer of Motor Cycle No. CH-03C-1451, have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. The insurer of Bus No. HP-14-5098, has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the vehicle was being driven by driver Satpal rashly and negligently and not by Maha Singh.

5. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is-whether the insurer can question the said findings? The answer is in negative for the following reasons.

6. Neither driver nor owner has questioned the same. However, I have gone through the record. Claimants have examined Dr. N.K. Gupta as PW1, Sh. Rishi Ram as PW3, Sunil Verma as PW4 and Smt. Santosh claimant No. 1 appeared in the witness-box as PW2.

7. Respondents examined HHC Krishan Dutt RW1 and drivers Maha Singh and Sat Pal stepped into the witness-box as RW2 and RW3 respectively.

8. Vijay Kumar PW5 is an independent witness. He has specifically deposed that he was present on the spot and witnessed the occurrence. Further stated that respondent No. 4 Maha Singh (respondent No.7 herein) has driven the vehicle rashly and negligently and hit the motor cycle which was being driven by Sat Pal, in which deceased sustained the injuries and succumbed to the same. His statement is of great importance and stands relied upon by the learned Tribunal while determining issue No.1. RW3 Sat Pal has deposed that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of Maha Singh. The Tribunal has rightly made the discussion in paras 14 and 15, of the impugned award, needs no interference.

9. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly held that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of Maha Singh while driving Bus No. HP-14-5098. Accordingly, the findings recorded on issue No.1 by the Tribunal are upheld.

10. The insurer has not sought permission under Section 170 of the Motor Vehicles Act, for short "the Act" for contesting the claim on all grounds thus, is precluded to question the adequacy of compensation.

11. The question arose before the Apex Court in the case titled as United India Insurance co. Ltd. Versus Shila Datta & Ors., reported in 2011 AIR SCW 6541, and the matter was referred to the larger Bench.

12. The question again arose before the Apex Court in the case titled as Josphine James versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 6633. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 17 and 18 of the judgment herein:

> "8. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and award passed by the High Court in MAC Appeal no. 433/2005 and the review petition, the present appeal is filed by the appellant urging certain grounds and assailing the impugned judgment in allowing the appeal of the Insurance Company without following the law laid down by this Court in Nicolletta Rohtagi's case and instead, placing reliance upon the Bhushan Sachdeva's case. Nicolletta Rohtagi's case was exhaustively discussed by a three judge bench in the case of United India Insurance Company Vs. Shila Datta, 2011 10 SCC 509. Though the Court has expressed its reservations against the correctness of the legal position in Nicolletta Rohtagi decision on various aspects, the same has been referred to higher bench and has not been overruled as yet. Hence, the ratio of Nicolletta Rohtagi's case will be still applicable in the present case. The appellant claimed that interference by the High Court with the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal in favour of appellant and considerably reducing the same by modifying the judgment of the Tribunal is vitiated in law. Therefore, the impugned judgments and awards are liable to be set aside.
> 17. The said order was reviewed by the High Court at the instance of the appellant in view of the aforesaid decision on the question of maintainability of the appeal of the Insurance Company. The High Court, in the review petition, has further reduced the compensation to Rs. 4,20,000/- from Rs. 6,75,000/- which was earlier awarded by it. This approach is contrary to the facts and law laid down by this Court. The High Court, in reducing the quantum of compensation under the heading of loss of dependency of the appellant, was required to follow the decision rendered by three judge Bench of this Court in Nicolletta Rohtagi case (2002) 7 SCC 456 : AIR 2002 SC 3350 : 2002 AIR SCW 3899, and earlier decisions wherein this Court after interpreting Section 170 (b) of the M. V. Act, has rightly held that in the absence of permission obtained by the Insurance Company from the Tribunal to avail the defence of the insured, it is not permitted to contest the case on merits. The aforesaid legal principle is applicable to the fact situation in view of the three judge bench decision referred to though the correctness of the aforesaid decision is referred to larger bench. This important aspect of the matter has been overlooked by the High Court while passing the impugned judgment and the said approach is contrary to law laid down by this Court.

18. In view of the aforesaid reasons, the Insurance Company is not entitled to file appeal questioning the quantum of compensation awarded in favour of the appellant for the reasons stated supra. In the absence of the same, the Insurance Company had only limited defence to contest in the proceedings as provided under Section 149 (2) of the M.V. Act. Therefore, the impugned judgment passed by the High Court on 13.1.2012 reducing the compensation to 4,20,000/- under the heading of loss of dependency by deducting 50% from the monthly income of the deceased of Rs. 5,000/- and applying 14 multiplier, is factually and legally incorrect. The High Court has erroneously arrived at this amount by applying the principle of law laid down in Sarla Verma v. Delhi Transport Corporation, 2009 6 SCC 121 instead of applying the principle laid down in Baby Radhika Gupta's case regarding the multiplier applied to the fact situation and also contrary to the law applicable regarding the maintainability of appeal of the Insurance Company on the question of quantum of compensation in the absence of permission to be obtained by it from the Tribunal under Section 170 (b) of the M.V. Act. In view of the aforesaid reason, the High Court should not have allowed the appeal of the Insurance Company as it has got limited defence as provided under section 149(2) of the M.V. Act. Therefore, the impugned judgment and award is vitiated in law and hence, is liable to be set aside by allowing the appeal of the appellant."

13. I have gone through the impugned award. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paras 17 to 20 of the impugned award needs no interference. The amount awarded is adequate, cannot be said to be meager, is upheld

14. The Tribunal has awarded interest @ 9% per annum. However, interest was to be awarded at the rate of 7.5% per annum, for the following reasons.

15. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014, AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

16. Accordingly, interest @7.5% per annum is awarded from the date of claim petition till realization of the amount.

17. The insurer-appellant is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum, within eight weeks from today in the Registry. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification and excess amount, if any, be refunded to the insurer/appellant through payees' cheque account.

18. Viewed thus, the impugned award is modified as indicated hereinabove and appeal is disposed of alongwith pending applications.

CMP No.583/2012.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant has not pressed this application. Hence the application is dismissed as not pressed.

20. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Date of decision: 11/11/2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit for fixation of boundary and for relief of possession and injunction – it was pleaded that plaintiffs are owners in possession of the suit land- defendants are strangers who threatened to interfere with the suit land – they were found to be encroachers on the portion of the suit land – they were requested to deliver possession but in vain- the suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that parties are adjacent owners - the demarcation report shows that defendants have encroached upon a portion of the suit land - however, the demarcation was not conducted in accordance with the binding instructions – the plea of adverse possession was not established satisfactorily – matter remanded to the Appellate Court to appoint a Local Commissioner and thereafter to decide the matter afresh. (Para-7 to 11)

For the appellants: Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. R.K.Gautam, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Megha Gautam, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

Both the learned Courts below recorded concurrent verdicts vis.a.vis. the plaintiffs qua theirs standing entitled to a decree for fixing of boundaries by way of demarcation also both the learned Courts below concurrently rendered a decree for possession by way of demolition of the construction raised on the suit land by the defendants. In sequel thereto with the defendants/appellants herein standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded verdicts of both the Courts below, they through the instant appeal preferred therefrom before this Court concert to seek reversal of the pronouncements recorded by the learned Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that the plaintiffs had claimed for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation with consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from making any type of interference, changing the nature, raising construction cutting and removing the trees from the land comprised in Khata No. 41, Khatoni No. 53 min, Khasra No. 72 as described in the copy of Misal Hakiat for the year 1997-98, situated in Village Thain, Mouza Nauhangi and in case the defendants succeed in raising construction over the suit land or any part of it or taking possession of any portion of it, in that event a decree for possession by way of demolition or otherwise was claimed and further the plaintiffs by way of amendment claimed a decree for possession of land shown in Tatima as Khasra No. 72/2 out of the suit land. The said reliefs had been claimed by the plaintiffs on the grounds that the plaintiffs are the owners in possession of the suit land, whereas the defendants are quite stranger to the same but the defendants started interference over the suit land by way of digging for the purpose of raising construction, threatened dispossession of the plaintiffs, created boundary dispute and refused to desist from such wrongful acts inspite of repeated requests made by the plaintiffs and during the pendency of the suit on the strength of demarcation of Local Commissioner the defendants were found to have encroached upon Khasra No. 72/2 out of the suit land shown in the Tatima, but refused to deliver the possession of the same to the plaintiffs, hence they were compelled to file the suit and claimed the said reliefs.

3. The defendants resisted and contested the suit by taking preliminary objection qua estoppel and claimed ownership by virtue of adverse possession. On merits, the defendants pleaded that they are owners in possession of the adjoining land. It was pleaded that they are in open, peaceful and hostile possession of the suit land under their Abadi or its portion for the last 100 years, hence they have become its owner by virtue of adverse possession and prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation and also prayed for permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendants, as prayed for? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction and for possession if the defendants succeed in raising construction during the pendency of the suit as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped from filing the suit by their act and conduct? OPD.
4. Whether the defendants are entitled for special costs under Section 35-A CPC? OPD.
5. Whether the defendants have become owners of the suit land by virtue of adverse possession as prayed for? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purposes of court fees and jurisdiction? OPD.
7. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the defendants.

6. Now the defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 17/04/2007 this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

> "1. Whether the findings given by the learned Courts below are perverse, their being either based on no evidence or contrary to the material on record and the same has thus resulted into erroneous decision?
> 2. Whether the demarcation report Ext.PW-2/A is contrary to the instructions of the Financial Commissioner and the High Court Rules and orders pertaining to the demarcation of the land and the same has wrongly been relied upon by both the learned Courts below while passing the impugned judgements and decrees?
> 3. Whether the adjoining land of the appellants comprising Khasra Nos.73 and 77 to the suit land Khasra No. 72 could be ignored to be measured by the Local Commissioner while demarcating the suit land, if no, whether the report of the Local Commissioner is unsustainable and could not be relied upon while passing the impugned judgements and decrees by both the Courts below?

Substantial questions of law.

7. Khasra No. 72 stands owned and possessed by the plaintiffs whereas Khasra numbers adjoining thereto bearing field Nos. 73 and 77 stand owned by the defendants appellants. The decree concurrently pronounced by the learned Courts below stand anvilled upon demarcation report proven by PW-2. Demarcation report stands comprised in Ext.PW-2/A, the tatima prepared in consonance therewith stands comprised in Ext.PW-2/B wherewithin reflections occur of the defendants unauthorisedly holding possession of 132 sq.meters held in the suit land. Both the learned Courts below imputed sanctity to the demarcation report comprised in Ext.PW-2/A wherefrom they recorded a conclusion of the plaintiffs standing entitled to the decree as stood rendered qua them. Consequently, the factum of the tenacity of pronouncements occurring in Ext.PW-2/A besides the vigour of reflections communicated in Ext.PW-2/B is enjoined to be determined. Both would enjoy formidable probative sinew despite an abortive concert standing made by the demarcating officer concerned qua theirs preceeding his holding the apposite demarcation proceedings theirs recording before him a consensus qua the fixed points wherefrom he held authorization to conduct the relevant demarcation predominantly when his apposite report besides his testification hold a visible display of his while holding the relevant demarcation his thereat possessing the field Map/Musabee of the village concerned holding therewithin reflections of the relevant fields alongwith their dimensions (Karu kans) besides his unanimously voicing in his report also in his testification qua his therefrom in consonance with the relevant instructions measuring their dimensions, lastly his articulating in his report besides in his testification qua his therefrom thereafter proceeding to relay the relevant measured dimensions held in the relevant field Map/Musabee onto the contiguous khasra numbers of the litigating parties qua which he held demarcation. However, the aforesaid invincible display stands omitted to be bespoken by PW-2 in his demarcation report comprised in Ext.PW-2/A also stands unechoed by him in his testification. Besides the preemptory mandate of the relevant instructions which stand encapsulated in Chapter 10 paragraph IX of the H.P.Land Records Manual, which stands extracted hereinafter, :-

> "IX. In the report to be prepared/submitted by the Revenue Officer/Field Kanungo, it must be explained in detail how he made his measurement. He should submit a copy of the relevant portion of the last settlement field map (musavi) of the village showing the fields with their dimensions(Karu Kan) of which he took measurement as mentioned in instructions supra and the boundary in dispute. There should also be a mention in this report as to what method was adopted and the way he fixed the starting points and the fields he measured and the result of such measurement. All the fields and points measured should be shown in the site plans, within the frame of copy of musavi."

enjoining the demarcating officer to at the relevant time hold the relevant portion of the field map of the village concerned holding reflections of the relevant fields besides their dimensions wherefrom he stands enjoined to in consonance with the relevant instructions hold the relevant measurement of their dimensions whereafter he stands mandatorily injucted to thereafter relay them onto the relevant fields, for reasons aforestated is visibly infracted. Since the mandate held in the relevant portion of the H.P. Land Records Manual, relevant portion whereof stands extracted herebefore, is preemptory also when the relevant mandate enjoins strict compliance therewith by the demarcating officer, in sequel any departure therefrom renders the relevant demarcation held by PW-2 to be legally frail also any reliance thereupon by both the learned Courts below especially when its preparation is evidently in digression of the relevant mandate of the relevant instructions which stands extracted hereinabove, is grossly unwarranted.

8. However, the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiffs has contended of with the defendants voicing in their respective testifications qua theirs perfecting their title to the suit land by adverse possession, plea whereof for concurrently recorded tenable reasons stood dispelled by both the Courts below, significantly for theirs (a) omitting to spell with certainty the date of its commencement, besides the territorial extent whereon they adversely held the suit land contrarily rather with DW-1 and DW-2 contradictorily testifying qua the territorial extent of the suit land whereon they propagate qua theirs adversely holding it rendered their espousal on facet aforesaid to remain unsatiated reiteratedly when (b) the commencement of the period with an apposite communication with precision qua the time since whereon they asserted qua theirs holding possession of the suit land with an animus possidendi remaining unpleaded besides untestified whereupon they stood disabled to espouse qua theirs hereat completing the mandatorily enjoined period of limitation prescribed in the relevant statute for theirs standing construed to perfect their title qua the suit land (c) DW-1 and DW-2 evidently contradictorily deposing qua the territorial extent of the suit land whereon they espoused qua theirs becoming owners by adverse possession, wherefrom an inference is erectable qua theirs acquiescing qua the defendants holding possession of the suit land rendering hence the vice if any gripping the report of the Local Commissioner comprised in Ext.PW2/A being overlookable. However, the aforesaid submission addressed herebefore by the counsel for the plaintiffs is unamenable for acceptance by this Court conspicuously when both aforesaid DW-1 and DW-2 contradictorily depose qua the territorial extent of the suit land whereupon they stake a claim qua theirs perfecting their title by statutory prescription whereas occurrence with precision in their respective testifications qua the apposite territorial extent of the suit land whereon they asserted qua theirs perfecting their title thereon by adverse possession was imperative for hence affirmatively facilitating their apposite espousal. In aftermath with lack of concurrence inter se DW-1 and DW-2 qua the territorial extent whereupon they purportedly hold adverse possession of the suit land would naturally interdict a Civil Court to with aplomb pronounce an apposite decree holding revelations with precision besides exactitude vis.a.vis the area whereon the suit land stands unauthorisedly held by the defendants also lack of specificity with unanimity in the respective depositions of DW-1 and DW-2 qua the relevant facet aforesaid would prohibit a Civil Court to render an apposite decree qua thereupon the defendants standing encumbered with an apposite decree. However, both the learned Courts below despite conflicts occurring in the testifications of DW-1 and DW-2 qua the territorial extent of theirs adversely holding possession of the suit land also with demarcation report comprised in Ext.PW-2/A though apparently infracting the mandate of the relevant extracted portion of the apposite instructions, they yet proceed to inaptly pronounce the impugned decree hereat which obviously is ridden with a gross inherent fallacy.

9. Be that as it may, an apposite decree holding embodiments therein with precision qua the area whereon the defendants unauthorizedly hold possession of the suit land was renderable only when a valid demarcation was held of the suit property by the demarcating officer besides of the khasra numbers in contiguity thereof owned by the defendants. However, when for reasons aforestated PW-2 did not hold any valid demarcation of the suit property besides of the Khasra Numbers located in contiguity thereof, there was no worthwhile material available before both the Courts below to emphatically pronounce qua the area/dimensions reflected therein constituting the area of the suit land whereon the defendants unauthorisedly hold possession. The corollary thereof is of the concurrently recorded apposite decrees by both the Courts below suffering from an inherent fallibility.

10. Be that as it may for facilitating the rendition of an efficacious decree holding delineations therein with specificity qua the area whereon the suit land stands subjected to encroachment by the defendants also for conclusively clinching/resting the controversy engaging the parties at lis, it is deemed fit and appropriate to remand the matter to the learned First Appellate Court for facilitating it to appoint the Tehsildar concerned of the area wherewithin suit land is located for holding demarcation of the suit property. However the learned first Appellate Court after receiving the demarcation report besides after considering the objections filed thereto by the contesting parties shall pronounce a fresh decision only qua the area of the suit land encroached upon by the defendants within six months hereafter.

11. For the foregoing reasons, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the defendants. The judgements and decrees rendered by both the Courts below are quashed and set-aside. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith. However, as aforestated, in the interest of justice and also for perennially setting at rest the controversy engaging the parties at lis, it is deemed fit and appropriate to remand the matter to the learned First Appellate Court for facilitating it to appoint the Tehsildar concerned of the area wherewithin suit land is located for holding demarcation of the suit property. However the learned first Appellate Court after receiving the demarcation report besides after considering the objections filed thereto by the contesting parties shall pronounce a fresh decision only qua the area of the suit land encroached upon by the defendants within six months hereafter.

Suresh Kumar .....Petitioner.

Reserved on: 03.11.2016.
Date of Decision: 11th November, 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 125- The marriage between the parties was solemnized – the husband started beating the wife – a petition for maintenance was filed and maintenance of Rs.5,000/- per month was awarded by Additional Sessions Judge while reversing the order of Judicial Magistrate- held in revision that the wife had left her matrimonial home and was residing with her parents- the husband had instituted a petition for restitution of conjugal rights but mere institution of the petition for restitution of conjugal rights will not have any effect on the proceedings under Section 125 of Cr.P.C – the wife had left the home due to beatings given to her and she had a reasonable cause to reside separately – the income of the wife was not proved – the maintenance was rightly granted. (Para-2 to 9)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Anoop Rattan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant petition stands directed against the impugned order recorded on 13.08.2014 by the learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Una, Camp at Amb, District Una, H.P., in Crl. Revision RBT No. 6/2013/2011 whereby he reversed the verdict pronounced by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.1, Amb, District Una, H.P. on an application preferred therebefore by the respondent herein under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Under the impugned rendition, the learned Additional Sessions Judge assessed qua the respondent herein maintenance quantified in a sum of Rs.5000/- per month. He pronounced therein qua the aforesaid per mensem amount of maintenance being payable w.e.f. 21.04.2010. Standing aggrieved, the petitioner herein has assailed herebefore the impugned rendition.

2. Uncontrovertedly, the litigating parties herebefore are married partners. An obligation under law is cast upon the husband to maintain his lawfully married wife. On emphatic proof standing adduced qua his neglecting to maintain his wife or refusing to maintain her, would entail upon the trial Magistrate concerned to assess maintenance qua the married spouse unless evidence of immense vigour stands adduced therebfore by the husband qua his married spouse possessing sufficient means to maintain herself. An inference of the husband refusing besides neglecting to maintain his lawfully wedded wife would stand spurred even when his lawfully married spouse stands precluded by strong exceptional compelling reasons to alienate herself from the matrimonial company of her husband. However, the learned trial Magistrate on incisively traversing through the evidence as stood adduced before him, has concluded of the purported incident(s) of physical cruelty perpetrated upon the respondent herein by her husband during the former's stay at her matrimonial home remaining unproven whereupon he concluded of the departure of the respondent herein to her parental home not standing emphatically established to stand founded upon any reasonable ground rather her stay thereat being pretextual whereupon he refused to assess maintenance per mensem qua the respondent herein.

3. Dehors the tenacity or otherwise of the evidence adduced before the learned trial Magistrate displaying the factum of the respondent herein during her stay at her matrimonial home standing subjected to belabourings by her husband, the imperative fact which was enjoined to be pronounced upon was qua the petitioner herein, since his married spouse leaving for her parental home on 17.01.2009 whereat she since thereat has been continuously staying, making sincere genuine efforts to retrieve her to her matrimonial home, efforts whereof standing spurned by the respondent herein, would foster an inference of the respondent herein without any reasonable cause staying at her parental home whereupon she would be dis-entitled to claim maintenance from her husband. Contrarily, on emergence of evidence in display of her husband not making any genuine sincere efforts to retrieve her to her matrimonial home would entail upon him an obligation to maintain her thereat also necessarily with his omitting to retrieve her to her matrimonial home would galvanize an inference of his abandoning her company, concomitantly, thereupon he cannot refuse or neglect to maintain his married spouse despite the latter staying with her parents.

4. For determining the aforesaid factum probandum, an allusion to the evidence germane to it warrants advertence. Though the husband in portrayals of his making sincere efforts to retrieve his married spouse to her matrimonial home has testified qua the factum of the respondent staying at her parental home against his wish standing brought to the notice of Nagar Panchayat and Community Health Sabha. However, the aforesaid testification in display of the husband concerting to retrieve the respondent herein to her matrimonial home lacks vigour for want of it acquiring corroboration from the official concerned of the Nagar Panchayat or Community Health Sabha. The apt sequel arising from the aforesaid omission of the husband to lend corroborative succor to his testification qua his soliciting the support of the functionaries of the Nagar Panchayat and the Community Health Sabha, for retrieving the respondent herein to her matrimonial home warranting a deduction qua his contriving the factum of his making genuine sincere efforts to retrieve his married spouse to his matrimonial company.

5. Furthermore in display of the husband making an arduous, genuine attempt to retrieve his married spouse to her matrimonial home he propagates in his testification qua his standing accompanied by the members of Sawarankar Sudhar Sabha to the parental home of the respondent, visit whereof to the parental home of the respondent not acquiring any success arising from the factum of PW-2 not permitting the visitors to his house to egress his homestead. However, the aforesaid propagation loses its vigour for the reason that an apposite suggestion qua the aforesaid factum stood not put to PW-2 besides with none of the members of Swarankar Sudhar Sabha, who purportedly accompanied the petitioner herein to the parental house of the respondent herein, who however were purportedly not allowed by PW-2 to enter his house not standing examined for thereupon lending succor to the aforesaid propagation. An inevitable sequel of the aforesaid want of adduction of the relevant germane best evidence by the husband in portrayal of his making sincere, genuine efforts to retrieve his married spouse to his matrimonial company, foments an inference of the petitioner herein abandoning the company of the respondent herein whereupon it is to be concluded of his being the errant spouse whereas the respondent herein not being amenable to any imputation of any fault for hers living at her parental home nor also her stay thereat being without any reasonable cause whereupon it is apt to conclude of the husband being enjoined to maintain her even when she is staying at her parental home whereas his neglecting or refusing to maintain her, entails a command upon him from this Court qua his being amenable to pay maintenance to her in the manner as pronounced by the learned Additional Sessions Judge.

6. It is relevant to advert to the submission made herebefore by the counsel for the respondent qua the petitioner herein instituting before the learned Addl. Sessions Judge a petition for restitution of conjugal rights wherefrom he contends of it personifying the factum of the petitioner herein endeavouring to retrieve the respondent herein to his matrimonial company whereupon he contends of the impugned order warranting interference. However, the mere institution of a petition for restitution of conjugal rights by the petitioner before the learned District Judge would not per se tantamount to his proving the factum of his thereupon making sincere endeavours to retrieve the respondent herein to his matrimonial company unless a verdict thereupon stood pronounced by the learned District Judge. However, the apposite verdict pronounced by the learned District Judge on a petition preferred before him under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act by the petitioner herein remains unadduced in evidence. For lack of adduction into evidence of the apposite verdict pronounced by the learned District Judge on the apposite petition preferred therebefore by the petitioner, cannot constrain a conclusion of its mandate standing infracted by the respondent herein whereas only on hers provenly infracting besides disobeying the verdict pronounced by the learned District Judge on an apposite petition constituted before him under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act would stir an inference qua thereupon the respondent herein standing dis-entitled to claim maintenance from her husband in a petition under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C. Contrarily, for reiteration, for lack of its standing adduced into evidence warrants an inference of its mere institution not galvanizing any thrust to the espousal of the petitioner herein qua his making sincere efforts to retrieve the respondent herein to his matrimonial company nor also it can be concluded qua on its mere institution the respondent herein standing enjoined to return to the matrimonial company of her husband. On the other hand, it appears of the aforesaid apposite petition standing speciously preferred by the petitioner herein before the learned District Judge as a mere contrivance to defeat the claim of the respondent herein for maintenance, conspicuously, when it stood instituted subsequent to the institution of the instant petition by the respondent herein before the learned trial Magistrate concerned.

7. Be that as it may, the factum of the petitioner herein possessing sufficient financial means to defray to his married spouse the quantum of per mensem maintenance as assessed in the impugned order is garnerable from the factum of the father of the petitioner herein disclosing in his testification qua his rearing from his business of a goldsmith an income ranging from 2700 to 2800 whereas with the petitioner herein deposing his earning a salary of Rs.2500/- per month while his standing employed as a helper in the jewelery shop of his father at Naudan, makes a palpable upsurgence of the factum of both the petitioner herein besides his father contriving the factum of the former standing employed as a helper in the goldsmith shop, established by his father at Naudan wherefrom the petitioner is purportedly drawing monthly wages quantified at Rs.2500/-. Also it appears hence of the petitioner in collusion with his father by falsely displaying qua the petitioner herein not possessing sufficient financial means his hence concerting to thwart the claim for maintenance of the respondent herein from him. Furthermore, the factum of the petitioner rearing a false plea of his standing employed as a helper in the goldsmith shop of his father located at Naudan wherefrom he purportedly draws a salary of Rs.2500/- per month stands generated by the factum of (a) bag Ex. P1 holding therein the mobile number of the petitioner herein; (b) with a display occurring in ex.P1 qua the business of a goldsmith shop located at Naudan running in the name and style of Suresh Jewellers, name whereof occurring in Ex.P-1 holds synonymity with the name of the petitioner herein, dispels the factum of the petitioner herein standing employed as a helper in the jewelery business of his father. Contrarily, it portrays of the relevant business of goldsmith standing operated by the petitioner herein wherefrom the ensuing sequel is qua his rearing an income sufficient to maintain his married spouse, the respondent herein.

8. Though, the respondent herein had for discountenancing the claim reared by the respondent herein in a petition under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C., espoused qua the latter drawing and earning Rs.4000/- per month by working in Swami Viveka Nand Public School besides hers earning another sum of Rs.5000/- per month by doing tuition work yet the aforesaid espousal does not hold any probative worth for want of adduction of relevant best evidence in support thereof comprised in his examining the official concerned of Swami Viveka Nand Public School also for want of his examining the parents of the wards tuitioned by the respondent herein. In sequel, thereto it is apt to conclude qua the respondent herein not possessing sufficient financial means to support herself.

Municipal Corpn. Shimla v. Prem Lata Sood, (2007) 11 SCC 40
M/s. Verma Traders and others v. The State of Himachal Pradesh and another, AIR 1983 HP 81

For the petitioner : Mr. G.C. Gupta, Senior Advocate with Mr. Surender Thakur, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Mr. Hamender Singh Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

Instant petition has been filed against order dated 18th March, 2008 passed by the Additional Chief Secretary (TCP) on an appeal under Section-32 of the HP Town and Country Planning Act, 1977 preferred by the petitioner against order dated 29.12.1997 of the Director, Town and Country Planning, Himachal Pradesh, whereby proposal of the petitioner for construction of three storeyed commercial building over existing single storey + parking and addition in ground floor on Khasra Nos. 281, 284, 288 to 310, 312 to 318, at Bright Land, Shimla-3, was rejected being in banned/core area of Shimla Planning Area and on the ground that said proposed construction will obstruct the vision and create more congestion in the already developed area.

2. However, this is second round of litigation between the parties as the petitioner has already approached this Court by filing CWP No. 398 of 1997, which was disposed of on 24.12.2007. The petitioner had filed aforesaid CWP against decision dated 1.3.2000, whereby appeal filed by the petitioner against order dated 29.12.1997 passed by Director, Town and Country Planning was rejected by respondent No.1. While disposing of CWP No. 398 of 1997, this Court quashed and set aside order dated 1.3.2000 and observed that order dated 1.3.2000 was not a speaking order, as such respondent No.1 was directed to pass a speaking order on the appeal of the petitioner within three months of the passing judgment dated 24.12.2007.

3. In pursuance to above, Additional Chief Secretary (TCP) passed a detailed order dated 18.3.2008, thereby rejecting the appeal of the petitioner, against which now the instant petition has been filed.

4. Matrix of the case, as emerge from the petition, is that the mother of petitioner namely Shanti Devi applied on 26.12.1994 seeking planning permission for the construction of the commercial building, as noticed above. As per the petitioner, he/his mother did not receive any communication till 22.4.1996, when letter was written to the Executive Engineer, Town and Country Planning. Another letter was written on 25.9.1996, which was received on 26.9.1996 in the office of Town and Country Planning. In between another letter dated 23.6.1995 was sent to the respondents, which too was not replied by them. On 20.11.1996, another letter was sent by Shanti Devi for invoking deemed sanction in her favour, on account of having received no response by her after 26.12.1994. Thereafter, on 5.5.1997a notice was sent to the Director, Town and Country Planning and Executive Engineer, Development Control Division No.4 through advocate, in reply to letter dated 11.3.1997, advising the respondents to withdraw letter dated 11.3.1997 and to accord sanction under deeming provision in her favour. This notice was also not replied to by the respondent. In the meantime, Shanti Devi expired, and, accordingly, the present petitioner filed CWP No. 398/1997 before this Court.

5. In reply to the averments contained in the writ petition, respondent-State put up a different case altogether. As per the reply, petitioner was intimated about the shortcomings in the proposal dated 26.12.1994 on the same date, to which the petitioner replied on 23.6.1995 that too without attending the shortcomings. Petitioner was again advised to attend to the shortcomings, on 22.6.1996. Petitioner replied on 31.7.1996 and again failed to submit the complete documents. On 17.9.1996, again petitioner was asked to meet the observations, which was replied by the petitioner on 26.9.1996, again leaving some of the formalities unattended. Respondents conveyed their observations on 17.10.1996 and 11.3.1997 to the petitioner. Provisions of deemed sanction having come into play, has been denied by the State. It is also averred that in response to the letter dated 23.11.1996 of petitioner, respondents asked petitioner to furnish original copy of revenue record on 11.3.1997. Factum of notice dated 5.5.1997 is not denied, however, it is averred that the same was withdrawn on 26.8.1997. Stand as taken by the respondent-State is that the plan/proposal of petitioner was rejected in view of para 10.4.1.2 of the Interim Development Plan Shimla, to avoid congestion in the area. Further objection was taken that as per proposal, the set back left in the previous plan was also proposed to be used for construction, which would lead to congestion in the area. It was also averred that the site in question fell in the banned/core area of Shimla. They have vehemently denied the stand of the petitioner that the provisions of Interim Development Plan are applicable to vacant plots only. They also stressed that the Interim Development Plan was applicable to vacant as well as existing constructions. The main contention of the respondent-State is that provisions of deemed sanction would not be applicable since there is continuous correspondence between the petitioner and the respondents, besides the fact that the petitioner never submitted a complete proposal.

6. Petitioner filed rejoinder to the reply filed by respondents No.1 to 3 and refuted the averments made by the respondents. It is reiterated that the proposal submitted by the petitioner/ his predecessor-in-interest, was complete in all respects and further the petitioner attended to all the observations made by the respondents in subsequent communications. It is averred that during 23.6.1995 to 22.6.1996, for one year, there was no response/communication from the respondents rejecting/accepting the proposal of the petitioner and as such there is deemed sanction in favour of the petitioner as per para 31 of the Town and Country Planning Act. Factum of withdrawing notice dated 5.5.1997 is denied. It is reiterated that provisions of para 10.4.1.2 of the Plan are not applicable to the existing construction. It is also stated that no obstruction of vision would take place as the area behind the proposed construction site belongs to the petitioner only.

7. During the pendency of the petition, State also placed on record additional documents i.e. copies of letters/communications during the period 26.12.1994 to 29.12.1997 in order to show that correspondence has taken place between the petitioner and the office of Town and Country Planning during this period and there was no period, when there was no response given by the department to the communications received from the petitioner.

8. During the pendency of petition, Municipal Corporation, Shimla was arrayed as respondent No.4. The Corporation also filed is reply to the petition stating therein that the petitioner had submitted a proposal thereby exceeding the maximum floor area i.e. 1982.18 sq metres as against the maximum admissible area of 1074.48 sq metres. It was also averred that these facts had been concealed in the petition and as such same could not be dealt in the order passed by respondent No. 3 and respondent No.1. Deemed sanction in favour of petitioner was denied.

9. Petitioner filed rejoinder to the affidavit/ reply filed by Municipal Corporation, Shimla reiterating the stand taken in the petition and denying the averments made in the reply affidavit by the Municipal Corporation, Shimla. Factum regarding exceeding floor area was denied.

10. Interestingly, respondent State filed an application being CMP No. 8517/2014 thereby seeking amendment of reply on the ground that some relevant documents could not be filed during earlier reply. Paras No. 3 to 6 of reply were amended. Reply to the same was also filed. Yet another application was filed by the State for placing on record certain other documents.

11. Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Surender Thakur, Advocate, vehemently argued that the impugned order dated 18.3.2008, passed by the Additional Chief Secretary (TCP), while disposing of the appeal under Section 32 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1977, is not sustainable in the eyes of law, as the same is not based on correct appreciation of facts as well as provisions of law and same deserves to be quashed and set aside. He further stated that the order passed by respondent No. 3, which was further upheld by respondent No.2, is against the provisions of Town and Country Planning Act, 1977 because neither the provisions of Para 10.4.1.2 of Interim Development Plan under the Act ibid are applicable in the present case nor the ground, on which plan has been rejected by respondent

No.3 falls in the ambit of the Act ibid. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid argument, he forcefully contended that since there was already a construction, qua which planning permission was sought, it was only a addition to existing construction. There is no force in the findings returned by the authority below that there would be congestion in the area in case permission is granted to the petitioner. As per Mr. Gupta, provisions of Interim Development Plan are applicable only in case planning permission is sought for construction on vacant plot and in this case, even no permission was required from State Government. Final authority for grant of permission vested with respondent No.2. Mr. Gupta, further contended that respondent No.2 while passing impugned order failed to take note of the deeming provisions as contained in Section 31(5) of the Act and wrongly arrived at conclusion that provisions of deemed sanction are not applicable in the present case. As per Mr. Gupta, besides the provisions contained in Section 31 of the Town and Country Planning Act, there is no other provision for grant/refusal of permission with respect to applications received under Section 30 of the Act, irrespective of the fact that recommendation is to be sent to respondent No.1. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid argument, Mr. Gupta invited attention of this Court to letter dated 26.12.1994, whereby predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner applied to respondent No.3 and submitted plan seeking planning permission for the construction of three stories over existing structure (single storey) plus parking, to demonstrate that plan, complete in all respects, was submitted with the authorities for according approval but the authorities failed to acknowledge aforesaid letter till 22.4.1996, when she sent another letter to the Executive Engineer, TCP to know about the fate of the plan submitted by her. Since the authorities failed to take action on her plan, same would be deemed to have been sanctioned as per provisions of Section 31 (5) of the Act immediately following the expiry of six months. Mr. Gupta, with a view to substantiate his argument that no communication after submission of plan vide letter dated 26.12.1994 was ever sent to the petitioner, made this Court to travel through various letters placed on record by way of annexures P-2 dated 22.4.1996, P-3 dated 26.9.1996, P-4 dated 20.11.1996 and P-5 notice dated 5.5.1997, to demonstrate that since there was no response by the authorities pursuant to submission of plan vide letter dated 26.12.1994, plan submitted by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner was bound to be sanctioned in terms of provisions of Section 31 (5) of the Act. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Gupta made this Court to peruse various letters purportedly sent by the petitioner to the respondents requesting therein to accord sanction to the plan as submitted by her vide letter dated 26.12.1994. Mr. Gupta, strenuously argued that since there was no communication from the side of respondents from 23.6.1995 to 22.6.1996, for more than the stipulated period of six months, plan submitted by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner is deemed to have been sanctioned as per Section 31 (5) of the Act. He placed reliance on judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in (2001) 8 SCC 329 and judgment of this Court reported in AIR 1983 Himachal Pradesh 81. Mr. Gupta, further stated that bare perusal of impugned order passed in appeal by the appellate authority nowhere suggests that documents placed on record by the petitioner were ever taken into consideration by the appellate authority while disposing of the appeal, which clearly suggests that impugned order is not based upon correct appreciation of material documents made available on record by the petitioner, as such, same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

12. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General duly assisted by Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, supported the order passed by the appellate authority. While referring to the impugned order dated 18.3.2008, passed by Additional Chief Secretary (TCP), Mr. Thakur stated that same is based on correct appreciation of documents adduced on record as well as law and as such there is no illegality or infirmity in the same. Mr. Thakur, with a view to refute the contentions put forth by the petitioner that no communication after submission of plan by Shanti Devi, predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner, was sent to the petitioner by the respondents for more than six months, as a result of which plan submitted was deemed to have been sanctioned, invited attention of this Court to various documents placed on record by the respondent-State to demonstrate that letter dated 26.12.1994 was suitably replied and petitioner was advised to attend all the observations in a time bound manner to enable authorities to proceed ahead to sanction plan in accordance with law. Mr. Thakur, with a view to substantiate his aforesaid contention also invited attention of this Court to various documents placed on record suggestive of the fact that after submission of plan vide letter dated 26.12.1994, respondents repeatedly requested the petitioner to attend to other observations made in various letters. Mr. Thakur, specifically invited attention of this Court to communications dated 17.10.1996 (annexure R-1/H and annexure R-1/J, addressed to the petitioner, wherein she was advised to make available structural design, to demonstrate that there is no force in the submissions having been made by the petitioner that after submission of plan dated 26.12.1994, no communication was ever addressed to the petitioner. Mr. Thakur, on the basis of aforesaid documents vehemently argued that since at no point of time, petitioner submitted plan complete in all respect, there was no occasion, whatsoever, for the authorities to take action in the matter. Mr. Thakur, while inviting attention of this Court to impugned order dated 18.3.2008, contended that bare perusal of same suggests that order is reasoned one and same has been passed after due appreciation of the facts. He specially stated that provisions of para 10.4.1.2 of Interim Development Plan under Town and Country Planning Act, 1977 were rightly applied in the case of petitioner because if plan submitted by petitioner is seen vis-à-vis spot, there would be congestion as has been defined in the provisions of para 10.4.1.2 of Interim Development Plan. He also refuted the claim of the petitioner that no permission is required from State Government and provisions of Interim Development Plan are applicable to vacant plots and not to existing construction. In this case, he stated that provisions are applicable to the construction whether on vacant plots or on existing constructions. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Thakur, while supporting the impugned order, prayed for dismissal of the petition.

13. Mr. Hamender Chandel, Advocate, appearing for Municipal Corporation, Shimla also supported the impugned order passed by the appellate authority and stated that the petitioner had submitted proposal thereby exceeding the maximum floor area i.e. 1982.18 sq metres as against admissible area of 1074.48 sq metres and as such same was rightly not accepted by the authorities. He also stated that at the time of furnishing plan with the Department, petitioner concealed material facts and proposal was not furnished as per position existing on the spot. Mr. Chandel, further argued that since there are ample documents on record suggestive of the fact that letter dated 26.12.1994 vide which plan was submitted, was suitably replied by the Town and Country Planning, there is no question of application of Section 31 (5) of the Act.

14. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

15. After carefully perusing the pleadings of the parties as well as submissions having been made by respective counsel, following questions arise for determination by this Court:

1. Whether plan submitted by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner on 26.12.1994 seeking planning permission for construction of three storied building over the existing construction (single storey) plus parking in the ground floor of Khasra Nos. 281, 284 and 288 to 310 and 312 to 318 at Bright Land Hotel, Shimla, is deemed to have been sanctioned in terms of Section 31 (5) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1977?
2. Whether impugned order dated 18.3.2008 passed by Additional Chief Secretary (TCP) is based on correct appreciation of documents as well as law on the point?

16. Before adverting to merits of the case, it would be appropriate to reproduce Para 31(5) of the Himachal Pradesh Town and Country Planning Act, 1977, as under:

> Grants or refusal of permission. 31(5) If the Director does not communicate his decision whether to grant or refuse permission to the applicant within two months from the date of receipt of his application, such permission shall be deemed to have been granted to the applicant on the date immediately following the date of expiry of two months:

Provided that in computing the period of two months the period in between the date of requisitioning any further information or documents from the applicant and date of receipt of such information or documents from the applicant shall be excluded.

17. Para 10.4.1.2(iii) of the Interim Development Plan, Shimla reads as under:

No building or other structure thereafter be erected or re-erected or materially altered: -

1. to exceed the height;
2. to accommodate or house a greater number of families;
3. to occupy a greater percentage of plot area;
4. to have narrower or smaller rear years, front yards, side yards, or other open spaces

Other than required or any other manner contrary to provisions of these regulations.

18. Perusal of Section 31 (5) suggests that on receipt of application under Section 30, Director, TCP may either grant permission unconditionally or grant permission subject to such condition as deemed necessary in the circumstances or refuse permission. Section 31(5) further suggests that further order granting permission subject to condition or refusing permission shall state grounds for imposing such condition or such refusal. But most importantly, Section 31 (5) provides that if the Director does not communicate his decision whether to grant or refuse permission to the applicant within two months (amended) from the date of receipt of application, permission shall be deemed to have been granted to the applicant on the date immediately falling on the expiry i.e. two months, provided that in computing period of two months, period between the date of requisitioning of any further information or documents from the applicant and date of receipt of same from applicant, would be excluded.

19. In the instant case, in nutshell, the case of the petitioner is that his predecessor-in-interest namely Smt. Shanti Devi submitted plan to respondent No.3 vide communication dated 26.12.1994 seeking planning permission for construction of three storied building over the existing structure (single storey + parking in ground floor) of the property known as Cosy Nook Estate, Shimla-3, which was diarized as No. HIM-TP-case-471. Petitioner has placed on record drawings submitted by Smt. Shanti Devi on 26.12.1994. As per the petitioner, his predecessor-in-interest did not receive any communication till 22.4.1996 and as such she was compelled to send another communication to the Executive Engineer, TCP on 22.4.1996 i.e. annexure P-2. Perusal of aforesaid communication suggests that the petitioner had submitted case for planning permission for addition to existing building on 26.12.1994 and certain points were raised but the fact remains that the same were attended by Smt. Shanti Devi and submitted in the office of TCP on 23.6.1995. Since one year had passed after re-submission of plan on 23.6.1995, Smt. Shanti Devi vide letter dated 22.4.1996, claimed that permission shall be deemed to have been granted to the petitioner immediately on expiry of six months in terms of Section 31 (5). But perusal of annexure P-3 suggests that communication dated 25.9.1996 placed on record by the petitioner itself suggests that the respondent-department had called for structural designs from Smt. Shanti Devi because, admittedly, all these letters suggest that petitioner vide communication dated 23.6.1995 had informed the respondents that structural designs would be submitted in the department after approval of the Government is conveyed. Further, this letter suggests that structural designs were submitted vide communication dated 25.9.1996. It would be relevant to reproduce letter dated 25.9.1996 as under:

"To
The Executive Engineer,
Dev. Control Division No. IV,
Town and Country Planning Department,

Shimla-1(H.P.)

Sub: Planning permission/addition and alteration to the exiting structure in Cosynook Estaet vide your First observation letter No. HIM/TP-Case Diary No. 471/94 dated 26.12.94 and your third observation letter No. HIM/TCP-D-IV/Case No. Dy. 471/98-572 dated 17.9.96.

Dear Sir,

As I have already pointed out in my letter dated 23.6.95 that structural designs will be submitted in your Department after approval from the government is coveyed to us. Anyhow, I am submitting the structural designs which are enclosed herewith.

All the Tatima, jamabandhi and demarcation certificate are all submitted in your office on 26.12.94 and in my site plan 600/B is already deleted which I had submitted in your office on 31.7.96 showing all setbacks. As far as the setbacks are concerned, the building will be constructed on the existing structure where ground floor having parking lot is not to be demolished in any case.

Kindly refer to my letter dated 23.6.95. Your office neither raised any objection nor any rejection, infact no reply at all was received from your end. Further I also wrote a letter dated 22.4.95 sent under postal certificate requesting that my plan be sanctioned immediately, to which also no reply was received.

Kindly send me the approval letter of my plans as early as possible.

Thanking you.

Yours faithfully,

Sd/-

20. This Court, after perusing aforesaid communication is convinced that till 25.9.1996, plan submitted by predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner vide letter dated 26.12.1994 was not complete in all respects and as such there was no occasion for the respondent authorities to grant sanction, if any. Perusal of annexure P-5 placed on record by petitioner suggests that legal notice was got served upon Director, TCP, through advocate calling upon authorities to withdraw leter dated 11.3.1997, whereby Smt. Shanti Devi, predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner, was asked to furnish copies of revenue records. Since petitioner has not placed on record communication dated 11.3.1997, it would be apt to reproduced paras 3 to 5 of the legal notice dated 5.5.1997 as under:

"3. That no sanction or refusal was communicated to Smt. Shanti Devi with respect to the building plan submitted by her on 26-12-1994 within a period of 6 months from the date of receipt of application seeking permission, therefore, the building plan was "deemed to have been sanctioned" within the meaning of Section 31(5) of H.P. Town & Country Planning Act, 1977. This fact was brought to your notice by Smt. Shanty Devi mother of my client vide her notice dated 21-11-1996 and was diarised on 23-11-1996 in your office vide diary No. 7596.

4. That since the building plan submitted by Smt. Shanti Devi for carrying out additions/alterations in the building was "deemed to have been sanctioned", therefore, she was within her right to carry out construction.

5. That my client has received letter No.HIM/TCP/D-iv/Case No.471/96-97-1202-03 dated 11-3-1997 whereby my client has been asked to furnish copies of revenue records. It is brought to your notice that since no objection was raised by your department within the stipulated period of 6 months from the date of submissions of the plan, therefore, the letter dated 11-3-1997 issued by you, referred to above, is totally uncalled for and it has been issued just to harass my client. You have no right at this stage to call upon my client to submit any documents as the plan stands already deemed sanctioned as per law."

21. Perusal of aforesaid averments contained in the legal notice suggests that vide communication dated 11.3.1997, predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner was asked to furnish revenue records but she instead of supplying the same, stated that since no objection was raised by the department within stipulated period of six months from the date of submission of plan, letter dated 11.3.1997 needs to be withdrawn.

22. Finally, respondents vide letter dated 29.12.1997, rejected the case of the petitioner for construction of three storied commercial building over existing single storey + parking, submitted by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner, on the ground that the proposals falls in the banned area of Shimla and proposed construction would obstruct vision and cause congestion.

23. Petitioner being aggrieved with the issuance of aforesaid rejection letter issued by the respondents filed an appeal under Section 32 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1977, which was also rejected. Being further aggrieved, petitioner filed CWP No. 398/1997 before this Court, which was decided on 24.12.2007, when this Court quashed order passed by appellate authority on 1.3.2000 and directed it to decide the appeal afresh and to dispose of the same by passing speaking/reasoned order reflecting due application of mind. In the aforesaid background, appellate authority again decided the appeal under Section 32 of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1977 and passed order dated 18.3.2008, which is impugned before this Court, in the present petition.

24. This Court, with a view to ascertain correctness and genuineness of the order passed by appellate authority, examined the same, perusal whereof suggests that the respondents while refuting claim of the petitioner stated before the appellate authority that pursuant to submission of the plan vide letter dated 26.12.1994, Executive Engineer, advised the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner to attend to the observations which were with respect to challan fee, planning permission of the Municipal Corporation, Shimla qua existing construction and to submit structure stability certificate. Aforesaid submissions/ contentions having been made by the respondents before appellate authority are strengthened by communication dated 23.6.1995 placed on record by petitioner, whereby observations made by Executive Engineer were addressed by the petitioner but the fact remains that the petitioner neither furnished structural design details nor submitted copies of sanction as was asked by the Executive Engineer. Respondents vide letter dated 22.6.1996 again advised the petitioner to submit site/location plan and structural designs, meaning thereby, after furnishing of plan, on 26.12.1994, predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner failed to attend the observations made by the authorities, as a result of which, plan submitted by Smt. Shanti Devi remained pending with the authorities.

25. Close perusal of communication dated 1.8.1996 placed on record by the petitioner itself suggests that no structural designs as were called for by Executive Engineer, were submitted because perusal of communication dated 1.8.1996 clearly suggests that at that time, petitioner submitted that structural designs would be submitted as and when necessary approval is granted by the Government. Hence, after careful perusal of aforesaid communications, which have been discussed hereinabove, this Court is compelled to conclude that the case of the petitioner remained incomplete and same could not be considered by the authorities for want of necessary documents. Respondents vide letter dated 17.91996, again advised the petitioner to submit structural designs and copies of revenue papers. It was specifically stated in the aforesaid letter that site plan was not proper as set backs were not shown therein but there is no document available on record suggestive of the fact that pursuant to aforesaid communication dated 17.9.1996, petitioner submitted structural designs as well as copies of revenue papers. Similarly, there is letter dated 17.10.1996, placed on record by respondents, perusal whereof suggests that petitioner was again requested to submit revenue papers/requisite designs. Again vide communication dated 11.3.1997, reminder was sent regarding communication dated 17.10.1996 but no response was sent by the petitioner. Finally, on 5.5.1997, petitioner issued notice to the respondents calling upon them to withdraw letter dated 11.3.1997 and to accord sanction in terms of Section 31 (5) of the Act to the plan submitted on 26.12.1994. But interestingly, aforesaid legal notice dated 5.5.1997 was withdrawn vide communication dated 26.8.1997, which, reads as under:

> (Surinder Singh)
> 26/8/97"

26. Since the petitioner failed to responded to the various communications sent by the respondents, his case was rejected on 29.12.1997, as has been stated herein above.

27. During arguments having been made by the parties, Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate disputed the correctness and genuineness of the letters placed on record by the respondents and as such this Court summoned the original record pertaining to the case.

28. At this stage, before proceeding ahead to decide the matter on merits, it would be apt to reproduce paras 3 to 6 of the reply filed by respondents No.1 to 3:

> "3. That the contents of this para are wrong hence denied. It is submitted that Smt. Shanti Devi, the predecessor in interest of the petitioner had applied for construction of three and half storey commercial building over existing structure on old kh. No. 602, 602/1 & 602/2 (New Khasra nos. 281, 284, 288 to 310 & 312 to 318 at bright Land Hotel on dated 26.12.1994. The applicant Smt. Shanti Devi was informed about the short comings in the plan on 26.12.1994 and the applicant submitted his reply on 23.6.1995 without attending all the observations and the applicant was again advised to attend all the observations vide letter on 22.6.1996 vide which the applicant was asked to submit the site plan, location plan and structural design. The applicant attended the aforesaid observations partly vide letter 31.7.1996 (Diarised in the office dated 1.8.1996) and submitted only site and location plan. The applicant was again asked to attend the complete observations vide letter dated 17.9.1996 which was replied by the applicant on dated 25.9.1996, (diarised in the office vide diary No. 557 dated 26-9-1996), but this time also the applicant did not attended all the observations and submitted only structural design and accordingly observation conveyed to applicant./ petitioner on dated 17.10.1996 and 11.3.1997. It is further submitted that provision of deemed sanction would have come into play only if the department would not have responded and the applicant would have fulfilled all requisite necessary codal requirements.

4. That the contents of this para are wrong hence denied and it is submitted that during the period 26.12.1994 to 17.10.1996 lot of correspondence was done with the petitioner. After receiving a letter dated 23.11.1996 (regarding Deemed Sanction) from the petitioner the replying respondent had asked the petitioner to furnish the original copy of revenue record vide letter dated 11.3.1997. (Copy of letter attached as annexure A-1) The contents of para are admitted to the extent that petitioner through his counsel issued a notice on dated 5.5.1997 but the same was withdrawn by the petitioner Sh. Surinder Singh no dated 26.8.1997.

5. That the contents of this para are partly denied to the extent that no communication regarding the plan submitted was conveyed to him but rest of the contents of para are admitted that CWP No. 398/1997 was filed by him in this Hon'ble Court. The petitioner had submitted three plans out of which two were sanctioned and third was rejected.

6. That the contents of para 6 and sub para are admitted to the extent that Director, Town and Country planning filed reply to the petition in the CWP No. 298/97 on dated 23.12.1997. The plan submitted by the applicant was rejected by the director on dated 29.12.1997. The petitioner challenged the rejection before the Secretary (TCP) to the Govt. of Himachal Pradesh but the same was dismissed vide order on dated 1.3.2000."

29. Perusal of aforesaid reply filed by the respondents suggests that despite there being several reminders, petitioner failed to attend the observations made by the respondents as far as plan submitted by petitioner and as such respondents were not in a position to take decision on the same. Petitioner, by way of rejoinder, refuted the aforesaid claim of the respondents. Respondents placed on record certain documents in the shape of annexure P-15 (original plan) i.e. letter dated 26.12.1994 and 25.9.1996, annexure P-17 dated 23.6.1996. Perusal of aforesaid letter dated 26.12.1994 whereby original plan was submitted before authorities for consideration, clearly suggests that structural design was not furnished alongwith original plan. Similarly, perusal of communication dated 25.9.1996, suggests that department had raised certain queries with regard to structural designs having been not furnished by the petitioner alongwith original plan and pursuant to these queries, petitioner vide communication dated 23.6.1995, informed the respondents that structural designs would be submitted in the department, after approval of the government is conveyed to the petitioner. It also emerges from letter dated 25.9.1996 that structural designs were submitted vide communication dated 25.9.1996. Similarly, perusal of communication dated 23.6.1998(annexure P-17) clearly suggests that information called for by the respondents could not be submitted by the petitioner since she had to leave for Delhi for medical treatment. At this stage, it would be relevant to reproduce communication dated 23.6.1998 (annexure P-17) as under:

"BRIGHTLAND HOTEL, COSY NOOK ESTATE, SHIMLA-171003, TEL:72659, 213659

To,
The Executive Engineer III,
Town & Country Planning Deptt.,
Division No. III, Khalini, Shimla-2.

Sub: Planning permission/additions & alterations to the existing structure, observation letter No HIM/TP-Case No.Dy.471/94 Dt. 26/12/1994

Dt.23/6/95"

30. Perusal of annexure P-18 dated 25.7.1997 also suggests that since petitioner failed to submit relevant revenue record, Executive Engineer, Division No. 4, Town and Country Planning Department himself applied to Naib Tehsildar (Urban) Settlement of land, HP Shimla-6, for issuance of Jamabandi and Tatimas. Perusal of aforesaid letter suggests that revenue authorities were requested to issue copies of Jamabandi as well as Tatimas in respect of Khata/Khatauni No. 45/61 situate at Up-Mohal Station Ward, Shimla Main falling under Station Ward, Shimla, Main. Annexure P-19, letter dated 28.8.1997 further suggests that the petitioner failed to furnish documents relating to revenue record with the plan permission case and as such no inquiry, if any could be conducted by the authorities concerned. Accordingly, Executive Engineer, Division No. 4, TCP, sent a communication to Director, Town and Country Planning informing therein that since requisite documents have been received and case has been examined. Record further reveals that the petitioner withdrew her legal notice in the case and proposed to raise construction of ground floor besides three additional stories on it. Perusal of communication dated 28.8.1997 suggests that the planning permission complete in all respects was submitted to the Director, TCP on 28.8.1997 and petitioner withdrew her notice dated 5.5.1997 wherein authorities were advised to withdraw letter dated 11.3.1997 and to accord permission under 'deeming provisions'. Perusal of annexure P-20 placed on record i.e. affidavit filed by Shri Ali Raza Rizvi, the then Director, Town and Country Planning, further suggests that petitioner had submitted two building plans, which are as follows:

"(i) Construction of one additional storey over existing 3 storey hotel building on Khasra No. 314 to 318 and 320 to 327 or Old Khasra No. 602/1.

(ii) Construction of a 4 storey + 1 parking floor hotel building on Khasra No. 297 to 299, 281, 284, 288 to 290, 300, 305 to 308 or old Khasra No. 602 and 602/2"

31. It also emerges from the affidavit that Director, Town and Country Planning made recommendations in each of the above plans in following terms:

"(i) not to allow any additional storey over existing 3 storey hotel building.

(ii) to allow 2 storey + 1 parking floor instead of 4 storey + 1 parking floor."

32. Government, vide letter dated 8.1.1998, conveyed planning permission without mentioning the number of stories to be allowed to the petitioner. Consequently, respondent No.2 made further reference to the Government on 29.1.198 and 24.4.1998 to intimate the correct position about the case in respect of number of storeys allowed. Finally, vide letter dated 23.5.1998, Government decided to consider the case of the petitioner afresh but as far as third case i.e. case No. 471/94, which is subject matter of the present petition, same was rejected vide letter No. HIM/TP-PP(P.Reg.)/97-300-Case No.471/94-15719-20 dated 29.12.97.

33. After careful perusal of aforesaid averments contained in the affidavit of Director, TCP, it clearly emerges that matter remained pending with the authorities from 26.12.1994 till 29.12.1997, for want of certain documents as well as clarification of the Government.

34. At the cost of repetition, it may be again observed that petitioner vide communication dated 23.6.1995 (annexure P-17), informed the authorities that structural design details would be submitted to the respondents after approval from the Government is conveyed, meaning thereby other cases as have been mentioned herein above, in affidavit of Shri Ali Raza Rizvi, the then Director, were pending before the authorities and petitioner wanted to file structural designs after approval of the government in those cases. This court, after perusing aforesaid communication placed on record by the petitioner, is fully convinced and satisfied that the matter was under active consideration with the authorities after submission of plan on 26.12.1994 and same could not be decided finally for want of documents from the side of the petitioner, who despite there being several communications failed to submit the same and finally the Government decided to consider the case of the petitioner afresh vide communication dated 23.5.1998, after withdrawal of legal notice dated 5.5.1997, wherein petitioner unconditionally withdrew the legal notice with the prayer to consider the plan submitted on 26.12.1994.

35. Respondents No.1 to 3, in terms of order passed by this Court placed on record certain documents to demonstrate that original plan submitted by petitioner vide communication dated 26.12.1994 was duly replied to and predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner was asked to attend to the observations so that case is approved at the earliest. Perusal of annexures R-1/B dated 26.12.1994, R-1/D dated 22.6.1996, R-1/F dated 17.9.1996, R-1/H dated 17.10.1996 and R-1/J dated 11.3.1997, clearly suggests that the matter remained under active consideration of the authorities and same could not be decided finally for want of certain documents from the side of the petitioner.

36. Careful perusal of documents annexure R-1/C dated 23.6.1995, R-1/E dated 31.7.1996, R-1/G dated 25.9.1996, R-1/K legal notice dated 5.5.1997, R-1/L communication dated 26.8.1997, also suggests that aforesaid communications sent by the petitioner were suitably replied by the department and repeatedly time was taken by the petitioner to submit structural design details.

37. Interestingly, in the aforesaid communications sent by the petitioner, in reply to letter issued by the respondents, petitioner has nowhere claimed that his plan submitted on 26.12.1994 stands sanctioned under deeming provisions of Section 31 (5). Vide annexure P-5, legal notice dated 5.5.1997, respondents were advised to withdraw letter dated 11.3.1997, whereby petitioner was asked to furnish revenue record. But the fact remains that vide letter dated 26.8.1997, same was withdrawn, meaning thereby contents of letter dated 11.3.1997 were duly admitted by the petitioner. It may be noticed here that after withdrawal of legal notice, Government vide letter dated 23.5.1998, decided to consider the case of the petitioner afresh.

38. After careful perusal of pleadings available on record as well as the original record submitted before this Court, I am unable to accept the contention of the petitioner that his case deserves to be allowed in terms of Section 31 (5) of the Act, under deeming provisions, because close scrutiny of documents as have been discussed in detail, clearly suggests that after furnishing original plan on 26.12.1994, matter remained under active consideration with the authorities, who were not in a position to process the case of the petitioner for want of certain documents from the side of the petitioner.

39. There are ample documents available on record suggestive of the fact that after submission of plan on 26.12.1994, respondents advised the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner to submit certain documents i.e. structural designs and revenue papers and plans pertaining to existing building approved by Municipal Corporation, Shimla. Finally vide communication dated 11.3.1997, petitioner was advised to make available revenue record. Apart from above, when petitioner himself withdrew legal notice dated 5.5.1997, plea having been made by petitioner can not be accepted because, admittedly, after withdrawal of notice, government decided to consider the case afresh. This Court also perused impugned order dated 18.3.2008, perusal whereof suggests that same is based on correct appreciation of documents made available on record by the respective parties. It also suggests that both the parties were given due opportunity of hearing and to place on record documents.

40. Now, this Court would advert to the judgments having been relied upon by Mr. Gupta in support of his claim vis-à-vis facts of the present case. Mr. Gupta, has vehemently argued that since the respondents failed to respond to the plan submitted by the petitioner within stipulated period of six months, plan is deemed to have been sanctioned in terms of Section 31 (5) of the Act.

41. Petitioner, in support of his claim has relied upon judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Live Oak Resort (P) Ltd. v. Panchgani Hill Station Municipal Council reported in (2001) 8 SCC 329, wherein their lordships have held as under:

> "29. As regards the issue of deemed sanction, the High court answered it in the negative recording therein that the appellants were refused of any sanction though beyond the period as such deemed sanction would not arise. Unfortunately, we cannot lend our concurrence thereto. Panchgani Municipal Council being a 'C' Class Municipal Council of Maharashtra in its Standardised Buildings Bye-laws, in particular, bye-law 9.2 records that while the authority may sanction or refuse a proposal, there stands an obligation on the part of the authority to communicate the decision and where no orders are communicated within 60 days from the date of submission of the plan either by way of a grant or refusal thereto, the authority shall be deemed to have permitted the proposed construction. In view of our observations noticed hereinbefore, we are not inclined to go into this issue in any detail suffice however to record that the submissions pertaining to deemed sanction has substance and cannot be brushed aside in a summary fashion. Eventual rejection does not have any manner of correlation with deemed sanction - it is only that expiry of the 60 days that the sanction is deemed to be given, subsequent rejection cannot thus affect any work of construction being declared as unauthorised. The deeming provision saves such a situation. As noticed above, we are not inclined to detain ourselves any further on this score."

42. Aforesaid judgment having been relied upon by the petitioner has been duly taken into consideration by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled Municipal Corpn. Shimla v. Prem Lata Sood reported in (2007) 11 SCC 40, wherein their lordships have held as under:

> 33. Section 247 no doubt provides for a legal fiction specifying a period of sixty days, within which the application for grant of sanction of a building plan should be granted, but the said period evidently has been considered to be providing for a reasonable period during which such application should be disposed of. However, only because the period of sixty days has elapsed from the date of filing of application, the same by itself would not attract the legal fiction contained in Section 247 of the 1994 Act. When such an application is attended to and the defects in the said building plans are pointed out, there cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the applicant must satisfactorily answer the queries and/or remedy the defects in the building plans pointed out by the competent authority.

36. It is now well-settled that where a statute provides for a right, but enforcement thereof is in several stages, unless and until the conditions precedent laid down therein are satisfied, no right can be said to have been vested in the person concerned. The law operating in this behalf, in our opinion is no longer res integra.

38. The question again came up for consideration in Howrah Municipal Corpn. and Others v. Ganges Rope Co. Ltd. and Others [(2004) 1 SCC 663], wherein this Court categorically held:

> "37. The context in which the respondent Company claims a vested right for sanction and which has been accepted by the Division Bench of the High Court, is not a right in relation to ownership or possession of any property for which the expression vest is generally used. What we can understand from the claim of a vested right set up by the respondent Company is that on the basis of the Building Rules, as applicable to their case on the date of making an application for sanction and the fixed period allotted by the Court for its consideration, it had a legitimate or settled expectation to obtain the sanction. In our considered opinion, such settled expectation, if any, did not create any vested right to obtain sanction. True it is, that the respondent Company which can have no control over the manner of processing of application for sanction by the Corporation cannot be blamed for delay but during pendency of its application for sanction, if the State Government, in exercise of its rule-making power, amended the Building Rules and imposed restrictions on the heights of buildings on G.T. Road and other wards, such settled expectation has been rendered impossible of fulfilment due to change in law. The claim based on the alleged vested right or settled expectation cannot be set up against statutory provisions which were brought into force by the State Government by amending the Building Rules and not by the Corporation against whom such vested right or settled expectation is being sought to be enforced. The vested right or settled expectation has been nullified not only by the Corporation but also by the State by amending the Building Rules. Besides this, such a settled expectation or the so-called vested right cannot be countenanced against public interest and convenience which are sought to be served by amendment of the Building Rules and the resolution of the Corporation issued thereupon."

44. There cannot be any doubt whatsoever that an owner of a property is entitled to enjoy his property and all the rights pertaining thereto. The provisions contained in a statute like the 1994 Act and the building bye-laws framed thereunder, however, provide for regulation in relation to the exercise and use of such right of an owner of a property. Such a regulatory statute must be held to be reasonable as the same is enacted in public interest. Although a deeming provision has been provided in sub-section (1) of Section 247 of the 1994 Act, the same will have restricted operation. In terms of the said provision, the period of sixty days cannot be counted from the date of the original application, when the building plans had been returned to the applicant necessary clarification and/or compliance of the objections raised therein. If no sanction can be granted, when the building plan is not in conformity with the building bye-laws or has been made in contravention of the provisions of the Act or the laws, in our opinion, the restriction would not apply despite the deeming provision.

45. A legal fiction, as is well-known, must be construed having regard to the purport and object of the Act for which the same was enacted. [See Ishikawajma-Harima Heavy Industries Ltd. v. Director of Income Tax, Mumbai 2007 (1) SCALE 140 Para 36].

47. The said decision having been rendered in the fact situation obtaining therein, which has no similarity to the facts of the present case, which in our opinion, cannot be said to have any application whatsoever. The submission of Mr. Ganguli that despite expiry of the period of sanction of the development plan by the State under the 1977 Act, the same should be held to be extended, in our opinion, cannot be accepted.

Reliance has been placed by Mr. Ganguli on M.C. Mehta (Badkhal and Suraj Kund Lakes Matter) v. Union of India and Others [(1997) 3 SCC 715]. Therein, it was held :

> "2. No construction of any type shall be permitted, now onwards, in the areas outside the green belt (as shown in Ex. A and Ex. B) up to one km radius of the Badhkal lake and Surajkund (one km to be measured from the respective lakes). This direction shall, however, not apply to the plots already sold/allotted prior to 10-5- 1996 in the developed areas. If any unallotted plots in the said areas are still available, those may be sold with the prior approval of the Authority. Any person owning land in the area may construct a residential house for his personal use and benefit. The construction of the said plots, however, can only be permitted up to two and a half storeys (ground, first floor and second half floor) subject to the Building Bye-laws/Rules operating in the area. The residents of the villages, if any, within this area may extend/reconstruct their houses for personal use but the said construction shall not be permitted beyond two and a half storeys subject to Building Bye-laws/Rules. Any building/house/commercial premises already under construction on the basis of the sanctioned plan, prior to 10-5-1996 shall not be affected by this direction"

50. Furthermore, since special regulations have been framed in the town of Shimla, the core area as provided for in the regulation is required to be protected. The area in question has been declared to be a heritage zone, and hence no permission to raise any construction can be issued, which would violate the ecology. Such regulations have been framed in public interest. Public interest, as is well-known, must override the private interest. [See Friends Colony Development Committee v. State of Orissa and Others AIR 2005 SC 1 para 22].

43. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Municipal Corporation vs. Prem Lata Sood case, clearly suggests that deeming provisions as provided under Section 31 (5) of TCP Act, would have restricted operation and period of six months can not be counted from the date when original application was submitted, especially when building plan had been returned to applicant for necessary clarification and/or compliance of objections raised therein. Hon'ble Apex Court specifically held in the said judgment that If no sanction can be granted, when the building plan is not in conformity with the building bye-laws or has been made in contravention of the provisions of the Act or the laws, the restriction would not apply despite the deeming provision. Apex Court has specifically held that since special regulations have been framed in the town of Shimla, the core area as provided for in the regulation is required to be protected.

44. Petitioner further has relied upon judgment of this Court rendered in M/s. Verma Traders and others v. The State of Himachal Pradesh and another, reported in AIR 1983 HP 81, wherein it has been held as under:

> "9 Under Section 17(2) (f), the terms and conditions subject to which, and the manner in which, the permit may be granted under Section 19 (1) has been prescribed. In the absence of any rules framed under Section 17 of the Act, it is not possible to ascertain whether the above condition could be imposed or not. Even the guidelines are not indicated anywhere. An authority cannot assume arbitrary, unguided and unbridled power in a matter relating to the rights of a citizen. By imposing the above condition, the State Government indirectly made Section 4 of the Act applicable by defeating the purpose of Section 19 (1) thereof. Such a course cannot be considered legal or reasonable. The State Government cannot be permitted to achieve an object indirectly which is not permissible in terms of an enabling provision of the Act. Section 19 (1) being an exception to Section 4 of the Act, the action could be only taken in consonance with the spirit of the said section. It is strange that in the one hand the State Govt. permitted the petitioners to get the area demarcated, get the trees marked allowed their > felling and to convert timber therefrom and on other hand when the forest produce reaches the stage of sale in the shape of timber, a condition like the one referred to above is imposed. Such an action is not justified and the principle of equitable and promissory estoppel will apply to the facts of the case. It is a matter of common knowledge that in the process of felling of trees and converting timber therefrom, a person has to incur heavy expenses. Now, when the timber is ready for sale, without any price having been fixed and without action having been taken under Sections 6 and 7 of the Act, it is not just and proper to impose such a condition. Since such a condition is not in consonance with the essence and spirit of Section 19 (1) of the Act, the same cannot be sustained Moreover, no such material has been placed on record to show that the restriction imposed is in the interest of general public. Since no rules are prescribed and nothing cap be spelled out from the record to justify the imposition of such a condition, the same is unwarranted under the law. The record reveals that the final decision of the imposition of the above condition has been taken at the final stage, without any material on record."

45. Aforesaid judgment relied upon by the petitioner, if read in its entirety, may be of no help to the petitioner. As has been discussed in detail, there was no occasion for the respondents to act within stipulated period as envisaged under Section 31 (5) of the Act, intimating therein ground for refusal because, at no point of time, petitioner submitted his plan complete in all respects. There is no quarrel that once authority in terms of Section 31 (5) of the Act had a provision of deemed sanction, it was incumbent upon it to sanction or refuse proposal within stipulated period. But in the case in hand, as has been noticed in detail, plan was not submitted complete in all respects, rather there are communications available on record suggestive of the fact that repeatedly petitioner failed to submit structural design and sought time from the authorities. Thus, it is not the case where deeming provisions would apply. Petitioner has also relied upon judgment of this Court rendered in Smt. Kanta Sharma and others v. State of H.P. and another decided on 18.10.2004. However, same is also not applicable to this case.

46. Hence, this Court after carefully examining the law laid down in Municipal Corpn. Shimla v. Prem Lata Sood, is fully convinced and satisfied that plan submitted by petitioner can not be held to sanctioned under deeming provisions especially in view of the fact that the petitioner has failed to remove the objections/ supply the documents called for by the respondents and during this period, petitioner never submitted plan, complete in all respects, to the authorities.

47. At this stage, Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate disputed the correctness of the documents filed by the respondents by stating that none of these documents were ever received by the petitioner and as such same can not be taken into consideration. But this Court, after carefully perusing the documents placed on record by respondents juxtaposing same with the documents placed on record by the petitioner is satisfied and convinced that documents having been relied upon by the respondents were received and suitably replied by the petitioner. Moreover, dispute, if any, with regard to genuineness and correctness of the documents placed on record by respondents, can not be looked into by this Court in the present proceedings and this Court sees no reason to disbelieve the correctness and genuineness of the government record, which suggest that matter remained under active consideration and the case of petitioner could not be considered for want of certain clarifications from the petitioner.

48. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made herein above, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed. Pending applications are also disposed of.

For the appellant: Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisth, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 24th March, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-cum-Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 06/2005 (79/2002), titled as Smt. Resha Devi and others versus Vijay Kumar and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 3,27,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Appellant-insurer has called in question the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling it with liability on the following two counts:

(i) That the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of the accident; and

(ii) That the risk of the deceased was not covered.

5. The arguments advanced by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer are not legally tenable for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

6. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, which have given birth to the appeal in hand.

7. The claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 15 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that they became the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Balbir Singh, while driving tanker, bearing registration No. HP-20-8293, rashly and negligently on 13th June, 2002, near Village Karsal, in which Shri Bal Ram sustained injuries and succumbed to the said injuries.

8. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents by the medium of the replies and following issues came to be framed:

(i) Whether deceased Bal Ram died on 13-06-2002 near Karsal in motor accident due to rash and negligent driving of driver of vehicle No. HP-20-8293 as alleged? OPP

(ii) If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, as to whether the petitioners are entitled for compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP

(iii) Whether respondent No. 2 was not having valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and vehicle was driven in contravention of the policy as alleged?

(iv) Relief.

9. The claimants led evidence, examined Shri Pyar Chand as PW-2, Dr. Nirdosh as PW-3 and one of the claimants, namely Smt. Resha Devi, herself stepped into the witness box as PW-1.

10. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, awarded compensation in favour of the claimants in terms of the impugned award and saddled the insurer with liability. Hence, the appeal.

11. It is apt to record herein that the respondents in the claim petition, i.e. appellant-insurer, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have not led any evidence. Thus, the entire evidence led by the claimants have remained unrebutted.

12. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner-insured of the offending vehicle has committed willful breach as per the mandate of Sections 147 and 149 of the MV Act read with the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to do so.

13. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

"105. .....

(i) .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

14. The Apex Court in another case titled as Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 6505, has laid down the same principle. It is profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment herein:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh's case (supra). If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the insurance company is not liable for the compensation."

15. So far as the question of valid and effective driving licence is concerned, the driving licence of the driver of the offending vehicle has been exhibited as Ext. R-2. The appellant-insurer has not raised any objection at the time when the same was exhibited, thus, is precluded from raising the same at this stage.

16. My this view finds support from the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Rakesh Kumar & Etc. Etc. versus United India Insurance Company Ltd. & Ors. Etc. Etc., reported in JT 2016 (6) SC 504, wherein it has been held that once the license was proved and marked in evidence without any objection by the Insurance Company, it has no right to raise any objection about its admissibility at a later stage. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 to 22 of the said judgment herein:

"19. In our considered opinion, the Tribunal was right in holding that the driver of the offending vehicle possessed a valid driving license at the time of accident and that the Insurance Company failed to adduce any evidence to prove otherwise. This finding of the Tribunal, in our view, should not have been set aside by the High Court for the following reasons:

20. First, the driver of the offending vehicle (N.A.-2) proved his driving license (Exhibit-R1) in his evidence. Second, when the license was proved, the Insurance Company did not raise any objection about its admissibility or manner of proving. Third, even if any objection had been raised, it would have had no merit because it has come on record that the original driving license was filed by the driver in the Court of Judicial Magistrate First class, Naraingarh in a criminal case arising out of the same accident. Fourth, in any event, once the license was proved by the driver and marked in evidence and without there being any objection by the Insurance Company, the Insurance Company had no right to raise any objection about the admissibility and manner of proving of the license at a later stage (See Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Premlata Shukla & Ors. [JT 2007 (8) SC 575 : 2007 (13) SCC 476] and lastly, the Insurance Company failed to adduce any evidence to prove that the driving license (Ex.R1) was either fake or invalid for some reason.

21. In the light of foregoing reasons, we are of the considered opinion that the High court was not right in reversing the finding of the Tribunal. Indeed, the High Court should have taken note of these reasons which, in our view, were germane for deciding the issue of liability of the Insurance Company arising out of the accident.

22. We, therefore, find no good ground to concur with the finding of the High Court. Thus while reversing the finding, we hold that the driver of the offending vehicle was holding a valid driving license (Exhibit-R1) at the time of accident and since the Insurance Company failed to prove otherwise, it was liable to pay the compensation awarded by the Tribunal and enhanced by the High Court." (emphasis added)

17. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has rightly decided all the issues against the appellant-insurer . The impugned award is well reasoned and legal one, needs no interference.

18. Having said so, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

19. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

20. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.
Versus
Santosh Kumar .....Respondent.

Decided on : 12/11/2016

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act 1989- Section 3(1)(x)- Informant stated that accused called him Chamar and Dagi in presence of many people – the accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held in appeal that the informant and PW-2 had a grouse against the accused and the motive to implicate the accused falsely– there was a delay of 32-34 days in reporting the matter to police, which makes the prosecution case suspect- the trial Court had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed. (Para-10 to 14)

For the Appellant: Mr. R.S.Thakur, Addl. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 17.07.2008 by the learned Special Judge, Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, in Sessions Trial No. 08 of 2007, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the complainant Bohra Ram is a member of a Scheduled Castes known as "Chamar" as per the certificate of Caste Ex. PW-1/F on record. He was posted as Head Teacher at Government Primary School, Garsian. On 15th November, 2006, he made a statement Ex. PW-1/A under Section 154 Cr.P.C. before the police that on 11th October, 2006 at about 10.30 a.m., he was present in his school on duty. At that time, accused Santosh Kumar, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Hanoh approached him. The complainant offered him a chair and also showed him the Sarv Shiksha Abhiyan register on demand. The accused checked the register. The complainant had spent Rs. 350/- vide Resolution No. 32 in accordance with the rules. The accused asked him as to why he had spent the amount without his permission. The complainant told him that he had spent the amount as per the directions received from the Centre. Santosh Kumar was enraged by this reply and called him "TU BIGRA HUA HAI, TU CHAMAR HAI, TU DAGI HAI" and told him that he would see him and get him transferred. It was further stated that Salochna Devi, Lady Teacher, Kashmir Singh, Water carrier, Jayanti Devi and Gian Chand were also present there who witnessed the incident. It was further reported that he had referred the matter to the Director of Education also. It was requested that action may be taken against the accused in accordance with law. On the basis of the aforesaid statement, a case was registered against the accused vide formal FIR Ex. PW-7/A. During the investigation of the case, the police prepared the site plan Ex. PW-8/A. The police also took into possession the Caste Certificate Ex. PW-1/F, copy of Resolution No. 32, Ex. PW-1/C, copy of Bill of expenditure of Rs. 350/- Ex. PW-1/D, copy of compromise deed Ex. PW-1/E, copy of Circular issued by the Director Land Records carrying the letter of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes for H.P. Statements of witnesses were recorded and the challan was prepared against the accused under Section 3(I)(x) of the Act and the same was put up in the Court of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. II, Hamirpur on 13th December, 2006. The learned Magistrate committed the trial to the Court of learned Special Judge, Hamirpur vide order, dated 7th May, 2007 after supplying copies of the challan to the accused.

3. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a challan was prepared and filed before the learned trial Court.

4. A charge stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 10 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. He chooses to lead evidence in defence.

6. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused. 7. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record by the learned trial Court and theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The purported vituperative penal casteist utterances pronounced upon the complainant by the accused-respondent herein, stood testified by the complainant while deposing as PW-1. His testification has attained corroborative vigour from the testifications of other prosecution witnesses wherebeforewhom they stood purportedly pronounced by the accused-respondent herein. The testification of the complainant whereto corroborative vigour stood purveyed by the testifications of prosecution witnesses wherebefore whom the penal vituperative casteist utterances stood pronounced by the accused upon the complainant, would per se, if unbereft of any taint of inter se or intra se contradictions facilitate this Court to record an order of conviction upon the accused/respondent. However, even if the complainant besides Gian Chand, Kashmir Singh and Jayanti Devi wherebeforewhom the penal vituperative casteist utterances stood purportedly pronounced by the accused/respondent upon the complainant are bereft of any stain of any inter se or intra se contradictions occurring in their respective examinations in chief vis.a.vis. their respective cross-examination besides in their respective testifications, would not for reasons hereafterstated, foment, any conclusion from this Court qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court warranting interference, significantly when on an incisive reading of their testifications visible upsurgences occur qua theirs holding inimicality towards the accused whereupon hence they stand denuded of their probative tenacity conspicuously when given their evident proven inimicality vis.a.vis the accused/respondent herein spurs an inference qua theirs thereupon standing goaded to falsely testify qua the guilt of the accused. Also their proven inimicality erodes the truthfulness besides the creditworthiness of the prosecution witnesses whereupon obviously even if their respective testifications are bereft of any other uncreditworthy taint, their respective testifications merely on anvil of proven evident inimicality nursed by them qua the accused hence stand denuded of their vigour.

10. An incisive traversing of the record unfolds qua the accused while holding the office of Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat concerned his making a complaint against the complainant herein, complaint whereof stands comprised in Ext.DW-1/A wherewithin recitals are held qua the complainant herein unauthorisedly denying the respondent herein to access the school register. It is evident qua Ext.DW-1/A standing transmitted to the Chief Minister. Obviously thereupon it is inevitable to record a conclusion of prior to the institution of the instant complaint by PW-1 against the accused, the former nursing a grouse besides rearing a vendetta against the accused/respondent, expression whereof found its outlet in his recording a complaint against the accused-respondent, complaint whereof when stands obviously stained with a vice of vendetta besides malafides it holds no vigour besides the testification of PW-1 in consonance therewith stands denuded of its probative sinew.

11. Likewise, the testimony of PW-2 in whose presence the penal vituperative casteist utterances stood purportedly made by the accused/respondent also acquires a taint of interestedness besides a taint of its standing generated by malafides arising from the factum of his in his cross-examination acquiescing qua his wife lodging a complaint against him in the Gram Panchayat concerned embodying therein a grouse qua his not maintaining her. Also with his acquiescing in his cross-examination qua the aforesaid complaint on the aforesaid ground made against him by his wife before the Gram Panchayat concerned generating issuance of notice upon him by the accused/respondent significantly renders his testimony to be discardable especially when it stands reared by his thereupon nursing a vendetta against the respondent herein. Moreover, the vigour, if any, carried by the testification of PW-3 in purported corroboration to the testifications of PW-1 and PW-2 qua the charge to which the accused respondent stood subjected to trial also stands belittled arising from the fact of his in his cross-examination acquiescing to the suggestion of one Manohar instituting a complaint before the accused/respondent against his mother alleging therein qua the latter uprooting his plants. In aftermath when alike the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2 his testimony when also stands coloured by a taint of vendetta nursed by him against the accused respondent spurring from the latter holding an inquiry upon the complaint aforesaid made before him by one Manohar Lal against his mother rendering it hence to not acquire any probative sinew.

12. Apart therefrom the purported vituperative penal casteist utterances stood made by the accused respondent upon the complainant on 11th October, 2006 whereas an F.I.R qua the aforesaid factum comprised in Ext.7/A stood registered at the Police Station concerned on 15th November, 2006. Obviously a delay of 32 to 34 days has visibly occurred since the penal misdemeanor ascribed by PW-1 to the respondent vis.a.vis. it standing reported to the Police Station concerned. The aforesaid delay has remained inexplicated by way of any tangible sound explanation standing purveyed by the complainant. As a corollary, the omission of the complainant to with promptitude report the penal misdemeanor ascribed by him to accused respondent when construed in entwinement with the factum of the prime prosecution witnesses testifying qua the relevant occurrence with evident inimicality nursed by them vis.a.vis the accused/respondent herein begets an obvious inference of the entire incident unraveled by them holding no truth rather it being a sequel of concoction and invention.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Special Judge has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Special Judge does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

14. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Dharam Singh ...Appellant.

Versus

Braham Dass ...Respondent.

RSA No.244 of 2008.
Reserved on : 07.11.2016.
Decided on : 15.11.2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Father of the plaintiff was murdered by the defendant- an injury was also caused to the plaintiff- plaintiff had become handicapped and was unable to work - a sum of Rs.1 lac was sought as damages – the suit was partly decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that version of the plaintiff was duly proved by his witnesses while the version of the defendant was not proved- a sum of Rs.50,000/- was rightly awarded as damages- judgment in the criminal case is relevant for establishing that defendant was convicted by the Criminal Court- appeal dismissed.

(Para-10 to 13)

For the appellant: Mr. Raman Sethi, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present Regular Second Appeal under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure is maintained by the appellant against the judgment and decree dated 29.3.2006, passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, in Civil Appeal No.12 of 2000/303 of 2004, whereby the learned Appellate Court has affirmed the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.1, Hamirpur, in Civil Suit No.82 of 1992, dated 26.11.1999.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present appeal are that respondent/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the plaintiff') filed a suit for recovery of Rs. 1,00,000/- against the appellant/defendant (hereinafter referred to as 'the defendant') on account of the damages suffered by him due to the act and conduct of the defendant. It is averred that plaintiff's father late Shri Basant Ram, was murdered by the defendant intentionally on 11.5.1991 and defendant caused grievous and dangerous injuries to the plaintiff, as a result of which, he has become handicapped from his right hand and unable to work. Due to these grievous and dangerous injuries suffered by him, he remained in District Hospital, Hamipur, from where he was referred to IGMC, Shimla and further referred to Chandigarh, for treatment and for this travelling, he had to spend about Rs. 14,000/- in all including the treatment. In addition to it, he had to spend about Rs. 10,000/- for performing the last rites of his father, who was murdered by the defendant. It has been further averred that his deceased father was able bodied person, being Carpenter, earning Rs. 70/- per day. The father of the plaintiff suffered loss of income approximately amounting to Rs. 20,000/- to Rs. 25,000/-. Plaintiff has also claimed that the act and conduct of the defendant rendered the plaintiff, as handicapped seeking medical advise and so, unable to earn his livelihood as Carpenter, as the plaintiff has claimed to be earning Rs. 70/- per day before the occurrence and in addition to that the plaintiff has been forced to seek medical treatment and thereby suffered loss of Rs. 25,000/-, by getting treatment in PGI, Chandigarh, as the plaintiff has to be accompanied by one attendant for coming and going to PGI, Chandigarh. The plaintiff has also claimed to have suffered mental agony and torture, as he has been deprived of the love and affection of his father and thereby the plaintiff has claimed total damages of Rs. 1,00,000/- from the defendant. The plaintiff has further averred that the defendant was tried and sentence to life imprisonment for an offence punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code as well as under Section 326 of the Indian Penal Code.

3. The suit was resisted and contested by raising preliminary objections qua limitation and cause of action. On merits, it has been contended that the defendant has denied the factum of committing murder to the father of the plaintiff as well as causing injuries to the plaintiff. However, the defendant has admitted the relationship between of the plaintiff and his father. The defendant has also denied the capacity to earn to the father of the plaintiff as well as to the plaintiff. The defendant has denied that the plaintiff and his father were working as Carpenter and claimed that the plaintiff was living separately from his deceased father. There is no question of depriving the plaintiff from the earning of his father as well as the loss of any love and affection. The defendant has admitted that in a case of murder registered against him, he has been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment, but the appeal against the same is pending before Hon'ble Apex Court. The defendant has denied any liability to pay any damages to the plaintiff.

4. The learned trial Court framed following issues on 27.12.1993 :

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to damages as claimed, if so, to what extent? OPP.

13. Whether the suit is time barred ? OPD.

14. Relief."

5. The learned trial Court has decided Issue No.1 partly in favour of the plaintiff, Issue No.2 against the defendant and partly decreed the suit. Thereafter, the appeal was maintained by the defendant before learned Addl. District Judge, Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur and the same was dismissed. Hence, the present regular second appeal, which was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:

> "1. Whether the judgment of both the Courts below can be upheld as it ignores important documents/oral evidence on record of the case ?
> 2. Does the conviction of the appellant have any bearing on the damages granted by the Civil Court ?"

6. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff has argued that the learned Courts below has failed to take into consideration the fact that the plaintiff was not in a position to make the payment of damages, as he was in jail. He has further argued that the damages awarded are on the higher side.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the defendant has argued that the learned Court below has only awarded damages of Rs. 50,000/-, for such a great loss to the plaintiff i.e. Rs. 25,000/- for expenditure on the treatment, physical and mental agony due to the injuries inflicted by the defendant including the loss of love and affection and Rs. 25,000/- for loss of future earnings, as a result of which the injuries inflicted on his both hands. There is no ground to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned Courts below. He has argued that the appeal deserves dismissal alongwith costs.

8. In rebuttal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff has argued that the plaintiff has already suffered imprisonment, so the appeal may be allowed.

9. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

10. The plaintiff in order to prove its case has examined as many as ten witnesses. PW-1 MHC Sukhdev Singh to prove the FIR. PW-2 Dhian Singh, who is taxi driver to prove the expenses for transportation. PW-3 Dina Nath, has deposed that Basant Ram was murdered by defendant Dharam Singh, as Basant Ram was working as Carpenter, who was earning Rs. 60/- or Rs. 70/- per day and was aged about 45 years having good health. He has also deposed that the defendant has cut both the hands of the plaintiff and the plaintiff also used to work as Carpenter and earning Rs. 80/- to Rs. 100/- per day. He has also stated that the plaintiff got treatment of his hands from Chandigarh by spending Rs. 50,000/- or Rs. 60,000/-. PW-4 Amar Nath, has also deposed that Basant Ram used to work as Carpenter and was earning Rs. 70/- per day, who was having good health having 45 to 50 years of age. He has deposed that the last rites of the father of the plaintiff were performed by the plaintiff by spending about Rs. 20,000/- to Rs. 25,000/-. He has further deposed that both the hands of the plaintiff were cut, the plaintiff is unable to work and has been deprived earn Rs. 60/- to Rs. 100/- per day, while working as Carpenter and in addition to that the plaintiff was forced to get treatment at Chandigarh. PW-5 Dr. N.K. Galoda, has proved on record that the plaintiff was referred to PGI, Chandigarh, for getting treatment. PW-6 Kamal Dev Sharma, also a witness to the receipt Ex.PW6/A, vide which the plaintiff was taken to Chandigarh. PW-8 Dr. M.K. Pathak, has proved on record the injuries on the person of plaintiff, vide MLC Ex.PW8/A, as injury No.1 on the left arm a curbed incised injury in which muscle, nerves, arteries and veins were found to be severed and the injuries have been opined to be grievous in nature and another incised injury on the right arm in which the muscles, veins, arteries and lower aspect of ulna were found to be severed and these injuries have been opined to be grievous in nature with sharp edged weapon like 'darat'. PW-9 Pritam Singh, has proved on record the discharge slip of the plaintiff from Chandigarh hospital with compound fracture of right ulna and cut flexar tendons and crush in its blend between the period of 12.5.1991 to 16.5.1991 and 21.6.1991 to 29.6.1991.

11. PW-10 Braham Dass (plaintiff), has specifically deposed with respect to the expenses, he has incurred for his treatment as well as for the loss of earning because both the hands were cut and ultimately led to the disability, as he was Carpenter and even after treatment, he could not work properly. Taking into consideration the fact that the plaintiff was working as an unskilled labourer and the defendant has cut his both hands and killed his father. So, in these circumstances, it cannot be said that the amount awarded on account of the loss of future earning to the extent of Rs. 25,000/-, is at all excessive. At the same point of time, the plaintiff has proved that he has spent an amount not less than Rs. 25,000/-, for his treatment in various hospitals on transportation. So, I find that an amount of Rs. 25,000/-, awarded on account of the expenditure of treatment, physical and mental agony due to the injuries inflicted by the defendant, loss of love and affection of his father, who was killed by the defendant cannot be said to be excessive. So, substantial question of law No.1 is decided accordingly holding that the learned Courts below has considered all the documents oral as well as documentary evidence in totality and the judgments of the learned Courts below cannot be said to be perverse. Substantial question of law No.2 is decided accordingly holding that the conviction of the plaintiff, as one ingredient and other evidence which has come on record is considered. The plaintiff examined as many as ten witnesses and proved his case. Though, the defendant has also examined Smt. Sharda Devi and himself, as witness, but has failed to establish his case. So, this Court finds that the damages to the extent of Rs. 50,000/- granted by the Civil Court is after appreciating the facts which are brought on record. However, the judgment of conviction has only bearing in the case to the extent that the defendant was convicted in the case and nothing else.

12. From the above, it is clear that the findings arrived at by the learned Courts below are just, reasoned and after appreciating the evidence, which has come on record to its true perspective. Hence, needs no interference.

13. With these observations, the appeal of the appellant/plaintiff being without any merit deserves dismissal, hence the same is dismissed. However, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, parties are left to bear their own cost (s). Pending application (s), if any shall also stands disposed of.

This petition under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Code') has been preferred by the petitioners for quashing of FIR No.201 of 2013, dated 27.12.2013, registered at Police Station, Amb, District Una, under Sections 498-A, 406 read with section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, pending before learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Amb, District Una, H.P.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present petition are that because of the matrimonial dispute and the petitioners have been implicated in the aforementioned FIR, on the statement of Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.2) alleging therein that the marriage between petitioner No.3 and respondent No.2 was solemnized on 5.5.2011, according to Hindu rites and ceremonies. Out of the said wedlock one male child, namely, Surinder was born. The father of respondent No.2 gave a sufficient 'Istridhan' to the petitioners at the time of marriage. After the birth of son of petitioner No.3, all the petitioners started ill treating and maltreating with respondent No.2 regarding insufficient dowry articles given to them at the time of marriage as well as the birth of son of respondent No.2 and also started false allegations towards her character and using unsocial language, as respondent No.2 having illicit relation with some other person in her parental village and during the period of delivery. Respondent No.2 got decease and made request to petitioner No.3 to get treatment from some good hospital in District Kangra, H.P, but petitioner No.3, who is very clever person linger on the matter on one pretext or another. Respondent No.2 refused to took the treatment from the local "Dongi Chela", then all the petitioners mercilessly beaten respondent No.2 in the presence of other family members. Respondent No.2 in that compelling circumstances complaint about the behaviour of petitioner No.3 to her parents and the parents of respondent No.2 inquired from the petitioners regarding their inhuman behaviour. In the month of November, 2012 when respondent No.2 came in her parental house at village Ripoh Munchlian, Tehsil Amb, District Una, H.P, with the consent of petitioner No.3, on the occasion of "Tikka" ceremonies, thereafter father of respondent No.2 asked petitioner No.3 for the aforesaid illegal act and conduct towards her and also discuss about the decease of respondent No.2. The petitioners have treated respondent No.2 in such a cruelty manner and have deserted her from a matrimonial house and have caused mental and physical torture and also neglected to maintain respondent No.2 alongwith her minor son and so, respondent No.2 also filed a petition under Section 125 Cr. P.C before the learned Court below. After registration of the case, petitioners and respondent No.2 have compromise the matter. Roop Lal (petitioner No.3) and Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.2) recorded their statement before the learned Court below on 18.11.2015 in a Criminal Petition under Section 125 Cr. P.C, for granting maintenance allowance filed by respondent No.2. Now, both the parties have entered into compromise and do not want to pursue the case against each other.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that as the parties have compromised the matter, vide Mutual Divorce Deed (Annexure P-3), no purpose will be served by keeping the proceedings against the petitioners and the FIR/Challan pending before the learned Court below may be quashed and set aside.

4. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the offence is not compoundable, so the petition be dismissed.

5. Learned counsel for respondent No.2 has argued that the parties have entered into compromise and so, the proceedings pending before the learned Court below be quashed.

6. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the entire record in detail.

7. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court B.S. Joshi and others vs. State of Haryana and another, (2003) 4 SCC 675, have held that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is well settled that the powers under section 482 have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [6] In Pepsi Food Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others ((1998) 5 SCC 749), this Court with reference to Bhajan Lal's case observed that the guidelines laid therein as to where the Court will exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to be followed by the Courts. Exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It is well settled that these powers have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers.
> [8] It is, thus, clear that Madhu Limaye's case does not lay down any general proposition limiting power of quashing the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint as vested in Section 482 of the Code or extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We are, therefore, of the view that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, Section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is, however, a different matter depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether to exercise or not such a power.
> [15] In view of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 of the Code.

8. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preeti Gupta and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667, have held that the ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. The tendency of implicating the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of the criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Their Lordships have further held that permitting complainant to pursue complaint would be abuse of process of law and the complaint against the appellants was quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [27] A three-Judge Bench (of which one of us, Bhandari, J. was the author of the judgment) of this Court in Inder Mohan Goswami and Another v. State of Uttaranchal & Others, 2007 12 SCC 1 comprehensively examined the legal position. The court came to a definite conclusion and the relevant observations of the court are reproduced in para 24 of the said judgment as under:-
> "Inherent powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."

> [28] We have very carefully considered the averments of the complaint and the statements of all the witnesses recorded at the time of the filing of the complaint. There are no specific allegations against the appellants in the complaint and none of the witnesses have alleged any role of both the appellants.
> [35] The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.
> 36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful.
> [38] The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society. It is high time that the legislature must take into consideration the pragmatic realities and make suitable changes in the existing law. It is imperative for the legislature to take into consideration the informed public opinion and the pragmatic realities in consideration and make necessary changes in the relevant provisions of law. We direct the Registry to send a copy of this judgment to the Law Commission and to the Union Law Secretary, Government of India who may place it before the Hon'ble Minister for Law & Justice to take appropriate steps in the larger interest of the society.

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Raghuvanshi and others vs. Babita Raghuvanshi and another, (2013) 4 SCC 58, have held that criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint can be quashed under section 482 Cr.P.C. in appropriate cases in order to meet ends of justice. Even in non-compoundable offences pertaining to matrimonial disputes, if court is satisfied that parties have settled the disputes amicably and without any pressure, then for purpose of securing ends of justice, FIR or complaint or subsequent criminal proceedings in respect of offences can be quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [13] As stated earlier, it is not in dispute that after filing of a complaint in respect of the offences punishable under Sections 498A and 406 of IPC, the parties, in the instant case, arrived at a mutual settlement and the complainant also has sworn an affidavit supporting the stand of the appellants. That was the position before the trial Court as well as before the High Court in a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code. A perusal of the impugned order of the High Court shows that because the mutual settlement arrived at between the parties relate to non-compoundable offence, the court proceeded on a wrong premise that it cannot be compounded and dismissed the petition filed under Section 482. A perusal of the petition before the High Court shows that the application filed by the appellants was not for compounding of non-compoundable offences but for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings.

[14] The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are wide and unfettered. In B.S. Joshi , this Court has upheld the powers of the High Court under Section 482 to quash criminal proceedings where dispute is of a private nature and a compromise is entered into between the parties who are willing to settle their differences amicably. We are satisfied that the said decision is directly applicable to the case on hand and the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings by accepting the settlement arrived at.

[15] In our view, it is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes, particularly, when the same are on considerable increase. Even if the offences are non-compoundable, if they relate to matrimonial disputes and the court is satisfied that the parties have settled the same amicably and without any pressure, we hold that for the purpose of securing ends of justice, Section 320 of the Code would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing of FIR, complaint or the subsequent criminal proceedings.

[16] There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. The institution of marriage occupies an important place and it has an important role to play in the society. Therefore, every effort should be made in the interest of the individuals in order to enable them to settle down in life and live peacefully. If the parties ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law, in order to do complete justice in the matrimonial matters, the courts should be less hesitant in exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction. It is trite to state that the power under Section 482 should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection only when the court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. We also make it clear that exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it has to be exercised in appropriate cases in order to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist. It is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes and Section 482 of the Code enables the High Court and Article 142 of the Constitution enables this Court to pass such orders.

[17] In the light of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in appropriate cases in order to meet the ends of justice and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code. Under these circumstances, we set aside the impugned judgment of the High Court dated 04.07.2012 passed in M.C.R.C. No. 2877 of 2012 and quash the proceedings in Criminal Case No. 4166 of 2011 pending on the file of Judicial Magistrate Class-I, Indore."

10. Thus, taking into consideration the law as discussed hereinabove, I find that the interest of justice will be met, in case, the proceedings are quashed, as the parties have already compromised the matter, which is placed on record. However, it is made clear that Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.2) doesn't want to continue with the present complaint in view of the compromise, the proceedings pending before the learned Court below are quashed, but as far as the right of the son of Roop Lal (petitioner No.3) and Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.3) is concerned, he can claim for maintenance from his parents out of the property of paternal as well as maternal side by way of inheritance. So, this fact cannot be compromised by anyone in this world. As far as Roop Lal (petitioner No.3) is concerned, though as per the compromise Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.2) is taking the care of her son, but his right to inherit his father, paternal grand father, his coparcenary right, will remain intact and his father will never take any action in a manner so as to reduce or limit of the share of son of Roop Lal (petitioner No.3) and Smt. Kanta Devi (respondent No.2) in the ancestral property.

11. Accordingly, taking holistic view of the matter and looking into all attending facts and circumstances, I find this case to be a fit case to exercise powers under Section 482 of the Code and accordingly FIR No. 201 of 2013, dated 27.12.2013, under Sections 498-A, 406 read with section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station, Amb, District Una, is ordered to be quashed. Since FIR No. 201 of 2013, dated 27.12.2013, under Sections 498-A, 406 read with section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station, Amb, District Una, has been quashed, consequent proceedings/Challan pending before the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Amb, District Una, H.P. against the petitioners, are thereby rendered infructuous. However, the same are expressly quashed so as to obviate any confusion.

12. The petition stands allowed in the aforesaid terms. Pending application (s), if any, also stand (s), disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Krishan Lal Khimta .....Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh .....Respondent.

Cr.MMO No. 282 of 2016
Reserved on: 07.11.2016
Decided on: 15.11.2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Accused V met with an accident and was in a coma for one month – Medical Board concluded that he was unable to defend himself – trial was ordered to be stayed – it was ordered that the accused be examined every three months-aggrieved from the order, father of the accused filed a petition – held, that as per Medical Board V is not showing any sign of improvement – the petitioner submitted that he is incurring expenses on bringing V to the Medical Officer after three months- direction issued to the trial judge to re-consider the period of three months. (Para-8 to 10)

For the petitioner: Mr. Nitin Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 482 of Criminal Procedure Code (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C') seeking modification of order dated 29.05.2014, passed by the learned Sessions Judge (Forest), Shimla, in Sessions Trial No. 15-S/7 of 2012/09, whereby the trial against the son of the petitioner, who was booked as an accused alongwith another co-accused, was ordered to be stayed, as he was not found to be in a fit mental condition to defend himself. The other co-accused was acquitted by the learned Sessions Judge (Forest) Shimla, through its judgment dated 19.06.2016.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present case, as per the petitioner, are that son of the petitioner (hereinafter referred to 'Vijay Kumar') was named as an accused in FIR No. 1 of 2008, dated 01.01.2008, registered under Sections 148, 307, 326, 324/149 of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC'). During the pendency of the trial, Vijay Kumar met with an accident on 09.03.2009 and remained hospitalized and was in a state of coma for a month. In order to ascertain his mental condition, the learned Sessions Judge considered the medical reports from Medical Superintendent, IGMC and Director/Medical superintendent, PGI, Chandigarh, and the learned Court below on 29.05.2014, to its satisfaction after recording the statement of the Chairman of the Medical Board, who conducted the examination of the son of the petitioner, after considering the report of the Medical Board, concluded that the son of the petitioner was not in a condition to defend himself. By medium of impugned order dated 29.05.2014, the trial against the son of the petitioner was ordered to be stayed.

3. Pursuant to the direction of the learned Court below, the petitioner herein, after an interval of every three months, medically examined his son from the Medical Board at IGMC, Shimla, and also from the Department of Psychiatry PGIMER, Chandigarh, however, the conditions of his son did not improve. The latest reports suggest that his mental condition is unlikely to improve. The petitioner has further submitted that he is the only bread winner of his family and is also suffering from heart disease. He is looking after an unmarried daughter of 36 years age, who was born as an unhealthy child, and as on date she is suffering from meningoencephalitis, which is the inflammation of the brain. As per the petitioner he is now being saddled with medical expenses of his ailing son. The income of the petitioner is wholly dependent upon the apple crop and his income fluctuates due to climatic conditions affecting the crop.

4. As per the petitioner, the trial against the co-accused stands completed and he is acquitted. This fact is fortified by Annexure P-5 (judgment of the trial Court, dated 19.06.2016). As the mental condition of Vijay Khimta (son of the petitioner), who is an accused in the above referred Sessions Trial, is very unlikely to improve, the petitioner is seeking modification of impugned order dated 29.05.2014.

5. The respondent filed reply to the petition, wherein it is contended that son of the petitioner (Vijay Khimta) was involved in FIR No. 1 of 2008, registered in Police Station East, Shimla, under Section 148, 307, 326, 324 and 149 IPC. As per the respondent, the allegations against the son of the petitioner and his accomplice were that on 31.12.2007 at about 6:30 p.m., complainant, Akshay Bhardwaj, received a call from one Naveen Jasal asking him to come to Brockhost, but he refused. On relentless requests, the complainant alongwith his friends Joginder and Rishi Dhawan went to Brockhost, at about 07:45 p.m., where Vijay Khimta and his companions were present. Vijay Khimta attacked the complainant and his friends by inflicting darat (sickle) blows, causing serious injuries to them. Police registered an FIR against the accused persons and as some of the accused persons were juvenile, challan against them was filed before the Juvenile Justice Board, Shimla. It is further contended that during the pendency of the trial accused Vijay Khimta was found mentally unsound to defend himself, so the trial against him was stayed. The learned Sessions Judge (Forest), acquitted the other accused, namely, Sunny vide judgment dated 19.06.2014 and observed that file after its due completion be consigned to Record Room to be recalled as and when accused Vijay Khimta recovers from his mental illness and is declared fit to defend himself.

6. The respondent has averred that the learned Court below passed the impugned order after taking into consideration all the germane medical record of accused Vijay Khimta. As per the respondent, the son of the petitioner inflicted darat blows on the person of Akshay and Joginder, due to which they suffered serious injuries. Latest medical record has not been annexed with the petition so as to highlight his current mental condition and the annexed medical record is of the years 2011-2012. In view of settled legal proposition of Cr.P.C. the trial against the son of the petitioner will resume as and when he ceases to be of unsound mind and capable of defending himself.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Additional Advocate General for the respondent/State and have also gone through the record carefully.

8. At this stage, this Court takes into consideration the facts that as per the Medical Board, the son of the petitioner is not showing any signs of improvement and the averments made by the learned counsel for the petitioner that it is quite difficult for the petitioner to bring his son after every three months from his village to IGMC Hospital for his medical examination. The petitioner has also prayed that this period of three months may be enhanced. Evidently, the trial against the accused is pending adjudication before the learned Sessions Judge (Forest), Shimla, though the co-accused stands acquitted and some of the accused, who were juveniles at the time of the occurrence, are being proceeded before the learned Juvenile Justice Board, Shimla. As far as the son of the petitioner is concerned, this Court finds that the learned Sessions Judge (Forest), Shimla, after hearing the learned counsel for the parties, passed the impugned order dated 29.05.2014, which is extracted in extenso as under:

> "Statement of Dr. Ramesh Chand, Chariman of the Medical Board recorded. In view of the statement of dr. Ramesh Chand, Chairman of the Medical Board and the report of the Medical Board Ext. CA, at this stage it is proved to the satisfaction of this Court that accused Vijay Khimta is not fit to defend himself due to his mental health. Therefore, the trial of the accused Vijay Khimta is stayed till he recovered from his mental illness. The father of the accused Shri Krishan Lal, who has taken the custody of accused Vijay Khimta is directed through Sh. Pawan Thakur Counsel for the accused to submit status report of the accused after every three months commencing from 01.06.2014. However, the trial against accused Sachin will continue."

9. This Court finds that the ends of justice would be subserved in case the impugned order dated 29.05.2014 is set-aside and the learned Sessions Judge (Forest) Shimla, is directed to consider the matter afresh with respect to mental illness of the son of the petitioner as well as the time gap of three months for production of the accused before the Medical Board.

10. Keeping in mind the above set of circumstances, the impugned order dated 29.05.2014 is set-aside with a direction to the learned District Judge (Forest), Shimla, to decide the matter afresh with respect to mental illness of the accused and his production before the Medical Board after interval of every three months.

11. The parties are directed to appear before the learned Sessions Judge (Forest), Shimla, on 5th December, 2016. In view of the above, the petition, as also pending application(s), if any, stand(s) disposed of. However, the parties are left to bear their own costs.

For the respondents:	Mr. Virender K. Vrma, Adl. AG, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondent No. 1/State. Mr. S.K. Banyal, Advocate, for respondent No. 2. Mr. V.B. Verma, Advocate, for respondent No. 3. Mr. Arun Kumar, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

For the petitioners:	Mr. S.D. Gill, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Virender K. Vrma, Adl. AG, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondent No. 1/State. Mr. S.K. Banyal, Advocate, for respondent No. 2. Mr. V.B. Verma, Advocate, for respondent No. 3. Mr. Arun Kumar, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

Since common questions of facts and law are involved in the both these writ petitions, they are taken up together for disposal.

2. The petitioners have maintained these petitions seeking appropriate writ or directions to the respondents, especially to respondent No. 2, Para Medical Council (hereinafter referred to as 'PMC') to give registration numbers to the petitioners in PMC as Medical Lab Technologists. The petitioners are also seeking a direction to respondent No. 1/State for registration of their names with the PMC.

3. Succinctly, as per the petitioners, the facts giving rise to the present petitions are that they had done B.Sc. in Medical Lab. Technology from respondent No. 4/University. It is further contended by the petitioners that in the notice published by respondent No. 4 as well as in the prospectus it was clearly mentioned that students of any stream are eligible for obtaining degree in B.Sc. Para Medical. Classes were conducted by respondent No. 3 on behalf of respondent No. 4/University and the petitioners successfully qualified all the examinations. After completion of the degree, the petitioners approached respondent No. 2 for registration of their names with PMC as Medical Lab. Technologists, however, respondent No. 2 refused to enter their names solely on the basis that the petitioners have not done higher secondary in science stream, hence rendered them ineligible for the registration.

4. Reply to the petitions were filed by the respondents and respondent No. 2 (PMC) in its reply has averred that Para Medical Council is a statutory organization of Himachal Pradesh Government under Section 3 of the H.P. Para Medical Council Act, 2003. As per respondent No. 2, the primary functions of the Council is to register Himachal Pradesh para-medicals and the staff working in the government hospitals, private institutions and private hospitals within the state of Himachal Pradesh. It also registers various para medical officials as per qualifications mentioned in the Schedule of H.P. Para Medical Council Act. On merits, respondent No. 2, has submitted that PMC vide its meeting dated 23.02.2008 decided that para-medicals are required to register their qualification.

5. Though the petitioners have specifically averred that the similarly situated persons before 2008 were registered with the Para Medical Council, but in reply thereto, respondent No. 2 has stated that in its meeting held on 23.02.2008 it was decided as under:

> "Registration of Para-Medicals w.e.f. 2008
> It has been decided that the registration of Para-Medicals (laboratory Technician and Radiographer) shall be done if they fulfill the qualification 10+2 (medical) with 2 year Diploma from recognized institution. Candidates possessing BSc Medical laboratory Technology qualification should have 3 years Degree course from recognized institution after 10+2 qualification."

6. From this it is clear that it is three years' degree course after 10+2 from a recognized institution. It is nowhere mentioned that 10+2 qualification is required to be in science stream only. Now whether it is an omission or the respondents wanted to have only 10+2/Higher Secondary qualification in any stream is not clarified, though from the stand of the respondents it seems that they wanted 10+2/Higher Secondary in medical stream.

7. At the same point of time, if prospectus of respondent No. 4 /University is seen, under the head salient features, it specifically states as under:

> "Salient Features
> UGC Nomenclature
> All courses offered by PTU are as per the nomenclature and guidelines of University Grants Commission that makes these courses universally acceptable.
> DEC Approval
> All courses offered by PTU under this program had been approved by DEC, Distance Education Council, IGNOU, New Delhi, vide its letter no. F.1-1/2006(JS/SU) dated 6th January, 2006 with retrospective effect."

8. Likewise, Indira Gandhi National Open University (IGNOU) has issued a letter (Annexure R-4/2) which reads as under:

> "With reference to your letter dated 20th August, 2009, regarding the above subject, I am conveying herewith the decisions of the Distance Education Council taken at its meeting held on 10th March, 2010:
> i) Territorial jurisdiction for Distance Education Programmes: (Item 35.01). the Council resolved that Distance Education and On-line Education cannot have the territorial jurisdiction and in the case of Central universities and State Universities, the territorial jurisdiction shall be as per the Act, Statutes and Distance Education regulations of the respective Universities for all their programmes.
> ii) Recognition of PTU Distance Education Programmes: The Distance Education Council noted the acceptance of the compliance report submitted by the Punjab Technical University in response to the UGC-AICTE-DEC joint committee's recommendations. The Council ratified the decision (item 35.06.vi) taken by the Chairman in accepting the compliance report and 2012 for all programmes through Distance Mode, as recommended by the joint committee. The University may offer the programmes following these provisions.
> All courses offered by PTU are as per the nomenclature and guidelines of University Grants Commission that makes these courses universally acceptable.
> DEC Approval

All courses offered by PTU under this program had been approved by DEC, Distance Education Council, IGNOU, New Delhi, vide its letter no. F.1-1/2006(JS/SU) dated 6th January, 2006 with retrospective effect."

9. Manifestly, the petitioners have done B.Sc. degree after fully understanding the fact that they will be registered with respondent No. 2. In these circumstances, this Court is not going into the stand taken by respondent No. 2 that the petitioners cannot be registered, as Government of Himachal Pradesh has not decided to part this education in the private colleges in Himachal Pradesh, but the above discussion shows that the petitioners are either eligible for registration or they are misguided/misled by respondents No. 3 and 4 and their precious time of three years is wasted. In these circumstances, this Court finds that as it is for respondent No. 2 (PMC) to take a decision in this matter with regard to registration of the petitioners and respondent No. 1 has to issue appropriate guidelines for this purpose, which has not been issued, therefore, respondent No. 1 is directed to consider the case of the petitioners in the light of the observations made hereinabove as well as in the writ petition and issue appropriate directions and respondent No. 2 (PMC) is directed to consider the case of the petitioner in right perspective in view of the observations made hereinabove, as well as seek guidance for respondent No. 1.

10. Respondent No. 3 (Institution) is functioning within the State of Himachal Pradesh under respondent No. 4 (Punjab Technical University) and it was incumbent upon respondents No. 1 and 2 to have monitored this institution and if the institution is awarding degree which is not recognized then respondents No. 1 and 2 must have taken proper care. At this stage, the only direction, which this Court deems fit in the facts and circumstances of the case, can be passed is that respondents No. 1 and 2 will treat these writ petitions as representations of the respective petitioners and after considering the available material and the observations made hereinabove, take appropriate decision in the matter within a period of two months from today. Needless to say, if the degrees of the petitioners, after spending three precious years of their lives, are not of any value, then respondents No. 1 and 2 should take appropriate action against respondents No. 3 and 4. It is also needless to say that the petitioners have right to get compensation under the ordinary law, if their degrees are not recognized, after leading cogent and reliable evidence in appropriate civil proceedings.

11. The petitioners (in CWP No. 3326 of 2015) have also filed an application, bearing CMP No. 7982 of 2015, before this Court for allowing them to participate in the test/interview which was published/notified for the post of Medical Lab. Technologists. As the petitions have already been ordered to be treated as representations of the petitioners, this prayer of the petitioners be also considered by respondents No. 1 and 2.

12. In view of the above, the petitions stand disposed of. However, in view of peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, parties are directed to bear their own costs. Pending application(s), if any, stand(s) disposed of.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present civil revision petition is filed under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 against order passed by learned Executing Court dated 6.12.2013 and against order passed by learned Appellate Authority whereby learned Appellate Authority affirmed the order of learned Executing Court.

Brief facts of the case

2. Decree holder namely Mange Ram filed civil suit No. 213/1 of 1991 title Mange Ram vs. Mohinder Kumar pleaded therein that judgment debtor has illegally raised the retaining wall upon the land of decree holder measuring 11 sq. metres. Mange Ram also filed civil suit No. 214/1 of 1991 title Mange Ram vs. Hem Lata pleaded therein that judgment debtor Hem Lata has encroached 8 sq. metres of land owned by decree holder. Decree holder sought relief of mandatory injunction in both civil suits and in alternate decree holder also sought relief of compensation.

3. Learned Trial Court clubbed civil suits No. 213/1 of 1991 and civil suit No. 214/1 of 1991 and disposed of both civil suits by way of common judgment. Learned Trial Court dismissed both civil suits filed by Mange Ram. Thereafter Mange Ram filed appeal before learned Appellate Court. Learned Appellate Court also dismissed both appeals filed by Mange Ram. Thereafter Mange Ram filed RSA No. 143 of 2002 title Mange Ram vs. Hem Lata and also filed RSA No. 144 of 2002 title Mange Ram vs. Mohinder Kumar Bansal (died) through LRs Vikas Bansal and others before Hon'ble High Court of H.P. Hon'ble High Court on 4.9.2012 disposed of both RSAs bearing Nos. 143 of 2002 and 144 of 2002 by way of common judgment. Hon'ble High Court of H.P. set aside the judgment and decree passed by learned Trial Court and Appellate Court and decreed both civil suits filed by Mange Ram. Hon'ble High Court of H.P. passed decree for compensation of Rs. one lac in civil suits No. 213/1 of 1991 and passed decree of compensation of Rs.75000/- (Rupees seventy five thousand) in civil suit No. 214/1 of 1991.

4. Thereafter decree holder filed execution petition before learned Trial Court. Judgment debtors filed objections before learned Executing Court and objections were dismissed by learned Executing Court and thereafter order of learned Executing Court was affirmed by learned Additional District Judge Solan on 27.11.2014.

5. Feeling aggrieved against order of learned Executing Court and learned Appellate Court revisionist/judgment debtor namely Rajiv Bansal filed present civil revision petition under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908.

6. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionist No.1 and Court also perused entire record carefuly.

7. Following points arise for determination in civil revision petition:-

Point No.1 Whether revision petition filed under Section 115 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of civil revision petition?

Point No.2 Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons

8. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that decree holder has flouted Section 118 of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act 1972 and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that in RSA No. 144 of 2002 Mohinder Kumar died during pendency of RSA and thereafter his legal representatives were impleaded as co-party in RSA No. 144 of 2002 before Hon'ble H.P. High Court. It is also proved on record that Rajiv Bansal was also impleaded as legal representative of deceased Mohinder Kumar in RSA No. 144 of 2002 before Hon'ble High Court of H.P. Court is of the opinion that plea regarding violation of Section 118 of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act 1972 ought to be taken by revisionist in RSA No. 144 of 2002 because in RSA No. 144 of 2002 revisionist Rajiv Bansal was impleaded as co-party. RSA No. 143 of 2002 and RSA No. 144 of 2002 were finally disposed of by Hon'ble High Court of H.P. on 4.9.2012 by way of consolidated judgment and same attained the stage of finality. Revisionist did not file any SLP before Hon'ble Apex Court of India against judgment and decree passed by Hon'ble High Court of H.P. in RSA No. 143 of 2002 and RSA No. 144 of 2002.

9. It is well settled law that learned Executing Court cannot question correctness or validity of decree except where decree is passed without jurisdiction and where decree is passed against dead person. Judgment debtor cannot be allowed to prevent decree holder from getting full benefit of decree. See AIR 2002 SC 2603 Narinder Singh vs. Kishan Singh. See AIR 1970 SC 1475 V.D. Modi vs. R.A.Rehman. See AIR 1962 SC 199 Hira Lal vs. Kali Ram. See AIR 1971 Bombay 91 E.T.G.U.S. Society vs. M/s S.W.Corporation. See AIR 1971 Delhi 319 H.Rahim-Ud-Din vs. Tirlok Singh. See AIR 1964 Punjab 311 Manohar Lal vs. Topan Ram.

10. It is well settled law that after amendment in CPC vide Act No. 104 of 1976 w.e.f. 1.2.1977 order passed under Section 47 by learned Executing Court is not decree as define in Section 2 (2) CPC. Section 47 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 is omitted from definition of decree vide amendment No. 104 of 1976. See AIR 1987 Patna 33 (Full Bench) Narmada Devi vs. Ram Nandan Singh.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that grave miscarriage of justice has been caused to revisionist by learned Executing Court and further submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that order of learned Executing Court is ipso facto contrary to law is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law High Court cannot reverse the findings of facts of learned Executing Court in revision petition unless findings of facts are perverse. See AIR 1991 SC 455 Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 Municipal Corporation Indore vs. K.N. Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 P.Udayani Devi vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao and another. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 Gurdial Singh vs. Raj Kumar Anjela. Hence it is held that orders of learned Executing Court is not perverse but is based upon judgment and decree passed by Hon'ble High Court of H.P. in RSA No. 143 of 2002 and RSA No. 144 of 2002 decided on 4.9.2012. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Relief)

12. In view of findings upon point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Record of learned Executing Court and learned Additional District Judge Solan be sent back forthwith along with certified copy of order. Revision petition is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also disposed of.

(Para- 6 to 11)

Case referred:
Uptron India Ltd. Vs. Shammi Bhan and another, (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 538

For the petitioner: Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner/HPSEB/employer (hereinafter referred to as 'the employer') laying challenge to the award of the learned Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P., dated 15.10.2013, passed in Reference No. 281 of 2012, whereby the reference petition of the petitioner therein, who was workman and respondent herein (hereinafter referred to as 'the workman'), was partly allowed and he was held entitled to seniority, continuity in service from the date of his termination i.e. 25.04.1998 except back wages and the petitioner herein was also directed to regularize the services of the workman.

2. Briefly stating, the facts giving rise to the petition are that the learned Tribunal below determined and adjudicated the following reference:

"Whether termination of the services of Shri Jagdish Chand s/o sh. Tulsi Ram, Village & Post Office Chalarag, Tehsil Joginder Nagar, Distt. Mandi by the Executive Engineer, H.P.S.E.B. Electrical Division, Joginder Nagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P. w.e.f. 25.4.1998 without following the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, is legal and justified? If not, to what amount of back wages, seniority, past service benefits and compensation the above workman is entitled to from the above employer?"

3. As per the workman, he was engaged by the respondents/employer as Beldar on and w.e.f. 25.11.1997 and he worked as such upto 24.04.1998 under the supervision of the Assistant Engineer, HPSEB Sub Division, Makriri. The workman was given fictional breaks and on 25.04.1998 his services were terminated by verbal orders. Before his alleged termination, neither notice was served upon him nor he was charge sheeted. No inquiry of misconduct was ever conducted and no compensation was paid to him by the employer. As per the workman his services were terminated only on the pretext that work and funds are not available and he will be re-engaged as and when the same will be available. The workman has further contended that he approached the authorities for his re-engagement, but in vain. The workman approached the H.P. State Administrative Tribunal by filing an original application, but the same was dismissed on 27.02.2002 for want of jurisdiction. The fact qua dismissal of the original application was not conveyed to the workman by his counsel and he only came to know about this when he personally visited his counsel. Subsequently, a demand notice under Section 2-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') was served to the employer by him. Conciliation proceedings failed and the failure report was submitted to the appropriate Government, but the appropriate Government did not refer the matter to the learned Court on the ground that the workman did not complete 240 days preceding his retrenchment. The workman challenged the same order of not referring the matter in the Hon'ble High Court of H.P. by way of maintaining CWP No. 2758 of 2008, which was decided on 14.05.2012. The Hon'ble High Court of H.P. through its judgment dated 14.05.2012, set aside the order, dated 04.04.2008, of the Labour Commissioner, Shimla, whereby the Commissioner refused to refer the matter to the Court. Thus, the above said reference was referred by the appropriate Government to the learned Tribunal below for determination and adjudication. The workman has further contended therein that some of his juniors were retained at the time of his termination and some fresh hands have also been engaged by the respondent/employer. The workman was not re-engaged and persons, whose services were engaged by the respondent/employer on daily wage basis w.e.f. 25.11.1997, were regularized by them. The workman had also contended that the act and conduct of the respondent was not only illegal and unjustified but was also violative of Sections 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Act. Lastly, the workman prayed for the substantives reliefs, viz., setting aside the termination order dated 25.04.1998, reinstatement, full back wages, seniority and continuity of service from the date of his initial appointment i.e. 25.11.1997.

4. In reply to the reference petition, the petitioner herein, (employer) averred that the workman was engaged as daily waged beldar on 25.11.1997 and he worked as such upto 24.04.1998. As per the employer, the workman was never disengaged, in fact, he left the job voluntarily and he did not approach Assistant Engineer or Junior Engineer for re-engagement. It is further contended that against the termination order, workman firstly approached the H.P. State Administrative Tribunal then Hon'ble High Court of H.P. The workman abandoned the job despite availability of work and thus he cannot claim parity with the workmen, who have been named by the workman, since they worked continuously. The workman, as per the knowledge of the employer, had undertaken SSB training at Sarahan after abandoning the job. The employer has further contended that no provision has been violated and now re-engagement of the workman is not possible due to unavailability of work. Ultimately, the respondent therein prayed for dismissal of the reference petition.

4. The learned Tribunal below has framed the following issues for determination:

"1. Whether the termination of services of the petitioner by the respondent w.e.f. 25.04.1998 is illegal and unjustified as alleged? OPP

2. Relief."

After deciding issue No. 1 in favour of the workman, the reference was partly allowed by the learned Tribunal below and the workman was ordered to be re-engaged forthwith with seniority, continuity in service from the date of his illegal termination, i.e. 25.04.1998, except back wages, and the respondent was also directed to consider the case of the workman for regularization of service. The learned Tribunal below also clarified that if the services of any person junior to the workman have already been regularized, the workman shall be entitled to regularization from the date/month of the regularization of the services of his juniors.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record carefully.

6. The workman tendered in affidavit, Ex. PW-1/A, wherein he reiterated the contents of the reference petition. In his cross-examination he has denied that he was not disengaged. He had undergone SSB training at Sarahan in the year 1994-95. On the other hand, Shri Atul Mehta, Executive engineer, HPSEB, Jogindernagar (RW-1) also tendered his affidavit, Ex. RW-1/A. He, in his cross-examination, has deposed that no notice was served to the petitioner for resuming the duties and no departmental proceedings were initiated. This witness has admitted that persons junior to the workman are serving under him. He has also admitted that after 25.04.1998, new/fresh hands have been employed and no opportunity was afforded to the workman.

7. Both workman and the employer acknowledge that the workman was engaged as a daily waged beldar on 25.11.1997 and he continued as such upto 24.04.1998. As per the workman, he was terminated on and w.e.f. 25.04.1998, whereas as per the employer, he abandoned the job on his own. Abandonment is to be established and not to be presumed lightly. In the given facts and circumstances, when no notice was ever served upon the workman by the employer calling him to resume his duties, abandonment cannot be attributed to the workman. Moreover, nothing is emanating from the record that proceedings were ever initiated against the workman for willful absence. Thus, the plea of willful abandonment by the workman raised by the employer goes unestablished. The workman, in his cross-examination, deposed that he had undergone SSB training during the years 1994-95, then also there is no question of abandonment of services by him.

8. Mandays chart, Ex. RW-1/B, portrays that the workman did not complete 240 days in a calendar year preceding the date of his termination, i.e. 25.04.1998, as mandated by Section 25-B of the Act. Therefore, the provisions of Section 25-B are not attracted. A bare perusal of seniority list of daily waged beldars, Ex. PW-1/B, reveals that persons junior to the workman were retained. This fact is further fortified by RW-1 that persons junior to the workman are working under him and new persons have also been appointed. Thus, after perusal of seniority list and scrutiny of statement of RW-1, it clearly and unambiguously stands established that there had been violation of the provisions of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act, rendering the termination of the workman illegal. It is not at all obligatory for a workman to have completed 240 days in a calendar year preceding his termination to take benefits of the provisions of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act.

9. In Uptron India Ltd. Vs. Shammi Bhan and another, (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 538, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the employer cannot terminate the services of the workman until and unless principles of natural justice have been followed and the workman has been provided reasonable opportunity to explain himself before terminating his services on the basis of abandonment of job.

10. In view of what has been discussed hereinabove, I find no infirmity in the award passed by the learned Tribunal below. The award passed by the learned Tribunal below is just, reasoned and after properly appreciating the facts to their right perspective and the law has been applied correctly. The petition being devoid of merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. However, in view of peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the parties are directed to bear their own costs.

11. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition (CWP No. 9241 of 2013) is maintained by the petitioner/workman (hereinafter referred to as 'the workman') laying challenge to the award of the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla, dated 17.09.2013, passed in Reference No. 4 of 2008, whereby he was not granted full back-wages and seniority w.e.f. 07.07.2009 to 22.08.2012. On the other hand, the petitioners (in CWP No. 9789 of 2013), being employer (Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board) of the workman (hereinafter referred to as the respondents), have also assailed the same award by way of another writ petition, on the ground that the same may be quashed in entirety and the claim of the workman is required to be disallowed.

2. Briefly stating, the facts giving rise to both the petitions are that as per the workman, he was engaged by the respondents/employer as Beldar on and w.e.f. 21.08.1994 and he worked as such in the office of Junior Engineer, HPSEB, Section Chandal, Division Rajgarh, District Sirmour, till 15.06.1996, when verbally the respondents illegally terminated his services. As per the workman, he had completed 240 days in a calendar year. The respondents did not comply the obligatory provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') and no reason was assigned for the termination of the workman. The workman time and again visited the office of the respondents in a hope that he will be re-engaged, but despite written requests no action was taken. The respondents assured him that he will be re-engaged and he waited till September, 2003, and ultimately he issued a demand notice before the Labour-cum-Conciliation Officer, Solan. The respondents remained obstinate during the conciliation proceedings and lastly the reference was made to the learned Tribunal below. As per the workman, the respondents had engaged new persons in contravention of Section 25-H of the Act and the provisions of Sections 25-N, 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Act have also been contravened. The workman has further averred that no notice had been issued to him nor any compensation was paid. The workman prayed for setting aside his oral termination order dated 15.06.1996 with simultaneous prayer for his reinstatement in service on and w.e.f. 15.06.1996 with all consequential benefits, including back wages, seniority etc.

3. In reply to the reference petition, the respondents have taken preliminary objections, viz., maintainability, estoppel, delay and laches. It is contended by the respondents that the workman was engaged as Beldar on daily wage basis on and w.e.f. 16.11.1993 by SDO (E) HPSEB, Rajgarh, and he had worked upto 15.03.1994. As per the respondents, since the workman was not regular in his duties, he did not complete 240 days in any calendar year, so no notice was required to be served upon him in view of the Standing Orders, Clause 14(2) A under the Act. The respondents had further averred that the workman had left the job on his own without informing the respondents and he was casual in attending his duties, therefore, there had been no violation of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act.

4. The learned Tribunal below has framed the following issues for determination:

> "1. Whether the services of the petitioner have been illegally terminated by the respondents without complying with the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. If so, its effect? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what relief the petitioner is entitled to? OPP
> 3. Whether the petitioner has no locus standi and the application is not maintainable? OPR
> 4. Relief."

After deciding issue No. 1 in favour of the workman and issue No. 3 against the respondents, the reference was allowed and the workman was ordered to be reinstated with seniority and continuity w.e.f. 15.03.1994 till passing of the award, except from 07.07.2009 to 22.08.2012, however, without back-wages.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record carefully.

6. As per the workman (petitioner) he was engaged as beldar on and w.e.f. 21.08.1994 and was terminated on 15.06.1996. However, as per reply of the respondents, the workman was engaged as beldar by SDO (E), HPSEB, Rajgarh on 16.11.1993 and he worked upto 15.03.1994. The workman left the job on his own without informing the respondents. Thus, manifestly the workman had worked upto 15.03.1994 and not 15.06.1996 when he was allegedly terminated.

7. The workman while deposing as PW-1 has stated that he was engaged as beldar by the Junior Engineer, HPSEB, Section Chandal and he worked upto 15.06.1996 when he was disengaged/terminated without any notice and compensation. As per the workman, he had been engaged by the Junior Engineer, as beldar. Meaning thereby, the contention of the workman that he was engaged on 21.08.1994 is false. PW-2 (Shri Adhoya Kumar) has deposed that the workman worked under his control during the year 1993-94. Nothing is emanating from the record that the workman had been engaged on 21.08.1994. Conversely, the stand of the respondents is fortified by a document pertaining to the detail of the working days qua the workman, which demonstrates that as per Muster Roll No. 876 he had been engaged on 16.11.1993.

8. RW-1 (Shri Shashi Kant) deposed that the workman had been engaged as beldar on 16.11.1993, and he worked for three days in that year. Thus from the close scrutiny of the testimonies of PW-1 and RW-1, it is crystal clear that the workman had been engaged, as beldar, on 16.11.1993 and not on 21.08.1994.

9. It can easily be construed from the analysis of the record that the petitioner had worked as beldar on and w.e.f. 16.11.1993 to 15.03.1994. As the workman did not complete 240 days in a calendar year preceding his disengagement, the provisions of Section 25-F are not at all applicable to the present case. The workman had further contended that after his disengagement new persons, who were junior to him, were engaged/retained by the respondents in utter violation of the provisions of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act. However, it is imperative to take into consideration the fact that whether the workman left the job on his own or his services were terminated by the respondents. As per the workman, his services were terminated and he wrote letter, Ex. PW-1/A to Ex. PW-1/C, requesting the respondents to re-engage him. On examination of these letters, it stands testified that letters, Ex. PW-1/A, Ex.PW-1/B and Ex. PW-1/C are dated 14.04.1997, 26.06.1997 and 25.07.2000, respectively. RW-1 (Shri Sashi Kant) in fact, admitted that after termination of the workman, workman wrote letters, Ex. PW-1/A to Ex. PW-1/C, to the respondents. Therefore, patently the workman had been requesting the respondents, orally and through letters, to re-engage him. Thus, given the fact that the workman had been making repeated requests to the respondents for his re-engagement, it cannot be said the workman had left the job on his own.

10. The evidence in the present case suggests that after termination of the workman, he ran from pillar to post for his re-engagement that is by way of writing letters and making oral requests to the respondents. Thus, the workman made himself available for re-engagement. Manifestly, the respondents engaged new workers, who are junior to the workman. As the workman time and again requested the respondents for his re-engagement and his juniors were engaged, there is clear cut violation of Section 25-H of the Act. Therefore, the most probable ratiocination which emerges is that after termination of the workman, persons junior to him were engaged by the respondents, which action of the respondents is not only erroneous, but in violation of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act.

11. It has also come on record that the workman did not pursue his case between 07.07.2009 to 05.04.2013 and the same remained dismissed in default during this period. As the respondents had violated the provisions of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act and it is the workman who did not pursue his case w.e.f. 07.07.2009 to 22.08.2012 and only on 22.08.2012 the workman, for the first time, moved an application for restoration of his reference after 07.07.2009, this Court finds no illegality in the order passed by the learned Tribunal below in not granting back wages for the period and break in service. As the workman did not care to get his case restored as well as he also did not prove before the Court by leading cogent and reliable evidence that he was not doing anything during all these years and it is otherwise also not acceptable that a person will remain sleeping in his house for such a substantial time.

12. In Uptron India Ltd. Vs. Shammi Bhan and another, (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 538, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the employer cannot terminate the services of the workman until and unless principles of natural justice have been followed and the workman has been provided reasonable opportunity to explain himself before terminating his services on the basis of abandonment of job.

13. In view of what has been discussed hereinabove, I find no infirmity in the award passed by the learned Tribunal below. The award passed by the learned Tribunal below is just, reasoned and after properly appreciating the facts to their right perspective and the law has been applied correctly. The petitions being devoid of merit, deserve dismissal and are accordingly dismissed. However, in view of peculiar facts and circumstances of the cases, the parties are directed to bear their own costs.

14. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of.

The application aforesaid also holds the signatures of the complainant.

3. The offence qua which a concurrent order of conviction stood pronounced upon the accused/convict is compoundable yet the accused/convict and the complainant while endeavouring to seek composition of the offence whereupon an order of conviction stood concurrently pronounced upon the accused/convict, are enjoined to obtain the permission of this Court.

4. Be that as it may, this Court would proceed to accord the apposite permission to them only when satiation stands begotten qua the relevant principles encapsulated in the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Ramji Lal and another Vs. State of Haryana, 1983(1) SCC 368, Mohd. Rafi vs. State of U.P., 1998(2) R.C.R.(Criminal 455, M.D.Balan Mian and another vs. State of Bihar and another 2001 AIR (SCW) 5190, Khursheed and another vs. State of U.P in Appeal (Crl.) No. 1302 of 2007, Dasan vs. State of Kerala and another 2014(2) ECrC 384. 6. Consequently, this Court accepts their joint proposal to compound the offence committed by the accused/convict. In sequel thereto the revision petition is allowed. The conviction and sentence concurrently imposed upon the accused/convict by both the Courts below is set aside. The accused/convict is acquitted. Bail bonds are cancelled.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Kewal Ram Siranta & Ors. ...Petitioners.

Versus

HP Voluntary Health Association & Anr. ...Respondents.

Civil Revision No.150 of 2016.
Reserved on: 27.10.2016.
Decided on: November 16, 2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 7 Rule 11- A civil suit for declaration was filed challenging the election of various office bearers of the society – an application for rejection of the plaint was filed, which was dismissed – held, that the application was filed belatedly – the time for which the office bearers were elected has lapsed but that is not sufficient to dismiss the suit – the Court has already framed issue regarding the maintainability which is yet to be adjudicated- petition dismissed. (Para-4 to 8)

For the Petitioners: Mrs. Pratima Malhotra, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Sandeep Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

Sanjay Singh Chauhan in the capacity of Secretary of Himachal Pradesh Voluntary Association instituted a suit wherein on the ground of the apposite elections contravening the constitution of the "Society" he hence constituted a challenge to the election of respondents No.1 to 9, as President, vice President, Secretary, Treasurer besides Members and office bearers of the aforesaid association. He also canvassed therein qua rendition of a declaratory decree qua the election of the afore-stated defendants being quashed and set aside. The suit aforesaid stood instituted in the year 2011.

2. The defendants contested the suit by instituting a written statement thereto wherein they raised a trite objection qua with the aforesaid plaintiff not at the apposite stage donning the capacity of Secretary of the Himachal Pradesh Voluntary Health Association, a registered Society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (for short 'the Society') rather the capacity afore-stated standing extantly manned by its newly elected Secretary rendering hence the frame of array of plaintiff(s) being mis-constituted also a contest was made therein qua the relief canvassed therein being unaffordable to the plaintiff. Also on anvil of omission of joinder of the "Society" in the array of defendants, an apposite objection qua the maintainability of the suit stood raised therein.

3. On the contentious pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court under its orders made on 10.01.2014 struck the relevant issues arising from the contentious pleadings of the parties at contest where-amongst one, is an issue qua the plaintiff holding a legally enforceable cause of action vis-à-vis the defendants. Previous thereto an application under the provisions of Section 151 of the CPC stood instituted by the defendants before the learned trial Court holding a prayer therein qua the suit of the plaintiffs being ordered to be dismissed. On the afore-stated application the learned trial Court below pronounced the impugned orders whereby the relief as canvassed therein stood refused to the defendants wherefrom the defendants stand aggrieved, hence are constrained to prefer herebefore the instant petition for quashing them.

4. The application preferred under Section 151 CPC subsequent to completion of pleadings inter se the litigating parties before the Court concerned purportedly appears to stand instituted under the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, provisions whereof embody therein the grounds whereupon a civil Court can order for rejection of plaint, one amongst which is non-existence of a disclosure therein qua any cause of action accruing to the plaintiff, ground whereof stands apparently reared in the apposite pleadings of the defendants, whereon an apposite issue also stands struck by the learned trial Court. The availment of the aforesaid provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC by the defendants, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "11. Rejection of plaint.- The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:—
> (a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;
> (b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the court, fails to do so;
> (c) where the relief claimed is properly valued, but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the court to supply the requisite stamp paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;
> (d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;
> (e) where it is not filed in duplicate;
> (f) where the plaintiff fails comply with the provision of Rule 9.
> Provided that the time fixed by the court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp papers shall not be extended unless the court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the > requisite stamp papers, as the case may be within the time fixed by the court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff."

stood enjoined to occur at the outset, precisely at the stage whereat they stood efficaciously served by the learned trial Court. However, visibly the defendants procrastinated theirs availing the aforesaid provisions of the CPC comprised in theirs constituting besides rearing pleadings in their written statement with a disclosure therein qua no cause of action subsisting vis-à-vis the plaintiff. The learned trial Court had concluded qua with an apposite issue qua the plaintiff holding no enforceable cause of action vis-à-vis the defendants standing ordered to be struck, whereupon evidence remaining yet un-adduced hence rendered the apposite application to warrant rejection. The impugned order pronounced by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any apparent illegality or impropriety conspicuously when the defendants at the stage whereat they initially received copy of the summons from the learned trial Court they abandoned besides waived their statutory right qua theirs thereat promptly availing the relevant grounds embodied in Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, for thereupon theirs seeking an apposite relief, relief whereof rather subsequent thereto stood constituted in the application at hand, also imperatively when availment thereof thereat constituted the apposite stage for theirs availing them contrarily when rather they procrastinated their availment even up to the stage whereat they in their written statement raised an apposite contention in consonance therewith bespeaks of the principle of thereupon theirs standing estopped to subsequent thereto unveil a ground in tandem thereof whereby they hence stand baulked in making their relevant espousal qua the plaintiffs extantly holding no subsisting cause of action vis-à-vis them. Moreso, when the factum aforesaid is construed along with the factum qua an apposite issue standing struck thereon by the learned trial Court whereon evidence remains yet un-adduced whereupon an inference is engendered qua prima facie hence this Court standing not constrained to pronounce qua the suit of the plaintiff warranting dismissal especially when the aforesaid pronouncement would be a premature closure besides termination of the suit even when the relevant issues are open for trial. Also with the relevant constitution of the "Society"/"Association" holding a mandate therein qua its authorized Secretary holding an authorization to enjoy the apposite term for a period of three years, period whereof may stand completed by the Secretary whose election stands challenged by Sanjay Singh Chauhan, may also obviously be a relevant factor before the Court below to make its relevant pronouncement thereon. In face thereof, when the suit of the plaintiff may prima facie ultimately suffer the fate of dismissal whereupon any adverse pronouncement qua the plaintiffs by this Court at this stage may ultimately forestall the learned trial Court to record an apposite verdict thereupon rather would present it with a fait accompli. For obviating any occurrence of the aforesaid casualty, this Court does not deem it fit and proper to interfere with the impugned order of the learned Court below.

5. The learned counsel appearing for the defendants has submitted before this Court that even the term of the defendants who stand elected in various capacities in the "society"/"Association" has ended whereupon she contends of the suit warranting dismissal. However, the aforesaid submission is open to be addressed before the learned trial Judge, who on adduction of germane evidence in substantiation thereof may record an apposite verdict thereon.

6. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the defendants has contended qua Sanjay Singh Chauhan mis-reflecting himself to be the Secretary of the Society significantly when he stands substituted by a newly elected Secretary besides she contends of the suit being bad for non-joinder of the "Society"/"Association" in the array of defendants whereas its joinder in the array of co-defendants was imperative. However, all the aforesaid defects in the frame of the suit or in the constitution of the litigating parties may be curable by an appropriate application standing preferred by the plaintiff before the learned Court below whereon it is open for the learned trial Court to record an appropriate decision thereon.

7. The factum of the suit being barred by statutory provisions engrafted in the relevant statute besides its thereupon being not maintainable may also not warrant this Court to record a pronouncement thereupon significantly when an apposite issue qua the facet aforesaid stands struck by the learned trial Court whereon the parties may adduce the relevant evidence for facilitating the learned trial Court to record a clinching finding thereon.

8. For all the reasons, which stand assigned herein-above, the reasoning afforded by the learned Court below in dismissing the application of the defendants is free from any fault. In sequel, there is no merit in the instant petition, the same is dismissed. However, it is made clear that any observation made herein-above will have no bearing on the merits of the case and the learned trial Court shall decide the suit uninfluenced by any observation made hereinabove. All pending application(s) shall also stand disposed of.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Imam -he submitted his resignation reserving his right to continue as voluntary Imam and to keep the residential accommodation allotted to him -his resignation was accepted on 31.7.2003 -it was resolved to discontinue voluntary Imamat of the writ petitioner and all the facilities -a civil suit was filed for the recovery of possession and use and occupation charges, which was decreed -regular first appeal was filed, which was dismissed - a writ petition was filed for quashing the resolution - various other Civil revisions and Civil Miscellaneous Petitions (CMPMO) were also filed against various orders passed by Wakf Tribunal - all these petitions were taken for decision together-it was held, that Section 6 and 7 of the Wakf Act, 1995 provide for determination of certain disputes regarding wakf property only by Wakf Tribunal -sub Section 9 of Section 83 of the Act provides that no appeal shall lie against any decision or order whether interim or otherwise, passed by the Tribunal established under the Act - still the RFA and Writ Petitions are being filed and entertained by the Court -remedy of revision has been provided by the Act - since revision lies against the order; therefore, writ petition is not maintainable - it was further held that sections 6 and 7 of the Act do not cover the dispute of eviction relating to the immovable property, which is admittedly a Wakf property - such disputes are triable by the Civil Courts - writ petitions and RFAs dismissed as not maintainable - direction issued to treat CMPMO as civil revision.

This Civil Revision Petition has been filed by the petitioner under Section 83 of Wakf Act, 1995 against the judgment and decree passed by Wakf Tribunal, Kangra, Hamirpur, Kullu, Una, Lahaul and Spiti, and Chamba at Dharamshala in Civil Suit No.2-D/1/2002/(1994), dated 25.3.2003, whereby the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein was decreed.

10. Plaintiff-Punjab Wakf Board, (now Himachal Wakf Board), filed a suit for possession and for demolition of the structure, being owner of the suit property the description of which has been given in the plaint. The Tribunal decreed the suit of the plaintiff (respondent No.1 herein), sale deed dated 14.2.1984 and 23.1.1984 executed in favour of defendant No.1 (appellant herein) by the mother of defendant No.2 were declared to be null and void and illegal. Accordingly, defendant No.1 was restrained from changing the nature of the suit land. Hence the instant revision petition.

11. This petition has been filed by the plaintiff under Section 83(9) of Wakf Act, 1995 against the judgment and decree passed by Wakf Tribunal in Civil Suit No.2-D/1/2002/(1994), dated 25.3.2003, (also subject matter of CR No.159 of 2003 supra), whereby the plaintiff has challenged the impugned judgment on the sole ground that the Tribunal has not granted the relief of possession by demolishing the structure standing on the suit land.

12. This Civil Revision Petition under Section 83(a) of Wakf Act, 1995 is the outcome of the judgment and decree, dated 20.7.2012, passed by the Wakf Tribunal, Shimla in Civil Suit No.6-S/1 of 2008, whereby the suit of the plaintiff/petitioner herein was dismissed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

13. It was averred by the Plaintiff in the plaint that he had been statutory tenant in possession of top floor alongwith attic in Kutub Mosque Subzi Mandi, Shimla under defendant No.1 i.e. H.P. Wakf Board, on rent and paying rent to the Wakf Board. Defendant No.1/H.P. Wakf Board initiated eviction proceedings under Section 54 of the Wakf Act, 1955 against the plaintiff. It was further averred that the order dated 28.12.2007 passed by defendant No.1 was wrong, illegal, void and not biding on the plaintiff. Thus, the suit filed by the plaintiff (petitioner herein) for permanent injunction.

14. The Tribunal, vide the impugned judgment, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff and held that the plaintiff was rank trespasser and liable to be evicted.

15. This Civil Revision Petition under Section 83(9) of Wakf Act, 1995 is directed against the judgment and decree passed by Wakf Tribunal, Shimla in Civil Suit No.19-S/1 of 2008, dated 19.3.2015, whereby the suit of the plaintiff-H.P. Wakf Board has been dismissed, (for short the impugned judgment).

16. The plaintiff-H.P. Wakf Board filed a suit for declaration to the effect that plaintiff-Board was owner of shops in Middle Bazar Shimla, the description of which has been given in the plaint itself, and also prayed that the revenue entries showing defendants/respondents herein to be in possession of the suit property be declared as null, void, illegal and inoperative.

17. The Tribunal, vide the impugned judgment, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff, hence the present petition.

RFA No.343 of 2008

18. The instant Regular First Appeal has been preferred under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for shot, CPC) by defendant No.1 against the judgment and decree, dated 30th August, 2008, passed by Wakf Tribunal, Kangra at Dharamshala, whereby suit of the plaintiff-Wakf Board was decreed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

19. Plaintiff-Board filed a suit for permanent injunction against the defendants, being the owner of the suit property as the same was the property of the mosque. It was averred that the entries reflecting defendant No.1 as owner in possession of the suit land were wrong and illegal.

20. The suit was decreed by the Tribunal, vide the impugned judgment, and the defendants were restrained from raising construction over the suit land or changing nature thereof, hence the present appeal.

21. This appeal under Section 96 of the CPC arises out of the judgment and decree, dated 31st May, 2011, passed by the Wakf Tribunal, Shimla, whereby the suit of the plaintiff-Wakf Board, for possession and recovery, was decreed, the defendant was ordered to be dispossessed from the suit property and the plaintiff-Board was also held entitled for Rs.1,09,400/- as use and occupation charges, (for short, the impugned judgment). Feeling aggrieved, the defendant has filed the instant appeal.

CMPMO No.213 of 2012

22. This petition has been filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India read with Section 83(9) of the Wakf Act, 1995, against judgment and decree dated 31.12.2011, passed by the Wakf Tribunal, Kangra at Dharamshala, vide which the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein was partly decreed inasmuch as the decree for possession was granted, while relief of mandatory injunction by way of demolition was declined.

CMPMO No.284 of 2012

23. This petition has been filed under Section 83(9) of the Wakf Act, 1995, read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India, against the judgment and decree, dated 4.6.2012, passed by Wakf Tribunal, Shimla, whereby petition under Section 7 read with 83(2) of the Wakf Act, 1995, was dismissed, hence, the present petition by the petitioners.

CMPMO No.285 of 2012

24. The present petition has been filed under Section 83(9) of the Wakf Act, 1995, read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India, against the order 4.6.2012, passed by Wakf Tribunal, Shimla, whereby petition under Section 7 read with 83(2) of the Wakf Act, 1995, was dismissed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

25. Thus, the question to be determined in the present cases is – Whether Regular First Appeal or Civil Revision or petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India would lie against the order passed by the Wakf Tribunal.

To answer the question framed hereinabove, relevant provisions of the Wakf Act, 1995, (for shot, the Act), are to be noticed.

26. In order to settle the disputes qua the Wakf properties, the Act provides for establishment of Wakf Tribunals which have to determine the disputes, as detailed in Sections 6 of the Act. It is apt to reproduce Section 6 of the Act hereunder:

> "6. Disputes regarding wakfs :- (1) If any question arises whether a particular property specified as wakf property in the list of wakfs is wakf property or not or whether a wakf specified in such list is a Shia wakf or Sunni wakf, the Board or the mutawalli of the wakf or any person interested therein may institute a suit in a Tribunal for the decision of the question and the decision of the Tribunal in respect of such matter shall be final :Provided that no such suit shall be entertained by the Tribunal after the expiry of one year from the date of the publication of the list of wakfs.
> (2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), no proceeding under this Act in respect of any wakf shall be stayed by reason only of the pendency of any such suit or of any appeal or other proceeding arising out of such suit.
> (3) The Survey Commissioner shall not be made a party to any suit under sub- section (1) and no suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against him in respect of anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done in pursuance of this Act or any rules made thereunder.
> (4) The list of wakfs shall, unless it is modified in pursuance of a decision or the Tribunal under sub-section (1), be final and conclusive.
> (5) On and from the commencement of this Act in a State, no suit or other legal proceeding shall be instituted or commenced in a court in that State in relation to any question referred to in sub-section (1)."

27. Section 7 of the Act, reproduced below, deals with the powers of the Wakf Tribunal:

> "7. Power of Tribunal to determine disputes regarding wakfs :- (1) If, after the commencement of this Act, any question arises, whether a particular property specified as wakf property in a list of wakfs is wakf property or not, or whether a wakf specified in such list is a Shia wakf or a Sunni wakf, the Board or the mutawalli of the wakf, or any person interested therein, may apply to the Tribunal having jurisdiction in relation to such property, for the decision of the question and the decision of the Tribunal thereon shall be final; Provided that -(a) in the case of the list of wakfs relating to any part of the State and published after the commencement of this Act no such application shall be entertained after the expiry of one year from the date of publication of the list of wakfs; and
> (b) in the case of the list of wakfs relating to any part of the State and published at any time within a period of one year immediately preceding the commencement of this Act, such an application may be entertained by Tribunal within the period of one year from such commencement :Provided further that where any such question has been heard and finally decided by a civil court in a suit instituted before such commencement, the Tribunal shall not re-open such question.
> (2) Except where the Tribunal has no jurisdiction by reason of the provisions of sub-section (5), no proceeding under this section in respect of any wakf shall be stayed by any court, tribunal or other authority by reason only of the pendency of any suit, application or appeal or other proceeding arising out of any such suit, application, appeal or other proceeding.
> (3) The Chief Executive Officer shall not be made a party to any application under sub-section (1).
> (4) The list of wakfs and where any such list is modified in pursuance of a decision of the Tribunal under sub-section (1), the list as so modified, shall be final.
> (5) The Tribunal shall not have jurisdiction to determine any matter which is the subject-matter of any suit or proceeding instituted or commenced in a civil court under sub-section (1) of section 6 , before the commencement of this Act or which is the subject-matter of any appeal from the decree passed before such commencement in any such suit or proceeding or of any application for revision or review arising out of such suit, proceeding or appeal, as the case may be."

28. Thus, Sections 6 and 7 of the Act provides for determination of certain disputes regarding wakf properties only by the Wakf Tribunal. But the question arises that after determining the dispute by the Tribunal, what remedy is available to the aggrieved party.

29. Before the establishment of the Wakf Tribunal, District Judge was hearing the cases and determining the disputes under the Act. After amendment in the Act, under Section 83 of the Act, Tribunals are constituted having three members i.e. District Judge as Chairman, one person from the State Civil Services of the rank of Additional District Magistrate and one person having knowledge of Muslim Law and jurisprudence, as members. It is apt to reproduce Section 83 of the Act hereunder

"83. Constitution of Tribunals, etc :- (1) The State Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute as many Tribunals as it may think fit, for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a wakf or wakf property under this Act and define the local limits and jurisdiction under this Act of each of such Tribunals.

(2) Any rnutawalli person interested in a wakf or any other person aggrieved by an order made under this Act, or rules made thereunder, may make an application within the time specified in this Act or where no such time has been specified, within such time as may be prescribed, to the Tribunal for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to the wakf.

(3) Where any application made under sub-section (1) relates to any wakf property which falls within the territorial limits of the jurisdiction of two or more Tribunals, such application may be made to the Tribunal within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the rnutawalli or any one of the mutawallis of the wakf actually and voluntarily resides, carries on business or personally works for gain, and, where any such application is made to the Tribunal aforesaid, the other Tribunal or Tribunals having jurisdiction shall not entertain any applica- tion for the determination of such dispute, question or other matter :Provided that the State Government may, if it is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of the wakf or any other person interested in the wakf or the wakf property to transfer such application to any other Tribunal having jurisdiction for the determination of the dispute, question or other matter relating to such wakf or wakf property, transfer such application to any other Tribunal having jurisdiction, and, on such transfer, the Tribunal to which the application is so transferred shall deal with the application from the stage which was reached before the Tribunal from which the application has been so transferred, except where the Tribunal is of opinion that it is necessary in the interests of justice to deal with the application afresh.

(4) Every Tribunal shall consist of –

(a) one person, who shall be a member of the State Judicial Service holding a rank, not below that of a District, Sessions or Civil Judge, Class I, who shall be the Chairman;

(b) one person, who shall be an officer from the State Civil Services equivalent in rank to that of the Additional District Magistrate, Member;

(c) one person having knowledge of Muslim law and jurisprudence, Member, and the appointment of every such person may be made either by name or by designation."

(5) The Tribunal shall be deemed to be a civil court and shall have the same powers as may be exercised by a civil court under Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 , while trying a suit, or executing a decree or order.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 , the Tribunal shall follow such procedure as may be prescribed.

(7) The decision of the Tribunal shall be final and binding upon the parties to the application and it shall have the force of a decree made by a civil court.

(8) The execution of any decision of the Tribunal shall be made by the civil court to which such decision is sent for execution in accordance with the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 .

(9) No appeal shall lie against any decision or order whether interim or otherwise, given or made by the Tribunal:

Provided that a High Court may, on its own motion or on the application of the Board or any person aggrieved, call for and examine the records relating to any dispute, question or other matter which has been determined by the Tribunal for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of such determination and may confirm, reverse or modify such determination or pass such other order as it may think fit."

30. Sub Section 9 of Section 83 of the Act provides that no appeal shall lie against any decision or order whether interim or otherwise, passed by the Tribunal established under the Act. Still, it is astonishing that Writ Petitions and Regular First Appeals are being preferred by the aggrieved parties before this Court challenging the decisions rendered by the Tribunals constituted under the Act. It is also not understandable how such appeals or writ petitions are being entertained once there is specific bar in terms of Section 83(9) of the Act that no appeal will lie against the order of the Tribunal. We were told that it is a practice in this Court and the decisions have been made and such decisions have attained finality.

31. We may make it clear that we are not giving findings viz. a viz. those judgments which have attained finality. It is also made clear that this judgment is prospective in nature and will not, in any way, have retrospective effect.

32. In terms of proviso to Sub Section (9) of Section 83 of the Act, any person aggrieved by the orders of the Tribunals can invoke the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court. Thus, remedy is provided to the aggrieved person by way of filing revision petition and not by the medium of appeal.

The Act contains the mechanism for filing revision petition, thus, providing efficacious alternative remedy to the aggrieved party, rendering the writ petition not maintainable against the orders passed by the Tribunal. This view has been taken by this Court in case titled as M/s Indian Technomac Company Ltd. versus State of H.P. & others, being CWP No.4779 of 2014, decided on 4th August, 2014, and restated in plethora of judgments.

In a similar case, the High Court of Andhra Pradesh in case titled as Mohd. Abdul Kareem And Anr. vs. Andhra Pradesh State Wakf Board, 2004(2) ALD 345, held that the jurisdiction of the High Court in disputes pertaining to Wakfs can be invoked by way of filing revision petition and not by the medium of a writ petition. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 13 of the said decision hereunder:

> "13. As seen from the above, the jurisdiction of the High Court in disputes relating to Wakfs can be invoked only when an aggrieved party files a revision petition under Sub-section (9) of Section 83 of the Act and a writ. petition would not be maintainable. In view of the binding precedents, this Court is not inclined to go into the merits of the contentions on other two questions raised by the learned Counsel for respective parties. These are left open to be decided at an appropriate stage in appropriate proceedings."

33. In view of the above discussion, the question supra is answered accordingly.

34. Next question, which arises for determination is whether a suit for eviction and recovery of use and occupation charges against a person, who, admittedly, is a tenant, will lie before the Wakf Tribunal or before the Civil Court.

35. This point was neither raised before us by any of the parties nor arguments were addressed. However, we may observe that Sections 6 and 7 of the Act, reproduced above, nowhere encompasses the disputes relating to eviction of a tenant occupying the wakf property.

Therefore, such disputes are triable by the civil court and not by the Tribunal established under the Act.

36. Our this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Faseela M. vs. Munnerul Islam Madrasa Committee and another, 2014 AIR SCW 2503, wherein it was held by their Lordships that suit for eviction from wakf property is triable by a civil court and not by the Wakf Tribunal since the Act does not provide determination of dispute of eviction by the Tribunal. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 12 to 17 of the said judgment hereunder:

> "12. The Court in para 35, page 738 held as follows:
> > "35. In the cases at hand the Act does not provide for any proceedings before the Tribunal for determination of a dispute concerning the eviction of a tenant in occupation of a wakf property or the rights and obligations of the lessor and the lessees of such property. A suit seeking eviction of the tenants from what is admittedly wakf property could, therefore, be filed only before the civil court and not before the Tribunal."
> 13. Mr. Renjith Marar, learned Counsel for Respondent No. 1, submits that in a subsequent decision in Bhanwar Lal and Anr. v. Rajasthan Board of Muslim Wakf and Ors., 2013 11 SCALE 210, this Court has taken a different view. According to him, Section 85 of the Act leaves no manner of doubt that the Waqf Tribunal has jurisdiction to decide the suit for eviction. It is so because one of the questions for determination is whether the suit property is waqf property or not.
> 14. The Court in Bhanwar Lal & Anr V/S Rajasthan Board Of Muslim Wakf & Ors, 2013 11 SCALE 210 considered the decision in at quite some length. Besides Ramesh Gobindram (Dead) Through LRs V/S Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, 2010 8 SCC 726, the Court in Bhanwar Lal & Anr V/S Rajasthan Board Of Muslim Wakf & Ors, 2013 11 SCALE 210 also considered two other decisions, one, Board of Wakf, West Bengal and Anr. v. Anis Fatma Begum and Anr., 2010 14 SCC 588 and two, Sardar Khan and Ors. v. Syed Najmul Hasan (Seth) and Ors., 2007 10 SCC 727. In Anis Board of Wakf, West Bengal and Anr. v. Anis Fatma Begum and Anr., 2010 14 SCC 588, this Court had held that the Waqf Tribunal constituted Under Section 83 of the Act will have exclusive jurisdiction to deal with the questions relating to demarcation of the waqf property.
> 15. Pertinently, the Court in Bhanwar Lal & Anr V/S Rajasthan Board Of Muslim Wakf & Ors, 2013 11 SCALE 210 held that the suit for cancellation of sale deed was triable by the civil court.
> 16. Bhanwar Lal & Anr V/S Rajasthan Board Of Muslim Wakf & Ors, 2013 11 SCALE 210 follows the line of reasoning in Ramesh Gobindram (Dead) Through LRs V/S Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, 2010 8 SCC 726, The decision of this Court in BHANWAR LAL & ANR V/S RAJASTHAN BOARD OF MUSLIM WAKF & ORS, 2013 11 SCALE 210 is not in any manner inconsistent or contrary to the view taken by this Court in Ramesh Gobindram (Dead) Through Lrs V/S Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, 2010 8 SCC 726, . We fully concur with the view of this Court in Ramesh Gobindram : (2010) 8 SCC 726, particularly with regard to construction put by it upon Sections 83 and 85 of the Act. In Ramesh Gobindram (Dead) Through LRs V/S Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, 2010 8 SCC 726, the Court said:
> > "32. There is, in our view, nothing in Section 83 to suggest that it pushes the exclusion of the jurisdiction of the civil courts extends (sic) beyond what has been provided for in Section 6(5), Section 7 and Section 85 of the Act. It simply empowers the Government to constitute a Tribunal or Tribunals for determination of any dispute, question of other matter relating to a wakf or wakf property which does not ipso facto mean that the jurisdiction of the civil courts stands completely excluded by reasons of such establishment.

> 33. It is noteworthy that the expression "for the determination of any dispute, question or other matter relating to a wakf or wakf property" appearing in Section 83(1) also appears in Section 85 of the Act. Section 85 does not, however, exclude the jurisdiction of the civil courts in respect of any or every question or disputes only because the same relates to a wakf or a wakf property. Section 85 in terms provides that the jurisdiction of the civil court shall stand excluded in relation to only such matters as are required by or under this Act to be determined by the Tribunal."
> 34. The crucial question that shall have to be answered in every case where a plea regarding exclusion of the jurisdiction of the civil court is raised is whether the Tribunal is under the Act or the Rules required to deal with the matter sought to be brought before a civil court. If it is not, the jurisdiction of the civil court is not excluded. But if the Tribunal is required to decide the matter the jurisdiction of the Civil Court would stand excluded."
> 17. The matter before us is wholly and squarely covered by Ramesh Gobindram (Dead) Through LRs V/S Sugra Humayun Mirza Wakf, 2010 8 SCC 726, . The suit for eviction against the tenant relating to a waqf property is exclusive triable by the civil court as such suit is not covered by the disputes specified in Sections 6 and 7 of the Act."

37. Thus, it is held that the suit for eviction against the tenant in regard to wakf property is triable by the Civil Court.

38. In view of the above findings, let us take the instant cases one by one and settle whether they are maintainable in the present form or not.

RFA Nos.343 of 2008 & 265 of 2011

39. These regular first appeals have been filed by the appellants against the impugned judgments passed by the Wakf Tribunal. Since we have held above that no appeal against the orders of the Wakf Tribunal will lie, therefore, these appeals merit to be dismissed and the same are dismissed accordingly. However, the aggrieved party may seek appropriate remedy, if any, available in terms of the Act. It is made clear that in case any party resort to appropriate proceedings, the time spent in pursuing these appeals is to be excluded while computing the period of limitation.

LPA No.210 of 2015:

40. This appeal has been filed by the appellant/writ petitioner against the impugned judgment passed by the learned Single Judge, whereby the writ petition filed by the petitioner came to be dismissed. It is worthwhile to record herein that earlier the Wakf Board had filed a civil suit, which came to be decreed. Feeling aggrieved, the writ petitioner filed RFA No.484 of 2011, which was dismissed by this court vide judgment dated 10th September, 2014. Thereafter, the writ petitioner filed the writ petition giving rise to the instant appeal. In fact, the writ petition was filed for the same relief, which already stands determined by the Wakf Tribunal and upheld by this Court in regular first appeal supra. As we have held above, though regular first appeal against the order of the Tribunal was not maintainable, however, since the judgment rendered by this Court has attained finality, therefore, we are not going into the said question.

41. Thus, the writ petition on the same cause of action was not maintainable and therefore, the learned Single Judge has rightly held that the writ petition was not maintainable. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs No.13 and 16 of the impugned judgment hereunder:

> "13. Be that as it may, the power of this Court to exercise extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution is to ensure that rule of law prevails and not to issue directions or writ to perpetuate illegality or to act in disregard to the settled decisions, statutory provisions, regulations and policy decisions etc. and in such situation, this Court can only sympathize with the plight of such students who for no fault of their own are being dislodged. Here, it shall be apt to reproduce the following passage from the judgment delivered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.S. Bhoir vs. State of Maharashtra and others, AIR 2002 SC 444 wherein it was held as under:

> "11 ..... In such a situation one can sympathise with the plight of such students who for no fault of their own were to be dislodged. However, the compassion and sympathy has no role to play where a rule of law is required to be enforced....."

16. Even this argument is not available with the petitioner for the simple reason that the findings in this regard on the aforesaid issues have already been returned against him in RFA No. 484 of 2011 as is evident from the perusal of para 14 of the judgment (quoted supra) and the same have admittedly attained finality."

42. Having said so, the instant appeal merits dismissal and the same is dismissed as such.

CMPMOs No.213, 284 and 285 of 2012

43. These petitions have been filed by the petitioner(s) under Section 83(9) of the Act. The Registry has wrongly treated these petitions as having been filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and has wrongly diarized them as CMPMO, rather they should have been diarized as Civil Revisions. The Registry is directed to diarize these petitions as Civil Revisions.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Roop Singh (since dead) through LRs & Ors. ...Appellants.

Versus

Prabha Ram & Ors. ...Respondents.

RSA No.351 of 2008.
Reserved on: 24.10.2016.
Decided on: November 16, 2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit pleading that the possession of plaintiffs over the suit land is open, peaceful, hostile continuous and without interruption to the knowledge of the defendants from January, 1960 and has matured into title- plaintiffs have become the owners by way of adverse possession – defendants No.1 and 2 had obtained a collusive judgment from Assistant Collector, Sarakaghat which does not affect the right of the plaintiffs- the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was partly allowed- held in second appeal that proceedings were initiated by Assistant Collector for evicting the deceased defendant – the bartandarans were not impleaded and the suit was decreed in their absence- this shows that the judgment was passed by A.C. 1st Grade collusively and without following the principle of natural justice- the Courts below had passed the judgments rightly – appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 13)

Case referred:

State of Himachal Pradesh versus Bagshi Ram, 2001 (2) Current Civil Law Journal 520

For the Appellants: Mr.R.L.Chaudhary, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Vijay Verma, Advocate for respondents No.1 to 7.
Mr.Vivek Singh Attri, Dy.A.G., for respondent No.8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

The learned trial Court had rendered a decree holding a pronouncement therein qua the judgment recorded by the learned Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat on 24.12.1992 being non-est. Also it pronounced a decree qua the plaintiffs becoming owners of the suit land by way of adverse possession. The defendants standing aggrieved by the rendition of the learned trial Court preferred an appeal therefrom before the learned District Judge who while affirming the verdict recorded by the learned trial Court qua the judgment recorded by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat on 24.12.1992 being non-est yet proceeded to rescind the decree of the learned trial Court whereby the plaintiffs were declared to become owners of the suit land by way of adverse possession. The defendants standing aggrieved by the findings recorded by the learned District Judge, for reversal whereof they institute the instant appeal here-before.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that the plaintiffs filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction and averred that land comprised in Khewat No.57 min Khatauni No.141 Min Khasra No.1075 measuring 0-62-10 hectare is situated at village Kailag, illaqua Anatpur, Tehsil Sarkaghat, District Mandi, H.P. (for short 'the suit land') and there is house of defendant No.1 with verandah double storeyed over Khasra No.1075/1 measuring 0-01-40 hectares and cow shed consisting of three rooms with its courtyard over Khasra No.1075/2 measuring 0-04-42 hectares. The possession of the plaintiff No.1 over the suit land is open, peaceful hostile, continuous, without interruption and to the knowledge of the defendants from January 1960 and has now matured into title. Thus, the plaintiffs have become owners by way of adverse possession and the same is reflected in red ink in the spot map. The land comprised in Khasra No.1075/4 measuring 0-15-17 hectare is also in adverse possession of the plaintiffs No.2 to 7 as their possession is peaceful, continuous and hostile since the time of their father and the same has matured into title. It is averred that the defendant No.1 in collusion with the defendant No.2 has obtained fraudulently a collusive judgment on 24.12.1992 of the suit land from Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat exercising the powers of Civil Court on the basis of adverse possession which judgment is result of fraud and the same is liable to be set aside. Thereafter, mutation was also got sanctioned on the basis of the above judgment in favour of defendant No.1 and the same is void and not operative qua the rights of the plaintiff. The defendants for the first time on 24.12.1992 disclosed that he has obtained judgment of the suit land in his favour and has also got the mutation attested in his favour. All the above acts have been done by the defendant No.1 in collusion with the Patwari Halqua as well as Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat whereby an ejectment file was prepared against the defendant No.1 of the suit land and false reports were also got prepared. The plaintiff requested defendant No.1 to get the judgment of 24.12.1992 set aside as the same has been obtained by him with fraud and in collusion with defendant No.2 but of no use, hence the suit.

3. The suit of the plaintiff was resisted and defendant No.1 filed separate written statement taking preliminary objection inter alia of cause of action, maintainability, jurisdiction, valuation and the plaintiff having no locus standi to file the present suit. The description of the suit land given in para No.1 of the plaint was admitted. However, the defendant denied that the plaintiff is in adverse possession of the suit land. The defendant No.1 also alleged that the plaintiff should have filed appeal against the judgment of the Assistant Grade 1st Grade. It is also denied that there are different types of trees over the suit land. The defendant denied other averments made in the plaint.

4. Defendant No.2 filed separate written statement and took preliminary objection of jurisdiction, want of notice under Section 80, cause of action, valuation and limitation. It was denied that the plaintiff No.1 has his house with verandah over Khasra No.1075/1. It is also alleged that defendant No.1 Roop Singh filed application for adverse possession before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, SArkaghat in respect of Khasra No.1075 measuring 0-62-10 and the judgment was passed in his favour on 24.12.1992. Mutation has also been attested in favour of the said defendant. It was also submitted that the suit land is in exclusive possession of State of H.P. and the entries made in the revenue record are on the basis of judgment of the Assistant Collector 1st Grade exercising the powers of Civil Court, the same is legally binding and is in accordance with law. The defendant denied other averments made in the plaint.

5. In the replication filed on behalf of the plaintiff the averments as contained in the plaint were reiterated and those of the written statements contrary to the plaint were refuted.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

(i) Whether the plaintiffs have perfected their title to suit land by way of adverse possession? OPP.

(ii) Whether the defendants are interfering in the ownership and possession of the plaintiffs, as alleged? OPP

(iii) Whether the judgment dated 24.12.1992, passed by AC 1st Grade Shri J.P.Sharma, is the result of fraud and same is liable to be set aside? OPP.

(iv) Whether the plaintiffs have no cause of action to file the suit? OPD.

(v) Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD

(vi) Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to try this suit? OPD

(vii) Whether the suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction? OPD

(viii) Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD

(ix) Whether the defendant No.1 has become owner of the suit land by virtue of judgment by the competent authority? OPD-1

(x) Relief.

7. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs whereas the learned First Appellate Court had partly allowed the appeal preferred before it by the defendant/appellant.

8. Now the appellant/defendant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court, in, its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 13.07.2009, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether both the Courts below have mis-read and mis-construed oral as well as documentary evidence on record and arrived at a wrong conclusion?

2. Whether both the Courts below have wrongly decided Issue No.5 in respect of maintainability of the suit in view of the fact that judgment was passed on 24.12.1992 by the AC 1st Grade, Sarkaghat while exercising the power of Civil Judge under the proceedings under Section 163 of the HP Land Revenue Act and the respondents/plaintiffs have not preferred any appeal from the said judgment to the District Judge and the judgment has attained finality?

3. Whether bothe the Courts below have wrongly decided the matter wherein proprietary rights were vested in favour of the appellant/defendant on 24.12.1992 and as per the law laid down by this Hon'ble Court in Chunia Versus Jindu, Sim. Law Cases (1991) Full Bench, whereby Civil Court having no jurisdiction to interpret in respect of proprietary rights?

4. Whether both the Courts below are wrong in holding that the judgment dated 24.12.1992 is a result of fraud in view of the fact that ingredients of fraud were neither pleaded nor proved in accordance with Order 6 Rule 4 of CPC?

5. Whether both the Courts below were wrong while decreeing the suit in favour of the respondents/plaintiffs on ground of adverse possession in view of the admission of appellant/defendant, wherein possession of respondents/plaintiffs has been admitted from 1990 but against the State, possession should be more than 30 years?

Substantial questions of law:

9. The judgment of learned Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat stood pronounced on 24.12.1992. It stands embedded in Ext.PW-4/A whereupon the defendant No.1/appellant herein stood declared to become owner(s) of the suit land by way of adverse possession. The aforesaid judgment recorded by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade stood preceded by the Patwari concerned making a report qua the suit land, described in the relevant records to be holding a classification of "Makbuja Malik Tabe Hakuk Bartandaran Mutabik Bartan", whereon the entire village body holds customary rights qua its user in consonance with the apposite reflections in the apposite record, standing subjected to encroachment in sequel whereto appropriate proceedings under Section 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act stood initiated against the purported encroachers. A perusal of Ext.PW-4/A omits to make a disclosure therein qua any representation standing caused therebefore on behalf of the State of Himachal Pradesh whereas it had initiated proceedings therebefore against the deceased defendant for seeking his eviction therefrom. It appears qua hence the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat, proceeding to make his pronouncement even when the State of Himachal Pradesh stood unrepresented therebefore. Also a perusal of the relevant records emanating from the office of Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat make a disclosure therein qua his ordering for the State of Himachal Pradesh which had instituted before him apposite proceedings for eviction of the deceased defendant from the suit land being ordered to be proceeded against ex-parte. Consequently, the State of Himachal Pradesh did not hold the defendants' witnesses to cross examination while they therebefore propagated in their respective statements qua theirs by prescription ensuing from completion of the statutorily mandated period of time hence perfecting their title qua the suit land. Also when as afore-stated, with the suit land standing recorded in the apposite revenue record to hold the classification "Makbuja Malik Tabe Hakuk Bartandaran Mutabik Bartan", whereon the entire village body holds customary rights qua its user in consonance with the apposite reflections held in the apposite revenue record whereupon the individuals whose names occur in the list of "Bartandarans" stood enjoined to in the apposite lis to stand therein arrayed in the apposite array of litigants also when hence theirs being heard therebefore was imperative significantly when their rights thereon would stand substantially affected by an adverse decision recorded qua them. However, even without their impleadment, the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat proceeded to record an order declaring the deceased defendant to become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession. All the aforesaid facts are magnificatory qua the rendition comprised in PW-4/A standing stained with a vice of complicity besides collusion occurring inter se the Assistant Collector concerned vis-à-vis the defendants. Also it stands vitiated with a vice of its infracting the principle of audi alteram partem. The aforesaid inference stands aggravatedly accentuated by the pronouncements made by PW-9 qua their existing no person named as Kanu Ram son of Sadhu Ram who however stood examined before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade for succoring the claim of the defendants qua the suit land. The aforesaid deposition of PW-9 qua the aforesaid fact stands corroborated by PW-13. In aftermath, reliance, if any, placed upon the deposition of Kanu Ram son of Sadhu Ram who purportedly corroborated the testification of the deceased defendant recorded before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade qua his acquiring title to the suit land by way of adverse possession, hence holds visible bespeakings of the deceased defendant by practicing fraud upon the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat, his obtaining from him the pronouncement occurring in Ext.PW-4/A. Even otherwise the factum of the house of the defendants existing on the suit land stands falsified by an admission made in his written statement by the deceased defendant conveying qua contrarily the house of the plaintiff existing thereupon, whereupon hence it was imperative for the Assistant Collector concerned to on a motion standing made therebefore by the deceased defendant cause their impleadment in the apposite array of defendants whereas the deceased defendant despite holding knowledge qua the plaintiffs raising a house on the suit land his omitting to beget their impleadment in the apposite array of defendants, is an open proclamation qua his contriving behind the back of the plaintiffs also his by practicing fraud upon the Assistant Collector his obtaining therefrom the apposite pronouncement of 24.12.1992, whereupon necessarily it hence stands ingrained with a pervasive stain of vitiation, spurred by the factum qua the entrenched interests of the plaintiffs upon the suit land standing throttled besides by theirs coming to be condemned unheard. Also for reasons as assigned hereinabove the pronouncement occurring in Ext.PW-4/A visibly emanates on collusion occurring inter se the deceased defendant vis-à-vis the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat.

10. Be that as it may, with an entrenched stain of nullity for reasons aforesaid gripping Ext.PW-4/A, thereupon the rigour of the mandate of the relevant provisions of the H.P. Land Revenue Act whereupon a civil Court is barred to exercise jurisdiction qua verdicts recorded in proceedings embarked under Section 163 of the HP Land Revenue Act stands benumbed also the statutory bar constituted in the relevant statutory provisions engrafted in the H.P. Land Revenue Act against a Civil Court trying a lis arising from proceedings launched under the provisions of 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, lis whereof is statutorily exclusively triable by a Revenue Officer(s), remains unattracted hereat significantly when the plaintiffs herebefore were not a party in the hitherto lis whereupon the verdict pronounced stands evidently stained with an infirmity qua its infracting the principle of audi alteram partem whereupon reiteratedly the rigor of the relevant statutory bar against a civil Court trying a civil suit arising from verdict(s) recorded by Revenue Officer(s) in proceedings drawn under Section 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, gets benumbed besides gets relaxed. Also for lack of occurrence of the names of the plaintiffs in the apposite array of litigants in the rendition pronounced by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat comprised in PW-4/A whereas for reasons afore-stated their impleadment therebefore was imperative also does not attract qua the extant suit the principle of res-judicata obviously when the pronouncement comprised in Ext.PW-4/A was not qua similar parties/combatants hereat.

11. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiffs has contended on anvil of a judgment of the Himachal Pradesh High Court reported in State of Himachal Pradesh versus Bagshi Ram, 2001 (2) Current Civil Law Journal 520, relevant paragraph-11 stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "11. It is not even the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent that an appeal lies before the District Judge against the order passed by the Collector in exercise of the power under Section 14 of the Act. The Scheme of the Act is that if the Assistant Collector exercises jurisdiction under sub-section (3) and (4) of Section 163 of the Act "as if a Civil Court", that an appeal would lie to the District Judge. In the instant case, the order passed by the Assistant Collector was confirmed by the Collector under Section 14 of the Act. Hence, the District Judge could not have entertained the appeal and hence the judgment and decree are liable to be quashed and set aside."

wherein it is propounded qua the Assistant Collector while exercising jurisdiction under sub-section (3) and (4) of Section 163 of the HP Land Revenue Act his exercising the apposite jurisdiction of a Civil Court wherefrom preferment of an appeal therefrom before the learned District Judge constituting the appropriate statutory remedy wherefrom he canvasses qua the rendition recorded on the civil suit by the learned trial Court besides the verdict recorded by the learned District Judge in an appeal preferred therefrom before him, both acquiring a taint of theirs being jurisdictionally void. However, the aforesaid submission holds no vigour in the face of the aforestated discussion holding upsurgences qua the impugned rendition of the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat emanating on fraud standing practiced upon it by the deceased defendant also its infracting the principle of audi alteram partem whereupon hence with a visible contradistinctivity occurring hereat vis-à-vis the factual matrix prevailing in the citation propounding the aforestated principle wherefrom hence it is to be aptly concluded qua the apposite remedy available for availment by the plaintiffs standing comprised in theirs instituting a civil suit, as tenably done by them. Also for unmasking the stains of nullity on aforestated grounds embodying the impugned rendition warranted striking of apposite issues in consonance therewith besides adduction of germane evidence thereon whereas availment by the plaintiffs of the prescribed statutory remedy would for want of apposite pleadings hence preclude them to constrain the learned District Judge to strike an apposite issue on facet aforesaid conspicuously when they were not parties in the earlier lis. Also they would stand interdicted to adduce germane evidence thereon whereas when the aforesaid facilitations would accrue to the plaintiffs only on theirs instituting a civil suit before a civil Court renders hence the remedy as availed by them to not attract the jurisdictional bar expostulated in the judgment afore-stated.

12. Reiteratedly, with the plaintiffs pleading in the suit qua the rendition of the learned Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat standing stained with a vice of fraud and collusion, in sequel thereto with the plaintiffs also casting an apposite averment in their suit vis-à-vis the defendants is also a sufficient factum qua thereupon theirs making a tenable onslaught qua hence the frailty of the rendition afore-stated. Substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the plaintiffs/respondents and against the appellants/defendants.

13. Accordingly, there is no merit in the instant appeal and the same is dismissed. All pending application(s) shall also stand disposed of. No costs. The records be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Soma Devi ...Appellant/Plaintiff.

Versus

Mast Ram ..Respondent/Defendant.

R.S.A. No. 243 of 2013
Judgment reserved on: 09.11.2016
Date of decision: 16 . 11. 2016.

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed that she is legally wedded wife of P who died without executing any Will- the Will set up by the defendant is forged and fictitious document - the defendant pleaded that the plaintiff had taken divorce from the deceased and had contracted second marriage- he had executed a Will on being satisfied by the services rendered by the defendant – the suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held in second appeal that plaintiff has not disputed the execution of the Will but has pleaded the same to be the result of fraud and undue influence – no specific particulars of fraud or undue influence were given and a general plea is not sufficient to amount to a plea of fraud- the pleas of fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. are to be proved by the person taking the plea – once a doubt is created regarding the free will of the deceased, the burden shifts upon the propounder to dispel the doubt - the Will is registered one and there is presumption of its valid execution- the court should not start with the presumption that Will is not genuine or that it is fraudulent – the conduct of the person who raises the ground for suspicion is also to be looked at in order to judge the credibility of the ground of suspicion- it was proved that plaintiff was married to P, when she was 10 years of age and had not resided with P thereafter - in these circumstances, it was possible for P to execute a Will disinheriting the plaintiff - the suit was rightly dismissed by the Courts- appeal dismissed.(Para-10 to 35)

For the Appellant : Ms. Ritta Goswami, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The plaintiff is the appellant, who has lost in both the Courts below and has filed the second appeal praying therein for setting aside the judgments and decrees so passed by the Courts below.

2. The plaintiff/appellant (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiff') sought a declaration to the effect that the alleged Will dated 14.6.2000 allegedly executed by Paras Ram in favour of the respondent/defendant (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendant'), was fictitious and is the result of undue influence and, therefore, he be restrained by way of permanent prohibitory injunction from interfering in the suit land comprised in Khewat No. 213, Khatauni No. 240, Khasra Nos. 701, 713, Kita-2, measuring 3-16-17 situated in Muhal Dehar/75, Tehsil Sundernagar, District Mandi, H.P.

3. The plaintiff claimed herself to be the legally wedded wife of Paras Ram, who expired on 19.5.2001, that too, after suffering long ailment. It was claimed that the plaintiff was the sole surviving legal heir of Paras Ram, who was owner in possession of the suit land and had expired without leaving behind any Will regarding the suit land. It was further averred that she came to know about the forged and fictitious Will when the same was presented before the Assistant Collector 2nd Grade, Sundernagar. It was also contended that Paras Ram was not in a sound disposing mind due to long ailment and had therefore not executed the Will, which is the result of undue influence. Hence the suit.

4. The defendant contested the suit of the plaintiff by filing written statement wherein preliminary objection regarding locus standi was raised. On merits, it was claimed that the plaintiff was the divorced wife of Paras Ram and, therefore, she has no right, title and interest over the suit land in any manner whatsoever. It was pleaded that after getting divorce from Paras Ram, the plaintiff had contracted second marriage and was therefore, not entitled to the property left behind by him. It was further pleaded that Paras Ram had executed a Will on account of the services rendered by the defendant and the same was registered on 14.6.2000 and it was by virtue of this Will that the defendant had now become owner in possession of the suit land. It was lastly contended that the Will was genuine and valid and accordingly dismissal of the suit alongwith costs was prayed for.

5. In her replication, the plaintiff reiterated the contents of the plaint in totality and refuted the averments as contained in the written statement.

6. On 17.5.2003, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff is legally wedded wife of Paras Ram and she inherited his property as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land? OPP
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as prayed? OPP
4. Whether Paras Ram executed a due and valid Will in favour of the defendant on 14.6.2000 as alleged? OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus-standi to file the suit? OPD
6. Whether the Will dated 14.6.2000 executed by Paras Ram in favour of the defendant is a result of undue influence as alleged? If so, to what effect? OPD
7. Relief.

7. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit and the appeal preferred against such judgment and decree was also dismissed by learned Additional District Judge, Mandi vide its judgment and decree dated 21.12.2012.

8. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned lower Appellate Court, the appellant has filed the instant appeal which has been admitted by this Court on 10.6.2013 on the following substantial question of law:

> "1. Whether the Courts below have misread and mis-appreciated the evidence on record to come to the conclusion that the Will (Exhibited DW-2/A) is a genuine document?"

9. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case carefully.

10. At the outset, it may be noticed that the plaintiff had not disputed the execution of the Will but has only claimed the same to be an outcome of fraud and is a result of undue influence. Therefore, the first question that arises for consideration is as to whether the plaintiff has failed to raise these pleas as contemplated under Order 6 Rule 4 CPC which reads as follows:

> "4. Particulars to be given where necessary.- In all cases in which the party pleadings relies on any misrepresentation, fraud, breach of trust, wilful default, or undue influence, and in all other cases in which particulars may be necessary beyond such as are exemplified in the forms aforesaid, particulars (with dates and items if necessary) shall be stated in the pleading."

11. The answer to this question is definitely in the negative for the simple reason that apart from using the words like fraud, undue influence, not genuine, there is no specific particulars having set-forth and it is more than settled that a vague of general plea can never serve this purpose and the party pleading must therefore be required to plead the precise nature of the influence exercised, the manner of use of the influence and the unfair advantage obtained by the other.

12. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Subhas Chandra Das Mushib v. Ganga Prosad Das Mushib and others AIR 1967 SC 878 wherein it was held as under:

> "10. Before, however a court is called upon to examine whether undue influence was exercised or not, it must scrutinize the pleadings to find out that such a case has been made out and that full particulars of undue influence have been given as in the case of fraud. See Order 6 Rule 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure. This aspect of the pleading was also given great stress in the case of Ladli Prasad Jaiswal (1964) 1 SCR 270: (AIR 1963 SC 1279) above referred to. In that case it was observed (at p. 295 of SCR): (at p. 1288 of AIR):
> > "A vague of general plea can never serve this purpose; the party pleading must therefore be required to plead the precise nature of the influence exercised, the manner of use of the influence, and the unfair advantage obtained by the other."
> "25. There was practically no evidence about the domination of Balaram over Prasanna at the time of the execution of the deed of gift or even thereafter. Prasanna, according to the evidence, seems to have been a person who was taking an active interest in the management of the property even shortly before his death. The circumstances obtaining in the family in the year 1944 do not show tht the impugned transaction was of such a nature as to shock one's conscience. The plaintiff had no son. For a good many years before 1944 he had been making a living elsewhere. According to his own admission in cross-examination, he owned a jungle in his own right (the area being given by the defendant as 80 bighas) and was therefore possessed of separate property in which his brother or nephew had no interest. There were other joint properties in the village of Parbatipur which were not the subject matter of the deed of gift. It may be that they were not as valuable as the Lokepur properties. The circumstances that a grandfather made a gift of a portion of his properties to his only grandson a few years before his death is not on the face of it an unconscionable transaction. Moreover, we cannot lose sight of the fact that if Balaram was exercising undue influence over his father he did not go to the length of having the deed of gift in his own name. In this he was certainly acting very unwisely because it was not out of the range of possibility that Subhas after attaining majority might have nothing to do with his father."

13. It shall be apt to make reference to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Afsar Shaikh and another v. Soleman Bibi and others AIR 1976 Supreme Court, 163, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

> "While it is true that 'undue influence', 'fraud', 'misrepresentation' are cognate vices and may, in part, overlap in some cases, they are in law distinct categories, and are in view of Order 6, Rule 4, read with Order 6, Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure, required to be separately pleaded, with specificity, particularity and precision. A general allegation in the plaint, that the plaintiff was a simple old man of ninety who had reposed great confidence in the defendant, was much too insufficient to amount to an averment of undue influence of which the High Court could take notice, particularly when no issue was claimed and no contention was raised on that point at any stage in the trial court, or, in the first round, even before the first appellate court."

14. Yet again on the subject, reference to a judgment rendered by this Court in Upasna and others vs. Omi Devi, 2001 (2) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 278 is also essential as the law on the subject was lucidly dealt and it was held as under:

> ".....The allegation of fraud, coercion and undue influence could not be proved by the plaintiffs and as such both the courts below have rightly held that the plaintiffs have failed to prove that the gift deed was as a result of fraud, coercion and undue influence. The possession of the land in dispute was given to the defendant and the mutation of entry in the revenue record in her name was made by the Patwari in the presence of Beli Ram during his life time. The execution of the gift deed was the personal right of the donor and since Beli Ram had not assailed the gift made by him in favour of the defendant during his life time, the plaintiffs have failed to establish that the donee had not rendered any service to the donor during his life time. The gift has been validly made by the donor in favour of the donee voluntarily and with his free will and accepted by the donee it cannot be said that the gift was induced by undue influence under Section 16 (2) & (3) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 and was as a result of fraud as defined under Section 1 of the Act. The ratio of the judgment in Ladli Parshad Jaiswal v. The Karnal Distillery Co., Ltd. Karnal & Ors., AIR 1963 Supreme Court 1279 strongly relied on by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs in my view does not advance the case of the plaintiffs that the gift in question was as a result of undue influence under S. 16 (2) & (3) of the Contract Act, 1872. In Subhas Chandra Das Mushib v. Ganga Prasad Das Mushib & Ors., AIR 1967 Supreme Court 878, it has been observed that law under Section 122 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 as to undue influence is the same in case of a gift inter vivos as in case of a contract. It has further been held that the court trying a case of undue influence under Section 16 of the Contract Act, 1872 must consider two things to start with, namely, (1) are the relations between the donor and the donee such that the donee is in a position to dominate the will of the donor, and (2) has the donee used that position to obtain an unfair advantage over the donor? Upon the determination of these issues a third point emerges, which is that or the onus probandi. If the transaction appears to be unconscionable, then the burden of proving that the contract was not induced by undue influence is to lie upon the person who was in a position to dominate the will of the other. The judgment further proceeded to observe that merely because the parties were nearly related to each other or merely because the donor was old or of weak character, no presumption of undue influence can arise. In this view of the matter, as noticed hereinabove, the plaintiffs have miserably failed to establish that the gift deed was executed by donor in favour of the donee under undue influence or fraud……"

15. It is surprising that though the plaintiff had herself raised the plea of fraud and undue influence but strangely enough, learned trial Court did not even bother to frame an issue and straightway placed the onus upon the propounder of the Will to dispel the so called suspicious circumstances.

16. It is high time the Courts clearly understand the legal position and desist from placing the onus directly upon the propounder of the Will irrespective of the case set up by the opposite party. The correct legal position in matters of Will was laid down by the three Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in H. Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others AIR 1959 SC 443 and thereafter approved by the Hon'ble Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shashi Kumar Banerjee and others vs. Subodh Kumar Banerjee and others AIR 1964 SC 529 and thereafter reiterated in a number of cases including three Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Jaswant Kaur vs. Smt. Amrit Kaur and others (1977) 1 SCC 369, wherein the legal position was succinctly summed up in the following manner:

"10. "There is a long line of decisions bearing on the nature and standard of evidence required to prove a will. Those decisions have been reviewed in an elaborate judgment of this Court in R. Venkatachala Iyengar v.B.N. Thirnmajamma & Others.(AIR 1959 SC 443). The Court, speaking through Gajendragadkar J., laid down in that case the following propositions :

1. Stated generally, a will has to be proved like any other document, the test to be applied being the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters. As in the ease of proof of other documents, so in the case of proof of wills, one cannot insist on proof with mathematical certainty.

2. Since section 63 of the Succession Act requires a will to be attested, it cannot be used as evidence until, as required by section 63 of the Evidence Act, one attesting witness at least has .been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence.

3. Unlike other documents, the will speaks from the death o[the testator and therefore the maker of the will is never available for deposing as to the circumstances in which the will came to be executed. This aspect introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the testator. Normally, the onus which lies on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts which go into the making of the will.

4. Cases in which the execution of the will is surround- ed by suspicious circumstances stand on a different footing. A shaky signature, a feeble mind, an unfair and unjust disposition of property, the propounder himself taking a leading part in the making of the will under which he re- ceives a substantial benefit and such other circumstances raise suspicion about the execution of the will. That suspicion cannot be removed by the mere assertion of the propounder that the will bears the signature of the testator or that the testator was in a sound and disposing state of mind and memory at the time when the will was made, or that those like the wife and children of the testator who would normally receive their due share in his estate were disinherited because the testator might have had his own reasons for excluding them. The presence of suspicious circumstances makes the initial onus heavier and therefore, in cases where the circumstances attendant upon the execution of the will excite the suspicion of the court, the propounder must remove all legitimate suspicions before the document can be accepted as the last will of the testator.

5. It is in connection with wills, the execution of which is surrounded by suspicious circumstance that the test of satisfaction of the judicial conscience has been evolved. That test emphasises that in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the court is the last will of the testator, the court is called upon to decide a solemn question and by reason of suspicious circumstances the court has to be satisfied fully that the will has been validly executed by the testator.

6. If a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the will, such pleas have to be proved by him, but even in the absence of such pleas, the very circumstances surrounding the execution' of the will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free will. And then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter."

17. Thus, it is absolutely clear from the aforesaid exposition of law that if a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the Will, such pleas have to be proved by him and only where the circumstances surrounding the execution of the Will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free Will, then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter.

18. Adverting to the facts of the case, it would be noticed that as regards the oral evidence, the plaintiff has examined another witness besides herself. She appeared as PW-1 and stated that she was married with Paras Ram about 40 years back, but no legal heir was born out from the wedlock. Her husband had expired on 19.5.2001 and therefore, she became the owner of the land in question. She performed his last rites and prior to his death, he was not in a position to understand about his good and bad and had in fact at one time killed an ox. The Will was claimed to be false one. However, when it got down to cross-examination, she candidly admitted that right from the date of her birth, she had been residing at the house of her parents. Though, she denied the suggestion that divorce had taken place with Paras Ram. She also denied Paras Ram was being looked after by the family of his brother and further denied that the defendant was looking after Paras Ram and in lieu of his services had executed a Will in his favour.

19. PW-2 Kali Dass is the brother of Paras Ram, who claimed that Paras Ram was of unsound mind from his childhood and he had killed an ox. He further stated that Paras Ram was not able to understand about his good and bad and in his cross-examination, stated that it is known that Paras Ram had executed a Will in favour of Mast Ram as Mast Ram had been looking after him.

20. As against this evidence, Mast Ram, defendant, appeared as DW-1 and deposed that he was looking after Paras Ram and due to that reasons he had executed a Will in his favour on 14.6.2000 which was registered with the Sub Registrar, Sundernagar and mutation on this basis had also been attested. He further stated that the plaintiff was divorced 20-25 years ago and it was Hari Mohan son of brother of Paras Ram, who had performed his last rites. He further stated that Will was executed by Paras Ram in a sound disposing state of mind. In cross-examination, the witness admitted that the Will was scribed in his presence and further stated that Chaman Lal's house is 5 KM away from Alsu and the house of witness was 26-27 kilometers away from village Alsu. The witnesses signed the Will in his presence. However denied that the Will was executed by him by exercising undue influence over Paras Ram. He admitted that Paras Ram was alone and helpless and claimed that he looked after him.

21. DW-2 Onkar Singh is the Document Writer, who proved the Will Ex.DW-2/A, which is scribed by him on 14.6.2000 at the instance of Paras Ram. He stated that at the time of execution of the Will, Paras Ram was in sound disposing state of mind. After scribing the Will, he had read over and explained the contents of the Will to Paras Ram and the witnesses also and after admitting the contents to be correct by all of them, the same was signed by Paras Ram and thereafter the witnesses had put their signatures on it. The Will was thereafter taken to Tehsil office where the same was attested by the Tehsildar. The signature of Paras Ram was in red circle. In cross-examination, the witness stated that Paras Ram was not personally known to him. He stated that he was identified by Sh. D. K. Abrol, Advocate, but denied the suggestion that the Will had drafted at the instance of Sh. Abrol. He denied the suggestion that Paras Ram while executing the Will was not in sound disposing mind. Lastly, he denied the suggestion that neither Paras Ram nor witnesses signed the Will in his presence.

22. DW-3 Chaman Lal deposed that Paras Ram got executed a Will in favour of defendant which was scribed by DW-2 at his instance. He alongwith Paras Ram son of Hiru Ram had witnessed the Will which had been read over by the scribe to Paras Ram, who after understanding the same as correct, put his signature on the Will and thereafter he alongwith another witnesses had put their signatures on the Will. He categorically stated that Paras Ram had signed the Will in his presence and Ext.DW-2/A is the same Will. He further deposed that after signing the Will, he went to the Tehsil office where Tehsildar asked Paras Ram about the Will and it is only after satisfying him regarding the execution of the Will that the same had been registered. In cross-examination the witness stated that his house was 3 KM away from Alsu and he admitted that there were other houses at Alsu. He could not tell about the other relatives of Paras Ram and the details of other family members. He stated that the Will was prepared of about 4 bighas of land and denied the suggestion that the Executant Paras Ram was not in sound disposing mind or that he had not executed the Will.

23. DW-4 Hem Raj deposed that the Will Ex.DW-2/A was registered with Sub Registrar Office, Sundernagar at serial No. 133 dated 14.6.2000. DW-5 D.K.Abrol, Advocate, deposed that he had been practicing as an Advocate since 1967 and late Paras Ram was known to him. He stated that on 14.6.2000 Paras Ram had executed a Will in favour of Mast Ram and he had identified Paras Ram before Sub Registrar, Sundernagar. He proved the Will Ex.DW-2/A by identifying his signatures in circle red. He further stated that Sub Registrar read over and explained the contents of the Will to Paras Ram and had also made an inquiry and only thereafter the Will had been registered. In cross-examination, the witness stated that he put his signatures on the Will only as an identifier and denied the suggestion that the testator Paras Ram was not in sound disposing mind or that the Will had been prepared fraudulently.

This is the entire oral evidence led by the parties.

24. At this stage, it may be stated that the Will in question is a registered one and, therefore, there is a presumption to its being validly executed and onus of proof will be on the other party, who wants to set off the above presumption.

25. It is settled law that it is for the propounder of the Will to repel all the suspicious circumstances surrounding the Will and to prove the genuineness of the Will. Besides this, the propounder would also to satisfy the following points qua the due execution of the Will.

(i) the Will was signed by the testator;

(ii) at the relevant time, testator was in sound disposing state of mind;

(iii) testator had understood the nature and effect of depositions and had put his signature on the document of his own free volition and will.

26. In Ningawwa vs. Byrappa Shiddappa Hireknrabar AIR 1968, SC 956, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "27. There is a presumption that a registered document is validly executed. A registered document, therefore, prima-facie would be valid in law. The onus of proof, thus, would be on a person who leads evidence to rebut the presumption. In the instant case, Respondent 1 has not been able to rebut the said presumption."

27. In Prem Singh vs. *Birbal (2006) 5 SCC 353, it was held as under:

> "27. There is a presumption that a registered document is validly executed. A registered document, therefore, prima-facie would be valid in law. The onus of proof, thus, would be on a person who leads evidence to rebut the presumption. In the instant case, respondent No.1 has not been able to rebut the said presumption."

28. It however, needs to be clarified that though it is always for the propounder of the Will to repel all the suspicious circumstances surrounding the Will and to prove its genuineness, the testamentary Court is a Court of conscience and not a Court of suspicion. It is not the law that, whenever a Will is sought to be proved in the Court, the Court should start with the presumption that the Will is not genuine or that it is fraudulent or that the person who chooses to establish the Will must remove all such suspicions even when they are unreal.

29. The object of the Court proceedings is not to render the testamentary document ineffective but to make it effective and render the terms of that Will operative. In doing so, the Court has to bear in mind and has to take note of the fact that the testator is not available before the Court to state as to whether the document in fact was his or her last Will or as to whether he or she had signed the same and whether the attestors had signed receiving an acknowledgment from him about the execution of the Will. It is for that reason that the Courts should be cautious while dealing with the evidence placed before it in relation to the execution and attestation of the Will as also the disposing state of mind of the testator. This need for caution cannot be exploited by unscrupulous caveators who choose to cull out imaginary suspicious with a view to prevent the legatees under the Will from claiming the benefit thereunder and to render the Will of the deceased wholly ineffective. In this context, the conduct of the persons who raise the alleged ground for suspicion is also to be looked at in order to judge as to how credible are the grounds for suspicion as sought to be raised by such person.

30. Adverting to the facts of the case, it would be noticed that the defendant has been able to prove the Will by removing all the so called suspicious circumstances to the judicial conscious of this Court. It has come on record that the appellant, who claimed herself to be the wife of deceased Paras Ram had apparently got married to him when she was hardly 10 years and had never stayed in his house and had been residing at the house of her parents. That apart, what strikes the judicial conscious of this Court is the fact that if the plaintiff was really so called wife of Paras Ram, then would she have left him simply to die because while appearing as PW-1 she herself claims that Paras Ram was not in sound disposing mind, whereas PW-2 goes to the extent of stating that Paras Ram was of unsound mind.

31. The word 'wife' is not simply a word. In relationship of husband and wife, there are certain obligations and duties which both the spouse have to discharge and that would not only mean the obligation in matter of leading conjugal life but would include the obligation to take care of husband when he is ill, infirm or sick. Even if these obligations are not taken to be legal, these can definitely be considered as moral obligations.

32. Ms. Ritta Goswami, learned counsel for the plaintiff would vehemently argue that even if the plaintiff has failed to prove the so called fraud or undue influence, even then the onus to dispel the Will from all the aforesaid rests upon the propounder of the Will and would rely upon the following judgments: Indu Bala vs. Mahindra Chandra 1982 SC 133, Janki Narayan Bhoir vs. Narayan Namdeo Kadam 2003 AIR SC 761, Joseph Antony Lazarus vs. A.J. Francis (2006) 9 SCC 515, Sham Singh vs. Smt. Rano Devi, 2007 Latest HLJ, 352.. There cannot be any quarrel with the proposition of law as laid down in the aforesaid judgments and this question has already been dealt with by me in the earlier part of the judgment.

33. It is next contended by learned counsel for the plaintiff that the testator has given no reasons in the Will to exclude the natural heir and would rely upon the judgment rendered by this Court in Bal Krishan and another vs. Shangri Devi, 2008 (2) Latest HLJ 799 and Ashok Bansal vs. Anju Goel, (2011) 3 SLC 52.

34. As regards the recording of reasons in the Will, once it has come on record that the appellant never resided with the deceased, then obviously Paras Ram never considered her to be his legally wedded wife, the same need not necessarily be disclosed in the Will and it was always open to the propounder of the Will to establish that she carried out her matrimonial obligation by taking care of Paras Ram, which unfortunately she neither alleged or proved.

The substantial question of law is accordingly answered against the appellant.

35. In view of aforesaid detailed discussion, I find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

The Himachal Pradesh State Cooperative Milk Producers Federation Limited
.....Petitioner

Versus

Surinder Kumar and others .....Respondents

CWP No. 1636 of 2016
Reserved on: November 3, 2016
Decided on: November 16, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondents 1 to 12 sought a direction to promote them to the post of technical superintendent – the claim was opposed on the ground that diploma obtained by the respondents is through distance learning and for one year - degree in dairy technology/dairy husbandry or diploma in dairy technology/dairy husbandry is required under Rules – the Tribunal allowed the application - held, that respondents possess essential qualification of five years regular service on the post- they had obtained diploma in dairy technology from IGNOU – once diploma has been awarded by IGNOU, it is not open for the federation to say that the same is not equivalent to the diploma of two years awarded by other institutions – the genuineness of the diploma has not been disputed by any authority- the petition is without any merit and the same is dismissed. (Para- 8 to 18)

Case referred:
Annamalai University v. Secy. to Govt. (2009)4 SCC 590

For the petitioner	Ms.Ranjana Parmar, Senior Advocate with Mr. M.R. Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 12. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.13.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

Present petition has been filed by the petitioner-H.P. State Cooperative Milk Producers Federation Limited (hereinafter referred to as 'Federation'), against order dated 11.4.2016 passed by the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal in TA No. 5397/2015 and OA No. 3261/2015, whereby the learned Tribunal, while accepting the claim of the respondents No.1 to 12 directed the Federation to consider the cases of all the respondents for promotion to the post of Technical Superintendents within three months from the date of production of a certified copy of the order.

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that respondents No. 1 to 12, who are In-charge Chilling Centres owned by the Federation, filed a writ petition before this Court for the redressal of their grievances but the same was transferred to the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal and was registered as TA No. 5397/2015, praying therein for a direction to the Federation to promote them to the post of Technical Superintendents in the Federation, after declaring them as qualified and eligible to be promoted to the said post from the date of their having completed five years of service as In-charge Chilling Centres, with all consequential benefits. Aforesaid claim of the respondents was opposed by the Federation on three grounds, viz. 1. the diploma acquired by the respondents from Indira Gandhi National Open University ('IGNOU', for short) is only of one year duration, 2. aforesaid diploma is through distance learning and as such respondents have no practical experience, and 3. Service Rules occupying the field were framed in the year 1994, whereas diploma was started in the year 2005. As per Federation, respondents can not be promoted to the post of Technical Superintendents, in terms of service Rules, wherein, vide Rule-13, post of Technical Superintendents (Production/Store/Marketing/MIS/P&I), is required to be filled up by way of promotion on seniority-cum-merit basis from amongst the In-charge Chilling Centres, having five years regular service on the post, provided that the eligible candidates possess Degree in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry or Diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry. If eligible candidates are not available in the feeder cadre, then posts of Technical Superintendents are to be filled up by way of direct recruitment.

3. In the instant case, main contention of the Federation before the Tribunal was that the diploma obtained by the respondents in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry from IGNOU is only of one year duration and that too through distance learning, and, as such, they can not be given promotion on the basis of same. Learned Tribunal, on the basis of pleadings as well as record made available to it, allowed the Original Application as well as TA from the due date alongwith consequential benefits, in accordance with service rules.

4. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with aforesaid directions issued by the learned Tribunal, Federation has approached this Court, praying therein for the following main relief:

> "i) That the order dated 11.4.2016 (Annexure P-2) passed by the Ld. Administrative Tribunal in TA No. 5397/2015 titled as Surinder Kumar & others Vs. H.P. State Cooperative Milk Producers Federation Ltd., may kindly be quashed and set aside."

5. Ms. Ranjana Parmar, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. M.R.Verma, Advocate, vehemently argued that the impugned order passed by the learned Tribunal below is not sustainable as the same is not based on correct appreciation of the Service Rules, wherein it has been specifically provided that In-charge Chilling Centre must posses five years service and a degree or diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry, as such, same deserves to be set aside. She further contended that though the respondents fulfill the criteria of minimum 5 years' service as provided under Rule-13, but they do not fulfill criteria of educational qualification because Diploma in Dairy Technology possessed by them has been awarded by IGNOU on the basis of training imparted for a few days i.e. 90 days by the officials of the Federation, who were not professionally qualified. She further stated that training was imparted by the Federation and tuition fee was paid to IGNOU by it and participating candidates were given TA/DA as and when they attended the classes and they were treated on duty at that time. She further stated that representation preferred by the respondents to treat the Diploma in Dairy Technology awarded by IGNOU at par with the diploma issued by the other Institutions after regular course, was considered by the Board of Directors and it was decided that the short term Diploma in Dairy Technology can not be equated with two years regular course provided by Agriculture University. She further stated that in addition to above, reference was made to the Director General, National Dairy Research Institute ('NDRI', in short), Education Division, New Delhi, who replied to the reference and informed that Diploma in Dairy Technology is offered by IGNOU of one year duration without practical training and it can not be considered equal to two years Diploma in Dairy Technology with regular practical and theory course offered by NDRI.

6. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, supported the order passed by the learned Tribunal below stating that there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, by this Court, in the order aforesaid, as the same is based on correction appreciation of Service Rule-13.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

8. It is undisputed that the respondent are In-charge, Chilling Centres owned and controlled by the Federation and they possess essential qualification of 5 years regular services on the post. Before adverting to the merits of the submissions having been made by the learned counsel for the parties, it would be apt to reproduce the Rule 13 of the Service Rules, as under:

> "13. TECHNICAL SUPERINTENDENTS (PRODUCTION /STORE/ MARKETING/ MIS/P&I):
> i) By promotion on seniority-cum-merit basis from amongst Incharge Chilling Centres having atleast 5 years regular service on the post, provided that eligible candidates should either be a Graduate in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry or a Diploma Holder in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry.

ii) By Direct Recruitment in case eligible candidates are not available in the feeder category."

9. Perusal of Rule 13 clearly suggests that there are two ladder of promotion to the post of Technical Superintendents (Production/Store/Marketing/MIS/P&I). Since, respondents are in-service candidates, they are to be governed by Rule 13(i), which provides that the candidate should possess 5 years regular service and he should be either be a Graduate in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry or a Diploma Holder in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry.

10. Since there is no dispute regarding condition contained in Rule 13 with regard to possessing 5 years service, this Court only needs to examine the aspect with regard to educational qualification.

11. Careful perusal of Rule-13, as reproduced herein above, clearly suggests that the candidate should either possess a degree or a diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry. Perusal of certificates placed on record by the respondents clearly suggest that Diploma in Dairy Technology was awarded by IGNOU on 1.3.2010 (available at page 200 of the paper-book). Close scrutiny of certificate suggests that respondents have been awarded Diploma in Dairy Technology, after having undergone above prescribed course of study in the examination. Once there is specific provision in the Rules that the incumbent should possess Diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry, it is not open for the Federation to take stand that diploma offered by IGNOU is only of one year duration and same can not be equated with diploma of two years offered by other institutions. Rules specifically provide for Diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry and it nowhere talks about duration, be it of one year or two years. It is not the case of the Federation that the diploma awarded by IGNOU is not recognized by University Grants Commission (in short, 'UGC') and as such same can not be considered in light of Rule 13 aforesaid. Even the Indian Council of Agricultural Research (in short 'ICAR') Education Division, while answering the reference made by the Federation, has nowhere disputed the correctness and genuineness of the diploma, admittedly offered by the IGNOU, rather they have stated that the diploma offered by IGNOU can not be equated with two years Diploma in Dairy Technology offered by NDRI.

12. At the cost of repetition, it may be again stated that this is not a condition precedent under rule 13 (i). Rule 13 (i) specifically talks about Diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry and there is no condition that diploma should be from NDRI. Record reveals that the Diploma in Dairy Technology was imparted to the respondents by IGNOU at the instance of the Federation, which itself sent the respondents to undergo the course/training, rather, entire expenses on account of course fee were borne by the Federation. Perusal of letter dated 15.10.2008, (available at page 311 of the paper-book) itself suggests that the Federation itself sponsored the respondents for Diploma in Dairy Technology through IGNOU, New Delhi, meaning thereby the Federation was fully aware that the respondents sent for course referred to herein above, would be awarded Diploma in Dairy Technology through IGNOU. Leaving everything aside, this Court, after perusing Rule-13, is fully convinced that the respondents, who had passed Diploma in Dairy Technology from IGNOU, had all the essential qualification as required for promotion to the post of Technical Superintendents.

13. Rule-13 of the Service Rules, framed by Federation clearly suggest that appointment to the post of Technical Superintendents, in the first instance, is by way of promotion from amongst the In-charge Chilling Centres having five years service (after amendment, now three years) having a degree or diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry, or, in the alternative, by way of direct recruitment, in case eligible candidates are not available in the feeder cadre. There is no ambiguity in the rule which can persuade this Court to take a different view than the one taken by the learned Tribunal below.

14. Further arguments having been advanced by Ms. Parmar that the candidates should have two years Diploma in Dairy Technology/Dairy Husbandry also needs to be rejected because there is no mention, if any, with regard to duration of course in Service Rule-13, as such we are not inclined to accept the unreasonable distinction being portrayed by Ms. Parmar. Opinion, if any, expressed by the ICAR, which has been heavily relied upon by the Federation while opposing claim of the respondents, definitely can not override the specific provision of Service Rules, until and unless same are amended suitably. But as of today, this Court sees no ambiguity in Rule 13 and there is no illegality or infirmity in the order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, as such, same deserves to be upheld.

15. Otherwise also, IGNOU is a recognized University and courses offered by it are by and large recognized /authorized by UGC, which is the apex body to recognize courses/Universities. Since there is no challenge to the validity of the course/diploma offered by IGNOU, this Court sees no force in the contentions raised on behalf of the Federation that the diploma offered by IGNOU can not be taken into consideration in terms of Rule-13.

16. This Court is not competent to decide the validity/ equivalence of a degree/diploma for appointment/promotion, awarded by an open university and it is not in the domain of the Court to decide issue of equivalence of degree/diploma obtained through open universities and regular universities. Issue with regard to equivalence of diploma obtained by the respondents from IGNOU vis-à-vis diploma offered by NDRI as a valid qualification for promotion to the post of Technical Superintendents, can be decided only by UGC. Federation is bound to approach UGC for getting clarification whether diploma obtained by respondents from IGNOU i.e. Diploma in Dairy Technology is a valid qualification equivalent to diploma obtained by students attending regular course. Hon'ble Apex Court in Annamalai University v. Secy. to Govt. reported in (2009)4 SCC 590, while considering conflict of UGC Act, 1956 and IGNOU Act, 1985 held that merely because the Distance Education Council of IGNOU, which is an authority under Statute 28 of IGNOU Act, has granted its approval, will not validate the degree awarded by the open university. Hon'ble Apex Court further held that UGC Act will prevail over IGNOU Act, as UGC Act will bind all universities, whether conventional or open. Regulations framed by it in terms of clauses (e), (f) (g) and (h) of sub-section (1) of Section 26 are of wide amplitude. They apply equally to Open Universities and also to formal Conventional Universities. In the matter of higher education, it is necessary to maintain minimum standard of instructions and such minimum standards are required to be defined by UGC, meaning thereby that issue, if any, with regard to equivalence of degree/diploma obtained through open university and regular universities can only be decided by UGC, which is competent authority to do so. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have held as under:

> "40. UGC Act was enacted by the Parliament in exercise of its power under Entry 66 of List I of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India whereas Open University Act was enacted by the Parliament in exercise of its power under Entry 25 of List III thereof. The question of repugnancy of the provisions of the said two Acts, therefore, does not arise. It is true that the statement of objects and reasons of Open University Act shows that the formal system of education had not been able to provide an effective means to equalize educational opportunities. The system is rigid inter alia in respect of attendance in classrooms. Combinations of subjects are also inflexible.
> 41. Was the alternative system envisaged under the Open University Act was in substitution of the formal system is the question. In our opinion, in the matter of ensuring the standard of education, it is not. The distinction between a formal system and informal system is in the mode and manner in which education is imparted. UGC Act was enacted for effectuating co- ordination and determination of standards in Universities. The purport and object for which it was enacted must be given full effect.
> 42. The provisions of the UGC Act are binding on all Universities whether conventional or open. Its powers are very broad. Regulations framed by it in terms of clauses (e), (f), (g) and (h) of sub-Section (1) of Section 26 are of wide amplitude. They apply equally to Open Universities as also to formal conventional universities. In the matter of higher education, it is necessary to maintain minimum standards of instructions. Such minimum standards of instructions are required to be defined by

UGC. The standards and the co- ordination of work or facilities in universities must be maintained and for that purpose required to be regulated.

43. The powers of UGC under Sections 26(1)(f) and 26(1)(g) are very broad in nature. Subordinate legislation as is well known when validly made becomes part of the Act. We have noticed hereinbefore that the functions of the UGC are all pervasive in respect of the matters specified in clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 12A and clauses (a) and (c) of sub- section (2) thereof. Indisputably, as has been contended by the learned counsel for the appellant as also the learned Solicitor General that Open University Act was enacted to achieve a specific object. It opens new vistas for imparting education in a novel manner. Students do not have to attend classes regularly. They have wide options with regard to the choice of subjects but the same, in our opinion, would not mean that despite a Parliamentary Act having been enacted to give effect to the constitutional mandate contained in Entry 66 of List I of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India, activities and functions of the private universities and open universities would be wholly unregulated.

44. It has not been denied or disputed before us that in the matter of laying down qualification of the teachers, running of the University and the matters provided for under the UGC Act are applicable and binding on all concerned. Regulations framed, as noticed hereinbefore, clearly aimed at the Open Universities. When the Regulations are part of the statute, it is difficult to comprehend as to how the same which operate in a different field would be ultra vires the Parliamentary Act. IGNOU has not made any regulation; it has not made any ordinance. It is guided by the Regulations framed by the UGC. The validity of the provisions of the Regulations has not been questioned either by IGNOU or by the appellant - University. From a letter dated 5.5.2004 issued by Mr. H.P. Dikshit, who was not only the Vice-Chancellor but also the Chairman of the DEC of IGNOU it is evident that the appellant - University has violated the mandatory provisions of the Regulations."

17. In the present case, as has been observed above, there is nothing in Service Rule-13 framed by the Federation-petitioner, which suggests that department had specifically provided duration, if any, of Diploma in Dairy Technology, as such it does not lie in the mouth of Federation at this stage to refute the claim of the respondents on the ground that they have not acquired two years diploma as recognized by NDRI. Since the Federation failed to place on record any document suggestive of the fact that diploma awarded by IGNOU i.e. Diploma in Dairy Technology is not recognized by University Grants Commission, this Court, sees no reason to conclude that respondents were not having requisite qualification in terms of Service Rule-13 aforesaid.

18. Consequently, there is no merit in the present petition and the same is dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

These two revision petitions are being decided by a common judgment as both the petitions arise out of a common judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge–(II), Shimla in Criminal Appeal No. 105-S/10 of 2014/2012 and Criminal Appeal No. 106-S/10 of 2014/2012 dated 01.09.2014, vide which learned appellate Court while dismissing the appeals so filed by both the present petitioners, upheld the judgment of conviction passed against the petitioners/accused by the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla in Criminal Case No. 30/2 of 2010/2007 dated 03.04.2012, whereby the learned trial Court convicted accused Nand Lal for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code and accused Amar Dev for commission of offences punishable under Sections 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced Nand Lal to undergo simple imprisonment for three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,000/- under Section 279 of the Indian Penal Code, to undergo simple imprisonment for three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 500/- under Section 337 of the Indian Penal Code and to undergo simple imprisonment for one year and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,000/- under Section 338 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced Amar Dev to undergo simple imprisonment for three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 500/-under Section 337 of the Indian Penal Code and to undergo simple imprisonment for six months and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,000/- under Section 338 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. The case of the prosecution in brief was that on 17.09.2007, Lal Singh, who at the relevant time was a school-going student boarded a bus bearing registration No. HP-51-4777, which was being driven by accused Nand Lal and conductor of which bus was accused Amar Dev. Lal Singh boarded the said bus from BCS, Shimla and the bus was on its way towards Shimla Bus Stand. This bus was full of passengers which also included school students. When the said bus left BCS Bus Stand, accused Amar Dev, conductor of the Bus did not take precaution to close the doors of the same. Accused driver drove the bus in high speed and when the bus reached near Jai Mata Truck Union, New Shimla at around 9:30 a.m., the driver of the bus abruptly and forcefully applied breaks which resulted in a jerk and as a result of the same, Lal Singh, who was standing near the door was thrown out from the bus and he fell on the road, as a result of which, he sustained multiple injuries on his person. After the accident, the injured was taken to Ayurvedic Hospital Chhota Shimla, from where he was referred to IGMC, Shimla. Police at Police Post, New Shimla was informed about the said accident by the Health Authorities of Ayurvedic Hospital, Chotta Shimla and from there HC Budhi Singh was deputed to inquire into the matter. He went to IGMC, Shimla, but the injured was not found fit to give any statement and under these circumstances, one of the passengers who was travelling in the said bus, namely, Kamal Sood gave a statement under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to HC Budhi Singh, on the basis of which, FIR was registered against the accused. Site plan etc. was prepared and the MLC and other reports of the injured were taken into possession by the police. The bus was also got mechanically examined and necessary mechanical report of the same was also obtained by the police.

3. After completion of investigation, challan was filed in the Court and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, accordingly accused driver was charged for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code, whereas accused Conductor was charged for commission of offences punishable under Sections 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. On the basis of evidence produced on record by the prosecution both ocular as well as documentary, learned trial Court held that the prosecution was able to prove that accused No. 1, i.e. the driver of the bus was driving the bus in high speed and that he abruptly applied forceful brake without any reasonable cause, which resulted in a jerk, as result of which, Lal Singh was hurled out of the door of the vehicle and fell on the road and sustained injuries. Learned trial Court further held that accused conductor had not taken precaution to ensure that doors of the vehicle were closed before its movement, which had resulted in simple as well as grievous injuries on the person of Lal Singh. On these bases, learned trial Court convicted the accused driver for commission of offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code, whereas accused No. 2 was convicted for commission of offences punishable under Sections 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code.

5. In appeal, learned appellate Court while dismissing the appeals filed both by the accused driver and accused conductor, affirmed the findings of conviction returned against them by the learned trial Court. It was held by the learned appellate Court that the factum of the injured travelling in the bus was not in dispute and this was proved by eye witnesses Kamal Sood (PW-1) and Chaman Lal (PW-3). Learned appellate Court further held that it was also proved fact that injured fell down from the bus and was rushed to IGMC, Shimla. It further held that the only line of defence raised by the accused was that the injured was opening the window time and again and he was asked by the conductor not to do so. The injured and his companions were about to beat the conductor and driver and further the bus which was being driven in the second gear was not in speed. Learned appellate Court while disbelieving the said version of the accused held that there was enough evidence to show that accused persons had acted in a rash and negligent manner while driving the vehicle and not closing the door from inside at the time of accident and that accident was proved with all necessary details by the eye witnesses, therefore, there was no error committed by the learned trial Court in appreciating the evidence. On these basis, learned appellate Court while upholding the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court dismissed the appeals filed by the driver as well as the conductor.

6. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgments passed by both the learned Courts below, the accused driver and the accused conductor have filed these revision petitions.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

8. The factum of the accident having been caused on account of rash and negligent driving on the part of accused driver and omission on the part of the accused driver in closing the doors of the bus from inside has been held against the accused by both the learned Courts below. The finding so arrived at by the learned trial Court is based on the appreciation of prosecution evidence, which includes the statements of PW-1 Kamal Sood, i.e. the complainant, PW-2 Lal Singh, the injured person and PW-3 Chaman Lal, who was also one of the passengers travelling at the relevant time in the bus.

9. Dr. Abhinay Sharma, who entered the witness box as PW-7 deposed that on 17.09.2007 at about 11:30 a.m., he examined Lal Chand, who was brought by Police with alleged injuries which he had sustained by falling down from a private bus. He also proved the MLC Ex. PW7/A. The final opinion of the doctor as it finds mention in Ex. PW7/A is as under:

> "Final opinion:
> Injuries 1,2,3,4 and 5 were simple. As per case summary from Surgery, the injury was dangerous to life."

10. Mechanical report of the bus is Ex. PW9/A and the same has been duly proved by HC Gian Chand PW-9, who was serving as a Motor Mechanic in the Police Department and who had mechanically examined the bus in issue. It is evident from a perusal of his statement as well as his report that there was no mechanical defect in the vehicle.

11. In these circumstances, what has to be examined by this Court while exercising its revisional jurisdiction is whether the finding of conviction returned against both the accused by the learned trial Court and upheld by the learned appellate Court is perverse finding or the same is borne out from the records of the case.

12. As I have already mentioned above, PW-1 Kamal Sood and PW-3 Chaman Lal are eye witnesses. PW-1 Kamal Sood has clearly and categorically stated that the accident took place on account of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the bus, who all of a sudden applied the breaks of the same without any obvious reason and further on account of the negligence of the conductor, who had not properly closed the doors of the bus. Though this witness was subjected to lengthy cross-examination by the defence, however, nothing could be elucidated from him by the defence to cast suspicion on his deposition.

13. Similarly, PW-3 Chaman Lal who is also an eye witness and was travelling in the bus has also clearly deposed that the accident took place as a result of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the bus who abruptly applied the breaks and further on account of the negligence on the part of the conductor of the bus who had not properly closed the doors of the same. The credibility of this witness also could not be impinged in his cross-examination by the defence.

14. Besides these two witnesses, the complainant entered into the witness box as PW-2 and he also duly proved the case of the prosecution and his credibility also could not be impinged in his cross-examination by the defence.

15. The Investigating Officer HC Budhi Singh, who entered the witness box as PW-10 also duly corroborated the case of the prosecution and though he was also subjected to lengthy cross-examination, however, his credibility could also not be impinged by the defence.

16. On the other hand, the defence could not probablise and establish its case that injured Lal Singh was opening the door of the bus again and again and he was not listening to the conductor and the boys who were alongwith him were on the verge of physically abusing the conductor and the driver.

17. Therefore, in this view of the matter, on the basis of the evidence, which was produced on record by the prosecution both ocular as well as documentary, it cannot be said that the finding of conviction returned against the accused by the learned trial Court and affirmed by the learned appellate Court is perverse or not borne out from the records of the case. Even during the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out that what was the perversity with the findings so returned by both the learned Courts below against the petitioners viz-a-viz evidence on record.

18. It is well settled law that the jurisdiction of High Court in revision is severely restricted and it cannot embark upon re-appreciation of evidence. The High Court in revision cannot in the absence of error on a point of law, re-appreciate evidence and reverse a finding of law. It has been further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the object of the revisional jurisdiction was to confer upon superior criminal Courts a kind of paternal or supervisory jurisdiction in order to correct miscarriage of justice arising from misconception of law, irregularity of procedure, neglect of proper precaution or apparent harshness of treatment which has resulted in undeserved hardship to individuals.

19. It has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shlok Bhardwaj Vs. Runika Bhardwaj and others (2015) 2 Supreme Court Cases 721 that the scope of revisional jurisdiction of the High Court does not extend to re-appreciation of evidence.

20. It has been further reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjaysinh Ramrao Chavan Vs. Dattatray Gulabrao Phalke and others (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 123:

> "14. In the case before us, the learned Magistrate went through the entire records of the case, not limiting to the report filed by the police and has passed a reasoned order holding that it is not a fit case to take cognizance for the purpose of issuing process to the appellant. Unless the order passed by the Magistrate is perverse or the view taken by the court is wholly unreasonable or there is non- consideration of any relevant material or there is palpable misreading of records, the revisional court is not justified in setting aside the order, merely because another view is possible. The revisional court is not meant to act as an appellate court. The whole purpose of the revisional jurisdiction is to preserve the power in the court to do justice in accordance with the principles of criminal jurisprudence. Revisional power of the court under Sections 397 to 401 of Cr.PC is not to be equated with that of an appeal. Unless the finding of the court, whose decision is sought to be revised, is shown to be perverse or untenable in law or is grossly erroneous or glaringly unreasonable or where the decision is based on no material or where the material facts are wholly ignored or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or capriciously, the courts may not interfere with decision in exercise of their revisional jurisdiction.

21. However, taking into consideration the alternative argument made by the learned counsel for the petitioners that this Court may sympathetically consider the reduction of the sentences imposed upon the petitioners in view of the fact that the petitioners have been undergoing the ordeal of trial since 2007, in my considered view, the interest of justice will be served in case the sentence imposed upon accused Nand Lal by the learned trial Court under Section 338 of the Indian Penal Code is modified from one year to three months and similarly the sentence imposed upon accused Amar Dev under Section 338 of the Indian Penal Code is reduced from six months to three months. Ordered accordingly. However, it is made clear that fine imposed by the learned trial Court against both the petitioners for being convicted under Section 338 of the Indian Penal Code is upheld and is not modified. Similarly, the sentence and fine imposed against petitioner Nand Lal under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian Penal Code is upheld and not modified and sentence and fine imposed against petitioner Amar Dev under Section 337 of the Indian Penal Code is upheld and not modified.

The revision petitions are disposed of in above terms.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Shri Banshi Ram Chauhan .....Petitioner.

Vs.

State of Himachal Pradesh and others .....Respondents.

Date of Decision: 17.11.2016

Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994- Rule 96- An election petition was filed by respondent No.3 against the election of respondent No.4 and 5 – the same was listed for announcement of the order when it was withdrawn without issuing notice to any person – held, that the election petition could have been withdrawn by following the procedure laid down in the rules – notice should have been given to the parties after fixing the date of hearing, which is mandatory – there was no application of mind while permitting the withdrawal of the election petition- however, considering the fact that the term of the person whose election was challenged has expired, no order of restoration passed. (Para-7 to 9)

For the petitioner: Mr. B.C. Negi, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Narender Thakur, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Vikram Thakur & Ms. Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate Generals, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr. Debender Sharma, Advocate, vice Mr. C.N. Singh, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 to 5.
None for respondents No. 6 to 9.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral):

By way of this writ petition, the petitioner has challenged order dated 14.03.2011 (Annexure P-5) passed by respondent No. 2 {Sub-Divisional Officer (Civil), Poanta Sahib, District Sirmour}, vide which the said respondent permitted an Election Petition filed by Shri Mohar Singh (respondent No. 3 in the present petition) to be withdrawn without following the provisions of Rule-96 of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994.

2. Facts as are borne out from the file are that an Election Petition was filed by respondent No. 3 Mohar Singh against the election of respondents No. 4 and 5 as Chairman and Vice-Chairman, respectively of Panchayat Samiti, Shillai, which elections were conducted in the year 2010. Petitioner before this Court was also an elected Member of the Panchayat Samiti, Shillai and was impleaded as a party respondent in the Election Petition, though he was impleaded only as a proforma respondent as his election was not under challenge. The Election Petition was heard by respondent No. 2 on 10.03.2011, on which date, after hearing the arguments, the case was fixed for 14.03.2011 for announcement of the order. However, on 14.03.2011 itself, Mohar Singh moved an application for withdrawal of the Election Petition so filed by him which was allowed by respondent No. 2 on 14.03.2011 itself without issuance of any notice to the respondents in the Election Petition including the present petitioner and without fixing a date of hearing of the application as per the provisions of Rule-96(2) of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994.

3. Feeling aggrieved by the same, the petitioner has filed this petition.

4. According to Mr. B.C. Negi, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner, Rule-96 of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 lays down the procedure as to how an Election Petition filed under the Panchayati Raj Act can be withdrawn. Mr. Negi has submitted that an Election Petition so filed under the Panchayati Raj Act can be withdrawn only after the permission of the Authorized Officer to whom the petition has been presented and when an application for withdrawal is in fact made, a notice thereof fixing a date for hearing of the application is mandatorily required to be given to all the parties to the petition. According to Mr. Negi, the present petitioner, who was one of the respondents in the Election Petition which was filed by Shri Mohar Singh, was never served upon any notice for withdrawal of the petition which was filed by Mohar Singh and the appropriate authority, i.e. respondent No. 2 ordered the petition to be withdrawn without following the provisions contemplated in Rule-96 (supra), which order thus passed by respondent No. 2 was not sustainable in law and was liable to be quashed.

5. In counter to the arguments made on behalf of the petitioner, learned counsel for the respondents have submitted that no prejudice has been caused to the petitioner by the withdrawal of the Election Petition as neither the election of the petitioner was under challenge in the Election Petition and therein also he was only impleaded as a formal party/proforma respondent. It was further urged by learned counsel for respondents that with the efflux of time, the petition has been rendered as infructuous.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the pleadings of the parties.

7. Keeping in view the fact that the elections which were assailed by Mohar Singh by way of Election Petition were held in December, 2010 and the term of the Members so selected in the said elections is since over and thereafter fresh Panchayat elections have also been conducted in the entire State, no fruitful purpose shall be served by granting the prayers which have been prayed for by the petitioner in the present writ petition. However, this Court can also not ignore the fact that there is merit in the contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that respondent No. 2 permitted the Election Petition to be withdrawn in utter violation of the provisions of Rule 96 (2) of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994. This Court is not even remotely suggesting that respondent No. 2 was not having authority to permit Shri Mohar Singh to withdraw the Election Petition, however, the said withdrawal should have been permitted by following the procedure laid down in Rule-96 of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994.

8. After receiving the application for withdrawal of the Election Petition, a notice thereof should have been given to all other parties to the petition by respondent No. 2 after fixing a date for hearing the application. It is pertinent to take note of the fact that word used in Sub-rule (2) of Rule 96 is “shall”, meaning thereby that after receiving the application for withdrawal of Election Petition, it is not the discretion of the Authorized Officer whether or not to issue notice of the same to all other parties to the petition, rather it is mandatory for the Authorized Officer to issue notice thereof after fixing a date for hearing of the application to all other parties to the petition.

9. Coming to the facts of the present case, the hot haste manner in which respondent No. 2 has acted in the matter is evident from the fact that not only the application for withdrawal of the Election Petition was filed by Mohar Singh on 14.03.2011, after taking the same on record, respondent No. 2 passed orders on the same at 10:15 a.m. itself. Respondent No. 2 has not even appreciated that before permitting the Election Petition to be withdrawn, there has to be an application of mind made by the Authorized Officer to the effect that as to whether the application so filed for withdrawal of the Election Petition was induced by bargain or consideration or not. This Court deprecates the manner in which the Election Petition was permitted to be withdrawn by respondent No. 2. However, as I have already mentioned above, keeping in view the fact that term of the Members whose election was under challenge has expired and new incumbents have come in their place, this Court is not interfering with the order passed by respondent No. 2, however, respondent No. 1 is directed to ensure that all Authorized Officers contemplated under Rule- 96 of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 are issued instructions that in future while dealing with application for withdrawal of Election Petition, the procedure prescribed under Rule-96 (supra) shall be strictly adheared to.

With the said directions, the present writ petition is disposed of. No order as to costs.

Champa Devi and Smt. Padma Devi did not raise any construction over vacant portion of suit land after passing of decree by learned Appellate court. It is well settled law that facts admitted need not to be proved under section 58 of Indian Evidence act 1872. Testimony of DHW1 is also corroborated by DHW2 Chandermani and DHW2 has specifically stated when he appeared in witness box that judgment debtors No. 1 to 6 did not raise any type of construction over vacant land after passing of decree by learned Appellate court. Similarly DHW3 Naru Ram has also stated in positive manner that judgment debtors No. 1 to 6 did not raise any construction over vacant portion of suit land after passing of decree. DHW1 Lajja Devi, DHW2 Chandermani and DHW3 Naru Ram have exonerated judgment debtors No. 1 to 6. 10. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that it is proved on record beyond reasonable doubt that Sh Keshav Ram judgment debtor has violated judgment and decree passed by learned Appellate court intentionally and voluntarily and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Revisionist Smt. Lajja Devi filed CMP No. 8659 of 2015 in present revision petition under order 1 rule 10 CPC and pleaded that Smt. Padma Devi widow of Sh Gurbax Singh expired and her legal representatives are already co-party as co-respondents No. 1 to 4 in revision petition. Revisionist further pleaded in CMP No. 8659 of 2015 that judgment debtor Keshav Ram also expired and pleaded that allegations against judgment debtor No. 7 Keshav Ram are personal in nature and upon his death cause of action comes to an end and sought permission of Court to delete the name of Keshav Ram judgment debtor from memo of parties in revision petition. Thereafter Hon'ble High Court vide order dated 18.8.2015 deleted names of Smt. Padma Devi and Sh Keshav Ram from memo of parties in revision petition. In view of the fact that revisionist has herself admitted that cause of action against non-revisionist Keshav Ram is personal in nature and comes to an end after his death court is of the opinion that no action is warranted against deceased Keshav Ram and his L.Rs in present revision petition.

11. It is well settled law that judicial proceedings under order 21 rule 32 CPC are punitive in nature. It is well settled law that positive, cogent and reliable evidence is required in judicial proceedings filed under order 21 rule 32 CPC. In view of the fact that DHW1 Lajja Devi, DHW2 Chandermani and DHW3 Naru Ram did not state anything about judgment debtors No. 1 to 6 in examination-in-chief and cross examination and in view of fact that revisionist has herself admitted that cause of action against Keshav Ram was personal in nature and comes to an end after his death court is of the opinion that it is not expedient in the ends of justice to interfere in the order of Executing Court.

12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that in view of report of Local Commissioner placed on record present revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. In view of the testimonies of DHW1 Lajja Devi, DHW2 Chandermani and DHW3 Naru Ram wherein they have specifically stated that judgment debtors No. 1 to 6 did not raise any type of new construction over vacant portion of suit land after passing of decree by learned Appellate court no action is warranted. Even DHW1 Lajja Devi, DHW2 Chandermani and DHW3 Naru Ram did not state in examination-in-chief and in cross-examination that judgment debtors No. 1 to 6 namely Kanshi Ram, Chaman Lal, Joginder Pal, Harish Chander, Smt. Champa Devi and Smt. Padma Devi have raised construction over suit land mentioned in decree sheet after passing of decree. DHW1 Lajja Devi and DHW2 Chandermani and DHW3 Naru Ram have stated that only Keshav Ram has raised construction over vacant land after passing of decree by learned Appellate court and in revision petition revisionist Smt. Lajja Devi has herself admitted in CMP No. 8659 of 2015 that cause of action against Keshav Ram judgment debtor has comes to end after his death. Smt. Lajja Devi has admitted in CMP No. 8659 of 2015 that cause of action against deceased Keshav Ram was personal in nature. Smt. Lajja Devi herself filed application under order 1 rule 10 CPC in revision petition and sought deletion of name of Keshav Ram from revision petition. Smt. Lajja Devi did not implead L.Rs of Keshav Ram as co-party in revision petition. It is well settled law that no order can be passed against any person who is not impleaded as co-party in judicial proceedings on the concept of audi alteram partem (No one should be condemned unheard).

13. It is well settled law that High Court cannot reverse findings of fact in revision petition unless findings of fact are perverse. See AIR 1991 SC 455 Masjid Kacha Tank Nahan Vs. Tuffail Mohammed. See AIR 1969 SC 580 Indore Municipality Vs. K.N.Palsikar. See AIR 1995 SC 1357 P.Udayani Devi Vs. V.V.Rajeshwara Prasad Rao. See AIR 2002 SC 1004 Gurdial Singh Vs. Raj Kumar Aneja. It is held that findings of learned executing court are not perverse nor illegal. It is held that learned executing court did not commit any material irregularity in execution. In view of the above stated facts and case law supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Relief).

14. In view of findings upon point No.1 revision petition is dismissed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. File of learned executing Court along with certify copy of order be sent back forthwith. Revision petition is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

Cases referred:

Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and another Versus State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793
Lal Mandi v. State of W.B., (1995) 3 SCC 603
Brathi alias Sukhdev Singh v. State of Punjab, (1991) 1 SCC 519

For the appellant : Mr. N. S. Chandel, Advocate, for the appellant.
For the respondent : Mr. R. S. Verma and Mr. Ram Murti Bisht, Addl. Advocate Generals for the respondent-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J. (oral)

Assailing the judgment dated 23.8.2012, passed by the learned Special Judge, Chamba Division, Chamba, H.P. in Corruption Case No. 3 of 2011, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Sudhir Singh & others, whereby present appellant Pavinder Singh (Accused No. 3) stands convicted for having committed offences punishable under the provisions of Section 420 Indian Penal Code read with Section 13(d)(ii) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988

(hereinafter referred to as the Act) and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years and pay fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default thereof, to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under Section 420 IPC and rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years and pay fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default thereof to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under Section 13(2) of the Act, he has filed the present appeal under the provisions of Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

2. Facts leading to the filing of the present appeal are as under:

In the year 1995, as a result of a natural calamity (flash floods), land belonging to Chetna Devi (Accused No. 4) and Dhano Devi (since deceased), relative of Pavinder Singh (Accused No.3), got washed away. In consonance with the scheme so framed by the State for allotment of nautor land (grant), Chetna Devi and Dhano Devi applied for grant of two biswas (98 Sq. mts.) of land. Since Pavinder Singh was posted as a Patwari/Nautor Clerk, he manipulated in getting a false report prepared from Kanungo, Sudhir Singh (Accused No. 1) and Halka Patwari, Kamal Singh (Accused No. 2). On the basis of such report and the order scribed by Accused No. 3, two biswas of land came to be allotted in favour of applicants Chetna Devi and Dhano Devi. This was so done on 29.6.1998 (Ext. PW-7/D). Subsequent realization of the land having been allotted in violation of the Rules (Ext. PW-1/A) and Policy Decision (Ext. PW-1/B), led to the passing of order dated 17.5.1999 (Ext.PW-7/A-6), reviewing the sanction of grant.

3. But the matter did not rest here. Since Revenue Officials had connived with the private applicants, F.I.R. No. 4/2010, (Ext.PW-21/A), came to be registered on 26.3.2010 at Police Station SV & ACB, Chamba under the provisions of Sections 420/467/468/471/120B IPC and 13/132 of the Act. Investigation, prima facie, revealed complicity of all the accused in the alleged crime, which led to the filing of challan in the Court for trial.

4. All accused were charged for having committed offences punishable under the provisions of Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B of the Indian Penal Code. Additionally the Revenue Officials, including the present appellant, were also charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 13(2) of the Act, to which, they all did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

5. In order to establish its case, prosecution examined as many as 29 witnesses and statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were also recorded, in which they took plea of innocence and false implication. No evidence in defence was led by the accused.

6. In terms of the impugned judgment dated 23.8.2012, except for accused Pavinder Singh, all the accused stand acquitted on all counts. The said accused stands convicted for having committed an offence punishable only under the provisions of Section 420 IPC read with Section 13(d)(ii) of the Act and sentenced as aforesaid. Hence the present appeal.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties as also perused the record, I am of the considered view that the reasoning adopted by the trial Court is perverse and is not based on correct and complete appreciation of testimonies of the witnesses. Judgment in question insofar as it relates to the conviction of the appellant, is not based on correct and complete appreciation of evidence and the material placed on record, hence causing serious prejudice to the appellant, resulting into miscarriage of justice.

8. In Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and another Versus State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793, the apex Court, has held that:

> ".....Lord Russel delivering the judgment of the Board pointed out that there was "no indication in the Code of any limitation or restriction on the High Court in the exercise of its powers as an appellate Tribunal", that no distinction was drawn "between an appeal from an order of acquittal and an > appeal from a conviction", and that "no limitation should be placed upon that power unless it be found expressly stated in the Code". ....

> (Emphasis supplied)

9. The apex Court in Lal Mandi v. State of W.B., (1995) 3 SCC 603, has held that in an appeal against conviction, the appellate Court is duty bound to appreciate the evidence on record and if two views are possible on the appraisal of evidence, benefit of reasonable doubt has to be given to the accused.

10. Also it is settled position of law that graver the punishment the more stringent the proof and the obligation upon the prosecution to prove the same and establish the charged offences.

11. It is a matter of record that no appeal against the judgment of acquittal of co-accused Sudhir Singh, Kamal Singh and Chetna Devi stands filed by the State. Also State has not preferred any appeal assailing the judgment of acquittal of the present appellant, in relation to the charges he stands acquitted for. Hence, this Court is called upon to examine the correctness of findings returned by the Court below.

12. It is a settled principle of law that when allegedly several persons commit an offence in furtherance of common intention and all except one are acquitted, it is open to the appellate court to find out, on reappraisal of evidence whether some of the accused persons stood wrongly acquitted, although it would not interfere with such acquittal in the absence of any appeal by the State Government. The effect of such finding is not to reverse the order of acquittal into one of conviction or visit the acquitted person with criminal liability. The finding is relevant only in invoking against the convicted person his constructive criminality. (See: Brathi alias Sukhdev Singh v. State of Punjab, (1991) 1 SCC 519).

13. It is a matter of record that save and except for one document i.e. letter of recommendation (Ext. PW7/A-12), and that too so made by the concerned Tehsildar, the present appellant has himself neither prepared any report nor authored any document. Bare perusal of this recommendation only reveals the present appellant to a scribe and not the recommending authority. It is not the case of prosecution that he had colluded with the Tehsildar in making such recommendation. Significantly such recommendation came to be made by the competent authority on the basis of field reports so prepared by Sudhir Singh (Accused No. 1) and Kamal Singh (Accused No. 2), who already stood acquitted. This report has not been proved to have been prepared falsely.

14. To establish involvement of the accused in the alleged crime, prosecution case primarily hinges on the ocular version with which the Court shall deal herein subsequently.

15. Record reveals that both Dhano Devi and Chetna Devi made applications (Ext. PW 7/A and Ext. PW 7/A-2) for grant of nautor land. These applications were processed in the office, not by accused Pavinder Singh, but other authorized/competent revenue officials. After processing, they were forwarded to the concerned field staff, who prepared their reports (Ext. PW 7/A-8 and Ext. PW 7/A-9). Even at this point in time, the present appellant did not deal with these applications. The field staff is not directly reporting to him.

16. Prosecution wants the court to believe, through the testimony of Smt. Rekha Devi (PW-13), Patwari posted in the Tehsil Office at Chamba, that it was the appellant who was dealing with the Nautor files. She does state that at the time of preparation of report on the application (Ext. PW7/A), appellant was in the office and she did make it so on his behalf. But then such version of hers is totally uninspiring in confidence, for in the cross examination part of her testimony, she categorically admits such fact not to be there in her pervious statement, so recorded by the police. In fact, she goes on to add that "It is correct that I am deposing for the first time that I had made the noting on the applications at the asking of accused Pavinder". If only one were to believe her, she would be no less than an accomplice in the crime. Significantly with the preparation of her report, the matter did not come to an end. Also she was not the final authority in the preparation of the document, for recommendation of the case for grant. One must record that the recommending authority is none else but the Tehsildar, a Gazetted Officer, who undoubtedly remained uninfluenced from the fact that the applicants were close relatives of the appellant. Crucially none of the prosecution witnesses have testified to the contrary.

17. At this juncture, it be only observed that the sole ground for cancellation of grant was infraction of Rule (Ext. PW-1/A), which, to some extent, prohibits grant of land, outside the mohal of normal residence of the applicants. Pertinently, the authority sanctioning grant was no less than a person of the level of the Deputy Commissioner, Chamba who presumably had applied his mind before allotting the land outside the mohal. Otherwise there is no bar in the authority exercising discretion in the allotment of land outside the mohal.

18. It was incumbent upon the prosecution to have established that the appellant got recommended allotment of nautor land of two biswas in favour of Dhano Devi and Chetna Devi in connivance with other accused, in violation of the Rules and instructions in this regard, so issued by the State Government and thereby dishonestly induced the State Government and also committed criminal misconduct by misusing his official position in the allotment of the said nautor land, by causing wrongful loss to the State and wrongful gain to himself.

19. Now if one were to peruse the testimonies of 26 prosecution witnesses, one finds that emphasis was more to prove the execution of the documents referred to herein earlier. But save and except, the testimony of Rekha Devi (PW-13), none has come forward to depose about the alleged involvement of the present appellant, in the preparation of the field reports or for that matter sanction of grant. Perusal of order, reviewing the sanction of grant (Ext PW 7/A-6), also does not indicate involvement of the present appellant in the alleged crime. Significantly it is not the case of prosecution that (i) the applicants were otherwise not entitled to the grant in accordance with the Rules and (ii) the land of the applicants had not washed away in a natural calamity.

20. Hence, from the material placed on record, prosecution has failed to establish that the appellant is guilty of having committed the offences, he stands charged for. The circumstances cannot be said to have been proven by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused does not stand proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt.

21. Findings returned by the trial Court, convicting the appellant, cannot be said to be based on correct and complete appreciation of testimonies of prosecution witnesses. Such findings cannot be said to be on the basis of any clear, cogent, convincing, legal and material piece of evidence, leading to an irresistible conclusion of guilt of the appellant. Incorrect and incomplete appreciation thereof, has resulted into grave miscarriage of justice, inasmuch as the appellant stands wrongly convicted.

22. Hence, for all the aforesaid reasons, appeal is allowed and the judgment of conviction and sentence, dated 23.8.2012, passed by the learned Special Judge, Chamba Division, Chamba, H.P. in Corruption Case No. 3 of 2011, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Sudhir Singh & others,, is set aside and the appellant is acquitted of the charged offences. Fine amount, if deposited, be refunded to the accused. Bail bonds furnished by the accused are discharged. Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

For the appellant : Mr. B. N. Sharma, Advocate, for the appellant.

For the respondent : Mr. I. N. Mehta, Advocate, for respondents No. 1, 5, 6 and 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J. (oral)

Sunder Singh and Mehar Singh jointly owned certain properties. Sunder Singh had two wives namely Misru Devi (defendant No. 2) and Isru (defendant No. 9) who respectively gave birth to sons Ranjeet Singh (defendant No. 1) and Prithvi Singh (plaintiff). Dispute pertaining to the inheritance of estate of Sunder Singh resulted into the parties litigating amongst themselves. The dispute is primarily between Prithvi Singh and Ranjeet Singh. Resultantly Prithvi Singh (respondent No. 1 herein) filed a suit, inter alia, against Ranjeet Singh (appellant herein) seeking declaration of his right in the estate of Sunder Singh. In defence Ranjeet Singh claimed absolute ownership on the basis of Will dated 7.2.2009, allegedly executed by Sunder Singh, excluding Prithvi Singh from inheritance.

2. Based on the respective pleadings of the parties, trial Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the will dated 07.02.2009 executed by Sunder Singh is declared to be null and void, as alleged? OPP
2. Whether mutation No. 19/09 dated 07.02.2009 on the basis of will is also declared to be null and void? OPP
3. Whether suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
4. Whether suit is bad for non-joinder and misjoinder of necessary parties? OPD.
5. Whether suit of plaintiff is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPD
6. Relief.

3. Finding, the plaintiff not to have established its case, issues came to be decided in favour of the defendant and, as such, trial Court dismissed the suit in terms of judgment and decree dated 7.12.2013 passed in Civil Suit No. S.D./0300063/2009, titled as Prithvi Singh vs. Ranjeet Singh & others.

4. In the plaintiff's appeal, the lower Appellate Court, by framing the following two additional issues, remanded the matter back to the trial Court, for deciding all the issues on the strength of the evidence, which may be led by the parties:

5-A. Whether Sh. Sunder Singh has executed a valid and legal Will dated 7-2-2009 in favour of defendants, if so, its effect? OPD

5-B Whether there was a family partition between Sunder Singh and Mehar Singh upon which Sunder Singh became absolute owner in possession of the suit property? OPD

However while doing so, it set aside the judgment and decree passed by the trail Court.

5. It is this order dated 4.11.2014, passed by District Judge, Kinnaur Civil Division at Rampur Bushahr, Distt. Shimla in plaintiff's Civil Appeal No. 0000007/2014, titled as Prithvi Singh vs. Ranjeet Singh & others, which is subject matter of challenge in the present appeal filed by the defendant.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties as also perused the record, one finds that the lower appellate Court committed grave illegality and irregularity by totally setting aside the judgment and decree, in remanding the matter back to the trial Court. It amounts to a wholesale remand.

7. In somewhat similar circumstances, this Court in Nagar Mal and another v. Bimal Kumar and another, Latest HLJ 2005(HP) 679, deprecated the practice of wholesale remand of the case by the appellate Court, more so keeping in view the provisions of Order 41 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. A Division Bench of this Court in Prem Kumar and others v. Parkash Chand and others, 2002(3) SLC 358, while dealing with an identical issue, held that:-

> "6. Learned Counsel for the appellants contended that the directions issued by the learned Additional District Judge are not in accordance with the provisions of Rules 23, 23-A or 25 of Order 41, Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Code'). He submitted that the appellate Court can make an order of remand either under Rule 23 or 23-A or Rule 25 of Order 41 of the Code.
> 7. So far as Rule 23 is concerned, the said provision obviously is not applicable to the case in hand in view of the fact that the trial Court had not disposed of the suit on a preliminary point. The question, therefore, is either the order is passed by the first appellate Court under Rule 23-A or Rule 25 of Order 41 of the Code. But, in either case, contended the learned Counsel, it was obligatory on the part of the first appellate Court to frame issue(s). If the first appellate Court was of the view that the decree passed by the trial Court was liable to be reversed which had been passed on merits, it was open to the appellate Court if it thought fit to remand the matter by directing what issue or issues should be framed in the case so remanded and by sending a copy of the judgment or order to the Court from whose decree the appeal was preferred, i.e., to the trial Court. But the said course has not been adopted by the first appellate Court. Similarly, Rule 25 has also not been invoked inasmuch as it was incumbent upon the first appellate Court to frame issue or issues and refer the same to the trial Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred by directing the said Court to take additional evidence if required, proceed to try such issue or issues and return the evidence to the appellate Court together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor within such time as may be fixed by the appellate Court. That is, however, not done. Hence, in either case, the order passed by the first appellate Court deserves to be quashed and set aside.
> 8. We find considerable force in the argument of the learned Counsel for the appellants. In our opinion, in either case, i.e. either under Rule 23-A or under Rule 25 of Order 41 of the Code, the first appellate Court ought to have framed additional issue(s) and ought to have issued necessary directions. In our considered opinion, the order passed by the first appellate Court is not in conformity with law. It is, therefore, liable to be quashed and set aside.

Accordingly, the appeal filed by the appellants stands allowed. The order passed by the Additional District Judge, Mandi, dated 30th June, 2001 is hereby quashed and set aside by directing the appellate Court to pass an appropriate order by framing necessary issue(s) and by making necessary directions to the trial Court. In the facts and circumstances of the case, no order as to costs."

9. Lower appellate Court, rather than setting aside the judgment and decree, without adjudicating the issues on merit and remanding the matter for trial and consideration of all issues, ought to have resorted to the provisions of Order 41 Rule 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure as stands clarified by the Apex Court in Jabbar Singh v. Shanti Swaroop, 2006 (3) SLC 58.

10. The subject matter of suit, was only about inheritance to the estate of Sunder Singh. Whether it stood partitioned by metes and bounds or otherwise, with Mehar Singh or not, was neither an issue agitated by the parties, nor required to be considered in the lis, inter se them. As such, lower appellate Court exceeded its jurisdiction in framing issue No. 5-B.

11. Insofar as Issue No. 5-A is concerned, again the lower appellate Court erred in framing the same, entitling the parties to lead further evidence. Fact that the trial Court itself had framed an issue, pertaining to the validity of the Will (Issue No. 1), perhaps, escaped its attention, which erroneously led to the framing of additional issue No. 5-A.

12. It is a settled principle of law that regardless of the onus, which the parties are required to discharge, in a case of Will, it is always the propounder thereof, who has to establish its valid execution, in accordance with law. Hence it did not matter as to whether the trial Court placed the onus on the plaintiff or not, for what was required to be considered by the Court is as to whether the propounder was able to discharge its burden, so cast upon him under law, of proving the Will, to have been validly executed or not. The position is no longer res integra as stands settled by the apex Court in H. Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B. N. Thimmajamma & others, AIR 1959 SC 443 and Niranjan Umeshchandra Joshi vs. Mrudula Jyoti Rao & others, AIR 2007 SC 614: (2006) 13 SCC 433.

13. Thus, for the aforesaid reasons, appeal is allowed and the impugned judgment dated 4.11.2014, passed in Civil Appeal No. 0000007/2014, titled as Prithvi Singh vs. Ranjeet Singh & others, quashed and set aside.

14. Matter is remanded back to the lower appellate Court with a direction to consider and decide the appeal on the basis of material already on record. At the cost of repetition, it is reiterated that the onus of discharging the burden of proving the Will, shall always be upon the propounder.

15. Parties are directed to appear before the lower appellate Court on 9.12.2016. Hearing is expedited. Parties undertake to fully cooperate. Records of the Courts below be returned immediately.

Appeal stands disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Decided on : 17/11/2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 336 and 304-A- Accused were posted as linemen and junior engineer they were entrusted with a duty to maintain 33 KV Rohtang- Keylong electricity line – one wire of the line fell on the vehicle due to which two persons got electrocuted – the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that prosecution evidence does not establish that accused had failed to rectify the fault despite knowledge rather it is established that accused were maintaining the tower and line efficiently – maintenance register was also not produced before the Court and an adverse inference has to be drawn – the trial Court had rightly appreciated the evidence – appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. K.S.Banyal, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vijender Katoch, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 11.06.2008 by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lahaul-Spiti at Keylong, Himachal Pradesh, in Criminal Case No16-r of 2003, whereby he acquitted the respondents (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that in the year 2002 accused/respondents Ram Singh and Piar Chand were posted as Linemen and Junior Engineers, respectively in H.P.S.E.B. Section at Koksar in District Lahaul and Spiti. It is alleged that both these accused/respondents were entrusted with a duty to maintain 33 KV Electricity Rohtang-Keylong Line. It is further alleged that on 6.5.2002 around 8.00 a.m. Kama Lama (complainant) was traveling in Taxi No. HP-02-8378 including other persons, namely Ses Ram, Ashwani Kumar, K.R. Chaudhary and deceased Dal Bahadur and Vijay Kumar. While the aforesaid vehicle reached near Doharani Bye-Pass on Rohtang-Keylong Highway, one line wire of 33 KV Electricity Rohtang-Keylong Line had fallen on the vehicle and as a result of the same the driver, namely Vijay Kumar and Nepali youth, namely, Dal Bahadur, who were passengers in the said vehicle, got electrocuted and died on the spot. This mishap has resulted due to rash and negligent act of both the accused/respondents herein, since they were entrusted with the maintenance of aforesaid electricity line and which they failed to maintain. It is further alleged that the death of Vijay Kumar and Dal Bahadur not amounting to culpable homicide was caused due to rash or negligent act of both the accused/respondents. The matter was reported to the police and FIR was lodged at police Station, Keylong. During the course of investigation, the site plan of the place of occurrence, where both the deceased expired, was prepared. The Investigating Officer concerned took into possession broken burnt pieces of live wire and bag which was kept on the roof of the vehicle in question vide memo Ex. PD. The vehicle was impounded alongwith documents. Broken Electric parts, wall cleeves, I-Socket were also taken in possession by the police and sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Bharari, Shimla. Postmortem examination of Vijay Kumar and Dal Bahadur was conducted. Inquest report of the cause of their death was prepared by the police. Photographs of the place of occurrence were taken. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 336 and 304-A to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 14 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record by the learned trial Court and theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Vijay Kumar and Dal Bhadur, who at the relevant time stood borne on vehicle bearing No. HP-02-8378, suffered fatal electrocution on theirs coming in contact with high tension 33 KV line. The aforesaid had come to contact with high tension 33 KV lines given their concerting to remove it from the top of the aforesaid vehicle whereon it had fallen. Penal culpability for the aforesaid hence suffering demise would stand attracted vis.a.vis the accused respondents only when forthright potent evidence stood adduced before the learned trial Court wherefrom upsurgings occur qua despite their holding the enjoined responsibility to maintain it, theirs intentionally derelicting from performing their enjoined duty. However, in case evidence surgesforth qua the falling of 33 KV line onto the relevant vehicle being abrupt besides its fall thereon occurring without the accused respondents derelicting from their enjoined duty, the charge qua which the accused respondents stood subjected to would stand concluded to not stand proven.

10. The prosecution while concerting to nurse the charge whereupon the accused respondents stood subjected to trial, depended upon the testimony of 14 witnesses. Preponderantly the testimony of PW-7 unveils qua the falling of 33 KV line onto the relevant vehicle being abrupt. The aforesaid disclosure occurring in the testimony of PW-7, an occupant of the relevant vehicle inhibits this Court in underscoring an inference qua both the accused respondents despite theirs at the relevant time sighting the vehicle theirs omitting to take the relevant due care and caution while theirs purportedly proceeding to undertake the relevant maintenance work of 33 KV line. Contrarily, the testification of PW-7 foments a firm conclusion qua the falling of 33 KV line onto the relevant vehicle being abrupt also its fosters a derivative of both the accused respondents at the relevant time not holding its repair nor they at the relevant time standing positioned in close proximity to the relevant site of occurrence. Also the testimony of PW-7 obviously underscores qua thereupon this Court holding leverage to erect an inference of the accused respondents not derelicting in performing their enjoined duties in maintaining it. The testification of the relevant prosecution witness stands comprised in the deposition of PW-1 who in his deposition unveils qua the Ball Clive Eye Socket of the relevant tower wherefrom 33 KV line originated begetting a rupture. He in his cross-examination has accepted the suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel while holding him to cross-examination qua the falling of the aforesaid line onto the relevant vehicle spurring from the aforesaid rupture occurring in the tower wherefrom the relevant 33 KV line originated not standing sequelled for lack of its proper maintenance by the accused/respondents. The aforesaid acquiescence of PW-1 to the apposite suggestion put to him by the learned counsel for the accused while holding him to cross-examination remains unshred of its efficacy comprised in the learned APP concerned subsequent thereto seeking to re-examine him whereupon it acquires immense credence qua the facet of his exculpating the guilt, if any, of the respondents/accused in the manner alleged against them. The aforesaid disclosure made by PW-1 qua the aforesaid cause sequelling the falling of 33 KV line onto the relevant vehicle also his communicating therein qua the relevant cause not being attributable to the accused respondents derelicting in maintaining it, gains vigour from the testimony of PW-10. PW-10 in his testification has voiced qua the Guarding below the line standing broken. He communicates therein qua in case the relevant Guarding of the wire had not suffered any rupture thereupon the illfated mishap would not have occurred. Even though he in his testification articulates a cause for the relevant mishap contradictory to the one spelt out by PW-1 yet he alike the testimony of PW-1 has therein exculpated the negligence, if any, of the accused respondents in maintaining the relevant tower besides the 33 KV line, by his voicing therein qua on his inspecting the relevant maintenance register his not detecting qua the accused respondents derelicting in their enjoined duty to promptly maintain it. The aforesaid testimonies of the relevant prosecution witnesses do not unveil qua the accused respondents despite holding knowledge qua the relevant defect occurring respectively in the tower and in 33 KV line, theirs omitting to rectify it. Contrarily evidence stands adduced qua the accused respondents efficiently maintaining the tower besides the 33 KV line evidence whereof stands comprised in the relevant manifestations occurring in the maintenance register which stood inspected by PW-10 besides by PW-1.

11. The prosecution would succeed in falsifying the relevant entries echoed the relevant maintenance register when evidence of immense vigour stood adduced before the learned trial Court wherewithin apposite portrayals are held. However, the aforesaid relevant evidence stood omitted to be adduced by the prosecution before the learned trial Court. Omission of adduction by the prosecution before the learned trial Court of relevant cogent evidence for eroding the efficacy of relevant entries disclosed in the relevant maintenance register wherewithin unveilings occur qua the accused respondents not derelicting in maintaining both the tower and 33 KV line, forecloses an inference of no imputation of penal negligence being ascribable qua them.

12. Be that as it may, the prosecution would also succeed qua the accused respondents despite holding knowledge qua the relevant defect occurring in the tower besides in the 33 KV line, they yet omitting to promptly rectify them only when best evidence in consonance therewith stood adduced before the learned trial Court. The best evidence qua the aforesaid facet would stand comprised in the prosecution adducing before the learned trial Court evidence personifying qua the distance occurring inter se the control room manned by the respondents vis.a.vis the location of the tower besides the location of 33 KV line. In case the distance inter se both was minimal, the court would conclude qua theirs not promptly rectifying the relevant defects nor also the relevant reflections borne on the relevant register holding any tenacity. However, for omission of adduction of the aforesaid evidence it can be forthrightly concluded qua the distance inter se the control room/repair room which stood manned by the accused respondents vis.a.vis the relevant tower besides 33 KV line being immense wherefrom it is to be concluded qua the relevant defect which evidently occurred abruptly standing unnoticed by the accused respondents thereupon neither any relevant knowledge can stand imputed to the accused respondents nor their omission if any to promptly rectify the defects can constrain a conclusion of theirs being hence penally inculpable.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

14. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

United India Insurance Company .....Appellant.
Versus
Dhananjoy Dass and others .....Respondents.

FAO No.: 351 of 2014.
Date of Decision : 17/11/2016

Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Son of the claimant died in the course of performing his duties as a labourer – claimant filed a claim petition and a compensation of Rs. 4,45,000/- was awarded to the claimant – held in appeal that no objection regarding limitation was taken in the reply – Commissioner had power to condone the delay on sufficient cause being shown by the Claimant – monthly wages of the deceased could be quantified at Rs. 2,591.72/- - 50% of the amount is to be deducted in accordance with Section 4- therefore, the claimant is entitled to Rs. 222.71 x 1295.86= Rs. 2,88,600.98/- along with interest @ 12% per annum- penalty of Rs. 20,000/- also imposed upon respondents No. 2 and 3. (Para-3 and 4)

For the Appellant: Mr. Ashwani Kumar Sharma, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Ishan Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Tek Chand Sharma and Mr. K.C.Sankhyan, Advocate, for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned award rendered by the learned Commissioner, Employees Compensation, Mandi, District Mandi, in Workmen Compensation Petition No. 40/2011 whereby on occurrence of demise of the son of the claimant during the course of his performing employment as a labourer under his employer respondents No. 2 and 3. he determined compensation vis.a.vis the claimant in the sum comprised therein.

2. This appeal was admitted on 7.12.2015 on the hereinfafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the claim petition filed beyond the prescribed limitation period of two years after death of deceased workman, Sh. Bapi Das on 27.09.2003, was time barred and thus, did not deserve to be entertained?
> 2. Whether amount of compensation to the tune of Rs.4,45,000/- awarded to the claimant is legal and justified as per provisions of the Employee's compensation Act or on the basis of proved income of deceased and his age the claimant is entitled only to an amount of Rs.2,85,124/- alongwith interest."

The learned counsel for the appellant has not concerted to repel the legality of the findings recorded by the learned Commissioner qua the demise of the deceased occurring during the course of his performing employment as a labourer under respondents No. 2 and 3. He also does not controvert the findings recorded by the learned Commissioner qua the claimant holding the capacity of a dependant of his deceased son.

3. Be that as it may, the substantial question of law occurring at Sr. No.1 stands enjoined to be adjudicated upon. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant has submitted qua with the demise of the son of the claimant occurring on 27.09.2003 whereas the apposite claim petition standing preferred on 29.10.2005 wherefrom he contends qua with the preferment of the apposite claim petition before the learned Commissioner occurring after more than two years elapsing since the demise of claimants' son renders attractable qua the claim petition the mandate of the provisions engrafted in Section 10(1) of the Workmen's Compensation Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act), provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, significantly when hence it evidently stood preferred therebefore beyond the statutorily prescribed period of limitation:-

> "10. Notice and claim:- (1) No claim for compensation shall be entertained by a Commissioner unless notice of the accident has been given in the manner hereinafter provided as soon as practicable after the happening thereof and unless the claim is preferred before him within two years of the occurrence of the accident or in case of death, within two years from the date of death."

thereupon he canvasses qua the Commissioner standing statutorily barred to exercise jurisdiction upon the apposite claim petition reiteratedly when its preferment occurred after more than two years since the demise of a workman during the course of his performing employment under his employer. Apparently, the claim petition stood preferred by the claimant before the learned Commissioner with a minimal delay of one month occurring since elapse of the statutorily prescribed period of two years since the illfated demise of his son for thereupon rendering it to be maintainable. However, the rigour of the mandate of sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act which stands extracted hereinabove stands relaxed by its proviso engrafted therein, which also stands extracted hereinafter

> "Provided that, where the accident is the contracting of a disease in respect of which the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 3 are applicable, the accident shall be deemed to have occurred on the first of the days during which the workman was continuously absent from work in consequence of the disablement caused by the disease:
> Provided further that in case of partial disablement due to the contracting of any such disease and which does not force the workman to absent himself from work, the period of two years shall be counted from the day the workman gives notice of the disablement to his employer: Provided further that if a workman who, having been employed in an employment for a continuous period, specified under sub-section (2) of section 3 in respect of that employment, ceases to be so employed and develops symptoms of an occupational disease peculiar to that employment within two years of the cessation of employment, the accident shall be deemed to have occurred on the day on which the symptoms were first detected:
> Provided further that the want of or any defect or irregularity in a notice shall not be a bar to the entertainment of a claim
> (a) if the claim is preferred in respect of the death of a workman resulting from an accident which occurred on the premises of the employer, or at any place where the workman at the time of the accident was working under the control of the employer or of any person employed by him, and the workman died on such premises or at such place, or on any premises belonging to the employer, or died without having left the vicinity of the premises or place where the accident occurred, or
> (b) if the employer or any one of several employers or any person responsible to the employer for the management of any branch of the trade or business in which the injured workman was employed had knowledge of the accident from any other Source at or about the time when it occurred:
> Provided further, that the Commissioner may [entertain] and decide any claim to compensation in any case notwithstanding that the notice has not been given, or the claim has not been [preferred], in due time as provided in this sub-section, if he is satisfied that the failure so to give the notice or [prefer] the claim, as the case may be, was due to sufficient cause."

relevant proviso whereof embodies therein a diktat qua the learned Commissioner even when the apposite claim petition stands preferred before him beyond a period of two years since the illfated demise of a workman during the course of his performing employment under his employer, his yet holding jurisdiction to thereupon pronounce an adjudication on his demonstrably besides explicitly evincing satisfaction qua the sufficiency of cause which precluded the claimant to file it therebefore within the statutorily prescribed period of limitation engrafted in sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act. He contends qua the mandate of the relevant proviso to sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act for hence its standing attracted hereat for thereupon rendering maintainable a claim petition preferred beyond the statutorily prescribed period of limitation obviously does not empower the learned Commissioner to draw satisfaction qua the good and sufficient cause which precluded besides deterred the claimant to within time file his apposite claim petition before him unless an apposite motion in consonance with its mandate stands made therebefore by the claimant. He proceeds to argue qua with the relevant record omitting to make any disclosures qua the learned Commissioner within the ambit of the relevant proviso to sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act explicitly drawing satisfaction qua the sufficiency of cause which deterred the claimant to file a claim petition before him, renders it to be unworkable vis.a.vis the claimant. He hence contends qua the pronouncement recorded by the learned Commissioner being jurisdictionally nonest. The aforesaid submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant has been made on a stricto sensu interpretation by him of the ambit besides the amplitude of the apposite proviso (1) of Section 10 of the Act. The learned counsel for the appellant has remained oblivious to the factum of a minimal delay of only one month occurring on elapsing of the statutorily mandated period of two years since the ill fated demise of the son of the claimant upto the stage whereat the apposite claim petition stood preferred before the learned Commissioner. He also remained unmindful qua the factum of the aforesaid contention standing not raised by the appellant herein while instituting a reply to the claim petition preferred by the claimant before the learned Commissioner. Consequently, no apposite issue struck thereon by the learned Commissioner also no evidence thereon stood adduced therebefore. Even though the objection raised herebefore by the learned counsel for the appellant stands anvilled upon evident infraction of statutory provisions also any omission(s) qua the facets aforesaid would not beget any inference of thereupon the award recorded by the learned Commissioner not suffering from any vice of jurisdictional statutory disempowerment. However, the effect of omissions aforesaid when coalesced with the learned Commissioner ultimately recording his pronouncement upon the claim petition does convey qua his impliedly drawing satisfaction qua the sufficiency of good cause which precluded the claimant to within the statutorily mandated period of time prefer the apposite claim petition before him. The play of the apposite proviso to sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act is not enjoined to be inhibited by rigidly insisting upon the learned Commissioner to in terms thereof explicitly record the sufficiency of cause which deterred or precluded the claimant to within the statutorily mandated period of time prefer the apposite claim petition before him. Contrarily the workability of the proviso would remain alive given the factum of the impact of the aforesaid omissions construed in coagulation with his ultimately pronouncing an award upon it hence facilitating impetus to a deduction qua thereupon the learned Commissioner impliedly drawing satisfaction qua good and sufficient cause which deterred the claimant to within the statutorily prescribed time file his apposite claim petition before him. As aforesated hence it would be insagacious to insist upon the learned Commissioner to within the ambit of the relevant proviso explicitly make a pronouncement qua its provision standing attracted qua the claim significantly when hence it would denude the salutary purpose of the Act also would ultimately work hardship to the dependents of the deceased workman especially when he was performing employment under his employer as an unskilled labourer besides with the claimant likewise being a resident of Bengal situated at a location remotely distanced from the place of work whereat his deceased son was performing employment, also given the semi illiteracy of his deceased son besides of the claimant, any insistence with rigour upon him qua his remaining alive to the statutory mandate of sub section (1) of Section 10 of the Act would rather aggravate his hardship. For mitigating the aforesaid hardships besides for carrying forward the salutary purpose of the Act necessarily when the aforesaid discussion forecloses an inference qua the learned Commissioner hence impliedly drawing satisfaction qua the good and sufficient cause which deterred the claimant to within the statutorily prescribed period of time prefer his claim petition before him. Consequently, the submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant qua the learned Commissioner standing jurisdictionally disempowered to record his award given the claim petition standing preferred before him beyond the period of limitation prescribed under sub section (1) of Section 10 is liable to be discountenanced. Accordingly, the substantial question of law No.1 is answered in favour of the claimant.

4. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted with much vigour qua with the employer of the deceased workman making a disclosure in Mark-E6 qua the deceased workman from his relevant employment under him drawing per mensum wages quantified at Rs.2591.72, constituted the sum aforesaid to be construable to be the relevant per mensum quantum of monthly wages drawn by the deceased workman from his employment under his employer whereas the learned Commissioner anvilling his relevant findings merely on an affidavit sworn by the claimant holding therewithin reflections of his deceased son drawing per mensum wages quantified at Rs.5,000/- whereto he applied the relevant statutory principles, has thereupon committed an inherent error. Apparently Mark E6 submitted by the employer of the deceased son of the claimant holds reflections of the deceased from his relevant employment drawing per mensum wages quantified at Rs.2591.72. The disclosure aforesaid occurring therewithin constitutes formidable evidence qua the relevant facet significantly when the apposite disclosure occurring therein has emanated from the employer of the deceased workman who obviously held the best knowledge to pronounce qua the relevant fact. The relevant sole testimony of the claimant even if it holds any vigour its sinew stands benumbed by Ext.E6 also by the claimant in his cross-examination acquiescing to a suggestion put to him by the learned counsel for the appellant while holding him to cross-examination qua his holding no knowledge qua the wages per mensum drawn by his deceased son from his relevant employment under his employer. Consequently, the reliance placed qua the relevant fact by the learned Commissioner upon the sole testimony of PW-1 is grossly inapt it being wholly surmisal whereas he was enjoined to mete reverence to the apposite reflections occurring in Mark E6. The learned Commissioner has hence committed a gross illegality. The sequel of the above discussion is qua in the manner prescribed by the apposite provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act embedded in Section 4(1)(a) provision whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "4. Amount of compensation.-
> (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the amount of compensation shall be as follows, namely:-- (a) where death results from the injury
> An amount equal to fifty percent of the monthly wages of the deceased workman multiplied by the relevant factor,"

After meteing 50% deduction to the sum of Rs.2591.72 i.e. Rs.1,295.86/- whereupon on application thereto of the relevant factor which stands correctly applied by the learned Commissioner, the amount of compensation which is to be determined to be payable to the claimant stands comprised in a sum Rs.222.71x1,295.86= 2,88,600.98/-.

Accordingly, the substantial question of law No.2 answered in favour of the appellant. The appeal is partly allowed. The award of the learned Commissioner is modified to the extant that the respondents/claimants 1 and 4 herein shall be entitled to compensation comprised in a sum of Rs. 2,88,600.98/-. alongwith interest @ 12 per cent per annum to be levied thereon since the elapsing of one month after the accident. Statutory penalty for omission of the employer to beget satiation of the mandate of Section 4-A is quantified at Rs.20,000/- liability whereof stands fastened upon the employers i.e. respondents No. 2 and 3 herein. The compensation amount shall be equally apportioned amongst the claimants/ respondents No. 1 and 4 herein.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present revision petition is filed under Section 115 of code of civil procedure 1908 against order of learned District Judge Hamirpur HP dated 19.2.2015 passed in civil miscellaneous appeal No. 23 of 2014 whereby learned District Judge Hamirpur set aside order of learned Trial Court dated 27.9.2014 and partly allowed appeal with direction to parties to maintain status quo with regard to nature and alienation of suit land till final disposal of main suit on merits.

BRIEF FACTS OF CASE:

2. Sh. Mukhtiar Singh plaintiff filed suit under section 77 of Registration Act 1908 for declaration to the effect that Will dated 15.1.2008 executed by late Sh. Bidhi Chand father of plaintiff Mukhtiar Singh and co-defendant No.2 Ajit Singh is valid Will and same is liable to be registered under Registration Act 1908. Consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction also sought restraining co-defendant No.2 Ajit Singh from dis-possessing plaintiff from suit land and alienating the land and changing the nature of land comprised khata No. 41 khatauni No. 52 khasra No. 49, 50, 67, 75, 1076/98, 144, 145, 150, 1097/273, 432 and 867 kitas 11 measuring 20 kanals 4 marlas situated in village Beer tappa Beer Baghera Tehsil Sujanpur District Hamirpur HP. Additional relief for mandatory injunction also sought directing Sub Registrar Sujanpur District Hamirpur HP to register Will dated 15.1.2008.

3. Per contra written statement filed on behalf of co-defendants No. 2 and 3 pleaded therein that plaintiff has got no cause of action and plaintiff has got no locus standi to file present suit. It is pleaded that plaintiff is estopped from filing suit by his own act and conduct. It is pleaded that suit is bad for want of necessary parties. It is pleaded that suit is not legally maintainable for declaration as the plaintiff is out of possession over suit land. It is pleaded that suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction. It is pleaded that suit property is self acquired property of deceased Bidhi Chand son of Daulat Ram. It is pleaded that Bidhi Chand has not executed any Will on 15.1.2008. It is pleaded that suit is hit by principle of resjudicata under section 11 CPC and under order 2 rule 2 CPC. It is pleaded that defendants are entitled to special cost under section 35A CPC. It is pleaded that former civil suit No. 16 of 2008 titled Mukhtiar Singh Vs. Ajit Singh was filed by plaintiff before civil Court in which both Wills dated 15.1.2008 and 18.5.2007 were directly and substantially in dispute. It is pleaded that civil suit No. 16 of 2008 titled Mukhtiar Singh Vs. Ajit Singh was dismissed in default by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No. 3 Hamirpur HP on dated 23.1.2009. It is pleaded that interim application filed under order 39 rules 1 and 2 CPC was also dismissed. It is pleaded that CMA No. 47 of 2008 titled Mukhtiar Singh Vs. Ajit Singh was also filed before learned District Judge Hamirpur and same was also dismissed in default on 24.3.2009. It is pleaded that fresh present civil suit on the basis of Will dated 15.1.2008 is not maintainable.

4. During pendency of civil suit No. 119 of 2014 Mukhtiar Singh plaintiff filed application under order XXXIX rule 1 and 2 CPC for grant of ad-interim injunction. Learned Trial Court dismissed application filed under order XXXIX rule 1 and 2 CPC by plaintiff. Feeling aggrieved against order of learned Trial Court plaintiff Mukhtiar Singh filed appeal under order XLIII CPC. Learned Appellate court partly accepted appeal and set aside order of learned Trial Court dated 27.9.2014. Learned Appellate court directed parties to maintain status quo with regard to nature and alienation of suit land till final disposal of main suit on merits. Feeling aggrieved against order of learned Appellate court revisionist filed present revision petition.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionist and also perused entire record carefully.

6. Following points arise for determination in present revision petition:

1. Whether revision petition filed under section 115 of code of civil procedure 1908 by revisionist is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of revision petition?.

2. Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons:

7. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that non-revisionist has earlier filed civil suit No. 16 of 2008 titled Mukhtiar Singh Vs. Ajit Singh which was dismissed in default on dated 23.1.2009 in which two Wills i.e. Will dated 18.5.2007 and 15.1.2008 were directly and substantially in issue and subsequent civil suit No. 119 of 2014 is barred on the concept of resjudicata under section 11 CPC and under order II rule 2 CPC is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that two Wills dated 18.5.2007 and dated 15.1.2008 were in dispute in civil suit No. 16 of 2008 titled Mukhtiar Singh Vs Ajit Singh. It is proved on record that Civil Judge did not dispose of civil suit No. 16 of 2008 on merits but civil suit No. 16 of 2008 was dismissed in default. It is also proved on record that learned District Judge did not dismiss civil appeal No. 47 of 2008 on merits but dismissed the appeal in default. It is held that when civil suit is dismissed in default then provision of resjudicata would not apply in subsequent civil suit when subsequent civil suit is filed upon different cause of action and title. See AIR 1993 SC 1756 Inacio Martins Vs. Narayan Hari Naik. See AIR 1976 SC 1645 Lonakutty Vs. Thomman and another. See AIR 1960 SC 941 Satyadhyan Ghosal and others Vs. Smt. Deorajin Debi and another.

8. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionist that non-revisionist filed application for registration of Will dated 15.1.2008 before learned Sub Registrar under Registration Act 1908 and application of non-revisionist was dismissed by learned Sub Registrar on dated 15.2.2011 and thereafter appeal was filed by non-revisionist before learned Registrar and same was also dismissed by learned Registrar on dated 23.7.2014 and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Registration Act 1908 is special Act. As per section 18 E of Registration Act 1908 registration of Will is optional. As per section 77 of Registration Act 1908 suit can be filed before civil court against order of refusal of registration by learned Registrar. Present civil suit No. 119 of 2014 is filed under section 77 of Registration Act 1908 upon different cause of action and upon different title.

9. As per section 59 of Indian Succession Act 1925 every person of sound mind not being a minor may dispose of his property by way of Will. It is well settled law that Will are of two types (1) Privileged Will as defined under section 65 of Indian Succession Act 1925 and un-privileged Will as defined under section 63 of Indian Succession Act 1925. It is well settled law that privileged Will is always executed by soldier being employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare.

10. Court is of the opinion that in order to avoid multiplicity judicial proceedings inter se parties it is expedient in the ends of justice to direct both parties to maintain status quo as of today qua nature and possession of suit property till disposal of civil suit No. 119 of 2014. It is well settled law that in revision proceedings High Court cannot reverse the order of subordinate court unless order of subordinate court is perverse. BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Braham Dev Sood ... Appellant

Versus

Jugal Kishore ... Respondent

RSA No. 586 of 2007
Reserved on: 03.11.2016
Date of decision: 18.11.2016

Transfer of Property Act, 1882- Section 106- Plaintiff pleaded that tenancy of the defendant was terminated by issuing a notice – the possession of the defendant was unlawful – hence, the mesne profits were sought along with the interest- the suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed – held in second appeal that mesne profits are to be determined on the basis of cogent and credible evidence like recent registered lease deeds of the locality – plaintiff had not brought on record lease deed or registered documents showing the rent of the similar premises – the findings recorded by the Court cannot be said to be perverse- appeal dismissed. Para- 12 to 17)

For the appellant: Mr. K.S. Kanwar, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Solan, in Civil Appeal No. 27 FTC/13 of 2007 dated 16.08.2007, vide which, learned Appellate Court dismissed the appeal so filed by the present appellant against the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kandaghat, in Civil Suit No. 47-K/1 of 2001 dated 31.07.2006, whereby learned trial Court had partly decreed the suit filed by the plaintiff for recovery.

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that the appellant/plaintiff, hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff, filed a suit for recovery of Rs.28,696/- w.e.f. 01.07.1998 to 30.06.2001 @ Rs.700/- per mensem i.e. Rs.25,200/- as principal amount and Rs.3,496/- on account of interest @ 9% per annum, on the ground that the plaintiff was owner of a single storeyed house consisting of 2 rooms and 2 kitchen, situated below the Parkash Saw Mill on Kalka Shimla Road in Kandaghat Town, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan and the said accommodation was given to defendant on rent for residence purpose in the month of April, 1984 by the plaintiff @ Rs.300/- per mensem and besides this, the defendant was also required to pay Rs.15/- per mensem as water charges to the plaintiff. As per the plaintiff, he determined the tenancy of the defendant from 31.07.1996 by issuance of a notice under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. Therefore, as per the plaintiff, the possession of the defendant since 01.08.1996 was unlawful and unauthorized. It was further pleaded by the plaintiff that had the defendant vacated the house on or before 31.07.1996, then the plaintiff could have gained more benefits from the said premises. The demised premises in the year 1996 could have had been rented out by the plaintiff @ Rs.800/- per mensem which was the rent prevalent in the vicinity. On these basis, the plaintiff claimed mesne profit w.e.f. 01.07.1998 upto 30.06.2001 @ Rs.700/- per annum alongwith interest.

3. The suit so filed by the plaintiff was contested by the defendant, inter aia, on the ground that the demised premises were not rented out to the defendant by the plaintiff at the rate of Rs.300/- P.M. but were in fact rented out at the rate of Rs.150/- P.M., as has been held by the Court of learned Additional District Judge in its judgment and decree dated 08.12.2003 passed in Civil Appeal No. 2-S/13 of 2003 in case titled Jugal Kishore Vs. Braham Dev Sood. It was further the case put up by the defendant that the alleged determination of the tenancy by way of alleged notice w.e.f. 31.07.1996 was totally wrong and illegal and the same stood set aside by learned Additional District Judge, Solan, in Civil Appeal No. 2-S/13 of 2003. It is further denied that premises in issue could have been rented out for an amount of Rs.800/- per mensem in the year 1996 and as per the defendant, there was no such rent prevalent in the vicinity for such like accommodation as alleged. Thus, the suit of the plaintiff was resisted by the defendant inter alia on the said grounds.

4. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the recovery of Rs.28,696/- as prayed? … OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the payment of interest at the rate of Rs.9% per annum as alleged? … OPP
3. Relief.

5. On the basis of the evidence which was led by the respective parties before learned trial Court, the following findings were returned to the issues so framed by it:-

Issue No. 1:	Yes.
Issue No. 2:	Yes.
Relief	The suit filed by the plaintiff is decreed as per operative portion of this judgment.

6. Accordingly, the suit so filed by the plaintiff was decreed by learned trial Court for recovery of Rs.7344/- on account of rent and mesne profit from 01.07.1998 to 30.06.2001 and future interest @ 15% per annum till the realization of the amount alongwith cost of the suit throughout with special cost of Rs.3,000/-. It was held by learned trial Court that it stood proved on record that the plaintiff had filed suit for possession of demised premises in the year 1996 and due notice was issued to the defendant but legal position changed during the pendency of the trial. It was further held by learned trial Court that learned Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No. 2-S/13 of 2003 had set aside the prayer of the plaintiff for the possession of the shop and determined the rent at Rs.150/- P.M. Learned trial Court further held that it was also admitted fact that the appeal against the judgment and decree passed by the First Appellate Court was pending in the High Court. Learned trial Court further held that the plaintiff had already shown his intention to terminate the tenancy and he had no intention to keep the defendant as a tenant on the demised premises and as Urban Rent Control Act was not applicable to Kandaghat area at the relevant time then the occupation of the defendant cannot be treated to be that of a tenant but he was merely a trespasser who was using the property of the plaintiff without any authority. On these basis, it was held by learned trial Court that till the decision of High Court, the tenancy of the defendant cannot be terminated and possession cannot be given to the plaintiff but the plea of the defendant that he was not liable to pay any amount to the plaintiff as mesne profit, was not acceptable as the defendant could not use the property of the plaintiff without paying any rent. On these basis, it was held by learned trial Court that the plaintiff was entitled for the recovery of Rs.5,400/- as a principal amount on account of monthly rent @ Rs.150/-. Learned trial Court further held that as the defendant had not paid any rent from 1996 onwards, therefore, the plaintiff was also entitled for the interest @ Rs.12% per annum.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment so passed by learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal on the ground that learned trial Court had erred in not granting mesne profit to the plaintiff as Rs.700/- P.M. as claimed by him, whereas cross-objections were preferred against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court by the defendant on the ground that the plaintiff was not entitled for the decree which was passed in his favour by learned trial Court qua interest.

8. Vide its judgment and decree dated 16.08.2007, learned Appellate Court while affirming the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court dismissed the appeal filed by the plaintiff/appellant as well as cross-objections filed by the defendant. While arriving at the said conclusion it was held by learned Appellate Court that judgment passed by learned Additional District Judge, Solan, in Civil Appeal No. 2-S/13 of 2003, showed that the rent of the premises in dispute was held Rs.150/- P.M. and on these basis, it was held by learned Appellate Court (in the present case) that there was no irregularity or illegality in the findings returned by learned trial Court, vide which, the plaintiff was awarded rent of Rs.150/- P.M. It was further held by learned Appellate Court that contention of the defendant that learned trial Court had erred in granting interest more than what was claimed by the plaintiff had no legal force and as the Court has inherent powers to grant any relief to the party which it deems fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case. Learned Appellate Court held that the rent of the premises was very nominal i.e. Rs.150/- P.M. as held by learned trial Court but despite this defendant had neither paid any rent to the plaintiff nor deposited in the Court, which had forced the plaintiff to file the suit. It further held that keeping in view the conduct of the defendant, learned trial Court had not committed any error in awarding special cost of Rs.3000/- to the plaintiff and interest @ 15% per annum. On these basis, learned Appellate Court dismissed the appeal as well as cross-objections.

9. The judgment and decree so passed by learned Appellate Court is under challenge in this appeal, which has been filed by the plaintiff. No appeal against the dismissal of cross-objections has been filed by the defendant.

10. The appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether the learned Court below while fixing the mesne profits has rightly relied upon judgment dated 10.12.2003 passed by the learned Addl. District Judge, Solan, modifying judgment and decree in Civil Suit No. 85/1 of 1996 wherein rent has been fixed by virtue of application of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 and which judgment is under challenge by way of Regular Second Appeal pending before this Hon'ble Court."

11. It is a matter of record that Regular Second Appeal which was filed against the judgment referred to in the substantial question of law stands disposed of by this Court on 26.02.2013 by passing the following order:

> "When both appeals were taken up for hearing, it was submitted by the learned counsel appearing for the parties that the suit premises have since been handed over to the landlord Sh. Braham Dev. In these circumstances, I hold that both appeals have become infructuous and disposed of as such. No finding is given on the merits of the points of law and facts of the case.
> 2. Submission is made on behalf of the learned counsel appearing for the appellant-Braham Dev that some amount of Rs. 6,000/-as arrear remains due and recoverable from the respondents. In the changed circumstances, I do not deem it necessary to go into this fact."

12. In this view of the matter, now the issue which has to be determined by this Court is as to whether the findings returned by learned trial Court to the effect that the plaintiff was entitled to mesne profit per mensem @ Rs.150/- is correct finding or whether the plaintiff was entitled for an amount of Rs.700/- P.M. for mesne profit.

13. Before proceeding further, it is pertinent to take note of the fact that it is settled law that determination of mesne profits is to be done on the basis of cogent and credible evidence like recent registered lease deeds of locality to show the amount of rent which is payable and inadmissible evidence is not to be taken into account for this purpose. The basic principle which is to be kept in mind is that tenant is under a bounden duty to pay the rent which is akin to the market rent.

14. A perusal of the records of the case demonstrates that to substantiate his claim that he was entitled for mesne profits @ Rs.700/- P.M. after the determination of the tenancy of the defendant, the plaintiff examined two witnesses including himself. PW-1 Umesh Kumar, owner of Uco Bank building in Kandaghat, stated that he had rented out house for residential purposes and in the year 1996 rent for premises having two rooms and two kitchens was Rs.1000/- P.M. He further stated that now-a-days the said premises could be rented out for Rs.1,500/- P.M. In his cross-examination, he stated that he could not state as to what should be the rent for the premises which were with the respondent.

15. Plaintiff entered the witness box as PW-2 and he reiterated his version that he was entitled for mesne profit @ Rs.700/- P.M. In his cross-examination, he denied that the premises were rented out to the defendant for an amount of Rs.150/- P.M. Besides this, the plaintiff produced on record a copy of judgment passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Kandaghat, in Civil Suit No. 46-K/1 of 2003 titled Rajeev Sharma & Ors. Vs. Brij Mohan.

16. A perusal of the evidence on record demonstrates that there was no cogent and convincing evidence led by plaintiff either by way of latest lease deed or by way of any other registered document from which it could be inferred that the rental rates of the premises akin to that of plaintiff which were with the defendant was around Rs.700/- P.M. The onus to prove as to what were the occupation charges to which he was entitled to was upon the plaintiff. In my considered view, the plaintiff on the basis of evidence which was led by him miserably failed to discharge the said onus. There was no cogent and reliable evidence placed on record from which it could be inferred that the premises of the plaintiff in possession of the defendant in fact demanded occupation charges @ Rs.700/- P.M. or more.

17. Therefore, in these circumstances, in my considered view, no error was committed by learned trial Court in granting mesne profits in favour of the plaintiff on the basis of the findings returned by learned Additional District Judge in Civil Appeal No. 1-S/13 of 2003 titled Jugal Kishore Vs. Braham Dev Sood, dated 10.12.2003, which judgment passed by learned Appellate Court otherwise has now attained finality. Reliance placed upon by learned trial Court on the judgment passed by learned Additional District Judge dated 10.12.2003 in Civil Appeal could have been faulted with, if there was any other material available with learned trial Court on the basis of which learned trial Court could have had inferred that the premises in dispute in fact commanded better occupation charges. The factum of pendency of Regular Second Appeal in this Court against the judgment passed by learned Appellate Court lost relevance with the passage of time as during the pendency of this litigation, it is an admitted position that the demised premises stand vacated by the defendant. Learned Appellate Court also rightly upheld the findings returned by learned trial Court by correctly appreciating the evidence on record as well as the judgment passed by learned trial Court. Further it cannot be said that the findings returned by both learned Courts below are either perverse or not borne out from the records of the case.

18. Therefore, in view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, stand disposed of. Interim order, if any, also stands disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 21st February, 2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(II), Mandi, H.P., (for short, the Tribunal), in Claim Petition No.58 of 2004, titled Desh Raj Sharma vs. Ram Pyari and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,44,000/, alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the owner and the driver came to be saddled with the liability jointly and severally, (for short, the impugned award).

2. Feeling aggrieved, the claimant has questioned the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal on the ground that the amount awarded by the Tribunal is on the lower side. On the other hand, the legal representatives of the owner (respondents No.1 and 2 herein) have filed Cross Objections seeking exoneration and have prayed that the insurer be saddled with the liability.

3. The driver and the insurer have not challenged the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

4. Facts of the case, in brief, are that on 28th October, 2003, at about 10 p.m., the claimant boarded Maruti Car bearing No.HP-22-5911, owned by respondent No.1 Ram Payari (since dead) and being driven by respondent No.2, from Karsog to Mandi. Further averred that when the said Car reached at Village Bagla, due to the rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2, the car hit with the rear portion of the truck going ahead, as a result of which the claimant sustained injuries, was taken to Zonal Hospital, Mandi, remained admitted there till 13th November, 2003, was referred to Indira Gandhi Medical College and Hospital, Shimla where the claimant was operated upon for neck injury and was discharged on 3rd December, 2003. Thus, the claimant filed the claim petition for compensation to the tune of Rs.10.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. The owner and the driver filed joint reply and resisted the claim petition. The insurer also filed reply and contested the claim petition on the grounds taken in the memo of reply.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed by the Tribunal on 24th August, 2015:

"1. Whether the petitioner had sustained injuries due to the rash and negligent driving of Maruti Car No.HP-22-5911 on 28.10.2003 at place Bagla, being driven by respondent No.2 as alleged? OPP

2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled to and from whom? OPP

3. Whether respondent No.2 was not having a valid and effective driving license at the time of accident? OPR-3

4. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven in contravention of the terms and condition of the Insurance Policy? OPR-3.

5. Relief."

7. In support of his claim, the claimant examined Dr.Manoj Thakur as PW-1, ASI Joginder Pal as PW-2, Suresh Kumar from the office of S.P., Mandi, as PW-3, Dr.Renu Behal as PW-4, while he himself stepped into the witness box as PW-5. On the other hand, the insured/owner, the driver and the insurer have not led any evidence. Thus, the evidence led by the claimant has remained un-rebutted.

8. The Tribunal, after appreciating the pleadings and the evidence, allowed the claim petition, vide the impugned award and saddled the owner and the driver with the liability.

9. Feeling aggrieved, the claimant has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation, while the owner has laid challenge to the impugned award by filing cross objections.

10. Thus, following points arise for determination in the instant lis:

i) Whether the amount awarded is inadequate?

ii) Whether the Tribunal has fallen into an error in discharging the insurer form the liability and directing the owner/insured to satisfy the same?

Point No.i)

11. The claimant has examined PW-4 Dr.Renu Behal, Zonal Hospital, Mandi, who stated that the claimant suffered five injuries and that the injury in the neck was grievous in nature. PW-4 has proved on record the MLC Ext.PW-4/A. The claimant also examined Dr.Manoj Thakur, Associate Professor, Department of Orthopedics, IGMC, Shimla, who stated that he was one of the members of the Medical Board, which issued the disability certificate. The disability certificate has been proved on record as Ext.P-I. A perusal of the disability certificate Ext.P-1 does disclose that the claimant suffered 30% disability, which is permanent in nature and is in regard to the whole body.

12. Thus, this being an injury case, the compensation is to be assessed keeping in view the disability suffered by the claimant i.e. 30%.

13. The Apex Court in R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787 and Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771, has clearly laid down the principles as to how compensation has to be awarded in cases where the claimants have suffered permanent disability and how the assessment is to be made.

14. The Apex Court in its latest decision in Jakir Hussein vs. Sabir and others, (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his/her life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the whole life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.
> 18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

15. The claimant-injured was an Advocate by profession. The disability suffered by the claimant has shattered his physical frame and, in all probabilities, he would not be in a position to do the job of an Advocate, as he would have been doing prior to the accident.

16. It has been pleaded by the claimant in the Claim Petition that he, at the time of accident, was earning Rs.20,000/- per month. No evidence has been led by the claimant in support of his assertion that he was earning Rs.20,000/- by practicing as an Advocate. In the circumstances, the Tribunal has rightly assessed the income of the claimant at Rs.10,000/- per month. However, the Tribunal has fallen into an error in assessing the loss of earning capacity to the tune of only 10% in view of the fact that the claimant suffered 30% permanent disability in regard to whole body. Thus, it can safely be concluded that the claimant lost 20% earning capacity because of the disability suffered by him. Therefore, loss of earning capacity can roughly be said to be Rs.2,000/- per month.

17. The age of the claimant, at the time of accident, was 49 years. The Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of 13 in view of 2nd Schedule attached to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act) and the dictum of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs.

Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120.

18. Having said so, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.2,000 x 12 x 13 = Rs.3,12,000/- under the head loss of future earning capacity.

19. The accident had taken place on 28th October, 2003, the claimant remained admitted till 13th November, 2003 in Zonal Hospital, Mandi, from where was referred to IGMC, Shimla, was operated upon for neck injury and discharged from the hospital on 3rd December, 2003. The discharge certificate has been proved on record as Ext.P-2. Thus, the claimant remained admitted for over one month in the hospital. For recuperation, the claimant would have also remained out of profession after discharge from the hospital. Thus, such period, during which the claimant would have remained out of profession, including the period of hospitalization, can be said to be six months.

20. The income of the claimant has been assessed at Rs.10,000/- per month. Thus, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.10,000/- x 6 = Rs.60,000/- under the head 'loss of earning during treatment'.

21. Discussion in the preceding paragraphs shows that the claimant has suffered a lot and because of the disability suffered by him, has to struggle throughout his life. In the given circumstances, read with the law laid down by the Apex Court, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.50,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings'.

22. Owing to the disability suffered by the claimant, he is deprived of all comforts and amenities of life. Therefore, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.50,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

23. The claimant would have also spent at least 100/- per day i.e. Rs.3,000/- per month on account of special diet during the period of treatment. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.3,000/- x 6 = Rs.18,000/- under the head 'special diet'.

24. In order to prove the expenses incurred by the claimant for purchasing medicines etc., the claimant has only placed on record the photocopies of the medical bills, which have not been proved on record as per law. Therefore, keeping in view the injury sustained by the claimant, hypothetically, it can be said that the claimant would have spent Rs.20,000/- on medicines. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.20,000/- under the head 'medical expenses incurred'.

25. Keeping in view the expert evidence, the claimant has to undergo medical check-ups/treatment, at intervals, throughout his life and I deem it proper to award Rs.10,000/- under the head 'future medical treatment'.

26. During the period of hospitalization and recovery i.e. six months, as has been discussed supra, the claimant would have needed special care and attendance, and would have hired attendant. The attendant charges at the rate of Rs.3,000/- per month, for six months, comes to Rs.18,000/- and the said amount is awarded in favour of the claimant under the head 'attendant charges'.

27. The Tribunal has rightly awarded Rs.3,000/- under the head 'transportation charges' and is maintained.

28. Having glance of the above discussion, the claimant is awarded Rs.5,41,000/- under different heads as given below:

Sl.No.	Heads	Amount
1	Loss of earning during treatment	Rs.60,000/-
2.	Loss of future income	Rs.3,12,000/-

3.	Pain and sufferings	Rs.50,000/-
4.	Loss of amenities of life	Rs.50,000/-
5.	Attendant charges	Rs.18,000/-
6.	Special diet	Rs.18,000/-
7.	Future medical treatment	Rs.10,000/-
8.	Medical expenses incurred	Rs.20,000/-
9.	Transportation charges	Rs.3,000/-
	Total	Rs.*5,41,000/-

29. Point No.i) is answered accordingly and the compensation is enhanced.

Point No.ii)

30. Factum of insurance is admitted. The claimant was traveling in the Maruti Car, thus, was an occupant and was third party. As per Insurance Policy Ext.RX, the seating capacity of the Maruti Car was 1+3, meaning thereby, the risk of the claimant, being an occupant/third party, is covered.

31. The mandate of Sections 146, 147 and 149 of the Act is to protect the rights of third parties and that is why, compulsory duty has been imposed upon the owners to get the vehicles insured, so that, claim of third parties cannot be defeated.

32. The same question arose before the Apex Court in a case titled as S. Iyyapan versus United India Insurance Company Limited and another, reported in (2013) 7 Supreme Court Cases 62. It is apt to reproduce para 16 of the judgment herein:

> "16. The heading "Insurance of Motor Vehicles against Third Party Risks" given in Chapter XI of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (Chapter VIII of 1939 Act) itself shows the intention of the legislature to make third party insurance compulsory and to ensure that the victims of accident arising out of use of motor vehicles would be able to get compensation for the death or injuries suffered. The provision has been inserted in order to protect the persons travelling in vehicles or using the road from the risk attendant upon the user of the motor vehicles on the road. To overcome this ugly situation, the legislature has made it obligatory that no motor vehicle shall be used unless a third party insurance is in force."

33. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a series of cases.

34. Onus to prove issues No.3 and 4 was on the claimant, has failed to discharge. Accordingly, the said issues were decided against the insurer by the Tribunal. The insurer has failed to prove that the owner has committed willful breach of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. The said findings recorded by the Tribunal have not been challenged by the insurer by filing an appeal or cross objections, thus have attained finality.

35. It is not out of place to mention that the Tribunal on one hand has decided issue No.3 against the insurer and held that the insured has not committed any willful breach of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy, and on the other hand, has saddled the insured with the liability.

36. Having glance of the above discussion, the impugned award is modified, the appeal filed by the claimant and the cross objections filed by the owner are allowed, as indicated above, and the insurer is saddled with the liability. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount in the Registry of this Court, alongwith interest, as awarded by the Tribunal, within eight weeks from today and on deposit, the Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, through his bank account. The statutory amount deposited by the owner is also awarded as costs in favour of the claimant. The appeal and the cross objections stand disposed of accordingly.

FAO No.81 of 2012

Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120

For the appellant: Mr.Neel Kamal Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 28th November, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.19 of 2009, titled Geetan Devi and others vs. Devinder Singh, whereby the claim petition was allowed and compensation to the tune of Rs.6,50,000/-, with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the owner/appellant was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them. Feeling aggrieved, the owner has challenged the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

3. Facts of the case, in brief, are that on 7th July, 2009, at about 4.45 p.m., deceased Tilak Raj was crushed by the Motorcycle bearing No.JK-02AE-4687, near Bus Stand, Hamirpur, being driven by the original respondent (appellant herein) rashly and negligently, as a result of which the deceased sustained injuries and succumbed to the same lateron. Claimants filed the claim petition before the Tribunal claiming compensation to the tune of Rs.7.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given therein.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondent by filing reply and following issues came to be framed:

"1. Whether the death of Tilak Raj alias Uttam Chand was caused due to rash and negligent driving of Motorcycle No.JK-02AE-4687, by its owner-cum-driver, Devinder Singh, at the relevant time, as alleged?

2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners/claimants are entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP

3. Relief."

5. The claimants examined as many as eight witnesses. One of the claimants namely, Naresh Shama, stepped into the witness box as PW-7. On the other hand, respondent Devinder Singh appeared as RW-1 and also examined one Sunil Sharma as RW-2.

6. The Tribunal, after examining the pleadings and the evidence, allowed the claim petition and saddled the owner with the liability, as detailed above.

7. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant-owner argued that the Tribunal has wrongly saddled him with the liability as the driver/owner had not caused the accident. Though FIR was lodged against the driver, but he now stands acquitted of the charge. Secondly, it was submitted that the amount awarded by the Tribunal is excessive.

8. Heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

9. In regard to the accident, FIR No.218, dated 7th July, 2009, was lodged at Police Station, Sadar, District Hamirpur, H.P. and the same has been proved on record as Ext.PW-1/A. The challan i.e. final report in terms of Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was presented before the court of competent jurisdiction. While answering issue No.1 in favour of the claimants and against the respondent/owner, the Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraphs 8 to 15, are borne out from the records and are accordingly upheld.

10. As far as issue No.2 is concerned, the same pertains to the quantum of compensation. The deceased was 59 years of age at the time accident. It was pleaded in the claim petition that the deceased was earning Rs.25,000/- per month by maintaining accounts of various persons/firms. Besides this, the deceased was also earning Rs.5,000/- per month from agricultural activities. However, the Tribunal after referring to the statements of witnesses examined by the claimants and the evidence brought on record, assessed the monthly income of the deceased at Rs.10,000/-. The Tribunal has discussed the evidence meticulously in paragraphs 16 to 25 and has rightly assessed the income of the deceased at Rs.1,20,000/- per annum. After deducting 1/3rd from the total income of the deceased, loss of source of dependency to the claimants, per annum, can be said to be Rs.80,000/-.

11. The deceased was 59 years of age. The Tribunal has fallen into an error in applying the multiplier of 8, instead, in view of the law expounded by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120 and the 2nd Schedule attached with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, multiplier of 6 was just and appropriate and is applied accordingly.

12. In view of the above discussion, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.80,000/- x 6 = Rs.4,80,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency. In addition, the claimants are also held entitled to Rs.10,000/- each i.e. Rs.40,000/- in all under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

13. Thus, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.4,80,000/- + Rs.40,000/- = Rs.5,20,000/-.

14. Having said so, the impugned award is modified, as indicated above. The appellant is directed to deposit the amount in the Registry of this Court within eight weeks from today, alongwith interest as awarded by the Tribunal, and on deposit, the Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants strictly in terms of the impugned award.

15. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

For the appellants: Mr. Vikrant Thakur and Mr. Purshotam Chaudhary, Advocates.
For the respondents: Mr.Pushpender Jaswal, Advocate, for respondent No.1
Mr. Onkar Jairath, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 3.3.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC Petition No.03 of 2010, titled Sanjay Kumar versus H.R. T.C. and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.5,45,000/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and HRTC was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Claimant has not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to him.

3. The H.R.T.C. has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Claimant being the victim of a vehicular accident, filed claim petition before the tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 20 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on account of the injuries suffered by him due to rash and negligent driving of HRTC Bus driver, namely, Sukh Dev, while driving HRTC Bus No. HP-36-A-7505 at Kaloor, was taken to hospital at Nadaun and thereafter shifted on the same day to Dayanand Medical College hospital Ludhiana where he remained admitted till 21.10.2009.

5. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether the petitioner has suffered injuries due to use/rash and negligent driving of Bus No. HP-36-A-7505 by its driver-respondent No. 3 as alleged? OPP
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner/claimant is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? OPP
3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form? OPRs.
4. Whether the petitioner is estopped from filing the present petition by his act and conduct? OPRs.
5. Relief.

6. Claimants have examined the witnesses and the Tribunal, after scanning the evidence oral as well as documentary, held that the driver has driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. The driver has not questioned the said findings. Thus, the appellant cannot question the same. However, I have gone through the pleadings and evidence. FIR Ext. PW1/A does disclose that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

7. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 and 4. It was for the appellant to lead evidence, has not led any evidence. Thus, failed to discharge the onus. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paras 17 and 18 of the impugned award and decided the issues against the appellant, needs no interference.

8. It is beaten law of land that the compensation is to be awarded in an injury case under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

9. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787, and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771.

10. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

11. The Apex Court in its latest decision in Jakir Hussein vs. Sabir and others, (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the entire life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.

18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

12. The injured was 27 years of age at the time of accident, was admitted in the hospital from 23.8.2009 to 21.10.2009. The claimant examined PW3 Dr. R.K. Kaushal who is Head of neurosurgery department in DMC Hospital Ludhiana, who deposed that the injured was deeply comatosed. C.T. Scan of his head was done which showed fluid on left side of brain. He was operated twice. Bone flap was placed on the head on 29.9.2009 and after treatment he was discharged on 21.10.2009. He has further stated that the claimant was coming on for regular follow up after every 4-6 weeks. He is having difficulty in speaking and walking. Discharge summary Ext. PW3/A and other certificates Ext. PW3/B and Ext. PW3/C do disclose that the claimant has become permanently disabled and has lost charm of his life. The bill Ext. PW3/D do disclose that the claimant had spent Rs.1,94,428/- on his treatment in DMC Ludhiana. The tribunal has rightly made discussion in paras 10 to 15 of the impugned award and has given the details how the claimant is entitled to compensation.

13. It is apt to record herein that the learned counsel for the appellant was not in a position to indicate how the Tribunal has fallen in an error in making assessment. In fact he has not disputed the impugned award to that effect.

14. The entire evidence on the record do disclose that the claimant has to suffer forever life. The injuries have shattered his physical frame and he has lost amenities of life.

15. I have gone through the impugned award. The amount awarded is adequate needs no interference.

16. Accordingly, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

17. The HRTC-appellant is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest, as awarded by the Tribunal, within eight weeks from today in the Registry, if not deposited. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in his bank account, after proper verification.

18. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Both these appeals are outcome of one award, hence are taken up together for disposal by this common judgment.

2. Both these appeals are directed against the judgment and award dated 19.6.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC Petition No.5-S/2 of 2010, titled Sh. Ram Parkash versus Sh. Rajinder Singh and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.6,70,000/- alongwith costs assessed at Rs.5000/-, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and insurer was saddled with the liability, with direction to deposit the amount within two months, in default had to satisfy the amount with simple interest @ 9% from the date of claim petition, on the grounds taken in the memo of appeals.

3. Claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for the grant of compensation as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, which was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether petitioner suffered injuries on account of rash and negligent driving of vehicle by the respondent No.2.OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved, to what amount of compensation and from whom is the petitioner entitled to? OPP
3. Whether the respondent No. 2 had not been in possession of a valid and effective driving licence, if so, with what effect? OPR-3.
4. Whether the petitioner was travelling as gratuitous passenger in the vehicle, if so, with what effect? OPR-3.
5. Relief.

4. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimant has proved that the respondent No. 2 before the Tribunal, namely, Mohan Lal has driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently in which the claimant sustained the injuries and became permanently disabled to the extent of 40%. The findings on issue No. 1 are not in dispute are accordingly upheld.

5. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 and 4.

Issues No. 3 and 4.

6. It was for the appellant/insurer to plead and prove both the issues, has not led any evidence, thus failed to discharge the onus. It is also apt to record herein that the learned counsel for the insurer has not seriously contested issue No.4. There is nothing on the record to indicate that the injured was travelling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion from paras 26 to 28 of the impugned award, needs no interference. Accordingly, the findings returned on these issues by the Tribunal, are upheld.

Issue No.2.

7. Admittedly, the deceased was 25 years of age at the time of accident, FIR Ext. PW3/A was lodged and he was taken to IGMC Shimla where he remained under treatment for a pretty long time, was operated, discharged and had to undergo follow up for long period. The Tribunal has reproduced the statements of PW4 Dr. Ravinder Mokta and PW5 Dr. L.R. Verma in the impugned award. Thus, I deem it proper not to reproduce the same in this judgment. Dr. Ravinder Mokta (PW4) has stated that the claimant has sustained the permanent disability to the extent of 40% in terms of disability certificate Ext. PW4/A.

8. The question is-whether the compensation has been rightly assessed by the Tribunal?.

9. It is beaten law of land that the compensation is to be awarded in an injury case under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

10. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787, and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771.

11. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

12. The Apex Court in its latest decision in Jakir Hussein vs. Sabir and others, (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the entire life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

"11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.

18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

13. The disability has affected his earning capacity in toto for one year and it has also affected his earning capacity to the extent of 50% for ever. The Tribunal has held the injured as skilled labourer, earning Rs.5000/- per month at that time. It appears that the Tribunal has fallen in an error. At the relevant point of time, at best, a labourer would have been earning Rs.4000/- per month while making a guess work. The claimant has suffered 40-50% disability and it can safely be held that the claimant has lost source of income to the tune of Rs.2000/- per month, was 25 years of age, the multiplier applicable is "15".

14. Thus, the claimant is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.2000x12x15= Rs.3,60,000/-, under the head "loss of future income."

15. The Tribunal has rightly awarded a sum of Rs.75000/- on account of cost of medical treatment past and prospective, Rs.5,000/- on account of travel expenses, Rs.20,000/- on account of attendant charges for six months and Rs.10,000/- on account of physical pain and shock.

16. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in not awarding compensation for loss of amenities of life. Thus, the claimant also held entitled to Rs.50,000/- for loss of amenities of life.

17. Thus, in all, the claimant is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.3,60,000/-+Rs.75000/-+Rs.5000/-+Rs.20,000/ +Rs.10,000/- + Rs.50,000/- = Total Rs.5,20,000/-., with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of impugned award on the amount of Rs.3,60,000/- and from the date of claim petition on the amount of Rs.1,60,000/-.

18. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest @ 7.5% as indicated hereinabove, within eight weeks from today in the Registry, if not already deposited. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in his bank account, after proper verification. Excess amount, if any be release in favour of the appellant-insurer through payees cheque account.

19. Viewed thus, impugned award is modified as indicated hereinabove and the appeals are disposed of accordingly, alongwith pending applications, if any.

20. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- It was contended that Tribunal fell in error in assessing compensation under the head loss of earning/future income and in granting interest from the date of filing of the claim petition- the injured was a student aged 14 years – he had sustained 15% permanent disability – his right leg was operated – it can be safely held that after attaining the age of majority, he would have earned atleast Rs.4,000/- per month- he is working as a driver and his income can be taken as Rs.6,000/- per month- the loss under the future head will be Rs.600/- per month – multiplier of 12 is applicable and claimant is entitled to Rs.600 x 12 x 15= Rs. 1,08,000/- under the head loss of earning/future income- Rs.10,000/- awarded under the head medical expenses for the future medical treatment- interest awarded on all heads except the future income from the date of claim petition and on the future income from the date of the award. For the Respondents: Mr. Dinesh Bhanot, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.

Mr. Piyush, Advocate vice Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 & 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the judgment and award, dated 6th July, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, District Solan, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 41/NL/2 of 2008, titled as Rakesh Kumar alias Suresh Kumar versus Ashok Dharmani & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,35,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-injured and insurer was saddled with liability (for short 'the impugned award').

2. The claimant-injured, owner-insured and driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in assessing compensation under the head 'loss of earning/future income' and in granting interest under the aforesaid head from the date of filing of the claim petition.

5. Admittedly, the claimant-injured was a student of the age of 14 years at the time of accident and was a minor. He suffered 15% permanent disability in terms of Disability Certificate Ext. PW-1/A. PW-1, Dr. Amarjeet Singh has given details of the injuries suffered by the claimant-injured in his statement before the Tribunal.

6. I have gone through the record. The claimant-injured remained admitted in the hospital w.e.f. 16.08.2008 to 04.09.2008 and his right leg was got operated.

7. By guess work, it can safely be held that on attaining the age of majority, he would have earned at least Rs. 4,000/- per month.

8. At this stage, learned Counsel for the claimant-injured stated at the Bar that at present, the claimant-injured is working as a driver.

9. In the given circumstances, at the best, the monthly income of the claimant can be taken as Rs. 6,000/-. Thus, loss under the head 'future income' comes to Rs. 600/- per month.

10. The multiplier of '12' is applicable in this case in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120.

11. Thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 600 x 12 x 15 = Rs. 108,000/- under the head 'loss of earning/future income'.

12. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in not granting compensation under the head 'expenses for future treatment'.

13. Accordingly, I deem it proper to award Rs. 10,000/- under the head 'medical expenses for future treatment'.

14. The compensation amount awarded by the Tribunal under the other heads is not challenged. Accordingly, the amount awarded under the other heads is maintained.

15. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding interest 7.5% per annum under all the heads from the date of the claim petition. Interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum was to be awarded for all heads except for future income from the date of the claim petition and for future income, it was to be awarded from the date of impugned award.

16. Accordingly, the claimant-injured is held entitled to total compensation under the following heads:

1.	Loss of earning/future income	Rs. 108,000/-
2.	Medical expenses	Rs. 10,000/-
3.	Loss of amenities of life	Rs. 75,000/-
4.	Attendant charges	Rs. 25,000/-
5.	Pain and sufferings	Rs. 40,000/-
6.	Special diet and nutrition	Rs. 5,000/-
7.	Medical expenses on future treatment	Rs. 10,000/-
	Total:	Rs. 2,73,000/-

17. On the aforesaid amount of compensation, interest @ 7.5% per annum is payable for all heads except for future income from the date of the claim petition and under the head 'loss of earning/future income', it is payable from the date of impugned award.

18. The Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimant-injured, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing it in his account. The excess amount be refunded to the insurance company through payees' cheque account or by depositing it in its bank account.

19. Accordingly, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of.

20. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the file of the claim petition.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the judgment and award, dated 4th June, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Sirmour, District Sirmour at Nahan, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 49-MAC/2 of 2009, titled as Smt. Shanti Devi & others versus Kuldeep Singh & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,70,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the legal heirs of the owner-insured were saddled with liability (for short 'the impugned award').

2. The claimants, insurer and driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The legal heirs of the insured-owner have questioned the impugned award on the grounds that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in discharging the insurer from liability and saddling them with the same.

4. The entire controversy in this appeal revolves around Issues No. 4 & 5 framed by the Tribunal in the claim petition. It is apt to reproduce the aforesaid issues herein:

> "4. Whether the driver of the vehicle did not possess a valid and effective driving licence at the relevant time, as alleged? …OPR-3
> 5. Whether the vehicle was being plied without a valid permit and in violation of the terms and conditions of insurance policy, as alleged? …OPR-3.

5. Admittedly, the driver was having driving licence to drive the 'light motor vehicle' and vehicle involved in the accident was Three Wheeler bearing No. HP-50-0102, which falls within the definition of 'light motor vehicle' in terms of Section 2(21) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for short 'the MV Act'.

6. A Division Bench of the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir at Srinagar, of which I (Justice Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice) was a member, in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Muhammad Sidiq Kuchey & ors., being LPA No. 180 of 2002, decided on 27th September, 2007, has discussed this issue and held that a driver having licence to drive "LMV" requires no "PSV" endorsement. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of the judgment herein:

> "The question now arises as to whether the driver who possessed driving licence for driving abovementioned vehicles, could he drive a passenger vehicle? The answer, I find, in the judgment passed by this court in case titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Irfan Sidiq Bhat, 2004 (II) SLJ 623, wherein it is held that Light Motor Vehicle includes transport vehicle and transport vehicle includes public service vehicle and public service vehicle includes any motor vehicle used or deemed to be used for carriage of passengers. Further held, that the authorization of having PSV endorsement in terms of Rule 41 (a) of the Rules is not required in the given circumstances. It is profitable to reproduce paras 13 and 17 of the judgment hereunder:-
> > "13. A combined reading of the above provisions leaves no room for doubt that by virtue of licence, about which there is no dispute, both Showkat Ahamd and Zahoor Ahmad were competent in terms of section 3 of the Motor Vehicles Act to drive a public service vehicle without any PSV endorsement and express authorization in terms of rule 4(1)(a) of the State Rules. In other words, the requirement of the State Rules stood satisfied.
> > 17. In the case of Mohammad Aslam Khan (CIMA no. 87 of 2002) Peerzada Noor-ud-Din appearing as witness on behalf of Regional Transport Officer did say on recall for further examination that PSV endorsement on the licence of Zahoor Ahmad was fake. In our opinion, the fact that the PSV endorsement on the licence was fake is not at all material, for, even if the claim is considered on the premise that there was no PSV endorsement on the licence, for the reasons stated above, it would not materially affect the claim. By virtue of "C to E" licence Showkat Ahmad was competent to drive a passenger vehicle. In fact, there is no separate definition of passenger vehicle or passenger service vehicle in the Motor Vehicles Act. They come within the ambit of public service vehicle under section 2(35). A holder of driving licence with respect to "light Motor Vehicle" is thus competent to drive any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for carriage of passengers i.e. a public service vehicle."

In the given circumstances of the case PSV endorsement was not required at all."

7. The mandate of Sections 2 and 3 of the MV Act came up for consideration before the Apex Court in a case titled as Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791, and after examining the various provisions of the MV Act held that Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on the driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle, which he intends to drive. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 and 23 of the judgment herein:

"19. Section 2(2) of the Act defines articulated vehicle which means a motor vehicle to which a semi-trailer is attached; Section 2(34) defines public place; Section 2(44) defines 'tractor' as a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load; Section 2(46) defines `trailer' which means any vehicle, other than a semi- trailer and a side-car, drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Section 3 of the Act provides for necessity for driving license; Section 5 provides for responsibility of owners of the vehicle for contravention of Sections 3 and 4; Section 6 provides for restrictions on the holding of driving license; Section 56 provides for compulsion for having certificate of fitness for transport vehicles; Section 59 empowers the State to fix the age limit of the vehicles; Section 66 provides for necessity for permits to ply any vehicle for any commercial purpose; Section 67 empowers the State to control road transport; Section 112 provides for limits of speed; Sections 133 and 134 imposes a duty on the owners and the drivers of the vehicles in case of accident and injury to a person; Section 146 provides that no person shall use any vehicle at a public place unless the vehicle is insured. In addition thereto, the Motor Vehicle Taxation Act provides for imposition of passenger tax and road tax etc.

23. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving license for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables the Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licenses for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said Section. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are 'goods carriage', 'heavy goods vehicle', 'heavy passenger motor vehicle', 'invalid carriage', 'light motor vehicle', 'maxi-cab', 'medium goods vehicle', 'medium passenger motor vehicle', 'motor-cab', 'motorcycle', 'omnibus', 'private service vehicle', 'semi- trailer', 'tourist vehicle', 'tractor', 'trailer' and 'transport vehicle'."

8. The Apex Court in another case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 906, has also discussed the purpose of amendments, which were made in the year 1994 and the definitions of 'light motor vehicle', 'medium goods vehicle' and the necessity of having a driving licence. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 14 and 16 of the judgment herein:

"8. Mr. S.N. Bhat, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that the contention raised herein by the appellant has neither been raised before the Tribunal nor before the High Court. In any event, it was urged, that keeping in view the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' as contained in Section 2(21) of the Motor vehicles Act, 1988 ('Act' for short), a light goods carriage would come within the purview thereof.

A 'light goods carriage' having not been defined in the Act, the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' clearly indicates that it takes within its umbrage, both a transport vehicle and a non-transport vehicle.

Strong reliance has been placed in this behalf by the learned counsel in Ashok Gangadhar Maratha vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [1999 (6) SCC 620].

9. .....

10. .....

11. .....

14. Rule 14 prescribes for filing of an application in Form 4, for a licence to drive a motor vehicle, categorizing the same in nine types of vehicles.

Clause (e) provides for 'Transport vehicle' which has been substituted by G.S.R. 221(E) with effect from 28.3.2001. Before the amendment in 2001, the entries medium goods vehicle and heavy goods vehicle existed which have been substituted by transport vehicle. As noticed hereinbefore, Light Motor Vehicles also found place therein.

15. .....

16. From what has been noticed hereinbefore, it is evident that 'transport vehicle' has now been substituted for 'medium goods vehicle' and 'heavy goods vehicle'. The light motor vehicle continued, at the relevant point of time, to cover both, 'light passenger carriage vehicle' and 'light goods carriage vehicle'.

A driver who had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle, therefore, was authorised to drive a light goods vehicle as well."

9. The Apex Court in the latest judgment in the case titled as Kulwant Singh & Ors. versus Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in JT 2014 (12) SC 110, held that PSV endorsement is not required.

10. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a series of cases.

11. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the relevant point of time. Accordingly, Issue No. 4 is decided in favour of the driver and owner-insured and against the insurer.

12. It was for the insurer to prove this issue, has not led any evidence, thus has failed to discharge the onus. Accordingly, this issue is also decided in favour of the driver and owner-insured and against the insurer.

13. Having said so, the impugned award is modified by holding that the insurer has to satisfy the impugned award.

14. The insurer is directed to deposit the award amount alongwith interest, within a period of eight weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

15. Learned Counsel for the appellants-legal heirs of the owner-insured stated at the Bar that the entire award amount stands deposited before the Registry.

16. The amount deposited by the appellants/legal heirs of the owner-insured be released in their favour through payees' account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

17. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

C.S. No. 44 of 2013.
Judgment reserved on: 10.11.2016
Date of Decision: 18.11.2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 2 Rule 2- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of money – he had already instituted a suit in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kangra prior to the institution of the present suit – held, that the defendant should not be vexed time and again for the same cause by splitting the claim and causes of action - while determining whether the subsequent suit is barred or not, the Court has to find out whether the claim in the new suit is founded upon a cause of action which was the foundation in the former suit – the burden is upon the defendant to prove the identity of the cause of action in the two suits – plaintiff had filed the earlier suit for declaration and permanent injunction for restraining the defendant from leaving the services of Kangra Valley Hospital in violation of the agreement executed between the parties- the present suit has been filed for damages on the ground of cancellation of the agreement – the plea raised in the suit was available at the time of filing of the earlier suit – the plaintiff had not sought the relief, which was available to him and plaintiff is clearly precluded from instituting the suit – the suit is held to be barred by Order 2 Rule 2 and is dismissed. For the Plaintiff — Ms. Bhavana Datta, Advocate.
For the Defendant — Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Ajeet Pal Singh Jaswal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The plaintiff has filed the instant suit for recovery of Rs. 63,58,827/- alongwith future interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date of institution of the suit till payment thereof.

2. It is not in dispute that before filing this suit, the plaintiff had already instituted a suit in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kangra, H.P.

3. This Court on 25.9.2014 framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree of Rs. 63,58,827/- alongwith interest @18% per annum against the defendant? OPP

2. Whether the suit is not maintainable in its present form? OPD

3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in view of Order 2 Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure, if so, its effect? OPD

4. Whether the plaintiff has no enforceable cause of action to file and maintain the present suit, if so, its effect? OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file and maintain the present suit on account of his act, deeds, conduct and acquiescence, if so, its effect? OPD

6. Relief.

4. Issue No.3 was treated as preliminary issue. The defendant on 4.12.2014 tendered documents Ex.D-1 to D-4 and closed her evidence and thereafter from one reason or the other, the plaintiff did not lead his evidence and it is eventually on 15.7.2016 that the statement of one witness was recorded and thereafter the plaintiff closed his evidence.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case carefully.

Issue No.3.

5. Before going into the factual aspects, it would be necessary to advert to the legal position.

6. In Gurubux Singh vs. Bhooralal, 1964 AIR (SC) 1810, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "6. In order that a plea of a bar under 0. 2. r. 2(3), Civil Procedure Code should succeed the defendant who raises the plea must make out (1) that the second suit was in respect of the same cause of action as that on which the previous suit was based, (2) that in respect of that cause of action the plaintiff was entitled to more than one relief, (3) that being thus entitled to more than one relief the plaintiff, without leave obtained from the Court, omitted to sue for the relief for which the second suit had been filed. From this analysis it would be seen that the defendant would have to establish primarily and to start with, the precise cause of action upon which the previous suit was filed, for unless there is identity between the cause of action on which the earlier suit was filed and that on which the claim in the later suit is based there would be no scope for the application of the bar. No doubt, a relief which is sought in a plaint could ordinarily be traceable to a particular cause of action but this might, by no means, be the universal rule. As the plea is a technical bar it has to be established satisfactorily and cannot be presumed merely on basis of inferential reasoning. It is for this reason that we consider that a plea of a bar under 0. 2. r. 2, Civil Procedure Code can be established only if the defendant files in evidence the pleadings in the previous suit and thereby proves to the Court the identity of the cause of action in the two suits."

7. In Sidramappa vs. Rajashetty and others 1970 AIR (SC), 1059, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "7. The High Court and the trial court proceeded on the erroneous basis that the former suit was a suit for a declaration of the plaintiff's title to the lands mentioned in Schedule I of the plaint. The requirement of Order 2, rule 2, Code of Civil Procedure is that every suit should include the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in in respect of a cause of action. - 'Cause of action' means the 'cause of action for which the suit was brought'. It cannot be Said that the cause of action on which the present suit was brought is the same as that in the previous suit. Cause of action is a cause of action which gives occasion for and forms the foundation of the suit. If that cause, ,of action enables a person to ask for a larger and wider relief than that to which he limits his claim, he cannot afterwards seek to recover the balance by independent proceedings(See. Mohd. Hafiz vs. Mohd. Zakaria, 1922, AIR (PC) 23.)"

8. In Kewal Singh vs. Mt. Lajwanti, 1980 AIR (SC) 161, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"5. A perusal of Order 2 Rule 2 would clearly reveal that this provision applies to cases where a plaintiff omits to sue a portion of the cause of action on which the suit is based either by relinquishing the cause of action or by omitting a part of it. The provision has, therefore, no application to cases where the plaintiff basis his suit on separate and distinct causes of action and chooses to relinquish one or the other of them. In such cases, it is always open to the plaintiff to file a fresh suit on the basis of a distinct cause of action which he may have so relinquished."

9. In Bengal Waterproof Ltd. vs. Bombay Waterproof Mfg. Co. 1997 AIR (SC) 1398, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"8. As seen earlier, Order 2 Rule 2 sub-rule (3) requires that the cause of action in the earlier suit must be the same on which the subsequent suit is based and unless there is identity of causes of action in both the suits the bar of Order 2 Rule 2 sub-rule (3) will not get attracted.

20. In cases of continuous causes of action or recurring causes of action bar of Order 2 Rule 2 sub-rule (3) cannot be invoked. In this connection it is profitable to have a lock at Section 22 of the Limitation Act, 1963. It lays down that `in the case of a continuing tort, a fresh period of limitation begins to run at every moment of the time during which the beach or the tort, as the case may be, continues'."

10. In Kunjan Nair Sivaraman Nair vs. Narayanan Nair and others 2004 AIR (SC) 1761, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"10. Order II Rule 2, sub-rule (3) requires that the cause of action in the earlier suit must be the same on which the subsequent suit is based. Therefore, there must be identical cause of action in both the suits, to attract the bar of Order II sub-rule (3). The illustrations given under the rule clearly brings out this position. Above is the ambit and scope of the provision as highlighted in Gurbux Singh's case (supra) by the Constitution Bench and in Bengal Waterproof Limited (supra). The salutary principle behind Order II Rule 2 is that a defendant or defendants should not be vexed time and again for the same cause by splitting the claim and the reliefs for being indicated in successive litigations. It is, therefore, provided that the plaintiff must not abandon any part of the claim without the leave of the Court and must claim the whole relief or entire bundle of reliefs available to him in respect of that very same cause of action. He will thereafter be precluded from so doing in any subsequent litigation that he may commence if he has not obtained the prior permission of the Court."

11. In N.V. Srinivasa Murthy and others vs. Mariyamma (dead) by Proposed LRs and Others, 2005 AIR (SC) 2897, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"13. In paragraph 11 of the plaint, the plaintiffs have stated that they had earlier instituted original suit No.557 of 1990 seeking permanent injunction against defendants and the said suit was pending when the present suit was filed. Whatever relief the petitioners desired to claim from the civil court on the basis of averment with regard to the registered sale deed of 1953 could and ought to have been claimed in original civil suit No.557 of 1990 which was pending at that time. The second suit claiming indirectly relief of declaration and injunction is apparently barred by Order 2, Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure."

12. In Alka Gupta vs. Narender Kumar Gupta, (2010) 10 SCC 141, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"18. Further, while considering whether a second suit by a party is barred by Order 2 Rule 2 of the Code, all that is required to be seen is whether the reliefs claimed in both suits arose from the same cause of action. The court is not expected to go into the merits of the claim and decide the validity of the second claim. The strength of the second case and the conduct of plaintiff are not relevant for deciding whether the second suit is barred by Order 2 Rule 2 of the Code."

13. In Inbasagaran and another vs. S. Natarajan (dead) through Legal Representatives (2014) 11 SCC 12, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"20. Indisputably, cause of action consists of a bundle of facts which will be necessary for the plaintiff to prove in order to get a relief from the Court. However, because the causes of action for the two suits are different and distinct and the evidences to support the relief in the two suits are also different then the provisions of Order 2 Rule 2 CPC will not apply."

14. In Rathnavathi and another vs. Kavita Ganashamdas, (2015) 5 SCC 223, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"26. One of the basic requirements for successfully invoking the plea of Order II Rule 2 of CPC is that the defendant of the second suit must be able to show that the second suit was also in respect of the same cause of action as that on which the previous suit was based. As mentioned supra, since in the case on hand, this basic requirement in relation to cause of action is not made out, the defendants (appellants herein) are not entitled to raise a plea of bar contained in Order II Rule 2 of CPC to successfully non suit the plaintiff from prosecuting her suit for specific performance of the agreement against the defendants.

27. Indeed when the cause of action to claim the respective reliefs were different so also the ingredients for claiming the reliefs, we fail to appreciate as to how a plea of Order II Rule 2 could be allowed to be raised by the defendants and how it was sustainable on such facts.

28. We cannot accept the submission of learned senior counsel for the appellants when she contended that since both the suits were based on identical pleadings and when cause of action to sue for relief of specific performance of agreement was available to the plaintiff prior to filing of the first suit, the second suit was hit by bar contained in Order II Rule 2 of CPC.

29. The submission has a fallacy for two basic reasons. Firstly, as held above, cause of action in two suits being different, a suit for specific performance could not have been instituted on the basis of cause of action of the first suit. Secondly, merely because pleadings of both suits were similar to some extent did not give any right to the defendants to raise the plea of bar contained in Order II Rule 2 of CPC. It is the cause of action which is material to determine the applicability of bar under Order II Rule 2 and not merely the pleadings. For these reasons, it was not necessary for plaintiff to obtain any leave from the court as provided in Order II Rule 2 of CPC for filing the second suit.

30. Since the plea of Order II Rule 2, if upheld, results in depriving the plaintiff to file the second suit, it is necessary for the court to carefully examine the entire factual matrix of both the suits, the cause of action on which the suits are founded, reliefs claimed in both the suits and lastly the legal provisions applicable for grant of reliefs in both the suits."

15. From the aforesaid exposition of law, it can safely be concluded that the salutary principle behind Order 2 Rule 2 is that a defendant or defendants should not be vexed time and again for the same cause by splitting the claim and the reliefs for being indicated in successive litigations. One of the objects of Order 2 Rule 2 is to avoid multiplicity of proceedings.

16. Sub-rule (1) to Rule 2 deals with the frame of the suit and enables the plaintiff to abandon or relinquish a part of his claim before filing his plaint. The provisions of Order 2 Rule 2 indicate that if a plaintiff is entitled to several reliefs against the defendant in respect of the same cause of action, it cannot spilt up the claim so as to omit one part of the claim and sue for the other. It is, therefore, provided that the plaintiff must not abandon any part of the claim without the leave of the Court and must claim the whole relief or entire bundle of reliefs available to him in respect of that very same cause of action. He will thereafter be precluded from doing so in any subsequent litigation that he may commerce if he has not obtained the prior permission of the Court.

17. To constitute a bar to fresh suit under Order 2 Rule 2 (3) CPC, three elements are required to be proved. Firstly, it must be established that the second suit was in respect of the same cause of action as that on which the previous suit was based; secondly, in respect of that cause of action the plaintiff is entitled to more than one relief and lastly, that being so, the plaintiff without leave obtained from the Court, omitted to sue for the relief for which the second suit has been filed.

18. The correct test in cases falling under Order 2 Rule 2, is "whether the claim in the new suit is in fact founded upon a cause of action distinct from that which was the foundation for the former suit."

19. "Cause of action" means the bundle of facts which the plaintiff must prove in order to succeed in his action. The cause of action for which the suit was brought means, the cause of action, which gives occasion for and forms the foundation of the suit. Generally stated, the cause of action means every fact which is necessary to establish to support a right or obtain judgment. Another shade of meaning is that a cause of action means every fact which will be necessary for the plaintiff to prove (if traversed). The cause of action for the purpose of this Rule means all the essential facts constituting the right of its infringement. In other words, the cause of action consists of all the facts which are essential for the plaintiff to allege and to establish, if denied or controverted, for instance, the bundle of facts which taken with the law applicable to them gives him a right of some relief against the defendant.

20. The burden is on the defendant to establish that the subsequent suit is founded on a cause of action which is identical with that of which the earlier suit was founded. If the cause of action which is identical with that of which the earlier suit was founded. If the cause of action and the relief claimed in the second suit are not the same as the cause of action and relief claimed in the first suit, the second suit is not barred. It is settled law that when the cause of action and the relief claimed in the second suit are not the same as the cause of action and the relief claimed in the first suit, the second suit cannot be considered to have been brought in respect of the same subject matter.

21. A plea of bar under Order 2 Rule 2 is a highly technical plea. It tends to defeat justice and to deprive the party of a legitimate right. Therefore, care must be taken to see that complete identity of cause of action is established. It has to be established satisfactorily and cannot be presumed merely on basis of inferential reasoning. Since the plea of Order 2 Rule 2, if upheld, results in depriving the plaintiff to file the second suit, it is necessary for the court to carefully examine the entire factual matrix of both the suits, the cause of action on which the suits are founded, reliefs claimed in both the suits and lastly the legal provisions applicable for grant of reliefs in both the suits.

22. Where the essential requirement for the applicability of Order 2 Rule 2 viz., the identity of the cause of action in the previous suit and subsequent suit is not established, the subsequent suit cannot be said to be barred by Order 2 Rule 2 CPC. Besides identity of cause of action, identity of the plaintiff also be looked into to invoke the bar under this Rule.

23. In case of continuous cause of action or recurring cause of action, bar under Order 2 Rule 2 (3) cannot be invoked.

24. If the cause enables a man to ask for a larger and wider relief than to which he limits his claim, he cannot afterwards seek to recover the balance by independent proceedings. Where the cause of action for seeking a particular relief is not available to a plaintiff at the time of filing the earlier suit, the bar under Order 2 Rule 2 is not applicable.

25. Adverting to the facts, it would be noticed that the defendant has placed on record the certified copy of the Civil Suit Ex.D-1 filed earlier before the court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kangra wherein the plaintiff prayed for a decree for declaration with permanent injunction against the defendant restraining her from leaving the services of the Kangra Valley Hospital and going to any other hospital or service in violation of the agreement dated 21.10.2007 executed between the plaintiff and defendant until the determination of the agreement as per the terms and conditions contained therein.

26. It was alleged that the defendant was a doctor by profession and had approached the plaintiff and offered her services to treat patient in the hospital, which was accepted and an agreement was thereafter entered into between the parties containing therein certain stipulations and conditions of service. It was alleged that the defendant had not been performing her duties properly and had not been attending the hospital regularly and had been coming at late hours and would leave early as a result thereof the patients remained unattended. The plaintiff had served a legal notice dated 17.3.2010 but the reply thereof was entirely evasive constraining him to file the earlier suit.

27. Now, coming to the facts of the instant suit, the plaintiff has filed the instant suit for recovery of Rs. 63,58,827/- by way of damages alongwith interest on the allegation that the defendant had approached the plaintiff and thereafter had executed an agreement on 9.7.2007. Though, certain additional averments regarding certain machines equipments etc. having been installed by the plaintiff. However, nonetheless the substantive pleading with regard to the service of legal notice and receipt of reply remain the same in both the suits. The cause of action pleaded in para-6 of the earlier suit reads thus:

> "6. That cause of action arose to the plaintiff in beginning of July 2010 when she threatened to cancel the agreement and to leave plaintiff's hospital and join other hospital or Government institution at Mohal and Mauza Kangra, Tehsil and District Kangra, H.P."

Whereas, the cause of action as pleaded in the instant suit in para 21 reads thus:

> "21. That the cause of action accrued to the plaintiff in his favour and against the defendant firstly on dated 31.3.2010 when the defendant left the Kangra Valley Hospital of the plaintiff at her own sweet will without any notice, secondly, on dated 12.7.2010 when the defendant had served a legal notice on the plaintiff whereby the defendant informed the plaintiff that she is not willing to work in Kangra Valley Hospital and due to which the plaintiff has to suffer the financial losses to the tune of Rs.63,58,827/- as the defendant failed to discharge her duty and got indulged in unfair practices, gross negligence and misconduct and the cause of action is still continuing as the defendant has failed to make payment to the tune of Rs.63,58,827/- with interest @ 18% per annum from the date of institution of the present suit."

28. Ms. Bhavana Datta, learned counsel for the plaintiff would vehemently argue that no doubt the plaintiff had filed the instant suit when the former suit was pending, however, the same was not adjudicated upon merits and therefore nothing prevents the plaintiff from filing the instant suit. She would further argue that once the Court at Kangra admittedly lacked the pecuniary jurisdiction to entertain and try the instant suit, therefore, the instant suit cannot be said to be barred by the principles laid down in Order 2 Rule 2 CPC.

29. On the other hand, Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Ajeet Pal Singh Jaswal, Advocate, learned counsel for the defendant would argue that in case the plaintiff had not chosen to include the relief which was available to him at the time when he filed the earlier suit, this would be relinquishment of claim which will preclude the plaintiff from filing the subsequent suit irrespective of whether the same is adjudicated on merits or not. He would further argue that merely because the Civil Court at Kangra would not have pecuniary jurisdiction cannot be a ground to claim that the suit would not be barred under the aforesaid provision.

30. Order 2 Rule 2 CPC reads thus:

> "2. Suit to include the whole claim.- (1) Every suit shall include the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in respect of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the suit within the jurisdiction of any Court.
> (2) Relinquishment of part of claim—Where a plaintiff omits to sue in respect of, or intentionally relinquishes, any portion of his claim, he shall not afterwards sue in respect of the portion so omitted or relinquished.
> (3) Omission to sue for one of several reliefs—A person entitled to more than one relief in respect of the same cause of action may sue for all or any of such reliefs, but if he omits except with the leave of the court, to sue for all such reliefs, he shall not afterwards sue for any relief so omitted.
> Explanation.- For the purpose of this rule an obligation and a collateral security for its performance and successive claims arising under the same obligation shall be deemed respectively to constitute but one cause of action."

31. It is well settled that in order to attract the bar created by this rule, it is necessary that earlier suit should be founded on the same cause of action on which the subsequent suit is based, and if in the earlier suit the plaintiff omitted to sue in respect of or intentionally relinquished any portion of his claim, he would not be entitled to sue subsequently in respect of the portion of his claim so omitted or relinquished. The bar is not avoided by an expression of intention to sue again. Nor is it avoided, by obtaining leave to sue in respect of the portion so omitted. The reason is that the leave contemplated by this section is the leave to sue for one of the several reliefs, referred to in sub rule (3) and it does not relate to ' the portion so omitted' referred to in sub rule (2).

32. Where a person is entitled to more than one relief in respect of the same cause of action, he may sue for all the reliefs or he may sue for one or more of them and reserve his right with the leave of the court to sue for the rest. However, if no such leave is obtained, he will be precluded from afterwards suing for any relief so omitted.

33. Having given my conscious consideration to the legal position as also to the arguments raised by learned counsel for the parties, I have no hesitation to conclude that it is on the same cause of action that the plaintiff has filed the instant suit. The plea as raised in this suit was already available to him at the time when he filed the earlier suit. Rather, the instant suit is based upon a cause of action of earlier date i.e. 31.3.2010, whereas, the earlier suit is based upon a cause of action of a latter date i.e. July, 2010.Having omitted to sue for the relief which was available to the plaintiff, he is now clearly precluded from raising the same. After all, the defendant cannot vexed twice for the same cause of action.

34. At this stage, it may be noticed that there are some decisions of the different High Courts which indicate that what attracted the bar under Order 2 Rule 2 CPC, the earlier suit should have been decided on merits, but was dismissed in default. However, it would not make a difference as eventually what the plaintiff is seeking is re-litigation and the same clearly defeats the salutary purpose of enacting Order 2 Rule 2 which seeks to usurp and prevent this practice and is based on the principle that no person shall be vexed twice for the same cause of action.

35. In view of the aforesaid discussion, preliminary issue No.3 is answered in favour of the defendant by holding that the instant suit is not maintainable in view of Order 2 Rule 2

CPC and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any. The parties are left to bear their own costs. Decree sheet be drawn accordingly.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since common question of law and facts arise for consideration in these appeals, therefore, they were taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of by way of this common judgment.

2. The brief facts as pleaded are that one Shyam Sukh son of Shri Chhopal Sukh, who was the husband of respondent No. 3 and father of respondents No. 4 and 5 was engaged as work-charged Mate by the Public Works Department in Karchham Sub Division. On 15.6.2004, the deceased had gone by Bus to the headquarter and while coming back in a private bus owned by respondent No. 6 and insured with the petitioner Company, he met with an accident as the bus fell down in Sutluj river and was washed away. The dead body of the deceased was found near Nathpa on 6.7.2004. The employer of the deceased i.e., the Assistant Engineer, H.P.P.W.D, Karchham Sub Division submitted the accident report to the authorities concerned and copy of the same was also sent to the Court of learned Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act-cum-Land Acquisition Collector (in short 'Commissioner') vide endorsement dated 16.6.2004.

3. The claimants thereof filed an application for compensation in Form-F under Rule 20 of the Workmen's Compensation Rules and the said petition was not resisted by respondents No. 1 and 2 rather the liability was admitted on their behalf.

4. Smt. Dev Mani - respondent No. 3 appeared as her own witness before the Commissioner and submitted various documents in support of her claim. The claim was admitted by the Udai Ram, Junior Engineer of the Division concerned and it was admitted that the compensation be paid to the claimants. After recording the evidence, learned Commissioner vide his award dated 23.2.2005 allowed the petition by awarding a sum of Rs. 3,38,880/- alongwith interest at the rate of 12% per annum w.e.f. 15.6.2004 to 23.2.2005 amounting to Rs. 28,299/- and directed the amount to be deposited within two months failing which the award was to carry interest at the rate of 12% till the same was deposited and in addition thereto a further sum not exceeding 50% of such amount was to be recovered as penalty.

5. In the interregnum i.e. before actually filing the claim petition before the Commissioner, the claimants preferred a petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicle Act (in short ' M.V. Act') before the Motor Accident Claim Tribunal (in short 'Tribunal'), Kinnaur, which was registered as MACT Case No. 51 of 2004. This petition was filed with respect to the same accident and with regard to the compensation for the death of Shri Shyam Sukh.

6. This petition came to be decided on 15.3.2015 whereby a compensation of Rs. 3,47,040/- was awarded in favour of the claimants and the same was directed to be deposited within two months from the date of award failing which it was to carry simple interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of award till its realization. The award was passed against the owner of the vehicle i.e. respondent No. 6 on account of the vehicle being insured with the petitioner. It was ultimately the petitioner, who was held liable to indemnify the insured.

7. In the later case the statement of the claimant was recorded on 28.2.2005 and even till then claimant did not disclose that the statement had already been recorded before the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act. That being so, the petitioner was unaware of any award having been passed by the Commissioner under the Act.

8. On coming to know about the award, the petitioner filed review petition before the Motor Accident Claim Tribunal. In the meanwhile, the State of Himachal Pradesh i.e. respondent No. 2 also filed review before the Commissioner for the review of the award dated 23.2.2005 on the ground that petitioners have already been awarded compensation by the Commissioner.

9. On 20.5.2006, the Commissioner recorded the statement of the claimant regarding the option of claim and the claimants by way of a joint petition under Section 151 C.P.C. stating therein that they wish to receive compensation under the award passed by the Tribunal and not from the Commissioner. Commissioner on the basis of such statement passed an order on 26.8.2006, which reads thus:-

"26.8.2006
Case called.
Present: Shri Liak Ram Claimant
Shri Rajiv Kumar JE PWD for PWD
Shri H.K. Sharma, for NIC.

The claimants stated on oath and also through their reply that they have preferred claim under MACT-cum-District Judge, Rampur and do not want to get compensation from Commissioner WC Act, though the award under WC Act has already been announced on 23.2.2005 in favour of the claimants. But the claimants do want to get compensation under MACT from D.J., Rampur. The claimants cannot get claim-compensation from both the forum. Thus, in view of the option of claimants the award passed by this Forum is directed not to be executed or enforced. The amount of money deposited by the respondent be returned to them through Bank draft.

Announced.

Sd/-
Commissioner,
Workmen's Compensation Act."

It is this order which found the subject matter of CWP No. 1283 of 2006.

10. After filing of the aforesaid writ petition CWP No. 1283 of 2006, the review petition filed by the petitioner came up for consideration before the Tribunal, however, the Tribunal vide its order dated 3.7.2007 held the review petition to be not maintainable and accordingly dismissed the same, which has given rise to CWP No. 1788 of 2007.

11. As regards CWP No. 1283 of 2006, the order passed by the Commissioner has been assailed primarily on the ground that it had no jurisdiction to entertain the review petition. In addition to that, it is averred that since the claimants themselves had elected to resort to the remedy available under the Act, it was this award which was binding upon the claimants, more particularly, when it had been passed earlier to the award passed by the Tribunal and was even otherwise more beneficial to the claimants.

12. As regards CWP No. 1788 of 2007, it is directed against the order passed by the Tribunal on 3.7.2007 and it is averred that the view of the Tribunal that it had no jurisdiction to entertain the review petition is totally based on misconception of law.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

13. It is more than settled that normal principle of law is that once a judgment is pronounced or order made, a Court, Tribunal or adjudicating authorities becomes 'functus-officio' ceases to have control over the matter, such judgment or order is 'final' and cannot be altered, changed, verified or modified.

14. It is not in dispute that both the authorities below i.e. Commissioner and Tribunal are specifically constituted under the Act and are not "having plenary powers" but exercising statutory power as conferred under the provisions of the respective Act under which they have been so constituted. They, therefore, cannot act outside or de hors the Act nor can exercise powers not expressly and specifically conferred by law.

15. It is well settled that the power of review is not an inherent power. Right to seek review of an order is neither natural nor fundamental right of any aggrieved party. Such power must be conferred by law, therefore, if there is no power of review the order, cannot be reviewed.

16. In Patel Narshi Thakershi & Ors. vs. Pradyuman Singhji Arjun Singhji, 1971 3 SCC 844, while dealing with the provisions of the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act, 1951 and reference to order 47 Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that there is no inherent power of review with the adjudicating authorities. It was held that it is well settled that "the power of review is not an inherent power. It must be conferred by law either specifically or by necessary implications. No provision in the Act was brought to the notice from which it could be covered that the government had power to review its own order. If the government had no power to review its own order, it is obvious that its delegate could have reviewed its order."

17. A Division Bench of this Court in Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Kala Devi, 1997 ACJ 17 has held that the Commissioner under the Act has no power to review his order. It is apt to reproduce the relevant observations, which reads as under:-

> "10. There is yet another aspect of the case. Admittedly, the claim petition filed by the claimants was disposed of on June 12, 1984 as having been compromised between the parties whereby the claimants had accepted the compensation of Rs. 10,000 in full and final settlement of their claim. The order dated June 12, 1984, dismissing the claim petition as having been compromised was reviewed by the compensation officer and fresh assessment of compensation was made.
> 11. The question which thus arises for consideration is whether the Commissioner under the Act has the power of review.
> 12. A Division Bench of this Court in East India Hotels Ltd. v. Union of India and Ors., C. W. P. No. 155 of 1986, decided on December 29, 1995, while dealing with the power of competent authority to review its order under the provisions of Requisitioning and Acquisition of Immovable Property Act, 1952 by following the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Patel Narshi Thakershi and Ors. v. Pradyumansinghji Arjunsinghji, AIR 1970 SC 1273, has held that the power to review is not an inherent power. It must be conferred by law either specifically or by necessary implication.
> 13. We have perused the provisions of the Act and we are of the opinion that even by implication it cannot be said that the Commissioner under the Act had the power to review. Rather sub-rule (2) of Rule 32 of Workmen's Compensation Rules, 1924 prohibits the review by the Commissioner. This sub-rule provides as under:--
> > "The Commissioner, at the time of signing and dating his judgment, shall pronounce his decision, and thereafter no addition or alteration shall be made to the judgment other than the correction of clerical or arithmetical mistake arising from any accidental slip or omission."

18. The ratio laid down in the aforesaid judgment was thereafter followed by this Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Khub Ram & Anr., 2015 4 ILR 488.

19. Earlier to this, a Division Bench of this Court in LPA No. 109 of 2007, titled Rajinder & Ors. Vs. Gokal Chand & Anr., decided on 2.5.2015, reiterating the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme in Patel Narshi Thakreshi's case (supra) that the powers of review is not inherent power observed as under:-

> "22. That apart, the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner is factually wrong because while construing clause-11 of the Scheme, he failed to make a note of the fact that the embargo prescribed for transfer of the land under the Scheme as per notification No. Rev.2-A(3)11/77 dated 11.9.1980 was 20 years as against 15 years. Therefore, once it is concluded that the proforma respondent could not have transferred the land in favour of appellants within the period of 20 years, the Deputy Commissioner had no other option but should have cancelled the land allotted in favour of the appellants and should have thereafter recommended to the government for the resumption of the land.
> 23. The order passed by the Deputy Commissioner in the subsequent review petition cannot otherwise be sustained because it is well settled that power of review is not an inherent power. Right to seek review of an order is neither natural nor fundamental right of an aggrieved party. Such power must be conferred by the law. If there is no power of review, the order cannot be reviewed.
> 24. The law on the subject has been succinctly dealt with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kalabharti Advertising vs. Hemant Vimalnath Narichania and others (2010) 9 SCC 437 in the following terms:-
> > "12. It is settled legal proposition that unless the statute/rules so permit, the review application is not maintainable in case of judicial/quasi-judicial orders. In absence of any provision in the Act granting an express power of review, it is manifest that a review could not be made and the order in review, if passed is ultra-vires, illegal and without jurisdiction. It must be conferred by law either expressly/specifically or by necessary implication and in absence of any provision in the Act/Rules, review of an earlier order is impermissible as review is a creation of statute. Jurisdiction of review can be derived only from the statute and thus, any order of review in absence of any statutory provision for the same is nullity being without jurisdiction.

> 25. There is yet another reason why the subsequent order dated 20.11.2000 passed by the Deputy Commissioner in the review petition cannot be sustained. The Deputy Commissioner after pronouncing, notifying and communicating the initial order dated 26.6.2000 became functus officio and could not thereafter revise/ review/ modify the said order. It is only the higher forum that could have varied the order. In observing so, we draw support from the following observations of Hon'ble Supreme Court in State Bank of India and others vs. S.N.Goyal (2008) 8 SCC 92, wherein it has been held as follows:-

> "25. The learned counsel for respondent contended that the Appointing Authority became functus officio once he passed the order dated 18.1.1995 agreeing with the penalty proposed by the Disciplinary Authority and cannot thereafter revise/review/modify the said order. Reliance was placed on the English decision Re : VGM Holdings Ltd, reported in 1941 (3) All. ER page 417 wherein it was held that once a Judge has made an order which has been passed and entered, he becomes functus officio and cannot thereafter vary the terms of his order and only a higher court, tribunal can vary it. What is significant is that decision does not say that the Judge becomes functus officio when he passes the order, but only when the order passed is 'entered'. The term 'entering judgment' in English Law refers to the procedure in civil courts in which a judgment is formally recorded by court after it has been given.
> 26. It is true that once an Authority exercising quasi judicial power, takes a final decision, it cannot review its decision unless the relevant statute or rules permit such review. But the question is as to at what stage, an Authority becomes functus officio in regard to an order made by him. P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advance Law Lexicon (3rd Edition, Vol.2 Pages 1946-47) gives the following illustrative definition of the term 'functus officio' : "Thus a Judge, when he has decided a question brought before him, is functus officio, and cannot review his own decision."
> "Having fulfilled the function, discharged the office, or accomplished the purpose, and therefore, of no further force or authority".
> 28. We may first refer to the position with reference to civil courts. Order XX of Code of Civil Procedure deals with judgment and decree. Rule 1 explains when a judgment is pronounced. Subrule
> (1) provides that the Court, after the case has been heard, shall pronounce judgment in an open court either at once, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, and when the judgment is to be pronounced on some future day, the court shall fix a day for that purpose of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders. Sub-rule (3) provides that the judgment may be pronounced by dictation in an open court to a shorthand writer (if the Judge is specially empowered in this behalf). The proviso thereto provides that where the judgment is pronounced by dictation in open court, the transcript of the judgment so pronounced shall, after making such corrections as may be necessary, be signed by the Judge, bear the date on which it was pronounced and form a part of the record. Rule 3 provides that the judgment shall be dated and signed by the Judge in open court at the time of pronouncing it and when once signed, shall not afterwards be altered or added to save as provided by section 152 or on review. Thus where a judgment is reserved, mere dictation does not amount to pronouncement, but where the judgment is dictated in open court, that itself amounts to pronouncement. But even after such pronouncement by open court dictation, the Judge can make corrections before signing and dating the judgment. Therefore, a Judge becomes functus officio when he pronounces, signs and dates the judgment (subject to section 152 and power of review). The position is different with reference to quasi judicial authorities. While some quasi judicial tribunals fix a day for pronouncement and pronounce their orders on the day fixed, many quasi judicial authorities do not pronounce their orders. Some publish or notify their orders. Some prepare and sign the orders and communicate the same to the party concerned. A quasi judicial authority will become functus officio only when its order is pronounced, or published/notified or communicated (put in the course of transmission) to the party concerned. When an order is made in an office noting in a file but is not pronounced, published or communicated, nothing prevents the Authority from correcting it or altering it for valid reasons. But once the order is pronounced or published or notified or communicated, the Authority will become functus officio. The order dated 18.1.1995 made on an office note, was neither pronounced, nor published/notified nor communicated. Therefore, it cannot be said that the Appointing Authority became functus officio when he signed the note on dated 18.1.1995."

20. Ms. Devyani Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner vehemently contended that though the application filed before the Tribunal may have been nomenclatured as review but in substance it was for recalling of the award as the same had been obtained by practicing fraud and it is more than settled that every Court/Tribunal has power to recall such order.

21. In order to buttress her aforesaid submissions, she would rely upon the following observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Rajinder Singh & Ors., AIR 2000, SC 1165, wherein it was held as under:-

"16. It is unrealistic to expect the appellant company to resist a claim at the first instance on the basis of the fraud because appellant company had at that stage no knowledge about the fraud allegedly played by the claimants. If the Insurance Company comes to know of any dubious concoction having been made with the sinister object of extracting a claim for compensation, and if by that time the award was already passed, it would not be possible for the company to file a statutory appeal against the award. Not only because of bar of limitation to file the appeal but the consideration of the appeal even if the delay could be condoned, would be limited to the issues formulated from the pleadings made till then.

17. Therefore, we have no doubt that the remedy to move for recalling the order on the basis of the newly discovered facts amounting to fraud of high degree, cannot be foreclosed in such a situation. No Court or tribunal can be regarded as powerless to recall its own order if it is convinced that the order was wangled through fraud or misrepresentation of such a dimension as would affect the very basis of the claim."

22. On the strength of the aforesaid judgment , it is vehemently contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that on 15.6.2004 Shyam Sukh the predecessor-in-interest of the claimants met with an accident and immediately on 16.6.2004 information regarding the accident had already been imparted by the Department to the Commissioner and therefore, it would be 16.6.2004 and not any subsequent date when the claimants may have actually filed the application for compensation in Form-F under Rule 20, (which admittedly had been filed in August, 2004) that would be date to determine institution of proceedings for compensation by claimants for the purpose of determining the 'option' as envisaged under Section 167 of M.V. Act.

23. Whereas, Shri J.S. Guleria, learned counsel for the State i.e. Respondents No. 1 and 2 contended that undoubtedly the respondents had reported the factum of accident to the Commissioner concerned on 16.6.2004 but the claim petition was actually filed by the claimants somewhere in late August, by which time the claimant has already filed claim petition before the Tribunal on 16.8.2004.

24. Therefore, in such circumstances, one must first consider the starting point or terminus-a-quo visualised and prescribed under the Act. Can the proceedings be said to have commenced on mere receipt of the information from the employer regarding the factum of accident and consequent notice thereupon to the claimants or is it the date when the claimants actually filed the claim petition in Form-F under Rule 20 of the Workmen's Compensation Rule before the Commissioner under the Act. It is only after this question is answered and this Court comes to the conclusion that it is 16.4.2004, which is the terminus-a-quo, that the further question as to whether the claimants had obtained the award by fraud before the Tribunal would alone arise for consideration, as admittedly the claim petition therein had actually been filed earlier to the petition having actually been filed before the Commissioner in Form-F under Rule 20.

25. However, before answering the question, it would be necessary to refer Section 167 of the M.V. Act, which reads thus:-

> "167. Option regarding claims for compensation in certain cases- Notwithstanding anything contained in the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (8 of 1923) where the death of, or bodily injury to, any person gives rise to a claim for compensation under this Act and also under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, the person entitled to compensation may without prejudice to the provisions of Chapter X claim such compensation under either of those Acts but not under both."

26. A perusal of the aforesaid Section makes it evidently clear that the same gives an option to claimant for claiming a compensation either before the Commissioner or before the Tribunal, but obviously both the remedies are not available at the same time.

27. The learned counsel for the petitioner would vehemently argue that the proceedings before the Commissioner are deemed to be commenced when he issued notice to the claimants and in response thereto the claimants who were not under any obligation still choose to file the claim petition. Thus, the claim petition relate back and would be deemed to have been filed on 16.6.2004. In support of her contention reliance has been placed upon the following judgments:-

(i) In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Bhagat Ram and Anr., 1991 ACJ 288, this Court was dealing with the case wherein a claim for compensation had been filed before the Tribunal and another claim on the same cause had also been filed before the Commissioner on account of injuries sustained in an accident and the injured stated that he neither put in appearance nor filed any application before the Commissioner and had further stated that he had neither received any amount nor intended to receive any amount under the Workmen's Compensation Act and this Court after taking notice of the fact that there was no evidence that the injured himself had exercised this option by filing an application before the Commissioner, the application before the Tribunal was maintainable. It is apt to reproduce relevant observations, which reads as under:-

> "6. On coming to know of this award, Bhagat Ram filed an application under Section 110-AA of the Motor Vehicles Act for permitting him to pursue the accident claim petition. In his application, he had clearly stated that neither he had filed any application for claiming compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Nurpur, nor he had appeared before him. He further made it clear that neither he received any amount nor he intended to receive any amount under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The United India Insurance Co. Ltd. filed its reply to the application and asserted that the claim petition under the Workmen's Compensation Act was filed by Bhagat Ram and he had the knowledge of its proceedings and the award of the Commissioner.
> 12. In the present case, despite their preliminary objection raised in the written statement, the United India Insurance Co. Ltd. did not ask for the issue that the claim petition was barred under Section 110-AA. Their pleadings in this regard were very vague. Even when Bhagat Ram came in the witness-box, they did not care to cross-examine him at all. Though they filed the award dated 30.3.1988, yet they did not care to bring it on record. They did not lead any evidence to show that it was Bhagat Ram who has filed a claim petition before the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Nurpur and that he had knowledge of its pendency or award dated 30.3.1988. When the application under Section 110-AA of Bhagat Ram was allowed and he was permitted to proceed with his claim petition under the Motor Vehicles Act vide order dated 26.8.1988, the United India Insurance Co. Ltd. was yet to produce its evidence but neither it challenged the order dated 26.8.1988 in a higher court nor did it lead any evidence before the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal to prove that Bhagat Ram had, in fact, exercised his option for the remedy under the Workmen's Compensation Act by filing the claim petition before the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Nurpur. In these circumstances, there was no reason to disbelieve the specific averment of Bhagat Ram made in his application under Section 110-AA of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 and his statement on oath that he did not file any claim petition under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

13.1 have called the record of the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Nurpur and gone through it carefully. The application is dated 15.11.1986. At its end the words 'Bhagat Ram' are written at two places. There is also one power of attorney on record which is dated 17.11.1986 and the words 'Bhagat Ram' are also written on it at the place meant for the signatures of a client. The application was presented before the S.D.M. (C)-cum-Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act on 28.11.1986 not by Bhagat Ram in person but by S.P. Gupta, Advocate, Nurpur. At no stage did Bhagat Ram appear before the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, Nurpur. A reply to the claim petition was filed by M/s. Jagat Ram Amrik Chand through its partner, Kulbhushan Sood, who had been attending the proceedings on some dates in person. The reply to the claim petition on behalf of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. was filed through Mr. P.C. Sharma, Advocate, Nurpur. Though issues were framed but no evidence was led as counsel for United India Insurance Co. Ltd., Mr. P.C. Sharma, Advocate, Nurpur, made a statement that compensation might be awarded according to the Schedule under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Both the United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and M/s. Jagat Ram Amrik Chand admitted the status of Bhagat Ram as workman and also his wages at Rs. 600/- per month. Had the United India Insurance Co. Ltd. cared to bring the application and the power of attorney on record of the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal and proved these documents, Bhagat Ram would have had an opportunity to admit or deny whether these bore his signatures or not. He might have explained the circumstances under which he signed those documents.

14. Therefore, from the record of the Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, it is proved on record that Bhagat Ram did not select the remedy under the Workmen's Compensation Act and his claim petition under the Motor Vehicles Act was maintainable. I have no hesitation to hold that it is possible that M/s. Jagat Ram Amrik Chand might have got filed the claim petition under the Workmen's Compensation Act by getting the signatures of Bhagat Ram on a blank paper as well as on power of attorney by not disclosing to him the purpose for which his signatures were being obtained. A perusal of the application dated 15.11.1986 clearly shows that the words 'Bhagat Ram' were written first and the application was typed on it later. The words 'Bhagat Ram' are written at the end of the paper on which the application is typed, whereas the application ends earlier and the place for signatures of the applicant is also little above where the words 'Bhagat Ram' are written."

(ii) In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Anipeddi Dhanalakshmi and Ors., 1994 ACJ 98, the High Court of Andhra Pradesh was confronted with the situation where on account of the death of a motor cyclist in accident, the claimant approached the Commissioner and obtained compensation and had also filed the claim before the Tribunal and, therefore, the question arose whether the claim petition before the Tribunal was maintainable. It was answered in negative by holding that person was not entitled to compensation before the Tribunal and could also not claim difference of compensation granted by the Tribunal minus the amount of compensation granted by the Commissioner.

(iii) In National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Mastan and Anr., 2006 ACJ 528, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was dealing with the question with regard to choice of forum available under Section 167 and Hon'ble Mr. Justice P.K. Balasubramanyan in a separate Court judgment held that under Section 167 of the M.V. Act, a claimant having opted to proceed under Workmen's Compensation Act cannot take recourse or draw inspiration from any of the provisions of the MACT Act, 1988 other than what is specifically said by Section 167 of the M.V. Act.

It was further held that since the claimant had not chosen to withdraw his claim under the Workmen's Compensation Act before it reached the point of judgment, with a view to approach Motor Accident Claim Tribunal and had pursued his claim before the Commissioner till the award was passed, therefore, he was not entitled to invoke the provisions of the MACT Act. The relevant observations reads thus:-

> "33. On the establishment of claims Tribunal in terms of Section 165 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, the victim of a motor accident has a right to apply for compensation in terms of section 166 of that Act before that Tribunal. On the establishment of the Claims Tribunal, the jurisdiction of the civil Court to entertain a claim for compensation arising out of a motor accident, stands ousted by section 175 of that Act. Until the establishment of the Tribunal, the claim had to be enforced through the civil court as a claim in tort. The exclusiveness of the jurisdiction of the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal is taken away by section 167 of Motor Vehicles Act in one instance, when the claim could also fall under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923. That Section provides that death or bodily injury arising out of a motor accident which may also give rise to a claim for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, can be enforced through the authorities under that Act, the option in that behalf being with the victim or his representative. But section 167 makes it clear that a claim could not be maintained under both the Acts. In other words, a claimant who becomes entitled to claim compensation both under Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and under the Workmen's Compensation Act, because of a motor vehicle accident has the choice of proceeding under either of the Acts before the concerned forum. By confining the claim to the authority or Tribunal under either of the Acts, the legislature has incorporated the concept of election of remedies, insofar as the claimant is concerned. In other words, he has to elect whether to make his claim under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 or under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923. The emphasis in the section that a claim cannot be made under both the enactments, is a further reiteration of the doctrine of election incorporated in the scheme for claiming compensation. The principle "where, either of two alternative Tribunals are open to a litigant, each having jurisdiction over the matters in dispute and he resorts for his remedy to one of such Tribunals in preference to the other, he is precluded, as against his opponent, from any subsequent recourse to the latter" [See R. v. Evans, (1854) 3 E&B 363] is fully incorporated in the scheme of section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act, precluding the claimant who has invoked Workmen's compensation Act from having resort to the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, except to the limited extent permitted therein. The claimant having resorted to the Workmen's compensation Act, is controlled by the provisions of that Act subject only to the exception recognized in section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

34. On the language of section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act and going by the principle of election of remedies, a claimant opting to proceed under the workmen's compensation Act cannot take recourse to or draw inspiration from any of the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, other than what is specifically saved by section 167 of the Act. Section 167 of the Act vies a claimant even under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 the right to invoke the provisions of Chapter X of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. Chapter X of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 deals with what is known as 'no fault' liability in case of an accident. Section 140 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 imposes a liability on the owner of the vehicle to pay the compensation fixed therein, even if no fault is established against the driver or owner of the vehicle. Sections 141 and 142 deal with particular claims on the basis of no fault liability and section 143 re-emphasises what is emphasized by section 167 of the Act that the provisions of Chapter X of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, would apply even if the claim is made under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Section 144 of the Act gives the provisions of Chapter X of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

35. Coming to the facts of the case, the claimant has not chosen to withdraw his claim under the Workmen's Compensation Act before it reached the point of judgment, with a view to approach the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal. What he has done is to pursue his claim under Workmen's Compensation Act till the award was passed and also to invoke a provision of the Motor Vehicles Act, not made applicable to claims under Workmen's Compensation Act by Section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act. Claimant-respondent is not entitled to do so. The High Court was in error in holding that he is entitled to do so."

(iv) In Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Sudip Ranjan Deb and others, 2009 ACJ 22, the Gauhati High Court was dealing with a case where the claimant had exercised its option under Section 167 by approaching the Commissioner and the award passed in his favour and even the appeal against the same had been dismissed and subsequently approached the Tribunal who allowed the compensation by directing the Insurance Company to pay the amount to the claimant after deducting the amount already received by him under Workmen's Compensation Act. The question then arose as to whether the claimant who had claimed and had been paid compensation under the Act could subsequently after the award passed by the Commissioner having attained finality exercise option to abandon his claim application for proceeding under the MACT Act. Obviously, the answer to the said proposition was in negative by holding that the claimant had already exercised his option and the same was not available till at a later stage. It was apt to reproduce the relevant observations, which reads thus:

"[8] Thus, Section 13 of Workmen's Compensation Act recognises the claim of the employer to be indemnified for the compensation paid by him to his injured/dead employee by the tortfeasor, who was liable to pay compensation in respect of the same injury. This takes care of the apprehension of learned Counsel for claimant-respondent that the tortfeasor would escape his liability under both the Acts if the injured is barred from claiming compensation from both his employer and the tortfeasor. Section 13 of Workmen's Compensation Act clearly indicates that there is no statutory scheme whittling down the liability of the tortfeasor arising under the Motor Vehicles Act even when compensation is paid by the employer under the provisions of Workmen 's Compensation Act. By virtue of this provision, the employer who has paid the compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, will step into the shoes of the claimant and be entitled to recover that much amount from the tortfeasor. The tortfeasor cannot, therefore, take the plea that he cannot be held liable for compensation since the injured has already claimed and was paid the compensation by his employer under Workmen's Compensation Act. This is what has been explained by Gujarat High Court in Mahebubanbibi s case,2001 4 GauLR 2950, the case cited by the learned Counsel for claimant-respondent; how this can be of any assistance to his case is incomprehensible. Section 13 of Workmen's Compensation Act only enables the employer to get himself indemnified for the compensation paid by him to the injured employee from a stranger including the tortfeasor and does not confer any right upon the injured employee himself to proceed against the insurance company for recovery of damages. However, it is for the employer to proceed against the tortfeasor in an independent proceeding for recovery of the compensation already paid by him to the injured by invoking Section 13 of Workmen's Compensation Act. Thus, the provision of Section 13 of the Workmen's Compensation Act is apparently engrafted in the statute book to prevent unintended benefit to the tortfeasor of retaining the portion of compensation which was paid by the employer. In my judgment, the foregoing discussion completely dealt with the contention of the learned Counsel for the claimant-respondent on the possibility of the tortfeasor from escaping his liability to pay compensation already received by the employee from his employer.

[9] The next question which falls for consideration is whether the claimant-respondent, who has been paid compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act in terms of the judgment/award dated 18.3.2004 of the learned Commissioner in W.C. Case No. M.18/WC/20 of 2003, can at this stage exercise the option to abandon his claim petition under the Workmen's Compensation Act and proceed with his claim petition under Section 166 of Motor Vehicles Act? Section 167 of Motor Vehicles Act obviously does not prescribe the period within which the person entitled to compensation should exercise his option to claim compensation under either of the two enactments. It may be noted that the order/award dated 18.3.2004 passed by the learned Commissioner has now attained finality when the appeal against the said order was dismissed by this Court in its order dated 2.6.2004 in R.F.A. No. 1 (SH) of 2004. Therefore, no further proceeding is pending before any Tribunal or court in connection with the claim petition filed by the claimant-respondent under the provisions of Workmen's Compensation Act. It is only with respect to the claim petition filed by the claimant-respondent under the Motor Vehicles Act that an appeal is pending before this Court, namely, this appeal filed by the appellant insurance company herein. The appeal before the High Court is a continuation of the original proceeding. In the instant case, as noted earlier, not even an appeal in respect of the claim petition under Workmen's Compensation Act is pending, though the appeal in respect of the claim petition under Motor Vehicles Act is pending before this Court. In this view of the matter, there is no difficulty in holding that the claimant-respondent has already exhausted the option open to him to elect his claim petition under the Motor Vehicles Act. No more choice is open to him at this stage. If both the claim petitions under the two Acts are still pending for adjudication either at the appellate stage or otherwise, it can somehow be said that the claimant-respondent has the choice to, opt for one of the pending proceedings. This is sufficiently indicated by the Apex Court in Mastan’s case, 2006 ACJ528 (SC), at para 35 of the judgment as under:

“(35) Coming to the facts of the case, the claimant has not chosen to withdraw his claim under the Workmen’s Compensation Act before it reached the point of judgment, with a view to approach the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal. What he has done is to pursue his claim under Workmen’s Compensation Act till the award was passed and also to invoke a provision of the Motor Vehicles Act, not made applicable to claims under Workmen's Compensation Act by Section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act. Claimant-respondent is not entitled to do so. The High Court was in error in holding that he is entitled to do so."

(Emphasis added)

(v) In Gomti Bai and Ors. vs. Dyshyant Kumar and Ors., 2012 ACT 2069, a Division Bench of the Chhattisgarh High Court while dealing with the case of election under Section 167 of the M.V. Act, 1988, wherein the claimant had approached the Commissioner and had been awarded compensation which was duly received by the dependents of the deceased workmen. The dependants thereafter filed claim before the Tribunal under Section 167 of the M. V. Act, contended therein that they are entitled to claim compensation because the employer had deposited the compensation amount before the Commission on its own, whereas no application under Section 10 of the Act had been filed by them. The question that arose was whether in such circumstances the claim petition before the Tribunal was maintainable, more particularly, after the claimants had already received the compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act and the question was answered in negative by applying the doctrine of estoppel. It is apt to reproduce relevant observations, which reads thus:-

"5. Learned counsel for appellant, placing reliance on judgment of Bombay High Court in the matter of Santabai Parshuram Mule v. Sharda Prasadsingh, 1992 ACJ 270 (Bombay), contended that even after receiving the claim under the 1923 Act, the claimants are entitled to move under Section 166 of 1988 Act, because before the Commissioner the employer, of its own, had deposited the amount and no application under Section 10 of 1923 Act was moved by the claimants-appellants. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent has supported the impugned order by placing reliance on provision contained under Section 167 of 1988 Act.

8. Dealing with the principle 'doctrine of election' as contained in section 167 of the 1988 Act, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Mastan, 2006 ACJ 528, has held thus in paras 21, 22, 23, 24, 26 and 27:

(21) Under the 1988 Act, the driver of the vehicle is liable but he would not be liable in a case arising under the 1923 Act. If the driver of the vehicle has no licence, the insurer would not be liable to indemnify the insured. In a given situation, the Accidents Claims Tribunal, having regard to its rights and liabilities vis-a-vis the third person, may direct the insurance company to meet the liabilities of the insurer, permitting it to recover the same from the insured. The 1923 Act does not envisage such a situation. Role of reference by incorporation has limited application. A limited right to defend a claim petition arising under one statute cannot be held to be applicable in a claim petition arising under a different statute unless there exists express provision therefor. Section 143 of the 1988 Act makes the provisions of the 1923 Act applicable only in a case arising out of no fault liability, as contained in Chapter X of the 1988 Act. The provisions of section 143, therefore, cannot be said to have any application in relation to a claim petition filed under Chapter XI thereof. A fortiori in a claim arising under Chapter XI, the provisions of the 1923 Act will have no application. A party to a lis, having regard to the different provisions of the two Acts, cannot enforce liabilities of the insurer under both the Acts. He has to elect for one.

(22) Section 167 of the 1988 Act statutorily provides for an option to the claimant stating that where the death of or bodily injury to any person gives rise to a claim for compensation under the 1988 Act as also the 1923 Act, the person entitled to compensation may without prejudice to the provisions of Chapter X claim compensation under either of those Acts but not under both. Section 167 contains a non obstante clause providing for such an option notwithstanding anything contained in the 1923 Act.

(23) The 'doctrine of election' is a branch of 'rule of estoppel', in terms whereof a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had. The doctrine of election postulates that when two remedies are available for the same relief, the aggrieved party has the option to elect either of them but not both. Although there are certain exceptions to the same rule but the same has no application in the instant case.

(24) In Nagubai Ammal v. B. Shama Rao, 1956 AIR(SC) 593 it was stated:

It is clear from the above observations that the maxim that a person cannot 'approbate and reprobate' is only one application of the doctrine of election, and that its operation must be confined to reliefs claimed in respect of the same transaction and to the persons who are parties thereto.

(26) Thomas, J. in P.R. Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, 1998 6 SCC 507, stated the law thus:

(8) The doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel - the principle that one cannot approbate and reprobate inheres in it. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppel in pais (or equitable estoppel) which is a rule in equity. By that rule, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had.

(27) Respondent No. 1 having chosen the forum under the 1923 Act for the purpose of obtaining the compensation against his employer cannot now fall back upon the provisions of the 1988 Act therefor, inasmuch as the procedure laid down under both the Acts are different save and except those which are covered by section 143 thereof.

9.In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above referred judgment of National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Mastan, 2006 ACJ 528 (SC) and applying the said ratio in the facts of the present case wherein the appellant has already received the claim offered by the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation, this court is of the opinion that the appellants having enforced liabilities of the employer and insurer and having received the benefit/relief under the 1923 Act are precluded/estopped by doctrine of election as envisaged under Section 167 of the 1988 Act to maintain a claim under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988."

(vi) In Gulamrasul Rehman Malek vs. Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, 2015 ACJ 20, the Gujarat High Court while dealing with the case where the driver had met with an accident due to his own negligence had opted to file claim petition under Motor Vehicle Act and obtained interim award under Section 140 of the M.V. Act on account of no fault liability. He approached the High Court with a prayer that he be permitted to approach the forum constituted under the Employees Compensation Act and the said contention was negated by holding that once the claimant had elected to choose forum he could not turn around and question the award passed by the forum elected by him. It is apt to reproduced the relevant observations, which reads thus:-

“15. Moreover, in the case before us, the appellant got the benefit of "No Fault" Liability under section 140 of the M.V. Act. As pointed out by the Supreme Court in the case of NATIONAL INSURANCE CO. LTD. v. MASTAN , if a claimant by taking aid of Section 167 of the M. V. Act elects to take resort to the provisions of the M. V. Act he is precluded from resorting to the EC Act. The following observations of the Supreme Court are relevant and are quoted below:

> "22. Section 167 of the 1988 Act statutorily provides for an option to the claimant stating that where the death of or bodily injury to any person gives rise to a claim for compensation under the 1988 Act as also the 1923 Act, the person entitled to compensation may without prejudice to the provisions of Chapter X claim such compensation under either of those Acts but not under both. Section 167 contains a non-ob-stante clause providing for such an option notwithstanding anything contained in the 1923 Act.
> 23. The 'doctrine of election' is a branch of 'rule of estoppel', in terms whereof a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had. The doctrine of election postulates that when two remedies are available for the same relief, the aggrieved party has the option to elect either of them but not both. Although there are certain exceptions to the same rule but the same has no application in the instant case.
> 24. In Nagubai Ammal v. B. Shama Rao, 1956 AIR(SC) 593, it was stated:
> "It is clear from the above observations that the maxim that a person cannot 'approbate and reprobate is only one application of the doctrine of election, and that its operation must be confined to reliefs claimed in respect of the same transaction and to the persons who are parties thereto."
> 25. In C. Beepathuma v. Velasari Shankaranara-yana Kadambolithaya, 1965 AIR(SC) 241, it was stated :
> "The doctrine of election which has been applied in this case is well-settled and may be stated in the classic words of Maitland-
> "That he who accepts a benefit under a deed or will or other instrument must adopt the whole contents of that instrument, must conform to all its provisions and renounce all rights that are inconsistent with it."
> (see Maitland's lectures on Equity, Lecture 18)
> The same principle is stated in White and Tudor's Leading Cases in Equity Vol. 18th Edn. at p. 444 as follows :
> "Election is the obligation imposed upon a party by courts of equity to choose between two inconsistent or alternative rights or claims in cases where there is clear intention of the person from whom he derives one that he should not enjoy both... That he who accepts a benefit under a deed or will must adopt the whole contents of the instrument."
> (See also Prashant Ramachandra Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, 1995 Supp2 SCC 539).
> 26. Thomas, J. in P.R. Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, 1998 6 SCC 507 stated that the law, thus :
> "The doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel - the principle that one cannot approbate and reprobate inheres in it. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppel in pais (or equitable estoppel) which is a rule in equity. By that rule, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had. (See also Devasahayam (Dead) by LRs. v. P. Savithramma and Others, 2005 7 SCC 653)

27. The Respondent No. 1 having chosen the forum under the 1923 Act for the purpose of obtaining compensation against his employer cannot now fall back upon the provisions of the 1988 Act therefor, inasmuch as the procedure laid down under both the Acts are different save and except those which are covered by Section 143 thereof."

16. Thus, I am unable to accept the submission of Mr Hakim and hold that after having received the benefit under Section 140 of the M. V. Act and having elected to proceed under Section 166 of the said Act, the petitioner is precluded from approaching the forum constituted under the provision of the EC Act."

(vii) In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Anthony Selvam and another, 2015 ACJ 1936, High Court of Madras held that the claim in accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle was entitled to claim compensation either under Motor Vehicle or Workmen's Compensation Act, but not under both the Acts as the claimant could not enjoy double benefit and the employees could not be put to double liability. In addition to that it was held that once the driver had filed claim petition before the Commissioner, who had dismissed the claim application on the ground that he was not an employee under the owner he cannot thereafter file claim petition for compensation under the Motor Vehicle Act against the owner and insurance company and the relevant observations reads thus:-

"23. From an analysis of the above said judgments and the reasoning assigned by this court, the principles governing the election provided under Section 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and the corresponding bar can be deduced as follows:

1) In case the accident arises out of the use of the motor vehicle and it results in death or injury, the legal heirs of the deceased or the injured shall be entitled to claim compensation under the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 against the owner, driver and insurer of the offending vehicle on the basis of the tortuous liability which has been made statutory;

2) In case the owner of the offending vehicle happens to be the employer of the deceased or injured, as the case may be, then the legal heirs of the deceased or the injured may make a claim either under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 or under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923;

3) If the claim is made under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 and it is allowed by the Commissioner, then the claimants cannot make a claim under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988;

4) If the claim made under the Employees' Compensation Act is dismissed holding that the deceased or the injured was not a workman under the alleged employer or that the accident did not arise out of and in the course of the employment of the deceased or injured, then the dismissal of the claim under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 will not be a bar for making a claim under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988;

5) In case the claim is made at the first instance under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, there is no possibility of the claim being negatived in toto if the accident had resulted in death or permanent disability attracting the no-fault liability clauses found in the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. In such cases, the claimants cannot make a claim under the

Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 after getting an award in the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal;

6) In case the claim is made under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 against the owner of the offending vehicle, who was not the employer of the deceased or injured, as the case may be, and the driver or insurer of the said vehicle, after an award is passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, a claim against the employer of the deceased or the injured, as the case may be, under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923, who was not a respondent in the claim will be maintainable, but after ascertaining the amount payable under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923, the Commissioner shall direct the employer and its insurer to pay only the difference between the amount calculated under the Employees Compensation Act and the amount awarded by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, only if the compensation payable under the Employees' Compensation Act exceeds the amount awarded under the Motor Vehicle Act;

7) In case claim is made under the Employees' Compensation Act against the employer and an award is passed and a claim for compensation is made under the Motor Vehicles Act against the owner of the offending vehicle not being the employer of the deceased or injured and against the driver and insurer of the offending vehicle on the basis of tort, then while determining the compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act, the amount obtained as compensation under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 shall be taken into account and that should be deducted. After deducting the same, the balance amount alone shall be awarded as compensation in the MCOP before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal.

24. The above said principles ensure prevention of the claimants enjoying double benefit and the employers being put to double liability. Applying the above said principles, this court comes to the conclusion that the fact that the first respondent made a claim before the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 in W.C.No.219/2007 on the file of the Commissioner No.2, Deputy Commissioner of Labour-II, Teynampet, Chennai and the same was dismissed on the ground that he was not an employee under the owner of the auto-rickshaw driven by the first respondent at the time of accident, would not be a bar for the maintainability of the claim made by him under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 against the second respondent and the appellant herein being the owner and insurer of the other vehicle, which is projected as the offending vehicle, namely lorry bearing Regn. No.TNG 7876. The order of the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation marked as Ex.P8 will make it clear that the first respondent was not an employee under the owner of the auto-rickshaw involved in the accident and he was only a person who took the auto-rickshaw for hire and he alone was his master, since his liability towards the owner of the vehicle was only to pay particular amount per day as rent for the auto-rickshaw. The same was the reason why the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation held that he was not an employee under owner of auto-rickshaw and that consequently he was not entitled to maintain a claim under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923. As the claim made under the Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 was negatived holding that such a claim was not maintainable, the same will not provide a bar for making a claim under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 against the different set of persons, namely the owner and insurer of the offending vehicle, namely lorry bearing Regn. No.TNG 7876. Hence first and second points for determination are answered in favour of the claimant-respondent No.1 and against the insurance company, appellant herein."

28. It would be noticed that none of the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner visualises the factual situations obtaining in the instant case.

29. It is not in dispute that the claimants on their own had never approached the Commissioner for grant of compensation and it is only pursuant to the notice issued to them by the Commissioner after receipt of information of accident from the employer vide letter dated 16.6.2004 that they approached and thereafter in late August filed their application for compensation in Form-F under Rule 20 of the Workmen's Compensation Rule.

30. It is also not in dispute that earlier to that the claimants had consciously elected and opted to approach Tribunal for grant of compensation by filing an application under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicle Act on 24.8.2004.

31. The information imparted to the Commissioner under Workmen's Compensation Act with respect to the accident was in discharge of its duty of the employer under Workmen's Compensation Act.

32. Likewise, the information thereafter imparted by the Commissioner to the claimants with regard to the factum of accident and their entitlement to file a claim petition was further in discharge of its duties and obligations cast / fastened upon him under the provisions of the Act.

33. However, the action of the claimant in approaching the Tribunal with the claim petition was not on account of any duty of obligation being cast upon them by any statutory or non statutory provision but was an election consciously made by them whereby they opted to approach the Tribunal with their claim petition out of their free will and violation. This was a conscious decision on their part and not one of compulsion.

34. The mere fact that the statement of the claimant and also the award passed by the Commissioner was at an earlier point of time would hardly make any difference as the Terminus-a-quo in such like situation, as per my humble understanding would be the date on which the claimants consciously elected to choose the forum and in this case the terminus-a-quo would be 24.8.2004 when the petitioner consciously elected to approach the Tribunal by filing the claim petition under Section 167 of M.V. Act.

35. Therefore, in such circumstances to contend that the award obtained by the claimants before the Tribunal was on account of fraud or to contend that the State i.e. Respondents No. 1 and 2 themselves have contended before the Commissioner that the award obtained by the claimants before him had been obtained by fraud, would rather not even arise for consideration in the present case.

36. However, at this stage, it needs to be clarified that even the Commissioner had no power to review his earlier order and after having announced his award, he ceased to have any jurisdiction and had become 'functus-officio' as he has no jurisdictional authority to review his order as the power of review is not inherent power and had otherwise not been conferred upon him by the statute i.e. Workmen's Compensation Act.

37. It is, however, needs to be clarified that there is a distinction between powers of Court to review on merit and the procedural review where a Court or quasi judicial authority having jurisdiction to adjudicate on merit proceeds to do so, this judgment or order can be reviewed on merit only if the Court or quasi judicial authority is vested with the power of review by express provision or by necessary implications. Whereas, procedural review belongs to a different categories. In such a review, the Court of quasi judicial authority having jurisdiction to adjudicate proceeds to do so. But in doing so, ascertains whether it had committed a procedural illegality which goes to the route of the matter and invalidate the proceedings itself and consequently the order passed therein (Refer- M/s Sangum Tape Co. vs. Hans Raj, 2005 9 SCC 331 and Kapra Mazdoor Ekta Union vs. Birla Cotton Spinning & Weaving Mills Ltd. & Anr. 2005 13 SCC 777).

38. It needs to be clarified that accession review is used in two distinct senses, namely (i) procedural review – it is either inherent or implied in a Court or Tribunal whereby it can set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under any misapprehension and (ii) review on merits – where the error sought to be correct is one of law and is apparent on the face of record. In the case of Patel Narshi Thakershi's case (supra), it was held that no review lies on merits unless statute specifically provides for it. Obviously, when a review is sought due to procedural defect, the inadvertent error committed by the Tribunal must be correct 'exddlojutas' to prevent the abuse of its process and such power inheres in every Court or Tribunal. Section 169 of the M.V. Act, reads thus:-

> "169. Procedure and powers of Claims Tribunal –(1) In holding any inquiry under Section 168, the claims Tribunal may, subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, follow such summary procedure as it thinks fit.
> (2) The Claims Tribunal shall have all the powers of a Civil court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material objects and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Claims Tribunal shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of Section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).
> (3) Subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, the Claims Tribunal may, for the purpose of adjudicating upon any claim for compensation, choose one or more persons possessing special knowledge of and matter relevant to the inquiry to assist it in holding the inquiry."

39. Applying the test laid down in Thakreshi's case supra, a review application before the Tribunal would be maintainable only when it is sought due to procedural defect or inadvertent error committed by the Tribunal to prevent the abuse of its process.

40. Therefore, even if the review filed by the petitioner before the Tribunal is held to be maintainable, the same would have no power or effect on the merits of these cases, as this Court has categorically come to the conclusion that the claimants having consciously elected under Section 167 of the M.V. Act are only entitled then irrespective of it being comparatively less than the one passed by the Commissioner or even the interest therein being awarded at a lesser rate by the Commissioner.

41. Ms. Devyani Sharma, learned Counsel for the petitioner strenuously argued that once it is established on record that the deceased was the employee of the State i.e. Respondents No. 1 and 2, therefore, it is the State who alone should be held responsible and liable to pay the compensation and the same cannot be fastened upon the petitioner only on account of it having insured the vehicle.

42. I am afraid that such contention cannot be accepted. Whereas the claimants had exercised the option under Section 167 of the Motor Vehicle Act and an award passed in their favour whereby the owner of the vehicle is held to be liable then the insurance company being the indemnifier has obviously to pay the award amount. Incidentally, in this case, the opposite party is the State, would such a contention be available if the opposite party was an individual. Obviously, the answer would be in negative. That apart, there can be no gainsaying that the very purpose of insuring the vehicle is to seek indemnity, in case, of unforeseen accident of the present kind.

43. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in these petitions and the same are accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Cases referred:

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531

Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217

For the appellant(s): Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.

For the respondent(s): Mr. G.R. Palsara, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 4 in FAO No. 320 of 2012 and for respondents No. 1 to 8 in FAO No. 321 of 2012.
Mr. H.S. Rangra, Advocate, for respondents No. 6 and 7 in FAO No. 320 of 2012 and for respondents No. 9 and 10 in FAO No. 321 of 2012.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Both these appeals are outcome of one accident, hence are taken up together for disposal by this common judgment.

2. FAO No. 320 of 2012 is directed against the judgment and award dated 28.4.2012, in claim Petition No. 101 of 2007 titled Smt. Savitra and others versus Partap Singh and others and FAO No. 321 of 2012, is directed against the award dated 28.4.2012, in claim petition No. 35 of 2008, titled Smt. Maina Devi and others versus Partap Singh and others, for short "the impugned awards", passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (II), Mandi, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short.

3. Claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for the grant of compensation as per the break-ups given in their respective claim petitions, on account of death of deceased Daya Ram and Naresh Kumar in a motor vehicle accident, involving truck bearing registration No. HP-32-1054 on 1.10.2007 at 5 p.m. at Dohra Nala near Magru Gala on Janjehali road.

4. Parties have led evidence and two separate awards, as referred to above, came to be passed by the Tribunal.

5. Claimants and driver have not questioned the impugned awards on any ground, thus the same have attained the finality, so far as the same relate to them.

6. In both these appeals the insurer has questioned the impugned awards on the grounds taken in the memo of appeals.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the seating capacity of the vehicle is only 1+3, hence, the liability be restricted only in terms of the seating capacity of the vehicle and risk covered, in terms of the insurance policy. His statement is taken on record.

8. I have gone through the evidence as well as the pleadings. The claimants have proved that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving by the driver of the offending vehicle. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

9. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and owner has committed willful breach, has failed to discharge the onus in terms of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

> (i) .....
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.
> (vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

10. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, herein:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

11. At this stage, the learned counsel for the appellant argued that the deceased were gratuitous passengers has not led any evidence before the Tribunal to prove this fact. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in the impugned awards. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are upheld.

12. I have gone through the impugned awards. The Tribunal has rightly held that the vehicle was insured and the insurer has to satisfy the awards. The learned counsel for the appellant was not in a position to show that the Tribunal has wrongly saddled the insurer with the liability.

13. Having said so, the insurer is held liable to pay compensation as per the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy.

14. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest as awarded by the Tribunal in both the appeals, within eight weeks from today in the Registry, if not already deposited. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned awards, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification.

15. Accordingly, the impugned awards are upheld and the appeals are dismissed.

16. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Oriental Insurance Company Limited .....Appellant

Versus

Dila Kumari & others .....Respondents

FAO No.175 of 2012
Date of decision: 18.11.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 173- The insurer challenged the award on the quantum of compensation – held, that Insurer has to seek the permission to contest the claim petition on all the grounds available to it and in case permission has not been sought and granted, it is precluded from questioning the award on the ground of adequacy of compensation – it can challenge the award only on the grounds, which are available to it- no permission was sought to contest the claim petition on all grounds and therefore the appeal by the insurer is not maintainable -otherwise also, the compensation is meager and the same has not been questioned by the claimants- hence, the same is reluctantly upheld. (Para-11 to 18)

Cases referred:
United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Shila Datta & Ors., 2011 AIR SCW 6541
Josphine James versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr., 2013 AIR SCW 6633

For the appellant:	Mr.G.C. Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Ms.Meera Devi, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr.G.R. Palsra, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2. Nemo for respondents No.3 and 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 16th January, 2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claim Tribunal (II), Mandi, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.90 of 2007, titled Dila Devi & another vs. Ram Singh & others, whereby a sum of Rs.2,80,000/-alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum came to be awarded as compensation in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants, the owner-insured and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any count. Thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on 23.8.2007 at about 2.30 pm at village Julah, the claimants were working in the fields and their son and daughter were playing nearby. Vehicle bearing registration No.HP-33-A-0376, being driven by driver, namely, Jai Parkash rashly and negligently, rolled down the road and the son of the claimants was crushed resulting into his instantaneous death, and their daughter also sustained injuries. Thus, the claimants filed claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.10,00,000/- as per break-ups given in the claim petition.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

> "1. Whether deceased Rewat Singh died due to rash and negligent driving of Canter No.HP-33-A-0376 by respondent No.2 as alleged? OPP
> 2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled for compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP
> 3. Whether the respondent No.2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-3
> 4. Whether the vehicle in question was being plied in contravention of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy? OPR-3
> 5. Relief."

5. In order to prove their case, the claimants examined Devinder Kumar as PW-2, while one of the claimants, namely, Dila Devi appeared as PW-1. Driver of the offending vehicle stepped into the witness box as RW-2 and one Diwan Chand has been examined as RW-1.

6. Heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record. My issue-wise findings are as follows.

Issue No.1

7. The Tribunal after examining the evidence held that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. There is no challenge to the said findings recorded by the Tribunal. However, I have gone through the impugned award. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraphs 13 to 19 of the impugned award and held that Jai Parkash had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

8. Before issue No.2 is taken up, I deem it proper to deal with issues No.3 and 4 at the first instance.

Issue No.3

9. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has failed to discharge the onus. On the contrary, copies of the driving licence have been placed on record as Mark R-1 and R-2, a perusal whereof shows that, at the relevant point of time, the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence. Accordingly, findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.3 are upheld.

Issue No.4

10. Onus to prove this issue was on the insurer. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the vehicle was being driven in contravention of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. One of the grounds taken by the insurer in the memo of appeal is that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger. The positive case of the claimants is that the deceased, at the time of accident, was playing in the fields and all of a sudden, the offending vehicle rolled down the road and fell on the deceased as a result of which the deceased got crushed and lost his life. The insurer has not led any evidence to prove that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger. Thus, under no circumstance, it can be said that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.4 are upheld.

Issue No.2.

11. This issue pertains to the quantum of compensation. It is moot question whether the insurer can question the adequacy of compensation.

12. The insurer can seek permission to contest the claim petition on all grounds available to it and in case permission has not been sought and granted, it is precluded from questioning the award on adequacy of compensation or any other ground, which is not otherwise available to it.

13. This question arose before the Apex Court in the case titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Shila Datta & Ors., reported in 2011 AIR SCW 6541, and the matter was referred to the larger Bench.

14. The question again arose before the Apex Court in the case titled as Josphine James versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 6633. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 17 and 18 of the judgment herein:

> "8. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and award passed by the High Court in MAC Appeal no. 433/2005 and the review petition, the present appeal is filed by the appellant urging certain grounds and assailing the impugned judgment in allowing the appeal of the Insurance Company without following the law laid down by this Court in Nicolletta Rohtagi's case and instead, placing reliance upon the Bhushan Sachdeva's case. Nicolletta Rohtagi's case was exhaustively discussed by a three judge bench in the case of United India Insurance Company Vs. Shila Datta, 2011 10 SCC 509. Though the Court has expressed its reservations against the correctness of the legal position in Nicolletta Rohtagi decision on various aspects, the same has been referred to higher bench and has not been overruled as yet. Hence, the ratio of Nicolletta Rohtagi's case will be still applicable in the present case. The appellant claimed that interference by the High Court with the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal in favour of appellant and considerably reducing the same by modifying the judgment of the Tribunal is vitiated in law. Therefore, the impugned judgments and awards are liable to be set aside.

9. to 16. .....

17. The said order was reviewed by the High Court at the instance of the appellant in view of the aforesaid decision on the question of maintainability of the appeal of the Insurance Company. The High Court, in the review petition, has further reduced the compensation to Rs. 4,20,000/- from Rs. 6,75,000/- which was earlier awarded by it. This approach is contrary to the facts and law laid down by this Court. The High Court, in reducing the quantum of compensation under the heading of loss of dependency of the appellant, was required to follow the decision rendered by three judge Bench of this Court in Nicolletta Rohtagi case (2002) 7 SCC 456 : AIR 2002 SC 3350 : 2002 AIR SCW 3899, and earlier decisions wherein this Court after interpreting Section 170 (b) of the M. V. Act, has rightly held that in the absence of permission obtained by the Insurance Company from the Tribunal to avail the defence of the insured, it is not permitted to contest the case on merits. The aforesaid legal principle is applicable to the fact situation in view of the three judge bench decision referred to though the correctness of the aforesaid decision is referred to larger bench. This important aspect of the matter has been overlooked by the High Court while passing the impugned judgment and the said approach is contrary to law laid down by this Court.

18. In view of the aforesaid reasons, the Insurance Company is not entitled to file appeal questioning the quantum of compensation awarded in favour of the appellant for the reasons stated supra. In the absence of the same, the Insurance Company had only limited defence to contest in the proceedings as provided under Section 149 (2) of the M.V. Act. Therefore, the impugned judgment passed by the High Court on 13.1.2012 reducing the compensation to 4,20,000/- under the heading of loss of dependency by deducting 50% from the monthly income of the deceased of Rs. 5,000/- and applying 14 multiplier, is factually and legally incorrect. The High Court has erroneously arrived at this amount by applying the principle of law laid down in Sarla Verma v. Delhi Transport Corporation, 2009 6 SCC 121 instead of applying the principle laid down in Baby Radhika Gupta's case regarding the multiplier applied to the fact situation and also contrary to the law applicable regarding the maintainability of appeal of the Insurance Company on the question of quantum of compensation in the absence of permission to be obtained by it from the Tribunal under Section 170 (b) of the M.V. Act. In view of the aforesaid reason, the High Court should not have allowed the appeal of the Insurance Company as it has got limited defence as provided under section 149(2) of the M.V. Act. Therefore, the impugned judgment and award is vitiated in law and hence, is liable to be set aside by allowing the appeal of the appellant."

15. Thus, the insurer can question the adequacy of compensation only if it has sought permission under Section 170 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

16. In the present case, it has to be seen whether the insurer has sought any such permission?

17. I have gone through the record, which does disclose that neither any such application was filed by the insurer nor such permission was granted. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the insurer frankly conceded that no such permission was sought.

18. The amount of compensation appears to be meager. Unfortunately, the claimants have not questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation. Therefore, the same is reluctantly upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

19. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of the claimants strictly in terms of the impugned award by depositing in their respective bank accounts or through payees account cheque.

20. Send down the record after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 18.8.2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-cum-Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in Claim Petition No. 197/2005

(04/2003), titled Smt. Bhuvneshwari Devi and others versus Sh. Virender Singh and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.3,85,000/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. The claimants, owner, and driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. The claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident, have filed claim petition for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.10 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on account of death of Shri Om Prakash, who died in a motor vehicle accident which took place on 16.9.2002, at Darla-ghat near Ambuja Cement Factory gate due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2 Parvin Kumar while driving Truck No. HP-51-4035.

5. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2? OPP
2. Whether the deceased died due to the Motor Vehicle accident of truck No. HP-51-4035? OPP
3. Whether the petitioners are entitled for any compensation and to what amount and from whom? OPP
4. Whether the deceased Om Prakash died due to his own act and conduct? OPR
5. Whether the vehicle was being driven in violation of Insurance Policy and driving licence? OPR
6. Whether deceased was gratuitous passenger at the time of accident as alleged? OPR-3.
7. Relief.

6. The claimants have examined five witnesses and one of the claimants, namely, Bhuvneshwari Devi also stepped into the witness box as PW1. Respondents have examined only one witness, namely, Rajesh Pal as RW1.

7. The only question to be determined in this appeal is-whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability? The answer is in negative for the following reasons.

8. The claimants in para 24 (ii) of the claim petition have specifically stated as under:

> "24 (ii) On 16.9.2002, the deceased had gone with his above truck to Ambuja Cement Factory, Darlaghat for the carriage of Ambuja Cement. Another Truck of the same owner bearing No. HP-11-1634 driven by one Hoshiar Singh driver had also gone for the same purpose. After parking the above Trucks, the deceased and Hoshiar Singh were coming from the Factory premises to Darlaghat Bazar and in the meantime at the Gate of the Factory, respondent No.2 after loading his Truck No. HP-51-4035 was coming from Factory premises to Darlaghat Bazar. Respondent No.2 on seeing the deceased and Hoshiar Singh (who were his professionist colleagues) stopped his truck and gave lift to them up to Darlaghat Bazar. Before reaching the Bazar, due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2, the vehicle received a big jolt due to which the window of the vehicle opened and deceased fell down on the ground from the Truck and he was crushed by the tyre of the said Truck and he died on the spot. The respondent No.2 after abandoning the deceased on spot of accident, had fled away with his truck."

9. The owner and the driver have not denied the averments contained in para 24 (ii) of the claim petition, referred to supra, for want of knowledge. Thus, it can be safely said that the deceased was not travelling in the said vehicle as an employee of the employer/owner, was gratuitous passenger. It is also not the case of the claimants that the deceased was an employee or the labourer of the owner/insured of the truck. Thus, the owner has committed breach in terms of Sections 147 and 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 for short "the Act" read with the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. Having said so, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling the insurer with the liability.

10. The claimants are the third party. Thus, it is the obligation of the insurer to satisfy the award at the first instance and recover the same from the insured/owner.

11. The Tribunal has awarded interest @ 9% per annum. However, interest was to be awarded at rate of 7.5% per annum, for the following reasons.

12. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014, AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

13. Accordingly, interest @7.5% per annum is awarded from the date of claim petition till realization of the amount.

14. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified by providing that the insurer has to satisfy the award at the first instance and recover the same from the owner/insured. The insurer is at liberty to file application for recovery before the Tribunal.

15. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing the claim petition till its realization, forthwith, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification and excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the appellant/insurer, through payees cheque account.

16. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

17. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Praveen Singh and another .....Petitioners.

Vs.

State of Himachal Pradesh and others .....Respondents.

CWP No.: 4810 of 2009
Reserved on : 03.11.2016
Date of Decision: 18.11.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner No.2 was owner in possession of the land, which was acquired for Chamera Hydro Electric Project Stage-I- he was given compensation and was granted employment as per re-settlement and rehabilitation Scheme- some other land was acquired for the reservoir of Chamera-2- name of petitioner No.1, son of petitioner No.2 was sponsored for employment- however, the employment was not provided – held, that rehabilitation and re-settlement schemes are different for Chamera-1 and Chamera-2 project – schemes provide for employment of the family member of the oustee – names of the petitioners are recorded in the parivar register showing them to be the member of the same family – it was not permissible for the respondent No.6 to ignore the entry unilaterally – the land was purchased prior to the notification under Section 4 and the petitioners fulfill the criteria laid down in the scheme – writ petition allowed – respondents directed to provide the benefits as per the scheme. (Para-9 to 28)

For the petitioners: Mr. B.C. Negi, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Pranay Pratap Singh, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Vikram Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, Senior Advocate, with Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate, for respondents No. 6 and 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

By way of this petition, the petitioners have prayed for the following reliefs:

"(i) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash Annexures P-14, P-15, P-21, P-23, P-25 and P-29.

(ii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing respondents to implement Annexure P-7.

(iii) Issue a writ of certiorari to call for the records pertaining to the case at hand.

(iv) Direct the respondent authorities to pay the cost of the petition.

(v) Such other order, which this Hon'ble Court deems fit and proper, may also be passed in favour of the petitioner, in the interest of justice and fair play."

2. Facts emerging from the pleadings of the parties are as under:

Petitioner No. 2 was owner in possession of land in village Thadi, which was acquired for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I and was awarded compensation in lieu of his land and house which was acquired for the above project. Besides this, he was also provided employment in Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I against his acquired land and house as per the provisions of the Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme for Chamera-1 Project.

3. Petitioner No. 2 was also owner of land measuring 0-5-0 bighas in Mohal Gurad, out of which, land measuring 0-1-15 bighas alongwith a house of petitioner No. 2 was acquired for the reservoir of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II in Mohal Gurad vide Notification dated 23.07.2001 issued under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act and award qua which acquisition was announced on 31.01.2003

4. Respondent-State has framed Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme for rehabilitation of persons/families displaced/affected due to construction of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. Name of petitioner No. 1, who is son of petitioner No. 2 was sponsored for employment in Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II in lieu of 0-1-15 bighas of land of petitioner No. 2 (father of petitioner No. 1) having been acquired for construction of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. This was done by respondent No. 2 vide letter dated 27.07.2004 (Annexure P-7). This was followed by various correspondences made in this regard by respondent No. 2 with the Project authorities.

5. It is an undisputed position that Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I and Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II are different Projects and separate Resettlement and Rehabilitation Schemes were framed and approved by the Government of Himachal Pradesh for resettlement and rehabilitation of displaced/affected persons of both these projects. Incidentally, both these projects belong to same executing agency, i.e. respondent No. 6-National Hydro Electric Power Corporation Ltd.

6. The case of petitioner No. 1 was refused to be considered by respondent No. 6-Corporation under the Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme framed and approved by the Government of Himachal Pradesh for rehabilitation of the persons/families displaced/affected due to construction of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II on the following grounds:-

(a) that petitioner No. 1 as per the records was resident of village Thadi, Tehsil and District Chamba, hence he could not be said to be a displaced person on account of construction of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II;

(b) that Notification for acquisition of land for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II was issued on 23.07.2001 and petitioner No. 2 has purchased land in village Gurad immediately before the issuance of said Notification, hence the petitioners could not be considered to be permanent residents or affected persons for the purpose of Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme;

(c) that under Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme, only one member of the affected family can be granted employment and petitioner No. 2 has already been given employment under Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I; and

(d) that entry in favour of the petitioners in the Parivar register of village Gurad was a fake entry.

7. The factum of the acquisition of land of petitioner No. 2 for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II is not denied even by respondent-State and they have further stated in their reply that detailed reasons for denial of employment to the petitioner were submitted by respondents No. 6 and 7.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the pleadings placed on record by the respective parties.

9. The Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme for the persons who became oustees on account of acquisition of their lands, houses etc. for the construction of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II in Chamba District (hereinafter referred to as "the R & R Scheme Stage-II) is on record as Annexure P-5. A perusal of the same demonstrates that this Scheme has been framed for the Resettlement and Rehabilitation of oustees of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. In other words, it is not as if there was a composite single Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme for oustees of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I and Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. It has also come in the reply of the respondent-State that Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I and Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II are different projects being executed by the same Corporation and separate Resettlement and Rehabilitation Schemes have been framed and approved by the Government of Himachal Pradesh for both the said projects.

10. Under the definition Clause of R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II, oustees or affected family, family, employment and holding have been defined as under:

"(i) 'Oustees' or 'affected family' means a Land Owner who has been depirived of his/her land, house or both on account of acquisition of his/her land for Chamera Hydro Electric Project State-II, Karian and is entitled to compensation in lieu thereof and includes his/her successors in interest.

(ii) 'Family' means husband/wife, who is entered as owner in the Revenue record, their children including step or adopted children and includes his/her parents and those brothers and sisters who are living jointly with him/her as per entries of Panchayat Parivar Register as on the date of Notification of Section-4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

Provided that only the Panchayat Parivar Register entry, as it stood on the date of Notification of Section-4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894, shall be taken into account for the purpose of 'Separate Family' for rehabilitation benefit i.e. employment in the Project

(iii) The word 'employment' means employment on regular basis.

(iv) 'Holding' means the existing land holding possessed by the family of an oustee immediately after acquisition of his property."

11. It is further mentioned in the said Scheme that one member of each affected family shall be eligible for employment in the Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II as elaborated therein. It is further provided in the Scheme that no member of affected family shall be eligible for employment if quantum of his acquired land is one biswa or less. The scheme further contemplates that no person shall be eligible for employment in the Project, who is not entered as member of the concerned affected family in the Panchayat Parivar Register.

12. Clause (x) of Part-III of the Scheme which deals with employment reads as under:

"(x) No person or his family member shall be eligible for employment if he become owner of land by way of sale, gift, exchange etc. of land after the date of notification of Section-4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894"

13. In this background, this Court has to consider as to whether respondents No. 6 is justified in not conferring the benefits under the R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II in favour of the petitioners including grant of employment in favour of petitioner No. 1?

14. The petitioners have appended a copy of Parivar Register of Gram Panchayat Gurad, village Gurad-II, Development Block Mehla, as per which, the names of the petitioners are reflected in the Parivar register of Gram Panchayat Gurad much before the Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act was issued for acquiring land under Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. As per respondents No. 6 and 7, entry so recorded in the Parivar register is a fake entry. In justification of this contention of their's, it is averred by respondents No. 6 and 7 that register shows that it was on the basis of an affidavit dated 30.07.1999 that this family was registered in village Gurad from village Thadi. It is further the stand of respondents No. 6 and 7 that register is not conclusive evidence of fact that petitioners are living in village Gurad and as per respondent No. 6, the Parivar register has been manipulated by the petitioners.

15. I am afraid that there is no merit in this contention of respondent No. 6 that there is a fake entry in favour of the petitioners in the Parivar register of Gram Panchayat, Gurad because in my considered view, respondent No. 6 does not has any competence to unilaterally decide as to whether entry of a family in the Parivar register in a Gram Panchayat in the State of Himachal Pradesh is fake or not. It is not as if respondent No. 6 had challenged the entry so made in favour of the petitioners in the Parivar register before the competent authority and they have obtained adjudication on this aspect of the matter from the competent authority.

16. Similarly, the stand of respondent No. 6 that Parivar register is not conclusive evidence of the fact that the petitioners have been living in village can also not be accepted in view of the fact that it is clearly and categorically contemplated in the R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II in Part-III of the same which deals with employment that entry in Panchayat Parivar register will confer eligibility for employment in the project and no person shall be eligible for employment in the Project who has not entered as member of the concerned affected family in the Panchayat Parivar register.

17. Clause (viii) of para-III is quoted hereinbelow:-

"(viii) No person shall be eligible for employment in the Project, who is not entered as member of the concerned affected family in the Panchayat Parivar Register."

18. Therefore, in this view of the matter, when there exists an entry in favour of the petitioners in Panchayat Parivar register, respondent No.6 cannot arbitrarily and unilaterally ignore it on the pretext that the same is a fake entry and not a conclusive evidence of the fact that petitioners have been living in village Gurad.

19. The contention of respondent No. 6 that petitioners were not displaced on account of acquisition of their land is also not sustainable because it is not a disputed fact that land of petitioner No. 2 measuring more than 1 biswa has been acquired for the purpose of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II.

20. A perusal of R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II demonstrates that as per this Scheme, persons whose land has been acquired for setting up of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II are entitled to different benefits depending upon the extent of the land which has been acquired and the effect which acquisition of such land has upon the affected family. It is contemplated in the Scheme that a landless person as defined in the Scheme shall be entitled for houseless grant as contemplated therein. It is further contemplated in the Scheme as to what are the benefits which accrue to persons who are rendered landless or become oustees on account of the acquisition of land for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II or the persons who have been defined as "eligible persons" under the Scheme.

21. Under Part-II of the Scheme which deals with sanction of rehabilitation grant, providing of employment, rehabilitation grant, infrastructural facility grant and houseless grant, an eligible person has been defined as under:

"Eligible persons means a person who after acquisition holds less than 5 bighas of land as a land owner or as a tenant"

22. Part-III of the Scheme, which deals with employment further provides that one member of each affected family shall be eligible for employment in the Chamera Hydro Electric Project State-II in the mode and manner as prescribed therein.

23. As I have already mentioned above, the Scheme also contemplates that no member of affected family shall be eligible for employment if quantum of his acquired land is one biswa or less and no person shall be eligible for employment in the Project, who is not entered as member of the concerned family in the Panchayat Parivar register and further no person or his family member shall be eligible for employment if he become owner of land by way of sale, gift, exchange etc. after the date of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

24. In the present case, admittedly, land was purchased by petitioner No. 2 which was subsequently acquired for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 for the acquisition of land in issue. In this view of the matter, the stand of respondent-Corporation that petitioners are not entitled for the benefits under the R & R Scheme for Stage-II Project because they had purchase land immediately before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act is without any merit because there is no bar in the Scheme that the persons who purchased land immediately before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act shall not be entitled for the benefits of R & R Scheme for State-II Project.

25. Similarly, as the petitioners fulfill all the eligibility criteria which are laid down in the R & R Scheme for Stage-II Project to be considered for some of the benefits which accrue to an affected family whose land is acquired for Stage-II Project, including employment, the same cannot be denied to the petitioners on the ground that the petitioners have not been displaced on account of acquisition of their land for the Project or that petitioner No. 2 had already been granted employment in lieu of acquisition of land for State-I Project. There is no bar contemplated in the Scheme that in case of families whose land is acquired for Stage-II Project and whose one member has already been granted employment in Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-I in lieu of the acquisition of land of that very family for Stage-I project also, then no member of that family shall be entitled for benenfits including employment under the R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II.

26. In these circumstances, respondents cannot deny the benefits of Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme formulated by the Government of Himachal Pradesh which are accruable to oustees/ affected families whose land has been acquired for Chamera-II project on the grounds which have been taken by them in their respective replies. If according to respondents a beneficiary of Chamera-I project should not be entitled for benefits of Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme for Chamera-II project or any such like subsequent project(s), then such like conditions should be contained in the Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme itself and in the absence of any such bar or condition contained or contemplated in the Scheme, the benefits which are accruable to oustees/ affected families whose land has been acquired for Chamera-II project cannot be denied to it on the said grounds.

27. In this view of the matter, in my considered view, the denial of the benefits of the R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II to the petitioners by respondent No. 6 and 7 is arbitrary, totally irrational and does violence to the spirit and contents of the R & R Scheme for Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II.

28. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed, Annexure P-14 dated 18.11.2006, Annexure P-15 dated 02.02.2007, Annexure P-21 dated 23.05.2007, Annexure P-23 dated 15.06.2007, Annexure P-25 dated 04.07.2007, Annexure P-29 dated 18.02.2008 are quashed and set aside and respondents are directed to confer upon the petitioners all benefits including employment as are accruable to them under the Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme which was framed by the Government of Himachal Pradesh for the benefits of oustees/affected families of Chamera Hydroelectric Project Stage-II. The writ petition stands disposed of, so also the miscellaneous application(s), if any. No order as to costs.

Date of decision: 18.11.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver had two licences at the time of accident- however, it is not the case that driver was not having a valid and effective licence at the time of accident- insurer had not proved that insured had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy – insurer was rightly saddled with liability – appeal dismissed.

(Para-11 to 15)

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was drawing salary of Rs.10,050/- per month- hence, the monthly income of the deceased can be taken as Rs.10,000/- - deceased was bachelor at the time of accident – 50% has to be deducted towards personal expenses and loss of dependency will be Rs.5,000/- per month- deceased was 26 years at the time of accident – Tribunal had wrongly applied multiplier of 14, whereas, multiplier of 16 was applicable- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs.5,000 x 12 x 16= Rs.9,60,000/- under the head loss of dependency- claimants are also entitled to Rs.10,000/- each under the heads loss of love and affection, loss of estate and funeral expenses- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs.9,90,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of claim petition till deposit. (Para-16 to 21)

For the appellant:	Mr.Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr.Sanjay Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 4. Mr.Manoj Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No.5 and 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 14th December, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.9-S/2 of 2010, titled Lokeshawar Narah and others vs. Surinder Kumar Bansal and others, whereby the claim petition was allowed and compensation to the tune of Rs.11,64,670/-, with interest at the rate of 9% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer/appellant was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants, the owner and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

3. Facts of the case, in brief, are that the claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act), on the ground that on 31st December, 2009, at about 9.30 p.m., the deceased was walking on left side of the road at Purolator Chowk, NH-22, Parwanoo, suddenly scooter bearing registration No.HP-15-4795, being driven rashly and negligently by Atinder Pal Singh (original respondent No.2), hit the deceased resulting into fatal injuries to the deceased and ultimately, he succumbed to the injuries. Claimants, being the parents, brother and sister of the deceased, filed the claim petition for compensation to the tune of Rs.15.00 lacs as per the break-ups given therein.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondent by filing reply and following issues came to be framed:

> '1. Whether deceased Dipen Narah died in an accident on account of rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2? OPP
> 2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount and from whom, the petitioners are entitled for compensation? OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR

4. Whether the vehicle in question was driven in breach of terms and conditions of policy? OPR-3

5. Relief."

5. Parties have led evidence.

6. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant/insurer has made threefold submissions. Firstly, it was submitted that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident; secondly, the owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions and; thirdly, the Tribunal has wrongly assessed the compensation while making discussion in paragraphs 23 to 25 of the impugned award.

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

Issue No.1.

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, held that the driver had driven the offending scooter rashly and negligently on the appointed day and had caused the accident, in which the deceased sustained injuries and lost his life. There is no challenge to the said findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No.1, accordingly the same are upheld.

9. Before Issue No.2 is dealt with, I deem it proper to determine issues No.3 and 4.

Issue No.3

10. It was for the insurer to plead and prove how the claim petition was not maintainable, has not led any evidence. In accident claim cases, the Court has to grant compensation while keeping in view the aim and object of granting compensation, which is social and beneficial one. The Act has gone through a sea change and sub section (6) to Section 158 and sub section (4) to Section 166 have been added. Section 158(6) provides that the Incharge of the Police Station concerned has to submit a report about the traffic accident to the Tribunal having the jurisdiction and that report has to be treated as Claim Petition by the Tribunal in terms of Section 166(4) of the Act. Thus, even filing of claim petition is not mandatory for grant of compensation in terms of the said amendment. Accordingly, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly decided this issue against the insurer.

Issue No.4:

11. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. According to the learned counsel for the appellant/insurer, the driver, at the time of accident, was having two licences, but it is not the case that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. The Tribunal has made detailed discussion in paragraphs No.13 to 16 of the impugned award. Having said so, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly held that the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

12. The insurer has also not led any evidence to prove that the owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. It is settled proposition of law that it is the duty of the insurer to plead and prove that the insured had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy read with the mandate of Sections 147 to 149 of the Act, has not led any evidence and has failed to discharge the onus.

13. My this view is fortified by the Apex Court judgment in the case of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"105. .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in subsection (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings: but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

14. It is also profitable to reproduce para 10 of the latest judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 hereinbelow:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran ingh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

15. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.4 are also upheld.

16. It has been claimed that the deceased was a qualified electric engineer and was working in M/s Federal Mogul Bearing India Limited, Parwanoo. Salary certificate of the deceased has been proved on record as Ext.PW-2/A, which shows that he was drawing salary to the tune of Rs.10,050/- per month. Thus, the monthly income of the deceased can be said to be Rs.10,000/-. The deceased was bachelor at the time of accident, therefore, 50% was to be deducted towards his personal expenses, in view of the judgment of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120. Therefore, after deducting 50%, monthly loss of source of dependency can be said to be Rs.5,000/-.

17. The deceased was 26 years of age at the time of death. The Tribunal has fallen into an error in applying the multiplier of 14, instead, in view of the law expounded by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case (supra) and the 2nd Schedule attached with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, multiplier of 16 was just and appropriate and is applied accordingly.

18. In view of the above discussion, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.5,000/- x 12 x 16 = Rs.9,60,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency. In addition, the claimants are also held entitled to Rs.10,000/- each, i.e. Rs.30,000/- in all, under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

19. Thus, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.9,60,000/- + Rs.30,000/- = Rs.9,90,000/-.

20. The Tribunal has also wrongly awarded interest at the rate of 9%, which is on the higher side. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

21. Accordingly, it is held that the amount of compensation shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit.

22. In view of the above discussion, the impugned award is modified, as indicated above. The Registry is directed to release the amount, alongwith interest, strictly in terms of the impugned award, in favour of the claimants, through their bank accounts after proper verification, and the excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the insurer through payee's account cheque.

23. The impugned award is modified, as indicated above and the appeal stands disposed of accordingly.

For the appellant: Mr. Pritam Singh Chandel, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Maan Singh, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to award, dated 9th May, 2012, made by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II (Fast Track Court), Kullu, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC No. 01 of 2012, titled as Sh. Mohan Lal and another versus Jhabe Ram and another, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 80,500/- with interest @ 6% per annum from the date of filing of petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants and the owner-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-insurer has called in question the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the claim petition was filed under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") and was not maintainable as the claimants had claimed the income of the deceased to be ₹ 8,000/- per month.

5. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer is forceful for the reason that the Division Bench of this Court in a case titled as Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. versus Sh. Sihnu Ram and others, being FAO No. 474 of 2010, decided on 28th September, 2016, has held that claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act can be maintained if the income of the victim of a vehicular accident is less than ₹ 40,000/- per annum. Thus, the claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act was not maintainable.

6. But, keeping in view the fact that granting of compensation is a social legislation, this Court can treat the claim petition under Section 166 of the MV Act.

7. At this stage, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that the deceased was himself driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently at the time of the accident and the claimants are the parents of the deceased, thus, the claim petition under Section 166 is also not maintainable.

8. Rash and negligent driving is sine qua non for maintaining a claim petition seeking compensation in terms of the provisions of Section 166 of the Act.

9. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Company Limited versus Premlata Shukla & others, reported in 2007 AIR SCW 3591. It is apt to reproduce para-10 of the judgment herein:-

> "10. The insurer, however, would be liable to re-imburse the insured to the extent of the damages payable by the owner to the claimants subject of course to the limit of its liability as laid down in the Act or the contract of insurance. Proof of rashness and negligence on the part of the driver of the vehicle, is therefore, sine qua non for maintaining an application under Section 166 of the Act."

10. The Apex Court in another case titled as Ningamma and another versus United India Insurance Company Limited, reported in (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 710, has laid down the same principle. It is apt to reproduce pars 21, 24 and relevat portion of para 25 of aforesaid judgment herein.

> "21. In our considered opinion, the ratio of the aforesaid decision is clearly applicable to the facts of the present case. In the present case, the deceased was not the owner of the motorbike in question. He borrowed the said motorbike from its real owner. The deceased cannot be held to be employee of the owner of the motorbike although he was authorised to drive the said vehicle by its owner, and therefore, he would step into the shoes of the owner of the motorbike. We have already extracted Section 163A of the MVA hereinbefore. A bare perusal of the said provision would make it explicitly clear that persons like the deceased in the present case would step into the shoes of the owner of the vehicle.
> 24. However, the question remains as to whether an application for demand of compensation could have been made by the legal representatives of the deceased as provided in Section 166 of the MVA. The said provision specifically provides that an application for compensation arising out of an accident of the nature specified in Sub-section (1) of Section 165 may be made by the person who has sustained the injury; or by the owner of the property; or where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased; or by any agent duly authorised by the person injured or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be.
> 25. When an application of the aforesaid nature claiming compensation under the provisions of Section 166 is received, the Tribunal is required to hold an enquiry into the claim and then proceed to make an award which, however, would be subject to the provisions of Section 162, by determining the amount of compensation, which is found to be just. Person or persons who made claim for compensation would thereafter be paid such amount. When such a claim is made by the legal representatives of the deceased, it has to be proved that the deceased was not himself responsible for the accident by his rash and negligent driving....."

11. It would be profitable to reproduce paras 9 & 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Surinder Kumar Arora & another versus Dr. Manoj Bisla & others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2241, herein:

> "9. Admittedly, the petition filed by the claimants was under Section 166 of the Act and not under Section 163-A of the Act. This is not in dispute. Therefore, it was the entire responsibility of the parents of the deceased to have established that respondent No.1 drew the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner which resulted in the fatal accident. Maybe, in order to help respondent No.1, the claimants had not taken up that plea before the Tribunal. Therefore, High Court was justified in sustaining the judgment and order passed by the Tribunal. We make it clear that if for any reason, the claimants had filed the petition under Section 163-A of the Act, then the dicta of this Court in the case of Kaushnuma Begum (Smt.) & Ors. (AIR 2001 SC 485 : 2001 AIR SCW 85) (supra) would have come to the assistance of the claimants.
> 10. In our view the issue that we have raised for our consideration is squarely covered by the decision of this Court in the case of Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. (AIR 2007 SC 1609 : 2007 AIR SCW 2362) (supra). In the said decision the Court stated:
> > ".....Therefore, the victim of an accident or his dependents have an option either to proceed under Section 166 of the Act or under Section 163-A of the Act. Once they approach the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Act, they have necessarily to take upon themselves the burden of establishing the negligence of the driver or owner of the vehicle concerned. But if they proceed under Section 163-A of the Act, the compensation will be awarded in terms of the Schedule without calling upon the victim or his dependants to establish any negligence or default on the part of the owner of the vehicle or the driver of the vehicle."

12. Applying the test to the instant case, the deceased was himself driving the offending vehicle at the time of the accident as is evident from the perusal of the FIR, Ex. PW-2/A.

13. At this stage, Mr. Maan Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the claimants, stated at the Bar that the claimants have received 50% of the awarded amount with interest, are poor, rustic villagers.

14. Keeping in view the fact that the claimants are the parents of the deceased, have been dragged to the lis due to the traffic accident and are contesting the claim petition from the year 2012 till today, I deem it proper to direct that no recovery be effected from the claimants.

15. The amount, which is still lying deposited before this Court, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

16. The impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of accordingly.

17. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

For the Petitioner : Mr.Manoj Pathak, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Ms.Meenakshi Sharma & Mr.Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals with Mr.J.S.Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

Aggrieved by the framing of charges under Sections 302, 212, 120-B of the IPC, the petitioner has filed the instant revision petition praying therein for quashing of the same.

2. The case emanates from the FIR lodged by Balwant Singh on the allegations that he was travelling in Bolero Camper bearing No.HP-06C-0750 (for short 'Jeep') being driven by Raghubir Singh to see a cultural programme during 'Lavi' fair. After programme had finished, Shri Ajay Kumar, son of Shri Rajender Thakur (now deceased) met them at Rampur and accompanied them on their way back to Nogli (Khakhrola). Accused Vijay Kumar happened to meet them and he sought help from the occupants of the Jeep on the pretext that his vehicle bearing No.HP-06A-2195 had skidded and was stuck in the road. Ajay Kumar deceased alighted from the vehicle to help the accused Vijay Kumar, whereas, Balwant Singh and Raghubir Singh went home in the Jeep. When Ajay Kumar did not return back for quite some time, efforts were made to contact him on his phone, however, he did not attend the call. When searched by complainant Balwant Singh and Raghubir Singh, they had found him lying in a pool of blood on the road at that very place where he had been dropped. Police was informed and on the statement of Balwant Singh recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C., FIR was registered under Section 302 of the IPC as the deceased was last seen in the company of the accused Vijay Kumar.

Before going into the relative merits of the case, the contours and parameters for quashing of charges will have to be delineated.

3. In State of Bihar versus Ramesh Singh AIR 1977 SC 2018, it was held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that at the time of framing of charges, evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce is not to be meticulously judged nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not even obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. At the time of framing of charges, the Court is not to see whether there are sufficient grounds for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion, at this stage, which may lead the Court to think that there is a ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence, is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. It is apt to reproduce the relevant observations which read thus:-

> "4. Under section 226 of the Code while opening the case for the prosecution the Prosecutor has got to describe the charge against the accused and state by what evidence he proposes to prove the guilt of the accused. Thereafter comes at the initial stage the duty of the Court to consider the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith and to hear the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in that behalf. 'The Judge has to pass thereafter an order either under section 227 or section 228 of the Code. If "the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing", as enjoined by section 227. If, on the other hand, "the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-
> (b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused", as provided in section 228. Reading the two provisions together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under section 227 or section 228 of the Code. At that stage the Court is not to 'see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the Court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the Court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the, initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the Court should proceed with the trial or not. if the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence evidence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, then there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial. An exhaustive list of the circumstances to indicate as to what will lead to one conclusion or the other is neither possible nor advisable. We may just illustrate the difference of the law by one more example. If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even at the conclusion of the, trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal. But, if, on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under section 227 or section 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under section 228 and not under section 227."

4. In Union of India versus Prafulla Kumar Samal and another AIR 1979 SC 366, the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the following principles which are required to be borne in mind by the Courts at the time of framing of charges.

"10. Thus, on a consideration of the authorities mentioned above, the following principles emerge:

(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out;

(2) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial;

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

(4) That in exercising his jurisdiction under Section 227 of the Code the Judge which under the present Code is a senior and experienced Court cannot act merely as a Post-Office or a mouth-piece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial."

5. In State of Maharashtra versus Priya Sharan Maharaj and others AIR 1997 SC 2041, it was held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that at the stage of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The Court may, for this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case. Therefore, at the stage of framing of the charge, the Court has to consider the material with a view to find out as to whether there is any ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence or that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against him and not for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion that it is not likely to lead to a conviction.

6. At the stage of framing of charges, all that is required to be established is that a prima facie case is made out by the prosecution. Sufficiency of the evidence resulting into conviction is not to be seen. Charges can be framed if there is some material showing possibility of crime as against certainty. (Refer: Keshub Mahindra versus State of M.P. (1996) 6 SCC 129, State of M.P. versus S.B.Johari and others (2000) 2 SCC 57, State of Delhi versus Gyan Devi and others (2000) 8 SCC 239 and State of A.P. versus Golconda Linga Swamy and another (2004) 6 SCC 522.

7. In Amit Kapoor versus Ramesh Chander and another (2012) 9 SCC 460, the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the following principles to be considered for proper exercise of jurisdiction, particularly with regard to quashing of charge either in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 or Section 482 have been summarized as follows:-

"1. Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.

2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

4. Where the exercise of such power is absolutely essential to prevent patent miscarriage of justice and for correcting some grave error that might be committed by the subordinate courts even in such cases, the High Court should be loath to interfere, at the threshold, to throttle the prosecution in exercise of its inherent powers.

5. Where there is an express legal bar enacted in any of the provisions of the Code or any specific law in force to the very initiation or institution and continuance of such criminal proceedings, such a bar is intended to provide specific protection to an accused.

6. The Court has a duty to balance the freedom of a person and the right of the complainant or prosecution to investigate and prosecute the offender.

7. The process of the Court cannot be permitted to be used for an oblique or ultimate/ulterior purpose.

8. Where the allegations made and as they appeared from the record and documents annexed therewith to predominantly give rise and constitute a 'civil wrong' with no 'element of criminality' and does not satisfy the basic ingredients of a criminal offence, the Court may be justified in quashing the charge. Even in such cases, the Court would not embark upon the critical analysis of the evidence.

9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction, the Court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a fullfledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

13. Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie.

14. Where the charge-sheet, report under Section 173(2) of the Code, suffers from fundamental legal defects, the Court may be well within its jurisdiction to frame a charge.

15. Coupled with any or all of the above, where the Court finds that it would amount to abuse of process of the Code or that interest of justice favours, otherwise it may quash the charge. The power is to be exercised ex debito justitiae, i.e. to do real and substantial justice for administration of which alone, the courts exist.

[(2001) 7 SCC 659]}.

16. These are the principles which individually and preferably cumulatively (one or more) be taken into consideration as precepts to exercise of extraordinary and wide plenitude and jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code by the High Court. Where the factual foundation for an offence has been laid down, the courts should be reluctant and should not hasten to quash the proceedings even on the premise that one or two ingredients have not been stated or do not appear to be satisfied if there is substantial compliance of the requirements of the offence."

8. Similar reiteration of law can be found in the recent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Tamil Nadu versus Mariya Anton Vijay (2015) 9 SCC 294.

9. Shri Manoj Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioner, has vehemently argued that the learned Court has failed to appreciate that there is no reliable and cogent evidence to prove the involvement of the petitioner in the alleged offence. Rather, a perusal of the charge-sheet would clearly goes to show that there are no allegations against the petitioner that she had harboured or concealed principal accused Vijay Kumar.

10. Shri J.S.Guleria, learned Assistant Advocate General, on the other hand, has vehemently contended that even strong suspicions, at this stage, can be a sufficient ground to frame the charges and has drawn my attention to the statements of the complainant and other persons associated during the course of investigation.

11. Having gone through the statements of the complainant coupled with those of Medh Ram, Raghubir Singh and Balwant Singh, the involvement of the petitioner, at this stage, cannot be ruled out. However, I need not further delve on this issue, lest it causes prejudice to the case of the petitioner. But, suffice it to say that no ground for quashing of the charge-sheet at the threshold is made out. Moreover, the learned Court below appears to have meticulously perused the material placed on record by the prosecution and only thereafter has framed the charges that too after coming to the conclusion that a prima facie case has been made out by the prosecution for trial of the petitioner.

12. For all the aforesaid reasons, the present revision petition is devoid of any merit and accordingly the same is dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

13. However, before parting, it is clarified that any observation made hereinabove shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on merits of the case and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced by the same.

5. Heard. Taking into consideration the nature of the offence and the facts that the petitioner is resident of the place, he is joining/cooperating in the investigation and not in a position to flee from justice and also not in a position to tamper with the prosecution evidence, this Court finds that, interest of justice would be met in case the judicial discretion to admit the petitioner on bail is exercised in favour of the petitioner. The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since the basic facts are common in all the petitions, therefore, these were heard together and are being disposed of by common judgment.

CWP No. 1498 of 2010

2. Certain bare minimum facts as pleaded may be noticed. The petitioner is an industrial unit situated at Parwanoo, Himachal Pradesh and is aggrieved by the construction of the national highway, which passes through some of the land of the petitioner.

3. The petitioner has its unit at Sector-3, Parwanoo, under the name and style of Shivalik Agro Poly Products Limited, which is operational for the last about 30 years.

4. Petitioner purchased land comprised in Khasra No. 450 vide sale deed dated 31.7.2007 and thereafter vide sale deed dated 25.7.2008 purchased another piece of land comprised in Khasra No. 449 for the purpose of expansion of its existing unit.

5. After seeking approval from the competent authority, the petitioner raised some construction on both these lands including chemical tanks constructed over Khasra No. 449. It is claimed by the petitioner that in the notifications under Sections 3A & 3D of the National Highways Act, 1956 (for short 'Act'), issued on 16.3.2007, 24.1.2008 and 9.10.2009, its land had not been included, however despite this, the respondents began construction of the national highway adjoining to its land and because of the vibrations emitted from the heavy machinery deployed at the spot, cracks initially appeared in the retaining wall which later on collapsed and thereafter cracks even appeared in some portion of the premises of the petitioner. Petitioner claimed that on account of such construction work, there was continuous threat to the life of the people as well as the building premises of the petitioner.

6. This constrained the petitioner to file CWP No. 1498 of 2010 seeking therein the quashment of notifications issued under Section 3A of the Act dated 16.3.2007, notification under Section 3D, dated 24.1.2008 and notification under Section 3A, dated 9.10.2009 and in addition thereto the direction was also sought against the respondents to refrain from carrying out further damage to the hill on which land and industrial units of the petitioner are situated and to take all remedial measure in accordance with law.

7. When the case initially came up for consideration on 19.4.2010, this Court passed the following orders:

> "There will be direction to the Deputy Commissioner, Solan District, to forthwith conduct a site inspection with notice to 2nd, 5th and 6th respondents and submit a report regarding the state of affairs as alleged in the Writ Petition. This report shall be filed within a week. The petitioner will produce a copy of this order alongwith a copy of the Writ petition before the Deputy Commissioner, Solan on 20.4.2010. Post on 28.4.2010. It is made clear that the construction work shall be done without causing any damage to the adjoining property. Post on 28.4.2010."

8. The Deputy Commissioner submitted his report, however, this Court vide order dated 21.5.2010 issued directions to the Chairman, District Legal Services Authority, Solan to visit the place and submit its report. He accordingly visited the spot and submitted his report. On 1.6.2010, this Court passed the following orders:-

> "Learned counsel appearing for the respondents, in view of the report of the District Legal Services Authority and after getting instruction from the Engineers, submitted that required temporary measure of providing concrete covering duly supported by steel beam and re-enforced with wire mesh above abutment No. 2 is being undertaken. It is also submitted that the work of filling and construction of breast and crate walls will be done on war footing basis so as to finish it in any case before the end of June, 2010. Post on 19.6.2010."

9. The National Highway Authority (Respondent No.2) in his short reply stated that it had bonafidely presumed Khasra No. 450 to be a part of Khasra No. 472 and had been executing the work over the said land and it is only on 8.3.2010 when the land was demarcated by the revenue officials that it became apparent that an area measuring 646 sqm which was earlier believed to be a part of Khasra No. 472 was actually a part of Khasra No. 450. Since the error in not covering part of Khasra No. 450 in acquisition notification occurred due to discrepancy in the demarcation record, therefore, once these facts became apparent, the mistake was sought to be rectified and requisite notification in accordance with the Act of 1956 would be issued.

10. As regards the contention regarding damage to the property of the petitioner, it has been stated that on account of steep slope and stone retaining wall of the petitioner being old, some damage had occurred inspite of the best protection taken at the site during the execution of the work. The boundary wall had been damaged at two places, which had been undertaken to be restored by the respondent at the earliest. As regards the present status of the work, it was stated that excavation work on the site had already been completed, therefore, there will be no occasion for the alleged vibration and the already excavated portion of the foundations shall be filled with earth, compacted in layers to the height varying from 10-12m to give support to the remaining slopes of the strata/hill. In addition to that two walls, breast wall and small retaining wall would be constructed as per the requirement and best engineering solutions/principles. Wherever, rock is available, the same would be covered with the short-crate treatment for retaining the same, which is common and well known treatment of rock support. It was lastly averred that the project is of national importance and timely completion thereof is in nation's interest.

Contempt Pet. No. 235 of 2010

11. It is claimed by the petitioner that respondents on 1.6.2010 had given an undertaking before this Court that they would carry out the work on war footing basis so as to finish it in any case before the end of June, 2010, as is reflected in order itself. However, the progress of the work was slow and tardy and not up to the mark and thereby the respondents had deliberately and willfully disobeyed the undertaking so furnished to the Court, constraining the petitioner to file the COPC No. 235 of 2010.

CWP No. 2317 of 2011

12. As regards CWP No. 2317 of 2011 the same has been filed for seeking quashment of notification dated 21.6.2010 (Annexure P-12) issued under Section 3A and notification dated 7.3.2011 (Annexure P-21) issued under Section 3D of the Act wherein the land of the petitioner was sought to be acquired. These notifications have been assailed on the ground that the same were totally illegal and malafide and issued under colourable exercise of power and the same have been issued without following any procedure as provided and contemplated under the Act.

Discussion

13. It is not in dispute that national highway is operational for the last more than 4 years and, therefore, the most of the issues raised in these petitions have only been rendered academic.

14. In CWP No. 1498 of 2010, as observed above, apart from seeking quashment of the various notifications, petitioner had also sought directions to the respondents for taking remedial measure so as to ensure complete protection of its property. The affidavits filed from time to time by the petitioner as also by the respondents up till the year, 2011, would indicate that sufficient steps have been taken by the respondents to protect the property of the petitioner and even the petitioner appears to have been satisfied with the same because the petitioner did not make any grievance thereafter.

15. The same is the position in CWP No. 2317 of 2011, wherein again the petitioner made no grievance till the passage of nearly 4 ½ years and all of a sudden in this year filed miscellaneous applications wherein it has been prayed that respondents be directed to construct proper RCC retaining wall and also repair the damage, which have occurred due to incomplete remedial measures undertaken by the respondents.

16. The petitioner cannot insist upon this Court to issue writ of continuous mandamus, more particularly, when there is no public interest and that apart, the silence of the petitioner over the last 4 ½ years speaks volumes of its conduct.

17. As noticed above, the National Highway is in operation for the last more than 4 years and the petitioner had made no grievance qua any deficiency in the remedial measures for protection of the so-called damage to the petitioner. The further question that whether certain remedial measures are still required to be taken is a matter which cannot be decided on the basis of affidavits and photographs alone. These facts have to be established by leading clear, cogent and convincing evidence that too before a competent Court of law.

18. It is more than settled that the High Court having regards to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain the writ petition. The Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions in the exercise of this power and this plenary right of the High Court to issue a prerogative writ will not normally be exercised by the Court to the exclusion of other available remedies. If there are very serious disputed questions of fact which are of complex nature and require oral evidence for their determinations, then this Court will normally refrain from exercising such discretion.

19. Similar issues came up for consideration before this Court in LPA No. 48 of 2011, titled Shri Satija Rajesh N Vs. State of H.P. & Ors, decided on 26.8.2014, wherein, it was held as under:-

> "31. The writ Court has also brushed aside the affidavit filed by the Chief Executive Officer of writ respondent No. 2-HIMUDA, who has mentioned in the affidavit that the bid of the successful bidders-appellants in LPA No. 1 of 2011 was received on 14th September, 2006. How the writ Court came to the conclusion that the affidavit of the Chief Executive Officer is not correct or it should have been supported by other affidavits. It appears that the writ Court has fallen in error in returning findings on disputes questions of facts.

> 32. The Apex Court in a case titled as D.L.F. Housing Construction (P) Ltd. versus Delhi Municipal Corpn. and others, reported in AIR 1976 Supreme Court

386, has held that the disputed question of facts cannot be gone through by the writ Court and the writ Court cannot return findings on disputed questions of facts. It is apt to reproduce para 18 of the judgment herein:

> "18. In our opinion, in a case where the basic facts are disputed, and complicated questions of law and fact depending on evidence are involved the writ court is not the proper forum for seeking relief. The right course of the High Court to follow was to dismiss the writ petition on this preliminary ground, without entering upon the merits of the case. In the absence of firm and adequate factual foundation, it was hazardous to embark upon a determination of the points involved. On this short ground while setting aside the findings of the High Court, we would dismiss both the findings of the High Court, we would dismiss both the writ petition and the appeal with costs. The appellants may if so advised, seek their remedy by a regular suit."

33. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in Daljit Singh Dalal (dead) through L.Rs. Versus Union of India and others, reported in AIR 1997 Supreme Court 1367 and Chairman, Grid Corporation of Orissa Ltd. (GRIDCO) and others versus Smt. Sukamani Das and another, reported in AIR 1999 Supreme Court 3412.

34. The Apex Court in a case titled as State of Karnataka & Ors. versus KGSD Canteen Employees Welfare Association & Ors., reported in 2006 AIR SCW 212, has held that High Court should not exercise its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in cases where disputed questions of facts have been raised. It is apt to reproduce paras 37 and 40 of the judgment herein:

> "37. In a case of this nature, where serious disputed questions fact were raised, in our opinion, it was not proper for the High Court to embark thereupon an exercise under Article 226 of the Constitution. The High Court in its judgment relied upon a large number of decisions of this court, inter alia, in Reserve Bank of India (supra) and State Bank of India and others v. State Bank of India Canteen Employees' Union (Bengal circle) and others (AIR 2000 SC 1518) ignoring the fact that all such disputes were adjudicated in an industrial adjudication.
> 38. .....
> 39. .....
> 40. It was, furthermore, reiterated that a disputed question of fact normally not be entertained in a writ proceeding."

35. The same view has been taken by the Apex Court in Orissa Agro Industries Corporation Ltd. and others versus Bharati Industries and others, reported in AIR 2006 Supreme Court 198 and Rajinder Singh versus State of Jammu and Kashmir & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 5157."

20. The legal position has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in its recent judgment titled as Gujarat Maritime Board versus L & T Infrastructure Development Projects Ltd. and Another AIR 2016 SC 4502 wherein it was held as under:-

> "10. Unfortunately, the High Court went wrong both in its analysis of facts and approach on law. A cursory reading of LoI would clearly show that it is not a case of forfeiture of security deposit "… if the contract had frustrated on account of impossibility…" but invocation of the performance bank guarantee. On law, the High Court ought to have noticed that the bank guarantee is an independent contract between the guarantor-bank and the guarantee-appellant. The guarantee is unconditional. No doubt, the performance guarantee is against the breach by the lead promoter, viz., the first respondent. But between the bank and the appellant, the specific condition incorporated in the bank guarantee is that the decision of the appellant as to the breach is binding on the bank. The justifiability of the decision is a different matter between the appellant and the first respondent and it is not for the High Court in a proceeding under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to go into that question since several disputed questions of fact are involved. Recently, this Court in Joshi Technologies International Inc. v. Union of India and others[1], where one of us (R.F. Nariman, J.) is a member, has surveyed the entire legal position on exercise of writ jurisdiction in contractual matters. The paragraphs which deal with the situation relevant to the case under appeal, read as follows:

"68. The Court thereafter summarised the legal position in the following manner: (ABL International Ltd. Case (2004) 3 SCC 553) "

27. From the above discussion of ours, following legal principles emerge as to the maintainability of a writ petition:

(a) In an appropriate case, a writ petition as against a State or an instrumentality of a State arising out of a contractual obligation is maintainable.

(b) Merely because some disputed questions of facts arise for consideration, same cannot be a ground to refuse to entertain a writ petition in all cases as a matter of rule.

(c) A writ petition involving a consequential relief of monetary claim is also maintainable.

28. However, while entertaining an objection as to the maintainability of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the court should bear in mind the fact that the power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provisions of the Constitution. The High Court having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. The Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions in the exercise of this power. (See Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks. [(1998) 8 SCC 1]) And this plenary right of the High Court to issue a prerogative writ will not normally be exercised by the Court to the exclusion of other available remedies unless such action of the State or its instrumentality is arbitrary and unreasonable so as to violate the constitutional mandate of Article 14 or for other valid and legitimate reasons, for which the Court thinks it necessary to exercise the said jurisdiction."

69. The position thus summarised in the aforesaid principles has to be understood in the context of discussion that preceded which we have pointed out above. As per this, no doubt, there is no absolute bar to the maintainability of the writ petition even in contractual matters or where there are disputed questions of fact or even when monetary claim is raised. At the same time, discretion lies with the High Court which under certain circumstances, it can refuse to exercise. It also follows that under the following circumstances, "normally", the Court would not exercise such a discretion:

69.1. The Court may not examine the issue unless the action has some public law character attached to it.

69.2. Whenever a particular mode of settlement of dispute is provided in the contract, the High Court would refuse to exercise its discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution and relegate the party to the said mode of settlement, particularly when settlement of disputes is to be resorted to through the means of arbitration.

69.3. If there are very serious disputed questions of fact which are of complex nature and require oral evidence for their determination.

> 69.4. Money claims per se particularly arising out of contractual obligations are normally not to be entertained except in exceptional circumstances."

21. As regards contempt petition No. 235 of 2010, we from a perusal of order dated 1.6.2010, really do not find any undertaking actually having been furnished by respondent No. 6 so as to initiate the contempt proceedings against the said respondent. The mere fact that the remedial measures undertaken by the respondent No. 6 were not to the liking or complete satisfaction of the petitioner, in itself cannot be a ground to initiate contempt proceedings against respondent No. 6.

22. Now, adverting to CWP No. 2317 of 2011, it would be noticed that the petitioner has assailed the notifications dated 9.10.2009 and 21.6.2010 issued by the respondents under sections 3-A and 3-D of the Act, respectively on the ground that the same is colourable exercise of power and have been issued without following the procedure prescribed under the Act, and therefore, illegal and arbitrary and liable to be quashed mainly that the petitioner was not afforded an opportunity of hearing. It is contended that the petitioner had specifically requested for providing an opportunity of being heard as envisaged under section 3-C of the Act, but to no avail. Even the objections filed by the petitioner were not considered and, thus, the land of the petitioner has been acquired without following due process of law.

23. Respondent No.2 in a short reply has disputed all the contentions and has stated that as per the Act, no permanent construction is allowed within specified limit. The Section 3-A notification intended land acquisition showing intention of the National Highway Authority of India (for short 'NHAI') of four laning of Zirakpur-Parwanoo section on NH-22 and construction of bypass as a part of the project was published on 16.3.2007. The petitioner despite having full knowledge of this development had still purchased the land comprised in Khasra No.450 and executed the sale deed on 31.7.2007 for the reasons best known to it. Khasra No. 472 was part of section 3-A notification, which is a Government land, whereas Khasra No. 450 abuts Khasra No. 472. The alignment plans were available wherein Khasra No. 450 was earlier being considered part of Khasra No. 472, and therefore, was got omitted from incorporation in section 3-A notification. Even after issuance of notification under section 3-D, the petitioner purchased the land comprised in Khasra No. 449 and executed sale deed on 25.7.2008. In fact, the petitioner had full knowledge of forthcoming NH developments over which he purchased the land where no construction was legally permissible. The petitioner did not approach the NHAI seeking permission and rather sought permission for the unit right up to the end of the road boundary, which is contrary to National Highways Act.

24. It is further averred that the fact of issuance of notifications under sections 3-A and 3-D of the Act were well within the knowledge of the petitioner and were suppressed by him before the concerned authorities. According to this respondent, it has followed all the procedures that were envisaged under the Act by issuing notices in the newspaper before the acquisition and thereafter, opportunity was afforded before taking possession and the petitioner has been paid nearly 100 times the compensation, as per the averments contained in para 4 of the reply, which reads thus:

> "4. That it is submitted that the Competent Authority has announced the award for the acquired land measuring 646 sqm. in Khasra No.450, of the petitioner, amounting to Rs. 2196400/-. On perusal of the registered sale deed having account/sub account No.29/55, 56, 57, land No. 450/Purla/444, 445, 446, 447, 5 Nos. area 0-99-00 Hec its ½ share i.e. 0-46-45 Hect. which is registered for Rs. 163068 and by comparing the compensation for the 464 sqm, the compensation amount comes to 96.84 times the value as compared to the registered value of the land. It is brought out that the sale deed registered in 2007 by the petitioner is getting a return, that too from Govt. acquisition for a portion of land nearly 100 times within a span of 4 years. NHAI has received communication for award from competent Authority and further action being taken by NHAI as per the provisions of NH Act, 1956."

25. The petitioner has filed rejoinders wherein, it is averred that the award passed by the Collector appears to be ante dated and has been passed without affording an opportunity of hearing to him, as would be evident from the averments made in para 34 of the rejoinder to the reply of respondent No. 5, which reads thus:

> "34. That the contents of para No. 34 of the reply are wrong and hence denied and that of the writ petition are reiterated. No hearing was afforded to the petitioner by the competent authority as repeatedly requested by the petitioner and as has been lighted in detail in the writ petition as well as in the foregoing paragraphs. The order cannot be said to be speaking and appears to have been passed in an ante-dated manner after the institution of the writ petition. The said apprehension has been created in the mind of the petitioner on account of the fact that firstly the petitioner was not afforded any opportunity of being heard through a legal practitioner as repeatedly requested and secondly, has no copy of the order purported to have been passed on 29.11.2010 to the petitioner before the institution of the writ petition or issuance of notice by this Hon'ble Court. It is wrong and denied that the petitioner was heard by the competent authority on 24.11.2010."

26. It would be evident from the pleadings reproduced hereinabove that the specific claim of the petitioner is that the Collector had antedated the award. Obviously this question is of a complex nature and will require oral evidence for its determination and cannot be gone into by this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction.

27. It is not in dispute that earlier to filing of this petition i.e. CWP No. 2317 of 2011, the petitioner had already filed and had been pursuing CWP No. 1498 of 2010 and was, therefore, fully aware of all the developments that have taken place during interregnum. This would include the notification that was issued by the respondents from time to time under National Highways Act. That apart, the only right, which the petitioner had was a right of hearing and in case the same was denied to it, its remedy was elsewhere and not by way of the instant petition. More particularly, when the petitioner has not even sought the quashment of the award and has only sought for staying the operation of the various notifications issued under Sections 3-A and 3-D of the Act, which obviously cannot be done at this stage as the National Highway Authority of India was not only being constructed but is in operation for the last more than four years, rendering the prayer made in the writ petition redundant. However, in case, the petitioner still has any grievance, it is free to take recourse to such remedy as may be available to it under law.

Conclusion

28. In view of the aforesaid discussion, CWP No. 1498 of 2010 and CWP No. 2317 of 2011 are dismissed and notice issued in COPC No. 235 of 2010 is ordered to be discharged and the contempt petition is accordingly dismissed.

29. With the aforesaid observations, all the petitions are dismissed, so also the pending application(s), leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioners were working in the health and family welfare department as Computers and Junior statistical Assistants- there was parity with the computers and field investigators in economic and statistical department which was disturbed in the year 1994- representations were made and rejected – a writ petition was filed, which was allowed – respondents were directed to restore the parity- held, that there cannot be a strait jacket formula to hold that two posts having same or similar nomenclature should have same pay scale – merely because two posts have same name does not lead to any inference that posts are identical in every manner – this exercise can be carried out by the pay commission – the job profile and recruitment rules for the posts in two departments are different – principle of equal pay for equal work is applicable only when it is shown that the incumbents in the two posts discharge similar duties and responsibilities – the petitioners had failed to prove this fact- the writ petition was wrongly allowed- appeal allowed and judgment of writ Court set aside.

For the Respondents: Mr. Dalip Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Manish Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 8, LRs of respondent No. 9 and respondents No. 10 to 33 in LPA No. 445 of 2012.

Mr. Sunil Awasthi, Advocate, for the respondents in LPA Nos. 99 and 101 of 2015.

Nemo for the respondent in LPA No. 100 of 2015.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since common questions of law and facts arise for consideration in all these appeals, the same were taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of by way of common judgment. In order to maintain clarity, facts of LPA No. 445 of 2012 have been taken into consideration. The party shall be referred to as the 'writ petitioners' and 'Department' respectively.

2. Material facts as borne out from the pleadings of the parties are that the writ petitioners were working in the Health and Family Welfare Department as Computers and Junior Statistical Assistants (for short 'Department'). As per the Recruitment and Promotion Rules notified on 7.12.1973 for Health and Family Welfare Department Subordinate Class-III Services, computers/ Computers-cum-clerks were placed in the pay scale of Rs.110-250. These posts were to be filled up 100% by way of direct recruitment and the essential qualification for the same was Matric/Higher Secondary Part-I.

3. The post of Statistical Assistant appearing against Sl. No. 9 was in the pay scale of Rs. 200-500, whereas the post of Statistical Assistant at Sl. No. 10 was in the pay scale of Rs. 140-300. It was averred that the Computers in Economics and Statistics Department (for short 'E&S Department) were re-designated on 50:50 basis as Field Investigators Grade-I & Grade-II in the pay scale of Rs. 140-399 and Rs. 120-250 respectively w.e.f. 10.12.1974 vide memorandum dated 19.7.1978, whereas in the 'Department', the Computers were in the pay scale of Rs. 110-250 comparable to Field Investigators Grade-I in E&S Department and Junior Statistical Assistants were in the pay scale of Rs.140-300 comparable to Field Investigators Grade-II in E&S Department.

4. When the revision of pay scale took place w.e.f. 1.1.1986, the parity of pay scales of Computers of the 'Department' was again maintained with Field Investigators Grade-II (Rs.950-1800) and that of Junior Statistical Assistants (1200-2100) was maintained with that of Field Investigators Grade-I of E&S Department.

5. However, vide notification dated 8.7.1994, the pay scales of Computers and Junior Statistical Assistants of the 'Department' vis-a-vis Field Investigators Grade-I & Grade II of E&S Department was disturbed by revising the pay scale of Field Investigators Grade-II w.e.f. 1.1.1994 by allowing them three tier pay scales (950-1800 with initial start of Rs.1000, Rs. 1200-2130 and Rs.1500-2700 on 20:40:40 basis). However, the corresponding revision was not given to the Computers/Junior Statistical Assistants of the 'Department' and the Computers were continued in the pay scale of Rs.950-1800.

6. Thereafter, the State vide notification dated 17.10.1995 clubbed and re-designated the post of Field Investigators Grade-II and Field Investigator Grade-I in E&S Department as Investigators w.e.f. 1.1.1994 by again allowing them three tier pay-scale in the ratio of 20:40:40 as already granted vide notification dated 8.7.1994. Subsequently, from 1.1.1996 even the pay scales were revised by allowing them the revised pay scale of Rs. 3120-5160 with initial start of Rs. 3220 and Rs.4400-7000 with five years experience on 50:50 basis in place of 20:40:40 admissible before 1.1.1996, whereas the Computers in the Department were allowed revised pay scale of Rs. 3120-5160 in place of Rs. 950-1800 w.e.f. 1.1.1996 and three tier pay scale allowed to Field Investigators Grade-I and Grade-II was further revised and extended to them w.e.f. 1.1.1986 instead of 1.1.1994.

7. The writ petitioners represented and pursuant to such representations, Director (Health Services) brought to the notice of Principal Secretary (Health) that the pay scales of Statistical Personnel of E&S/Planning Department alongwith other Departments had been revised w.e.f. 1.1.1986 whereas Statistical Personnel of the 'Department' had been left out in that revision even though the pay scales and Recruitment and Promotion Rules of the posts were same in all the Department of the State. It was also pointed out that the appointments were made in various Departments, including present Department through H.P.P.S.C. on the basis of combined test/examinations as well as through Departmental Promotion Committee. However, the representations were rejected constraining the petitioners to approach this court by filing writ petitions wherein they claimed parity with the so-called similarly situated employees working in the E&S Department.

8. The Department filed its reply wherein it raised preliminary submissions to the effect that it was for the Government to decide the pay scales which were admissible to its employees. As regards the 'Department', it was submitted that the post of Computers was upgraded to the level of Investigators Grade-I & Grade-II and the revision of such post(s) has been made on post to post and Department to Department basis on Punjab pattern as such the pay scales of the category of posts of Investigators in the Department have also been revised from time to time, whereas the same pay scale cannot be granted to the post of Computers in the Department in question as their pay scales have been revised. It is the prerogative of the State Government and the revision to the respective Department has been made on the basis of Punjab Pattern, therefore, petitioners cannot claim parity for grant of pay scale.

9. It was also averred that the nature of job responsibilities of the Statistical Assistants cannot be compared with those of the Computers and therefore there cannot be any parity between the two categories. It was further averred that the equation of post and equation of salary is a complex matter which is best left to expert body.

10. It was further averred that ordinarily pay scales are evolved keeping in mind several factors, e.g.

(i) method of recruitment,

(ii) level at which recruitment is made,

(iii) the hierarchy of service in a given cadre,

(iv) minimum educational / technical qualifications,

(v) avenues of promotion,

(vi) the nature of duties and responsibilities,

(vii) the horizontal and vertical relativities with similar jobs,

(viii) public dealings,

(ix) satisfaction level,

(x) employer's capacity to pay etc.

11. Lastly, It was averred that it is keeping in view the nature and duties of the category of the Computers in the Planning Department and E&S Department that the post of Computers was upgraded to the level of the Field Investigator Grade-I and Grade-II, which subsequently formed a single cadre as Investigators on the basis of the Punjab government. Since, the nature of the duties of the writ petitioners and similarly situated persons was not at all comparable to the duties of the Field Investigators / Investigators of Planning, Economics & Statistics Departments, their pay scales from retrospective effect could not be equated at par with the pay scales provided/granted to the field Investigators Grade-I and Grade-II from a retrospective date i.e. 1.1.1986 over and above the decision of the State Government taken from time to time on Punjab pattern.

12. The learned writ Court allowed the writ petition and directed the respondents to restore the parity in the pay scales of the Computers/Junior Statistical Assistants at par with their counterparts, i.e. field Investigator Grade-II and Field Investigator Grade-I (now re-designated as Investigators) in E&S Department w.e.f. 1.1.1986 with all the consequential benefits, within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this judgment by the petitioner(s), failing which the petitioners will be entitled to interest @9% per annum till the implementation of this judgment.

Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the 'Department' has filed these Letter Patent Appeals.

13. It is vehemently argued by Shri Anup Rattan, learned Additional Advocate General that the findings arrived at by the learned Writ Court to conclude that the writ petitioners were discharging the same and similar duties, responsibilities and the essential qualification and method of recruitment is highly erroneous and therefore the judgment be set-aside.

14. On the other hand, Shri Dalip Sharma, Sr. Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Manish Sharma, Advocate, contended that findings rendered by the learned Writ Court with respect to there being parity in duties and essential qualification, method of recruitment etc. should not be disturbed as these are well reasoned and prayed for dismissal of the appeal.

We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

15. At the outset it may be observed that this Court after placing reliance upon various judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically held that there cannot be a straight jacket formula to hold two posts having same or similar nomenclature would have to be given the same pay-scale as this exercise is of a complex nature, which requires assessment of the nature and quality of the duties performed and the responsibilities shouldered by the incumbent on different posts. Even though two posts may be referred by the same name, it would not lead to the necessary inference that posts are identical in every manner. These matters are to be dealt with by expert body like Employer Pay Commission and it is not for the service Tribunal or the Writ court to normally venture to substitute its own opinion for the opinion rendered by the expert as they lack necessary expertise to undertake the complex exercise for the equation of post for the pay-scale.

16. References in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment rendered in CWP No. 873 of 1993, titled Roshan Lal vs. Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh, decided on 27.10.1994, LPA No. 59 of 2009, titled as H.P.S.E.B. vs. Rajinder Upadhayay, decided on 11.9.2014, LPA No. 11 of 2014, titled as Principal Secretary Vs. Partap Thakur, decided on 22.9.2014, LPA No. 99 of 2010, titled as H.P. State Electronics Development Corporation Ltd. vs. Vijay Sikka, decided on 6.10.2015, and LPA No. 81 of 2012, titled as Kameshwar Gautam vs. HPMC, decided on 2.12.2015.

17. In addition to the aforesaid, we find that the issue in question now stands succinctly but lucidly considered and expounded by Hon'ble Supreme Court in its recent judgment in a batch of appeals titled State of Punjab and Ors. Vs. Jagjit Singh & Ors. Civil Appeal No. 213 of 2013, decided on 26.10.2016, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraphs 7 to 24 of the report has dealt with the cases of employees engaged on regular basis, who were claiming higher wages under the condition equal pay for equal work. It was premised on the ground that the duties and responsibilities rendered by them, were against the same post for which higher pay-scale was being allowed in other government department though their duties and responsibilities were the same as of the other posts with different designation but they were placed in a lower scale.

18. Hon'ble Supreme Court after taking into consideration the entire gamut of law on the subject in a well articulated judgment has laid down by the following principles to be followed in matters relating to 'equal pay for equal work' which reads as under:-

> (i) The 'onus of proof', of parity in the duties and responsibilities of the subject post with the reference post, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', lies on the person who claims it. He who approaches the Court has to establish, that the subject post occupied by him, requires him to discharge equal work of equal value, as the reference post (see –Orissa University of Agriculture & Technology, 2003 5 SCC 188 Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh v. Manju Mathur, 2011 2 SCC 452, the Steel Authority of India Limited, 2011 11 SCC 122 and the National Aluminum Company Limited case).
> (ii) The mere fact that the subject post occupied by the claimant, is in a "different department" vis-a-vis the reference post, does not have any bearing on the determination of a claim, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work'. Persons discharging identical duties, cannot be treated differently, in the matter of their pay, merely because they belong to different departments of Government (see – Randhir Singh case, 1982 1 SCC 618 , and the D.S. Nakara case 1983 1 SCC 304).

(iii) The principle of 'equal pay for equal work', applies to cases of unequal scales of pay, based on no classification or irrational classification (see – Randhir Singh case).

For equal pay, the concerned employees with whom equation is sought, should be performing work, which besides being functionally equal, should be of the same quality and sensitivity (see –Federation of All India Customs and Central Excise Stenographers (Recognized) case 1983 3 SCC 91, the Mewa Ram Kanojia case, 1989 2 SCC 235, the Grih Kalyan Kendra Workers' Union case, 1991 1 SCC 619 and the S.C. Chandra case, 2007 8 SCC 279).

(iv) Persons holding the same rank/designation (in different departments), but having dissimilar powers, duties and responsibilities, can be placed in different scales of pay, and cannot claim the benefit of the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' (see – Randhir Singh, 1982 1 SCC 618, State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Association, 2002 6 SCC 72 and the Hukum Chand Gupta, 2012 12 SCC 666).

Therefore, the principle would not be automatically invoked, merely because the subject and reference posts have the same nomenclature.

(v) In determining equality of functions and responsibilities, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', it is necessary to keep in mind, that the duties of the two posts should be of equal sensitivity, and also, qualitatively similar. Differentiation of pay-scales for posts with difference in degree of responsibility, reliability and confidentiality, would fall within the realm of valid classification, and therefore, pay differentiation would be legitimate and permissible (see –Federation of All India Customs and Central Excise Stenographers (Recognized), 1988 3 SCC 91 and the State Bank of India, 2002 4 SCC 556).

The nature of work of the subject post should be the same and not less onerous than the reference post. Even the volume of work should be the same. And so also, the level of responsibility. If these parameters are not met, parity cannot be claimed under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' (see - State of U.P. v. J.P. Chaurasia, 1989 1 SCC 121 and the Grih Kalyan Kendra Workers' Union, 1991 1 SCC 619).

(vi) For placement in a regular pay-scale, the claimant has to be a regular appointee. The claimant should have been selected, on the basis of a regular process of recruitment. An employee appointed on a temporary basis, cannot claim to be placed in the regular pay-scale (see –Orissa University of Agriculture & Technology, 2003 5 SCC 188).

(vii) Persons performing the same or similar functions, duties and responsibilities, can also be placed in different pay-scales. Such as - 'selection grade', in the same post. But this difference must emerge out of a legitimate foundation, such as – merit, or seniority, or some other relevant criteria (see - State of U.P. v. J.P. Chaurasia, 1989 1 SCC 121).

(viii) If the qualifications for recruitment to the subject post vis-a-vis the reference post are different, it may be difficult to conclude, that the duties and responsibilities of the posts are qualitatively similar or comparable (see –Mewa Ram Kanojia, 1989 2 SCC 235 and Government of W.B. v. Tarun K. Roy 2004 1 SCC 347). In such a cause, the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', cannot be invoked.

(ix) The reference post, with which parity is claimed, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', has to be at the same hierarchy in the service, as the subject post. Pay-scales of posts may be different, if the hierarchy of the posts in question, and their channels of promotion, are different. Even if the duties and responsibilities are same, parity would not be permissible, as against a superior post, such as a promotional post (see - Union of India v. Pradip Kumar Dey, 2000 8 SCC 580 and the Hukum Chand Gupta, 2012 12 SCC 666).

(x) A comparison between the subject post and the reference post, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', cannot be made, where the subject post and the reference post are in different establishments, having a different management. Or even, where the establishments are in different geographical locations, though owned by the same master (see – Harbans Lal, 1989 4 SCC 459). Persons engaged differently, and being paid out of different funds, would not be entitled to pay parity (see - Official Liquidator v. Dayanand, 2008 10 SCC 1).

(xi) Different pay-scales, in certain eventualities, would be permissible even for posts clubbed together at the same hierarchy in the cadre. As for instance, if the duties and responsibilities of one of the posts are more onerous, or are exposed to higher nature of operational work/risk, the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable. And also when, the reference post includes the responsibility to take crucial decisions, and that is not so for the subject post (see – State Bank of India, 2002 4 SCC 556).

(xii) The priority given to different types of posts, under the prevailing policies of the Government, can also be a relevant factor for placing different posts under different pay-scales. Herein also, the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable (see - State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Association, 2002 6 SCC 72).

(xiii) The parity in pay, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', cannot be claimed, merely on the ground, that at an earlier point of time, the subject post and the reference post, were placed in the same pay-scale. The principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is applicable only when it is shown, that the incumbents of the subject post and the reference post, discharge similar duties and responsibilities (see - State of West Bengal v. West Bengal Minimum Wages Inspectors Association, 2010 5 SCC 225).

(xiv) For parity in pay-scales, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', equation in the nature of duties, is of paramount importance. If the principal nature of duties of one post is teaching, whereas that of the other is nonteaching, the principle would not be applicable. If the dominant nature of duties of one post is of control and management, whereas the subject post has no such duties, the principle would not be applicable. Likewise, if the central nature of duties of one post is of quality control, whereas the subject post has minimal duties of quality control, the principle would not be applicable (see – Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh v. Manju Mathur, 2011 2 SCC 452).

(xv) There can be a valid classification in the matter of pay-scales, between employees even holding posts with the same nomenclature i.e., between those discharging duties at the headquarters, and others working at the institutional/sub-office level (see – Hukum Chand Gupta, 2012 12 SCC 666), when the duties are qualitatively dissimilar.

(xvi) The principle of 'equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable, where a differential higher pay-scale is extended to persons discharging the same duties and holding the same designation, with the objective of ameliorating stagnation, or on account of lack of promotional avenues (see – Hukum Chand Gupta , 2012 12 SCC 666).

(xvii) Where there is no comparison between one set of employees of one organization, and another set of employees of a different organization, there can be no question of equation of pay-scales, under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work', even if two organizations have a common employer. Likewise, if the management and control of two organizations, is with different entities, which are independent of one another, the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' would not apply (see – S.C. Chandra case 2007 8 SCC 279, and the National Aluminum Company Limited case, 2014 6 SCC 756).

19. Bearing in mind the aforesaid exposition of law, it would be noticed that the petitioners have virtually failed to plead the case of parity and the pleadings if any to this effect are contained only in ground 'J' in CWP No. 2318 of 2011 giving rise to LPA No. 445 of 2012, which read as under:-

"J) That the duties, responsibilities, essential qualifications and method of recruitment was / is also similar in both the departments. It is submitted that the post of Sr. Statistical Assistant in H&FW Department was denied pay parity with Statistical Assistant in E&S Department on the ground that such parity was not permissible in view of Punjab pattern of pay scale"

20. Likewise in CWP No. 12472 of 2008 (LPA No. 99 of 2015) and CWP(T) No. 12509 of 2008 (LPA No. 101 of 2015), the pleadings read as under:-

"(xiv) That the applicant was equally qualified like the Field Investigators Grade-II/Investigator of Economics and Statistic Department and the applicant was well as the Investigators Grade-II/Investigators performed similar and identical nature of duties and enjoyed the same status in all respect as such the respondent State is under legal obligation to bring uniformity in pay scales between the applicant and similarly situated employees, Field Investigators Grade-II/Investigators and different measures cannot be adopted in providing the pay scales by the respondent-State. As such, the applicant is entitled for the pay scale as at par with the pay scale applicable and provided to the Field Investigators Grade-II/Investigators of Economics and Statistic Department."

21. As regards LPA No. 100 of 2015, which was arises out of decision rendered in CWP No. 8905 of 2010, it has been averred:-

"(A) That nature of duties and qualifications of Computers in the Health & Family Welfare Department are the same as in the Planning and Economics & Statistical Departments as confirmed by the respondent No. 3 himself in his letter Annexure P-7. The action of the respondent State to have two different pay scales for the same category of post, having the same nature of duties and responsibilities, especially after having adopted the same pattern for some posts ignoring others in the same cadre in different Departments within the same Government, is discriminator and violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India."

Obviously, these pleadings do not meet the requirement as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jagdish Singh's case supra.

22. Apparently, the only reason spelt out by the learned Writ Court for allowing the petition and granting parity of pay scale to the petitioners was that they are discharging same and similar duties, responsibilities to their counter-parts working in the other departments, as is evidently clear from para 9 of the impugned judgment, which reads thus:-

"9. It is settled law that it is for the employer to grant the pay scales, however, it is equally true that while undertaking this exercise there should not be any arbitrariness or unreasonableness. In the instant case, as noticed above, petitioners are discharging the same and similar duties, responsibilities and the essential qualifications and method of recruitment is the same, but despite that they been denied the higher pay scale granted to their counterparts working in other departments. The employer in both the cases is the State and thus the petitioners cannot be discriminated against. The persons working as Computers comparable to Field Investigators Grade-II form homogenous class and they cannot be discriminated merely on the basis that they happen to work in different department. Respondents have not pointed out why the petitioners have been granted different pay scale vis-à-vis their counterparts in E&S Department in the State. There is no intelligible differentia so as to distinguish the Computers working in the respondent-Department vis-a-vis Field Investigators Grade-II and Grade-I working in other departments of the State for the purpose of pay scales."

23. The learned Writ Court has obviously fallen into error by not taking into consideration that in E&S Department the post of Field Investigators Grade-II and Field Investigator Grade-I were in a single cadre and filled up by placement in the ratio 50:50 of total posts in the pay scale of Rs. 3120-5160 with initial start of Rs. 3220/- (50%) Rs. 4400-7000 (50%) w.e.f. 1.1.1996 respectively. Later on the total number of posts of Field Investigator Grade-II and Field Investigator Grade-I were merged to form a single cadre of Investigators w.e.f. 1.1.1986 by allowing placement in the ratio of 20:40:40 of total posts in the pay scales of Rs. 950-1800 with a start at Rs.1000/-, Rs. 1200-2100 & Rs. 1500-2640 respectively vide notification No. Fin(PR)B(7)-1/99 dated 23rd August, 2002 whereas in the H&FW 'Department', as per R&P Rules of the concerned post. Computer was in the pay scale of Rs. 950-1800 and Junior Statistical Assistant was in the pay scale of Rs.1200-2100.

24. Apart from the above, the learned Writ Court has further erred in not considering that the post and designation of Junior Statistical Assistant does not exist in any department of State Government except Health & Family Welfare Department. Secondly, in the Health & Family Department, the post of Junior Statistical Assistant is filled up 100% by promotion from amongst the Computer failing which by direct recruitment.

25. In addition, job profile of the Investigator in the E&S Department and Department in question are also different. The Investigator of E&S Department have to conduct socio-economic studies/survey (National Sample Survey, GoI), collection of data from various government and semi government departments, preparation of tabulation sheets for posting data, computation of statistical data manually and with the help of calculating machines/computer etc. whereas the Computers/Junior Statistical Assistants in Department simply collect information on various component of Health & Family Welfare Programme at sub centre level, compile data on characteristics of family planning, acceptors and MCH beneficiaries when required from the sterilization and IUD acceptors registers etc. The duties and responsibilities of the Investigators of E&S Department involves collection/preparation of data of all programmes, schemes & information through out the State whereas Computers & Junior Statistical Assistants of the Department are confined to a single department.

26. Shri Dalip Sharma, learned Sr. Counsel for the writ petitioners would still vehemently argue that the petitioners are entitled to claim parity as it has been duly established on record that not only the qualification but even the pay scale of the writ petitioners was same and similar to the other departments of the government, more especially, the E&S Department and it was only by way of notification dated 8.7.1994 that the pay scales of the Computers and Junior Statistical Assistants vis-à-vis Field Investigators Grade-I & Grade-II of E&S Department were disturbed and thereafter the disparity continued. This disparity was, in fact, even acknowledged by the Directorate Health Services when he brought all these facts to the notice of Principal Secretary (Health).

27. However, the aforesaid submissions of the petitioners cannot be accepted in teeth of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jagjit Singh's case supra, *w*herein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically held that 'onus of proof' of parity in the duties and responsibilities of the subject post with the reference post, under the principle of 'equal pay & equal work', lies on the person who claims it and it is for him to establish that the subject post occupied by him, requires him to discharge equal work of equal value, as the reference post. For this purpose the employees concerned with whom equation as is sought should be performing work, which besides being functionally equal should be of same quality and sensitivity.

28. Further, in determining equality of functions and responsibilities, it would be necessary to keep in mind that the duties of the two posts should be of equal sensitivity and qualitatively similar. Differentiation of pay-scales for posts with difference in degree of responsibility, reliability and confidentiality, would fall within the realm of valid classification and therefore, pay differentiation would be legitimate and permissible. Therefore, the person holding the same rank/designation but having dissimilarl powers, duties and responsibilities can be placed in different scales of pay, and cannot claim the benefit of the principle of 'equal pay for equal work'.

29. It has been reiterated in Jagjit Singh case (supra) that parity in pay, under the aforesaid principal of 'equal pay for equal work' cannot be claimed merely on the ground, that an earlier point of time, the subject post and the reference post were placed in the same pay scale. The principle 'equal pay for equal work' is applicable only when it is shown, that the incumbent of the subject post and the reference post discharge similar duties and responsibilities while claiming parity in pay scales under principle of 'equal pay for equal work' equation in the nature of duties is of paramount importance and there is no comparison between one set of employees in one organisation and another set of employees in different organisations, there can be no question of equation of pay scale under this principle.

30. It would be evidently clear from the narration of the factual aspects that the petitioner has failed to discharge the onus of proof, of parity by establishing that the subject post occupied by them requires to discharge equal work of equal value as the reference post. The petitioners were required to prove that they were performing the work, which was functionally equal and of the same quality and sensitivity with the reference and the same fact that an earlier point of time the subject posts and the reference posts were placed in the same pay-scale cannot in itself be a ground to claim 'equal pay for equal work', as this principle is applicable only when it is shown that the incumbent of the said post and the reference post, discharge similar duties and responsibilities.

31. Needless to say that under the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' parity in the duties and responsibilities of the subject post with the reference post lies on the person who claims it and having failed to discharge such onus the claim of the petitioner for 'equal pay and equal work' vis-â-vis the counter-part working in the E&S and other departments is clearly not maintainable.

32. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the learned Writ Court has clearly fallen in error in allowing the writ petition and quashing the decision of the Department. The judgment passed by the learned Writ Court is accordingly set aside and consequently the writ petitions are dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application(s), if any, stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Des Raj and another ..Appellants/defendants.
Versus
Krishan Lal and others ..Respondents/plaintiffs.

RSA No. 403 of 2008
Reserved on : 8/11/2016
Date of decision: 22/11/2016

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiffs pleaded that J was the owner of the suit land who died intestate - Will propounded by the defendants is wrong – the defendants pleaded that J had executed a Will in favour of defendants No. 1 and 2 in his sound disposing state of mind – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held in second appeal that finger print expert had stated that the thumb impression on the Will was different from the admitted thumb impression of the deceased – the Appellate Court had rightly allowed the appeal- appeal dismissed. (Para-7 to 9)

Case referred:
Parukuty Amma Vs. Thankam Amma, 2004(2) Civil Court cases 33

For the appellants: Mr. Anil Kumar Advocate vice Mr. Anup Rattan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Kishore Pundeer, Advocate vice Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

This appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement of the learned Additional District Judge, Una, Himachal Pradesh, whereby it allowed the appeal preferred before it by the plaintiffs and set aside the judgment and decree, rendered on 7.6.2005 by the trial Court.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that suit land was owned and possessed by one Julfi Ram son of Surjan who happened to be the real brother of plaintiffs and defendant No.3. The said Julfi Ram was stated to be unmarried and had died intestate having been succeeded by his four brothers i.e. plaintiffs and defendant No.3. Plaintiffs claim that they had come in possession of the suit land and the defendants No. 1 and 2 had no right, title or interest in the suit land. The defendants No. 1 and 2 were further alleged to have got wrong and an illegal mutation No. 32 sanctioned in their favour on 14.1.1994 without any basis in connivance with the revenue officials. Decree for declaration had been sought by the plaintiffs that they and defendant No.3 are owners in possession of the suit land. The mutation of succession sanctioned on 14.1.1994 in favour of defendants No. 1 and 2 was also challenged being wrong illegal null and void. Consequently, relief of permanent injunction restraining the defendants from interfering in the possession of the plaintiffs or changing the nature of the suit land was also sought.

3. The defendants resisted and contested the suit by taking preliminary objection qua suit being bad for want of enforceable cause of action, locus standi of the plaintiffs to file the suit was denied apart therefrom its being bad for misjoinder of defendant No.3. On merits it was the case of the defendant that the entire estate of late Julfi Ram had been succeeded by defendants No. 1 and 2 on the basis of a valid will having been executed in their favour on 6.1.1993 in a sound disposing mind. As per the defendants since the said Julfi Ram was looked after by the defendants during his life time, as a token of their service the deceased Julfi Ram had executed a valid Will in their favour. As a sequel thereto the mutation was alleged to have been rightly sanctioned on the basis of the said Will.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs and defendants No. 3 are owners in possession of the suit land? OPP.
2. Whether the mutation No. 32 dated 14.1.1994 sanctioned by A.C. 2nd Grade, Una, is wrong, illegal, null and void, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiffs have no cause of action? OPD.
4. Whether the suit is not maintainable, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus-standi to file the suit? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is bad for misjoinder of necessary parties, as alleged? OPD.
7. Whether the suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction as alleged? If what is correct valuation of suit property? OPD.
8. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs yet the learned First Appellate Court allowed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the plaintiffs.

6. Now the defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 21.08.2008 this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

> "1. Whether the Appellate Court has committed illegality by shifting the burden of proof of proving the report of finger print expert on present appellants/defendants?
> 2. Whether the impugned judgement and decree of the Appellate Court is a result of mis-apprecitation and mis reading of evidence particularly Ext. DW-2/A?"

Substantial questions of law.

7. Defendants No. 1 and 2 had on anvil of a testamentary disposition executed vis.a.vis them qua his estate by one Julffi Ram staked claim qua the suit property. Their claim for title to the suit property ensuing from theirs holding a valid testamentary disposition of the deceased testator secured approbation from the learned A.C. 2nd Grade, Una concerned, comprised in his thereupon attesting mutation number 32 on 14.1.1994 qua the suit property vis.a.vis the defendants No.1 and 2.

8. The factum of proof of Ext.DW-2/A within the ambit of the statutory mandate of Section 63 of the Indian Evidence Act stood purveyed by the propounders of Will Ext.DW-2/A comprised in theirs affirmatively examining a marginal witness thereto. However, proof in the aforesaid manner as stood adduced by the propounders of Will comprised in Ext.DW-2/A qua thereupon its standing construeable to be proven to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator visibly holds no vigour tritely with the finger print experts in their apposite reports in sequel to theirs holding comparison of the disputed thumb impressions of the deceased testator occurring on the relevant testamentary disposition comprised in Ext.DW-2/A with his uncontroverted admitted thumb impressions, unveiling an opinion qua the thumb impressions of the deceased testator Julfi Ram borne on Ext.DW-2/A not holding compatibility with his uncontroverted admitted thumb impressions whereupon they recorded a conclusion qua the thumb impressions of the deceased testator borne on Ext.DW-2/A not holding any aura of authenticity. The pronouncements recorded by the finger print expert(s) sweepingly effaces the concert of the defendants, to through a marginal witness to Ex. DW-2/A to prove the factum qua its valid and due execution within the ambit of the statutory mandate also thereupon the testimony of the marginal witness to Ext.DW-2/A looses its creditworthiness. However, the learned trial Court had dispelled the vigour of the relevant report(s) furnished by the finger print expert(s) on the score of theirs being inadmissible in evidence, inadmissibility whereof stood pronounced by it to spur from omission of their respective authors standing examined in proof thereof. The sinew of the dispelling by the learned trial Court of the sanctity of the apposite opinion(s) recorded by the finger print expert(s) on the relevant material transmitted to them for theirs unveiling their opinion thereon, is magnifingly bereft of any validation. An authoritative pronouncement recorded by the Hon'ble High Court of Kerala in case Parukuty Amma Vs. Thankam Amma 2004(2) Civil Court cases 33, relevant paragraph whereof stands extracted hereinafter

> "In this connection, it is to be remembered that there is a different between the opinion of the expert with regard to the handwriting and the opinion of the expert with regard to the thumb impression. There is no forgery possible with regard to the thumb impression whereas an expert in forgery can write exactly like the original handwriting of another person. This distinction is well recognized by the decision of the Supreme Court in Jaspal Singh vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1979 SC 1708. the Supreme Court has stated that the science of identifying thumb impression is an exact science and does not admit of any mistake or doubt. This decision was followed by this Court in various decision including one by a Division Bench in Jamesh @ Chacko Vs. State, 1994(1) KLJ 871, even in a case where the impression was smudged but not to the extent of impossibility of comparison. According to the learned counsel whether it is thumb impression or handwriting they are only relevant facts as contained in Section 45 of the Evidence Act and this Court has to arrive at an opinion after taking into account the report of the expert with the evidence."

wherewithin it stands accentuatedly pronounced qua the solemnity of authenticity of determination by a finger print expert of thumb impressions by his adopting the relevant mode falling within the domain of best besides precise scientific evidence whereupon it concluded of the relevant opinion recorded by the finger print expert (s) being unamenable for its standing discounted. The apt ensual therefrom is qua the report(s) of the finger print expert(s) especially when hereat they emanated from a government agency holding a sacrosanct pedestal of theirs being per se admissible in evidence also reliance being imputable thereupon without insisting upon their author(s) to prove their contents unless the relevant unfoldments occurring therein stand impugned by the defendants. However, the defendants as unraveled by an order of the learned trial Court recorded on 5.4.2004 omitted to at the time of theirs standing tendered therebefore purvey thereat their apposite objections thereto rather they thereat communicated qua it being unamenable for consideration at the stage of theirs standing tendered therebefore rather their impact upon the efficacy of the evidence adduced by the defendants pronouncing upon the valid and due execution of Ext.DW-2/A being open to be determined by the learned trial Court. Consequently, the aforesaid unfoldments make a palpable display of the defendants acquiescing to the recitals occurring in the report(s) of the finger print expert(s) concomitantly also theirs not impugning the validity of the report(s) besides theirs not assailing the opinion(s) recorded therein whereupon obviously when for reasons aforestated unless they stood impugned by the defendants theirs on their mere tendering being readable without their authors proving theirs contents whereas with the defendants not purveying their objections thereto neither they impugning them whereupon hence with the apt condition for theirs being unreadable in evidence unless their respective authors stood examined remaining unsubstantiated rendered them to be readable besides admissible in evidence.

9. For reasons aforesaid this Court concludes with aplomb of the judgement and decree of the learned first Appellate Court standing sequelled by its appraising the entire relevant evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom it is obvious that the analysis of relevant material on record by the learned appellate Court not suffering from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the relevant material available on record. I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment and decree of the learned Appellate Court is maintained and affirmed. Substantial questions of law stands answered against the defendants. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. No costs.

It is pleaded that suit property is Hindu ancestral and coparcenery property. It is pleaded that parties have right and interest in the property by birth being coparcener. Additional decree of possession by way of partition of land and rendition of accounts also sought by co-defendants No.2 to 5 in counter claim. Prayer for decree of counter claim sought.

6. Written statement to counter claim filed by plaintiffs pleaded therein that deceased Bansi Lal died intestate. It is further pleaded that deceased Bansi Lal did not execute any Will on dated 9.10.2002 in favour of co-defendant No.1 Rakesh Kumar.

7. Co-defendant No.1 Rakesh Kumar filed application under section 151 CPC for excluding counter claim from civil suit No. 174 of 2012 on the ground that counter claim filed by co-defendants No.2 to 5 in C.S. No.174/2012 is not maintainable against co-defendant No.1. It is pleaded by co-defendant No.1 that property of late Sh. Bansi Lal has been inherited by codefendant No.1 by way of registered Will dated 9.10.2002. It is pleaded that co-defendants No.2 to 5 did not seek any relief against plaintiffs in counter claim. It is pleaded that counter claim be excluded from civil suit No. 174 of 2012.

8. Per contra response filed on behalf of co-defendants No.2 to 5 upon application filed under section 151 CPC by co-defendant No.1 pleaded therein that registered Will dated 9.10.2002 is challenged. It is pleaded that co-defendants No.2 to 5 have sought relief against plaintiffs as well as co-defendant No.1 in counter claim for declaration, possession by way of partition and rendition of accounts. It is pleaded that counter claim is maintainable. Prayer for dismissal of application filed under section 151 CPC sought. Learned Trial Court on dated 24.4.2015 dismissed application filed under section 151 CPC by co-defendant No.1 namely Rakesh Kumar for excluding counter claim from civil suit No. 174 of 2012. Feeling aggrieved against the order dated 24.4.2015 present petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India by co-defendant No.1 Sh. Rakesh Kumar.

9. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and non-petitioners and Court also perused the entire records carefully.

10. Following points arise for determination in the present petition:

1) Whether petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of petition?

2) Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons:

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of co-defendant No.1 namely Rakesh Kumar that counter claim filed by co-defendants No.2 to 5 under Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC against co-defendant No.1 cannot be filed as per law and same be excluded from civil suit No.174/2012 is decided accordingly. Counter claim under Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC was incorporated in Code of Civil Procedure 1908 w.e.f. 1.2.1977 vide amendment in CPC vide Act 104 of 1976. Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC is quoted : (1) Defendant in a suit may in addition to his right of pleadings can file counter claim against the claim of plaintiff either before or after filing of the suit but before the defendant has delivered his defence or before the time limited for delivering his defence has expired provided that counter claim should not exceed the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of court. (2) Counter claim would have the same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the court to pronounce final judgment in the same suit both on the original claim and on the counter claim. (3) Plaintiff would be at liberty to file written statement in answer to the counter claim of the defendant within such period as may be fixed by the court. (4) Counter claim would be treated as plaint and governed by the rules applicable to plaint. It is well settled law that counter claim is not maintainable if directed solely against other co-defendant. It is well settled law that if counter claim is directed against plaintiff then alongwith it co-defendant can seek relief against other co-defendant also. See 2006(12) SCC 734 Rohit Singh Vs. State of Bihar. See 2010(1) Himachal Law Reporter H.P. High Court 434 Nirmala Devi & Others Vs. Dhian Singh & Others.

12. Court has carefully perused the counter claim filed by co-defendants No.2 to 5 under Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC in C.S. No.174/2012. Co-defendants No.2 to 5 have sought counter claim for declaration that co-defendants No.2 to 5 alongwith plaintiffs and co-defendant No.1 are owners in possession of suit land in equal shares. Co-defendants No.2 to 5 have also sought additional relief in counter claim qua decree for possession by way of partition of suit land against plaintiffs and co-defendant No.1. Co-defendants No.2 to 5 have also sought additional relief of rendition of accounts against plaintiffs and co-defendant No.1. Co-defendants have impleaded plaintiffs and co-defendant No.1 as party in counter claim.

13. It is held that counter claim filed by co-defendants No.2 to 5 under Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC is not solely directed against co-defendant No.1 but is also directed against plaintiffs. It is held that co-defendants No. 2 to 5 have sought relief against co-defendant No.1 alongwith plaintiffs. It is held that Suman Sharma, Santosh Sharma, Tripta Sharma and Rakesh Kumar would get adequate opportunity to contest counter claim in accordance with law. In view of the fact that counter claim filed under Order VIII Rule 6-A CPC is not solely filed against co-defendant No.1 namely Rakesh Kumar but is also filed against plaintiffs namely Suman Sharma, Santosh Sharma and Tripta Sharma it is held that in view of ruling cited supra order of learned Trial Court is not illegal. It is held that no interference is warranted. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final Order).

14. In view of findings upon point No.1 present petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India is dismissed. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 15.12.2016. Observations will not effect merits of the case in any manner. File of learned Trial Court alongwith certified copy of the order be sent back forthwith. CMPMO No. 330/2015 is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Shankar Lal (through LRs) ..Appellant/defendant

Versus

Ramesh Chander (through LRs) and others ..Respondents.

RSA No.556 of 2004
Reserved on : 7.11.2016
Date of decision: 22/11/2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34 and 38- Plaintiffs pleaded that revenue entries were changed in their absence – a sale deed was executed and a mutation was attested on the basis of the wrong entries- plaintiffs sought declaration and injunction – the suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed – held, in second appeal that the plaintiffs are the legal heirs of deceased R, who was the previous owner of the property – succession certificate was also granted in their favour – the plea of adverse possession was not established – the suit was rightly decreed by the Courts- appeal dismissed.(Para-7 to 19)

For the appellant: Mr. J.R.Poswal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. G.D.Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1(a) & 1(b) and 2 to 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

Under concurrently recorded impugned renditions of both the learned Courts below the suit of the plaintiffs for declaration besides for relief of permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit property besides qua the defendants stood decreed. The defendants stand aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below wherefrom they for seeking their reversal institute the instant appeal herebefore.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that Ram Rakha died on 4th December, 1983 leaving behind the plaintiffs as his heirs. The plaintiffs and Ram Rakha were living at Lalgam in Jammu and Kashmir. The defendant No.2 took undue advantage of the absence of plaintiffs and their predecessor in interest colluded with revenue officials and Ram Swaroop and Karam Chand etc. moved application for mutation of suit land in their favour after the death of Ram Rakha and defendant No.2 succeeded in getting entered and attested the mutation in respect of suit land in her favour vide mutation No.125 on 24.12.1994 behind the back of the plaintiffs. The defendant No.2 sold some part of the land to defendant

No.1 vide sale deed No.1259 dated 3.11.1999. Consequently, the mutation was sanctioned in favour of defendant No.1 on the basis of illegal and wrong sale deed. The matter went to Hon'ble High Court in an appeal. During the pendency of the appeal before the Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh the plaintiffs moved an application under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC and they became party. The Hon'ble High Court dismissed the suit and set-aside the judgement and decess passed in favour of defendant No.2. After setting aside the decree the defendants again colluded with the revenue officials again executed sale deed. The mudations are stated to be illegal and void as a result of fraud. It is also pleaded that the defendants were known to the whereabouts of the plaintiffs and Ram Rakha was in visiting terms and was in regular touch with defendants. The plaintiffs prayed for a decree that they are absolute owners in possession of the suit land and also alternatively prayed for relief of possession.

3. The defendants contested the suit and rasied preliminary objections about maintainability, locus standi, cause of action and estoppel. On merits it is admitted that Ram Rakha was owner of the suit property and after his death defendant No.2 the next legal heir became the owner in possession of the property. It is pleaded that Ram Rakha slipped away from the house when he was minor about 40 years and was not heard by persons who could hear and knowledge about him. It is pleaded that the suit land is in possession of defendant No.2. The defendant No.1 has taken plea of bonafide purchaser after due inquiry of the title from the record and spot position. The plaintiffs are stated to be neither legal heirs nor having any concern with the property of deceased Ram Rakha.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are the legal heirs of deceased Ram Rakha? OPP.

2. Whether the sale deed No. 1259 dated 3.11.1999 and 529 dated 5.5.2001 are illegal, null and void having no effect on the rights of the plaintiffs?

3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD

4. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped to file the present suit due to their act, conduct and acquiescence? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiffs are having no locus standi? OPD.

6. Whether the suit of the plaintiffs is barred by limitation? OPD

6-A Whether the defendants have become the owner by way of adverse possession? OPD.

6-B Whether the defendant No.1 is bonafide purchaser for consideration?

7. Relief.

5 On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the defendants.

6. Now the defendant No.1 has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 14.12.2004, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

"1. Whether the learned First Appellate Court erred in not deciding the applications, filed by the appellant-defendant for leaving additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which resulted in grave injustice?

2. Whether the learned trial Court had no pecuniary jurisdiction to try the suit?

3. Whether the learned trial Court and the first Appellate Court erred in holding that the suit was within the period of limitation?

4. Whether the findings of the learned trial Court and the first Appellate Court are dehors the evidence on record?

Substantial questions of law.

7. On demise one Ram Rakha, the defendant No.2 who uncontrovertedly is his Class-II heir obtained qua the suit property, comprising the estate of deceased Ram Rakha, mutation No. 125 besides mutation No. 163 wherewithin a pronouncements occur declaring her to be owner of the suit property. The plaintiffs concerted to set-aside the aforesaid mutations recorded qua the suit property. Their claim qua the suit property stood anvilled upon theirs respectively being the widow besides the progeny born from the wedlock of deceased Ram Rakha with one Bhagwanti. Consequently they canvass qua with theirs holding the capacity of theirs being the Class-I heirs of deceased Ram Rakha qua hence theirs on demise of Ram Rakha holding a capacity superior to the capacity of the defendant No.1 to succeed to his estate.

8. For validating the pronouncements concurrently recorded by both the learned Courts below the evidence adduced therebefore is enjoined to hold visible portrayals qua (a) deceased Ram Rakha solemnizing marriage with one Bhagwanti. (b) the plaintiffs other than one Bhagwanti standing begotten from the wedlock which occurred inter se deceased Ram Rakha with Bhagwanti. (c) The identity of Ram Rakha displayed in jamabandi Ext.P-4 standing connected with the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs. (d) Since defendant No.1 during the pendency of the suit before the Sub Judge 1st Class, Nalagarh acquired title qua the suit land under sale deeds respectively executed in his favour by defendant No.2, his espousal qua his falling within the ambit of an ostensible owner for thereupon the aforesaid sale deeds acquiring validation stands enjoined to be determined by this Court by its making allusion to the relevant evidence. In so far as the factum of the identity of deceased Ram Rakha as displayed in jamabandi Ext.P-4 vis.a.vis. his holding connectivity with his holding the capacity of being the pre deceased husband besides the pre deceased father respectively of the plaintiffs, is concerned, it is emphatically established on record qua his belonging to the Bhramin caste besides his residing at village Lodhimajra, Tehsil Nalagarh. PW-2 testifies qua hers residing at Lodhimajra whereat she developed intimacy with Ram Rakha who was thereat running a shop wherefrom they departed to Amritsar whereat they solemnized marriage besides her testification qua thereafter theirs residing at Siyalkot, Jammu, Ambala, Delhi, Amritsar, Sri Nagal and theirs ultimately settling at Uri in Jammu and Kashmir, holds tenacity in establishing the factum aforesaid significantly when it acquires corroborative vigour from the testifications of other plaintiffs' witnesses.

9. The vigour of evidence qua the aforesaid facet comprised in the testifications of the plaintiffs' witnesses acquires incremental momentum from their relevant testifications occurring in their respective examinations in chief remaining unshred of their efficacy despite theirs standing subjected to an exacting cross-examination by the counsel for the defendants. Also the vigour of their respective testifications qua the relevant fact aforestated attains redoubled sinew from the factum of the defendants not adducing therebefore the relevant best documentary evidence comprised in theirs adducing the photographs of Ram Rakha qua whom reflections occur in jamabandi Ext.P-4 vis.a.vis the photographs of the purported predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs whereupon with a display respectively therein qua dissimilarity occurring inter se both they would succeed in theirs delinking the identity of Ram Rakha displayed in jamabandi Ex. P-4 with the identity of the purported predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs concomitantly thereupon they would achieve success in begetting reversal of the verdicts of both the Courts below. Apart from oral evidence displaying the factum of Ram Rakha solemnizing marriage with Bhagwanti, documentary evidence comprised in Ext.P-10 (Ext.P-10A translated copy) constituting the voters list of the legislative assembly and of the Parliament, for Jammu and Kashmir when holds reflections in tandem with oral evidence also with the voters list constituting a public record within the ambit of Section 35 and Section 74 of the Indian Evidence Act whereupon it enjoys a presumption of truth, the presumption of truth enjoyed by the relevant reflections occurring therewithin acquire conclusivity for want of adduction therebefore by the defendants of cogent evidence for eroding the truth of the relevant manifestation carried therewithin Ext.b-11 comprises a copy of a diploma issued by the Jammu and Kashmir State Medical Faculty in favour of plaintiff No.5 wherein Ram Rakha stands depicted to be her father. Rakesh Chander stands depicted in Ext.P-12 to be the son of deceased Ram Rakha. Ext.PX pronounces qua plaintiff No.1 being son of Pt. Ram Rakha Awasthi.

10. Statement of accounts comprised in Ext.P-3, P-4, P-5 and P-6 maintained by deceased Ram Rakha with the relevant banking agencies do also vividly depict the identity of the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs.

11. Grant of succession certificate vis.a.vis. the plaintiffs comprised in Ext.P8 vis.a.vis the estate of deceased Ram Rakha conclusively establishes the relevant factum of the plaintiffs holding the capacity of theirs being construable to be the class-I heirs of deceased Ram Rakha especially when the veracity of the relevant recitals occurring therewithin remain unrepulsed by cogent evidence in rebuttal thereto standing adduced therebefore by the defendants nor when Ext.P-8 stood concerted by the defendants to beget annulment by theirs initiating before the competent Court proceedings for quashing it.

12. Even though all the aforesaid oral besides documentary evidence conclusively sustain an inference qua the plaintiffs respectively standing related to deceased Ram Rakha as his wife besides his offsprings from his wedlock with plaintiff Bhagwanti nonetheless the defendants had strived to contend qua the entering of a wedlock by Ram Rakha with Bhagwanti without prior thereto the latter annulling her previous marriage with one Karam Chand, not holding any validation. However, the aforesaid espousal of the defendants to erode the legality of the marriage entered inter se plaintiff Bhagwanti with deceased Ram Rakha is bereft of any cogent evidence for sustaining it also assuming even if plaintiff Bhagwanti without annulling her previous marriage with Karam Chand had contracted a marriage with Ram Rakha yet with the provisions of Section 16 of the Hindu Marriage Act holding a mandate qua the offsprings born from a void marriage holding the capacity to succeed to the estate of their deceased father renders them to hold the relevant capacity of theirs being construable to be Class-I heirs of deceased Ram Rakha also hence empowers them to on his demise acquire his estate in supersession to the right if any of defendant No.2 uncontrovertedly his class-II heir to succeed to the estate of Ram Rakha. Moreover in making the aforesaid inference strength stands marshaled by the factum, for reasons aforestated qua the identity of Ram Rakha reflected in Jamabandi Ext.P-4 holding connectivity with the identity of the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs.

13. Be that as it may, the defendant No.2, had on anvil of Ext.P-2 comprising the verdict recorded by the Civil Court on 1.12.1994, verdict whereof of the Civil Court stood affirmed by the learned Appellate Court wherewithin the defendant No.2 stood declared to hold an entitlement to on demise of Ram Rakha who stood impleaded in the suit as defendant No.2 to inherit his estate, had concerted to espouse qua hence the effect of the oral testifications besides the effect of the aforesaid documentary evidence standing blunted also thereupon the concurrently recorded pronouncements rendered by both the Courts below loosing their vigour. The aforesaid espousal is bereft of authenticity in the face of Ext.P-19 holding a verdict recorded by this Court in a second appeal filed hereat by Karam Chand a party to the lis whereon the aforesaid renditions stood concurrently recorded by the learned Courts below wherewithin unfoldments occur qua defendant No.1 on demise of Ram Rakha impleaded as a defendant in the suit, standing entitled to inherit his estate whereupon this Court annulled Ext.P-2 on account qua on occurrence of demise of Ram Rakha defendant No.2 in the suit on 4.12.1983 yet his remaining unsubstituted by his LRs hence rendering the concurrently recorded renditions of both the Courts below to stand pronounced against a dead person whereupon they acquired a vice of nullity. Moreover, the factum of impleadment of aforesaid Ram Rakha in the Civil Suit aforesaid negates the effect of proceedings of Makful Ul Khabri initiated at the instance of Karam Chand before the Assistant Collector 2nd Grade, wherein he had claimed qua Ram Rakha deceased missing since the age of 17-18 years in sequel whereto a notice stood published in Vir Partap on 7th May, 1989, in aftermath whereof the contentious mutation qua the suit property stood attested in favour of Krishana defendant No. 2 herebefore. In addition, the factum of impleadment of Ram Rakha in the civil suit aforesaid begets an inference of one Karam Chand besides defendant No.2 Krishana hence acquiescing qua his being alive also his not missing rather also when they on occurrence of his demise during the pendency of the suit whereupon they omitted to beget his impleadment by his LRs fillips a derivative qua theirs by machination excluding the participation of the plaintiffs' in the previous civil proceedings hence theirs obtaining a stained decree comprised in Ext.P-2. Further more, the effect qua theirs before the learned trial Court omitting to beget substitution of deceased Ram Rakha by his legal representatives obviously when thereupon the names of his legal representatives would occur besides would stand unfolded, identity whereof when holding dissimilarity with the plaintiffs' herein would stir an inference of deceased Ram Rakha displayed in Ex. P-4 not holding any connectivity with the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs contrarily when they omitted to make the apposite endeavour before the learned trial Court, sustains an inference qua theirs acquiescing qua none other than the plaintiffs holding the capacity of the legal representatives of Ram Rakha also theirs hence acquiescing qua the compatibility of identity vis-à-vis Ram Rakha reflected in Ex. P-4 with the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs.

14. Apparently Ram Rakha predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs stands depicted in Ext.P-14, copy of jamabandi for the year 1991-92 to be owner in possession of the suit land whereupon the plaintiffs on his demise especially when they are his class-I heirs stand hence entitled to succeed to his estate rendering hence mutations conferring title upon the suit land qua defendant No.2 uncontrovertedly his class-II heirs, to hold no vigour. Defendant No.1 who had acquired title to the suit land from defendant No.2 under sale deeds executed in his favour respectively on 3.11.1999 and 5.5.2001 had concerted to validate his acquisitions qua the suit land under the sale deeds aforesaid, by proclaiming his being an ostensible owner of the suit land. However, his proclamation would hold tenacity only when he was able to adduce best evidence in portrayal qua his despite holding an in-depth incisive inquiry his standing disabled to unearth therefrom qua the title of defendant No.2 qua the suit land standing clouded also thereupon he would be construable to be a bonafide purchaser for value of the suit land. However, with defendant No.2 executing the relevant sale deeds during the pendency of the civil suit before the Sub Judge 1st Class, Nalagarh besides his acquiescing qua his holding awareness qua the ongoing litigation qua the suit property, holds loud unveilings qua his despite holding knowledge qua the title of defendant No.2 qua the suit land standing clouded his yet proceeding to execute the apposite sale deeds with defendant No.2 wherefrom it is to be concluded with aplomb qua his not been amenable to be construable to be an ostensible owner nor also he can don the capacity of a bonafide purchaser for value of the suit property. Contrarily when herebefore despite the aforesaid relevant unfoldments upsurging on his relevant inquiry qua the status of the suit property besides the assailable title thereon of defendant No.2 his yet proceeding to execute them with defendant No.2 encumbers him with a disability to validate the relevant acquisition also he stands fastened with a liability to accept the concurrently recorded renditions qua the suit property by both the Courts below.

15. The learned counsel appearing for the defendants' has contended qua the suit of the plaintiffs being barred by limitation, it standing instituted beyond the prescribed period mandated in Article 58 of the Limitation Act. However, the aforesaid submission cannot stand accepted by this Court, as the aforesaid apposite article of the Limitation Act while prescribing the commencement of the relevant period of limitation proclaims qua the relevant commencement for computing therefrom the period of limitation encapsulated therein occurring on an accrual of "right to sue", right to sue whereof holds a connotation qua its spurrings or occurrings arising on actual and threatened invasion(s) qua the settled right of the plaintiff(s) upon the suit property. In sequel when the connotation borne by the apposite statutory parlance 'right to sue' is qua its upsurging on the defendant(s) committing overt act upon the suit property hence theirs explicitly pronouncing theirs casting cloud qua the title of the plaintiff(s) qua the suit land whereupon even if mutations qua the suit property stood attested on 24.12.1994 and 20.11.1999 whereas the suit of the plaintiff stood instituted in the year 2001 would not render it to be construable to stand instituted beyond limitation, as merely on attestation of relevant mutations which palpably are nonest besides stand recorded in deprivation of the vested rights of the plaintiffs qua the suit property no title hence standing invested upon the suit land qua defendant No.2 rather when the plaintiffs' title to the suit land stood explicitly annulled besides came under a cloud by the proactive overt act of defendant No. 2 executiing sale deeds respectively on 3.11.1999 and 5.5.2001, with defendant No. 1 constituted the latter period to enliven thereat the relevant cause of action or it begot the commencement of the relevant period of limitation for the plaintiffs' instituting a suit. In sequel thereto with the plaintiffs therefrom instituting the suit within the statutorily mandated period of limitation prescribed in the relevant Article of the Limitation Act renders it to be construable to be within limitation.

16. The defendants had raised a plea qua theirs perfecting their title qua the suit property by adverse possession. However, the aforesaid plea stands benumbed by (a) the principle requisite for sustaining their claim comprised in theirs asserting it against a true owner being amiss imperatively when acquisition of the suit property by defendant No.1 from defendant No.2 occurred under sale deeds executed inter se both whereupon obviously with defendant No.1 accepting defendant No.2 to be owner of the suit property, he stood debarred from espousing qua the plaintiffs holding title to the suit property nor also he holds any leverage to contend of his standing capacitated to the rear plea against the plaintiffs. (b) likewise with defendant NO.2 executing the sale deeds aforesaid she thereupon acquiescing qua hers holding title as owner to the suit property concomitantly she also hence stands debarred from proclaiming the plaintiffs to be owners nor also she holds any capacity to rear the aforesaid plea against the plaintiffs conspicuously when she contests their title qua the suit land with defendant No.1. Moreover, with defendant No. 1 concerting to validate the relevant acquisitions qua the suit property under sale deeds executed qua him by defendant No.2 estopes him from contending qua the plaintiffs holding title qua the suit property nor also hence when the relevant ingredient for sustaining his plea stands provenly unsatiated he stands incapacitated to rear it.

17. The learned counsel for the defendants has contended qua the omission of the Appellate Court to pronounce an adjudication on his application constituted therebefore under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC wherein he sought leave of the Appellate Court to through the documents embodied therein deestablish the identity of Ram Rakha besides whereby he concerted to establish qua Ram Rakha borne in jamabandi comprised in Ext.P-4 not being the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs, has throttled his relevant concert. The effect of the learned Appellate Court court not recording its pronouncement on the aforesaid application would not beget an inference qua the sinew of the aforestated oral besides documentary evidence which existed therebefore holding therewithin vivid articulations in portrayal of Ram Rakha being the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs, hence standing eroded also by his canvassing therein qua with Ram Rakha being a permanent resident of Nalagarh he stood statutorily barred to purchase property in Jammu and Kashmir whereas with his acquiring property in Jammu and Kashmir renders the identity of the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs to stand unrelated with one Ram Rakha who made acquisitions in Jammu and Kashmir also hence with one Ram Rakha whose name occurs in Ext.P-4, he would not succeed in benumbing the effect of the aforesaid evidence especially when the relevant acquisitions made by Ram Rakha in Jammu and Kashmir in purported infraction of the law prevailing thereat barring permanent residents other than of Jammu and Kashmir to acquire property therein, would only hold a ground for the acquisitions made thereat by Ram Rakha in purported infraction of the prevailing law thereat standing concerted by the appropriate agency(s) to be set-aside. Consequently it does not give any ground to this Court in pronouncing qua with the learned first Appellate Court omitting to pronounce a verdict upon the application of the defendants' constituted therebefore under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC belittling the tenacity besides the effect of the aforesaid oral as well as documentary evidence tellingly pronouncing upon the similarity of identity of Ram Rakha inter se apposite reflections occurring in the apposite jamabandi vis.a.vis his holding the capacity of the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs'.

18. The suit of the plaintiffs for declaration apparently is properly valued for the purpose of Court fees also is apparently properly valued qua the apposite relief claimed in the Civil Suit, therefore, it is held that the learned trial Court had the pecuniary jurisdiction to try the suit.

19. For reasons aforesaid this Court concludes with aplomb of the judgements and decrees of the Courts below standing sequelled by theirs appraising the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom it is obvious that the analysis of material on record by the learned Courts below not suffering from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather they have aptly appreciated the material available on record. I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgments and decrees of the both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Substantial questions of law stands answered against the defendants. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. No costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Aruna Bedi .....Appellant/applicant
Versus
Subhash Kapil and others. .....Respondents/non-applicants

CMP(M) No. 273 of 2016
in RSA in 2016
Decided on: 23rd November, 2016

Limitation Act, 1963- Section 5- An application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal was filed pleading that the husband of the applicant was not party to the suit or in the appeal- an amount of Rs.1,40,004/- has been ordered to be recovered from him- held, that the husband of the applicant was not arrayed as a defendant in the suit – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred and the suit was decreed- the decree was passed against department of I & PH but the department was left free to recover the amount from the husband of the applicant- the explanation furnished by the applicant is plausible – the application allowed and the delay condoned. (Para-4)

For the applicant: Mr. B.L. Soni and Mr. Narender Thakur, Advocates.
For the non-applicants: Mrs. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Charu, Advocate for respondent No.1.
Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. A.G for respondents No. 2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

Heard.

2. The appeal against the judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Kullu on 1.4.2009 in Civil Appeal No. 33 of 2007 is barred by a period over six years. The delay as occurred has been sought to be condoned on the grounds inter-alia that Shri J.S. Bedi, the husband of the applicant/appellant was not a party to the suit nor in the appeal in the Court of learned District Judge, Kullu and to the contrary learned lower appellate Court has ordered to recover the decretal amount i.e. Rs. 1,40,004/- from him. Said Shri J.S. Bedi had expired during the pendency of the suit in the trial Court i.e. on 8th October, 2006. Neither he nor the applicant/appellant were aware of the Civil Suit which was filed in the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kullu and also the appeal in the learned lower appellate Court. When the applicant came to know about the filing of the suit and also the appeal in the Court below, she applied for certified copy of the judgment and decree, under challenge in the month of June, 2015 and thereafter filed the appeal along with this application in this Court.

3. The application, no doubt, has been resisted and contested on behalf of the respondents/non-applicants, however, in rejoinder, the applicant/appellant has further explained the delay as occurred in filing the appeal.

4. Having regard to the submissions made by learned counsel on both sides as well as record available at this stage, admittedly, Shri J.S. Bedi, the deceased husband of applicant was not arrayed as defendant in the suit. The suit was dismissed by the trial Court. The same, however, has been decreed by learned lower appellate Court for the recovery of Rs. 1,27,908/- with pendente-lite interest @ 12% per annum. The future interest @ 7.5% per annum has also been awarded on the decretal amount. The decree though has been passed against the defendant i.e. the Department of Irrigation and Public Health, Division No. 1, Kullu and the State of Himachal Pradesh through Collector Kullu District at Kullu, however, learned lower appellate Court has left it open to the defendant to recover the same from Shri J.S. Bedi. No such direction could have been passed without hearing said Shri J.S. Bedi, who as a matter of fact, had already expired during the pendency of the suit in the trial Court. No doubt, as per stand of the defendant-State, the applicant was informed vide letter dated 20.10.2009, Annexure R-1 about the judgment passed by learned lower appellate court and the recovery of the amount in question from said Shri J.S. Bedi, however, it cannot be said that this letter was delivered to her or that she failed to respond to the same intentionally and deliberately. On the other hand, the plea of the applicant/appellant that she came to know about the recovery of Rs. 1,70,170/- vide office order Annexure RA-1 dated 5.9.2014 qua sanction of gratuity modified further vide another office order Annexure RA-2 dated 28.01.2015 from due and admissible amount seems to be nearer to the factual position. She has further claimed that on coming to know about the recovery of above-said amount, she approached the defendant, however, the necessary details were not supplied to her. When she came to know about the filing of the suit and the judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate court, she applied for certified copies thereof in the month of June, 2015 and immediately after receipt thereof, filed the appeal in this Court. The explanation as set-forth is not only reasonable but plausible also, because when the husband of the applicant was not a party to the suit, it can reasonably be believed that institution of the suit and the appeal in the learned lower appellate court was not in her knowledge. Otherwise also, that part of the judgment and decree which pertains to a direction qua recovery of decretal amount from Shri J.S. Bedi, the deceased husband of the applicant/appellant is patently illegal. Since said Shri J.S. Bedi had already expired on the day when the trial Court has passed the impugned judgment and decree, no such direction could have been issued without ascertaining as to whether he was alive or not on that day and if alive, without affording an opportunity of being heard to him. Therefore, without impleading the applicant/appellant as party in the appeal and affording her an opportunity of being heard, a direction, penal in nature could have not been issued. The present as such is a fit case where on condonation of delay, the appeal deserves to be entertained and decided on merits. Being so, I allow this application and order to condone the delay as occurred in filing the appeal. The application stands accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Bachittar Singh .....Petitioner.

Vs.

Central Bank of India and others .....Respondents.

CWP No.: 1057 of 2011

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Securitization & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002- Section 13- Notice was issued under Section 13 of the SRFAESI Act –a writ petition was filed challenging the notice- held, that no representation or reply was filed to the notice – the possession was taken over by the bank and the property was ultimately sold – the remedy under Section 17 lies before Debt Recovery Tribunal – the Writ petition is not maintainable in view of alternative and efficacious remedy available to the petitioner- petition dismissed. (Para- 6 to 14)

Cases referred:

General Manager, Sri Siddeshwara Cooperative Bank Limited and another Vs. Ikbal and others (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 83

Punjab National Bank and another Vs. Imperial Gift House and others (2013) 14 Supreme Court Cases 622

Devi Ispat Limited and another Vs. State Bank of India and others (2014) 5 SCC 762

For the petitioner: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ashok Kumar Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. *(Oral):

By way of this writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:

"(a) That the impugned Annexures P-1 & P-2 may very kindly be quashed and set aside with directions to the respondents to adhere to the recovery from the petitioner after waiving of the interest and as per procedure as is applied to other similarly situated persons, i.e. after adhering to One Time Settlement procedure prescribed and available with the respondents;

(b) That the respondents may very kindly be directed to spell out the terms of the One Time Settlement and petitioner in the process undertakes to deposit half of the same in lumpsum and remaining in instalments;

(c) That the entire record pertaining to the case may also be summoned by this Hon'ble Court for its kind perusal;

(d) That cost of the writ petition may also be awarded in favour of the petitioner;

(e) Any other or further relief as this Hon'ble Court may deed just and proper keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case may also be passed in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents."

2. Annexure P-1, quashing of which has been sought by way of this writ petition is a notice dated 16.06.2010, which was issued under Section 13(2) of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 and Annexure P-2 is advertisement issued by the respondent-Bank for the auction of the land and house of the petitioner to realize the amount which is due to the respondent-Bank from the petitioner.

3. When this case was taken up for arguments on 20.10.2016, the following order was passed:

"When this case was taken up for arguments today, it was submitted by Mr. Ashok Kumar Sood, learned counsel appearing for the respondents that the present petition was not maintainable as the petitioner had directly approached this Court without exhausting the alternative remedy. Mr. Kishore Pundir, learned vice counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that some time may be granted to him to have necessary instructions in this regard. List on 3rd November, 2016. In the meanwhile, rejoinder, if any, be also filed to the reply filed by the respondents.

4. Despite opportunity, neither any rejoinder was filed by the petitioner to the reply so filed by the respondents nor any rejoinder was intended to be filed.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties on the issue of maintainability of the writ petition.

6. It is evident from the averments made in reply to the writ petition that no representation or reply was filed by the petitioner to the notice which was issued under Section 13(2) of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 nor he raised any objection against the said notice in any manner. It is further mentioned in the reply by the respondent-Bank that as petitioner failed to raise any objection against the notice as well as taking over possession of the property nor he came forward with the proposal for repayment of the said loan amount, therefore, the Bank was left with no other option but to proceed for sale of the mortgaged property. It was further mentioned in the reply that the proceedings of taking over possession of the property of the petitioner and sale of the property were strictly as per the provisions of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002.

7. Be that as it may, the fact of the matter remains that the petitioner has challenged a notice issued under Section 13(2) of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 and subsequent advertisement issued by the Bank for sale of the assets of the petitioner to recover its amount. The steps so taken by the Bank are as envisaged under Section 13 of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002.

8. Section 17 of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 provides that any person aggrieved by any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of Section 13 taken by the secured creditor or his authorized officer may make an application alongwith such fee as may be prescribed to the Debts Recovery Tribunal having jurisdiction in the matter within forty-five days from the date on which such measure had been taken. Advertisement for sale of the property is obviously a measure taken under sub-section (4) of Section 13 of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002. The petitioner rather than pursuing his remedy as was available under the provisions of the Securitisation & Reconstruction of Financial Assets & Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 has directly approached this Court without any cogent justification being there in the writ petition as to why the alternative remedy available to the petitioner has not been exhausted.

9. On the contrary, para-8 of the writ petition reads as under:

> "8. That there is no other alternative and efficacious remedy available to the petitioner except to approach this Hon'ble Court for the redressal of his grievances."

10. In these circumstances, when there was an alternative and efficacious remedy available to the petitioner and no cogent explanation has been given by the petitioner as to why he has not invoked the said alternative remedy, there is merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the respondents that the present writ petition is not maintainable in view of alternative and efficacious remedy being available with the petitioner.

11. In General Manager, Sri Siddeshwara Cooperative Bank Limited and another Vs. Ikbal and others (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 83, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that against the action of the Bank under Section 13(4) of the SARFAESI Act, the borrower has a remedy of appeal to the Debts Recovery Tribunal (DRT) under Section 17 and the said remedy is an efficacious remedy. It was further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that no doubt an alternative remedy is not an absolute bar to the exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, but by now it is well settled that where a Statute provides efficacious and adequate remedy, the High Court will do well in not entertaining a petition under Article 226. It was further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that on misplaced considerations, statutory procedures cannot be allowed to be circumvented.

12. A three Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Punjab National Bank and another Vs. Imperial Gift House and others (2013) 14 Supreme Court Cases 622 has held:

> "2. By the impugned order, in effect and substance, the High Court has quashed notice issued by the bank under Section 13(2) of the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, [for short, "the Act"].
> 3. Upon receipt of notice, respondents filed representation under Section 13(3)(A) of the Act, which was rejected. Thereafter, before any further action could be taken under *Section 13(4)*of the Act by the Bank, the writ petition was filed before the High Court.
> 4. In our view, the High Court was not justified in entertaining the writ petition against the notice issued under Section 13(2) of the Act and quashing the proceedings initiated by the bank.
> 5. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed, impugned order passed by the High Court is set aside and the writ petition filed before it is dismissed."

13. In Devi Ispat Limited and another Vs. State Bank of India and others (2014) 5 Supreme Court Cases 762, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in view of an alternative remedy to make a representation to the Bank being available under the provisions of Section 13 (3-A) of the Act, there is no reason to by-pass the statutory mechanism.

14. Therefore, keeping in view the reliefs prayed for by the petitioner and the provisions of SARFAESI Act as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as discussed above, in my considered view, the present writ petition is not maintainable in view of efficacious and adequate remedy being available to the petitioner under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act.

15. Writ petition is accordingly dismissed with liberty to the petitioner to invoke the alternative remedy available to him. No order as to costs.

Decided on: 23.11.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Writ-respondent No. 2 purchased the land vide two sale deeds – mutation was attested in his presence- subsequently an application for the correction of the revenue record was filed pleading that the possession was not correctly recorded – the application was rejected – appeal and revision were dismissed- a second revision was filed, which was allowed- writ court set aside the order passed in the revision petition- held in the appeal that the revisional powers are to be exercised with great care and caution- the revisional authority has to examine the orders on the touch stone of legality and not on the question of facts, unless it is found that orders are perverse and factually incorrect – the revisional Court cannot re-appreciate the evidence and set aside the concurrent findings of the facts, unless the findings are perverse or there has been a non-appreciation or non-consideration of material on record- the revisional power cannot be equated with the power to re-appreciate the evidencemutation was attested in the presence of respondent No. 2- he had not questioned the findings – the delay was also not explained, which should have been considered- the remedy was to file a civil suit before the Court – Writ Court had rightly passed the judgment – appeal dismissed.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

This LPA is directed against judgment and order, dated 10th October, 2007, made by the learned Single Judge in CWP No. 992 of 2003, titled as Smt. Subhadra Devi and ors. versus State of H.P. and another, whereby the writ petition filed by writ petitioners-respondents No. 1 to 4 herein came to be allowed and order, dated 8th October, 2003, made by the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) was quashed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. The case in hand has a chequered history, is two decades old and the parties are still litigating, is suggestive of the fact that delay has crept-in in taking the lis to its logical conclusion, which has adversely affected the parties.

3. It is beaten law of the land that delay takes away the settings of law. Thus, it is the duty of all concerned to see that the cases are decided as early as possible.

4. The way this case has been dealt with right from the year 1987 till filing of the writ petition is also a glaring example as to how the people are suffering, that too, for trivial issues.

5. It is necessary to notice the brief facts of the case herein.

6. Shri Charan Dass, the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants, i.e. writ respondent No. 2 (since deceased, now represented through his legal heirs/representatives) purchased the land vide two registered sale deeds, dated 23rd September, 1969. Mutation No. 542 to this effect was attested on 20th April, 1970. At the time of recording the mutation proceedings, the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants- writ respondent No. 2 was present, had not raised any finger qua recording of mutation and was satisfied till 31st January, 1987, when he filed an application before the Settlement Officer, Kangra for correction of the entries in the revenue record.

7. In the said application, it was averred that the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 had purchased 3 kanals 1 marla land out of 7 kanals 10 marlas land comprised in khasra No. 732 min vide registered sale deed, dated 23rd September, 1969, from one Shri Chuhru, was given possession towards the path side, but some mischievous elements had got recorded his possession on the other side and had prayed for correction of the entries.

8. The Settlement Officer, Kangra, transferred the said application to Tehsildar (Settlement), Una. The inquiry was conducted by the Settlement Naib Tehsildar, who submitted the report on 8th October, 1987. After perusing the said report, the Tehsildar (Settlement) rejected the application filed by the appellant-writ respondent No. 2.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said order, the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 questioned the same by the medium of appeal before the Settlement Collector, Kangra, who accepted the appeal vide order, dated 22nd January, 1991, and remanded the case to the Tehsildar (Settlement). The Tehsildar (Settlement) heard the parties, inquired into the matter and again rejected the application vide order, dated 31st January, 1992.

10. Dissatisfied with order, dated 31st January, 1992, made by the Tehsildar (Settlement), the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 filed appeal before the Settlement Collector, Kangra, who, vide order, dated 18th June, 2003, dismissed the appeal with the observations that the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 had to assail the mutation before the competent court of jurisdiction, which he had not done, thus, the correction of entry relating to possession, as sought for, could not be made in the revenue record.

11. The said order of Settlement Collector was then questioned by the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 before the Divisional Commissioner, Kangra Division by the medium of revision petition, was dismissed vide order, dated 15th January, 1998. The Divisional Commissioner has given the minute details of the facts of the case and history behind it. It has specifically recorded that though, as per one of the sale deeds, dated 23rd September, 1969, the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 had purchased land on the southern side (Bhumi Zanab Janoob), but the spot inspections conducted by the field staff did not prove that he was in possession of the said portion of the land. Further held that mutation No. 542 was attested on 20th April, 1970, since then entries had been recorded in various records including jamabandies and record-of-rights and after lapse of such a long period, such record cannot be corrected.

12. Though, the Divisional Commissioner has recorded that since the proceedings before him were in the nature of revision, the evidence was not to be evaluated as the only issue to be determined was the legality of the orders of the revenue authorities. He, by a speaking order, has held that the facts and merits of the case in hand were rightly appreciated by the authorities below.

13. The predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 invoked the jurisdiction of the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) by the medium of second revision, being Revision Petition No. 224 of 1998, who accepted the same vide order, dated 8th October, 2003, and set aside the orders made by all the three revenue authorities.

14. The writ petitioners-respondents No. 1 to 4 herein questioned the said order of the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) by the medium of CWP No. 992 of 2003, was allowed and the order made by the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) came to be quashed and set aside in terms of the impugned judgment. Hence, this appeal.

15. The following questions arise for determination in this appeal:

(i) Whether the Financial Commissioner (Appeals), while hearing the second revision, was within its limits and competence to upset the concurrent findings of facts recorded by the revenue agencies including the appellate authority and confirmed by the first revisional authority?

(ii) Whether the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) was within its jurisdiction to accept and grant the application, dated 31st January, 1987, which was highly belated?

(iii) Whether the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) was within its rights and power to direct the revenue authorities to change the entries in the revenue record made in terms of the mutation in the year 1970, came to be reflected and recorded in the record-of-rights?

16. The answer to all the three questions is in the negative for the following reasons:

17. The Himachal Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1954 (for short "Act") contains a complete mechanism as to how the entries are to be recorded in the revenue record i.e. Record-of-Rights, Misal Haqiat, Khasra Girdawari, Jamabandies etc., and also provides remedies.

18. Section 17 of the Act provides that the Financial Commissioner may call for the record of any case pending or disposed of by any officer subordinate to him. It is apt to reproduce Section 17 of the Act herein:

> "17. Power To call for, examine and revise proceedings of Revenue Officers :- (1) The Financial Commissioner may at any time call for the record of any case pending before or disposed of by any Revenue Officer subordinate to him.
> (2) A Commissioner or Collector may call for the record of any case pending before, or disposed by, any Revenue Officer under his control.
> (3) If in any of case in which a Commissioner or Collector, has called for a record, is of the opinion that the proceedings taken or order made should be modified or reversed, he shall report the case with his opinion thereon for the orders of the Financial Commissioner.
> (4) The Financial Commissioner may in any case called for by himself under sub-section (1) or reported to him or under sub-section (3) pass such orders as he thinks fit:
> Provided that he shall not under this section pass an order reversing or modifying any proceeding, or order of a subordinate Revenue Officer and effecting any question of right between private persons without giving those persons an opportunity of being heard."

19. Section 17 of the Act provides that the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) and the Divisional Commissioner have revisional powers. The Financial Commissioner (Appeals) can exercise second revisional jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) in revision against the orders passed by the revenue authorities subordinate to it, is alike Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short "CPC").

20. The Apex Court in the case titled as Gurudassing Nawoosing Panjwani versus State of Maharashtra and others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 6277, held that if revisional powers are exercised by a revenue officer having jurisdiction to do so, further revisional power can be exercised by the superior revenue officer or by the State Government. It is apt to reproduce para 30 of the judgment herein:

> "30. From perusal of the entire scheme of the Code including Section 257, it is manifest that the revisional powers are not only exercisable by the State Government but also by certain other Revenue officers. There is nothing in the Code to suggest that if these revisional powers are exercised by a Revenue officer who has jurisdiction, it cannot be further exercised by a superior Revenue officer or by the State Government. A fair reading of Sections 257 and 259 suggests that if revisional powers are exercised by a Revenue officer having jurisdiction to do so, further revisional power can be exercised by the superior officer or by the State Government."

21. In the instant case, though the Divisional Commissioner had exercised its revisional jurisdiction, but the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) was also within its rights in exercising the powers of second revisional authority, but it had to exercise the revisional powers with great care and caution, has fallen in an error in upsetting the concurrent findings of facts recorded by the revenue courts below.

22. It is beaten law of the land that the revisional authority has only to examine the orders on the touchstone of legality and not on the question of facts unless it is found that the orders are perverse and factually incorrect.

23. In the case titled as Manick Chandra Nandy versus Debdas Nandy and others, reported in AIR 1986 Supreme Court 446, the Apex Court has discussed the nature, quality and extent of revisional jurisdiction. It is profitable to reproduce para 5 of the judgment herein:

"5. We are constrained to observe that the approach adopted by the High Court in dealing with the two revisional applications was one not warranted by law. The High Court treated these two applications as if they were first appeals and not applications invoking its jurisdiction under section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The nature, quality and extent of appellate jurisdiction being exercised in first appeal and of revisional jurisdiction are very different. The limits of revisional jurisdiction are prescribed and its boundaries defined by section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Under that section revisional jurisdiction is to be exercised by the High Court in a case in which no appeal lies to it from the decision of a subordinate Court if it appears to it that the subordinate Court has exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law or has failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it by law or has acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. The exercise of revisional jurisdiction is thus confined to questions of jurisdiction. While in a first appeal the Court is free to decide all questions of law and fact which arise in the case, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction the High Court is not entitled to re-examine or re-assess the evidence on record and substitute its own findings on facts for those of the subordinate Court. In the instant case, the Respondents had raised a plea that the Appellant's application under Rule 13 of Order IX was barred by limitation, Now, a plea of limitation concerns the jurisdiction of the Court which tries a proceeding, for a finding on this plea in favour of the party raising it would oust the jurisdiction of the Court. In determining the correctness of the decision reached by the subordinate Court on such a plea. the High Court may at times have to go into a jurisdictional question of law or fact, that is it may have to decide collateral questions upon the ascertainment of which the decision as to jurisdiction depends. For the purpose of ascertaining whether the subordinate Court has decided such a collateral question rightly the High Court cannot however, function as a Court of first appeal so far as the assessment of evidence is concerned and substitute its own findings for those arrived at by the subordinate Court unless any such finding is not in anyway borne out by the evidence on the record or is manifestly contrary to evidence or so palpably wrong that if allowed to stand. would result in grave injustice to a party."

24. The Apex Court in the cases titled as Masjid Kacha Tank, Nahan versus Tuffail Mohammed, reported in AIR 1991 Supreme Court 455, and Yunis Ali (Dead) Thru his L.Rs. versus Khursheed Akram, reported in 2008 AIR SCW 4372, held that the Courts, while exercising revisional jurisdiction, cannot re-appreciate the evidence and set aside the concurrent findings of the Courts below by taking a different view of the evidence unless the findings are perverse or there has been a non-appreciation or non-consideration of the material evidence on record. It is apt to reproduce para 15 of the judgment in Yunis Ali's case (supra) herein:

> "15.It is well-settled position in law that under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure the High Court cannot re- appreciate the evidence and cannot set aside the concurrent findings of the Courts below by taking a different view of the evidence. The High Court is empowered 26 to interfere with the findings of fact if the findings are perverse or there has been a non-appreciation or non-consideration of the material evidence on record by the courts below. Simply because another view of the evidence may be taken is no ground by the High Court to interfere in its revisional jurisdiction."

25. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the cases titled as Chandmal versus Firm Ram Chandra and Vishwanath, reported in AIR 1991 Supreme Court 1594, and Gurdial Singh and others versus Raj Kumar Aneja and others, reported in AIR 2002 Supreme Court 1003. It would be profitable to reproduce paras 12, 13 and 16 of the judgment in Chandmal's case (supra) herein:

> "12. There is no dispute regarding the submission made in Para 9 of the additional written statement which is a part of the same written statement filed on behalf of the respondent by one of its partners, Shankarrao Marutirao Sonawane to the effect that one of the partners of the said firm, Ramchandra Madhavrao is occupying the house as a permanent tenant since Samvat 2002. Admittedly, on the basis of this additional Written Statement an additional issue No. 1 was framed at the request of the landlord appellant whether the claim of permanent tenancy of Ramchandra Madhavrao was bona fide. It is evident from the provisions of S. 15(2)(vi) as set out hereinbefore that if the tenant has claimed a right of permanent tenancy.and that such claim was not bona fide, the Controller shall make an order directing the tenant to put the landlord in possession of the house. The Additional Rent Controller as well as the District Judge considered carefully and minutely the evidence adduced on behalf of the tenant-respondent and found that claim of permanent tenancy was not bona fide. Accordingly, the courts below held that the tenant-respondent was liable to be evicted from the suit premises on this ground alone and passed order for eviction from the suit premises. The jurisdiction of the High Court in revision against the order passed on appeal by the District Judge is a limited one and it is almost pari materia with the provisions of S. 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The High Court while exercising the revisional jurisdiction can interfere with the order passed on appeal by the appellate authority only on three grounds i.e. (i) where the original or appellate authority exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or (ii) where the original or appellate authority failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or (iii) where in following the procedure or passing the order, the original or appellate authority acted illegally or with material irregularity. It is evident from the averments made in para 9 of the additional written statement. that one of the partners of the respondent firm, Ramchandra Madhavrao occupied the said premises as a permanent tenant since Samvat 2002. This claim of permanent tenancy was held to be not bona fide by the original Court as well as by the appellate authority on a consideration and appraisement of the evidence adduced on behalf of the tenant-respondent and as such both the courts below passed order of eviction of the tenant-respondent from the suit premises. These are admittedly concurrent findings of fact arrived at by the original and the appellate authority. Moreover, these findings in any view of the matter whatsoever, cannot be held to be either without jurisdiction nor it can amount to a failure to exercise jurisdiction vested with them, nor it can be held to be made by the original or appellate authority illegally or with material irregularity.

13. The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court under S. 26 of the said Act is confined strictly to the jurisdictional error or illegal exercise of jurisdiction. The finding of the High Court to the effect that it was the duty of the Court in the interest of justice to interfere even with the concurrent finding of facts because on the record, High Court found that there was not a single factor to come to the conclusion that the claim was mala fide or was not bona fide as required by the statute, is entirely baseless and not in accordance with the provisions of S. 26 of the said Act which confers revisional jurisdiction on the High Court. It is pertinent to mention in this connection the decision in J. Pandu v. R. Narsubai, (1987) 1 SCC 573: (AIR 1987 SC 857). It is a case under the A.P. Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1960. Sub- sec. (2)(vi) of S. 10 of A.P. Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Act which is similar to S. 15(2)(vi) of-the Hyderabad Houses (Rent, Eviction and Lease) Control Act, 1954 sets out two grounds of eviction viz. (1) denial of title of the landlord without bona fides, and(2) claim of permanent tenancy rights without bona fides. It was held that "consequently, either denial of title or claim of permanent tenancy without bona fides will itself be enough to attract S. 10(2)(vi). The. order of eviction on this ground, has, therefore, to be sustained. By reason of this conclusion alone the appeal can be dismissed."

16. In the premises aforesaid, the judgment and order passed in revision by the High Court is contrary to law as the High Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction interfered with the concurrent finding of fact arrived at by the original Court as well as the appellate authority. The High Court should not have reversed the same in exercise of its revisional Jurisdiction under S. 26 of the said Act. We, therefore, set aside the judgment and order of the High Court and uphold the orders of the courts below. The respondent is given three months' time to vacate the suit premises on filing the usual undertaking that they will not induct anybody or transfer the same to any other person and they will go on paying the rent of the premises at the usual rate and will deliver vacant and peaceful possession of the suit premises on or before the expiry of the said period to the landlord appellant. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the parties will bear their own costs."

26. In the case titled as Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. versus Dilbahar Singh, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 5018, the Apex Court has held that the revisional power is not and cannot be equated with the power of re-consideration of all questions of fact as a court of first appeal. It is apt to reproduce paras 25 to 30, 32 and 45 of the judgment herein:

"25. Before we consider the matter further to find out the scope and extent of revisional jurisdiction under the above three Rent Control Acts, a quick observation about the 'appellate jurisdiction' and 'revisional jurisdiction' is necessary. Conceptually, revisional jurisdiction is a part of appellate jurisdiction but it is not vice-versa. Both, appellate jurisdiction and revisional jurisdiction are creatures of statutes. No party to the proceeding has an inherent right of appeal or revision. An appeal is continuation of suit or original proceeding, as the case may be. The power of the appellate court is co-extensive with that of the trial court. Ordinarily, appellate jurisdiction involves re-hearing on facts and law but such jurisdiction may be limited by the statute itself that provides for appellate jurisdiction. On the other hand, revisional jurisdiction, though, is a part of appellate jurisdiction but ordinarily it cannot be equated with that of a full-fledged appeal. In other words, revision is not continuation of suit or of original proceeding. When the aid of revisional court is invoked on the revisional side, it can interfere within the permissible parameters provided in the statute. It goes without saying that if a revision is provided against an order passed by the tribunal/appellate authority, the decision of the revisional court is the operative decision in law. In our view, as regards the extent of appellate or revisional jurisdiction, much would, however, depend on the language employed by the statute conferring appellate jurisdiction and revisional jurisdiction.

26. With the above general observations, we shall now endeavour to determine the extent, scope, ambit and meaning of the terms "legality or propriety", "regularity, correctness, legality or propriety" and "legality, regularity or propriety" which are used in three Rent Control Acts under consideration.

27. The ordinary meaning of the word 'legality' is lawfulness. It refers to strict adherence to law, prescription, or doctrine; the quality of being legal.

28. The term 'propriety' means fitness; appropriateness, aptitude; suitability; appropriateness to the circumstances or condition conformity with requirement; rules or principle, rightness, correctness, justness, accuracy.

29. The terms 'correctness' and 'propriety' ordinarily convey the same meaning, that is, something which is legal and proper. In its ordinary meaning and substance, 'correctness' is compounded of 'legality' and 'propriety' and that which is legal and proper is 'correct'.

30. The expression "regularity" with reference to an order ordinarily relates to the procedure being followed in accord with the principles of natural justice and fair play.

31. .....

32. We are in full agreement with the view expressed in M/s. Sri Raja Lakshmi Dyeing Works and others v. Rangaswamy Chettiar, 1980 4 SCC 259 that where both expressions "appeal" and "revision" are employed in a statute, obviously, the expression "revision" is meant to convey the idea of a much narrower jurisdiction than that conveyed by the expression "appeal". The use of two expressions "appeal" and "revision" when used in one statute conferring appellate power and revisional power, we think, is not without purpose and significance. Ordinarily, appellate jurisdiction involves a re-hearing while it is not so in the case of revisional jurisdiction when the same statute provides the remedy by way of an 'appeal' and so also of a 'revision'. If that were so, the revisional power would become co-extensive with that of the trial Court or the subordinate Tribunal which is never the case. The classic statement in Dattonpant Gopalvarao Devakate v. Vithalrao Maruthirao Janagaval, 1975 2 SCC 246 that revisional power under the Rent Control Act may not be as narrow as the revisional power under Section 115 of the Code but, at the same time, it is not wide enough to make the High Court a second Court of first appeal, commends to us and we approve the same. We are of the view that in the garb of revisional jurisdiction under the above three Rent Control Statutes, the High Court is not conferred a status of second Court of first appeal and the High Court should not enlarge the scope of revisional jurisdiction to that extent.

45. We hold, as we must, that none of the above Rent Control Acts entitles the High Court to interfere with the findings of fact recorded by the First Appellate Court/First Appellate Authority because on re- appreciation of the evidence, its view is different from the Court/Authority below. The consideration or examination of the evidence by the High Court in revisional jurisdiction under these Acts is confined to find out that finding of facts recorded by the Court/Authority below is according to law and does not suffer from any error of law. A finding of fact recorded by Court/Authority below, if perverse or has been arrived at without consideration of the material evidence or such finding is based on no evidence or misreading of the evidence or is grossly erroneous that, if allowed to stand, it would result in gross miscarriage of justice, is open to correction because it is not treated as a finding according to law. In that event, the High Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under the above Rent Control Acts shall be entitled to set aside the impugned order as being not legal or proper. The High Court is entitled to satisfy itself the correctness or legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned before it as indicated above. However, to satisfy itself to the regularity, correctness, legality or propriety of the impugned decision or the order, the High Court shall not exercise its power as an appellate power to re-appreciate or re-assess the evidence for coming to a different finding on facts. Revisional power is not and cannot be equated with the power of reconsideration of all questions of fact as a court of first appeal. Where the High Court is required to be satisfied that the decision is according to law, it may examine whether the order impugned before it suffers from procedural illegality or irregularity."

27. Admittedly, mutation was attested in presence of the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2. He had never raised any finger and had not questioned the findings made by the revenue agencies that he was not in possession of the land in question, thus, the Financial Commissioner (Appeals) has fallen in an error in upsetting the orders made by the Divisional Commissioner, Assistant Settlement Officer and the Tehsildar (Settlement).

28. The Apex Court in the case titled as Narasamma & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 2653, held that the entries in the revenue record reflects as to who was in possession on the date of entry. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of para 12 of the judgment herein:

"12. ..... It is true that the entries in the revenue record cannot create any title in respect of the land in dispute but it certainly reflects as to who was in possession of the land in dispute on the date the name of that person had been entered in the revenue record....." (Emphasis added)

29. The predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 had neither explained the delay in the application filed in the year 1987 for correction of the entries in the revenue record nor in the appeal, revision, second revision and the writ petition, thus, was caught by delay.

30. The Apex Court in the case titled as State of West Bengal and others versus Karan Singh Binayak and others, reported in AIR 2002 Supreme Court 1543, held that rectification of record-of-rights sought after a considerable long delay is not proper. It is apt to reproduce paras 17 and 18 of the judgment herein:

"17. The period of 25 years under the lease expired in the year 1976. The notification under the Act was issued on 11th November, 1954. In 1957 record of rights was prepared under Section 44 of the Act according to which the land was held retainable under Section 6(1)(b) of the Act. The possession was handed over to the original owners in 1981 on liquidation of the lessee on an order being passed by the High Court directing official liquidator to disclaim the property which was later transferred to the writ petitioners in terms of the agreements of sale entered in the year 1988 and sale deeds in 1992-93. Meanwhile, in the year 1991 on proceedings being taken under the ULC Act, 6145.90 square meter of the land was held to be excess under the said Act. In June 1993, the plans were sanctioned and construction commenced. It can, thus, be seen that after the preparation of record-of-rights, not only the appellants did not take any steps and slept over the matter but various steps as-above were taken by the respondents in respect of the land in question. The argument that the proceedings under the ULC Act or the preparation of record-of-rights were ultra vires and the acts without jurisdiction and, therefore, those proceedings would not operate as a bar in appellants invoking inherent jurisdiction under Section 151, C. P. C. by virtue of conferment of such power under Section 57A of the Act is wholly misconceived and misplaced. The inherent powers cannot be used to reopen the settled matters. These powers cannot be resorted to when there are specific provisions in the Act to deal with the situation. It would be an abuse to allow the reopening of the settled matter after nearly four decades in the purported exercise of inherent powers. It has not even been suggested that there was any collusion or fraud on behalf of the writ petitioners or the erstwhile owners. There is no explanation much less satisfactory explanation for total-inaction on the part of the appellants for all these years.

18. Apart from the facts stated above, even when the appellants woke from its slumber, the manner in which they acted has already been noticed and it is apparent therefrom that at athat stage they did not proceed to take action for the correction of the record-of-rights. They did not at that stage invoke Section 57A of the Act. What they did was to issue an order suspending the sanction of the building plan and directed the Chairman of the Municipality to ask the respondents to suspend the construction according to the plain sanctioned by the municipality. In proceedings of the writ petition wherein the said order was challenged, it does not appear that appellants took the stand of the land vesting in it and the further stand that the record-of-right was prepared without jurisdiction or that the proceedings under the ULC Act were void and without jurisdiction. The stand taken by them was that proceedings under the ULC Act were not genuine. The competent authority was called in those proceedings and stood by the documents signed by him. The statements issued under the ULC Act were held to be genuine. The order directing suspension of the plans and stoppage of construction were quashed by a learned single Judge of the High Court. The order of the learned single Judge was upheld in appeal by the Division Bench of the High Court. After the decision of the Division Bench, the appellants started proceedings in question under Section 57A purporting to Act on the basis that 1957 record-of-rights was based on defective, wrongful and irregular record and it was not a bar for revision of records on the basis of new and genuine facts. The notice issued even within less than three weeks of the decision of the Division Bench itself shows that the appellants were aware of the proceedings of the writ petition but did not think it proper to move the High Court and seek a clarification that they could reopen the matter explaining to the High Court the circumstances under which in response to the writ petition they had not taken the stand before the High Court on the basis whereof they were seeking to exercise power under Section 57A after lapse of nearly 38 years. It is evident that they knew about the factum of liquidation of the lessee. Despite that, notice of proceedings under Section 57A was directed to be issued to the mill and not to writ petitioners on whose petition the order of the District Magistrate was set aside by the High Court. Two months later i.e. on 15th May, 1995, the order was passed noticing that nobody had appeared to oppose those proceedings. The appellants purported to take paper possession on 5th September, 1996. There is nothing on the record to suggest that any attempt was made to serve the notice dated 15th March, 1995 or the order dated 15th May, 1995 on the respondents who, it seems, came to know of these proceedings only towards the end of 1996 when proceedings were initiated for breach of Section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It is difficult to comprehend, the applicability of Section 144, Cr. P. C. to the fact situation. To say the least the appellants have been wholly negligent and having slept over the matter for nearly 40 years, they could not reopen the matter in the manner sought to be done." (Emphasis added)

31. In another case titled as I. Chuba Jamir & Ors. versus State of Nagaland & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 5162, the Apex Court has held that the inordinate delay is a very valid and important consideration. It is apt to reproduce para 17 of the judgment herein:

"17. On a careful consideration of the materials on record and the submissions made by Mr. Goswami we are unable to accept the claims of the appellants-writ petitioners. In our view the inordinate delay of 7 or 8 years by the appellants-writ petitioners in approaching the High Court was a very valid and important consideration. This aspect of the matter was also brought to the notice of the Single Judge but he proceeded with the matter without saying anything on that issue, one way or the other. It was, therefore, perfectly open to the Division Bench to take into consideration the conduct of the appellants-writ petitioners and the consequences, apart from the legality and validity, of the reliefs granted to them by the learned single Judge."

32. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Banda Development Authority, Banda versus Moti Lal Agarwal and Ors, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 2835. It is apt to reproduce paras 15 and 25 of the judgment herein:

"15. In our view, even if the objection of delay and laches had not been raised in the affidavits filed on behalf of the BDA and the State Government, the High Court was duty bound to take cognizance of the long time gap of 9 years between the issue of declaration under Section 6(1) and filing of the writ petition and declined relief to respondent No.1 on the ground that he was guilty of laches because the acquired land had been utilized for implementing the residential scheme and third party rights had been created. The unexplained delay of about six years between the passing of award and filing of writ petition was also sufficient for refusing to entertain the prayer made in the writ petition.

25. In this case, the acquired land was utilized for implementing Tulsi Nagar Residential Scheme inasmuch as after carrying out necessary development i.e. construction of roads, laying electricity, water and sewer lines etc. the BDA carved out plots, constructed flats for economically weaker sections and lower income group, invited applications for allotment of the plots and flats from general as well as reserved categories and allotted the same to eligible persons. In the process, the BDA not only incurred huge expenditure but also created third party rights. In this scenario, the delay of nine years from the date of publication of the declaration issued under Section 6(1) and almost six years from the date of passing of award should have been treated by the High Court as more than sufficient for denying equitable relief to respondent No.1."

33. The Apex Court in the case titled as Chennai Metropolitan Water Supply and Sewerage Board and others versus T.T. Murali Babu, reported in 2014 AIR SCW, held that the doctrine of delay and laches should not be lightly brushed aside. It is worthwhile to reproduce para 16 of the judgment herein:

"16. Thus, the doctrine of delay and laches should not be lightly brushed aside. A writ court is required to weigh the explanation offered and the acceptability of the same. The court should bear in mind that it is exercising an extraordinary and equitable jurisdiction. As a constitutional court it has a duty to protect the rights of the citizens but simultaneously it is to keep itself alive to the primary principle that when an aggrieved person, without adequate reason, approaches the court at his own leisure or pleasure, the Court would be under legal obligation to scrutinize whether the lis at a belated stage should be entertained or not. Be it noted, delay comes in the way of equity. In certain circumstances delay and laches may not be fatal but in most circumstances inordinate delay would only invite disaster for the litigant who knocks at the doors of the Court. Delay reflects inactivity and inaction on the part of a litigant a litigant who has forgotten the basic norms, namely, "procrastination is the greatest thief of time" and second, law does not permit one to sleep and rise like a phoenix. Delay does bring in hazard and causes injury to the lis. In the case at hand, though there has been four years' delay in approaching the court, yet the writ court chose not to address the same. It is the duty of the court to scrutinize whether such enormous delay is to be ignored without any justification. That apart, in the present case, such belated approach gains more significance as the respondent-employee being absolutely careless to his duty and nurturing a lackadaisical attitude to the responsibility had remained unauthorisedly absent on the pretext of some kind of ill health. We repeat at the cost of repetition that remaining innocuously oblivious to such delay does not foster the cause of justice. On the contrary, it brings in injustice, for it is likely to affect others. Such delay may have impact on others' ripened rights and may unnecessarily drag others into litigation which in acceptable realm of probability, may have been treated to have attained finality. A court is not expected to give indulgence to such indolent persons - who compete with 'Kumbhakarna' or for that matter 'Rip Van Winkle'. In our considered opinion, such delay does not deserve any indulgence and on the said ground alone the writ court should have thrown the petition overboard at the very threshold."

34. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as State of Jammu and Kashmir versus R.K. Zalpuri and others, reported in AIR 2016 Supreme Court 3006, paras 26 and 27 whereof read as under:

"26. In the case at hand, the employee was dismissed from service in the year 1999, but he chose not to avail any departmental remedy. He woke up from his slumber to knock at the doors of the High Court after a lapse of five years. The staleness of the claim remained stale and it could not have been allowed to rise like a phoenix by the writ court.

27. The grievance agitated by the respondent did not deserve to be addressed on merits, for doctrine of delay and laches had already visited his claim like the chill of death which does not spare anyone even the one who fosters the idea and nurtures the attitude that he can sleep to avoid death and eventually proclaim "Deo gratias" - 'thanks to God'."

35. The Divisional Commissioner has rightly discussed all the aspects of the case. The predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 was supposed to be vigilant and had to seek the relief within time, if aggrieved, which he had not done and now the entries made in the revenue record cannot be allowed to be changed on mere asking, that too, in the record-of-rights.

36. The Financial Commissioner (Appeals) has not held that the inquiry/spot inspection conducted by the field staff relating to the possession was not factually and legally correct. It has also not given any reasons how the first revisional authority, appellate authority and the revenue authority failed to appreciate the facts of the case.

37. The learned Single Judge has discussed all the aspects and we are of the view that the Writ Court has rightly made the impugned judgment. If, at all, the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 was aggrieved by any entries made in the record-of-rights, the remedy perhaps was to file a suit for declaration in terms of the mandate of Specific Relief Act, which he has not chosen to file.

38. Our this view is fortified by the judgment in the case titled as Jagtar Singh and others versus Swaran Singh, reported in 1979 Simla Law Journal (Punjab & Haryana) 89. It is apt to reproduce para 5 of the judgment herein:

"5. It is settled law that when that Khasra girdawari entries have been incorporated in the latest and subsequent jamabandi, the revenue officers cannot change them in summary proceedings under the provisions of Punjab Land Revenue Act and in such case only course open to an aggrieved party is to seek relief from competent civil court by filing a regular civil suit. This view finds support from the ruling of the Financial Commissioner given in 1970-PLJ-30, Reg., Prehlad Bhagat and another Vs. Karta Ram and another in which it was held that where entries in khasra girdawari have been incorporated in Jamabandi the Revenue Officers have no right to order corrections of a such entries and these can only be corrected by filing a regular suit. Shri B.S. Sodhi, learned counsel for respondent has not given any satisfactory rebuttal of the above proposition of Law. In view of this the orders passed by the Assistant Collector and the Collector cannot be sustained in eye of law and have to be set aside."

39. The High Court of Punjab and Haryana in the case titled as The Chief Secretary to Government Punjab and others versus Chawli and others, reported in 1980 Punjab Law Journal 10, held that if any person considers himself aggrieved as to any right of which he is in possession by an entry in record-of-rights or in an annual record, he may institute a suit for declaration of his right under the Specific Relief Act.

40. In another case titled as Dharam Singh and others versus The State of Haryana and others, reported in 1983 Punjab Law Journal 210, it has been held by the High Court of Punjab and Haryana that an aggrieved party can file a suit under the Specific Relief Act to rectify the entry in the revenue record. Further held that only the legal errors regarding jurisdiction or material irregularity could be rectified by the Financial Commissioner. It is worthwhile to reproduce para 5 of the judgment herein:

"5. From the combined reading of these provisions it is plain that the bar of jurisdiction of Civil Court is subject to other provisions of the Act and under section 45 of the Act, an aggrieved party can file a suit under the Specific Relief Act to rectify the entry in the revenue record. Even the Assistant Collector and the Collector who are the officers for the determination of the fact, had found as a fact that respondent No. 3 did not remain in possession after the death of Maya Ram, his father and the application for correction was dismissed. Only the legal errors regarding the jurisdiction or material irregularity could be rectified by the Financial Commissioner. Be that as it may, since the matter is concluded by the Civil Court, the Financial Commissioner who was performing the duties of a Revenue Officer under the Act, could not sit over the findings of the Civil Court between the parties. The decision of the Civil Court is binding, in my view on the Revenue Officers."

41. The predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2, under the garb of the proceedings right from the year 1987, dragged the respondents No. 1 to 4 herein in the lis without any fault on their part.

42. The predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-writ respondent No. 2 wanted to have rectification in order to record his possession over the portion of land, which was not in his possession and virtually, wanted the change of misal haqiat, record-of-rights and jamabandies, which cannot be done merely by making application and the remedy was before the Civil Court, as discussed hereinabove.

43. More so, if such a belated application is allowed, that will have an effect of taking away the settings of law, which have attained finality.

44. All the questions are answered accordingly.

45. Viewed thus, the learned Single Judge has rightly made the impugned judgment, needs no interference.

46. Having said so, the appeal merits to be dismissed and is dismissed alongwith all pending applications with costs quantified at ₹ 20,000/- to be deposited with the H.P. High Court Bar Association Welfare Funds within two weeks.

Date of decision: 23rd November, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226 - A lease was granted in favour of the petitioner – the petitioner approached the respondents for renewal of lease – respondents renewed the lease for part of the land – the petitioner failed to get the lease renewed – proceedings were initiated under H.P. Cases referred:
Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi versus M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd., 2014 AIR SCW 3157
Iswarlal Mohanlal Thakkar versus Paschim Gujarat Vij Company Ltd. & Anr., 2014 AIR SCW 3298

For the petitioner: Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the respondents: M/s Anup Rattan and Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, with Mr. J.K. Verma, and Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of this writ petition, the petitioner mainly has sought the following reliefs, on the grounds taken therein.

"(i) A writ of Certiorari or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari may kindly be issued quashing/setting aside order dated 17.11.2015 (Annexure P-32) passed by respondent No. 3 in Case No. 212/2014 and order dated 5.5.2011 (Annexure P-28) passed by respondent No.4 in Case no. 04/2003-04.

(ii) A writ of Mandamus or direction in the nature of Writ of Mandamus may kindly be issued to the respondents directing the respondents to drop the proceedings of eviction initiated against the petitioner."

2. The petitioner is in third round of litigation before this Court by the medium of this petition for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

3. It appears that a lease was granted on 12.11.1965 in favour of petitioner-M/s International Angora Breeding Farm (Memmingen) Bombay India vide Annexure P-1 for 100 acres of land near Mohal, District Kullu, H.P. by the then Governor of Punjab. The lease was for a period of 30 years, commencing from the date, the lessee executed the agreement or the possession of the land was handed over to him which ever was earlier. The State/respondents in the year 1965, have handed over only 57 acres of land to the petitioner, vide Annexure P2.

4. It is stated that the petitioner had approached the respondents for renewal of the lease and vide communication dated 21.4.1997, it was decided to renew the lease only for 31 bighas 5 biswas of land vide Annexure P13, for a period of 20 years w.e.f. 18.11.1995 to 17.11.2015. The petitioner, feeling dissatisfied again approached the respondents for renewal of the lease and vide communication from The Divisional Forest Officer, Kullu dated 10.9.1998, Annexure P16, it was decided to renew the lease only for ten bighas against the proposal of 31.05 bighas, in favour of the petitioner. Thereafter vide Annexure P19 dated 12.11.2002; the renewal of lease was recommended only for six biswas in favour of the petitioner. However, the petitioner failed to get the lease renewed despite having given sufficient time.

5. Vide Annexure P22, notice under sub-Section (i) of Section 4 of the H.P. Public Premises and Land (Eviction and Rent Recovery), Act, 1971, for short "the Act", was issued to the petitioner, proceedings were initiated and eviction order was made by the Collector Forest Division, Kullu, H.P., against him.

6. The petitioner filed appeal against the said eviction order before the Commissioner, Mandi, Division-respondent No.3 herein, who vide order dated 30.6.2006, dismissed the appeal, constraining the petitioner to file CWP which was registered before this Court as CWP No. 656 of 2006. This Court, vide judgment dated 17.3.2009, quashed the order dated 30.6.2006, and disposed of the writ petition with liberty to the respondents to initiate fresh proceedings in terms of the provisions of the Act, has attained the finality. It is apt to reproduce the said judgment herein.

> "With the consent of the parties, Annexure P.9, dated 30.11.1994 and Annexure P.11, dated 30.6.2006 are quashed and set aside. However, the liberty is reserved to the respondents to start fresh proceedings against the petitioner under the provision of Himachal Pradesh Public premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants) Act, 1971, from the stage of issuance of notice by specifying the grounds as per Section 4 of the Act.
> With these observations made here-in-above, the writ petition is disposed of. No costs. Dasti Copy, on usual terms."

7. Thereafter fresh proceedings were initiated against the petitioner and eviction order was again passed against him on 5.5.2011, by respondent No.4, Annexure P-28. The petitioner filed appeal before respondent No. 3, which met with the same fate, vide order dated 28.10.2013 Annexure P-30.

8. Feeling aggrieved, petitioner filed a writ petition before this Court being CWP No. 1810/2014 and this Court vide judgment and order dated 17.7.2014, Annexure P-30A, remanded the matter to the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, with direction to the Commissioner to pass appropriate orders, as warranted under law, within four weeks from the date of the said judgment. It is apt to reproduce paras 7 and 8 of the said judgment herein.

> "7. In the given circumstances, the writ petition is allowed, the impugned order is set aside and case No. 193/2011 is remanded, which shall come up for consideration before the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi on 11th August, 2014.
> 8. The parties are directed to cause appearance before the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, on 11th August, 2014. It is made clear that if the writ petitioner-appellant fails to appear on the said date, Divisional Commissioner, Mandi shall be at liberty to pass appropriate orders, as warranted under law and if the writ petitioner-appellant appears, the appeal be concluded within four weeks with effect from 11th August, 2014."

9. The appellate Court, i.e. the Divisional Commissioner Mandi, was directed to hear the petitioner and petitioner was directed to remain present. It was also provided that in case, the petitioner fails to do so, the appellate Court shall be within its power to pass appropriate orders.

10. While going through the impugned order, it appears that the petitioner was present, was heard and thereafter Presiding Officer was transferred and his successor had taken over. Arguments were heard on 24.9.2015 and written arguments were also submitted.

11. The learned counsel for the petitioner frankly stated at the Bar that the learned counsel for the petitioner before the appellate Court had addressed the arguments but the same have not been appreciated and considered. His statement to this effect was also recorded vide order dated 10.11.2016 when arguments were heard in this petition. Thus; it is not the case of the petitioner that he was not heard.

12. The only grievance of the petitioner, as projected and argued, was that the facts, circumstances and arguments were not marshalled out and appreciated by the appellate Court.

13. While going through the order impugned, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that the appellate Court has discussed all the aspects. It is apt to reproduce second last and last paras at pages 149 and 150 of the said order herein.

> "I have heard the arguments put forth by both the parties. The record placed in file was perused minutely. Perusal of lower Court record it reveals that the land was leased out to the appellant for 30 years on 18.11.1965 and this term expired on 17.11.1995. The appellant before lower Court as well as in this court has failed to produce any document which could show that the lease has been renewed. After the expiry of lease term on 17.11.1995, more than 17 years have elapsed and this period is more than sufficient for any party to get the lease renewed. At this belated stage, the averment with regard to making of application for renewal or any pendency thereof cannot be regarded since the appellant has taken more than 17 years for such action and he has not been successful to get the lease renewed. Since the renewal has not been made and on this score the status of appellant becomes that of an encroacher. The appellant also failed to provide any permission from the Govt. of India, department of Environment and Forest for the extension of the lease. As regards the plea taken by the appellant in the grounds of appeal that he has not been afforded opportunity to defend the case and also that no defence witnesses were allowed to be examined by the petitioner; perusal of lower court record reveals that appellant through his counsel has availed several opportunities and finally on 28.2.2011, his counsels stated without oath and closed the defense witnesses on behalf of respondent (now appellant). This makes the plea of not providing of opportunity, baseless.
> From the above discussions and keeping in view the guidelines laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court order dated 12.12.1996 in CWP No.202/1995, it is clear that the appellant is in an unauthorized possession of Public Premises since 18.11.1995 and the order of lower court warrants no interference. Therefore, the appeal is hereby dismissed being devoid of any substance and the order dated 5.5.2011 passed by the trial Court is hereby upheld. A copy of this order be sent to the lower court while returning its record. Case file of this court be consigned to the Record Room after due completion."

14. The appellate Court has also discussed the guidelines rendered by the apex Court in CWP No.202/1995, decided on 12.12.1996 and determined the issue that the petitioner was un-authorizidely in possession of the premises.

15. It is also apposite to reproduce Section 2 (g) of the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants) Act, 1971, herein.

> "2(g) "unauthorised occupation", in relation to any public premises, means the occupation by any person of the public premises without authority for such occupation, and includes the continuance in occupation by any person of the public premises after the authority (whether by way of grant or any other mode of transfer) under which he was allowed to occupy the premises has expired or has been determined for any reason whatsoever."

16. In view of the above, the lease had expired, was not renewed. Thus, the case of the petitioner falls within the definition of Section 2 (g) of the aforesaid Act, referred to hereinabove. All the authorities below have followed the mechanism contained in the Act, requires no interference.

17. The writ Court can interfere only where it is shown that the appellate Court has wrongly appreciated the facts and the evidence and the judgment/order is illegal. While going through the impugned order, it appears that the appellate Court has thrashed out all facts and it is well reasoned and legal one, cannot be said to be erroneous, perverse or misuse of powers, in any way.

18. The Apex Court in Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi versus M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3157, has held that question of fact cannot be interfered with by the Writ Court unless the findings are perverse, erroneous and without application of mind. However, such findings can be questioned if it is shown that the Tribunal/Court has erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence or has erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned findings. It is apt to reproduce paras 16, 17 and 18 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi's case (supra) herein:

> "16. ..... The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior courts or tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the court or tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the court exercising it is not entitled to act as an appellate court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened or questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the inference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised.....

17. The judgments mentioned above can be read with the judgment of this court in Harjinder Singh's case (AIR 2010 SC 1116) (supra), the relevant paragraph of which reads as under:

"21. Before concluding, we consider it necessary to observe that while exercising jurisdiction under Articles 226 and/or 227 of the Constitution in matters like the present one, the High Courts are duty-bound to keep in mind that the Industrial Disputes Act and other similar legislative instruments are social welfare legislations and the same are required to be interpreted keeping in view the goals set out in the Preamble of the Constitution and the provisions contained in Part IV thereof in general and Articles 38, 39(a) to (e), 43 and 43-A in particular, which mandate that the State should secure a social order for the promotion of welfare of the people, ensure equality between men and women and equitable distribution of material resources of the community to subserve the common good and also ensure that the workers get their dues. More than 41 years ago, Gajendragadkar, J. opined that:

> "10. … The concept of social and economic justice is a living concept of revolutionary import; it gives sustenance to the rule of law and meaning and significance to the ideal of welfare State."(State of Mysore v. Workers of Gold Mines, AIR 1958 SC 923 p.928, para 10.)

18. A careful reading of the judgments reveals that the High Court can interfere with an Order of the Tribunal only on the procedural level and in cases, where the decision of the lower courts has been arrived at in gross violation of the legal principles. The High Court shall interfere with factual aspect placed before the Labour Courts only when it is convinced that the Labour Court has made patent mistakes in admitting evidence illegally or have made grave errors in law in coming to the conclusion on facts. The High Court granting contrary relief under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution amounts to exceeding its jurisdiction conferred upon it. Therefore, we accordingly answer the point No. 1 in favour of the appellant." [Emphasis added]

19. Our this view is also fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Iswarlal Mohanlal Thakkar versus Paschim Gujarat Vij Company Ltd. & Anr., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3298. It is apt to reproduce para 9 of the judgment herein:

"9. We find the judgment and award of the labour court well-reasoned and based on facts and evidence on record. The High Court has erred in its exercise of power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India to annul the findings of the labour court in its Award as it is well settled law that the High Court cannot exercise its power under Article 227 of the Constitution as an appellate court or re-appreciate evidence and record its findings on the contentious points. Only if there is a serious error of law or the findings recorded suffer from error apparent on record, can the High Court quash the order of a lower court. The Labour Court in the present case has satisfactorily exercised its original jurisdiction and properly appreciated the facts and legal evidence on record and given a well reasoned order and answered the points of dispute in favour of the appellant. The High Court had no reason to interfere with the same as the Award of the labour court was based on sound and cogent reasoning, which has served the ends of justice.

> It is relevant to mention that in the case of Shalini Shyam Shetty & Anr. v. Rajendra Shankar Patil, (2010) 8 SCC 329, with regard to the limitations of the High Court to exercise its jurisdiction under Article 227, it was held in para 49 that-

"The power of interference under Art.227 is to be kept to a minimum to ensure that the wheel of justice does not come to a halt and the fountain of justice remains pure and unpolluted in order to maintain public confidence in the functioning of the tribunals and courts subordinate to the High Court."

It was also held that-

"High Courts cannot, at the drop of a hat, in exercise of its power of superintendence under Art. 227 of the Constitution, interfere with the orders of tribunals or courts inferior to it. Nor can it, in exercise of this power, act as a court of appeal over the orders of the court or tribunal subordinate to it."

Thus it is clear, that the High Court has to exercise its power under Article 227 of the Constitution judiciously and to further the ends of justice.

In the case of Harjinder Singh v. Punjab StateWarehousing Corporation, (2010) 3 SCC 192, this Court held that,

"20. ..... In view of the above discussion, we hold that the learned Single Judge of the High Court committed serious jurisdictional error and unjustifiably interfered with the award of reinstatement passed by the Labour Court with compensation of Rs.87,582 by entertaining a wholly unfounded plea that the appellant was appointed in violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution and the Regulation."

20. This Court in series of writ petitions and LPAs has laid down the similar principles of law.

21. It is apt to record herein that the petitioner used all weapons in his armoury, in order to defeat the eviction orders passed by the authorities and remained in unauthorized possession of the premises.

22. Having said so, no interference is required. The writ petition is accordingly dismissed alongwith pending applications, if any.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and others .....Respondents

CWP No. 3595 of 2015
Reserved on: November 16, 2016
Decided on: November 23, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Online item rates/bids were invited from contractor for the various works- the petitioner uploaded his bid before due date – he was found to be the lowest bidder but he was not called for negotiation- held, that the financial bid of the petitioner was opened and he was declared lowest bidder – he should have been called for negotiation before calling the second lowest bidder – however, the bid was rejected on the technical ground and the Court cannot substitute its wisdom for technical opinion of the members of the committee – petition dismissed. (Para- 8 to 17)

Cases referred:

State of Jharkhand v. M/s. CWE-SOMA Consortium, 2016 AIR SCW 3366

Bakshi Security & Personnel Services Pvt. Ltd. V. Devkishan Computed P. Ltd. , 2016 AIR SCW 3385
Central Coalfields Limited v. SLL-SML (Joint Venture Consortium), 2016 AIR SCW 3814

For the petitioner	Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Senior Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate, for the petitioner.
For the respondents:	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. Varun Chandel, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has prayed for the following main relief:

> "That the respondents may very kindly be directed to award the work i.e. "Providing LWSS to PC Habitation UP Mahal Athah, Barthara-H, UP Mahal Bhabia in GP Manu, Tehsil Chopal, Distt. Shimla (SH: - Development of site i.e. Cutting on earth work for civil structure, c/o Raw Water Tank c/o 1 No. F/Bed, C/o 2 Nos. Sump well, c/o 2 Nos. Pump House Cum Attendant Qtr Stone Masonry, C/o 1 No. Main Storage Tank, Prov. Laying, jointing & Testing of MSERW Pipes, laying joining and testing of GMS Tubes for r/main and supply & Erection of pumping machinery with allied accessories)", to the petitioner being the lowest bidder, in the interest of law and justice."

2. Key facts, as emerge from the record are that respondent No.5 i.e. Executive Engineer, Irrigation and Public Health Division Nerwa, District Shimla, invited online item rates/ bids on or before 21.4.2015 from contractors registered with the Irrigation and Public Health Department under appropriate class. As per Notice Inviting e-Tender, contractors, who had experience in construction of work as defined in the tender notice, were competent to apply vide aforesaid e-tender. Respondent-Department invited application for following work:

Sr. No.	Description of work:	Estt. Cost	E/Money	Time	Cost of form
1	Providing LWSS to PC Habitation UP-Mahal Athah, Barthara-II, UP-Mahal Bhabia in GP Manu, Tehsil Chopal, Distt. Shimla (SH: - Development of site i.e. Cutting on earth work for civil structure, C/O Raw Water Tank C/o 1 No. F/Bed, C/o 2 Nos. Sumpwell, C/O 2 Nos Pump House Cum Attendant Qtr Stone Masonary, C/o 1 No. Main Storage Tank, Prov. Laying, jointing & testing of MSERW Pipes, laying joining andt testing of GMS Tubes for R/main and supply & Errection of pumping machinery with allied accessories)	38,70,682	65560/-	6 months	400/-

3. It is undisputed before us, after perusing pleadings available on record that the present petitioner being eligible, as per schedule of tender, uploaded his bid before the stipulated date i.e. 21.4.2015, strictly as per the terms and conditions of Notice Inviting e-Tender, wherein contractors/firms were required to submit their offers in two separate envelopes as below:

> "Contractors/firms shall submit their offer in two separate envelopes as below:
> Envelope No. 1
> i. Proof of Cost of Tenders form
> ii Proof of Earnest Money
> Iii Eligibility criteria proof.
> Iv Qualifying criteria i/c all other documents i.e. Proof of registration in proper class, registration with sales tax, clearance of sales tax & income tax required as per the conditions of Tender Notice.
> Envelop No. 2
> Financial Bid.
> Second envelope containing Financial bid will be opened only of those firms whose documents in first envelops is found in order. And conditions/ document as verified from the original documents to be submitted separately by the firms to the Executive Engineer, IPH Division, Nerwa as per scheduled date and time."

4. Perusal of aforesaid terms and conditions contained in tender document suggests that second envelope containing financial bid was only to be opened of those firms, whose documents in first envelope were found to be in order. However, conditions contained in tender document also suggest that tender was to be opened of those contractors only, who qualify eligibility criteria. As per petitioner, after comparison of rates having been quoted by him in tender, he was found lowest bidder (L-1) and was legitimately expecting that work would be awarded in his favour. But perusal of Annexure P-2 suggests that the Superintending Engineer, I&PH Circle, Rohru, vide communication dated 18.6.2015 informed the Chief Engineer, South Zone, I&PH Department Shimla that tender in question was scrutinized by the Circle Level Negotiation Committee during its meeting held on 10.6.2015, when it was observed that the petitioner has obtained the authorization to quote pumping machinery from M/s Hydraulic Engineering Company, Hospital Road, Solan, which is authorized dealer of KSB Pumps. Petitioner quoted KSB pumps for 1st stage and reciprocating pump WASP make for 2nd stage, which was contradictory in respect of authorization obtained by him. Contents of letter suggest that since the pump quoted for the first stage by the petitioner were not found technically suitable since it had 49% efficiency at duty point and works upto +3% on duty head, Committee decided that technical suitability of other firms may also be scrutinized. Accordingly, offer of second lowest contractor namely Ramesh Kumar was discussed and it was decided to seek approval of the higher authority in favour of second lowest firm, after negotiations. Pursuant to issuance of letter dated 18.6.2015 by Superintending Engineer, I&PH Circle, Rohru, wherein decision of Committee to accord approval in favour of second lowest firm, after negotiation was conveyed, petitioner requested the Chief Engineer, South Zone vide Annexure P-3 to call him for negotiations being the lowest bidder. Vide Annexure P-3, petitioner also clarified that for stage 1, he had quoted 'KSB' make pump set Model WKFI 40/16 with 60 HP motor which was suitable to give 3.02 LPS discharge at head-506.51 Meter, however, if the department felt that 75 HP is required with this particular pumpset, he could supply the same on already quoted rates. Similarly, petitioner claimed that life of centrifugal pumps was much higher and hassle free as compared to other pumps and if any booster pump was required, petitioner would supply an additional 3.0 HP monoblock pump in their quoted rates for better range and efficiency. Since, no heed was paid to aforesaid communication (Annexure P-3), sent by the petitioner, he approached this Court by way of instant writ petition on 11.8.2015, praying therein for the reliefs as have been reproduced herein above.

5. Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Senior Advocate duly assisted by Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate, vehemently argued that decision of the respondents in not granting work pursuant to the tender notice advertised by it to the petitioner, who was admittedly lowest bidder, is totally arbitrary, discriminatory and colourable exercise of power. While referring to the documents placed on record by the respective parties, Mr. Bhushan, strenuously argued that there is no dispute that the petitioner, being lowest bidder (L-1), was entitled to be awarded work pursuant to Notice Inviting Tender in the present case. He specifically invited attention of this Court to the terms and conditions contained in Notice Inviting Tender, wherein it was specifically stated that the second envelope containing financial bid would only be opened of those firms, whose documents in the first stage were found to be in order. He stated that since petitioner was found eligible by the respondents after perusing documents contained in first envelope, financial bid submitted by him was opened, wherein he was found to be the lowest bidder. Mr. Bhushan forcefully contended that once financial bid of petitioner was opened, there was no occasion whatsoever, for the respondent authorities to reject his case on the ground of eligibility.

6. Mr. Anup Rattan, learned Additional Advocate General while inviting attention of this Court to supplementary affidavit filed by the Superintending Engineer, Irrigation and Public Health, Circle Rohru, in compliance to order dated 7.10.2015 passed by this Court, whereby direction was given to the respondents to determine the issue within four weeks, stated that a meeting of Tender Committee was held on 3.11.2015, wherein technical suitability of second lowest contractor was discussed and it was found that he has offered reciprocating pump for 1st and 2nd stages for which he has also obtained the valid authorization from authorized dealer of reciprocating pumps. He further stated that since contractor, who was second lowest bidder, failed to reduce the quoted rates, Circle Level Negotiation Committee, decided that tender be recalled. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Anup Rattan forcefully contended that since decision has already been taken to recall the tender in question, present petition deserves to be dismissed having become infructuous.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

8. Undisputedly, petitioner, who had applied in terms of Notice Inviting Tender, was lowest bidder (L-1) but he was not called for negotiations by the respondents as far as rates quoted by him in the tender are concerned. True it is that as per terms and conditions contained in Notice Inviting Tender, financial bid of the contractors could only be opened in case documents submitted by them in the first envelope were found to be in order. It is admitted case of the parties that the financial bid of the petitioner was opened and he was declared lowest bidder in L-1 category, and in that capacity, respondents ought to have called him for negotiations at the first instance, before calling second lowest bidder i.e. Ramesh Kumar. But as is evident from Annexure P-2, communication dated 18.6.2015, pumps quoted for the first stage by the petitioner were not found technically suitable by the Circle Level Negotiation Committee in its meeting held on 10.6.2015. Committee, after perusing documents submitted by the petitioner observed that L-1 contractor has obtained authorization to quote pumping machinery from M/s Hydraulic Engineering Company, Hospital Road Solan, which was authorized dealer of KSB Pumps and petitioner has quoted KSB Pumps for 1st stage and reciprocating pump WASP make for 2nd stage, which was contradictory in respect of authorization obtained by the firm. Since technical bid contained in envelope-I was not found suitable by Circle Level Negotiation Committee, proposal was sent to the Chief Engineer, SZ, I&PH, by Superintending Engineer, I&PH Circle Rohru, seeking approval of higher authority to have negotiations with second lowest firm. Similarly, perusal of Annexure P-4, annexed to rejoinder by the petitioner, suggests that tender in question was scrutinized by Circle Level Negotiation Committee on 10.6.2015, wherein following observations were made:

> "In this context, the S.E. IPH Circle, Rohru has submitted that the tender was submitted by E.E. Nerwa which was scrutinized by the circle level Committee during its meeting held on 10-6-2015 wherein it was observed that Shri Rahul Pandy L-1 Contractor has obtained the authorization to quote puping machinery from M/S Hydraulic Engineering Comp.Solan who is authorized dealer of KSB Pumps & L-1 Sh. Rahul Pandy quoted KSB pumps for 1st stage and reciprocating pump WASP make for 2nd stage which is contradictory in respect of authorization obtained by the firm.

However, pump quoted for 1st stage is not technically suitable as it has 49% efficiency at duty pointed work up to +3% on duty head. The suitable otor is 70 HP rating whereas he has quoted 60HP. Keeping In view of the above, the committee decided that technical suitability of the other fir ay also be scrutinized. The offer of second lowest fro Sh. Ramesh Kumar has been discussed and it is observed that he has sought the authorization from M/S Sai Aqua Machines & Builders, Solan who is the authorized distributor of WASP Pump, Kirloskar, KSB Pump Ltd.. Sh. Ramesh Kumar L-2 Contractor has quoted the WASP pump for both stages and both these pumps are technically suitable with 100% efficiency works up to (+) 10% of duty point and required rating of motor is 30 HP & the rates quoted by both the contractors are as under:-

The rates quoted by L-1 for Civil Work	=Rs.36,48,520/-
The rates quoted by L-1 for P/Machinery	=Rs.19,57,100/-
Total :-	=Rs.56,05,620/-
The rates quoted by L-2 for Civil Work	=Rs.43,66,045/-
The rates quoted by L-2 for P/Machinery	=Rs.14,70,300/-
Total :-	=Rs.58,36,345/-

9. After carefully perusing the Notice Inviting Tender, this Court is in agreement with the submission having been made by Mr. Bhushan that at the first instance, information contained in envelope-I was to be examined/ scrutinized by the Department before opening financial bid. But in the present case, while scrutinizing the tender of the petitioner, Executive Engineer, Nerwa pointed out certain discrepancies in tender document submitted by the petitioner and accordingly, recommended that second lowest bidder may be invited for negotiations. Though, in normal circumstance, respondents ought to have scrutinized documents contained in envelope-I, at the first instance, so that suitability /eligibility of the petitioner could be adjudged before opening of financial bid but aforesaid omission on the part of the respondents can not be a ground to nullify subsequent action of the respondents wherein they specifically, on the recommendations of the Committee, invited second lowest bidder for negotiations. Since, the tender submitted by the petitioner was not found in conformity with the parameters laid down in the Notice Inviting Tender, respondents were well within their right to have negotiations with second lowest bidder, who as per record was admittedly eligible in all respects.

10. Though this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the respondents while carrying out scrutiny of documents received by them pursuant to the Notice Inviting Tender miserably failed to adhere to the terms and conditions of Notice Inviting Tender, wherein admittedly before opening financial bid, technical competence/ eligibility of contractors was to be examined in light of documents contained in envelope-I but at the same time, this Court can not substitute its wisdom for technical opinion having been rendered by the members of Circle Level Negotiation Committee, who are admittedly technical persons. Moreover, members of the Committee comprising of technical persons are expected to know more about the standard of particular item required by the department for completion of work in question.

11. Apart from above, it clearly emerges from the reply filed by the respondents to the writ petition that the power of approval/scrutiny lies with the Superintending Engineer beyond the amount of Rs. 10.00 Lakh for non selected Executive Engineer and Rs. 30.00 Lakh for selected Executive Engineer. Relevant para of the reply is reproduced herein below:

"para No.4

> The contents of para 4 admitted to the extent that petitioner was eligible to submit his tender bid as per his registration subject to fulfillment of tender conditions . It is emphathetically denied that the petitioner was found completely eligible after opening the tender bids. It is respectfully submitted that though the tender were invited by respondent No. 5 but on behalf of the Governor of H.P. and under rules the power of approval/scrutinizing the tender lies with the Superintending Engineer beyond the amount of Rs..10.00 lakhs for non selected Executive Engineer and Rs. 30.00 lakh for selected Executive Engineers. Since the tenders in the present case was to the tune of more than Rs. 30.00 lakhs as such the tender were to be approved/ scrutinized in the office of Superintending Engineer i.e. Respondent No. 4 by a duly appointed technical committee . Therefore, respondent No. 5 opened the tender and forwarded, without technical scrutiny, to Superintending Engineer for further scrutinized and approval by circle level technical committee. It is admitted that the in opening of tender the petitioner was financially lowest ."

12. Hence, by no stretch of imagination, court can assume the role of technical expert, who in their wisdom have not found the pump quoted by the petitioner suitable and efficient as per the requirement of the project/ work. Moreover, as per latest supplementary affidavit filed by the Superintending Engineer, I&PH, a decision has been already taken to recall the tender, as a result of which relief prayed for in the present petition by the petitioner can not be granted at this stage. Since respondents have already taken a conscious decision to recall the tender, this Court sees no occasion to grant relief No.1, whereby prayer has been made to award work in question.

13. It is well settled by now that respondents can withdraw /recall tender at any time, if it is convinced that same is not in accordance with the requirements as indicated in Notice Inviting Tender. Though, in the present case, petitioner claimed himself to be lowest bidder on account of his financial bid but there is no document suggestive of the fact that pursuant to opening of his financial bid, he was successful lowest bidder, as such no right has accrued in his favour which would entitle him to claim the relief as prayed for in the petition.

14. The Apex Court in State of Jharkhand v. M/s. CWE-SOMA Consortium reported in 2016 AIR SCW 3366, has held that:

> 13. The appellant-state was well within its rights to reject the bid without assigning any reason thereof. This is apparent from clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD which reads as under:-
> > "Clause 24 of NIT: "Authority reserves the right to reject any or all of the tender(s) received without assigning any reason thereof." Clause 32.1 of SBD: "…the Employer reserves the right to accept or reject any Bid to cancel the bidding process and reject all bids, at any time prior to award of Contract, without thereby incurring any liability to the affected Bidder or Bidders or any obligation to inform the affected Bidder or Bidders of the grounds for the Employer's action." In terms of the above clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD, though Government has the right to cancel the tender without assigning any reason, appellant-state did assign a cogent and acceptable reason of lack of adequate competition to cancel the tender and invite a fresh tender. The High Court, in our view, did not keep in view the above clauses and right of the government to cancel the tender.
> 14. The State derives its power to enter into a contract under Article 298 of the Constitution of India and has the right to decide whether to enter into a contract with a person or not subject only to the requirement of reasonableness under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In the case in hand, in view of lack of real competition, the state found it advisable not to proceed with the tender with only one responsive bid available before it. When there was only one tenderer, in order to make the tender more competitive, the tender committee decided to cancel the tender and invited a fresh tender and the decision of the appellant did not suffer from any arbitrariness or unreasonableness.

15. The Apex Court in Bakshi Security & Personnel Services Pvt. Ltd. V. Devkishan Computed P. Ltd. reported in 2016 AIR SCW 3385, has laid down same principle.

16. The Apex Court in Central Coalfields Limited v. SLL-SML (Joint Venture Consortium), reported in 2016 AIR SCW 3814, has further held that:

> 44. On asking these questions in the present appeals, it is more than apparent that the decision taken by CCL to adhere to the terms and conditions of the NIT and the GTC was certainly not irrational in any manner whatsoever or intended to favour anyone. The decision was lawful and not unsound.
> 55. On the basis of the available case law, we are of the view that since CCL had not relaxed or deviated from the requirement of furnishing a bank guarantee in the prescribed format, in so far as the present appeals are concerned every bidder was obliged to adhere to the prescribed format of the bank guarantee. Consequently, the failure of JVC to furnish the bank guarantee in the prescribed format was sufficient reason for CCL to reject its bid.

Similarly, there is nothing to indicate that the decision taken by CCL to reject the bank guarantee furnished by JVC and to adhere to the requirements of the NIT and the GTC was arbitrary or unreasonable or perverse in any manner whatsoever."

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge

Present petition is filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of FIR No.225 of 2014 dated 13.12.2014 registered against the petitioner under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC at P.S. Indora District Kangra H.P. and for quashing criminal proceedings pending before learned Judicial Magistrate Indora District Kangra H.P.

Brief facts of the case

2. On 12.12.2014 complainant/injured namely Shobha Devi aged 49 years was travelling in HRTC bus No. HP-38-6066. When injured was in process of boarding down from bus at Indora District Kangra H.P. bus stand at 11.30 AM then accused started bus and Shobha Devi injured sustained injuries due to rash and negligent driving of vehicle upon public road. After investigation criminal case filed in Court of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Indora against accused under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC. Learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class listed the case for consideration upon charge. Criminal case is pending before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Indora as of today.

3. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and learned Deputy Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-petitioner No.1 and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioner No.2 and also perused the entire record carefully.

4. Following points arises for determination in this petition:-

1. Whether petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be accepted as per grounds mentioned in petition?
2. Final Order.

Findings upon Point No.1 with reasons

5. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that injured had sustained injuries on account of her own fault while injured was boarding down from bus at Indora bus stand and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Fact whether injured had sustained injuries on account of her own fault or not at the time of boarding down from bus is complicated issue of facts and no judicial findings relating to complicated issue of facts can be given at this stage unless opportunity is granted to prosecution and accused to prove their case in accordance with law before learned Trial Court.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that injured has given affidavit dated 14.12.2015 and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that no findings relating to affidavit filed by Shobha Devi injured can be given at this stage. Evidentiary value of affidavit filed by Shobha Devi will be perused by learned Trial Court during trial of case. It is well settled law that document filed by accused cannot be considered by Court at the initial stage of criminal case. See AIR 2005 SC 359 State of Orissa vs. Debendra Nath Padhi. Documents filed by accused can be considered by criminal Court when criminal case is listed for accused evidence as per Code of Criminal Procedure 1973

7. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that injured and accused want to compound the offence in order to keep harmony inter se parties and on this ground FIR registered under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC be compounded is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that offence under Section 279 IPC is non-compoundable offence and it is held that offence under Section 279 IPC is offence against public at large because offence under Section 279 IPC relates to rash or negligent driving upon public road. The word 'public has been specifically mentioned under Section 279 IPC. It is well settled law that when word 'public' is mentioned in criminal offence then criminal offence is committed against public at large.

8. It is well settled law that order of compounding criminal offence which are non-compoundable under statutory provision of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is improper. It is also well settled law that it is against public policy to compound a non-compoundable criminal offence. See AIR 2008 SCW 7865 Ishwar Singh vs. State of M.P. See 1993 Cr.L.J. 3193 Mohan Singh vs. State (FB) Rajasthan.In view of the fact that offence under Section 279 IPC is offence against the public at large and in view of fact that offence under Section 279 IPC is non-compoundable offence it is not expedient in the ends of justice to allow the petition.

9. It is well settled law that criminal proceedings of following criminal cases should not be quashed. (1) Murder criminal case (2) Rape criminal case (3) Dacoity criminal case (4) Prevention of Corruption Act criminal case (5) Criminal offence under Section 307 IPC (6) Criminal offences against public at large. It is well settled law that following criminal offences should be allowed to be compounded (1) Commercial transaction criminal cases (2) Matrimonial dispute criminal cases and (3) Family dispute criminal cases. See JT 2014(4) SC 573 Narinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab and another. It is held that criminal offence under Section 279 of Indian Penal Code 1860 is not criminal offence against private parties simplicitor but is criminal offence against public at large. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra point No. 1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Final Order)

10. In view of findings upon point No. 1 above petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 15.12.2016. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner and will be strictly confine for disposal of present petition. File of learned Trial Court along with certify copy of order be sent back forthwith. Cr.MMO No. 65 of 2016 is disposed of. Pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit that the entry showing D to be gairmaurusi are incorrect – no Will was executed by D – permissive possession of D came to an end on her death – defendant pleaded that D was a tenant who became the owner on the commencement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act- she had executed a Will – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that The Appellate Court had held that J appeared to have died in the year 1976 as mutation of inheritance was sanctioned on 11.3.1976 - the Will was executed when proprietary rights were not conferred upon D – Appellate Court had drawn the conclusion on the basis of presumption/conjecture and surmises without any ground of appeal- appeal allowed – the case remanded to the Appellate Court for a fresh decision. (Para-11 to 17)

For the appellant: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Ashwani Pathak, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Sandeep Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge :

By way of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Solan in Civil Appeal No. 77-S/13 of 2004 dated 23.05.2006, vide which, learned appellate Court while dismissing the appeal filed by the plaintiff affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Kasauli, District Solan in Civil Suit No. 332/1 of 1999/1994 dated 10.09.2004, whereby the learned trial Court had dismissed the suit for declaration and injunction filed by the plaintiff.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that appellant/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the plaintiff') filed a suit for declaration and injunction on the grounds that land comprised in Khata No. 5 min, Khatauni No. 8, Khasra No. 129, measuring 5 bighas was recorded in the name of plaintiff as owner and defendant had been shown in possession of the said land as per entries in copy of jamabandi for the year 1992-93 for Mauza Chainthu, Pargna Nali Dharti, Tehsil Kasauli. As per the plaintiff, suit land was in possession of Smt. Durgi, who died in the year 1986 and the revenue entries showing Smt. Durgi to be tenant in possession of the suit land were wrong and illegal. Smt. Durgi was real sister of mother of Shri Harnam Singh and she and her husband were economically not well off and due to this reason, Smt. Chawali, who was Bhabi and close relative of Harnam Singh had given suit land for use and possession to late Shri Hem Ram and after the death of Hem Ram to Smt. Durgi. It was further the case of the plaintiff that possession of Smt. Durgi was permissive but in the revenue record, she was shown as Gair Marusi and revenue entries showing Smt. Durgi or Sh. Hem Ram as Gair Marusi were wrong, illegal and void. As per the plaintiff, neither Sh. Hem Ram nor Smt. Durgi were ever inducted as tenants over the suit land nor they had any right, title or interest to possess the suit land in any manner. It was further the case of the plaintiff that after the death of Smt. Durgi, defendant in connivance with revenue staff succeeded in manipulating revenue entries in his favour and in the column of possession entry as "Gopal Singh Putar Sohandu Ram Putar Paras Ram Sakan Deh Gair Marusi Baruai Vasiyat" was incorporated. As per the plaintiff, said revenue entry was manipulated and incorporated behind the back of late Smt. Chawali, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff. It was further the case of the plaintiff that Durgi was old, weak, village simpleton and indecisive lady, who had never executed any Will in favour of the defendant. As per the plaintiff, the Will was a result of fraud, misrepresentation and manipulation and in fact Durgi was not having any right, title and interest in the suit land except to possess the same under permission and as such, Durgi could not have had executed any Will qua the suit land. It was further the case of the plaintiff that after the death of Durgi, Smt. Chawali became owner in possession of the suit land and permissive possession of Durgi came to an end. It was further the case of the plaintiff that after the death of Durgi, defendant started interfering with the ownership and possession of late Smt. Chawali over the suit land, who requested the defendant not to do so. After the death of Smt. Chawali, defendant again started interfering with the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land on the basis of wrong revenue entries existing in favour of the defendant, whereas plaintiff was owner in possession of the suit land and defendant who was stranger to the suit land has no right, title or interest over the suit land in any manner whatsoever. On these basis, plaintiff prayed for a decree in his favour to the effect that he was owner in possession of the suit land and revenue entries in favour of the defendant qua the suit land were wrong and illegal and that defendant had no right, title or interest over the same. Plaintiff also prayed that defendant be restrained from interfering with the ownership and possession of the plaintiff over the suit land in any manner whatsoever and in the alternative, decree for possession on the basis of title was prayed for.

3. In the written statement filed by the defendant, the case as was set up by the plaintiff was denied. As per the defendant, the predecessor-in-interest of defendant late Smt. Durgi was a tenant qua the suit land and she was inducted as tenant over Khasra No. 129, measuring 5 bighas on a Chaukauta of Rs. 3/- per annum and she was inducted as such by Jhathu, son of Shibu. It was further the case of the defendant that after the death of Jhathu, Smt. Chawli, his widow succeeded vide mutation No. 128 and mutation of ownership could not be attested by operation of Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act as Smt. Chawali happened to be a widow, but the confirmation of proprietary rights were automatic by virtue of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act and revenue records with regard to tenancy were in accordance with the physical possession of the defendant. It was further the case of the defendant that he succeeded to the suit property by way of Will of Smt. Durgi registered with Sub Registrar dated 17.08.1986 and the same was in the knowledge of the plaintiff. It was further the case of the defendant that Durgi of her free will and senses had executed a valid Will in favour of the defendant and the contention of the plaintiff with regard to execution of Will was wrong and hence denied. It was further the case of the defendant that Chawali was not succeeded by any one including the plaintiff and Chawali had never executed any Will in favour of defendant nor there was any question of execution of any Will as she had never intended to Will her property and in case plaintiff had obtained any Will in his favour, the same was result of fraud and misrepresentation on the part of his father. On these bases, the suit of the plaintiff was contested by the defendant.

4. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:

"1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land and revenue entries showing possession of the defendant is wrong and liable to be corrected and the plaintiff is entitled to the injunction as prayed? OPP

2. Whether the defendant is causing interference in possession of the plaintiff? OPP

3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD

4. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit, as alleged? OPD

5. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD

6. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD

7. Relief.

5. On the basis of evidence adduced by the respective parties in support of their respective claims, the following findings were returned by learned trial Court on the issues so framed:

"Issue No. 1:	No.
Issue No. 2:	No.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	Yes.
Relief:	Suit of the plaintiff is dismissed as per the operative portion of the judgment.

6. While dismissing the suit so filed by the plaintiff, it was held by the learned trial Court that it stood proved on record that predecessor-in-interest of the defendant Hem Raj was recorded as tenant on Chokata, i.e. Batai and he was succeeded by Durgi, who had legally become owner in possession qua the suit land during her life time and as such, she was competent to execute Will in favour of Gopal Singh. Learned trial Court further held that proprietary rights were not challenged and revenue record suggested ownership and possession of defendant apart from admissions made by plaintiff's witnesses PW-2 and PW-3, who admitted the

Will executed in favour of defendant and possession of defendant over the suit land. Learned trial Court further held that Girdwari was conducted twice in the year, which bears the official presumption and plaintiff never questioned the same. It was further held by the learned trial Court that Sub-section (4) of Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act provided that whenever dispute arose whether a person cultivating the land of a land owner was a tenant or not, the burden of proving that such a person was not a tenant of the land was on the land owner. It further held that there was no evidence available on record that possession of the suit land was delivered to the plaintiff. Learned trial Court further held that there was no evidence on record regarding interference being caused by defendant over the alleged possession of the plaintiff. It was held by the learned trial Court that there was rather evidence on record regarding defendant being owner in possession over the suit land and also confirmation of proprietary rights in his favour and in the absence of possession of plaintiff, it could not be alleged that defendant was interfering as claimed by the plaintiff. It was further held by the learned trial Court that since plaintiff was out of possession, hence he could not assert regarding alleged interference. Learned trial Court further held that suit of the plaintiff was not maintainable as tenancy dispute could only be entertained under the provisions of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, which was a complete Code in itself. On these bases, the suit so filed by the plaintiff was dismissed by the learned trial Court.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and decree so passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal. Learned appellate Court vide its judgment dated 23.05.2006 dismissed the appeal so filed by the plaintiff and affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. In its judgment, learned appellate Court in para-6 of the same reproduced the grounds on which the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court was challenged before it. Thereafter, it was held by the learned appellate Court that the claim of the plaintiff that the land was given to Durgi Devi and her husband in view of their economic position and their possession was permissive deserved outright rejection as it was somewhere in the year 1958-59 that husband of Durgi came to be recorded as non-occupancy tenant over the suit land and land remained in his continuous possession and after his death, his wife Durgi Devi came in possession of the same and after her death, land came in possession of the defendant. Learned appellate Court held that at no point of time, possession of land had gone back to Chawali after the death of Durgi Devi as was claimed by the plaintiff. It was further held by the learned appellate Court that long standing entries in the revenue record belied the claim of the plaintiff to be owner in possession of the suit land. Learned appellate Court further held that no doubt plaintiff was recorded as owner of the suit land after the death of Chawali on the basis of Will, but after conferment of proprietary rights upon the defendant rightly or wrongly, he ceased to be owner of the suit land. In the same breath, it was held by the learned appellate Court that it was true that Durgi Devi under law could not have made any Will of the land of which she was tenant, but Durgi had become entitled to acquire proprietary rights over the land in the year 1974 during the life time of Jhathu, husband of Chawali, though for the reasons best known, no such mutation was sanctioned in favour of Durgi Devi and she continued to be recorded as non-occupancy tenant. Learned appellate Court held that in reality she should have become owner of the suit land as no steps for the resumption of the land has been taken by Jhathu as provided under Section 104 of the Act. It was held by the learned appellate Court that Will executed by Durgi Devi could not be said to be against the provisions of law as she at that time was certainly owner of the suit land and name of Chawali had been wrongly shown in the column of ownership after the death of Jhathu in 1976. On these bases, learned appellate Court dismissed the appeal so filed by the plaintiff.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the judgments and decrees so passed by both the learned Courts below, the plaintiff has filed this appeal.

9. This appeal was admitted by this Court on 16.11.2006 on the following substantial questions of law:

"Whether the finding of the first Appellate Court that Durgi acquired proprietary rights in respect of the suit land, being a tenant, during the life time of Chawali, who (Chawali) was herself a widow and had inherited the suit property from her husband late Jhathu, is illegal?

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

11. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned appellate Court demonstrates that learned appellate Court returned the finding that Jhathu husband of Chawali appears to have died in the year 1976 as mutation of inheritance in favour of Chawali was sanctioned on 11.03.1976. On these bases, it was held by the learned appellate Court that by virtue of the provisions of Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Reforms Act, Durgi Devi had become entitled to acquire proprietary rights of land in the year 1974 during the life time of Jhathu. However, a perusal of the judgment so passed by the learned trial Court demonstrates that it is not substantiated therein as to from where this conclusion was arrived at by the learned appellate Court that Jhathu died in the year 1976. Incidentally, in the present case, defendant was conferred proprietary rights of the suit land vide mutation dated 30.09.2000. In my considered view, if Durgi Devi had become owner of the suit land by operation of the provisions of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, then obviously on the strength of the Will executed by her allegedly in favour of the defendant, the defendant should have had become owner of the said property on the strength of the Will so executed in his favour and there was no occasion for conferring proprietary rights of the suit land upon him vide mutation dated 30.09.2000. But, it is an undisputed fact that when the alleged Will was executed by Durgi Devi in favour of the defendant, she had not been conferred upon proprietary rights or in other words, she was not owner of the suit land. Even learned appellate Court held that Durgi Devi under law could not have made Will of the land of which she was tenant. Incidentally, the findings so returned by the learned appellate Court have not been assailed by the defendant. However, whereas on one hand, it was held by the learned appellate Court that Durgi Devi could not have made Will of the land of which she was tenant, learned appellate Court on the other hand ventured to thereafter return findings to the effect that as H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 became effective law w.e.f. 21.02.1971 after its publication in Rajpatra dated 21.02.1974 and after receiving assent of the President of India on 02.02.1971 and as Jhathu, husband of Chawali appeared to have died in the year 1976 as mutation of inheritance in favour of Chawali was sanctioned on 11.03.1976, therefore, by virtue of the provisions of Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, Durgi Devi had become entitled for acquiring proprietary rights of the land in the year 1974 during the lifetime of Jhathu and though no mutation had been sanctioned in this regard in her favour, but Durgi Devi continued to be recorded as non-occupancy tenant, whereas in reality, she should have become owner of the land as no steps for resumption of the land has been taken by Jhathu, therefore, in this view of the matter, the Will executed by Durgi Devi could not be said to be executed against the provisions of law as she at that time was certainly owner of the suit land and name of Chawali had been wrongly shown in the column of ownership after the death of Jhathu in the year 1976

12. I am afraid that the findings so returned by the learned appellate Court cannot be upheld. This is for the reason that the findings so returned by the learned appellate Court are not substantiated from the records of the case, but rather based on conjectures and surmises. From what material on record learned appellate Court drew the above inferences is not apparent or evident from the findings so returned by the learned appellate Court.

13. Further, though the learned appellate Court in its judgment has taken note of the grounds of appeal on which the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court were assailed before it by the plaintiff, however, none of these grounds have been dealt with by the learned appellate Court and in fact it went on to adjudicate upon the matter as if it was trying an original suit. The reasonings given by the learned trial Court while dismissing the suit filed by the plaintiff have also not been discussed vis-à-vis the grounds of appeal taken by the plaintiff before the learned 1st appellate Court to assail the findings so returned by the learned trial Court.

14. In my considered view, findings of fact by a Court of law cannot be based on presumptions/conjectures and surmises. It has to be on the basis of material adduced on record by the parties that the Court has to give definite findings on fact.

15. It is well settled law that the first appellate Court is the final Court of fact ordinarily and therefore a litigant is entitled to a full, fair and independent consideration of the evidence at the appellate stage and anything less than this is unjust to him. The appellate Court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial Court and first appeal is a valuable right of the parties and unless restricted by law, the whole case is therein open for rehearing both on question of fact and law. It is settled law that while reversing a finding of fact, the appellate Court must come into close quarters with the reasoning assigned by the trial Court and then assign its own reasons for arriving at a different finding. This would satisfy the Court hearing a further appeal that the first appellate court had discharged the duty expected of it. The judgment of the appellate Court must, therefore, reflect its conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons on all the issues involved in the case alongwith the contentions put forth and pressed by the parties for decision by the appellate Court.

16. In view of the above salutary principles, I am of the considered view that the learned appellate Court has failed to discharge the obligation placed on it as first appellate Court by deciding the appeal on presumptions rather than returning its findings by coming close quarters with the reasoning assigned by the learned trial Court and thereafter assigning its own reasons for arriving at a different finding. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

17. In view of the discussion held above, the appeal is allowed and judgment and decree dated 23.05.2006 passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Solan in Civil Appeal No. 77-S/13 of 2004 are set aside. The case is remanded back to learned appellate Court with a direction to decide the appeal afresh on merits. Parties through their counsel are directed to put in appearance before the learned appellate Court on 19.12.2016. Keeping in view the fact that case pertains to the year 1994, this Court hopes and trusts that learned appellate Court shall adjudicate upon the appeal as expeditiously as possible and preferably within a period of six months. No order as to costs. Miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. Registry is directed to return back the records of the case to learned appellate Court forthwith.

Civil Revision No.168 of 2016.
Reserved on : 11.11.2016.
Date of decision: November,24th, 2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 115- A civil suit for recovery of Rs.25,000/- was decreed by the Trial Court- decree was modified in appeal and the petitioners were held entitled to Rs. 10,000/- - it was contended that no second appeal is maintainable under law – held, that where the second appeal is barred by the statute, the provisions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be used to circumvent the bar of filing an appeal – however, where the judgment is totally perverse or illegal, jurisdiction under Article 227 can be exercised – the revision lies against the order and not against the decree – however, keeping in view the conflicting judgments of the High Court on the point, matter referred to a larger bench. For the Petitioners : Mr.Dinesh Kumar Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr.N.S.Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

The sole question that falls for adjudication in this case is whether the judgment and decree passed by the first appellate Court can be assailed by filing civil revision under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure or under Article 227 of the Constitution of India when the second appeal against the same is specifically barred under Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short 'Code').

2. The facts are not in dispute. The petitioners filed a suit for recovery of damages of Rs. 25,000/- which was decreed by the learned trial Court, however, in appeal, the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court was partly modified and the petitioners were held entitled to damages of Rs. 10,000/-.

3. Learned counsel for the respondent has raised preliminary objection regarding the very maintainability of this petition in view of bar imposed by Section 102 of the Code which reads thus:-

> "[102. No second appeal in certain cases:- No second appeal shall lie from any degree, when the subject matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding twenty-five thousand rupees.]"

4. Evidently, as the subject-matter of the original suit was for recovery of money which did not exceed Rs. 25,000/-, no further appeal was maintainable in view of the bar imposed by Section 102 of the Code, the petitioners assailed the judgment and decree by invoking the revisional jurisdiction of this Court by filing instant petition under Section 115 of the Code.

5. During the course of arguments, the learned counsel for the petitioners requested that in case this Court comes to the conclusion that the petition under Section 115 of the Code is not maintainable, then the same be converted and treated as one having been filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and it is this prayer that has necessitated this Court to determine the question as framed above.

6. Before proceeding further, certain precedents on the issue may be noticed.

7. In K.Chockalingam versus K.R. Ramasamy Iyer and Jenbagam 2004 (4) LW 586, the Hon'ble High Court of Madras held that though the petition under Section 115 of the Code would be barred in such cases, however, the petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is maintainable. It is apt to reproduce the following relevant observations which read thus:-

"8. The learned counsel for the revision petitioner submits, that the revision as such, is well maintainable under Section 115 C.P.C., if not, at least under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, for which there is no objection from the other side. In this view, the C.R.P. could be decided on merits. The learned counsel for the revision petitioner further submits, that the dismissal of the suit by the first appellate Court, allowing the appeal in entirety, is erroneous and at least the plaintiff is entitled to a decree, against the first defendant, who had acknowledged the debt, periodically, the further fact being, the suit is filed within three years from the last date of acknowledgment.

13. This revision is filed only under Section 115 C.P.C. The suit is one for the recovery of less than a sum of Rs.25,000/- After the suit was decreed, an appeal has been preferred, which was allowed nullifying the lower courts decree and judgment. Section 102 of Code of Civil Procedure Code says, no second appeal shall lie from any decree, when the subject matter of the original suit is for recovery of money,not exceeding Rs.25,000/-. In view of this provision, a second appeal is barred and that is why, a revision is filed under Section 115 C.P.C., which is not maintainable, according to the learned counsel for the respondents. When there is a specific bar for filing the second appeal, when the suit is for recovery of money, not exceeding Rs.25,000/-, it should be held, a revision is also not maintainable under Section 115 C.P.C. Section 115 C.P.C. empowers the High Court, to call for the record of any case which has been decided by any Court subordinate to such High Court in which no appeal lies thereto. From the wordings deployed in the above Section, it is clear, the High Court is empowered to entertain a revision, when no appeal is provided or where no appeal lies. In other words, if the code provides, an appeal provision, from the decree and judgment of the subordinate court, then ordinarily invoking Section 115 C.P.C. is not possible. In this case, against the decree and judgment passed by the District Munsif Court, in O.S.No.147/97, an appeal provision is provided, and an appeal has been preferred also. Then, considering the pecuniary jurisdiction of the suit, the second appeal is prohibited or barred. In this view, it cannot be said, no appeal is provided against the decree and judgment, thereby to invoke Section 115 C.P.C. under the guise of revisional power. If the cases of this nature are allowed to be entertained under Section 115 C.P.C., it would amount to eclipsing Section 102 C.P.C., which aims the curtailment of Second appeal, in the sense, prolonged litigation. Where the subject matter is less than Rs.25,000/-, the High Court invoking Section 115 C.P.C., if maintains the revision, it would amount to second appeal under the label of Civil Revision Petition, thereby allowing the parties, to file second appeal, indirectly, ignoring Section 102, thereby defeating the intention of the legislature, which should not be allowed. In this view of the matter, I am of the considered opinion, the revision petition under Section 115 is not maintainable.

14. The learned counsel for the petitioner realising this difficulty alone, as aforementioned, has filed a memo for the conversion of Cr.P.C. under Section 227 Cr.P.C. which is permissible. In Sadhana Lodh v. National Insurance Co. Ltd. , the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held, when alternative remedy is available, interference under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, is not permissible. It is observed:

> "Where a statutory right to file an appeal has been provided for, it is not open to High Court to entertain a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution. Even if where a remedy by way of an appeal has not been provided for against the order and judgment of a District Judge, the remedy available to the aggrieved person is to file a revision before the High Court under Section 115 C.P.C. Where remedy for filing a revision before the High Court under Section 115 CPC has been expressly barred by a State enactment, only in such case a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution would lie and not under Article 226 of the Constitution."

15. In this view, it is held, where a remedy for filing a revision petition under Section 115 is barred in such cases, petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, is maintainable. In this view, this petition could be treated, as one filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, and not under Section 115 C.P.C. Then, the remaining question is, whether under the power conferred upon this Court under Article 227, the orders passed by the lower court can be set aside.

16. The only question arises in this revision is whether the suit is barred by limitation or not. Under the Limitation Act, irrespective of the defence raised, on the basis of the limitation, it is the bounden duty of the court to find out, whether the suit is in time or not. Thus, a duty is cast upon the court, to go into the question of limitation and decide the same according to law. As aforementioned, even as per the endorsement, as fairly conceded by the learned counsel for the respondents, except limitation, no other dispute. Since the first appellate Court has failed in its duty, and committed in my considered view, a flagrant violation, defeating the right of the plaintiff, to grant a decree against the first defendant, the same has to be set right under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, for which there cannot be any grievance, from the respondents. In this view of the matter, the decree and judgment passed by the appellate Court is liable to be set aside and there shall be a decree as prayed for, against the first defendant alone. To the above said extent, the revision is to be allowed.

In the result, the revision is allowed to the above said extent, setting aside the decree and judgment of the appellate Court, in A.S.No.64/2001 and there shall be a decree as prayed for, against the first defendant alone, with costs, restricted to the trial Court alone, dismissing the suit against the second defendant, without costs."

8. In Shaik Abdul Haq versus Aiswarya Nilaya Chit Fund Pvt Limited 2005 (4) Bank Cas 70, the Hon'ble High Court of Andhra Pradesh held that in view of the express language engrafted in the Code, neither civil revision nor a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is maintainable and it was observed as under:-

"8. The suit claim, which is the subject-matter of the appeal before the lower Appellate Court and the present civil revision petition, remains to be less than Rs.25,000/-precisely Rs.13,237/-.

9. It may be noted that Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that no second appeal would lay if the value of the subject-matter is less than Rs. 25,000/.

10. The first contention of the learned Counsel for the 1st defendant is that though Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure explicitly prohibits filing of a second appeal if the value of the subject-matter is less than Rs.25,000/-, the judgment and decree of the first Appellate Court can be canvassed by any party to the suit under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

11. The second contention of the learned Counsel for the first defendant that having regard to the fact that in terms of the amendment made to Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure by Act 46 of 1999, the High Court can entertain the revision petition against the judgment and decree of the first Appellate Court, exercising its jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. Thus contending he relies on the decisions of the Apex Court in Yeshwant Sakhalkar v. Hirabat Kamat Mhamai, and Babhutmal v. Laxmibai, .

12. The third contention of the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the 1st defendant that basing on the calculation memo filed by the plaintiff, the suit was decreed in part and the other evidence was not properly appreciated by the lower Appellate Court. Therefore, this Court can invoke the supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and interfere with the impugned judgment and decree.

13. In other words, according to the learned Counsel for the 1st defendant since the lower Appellate Court did not exercise its jurisdiction properly, though a second appeal is explicitly barred under Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, a revision petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is maintainable.

14. The learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the first plaintiff submits that the present civil revision petition is not maintainable inasmuch as, this Court while exercising supervisory jurisdiction cannot reappreciate the evidence or correct the errors in drawing inferences like as is permissible to be done be the Appellate Court and hence the present revision petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is liable to be dismissed. To buttress his submissions, he placed strong reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Ranjeet Singh v. Ravi Prakash, 2004 AIR SCW 4221.

15. In Yeshwant Sakhalkar v. Hirabat Kamat Mhamai (supra), the Apex Court observed as thus:

> The question as to whether the application of Article 227 of the Constitution of India could be maintainable or not has been answered by this Court in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai wherein it was held: (SCC pp.694-96, Para 38)
> 38. Such like matters frequently arise before the High Courts. We sum up our conclusions in a nutshell, even at the risk of repetition and state the same as hereunder:
> (1) Amendment by Act 46 of 1999 with effect from 1-7-2002 in Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure cannot and does not affect in any manner the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution.
> (2) Interlocutory orders, passed by the Courts subordinate to the High Court, against which remedy of revision has been excluded by CPC Amendment Act 46 of 1999 are nevertheless open to challenge in, and continue to be subject to, certiorari and supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court.
> (3) Certiorari, under Article 226 of the Constitution, is issued for correcting gross errors of jurisdiction i.e. when a subordinate Court is found to have acted (i) without jurisdiction - by assuming jurisdiction where there exists none, or (ii) in excess of its jurisdiction - by overstepping or crossing the limits of jurisdiction, or (iii) acting in flagrant disregard of law or the rules of procedure or acting in violation of principles of natural justice where there is no procedure specified, and thereby occasioning failure of justice.
> (4) Supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution is exercised for keeping the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their jurisdiction. When a subordinate Court has assumed a jurisdiction which it does not have or has failed to exercise a jurisdiction which does not have or the jurisdiction though available is being exercised by the Court in a manner not permitted by law and failure of justice or grave injustice has occasioned thereby, the High Court may step into exercise its supervisory jurisdiction.
> (5) Be it a writ of certiorari or the exercise of supervisory jurisdiction, none is available to correct mere errors of fact or of law unless the following requirements are satisfied: (i) the error is manifest and apparent on the face of the proceedings such as when it is based on clear ignorance or utter disregard of the provisions of law, and (iii) a grave injustice or gross failure of justice has occasioned thereby;

(6) A patent error is an error which is self-evidence, i.e., which can be perceived or demonstrated without involving into any lengthy or complicated argument or a long-drawn progress of reasoning. Where two inferences are reasonably possible and the subordinate Court has chosen to take one view the error cannot be called gross or patent.

(7) The power to issue a writ of certiorari and the supervisory jurisdiction are to be exercised sparingly and only in appropriate cases where the judicial conscience of the High Court indicates it to act lest a gross failure of justice or grave injustice should occasion. Care, caution and circumspection need to be exercised, when any of the abovesaid two jurisdictions is sought to be invoked during the pendency of any suit or proceedings in a subordinate Court and, the error though calling for correction is yet capable of being corrected at the conclusion of the proceedings in an appeal or revision preferred there against and entertaining a petition invoking certiorari or supervisory jurisdiction of High Court would obstruct the smooth flow and/or early disposal of the suit or proceedings. The High Court may feel inclined to intervene where the error is such, as, if not corrected at that very moment, may become incapable of correction at a large stage and refusal to intervene would result in travesty of justice or where such refusal itself would result in prolonging of the lis.

(8) The High Court in exercise of certiorari or supervisory jurisdiction will not convert itself into a Court of appeal and indulge in reappreciation or evaluation of evidence or correct errors in drawing inferences or correct errors of mere formal or technical character.

(9) In practice, the parameters for exercising jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari and those calling for exercise of supervisory jurisdiction are almost similar and the width of jurisdiction exercised by the High Courts in India unlike English Courts has almost obliterated the distinction between the two jurisdictions. While exercising jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari, the High Court may annul or set aside the act, order or proceedings of the subordinate Courts but cannot substitute its own decision in pace thereof. In exercise of supervisory jurisdiction the High Court may not only give suitable directions so as to guide the subordinate Court as to the manner in which it would act or proceed thereafter or afresh, the High Court may in appropriate cases itself make an order in supersession or substitution of the order of the subordinate Court as the Court should have made in the facts and circumstances of the case."

16. It is also pertinent to notice the observations made by the Apex Court, at Paragraphs Nos. 7 and 8, in Babhutmal v. Laxmibai (supra), which run thus:

The special civil application preferred by the appellant was admittedly an application under Article 227 and it is, therefore, material only to consider the scope and ambit of the jurisdiction of the High Court under that article. Did the High Court have jurisdiction in an application under Article 227 to disturb the findings of fact reached by the District Court? It well settled by the decision of this Court in Waryam Singh v. Amarnath, that the:

".....power of superintendence conferred by Article 227 is, as pointed out by Harries, C.J., in Dalmia Jain Airways Ltd. v. Sukumar Mukherjee, (S.B.) to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors."

This statement of law was quoted with approval in a subsequent decision of this Court in Nagrendra Nath Bora v. The Commr. of Hills Division, and it was pointed out by Sinha, J., as he then was, speaking on behalf of the Court in that case:

> "It is thus, clear that the powers of judicial interference under Article 227 of the Constitution with orders of judicial or quasi-judicial nature, are not greater than the power under Article 226 of the Constitution. Under Article 226 the power of interference may extend to quashing an impugned order on the ground of a mistake apparent on the face of the record. But under Article 227 of the Constitution, the power of interference is limited to seeing that the Tribunal functions within the limits of its authority."

It would, therefore, be seen that the High Court cannot, while exercising jurisdiction under Article 227, interfere with findings of fact recorded by the subordinate Court or Tribunal. Its function is limited to seeing that the subordinate Court or Tribunal functions within the limits of its authority. It cannot correct mere errors of fact by examining the evidence and reappreciating it. What Morris, L. J., said in Rex v. Northumberland Compensation Appeal Tribunal, 1952 (1) All.ER 122, in regard to the scope and ambit of certiorari jurisdiction must apply equally in relation to exercise of jurisdiction under Article 227. That jurisdiction cannot be exercised:

> "as the cloak of an appeal in disguise. It does not lie in order to bring up an order or decision for rehearing of the issues raised in the proceedings."

If an error of fact, even though apparent on the face of the record, cannot be corrected by means of a writ certiorari it should follow a fortiori that it is not subject to correction by the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 227. The power of superintendence under Article 227 cannot be invoked to correct an error of fact which only a Superior Court can do in exercise of appeal. The High Court cannot in guise of exercising its jurisdiction under Article 227 convert itself into a Court of appeal when the Legislature has not conferred a right of appeal and made the decision of the subordinate Court or Tribunal final on facts.

8. Here, when we turn to the judgment of the High Court, we find that the High Court has clearly misconceived the scope and extent of its power under Article 227 and overstepped the limits of its jurisdiction under that Article. It has proceeded to reappreciate the evidence for the purpose of correcting errors of fact supposed to have been committed by the District Court. That was clearly impermissible to the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 227. The District Court was the final Court of fact and there being no appeal provided against the findings of fact reached by the District Court, it was not open to the High Court to question the propriety or reasonableness of the conclusions drawn from the evidence by the District Court. The High Court could not convert itself into a Court of appeal and examine the correctness of the findings of fact arrived at by the District Court. The limited power of interference which the High Court possessed under the Article 227 was to see that the District Court functions within the limits of its authority and so far as that was concerned, there was no complaint against the District Court that it > transgressed the limits of its authority. It is true that the High Court claimed to interfere with the findings of fact reached by the District Court on the ground that the District Court had misread a part of the evidence and ignored another part of it but that was clearly outside the jurisdiction of the High Court to do under Article 227.

17. From a perusal of the judgments Yeshwant Sakhalkar v. Hirabat Kamat Mhamai and Babhutmal v. Laxmi Bhai (supra), relied upon by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff, the consistent view of the Apex Court conspicuously appears to be - - firstly that when the Trial Court passes as interlocutory order, notwithstanding, an embargo under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, if patent error, which is self evident, is found under the following circumstances:

> Firstly; against the interlocutory orders, passed by the Courts subordinate to the High Court, against which a remedy of revision is excluded by the Code of Civil Procedure Amendment Act 46 of 1999 are nevertheless are open to be challenged before the High Court, which has supervisory jurisdiction.
> Secondly; the object of exercising supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is to keep the subordinate Courts within the bounds of their jurisdiction or in cases where subordinate Courts refuse to exercise their jurisdiction or assume jurisdiction where there is no jurisdiction at all; and
> Thirdly; where a patent error is self-evident, which can be perceived or demonstrated without going into any lengthy or complicated argument or a long-drawn process of reasoning, the same can be interfered with under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and most importantly the High Court in exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution will not convert itself into a Court of appeal and indulge in reappreciation or evaluation of evidence on record or to correct the errors, if any, in drawing inferences.

18. The above observations of the Apex Court, noted herein, are only few in the context of the present case among many guidelines carved out by the Apex Court.

19. Sri. V.L.N.G.K. Murthy, Amicus Curiae, appointed to assist this Court, relies on the judgment of the Apex Court in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai and Ors., 2003 (5) ALD 36 (SC) = 2003 (5) Supreme 390.

20. The Apex Court in Yeshwant Sakhalkar v. Hirabat Kamat Mhamai (supra), referred to the observations made by it in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai and Ors., Since the said observations were already extracted, the same need not be extracted once again.

21. In Ranjeet Singh v. Ravi Prakash, 2004 AIR SCW 4221, the Apex Court observed as under:

> ..... A perusal of the judgment of the High Court shows that the High Court has clearly exceeded its jurisdiction in setting aside the judgment of the Appellate Court. Though not specifically stated, the phraseology employed by the High Court in its judgment, goes to show that the High Court has exercised its certiorari jurisdiction for correcting the judgment of the Appellate Court. In Surya Devi Rai v. Ram Chander Rai and Ors., this Court has ruled that to be amenable to correction in certiorari jurisdiction, the error committed by the Court or authority on whose judgment the High Court was exercising jurisdiction, should be an error which is self-evident. An error which needs to be established by lengthy and complicated arguments or by indulging into a long drawn process of reasoning, cannot possibly be an error available for correction by writ of cerliorari. If it is reasonably possible to form two opinions on the same material, the finding arrived at one way or the other, cannot be called a patent error. As to the exercise of supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 227 of the Constitution also, it has been held in Surya Dev Rai (supra) that the jurisdiction was not available to be exercised for indulging into re-appreciation or evaluation of evidence or correcting the errors in drawing inferences like a Court of appeal. The High Court has itself recorded in its judgment that "considering the evidence on record carefully" it was inclined not to sustain the judgment of the Appellate Court. On its own showing, the High Court has acted like an Appellate Court which was not permissible for it do under Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution."

22. In the instant case, it is to be seen that the value of the subject-matter of appeal, after passing of partial decree by the lower Appellate Court, is less than Rs.25,000/-. Therefore, the present civil revision petition is attracted by Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which created a clear bar postulating that no second appeal would lay from any decree, when the subject-matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding twenty five thousand rupees. The Legislature enacted Section 102 CPC with the clear and obvious object of reducing the scope of the litigation and to give quietus to the same.

23. Furthermore, if the present civil revision petition is entertained under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, it amounts to exercising the appellate jurisdiction, which was prohibited by the Apex Court by way of guidelines in the judgments referred to supra.

24. That apart, the judgment under challenge is not an interlocutory order. Further, the judgment under challenge, as already noticed, is final and rendered by the lower Appellate Court.

25. For the foregoing reasons, without going into the merits of the case, and in view of the specific and unambiguous language contained in Section 102 of the Civil Procedure Code, I have to hold that the remedy available to the petitioner is to file a second appeal, if so advised, and the present civil revision petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable. Therefore, this civil revision is liable to be dismissed."

9. In Jaswinder Singh versus Parshotam Lal Sanghi, Advocate 2005 (141) Punjab Law Reporter 368, a learned Single Judge of the Punjab & Haryana High Court though entertained a petition under Section 115 of the Code, but dismissed the same on merits by observing as under:-

"4. After hearing the learned counsel, I am of the considered view that this petition is liable to be dismissed because the jurisdiction of this Court under Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 (for brevity of Code) to entertain a second appeal is barred when the subject matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs.24,000/-. It is for this reason that the defendant-petitioner has invoked 115 of the Code. The power of this Court for reversing the findings under Section 115 of the Code is confined only to jurisdictional error. It is required to be shown that the subordinate court has exercised jurisdiction not vested in it by law or it has failed to exercise jurisdiction so vested or has acted in the exercise of jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. A valid inference under Section 114 of the Evidence Act 1872 has been drawn by the learned Lower Appellate Court when the defendant-appellant failed to produce the record showing that no amount of the sale proceeds of share has been credited to his account namely the City Investment Centre which is owned by him. For that purpose, the learned lower appellate Court has rightly placed reliance on a judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Biltu Ram v. Jainanadan Prasad, C.A. No. 941 of 1965, dated 15.4.1965 wherein it has been held that and adverse inference is justified even though no onus on a party to prove the document has been placed. Best evidence concerning the controversy before the courts must always be produced as has been observed by the Supreme Court in the case of Muntgesan Pillai v. Gnana Sambandha Pandora Sambandi, A.I.R. 1917 P.C. 6 and Ors. as well as Mt. Bilas Kunwar v. Desraj Ranjit Singh and Ors., A.I.R. 1951 Privy Council 96. Those who withhold the best evidence from the court expose themselves to the danger of being subjected to an adverse inference against them. The aforementioned view has also been taken in the case of Gopal; Krishanji Ketekar v. Mohd, Hazi Latif and Ors., which has been followed in the case of City Bank N.A. v. Standard Chartered Bank, . In the case of Gopal Krishanji Ketekar the Supreme Court has clarified as to how an inference under Section 114 of the Evidence Act, 1872 would arise. The following observations are apposite to refer:-

> "Even if the burden of proof docs not lie on a party the court may draw an adverse inference if he withholds important documents in his possession which can throw light on the facts at issue. It is not, in our opinion, a sound practice for those desiring to rely upon a certain state of facts to withhold from the court the best evidence which is in their possession which could throw light upon the issues in controversy and to rely upon the abstract doctrine of onus of proof. A practice has grown up in Indian procedure of those in possession of important documents or information lying by, trusting to the abstract doctrine of the onus of proof, and failing, accordingly to furnish to the courts the best material of its decision. With regard to third parties, this may be right enough-they have no responsibility for the conduct of the suit; but with regard to the parties to the suit it is, in their Lordships' opinion, an inversion of sound practice for those desiring to rely upon a certain state of facts to withhold from the court the written evidence in their possession which would throw light upon the proposition."

5. There is no material irregularity or jurisdictional error in exercise of power by the lower appellate Court under Section 96 of the Code. As a matter of fact, the first appellate Court is the final court of fact and this court cannot admit a revision petition or an appeal unless it raises a substantive question of law. No revision would be admissible unless a jurisdictional error is found. No such jurisdictional error is shown warranting admission of the petition. Therefore, there is no merit in this petition and same is liable to be dismissed."

10. In CMPMO No. 439 of 2010, titled as Subhadra Devi versus Kishori Lal, decided on 14.12.2010, a learned Single Judge of this Court (Justice Deepak Gupta as his Lordship then was) held that the provisions of Sections 100 and 102 of the Code cannot be circumvented by filing a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and it is apt to reproduce the following relevant observations which read as under:-

> "3. Under Section 100, CPC, a second appeal lies to the High Court only on a substantial question of law. Section 102, Code of Civil Procedure specifically provides that no second appeal is maintainable in a suit, value whereof is less than Rs.25,000/-. The provisions of Section 100 and 102, Code of Civil Procedure cannot be circumvented by filing a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. An appeal is the creation of a statute and the legislature in its wisdom has decided that a second appeal will not lie in a suit valuation of which is less than 25,000/-. There is no occasion to entertain a CMPMO unless it is shown that there is some illegality involved or there is some perversity in the finding of the learned Trial Court. In the present case, I have gone through the judgments of both the courts below. I find that both the judgments are based on appreciation of evidence and, therefore do not call for any interference in this petition."

11. Yet, again in CMPMO No.235 of 2006 titled as Mohan Lal versus Bahader Singh, decided on 16.12.2010, the same learned Judge (Justice Deepak Gupta as his Lordship then was) reiterated that the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution cannot be used as a means to circumvent the bar to filing of an appeal envisaged under Sections 100 and 102 of the Code. However, it was observed that the Court would be failing in its duty if it does not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India when the judgment and order challenged is totally illegal or perverse, as would be evident from the following observations:-

"2.Under Section 100, CPC, a second appeal lies to the High Court only on a substantial question of law. Section 102, Code of Civil Procedure specifically provides that no second appeal is maintainable in a suit, valuation of which is Rs.25,000/- or less. This Court has repeatedly held that the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be used as a means to circumvent the bar to filing of an appeal. An appeal is only a creation of the statute and if the statute prohibits the filing of an appeal, the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be invoked in normal course.

3. Having held so, this Court would be failing in its duty if it does not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India where the judgment or order challenged is totally illegal or perverse."

12. In Masina Sriramulu versus Pasagadagula Pydaiah 2011 (8) RCR (Civ) 1565, the Hon'ble Andhra Pradesh High Court was dealing with a case where value of the suit was merely Rs. 11,500/- and while dealing with the question regarding maintainability of the petition and despite the bar under Section 102 of the Code held the revision to be maintainable by according the following reasons:-

"5. Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure has a long legislative history. It would appear that the Code of Civil Procedure, 1859 did not contain any provision relating to the revisional jurisdiction. When High Courts were constituted at the 3 Presidency Towns under the Charter Act, 1861, the 3 High Courts were conferred the power of superintendence over Courts subordinate thereto. The revisional jurisdiction of the 3 High Courts was confined to (a) failure to exercise jurisdiction and (b) exercising of jurisdiction, which did not vest in the subordinate Court, subjecting those questions alone to the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court. Subsequently, another clause relating to the exercise of the jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity by the subordinate Court was included within the revisional jurisdiction by Amendment Act, 1879. When the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882 was enacted, Section 622 provided for the revisional jurisdiction which verbatim was incorporated as Section 115 of the present Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

6. In 1976, when extensive amendments were brought to the Code of Civil Procedure, Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure was amended bringing out an explanation and a proviso to Sub-section (1) to the original Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure. The substantial amendments undertaken by the Amendment Acts of 1999 and 2002 drastically amended the Court of Civil Procedure. So far as Section 115 is concerned, Section 12 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1999 incorporated amendments to Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure. The proviso brought in through the amendment in 1976 was redrafted. A new Sub-section 3 of Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure was added by way of a clarification.

7. The impugned judgment in the present case was passed on 27.07.2006 in A.S. No. 59 of 2004. The amendments have come into force with effect from 01.07.2002.

Hence, Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure as it stands today is liable to be considered to determine whether the revision is maintainable or not.

8. The learned Counsel for the first Defendant inter alia urged that Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure would apply to the orders in interlocutory applications only and that no revision would lie from a judgment in an appeal suit.

9. The learned Counsel for the first Defendant placed reliance upon Section 115(1) proviso, which is to the effect that the High Court shall not vary or reverse any order except where the order impugned would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings if the order was made in favour of the revision Petitioner. The learned Counsel for the first Defendant inter alia contended that the purport of the proviso is that the revision can be against any order in a suit or proceeding and not an order disposing of the very suit itself. He also pointed out that when a suit is disposed of, it is not an order, but is a decree and that when the proviso conspicuously did not refer to a decree, Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure cannot be invoked questioning any decree whether in a suit or an appeal.

10. In proceedings other than suits, issues are not settled. The controversies between rival claims are usually framed at the time of disposal of the matter. Even otherwise, when the controversies are crystallized before both sides let in evidence, they are referred to usually as points for consideration and not issues. The learned Counsel for the Plaintiff drew my attention to reference of an issue in Section 115(1) proviso Code of Civil Procedure. For the purpose of clarity, I may extract the proviso to Section 115(1) Code of Civil Procedure. Proviso to Section 115(1) reads:

> Provided that the High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings ?.
> Referring to the word 'issue' in the proviso, it is contended that a revision arises even from the decree in a suit. I am afraid that the whole proviso and indeed the whole section shall be read as a whole and not piecemeal. Picking out a stray word 'an issue' from the proviso, it cannot be contended that a revision is maintainable from the final orders or from the orders in a suit or an appeal.

11. A reading of the proviso points out that the Court shall examine hypothetically whether the impugned order finally disposes of the suit or proceeding. If the answer to this question is in the positive, a revision would lie and otherwise not.

12. In the present case, the Plaintiff made a monitory claim. The trial Court granted a decree for part of the monitory claim made by the Plaintiff. The appellate Court reversed the same. I may put two situations hypothetically. The order under impugnment is the judgment of the appellate Court. It was passed in favour of the first Defendant. Did it finally dispose of the suit laid by the Plaintiff? Indeed, by the judgment of the appellate Court, the suit filed by the Plaintiff was dismissed. Thus, the judgment of the appellate Court finally disposed of the suit. The other hypothetical situation is to consider as to what would happen had the appellate Court passed judgment/order in favour of the Plaintiff who laid the revision. In other words, the appellate Court must have dismissed the appeal confirming the judgment of the trial Court granting a money decree in favour of the Plaintiff. Again the judgment of the appellate Court would have finally disposed of the suit laid by the Plaintiff. Viewed either in the angle of the Plaintiff or in the angle of the first Defendant, the situation satisfies the proviso of Section 115(1) Code of Civil Procedure.

13. In view of the language deployed in the proviso that the order must have been passed in the course of a suit or other proceeding, there is no bar for a revision from the judgment passed by the appellate Court. The other embargo is provided by the beginning of Section 115(1) that where no appeal lies from the impugned order/judgment, the party can resort to revision. In view of Section 102 Code of Civil Procedure, admittedly no second appeal would lie. This part of the condition imposed by Section 115(1) Code of Civil Procedure is satisfied in the present case. So far as the other condition imposed by the proviso incorporated by 1976 amendment and modified by 1999 amendment is concerned, viz., where the impugned order finally disposed of the suit and would have disposed of the suit finally even if the order were in favour of the Plaintiff, the revision is maintainable. I, therefore, answer this question raised by Sri Ravi Kumar, learned Counsel for the first Defendant-first Respondent that this revision prima facie is maintainable in view of Section 115(1) Code of Civil Procedure including the proviso thereto.

14. The next question is whether the order of the appellate Court deserves to be revised. This question is a mixed question of fact and law. The law regarding the interference by the High Court under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure is that the High Court is entitled to interfere with the order of a subordinate Court in the event of fulfillment of one of the three conditions mentioned in Section 115(1) Code of Civil Procedure only, viz., the Court exercised the jurisdiction not vested in it by law or b) the Court failed to exercise the jurisdiction which is vested in it or c) the Court acted illegally or with material irregularity in exercise of the jurisdiction vested in it. One of the old cases in respect of powers under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure is Balakrishna Udayar v. Vasudeva Iyar,1947 AIR(PC) 71 It was reiterated with approval by the Prevy Council in N.S. Venkatagiri Ayyangar v. Hindu Religious Endowments Board, 1949 AIR(PC) 156. The Privy Council considered that the revisional powers are exercisable when the subordinate Courts irregularly exercise or did not exercise or illegally assumed powers to exercise jurisdiction and that a revision cannot be directed against the conclusions of law and fact in which the question of jurisdiction is not involved.

15. One of the leading authorities on the powers under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure is Major S.S. Khanna v. Brigadier F.J. Dillon, 1964 AIR(SC) 497. In that case, Shah.J as then he was held:

> The section consists of two parts, the first prescribes the conditions in which jurisdiction of the High Court arises, i.e., there is a case decided by a subordinate Court in which no appeal lies to the High Court, the second sets out the circumstances in which the jurisdiction may be exercised.

16. It was clarified that if there was no question of jurisdiction, the decision could not be corrected by the High Court in the exercise of the revisional powers, since a Court has jurisdiction to decide wrongly as well as rightly.

17. Way back in Keshardo Chaneria v. Radha Kissan, 1953 AIR(SC) 23, it was observed that the judges of the subordinate Courts have perfect jurisdiction to decide the case and that even if they decided the case wrongly it could not be said that the subordinate Courts exercised the jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. The Himachal Pradesh High Court clarified in Ramdas v. Subhash Bakshi, 1977 AIR (HP) 18 that the revisional jurisdiction is residual jurisdiction conferred so as to ensure that errors of grave nature should be corrected when they are brought to the notice of the Court.

18. I may briefly note the march of law relating to the revisional powers of the High Court at this stage.

19. In Amir Hassan Khan v. Sheo Baksh Singh,1885 11 ILR 6 the judicial committee of the Privy Council observed that where the Court has jurisdiction to determine a question, it could not be held that the Court had acted illegally or with material irregularity in exercise of its jurisdiction by giving an erroneous decision. In Malkarjun v. Narahari,1900 27 IA 216 the Privy Council held that a Court had jurisdiction to decide wrongly as well as rightly and that if the case was wrongly decided, the wronged party could take the course prescribed by law for setting the matters right and that the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure could not be invoked in such an event. The Privy Council's next two leading decisions are Balakrishna Udayar (supra) and N.S. Venkatagiri Iyyangar (supra), both of which were already referred to.

20. After independence, one of the first cases arising before the Supreme Court relating to the powers under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure is Keshardeo's case (supra). In Pandurang v. Maruthi Hari, 1966 AIR(SC) 153, it was observed that it was not competent for the High Court to correct errors of fact, however patent they be under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure and that even errors of law could not be rectified unless such errors have been in connection with the jurisdiction of the Court to try the dispute. It was clarified by Gajendragadkar, J. as he then was, in that case that an erroneous decision on a question of law reached by the subordinate Court which had no relation to questions of jurisdiction of the Court could not be corrected by the High Court under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure. As already pointed out, the leading authority, however, is the decision in Major S.S. Khanna's case (supra).

21. In Baldevdas Shivlal v. Filmistan Ditributors (India) (P) Ltd, 1970 AIR(SC) 406, the Supreme Court explained the ambit and scope of Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure that the exercise of the power under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure was broadly subject to three important conditions viz., i) that the decision must be of a Court subordinate to the High Court, ii) that there must be a case which has been decided by the subordinate Court, and iii) that the subordinate Court must appear to have exercised jurisdiction not vested in it by law or has failed to exercise the jurisdiction so vested or has acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

22. In Managing Director (MIG) Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd. v. Ajit Prasad, AIR 73 SC 76, it was held that the High Court had no jurisdiction under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure to interfere with the order passed by the first appellate Court whether the order of the first appellate Court is right or wrong and whether the order might be in accordance with law or not in accordance with law as long as the first appellate Court has jurisdiction to make such an order.

23. I may point out that all these decisions were passed prior to the amendment of 1999 or the amendment of 1976.

24. With reference to the powers under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure and under Article 227 of the Indian Constitution, the Supreme Court observed in Anndai Ammal v. Sadasivan Pillai, 1987 AIR(SC) 203 that the procedure under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure and Article 227 of the Indian Constitution are different and are not interchangeable.

25. I may, however, point out that in Hukumchand Amolikchand Longde v. Madhava Balaji Potdar,1983 AIR(SC) 504 the Supreme Court held that once a revision under Section 115 Code of Civil Procedure was admitted, it had to be disposed of on 'merits. In Masjid Kacha Tank, Nahan v. Tuff ail Mohammed,1991 AIR(SC) 445 even though there were concurrent findings from the trial Court and the appellate Court, the Supreme Court considered that the High Court in its revisional jurisdiction would be entitled to interfere with the findings of fact if the findings are perverse or there had been a non-appreciation or non-consideration of material evidence on record by the trial Court or the appellate Court. In Vinod

Kumar Arora v. Smt. Surjit Kaur, 1987 AIR(SC) 2179, the Supreme Court held that the High Court would be justified in interfering with the orders of a subordinate Court by exercise of the revisional jurisdiction where the decision of the order under impugnment was based on conjectures and surmises and that the Court which passed the impugned order lost sight of relevant evidence. Thus, although the view of the Privy Council and the Supreme Court by and large is that the scope of a revision is very limited and that a revision can be entertained only when there is incorrect exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon the Court, the Supreme Court also expressed the view that where the order sought to be revised is perverse and is without any basis whatsoever, such an order deserves to be revised. This view of the Supreme Court indeed is in tune with the famous maxim Ubi jus ibi remedium. The revision Petitioner herein is prevented from moving a second appeal as the amount involved is less than Rs. 25,000/-. I am afraid that the Plaintiff, who is the revision Petitioner, nevertheless, cannot be shut off if the order passed by the appellate Court is wholly unjust. It is not as though the Plaintiff has no remedy even though his rightful claim is rejected. At any rate, the learned Counsel for the Plaintiff contended that the order of the appellate Court was perverse and needed to be rectified through the revision."

13. In Microll India versus Jai Durga Trading Company 2012 (165) Pun LR 368, the Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court held that the bar created under Section 102 CPC could not be bypassed by bringing the revision petition as this course was not permissible and it was observed as under:-

"5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that when filing of appeal in this matter has been barred by provisions of section 102 CPC, the remedy would be available by way of revision under Civil Revision No. 5704 of 2011 Article 227 of the Constitution of India. He has cited before me a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai and others (2003)6 Supreme Court Cases 675 to support his submission in this regard. Other decisions cited by learned counsel for the petitioner in this regard are Radhey Shyam and another v. Chhabi Nath and others 2009(2) RCR (Civil) 442, Johan Ram v. Steel Authority of India Ltd. 2005 AIR (Chhatisgarh) 17 and Mariamma Roy v. Indian Bank and others 2008(4) RCR (Civil) 910.

8. Learned counsel for the respondent has submitted, on the other hand, that after the provisions of section 102 CPC, barred the appeal in this matter, the judgment and decree passed by First Appellate Court could not be challenged by way of revision petition under section 115 CPC. In this regard, he has cited before me a decision of this court in Jaswinder Singh v. Parshotam Lal Sanghi and another 2005(3) RCR (Civil) 650 where in similar situation, revision under section 115 CPC was held not maintainable. He has also cited before me a decision of Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court in Municipal Council, Sawai Madhopur and others v. Civil Judge (SD) Sawai Modhopur and others 2004(1) LJR 301 where the suit for recovery of Rs.15,360/- was dismissed by the trial court but the appeal was allowed by the appellate court. Since the second appeal was barred, it was held that the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be used to bypass the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure.

10. In Surya Dev Rai's case (supra) , the suit has been for permanent injunction. The plaintiff filed an application therein for ad- interim injunction under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 CPC. His prayer was rejected by the trial court as also by the First Appellate Court. The plaintiff, who could not avail the remedy under section 115 CPC after its amendment filed a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The High Court dismissed the petition for the reason that the same was not maintainable as the plaintiff was seeking interim injunction against the private respondents. The decision of the High Court was reversed holding that the power of the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India is always in addition to the revisional jurisdiction conferred on it. The curtailment of revisional Civil Revision No. 5704 of 2011 jurisdiction of the High Court under section 115 CPC by Amendment Act 46 of 1999 has been held not to take away and could not have taken away the constitutional jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ of certiorari to a civil court.

11. The facts of the case in hand are entirely different. The second appeal in this case is barred by the provisions of section 102 CPC. That bar created by section 102 CPC is sought to be bypassed by bringing a revision petition, which is not permissible. There was no such provision of second appeal in case of application under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 CPC, which was taken away by any provision of CPC or by curtailment of revisional jurisdiction by the High Court under section 115 CPC. So the facts of the case before me are not similar to the facts of the case in Surya Dev Rai's case (supra) and, therefore, the decision in that case is not applicable to the present case. Similarly the other cases are also on different facts and none of them deal with the point involved in this case. Therefore, they are not applicable to the facts of this case. The point in controversy is directly dealt with by this court in Jaswinder Singh's case (supra) and Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court in Municipal Council, Sawai Madhopur and others' case (supra) and in view of the same, I hold that the petition does not lie ."

14. In Manickam Moopan versus Lakshmi 2012 (2) LW 683, a learned Single Judge of the Madras High Court chose to follow the ratio of the earlier judgment rendered by the same Court in K.Chockalingam (supra) and observed as under:-

"4. In the circumstances, Janab Mohamad Ihram Saibu, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that when an appeal was not maintainable in view of the pecuniary limit mentioned in Section 102 C.P.C., on that account an appeal cannot be dismissed, however, the court can grant leave to convert it as a revision.

5. On this aspect, the learned counsel for the appellant cited the following decisions:

(i) N.BANSIDHAR Vs. DWARAKALAL [AIR 1974 KARNATAK 117].

(ii) JIWAN DASS Vs. NARAIN DASS [AIR 1981 DELHI 291].

(iii) R.S.PILLAI Vs. M.L.PERATCHI @ SELVI & OTHERS [2000 (IV) CTC 543 (DB)]

6. The learned counsel for the appellant also filed a memo that the appeals may be converted as revision petitions.

7. Since Mr.Muthukrishnan is the root cause for filing this memo, he cannot now say otherwise.

8. Now, the question arises whether in the circumstances, these Second Appeals could be converted as revisions or not?

9. As per Section 102 C.P.C. no second appeal shall lie from any decree, when the subject matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding twenty five thousand rupees.

10. So, Section 102 C.P.C. prescribes a monetary limit of Rs.25,000/- to file Second Appeal. Thus to file a second appeal, the subject matter of the suit should be above Rs.25,000/-. Admittedly, the subject matter of the suit in these appeals are below Rs.25,000/-. So, Section 102 C.P.C. is a bar to maintain these second appeals.

11. A revision is provided under Section 115 C.P.C.

12. BAN SIDHAR Vs. DWARAKALAL [AIR 1974 KARNATAKA 117] deals with a plea for conversion of a revision as an appeal and also deals with return of that petition for presentation before proper court. That is not the situation before us. It is not applicable to the facts of our case.

13. JIWAN DASS Vs. NARAIN DASS [AIR 1981 DELHI 291] is near us. The Delhi High Court held as under:

> "It is now a settled law that the label placed on a cause is not conclusive and does not ordinarily affect the jurisdiction of the court to allow the label to be corrected by treating an appeal on a revision or a revision as an appeal. Provided of course the cause of justice so demands. In cases where no appeal lies but an appeal has been wrongly preferred, the Court has the wide discretion to treat it as a revision where the conditions laid down under Section 115 C.P.C. are satisfied."

14. In R.S.PILLAI Vs. PERATCHI @ SELVI & OTHERS [2000 (IV) CTC 543] in view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, a Division Bench of this Court in the interest of justice converted an appeal as a revision.

15. In K.CHOCKALINGAM vs. K.R.RAMASAMY IYER AND ANOTHER [2004 (4) L.W.586] exactly similar question as before us arose. A memo was filed seeking the leave of the court to convert the second appeal as a revision. There a controversy arose whether under such circumstances, the revision could be filed under Section 115 C.P.C. or under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

16. It is profitable here to note the following portions of the judgment in K.CHOCKALINGAM vs. K.R.RAMASAMY IYER AND ANOTHER [2004 (4) L.W.586]:

> "13. This revision is filed only under Section 115 C.P.C. The suit is one for the recovery of less than a sum of Rs.25,000/-. After the suit was decreed, an appeal has been preferred, which was allowed nullifying the lower courts decree and judgment. Section 102 of Code of Civil Procedure Code says, no second appeal shall lie from any decree. When the subject matter of the original suit is for recovery of money, not exceeding Rs.25,000/-. In view of this provision, a second appeal is barred and that is why, a revision is filed under Section 115 C.P.C., which is not maintainable, according to the learned counsel for the respondents. When there is a specific bar for filing the second appeal, when the suit is for recovery of money, not exceeding Rs.25,000/-, it should be held, a revision is also not maintainable under Section 115 C.P.C. Section 115 C.P.C. empowers the High Court, to call for the record of any case which has been decided by any Court Subordinate to such High Court in which no appeal lies thereto. From the wordings deployed in the above Section, it is clear, the High Court is empowered to entertain a revision, when no appeal is provided or where no appeal lies. In other words, if the code provides, an appeal provision, from the decree and judgment of the subordinate court, then ordinarily invoking Section 115 C.P.C. is not possible. In this case, against the decree and judgment passed by the District Munsif Court, in O.S.No.147/97 an appeal provision is provided, and an appeal has been preferred also. Then, considering the pecuniary jurisdiction of the suit, the second appeal is prohibited or barred. In this view, it cannot be said, no appeal is provided against the decree and judgment, thereby to invoke Section 115 C.P.C. under the guise of revisional power. If the cases of this nature are allowed to be entertained under Section 115 C.P.C., it would amount to eclipsing Section 102 C.P.C., which aims the curtailment of Second appeal, in the sense, prolonged litigation. Where the subject matter is less than Rs.25,000/-, the High Court invoking Section 115 C.P.C., if maintains the revision, it would amount to second appeal under the label of Civil Revision Petition, thereby allowing the parties, to file second appeal, indirectly, ignoring Section 102, thereby defeating the intention of the legislature, which should not be allowed. In this view of the matter, I am of the considered opinion, the revision petition under Section 115 is not maintainable.

14.The learned counsel for the petitioner realising this difficulty alone, as aforementioned, has filed a memo for the conversion of Cr.P.C. under Section 227 Cr.P.C. which is permissible. In Sadhana Lodh v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2003 (3) SCC 524=2003-1-L.W.815), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held, when alternative remedy is available, interference under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, is not permissible. It is observed:

> "Where a statutory right to file an appeal has been provided for, it is not open to High Court to entertain a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution. Even if where a remedy by way of an appeal has not been provided for against the order and judgment of a District Judge, the remedy available to the aggrieved person is to file a revision before the High Court under Section 115 C.P.C. Where remedy for filing a revision before the High Court under Section 115 CPC has been expressly barred by a State enactment, only in such case a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution would lie and not under Article 226 of the Constitution."

15. In this view, it is held, where a remedy for filing a revision petition under Section 115 is barred in such cases, petition under article 227 of the Constitution of India, is maintainable. In this view, this petition could be treated, as one filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, and not under Section 115 C.P.C.,"

17. In the circumstances, in view of the above position of law explained and described in K.CHOCKALINGAM vs. K.R.RAMASAMY IYER AND ANOTHER [2004 (4) L.W.586], I am preferred to follow CHOCKALINGAM (supra).

18. Thus, the leave now sought for could be granted to convert the second appeal as a Civil Revision Petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India."

15. In Uttam Chand & Anr. versus Gulab Chand Narendra Kumar & Ors. 2013 (2) Raj LW 1298, the Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court in a suit filed for recovery of Rs. 10,000/- held that the second appeal is prohibited or specifically barred under Section 102 of the Code, then it cannot be said that no appeal is provided against the judgment thereby invoking jurisdiction under Section 115 of CPC because if cases of this nature are allowed to be entertained, it would amount to eclipsing Section 102 CPC which specifically aims at ending the litigation in view of the pecuniary quantum involved in the cause and revision petition under Section 115 of Code to be not maintainable. It was held:-

> "3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that if error of law is committed by both the Courts below and under Sec. 102 restriction is imposed upon filing second appeal in terms that no second appeal shall lie from any decree, when subject-matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs. 25,000/-, therefore, the only course is left with the petitioner to challenge the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court and affirmed by the appellate Court by way of filing revision petition because illegality and perversity can be seen while exercising jurisdiction under Sec. 115, C.P.C. Therefore, this revision petition is maintainable.
> 4. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the petitioner invited my attention towards judgment reported in, SUNDERLAL v. PARAMSUKHDAS, 1968 AIR(SC) 366 and submits that if no appeal lay, then, revision would be competent and High Court was right in entertaining the revision if the appellate Court below appears to have exceeded the jurisdiction vested in it or it acted with material irregularity in exercise of its jurisdiction. Learned counsel for the petitioner further invited my attention towards, Sadhna Lodh vs. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2003 3 SCC 524 and submits that this revision petition is maintainable.

5. After hearing learned counsel for the petitioner. I have perused the pleadings of this case.

This revision petition has been filed under Sec. 115, C.P.C. against the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court and affirmed by the first appellate Court for recovery of Rs.10,000/-, Section 102, C.P.C., provides that no second appeal lies from any decree, when the subject-matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs.25,000/-; meaning thereby, although second appeal is permissible but the legislature with open eyes put a restriction under Sec. 102, C.P.C. so that matter should come to an end, therefore, it is specifically provided that notwithstanding there being appeal provision under Sec. 100, C.P.C., when the subject-matter of the original suit is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs.10,000/-, then, such second appeal shall not lie. In the opinion of this Court, the legislature in its wisdom has curtailed the right of filing second appeal by way of putting above restriction on the point of pecuniary limit of the cause. Therefore, even if any substantial question of law is involved, no second appeal shall lie against the judgment and decree if the initial suit was filed for recovery of money less than Rs. 25,000/-, If it is the intention of the legislature, then, of course, it can be said that petitioner cannot invoke jurisdiction of this Court under Sec. 115, C.P.C. because such invocation of the revisional jurisdiction will render the specific provision of Sec. 102 to nullity which is not permissible. Under Sec. 115, C.P.C. the legality and propriety as well as perversity can be seen, so also, while exercising jurisdiction of second appeal the appeal can be admitted upon substantial question of law. Both are peri meteria, therefore, a revision petition tiled under Sec. 115, C.P.C. is not maintainable.

Here, in this case, recovery of suit was filed by the petitioner for Rs.10.000/- and second appeal is prohibited or specifically barred under Sec. 102, C.P.C. Therefore, it cannot be said that no appeal is provided against the judgment thereby to invoke jurisdiction under Sec. 115, C.P.C. because if cases of this nature are allowed to be entertained it would amount to eclipsing Sec. 102, C.P.C. which specifically aims at ending the litigation in view of the pecuniary quantum involved in the cause. In this view of the matter, this revision petition under Sec. 115, C.P.C. is not maintainable.

Consequently, this revision petition is hereby dismissed as not maintainable."

16. In Liaqat Ali versus State of U.P. 2014 Law Suit (All) 1130, the Hon'ble Allahabad High Court declined to convert a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India by observing that what was forbidden by law could not be permitted by invoking extraordinary remedy and that too in a petty matter involving dispute of not more than Rs. 25,000/-. The relevant observations read thus:-

"2. Petitioner filed a suit for recovery of Rs.22,685.72. The suit was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 31.8.2010. The appeal was also dismissed on 17.5.2013. The petitioner thereafter preferred second appeal and the same was dismissed as not maintainable in view of Section 102 C.P.C. Thus, the petition has invoked writ jurisdiction of this Court.

3. The right to appeal is a statutory right. Once the said right has been availed and the matter becomes conclusive between the parties, as no further appeal is provided, the same cannot be permitted to be re-opened by invoking writ jurisdiction.

4. The purpose of writ jurisdiction is to provide a remedy where there is none to undo injustice, but where the statutory remedy provided is availed and is exhausted the recourse to writ jurisdiction is limited and discretionary.

5. It is well settled that in exercise of extra ordinary jurisdiction the courts should not enter into academic issues or in realm of affairs which are petty and for correcting errors in the judgments unless it results in grave injustice.

6. It is a cardinal principle of law that there must be an end to litigation. Therefore, where a judgment of the court below has been subjected to scrutiny in appeal there may not be any further judicial review of the same. If it is so permitted, it would mean that a party has unlimited right to keep agitating the matter until and unless it is decided in his favour. This cannot be the intention of law.

7. In Mahendra Singh Vs. Haqimuddin, 2008 10 ADJ 182 in similar situation, where the second appeal was not found to be maintainable in view of Section 102 C.P.C., I have refused permission to convert it into a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution for the reason that what is forbidden in law cannot be permitted by invoking extra ordinary remedy and that too in a petty matter involving dispute of not more than Rs.25,000/-.

8. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, in order to set at rest the controversy and to end the litigation between the parties, I refrain myself from exercising the writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

17. In Civil Revision No.3330 of 2014 titled as Rajesh versus Bharat Lal Bhargava, decided on 11.02.2016, the Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court after taking into consideration the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Madras High Court in K. Chockalingam (supra) and taking into consideration the amended provisions of Section 102 CPC held that mere filing of revision petition in lieu of filing second appeal does not make out a case for maintainability of the matter before the High Court and likewise filing of a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is just to frustrate the very object of such a legislation and the same was not permissible. It is apt to reproduce paras 2 to 5 which read thus:-

"2. Relevant facts of the case that respondent/plaintiff had filed suit for recovery of Rs.18,897/- and the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Rewari decreed the said suit. Present petitioner filed first appeal against the said judgment & decree and the same was dismissed by the Court below on 28.1.2014. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the said findings of both the Courts below are erroneous and are liable to be set aside.

3. Learned counsel for the respondent raised objection that as per Section 102 CPC, present petition, being second appeal in a suit for recovery of an amount not exceeding Rs.25,000/-, is not maintainable.

4. While arguing on this point, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that present case is a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and not the second appeal and the same is not maintainable. In support of his arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the view taken by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in case Om Parkash v. Sardha Ram (Civil Revision No.2793 of 2012, decided on 31.8.2012). On the same point, reliance was placed upon the judgment from Madras High Court in case K.Chockalingam v. K.R.Ramasamy Iyes and Jenbagam, 2004 4 LW 586 (Madras).

5. This Court has considered the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the view taken by the coordinate Bench of this Court in Om Parkash's case and also by the Madras High Court in K.Chockalingam's case and of the view that as per amended provisions of Section 102 CPC, there is a complete bar for second appeal in a suit for recovery of amount involving less than Rs.25,000/-. Merely filing of revision petition in lieu of filing of second appeal does not make out a case for maintainability of the matter before this Court. The very object of incorporating such an amendment in the Code of Civil Procedure is to bring an end to litigation involving petty matter and there being no dispute that the matter in controversy is based on a suit for recovery of money not exceeding Rs.25,000/- and legislature has already enacted the provisions while being conscious that there should be no second appeal in such like suits for recovery of money not exceeding Rs.25,000/-. Filing of petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is just to frustrate the very object of such a legislation which is not permissible."

18. Similar issue came up for consideration before a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court (Justice Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge) in Civil Revision No. 58 of 2009 titled as Managing Director H.P. State Cooperative Marketing & Consumer Federation Ltd(Him Fed), District Shimla versus Sh. Rajinder Singh and Civil Revision No.59 of 2009 titled as Managing Director H.P. State Cooperative Marketing & Consumer Federation Ltd(Him Fed), District Shimla versus Sh.Sita Ram, decided on 30.03.2016, wherein it was held that this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction can look into the correctness, legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned and it was held as under:-

"9. The defendant has assailed the judgment and decree passed by both Courts below in this petition as in view of the provisions contained under Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no second appeal lies from any decree, when the subject matter of the original suit for recovery of money not exceeds to Rs.25, 0000/-.

10. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment and decree has been questioned on the grounds inter-alia that both the Courts have erroneously ignored the provisions contained under Sections 76 of the H.P. Co-operative Societies Act and resumed the jurisdiction not vested with them while decreeing the suit. The legal objections were raised and demonstrated but the decree has been passed in complete departure to the objections so raised and, as such, has vitiated the findings recorded by the Courts below. Since a specific issue was framed for maintainability of the suit on the basis of the pleadings of the parties, the same otherwise should have been decided being legal in nature.

11. Mr. K.D.Sood, learned Senior Advocate has strenuously contended that the findings recorded by both the Courts below are vitiated on account of the failure of both Courts below to decide issue No.2 qua maintainability of the suit after taking into consideration the pleadings of the parties and also relevant provisions of law. It has therefore been urged that the suit could not have been decreed.

12. On the other hand, Mr. Y.P.Sood ,learned counsel has contended that there being no iota of evidence to show that the transaction i.e. supply of 18 bags of apple to defendant society is touching its constitution, management or the business is not proved. Both the Courts below have rightly answered the controversy on issue No.2 against the defendant.

13. According to Mr. Sood, learned counsel, the defendant had merely collected the apple crop of the food growers of Rohru area in its collection centre Hanstari for and on behalf of the State Government and as such neither was conducting any business nor the dispute in the present lis touches the constitution, management or the business of the defendant society.

14. For the sake of convenience Section 76 of the Act is being reproduced as follows:-

> Notice necessary in suits:- No suit shall be instituted against a society or any of its officers in respect of any act touching the constitution, management or the business of the society, until the expiration of two months after notice in writing has been delivered to the Registrar or left at his office, stating the cause of action, the name, description and place of residence of the plaintiff and the relief which he claims; and the plaint shall contain a statement that such notice has been so delivered or left.
> Notwithstanding anything contained in section 72 a suit cannot be instituted against a society or any of its officers (concerning the constitution, management or business of the society) unless two months period has expired after notice in writing has been delivered to the Registrar, stating the cause of action. The object is to save the societies from unnecessary involvement in litigation and further to apprise the Registrar of the prospective disputes in which the society would be a party.
> 15. Now coming to the given facts and circumstances, as per own case of the plaintiff, he has supplied his 18 bags of apple under Market Intervention Scheme for sale at Hanstari in the collection centre of defendant society. Therefore, it is amply clear that the apple bags were supplied to the defendant society in the discharge of its business activity under the market intervention scheme. In preliminary objection, the defendant society has raised a specific objection qua maintainability of the suit for want of service of notice under Section 76 of the Act, and issue was also framed in this regard. The controversy under issue No.2 is legal in nature and the same should have been answered after taking into consideration the pleadings of the parties and in view of the own case of the plaintiff, as discussed supra. No other and further evidence was required to be adduced to substantiate the same. In replication there is denial simplicitor without any explanation as to how the suit was maintainable without service of notice under Section 76 of the Act. Therefore, the only inescapable conclusion would be that both the Courts below have failed to decide issue No.2 in accordance with law which has vitiated the findings as recorded and as such, the judgment and decree being perverse deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Otherwise also on merits, there seems to be no quarrel between the parties on both sides.
> 16. In the exercise of revisional jurisdiction, this Court can look into the question as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned."

19. From what has been observed above, it would be noticed that the law on the subject is not at all consistent. As regards this Court, the learned Single Judge in Subhadra Devi, Mohan Lal's cases (supra) has clearly held that Article 227 of the Constitution cannot be used as a means to circumvent the bar to filing of an appeal envisaged under Section 102 of the Code and once this is a creation of the statute and if the statue prohibits filing of an appeal, the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be invoked in normal course. However, another learned Single Judge in Managing Director's case (supra) has held that this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code can look into the correctness, legality and propriety of any decision or order impugned.

20. It would be noticed that in majority of the cases, the Courts for invoking jurisdiction under Article 227 have relied upon a decision rendered by Hon'ble two Judges' Bench in Surya Dev Rai versus Ram Chander Rai and others (2003) 6 SCC 675 which admittedly has been partly over-ruled and diluted by the Hon'ble three Judges' Bench in Radhey Shyam and another versus Chhabi Nath and others (2015) 5 SCC 423 wherein it has been held that all the Courts in the jurisdiction of a High Court are subordinate and subject to its control and supervision under Article 227 of Constitution. Therefore, control of working of the subordinate Courts in dealing with their judicial orders is exercised by statutory appeal and revisional powers and power of superintendence under Article 227 and not by way of writ petition under Article 226 while the appellate or revisional jurisdiction is regulated by powers under Article 227 of the Constitution. It was further held that despite curtailment of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 CPC, the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 227 remains unaffected and has not resulted in expanding High Court's powers of superintendence.

21. Lastly, it was held that judicial orders of the Civil Court were not amenable to writ jurisdiction under Article 226 and challenge to judicial orders would lie by way of statutory appeal or revision or under Article 227. There can be no gainsaying that though the powers of superintendence under Article 227 are wide enough, yet they are only supervisory in nature. The powers under this Article cannot, therefore, be exercised to interfere with an order, if the order made by the subordinate Court or Tribunal is within bounds, or in conformity with law. However, the powers of superintendence can be invoked to remove a patent perversity in an order of the Court subordinate to the High Court or where there has been a gross or manifest failure of justice or the basic principles of natural justice have been flouted. Yet, still the High Court cannot interfere with mere error of law or fact because another view than the one taken by the subordinate Court too is possible.

22. The main object of Article 227 is to keep strict and judicial control by the High Court on the administration of justice within its territory and to ensure that the wheels of justice do not come to a halt and the foundation of justice remain pure and pristine in order to maintain public confidence in the functioning of the Courts subordinate to the High Court.

23. Thus, this Court has no difficulty in concurring with the view expressed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Subhadra Devi, Mohan Lal's cases (supra) whereby it has been held that the provisions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India cannot be used as a means to circumvent the bar to filing of an appeal, yet the powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India can always be exercised where the judgment or order challenged is totally illegal or perverse. However, while exercising such powers under Article 227 of the Constitution, the High Court shall have to bear in mind the principles as laid down in Surya Dev Rai and Chhabi Nath cases (supra). However, this Court expresses its inability to concur with the ratio as laid down by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Managing Director's case (supra) wherein it was observed that in exercise of revisional jurisdiction, this Court can look into the question as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned.

24. A second appeal is not maintainable in the present case in view of Section 102 of the Code which has already been quoted above. Section 102 was substituted by the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act 1999 (Act 46 of 1999) wherein the amendment sought to be introduced was as follows:-

> "102. No second appeal in certain cases:- No second appeal shall lie from any decree, when the amount or value of the subject matter of the original suit does not exceed twenty-five thousand rupees."

25. Subsequently, by the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act 2002 (Act 22 of 2002) which came into force on 01.07.2002, the amendment proposed to be effected by Act 46 of 1999 was substituted with the present Section 102. As per the amendment of Act 1999, irrespective of the nature of the suit, no Second Appeal would lie against the decision in a suit where the value of the subject matter is below Rs. 25,000/-. By the amendment introduced by Act 22 of 2002, the bar under Section 102 is limited to suits where the subject matter is for recovery of money not exceeding twenty five thousand rupees. It was pursuant to the Law Commission 145th report that the amendment was carried out in Section 102 of the Code in order to ensure that trivial matters or petty claims where the money spent on litigation is far excess of the stakes involved do not enter the Courts which besides wasting the valuable time and energy of the parties, but also of the Court.

26. This was so observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nagarpalika Thakurdwara versus Khalil Ahmed & Ors. JT 2016 (9) SC 425, the relevant observations read thus:-

> "14. The purpose behind enactment of Section 102 of the CPC is to reduce the quantum of litigation so that courts may not have to waste time where the stakes are very meagre and not of much consequence. In the instant case, though apparently the amount which was sought to be recovered was Rs.11,006.07, looking at the prayer made in the plaint, the consequences of the final outcome of the litigation would be far-reaching."

27. A Second Appeal is maintainable only on a substantial question of law as provided under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure. A Revision under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure lies where the subordinate court appears to have exercised jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or to have failed to exercise jurisdiction so vested; or to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity. The question is whether the High Court would be entitled to entertain a Civil Revision Petition, in a case where a Second Appeal is barred under section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, on any ground which is less rigorous than that provided in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

28. Even in matters where the valuation exceed Rs. 25,000/-, a second appeal could be entertained only on a substantial question of law. When Section 102 provides that no second appeal would lie in respect of a suit where the subject matter is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs. 25,000/-, it cannot be assumed the Parliament thought it fit to take such category of cases out of the rigour of Section 100 and to provide a less rigorous remedy in such cases. If so, it is to be taken that a revision under Section 115 cannot be entertained on a ground which is less rigorous than that provided in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

29. The purpose of substituting Section 102 C.P.C. was to restrict entertaining Second Appeals in cases where the subject matter of the suit is for recovery of money not exceeding Rs. 25,000/-. The purpose sought to be achieved cannot be defeated by entertaining a revision under section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure on a less rigorous test than that provided in Section 100 C.P.C.

30. Section 115 of CPC reads thus:-

> "115. Revision.-[(1) The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decided by any court subordinate to such High Court and in which no appeal lies thereto, and if such subordinate court appears—
> (a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or
> (b) to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or
> (c) to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity,
>
> the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit:—
> [PROVIDED that the High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings.]
> (2) The High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any decree or order against which an appeal lies either to the High Court or to any court subordinate thereto.
> (3) A revision shall not operate as a stay of suit or other proceeding before the Court except where such suit or other proceeding is stayed by the High Court.]

[Explanation .- In this section, the expression "any case which has been decided" includes any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding.]"

31. In addition to the aforesaid, it would be noticed that Section 115 of the Code does not refer to a decree and further provides that revision can be invoked where no appeal lies against the impugned order/judgment. There is a marked difference as regards an order or judgment against which no appeal lies and the judgment or order against which an appeal is prohibited or restricted by the Code.

32. Under Section 115 CPC, the legality and propriety as well as perversity can be seen, so also, while exercising jurisdiction of second appeal, appeal can be admitted only on substantial questions of law. The scope of both these provisions is quite similar and, therefore, the petitioners cannot invoke jurisdiction of this Court under Section 115 CPC because such invocation of revisional jurisdiction will render the specific provision of Section 102 of the Code to be otiose which is not permissible.

33. Accordingly, with all humility at my command, I regret my inability to concur with the view expressed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Managing Director's case (supra). In view of this difference, it is necessary for me to refer the matter to a larger Bench. Even otherwise, the issue is of great importance and the views expressed by the different High Courts on the question are otherwise not consistent and it is desirable that an authoritative pronouncement be made by a larger Bench.

34. At this stage, I may observe that though I have concurred with the exposition of law as propounded by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Subhadra Devi, Mohan Lal's cases (supra), however, since the matter is being referred to a larger Bench, it may also consider the desirability of going into the question of maintainability of the petition under Article 227 of the Constitution in cases where the second appeal against the judgment and decree is specifically barred under Section 102 of the Code.

35. In view of the conflict in decision, the Registry is directed to place the papers before Hon'ble the Chief Justice for constituting a larger Bench.

The learned counsel for the revisionist submits that since the complainant in the instant case has since died yet with the provisions engrafted in Section 320 4(b) of the Cr.P.C bestowing upon his legal heir(s) whom he states at the bar to be his widow qua hers thereupon holding the statutory competence to compound the relevant offences. The relevant provisions of Section 320 4(b) of the Cr.P.C stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "4(b). When the person who would otherwise be competent to compound an offence under this Section is dead, the legal representative, as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 (5 of 1908) of such person may, with the consent of the Court compound such offence."

4. The offences qua which a concurrent order of conviction stood pronounced upon the accused/convict is compoundable yet the accused/convict and the legal heir of the complainant while endeavouring to seek composition of the offences whereupon an order of conviction stood concurrently pronounced upon the accused/convict, are enjoined to obtain the permission of this Court.

5. Be that as it may, this Court would proceed to accord the apposite permission to them only when satiation stands begotten qua the relevant principles encapsulated in the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Ramji Lal and another Vs. State of Haryana, 1983(1) SCC 368, Mohd. Rafi vs. State of U.P., 1998(2) R.C.R.(Criminal 455, M.D.Balan Mian and another vs. State of Bihar and another 2001 AIR (SCW) 5190, Khursheed and another vs. State of U.P in Appeal (Crl.) No. 1302 of 2007, Dasan vs. State of Kerala and another 2014(2) ECrC 384. The aforestated pronouncements of the Hon'ble Apex Court empower Courts of law to proceed to permit the accused/convict and the informant/complainant to enter into a compromise also empower the Court concerned to grant the apposite permission to them for compounding the offence(s) only on vivid display occurring qua its facilitating restoration of harmony in society besides its promoting goodwill and amity amongst them.

6. Since the accused/convict and the LR of the complainant in their respective statements recorded on oath reduced into writing and respectively signatured/thumb marked by them echo therein qua their apposite conjoint endeavour intending to promote goodwill and peace amongst them necessarily hence the aforesaid principle encapsulated in the aforereferred judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court for thereupon this Court holding a facilitation to permit them to compound the offences whereupon the accused stood concurrently convicted by both the Courts below stands visibly satiated.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Dharam Prakash .....Appellant/Petitioner.

Versus

Neela Devi .....Respondent.

FAO No. 357 of 2016.
Reserved on : 17.11.2016.
Decided on: 25th November, 2016.

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955- Section 13- The marriage between the parties was solemnized in the year 1997 – the wife used to leave her matrimonial home and reside in her parental home – the wife is totally incapacitated from performing sexual intercourse due to structural defect – the petition was dismissed by the Trial Court- held in appeal that husband admitted that wife had resided with him for 8 years – the version that the husband found the medical prescription slip was also not established – the petition was rightly dismissed by the Trial Court- appeal dismissed.(Para-7 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Anupinder Rohal, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Ms. Monika Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed against the judgment rendered by the learned District Judge (Forest), Shimla, H.P. on 30.04.2016 in H.M.A. Petition No. 22-S/3 of 2013/12, whereby, the petition aforesaid constituted therebefore by the petitioner/appellant herein stood dismissed.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the marriage inter se the contesting parties hereat stood solemnized in the year 1997 at Village Sandoa, PO Dharogra, Tehsil Suni, District Shimla, H.P. After the solemnization of the marriage, the parties to the petition lived as husband and wife at village Sandoa for some time, but the respondent used to leave the house of the petitioner very frequently and preferred to reside in the house of her parents. The marriage could not be consummated owing to the impotency of the respondent and no child has born from the marriage between the parties. The respondent is total incapacitated for accomplishing the act of sexual intercourse and the cause of impotency of the respondent is malformation and structural defect of her vagina. The respondent was impotent at the time of the marriage till the institution of the present proceedings. There has been no unnecessary or improper delay in filing the petition. The mother of the petitioner died on 5.8.2011 and the petitioner came to know the fact of the impotency of the respondent recently in the first week of this month when he was doing work of cleaning etc., in his house and found a medical prescription slip of the respondent from the trunk of his mother and thereafter consulted the Doctors and obtained the opinion of the Doctor and thus filed the present petition. Hence, there is no unnecessary and improper delay in filing the present petition.

3. The petition for divorce instituted by the petitioner/appellant herein before the learned District Judge concerned stood contested by the respondent herein by hers instituting reply thereto wherein she controverted all the allegations constituted against her in the apposite petition by the appellant herein.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the marriage between the parties has not been consummated owing to the imptency of the respondent?...OPP
2. Whether this petition is not maintainable? OPR
3. Whether the petition is barred by limitation? OPR
4. Whether the petitioner is estopped from filing the present petition on account of his own act, deed, conduct, acquiescence etc.?....OPR
5. Whether the petitioner has concealed the material facts? OPR
6. Relief.

5. The trite factum whereupon an adjudication stands enjoined to be pronounced is qua the petitioner by adducing cogent evidence hence succeeding in proving the relevant issue qua the respondent herein suffering from a congenital sexual deformity whereupon he stood precluded to successfully consummate his marriage with the respondent herein. In other words, evidence emphatically pronouncing upon the sexual incapacity of the respondent to hold coitus with the petitioner stands enjoined to be unearthed from the material as exists here-before. Uncontrovertedly, the marital spouses entered into wedlock in the year 1997. The petitioner/appellant herein avers besides testifies qua since thereat up to now on account of the purported apposite sexual incapacity of the respondent herein both not holding coitus. However, he canvasses qua on the dissuasive advice of his parents, his not in quick promptitude of his detecting the apposite physical deformity of the respondent herein instituting on ground aforesaid, a petition for dissolution of his marital ties with the respondent herein. The effect of the aforesaid imprompt institution of the apposite petition by the petitioner on the ground of the respondent herein not holding the befitting sexual capacity to hold coitus with him, would stand pronounced hereafter. Hereat the veracity of the relevant allegations testified by the petitioner in his examination-in-chief vis-a-vis the respondent herein, is enjoined to be tested. The veracity of the relevant allegations testified by the petitioner/appellant herein in his examination-in-chief stand eroded of their truth arising from the factum of his in his cross-examination acquiescing qua the respondent herein living with him upto eight years since theirs solemnizing marriage yet theirs living in separate rooms. Also with his acquiescing to the suggestion put to him in his cross-examination by the counsel appearing for the respondent qua the latter not standing encumbered with any physical defect rather she being fully potent besides his acquiescing to the relevant suggestion put to him in his cross-examination by the learned counsel for the respondent while holding him to cross-examination qua the reason for no child standing begotten from their wedlock arising from his omission to hold coitus with the respondent herein, ultimately, his acquiescing qua the respondent being a female omnibusly, blunts the vigour of his testification held in his examination-in-chief wherein he imputes qua the respondent qua hers suffering from a sexual deformity, whereupon, their wedlock did not beget consummation.

6. Be that as it may, the petitioner has testified qua on occurrence of demise of his mother on 5.8.2011, whereat when he while cleaning the house, he discovered a prescription slip from the trunk of his mother, whereafter, he consulted the doctor who purveyed an opinion qua the respondent herein being unfit to hold coitus with him, whereupon, he canvasses qua his thereupon holding the apposite evidence for seeking annulment of his marital ties with the respondent herein. However, the testification of the petitioner qua his discovering the medical prescription slip on 5.8.2011, whereafter, he proceeded to consult the doctor concerned, who purveyed to him an opinion qua the unbefitting sexual capacity of the respondent herein to hold coitus with him appears to be sheer invention besides a concoction of the petitioner/appellant herein, inference whereof spurs from the factum of his echoing in his cross-examination qua his not visiting the doctor whereupon it is to be concomitantly concluded qua obviously his hence not consulting the doctor qua the manifestations occurring in the relevant purported prescription slip. The vice of falsity qua the factum aforesaid when construed in coagulation with the effect of the aforesaid acquiescence(s) made by him in his cross-examination, holding loud unveilings qua his conceding to the factum of the respondent herein not standing entailed with any physical deformity for hence hers standing precluded to perform coitus with him negates in its entirety, the entire assay of the petitioner herein comprised in his examination-in-chief wherein he in discharge of the onus qua the relevant trite issue, has testified in consonance therewith. Also the effect of his omitting to examine the doctor concerned, who purportedly purveyed him an opinion qua the manifestations held in the medical prescription slip, pronouncing upon her unbefitting sexual capacity, constrains an inference of it not holding any tenacity nor any probative sinew for thereupon this Court standing prodded to accord the relief as stands canvassed in the apposite petition.

7. Be that as it may, with the petitioner testifying in his examination-in-chief qua his detecting the relevant defect in the respondent herein in quick succession to their marriage standing solemnized, yet his on dissuasive advise of his parents his omitting to thereat institute a petition for dissolution of their marital ties when is in rife conflict with his testifying qua on his on 5.8.2011 discovering the medical prescription slip holding disclosures therein qua the respondent herein standing entailed with a physical deformity whereupon she stood purportedly forbidden to hold coitus with him factum whereof for reasons stated herein-above standing concluded to be seeped in an entrenched vice of falsity besides when it imperatively stands reared as a stratagem to purportedly explain the omission on the part of the petitioner/appellant herein to in quick promptitude of his promptly discovering the relevant defect in the respondent herein attracts qua the relevant delay besides qua the relevant omission, the statutory bar held in Section 23 of the Hindu Marriage Act (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'), the relevant provisions whereof read as under:

> "23. (a) xxx xxx
> (b) xxx xxx
> (c) xxx xxx
> (d) there has not been any unnecessary or improper delay in instituting the proceeding; and
> (e) there is no other legal ground why relief should not be granted then and in such a case, but not otherwise, the court shall decree such relief accordingly."

Clause (d) to Section 23 of the Act inhibits Courts of law seized with a Hindu Marriage Petition its grant the apposite relief canvassed therein on evident upsurgings holding unravelments qua unnecessary or improper delay standing begotten in the initiation of the relevant proceedings before the Court concerned. Reiteratedly, with there is a visible apparent delay since 1997 whereat the relevant defect in the respondent herein stood evidently for reasons aforestated detected by the appellant herein upto the stage of institution of the instant petition, corollary whereof is qua the statutory bar constituted in clause (d) of Section 23 of the Act standing squarely attracted qua the petitioner/appellant herein whereupon it warrants its dismissal.

8. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein has canvassed qua the disaffirmative order pronounced by the learned trial Court on his application instituted therebefore under Section 151 of the CPC read with Section 122 and 114 of the Indian Evidence Act with a prayer held herein for constitution of a medical board for ascertaining the factum of the gender of the respondent herein besides for ascertaining the ability of respondent herein to perform coitus with the appellant herein, suffering from an inherent fallibility significantly when it would have clinched the relevant trite issue. However, the order refusing grant of the apposite relief aforesaid as stood canvassed therein by the petitioner is not imbued with any legal fallacy, inference whereof sprouts from the factum of his anvilling his relief on prescription slip mark 'X', prescription slip whereof for reasons aforestated stands seeped in an entrenched vice of falsity, reiteratedly it visibly stands stained with a vice of fictitiousness, inference of fictitiousness gripping it, is erectable for want of the appellant herein/petitioner examining its authour despite his purportedly canvassing qua his visiting him whereupon he unfolded to him qua the relevant physical defect gripping the respondent herein also when for reasons aforestated the petitioner acquiesces to the feminity of the respondent herein rather his conceding qua the reason of no child standing begotten from their wedlock standing anchored upon his not accessing his wife, the respondent herein. Crucially also when this Court has herein-above pronounced qua the statutory bar encapsulated in clause (d) of Section 23 of the Act standing squarely attracted vis-a-vis the appellant herein, the endeavour of the appellant herein/petitioner to through the aforesaid application to assert an affirmative relief thereon appears to be belated besides a premeditated assay on his part. Also assuming if he held any tenacity in getting an affirmative pronouncement thereon, tenacity thereof gets eroded in the trite factum of his acquiescing qua the respondent's espousal qua his in quick spontaneity of their entering into a wedlock his despite thereat discovering the relevant defect yet his on the purported persuasive dissuasive advice of his parents not thereat instituting the apposite petition for dissolution of his marital ties with the respondent herein ground whereof meted by him loses its veracity by his belatedly relying upon an engineered Ext.PX whereupon hence as aforestated the statutory bar constituted in clause (d) of Section 23 of the Act stands squarely attracted qua him also thereupon it appears qua the defect, if any, which may grip the respondent herein being not congenital.

9. For the foregoing reasons, this Court finds no merit in the instant appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. Consequently, the judgment and decree impugned before this Court is maintained and affirmed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Decided on: 25.11.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Offending vehicle was a JCB, which was being driven by the driver in a rash and negligent manner – JCB falls within the definition of motor vehicle – the unladen weight of JCB was 7460 kg. and falls within the definition of light motor vehicle – there is no requirement of PSV endorsement – JCB falls within the definition of non-transport vehicle – insurer had failed to plead and prove that there was violation of the terms and conditions of the policy – the insurance is admitted – therefore, insurer was wrongly absolved of the liability – appeal allowed and insurer saddled with liability. For the respondents: Nemo for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. R.G. Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.
Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate, for respondent No. 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 19th May, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II Shimla, H.P., Camp at Rohru (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No. 35-R/2 of 2008, titled as Meera Devi and others versus Sanjeev Kumar and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 6,45,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization alongwith costs of litigation assessed at ₹ 5,000/- came to be awarded in favour of the claimants, respondents No. 1 to 3 in the claim petition, i.e. the contractor, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle, were saddled with liability and insurer came to be exonerated (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants, contractor and the insurer of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Appellants/owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have called in question the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. The only question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the Tribunal has rightly exonerated the insurer from its liability? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

5. Admittedly, the offending vehicle was a JCB, bearing registration No. HP-16A-0365 which was being driven by its driver, namely Shri Sanjeev Kumar, rashly and negligently, at the time of the accident, i.e. on 25th October, 2007, at Shilapani-Mundidhar road, due to which deceased-Visheshar Singh sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries.

6. This Court in FAO (MVA) No. 247 of 2009, titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Sharda Devi and others, decided on 8th January, 2016, while relying upon the various judgments rendered by the Apex Court and other High Courts, has held that JCB is a motor vehicle.

7. As per the registration certificate, Ext. RW-1/A, the unladen weight of the offending vehicle, i.e. JCB, is 7460 kilograms, thus, falls within the definition of 'light motor vehicle' in terms of Section 2 (21) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for short 'MV Act'.

8. A Division Bench of the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir at Srinagar, of which I (Justice Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice) was a member, in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Muhammad Sidiq Kuchey & ors., being LPA No. 180 of 2002, decided on 27th September, 2007, has discussed this issue and held that a driver having licence to drive "LMV" requires no "PSV" endorsement. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of the judgment herein:

> "The question now arises as to whether the driver who possessed driving licence for driving abovementioned vehicles, could he drive a passenger vehicle? The answer, I find, in the judgment passed by this court in case titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Irfan Sidiq Bhat, 2004 (II) SLJ 623, wherein it is held that Light Motor Vehicle includes transport vehicle and transport vehicle includes public service vehicle and public service vehicle includes any motor vehicle used or deemed to be used for carriage of passengers. Further held, that the authorization of having PSV endorsement in terms of Rule 41 (a) of the Rules is not required in the given circumstances. It is profitable to reproduce paras 13 and 17 of the judgment hereunder:-

> "13. A combined reading of the above provisions leaves no room for doubt that by virtue of licence, about which there is no dispute, both Showkat Ahamd and Zahoor Ahmad were competent in terms of section 3 of the Motor Vehicles Act to drive a public service vehicle without any PSV endorsement and express authorization in terms of rule 4(1)(a) of the State Rules. In other words, the requirement of the State Rules stood satisfied.
> 17. In the case of Mohammad Aslam Khan (CIMA no. 87 of 2002) Peerzada Noor-ud-Din appearing as witness on behalf of Regional Transport Officer did say on recall for further examination that PSV endorsement on the licence of Zahoor Ahmad was fake. In our opinion, the fact that the PSV endorsement on the licence was fake is not at all material, for, even if the claim is considered on the premise that there was no PSV endorsement on the licence, for the reasons stated above, it would not materially affect the claim. By virtue of "C to E" licence Showkat Ahmad was competent to drive a passenger vehicle. In fact, there is no separate definition of passenger vehicle or passenger service vehicle in the Motor Vehicles Act. They come within the ambit of public service vehicle under section 2(35). A holder of driving licence with respect to "light Motor Vehicle" is thus competent to drive any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for carriage of passengers i.e. a public service vehicle."

In the given circumstances of the case PSV endorsement was not required at all."

9. The mandate of Sections 2 and 3 of the MV Act came up for consideration before the Apex Court in a case titled as Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791, and after examining the various provisions of the MV Act held that Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on the driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle, which he intends to drive. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 and 23 of the judgment herein:

> "19. Section 2(2) of the Act defines articulated vehicle which means a motor vehicle to which a semi-trailer is attached; Section 2(34) defines public place; Section 2(44) defines 'tractor' as a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load; Section 2(46) defines `trailer' which means any vehicle, other than a semi- trailer and a side-car, drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Section 3 of the Act provides for necessity for driving license; Section 5 provides for responsibility of owners of the vehicle for contravention of Sections 3 and 4; Section 6 provides for restrictions on the holding of driving license; Section 56 provides for compulsion for having certificate of fitness for transport vehicles; Section 59 empowers the State to fix the age limit of the vehicles; Section 66 provides for necessity for permits to ply any vehicle for any commercial purpose; Section 67 empowers the State to control road transport; Section 112 provides for limits of speed; Sections 133 and 134 imposes a duty on the owners and the drivers of the vehicles in case of accident and injury to a person; Section 146 provides that no person shall use any vehicle at a public place unless the vehicle is insured. In addition thereto, the Motor Vehicle Taxation Act provides for imposition of passenger tax and road tax etc.
> 20. .....

23. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving license for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables the Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licenses for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said Section. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are 'goods carriage', 'heavy goods vehicle', 'heavy passenger motor vehicle', 'invalid carriage', 'light motor vehicle', 'maxi-cab', 'medium goods vehicle', 'medium passenger motor vehicle', 'motor-cab', 'motorcycle', 'omnibus', 'private service vehicle', 'semi- trailer', 'tourist vehicle', 'tractor', 'trailer' and 'transport vehicle'."

10. The Apex Court in another case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 906, has also discussed the purpose of amendments, which were made in the year 1994 and the definitions of 'light motor vehicle', 'medium goods vehicle' and the necessity of having a driving licence. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 14 and 16 of the judgment herein:

"8. Mr. S.N. Bhat, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that the contention raised herein by the appellant has neither been raised before the Tribunal nor before the High Court. In any event, it was urged, that keeping in view the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' as contained in Section 2(21) of the Motor vehicles Act, 1988 ('Act' for short), a light goods carriage would come within the purview thereof.

A 'light goods carriage' having not been defined in the Act, the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' clearly indicates that it takes within its umbrage, both a transport vehicle and a non-transport vehicle.

Strong reliance has been placed in this behalf by the learned counsel in Ashok Gangadhar Maratha vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [1999 (6) SCC 620].

9. .....

10. .....

11. .....

12. .....

13. .....

14. Rule 14 prescribes for filing of an application in Form 4, for a licence to drive a motor vehicle, categorizing the same in nine types of vehicles.

Clause (e) provides for 'Transport vehicle' which has been substituted by G.S.R. 221(E) with effect from 28.3.2001. Before the amendment in 2001, the entries medium goods vehicle and heavy goods vehicle existed which have been substituted by transport vehicle. As noticed hereinbefore, Light Motor Vehicles also found place therein.

15. .....

16. From what has been noticed hereinbefore, it is evident that 'transport vehicle' has now been substituted for 'medium goods vehicle' and 'heavy goods vehicle'. The light motor vehicle continued, at the relevant point of time, to cover both, 'light passenger carriage vehicle' and 'light goods carriage vehicle'.

A driver who had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle, therefore, was authorised to drive a light goods vehicle as well."

11. The Apex Court in the case titled as Kulwant Singh & Ors. versus Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in JT 2014 (12) SC 110, has held that PSV endorsement is not required.

12. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a series of cases.

13. I deem it proper to record herein that in the year 2000, an amendment has taken place in the Central Motor Vehicles Rules, 1989 (for short "MV Rules") and sub-clause (ca) came to be inserted in Rule 2 of the MV Rules. It is apt to reproduce Rule 2 (ca) of the MV Rules herein:

> (ca) "construction equipment vehicle" means rubber tyred, (including pneumatic tyred), rubber padded or steel drum wheel mounted, self-propelled, excavator, loader, backhoe, compactor roller, dumper, motor grader, mobile crane, dozer, fork lift truck, self-loading concrete mixer or any other construction equipment vehicle or combination thereof designed for off-highway operations in mining, industrial undertaking, irrigation and general construction but modified and manufactured with "on or off" or "on and off" highway capabilities.
> Explanation. - A construction equipment vehicle shall be a non-transport vehicle the driving on the road of which is incidental to the main off-highway function and for a short duration at a speed not exceeding 50 kms per hour, but such vehicle does not include other purely off-highway construction equipment vehicle designed and adopted for use in any enclosed premises, factory or mine other than road network, not equipped to travel on public roads on their own power."

14. From the perusal of the said provision of law, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that the construction equipment vehicles have been declared as non-transport vehicles.

15. Having said so, the offending vehicle, i.e. JCB, being a construction equipment vehicle, is a non-transport vehicle.

16. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the relevant point of time.

17. Even otherwise, it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and the owner-insured has committed a willful breach, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus.

18. Accordingly, it is held that the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same at the relevant point of time and the owner-insured has not committed any breach, not to speak of willful breach.

19. The factum of insurance is admitted. Thus, the insurer is saddled with liability.

20. Having said so, the impugned award is modified by holding that the insurer has to satisfy the impugned award.

21. The insurer is directed to deposit the awarded amount within eight weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the same in favour of the claimants strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective accounts.

22. The statutory amount deposited by the appellants be paid to the claimants through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective accounts after proper identification.

23. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

24. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Compensation of Rs. 87,200/- was awarded along with interest @ 7.5% per annum- a sum of Rs. 1 lac awarded in lump sum in addition to the amount already awarded by the Tribunal with the right to recovery. (Para-3 to 4)

For the appellant: Ms. Leena Guleria, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. R.L. Chaudhary, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Nemo for respondent No.2.
Mr. J.S. Bagga, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral).

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 25.6.2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Mandi, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in Claim Petition No.91 of 2001, titled Sh. Manoj Kumar versus Sh. Ganshyam Thakur and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.87,200/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and insurer was directed to satisfy the award at the first instance with right of recovery from the owner-insured, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Owner, driver and insurer have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. On the last date of hearing, learned counsel for respondent No. 3 was asked to seek instructions to pay a lump sum amount of Rs. 1 lacs in addition to the amount already awarded by the Tribunal in terms of paras 23 and 24 of the impugned award. He has sought instructions and stated that the insurance company has not agreed to the said proposal. However, in the facts and circumstances of the case, I deem it proper to award Rs.1 lac, in lump sum, in addition to the amount already awarded by the Tribunal to be paid by the insurer with right of recovery in terms of the impugned award. The insurer is at liberty to move application before the Tribunal for recovery of the entire amount.

4. Let the entire amount alongwith interest, @ 7.5% per annum, as awarded by the Tribunal, be deposited by the insurer within eight weeks from today in the Registry. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in his bank account, after proper verification.

5. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- MACT held that licence was not in the name of respondent No. 2 but renewal was in his name- therefore, respondent No. 2 did not have a valid driving licence- the owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy – insurer was absolved of the liability – held, that it is not the case of the insurer that owner knew the driving licence was not issued in the name of respondent No. 2 and despite this fact he had engaged respondent No. 2 as driver – the vehicle was being plied with all the requisite documents- the insurer directed to satisfy the award. (Para-7 to 14)

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant had suffered 100% disability – he remained admitted in the hospital from the date of accident till discharge – he had spent Rs. 2,28,176/- on medical treatment which is awarded to him- Rs. 2 lac was awarded for future treatment- Rs. 1 lac was awarded for loss of expectation and Rs. 20,000/- awarded for attendant charges- Rs. 15,000/- awarded on account of travelling allowances- the income of the claimant was assessed as Rs. 3200/- per month- injured was 29 years of age at the time of accident and multiplier of 16 is applicable- thus, claimant is entitled to Rs. 3200 x 12 x 16= Rs. 6,14,400/- - Rs. 15,000/- were rightly awarded on account of boarding and lodging at Chandigarh- Rs. 10,000/- awarded on account of physiotherapist – Rs. 50,000/- awarded on account of mental shock – Rs. 1 lac awarded under the head pain and suffering and Rs. 1 lac awarded under the head loss of amenities of life – thus, total compensation of Rs. 14,52,576/- awarded. The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

These appeals are directed against the judgment and award dated 3.7.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Shimla, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MACT No.44-S/2 of 2008, titled Shri Rajinder Singh versus Kripal Singh and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.9,14,400/- alongwith interest @ 6% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and insured-owner was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Both these appeals are outcome of a common award thus; I deem it proper to determine both these appeals by this common judgment.

3. Owner Kripal Singh, by the medium of FAO No. 423 of 2012 has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling him with the liability and claimant Rajinder Singh, by the medium of FAO No. 400 of 2012, has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation, on the grounds taken in their memo of appeals.

4. Claimant being the victim of a vehicular accident, filed claim petition before the tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 30 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on account of the injuries with permanent disability suffered by him in a motor accident which took place on 19.6.2007 due to rash and negligent driving of driver , namely Sat Pal, while driving vehicle No. HP-36-A-0218. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether the petitioner sustained the injuries due to the rash and negligent driving of vehicle No. HP-36-A-0218 by the respondent No. 2 as alleged? OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled to the compensation as claimed. If so, its quantum and from whom? OPP
3. Whether the petitioner has a cause of action? OPP.
4. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form? OPR
5. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding and possessing a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle as alleged. If so, its effect? OPR-3.
6. Whether the vehicle was being plied without fitness certificate and route permit etc. If so, its effect? OPR-3.
7. Whether the petitioner was a gratuitous passenger? OPR-3.
8. Whether the petitioner is estopped from filing the present petition by his act and conduct? OPR-3.
9. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of the parties? OPR-3.
10. Relief.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence oral as well as documentary, decided issue No. 1 in favour of the claimant and against the driver and owner. Driver has not questioned the said findings, are accordingly upheld.

6. The only dispute in these appeals is with respect to issues No. 5 and 6 and partly on issue No. 2.

Issue No.5.

7. The Tribunal in para 15 of the impugned award has held that the insurer has proved that the licence Ex.RW1/A was not in the name of respondent No. 2 but renewal was in his name and accordingly, held that respondent No. 2 was not having a valid and effective driving licence and that the owner has committed willful breach. It is apt to reproduce para 15 of the impugned award herein.

> "15.In this case, the insurance company has successfully proved that no licence Ext. RW1/A with original number from RLA Dehradun has been issued in the name of respondent No.2. The insurance company through its investigator also inquired about the insurance of the licence and it was found that the licence though validly renewed, but the original licence never exists in the name of respondent No.2 The Tribunal is also satisfied that the driver was not having valid driving licence at the time of accident. Hence, issue No. 5 is decided in favour of respondent No. 3 and against respondent No. 1 and 2." [emphasis added]

8. The findings recorded by the Tribunal are factually incorrect for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

9. Driving licence Ext. RW1/A is on the record which does disclose that the renewal was made in the name of respondent No.2. It is not the case of the insurer that the owner was knowing that the driving licence was not issued in the name of respondent No. 2 and despite that he had engaged respondent No.2 as driver. In order to seek exoneration and discharge, the insurer has to plead and prove that the insurer has committed willful breach in terms of the judgment delivered by the apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

"105. .....

(i) .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

10. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, herein:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

11. There is not an iota of evidence to the effect that the owner has committed willful breach. Having said so, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No. 5 are set aside and it is held that the renewal was made in the name of respondent No.2 thus, it cannot be said that he was not having a valid and effective driving licence and that the owner has committed willful breach.

Issue No.6.

12. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the vehicle was being plied without any route permit and fitness certificate, has not led any evidence, thus failed to discharge the onus. However, I have gone through the findings recorded and the documents placed on record which do disclose that the vehicle was being plied with all requisite documents/certificates. Accordingly, findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 6 are set aside.

Issues No. 3,4 and 7 to 9.

13. It was for the insurer to discharge the onus, has failed to discharge. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on these issues are upheld.

14. The factum of insurance is not dispute, Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

FAO No. 400 of 2012.

Issue No.2.

15. The question is-whether the Tribunal has rightly assessed the compensation. The answer is in negative for the following reasons.

16. The appellant became victim of vehicular accident, has suffered 100% disability which is not in dispute. Tribunal has rightly given the details in para 18 of the impugned award how the victim has suffered the disability. But the Tribunal has not awarded compensation for treatment during which he remained admitted in the hospital. Admittedly, the injured was admitted in the hospital right from the date of accident till discharge and has placed on record medical bills Mark 1 to Mark 133 and Ext. P1 to P33 but Tribunal has not awarded any compensation under this head. The Total amount on medical treatment comes to Rs.2,28,176/-. The Tribunal has rightly awarded Rs.2,00,000/-, for future treatment, Rs.1,00,000/- for loss of expectation and Rs.20,000/- for attendant charges. Tribunal has also rightly awarded Rs.15,000/- on account of travelling expenses.

17. The Tribunal has assessed the income of the inured as Rs.3200/- per month. The injured was 29 years of age at the time accident and the multiplier applicable is "16" in view of the 2nd Schedule attached to the Act, read with Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld in Reshma

Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, the claimant is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.3200x12x16= Rs.6,14,400/-. The Tribunal has rightly assessed the income of the injured but wrongly concluded it to the tune of Rs.5,04,400/-. The Tribunal has rightly awarded Rs.15,000/- on account of boarding and lodging at Chandigarh Rs.10,000/- on account of physiotherapist charges and Rs.50,000/- on account of mental shock for physical sufferings but has fallen in an error in not awarding compensation under the head pain and sufferings and loss of amenities of life.

18. It is beaten law of land that the compensation is to be awarded in an injury case under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

19. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787, and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771.

20. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

21. The Apex Court in its latest decision in Jakir Hussein vs. Sabir and others, (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the entire life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.
> 18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

22. Thus, Rs.1,00,000/- is awarded under the head "pain and sufferings" and Rs.1,00,000/- is awarded under the head "loss of amenities of life".

23. Thus, in all the claimant is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.6,14,400/-+Rs.2,28,176/- +Rs.2,00,000/- +Rs.1,00,000/-, +Rs.20,000/- +Rs.15,000/- +Rs.15,000/- +Rs.10,000/- +Rs.50,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- =Rs. 14,52,576/-.

24. Accordingly, the appeals are allowed, compensation is enhanced and impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

25. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today in the Registry alongwith interest @ 7.5%, payable for all heads, except for future income, from the date of the claim petition and under the head 'loss of earning/future income', it is payable from the date of impugned award.

26. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in his bank account, after proper verification.

27. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

For the Appellant :	Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Senior Advocate with Ms. Charu Bhatnagar, Advocate.
For the Respondents:	Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 & 2. Mr. P.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the judgment and award, dated 3rd May, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Sirmour, District Sirmour at Nahan, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 20-MAC/2 of 2008, titled as Smt. Raksha Devi versus Shri Pardeep Kumar & others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed (for short 'the impugned award').

2. The claimant, being victim of the motor-vehicular accident, had filed the claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 5,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

3. The respondents resisted and contested the claim petition by filing replies.

4. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether Parmod Kumar died due to rash or negligent driving of Pick-up van No. HP-18-B-0220 by respondent No. 2 Mukesh Kumar alias Happy on 28-6-2007, as alleged? ....OPP

2. In case issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled to receive compensation, if so to what amount and from whom?....OPP

3. Whether the risk of the deceased was not covered in the Insurance Policy, as alleged? OPR-3

4. Whether the vehicle in question was being plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, as alleged? OPR-3

5. Relief."

5. The claimant examined Santosh Kumari (PW-1) and Dr. Anil Aggarwal (PW-2). She herself stepped into the witness box as PW-3. Respondents examined Vikas Gupta (RW-1) and driver stepped into the witness box as RW-2.

6. The Tribunal after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimant has failed to prove that driver, namely, Mukesh Kumar had driven the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, at the relevant point of time. The said findings are not tenable for the following reasons.

7. The claimant has specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the driver. FIR (Ext. PW-1/A) under Sections, 279 & 337 of the Indian Penal Code was lodged in Police Station Nahan, which stands proved. Thus, there is prima-facie proof on the record to hold that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the driver.

8. It is a beaten law of the land that strict proof is not required, but the claimant has to prove prima-facie that the accident is outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver.

9. My this view is fortified by the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 3 of the judgment herein:

"3. Road accidents are one of the top killers in our country, specifically when truck and bus drivers operate nocturnally. This proverbial recklessness often persuades the courts, as has been observed by us earlier in other cases, to draw an initial presumption in several cases based on the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur. Accident Tribunals must take special care to see that innocent victims do not suffer and drivers and owners do not escape liability merely because of some doubt here or some obscurity there. Save in plain cases, culpability must be inferred from the circumstances where it is fairly reasonable. The court should not succumb to niceties, technicalities and mystic maybes. We are emphasising this aspect because we are often distressed by transport operators getting away with it thanks to judicial laxity, despite the fact that they do not exercise sufficient disciplinary control over the drivers in the matter of careful driving. The heavy economic impact of culpable driving of public transport must bring owner and driver to their responsibility to their "neighbour". Indeed, the State must seriously consider no-fault liability by legislation. A second aspect which pains us is the inadequacy of the compensation or undue parcimony practised by tribunals. We must remember that judicial tribunals are State organs and Art. 41 of the Constitution lays the jurisprudential foundation for state relief against accidental disablement of citizens. There is no justification for niggardliness in compensation. A third factor which is harrowing is the enormous delay in disposal of accident cases resulting in compensation, even if awarded, being postponed by several years. The States must appoint sufficient number of tribunals and the High Court should insist upon quick disposals so that the trauma and tragedy already sustained may not be magnified by the injustice of delayed justice. Many States are unjustly indifferent in this regard." (Emphasis Added)

10. The Jammu and Kashmir High Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, reported in AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81, held that the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for short 'the MV Act' is Social Welfare Legislation and the procedural technicalities cannot be allowed to defeat the purpose of the Act. It is profitable to reproduce para 20 of the judgment herein:

"20. Before concluding, it is also observed that it is a social welfare legislation under which the compensation is provided by way of Award to the people who sustain bodily injuries or get killed in the vehicular accident. These people who sustain injuries or whose kith and kins are killed, are necessarily to be provided such relief in a short span of time and the procedural technicalities cannot be allowed to defeat the just purpose of the Act, under which such compensation is to be paid to such claimants."

11. It would also be profitable to reproduce relevant portion of para 12 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, reported in AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627, herein:

"12. .....While interpreting the contract of insurance, the Tribunals and Courts have to be conscious of the fact that right to claim compensation by heirs and legal representatives of the victims of the accident is not defeated on technical grounds. Unless it is established on the materials on record that it was the insured who had wilfully violated the condition of the policy by allowing a person not duly licensed to drive the vehicle when the accident took place, the insurer shall be deemed to be a judgment-debtor in respect of the liability in view of sub-section (1) of Section 96 of the Act. It need not be pointed out that the whole concept of getting the vehicle insured by an insurance company is to provide an easy mode of getting compensation by the claimants, otherwise in normal course they had to pursue their claim against the owner from one forum to the other and ultimately to execute the order of the Accident Claims Tribunal for realisation of such amount by sale of properties of the owner of the vehicle. The procedure and result of the execution of the decree is well known."

12. The Apex Court in a case titled Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646 has laid down the same principle and held that strict proof and strict links are not required.

13. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a series of cases.

14. A Single Judge of this Court in FAO No. 127 of 1999, titled as Bimla Devi and others versus Himachal Road Transport Corporation and others, decided on 22.08.2005, held that the claimants have to prove the case by leading cogent evidence and applied the mandate of CPC read with the Evidence Act, was questioned before the Apex Court by the medium of Civil Appeal No. 2538 of 2009, titled as Bimla Devi & Ors. versus Himachal Road Transport Corpn. & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 4298, and the Apex Court set aside the said judgment and held that strict proof is not required. It is apt to reproduce paras 2 and 12 to 15 of the judgment herein:

> "2. This appeal is directed against a judgment and order dated 22.8.2005 passed by the High Court of Himachal Pradesh, Shimla in FAO No. 127 of 1999 whereby and whereunder an appeal preferred against a judgment and award dated 28.10.1998 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II [MACT (I), Nahan] in MAC Petition No. 21-NL/2 of 1997, was set aside.
> 12. While dealing with a claim petition in terms of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, a Tribunal stricto sensu is not bound by the pleadings of the parties; its function being to determine the amount of fair compensation in the event an accident has taken place by reason of negligence of that driver of a motor vehicle. It is true that occurrence of an accident having regard to the provisions contained in Section 166 of the Act is a sine qua non for entertaining a claim petition but that would not mean that despite evidence to the effect that death of the claimants predecessor had taken place by reason of an accident caused by a motor vehicle, the same would be ignored only on the basis of a post mortem report vis-a-vis the averments made in a claim petition.
> 13. The deceased was a Constable. Death took place near a police station. The post mortem report clearly suggests that the deceased died of a brain injury. The place of accident is not far from the police station. It is, therefore, difficult to believe the story of the driver of the bus that he slept in the bus and in the morning found a dead body wrapped in a blanket. If the death of a constable has taken place earlier, it is wholly unlikely that his dead body in a small town like Dharampur would remain undetected throughout the night particularly when it was lying at a bus stand and near a police station. In such an event, the court can presume that the police officers themselves should have taken possession of the dead body.
> 14. The learned Tribunal, in our opinion, has rightly proceeded on the basis that apparently there was absolutely no reason to falsely implicate the respondent Nos. 2 and 3. Claimant was not at the place of occurrence. She, therefore, might not be aware of the details as to how the accident took place but the fact that the First Information Report had been lodged in relation to an accident could not have been ignored. Some discrepancies in the evidences of the claimant s witnesses might have occurred but the core question before the Tribunal and consequently before the High Court was as to whether the bus in question was involved in the accident or not. For the purpose of determining the said issue, the Court was required to apply the principle underlying burden of proof in terms of the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act as to whether a dead body wrapped in a blanket had been found at the spot at such an early hour, which was required to be proved by the respondent Nos. 2 and 3.
> 15. In a situation of this nature, the Tribunal has rightly taken a holistic view of the matter. It was necessary to be borne in mind that strict proof of an accident caused by a particular bus in a particular manner may not be possible to be done by the claimants. The claimants were merely to establish their case on the touchstone of preponderance of probability. The standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt could not have been applied. For the said purpose, the High Court should have taken into consideration the respective stories set forth by both the parties."

15. Having said so, I am of the considered view that the claimant has prima facie proved that the driver of the offending vehicle had driven the same, rashly and negligently, at the relevant point of time and had caused the accident. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are set aside and the said issue is decided in favour of the claimant and against the respondents.

Issues No. 2 to 4.

16 The Tribunal has not returned findings on Issues No. 2 to 4. Thus, I deem it proper to remand this case, with the direction to the Tribunal to return findings on Issues No. 2 to 4, within four weeks w.e.f. 01.12.2016.

17. Parties are directed to cause appearance before the Tribunal on 01.12.2016.

18. The impugned award is set aside and the appeal is allowed, as indicated above.

19. Registry to send the record of the case alongwith a copy of this judgment forthwith so as to reach the Tribunal below well before the date fixed.

(Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Rajneesh Lal, Advocate Mr. C.S.Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

Both these appeals stand directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgement(s) recorded by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Solan, District Solan, whereby he recorded a verdict of acquittal upon the accused respondents.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 12.11.1999 around 9.00 a.m at Panch Parmeshwar Mandir I.O. PW-2 S.I. Virender Kumar was present alongwith other police officials including PW-8 H.C.Ravinder Lal when he received the secret information that one maruti van No. HP-02-4951 was carrying liquor coming from Chandigarh to Shimla. It is alleged that vehicle was not having front number plate and when the vehicle was seen by I.O. it was signaled to stop but it was not stopped and said maruti van was chased by police Naka party in taxi No. HP-01-078. But aforesaid van drove away towards bye pass road. It is alleged that when the aforesaid van allegedly carrying liquor reached near HRTC workshop bifurcation then a bus No. HP-14-3696 was coming out of workshop but due to rash driving of accused Ram Kumar driver of van struck against the bus. It is also alleged that then accused Sanjiv Kumar, who was sitting in van, tried to run away, but was over powered by police party and accused Ram Kumar was apprehended by police inside the car. It is also alleged that van was searched in presence of PW-5 Darshan Singh, Karam Chand, Kapil Sahani and in the back seat of the vehicle and dickey, 7 gunny bags were found, out of which six bags were found carrying 4 boxes each and one bag was found containing 2 boxes of country liquor and each box was containing 50 pouches each of 180 ml. liquor. It is also alleged that then I.O. took out 26 pouches out of which 26 nips were taken as sample and case property was sealed in presence of witnesses at the spot vide memo Ext.PW-2/B. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. A charge stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 61(i)(a) of the Punjab Excise Act to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

7. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court recorded findings of conviction against the accused whereas the learned Appellate Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record by the learned trial Court and theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. At the place depicted in site plan Ext.PW-8/A occurred the relevant seizure of liquor carried in vehicle bearing No. HP-02-4951, whereon the accused were aboard. The prosecution in proof of its case depended upon the testimonies of official witnesses who therewithin rendered a version qua the prosecution case unbereft of any inter se contradictions occurring in their respective examinations in chief vis.a.vis. their respective cross-examinations besides theirs testimonies remained unblemished significantly when they deposed in harmony vis.a.vis. their respective testifications. The uneroded testifications of official witnesses though hence held probative vigour yet the learned Appellate Court on anvil of the testification of PW-5 a witness to recovery memo Ext.PW-2/B who reneged from his previous statement recorded in writing proceeded to pronounce an order of acquittal upon the accused respondent. The reports of the CTL concerned comprised in Ext.PW-8/B to Ext.PW-8/F unveil a disclosure qua the 26 nips as stood extracted from 26 pouches held respectively in each of the 26 cartons borne in the relevant vehicle, nips whereof on standing received thereat whereupon their examination unraveling qua their holding liquor therewithin. The reports of the CTL concerned comprised in the afore referred exhibits formidably proclaim qua 26 nips extracted from amongst one of the bottles of liquor held in each of the cartons borne in the relevant vehicle wherefrom the relevant seizure occurred holding liquor wherefrom the learned Additional Sessions Judge stood enjoined to in conjunction with the untainted testimonies of the prosecution witnesses to draw a conclusion of the prosecution succeeding in proving its charge against the accused. However, as aforestated the learned Additional Sessions Judge had merely on anvil of one of the witnesses to seizure memo Ext.PW-2/B reneging from his previous statement recorded in writing proceeded to record a verdict of acquittal in favour of the accused. The aforesaid reason, which stands assigned by the learned Additional Sessions Judge for recording a verdict of acquittal upon the accused is per se ridden with a gross inherent fallacy of his remaining unbereft of the trite factum of PW-5 while standing cross-examined by the learned APP in sequel to his standing declared hostile his admitting the factum of PW-2/B wherewithin occur the apposite recitals qua the relevant charge holding his signatures whereupon the inevitable sequel is qua the existence thereon of his signatures not standing bereft of any aura of authenticity. In sequel to PW-5 conceding qua his signatures borne on Ext.PW-2/B belonging to him thereupon the mandate of Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act whereupon he on admitting the occurrence of his signatures thereon hence stood statutorily estopped to renege from the recitals borne thereon aroused attraction, thereupon the effect of his orally deposing in variance or in detraction to the recitals which occur thereon gets statutorily belittled rather when he naturally emphatically proves the recitals comprised in the apposite memo(s), it was neither appropriate nor tenable for the learned Additional Sessions Judge to conclude qua the recorded recitals borne on Ext.PW-2/B holding no evidentiary clout nor it was legally apt for him to outweigh the creditworthiness of the testimonies of the official witnesses qua the credible effectuation of recovery of liquor under recovery memo Ext.PW-2/B whereas the factum of the uncontroverted occurrence thereon of signatures of PW-5 wherewithin the apposite recitals are held enjoined imputation of credence thereon dehors his reneging from his previous statement recorded in writing. Reiteratedly, the ensuing sequel thereof is of with the statutory estoppel constituted in Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act barring PW-5 to resile from the contents of Ext.PW-2/B especially when he admits the occurrence of his signatures thereon renders unworthwhile besides insignificant the factum of his orally deposing in variance of the recorded recitals occurring therein contrarily per se an inference stands enhanced qua dehors his reneging from his previous statement recorded in writing, a deduction standing capitalized qua thereupon his proving the genesis of the prosecution case.

10. The learned counsel for the accused respondent has contended with vigour qua with PW-5 in his cross-examination acquiescing to the factum of the relevant vehicle striking a bus whereupon it was incumbent upon the Investigating Officer concerned to lodge an apposite report with the police station concerned whereas his omitting to do so erodes the genesis of the occurrence depicted in F.I.R. borne on Ext.PW1/A. However, the aforesaid submission warrants its standing rejected outrightly as the prosecution was enjoined to only prove the factum of the relevant seizure displayed in Ext.PW-2/B standing efficaciously proven. Consequently with this Court recording an inference qua the contents of Ext.PW-2/B standing efficaciously proven dehors PW-5 resiling from his previous statement recorded in writing rendered unnecessary the omission if any of the Investigating Officer in reporting the factum of the relevant vehicle striking a bus.

11. Also the learned counsel for the accused has contended qua with the deposition of PW-6 a purported witness to Ext.PW-2/B not lending probative vigour significantly when evidently he uncontrovertedly was not present at the time contemporaneous to the relevant seizure standing made from the relevant vehicle by the Investigating Officer concerned rather his standing added as a witness subsequent to the completion of the relevant proceedings. However, even if PW-6 stood added as an independent witness to the relevant seizure memo after completion of the relevant proceedings yet when for reasons aforestated the deposition of one of the witnesses to Ext.PW-2/B solitarily holds formidable sinew thereupon the factum of subsequent addition of PW-6 as a witness to Ext.PW-2/B does not either erode the testification of PW-5 nor hence the relevant recitals borne therewithin loose their efficacy.

12. The learned counsel for the accused has contended with vigour qua the Investigating Officer concerned not collecting samples from each of the liquor bottles carried in all the cartons borne on the relevant vehicle nor his dispatching for examination to the CTL concerned samples collected from each of the liquor bottles carried in all the cartons borne on the relevant vehicle, whereas the CTL affirmatively opining only qua the samples of liquor extracted from 26 pouches from amongst the entire cache of liquor carried in all the cartons borne on the relevant vehicle entails a sequel of the prosecution succeeding in proving only the opinion recorded by the CTL, contrarily he contends qua the prosecution not succeeding in proving the factum qua all the bottles carried in all the cartons borne in the relevant vehicle holding therewithin liquor. However, the aforesaid submission warrants its standing discountenanced. A thorough circumspect reading of the evidence on record unravels qua both the accused respondents in their defence embodied in their respective statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. not unravelling therein the factum of except 26 bottles carried in each of the cartons amongst others carried thereon wherefrom amongst 26 samples stood collected by the Investigating Officer qua the other bottles carried in all the cartons borne in the relevant vehicle not holding liquor therewithin also they while holding the prosecution witnesses to cross-examination omitted to qua the facet aforesaid purvey apposite suggestions to them. The effect of the aforesaid omissions is qua both the accused acquiescing to the factum of all the bottles held in all the cartons borne in the relevant vehicle holding liquor dehors the factum of the Investigating Officer concerned extracting from amongst them 26 samples from only 26 pouches/bottles of liquor.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Additional Sessions Judge has not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Sessions Judge suffers from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record. In sequel thereto, I find merit in these appeals, which are accordingly allowed and the judgement of acquittal rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Solan is quashed and set-aside. Accordingly, the accused are held guilty for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 16(i)(a) of the Punjab Excise Act as applicable to the State of Himachal Pradesh. The judgement of conviction & sentence pronounced by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Solan, is affirmed and upheld. In aftermath, the pronouncement recorded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate in Case No. 130/3 of 2000 be forthwith put to execution.

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 10.1.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kullu, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in Claim Petition No.11 of 2011, titled Smt. Sita Devi and others versus Shri Amar Nath and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.10,82,400/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was directed to satisfy the award at the first instance with right of recovery from the owner-insured, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

3. I have gone through the impugned award.

Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Nemo for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that Claim Petition No. 133-S/2 of 2001/2003 was filed by the claimant in the year 2001 before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla (for short 'the Tribunal') whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 1,25,000/- came to be awarded in his favour, subject to the production of disability certificate by the claimant, which he failed to do so. Then, the claimant filed an execution petition, which was also dismissed. Thereafter, the claimant filed fresh claim petition i.e. M.A.C. Petition No. 31-S/2 of 2009, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,55,000/- with interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition was granted in favour of the claimant. The said claim petition has given birth to the instant appeal. In view of the above, learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the claimant is caught by the Principles of Res judicata. He also stated that the amount of compensation has not been paid to the claimant.

2. Perused.

3. The second claim petition is not maintainable in view of the doctrine of Res judicata. However, grant of compensation is a social legislation and for the benefit of claimants-sufferers and in order to save them from social evils, compensation is to be awarded in their favour.

4. In the given circumstances, with the consent of the learned Counsel for the parties, I deem it proper to award compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,00,000/- in lump sum, in favour of the claimant.

5. The impugned award is modified, as indicated above.

6. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer stated at the Bar that the award amount stands deposited before the Registry.

For the Appellant: Mr. Adarsh K. Vashishta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Ashok Sharma, ASGI with Ms. Sukarma Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

The plaintiff is the appellant, who aggrieved by the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned courts below, has filed the instant appeal.

2. The plaintiff has filed a suit claiming therein that she was entitled to family pension being legally wedded wife of deceased Havaldar Sohan Singh. It is averred that since the first wife of deceased Sohan Singh did not bear any male child, she persuaded her husband to take Fargati (customary divorce), and thereafter, the plaintiff solemnized Gandharav marriage on 16.1.1974 as per the will of his first wife. The first wife of Sohan Singh died on 6.11.1989 and after Sudhikaran, the plaintiff solemnized Brahm marriage on 15.2.1990 and the necessary Bhoj was given to the Biradri as per the prevailing customs. Out of the wedlock three children were born. The plaintiff being legally wedded wife of Sohan Singh made protracted correspondence with the defendants to release family pension in her favour, but to no avail. Hence, the suit.

3. The defendants filed written statement wherein preliminary objections regarding maintainability, valuation, cause of action, locus standi etc. were taken. On merit, it was averred that deceased Sohan Singh had retired on 4.2.1970 and was getting pension. As per record, he had married one Parwati Devi in the year 1936 and she was the only wife of deceased Sohan Singh. Defendants denied the factum of marriage between the plaintiff and deceased Sohan Singh and on such basis denied her entitlement for family pension.

4. The learned trial court on 20.8.2002 framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff is legally wedded wife of deceased Hav. Sohan Singh, as alleged?OPP
2. Whether the marriage of the plaintiff with Hav. Sohan Singh was solemnized during the life time of his previous wife Parwati Devi? If so, its effect? OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of declaration, as prayed for?OPD

4. Whether the order No.G4/V/Misc/AMC/2001 dated 15th Feb. 2001 passed by CCDA (P) Allahabad is illegal, as alleged? OPP
5. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of mandatory injunction, as prayed for? OPP
6. Whether the suit in the present form is not maintainable, as alleged? OPD
7. Whether the suit has not been properly valued for the purposes of court fee and jurisdiction, as alleged? OPD
8. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties, as alleged? OPD
9. Whether no proper notice under section 80 C.P.C. has been served on the defendants, as alleged? OPD
10. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to file the present suit, as alleged? OPD
11. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit, as alleged? OPD
12. Relief.

5. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the suit was dismissed and the appeal preferred against the judgment and decree also met with the same fate constraining the plaintiff to file the instant appeal.

6. The appeal came to be heard on 30.10.2007 and the following substantial questions of law were framed:

1. Whether the married couple can have a divorce as per the customs in the Birdari?
2. Whether the plaintiff not able to prove the relationship of legally wedded wife of Sohan Singh?
3. Whether the learned courts below have misread and misappreciated the oral and documentary evidence ion record and findings recorded are perverse and liable to be set aside?
4. Whether the findings are based on mere conjectures and surmises and are liable to be set aside?

Substantial Questions of Law No. 1 to 4:

7. Since all the substantial questions of law are intrinsically interlinked and interconnected, therefore, they are taken up together for consideration and are being disposed of by a common reasoning.

8. At the outset, it may be observed that the very premise on which the suit of the plaintiff proceeds is that Sohan Singh was already having a living spouse at the time when he allegedly performed Gandharav marriage with the plaintiff.

9. Admittedly, on the date of performance of so-called Gandharav marriage, the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (for short 'Act') had already come into force on 18.5.1955. The Act codified all the laws relating to marriage amongst the Hindus and has over riding effect, as would be evident from section 4, which reads thus:

> "4. Overriding effect of Act:
> Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act.-
> (a) Any text rule or interpretation of Hindu law or any custom or usage as part of that law in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall cease to have effect with respect to any matter for which provision is made in this Act;

(b) Any other law in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall cease to have effect in so far as it is inconsistent with any of the provisions contained in this Act."

10. Now, what would be the status of the marriage of Hindu male with Hindu female when he has already a living spouse, has been taken care of in section 5, which clearly provides that a marriage may be solemnized between any two Hindus, if neither already has spouse living at the time of marriage. Section 5 reads thus:

5. Conditions for a Hindu marriage:

A marriage may be solemnized between any two Hindus, if the following conditions are fulfilled, namely-.

(i) Neither party has a spouse living at the time of the marriage,

[(ii) at the time of the marriage, neither party-

(a) Is incapable of giving a valid consent to it in consequence of unsoundness of mind; or

(b) Though capable of giving a valid consent, has been suffering from mental disorder of such a kind or to such an extent as to be unfit for marriage and the procreation of children; or

(c) Has been subject to recurrent attacks of insanity

(iii) The bridegroom has completed the age of [twenty-one years] and the bride, the age of [eighteen years] at the time of the marriage;

(iv) The parties are not within the degrees of prohibited relationship unless the custom or usage governing each of them permits of a marriage between the two;

(v) The parties are not Sapindas of each other, unless the custom or usage governing each of them permits of a marriage between the two;

11. Section 11 provides for void marriage and reads thus as follows:

11. Void marriages.

Any marriage solemnized after the commencement of this Act shall be null and void and may, on a petition presented by either party thereto [1][against the other party], be so declared by a decree of nullity if it contrivances any one of the conditions specified in clauses (i), (iv) and (v) of Section 5.

12. Thus, as per the scheme of the Act, marriage between two Hindus solemnized, one of whom had a living spouse at the time of marriage, after the commencement of the Act would be void and nullity in the eyes of law. Meaning thereby that second wife would have no right of claiming herself to be a legally wedded wife.

13. Once the marriage is nullity, the same would also not be protected under Pension Rules. Therefore, the wife, as referred to under Pension Rules, would only include the first wife and the second wife would only be included in case the marriage is permissible under the personal law. But in the cases of Hindu, second wife has no right whatsoever as the law prohibits second marriage if the spouse is alive.

14. In Yamunabai Anantrao Adhav vs. Anantrao Shivram Adhav and another, (1988) 1 SCC 530, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the marriage of a woman in accordance with the Hindu rites with a man having living spouse is a complete nullity in the eyes of law and she is not entitled to the benefit of section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

15. In Bakulabai and another vs. Gangaram and another 1988 (1) SCC 537, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that marriage of a Hindu woman with a Hindu male having living spouse solemnized after coming into force of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is null and void and the woman is, therefore, not entitled to maintenance under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

16. In Rameshwari Devi vs State of Bihar and others, 2000 (2) SCC 431, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that where the Government servant being a Hindu having two living wives died, the second marriage was void under the Hindu law and hence the second wife did not have the status of widow and would not be entitled to family pension. The children from the second wife would equally share the benefit of gratuity and family pension as per law.

17. It is vehemently contended by Mr. Adarsh Vashishta that as there was a customary divorce between the first wife and deceased Sohan Singh, therefore, it was the plaintiff only who was the legally wedded wife and therefore entitled to family pension.

18. There is no gainsaying that before a customary divorce is acted upon, the same must be pleaded and thereafter proved in accordance with law.

19. What is custom and how it is required to be proved had been subject matter of decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Laxmibai (Dead) through LRs and another vs. Bhagwantbua (dead) through LRs, (2013) 4 SCC 97, wherein it was held as under:

> 12. Custom is an established practice at variance with the general law. A custom varying general law may be a general, local, tribal or family custom. A general custom includes a custom common to any considerable class of persons. A custom which is applicable to a locality, tribe, sect or a family is called a special custom.
> Custom is a rule, which in a particular family, a particular class, community, or in a particular district, has owing to prolonged use, obtained the force of law. Custom has the effect of modifying general personal law, but it does not override statutory law, unless the custom is expressly saved by it.
> Such custom must be ancient, uniform, certain, continuous and compulsory. No custom is valid if it is illegal, immoral, unreasonable or opposed to public policy. He who relies upon custom varying general law, must plead and prove it. Custom must be established by clear and unambiguous evidence.
> [13] In Dr. Surajmani Stella Kujur v. Durga Charan Hansdah, 2001 AIR(SC) 938, this Court held that custom, being in derogation of a general rule, is required to be construed strictly. A party relying upon a custom, is obliged to establish it by way of clear and unambiguous evidence. (Vide: Salekh Chand (Dead) thr. Lrs. v. Satya Gupta & Ors., 2008 13 SCC 119.
> [14] A custom must be proved to be ancient, certain and reasonable. The evidence adduced on behalf of the party concerned must prove the alleged custom and the proof must not be unsatisfactory and conflicting. A custom cannot be extended by analogy or logical process and it also cannot be established by a priori method. Nothing that the Courts can take judicial notice of needs to be proved. When a custom has been judicially recognised by the Court, it passes into the law of the land and proof of it becomes unnecessary under Section 57(1) of the Evidence Act, 1872. Material customs must be proved properly and satisfactorily, until the time that such custom has, by way of frequent proof in the Court become so notorious, that the Courts take judicial notice of it. (See also:Effuah Amissah v. Effuah Krabah, 1936 AIR(PC) 147; T. Saraswati Ammal v. Jagadambal & Anr., 1953 AIR(SC) 201; Ujagar Singh v. Mst. Jeo, 1959 AIR(SC) 1041; and Siromani v. Hemkumar & Ors., 1968 AIR(SC) 1299).
> [15] In Ramalakshmi Ammal v. Sivanatha Perumal Sethuraya, 1872 14 MooIndApp 570, it was held: "It is essential that special usage, which modifies the ordinary law of succession is ancient and invariable; and it is further essential that such special usage is established to be so, by way of clear and unambiguous evidence. It is only by means of such evidence, that courts can be assured of their existence, and itis also essential that they possess the conditions of antiquity and certainty on the basis of which alone, their legal title to recognition depends."

[16] In Salekh Chand , this Court held as under:

"Where the proof of a custom rests upon a limited number of instances of a comparatively recent date, the court may hold the custom proved so as to bind the parties to the suit and those claiming through and under them.

All that is necessary to prove is that the usage has been acted upon in practice for such a long period and with such invariability as to show that it has, by common consent, been submitted to as the established governing rule of a particular locality. A custom may be proved by general evidence as to its existence by members of the tribe or family who would naturally be cognizant of its existence, and its exercise without controversy."

[17] In Bhimashya & Ors. v. Smt. Janabi @ Janawwa, 2006 13 SCC 627,this Court held:

"A custom is a particular rule which has existed either actually or presumptively from time immemorial, and has obtained the force of law in a particular locality, although contrary to or not consistent with the general common law of the realm it must be certain in respect of its nature generally as well as in respect of the locality where it is alleged to obtain and the persons whom it is alleged to affect.

xx xx xx xx

Custom is authoritative, it stands in the place of law, and regulates the conduct of men in the most important concerns of life; fashion is arbitrary and capricious, it decides in matters of trifling import; manners are rational, they are the expressions of moral feelings. Customs have more force in a simple state of society. Both practice and custom are general or particular but the former is absolute, the latter relative; a practice may be adopted by a number of persons without reference to each other; but a custom is always followed either by limitation or prescription; the practice of gaming has always been followed by the vicious part of society, but it is to be hoped for the honour of man that it will never become a custom."

20. Adverting to the pleadings as also the evidence led, it would be noticed that neither so-called custom has been pleaded nor proved in accordance with law.

21. In Rameshchandra Rampratapji Daga vs. Rameshwari Rameshchandra Daga, (2005) 2 SCC 33, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the customary divorce of choor chithhi has to be established in accordance with law and it was observed as under:

[12] So far as the appeal preferred by the wife is concerned, on reconsideration of the evidence on record, we find no ground to take a view different from the one taken by the High Court and upset the conclusion that the second marriage was null and void. The wife did not deny the fact that her marriage was arranged with Girdhari Lai Lakhotia in the year 1973 and after marriage she lived with the members of the family of her previous husband. It is also an admitted fact that she instituted proceedings for obtaining decree of divorce being Divorce Petition No. 76 of 1978 in the Family Court at Amravati. It is also not denied that no decree of divorce was obtained from the Court and she only obtained a registered document of chhor chithhi from her previous husband on 15-5-1979. Existence of such customary divorce in Vaish community of Maheshwaris has not been established. A Hindu marriage can be dissolved in accordance with the provisions of the Act by obtaining a decree of divorce from the Court. In the absence of any decree of dissolution of marriage from the Court, it has to be held that in law first marriage of the wife subsisted when she went through the second marriage on 11-7-1981 with the present husband. The appeal preferred by the wife, therefore, against grant of decree of declaration of her second marriage as void, has to be rejected whatever may be the circumstances which existed and the hardships that the wife had to undergo, as alleged, at the hands of her second husband.

22. Mr. Adarsh Vashishta, learned counsel for the appellant, would then argue that once the appellant is admittedly, nominee of the deceased, then the respondents had no jurisdiction or authority to deny her the family pension. Even this contention is equally without merit as it is more than settled that if the nomination is made contrary to the statutory provisions, it would be inoperative.

23. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in G.L. Bhatia vs Union of India, 1999 (5) SCC 237, wherein the husband of the deceased employee claimed family pension while nomination was not in his favour. The authorities had rejected the claim of the husband for the reason that he was staying separately from the wife and thus was not entitled to family pension. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the husband was entitled to family pension, where the rights of the parties are governed by statutory provisions and the individual nomination contrary to the statute will not operate.

24. Earlier to this, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Sarbati Devi and another vs. Smt. Usha Devi, (1984) 1 SCC 424 held that mere nomination made in the insurance policy does not have the effect of conferring on the nominee any beneficial interest in the amount payable under the policy on the death of the assured. The nomination only indicates the hand which is authorized to receive the amount, on the payment of which the insurer gets a valid discharge of its liability under the policy. The amount, however, can be claimed by the heirs of the assured in accordance with the law of succession governing them.

25. This Court in Smt. Neena and others vs Smt. Sunehru Devi and others, 2015 (6) ILR (HP) 20 has elaborately discussed the various pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, including the one rendered in Sarbati Devi's case (supra), and it was observed as under:

> "11. Insofar as the legal status of nominee is concerned, the same is no longer res integra. The Hon'ble Supreme Court for the first time clarified the issue in case Smt. Sarbati Devi and another vs. Smt. Usha Devi, (1984) 1 SCC 424 and held that in context of Section 39 of the Life Insurance Act, 1938 (in short LIC Act), a mere nomination under Section 39 of the Act did not confer "beneficial interest" in the nominee qua the amount payable under the policy on the death of the assured. The nomination was indicative only of the authority or the person who was to receive the amount, pursuant to which the insurer would get a valid discharge of its liability under the policy. This however, would not belie the claim of the heirs of the asssured made in accordance with law of succession. It is apt to reproduce para 4 of the judgment which reads thus:
> > "4. At the out set it should be mentioned that except the decision of the Allahabad High Court in Kesari Devi v. Dharma Devi, AIR 1962 All 355, on which reliance was placed by the High Court in dismissing the appeal before it and the two decisions of the Delhi High Court in S. Fauza Singh v. Kuldip Singh & Ors., AIR 1978 Del 276 and Mrs. Uma Sehgal & Anr. v. Dwarka Dass Sehgal & Ors AIR 1982 Del 36 in all other decisions cited before us the view taken is that the nominee under section 39 of the Act is nothing more than an agent to receive the money due under a life insurance policy in the circumstances similar to those in the present case and that the money remains the property of the assured during his lifetime and on his death forms part of his estate subject to the law of succession applicable to him. The cases which have taken the above view are Ramballav DhanJhania v. Gangadhar Nathmall AIR 1956 Cal 275, Life Insurance Corporation of India v. United Bank of India Ltd. & Anr., AIR 1970 Cal 513, D. Mohanavelu Muldaliar & Anr. v. Indian Insurance and Banking Corporation Ltd. Salem & Anr.,AIR 1957 Mad 115, Sarojini Amma v. Neelakanta Pillai AIR 1961 Ker 126, Atmaram Mohanlal Panchal v. Gunavantiben & Ors.,AIR 1977 Guj 134, Malli Dei vs. Kanchan Prava Dei, AIR 1973 Ori 83 and Lakshmi Amma v. Sagnna Bhagath & Ors.,ILR 1973 Kant 827 Since there is a conflict of judicial opinion on the question involved in this case it is necessary to examine the above cases at some length. The law in force in England on the above question is summarised in Halsbury's Laws of England (Fourth Edition), Vol. 25, Para 579 thus :

"579. Position of third party. - The policy money payable on the death of the assured may be expressed to be payable to a third party and the third party is then prima facie merely the agent for the time being of the legal owner and has his authority to receive the policy money and to give a good discharge; but he generally has no right to sue the insurers in his own name. The question has been raised whether the third party's authority to receive the policy money is terminated by the death of the assured; it seems, however, that unless and until they are otherwise directed by the assured's personal representatives the insurers may pay the money to the third party and get a good discharge from him."

12. In Vishin N. Khanchandani and another vs. Vidya Lachmandas Khanchandani and another (2000) 6 SCC 724, the legal position was reiterated and it was held:

"10.....The nomination only indicated the hand which was authorized to receive the amount on the payment of which the insurer got a valid discharge of its liability under the policy. The policy holder continued to have interest in the policy during his lifetime and the nominee acquired no sort of interest in the policy during the lifetime of the policy holder. On the death of the policy holder, the amount payable under the policy became part of his estate which was governed by the law of succession applicable to him. Such succession may be testamentary or intestate. Section 39 did not operate as a third kind of succession which could be styled as a statutory testament. A nominee could not be treated as being equivalent to an heir or legatee. The amount of interest under the policy could, therefore, be claimed by the heirs of the assured in accordance with law of succession governing them."

13. In Ram Chander Talwar and another vs. Devender Kumar Talwar and others (2010) 10 SCC 671, it was held that nomination merely gives right of depositor to receive money lying in the account, but it does not make nominee owner of money lying in the account and it was held as under:

"3. Mr. Swetank Shantanu, counsel appearing for the appellants, strenuously argued that by virtue of sub-section 2 of section 45 ZA, the nominee of the depositor, after the death of the depositor acquires all his/her rights to the express exclusion of all other persons and, therefore, the respondent can not lay any claim to the money in the account or in regard to the articles that might be lying in the bank locker held by their deceased mother. The submission is quite fallacious and is based on a complete misconception of the provision of the Act.

4. Sub-section 2 of the 45-ZA, reads as follows:-

"45-ZA xxx xxx xxx xxx

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any disposition, whether testamentary or otherwise, in respect of such deposit, where a nomination made in the prescribed manner purports to confer on any person the right to receive the amount to deposit from the banking company, the nominee shall, on the death of the sole depositor or, as the case may be, on the death of all the depositors, become entitled to all the rights of the sole depositor or, as the case may be, of the depositors, in relation to such deposit to the exclusion of all other persons, unless the nomination is varied or cancelled in the prescribed manner." (emphasis added)

5. Section 45-ZA(2) merely puts the nominee in the shoes of the depositor after his death and clothes him with the exclusive right to receive the money lying in the account. It gives him all the rights of the depositor so far as the depositor's account is concerned. But it by no stretch of imagination makes the nominee the owner of the money lying in the account. It needs to be remembered that the Banking Regulation Act is enacted to consolidate and amend the law relating to banking. It is in no way concerned with the question of succession. All the monies receivable by the nominee by virtue of section 45-ZA(2) would, therefore, form part of the estate of the deceased depositor and devolve according to the rule of succession to which the depositor may be governed.

6. We find that the High Court has rightly rejected the appellant's claim relying upon the decision of this Court in V.N. Khanchandani & Anr. v. V.L. Khanchandani & Anr., (2000) 6 SCC 724. The provision under Section 6(1) of the Government Saving Certificate Act, 1959 is materially and substantially the same as the provision of Section 45-ZA(2) of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949, and the decision in V.N. Khanchandani applies with full force to the facts of this case."

14. In view of the aforesaid exposition of law, it is absolutely clear that a mere nomination in itself does not confer any 'beneficial interest' in the nominee and the retiral benefits of the deceased would become part of his estate and would be governed by the law of succession. Since the plaintiff is admittedly class-I heir, her entitlement would be 1/4th share, whereas the defendants No. 3 to 5 who alone otherwise were the nominees would be entitled to the remaining 3/4th share, that too, not on account of their being the nominees, but because of their being the class-I heirs of the deceased. This is exactly what has been held by the learned lower Appellate Court while reversing the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court."

26. The net result of the aforesaid discussion is that the appellant has failed to plead and thereafter prove the custom regarding marriage and divorce, therefore, no fault can be found with the findings as rendered by the learned courts below, who have correctly appreciated not only the pleadings but evidence also.

27. Having said so, all the substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

28. In view of aforesaid discussion, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

RFA No.342 of 2004.

Date of decision: 28/11/2016

Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972- Section 118- An agreement for sale was executed between plaintiff and defendant No.1 through defendant No.2 – plaintiff is a non-agriculturist and cannot purchase the land without prior permission of the State Government – defendants promised to get the permission but failed to do so- plaintiff sought the refund of the earnest money, but the money was not refunded – hence, the suit was filed – the suit was decreed by the trial Court – held in appeal that it is not disputed that sale deed was not executed – plaintiff is a non-agriculturist and permission under Section 118 of the Act was not granted in favour of the plaintiff- the vendor had failed to provide the documents for getting the permission under Section 118 of the Act- the suit was rightly decreed by the trial Court- appeal dismissed.(Para-6 to 10)

For the appellant: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vasant Paul Thakur, Advocate.

For the respondent 1(a): Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

This appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh, whereby it decreed the suit of the plaintiff.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that the plaintiff agreed to purchase suit land. An agreement to sell was entered into between the plaintiff on one side and defendant No.1 on the other side. The agreement was executed through defendant No.2 the attorney of defendant No.1. The plaintiff is a non agriculturist and in view of the bar created under Section 118 of the H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act could not purchase land without prior permission of the State Government. It is alleged that defendants had promised that they would get such permission in favour of the plaintiff. Despite such assurance the defendants did not take any steps to obtain permission. The plaintiff then requested the defendants to execute and provide the necessary documents so that permission could be obtained by him but the defendants did not provide such documents. Notice dated 27.12.2000 was issued by him through his counsel. The notice was replied to by the defendants on 8.1.2001 through their counsel Rajeev Garg. The counsel for the plaintiff again sent a notice to the defendants through their counsel to supply him the documents required for the purpose of obtaining the permission. But again no documents were furnished. As per terms of the agreement of sale the sale was to be effected on or before 31.3.2001 . Due to acts of the defendants the agreement was frustrated and the plaintiff got a legal notice dated 19.3.2001 sent to the defendants. The defendants sent reply on 21.3.2001 intimating the plaintiff that they were ready to extend the period of three months but such offer was not acceptable to the plaintiff. The contract has thus been frustrated due to negligence of the defendants. Even otherwise the defendants misguided and misrepresented the facts to the plaintiff. The plaintiff therefore is entitled to refund of earnest money. The plaintiff requested the defendants to refund the amount but they did not. Hence this suit.

3. The defendants filed written statement and thereby resisted and contested the suit of the plaintiff by taking preliminary objection qua maintainability, locus standi, want of cause of action and estoppel etc. On merits it was admitted that the land was agreed to be sold and that earnest money of Rs.3,15,000/- was received. It was also denied that the defendants were under any obligation to supply the plaintiff the documents. However, they were ready to assist him and were ready to furnish the documents but the plaintiff himself failed to turn up and to collect the same. The defendants had even offered to extend the time for execution and registration of sale deed for a period of three months but the offer was not accepted by the plaintiff intentionally. The defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit as plaintiff himself was responsible for not getting the sanction and as per the terms of the agreement the earnest money was liable to be forfeited.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues inter-se the parties at contest were struck:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for recovery of Rs.3,15,000/- and interest as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the present suit is not maintainable, as alleged? OPD.

3. Whether the plaintiff is etopped by his acts, conduct and acquiescence, to file the present suit as alleged? OPD.

4. Whether present suit is without cause of action, as alleged? OPD.

5. Whether plaintiff has no locus standi to file the present suit, as alleged? OPD.

6. Relief.

5. The learned trial Court on an appraisal of evidence, adduced by the parties at contest decreed the suit of the plaintiff. Now the defendant No.1 has therefrom instituted the instant Regular First Appeal before this Court, whereby he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned trial Court.

6. The factum of execution of Ext.PW-1/B inter se the litigating parties hereat remains uncontroverted. In paragraph 3 of Ext.PW-1/B, which stands extracted hereinafter

> "That the sale deed shall be executed on or before 31.3.2001 in case the purchaser fails to perform his part of contract the amount of earnest money shall stand forfeited and in case seller backout from his promise he shall be liable to pay double the amount of earnest money."

a peremptory mandate stood cast upon the parties thereto to execute a sale deed qua the suit property on or before 31.3.2001 also it holds embodiments qua the failure or refusal of the vendee to perform his part of the obligation constituted therein entailing the sequel of the apposite tender of a sum of Rs.3,15,000/- as earnest money to the vendor standing forfeited vis-à-vis the vendor also it holds unfoldments qua on the vendor reneging from his promise recorded therein his being amenable to pay the double of the earnest money to the vendee.

7. Uncontestedly, the sale deed remained unexecuted on or before 31.3.2001. Since 31.3.2001 stood constituted in Ext.PW-1/B to be precisely delineated date whereon it was mandated to be executed inter se the vendor and the vendee, it is imperative to adjudicate whether its non execution ensued on the vendee or the vendor evidently refusing to perform their part of the obligation(s) constituted upon them in Ext.PW-1/B whereupon the ensuing sequel qua the consequence(s) thereof spelt in paragraph 3 would sprout.

8. Be that as it may, the vendee is a non agriculturist whereupon he stood enjoined to preceeding the execution of a valid registered deed of conveyance qua the suit property with the vendor obtain the apposite statutory permission under Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act from the appropriate Government. The aforesaid permission stood unobtained whereupon the deadline delineated in Ex. PW-1/B for execution qua the suit property a registered deed of conveyance lapsed whereupon the sequelling effect of its non execution cast in paragraph 3 of Ext.PW-1/B erupts. Hereat the respective unreadiness or unwillingness of the vendor or the vendee to perform their respective contractual obligation(s) is enjoined to be determined. The vendee though stands enjoined with a contractual obligation(s) to obtain the requisite permission from the appropriate Government for the relevant purpose yet the vendee is to facilitate the vendor in accomplishing his obtaining the relevant permission for the relevant purpose from the appropriate Government. Evidence in personification qua the vendor rendering the apt facilitation(s) to the vendee for his obtaining the relevant permission from the appropriate Government stood embedded upon his promptly purveying the relevant documents to the vendee especially when evident absence of transmission thereof by him to the vendee would preclude the latter to obtain the relevant permission. Consequently it is to be determined whether the vendor(s) efficaciously facilitated the vendee to obtain the requisite permission from the appropriate Government comprised in his on the apposite requisitions/elicitations standing made upon him by the vendee his begetting prompt compliance therewith. Contrarily if evidently the vendor omitted to promptly transmit the relevant documents to the vendee for his holding the requisite facilitation besides empowerment to obtain the requisite permission, the imminent sequel thereof would be qua the vendor showing palpable unreadiness or unwillingness to perform his part of the obligation constituted in Clause 3 of Ex.PW-1/B whereupon he would stand encumbered with the concomitant contractual sequel.

9. Be that as it may, Ext.PW-1/B stood executed on 29th November, 2000. Under Ext.PW-1/C the counsel for the plaintiff issued a notice to the defendants calling upon them to provide the documents recited in paragraph 4 thereof. In response thereto under Ext.PW-1/D issued on 8.1.2001 the counsel for the defendants intimated qua the readiness and willingness of the defendants to purvey them the requisitioned documents also it contains a recital calling upon the plaintiff to collect the documents from the office of Rajeev Garg, Advocate, on any working day between 9 a.m to 10 a.m or between 5 a.m to 8 p.m. However, as apparent on a reading of Ext.PW-1/E the relevant documents remained uncollected by the plaintiff from the office of Mr. Rajeev Garg, Advocate. Also, it is apparent on a reading of Ext.PW-1/G qua the defendants upto 19.3.2001 whereat Ext.PW-1/G stood issued upon the defendant(s) theirs thereupto not complying with the request of the plaintiff to purvey him the relevant documents for facilitating him to obtain the relevant permission from the Government. Through Ext.PW-1/L the defendants endeavour to contend qua with the recitals borne on Ext.PW-1/D remaining uncomplied with by the plaintiff whereon they contend qua hence with the plaintiff omitting to obtain the requisite affirmative facilitation from the defendant(s) for empowering him to obtain the relevant permission from the appropriate Government wherefrom they espouse qua his evidently showing unreadiness or unwillingness in obtaining it whereupon they canvass qua the sequel of clause 3 of Ext.PW-1/B encumbering the plaintiff. Hereat the veracity of the portrayals existing in Ext.PW-1/D wherewithin recitals occur qua the counsel for the defendant(s) through the counsel for the plaintiff requesting the latter to collect the relevant documents from the office of Mr. Rajeev Garg, Advocte, is enjoined to be determined. Initially, Mr. Rajeev Garg counsel for the defendants remained unexamined for unveiling an inference therefrom whether the plaintiff had complied with the request encapsulated therein. Consequently, for his non examination an inference stands erect qua the defendants standing disabled to contend qua the plaintiff not visiting his office for the relevant purpose enunciated in Ext.PW-1/D also it warrants the erection of a deduction qua the factum of his holding the relevant documents for their onward transmission to the plaintiff being wholly contrived or engineered. It is enigmatic qua though Mr. Rajeev Garg under Ext.PW-1/D thereunder requested the counsel for the plaintiff to beseech the plaintiff to visit his office for the relevant purpose yet he remained unexamined whereas on his examination, he would have purveyed the best evidence qua the factum whether the plaintiff visiting or not visiting his office also it is enigmatic that despite the counsel for the plaintiff since his making the initial request on 27.12.2000 upon the defendant(s) for the relevant purpose, request whereof stood succeeded by a subsequent request made on 25.2.2001 and on 19.3.2001 wherewithin recitals occur beseeching the defendant(s) to directly dispatch the relevant documents to the plaintiff at his residence, yet the defendants omitted to beget strict compliance therewith rather their counsel enigmatically insisted qua the relevant collection being made by the plaintiff from him. The omission of the defendants to directly transmit the relevant documents to the plaintiff triggers an inference qua theirs contriving the factum of the relevant documents standing held by Mr. Rajeev Garg especially when Mr. Garg remained unexamined whereupon alone the efficacy of the aforesaid inference would stand blunted. With PW-1 in his cross-examination acquiescing to the suggestion put to him in his cross examination by the learned counsel for the defendants while holding him to cross-examination qua his alongwith his father never visiting the office of Rajeev Garg fillips an inference qua the request purveyed by the counsel for the defendants comprised in Ext.PW-1/D qua the plaintiff visiting his office for collecting the relevant documents from him remaining unacceded. However, even if the aforesaid request remained unacceded, it would not relieve the defendants to directly transmit the relevant documents to the plaintiff without insisting upon him to visit the chambers of Mr. Rajeev Garg especially when under Ext.PW-1/E of 25.2.2001 a request was made upon Mr. Rajeev Garg, Advocate, to make a direct transmission of the relevant documents to the plaintiff at his address at Chandigarh. Also if under Ext.PW-1/D of 08/01/2001 the relevant request made thereunder remained uncomplied with by the plaintiff yet with evidently the plaintiff not visiting the chambers of Mr. Rajeev Garg since 08.01.2001 upto 25.2.2001, did enjoin the defendants to since thereat hence affirmatively facilitate the plaintiff to obtain the relevant permission from the Government, conspicuously with a hiatus occurring since 8.1.2001 upto the date of issuance of Ext.PW-1/E on 25.2.2001 whereat the relevant documents remained unsupplied by the defendants to the plaintiff nor also even if the plaintiff did not visit the office of Mr. Rajeev Garg at Solan they were yet enjoined to directly transmit the relevant documents to the plaintiff especially when they were aware of his address. Consequently, theirs omitting to directly dispatch the relevant documents at the residential address of the plaintiff renders theirs insisting upon the plaintiff to comply with the mandate of Ext.PW-1/D to beget an inference of the defendants tacitly by deploying a stratagem besides a ploy of the relevant documents being available with Rajeev Garg, Advocate, concerting to consummate Clause 3 of Ext.PW-1/B qua them. In aftermath, obviously they are to be construed to be engineering the frustration of Ext.PW-1/B hence they are to be construed to be evincing unreadiness and unwillingness to perform their part of the contractual obligation rather theirs concerting to given the deadline fixed for the execution of sale deed avail the benefit of Clause 3 thereof. Also theirs in the garb of the consequences of failure of its execution occurring on 31.3.2001 spurring a consequence of theirs holding a right to secure the forfeiture of earnest money theirs hence engineering to secure the relevant benefit. Their concert has to be disapprobated as tenably done by the learned Court below.

10. Accordingly, I find no merit in the appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the impugned judgement of the learned Additional District Judge, (Presiding Officer) Fast Track Court, Solan, is upheld. 5. Court heard learned Advocates appearing on behalf of parties and Court also perused the entire records carefully.

6. Following points arises for determination in the present petition:

1) Whether petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India read with section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of petition?

2) Final Order.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons:

7. PW-1 Smt. Lalita Devi has stated that Sh.Bhag Singh is her husband. She has stated that marriage was solemnized inter se parties on 06.03.2006 as per Hindu rites and customs. She has stated that minor Punit alias Akshu was born on 11.01.2007. She has stated that she was kept properly for one year and thereafter Sh. Bhag Singh started abusing her and also started beating her. She has stated that relatives of Sh. Bhag Singh also abused her. She has stated that on dated 16.07.2008 she was beaten by Sh. Bhag Singh and her sister. She has further stated that Sh. Bhag Singh refused to give maintenance allowance to her and her minor son. She has further stated that matter was also reported in Panchayat and matter was also reported in police. She has further stated that there is no source of income to maintain herself and her minor son. She has further stated that Sh. Bhag Singh is posted in post and telegraph department. She has further stated that monthly income of Sh. Bhag Singh is Rs.12,000/-. She has further stated that Rs.5,000/- per month as maintenance allowance be granted to her and her minor son. She has denied suggestion that Sh. Bhag Singh did not beat her. She has denied suggestion that Sh. Bhag Singh did not refuse to maintain her and her minor son.

8. PW-2 Smt. Suman Kumari has stated that parties are known to her. She has stated that she is Pradhan of Gram Panchayat. She has stated that in Panchayat brother of Sh. Bhag Singh became angry and started abusing. She has further stated that Sh. Bhag Singh also telephoned her husband and used abusive language. She has further stated that Smt. Lalita Devi and her minor son have no source of income to maintain themselves. She has denied suggestion that she is deposing falsely.

9. PW-3 Sh. Jai Singh has stated that he is posted as Chowkidar in Panchayat. He has stated that parties are known to him. He has stated that quarrel took place inter se parties after one year of marriage. He has stated that it came to his knowledge that Sh. Bhag Singh used to beat his wife after consuming liquor. He has stated that Smt. Lalita Devi is residing in her parents house. He has stated that Smt. Lalita Devi has no source of income to maintain herself and her minor son. He has stated that Smt. Lalita Devi was also beaten in his presence.

10. Sh. Bhag Singh petitioner did not appear in witness box for the purpose of cross-examination and did not adduce any rebuttal evidence.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that Smt. Lalita Devi left her matrimonial house at her own without consent of petitioner and on this ground present petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Sh. Bhag Singh petitioner did not appear in witness box for the purpose of cross-examination. Hence adverse inference under Section 114(g) of Indian Evidence Act 1872 is drawn against petitioner. Plea of petitioner that Smt. Lalita Devi has left her matrimonial house without any reasonable cause is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof). See AIR 1999 Apex Court 1441 Vidyadhar Vs. Mankikrao & Another. Also see AIR 1994 Apex Court 1341 Ishwarbhai C. Patel alias Bachu Bhai Patel Vs. Harihar Behera and another.

12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that principle of natural justice violated by learned Additional Sessions Judge in the present case and reasonable opportunity was not granted to Sh. Bhag Singh to lead evidence in the present case is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Learned Trial Court listed the case for evidence of Sh.Bhag Singh on 7.5.2011. On 7.5.2011 Sh.Bhag Singh did not produce any evidence. Thereafter learned Trial Court listed the case for evidence of Sh.Bhag Singh on 1.7.2011, 9.8.2011 and 26.11.2011. On 26.11.2011 Sh.Bhag Singh did not appear in the Court and he was proceeded ex-parte by learned Trial Court. It is held that sufficient opportunities were granted by learned Trial Court to Sh.Bhag Singh to lead evidence in rebuttal. It is held that despite sufficient opportunities granted by learned Trial Court Sh. Bhag Singh did not lead any rebuttal evidence.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that learned Trial Court did not consider actual income of petitioner and on this ground present petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that Sh. Bhag Singh is posted in post and telegraph department. Smt. Lalita Devi has specifically stated when she appeared in witness box that monthly income of Sh. Bhag Singh is Rs.12,000/- per month. Sh. Bhag Singh did not adduce rebuttal evidence. Even Sh. Bhag Singh did not appear in witness box for the purpose of cross-examination in the present case. Testimony of Smt. Lalita Devi relating to income of Sh. Bhag Singh remains unrebutted on record. Hence it is held that learned Trial Court did not commit any illegality by way of assessing income of Sh. Bhag Singh in the present case.

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that willful neglect on the part of husband is not proved in the present case and on this ground present petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. As per testimonies of PW-1 Smt. Lalita Devi, PW-2 Smt. Suman Kumari Pradhan Gram Panchayat and PW-3 Sh. Jai Singh it is proved on record that Sh. Bhag Singh beaten Smt. Lalita Devi in her matrimonial house and also used abusive language. Testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 are trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of the Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3. There is no evidence on record in order to prove that PW-2 and PW-3 have hostile animus against Sh. Bhag Singh at any point of time. Sh. Bhag Singh petitioner did not appear in witness box personally for the purpose of cross-examination despite opportunities granted by learned Trial Court and Sh. Bhag Singh did not lead any rebuttal evidence. Testimonies of PW-1 Smt. Lalita Devi, PW-2 Smt. Suman Kumari PW-3 Sh. Jai Singh remain unrebutted on record. It is well settled law that statement of wife that she is unable to maintain herself unless rebutted would be enough to grant maintenance allowance. It is well settled law that onus is upon husband to prove otherwise. It is also well settled law that maintenance cannot be denied to wife on the ground that she is able bodied person. It is also well settled law that minor son is legally entitled for maintenance from his father. See AIR 1999 (6) SCC 326 Rajathi Vs. C.Ganesan. See 1981 Criminal Law Journal 210 Bimal Vs. Sukumar Anna Patil and another. Object of section 125 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is to protect women and children from vagrancy and destitution. See AIR 1989 SC 3348 Dwarika Prasad Satpathy Vs. Bidyut Prava Dixit. In view of the above stated facts and case law cited supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final Order).

15. In view of findings upon point No.1 present petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India read with section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure is dismissed. File(s) of learned Trial Court and learned Additional Sessions Judge alongwith certified copy of the order be sent back forthwith. Cr.MMO No. 144/2014 is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

For the appellant : Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. A.G. with Mr. Vikram Thakur Dy. A.G.

For the respondents : Mr. Manoj Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way of this appeal, the appellant/State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Sirmaur at Nahan, in Sessions Trial No. 44-N/7 of 2007, dated 22.02.2013, vide which, learned Trial Court has acquitted the respondents (hereinafter referred to as 'accused') of commission of offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 307 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC).

2. The case of the prosecution was that Smt. Praveena Begum was married to accused No. 1 Firoj Khan on 25.03.2007. From the date of marriage, accused No. 2, mother in law of Praveena Begum used to harass her on the ground that she had not brought car, gold rings whereas accused No. 1 tortured her for not bringing cash, motorcycle and sufficient dowry. It was further the case of the prosecution that Praveena Begum was mentally harassed by accused and she narrated these facts to her mother Smt. Mukhtiyari. It was further the case of the prosecution that on 25.04.2007, when PW1 Praveena Begum was sleeping with accused No. 1 in their house situated at village Sainwala, then at about 12:30 a.m., accused No. 1 woke her and asked her to accompany him to a place near the well on the pretext that treatment of witchcraft had to be done. As accused No. 1 used to act as Exorcist, he took her to a place near the well of village Sainwala where he forced her to sit over the wall of the well and poured water 2-3 times on her. Thereafter, accused No. 1 pushed her (Praveena Begum), as a result, she fell down in the well and raised hue and cry. On hearing her cries, many people reached the spot and pulled her out of the well. PW1 Praveena Begum suffered injuries on her head, face, abdomen and other parts of the body. Thereafter she was taken to Vohra Hospital and first aid was given to her. On 26.04.2006, her parents were informed about the incident and thereafter, on 27.04.2007, report was lodged at police station Poanta Sahib. On the basis of said report, FIR was lodged and investigation was carried out. During the course of investigation, site plan was prepared and photographs of the well were also taken. Medical examination report of Praveena Begum was collected which disclosed injuries on her person. Statements of other witnesses were also recorded under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Cr.P.C'). After the completion of investigation, challan was filed in the Court and as a prima-facie case was found against the accused, accordingly, accused No. 1 was charged for commission of offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 307 of IPC and accused No. 2 was charged for offence punishable under Section 498-A of IPC, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. On the basis of evidence produced on record by the prosecution, learned trial Court concluded that in its opinion, prosecution had not been able to establish charges against the accused beyond reasonable doubt that accused No. 1 and 2 had subjected PW1 Praveena Begum to cruelty with a view to make unlawful demand of dowry or accused No. 1 had attempted to murder her. Accordingly, learned trial Court acquitted the accused.

4. Mr. V.S. Chauhan, learned Additional Advocate General argued that the judgment passed by the learned trial Court vide which it acquitted the accused was not sustainable in law as the learned trial Court erred in not appreciating that the prosecution had proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. He argued that the reasoning of the learned trial Court was manifestly untenable and it was wrongly held by the learned trial Court that testimony of PW1, PW2 and PW4 did not inspire confidence. It was further argued by Mr. Chuahan that learned trial Court erred in coming to the conclusion that no demand of dowry was made by the accused and, in fact, statements of PW2 Gulsher Ali and PW4 Akhtar Ali were not appreciated by the learned trial Court in the correct perspective. Mr. Chauhan further argued that guilt of the accused was duly proved by PW1 and it was duly corroborated by the statements of PW2 and PW4 and despite this, learned trial Court erred in acquitting the accused without appreciating that prosecution, on the basis of evidence led on record, had proved the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. On these bases, it was urged by Mr. Chauhan that the findings of acquittal returned in favour of accused by the learned trial Court be quashed and set aside and they (accused) be convicted for the offence with which they have been charged.

5. Mr. Manoj Thakur, learned counsel for the accused, on the other hand, argued that there was no merit in the present appeal as learned trial Court had rightly acquitted the accused for the offences for which they were charged as the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case against the accused. It was further argued by Mr. Thakur that from the evidence produced on record prosecution was not able to prove the guilt of the accused. He further argued that there were contradictions and inconsistencies in the statements of PW1, PW2 and PW4 which categorically belied the veracity of the case of the prosecution. It was further argued by Mr. Thakur that the statement of PW1 that as to how the incident took place and how she came out of the well was totally in contradiction to the testimony of PW4. As per him, even the version of PW4 was self contradictory as well as totally contrary to the deposition of PW1. He further argued that there was no material placed on record by the prosecution from which it could be inferred that accused had either demanded dowry from the complainant (PW1) or she was subjected to any cruelty by them. On these bases, it was urged by Mr. Thakur that as the judgment of learned trial Court was based on correct appreciation of material placed on record it did not warrant any interference.

6. We have heard the learned Additional Advocate General as well as learned counsel appearing for the respondents/accused. We have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

7. Praveen Begum, who entered the witness box as PW1, stated that she was married to accused Firoj Khan on 25.03.2007. It has come in her deposition that her mother-in-law started harassing her for not bringing dowry after 3-4 days of the marriage. She further deposed that accused used to demand golden ornaments as well as motorcycle from her. She also deposed that she had disclosed the factum of dowry being demanded by the accused to her parents. She also deposed that her mother had assured her that she would take up the matter with her (complainant's) in-laws. This witness further stated that on 25.04.2007, during night, when she was sleeping in her room, her husband came to her and asked her to accompany him to the well for the treatment of witchcraft. She stated that she refused to accompany him but accused No. 1 took her to the village well. She disclosed that thereafter accused No. 1 compelled her to sit over the wall of the well and thereafter poured water 2-3 times on her and pushed her, as a result of which, she fell into the well. She further stated that she made efforts to save herself and came out of the well with the help of wooden stairs. She also deposed that she had suffered injuries on various parts of body and that accused No. 1 ran away after pushing her into the well. She also deposed that when she came out of the well, nobody was there and she raised hue and cry and thereafter she became unconscious. She further stated that when she gained her conscious, she was in her in-law's house. She also stated that accused No. 2 threatened her not to disclose this fact to anyone else. PW1 further stated that with the help of a neighbour, she got in contact with her parents in the morning and through her parents reached her in-law's house. She stated that when her parents reached her in-law's house, both the accused had gone away.

She also stated that her father also brought the Pradhan of the area who called upon the accused to enter into a compromise with her but they (accused) refused to do so. She further stated that on 26.04.2007, they reported the matter at police station Poanta Sahib and she was taken to hospital at Poanta Sahib where she was medically examined. In her cross examination, this witness deposed that as she fell unconscious immediately after coming out of the well, she could not tell as to who brought her from the well to home. She further stated that as soon as she reached the house of her husband, she gained consciousness. She also stated that on the same night, brother of her husband had taken her to Vohra Hospital at Poanta Sahib and she was brought back to her husband's house after treatment on the same night. It has further come in her cross examination that it was in the morning, at around 7:00 a.m. when she asked one of her neighbour to inform her parents about the incident. She stated that she did not remember as to when her parents came to her husband's house.

8. Gulsher Ali, father of complainant, entered the witness box as PW2 and he stated that at the time of marriage of his daughter (complainant) with accused No. 1, he had given dowry as per his capacity. He also stated that PW1 had informed him about the demand of dowry which was being raised by the accused and he had expressed his helplessness in this regard. This witness also deposed that on 26.04.2007, they came to know that in the night of 25.04.2007, accused No. 1 had attempted to kill PW1 by pushing her in the well. He also stated that he went to the house of accused and took PW1 to police station Poanta Sahib where the matter was reported. In his cross examination, he stated that on 26.04.2007, Anwar Ali had not come to him nor he had informed him about the incident. He also stated that his daughter came to his house only once after the marriage and she had disclosed the demands of dowry only once. He also stated that at time of marriage of PW1 with accused No. 1, no demand of dowry was raised. He also stated that he and his wife went to the house of accused No. 1 on 26.04.2007 at around 5:00 p.m. He also stated that after he reached the house of accused, he did not talk with anyone but he caught hold of arm of his daughter and took her to police station Poanta Sahib.

9. PW4 Akhtar Ali deposed that PW1 was his niece and was married with accused No. 1 in the year 2007. He further deposed that in the night of 25.04.2007, at around 12:30 a.m. when he was at his home, he heard cries of "bachao-bachao" from the side of well which was near to his house. He further stated that he and other villagers ran towards the spot and saw that PW1 was making efforts to come out of the well. She had caught hold of a wooden plank. He further stated that they assisted her to get out of the well and that though she was saved but she had sustained many injuries. He further deposed that thereafter PW1 disclosed that accused No. 1 allured her to accompany him to the well on the pretext of her treatment from witchcraft and thereafter accused No. 1 poured water 2-3 times on her and thereafter, pushed her in the well. In the cross examination, this witness deposed that his house was at a distance of about 50 metres from the house of accused. He deposed that Praveena never came to his house after her marriage. He further stated that when they went to well, they saw that Praveena had caught hold of a wooden plank which was on the lower point of the well. He further stated that there was water in the well which was at a distance of 35 feet from the mouth of the well. He further stated that when they reached the spot on hearing the cries, accused, his parents and brother were already present there. He also stated that except his family members no other person of the village was present on the spot. He further stated that after pulling PW1 from the well, he (PW4) took her (PW1) to Vohra Hospital Poanta Sahib and thereafter he took PW1 from hospital to house of accused. This witness stated that after pulling Parveena from the well they asked Parveena as to how she fell in the well but she did not tell anything and remain silent. He further stated that he pulled PW1 out of well with the help of a rope which he had brought from his house. He deposed that he took PW1 to Vohra hospital on his motorcycle. He also stated that he did not disclose the incident to the parent of PW1 or the fact that she was pushed into the well by accused No. 1 and he had saved her by pulling her out of the well. He further stated that it was around 4:00 p.m. that Parveena told him that PW1 had pushed her in the well and thereafter he informed her (complainant's) parents. He further stated that parents of PW1 came to house of the accused in his absence as he had gone to the school and when he returned from the school, he found many people gathered in the house of Pradhan of Gram Panchayat and accused Firoj Khan was refuting that he had pushed PW1 in the well. Investigating Officer Gurbakash Singh entered the witness box as PW9 and corroborated the case of the prosecution. In his cross examination, he stated that there were no stairs in the well with the help of which one could get out of same.

10. These are the main witnesses on whose testimony prosecution had relied upon to prove the guilt of the accused.

11. A perusal of the statements of PW1, PW2 and PW4 demonstrates that there are lot of inconsistencies and contradictions in their version. Both PW2 and PW4 are closely related to PW1 and because they are interested witnesses, their testimony is required to be appreciated with caution. In her statement made in the Court, it was stated by complainant that her harassment by the accused on the pretext of dowry commenced about 3-4 days after her marriage with accused No 1. It was further mentioned by the complainant in her statement that on 25.04.2007, accused No. 1 had asked her to proceed towards the well for treatment by witchcraft and she initially refused but thereafter she was taken to the said well and was forced to sit on the wall of the well and water was poured on her 2-3 times and thereafter she was pushed into the well. It has also come in her deposition that after she was pushed into the well, she saved herself by getting hold of a plank and further that she came out of well with the help of wooden stairs. She further deposed that she suffered injuries on account of this and that accused No. 1 had in fact ran away after pushing her in the well and when she came out of the well, no one was there and she raised hue and cry and became unconscious. It has further come in her deposition that she gained consciousness in the house of her in-laws. This version as given by the complainant is totally contrary to the deposition of PW4 Akhtar Ali. As per PW4 Akhtar Ali, on hearing the hues and cries of the complainant, he alongwith other villagers reached the spot and saw that the complainant was making efforts to get out of the well and as per this witness, they pulled out the complainant from the well and thereafter, complainant disclosed to him the mode and manner in which she was allured to come to well by accused No. 1 and the factum of accused No. 1 pushing her into the well.

12. Besides this, PW1 deposed in her statement in the Court that after she gained consciousness in the house of her in-laws, she was threatened not to disclose the incident to any one by accused No. 2 and in the morning she conveyed the occurrence of the incident to her parents with the help of one neighbour. Now, in her entire deposition, PW1 has not disclosed as to who was this neighbour, whose assistance was taken by her to inform her parents about her being pushed in to the well by her husband. In her cross examination, she stated that she informed her parents through the said neighbour at around 7:00 a.m. in the morning. However, a perusal of the statement of PW4 Akhtar Ali demonstrates that in his cross examination he has stated that after the occurrence of the incident, at around 4:00 p.m. Praveena i.e. complainant told him that Firoj Khan pushed her into the well and thereafter he forwarded this information to her parents. Another major contradiction in the testimony of PW1 and PW4 is that as per PW1 when she came out of the well, no one was present there and after raising hue and cry, she became unconscious and gained conscious in the house of her in-laws. However, PW4 deposed that complainant disclosed to him that she was pushed into the well by accused No. 1 and thereafter, he took her to Vohra Hospital from where she was taken to house of her in-laws. These major contradictions and inconsistencies in the testimony of PW1 and PW4 create grave suspicion over the veracity of the version of prosecution story. No cogent explanation has come forth from the prosecution as to why there were these major contradictions and inconsistencies in the statement of complainant (PW1) and PW4. Incidentally, a perusal of statement of complainant made in the Court demonstrates that same is inconsistent with the contents of complaint/FIR etc. which was initially registered with the police. Ext. PW1/A which is the copy of rapat rojnamcha demonstrates that it is recorded in the same that on 25.04.2007 when she was sleeping, her husband took her to the well and he started beating her there and thereafter under the guise of witchcraft he pushed her into the well. However, in her statement as recorded in the court, there is no mention in the same that she was given beatings by accused No. 1 after reaching at the well. Not only this, there is not even a whisper about demand of dowry etc. in the rapat rojnamcha, however, in the FIR which was thereafter registered on 27.04.2007, copy of which is on record as Ext. PW1/B, the factum of demand of dowry from the complainant by the accused has been introduced. Strangely, in the FIR, there is no mention that when the complainant was taken to the well by the accused on the night of 25.04.2007, she was beaten near the well by accused No. 1. Though PW1 in the Court stated that after accused No. 1 took her to the well he poured water on her 2-3 times before pushing her in the well, however, these facts are not so recorded either in rojnamcha Ext. PW1/A or FIR Ext. PW1/B. Whereas it has come in the testimony of PW4 that after the complainant was rescued from the well he took her to the Vohra hospital, however, PW1, the complainant has stated that she was taken to the said hospital by the brother of the accused.

13. Now incidentally, though it has come in the statement of PW4 Akhtar Ali that on the fateful night he alongwith other villagers rescued the complainant from the well, however, no independent witness has been examined by the prosecution to corroborate this version of PW4. It is a matter of record that PW4 is closely related to complainant and further it is also a matter of record that there is no consistency in the statement of PW1 and PW4 so as to believe the case of prosecution.

14. Another relevant point to be taken into consideration is that though complainant has stated that she saved herself by holding a wooden plank after she was pushed into the well and came out of the well with the help of wooden stairs, however, it has come in the statement of PW9, the Investigating Officer that there did not exist any stair case in the well.

15. Even the statement of PW2, father of the complainant, does not inspire confidence and seems not to be reliable. He has denied that the factum of PW4 having informed him about the alleged incident of the complainant being pushed into the well by accused No. 1 whereas PW4 has deposed that this information was conveyed to the parents of the complainant by him.

16. Therefore, in our considered view, on the basis of evidence produced on record by the prosecution both documentary as well as ocular, it cannot be said that prosecution was able to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

17. Besides this, learned trial Court after taking into consideration all aspects of the matter has returned the findings of acquittal in favour of accused. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohammed Ankoos and Others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad, (2010) 1 Supreme Court Cases 94

> "12. This Court has, time and again, dealt with the scope of exercise of power by the Appellate Court against judgment of acquittal under Sections 378 and 386, Cr.P.C. It has been repeatedly held that if two views are possible, the Appellate Court should not ordinarily interfere with the judgment of acquittal. This Court has laid down that Appellate Court shall not reverse a judgment of acquittal because another view is possible to be taken. It is not necessary to multiply the decisions on the subject and reference to a later decision of this Court in Ghurey Lal v. State Of Uttar Pradesh1 shall suffice wherein this Court considered a long line of cases and held thus : (SCC p.477, paras 69 -70)
> "69. The following principles emerge from the cases above:
> 1. The appellate court may review the evidence in appeals against acquittal under Sections 378 and 386 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973. Its power of reviewing evidence is wide and the appellate court can reappreciate the entire evidence on record. It can review the trial court's conclusion with respect to both facts and law.
> 2. The accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The accused possessed this presumption when (2008) 10 SCC 450 he was before the trial court. The trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption that he is innocent.

3. Due or proper weight and consideration must be given to the trial court's decision. This is especially true when a witness' credibility is at issue. It is not enough for the High Court to take a different view of the evidence. There must also be substantial and compelling reasons for holding that the trial court was wrong.

70. In light of the above, the High Court and other appellate courts should follow the well-settled principles crystallised by number of judgments if it is going to overrule or otherwise disturb the trial court's acquittal:

1. The appellate court may only overrule or otherwise disturb the trial court's acquittal if it has "very substantial and compelling reasons" for doing so.

A number of instances arise in which the appellate court would have "very substantial and compelling reasons" to discard the trial court's decision. "Very substantial and compelling reasons" exist when:

(i) The trial court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong;

(ii) The trial court's decision was based on an erroneous view of law;

(iii) The trial court's judgment is likely to result in "grave miscarriage of justice";

(iv) The entire approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal;

(v) The trial court's judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable;

(vi) The trial court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declarations/report of the ballistic expert, etc.

(vii) This list is intended to be illustrative, not exhaustive.

2. The appellate court must always give proper weight and consideration to the findings of the trial court.

3. If two reasonable views can be reached--one that leads to acquittal, the other to conviction--the High Courts/appellate courts must rule in favour of the accused."

18. In State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Kahan Chand, 2016 (1) Drugs Cases (Narcotics) 576, a Coordinate Bench of this Court has held as under

"19. The accused has had the advantage of having been acquitted by the Court below. Keeping in view the ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court in Mohamed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94, it cannot be said that the Court below has not correctly appreciated the evidence on record or that acquittal of the accused has resulted into travesty of justice. No ground for interference is called for. The present appeal is dismissed. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged."

19. We have also gone through the judgment so passed by the learned trial Court and, in our considered view, the findings so returned by the learned trial Court are neither perverse nor it can be said that the findings so returned by the learned trial Court are not borne out from the records of the case and the same do not call for any interference.

20. Accordingly, while concurring with the findings of acquittal returned by the learned trial Court, we dismiss the present appeal being devoid of any merit, so also pending miscellaneous application(s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Vikesh Kumar ....Petitioner

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and others ....Respondents

CWP No. 356 of 2016.
Date of decision: 29.11.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for fair price shop – however, the shop was allotted to respondent No. 4- the allotment was challenged – held, that the petitioner had not annexed any documents with the application while the respondent No. 4 had annexed the requisite documents – a person has to approach the Court with clean hands – a person making false statement or suppressing material facts is not entitled to any relief- the petition dismissed with the cost of Rs. 25,000/-. (Para- 2 to 14)

For the Petitioner : Mr. Ravinder Singh Jaswal, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent s No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisht, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral)

The brief facts as pleaded in the petition are that the respondent-department had invited applications for allotment of fair price shop for three wards of Gram Panchayat Dhagoli namely Gyari, Mangyari and Jhanjhvani. It is averred that the petitioner being fully eligible, applied for the fair price shop, Mangyari and alongwith the application submitted all the requisite documents for the grant of fair price shop i.e. 10th, +2 certificates, medical certificate and also BPL card/certificate. Whereas, the respondent No.4 in whose favour the fair price shop has now been allotted, had though submitted an application, but the same was without any supporting documents and it is on these basis that the petitioner has filed the instant petition claiming therein the following substantive reliefs:

> "(i) That the impugned Annexure P-5 i.e. allotment of Fair Price Shop in favour of respondent No.4 may kindly be quashed and set-aside.
> (ii) That the respondent department may further be directed to sanction the Fair Price Shop in the name of the petitioner being his eligibility for the same in accordance with law and after following procedure and permit him to open the Fair Price Shop."

2. Respondents No. 1 to 3 have filed the reply wherein it was specifically averred that three applications uptil 9.10.2015 were received for the allotment of fair price shop in question and were accordingly placed before the Public Distribution Committee in the meeting held on 23.11.2015. It was found that the petitioner had not enclosed any document with the application so as to enable the Committee to ascertain his merit and left with no option the Committee evaluated the two other applicants and thereafter recommended the name of respondent No.4, who was the first in merit.

3. When the matter came up before this Court on 28.11.2016, learned counsel for the petitioner was specifically confronted with the reply of the respondents wherein it had been alleged that the petitioner had not annexed any documents alongwith his application and also to seek instructions in this regard. However, he would insist and maintain that he had full instructions to inform this Court that the petitioner in fact had submitted all the documents as mentioned in para-4 of the petition i.e. 10th, +2 certificates, Medical Certificate and BPL card alongwith his application. Not only this, he would further maintain that it was the respondent No.4, who though has been allotted the shop had in fact not submitted any documents with his application.

4. We accordingly adjourned the case for 29.11.2016 and the respondents were directed to make available the records.

5. Today, the respondents have produced the reords and we have gone through the same and find that though the application of the petitioner is available therein, but there is no document accompanying the same. Whereas, on the other hand, the application of respondent No.4 is also available on record and is accompanied by the following documents:

(i) Matriculation Certificate;

(ii) Unemployment Certificate;

(iii) BPL certificate; and

(iv) Permanent Resident Certificate.

6. Thus, on the basis of the record, it is proved that the averments made by the petitioner in the writ petition are false to his very knowledge.

7. It is settled law that one has to approach the Court with clean hands, clean mind, clean heart and clean objective. A prerogative remedy is not a matter of course. While exercising extraordinary power, writ Court would certainly bear in mind the conduct of the party who invokes the jurisdiction of the Court. If the applicant makes a false statement or suppresses material facts or attempts to mislead the Court, the Court may dismiss the application on that ground alone and may refuse to enter into the merits of the case.

8. In order to sustain and maintain the sanctity and solemnity of the proceedings in law Courts, it is necessary that parties should not make false or knowingly, inaccurate statements or misrepresentation and/or should not conceal material facts with a design to gain some advantage or benefit at the hands of the Court, when a Court is considered as a place where truth and justice are the solemn pursuits. If any party attempts to pollute such a place by adopting recourse to make misrepresentation and is concealing material facts it does so at its risk and cost. Such party must be ready to take the consequences that follow on account of its own making.

9. The Court proceedings are not a game of chess. At no cost can the stream of justice be permitted to be polluted by unscrupulous litigants. The writ Court while exercising the writ jurisdiction exercises equitable jurisdiction. The estoppel stems from equitable doctrine and it requires that he who seeks equity must do equity. Not only this, a person who seeks equity, must act in a fair and equitable manner. The equitable jurisdiction cannot be exercised in case of a person who himself has acted unfairly. Even compassion cannot be shown in such cases. The compassion cannot be allowed to bend the arms of justice in a case where an individual(s) has tried to acquire any right by unscrupulous or forcible methods.

10. Equally, the judicial process should never become an instrument of oppression or abuse or a means in the process of the Court to subvert justice. The legal maxim "Jure naturae aequum est neminem cum alterius detrimento et injuria fieri locupletiorem", means that it is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another.

11. The law on the subject is well settled and on the basis of various pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme court, the following principles can conveniently be culled out:

"1. A writ remedy is an equitable one. While exercising extraordinary power a Writ Court certainly bear in mind the conduct of the party who invokes the jurisdiction of the Court.

2. Litigant before the Writ Court must come with clean hands, clean heart, clean mind and clean objective. He should disclose all facts without suppressing anything. Litigant cannot be allowed to play "hide and seek" or to "pick and choose" the facts he likes to disclose and to suppress (keep back)/ conceal other facts.

3. Suppression or concealment of material facts is not an advocacy. It is a jugglery, manipulation, manoeuvring or mis representation which has no place in equitable and prerogative jurisdiction.

4. If litigant does not disclose all the material facts fairly and truly or states them in a distorted manner and misleads the Court, the Court has inherent power to refuse to proceed further with the examination of the case on merits. If Court does not reject the petition on that ground, the Court would be failing in its duty.

5. Such a litigant requires to be dealt with for Contempt of Court for abusing the process of the Court.

6. There is a compelling need to take a serious view in such matters to ensure purity and grace in the administration of justice.

7. The litigation in the Court of law is not a game of chess. The Court is bound to see the conduct of party who is invoking such jurisdiction."

12. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this petition is sans merit and the same is otherwise liable to be dismissed with heavy costs, more particularly, when the petitioner by misleading this Court has obtained ad-interim orders on 16.02.2016 and thereby deprived the residents of village Mangyari, P.O. Kanthali, Tehsil Chirgaon, District Shimla, H.P. of the fair price shop. Though, it is represented by the petitioner that he is extremely poor and unemployed person and suffering physical disability of 45%. However, these fact in themselves, do not give licence to the petitioner to adopt unscrupulous methods while approaching the temple of justice, that too, claiming therein equitable and discretionary relief.

13. Accordingly, the petition is dismissed with costs assessed at Rs. 25,000/- (Twenty Five Thousand) to be paid to respondent No.2 within a period of four weeks from today, failing which, respondent No.2 shall be free to have this order executed by filing execution petition.

14. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s) if any. Interim order granted by this Court on 16.02.2016 is vacated.

For petitioner/Co-accused : Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Rakesh Chauhan, Advocate

For Non-petitioner : Mr. Pankaj Negi, Dy. A.G.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail application is filed under Section 439 Cr.PC for grant of bail relating to FIR No.274 of 2016 dated 20.10.2016 registered under Sections 341, 323, 324, 307 read with section 34 IPC in Police Station Hamirpur Distt. Hamirpur (H.P.).

Brief facts of case:

2. On dated 20.10.2016 injured Vishal reported to the investigating agency that on 20.10.2016 he visited Govt. Degree College Hamirpur to appear in a paper and after examination at about 4.15 P.M. he was returning home alongwith Neeraj Sharma on his motorcycle. It is alleged that when injured Vishal came out of the gate of the college then accused persons namely Santosh Kumar, Saurav and Aadesh were standing. It is alleged that accused persons asked the injured to alight from his motorcycle. It is further alleged that as soon as injured alighted from the motorcycle all the accused persons started beating injured with fist and leg blows. It is further alleged that co-accused caught hold the injured from his arms and legs and co-accused Santosh Kumar gave a blow of 'Khukhri' (Sharp edged weapon) on the head of injured. It is further alleged that accused persons also proclaimed that they would kill injured namely Vishal. It is further alleged that after receiving blows of 'Khukhri' (Sharp edged weapon) injured Vishal became unconscious and fell down. It is further alleged that injured was saved by Neeraj Sharma, Pankaj Kumar and Tain Singh who brought the injured to hospital for his medical treatment. It is further alleged that 'Khukhri' (Sharp edged weapon) recovered. It is further alleged that Medical Officer has given opinion that injury upon the body of injured was dangerous to life.

3. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and learned Deputy Advocate General appearing on behalf of State and Court also perused the entire record carefully.

4. Following points arises for determination:

(1) Whether bail application filed by co-accused Aadesh Kumar is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail application?

(2) Final Order.

Findings upon Point No.1 with reasons.

5. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of co-accused Aadesh Kumar that Aadesh Kumar did not commit any offence as alleged by the investigating agency cannot be decided at this stage of the case. Same fact will be decided by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of co-accused Aadesh Kumar that investigation is completed in the present case and petitioner is not required for investigation purpose and petitioner is a student of BSc-IIIrd year and he has to appear in coming examination and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered (1) Nature and seriousness of offence. (2) Character of evidence. (3) Reasonable possibility of the presence of accused in trial or investigation. (4) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with. (5) Larger interest of the public or State. See AIR 1978 Apex Court 179 Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 Apex Court 253 The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It is well settled law that grant of bail is rule and committal to jail is an exception. It is also well settled law that refusal of bail is restriction on the personal liberty of individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It is well settled law that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for an indefinite period. See 2012 Criminal Law Journal 702 Apex Court Sanjay Chandra Vs. CBI. In the present case accused is in judicial custody and accused is not required for investigation purpose. In the present case weapon is also recovered by the investigating agency. There is no report of investigating agency that injured namely Vishal is admitted in the hospital as in-door patient as of today. In view of the fact that petitioner is a student and in view of the fact that petitioner is not required for investigation purpose by the investigating agency and in view of the fact that trial will be concluded in due course of time Court is of the opinion that it is expedient in the ends of justice to release the petitioner on bail.

7. Submission of learned Deputy Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then petitioner will induce and threat prosecution witnesses and on this ground bail application be declined is rejected being devoid of merits for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Co-accused Aadesh Kumar has given undertaking that he would not induce or threat prosecution witnesses. It is held that conditional bail will be granted to co-accused Aadesh Kumar. It is held that if co-accused Aadesh Kumar will flout terms and conditions of conditional bail then prosecution agency or investigating agency will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail as provided under section 439(2) Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. In view of the above stated facts point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.2 (Final order).

8. In view of my findings on point No.1 above bail application filed by co-accused Aadesh Kumar under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is allowed on furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rupees One lac with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned Trial Court on following terms and conditions. (3) That co-accused Aadesh Kumar shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing facts to the investigating officer or to the Court. (4) That co-accused Aadesh Kumar will not leave India without prior permission of the Court. (5) That co-accused Aadesh Kumar will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. Mr. Vijay Arora, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 and 3.
Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

By way of this writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:

"(i) That a writ in the nature of certiorari may be issued and notification Annexure P-6 dated 12.03.2012 may be quashed and set aside.

(ii) That a writ in the nature of mandamus may be issued directing the respondents that all the NGOS/Co-operative Societies who, in furtherance of the publicity made by HIMURJA and their Project Officers have submitted their Pre Feasibility Reports and the inspections have been conducted by the HIMURJA, in their cases, they may be issued allotment letters on the same elevations as submitted by them, in the interest of justice.

(iii) That a writ in the nature of certiorari may be issued and Annexure P-7 and Annexure P-8 may be quashed and set aside whereby the applications of the NGOS/Co-operative Societies have been rejected.

(iv) To produce the entire record pertaining to the case before this Hon'ble Court for its kind perusal.

(v) Any other relief as may be deemed just and proper keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case may also be granted in favour of the petitioners."

2. Petitioner claims itself to be an association of NGOs./Co-operative Societies, who had identified the project sites (self identified) in furtherance of a Scheme floated by the Government of India, Ministry of New and Renewable Energy (Annexure P-2). As per the petitioner, its members identified the sites and completed entire work on asking of respondent No. 3, but vide a new notification dated 12.03.2012, entire work done by the members of the petitioner-Association was brought to a "big zero causing them lot of financial losses, loss of energy and time spent on this, as entire work done by the members of the petitioner-association would be utilized by some other persons."

3. Case put forth by the petitioner is that Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, Small Hydro Power Division (respondent No. 4) issued a Scheme, i.e. Scheme for Development/Up-gradation of Watermills and setting up Micro Hydel Projects (upto 100 KW capacity) to encourage and accelerate the development of Watermills and Micro Hydel Projects in the remote and hilly areas by providing Central Financial Assistance (hereinafter referred to as "CFA"). Respondent No. 3 HIMURJA was made Nodal Agency of the said Scheme which was to further advertise and propagate the same through its website. The Scheme was accordingly propagated by respondent No. 3 through its website as well as through its District Level Officers. In the backdrop of the Scheme, members of petitioner-association identified the sites as per the Scheme and after identification, various developers started further work and Pre-feasibility Reports qua their self identified sites were prepared and the same were submitted to respondent No. 3. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that after preparation of Pre-feasibility reports, sites were inspected by the field staff of HIMURJA and suitability reports of such self identified sites were submitted by the inspection team to HIMURJA. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that for the identification of sites, NGOs. and Co-operative Societies engaged services of experts and spent huge amounts for the activities so undertaken by them including for joint inspections. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that after clearances were given post inspection, each developer obtained NOC after spending lot of money and time and all the self identified projects were in an advance stage and only execution of the work remained to be commenced. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that these self identified sites fall within Intellectual Property Rights of the developers and respondents were now estopped from cancelling such applications and allocating these projects on the basis of advertisement to others. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that its members had requested for issuance of allotment letters of the projects in their favour as they had completed all other formalities in this regard, however, rather than acting on the Scheme which was so formulated by the Government of India and ignoring the fact that a lot of work had been done at so many sites by the members of the petitioner-association, respondent-State came up with a Draft Policy for setting up Micro Hydel Projects up to 100 KW capacity in Himachal Pradesh. As per the petitioner-association, the members of the petitioner-association were surprised at the Draft Policy which was so circulated by the State, since after completing the entire work in anticipation of allotment letters, its members which included NGOs./Co-operative Societies were taken back with shock. Further, as per the petitioner-association, detailed objections were filed to the said Draft Policy vide Annexure P-5, however, without taking into consideration the objections so filed by its members, respondent-State notified a Policy, i.e. "Policy for setting up of Micro Hydel Projects up to 100 KW" vide Notification dated 12.03.2012 (Annexure P-6). As per Clause 6.1 of this Policy, the applications of the NGOs/Co-operative Societies were rejected vide Annexure P-7 dated 29.05.2012. It is further the case of the petitioner-association that thereafter all the Projects were also cancelled vide Annexure P-8. In this background, the petitioner-association has filed the present petition praying for quashing of notification dated 12.03.2012 (Annexure P-6) on the ground that the impugned act of the State is arbitrary, discriminatory, illegal and defeats the legitimate expectation of members of petitioner-association and further for issuance of direction to the respondent-State to issue allotment letters in favour of NGOs/Co-operative Societies, who in furtherance of publicity made by HIMURJA and their Project Officers, submitted their Pre-feasibility reports and inspection qua which was carried out by HIMURJA.

4. In their reply, respondents No. 1 to 3 have challenged the maintainability of the writ petition and stated that in fact the Scheme of the Government of India was displayed on HIMURJA website only for the purpose of knowledge of public and the proposals which were submitted by the applicants were without any invitation by HIMURJA. As per respondents No. 1 to 3, no applications were invited by HIMURJA on the basis of Government of India Scheme and 90 aspirants who submitted 207 applications to HIMURJA, had submitted the same out of their own volition. It is further mentioned in the reply filed by the said respondents that these proposals were submitted by the applicants on subsidy format of MNRE, which was meant for availing only capital subsidy from MNRE, Government of India, but were not fulfilling the criteria required for allotment of Project by the respondent-State and said incomplete proposals were not comparable in any meaningful evaluation to draw a merit list. It is further mentioned in the reply that as Government of India had made State Nodal Agency responsible for proper utilization of subsidy (CFA) part, which was comparatively much higher than any other hydro project subsidy being provided by MNRE Government of India, the State Governments were within their right to frame such Rules and Regulations which ensured proper utilization of CFA by way of a policy. Accordingly, as per the said respondents, it was in this background that policy dated 12.03.2012 was notified and it was mentioned in Clause 6.1 of the same that "No preference will be given to the applicants who have already submitted their proposals in HIMURJA. All the applicants will have to submit fresh application for each project with requisite fee on the standard application format (Annexure R-3) and complete other formalities mentioned in the policy." It is further submitted by the said respondents that that the applications submitted pursuant to the Government of India Scheme were not fulfilling the requirements as per the policy which was approved by the Government of Himachal Pradesh and lacked Gram Sabha NOC for setting up of the project, commitment of funds to meet the balance project cost, proof of land availability required for the project, audited balance sheets of the applicant for last three years, certified copy of the registration certificate, memorandum of articles of association or bye laws, proof of bonafide Himachali and proof of financial capability. It is mentioned in the reply that as all the proposals submitted by the applicants had one deficiency or the other, the proposals were accordingly rejected. As far as the issue of maintainability of the writ petition is concerned, it is mentioned in the reply that though 90 applicants had applied under the Scheme notified by the Government of India, but Annexure P-3, which was letter written by the petitioner-association to Secretary (Power) was just signed by 7 Societies/NGOs. It is further mentioned in the reply that with regard to 90 applicants who had submitted 207 applications suo moto, 48 applicants had submitted 115 applications directly to HIMURJA at its Headquarter, whereas 42 applicants had submitted 92 applications through field offices of HIMURJA for setting up projects up to 100 KW. It is further mentioned in the reply that joint inspections, if any, carried out by HIMURJA field staff of these suo moto applications did not study available potential for higher capacity projects available upstream or downstream the water head. It is further mentioned in the reply that whereas projects upto 100 KW had fragmented 154 streams in 8 Districts, it was possible to come up with a single project of higher capacity on a stream which could avoid wastage of land. It is further mentioned in the reply that majority of applications had been received from the soft areas where power requirement was already met by the Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board Limited and very few applications were received from tribal and remote areas. It is also mentioned in the reply that even otherwise, the Department could not have had restricted any individual from carrying out any investigation at their own cost and time and that these investigations were carried out by the individual/applicants at their own risk and cost, therefore, such like applicants could not take benefit by pleading that they had made huge investments for identification of the projects, which in fact was far away from true facts. It is further mentioned in the reply that the contention of the petitioner-association that the applicants had spent considerable labour, amount and time was a deliberate attempt made by the petitioner to capture sites without advertisement/notice inviting applications for allotment of projects as per the Scheme issued by the Government of Himachal Pradesh, and if the plea of the petitioner was accepted, then it will create unhealthy competition vis-à-vis petitioner and other applicants who want to apply for 100 KW capacity. It is denied by the State that issuance of policy by the State Government was a surprise and it is submitted in the reply that the persons who submitted their applications earlier suo moto were free to complete all codal formalities as per the State policy and resubmit fresh applications to the Government as and when the applications were so invited. It is further mentioned in the reply that the respondents could not even otherwise have had permitted the applicants to go ahead with the sites without appropriate study and guidelines only because 90% subsidy was available for these projects. It is further mentioned in the reply that in Himachal Pradesh 100% census villages and 98% consumers had been provided electricity through grid connections and these projects were meant for areas where grid connectivity was not available. It is further mentioned in the reply that only 20 applications had been received from remote areas and even in the said remote areas grid availability was available, and in view of less requirement of such projects, 100 KW projects were not a necessity in the State of Himachal Pradesh much less a priority for the State. The claim of Intellectual Property Rights of the applicants as claimed by the petitioner over natural resources is also denied in the reply and on these bases, respondents No. 1 to 3 disputed the claim of the petitioner-association.

5. In its reply filed by respondent No. 4, the stand taken by the said respondent is that the petitioner had sought relief against the Government of Himachal Pradesh and further as the decision of setting up SHP/MHP projects or its allocation was taken by the State Government, respondent No. 4 had no role in this process. Said respondent in its reply has given details of Central Financial Assistance for Watermills and Micro Hydel Projects being granted by the Union and also mentioned the procedure for availing CFA Micro Hydel Projects, which are quoted hereinbelow:

> "IV Procedure for Availing CFA Micro Hydel Projects:
> The State Government Departments/State nodal Agencies, Local Bodies, Co-operatives, NGOs. etc. intending to avail CFA are required to submit the application as per enclosed format alongwith the following documets:
>
> (i) Two copies of Project report covering various aspects of project implementation, completion schedule, O & M and cost estimates.
> (ii) State Government approval for the implementation of the project.
> (iii) Commitment of funds to meet the balance project cost.
> (iv) Proof of land availability required for the project."

6. The stand taken in para-4 of the reply affidavit filed by respondent No. 4 to the writ petition is quoted hereinbelow:

> "4. That further the decision of setting up SHP/MHP projects or its allotment is taken by the State Government. The replying Deponent has "N" role in this process. The expression of interests/proposals/bids from developers are invited by the State Government/HIMURJA. However, it is respectfully submitted here that the deponent i.e. (MNRE) is responsible for the development of small hydro projects up to 25 MW station capacity as per Government of India's Allocation of Business Rules. Electricity and electricity generated from hydro projects is concurrent subject of Central and State Governments. Water being State subject, the SHP/MHP projects is governed by the State policies. The decision of setting up SHP/MHP projects or its allotment is taken by the State Government. The Ministry of New and Renewable Energy has no role in this process. The expression of interests/proposals/bids from private developers are invited by the State Government. The MNRE do not set up or allocate any small hydro project. It only provides Central Financial Assistance (CFA) for setting up MHP/SHP projects in the States. For the State of Himachal Pradesh the expression of interests/proposals/bids from MHP/SHP developers are invited by the HIMURJA. However, Central Financial Assistance (CFA)/subsidy to SHP/MHP projects is provided to the developer based on the approval of the project and on the fulfilling the all conditions of eligibility for the same as per applicable MNRE Scheme for SHP programme."

7. No rejoinders were filed to these replies neither any rejoinder was intended to be filed by the petitioners.

8. During the pendency of this writ petition, on 01.03.2016, this Court had passed the following order:

"Shri Vijay Arora, learned counsel appearing for respondents No. 2 and 3 while inviting our attention to notification dated 12th March, 2012, issued by Principal Secretary (NES), State of Himachal Pradesh and communication dated 18th February, 2009, issued by the Ministry of New & Renewable Energy, Government of India, contends that the present petition has become infructuous, inasmuch as the plan period has come to an end w.e.f. 31st March, 2012. Let this fact be ascertained both by the State as also the Central Government. Affidavit in that regard be filed positively within a period of two weeks from today, failing which, respondent No. 1 shall personally remain present in the Court.

9. In obedience to the abovementioned order passed by this Court, an affidavit was filed by Additional Chief Secretary (NES) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, relevant portion of which is quoted hereinbelow:

It is therefore, respectfully prayed that in view of the facts and circumstances narrated here in above the present petition may kindly be dismissed in the interest of justice."

10. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the pleadings of the parties.

11. In our considered view, the contention of the petitioner-association that because its members had applied for allotment of projects pursuant to the Scheme notified by Government of India vide Annexure P-2, the State had no authority to come with the amended policy and the projects have to be allotted to its members as a matter of right as they legitimately expected these projects to be allotted to them is without any merit. No material has been placed on record by the petitioner-Society from which it can be inferred that any holding out was made by the respondent-State or HIMURJA on the basis of the Scheme floated by Government of India by inviting applications thereupon. Not only this, no material has been placed on record by the petitioner-association from which it can be inferred that the proposed self identified sites of members of the petitioner-association were got inspected with the consent of the Government of Himachal Pradesh. Not only this, no material has been placed on record by the petitioner from which it can be inferred that the Government of Himachal Pradesh was not having any authority in law to issue notification dated 12.03.2012 which has been challenged by way of this writ petition. On the other hand, it is apparent and evident from the reply which has been filed by respondent No. 4, i.e. Union of India that issuance of the policy for allotment of SHP/MHP projects or its allotment was the domain of State Government and Union of Indian has no role in this process. It is further evident from the reply of respondent No. 4 that expression of interests/proposals/bids from private developers are invited by the State Governments or the nodal agency of the State Government. Therefore, the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the issuance of the policy by the Government of Himachal Pradesh is without any authority in law has no force. Even otherwise, in our considered view, the Scheme floated by the Government of India did not confer any indefeasible right upon the members of the petitioner-association, who purportedly applied for allotment of the projects on the basis of the Scheme so floated by the Government of India. In view of the reply filed by respondent No. 4, no such indefeasible right could have been created by a Scheme issued by the Government of India by supplanting the powers of respective State Governments in this regard. In this background, there is no question of any legitimate expectation having accrued in favour of the members of the petitioner-association of being allotted projects/sites qua which they submitted their applications pursuant to the Scheme floated by the Government of India. Not only this, there is a specific stand even otherwise taken by the respondent-State in its reply that the applications which were submitted by the applicants in response to the Scheme floated by the Government of India were incomplete applications and there was one discrepancy or the other in these applications. The stand so taken in its reply by respondents No. 1 to 3 has not been contradicted by the petitioner by way of any rejoinder.

12. The contention of the petitioner-association that its members were entitled to be allotted the sites qua which they had submitted their applications pursuant to Scheme floated in this regard by respondent No. 4 and that respondent-State had no authority to issue policy vide notification dated 12.03.2012 has not even been supported by respondent No. 4. On the other hand, it is apparent from the stand taken by respondent No. 4 in its reply in general and in para-4 of its reply in particular that the State had the right to issue a policy for the purpose of laying down a uniform criteria to distribute Government largesse.

13. In our considered view, as far as the facts of the present case are concerned, there was no holding out made at any stage to any of the applicants who applied for a site in response to the Scheme formulated by the Government of India that once the applicant had applied for a particular site, then the applicant shall be granted that site in all eventualities. This kind of a holding out is neither there on behalf of respondent No. 4 nor the petitioner could draw the attention of this Court to any document on record from which it could be inferred that on the basis of the said Scheme, any such holding out was made either by HIMURJA or by the respondent-State. There is no material on record from which it could be inferred that there was either any implied or express consent given to the Societies/NGOs. by either of the respondents to incur expenses for the purpose of identifying the proposed sites and preparing Pre-feasibility reports etc. Even otherwise, every interested party which intends to set up a project has to carry out a Pre-feasibility report to satisfy itself as to whether the project will be viable or not. However, simply because a particular party prepares a Pre-feasibility report or incurs some expenses in this regard, this does not mean that all this confers an indefeasible right over that party to be allotted that site. Even otherwise, after come into force of the policy formulated by the State Government vide notification dated 12.03.2012 it is not as if the Society/NGOs. who had earlier submitted their applications have been barred from participating in the process of allotment of the sites. They are all free to participate in the allotment of the projects subject to their fulfilling the eligibility criteria which has been laid down in the policy by the respondent-State. In this view of the matter, there is no merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that any legitimate expectation of all the members of the petitioner-association has been defeated or the respondents were estopped from issuing policy notification dated 12.03.2012 or rejecting the applications earlier filed by Societies/NGOs. in response to the Scheme floated by the Government of India.

14. It is well settled law that public largesses should be distributed in a transparent manner by providing an opportunity to all eligible members to participate in the process. This not only ensures a healthy competition but also meets the prime object of fair play and transparency in the matter of distribution of public largesses.

15. A five Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Confederation of Ex-Servicemen Associations and others Vs. Union of India and others (2006) 8 Supreme Court Cases 399 has held:

> "34. The expression "legitimate expectation" appears to have been originated by Lord Denning, M.R. in the leading decision Schmidt Vs. Secy. of State. In Attorney General of Hong Kong V. Ng Yuen Shiu, Lord Fraser referring to Schmidr stated: (All ER P. 350 h-j)
> "The expectations may be based on some statement or undertaking by, or on behalf of , the public authority which has the duty of making the decision, if the authority has, through its officers, acted in a way that would make it unfair or inconsistent with good administration for him to be denied such an inquiry."
> 35. In such cases, therefore, the Court may not insist an administrative authority to act judicially but may still insist it to act fairly. The doctirine is based on the principle that good administration demands observance of reasonableness and where it has adopted a particular practice for a long time even in the absence of a provision of law, it should adhere to such practice without depriving its citizens of the benefit enjoyed or privilege exercised."

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sethi Auto Service Station and another Vs. Delhi Development Authority and others (2009) 1 Supreme Court Case 180 has held:

> "33. It is well settled that the concept of legitimate expectation has no role to play where the State action is as a public policy or in the public interest unless the action taken amounts to an abuse of power. The court must not usurp the discretion of the public authority which is empowered to take the decisions under law and the court is expected to apply an objective standard which leaves to the deciding authority the full range of choice which the legislature is presumed to have intended. Even in a case where the decision is left entirely to the discretion of the deciding authority without any such legal bounds and if the decision is taken fairly and objectively, the court will not interfere on the ground of procedural fairness to a person whose interest based on legitimate expectation might be affected. Therefore, a legitimate expectation can at the most be one of the grounds which may give rise to judicial review but the granting of relief is very much limited. [Vide Hindustan Development Corporation}"

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jasbir Singh Chhabra and others Vs. State of Punjab and others (2010) 4 Supreme Court Cases 192 while tracing the earlier law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the doctrine of promissory estoppel and legitimate expectations has held:

> "41. In Motilal Padampat Sugar Mills Co. Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1979) 2 SCC 409, a two-Judge Bench of this Court discussed the doctrine of promissory estoppel in great detail and laid down the various propositions including the following:
> "8..... The true principle of promissory estoppel, therefore, seems to be that where one party has by his words or conduct made to the other a clear and unequivocal promise which is intended to create legal relations or affect a legal relationship to arise in the future, knowing or intending that it would be acted upon by the other party to whom the promise is made and it is in fact so acted upon by the other party, the promise would be binding on the party making it and he would not be entitled to go back upon it, if it would be inequitable to allow him to do so having regard to the dealings which have taken place between the parties, and this would be so irrespective of whether there is any pre-existing relationship between the parties or not."

"24. The law may, therefore, now be taken to be settled as a result of this decision, that where the Government makes a promise knowing or intending that it would be acted on by the promisee and, in fact, the promisee, acting in reliance on it, alters his position, the Government would be held bound by the promise and the promise would be enforceable against the Government at the instance of the promisee, notwithstanding that there is no consideration for the promise and the promise is not recorded in the form of a formal contract as required by Article 299 of the Constitution.

42. A contrary view was expressed by another two-Judge Bench in Jit Ram v. State of Haryana (1981) 1 SCC 11, but the law laid down in Motilal Padampat Sugar Mills Co. Ltd. v. State of U.P. (supra) was reiterated in Union of India v. Godfrey Philips India Ltd. (1985) 4 SCC 369, which was decided by a three-Judge Bench. Bhagwati, C.J. with whom the other two members of the Bench agreed on the exposition of law relating to the doctrine of promissory estoppel, observed:

"13. Of course we must make it clear, and that is also laid down in Motilal Sugar Mills case that there can be no promissory estoppel against the Legislature in the exercise of its legislative functions nor can the Government or public authority be debarred by promissory estoppel from enforcing a statutory prohibition. It is equally true that promissory estoppel cannot be used to compel the Government or a public authority to carry out a representation or promise which is contrary to law or which was outside the authority or, power of the officer of the Government or of the public authority to make. We may also point out that the doctrine of promissory estoppel being an equitable doctrine, it must yield when the equity so requires; if it can be shown by the Government or public authority that having regard to the facts as they have transpired, it would be inequitable to hold the Government or public authority to the promise or representation made by it, the Court would not raise an equity in favour of the person to whom the promise or representation is made and enforce the promise or representation against the Government or public authority. The doctrine of promissory estoppel would be displaced in such a case, because on the facts, equity would not require that the Government or public authority should be held bound by the promise or representation made by it. This aspect has been dealt with fully in Motilal Sugar Mills case and we find ourselves wholly in agreement with what has been said in that decision on this point."

43. In Hira Tikoo v. Union Territory, Chandigarh (2004) 6 SCC 765, this Court considered whether the High Court was justified in refusing to invoke the doctrine of promissory estoppel for issuing a mandamus to the respondent-Chandigarh Administration to allot industrial plots to the petitioners, who had applied in response to an advertisement issued in 1981. The Court noted that some of the successful applicants were given possession of the plots but majority of them were not given allotment letters on the ground that the land formed part of the reserved forest and partially approved the decision of the High Court by making the following observations:

"25. Surely, the doctrine of estoppel cannot be applied against public authorities when their mistaken advice or representation is found to be in breach of a statute and therefore, against general public interest. The question, however, is whether the parties or individuals, who had suffered because of the mistake and negligence on the part of the statutory public authorities, would have any remedy of redressal for the loss they have suffered. The "rules of fairness" by which every public authority is bound, require them to compensate loss occasioned to private parties or citizens who were misled in acting on such mistaken or negligent advice of the public authority. There are no allegations and material in these cases to come to a conclusion that the action of the authorities was mala fide. It may be held to be careless or negligent. In some of the English cases, the view taken is that the public authorities cannot be absolved of their liability to provide adequate monetary compensation to the parties who are adversely affected by their erroneous decisions and actions. But in these cases, any directions to the public authorities to pay monetary compensation or damages would also indirectly harm general public interest. The public authorities are entrusted with public fund raised from public money. The funds are in trust with them for utilisation in public interest and strictly for the purposes of the statute under which they are created with specific statutory duties imposed on them. In such a situation when a party or citizen has relied, to his detriment, on an erroneous representation made by public authorities and suffered loss and where the doctrine of "estoppel" will not be invoked to his aid, directing administrative redressal would be a more appropriate remedy than payment of monetary compensation for the loss caused by non-delivery of the possession of the plots and consequent delay caused in setting up industries by the allottees."

44. The plea of the writ petitioners that they had legitimate expectation of being allotted residential plots in Phases VIII-A and VIII-B in Mohali because in 2002 138 plots were allotted to the successful applicants sans merit. At the cost of repetition, it is necessary to mention that the writ petitioners had submitted applications knowing fully well that the same would not obligate the Corporation to allot plots to them. It is rather intriguing that even though approval of the layouts of residential pockets in Phases VIII-A and VIII-B, Mohali by Plan Approval Committee of the Corporation was subject to approval being accorded by the competent authority under the 1995 Act for change of land use from industrial to residential, and the Allotment Committee in which Managing Director of the Corporation had taken part, made a negative recommendation in the matter of allotment of land for housing purposes, the same officer authorized issue of advertisement dated 23.3.2004 for holding provisional draw of lots. In our view, this exercise was wholly unnecessary and uncalled for. If the concerned officer had not acted in haste and waited for the decision of the competent authority on the issue of change of land use, the parties may not have been forced to fight this unwarranted litigation. Be that as it may, the writ petitioners cannot, by any stretch of imagination, claim that they had a legitimate expectation in the matter of allotment of plots despite the fact that change of land use was yet to be sanctioned.

45. The doctrine of legitimate expectation has been described in Halsbury's Laws of England 4th Edn. in the following words:

"A person may have a legitimate expectation of being treated in a certain way by an administrative authority even though he has no legal right in private law to receive such treatment. The expectation may arise either from a representation or promise made by the authority, including an implied representation, or from consistent past practice."

46. In Food Corporation of India v. Kamdhenu Cattle Feed Industries (supra), this Court considered whether by submitting tender in response to notice issued by the Food Corporation of India for sale of stocks of damaged food grains, the respondent had acquired a right to have its tender accepted and the appellant was not entitled to reject the same. While approving the view expressed by the High Court that rejection of the highest tender of the writ petitioner-respondent was legally correct, this Court observed: "The mere reasonable or legitimate expectation of a citizen, in such a situation, may not by itself be a distinct enforceable right, but failure to consider and give due weight to it may render the decision arbitrary, and this is how the requirement of due consideration of a legitimate expectation forms part of the principle of non-arbitrariness, a necessary concomitant of the rule of law. Every legitimate expectation is a relevant factor requiring due consideration in a fair decision-making process. Whether the expectation of the claimant is reasonable or legitimate in the context is a question of fact in each case. Whenever the question arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant. A bona fide decision of the public authority reached in this manner would satisfy the requirement of non-arbitrariness and withstand judicial scrutiny. The doctrine of legitimate expectation gets assimilated in the rule of law and operates in our legal system in this manner and to this extent."

47. In Union of India v. Hindustan Development Corporation (supra), the doctrine of legitimate expectation was explained in the following words: "

28. For legal purposes, the expectation cannot be the same as anticipation. It is different from a wish, a desire or a hope nor can it amount to a claim or demand on the ground of a right. However earnest and sincere a wish, a desire or a hope may be and however confidently one may look to them to be fulfilled, they by themselves cannot amount to an assertable expectation and a mere disappointment does not attract legal consequences. A pious hope even leading to a moral obligation cannot amount to a legitimate expectation. The legitimacy of an expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure followed in regular and natural sequence. Again it is distinguishable from a genuine expectation. Such expectation should be justifiably legitimate and protectable. Every such legitimate expectation does not by itself fructify into a right and therefore it does not amount to a right in the conventional sense."

The same principle has been stated and reiterated in Punjab Communications Ltd. v. Union of India (1999) 4 SCC 727, Dr. Chanchal Goyal v. State of Rajasthan (2003) 3 SCC 485, J.P. Bansal v. State of Rajasthan (2003) 5 SCC 134, State of Karnataka v. Uma Devi (2006) 4 SCC 1, Kuldeep Singh v. Government of NCT of Delhi (2006) 5 SCC 702, Ram Pravesh Singh v. State of Bihar (2006) 8 SCC 381 and Sethi Auto Service Station v. DDA (2009) 1 SCC 180.

48. In the last mentioned judgment, the Court referred to various precedents and observed:

".....the golden thread running through all these decisions is that a case for applicability of the doctrine of legitimate expectation, now accepted in the subjective sense as part of our legal jurisprudence, arises when an administrative body by reason of a representation or by past practice or conduct aroused an expectation which it would be within its powers to fulfil unless some overriding public interest comes in the way. However, a person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, in the first instance, has to satisfy that he has relied on the said representation and the denial of that expectation has worked to his detriment. The Court could interfere only if the decision taken by the authority was found to be arbitrary, unreasonable or in gross abuse of power or in violation of principles of natural justice and not taken in public interest. But a claim based on mere legitimate expectation without anything more cannot ipso facto give a right to invoke these principles."

49. The plea of discrimination raised by the appellants is being mentioned only to be rejected because no similarity has been pointed out between their cases and the cases of those who had applied for allotment of plots in focal point, Patiala and Phase VIII (Jeevan Nagar), Ludhiana except that a common draw was held in furtherance of advertisement dated 23.3.2004. In any case, in view of our interpretation of the policy decision contained in Memo dated 26.12.2001, the allotment made in two other focal points, cannot enure to the appellants' advantage and a mandamus cannot be issued in their favour because that would result in compelling the competent authority to sanction change of land use from industrial to residential in contravention of the policy decision taken by the State Government."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Monnet Ispat and Energy Limited Vs. Union of India and others (2012) 11 SCC 1 has held that for invocation of the doctrine of promissory estoppel it is necessary that:

"(i) Where one party has by his words or conduct made to the other clear and unequivocal promise which is intended to create legal relations or affect a legal relationship to arise in the future, knowing or intending that it would be acted upon by the other party to whom the promise is made and it is, in fact, so acted upon by the other party, the promise would be binding on the party making it and he would not be entitled to go back upon it, if it would be inequitable to allow him to do so having regard to the dealings which have taken place between the parties, and this would be so irrespective of whether there is any pre-existing relationship between the parties or not.

(ii) The doctrine of promissory estoppel may be applied against the Government where the interest of justice, morality and common fairness dictate such a course. The doctrine is applicable against the State even in its governmental, public or sovereign capacity where it is necessary to prevent fraud or manifest injustice. However, the Government or even a private party under the doctrine of promissory estoppel cannot be asked to do an act prohibited in law. The nature and function which the Government discharges is not very relevant. The Government is subject to the rule of promissory estoppel and if the essential ingredients of this doctrine are satisfied, the Government can be compelled to carry out the promise made by it.

(iii) The doctrine of promissory estoppel is not limited in its application only to defence but it can also furnish a cause of action. In other words, the doctrine of promissory estoppel can by itself be the basis of action.

(iv) For invocation of the doctrine of promissory estoppel, it is necessary for the promisee to show that by acting on promise made by the other party, he altered his position. The alteration of position by the promisee is a sine qua non for the applicability of the doctrine. However, it is not necessary for him to prove any damage, detriment or prejudice because of alteration of such promise.

(v) In no case, the doctrine of promissory estoppel can be pressed into aid to compel the Government or a public authority to carry out a representation or promise which is contrary to law or which was outside the authority or power of the officer of the Government or of the public authority to make. No promise can be enforced which is statutorily prohibited or is against public policy.

(vi) It is necessary for invocation of the doctrine of promissory estoppel that a clear, sound and positive foundation is laid in the petition. Bald assertions, averments or allegations without any supporting material are not sufficient to press into aid the doctrine of promissory estoppel.

(vii) The doctrine of promissory estoppel cannot be invoked in abstract. When it is sought to be invoked, the Court must consider all aspects including the result sought to be achieved and the public good at large. The fundamental principle of equity must forever be present to the mind of the court. Absence of it must not hold the Government or the public authority to its promise, assurance or representation."

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court recently in State of Kerala and others Vs. Kerala Rare Earth and Minerals Limited and others (2016) 6 Supreme Court Cases 323 in a matter pertaining to grant of mining lease has held that mere disappointment of expectation cannot be a ground for interfering with the policy of the State.

20. As far as the issue of maintainability of the writ petition is concerned, we may observe that this writ petition has been filed by All Himachal Micro Hydel (100 KW) NGOs. and Societies Association through its President Sh. Varinder Thakur. In the body of the petition, there is no mention as to what is the legal status of this association and who all are the members of this association and what are its aims and objectives. No list of its members is appended with the petition. Communication dated 02.08.2010, which is appended with the petition as Annexure P-3 and which as per the petitioner is a representation made by it to Secretary (Power), to the Government of Himachal Pradesh is also signed by only 7 Societies/NGOs. has also been pointed out in its reply by respondents No. 1 to 3. Annexure P-8, which is list of Societies/NGOs. who applied for 100 KW projects and whose applications were rejected in terms of Clause 6.1 of the approved policy of the Government of Himachal Pradesh contains the names of 90 Societies/NGOs. In addition, the petition is filed on the affidavit of one Shri Varinder Thakur in his capacity as President of 'All Himachal Micro Hydel (100 KW) NGOs. and Societies Association' and the contents of the petition have been sworn by the said deponent to be true and correct to the best of his personal knowledge and belief. Therefore, we doubt as to whether the writ petition in its present form is maintainable or not. However, keeping in view the directions we propose to pass in the present writ petition, we do not deem it proper to dwell any further on the issue of maintainability of the writ petition.

21. Therefore, in view of the discussion held above, while we hold that the petitioner-association is not entitled for any of the reliefs prayed for, however, taking into consideration the averments made in the affidavit dated 11th March, 2016 filed by Additional Chief Secretary (NES) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, we dispose of this writ petition by passing the following directions:

"1. Respondent-State is at liberty to proceed with allocation of projects as per its policy dated 12.03.2012 as well as subsequent notification issued in this regard by the Government of India dated 2nd July, 2014 forthwith by inviting applications in this regard from all eligible parties, if not already invited.

2. Liberty is also granted to the respondents to invite fresh applications in this regard if so desired from all eligible and NGOs./Societies who had earlier applied pursuant to Scheme floated by the Government of India (Annexure P-2) shall be at liberty to apply for the same if otherwise eligible and respondent-State may, if it so desires, provide for some preference for such like applicants.

3. We are constrained to observe that despite the fact that Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, Small Hydro Power Division, Government of India introduced the Scheme for development/up-gradation of Watermills and setting up Micro Hydel Projects up to 100 KW capacity in the year 2009, the respondent-State woke up from its slumber after three years by issuing notification dated 12.03.2012, vide which it notified the policy for setting up Micro Hydel Projects up to 100 KW in the State. On account of said inaction on the part of the State, colossal loss has been caused by way of the respondent-State not being able to gain the advantage which would have had floated to the State as per the Scheme envisaged by the Government of India. Even now, it is only communication dated 2nd July, 2014 issued by Government of India, vide which implementation of Small Hydro Power Programme with Central Financial Assistance has been extended/sanctioned up to 31st March, 2017 under the 12th Plan that the same has come to the rescue of the respondent-State.

Accordingly, keeping into consideration the fact that the said sanction, as conveyed by the Government of India is up to 31st March, 2017, we direct the respondent-State to complete the entire process of allocation of the projects as expeditiously as possible and no latter than 31st January, 2017, so that the benefits flowing from the Scheme are harvested by the respondent-State. Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh is directed to ensure that the allocation of projects is completed on all counts before 31.01.2017, failing which, he shall be personally liable for non implementation of the directions passed by this Court.

With these directions, the writ petition is disposed of. Interim order stands vacated. No order as to costs.

RSA No.: 294 of 2008

Date of Decision: 30.11.2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff filed a civil suit seeking specific performance of the agreement executed by defendant No.1- it was pleaded that possession was handed over after receiving sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- - the land was a tenancy land and therefore, sale deed could not be executed – it was agreed that sale deed would be executed on the conferment of proprietary rights – defendant No.1 failed to execute the sale deed and after the receipt of the notice, executed a gift deed in favour of defendant No.1- the defendant No.1 denied the execution of the agreement - the suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that marginal witnesses to the agreement were not produced- there were contradictions regarding the name of the person in whose presence the money was paid- sale deed was executed on the same day, which probablized the version that the agreement was got executed by way of misrepresentation- the delivery of possession was also not established- the suit was rightly dismissed by the Court- appeal dismissed. (Para- 11 to 16)

For the appellant: Ms. Leena Guleria, Advocate, vice Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

By way of this appeal, the appellant/plaintiff has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 63/2005 dated 25.03.2008, vide which learned appellate Court while dismissing the appeal filed by the present appellant, upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mandi in Civil Suit No. 76/2003 dated 01.07.2005, whereby learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mandi dismissed the suit for specific performance of contract filed by the present appellant.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the appellant/plaintiff filed a suit to the effect that on 1st July, 1981 by way of a written agreement of sale, defendant No. 1 sold his land, i.e. 1/6th share measuring 4-15-17 bighas, comprised in Khewat Khatauni No. 40/99 to 107, Kitas 93, measuring 25-15-2 bighas, situated in Mauja Galu/91, illaqua Baggi Tungal, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P., as per jamabandi for the year 1975-76 alongwith house in dilapidated condition, situated in Mauza Galu/91 for a sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- to the plaintiff. As per the plaintiff, the agreement was executed by defendant No. 1 on 01.07.1981 in the presence of witnesses and on that date, defendant No. 1 received entire sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- from the plaintiff and defendant No. 1 handed over the possession of the land as well as house to plaintiff and till the filing of the suit, plaintiff was in possession and enjoying land as well as house. It was further the case of the plaintiff that the said land being tenancy land and defendant No. 1 being non-occupancy tenant alongwith other co-sharers, as such registration of sale deed could not be carried out, however, defendant No. 1 had agreed to execute sale deed and register the land in the name of plaintiff as soon as the proprietary rights were conferred upon him and as soon as he become legally competent to effect sale deed of the land as well as the house. It was further the case of the plaintiff that on 25th May, 2003, she came to know that proprietary rights of the said land had been conferred upon defendant No. 1 vide mutation No. 152 and, as such, defendant No. 1 was competent to execute and register the sale deed in her favour. It was further the case of the plaintiff that she was always ready and willing to perform her terms of the contract and she verbally asked defendant No. 1 to execute the sale deed as per agreement dated 01.07.1981. Further, as per the plaintiff, defendant No. 1 initially avoided to execute and register the sale deed in her favour, so plaintiff through her counsel sent a legal notice on 06.06.2003, which was replied to by defendant No. 1 through his counsel. According to plaintiff, the reply was wrong and illegal and defendant No. 1 had wrongly and illegally refused to register the sale deed in her favour. It was further the case of the plaintiff that after the receipt of notice sent by her to defendant No. 1, he had executed a gift deed in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 of the suit land to the extent of 4-6-1 bighas of land, which gift deed was bad and illegal and in violation of the terms and conditions of agreement dated 01.07.1981. It was on these bases that the plaintiff filed the suit praying for the following reliefs:

> "(a) the decree for specific performance of contract may kindly be passed in favour of plaintiff and against the defendant No. 1 and the defendant No. 1 be directed to execute and register the sale deed of the land in question in consonance with the agreement dated 01.07.1981 in favour of the plaintiff;
> (b) it be declared that the gift deed dated 19.09.2003 is wrong and illegal, null and void;
> (c) the defendants may kindly be restrained by way of permanent prohibitory injunction from causing any interference in the possession and enjoyment of the plaintiff in the land in question; and
> (d) in the alternative, if the plaintiff is dispossessed forcibly by the defendants during the pendency of the suit and the plaintiff is found put of possession in that event, decree for possession of the land in question may kindly be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants and as such the suit of the plaintiff may kindly be decreed with costs and justice be done."

3. The claim of the plaintiff was contested by the defendants. Execution of agreement to sell dated 01.07.1981 was denied by defendant No. 1 and it was also denied by defendant No. 1 that any consideration was received by him as alleged by the plaintiff or that the possession of the suit land was delivered to the plaintiff as alleged. As per defendant No. 1, he was an illiterate old man and simple villager and had never agreed to sell the suit land and register the same in the name of the plaintiff. It was further mentioned in the written statement that legal notice issued by the plaintiff was correctly replied by defendant No. 1 and the gift deed executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3, who were his grandsons, was a valid gift deed as neither defendant No. 1 had agreed to sell the suit land to the plaintiff nor he had parted the possession of the same to the plaintiff. It was further mentioned in the written statement that as the house was jointly owned and possessed by plaintiff and other co-sharers in the year 1981, there was no question of selling the same as alleged by the plaintiff. It was further mentioned in the written statement that plaintiff had no right to file a suit for specific performance and the right of the plaintiff was waived, abandoned and barred by limitation.

4. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:

"1. Whether the defendant No. 1 through an agreement dated 01.07.1981 agreed to sell his entire 1/6th share in the suit land alongwith a house situated over the suit land for a consideration of Rs.10,000/- to plaintiff as alleged?OPP

2. Whether the plaintiff who performed and still willing to perform his part of the agreement as alleged? OPP

3. If issues No. 1 and 2 are proved in affirmative whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of specific performance of contract as alleged?OPP

4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for possession as alleged? OPP

5. Whether the gift deed dated 19.09.2003 executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants Nos. 2 and 3 is wrong, null and void as alleged? OPP

6. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction? OPP

7. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD

8. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.

9. Relief.

5. On the basis of evidence adduced by the respective parties in support of their respective claims, the following findings were returned by learned trial Court on the issues so framed:

"Issue No. 1:	No.
Issue No. 2:	No.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	No.
Issue No. 6:	No.
Issue No. 7:	Yes.
Issue No. 8:	No.
Relief:	Suit dismissed as per operative part of judgment."

6. While dismissing the suit filed by the plaintiff, it was held by the learned trial Court that remedy of specific performance was an equitable remedy and under Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act, Court was not bound to grant the relief just because there was an agreement to sell. It was further held by the learned trial Court that it stood proved from records that defendant No. 1 was illiterate person and as per him, contents of agreement Ex. PW1/A were never disclosed to him and his signatures were in fact obtained on the said agreement while obtaining his signatures on the sale deed Ex. PW2/A, which was executed between him and the plaintiff with respect to some other land, owned by defendant No. 1 for an amount of Rs.11,000/-. Learned trial Court further held that in these circumstances, burden was heavily on the plaintiff to prove that defendant No. 1 had put his signatures on the agreement to sell with full knowledge of the contents thereof, which the plaintiff had failed to prove on the basis of evidence led by her.

Learned trial Court further held that in fact evidence proved that signatures obtained on the said agreement were obtained alongwith sale deed Ex. PW2/A, which was executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of the plaintiff on the same day, by the Document Writer who drafted the sale deed. It was further held by the learned trial Court that according to the plaintiff, a sum of Rs.10,000/- which was the sale consideration of the agreement to sell was paid to defendant No. 1 by her in the presence of Jatia Ram and Khem Singh. Learned trial Court held that Khem Singh in his statement has specifically denied that no money was paid to defendant No. 1 by the plaintiff, whereas PW-8 Jatia Ram/J.R. Thakur in his statement had no where stated that an amount of Rs.10,000/- was paid to Deo by the plaintiff in his presence. Learned trial Court also took note of the fact that husband of the plaintiff Kaul Ram, who entered the witness box as PW-6 deposed that the sale consideration was paid to defendant No. 1 by his wife before the execution of sale deed in presence of Chet Ram, Khem Singh and Jatia Ram Thakur. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that there was no evidence on record to show that Rs.10,000/- was in fact paid by the plaintiff to defendant No. 1, as mentioned in Ex. PW1/A. Learned trial Court also held that in ordinary course of business, whenever an agreement to sell is executed, a small part of the total amount is paid and major part of the consideration is paid at the time of registration of the sale deed and thus, execution of agreement Ex. PW1/A suffered from artificiality. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that the plaintiff had failed to prove on record that defendant No. 1 had executed a legal and valid agreement Ex. PW1/A in favour of the plaintiff and had agreed to sell his entire 1/6th share to the plaintiff for consideration of Rs.10,000/-, which had been paid to him at the time of execution of agreement to sell. Learned trial Court also held that there was no evidence on record to prove that defendant No. 1 put his signatures on the agreement with full knowledge of the same. Learned trial Court further held that the plaintiff had also failed to prove on record that possession of the suit land was delivered to her by defendant No. 1 at the time of execution of the sale deed. It was also held by the learned trial Court that as proprietary rights were conferred upon defendant No. 1 through mutation No. 152 dated 18.04.1991 and as per plaintiff, she came to know about this fact on 25.05.2003, however, plaintiff led no evidence to substantiate as to how she came to know about mutation only on 25.05.2003. Learned trial Court also took note of the fact that it was admitted by the plaintiff and her witnesses that the factum of agreement was concealed from every one including defendant for 22 years and even copy of agreement was not given to defendant No. 1 and the agreement was only shown to him by her husband about two years before the filing of the suit. On these bases, it was also held by the learned trial Court that the suit was also barred by limitation.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal, which was dismissed by the learned appellate Court vide its judgment and decree dated 25.03.2008. While dismissing the appeal so filed by the plaintiff, it was held by the learned appellate Court that perusal of agreement Ex. PW1/A demonstrated that the same was signed by Chet Ram with different pen and ink, whereas plaintiff Bhawani Devi had signed the same with different pen and ink and attesting witness Khem Singh had signed the agreement with same pen with which the agreement was inscribed. It was held by the learned appellate Court that it was apparent that signatures of the attesting witnesses on agreement were procured at different time with different pen and ink, which rendered the execution of the agreement to be highly doubtful. It was further held by the learned appellate Court that PW-2, D.N. Sharma, who was working as Document Writer had stated that agreement Ex. PW1/A was scribed by him as per the instructions of plaintiff Bhawani Devi and Deo, however, name and address of PW-2, D.N. Sharma was not written on Ex. PW1/A. Learned appellate Court held that being a Document Writer, PW-2 under Rules was required to maintain a register, but he neither entered the agreement in his register nor he had signed the same. As per learned appellate Court, this also rendered execution of the agreement to be doubtful. It was further held by the learned appellate Court that plaintiff could not prove that he had paid sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- to defendant No. 1. It was held by the learned appellate Court that as per recitals of Ex. PW1/A, sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- was already paid to defendant No. 1, whereas PW-1 had stated that sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- was paid to defendant No. 1 in presence of Khem Singh and J.R. Thakur, however, PW-6 Kaul Ram had stated that the same was paid in presence of attesting witnesses Chet Ram and Khem Singh. Learned appellate Court further held that PW-7 Chet Ram had stated that no sale consideration was paid by plaintiff to defendant No. 1 in his presence or in the presence of other attesting witnesses nor plaintiff had brought any other document on record to substantiate that an amount of Rs.10,0000/- was paid by the plaintiff to defendant No. 1. On these bases, it was held by the learned appellate Court that evidence led by the plaintiff could not prove the execution of agreement Ex. PW1/A by defendant No. 1 in favour of the plaintiff nor it could be proved by the plaintiff that she had paid sale consideration of Rs.10,000/- to defendant No. 1 at the time of execution of the agreement. It was further held by the learned appellate Court that records demonstrated that plaintiff had purchased land measuring 13-9-18 bighas from defendant No. 1 for consideration of Rs.11,000/- vide sale deed Ex. PW2/A and it also stood proved that agreement Ex. PW1/A was prepared by Kaul Ram, husband of plaintiff and signatures of defendant No. 1 and attesting witnesses were obtained at the time of execution of sale deed Ex. PW2/A. Learned appellate Court further held that keeping into consideration the fact that defendant No. 1 was duly recorded as owner in possession of the suit land, he was competent to execute gift deed in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 and no evidence was led by plaintiff to prove that gift so executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 was illegal. Learned appellate Court also upheld the finding returned by the learned trial Court on the point of limitation by holding that as per the pleadings of the plaintiff, the sale deed was agreed to be executed after acquisition of proprietary rights of the suit land by defendant No. 1, which were acquired by him vide mutation No. 152 dated 18.04.1991 and hence time started from 18.04.1991, whereas plaintiff had not instituted the suit within three years form the said date. On these bases, the appeal so filed by the plaintiff was dismissed by the learned appellate Court.

8. These judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below are under challenge by way of this appeal.

9. This appeal was admitted on 26.06.2008 on the following substantial questions of law:

> "1. Whether the learned Courts below mis-read and mis-construed the evidence especially the documentary evidence in coming to the conclusion that no agreement to sell has been entered into between the parties?
> 2. Whether the learned Courts below have wrongly come to the conclusion that the suit filed by the plaintiff was time barred?

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

11. A perusal of Ex. PW1/A demonstrates that it is mentioned therein that in lieu of the said agreement to sell, an amount of Rs.10,000/- stood paid by plaintiff to defendant No. 1 and he has handed over the possession of the land, subject matter of the said agreement to the plaintiff. Plaintiff in Court as PW-1 has stated that she had paid Rs.10,000/- to defendant No. 1 in the presence of her lawyer Jatia Ram and Khem Singh. Khem Singh was not produced as a witness by the plaintiff. Besides this, a perusal of the agreement to sell Ex. PW1/A demonstrates that execution of the same has been witnessed by Chet Ram and Khem Singh. Jatia Ram @ J.R. Thakur has neither appended his signatures on the same as a witness nor he has identified the vendor and vendee. This fact has also been admitted in his cross-examination by Jatia Ram/J.R. Thakur, who entered the witness box as PW-8. Further, Jatia Ram has nowhere stated in his deposition in the Court that in lieu of the execution of agreement to sell Ex. PW1/A, an amount of Rs.10,000/- was in fact paid to defendant by the plaintiff in his presence.

12. Whereas as per the plaintiff, the sale consideration was paid by her to the defendant in the presence of Chet Ram and Jatia Ram, however, her husband who entered the witness box as PW-6 has stated that the amount of Rs.10,000/- was paid by the plaintiff to the defendant before the agreement to sell was scribed and this payment was made in the presence of Chet Ram, Khem Singh and Jatia Ram. Chet Ram, who entered the witness box as PW-7, however, has stated in his cross-examination that no exchange of money took place in his presence and neither the defendant had agreed in their presence that he had received the sale consideration. Thus, the concurrent finding returned against the plaintiff by both the learned Courts below that there was no evidence on record to show that a sum of Rs.10,000/- was paid by plaintiff to defendant No. 1, as mentioned in Ex. PW1/A, is correct finding which is duly borne out from the records of the case.

13. Besides this, it is an admitted fact that on that very day when the alleged agreement to sell Ex. PW1/A was purportedly entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant, a sale deed was executed between the plaintiff and the defendant, vide which defendant had sold some other land in his ownership to the plaintiff for an amount of Rs.11,000/-. The specific stand of the defendant in the written statement was that he was an illiterate rustic person and was not aware of the contents of the document on which his signatures were obtained by the plaintiff and in fact he had not entered into any agreement to sell the land which was under his tenancy in favour of the plaintiff vide Ex. PW2/A nor he had received any sale consideration in lieu of the same. Both the learned Courts below while disbelieving the case of the plaintiff have held that plaintiff had failed to prove on record that in fact any agreement to sell was actually entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant vide Ex. PW1/A.

14. In my considered view, the findings so returned by both the learned Courts below can neither be said to be perverse nor it can be said that the findings so returned were not borne out from the records of the case. The evidence led by the plaintiff to prove her case is neither cogent nor convincing as held by both the learned Courts below. It otherwise defies logic as to why defendant would have had agreed to enter into an agreement to sell vis-à-vis land which was only under his tenancy on the terms and conditions as are contained in Ex. PW1/A. The factum of the possession of the suit land having been parted by defendant in favour of the plaintiff in lieu of Ex. PW-1/A has also not been substantiated on record by the plaintiff. The execution of Ex. PW1/A in the mode and manner in which the plaintiff wants this Court to believe is shrouded with suspicion, especially in the light of the testimony of PW-2, the Document Writer, who has incidentally stated that though he had scribed the said document, but he neither entered this agreement in his register nor he had signed the same. Further, in my considered view, as the plaintiff was not able to prove the execution of agreement to sell, the findings returned by both the learned Courts below to the effect that as defendant No. 1 was owner-in-possession of the suit land, he was competent to execute gift deed in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3, cannot be faulted with. This gift deed admittedly was executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 after ownership rights were conferred upon him vide mutation No. 152 dated 18.04.1991. Besides this, despite the fact that mutation was attested in favour of defendant No. 1 on 18.04.1991, the suit was filed by the plaintiff in the year 2003. Learned trial Court has categorically held that no evidence was led by the plaintiff to substantiate that she came to know about the mutation which was entered in favour of defendant No. 1 only on 25.05.2003, as stated in the plaint. Learned trial Court while deciding the issue of limitation against the plaintiff has also taken note of the fact that neither there was any copy of agreement Ex. PW1/A handed over to defendant No. 1 and in fact this agreement was brought to the notice of defendant No. 1 by the husband of plaintiff only about two years before filing of the suit. The finding returned by learned appellate Court that signatures of attesting witnesses on agreement were procured at different times, as was evident from different pen and ink used by them, which rendered the execution of the agreement to be highly doubtful is also duly borne out from the records of the case.

15. I have carefully perused the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below as well as the records of the case and in my considered view, it cannot be said that the findings returned by both the learned Courts below are either contrary to the records or are not borne out from the records of the case. There is no misreading or mis-construction of the evidence on record and the conclusion arrived at by both the Courts below that in fact no agreement to sell was entered into between the parties and no payment was made by plaintiff to defendant No. 1 is duly borne out from the records of the case.

16. Similarly, the fact that the suit filed by the plaintiff being time barred is also duly borne out from the records of the case and it cannot be said that the finding returned to this effect is perverse or contrary to the records as already discussed above. Substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

In view of the discussion held above, as there is no merit in the appeal, the same is dismissed with costs.

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way this revision petition, petitioners have challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, in Criminal Appeal No. 3 of 2005, dated 23.05.2008, vide which learned Appellate Court, while dismissing the appeal filed by the present petitioners, affirmed the judgment of conviction and sentence imposed upon the present petitioners by the Court of learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Chachiot at Gohar, District Mandi, in Police Challan No. 257-I/2001 (2000), dated 12.01.2005, whereby learned trial Court while convicting the present petitioners for commission of offences punishable under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act (hereinafter referred to as 'I.F. Act') and Rule 20 of Himachal Pradesh Forest Produce Transit (Land Routes) Rules, 1978 framed under the said Sections, sentenced each of the petitioners (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for short) to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months and to pay a fine of Rs.1,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one month.

2. The case of the prosecution was that on 25.02.2000 at 1:30 p.m. Head Constable Paras Ram alongwith LHC Prem Singh while patrolling at Chel Chowk intercepted one Eicher truck bearing registration No. HP-32-0909 which came from Gohar side and was proceeding towards Mandi. This truck was intercepted for routine checking and three persons were sitting in the same who revealed their names as Fateh Singh S/o Shri Dharam Singh, driver of the truck, Fateh Singh s/o Shri Devi Singh, owner of the truck and Begam Singh s/o Shri Karam Singh. When the truck was checked, the same was found loaded with bories containing maize. These bories of maize were removed on one side with the help of labourers namely Bhimu and Nagnu, which revealed frames wrapped with Jute mat concealed underneath the bories. On this, photographers Pankaj Kumar and Tapender Singh and Forest Guard Bassa were called on the spot. Bories containing maize were got unloaded with the assistance of labourers. Besides sixty six bories of maize, three bundles of wooden frames wrapped with jute mat were found in the truck. On counting, 37 wooden frames of different sizes were recovered. Photographs of the truck and wooden frames were taken and the owner of the truck was enquired about the transportation of the same who told that the frames were from his timber of T.D. He however could not produce any permit qua transportation of recovered wooden frames. In these circumstances, truck as well as the wooden frames were taken into possession and further investigation was carried out. After completion of the investigation, challan was filed in the court and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, notice of accusation was put to them for commission of offences punishable under Sections 41 and 42 of I.F. Act, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. On the basis of evidence led by the prosecution both ocular as well as documentary, learned trial Court found the accused guilty of having committed offences punishable under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act and Rule 20 of Himachal Pradesh Forest Produce Transit (Land Routes) Rules 1978 and sentenced each of them to undergo six months' simple imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs. 1000/-.

4. In appeal, the judgment of conviction and sentence so imposed upon the accused by the learned trial Court was upheld by the learned Appellate Court.

5. Feelings aggrieved by the said judgments, the petitioners have filed the present revision petition.

6. Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned Counsel appearing for the petitioners argued that the judgment of conviction passed against the accused by the learned trial Court and upheld by the learned Appellate Court is perverse and not sustainable in the eyes of law. Mr. Palsra argued that police are debarred from investigating cases under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act in view of the provisions of Sub Section (2) of Section 155 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C' for short). Mr. Palsra further argued that in the notice of accusation put to the accused, no reference of violation of Rules under Section 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act was stated, which as per him was necessary especially because Section 42 of the I.F Act is merely an enabling section empowering the State government to prescribe by rules, penalties of imprisonment or fine or both for contravention of Rules framed under Section 41 of the I.F. Act. In these circumstances, according to Mr. Palsra, it was necessary for the trial Magistrate to state the precise Rules framed under Section 41 of the I.F. Act, for the violation of which the accused was required to be punished and therefore, notice of accusation was defective. It was submitted by Mr. Palsra that as the entire proceedings initiated against the petitioners were defective and as this very important aspect of the matter had not been taken into consideration by both the learned Courts below, therefore, on these bases, he argued that the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court and upheld by the learned Appellate Court deserved to be set aside.

7. Mr. Vikram Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, on the other hand, argued that there was no merit in the contention of Mr. Palsra as both the learned Courts below on the basis of material on record had held that the petitioners were guilty of the offences for which they were convicted and as there was no plea available with the petitioners on merit to assail the judgments so passed by the learned Courts below, therefore, in the revision petition, the petitioners had come out with this contention of the proceedings initiated against them being void abinitio, which contention of the petitioners, according to Mr. Thakur was totally incorrect and not sustainable in law. On these bases, it was prayed by Mr. Thakur that there was no merit in the present appeal and the same be dismissed.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the Courts below.

9. Before proceeding in the matter, it is relevant to take note of what is the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court. It is settled law that the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court does not extend to re-appreciation of evidence. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the High Court in exercise of its revisional power can interfere only if the findings of the Court whose decision is sought to be revised is shown to be perverse or untenable in law or is grossly erroneous or glaringly unreasonable or where the decision is based on no material or where the material facts are wholly ignored or where judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or capriciously. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjaysinh Ramrao Chavan Versus Dattatray Gulabrao Phalke and Others, (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 123, that unmerited and undeserved prosecution is an infringement of guarantee under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In this case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the purpose of revision jurisdiction is to preserve the power in the Court to do justice in cases of criminal jurisprudence.

10. Keeping in view the consideration of law so declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, this Court proceeds to adjudicate the revision petition on merit.

11. Sub Section 2 of Section 155 of Cr.P.C provides that no police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial. The exception carved out in Sub Section 4 of said Section is that where a case relates to two or more offences, out of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable.

12. Admittedly in the present case, the case made out by the prosecution against the accused was for non-cognizable offence. However, rather than following the procedure provided in Sub Section (2) of Section 155 of the Cr.P.C, the police officer carried on with the investigation of the non-cognizable case without there being any order of the Magistrate having power to try such case. This is further evident from the fact that FIR registered in this regard Ext. PW9/A, dated 20.06.2002, nowhere contains that the same has been registered on the basis of directions issued by the concerned Magistrate to carry out investigation in the case. Therefore, there is merit in the contention of Mr. Palsra that the police could not have investigated the non-cognizable offence without the prior permission of the Magistrate and information should have been referred to the Magistrate concerned. This Court in State of H.P. versus Satpal Singh @ Satta and another and the connected matter, Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 732 has held that offences under Sections 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act are non cognizable as per Schedule II of the Criminal Procedure Code and if the police are not permitted by the Magistrate to investigate the case for such offences, the investigation carried out would vitiate entire proceedings being illegal. Accordingly, in view of the statutory provisions as well as law laid down by this Court (supra), in my considered view, the judgment and conviction passed against the accused by the learned trial Court and upheld by the learned Appellate Court are perverse and liable to be set aside. Both the learned Courts below have failed to appreciate that police officer could not have had investigated the case against the accused in the absence of order of Magistrate as contemplated under Sub Section (2) of Section 155 of the Cr.P.C and in the absence of any such order by the Magistrate, the entire proceedings initiated against the petitioners were vitiated.

13. Similarly, there is also merit in the contention of Mr. G .R. Palsra, Advocate that the notice of accusation put to the accused was defective as no reference of violation of Rules framed under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act has been stated in the notice of accusation so put to the respondents. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court demonstrates that the accused have been convicted under Rule 20 of Himachal Pradesh Forest Produce Transit (Land Routes) Rules 1978, framed under Sections 41 and 42 of I.F Act. A perusal of the notice of accusation put to the accused demonstrates that there was no reference of violation of any Rule framed under Section 41 and 42 of the I.F Act put to the present petitioners. This Court in State of Himachal Pradesh versus Nagnu Ram and others, Criminal Appeal No. 293 of 2004 while relying upon the judgment passed in Shiv Narain Bhasin v. State of Himachal Pradeswh 1985 SLC 274 has held that Section 42 of I.F Act is merely an enabling Section empowering the State government to prescribe by Rules, penalties of imprisonment or fine or both for contravention of Rules framed under Section 41 of the I. F. Act and it was necessary for the trial Magistrate to state the precise Rules framed under Section 41 of the Indian Forest Act for the violation of which the accused was required to be punished and therefore, notice of accusation was held to be defective. This Court further held that where there was allegation of violation of Rules, reference of Rule was necessary and absence of reference of Rules, more particularly, Rule 20 framed under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act by the State Government in the notice of accusation which was put to the accused who were not given an opportunity to project their defence to the accusation of violation of Rules framed under Section 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act caused prejudice to the accused/ respondents. Accordingly, in my view, as there was no reference of Rule 20 framed under Sections 41 and 42 of the I.F. Act by the State Government in the notice of accusation which was put to the accused, the same was defective as per law laid down by this Court.

14. Therefore, in view of the above discussion, the judgment of conviction passed against the petitioners and the sentence imposed upon them by the learned trial Court in Police Challan No. 257-I/2001(2000) dated 12.01.2005 is set aside and judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court in Criminal Appeal No. 3 of 2005 dated 23.05.2008 vide which it affirmed the judgment passed by the learned trial Court is also set aside. The petitioners are acquitted of the offences for which they were tried by the learned trial Court. Fine amount, if any, deposited by the accused/petitioners is ordered to be refunded to them in accordance with law. This petition stands disposed of accordingly. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

It is also well settled law that refusal of bail is restriction on the personal liberty of individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34 and 38- Plaintiffs pleaded that suit land was jointly possessed by S and D as tenants – it was succeeded by the plaintiffs after the death of S and D- proceedings for ejectment were initiated against the plaintiffs on the basis of ejectment order passed by SDO (Civil) against D- the order was a nullity as no notice was issued to D – the defendants pleaded that the suit land was granted to S and D but the allotment was cancelled on the ground that land was not utilized for the purpose for which it was granted- suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed – held in second appeal that the possession of the plaintiffs and the fact that ejectment proceedings were initiated against the plaintiffs were not disputed – plaintiffs were not parties to the earlier ejectment proceedings- even if the plaintiffs are tress passers, they cannot be ejected except in accordance with law- Appellate Court had rightly restrained the defendants from ejecting the plaintiffs – appeal dismissed. (Para-11 to 14)

For the appellants. : Ms. Parul Negi, Dy. Advocate General.
For the respondents : Mr. S.C. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way of this appeal, the State has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Solan, in Civil Appeal No. 3-S/13 of 2006, dated 28.04.2006, vide which, learned Appellate Court while accepting the appeal filed by the plaintiffs set aside the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Sr. Divn.) Kandaghat, District Solan, in Civil Suit No. 18-K/1 of 2001 dated 24.10.2005.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of this case are that respondents/plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiffs') filed a suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction to the effect that Shivia and Dayal Chand were real brothers and inducted as tenants by Gram Panchayat Satrol, Tehsil Kandaghat in the year 1956 as they were possessing land comprised in Khasra No. 833/8 min, measuring 10-00 bighas, situated in Mauza Satrol, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'suit land'). Further as per the plaintiffs, the suit land was jointly possessed by Shivia and Dayal Chand. Shivia died in the year 1974 and after his death, he was succeeded by Smt. Prago Devi. Shivia had no children. Smt. Prago Devi who possessed the suit land jointly with Dayal Chand died about nine months back (from the filing of suit) and she being issueless was succeeded by the plaintiffs and proforma defendants. It was further the case of the plaintiffs that after the death of Smt. Prago Devi, suit land came to be jointly possessed by the plaintiffs and proforma defendants, as such, plaintiffs were also tenants in possession of the suit land and the defendants had no right to dispossess the plaintiffs from the suit land except in due course of law. As per plaintiffs, learned A.C. 2nd Grade, Kandaghat had initiated ejectment proceedings for dispossessing the plaintiffs from the suit land without issuing any process to the plaintiffs or their predecessor in interest Smt. Prago and /or Shivia alia Shiv Ram. Further, as per plaintiffs, it had come to their notice that said proceedings had been initiated on the basis of a ejectment order which was passed against Dayal Chand (proforma defendant) by Sub Divisional Collector in case No. 2-8/98 dated 20.01.2001 as well as on the basis of order dated 24.11.1997 passed by A.C. 2nd Grade Kandaghat in case No. 5/13 of 1997 dated 24.11.1997. It was further the case of the plaintiffs that the said order was illegal as at no point of time, plaintiffs or their predecessor in interest Smt. Prago or Shivia were issued notice under Section 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act. On these bases, it was urged by the plaintiffs that order dated 20.01.2001 passed by Sub Divisional Collector Kandaghat and order dated 24.11.1997 passed by A.C. 2nd Grade, Kandaghat were illegal, null and void and not binding on the rights, title or interests of the plaintiffs and same cannot be executed against the plaintiffs and the plaintiffs cannot be disposed from the suit land on the basis of said orders. The plaintiffs thus prayed for the following reliefs

> "a) a decree for declaration to the effect that the judgments/orders dated 20.01.2001 passed in case No. 2/8 of 1998 by the Sub Divisional Collector Kandaghat and the order dt. 24.11.1997 passed by A.C. 2nd Grade Kandaghat in case No. 5/13 of 1997 are wrong, illegal, null and void abinitio and are not binding on the rights, title and interests of the plaintiffs and the same cannot be executed against the plaintiffs and the plaintiffs cannot be dispossessed from the suit land which is joint one under the garb of said orders;
> b) a decree for permanent prohibitory injuncti9on restraining the defendants from interfering in the suit land, and ousting/dispossessing the plaintiffs from the suit land comprised in Khasra No. 833/min, measuring 10-00 bighas, situated in Mauza Satrol, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan, except in due process of law either by themselves or through their agents, servants, assigns, officials whosoever in any manner whatsoever;
> c) the costs of the suit."

3. The suit so filed by the plaintiffs was contested by the defendants. It was denied by the defendants that orders challenged in the civil suit were illegal. It was further mentioned in the written statement that the orders passed by the Revenue Officers were binding upon all concerned as plaintiffs had no right, title or interest over the land in dispute granted to Shivia and Dayal Chand was cancelled by learned Collector, Kandaghat, vide order dated 20.03.1991, on the ground that the land was not put to use by the lessee for the purpose for which it was leased out and Department of Forest had already planted 'Cheel' trees on the said land. It was further mentioned in the written statement that Dayal Chand had also approached the High Court by filing a writ petition which was dismissed as infructuous on 27.05.1993 and, therefore, it was contended by defendants No. 1 and 2 specifically that plaintiffs were estopped to file the suit.

4. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

> "1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the declaration that the order dated 20.1.2001 in case No. 2/8/98 by Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat and order dated 24.11.1997 passed in case No. 5/13 by A.C. IInd Grade, Kandaghat, are illegal and void, as alleged? OPP.
> 2. In case, Issue No. 1 is held to be in affirmative, whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of prohibitory/ permanent injunction, as claimed? OPP
> 3. Whether the suit is not maintainable for want of service of legal notice under Section 80 C.P.C? OPD 1 and 2.
> 4. Whether the plaintiffs are not competent to maintain the present suit? OPD 1 and 2.
> 5. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD 1 and 2.
> 6. Relief."

5. On the basis of evidence led by the parties both ocular as well as documentary in support of their respective cases, the issues so framed were answered by the learned trial Court as under.

"Issue No.1	: No.
Issue No. 2	: No.
Issue No. 3	: No.
Issue No. 4	: Yes.
Issue No. 5	: Yes
Issue No. 6 (Relief)	: Suit dismissed as per operative part of Judgment."

6. Learned trial Court while dismissing the suit filed by the plaintiffs held that Ext. DW3/G, copy of Jamabandi for the year 1986-87, demonstrated that five bighas of land for five years i.e. from 1984 to 1989 was leased to Dayal Chand on Rs. 5/- as rent and order of Collector Ext. DW2/C demonstrated that said lease was cancelled by the Collector vide order dated 20.03.1991. Learned trial Court further held that land had not been reclaimed by the lessee, so the lease had been cancelled by the Collector and as Shivia died in the year 1974, therefore, when he passed away, at that time, he was having no right, title or interest over the suit property. Learned trial Court further held that matter was in fact not even agitated in the years between 1979 to 1984 when fresh lease was granted in favour of Dayal Chand by the State of H.P and none of the plaintiffs or proforma defendants had prayed to the revenue agencies that share of Shivia had devolved upon them. It was further held by the learned trial Court that plaintiffs alongwith proforma defendants remained silent during the eviction proceedings regarding the share of Shivia and after the final order was passed by Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat in the year 2001, the present suit was filed rather than taking recourse against the said eviction proceedings/orders. Learned trial Court further held that there was no evidence on record to show that Shivia was lessee after the year 1974 over the suit land, therefore, plaintiffs could not agitate the matter regarding eviction qua the land which was allotted to Dayal Chand as Shivia was not in picture after the year 1974. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that orders dated 24.11.1997 and 20.01.2001, passed by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade and Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat respectively were neither illegal nor void. It was further held by the learned trial Court that as Dayal Chand was the only lessee of the suit land after the year 1978, therefore, plaintiffs could not be permitted to agitate their rights under the principles of natural justice also. Learned trial Court also held that after the death of Shivia, initially his wife succeeded him but as she died issueless, therefore, next line of legal heirs, i.e. plaintiffs and proforma defendants succeeded the estate of Shivia. It further held that as Shivia had no right, title or interest in the suit property as only five bighas of land was allotted to Dayal Chand and he had not succeeded Shivia but a new lease was granted in his favour and same stood cancelled by the competent authority in due course of law, therefore, plaintiffs although were legal heirs of Shivia but they had no right, title or interest to agitate the orders dated 24.11.1997 and 20.01.2001, passed by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade and Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat respectively. On these bases, learned trial Court dismissed the suit.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment and decree, the plaintiffs filed an appeal. Learned Appellate Court vide its judgment and decree dated 28.04.2006 allowed the appeal so filed and reversed the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court.

8. While allowing the appeal, it was held by the learned Appellate Court that learned trial Court committed grave error by holding that orders dated 24.11.1997 and 20.01.2001, passed by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade and Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat could not be declared illegal, null and void because these orders were passed behind the back of plaintiffs who were not parties to the said proceedings and hence, plaintiffs were not bound by them. Learned Appellate Court further held that learned trial Court committed grave error in declining relief of permanent prohibitory injunction to the plaintiffs as the findings returned by the learned trail Court on issues No. 1 and 2 were contrary to the evidence adduced on record and law point involved therein. While arriving at the said conclusion, it was held by the learned Appellate Court that evidence produced on record by the plaintiffs established that Shivia and Dayal Chand were inducted as tenants over the suit land by Gram Panchayat Satrol and after the death of Shivia, his share was succeeded by Smt. Prago Devi and after her death, estate of Shivia was succeeded by plaintiffs and proforma defendants and they were coming in join possession over the suit land. Learned Appellate Court further held that it stood proved on record that no ejectment proceedings were initiated by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade against the plaintiffs nor they were made party in the ejectment proceedings initiated against proforma defendant Dayal Chand. It was further held by the learned Appellate Court that while DW3 proforma defendant Dayal Chand had admitted the claim of plaintiffs, DW1 Govind Ram, Patwari had stated that he had issued certificate Ext. DW1/A, as per which, after the death of Shivia, his property was succeeded by his wife Smt. Prago Devi. It was further held by the learned Appellate court that DW3 had stated that after the death of Shivia in the year 1974, his share was inherited by his wife Smt. Prago Devi and after her death, her share was succeeded by the plaintiffs and the proforma defendants and he also admitted that plaintiffs and proforma defendants were in joint possession of the suit land. Learned Appellate Court further held that plaintiffs were never ordered to be ejected from the suit land by any revenue authority as no ejectment proceeding was initiated against them and further they being in joint possession of the suit land could not be dispossessed forcibly from the suit land by the defendants except in due course of law and on these bases, it allowed the appeal and decreed the suit in the following terms

> "The Judgement and decree passed by the learned lower Court is not in accordance with law and is not in accordance with the pleadings of plaintiffs and defendants. As such, the same judgment and decree is to be set aside and suit of the plaintiffs is to be decreed as a whole. Appeal is as such allowed with no order as to cost. Accordingly the impugned judgment and decree dated 24.10.2005 passed by learned trial Court are set aside and findings are quashed. As such decree for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction is passed in favour of plaintiffs and against defendants No. 1 and 2. The impugned orders dated 20.01.2001 passed by Sub Divisional Collector Kandaghat and order dated 24.11.1997 passed by A.C-II Kandaghat being illegal, null and void are set aside having no binding effects on the rights of plaintiffs qua the suit land. Consequently the decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining defendants from interfering over land or dispossessing the plaintiffs forcibly from suit land bearing Khasra No. 833/8 min, measuring 10 bighas situated at Mauja Satrol, Teh. Kandaghat is passed in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants No. 1 and 2."

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment and decree passed by learned Appellate Court, State has filed this appeal, which appeal was admitted on 16.07.2008 on the following substantial questions of law

> "1. Whether after expiry of lease period or its cancellation the legal representatives of original Lessee can claim any right over the leased property by way of inheritance that too without challenging the cancellation order passed by the competent authorities during the life time of original lessee?
> 2. Whether the Civil Suit filed by the plaintiffs is sheer abuse of the process of law especially when ejectment orders passed in respect of the lease property have been unsuccessfully challenged upto the Hon'ble High Court by the Original lessee?"

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

11. The factum of plaintiffs being in possession of the suit land has not been denied by the defendants/State. It is also not a disputed factual position that the State sought the eviction of the plaintiffs on the basis of orders dated 24.11.1997 and 20.01.2001, passed by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade and Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat respectively and the proceedings out of which the said orders have culminated were filed against Dayal Chand and not against plaintiffs. The factum of plaintiffs having succeeded the estate of Shivia after the death of Shivia and thereafter Smt. Prago Devi is also not disputed by the State. However, as per the appellants/State, the suit land was never leased out to Shivia but was only leased out to Dayal Chand and it is on these bases that the State has defended the orders passed by the revenue authorities which were challenged by way of civil suit filed by the plaintiffs.

12. In my considered view, taking into consideration the fact that plaintiffs were not the party in the eviction proceedings which culminated into orders dated 24.11.1997 and 20.01.2001, passed by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade and Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat respectively, by no stretch of imagination, the eviction of the plaintiffs from the suit property could have been sought by the State on the strength of the said orders. These orders having been passed against Dayal Chand were enforceable only against Dayal Chand. It is not the case of the State that the plaintiffs were also impleaded as party in the said eviction proceedings. In these circumstances, it is not understood as to how the orders which have been passed by the revenue authorities in proceedings initiated against Dayal Chand can be enforced against the plaintiffs. When as per the appellants/State, plaintiffs were coming in joint possession of the suit land then it is but obvious that the plaintiffs are to be dispossessed from the suit land by due process of law. Adjudication in eviction proceedings against Dayal Chand cannot be termed to be "due process of law" for the purpose of evicting the plaintiffs from the suit land when the plaintiffs were not party to the said eviction proceedings. This Court is not even remotely suggesting that the plaintiffs have a right to remain in possession over the suit property on the grounds which have been taken by them in civil suit. However, law demands that even if plaintiffs are trespassers over the suit land and have no right, title or interest over the same, even then they have to be evicted from the same by following the procedure established by the law. Whether after the expiry of lease period or cancellation of the lease deed, legal representatives of the original lessee can claim right over the leased property by way of inheritance is an issue which can be decided by the competent authority once appropriate proceedings are initiated against the plaintiffs before it. Similarly, it cannot be said that civil suit filed by the plaintiffs was abuse of the process of law because the ejectment orders on the basis of which the appellants/State was seeking the ejectment of the plaintiffs were admittedly not passed against the plaintiffs nor were the plaintiffs party in the said ejectment proceedings.

13. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court demonstrates that it has taken into consideration all these aspects of the matter while concluding that the plaintiffs were never ordered to be ejected from the suit land by any revenue authority as no ejectment proceedings were initiated against them. Similarly, learned Appellate Court correctly held that plaintiffs being in joint possession of the suit land could not be forcibly dispossessed from the suit land by the appellants/State except in due course of law. However, in my considered view, the declaration given by learned Appellate Court to the effect that order dated 20.01.2001 passed by the Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat and order dated 24.11.1997 passed by A.C. 2nd Grade are illegal, null and void and are set aside, is not sustainable because these orders are not illegal, null and void as far as Dayal Chand is concerned though they are not enforceable against the plaintiffs. The findings returned by the learned trial Court that these orders have no binding on the rights of the plaintiffs qua the suit land is the correct finding.

14. Therefore, while upholding the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court to the extent that decree for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction is passed in favour of the plaintiffs and against defendants No. 1 and 2 restraining them from interfering over land or dispossessing the plaintiffs from the suit land except in due process of law, decree passed by the learned Appellate Court to the extent that order dated 20.01.2001 passed by the Sub Divisional Collector, Kandaghat and order dated 24.11.1997 passed by A.C. 2nd Grade are illegal, null and void is set aside. It is held that these two orders have no binding effect on the rights of the plaintiffs qua the suit land and that the plaintiffs cannot be forcibly dispossessed from the suit land except by following the procedure established by law. Substantial questions of law are answered accordingly. With the said modification in the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court, appeal is partly allowed to the extent mentioned hereinabove. No order as to costs. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

For the Petitioner: Mr. Ashok Kumar Tyagi, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

This petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, is directed against the order passed by the Executing Court on 3.5.2016 whereby it dismissed the application filed by the petitioner-decree holder for substituting the legal heirs of the judgment debtor on account of his death.

2. The proceedings before the learned Executing Court emanate from the judgment and decree passed in favour of the petitioner-decree holder whereby the original judgment debtor Govind Singh was permanently restrained from interfering in the suit land comprised in Khata Khatauni No.397/681 bearing Khasra No.1675/112/4 measuring 14 biswa situated in Mauza Bhagani, Tehsil Paonta Sahib District Sirmaur, H.P.

3. The original debtor Govind Singh was alleged to have violated the judgment and decree leading to file the execution petition under order 21 rule 32 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

He, however, died and after his death, the petitioner moved an application for bringing on record his legal representatives, which has been dismissed by the learned Executing Court on the ground that wilful disobedience and violation of judgment and decree is a penal provision and its cause of action dies with the defaulter.

4. It is against this order that the present petition has been filed on the ground that the findings recorded by the learned Executing Court are totally perverse and based on misconstruction of law on the subject.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

6. At the outset, it would be necessary to refer to certain provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure:

> "Section 50. Legal representative.
> (1) Where a judgment-debtor dies before the decree has been fully satisfied, the holder of the decree may apply to the Court which passed it to execute the same against the legal representative of the deceased.
> (2) Where the decree is executed against such legal representative, he shall be liable only to the extent of the property of the deceased which has come to his hands and has not been duly disposed of; and, for the purpose of ascertaining such liability, the Court executing the decree may, of its own motion or on the application of the decree-holder, compel such legal representative to produce such accounts as it thinks fit.
> Section 146. Proceedings by or against > representatives.
> Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any law for the time being in force, where any proceeding may be taken or application made by or against any person then the proceeding may be taken or the application may be made by or against any person claiming under him.
> Order 21 Rule 32 - Decree for specific performance for restitution of conjugal rights, or for an injunction
> (1) Where the party against whom a decree for the specific performance of a contract, or for restitution of conjugal rights, or for an injunction, has been passed, has had an opportunity of obeying the decree and has wilfully failed to obey it, the decree may be enforced in the case of a decree for restitution of conjugal rights by the attachment of his property or, in the case of a decree for the specific performance of a contract or for an injunction by his detention in the civil prison, or by the attachment of his property, or by both.
> (2) Where the party against whom a decree for specific performance or for an injunctions been passed is a corporation, the decree may be enforced by the attachment of the property of the corporation or, with the leave of the Court by the detention in the civil prison of the directors or other principal officers thereof, or by both attachment and detention.
> (3) Where any attachment under sub-rule (1) or sub-rule (2) has remained in force for [six months] if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree and the decree-holder has applied to have the attached property sold, such property may be sold; and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and shall pay the balance (if any) to the judgment-debtor on his application.

> (4) Where the judgment-debtor has obeyed the decree and paid all costs of executing the same which he is bound to pay, or here, at the end of [six months] from the date of the attachment, no application to have the property sold has been made, or if made has been refused, the attachment shall cease.
> (5) Where a decree for the specific performance of a contract or for an injunction has not been obeyed, the Court may, in lieu of or in addition to all or any of the processes aforesaid, direct that the act required to be done may be done so far as practicable by the decree-holder or some other person appointed by the Court, at the cost of the judgment-debtor, and upon the act being done the expenses incurred may be ascertained in such manner as the Court may direct and may be recovered as if they were included in the decree.
> [Explanation.-For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that the expression "the act required to be done" covers prohibitory as well as mandatory injunctions.]

7. The moot question, as observed earlier, is as to whether learned Executing Court was right in observing that the wilful disobedience and violation of judgment and decree dies with the defaulter.

For deciding this issue, certain judgments on the subject may be noticed:

8. At the earliest point of time is the judgment rendered by the Bombay High Court in Amritlal Vadilal vs. Kantilal Lalbhai, AIR 1931 Bombay 280 wherein it was held that the decree for injunction does not run with the land and in the absence of any statutory provision, such a decree cannot be enforced against the surviving members of a joint family or against a purchaser from a judgment-debtor. But where the sons of the judgment debtor are brought on record as his legal representatives under section 50 of the Code the decree can be executed against them and so also against the transferees from the legal representatives.

9. In Manilal Lallubhai Patel vs Kikabhai Lallubhai, AIR 1931 Bombay 482, the Bombay High Court held that where a decree for an injunction had been obtained against the father and the son had not been joined as a party and the father died during the pendency of the execution petition, the decree can be enforced under section 50 of the Code against the son as his legal representative by proceeding under order 21 rule 32 of the Code.

10. A Division Bench of Rajasthan High Court in Mubarak Begam and another vs Sushil Kumar and others, AIR 1957 Rajasthan 154 held that since the judgment debtor dies, his property devolves upon his heirs, and therefore, if the decree holder wants to satisfy the decree from the property which is inherited by them, then he must bring on record the legal representatives of the judgment debtor and so long as they are not impleaded, he cannot take steps which would effect their rights adversely.

11. Similar reiteration of law is found in the full Bench judgment of the Hon'ble Calcutta High Court in Minor Smt. Shanti Devi vs. Khandubala Dasi and others, AIR 1961 Calcutta 336.

12. A Division Bench of the Hon'ble Karnataka High Court in Ramchandra Deshpande vs. Laxmana Rao Kulkarni, AIR 2000 Karnataka 298 has held that the transferee judgment debtor is a person claiming under the original judgment debtors as their successor-in interest within the meaning of section 146 CPC and, as such, the decree holder can maintain an application for execution of the decree against him.

13. Hon'ble High Court of Kerala in Kathiyammakutty Umma vs. Thalakkadath Kattil Karappan and others, AIR 1989 Kerala 133, while relying upon section 50 of the Code, held that where a judgment debtor dies before a decree is fully satisfied, the decree holder can apply to the executing court for implementation of the same against the legal representatives of the deceased and such legal representatives shall be liable to the extent of the property which has come to their hands by way of inheritance.

14. Similar reiteration of law is found in the judgment of the Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in Idrish vs. Jaikam and others, (2009) 156 PLR 32.

15. Learned Single Judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Lajwanti vs. Anoop Kumar, Civil Revision No. 6983/2013 decided on 24.9.2014 after placing reliance upon the judgment rendered by the Karnataka High Court in Ramachandra Deshpande's and its own High Court judgment in Idrish's case (supra) held that where the judgment debtor dies before the decree has been fully satisfied, the decree holder can apply to the Executing Court for implementation of the same against the legal representatives of the deceased.

16. Relying upon the aforesaid exposition of law, Mr. Ashok Kumar Tyagi, learned counsel for the petitioner, would vehemently argue that the findings recorded by the learned executing court are clearly erroneous as the same are based on a total misconception of law, and therefore, deserve to the set aside.

17. As against the aforesaid contention, Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, learned counsel for the respondent, would rely upon the judgment rendered by the Shivappa Basavantappa Devaravar vs. Babajan, 1999 (Suppl.) Civil Court Cases 98 (Karnataka) to contend that the injunction is a personal remedy against a person, in particular, and therefore, once the person dies, the cause of action dies with him and does not pass on to the legal representatives.

18. In addition thereto, he would also contend that even on earlier occasion, the respondent had been arrayed as one of the judgment debtors in the Execution Petition and the same was held to be not maintainable by the Executing Court vide its decision dated 29.1.2011 and in view of said decision having attained finality, the present petition is not maintainable.

19. Reliance is further placed on the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in Mohd. Osman vs. Dr. Devid, 2011 (3) Civil Court Cases 42 (Bombay) to contend that a decree in injunction is a decree in personam and the order of injunction does not run with the land, and therefore, it would be impermissible to execute the decree against the legal representatives of the deceased judgment debtor or transferee of judgment debtor, who is the purchaser pendente lite.

20. Having considered the rival submissions of the learned counsel for the parties, it can be taken to be more than settled that a decree for permanent injunction can be executed by the decree holder or his legal representatives against the judgment debtor or his heirs or even the transferee of the judgment debtor, who is the purchaser pendente lite.

21. As regards the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent, after having gone through the same, I find that the ratio laid down therein has been totally misconstrued and misinterpreted.

22. In Shivappa's case(supra), the case was still at the appellate stage when the defendant-appellant died and it was under these peculiar facts and circumstances that the Hon'ble High Court of Kerala held that once a man dies, the cause of action dies with him and does not pass on to his legal representatives.

23. Now adverting to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in Mohd. Osman's case (supra), it would be noticed that the ratio laid down in Amritlal Vadilal's case (supra) was re-affirmed and in fact supports the contention of the petitioner. Relevant observations read as under:

> "[7] The Division Bench of this Court in a case of"Krishnabai PandurangSalagare and others Vs. Savlaram Gangaram Kumtekar, 1927 AIR(Bom) 93, has held thus:

"Here the transfer was not under the authority of the Court, and it was made during the pendency of a contentious proceeding in execution of this decree. It seems to me that this transfer cannot be allowed to affect the rights of the present plaintiff. He is entitled to such order as he would have obtained under the darkhast if there had been no transfer. If the mere fact of the transfer were accepted as a ground for disallowing his application for execution, it would mean that the transfer is allowed to affect the rights of the plaintiff, which would be contrary to the provisions of S.52 of the Transfer of Property Act."

Even the Division Bench of this Court in a case of "Amritlal Vadilal Vs. Kantilal Lalbhai, 1931 AIR (Bom) 280, which the learned counsel for the appellant has relied has observed thus:

"The decree for injunction does not run with the land and in the absence of any statutory provision, such a decree can not be enforced against the surviving members of a joint family or against a purchaser from a judgment-debtor. But where the sons of the judgment debtor are brought on record as his legal representatives under Section 50 the decree can be executed against them and so also against the transferees from the legal representatives, under Section 52, T.P. Act. On the same principle, viz., that they are bound by the result of the execution proceedings under S.52, T.P. Act. The transferees from the original judgment-debtor during the pendency of execution proceedings against him, can be held to be similarly bound and are liable to be proceeded against in execution."

[8] The Division Bench of the Karnataka High Court in a case of "Ramachandra Deshpande Vs. Laxmana Rao Kulkarni, 2000 AIR(Kar) 298, relying on the aforesaid judgment of our High Court has held that a decree for injunction could be executed against the successor in interest of the deceased judgment debtor as well. Transferee pendente lite for all puiposes be the representative in interest of the judgment debtor."

24. Adverting to the second contention raised by the learned counsel for the respondent that the execution petition against the respondent is not maintainable as the execution petition against him already stands dismissed on 29.1.2011, I find that respondent was impleaded in the execution petition when his father was very much alive. Obviously, once the suit was only against the father of the respondent Sh. Govind Singh, therefore, the execution petition against the son, i.e. the present respondent was not at all maintainable at that stage.

25. Therefore, the order passed by the Executing Court at an earlier occasion on 29.1.2011 dismissing the Execution Petition against the present respondent is of no consequences, as the respondent is now sought to be impleaded in an entirely new capacity as legal representative in place of the original judgment debtor, who had died during the pendency of the execution petition.

26. In view of aforesaid discussion, the view taken by the learned court below is clearly erroneous, and therefore, not sustainable in the eyes of law and is accordingly set aside.

27. Learned court below shall restore the Execution Petition and the Application to its original numbers and then proceed to decide the same in accordance with law.

28. Having said so, the present petition is disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

RSA No. 425 of 2006
Decided on: 10.08.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Contract for extraction of resin was awarded to the defendant – plaintiff pleaded that the target for extraction was 137.75 quintals, whereas, the defendant had extracted 94.11 quintals resin– the defendant is liable to pay compensation/damages for the difference of resin i.e. 43.64 quintals @ Rs.3,100 per quintals- the defendant pleaded that incessant rains during the pre-monsoon period dried the blazes and the trees fell due to high velocity winds – the requests were made to fix the blazes after excluding dried up blazes from which no extraction was possible – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- held, that plaintiff had not led any evidence to prove the case – the defendant had denied his liability to pay the amount- the onus was upon the plaintiff to prove the case and in absence of evidence, Court had rightly held that case was not proved – there is no infirmity in the judgment passed by the Court – appeal dismissed – direction issued to initiate disciplinary proceedings against the concerned officer of the Forest Corporation.

(Para-8 to 11)

For the appellant: Mr. Bhupender Pathania, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur , Judge (Oral):

The appellant (here-in-after referred to as plaintiff) has filed suit for recovery of Rs.1,02,035/- from respondent (here-in-after referred to as defendant), on the basis of agreement, for extracting quantity of resin lesser than as was required to be extracted in a work of extraction awarded to defendant in Lot No. 6-R/97.

2. The suit as well as appeal filed by plaintiff-appellant were dismissed, assailing which present appeal has been admitted on following substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the findings of the ld. Courts below are erroneous in as much as in not appreciating the fact that the respondent in his written statement has not denied the execution of the agreement and the fact that there had been short fall of resin at the time of extraction, though the short fall had been attributed by the respondent/defendant upon certain factors. Was not the respondent/defendant required to produce evidence at the first instance.

2. Whether the Trial Court below has committed grave irregularity and illegality in placing the onus upon the appellant/plaintiff to prove issue No.1.

3. Both above substantial questions of law are inter-linked, hence are considered together.

4. In the plaint, it has been pleaded that extraction target in the work awarded to defendant was 137.75 quintals, whereas defendant has extracted 94.11 Quintals resin and therefore, as per agreement defendant is liable to pay damages/compensation to plaintiff for the difference of resin i.e. 43.64 Quintals @Rs. 3100/- per Quintal.

5. Defendant had filed written statement disputing the claim of plaintiff assigning reasons for lesser extraction as incessant rains during the pre-monsoon period, dried up blazes and falling of trees on ground due to high velocity wind which were beyond his control. It is further stated in the written statement that defendant had always been informing Officers of plaintiff and factors affecting yield of resin were well within the knowledge of plaintiff and defendant had also represented to plaintiff requesting to fix number of blazes after excluding dried up blazes from which no extraction was possible. He has disputed his liability to pay damages/compensation as claimed in the plaint.

6. The trial Court had framed issues and issue No.1 is as under:-

1. Whether the defendant has failed to extract the agreed quantity of resin as per agreement, as alleged? OPP.

7. It is claim of plaintiff that defendant had failed to extract agreed quantity of resin as per agreement. Therefore, onus of proving this issue was rightly placed on plaintiff. Plaintiff was supposed to substantiate his pleading by leading oral as well as documentary evidence.

8. No replication was filed on behalf of plaintiff. Despite granting six opportunities for leading evidence, plaintiff neither led any oral evidence nor tendered any documents in evidence for determining the issues framed by the trial Court. To adjudicate the controversy in lis, agreement was basic document to be looked into by the Court. Plaintiff has not bothered to prove its case by leading evidence and proving documents i.e. photocopy of agreement, letters and other documents filed with plaint in accordance with law. In the plaint, plaintiff has asserted his claim but in written statement defendant has refuted his liability to pay. In absence of any evidence led by parties, the trial Court as well as First Appellate Court has rightly decided that the claim of plaintiff is not proved and suit as well as appeal of plaintiff has rightly been dismissed by lower Courts.

9. It is true that defendant has not denied execution of agreement and shortfall in extraction of resin but the same is not sufficient to cast liability upon defendant to pay damages as prayed in the plaint because defendant has disputed his liability to pay and for determining such liability, terms of agreement are required to be examined. Though defendant has not denied execution of agreement however at the same time defendant has also not admitted that copy of agreement placed on record is the same which was executed between the parties and also it is not proved on record that the photocopy of agreement placed on record is the true copy of the agreement which was signed between the parties. It was for plaintiff to prove the agreement alleged to be signed between the parties in accordance with law enabling the Court to consider rival contentions of the parties. The onus was definitely on plaintiff to prove its case including documents relied upon in the plaint but plaintiff has failed to discharge his duty.

10. In view of above discussion, there is no infirmity, illegality or perversity in the judgment passed by the Lower Courts. The trial Court has conducted trial in consonance with law of land and both the courts below have correctly and completely appreciated the material placed before them. Substantial questions of law framed in present appeal are answered in above terms. No other point is urged. Therefore, no interference in impugned judgments is warranted in present appeal. Accordingly, appeal is dismissed with costs.

11. Before parting with case, I would like to say that plaintiff Corporation was claiming Rs. 1,02,035/- in the year 2000 from the defendant but despite six opportunities granted by Court, no evidence was led to establish claim of the Corporation. The public Corporation is also dealing with public money and loss to public exchequer caused by conduct of Officers/officials of Corporation certainly amounts to loss to people of State and ultimately loss to nation. In a suit filed by Corporation for recovery of an amount from defendant, there was no occasion or reason to Officers of plaintiff Corporation not to appear in witness box and/or not to lead any evidence in support of plaintiff Corporation. It cannot happen without connivance of Officer of plaintiff Corporation and opponent. It is glaring example not only of willful negligence in performing duty by the concerned Officers but also dereliction of duty for which stein action against officer responsible is required. Therefore, I am constrained to direct Managing Director of plaintiff Corporation to initiate disciplinary proceedings against the concerned Officers of Forest Corporation within two months of receipt of copy of judgment, especially against officer holding the charge of the post concerned from August 2002 to July, 2003 and amount equivalent to loss caused to plaintiff Corporation be recovered from the erring Officers whether in service or retired, who was/were Incharge and responsible to monitor the case at the relevant point of time and in case there is lapse on the part of other officials/officers in placing the matter before concerned authority or taking necessary steps on their part, disciplinary proceedings also be initiated against them including effecting recovery from them also. Copy of this judgment be also sent to Managing Director of respondent who shall file compliance affidavit in Registry of this Court on or before 31.3.2017.

(Para- 7 to 23)

For the appellant Mr. Puneet Rajta, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge (Oral)

In the present case Investigating Agency was set in motion by complainant Raju Ram (father of PW-1 prosecutrix) by lodging FIR Ex. PW-13 in Police Station, Paonta Sahib stating therein that his daughter (prosecutrix) born on 22.07.1995, studying in 8th class, had gone to School on 15.07.2011 at about 8.30 AM with her sister Kiran, studying in 10th class. At about 9.00 AM, Kiran saw respondent-accused taking away prosecutrix forcibly on his bike and respondent did not stop even on raising alarm and prosecutrix was not traceable despite best efforts.

2. On 16.08.2011, PW-9 Suresh Kumar, father of respondent produced prosecutrix and respondent in Police Station Paonta Sahib. Respondent-accused was arrested and was medically examined. Prosecutrix was also medically examined and put in custody of her father.

3. After completion of investigation, challan was presented in the court. Respondent-accused was charge-sheeted under Sections 363, 366 & 376 (I) of India Penal Code.

On conclusion of trial, respondent-accused was acquitted. Hence, present appeal by State with prayer to convict respondent-accused.

4. We have heard learned counsel for the State as well as for respondent-accused and have also gone through the record.

5. After medical examination of prosecutrix, PW-10 Dr. Daljeet Kumar issued MLC Ex.PW-10/A opining that prosecutrix was used to sexual intercourse and prosecutrix must have sexual intercourse more than seven times and it was not possible to assess time of first sexual intercourse. There was no external or internal injury on her body.

6. Raju, father of prosecutrix was complainant, but he had neither been examined in Court nor he was cited as witness in challan presented in the Court. Prosecutrix was victim and her elder sister Kiran was witness to forcibly taking away the prosecutrix on 15.7.2011 by respondent-accused and they were examined as PWs-1 and 2. Therefore, before evaluating other evidence on record, veracity of statements of these witnesses is to be assessed.

7. PW-1 prosecutrix stated in the Court that on 15th July 2011 at about 9.00 AM, her sister entered the school but she remained standing outside the school and in the meanwhile, respondent arrived there and asked her to accompany him on his motorcycle by pretending that he was in love with her and wanted to marry. She stated that respondent also threatened to kill her in case of her refusal to accompany him. According to her, she was taken to Dhaulakuan by respondent on motorcycle under threat and thereafter she was taken to Nahan in car and from Nahan to Amritsar she was taken in bus where she stayed for 25 days in Gurudwara and respondent committed rape upon her in Dhaba in Amritsar where they stayed for 6 days. Thereafter they came back from Amritsar to Paonta Sahib by bus where PW-9 Suresh Kumar (father of respondent) met them who produced them in Police Station, Paonta Sahib. She also stated that respondent had not married her but had forced to put Bindi on her forehead. In her cross-examination she admitted that respondent was working in rest house near to their house who used to love her however she was not in love with him and she used to talk with him on telephone since about two months prior to the date of eloping with him. She had stated that she did not know about date, month or year of her birth. She also admitted that many persons met them at Girinagar, in bus and also at Amritsar but she did not make any complaint to any one. She was confronted with her statement made to police in which she had not stated that respondent-accused had threatened her to force her to sit on motor cycle.

8. PW-2 Kiran, sister of prosecutrix stated that on 15.07.2011, she had entered the school whereas prosecutrix had suddenly stopped outside the school gate and from second floor she noticed respondent, pulling her sister from arm and thereafter both of them sat on motorcycle and respondent had taken prosecutrix away on motorcycle and because of rainy day her effort to raise alarm was futile and then she came back home and narrated the entire incident to her mother and prosecutrix was traced after one month. She stated that prosecutrix had not cried when prosecutrix and respondent had gone on motorcycle. In examination in chief, she stated that she had tried to raise alarm, but due to rain it was in vain. However, in cross examination she stated that she had not cried when respondent and prosecutrix left the place on the motor cycle.

9. On 15.07.2011, prosecutrix and respondent had travelled from Dhaulakuan to bus-stand Nahan in Taxi No. UA-07-3881 owned and driven by PW-6 Ajay Gupta. In his cross-examination, he stated that during their journey in taxi both of them were happy and were talking to each other in joyful mood and on inquiry prosecutrix had stated that they were going just for enjoyment. As per him, prosecutrix had not complained that respondent-accused had brought her forcibly.

10. PW-9 Suresh Kumar is father of respondent who had produced respondent and prosecutrix in Police Station. He stated that prosecutrix had told him that she had voluntarily accompanied respondent to marry with him and that being above 18 years of age, she was free to marry a person of her choice.

11. Prosecutrix and her sister PW-2 Kiran had gone to school, prosecutrix remained outside gate of the school and on arrival of respondent, she accompanied him on his motorcycle to Dhaulakuan. As per PW-2 Kiran, respondent was pulling prosecutrix from her arm and thereafter prosecutrix sat over motor cycle. It is not possible for a person riding on a motorcycle to pull a grown up girl from arm and to make her to sit on motorcycle as a pillion rider against her wishes and consent that too at 9.00 AM in the morning. It is also not believable that person who was being forced to ride motorcycle made no efforts to resist or to raise alarm despite knowing that number of students including her sister were present in the school. Prosecutrix travelled with respondent to Dhaulakuan on motor cycle and thereafter accompanied him in a car from Dhaulakuan to Nahan and in bus from Nahan to Amritsar, stayed at Amritsar for 25 days and in Dhaba for 6 days and thereafter came back with him by bus to Paonta Sahib.

12. Though, prosecutrix had stated that respondent used to love her and she was not in love with him, however, she admitted that she was in talking term with respondent on mobile since about two months prior to eloping with him. At the time of making statement to police she had not stated that respondent had forcibly made her to sit on motor cycle by threatening to kill her. This fact was stated by her for the first time in the Court only. Prosecutrix admitted that number of persons had met them, but she had not complained to any person. Rather her statement made to PWs-6 and 9 indicate that she was accompanying respondent-accused on her own desire. Scrutiny of statements of PW-2, PW-6 and PW-9 and the prosecutrix indicated that prosecutrix was accompanying respondent-accused with her own will and free consent. From the conduct of the prosecutrix her consent was writ large.

13. The father of prosecutrix was neither cited as witness nor was examined in Court. PW-3 Suresh Kumar uncle of prosecutrix is witness to the identification of Dhaba in Roshnabad in U.P. and taking into possession of motorcycle used by respondent on 15th July 2011. He had accompanied father of prosecutrix for tracing her and thereafter lodging FIR in Police Station. Only witness to the alleged incident of forcibly taking away prosecutrix is PW-2 Kiran. There is nothing in her statement from which it can be elucidated that PW-1 was forcibly taken away by respondent on 15th July 2011.

14. There is ample evidence on record to infer that prosecutrix eloped with respondent with her will and consent. Despite consent of prosecutrix, respondent would be liable to be punished under Sections 363, 366 and 376 (1) IPC if she was below 16 years on 15.07.2011 and may face conviction under Sections 363 and 366 IPC only in case she was below 18 years but above 16 years of age on 15.07.2011.

15. For proving age of prosecutrix, her date of birth certificate issued from School Ex. PW-5/A, copies of Pariwar Register of Gram Panchayat Ex. PW-12/A and Ex. PW-12/B and report of Radiologist Ex. PW-11/A were relied upon by prosecution.

16. PW-5 Sudarshan Kaur, Head Mistress of School had issued copy of date of certificate of birth of prosecutrix Ex.PW-5/A. She stated that as per that certificate date of birth of prosecutrix was 15th July 1997. In cross-examination she admitted that entry of date of birth of prosecutrix in original register brought by her was not in her hand and the said original register did not contain opening date, certification of pages, total number of pages and authority by whom it was opened.

17. PW-12 Mohan Singh, Panchayat Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Sainwala proved photocopy of extract of pariwar register Ex. PW-12/A and copy of the same issued by him Ex. PW-12/B indicating date of birth of prosecutrix as 15th July 1997. This witness admitted that mother of prosecutrix was resident of District Kinnaur before her marriage and because of posting in Kinnaur, Raja Ram father of prosecutrix used to reside with his family in Kinnaur and prosecutrix was born in Kinnaur and therefore her date of birth was not entered in Death and Birth register maintained by Gram Panchayat, Sainiwal. He expressed his ignorance about the time when names of prosecutrix, her sister and mother were entered in the pariwar register. He did not know about the person who had entered their names in pariwar register. He was also having no knowledge that on whose instance those entries were made. He was unable to deny that date of birth of prosecutrix was wrongly entered in pariwar register for want of documentary proof which was basis for entry of date of birth of prosecutrix in pariwar register. He stated that Death and Birth register was separately maintained in his Panchayat and in that register entry of birth of prosecutrix was not there. It is settled Law that entries of pariwar register are not conclusive proof of date of birth of a person.

18. PW-11 Dr. D.D. Sharma, Radiologist at Regional Hospital, Nahan had examined prosecutrix for determination of age on reference made by PW-10 Dr. Daljeet Kaur. As per his opinion rendered vide Ex.PW-11/A, age of prosecutrix as on 17th August 2011 was between 15½ to 19 years. In cross-examination he admitted that margin of two years could be given to the age assessed by him on the basis of report Ex. PW-11/A. PW-10 Dr. Daljeet Kaur on basis of report Ex. PW-11/A had again opined that the age of prosecutrix in August 2011 was between 15½ to 19 years.

19. In case of availability of valid, reliable and admissible documentary proof of date of birth, determination of age by medical expert may be ignored. But in present case documents relied upon by prosecution Ex.PW-5/A and Ex.12/A and Ex.12/B cannot be treated conclusive proof of age of prosecutrix for the reason that basis of entries made in school record, in pariwar register is not known. In view of admissions of PW-5 Sudarshan Kaur and PW-12 Mohan Singh, these documents cannot be said to be valid, admissible and reliable proof of date of birth of the prosecutrix particularly when father of prosecutrix, in FIR has stated date of birth of prosecutrix as 22.07.1995 which again renders date of birth mentioned in Ex. PW-5/A, Ex. PW-22/A and Ex. PW-12/B doubtful. In such eventuality opinion of medical expert became relevant. On the basis of evidence on a record exact date of birth of prosecutrix has not been proved nor there is any document on record conclusively proving that prosecutrix at the time of incident was below 18 years of age, rather, there is a opinion of medical expert indicating that prosecutrix may be more than 18 years in August 2011. As per medical evidence age of prosecutrix in August 2011 has been determined between 15½ to 19 years with further clarification that there may be variation of two years. Therefore, prosecution has failed to prove by leading admissible and convincing evidence that prosecutrix at the time of incident, was below 18 years of age. As per medical evidence there is possibility of her age above 18 years on the day of incident and when there two views are possible, view beneficial to accused is to be given preference. Therefore, prosecutrix is to be considered more than 18 years on the day of incident on the basis of material available on record.

20. Once prosecutrix is found to be above 18 years at the time of incident, then for her consents, respondent cannot be said to be guilty under Sections 363, 366 & 376 of the Indian Penal Code.

21. Respondent was examined under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. He admitted his love affairs with PW-1 prosecutrix. In answer to question No. 22, he stated that he still wanted to marry with prosecutrix but she had deposed against him under pressure of parents and her relatives In totality of circumstances defence propounded by respondent appears to be convincing and based on truth.

22. Prosecution has failed to prove guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubts and there is no merit in the appeal. There is no illegality or perversity in impugned judgment. Learned trial Court has appreciated evidence on record completely and correctly on record.

23. Allegations of prosecutrix are not trustworthy, believable and convincing and therefore, her statement cannot be treated as cogent, reliable and convincing to convict the respondent under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code.

24. The present appeal, devoid of any merit, is dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged. Records of the Court below be sent back forthwith.

Surinder Mohan ..... Appellant.
Versus
Ramesh Kumar & Anr. ..... Respondents.

RSA No. 516 of 2007
Judgment reserved on: 24.10.2016
Date of Decision: 28th October, 2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff pleaded that he is co-owner of the suit land – the defendants threatened to raise construction over the same- the defendants denied that suit land is owned jointly by the parties and claimed that an old abadi existed over the suit land- the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that it was admitted that suit land is abadideh and has not been partitioned by metes and bounds – defendant No.1 had purchased a specific portion of abadi from defendant No. 2 and became a co-sharer – he was raising new construction by demolishing the old one – plaintiff has failed to prove his possession over abadi and is not entitled to the injunction – appeal dismissed. (Para-13 to 24)

Case referred:
Laxmidevamma and Others Vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264

For the Appellant : Mr.Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Ms.Shalini Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Instant Regular Second Appeal filed under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is directed against the judgment and decree dated 30.8.2007, passed by learned District Judge, Sirmaur, District Nahan, H.P., affirming the judgment and decree dated 25.10.2005, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) Rajgarh, District Sirmaur, H.P., in Civil Suit No.81/1 of 2004, whereby suit for injunction filed by the plaintiff was dismissed.

2. In nutshell, facts of the case are that present appellant(hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) filed suit seeking relief of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants(hereinafter referred to as the respondents) from raising construction or changing the nature of the land comprised in khata/ khatauni No.72min/116min, khasra Nos.1093/1022/1017, measuring 13 biswas situated in village Johana, Tehsil Pachhad, District Sirmaur, H.P (hereinafter referred to as the suit land). Plaintiff averred in the plaint that on 20.8.2004, defendants with mala-fide intention to raise construction over the suit land started digging the suit land with JCB Machine and in order to level the same for raising construction thereon without the consent of the plaintiff. Plaintiff further averred that since suit land is joint between the parties, the plaintiff being co-sharer is owner of every inch of the suit land till the same is legally partitioned by metes and bounds. Plaintiff further averred in the plaint that the suit land is precious land since it falls in front of Shimla-Dehradun road and defendants solely with a view to grab the best portion of the suit land has resorted to illegal construction over that portion of the land. In view of the aforesaid background, plaintiff filed suit for injunction against the defendants.

3. Defendants by way of filing written statement refuted the claim put forth on behalf of the plaintiff on the grounds of maintainability, locus standi, cause of action and misrepresentation of the facts. Defendants also denied the case of the plaintiff on merits by disputing the status of the plaintiff being co-sharer in the suit land. Defendant specifically averred that there is old Abadi which belongs to them and they are raising construction of a dwelling house over which the old Abadi/house was situated. Defendants specifically denied that the suit land is joint between the parties, rather defendants claimed that plaintiff preferred the present suit with mala-fide intention in order to harass them.

4. Record reveals that the plaintiff did not file any replication and as such, averments contained in the written statement stood un-rebutted.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of permanent injunction as prayed for? OPP.

2. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

3. Whether the plaintiff has no locus-standi to file the present suit? OPD.

4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit? OPD.

5. Relief.

6. The learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff vide impugned judgment and decree dated 25.10.2005.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment dated 25.10.2005, passed by learned trial Court, appellant/plaintiff filed an appeal under Section 96 CPC in the Court of learned District Judge, Sirmaur, H.P, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.18-CA/13 of 2007/2005, however fact remains that learned District Judge, vide impugned judgment and decree dated 30.8.2007, dismissed the appeal preferred on behalf of the plaintiff/appellant and upheld the judgment passed by learned trial Court. In the aforesaid background, the present appellant-plaintiff approached this Court by way of Regular Second Appeal, praying therein for quashing and setting aside the impugned judgment passed by both the Courts below.

8. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

"(1) Whether the land which is described as Shamlat land in revenue record can be used by only one co-owner without there being any partition of the land?.

(2). Whether the land described as Shamlat over which every villager/right holder having common rights can be used by an individual for the construction of his personal house which is obviously not for common purpose?

(3). Whether an individual can be said to be in possession of a Shamlat land without placing on record any evidence to this effect that the land has been partitioned and particular piece of land has been allotted to him?".

9. Mr. Deepak Kaushal, learned counsel representing the appellant, vehemently argued that the judgment passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. He further contended that both the Courts while non suiting the plaintiff have miserably failed to appreciate the evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff in support of his claim in its rights perspective, as a result of which, erroneous findings have been returned by both the Court and great prejudice has been caused to the plaintiff. Mr. Kaushal, further argued that Courts below failed to appreciate the fact that the land in question is "Shamlat Deh" and every co-owner has right over the "Shamlat land" and same can only be used for common purposes. He further stated that since every co-owner has right to use the "Shamlat land", one individual cannot be allowed to use the "Shamlat land" for his individual purpose. In the present case, without there being legal partition, defendants resorted to construction over the suit land and as such, judgments passed by both the Courts below deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

10. Mr. Kaushal, while concluding his arguments, strenuously argued that both the Courts below have committed an error of law by deciding all the issues together and both the Courts have given findings qua all the issues contrary to the documents placed on record. Mr. Kaushal, further contended that suit land is classified as "Shamlat land" and have been kept by the villagers for common purposes, right to use common land cannot be given to any individual by infringing the rights of the other co-owners of the "Shamlat land". In this regard, he invited the attention of the Court to the jamabandis placed on record to demonstrate that since the land in question is "Shamlat land", it is not known/understood that on what basis defendants started raising construction over the portion of the suit land for personal purpose without ascertaining the extent of their share. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Kaushal, prayed for decreeing the suit after setting-aside the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below.

11. Ms. Shalini Thakur, learned counsel representing the respondents, supported the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below. Ms. Thakur, vehemently argued that bare perusal of the impugned judgment passed by both the Courts below, suggest that same are based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and as such, no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case. With a view to substantiate aforesaid argument, she specifically invited the attention of the Court to the judgment passed by both the Courts below to demonstrate that the Courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously and has returned concurrent findings of fact as well as law and as such, this Court has no occasion to differ with the concurrent findings returned by both the Courts below. Ms. Thakur, further contended that this Court has very limited power to re-appreciate the evidence when both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings on the facts as well as law. In this regard, to substantiate the aforesaid plea, she placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others Vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

13. In nutshell, it is admitted case of the parties that suit land is "Shamlat Deh" is used as Abadi and the same has not been partitioned by metes and bound. The defendant No.1, who purchased a portion of Abadi land from the defendant No.2, also became co-sharer over the suit land by virtue of sale deed. Until the land is partitioned by metes and bound the defendant No.1 cannot appropriate the land to his exclusive use to the disadvantage of the appellant/plaintiff. Plaintiff/ appellant, who claimed himself to be joint owner of the suit land claimed that the suit land is not legally partitioned and as such, defendants cannot be allowed to raise construction in the suit land, whereas defendants claimed that suit land is not joint between the parties, rather Abadi is situated in the suit land, which is now converted to new construction by dismantling old house existing over the suit land. Plaintiff in support of his contention placed on record certified copy of jamabandi for the year, 2002-03 Ex.PW1/A, perusal whereof clearly suggests that the suit land is recorded as "Shamlat Deh Hasab Rasad Khewat". In the column of remarks, it has been clearly reflected that defendant No.1, Ramesh Kumar son of Sh. Pratap Singh, has purchased the share of one of the possessor of the suit land namely Narayan Dutt. The total area of the suit land has also been depicted/ reflected to be constructed/ built up area. But careful perusal of Ex.PW1/A, nowhere reflect the name of plaintiff recorded either in the column of ownership or possession of the suit land.

14. Though, in Ex.PW1/B i.e list of share holders of the suit land, name of the plaintiff has been recorded as one of the shareholder in mauza, Johana, but interestingly, plaintiff nowhere claimed in the plaint that there exists any constructed area over the suit land, which is in his possession, whereas defendants by way of placing on record ample documentary evidence Ex.DW1/B, Ex.DW1/C, Ex.DW1/D and Ex.DW1/E successfully proved on record that the suit land is built up area for the last so many years, which was further purchased by present defendant from one co-sharer namely Narayan Dutt.

15. Plaintiff primarily filed suit by placing reliance on the jamabandi for the year, 2002-03 Ex.PW1/A and the Farist Malkann (list of owners) Ex.PW1/B as recorded "Shamlat land" on the record. Plaintiff specifically placed reliance upon the document Ex.PW1/B, to demonstrate that he has a right in the shamlat land, but at the cost of repetition, it may be reiterated that though there is mention of the name of plaintiff/appellant as one of the right holder in the list of owners Ex.PW1/B in the Shamlat land, but there is no such reference of his being in possession of land described in the jamabandi Ex.PW1/A. Close reading of Ex.PW1/A, clearly suggests that the suit land has been recorded as "Gair Mumkin Abadi" and as per entry in the column of remarks (Kafiyat), two biswas of land out of aforesaid "Gair Mumkin Abadi" has been shown to be sold by defendant No.2 namely Narayan Dutt, who was admittedly co-sharer in the suit land, in favour of defendant No.1 on 15.6.2004. Similarly, shares of the other shareholders in respect of the suit land have been specifically mentioned in column No.5 of Ex.PW1/A, shown in the jamabandi, referred hereinabove. Interestingly, there are no pleadings that entries as reflected in Ex.PW1/A are illegal and as such, not binding on the rights of the plaintiff. Similarly, there are no pleadings in respect of the other shareholders including defendant No.1 as mentioned in column No.5 of the said jamabandi as illegal and not binding on the rights of the plaintiff, whereas defendants in written statement filed before the trial Court specifically in para No.2 claimed that "there is an old Abadi which belongs to the defendants and they want to raise construction of dwelling house in the place of this Abadi and old house. The plaintiff has filed the present suit with mala-fide intention and only with a view to harass the defendants." Aforesaid specific averments contained in the written statement have not been controverted in any manner by the plaintiff by way of replication or by way of ocular evidence led on record before the Court below. Careful perusal of the plaint filed by the plaintiff, clearly suggest that he filed the suit simplicitor for permanent prohibitory injunction without there being any challenge to the correctness of the revenue entries, perusal whereof clearly suggest that suit land is "Gair Mumkin Abadi", which has been further sold by defendant No.2 being its co-sharer in the suit land in favour of defendant No.1 on 15.6.2004.

16. Apart from this, as has been discussed hereinabove, shares of the shareholders in respect of the suit land stands mentioned in column No.5 of Ex.PW1/A. Similarly, this Court during the proceeding of the case had an occasion to peruse the entire evidence led on record by the parties, perusal whereof clearly suggest that plaintiff was not able to prove that there is no Abadi over the suit land, which is admittedly entered as "Shamlat Deh Hasab Rasad Khewat", rather plaintiff by stepping into the witness box stated that name of defendant No.2 has been wrongly incorporated in the column of possession in respect of the suit land and he started digging the land on 20.8.2004 but the same was rightly not considered by the Courts below since no such pleas, as have been discussed hereinabove, were incorporated in the plaint. It is well settled that in the absence of specific pleadings in the plaint, evidence, if any, led in that regard may not be required to be looked by the Court while deciding the controversy.

17. Apart from this, this Court had an occasion to peruse the documents placed on record by the defendants, especially copies of jamabandis for the year, 1967-68 Ex.DW1/B, 1972-73 Ex.DW1/C, 1977-78 Ex.DW1/D and 1992-93 Ex.DW1/E, perusal whereof clearly suggest that plaintiff or his predecessor-in-interest were not in physical possession of the suit land or part thereof at any point of time, rather documents referred hereinabove, clearly suggest that predecessor-in-interest of Narayan Dutt, defendant No.2 had been coming in possession of the suit land. Similarly, the old revenue record, as referred hereinabove, i.e. jamabandis , clearly reflects that the suit land is built up area for the last so many years. Plaintiff Surinder Mohan himself admitted that the suit land is recorded as "Abadi Deh" and said "Abadi Deh" is duly recorded in the revenue record since 1972. If the deposition of plaintiff is examined juxtaposing, averments contained in the plaint it itself falsify the claim of the plaintiff/ appellant that the suit land is jointly owned and possessed by the co-owners. In his cross-examination, he admitted that defendant No.2, Narayan Dutt sold the share in the suit land in favour of defendant No.1 and he has not obtained any demarcation of the suit land. Defendants by leading cogent and convincing evidence in the shape of documentary evidence were able to prove on record that the suit land is "Abadi Deh" and thee upon built up structure exists, hence the version put forth on behalf of the plaintiff, which was not at all proved by the plaintiff by leading cogent and convincing evidence, was rightly rejected by the Courts below. Similarly, perusal of statement of PW-2, Vijay Kumar adduced on record by the plaintiff, nowhere suggests that he was able to prove the contents of the plaint, rather careful perusal of his statement leads to the conclusion that he did not know anything with regard to suit land because in his cross-examination, he himself admitted that he has no landed property in village Johana and he was working as Safai Karamchari in Tehsil Office, where plaintiff was patwari, whereas, defendant No.1,Ramesh Kumar while deposing before the Court specifically stated that the suit land is constructed portion, which he purchased from defendant No.2,Narayan Dutt. He further stated that old house was situated in the suit land, which was now being reconstructed.

18. DW-2, Narayan Dutt, supported the version put forth on behalf of DW-1, Ramesh Kumar, who categorically deposed that he sold his share in the suit land in favour of defendant No.1. He further stated that defendant No.1 is constructing new house on the same place where his old house was in existence. At the cost of repetition, it may be again stated that aforesaid factum of existence of old house as categorically mentioned in para-2 of the written statement was nowhere refuted by the plaintiff either in the shape of replication or by way of leading cogent and convincing evidence before the Court.

19. Similarly, DW-3, Parkash Chand, supported the version of DW-1 and DW-2, who categorically stated that plaintiff has no concern in the suit land. This Court also perused the cross-examination conducted on these witnesses, which nowhere suggests that plaintiff was able to shatter the testimonies of these witnesses, who unequivocally stated that DW-2 sold constructed portion to defendant No.1. One thing which also emerged from the reading of the plaint that the plaintiff nowhere made mention, if any, with regard to the constructed portion over the suit land, which otherwise appears to be correct after appreciation of the documentary evidence as well as oral evidence led on record by the defendants. Defendants placing reliance upon Ext.DW1/B, Ex.DW1C, Ex.DW1/D and Ex.DW1/E were able to prove on record that the suit land is built up area for so many years but plaintiff nowhere claimed in his plaint that there exists constructed portion over the suit land, rather, he claimed that he alongwith his family members and defendants were owners in possession of the suit land described in the jamabandi for the year, 2002-03 and there is no mention, if any, with regard to the built up area of the land referred hereinabove. Whereas defendants by leading cogent and convincing evidence in the shape of Ex.DW1/B, Ex.DW1/C, Ex.DW1/D and Ex.DW1/E successfully proved on record that the suit land is built up area and construction, if any, by defendant No.1 is being raised upon the same. Though, plaintiff termed revenue record reflecting defendant No.1 in the ownership of the suit land as illegal and wrong but same plea was rightly not considered by the courts below since there is /was no challenge, if any to the entries made in the revenue record.

20. Now coming to the argument having been raised by the learned counsel representing the plaintiff with regard to nature of the land i.e. Shamlat land. It is undisputed as per Ex.PW1/A that present plaintiff is one of the co-sharer in the shamlat land but that cannot be sufficient ground to conclude that the plaintiff had an cause of action for filing the suit against the defendants, who specifically proved on record that he purchased the specific portion of land from defendant No.2. Learned court below rightly came to the conclusion that since plaintiff specifically failed to challenge the status of the defendant No.2 being owner of the suit land to the extent of two biswas of land, who further sold the land to defendant No.1, suit filed by the plaintiff cannot be accepted.

21. Apart from above, status of defendant No.2 being owner of the suit land has not been specifically questioned and denied by the plaintiff and as per revenue record placed on record, it stands duly proved on record that "Gair Mumkin Abadi" exists on the suit land. Similarly, perusal of depositions made by DW-2 and DW-3 suggest that constructed portion of the land was sold in favour of defendant No.1, meaning thereby specific portion of "Abadi" was purchased by defendant No.1, who on the said old Abadi started raising new construction by demolishing the old construction. Since, plaintiff failed to prove his physical possession, qua the Abadi owned and possessed by the defendants, Court below rightly not granted the discretionary relief of injunction in his favour.

22. Conjoint reading of evidence led on record, compel this Court to come to the conclusion that defendant No.1 successfully proved on record his exclusive possession over the suit land purchased by him from defendant No.2. It is well settled that co-owner, who is not in possession of any part of the property, is not entitled to seek injunction against another co-owner, who has been coming in exclusive possession of the common property, unless any act of the person in possession of the property amounts to ouster, prejudicial or adverse to the interest of co-owner out of possession. Since, in the present case, plaintiff was not able to prove his possession over the suit land being co-owner, his plea of making of construction or improvement by defendants on the alleged joint property may not be sufficient to conclude that he was being ousted from the common holding of the parties. There cannot be any dispute that Shamlat land recorded in the revenue record is used commonly by all the co-owners and all the villagers/right holders have common rights to use the same. Similarly, there cannot be any exclusive possession of "Shamla land" without there being partition among the right holders having common rights over the Samlat land. But in the present case, it stands duly proved on record that suit land i.e. "Gair Mumkin Abadi Hasab Rasad Khewat" is used as Abadi and in the column of remarks defendant No.1 namely Ramesh Kuamr has been shown as purchaser of share of one of the co-sharers/ possessor of the suit land namely Narayan Dutt. Similarly, it stands duly proved on record that the suit land sold by defendant No. 2 in favour of defendant No. 1 was constructed built up area. Whereas, name of plaintiff has been nowhere recorded either in the column of ownership and possession of the suit land. Revenue record placed on record in the shape of Ext.DW1/B, Ex.DW1/C, Ex.DW1/D and Ex.DW1/E, clearly establish on record that suit land is built up area of the last so many years and as such, there is no illegality and infirmity in the findings returned by both the Courts below that defendant No.1 purchased share of defendant No.2 in the suit land. Since, plaintiff/appellant could not establish his case legally before the Courts below, his prayer for injunction against the defendants was rightly rejected by the Court.

23. This Court sees no irregularity and infirmity, if any, in the judgments passed by both the Courts below, rather same are based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. This Court is fully satisfied that both the Courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in the present matter. Since, both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings, which otherwise appear to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence, this Court has very limited jurisdiction/scope to interfere in the matter. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the relevant contents of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others*, (2015)4 SCC 264, herein below:-

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the Courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that plaintiffs have established their right in 'A' schedule property. In the light of concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for re-appreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the 'A' schedule property for road and that she could not have full fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C., concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the Courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."

24. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, present appeal fails and same is dismissed.

Interim directions, if any, are vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

For the Petitioner : Mr. Umesh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. N.K.Thakur, Senior Advocate, with Ms. Jamuna, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Instant Criminal Revision Petition filed under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is directed against the judgment dated 4.10.2010, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P. in Criminal Appeal No.1 of 2008, reversing the judgment of conviction passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Court No.2, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. in case No.40/2 of 2005/1999, whereby the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the accused) was held guilty of having committed offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act and accordingly convicted and sentenced the accused to undergo simple imprisonment for the period of three months and to pay a fine of Rs.2000/- and in default of payment of fine, to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one month. The learned trial Court held the complainant entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.80,000/- to be paid by the accused.

2. Briefly stated facts of the case as emerged from the record are that the petitioner (hereinafter referred to as the complainant) filed complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act(hereinafter referred to as the Act) before the learned trial Court stating therein that the accused had borrowed a sum of Rs. 40,000/- from him as loan on 12.5.1998 and agreed to return the same within a period of three months alongwith interest, but despite several requests having been made by the complainant, accused failed to repay the aforesaid amount and finally the accused issued a cheque No.0936994, dated 12.10.1998 amounting to Rs. 40,000/- drawn on H.P. State Co-operative Bank Limited branch Office at Ghumarwin, in favour of the complainant, which on presentation in the bank by the complainant on 27.2.1999, was returned by the bank with the endorsement "insufficient funds". Complainant again presented the cheque for payment in the bank on 12.4.1999, however fact remains that same was again returned to the complainant with the remarks "insufficient funds" in the account of the accused. After receiving the aforesaid information from the bank, complainant got legal notice issued under Section 138 of the Act to the accused calling upon him to make the payment of the cheque amount within a period of 7 days from the receipt of the notice, but the accused failed to make the payment of the said cheque, as a result of which, complainant was compelled to file the complaint under Section 138 of the Act.

3. The learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence adduced on record, found accused guilty of having committed offence punishable under Section 138 of the Act and vide impugned judgment/order dated 29.12.2007/31.12.2007 convicted and sentenced the accused, as per the description given hereinabove.

4. Accused being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by learned trial Court, filed an appeal under Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure before the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Bilaspur, which came to be registered as Criminal Appeal No.1 of 2008. The learned Sessions Judge, vide impugned judgment dated 4.10.2010, accepted the appeal preferred by the accused and set-aside the judgment of conviction recorded by learned trial Court. Hence, in the aforesaid background, complainant approached this Court by way of instant Criminal Revision Petition, praying therein for quashing and setting-aside the impugned judgment dated 4.10.2010, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Bilaspur, H.P.

5. Mr. Umesh Kanwar, learned counsel representing the complainant, vehemently argued that the impugned judgment, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Bilaspur is not sustainable as the same is not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence adduced on record by the complainant as well as law on the point and as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Kanwar, further contended that lower Appellate Court while accepting the appeal has miserably failed to appreciate the cogent and convincing evidence adduced on record by the complainant in its right perspective, as a result of which, great prejudice has been caused to the complainant. He further contended that complainant successfully proved on record by leading cogent and convincing evidence that the accused issued a cheque amounting to Rs. 40,000/- in favour of the complainant, which was dishonoured on account of "insufficient funds" in the account of the accused. While referring to the judgment passed by learned Sessions Judge, Mr. Kanwar, strenuously argued that bare perusal of the judgment suggests that learned Sessions Judge has not applied its mind while rejecting the complaint by holding that the complainant presented the cheque with the bank after expiry of six months. In this regard, Mr. Kanwar, specifically invited the attention of this Court to Section 25 of the Act, to demonstrate that since on 11.4.1999 there was holiday being Sunday, cheque could only presented on 12.4.1999. Mr. Kanwar, further contended the lower Appellate Court committed further illegality while recording the finding that no proper notice was issued to the accused within stipulated time by the complainant. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid argument, learned counsel representing the complainant invited the attention of the Court to the legal notice Ex.PW1/A, dated 17.4.1999 issued to the accused through postal receipt Ex.CA, dated 21.4.1999. He further contended that bare perusal of legal notice Ex.PW1/A, suggests that same was dated 17.4.1999 and if postal receipt dated 21.4.1999 is taken to be date of posting, even in that eventuality findings returned by the lower Appellate Court is totally contrary to the record that legal notice was not got issued within stipulated time by the complainant. Mr. Kanwar, while concluding his arguments, forcibly contended that reasoning of the lower Appellate Court is manifestly unreasonable and unsustainable as there was no occasion for the Court to disregard the well and consistent testimony of the complainant witnesses on material points and as such, impugned judgment passed by learned lower Appellate Court deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

6. Mr. N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Advocate, duly assisted by Ms. Jamuna, Advocate, supported the impugned judgment passed by learned lower Appellate Court. Mr.

Thakur, submitted that bare perusal of the judgment passed by learned lower Appellate Court is based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and as such, there is no scope of interference of this Court. Mr. Thakur, further contended that bare perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court, suggests that the same was not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, rather same was purely based on conjunctures and surmises and as such, was rightly quashed and set-aside by the learned lower Appellate Court while accepting the appeal preferred on behalf of the accused. Mr. Thakur, strenuously argued that it stands duly proved on record that the cheque Ex.PW2/M was deposited with the bank after expiry of six months and as such, there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by the learned lower appellate Court. Mr. Thakur, further contended that as per own case of the complainant, cheque in question was received by him from the bank with the endorsement "insufficient funds" on 12.4.1999, whereas legal notice Ex.PW1/A advising the accused to make the payment of the cheque amount within 15 days from the date of the receipt of the information from the bank was admittedly got issued after expiry of 15 days and as such, there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by the lower Appellate Court. Mr. Thakur, while concluding his arguments stated that bare perusal of the evidence led on record by the complainant, clearly suggests that there are major contradictions and as such, rightly discarded by the lower appellate Court while accepting the appeal. In the aforesaid background, learned counsel for the accused sought dismissal of the present revision petition.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have carefully gone through the record.

8. It is undisputed before me that accused issued a cheque amounting to Rs. 40,000/- in favour of the complainant on 12.10.1998 for consideration of amount which he had borrowed from the complainant. Learned trial Court on the basis of the material on record found accused guilty of having committed the offence under Section 138 of the Act and accordingly convicted and sentenced him as per the description given hereinabove. Learned Lower Appellate Court while accepting the appeal preferred on behalf of the petitioner-accused came to the conclusion that cheque Ex.PW2/M, dated 12.10.1998 was submitted before the bank twice. Learned lower appellate Court further concluded that since complainant presented the cheque in question twice in the bank on 27.2.1999 and 12.4.1999, it was incumbent upon him to issue notice to the petitioner-accused after receiving memo having endorsement" insufficient funds" from the bank on 27.2.1999. Learned Appellate Court further held that once cheque Ex.PW2/M was returned by the bank on 27.2.1999, notice ought to have been issued to the accused by the complainant as contemplated under clause (b) of proviso to Section 138 of the Act. Apart from above, learned appellate Court also concluded that thereafter cheque was presented after prescribed period of six months i.e. 12.4.1999 and as such complaint under Section 138 of the Act was maintainable.

9. After perusing the aforesaid findings returned by the learned lower appellate Court, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the learned lower appellate Court has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the cheque could be presented any number of times during the period of its validity by the payee and it is also well settled law that on each presentation of the cheque and its dishonour fresh right and new cause of action accrues in his favour and there is no bar under Section 138 of the Act to present the cheque before the bank for encashment after dishonouring the same at one occasion. True it is that if after getting intimation from the bank with regard to dishonour of the cheque, complainant gives a notice under clause(b) of Section 138 of the Act, he forfeits his right to present the cheque again with the bank even after getting memo of the bank indicating the reasons for dishonouring of the cheque because period of one month for filing the complaint would be reckoned from the day immediately following the day on which the period of 15 days from the date of the receipt of the notice by the drawer, expires.

10. Admittedly, in the present case, complainant presented the cheque twice on 27.2.1999 and 12.4.1999, but fact remains that after getting intimation Ex.PW2/A from the bank with regard to dishonour of the cheque, complainant chose not to send notice, as envisaged under clause (b) of proviso to Section 138 of the Act, rather he again presented the cheque on 12.4.1999 for payment in the bank. Since, on 12.4.1999 cheque was returned by the bank vide memo Ex.PW2/D with the remarks "insufficient funds", he got legal notice issued in terms of clause (b) to Section 138 of the Act, hence, there is no illegality, if any, committed by the complainant while presenting the cheque on second occasion i.e.12.4.1999 without intimating the accused with regard to dishonour of the cheque on 27.2.1999. Had the complainant informed the accused with regard to dishonour of the cheque on 27.2.1999, he would have forfeited his right to present the cheque again on 12.4.1999. Since, the complainant instead of intimating the accused with regard to dishonour of the cheque on 27.2.1999 again presented the cheque on 12.4.1999, there is no illegality, whatsoever, in presenting the cheque on second occasion by the complainant. As far as, another finding returned by the lower appellate Court that cheque Ex.PW2/M was presented with the bank after prescribed period of six months from the date on which it is drawn is also erroneous and without any basis. It is clearly proved on record that cheque Ex.PW2/M was presented by the complainant on 12.4.1999 i.e. after expiry of six months but on 11.4.1999. There was a local holiday being Sunday and the complainant presented the same on 12.4.1999, there is nothing on the record that the bank refused to accept the cheque on 12.4.1999 on the ground of validity, rather bank accepted the same and issued memo Ex.PW2/D with the endorsement "insufficient funds". Since, cheque was dated 12.10.1998, same was valid up to 11.4.1999 but as has been observed that on 11.4.1999 there was holiday being Sunday and as such, there was no occasion for the complainant to present the same on Holiday.

11. At this stage, it would be apt to reproduce Section 25 of the Act as under:-

> "25. When day of maturity is a holiday:- When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day."

12 Bare perusal of the aforesaid provision contained in the Act, clearly suggests that if on the day a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day. In the present case, since cheque was to expire on 11.4.1999, which was holiday being Sunday, instrument i.e. cheque was valid up to 12.4.1999 and as such, same was rightly accepted by the bank. Hence, in view of the provisions of law, this Court is not in agreement with the findings returned by the Court below that the complainant failed to deposit the cheque within the period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity. There is no dispute that cheque in question was to expire on 11.4.1999, on which date, it was holiday being Sunday and as such, there is no delay, if any, on the part of the complainant to present the same on 12.4.1999. Similarly, this Court finds that learned lower appellate Court has fallen in grave error while concluding that the complainant failed to get the legal notice issued to the drawee of the cheque within the period of 15 days from the date of information from the bank. Admittedly, In the instant case, intimation with regard to dishonour of the cheque was received by the complainant from the bank on 12.4.1999. Complainant got issued legal notice Ex.PW1/A to accused through his counsel vide postal receipt Ex.CA. Perusal of Ex.PW1/A, clearly suggests that notice is dated 17.4.1999 and perusal of receipt Ex.CA, clearly suggests that same was posted on 21.4.1999, meaning thereby legal notice was got issued by the complainant well within 15 days from the receipt of the intimation from the bank. In the instant case, since intimation from the bank was received on 12.4.1999, it is not understood how the learned lower appellate Court came to the conclusion that the complainant failed to issue legal notice within prescribed period, as envisaged under Section 138 of the Act, even if the period is counted from the date of postal receipt Ex.CA, dated 21.4.1999, it can be easily concluded that legal notice was got issued within a period of 15 days from the date of receipt of intimation i.e. 12.4.1999. When, it stands duly proved on record that the complainant got legal notice issued on 21.4.1999 through postal receipt Ex.CA, presumption of due service of the notice would stand attracted.

13. It is not the requirement of law to state in the complaint that the notice was served on a particular date as notice is deemed to have been served with the addressee or he is deemed to have the knowledge of the notice unless and until contrary is proved at the stage of evidence. In this regard reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ajeet Seeds Ltd. V. K. Gopala Krishnaiah, 2014(12) SCC 685. The relevant para Nos.4, 5 and 6 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> 4. The Proviso (b) & (c) appended to Section 138 of the Act lays down the conditions which are to be complied with before a complaint under Section 138 of the Act could be filed, which are quoted hereunder:--

> (c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or, as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque, within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.
> Explanation.-- For the purposes of this section, "debt or other liability" means a legally enforceable debt or other liability.
> 5. A perusal of Clauses (b) & (c) to the proviso would indicate that before a complaint could be filed, the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, is to make a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing, to the drawer of the cheque within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid and the drawer of such cheque fails to make payment of the said amount to the payee or as the case may be, to the holder in due course within 15 days of the receipt of notice.
> 6. The Apex Court in the case C.C. Alavi Haji v. Palapetty Muhammed and another, 2007 (6) SCC 555, held as under:--
> "10. It is, thus, trite to say that where the payee dispatches the notice by registered post with correct address of the drawer of the cheque, the principle incorporated in Section 27 of the G.C. Act would be attracted; the requirement of Clause (b) of proviso to Section 138 of the Act stands complied with and cause of action to file a complaint arises on the expiry of the period prescribed in Clause (c) of the said proviso for payment by the drawer of the cheque. Nevertheless, it would be without prejudice to the right of the drawer to show that he had no knowledge that the notice was brought to his address.
> 11. However, that the referring Bench was of the view that this Court in Vinod Shivappas case (supra) did not take note of Section 114 of Evidence Act in its proper perspective. It felts that the presumption under Section 114 of the Evidence Act being a rebuttable presumption, the complaint should contain necessary averments to raise the presumption of service of notice; that it was not sufficient for a complainant to state that a notice was sent by registered post and that the notice was returned with the endorsement out of station; and that there should be a further averment that the addressee-drawer had deliberately avoided receiving the notice or that the addressee had knowledge of the notice, for raising a presumption under Section 114 of Evidence Act.
> 12. Therefore, the moot question requiring consideration is in regard to the implication of Section 114 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 insofar as the service of notice under the said proviso is concerned. Section 114 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 reads as follows:

> Section 114- Court may presume existence of certain facts -The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case.
> Illustrations
> The Court may presume -
> (f) That the common course of business has been followed in particular cases.
> ....

13. According to Section 114 of the Act, read with illustration (f) thereunder, when it appears to the Court that the common course of business renders it probable that a thing would happen, the Court may draw presumption that the thing would have happened, unless there are circumstances in a particular case to show that the common course of business was not followed. Thus, Section 114 enables the Court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business in their relation to the facts of the particular case. Consequently, the court can presume that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases. When applied to communications sent by post, Section 114 enables the Court to presume that in the common course of natural events, the communication would have been delivered at the address of the addressee. But the presumption that is raised under Section 27 of the G.C. Act is a far stronger presumption. Further, while Section 114 of Evidence Act refers to a general presumption, Section 27 refers to a specific presumption. For the sake of ready reference, Section 27 of G.C. Act is extracted below:

> 27. Meaning of service by post -
> Where any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act authorizes or requires any document to be served by post, whether the expression served by post, whether the expression serve or either of the expressions give or send or any other expression is used, then, unless a different intention appears, the service shall be deemed to be effected by properly addressing, prepaying and posting by registered post, a letter containing the document, and, unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post.

14. Section 27 gives rise to a presumption that service of notice has been effected when it is sent to the correct address by registered post. In view of the said presumption, when stating that a notice has been sent by registered post to the address of the drawer, it is unnecessary to further aver in the complaint that in spite of the return of the notice unserved, it is deemed to have been served or that the addressee is deemed to have knowledge of the notice. Unless and until the contrary is proved by the addressee, service of notice is deemed to have been effected at the time at which the letter would have been delivered in the ordinary course of business. This Court has already held that when a notice is sent by registered post and is returned with a postal endorsement refused or not available in the house or house locked or shop closed or addressee not in station, due service has to be presumed. (Vide Jagdish Singh v. Natthu Singh AIR 1992 SC 1604; State of M.P. v. Hiralal and Ors (1996) 7 SCC 523 and V. Raja Kumari v. P. Subbarama Naidu and Anr (2004) 8 SCC 774. It is, therefore, manifest that in view of the presumption available under Section 27 of the Act, it is not necessary to aver in the complaint under Section 138 of the Act that service of notice was evaded by the accused or that the accused had a role to play in the return of the notice unserved.

15. Insofar as the question of disclosure of necessary particulars with regard to the issue of notice in terms of proviso (b) of Section 138 of the Act, in order to enable the Court to draw presumption or inference either under Section 27 of the G.C. Act or Section 114 of the Evidence Act, is concerned, there is no material difference between the two provisions. In our opinion therefore, when the notice is sent by registered post by correctly addressing the drawer of the cheque, the mandatory requirement of issue of notice in terms of Clause (b) of proviso to Section 138 of the Act stands complied with. It is needless to emphasis that the complaint must contain basic facts regarding the mode and manner of the issuance of notice to the drawer of the cheque. It is well settled that at the time of taking cognizance of the complaint under Section 138 of the Act, the Court is required to be prima facie satisfied that a case under the said Section is made out and the aforenoted mandatory statutory procedural requirements have been complied with. It is then for the drawer to rebut the presumption about the service of notice and show that he had no knowledge that the notice was brought to his address or that the address mentioned on the cover was incorrect or that the letter was never tendered or that the report of the postman was incorrect. In our opinion, this interpretation of the provision would effectuate the object and purpose for which proviso to Section 138 was enacted, namely, to avoid unnecessary hardship to an honest drawer of a cheque and to provide him an opportunity to make amends."

14. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that once the notice under Section 138 of the Act is in writing to the drawer of the cheque within 15 days from the date of receipt of intimation from the bank, then presumption under Section 114 of the Evidence Act comes into play that registered notice was sent to the addressee of the cheque and it shall be deemed to have been served to the addressee. In the present case as clearly emerge from the record that legal notice Ex.PW1/A, dated 17.4.199 was sent through registered post on 21.4.1999 i.e within the period of 15 days from the receipt of intimation from the bank and as such, findings of the learned lower Appellate Court deserve to be quashed and set-aside being contrary to facts as well as law.

15. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, judgment passed by learned lower appellate Court deserve to be quashed and set-aside being contrary to the record as well as law. Accordingly, the present revision petition is allowed and judgment passed by learned lower appellate Court is quashed and set-aside. The respondent-accused is directed to surrender herself before the learned trial Court forthwith to serve the sentence as awarded by the learned trial Court.

Accordingly, the present petition is disposed of alongwith pending application(s), if any.

Madan Lal & Ors versus The State of Jammu & Kashmir and Ors 1995(2) SLR 209
Lila Dhar v. State of Rajasthan, 1981 (4) SCC 159

For the Petitioner : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma,Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.k.Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 5. Respondent No.6 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge

By way of present Civil Writ Petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has prayed for the following relief:-

> "(i) That selection and appointment of private respondent after summoning the appointment letter from the respondents may very kindly be quashed and set aside with direction to the respondents to reconsider the case of the petitioner by allowing him marks in consonance with annexure P-1 and select and appoint him as Drawing Master in Government Senior Secondary School, Haripur-Khol, Tehsil Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, H.P."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerged from the record are that pursuant to notice issued by the School Management Committee (for short 'SMC'), Government Senior Secondary School, Haripur-Khol, Tehsil Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, H.P, petitioner alongwith other candidates including respondent No.6 applied for the post of Drawing Master through 'SMC'. It also emerge from the record that the Deputy Director, Elementary Education granted permission to 'SMC' for appointing Drawing Master vide communication dated 15.11.2014 in above mentioned school. The 'SMC' after receipt of applications, conducted interviews on 2.11.2015, wherein respondent No.6 was declared selected and accordingly, he was engaged as Drawing Master in the school referred hereinabove. Since, present petitioner was not selected pursuant to interview aforesaid, he applied for certain information under Right to Information Act (for short 'RTI'). The respondents, pursuant to request having been made by the petitioner under RTI, supplied photocopy of result sheet prepared by the selection committee at the time of interview. As per the petitioner, there are cuttings with respect to the marks of interview, especially private respondent No.6, who has been declared selected and as such, entire selection process deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

3. Petitioner has further alleged that perusal of diploma certificate (annexure P-3) annexed by respondent No.6 alongwith his application, clearly suggests that same is not in consonance with the qualification, as prescribed in annexure P-1. Petitioner further alleged that respondent No.6 has allegedly passed diploma of Art & Crafts, which is not the qualification as prescribed in annexure P-1.

4. Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned counsel representing the petitioner, vehemently argued that bare perusal of the mark sheets, clearly suggests that the authorities concerned have tampered with the record solely with a view to offer appointment to respondent No.6 by ignoring other meritorious candidates including the petitioner. While referring to annexure P-3 i.e. certificate of diploma in Art & Crafts annexed by respondent No.6 at the time of his interview, Mr. Sharma, argued that same is not in consonance with the guidelines/regulations, as prescribed in annexure P-1 and as such, same could not be taken into consideration by the authority while awarding marks in terms of the scheme of marking. Mr. Sharma, further stated that bare perusal of diploma annexure P-3, clearly suggests that respondent No.6 passed subjects of second year in first year, whereas subjects of first year in second year and as such, selection committee has erred in taking note of the same while awarding marks to respondent No.6 on the basis of the aforesaid certificate. Mr. Sharma, further stated that certificate annexure P-4, clearly suggests that petitioner has passed Applied Art & Craft course, which is equivalent to Bachelor of Arts and as such, interview committee ought to have granted more marks and as such, grave injustice has been caused to him. Learned counsel for the petitioner further claimed that as per notification annexure P-1, petitioner was entitled for grant of 10 marks, for the course of duration of three years, but he has been granted only 7.23 marks, which is not in accordance with the scheme of marking annexure P-1.Mr.Sharma,further contended that the petitioner at the time of interview produced experience certificate from H.P.Board of School Education and as such, he was also entitled to be given some marks on account of experience in terms of annexure P-1. Learned counsel for the petitioner while concluding his argument submitted that for three years duration course having undergone by the petitioner being equivalent of Bachelor of Arts, marks were required to be given to him and as such, respondents are liable to be directed to reconsider the case accordingly and prepare a fresh result sheet.

5. Mr. Romesh Verma, learned Additional Advocate General, vehemently argued that there is no illegality and infirmity in the selection of respondent No.6 because he has been selected strictly on the basis of the interview conducted by 'SMC' on 2.11.2015. He further stated that bare perusal of the mark sheet placed on record by the petitioner itself suggests that Sub Divisional Magistrate, Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur being Chairman himself conducted the interviews alongwith other members, wherein respondent No.6, namely Hardeep Singh, was found to be more meritorious to the present petitioner. While referring annexure P-1, learned Additional Advocate General, contended that it clearly suggests that respondent No.6 procured 29.88 marks in total, whereas petitioner could only procure 27.49 marks and as such, he was rightly not selected for the post of Drawing teacher in Government Senior Secondary School, Haripur-Khol.

6. Learned Additional Advocate General, with a view to refute the allegations having been made in the petition as well as the submissions by the learned counsel for the petitioner that there is tampering in the market sheet, made available original record of selection made by 'SMC' to demonstrate that there is no cutting, whatsoever, as has been alleged by the petitioner. Mr. Verma, while inviting the attention of this Court to annexure P-1 forcibly contended that marking done by interview committee in its meeting held on 2.11.2015 is strictly in accordance with the scheme of marking as prescribed in annexure P-1 i.e. notification, dated 18.11.2014 and as such, there is no force, whatsoever, in the contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner and as such, same deserve to be dismissed.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

8. During the proceedings of the case, learned Additional Advocate General, made available original record pertaining to the selection of respondent No.6, perusal whereof clearly suggests that 'SMC' initiated selection process for the post of Drawing Master on 2.11.2015 after obtaining necessary permission from the Deputy Director, Elementary Education, Sirmaur. Record further reveals that the petitioner as well as respondent No.6 alongwith other eligible candidates appeared before the interview committee headed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Paonta Sahib on 2.11.2015, on which date, interview committee on the basis of testimonials pertaining to education qualification found respondent No.6, namely Hardeep Singh more meritorious than the petitioner and as such, accordingly declared him selected. This Court perused the result sheet of the candidates compiled by the interview committee constituted by the SDM for interviewing the candidates for the post of Drawing Master in Government Senior Secondary School, Haripur-Khol. After perusal of the comparative merit/ result sheet, contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner deserve to be rejected out rightly because this Court sees no tampering, if any, in the result sheet as alleged by the petitioner.

9. Close scrutiny of the result sheet made available on record clearly suggests that all the candidates, who appeared in the interview have been given marks strictly in accordance with the scheme of marking as per notification, dated 18.11.2014 (annexure P-1). Since, respondent No.6 i.e. selected candidate had procured 60% marks in 10+2, he was rightly awarded 6 marks out of 10 marks as provided under the scheme. Respondent No.6, who had secured 68.79% marks in diploma Art & crafts, has been awarded 6.88 marks out of 10 marks. Similarly, being resident of concerned patwar circle where Govt. Secondary school is located, respondent No.6 has been awarded 10 marks and as such, in total 22.88 marks have been awarded to respondent No.6 on the basis of testimonials/ qualifications out of 50 as prescribed under the scheme. The interview committee on the basis of viva-voce, has awarded 7 marks to respondent No.6 out of 10 marks. In total 29.88 marks have been procured by respondent No.6 in the interview.

10. Similarly, further perusal of result sheet reveals that petitioner namely Amit Singh, who had secured 52.6 marks in 10+2, has been awarded 5.26 marks out of 10 marks. The petitioner has been awarded 7.23 marks out of 10 marks for his diploma in Art & Craft, wherein petitioner has secured 72.32% marks. Since, the petitioner was also from the concerned Patwar circle, he has been also awarded 10 marks qua the same. As far as interview is concerned, petitioner has been granted 5 marks out of 10 marks and as such, in total petitioner secured 27.49 marks, which is definitely less than marks i.e. 29.88 secured by respondent No.6.

11. At this stage, it would be profitable to reproduce marking scheme (annexure P-1) as under:-

Drawing Master

Sr.No.	Qualification	Marks
1.	10+2 with atleast 50% marks	10
2.	Two year Diploma in Art and craft Teacher. Or Bachelor of Arts with Fine Arts/Visual Arts(Painting and Sculpture or applied Arts) an elective subject of 50% marks in Fine Arts. Or Master Decree in Fine Arts/Visual Arts(Painting and Sculpture).	10
3.	A person is Bachelor of Arts with Fine Arts/Visual Arts (Painting and Sculpture or applied Arts) as on elective subject of 50% marks in Fine Arts in Addition to Master Decree Fine Arts/Visual Arts (Painting and Sculpture).	10
4.	Permanent resident of the concern Patwar Circle where the High Secondary School located.	10
5.	Interview	10
	Total	50

12. Perusal of marking scheme as reproduced hereinabove, nowhere suggest that the petitioner, who had also passed his diploma in applied Art & Craft from Haryana State Board of Technical Education was entitled to some extra marks as claimed by him in the petition, rather clause-2 of the aforesaid notification suggest that either incumbent should have passed two years diploma in Art & Crafts or he should Bachelor of arts with Fine/Visual Arts(Painting and Sculpture or applied Arts) on elective subject 50% in Fine Arts. Admittedly, in the present case petitioner had only passed diploma in applied Art & Craft and as such, there was no occasion for the interview committee to equate the same with the person having Bachelor of Arts with Fine Arts. Moreover, no document was placed on record by the petitioner suggestive of the fact that apart from two years in Art & Crafts he was also having Bachelor degree of Bachelor of Arts with Fine Arts.

13. This Court also perused the copy of diploma certificate annexure P-3, which clearly suggests that respondent No.6 passed diploma in Art & Crafts from the Punjab State Board of Technical Education and Industrial Training in 1st Division. Since, respondent No.6 Hardeep Singh secured 68.79% marks in diploma, he was rightly awarded 6.88 marks out of 10 strictly in terms of scheme referred hereinabove. Close scrutiny of aforesaid diploma certificate placed on record by respondent No.6 clearly suggest that respondent No.6 passed 1st year diploma course in the year, 2009 and second year course in 2011 and as such, there is no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the learned counsel for the petitioner that respondent No.6 has not passed diploma course in two years as required under the prescribed notification provided for the appointment to the post of Drawing Master.

14. This Court after carefully examining the pleadings as well as original record made available to this Court by the Principal, Government Senior Secondary School, Haripur-Khol, sees no force in the averments/allegations having been made by the petitioner in the writ petition and same appears to be frivolous, without any basis and same deserve to be rejected outrightly.

15. Petitioner participated in the said selection process, failed to make a grade,has approached this Court by way of present writ petition, which is not permissible at all. It is well settled law that candidate who participates in the selection process has no right to assail the same at subsequent time after having failed in the same.

16. Reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Manish Kumar Shahi Versus State of Bihar and others 2010(12) Supreme Court Cases 576. The relevant para-16 of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "16. We also agree with the High Court that after having taken part in the process of selection knowing fully well that more than 19% marks have been earmarked for viva voce test, the petitioner is not entitled to challenge the criteria or process of selection. Surely, if the petitioner's name had appeared in the merit list, he would not have even dreamed of challenging the selection. The petitioner invoked jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India only after he found that his name does not figure in the merit list prepared by the Commission. This conduct of the petitioner clearly disentitles him from questioning the selection and the High Court did not commit any error by refusing to entertain the writ petition. Reference in this connection may be made to the judgments in Mandan Lal vs. State of J&K 1995(3) SCC 486, Marripati Nagaraja v. Govt. of A.P. 2007(11) SCC 522, Dhananjay Malik v. State of Uttaranchal 2008 (4)SCC 171, Amlan Jyoti Borooah v. State of Assam 2009(3) SCC 227 and K.A.Nagamani v. Indian Airlines 2009(5)SCC 515."

17. It is well settled law that a candidate having taken a chance to appear in an interview and having remained unsuccessful, cannot turn round and challenge either the constitution of the selection Board or the method of Selection as being illegal; he is estopped to question the correctness of the selection. In this regard, reliance is placed in the case of Madan Lal & Ors versus The State of Jammu & Kashmir and Ors 1995(2) SLR 209. The relevant para-9 of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "9. Before dealing with this contention, we must keep in view the salient fact that the petitioners as well as the contesting successful candidates being concerned respondents herein, were all found eligible in the light of (sic) marks obtained in the written test, to be eligible to be called for oral interview. Upto this state there is no dispute between the parties. The petitioners also appeared at the oral interview conducted by the concerned Members of the Commission who interviewed the petitioners as well as the concerned contesting respondents. Thus the petitioners took a chance to get themselves selected at the said oral interview. Only because they did not find themselves to have emerged successful as a result of their combined performance both at written test and oral interview, that they have filed that petition. It is now well settled that if a candidate takes a calculated chance and appears at the interview then, only because the result of the interview is not palatable to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or Selection Committee was not properly constituted. In the case of Om Prakash Shukla v. Akhilesh Kumar Shukla and Ors (AIR 1986 SC 1043):[1986(1)SLR 699(SC)], it has been clearly laid down by a Bench of three learned Judges of this Court that when the petitioner appeared at the examination without protest and when he found that he would not succeed in examination he filed a petition challenging the said examination, the High Court should not have granted any relief to such a petitioner."

18. In case of Lila Dhar v. State of Rajasthan, 1981 (4) SCC 159, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

" The appellant-petitioner having participated in the interview in this back ground, it is not open to the appellant petitioner to turn round thereafter when they failed in interview and contend that the provision of a minimum mark for interview was not proper."

19. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court does not see any merit in the petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stands disposed of. Record be returned to the learned Additional Advocate General.

For the appellant(s): Mr. Sumit Raj Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. G.D.Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J (Oral).

Plaintiffs are in second appeal before this Court. They are aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Kinnaur Division at Rampur Bushahr, H.P. in Civil Appeal 109/1996, dated 27.9.1999, reversing thereby the judgment and decree dated 19.7.1996 passed by Senior Sub Judge, Kinnaur Division at Rampur Bushahr, Distt. Shimla in Civil Suit No. 137-1 of 1993/92 and dismissed the suit filed by them.

2. The subject matter of dispute in the present lis is land called as Kholti measuring about 16 biswas, Kashu Sataina, Khobar Kyar measuring 15 biswas which is part of land entered in Khata Khatoni No. 27/56 and 28/60 situate in Chak Jhana, Khata Khatoni No. 54/123 to 129, 55/136 to 138, 56/139 to 143, 60/143 and 69/147 situate in Chak Dansa, Khata Khatoni No. 70/148 to 152 situate in Chak Jagoni, Khata Khatoni No. 98/304 to 306 situate in Chak Dhar and the houses situate in abadi deh at Village Dansa, the ancestral property of late Lacchman, predecessor-in-interest of the parties to the suit. Lacchman had not acquired any property of his own. The suit property allegedly was co-parcenary property. Sh. Lacchman, their predecessor had died in the month of June, 1988. The respondent (hereinafter referred to as the defendant) allegedly managed the execution of 'Will' Ext. P-1 in his favour qua the land in dispute from deceased Lacchman in the year 1986. He allegedly was ill at that time, hence was not in a fit state of mind nor could have executed a valid Will. The plaintiffs when came to know about the existence of this forged and fictitious Will, requested the defendant not to take any benefit out of it but of no avail and to the contrary the mutations qua the land in dispute were attested on the basis of the Will, which according to the plaintiffs was forged and fictitious on 16.8.1989, 27.12.1989 and 21.2.1991, despite the objections they raised to the attestation thereof. Even after the attestation of the mutation also, they requested the defendant to admit their claim qua the land in dispute but of no avail, hence the suit for decree of declaration that Will dated 30.9.1986 Ext. P-1 was not executed by deceased Lacchman Dass in favour of defendant and the same is void, inoperative and not binding upon the plaintiffs. The mutations attested on the basis thereof were also sought to be declared as null, void and inoperative and the same were also sought to be quashed and set aside.

3. In the Written Statement, the defendant had contested the suit on the grounds of limitation, bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, maintainability and valuation etc. etc. On merits, while denying the contentions to the contrary, being wrong, it was pleaded that the land in dispute was inherited by deceased Lacchman from Daya Nand. It is, however, denied that the land was wrongly vested in the name of Lacchman. The deceased Lacchman allegedly rightly acted while executing the Will in question in his favour. It is denied that he had no right to execute the Will in question.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Judge has framed the following issues:

"1. Whether late Sh. Lachhman executed a valid Will on 30.9.1986? OPD.

2. If issue no. 1 is not proved, whether the mutation of inheritance attested on the basis of the Will is not binding on the plaintiff and is liable to be set aside? OPP.

3. Whether the property is ancestral? OPP.

4. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD.

5. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is within limitation ? OPP.
6. Whether the suit of the plaintiffs is not maintainable? OPD.
7. Whether the suit of the plaintiffs has been properly valued for the purposes of court fee and jurisdiction? OPP.
8. Whether the plaintiffs has no locus-standi to file the present suit? OPD.
9. Relief.

5. Learned trial Court, on appreciation of the evidence produced by the parties, while answering issues No. 1 to 3 has concluded that the land though was not ancestral, however, it was held that the same could not have been bequeathed in favour of the defendant vide 'Will' Ext. P-1, which was held to be illegal, null and void. Consequently, the mutations attested on the basis thereof were also held to be illegal, null, void and inoperative against the rights and interest of the plaintiffs over the land in question. While answering issue No. 5 in favour of the plaintiffs, the suit has been held to be well within the period of limitation. The objection that the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, was answered against the defendant. Issues No. 6 & 8 were also answered in negative i.e. against the defendant and as regards valuation of the suit for the purposes of court fee and jurisdiction, the same was also answered in affirmative i.e. in favour of the plaintiffs. Consequently, learned trial Court has decreed the suit and declared the Will in question as null, void and inoperative. The mutations attested on the basis thereof were also declared as void and not binding on the rights of the plaintiffs over the suit land. In appeal, learned lower appellate Court has, however, accepted the appeal and reversed the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court.

6. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds, inter alia, that the execution of the 'Will' Ext. P-1 is not at all proved in accordance with law. The marginal witness examined by the defendant could not identify his thumb impression as well as that of the executants, deceased Lacchman. The requirement of Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, is not at all proved and as such, learned lower appellate Court has erroneously accepted the appeal and dismissed the suit. The original Will was not produced and proved in accordance with law. The Will Ext. P-1 is a legal and valid document has not at all been proved on record. Learned lower appellate Court, has allegedly mis-construed and mis-appreciated the evidence available on record in this regard. There being joint marriage of Lacchman and Dharma Nand, on the death of Dharma Nand, his share could have not been inherited by Lacchman to the exclusion of the plaintiffs and respondent who were class-I heirs and as such were entitled to inherit the share of Dharma Nand. Therefore, deceased Lacchman could not have alienated the land in dispute in favour of defendant in exclusion of the plaintiffs. Learned lower appellate Court is stated to have not appreciated the evidence available on record in its right perspective and as a result thereof concluded erroneously that the Will was a legal and valid document.

7. The appeal has been admitted on the following substantial question of law:

"1. Whether the execution of the Will Ext. P-1 (sic. Ext. DA) has been proved by the propounder by only proving/producing the copy of Will without the production of the Original Will at the trial stage?"

8. Sh. Sumit Raj Sharma, Advocate, learned counsel representing the appellants-plaintiffs has strenuously contended that 'Will' Ext. P-1 is a genuine document which has not been proved on record in accordance with law. Therefore, according to Mr. Sharma, learned trial Court has rightly decreed the suit. The findings to the contrary recorded by learned lower Appellate Court have resulted in miscarriage of justice to the plaintiffs.

9. On the other hand, Mr. G.D.Verma, learned Sr. Advocate assisted by Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate has urged that the 'Will' Ext. P-1 is a legal and valid document, duly proved from the evidence as has come on record by way of the own testimony of defendant and also the witness DW-2, he examined. It has, therefore been urged that learned lower appellate Court has appreciated the evidence available on record in its right perspective and has not committed any illegality and irregularity while allowing the appeal on reversal of the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court.

10. The only substantial question of law, as formulated in the present appeal, has to be adjudicated upon in the light of the facts and circumstances of this case and also the evidence available on record as well as the law applicable in a case of this nature. At the outset, I would like to refer to the provisions contained under Section 63 of Indian Succession Act, which provides for necessary constituents of execution of a valid Will. The same reads as follows:-

(i) the Will must be attested by atleast two witnesses;

(ii) Each of these-

(a) must either see the testator sing or affix his mark to the Will or must see some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or

(b) must receive from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark or of the signature of such other person.

(iii) Each of these must sign the Will

(iv) They must sign in the presence of the testator.

11. This Court in Kishan son of Shri Kundan versus Smt. Tulki Dev wd/o Shri Kundan, 2013 (1), Civil Court Cases 548 (H.P.), after taking note of the legal position that not only the signature of the executor on the Will are required to be proved but the execution thereof should also be free from any suspicious circumstances and that if a Will is shrouded by suspicious circumstances, it cannot be treated as the last testamentary disposition of the testator in various judicial pronouncements, has held that the Will set up in that case was not the last testamentary disposition of the testator being shrouded by suspicious circumstances.

12. The law, in order to infer the execution of legal and valid Will, has been discussed by this Court in Smt. Asha Devi vs. Smt. Tarsem Devi and ors., Latest HLJ 2015 (HP) 564, wherein it has been held as follows:

"14. The adjudication of the legal questions takes us to the prerequisites of a legal and valid Will. A reference in this regard can be made to Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, which reads as follows:

"63. Execution of unprivileged Wills.

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction. (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will. (c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

15. Section 68 of the Evidence Act also provides for the requirement of law in the matter of execution of legal and valid Will, which reads as follows:

"68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.

If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence:Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Registration Act, 1908, unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied."

16. Additionally, Section 30 of the Hindu Succession Act provides that any Hindu may dispose of by Will or other testamentary disposition any property, which is capable of being disposed of by him in accordance with the provisions of Indian Succession Act or any other law for the time being in force applicable to Hindus."

13 The Apex Court in M.B. Ramesh vs. K.M.Veeraje Urs. and others, (2013) 7 SCC 490, has held as follows:

"16. We may, however, note in this behalf that as held by a Constitution bench of this Court in Chunilal Mehta Vs. Century Spinning and Manufacturing Company reported in AIR 1962 SC 1314, it is well settled that the construction of a document of title or of a document which is the foundation of the rights of parties, necessarily raises a question of law. That apart, as held by a bench of three judges in Santosh Hazari Vs. Purushottam Tiwari reported in 2001 (3) SCC 179, whether a particular question is a substantial question of law or not, depends on the facts and circumstances of each case. When the execution of the will of Smt. Nagammanni and construction thereof was the subject matter of consideration, the framing of the question of law cannot be faulted. Recently, in Union of India Vs. Ibrahim Uddin reported in 2012 (8) SCC 148, this Court referred to various previous judgments in this behalf and clarified the legal position in the following words:-

> "67. There is no prohibition to entertain a second appeal even on question of fact, provided the Court is satisfied that the findings of the courts below were vitiated by non-consideration of relevant evidence or by showing erroneous approach to the matter and findings recorded in the court below are perverse."

17. At the same time we cannot accept the submission on behalf of the respondents as well that merely because the will was more than 30 years old, a presumption under Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 ('Evidence Act' for short) ought to be drawn that the document has been duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to have been executed and attested. As held by this Court in Bharpur Singh Vs. Shamsher Singh reported in 2009 (3) SCC 687, a presumption regarding documents 30 years old does not apply to a will. A will has to be proved in terms of Section 63 (c) of the Succession Act read with Section 68 of the Evidence Act.

18. That takes us to the crucial issue involved in the present case, viz. with respect to the validity and proving of the concerned will. A Will, has to be executed in the manner required by S 63 of theSuccession Act. Section 68 of the Evidence Act requires the will to be proved by examining at least one attesting witness. Section 71 of the Evidence Act is another connected section "which is permissive and an enabling section permitting a party to lead other evidence in certain circumstances", as observed by this Court in paragraph 11 of Janki Narayan Bhoir Vs. Narayan Namdeo Kadam reported in 2003 (2) SCC 91 and in a way reduces the rigour of the mandatory provision of Section 68. As held in that judgment Section 71 is meant to lend assistance and come to the rescue of a party who had done his best, but would otherwise be let down if other means of proving due execution by other evidence are not permitted. At the same time, as held in that very judgment the section cannot be read to absolve a party of his obligation under Section 68 of the Evidence Act read with Section 63 of the Succession Act to present in evidence a witness, though alive and available.

19. The relevant provisions of these three sections read as follows:

> ”Section 63 of the Succession Act "63. Execution of unprivileged wills.- Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, or an airman so employed or engaged, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:-
> (c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."
> Section 68 of the Evidence Act
> "68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.- If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving it's execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence..."
> Section 71 of the Evidence Act
> "71. Proof when attesting witness denies the execution.- If the attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, its execution may be proved by other evidence."

20. In the present matter, there is no dispute that the requirement of Section 68 of the Evidence Act is satisfied, since one attesting witness i.e. PW-2 was called for the purpose of proving the execution of the will, and he has deposed to that effect. The question, however, arises as to whether the will itself could be said to have been executed in the manner required by law, namely, as perSection 63 (c) of the Succession Act. PW-2 has stated that he has signed the will in the presence of Smt. Nagammanni, and she has also signed the will in his presence. It is however contended that his evidence is silent on the issue as to whether Smt. Nagammanni executed the will in the presence of M. Mallaraje Urs, and whether M. Mallaraje Urs also signed as attesting witness in the presence of Smt. Nagammanni. Section 63 (c) of the Succession Act very much lays down the requirement of a valid and enforceable will that it shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will, and each of the witnesses has signed the will in the presence of the testator. As held by a bench of three judges of this Court (per Gajendragadkar J, as he then was) way back in R. Venkatachala Iyengar Vs. B N. Thimmajamma reported in AIR 1959 SC 443, that a will has to be proved like any other document except that evidence tendered in proof of a will should additionally satisfy the requirement of Section 63 of the Succession Act, apart from the one under Section 68 of the Evidence Act.”

14. Applying the above legal principles in the given facts and circumstances of this case, it would not be improper to conclude that the execution of the Will Ext. P-1 is not at all proved and the same rather is shrouded by suspicious circumstances cannot be treated to be the last testamentary disposition of the testator deceased Lacchman Dass by any stretch of imagination. The present, as a matter of fact, is a case where cogent and reliable evidence qua scribe of the Will Ext. P-1 at the instance of the testator deceased Lacchman and attestation by two marginal witnesses, in the manner as provided under Section 63 (c) of the Indian Succession Act, is not at all proved.

15. The original Will has not seen the light of the day. The defendant, propounder thereof has not produced the same in evidence while in the witness box. It is an attested copy thereof, which has been tendered in evidence by learned counsel representing the plaintiffs in his own statement recorded separately. When the defendant has failed to produce the original Will, how he could have said, while in the witness box, that the same was executed by his father deceased Lacchman in his favour and that thereby the land in dispute was bequeathed to him exclusively in complete ouster of the plaintiffs, none else but his real brothers. Otherwise also, nothing has come on record in his statement while in the witness box as DW-1 as to who was the scribe of the Will. He has also not said anything about the marginal witnesses who witnessed the execution thereof in the manner as provided under Section 63 (c) of the Indian Succession Act.

16. Now, if coming to the statement of Chura Ram, no doubt, he claims himself to be one of the marginal witnesses to the Will Ext. P-1 and while in the witness box has deposed that the same was executed by deceased Lacchman at Rampur in favour of Vasu Dev (defendant), however, he expressed his ignorance that the same was reduced into writing by the scribe who sits near the side of one Megha Nand. Though, as per his version he had signed this document, however, due to weak eye-sight, expressed his inability to identify the same, meaning thereby that he has failed to identify his signatures on this document. Though, he tells us that the witnesses Moti Ram and Jagat Ram were also present, however, nothing has come in his statement that they had also put their signatures on this document. Interestingly enough, nothing has come on record to show in his statement that Will in question was reduced into writing at the instance of deceased Lacchman. The contents thereof were read over and explained to said deceased Lacchman in vernacular and that after understanding and admitting the same to be true and correct, he had put his signatures in the presence of all the witnesses. Also that, the witnesses had also put their signatures in the presence of testator. In other words, there is no evidence to show that the marginal witnesses have seen the testator while putting his signatures on the Will and the testator had also seen the marginal witnesses while putting their signatures on the Will in question. Therefore, for want of such evidence, it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that Will Ext. P-1 is a legal and valid document. This is the only evidence produced by the defendant to prove the execution of 'Will' Ext. P-1, which in the opinion of this Court, is neither sufficient nor cogent and reliable. The facts and circumstances of this case rather are identical to M.B. Ramesh's case (supra). The point in issue in this case, therefore, is squarely covered by the judgment ibid.

17. Now, if coming to the evidence produced by the plaintiffs, plaintiff No. 2 has himself stepped into the witness box as PW-1. He has categorically stated that deceased Lacchman, being 80-90 years of age, was not in a sound disposing state of mind and neither he executed any Will in favour of the defendant nor he could have done so. As per his version, the Will in question is not a legal and valid document. Similar is the version of PW-2 Sh. Madan Lal. Both of them, though have been cross-examined at length, but in sundry. When the onus to prove that the Will executed in his favour is a genuine document has not been discharged by him at all, the same cannot be held as legal and valid by any stretch of imagination. Learned lower appellate Court has neither appreciated the evidence available on record nor legal position in its right perspective and as a result thereof the findings so recorded are erroneous, hence not legally sustainable. The substantial question of law is decided accordingly.

18. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, the judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate Court is quashed and set aside and that of learned trial Court is affirmed. However, no orders so as to costs.

Arun Kumar Agrawal and another Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and others (2010) 9 SCC 218

For the Petitioner: Mr.Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr.Janesh Gupta, Advocate, vice Mr.I.N. Mehta, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur J. (Oral).

Present petition has been filed by petitioner Insurance Company assailing the award dated 9.3.2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan (hereinafter referred to as the MACT) in MAC Petition No. 17-NL/2 of 2009, vide which respondent No. 1/claimant has been awarded compensation of Rs. 10,00,000/- for her disability suffered on account of accident dated 11.12.2008 during her travel in Bus No. HP-64-4697 owned by respondent No. 2 and being driven by respondent No. 3.

2. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused documents placed on record.

3. Learned counsel for petitioner-Company submits that in present petition impugned award has been assailed on the ground of perversity and in view of ratio laid down by this Court in National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Soma Devi 2003 ACJ 1919 and New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Prem Chand and others, 2008 (1) ACJ 679, present petition is maintainable against the award passed by the MACT.

4. In Soma Devi's case, referred supra, Full Bench of this Court has held as under:-

> "15.It, therefore, becomes abundantly clear that in all such like cases where the award on the face ofit is a perversity, or is based on fraud, and the insurance company has no remedy under the MotorVehicles Act of either challenging the award in appeal or being either to have it recalled or reviewedby the Tribunal itself, the power of judicial review by this Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution can always be invoked and exercised by thisCourt in dispensing justice to the parties.

16. For the foregoing reasons, therefore, while dealing with the reference made to us vide singleBench order dated 18.7.2003, we hold that with respect to an insurer, if it challenges the awardpassed by the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal only on the ground of compensation being high,excessive or unreasonable, in a petition filed under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution, such a petition in view of Section 173 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 is not maintainable. This was the limited,rather the only question of law, which was referred to us for consideration and we have answered itaccordingly. All the writ petitions shall now be listed before the appropriate single Benches fordisposal according to law.*

Reference answered and disposed of."

5. Following ratio of law laid down by Full Bench in Soma Devi's case, Division Bench of this Court in Prem Chand's case supra had entertained petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India on the ground of perversity with following observations:-

"5. We are bound by the decision of the Full Bench of this court and according to us the only two grounds on which the award passed by Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal can be challenged in a writ petition by the insurance company are that the award is perverse or that it is based on fraud. In the present case, there is no allegation of fraud and the only allegation is that the award is perverse."

6. It is submitted on behalf of petitioner that at the time of filing of present petition, petitioner Insurance Company had limited right to assail the impugned award, as present petition has been filed prior to pronouncement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in United India Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Shila Datta, reported in (2011) 10 SCC 509 and therefore, petitioner was not having any alternative remedy to assail quantum of compensation awarded in impugned award, rather only available remedy to petitioner was present petition and thus petition be decided on merit.
