'Vanaspati' nor also if on the holding of baudouin test on the relevant sample of 'Vanaspati' it sequelled the fate of its testing negative thereupon marking the factum qua quantum of its presence therein being a quantity insufficient for thereupon its facilitating the holding of an efficacious affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon also thereupon if the 'baudouin test' has failed vis.a.vis. the sample of Vanaspati hereat, failure thereof not on anvil of clause (m) of Section 2 attracting penal inculpability vis.a.vis. the accused respondents, even if concomitantly thereupon the relevant sample of 'Vanaspati' stood rendered to not conform to the apposite standards of its quality or purity. Significantly reiteratedly when this Court has erected the aforesaid inference qua the manufacturer not infracting the mandate of the expert concerned comprised in his not in conformity therewith adding the prescribed quantum of 'sesame' therein unless evidence stood adduced comprised in the prosecution also proceeding to prosecute the expert concerned who purveyed an opinion to the manufacturer marking therein the quantum of presence of 'sesame' in 'Vanaspati' or qua the quantum of its addition therein by its manufacturer whereas his apposite prescriptions qua the quantum of its presence therein or its addition therein being in a quantum sufficient or insufficient for respectively efficaciously facilitating the holding of an affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon or defacilitating its holding thereon alone constituted the bench mark for underscoring qua its holding tandem with the apposite regulatory mechanism qua the quantum of 'sesame' to be added in the sample of 'Vanaspati' hereat. The prosecution was also enjoined to with the apposite facilitations of the Court concerned make the relevant collections from the apposite record maintained by the manufacturer holding pronouncements therein qua the manufacturer infracting the apposite mandate of the expert concerned or his not obtaining the opinion of the expert concerned qua the quantum of 'sesame' to be added in the relevant food item besides qua the opinion purveyed by the expert to the manufacturer qua the quantum of sesame to occur in Vanaspati not conforming to the standardized norms qua its standing construed to efficaciously promote the holding of an affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon whereas the aforesaid constituted the germane best evidence qua the relevant facet. In addition, since the manufacturer is evidently not an expert qua quantum of presence or addition of sesame in 'Vanaspati' besides obviously qua the quantum of sufficiency or insufficiency of its presence therein hence reiteratedly enjoined the prosecution to collect the opinion of the expert concerned. However, the prosecution has failed in the aforesaid endeavour. In aftermath, the quantum of addition of 'sesame' in 'Vanaspati' by its manufacturer hereat even if is in an insufficient quantity thereupon, the manufacturer cannot be rendered penally inculpable. Corollary thereof is when the entire responsibility stands cast upon the expert concerned who purveyed an opinion to the manufacturer of 'Vanaspati' for ensuring qua quantum of presence therein of sesame being in a quantity sufficient for thereupon it efficaciously facilitating the holding of an affirmative baudouin test thereon whereas the relevant elicitations qua the factum aforesaid remain uncollected by the prosecution. In sequel therefrom it would be unbefitting to conclude of the manufacturer of Vanaspati intentionally adding sesame in Vanaspati in an insufficient quantity nor it would be befitting to conclude of his thereupon intentionally defacilitating the holding an apposite affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon contrarily it is to be concluded of his not possessing the relevant mens rea for any liability qua any penal inculpation standing fastened upon him.

15. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court apart from the facets afore-stated has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

16. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE VIVEK SINGH THAKUR, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh .....Appellant.
Versus
Krishna. .....Respondent(s).

Cr. Appeal No. 362 of 2010
Reserved on 15.9.2016.
Date of decision: 9.12.2016.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985-Section 18 and 20- A motorcycle being driven by accused M and occupied by accused K was intercepted by the police- accused K was found in the possession of 800 grams charas and 150 grams opium- accused M was found to be driving the motorcycle without any permit – the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that independent witnesses have not supported the prosecution version – timing in the ruqua was changed from 18.30 hours (6:30 P.M.) to 10:00 P.M. - no explanation for the same was given – there was contradiction regarding the person, who had carried out the search and seizure- the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses are contradictory – the Trial Court had rightly refused to place reliance on their testimonies – appeal dismissed.(Para-11 to 21)

Case referred:
Noor Aga V. State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417

For the appellant Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. AGs.
For the respondent(s) Mr. G.R.Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

Challenge herein is to the judgment dated 2.3.2010, passed by learned Special Judge, Mandi, Division at Mandi, H.P. in Sessions Trial No. 5 of 2008, whereby both the accused-respondents (hereinafter referred to as the accused) were acquitted of the charge under Sections 18 & 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'the NDPS Act' in short), framed against each of them. Accused Mahender Pal Singh was acquitted of the charge framed under Section 181 of the M.V. Act, also. Accused Mahender Pal Singh has expired during the pendency of this appeal. The appeal as such stands abated against the said accused.

2. The learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence available on record while discarding the plea raised in defence by the accused that Section 50 of the NDPS Act has not been complied with has concluded that in view of recovery of charas from the bag being carried by accused Krishna, the compliance of Section 50 of the Act was not required to be made. However, on taking into consideration the contradictions, inconsistencies and improvements in the prosecution evidence, both the accused were given benefit of doubt. In the opinion of learned trial Judge, the recovery of charas weighing 800 grams and opium weighing 150 grams from physical and conscious possession of accused Krishna is not proved beyond all reasonable doubt. The discrepancies qua time of preparation of rukka Ext. PW-4/A, the time when FIR Ext. PW-9/A/1 was registered and the prosecution case that parcels containing recovered charas and opium and sample parcels when produced by the I.O. before PW-4 Amar Nath MHC, Police Station were already sealed with seals "A" & "C" whereas as per the testimony of PW-4 MHC Amar Nath, seal "C" was used by him for resealing the parcels when produced before him, were also taken into consideration by learned trial Court. The cuttings in the date (7 adjusted to 8 by way of overwriting) on reseal memo Ext. PW-4/C also weighed with learned trial Judge while acquitting both the accused. The prosecution case that the search of lady accused Krishna was conducted by a lady Constable is also not proved on record. Learned trial Judge has also noted that the independent witnesses PW-1 Sher Singh and PW-8 Roshan Lal associated by the I.O. PW-9 Ami Chand have also not supported the prosecution case. The findings that there is no mention about the preparation of NCB form in rukka Ext. PW-4/A are, however, without any substance as reference thereto is very much there in this document. The another ground that as per the report of Chemical Examiner Ext. PW-9/F, the resin contents in the sample of charas being 20.950 grams and in that of opium 15.488 grams, the weight of recovered charas was only 167.600 grams whereas that of opium 23.232 grams and as such even if the same is held to be recovered from accused Krishna, in that event also, it was a case of recovery of small quantity, however, is not available to the accused because a Larger Bench of this Court in State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Mahboob Khan has held that the entire bulk is to be treated as charas unless and until it is proved that some foreign material was found to be mixed therein. As per further ratio of this judgment, the other part of cannabis plaint i.e. leaves, branches and stem etc. if mixed in the recovered mass is also charas.

3. It is, in the above backdrop, the fate of this appeal has to be decided or before that it is desirable to take note of the facts in a nut shell.

4. On 7.9.2007 around 6:00 PM, PW-9 SI Ami Chand along with Constables Gopal Singh and Lekh Ram was conducting traffic checking at Slapper bridge near the gate of Dehar Power House. One motor cycle bearing registration No. HR-36F-0146 TVS Fiero being driven by accused Mahender Pal Singh (since dead) and occupied by lady accused Krishna as pillion rider was stopped for checking by the police. The antecedents of both the accused were ascertained. The documents of the motor cycle were checked. During the course of checking of bag being carried by accused Krishna with her, charas weighing 800 grams and opium weighing 150 grams was recovered from two different polythene carry bags which were kept therein. After resorting to sealing and sampling process, the recovered charas was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-7/A. Specimen of seal "A" Ext. PW-7/B was drawn. The NCB form Ext. PW-4/F was also updated in triplicate. The seal after its use was handed over to Roshan Lal (PW-8). The rukka Ext. PW-4/A was sent to Police Station through Const. Lekh Ram (PW-7), on the basis whereof FIR Ext. PW-9/A/1 was registered by the Police. The I.O. prepared the spot map Ext. PW-9/A. The accused were arrested vide arrest memos Ext. PW-9/D and PW-9/E, respectively. They were apprized about the grounds of arrest i.e. the offence they committed and the provision of sentence prescribed therefor. The accused and parcel containing the recovered contraband were produced before PW-4 MHC Amar Nath, Police Station Sundernagar and the officiating SHO who re-sealed the same with seal "C". The motor cycle was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-7/A. Accused Mahender Pal Singh was found driving the motor cycle without driving licence. Special report Ext. PW-3/A was prepared and sent to DSP (Headquarters), Mandi through Const. Lekh Ram (PW-7). The samples of recovered charas and opium were sent to FSL Junga. As per the report Ext. PW-9/F, the same after analysis were found to be the sample of charas and opium.

5. The Investigating Agency, on completion of the investigation has filed the Challan against the accused. Learned trial Judge, has framed charge against both of them under Sections 18 & 20 of the ND & PS Act. Accused Mahender Pal Singh was additionally charged with the offence punishable under Section 181 of the M.V. Act, also. They, however, pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

6. The material witnesses examined by the prosecution in order to sustain charge against the accused are PW-1 Sher Singh, PW-4 Amar Nath, PW-5 Gopal Singh, PW-7 Lekh Ram, PW-8 Roshan Lal and PW-9 SI Ami Chand, the Investigating Officer. The remaining prosecution witnesses are formal, being police officials.

7. Learned trial Court, on appreciation of the evidence has, however, acquitted both the accused for the reasons recorded in the impugned judgment and discussed in para supra also.

8. The State of Himachal Pradesh, aggrieved by the impugned judgment has questioned the legality and validity thereof on the grounds, inter alia, that learned trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in its right perspective. The same rather is stated to be appreciated in slipshod and perfunctory manner. The Court below is stated to have based its findings on hypothesis, surmises and conjectures. The reasoning as given by the Court below is stated to be manifestly wrong and unsustainable. The cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution has erroneously been brushed aside. The minor contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses have weighed heavily with learned trial Court while recording the findings of acquittal against the accused. There being overwhelming, cogent and reliable evidence suggesting the involvement of both the accused in the commission of offence, the factum of independent witnesses having turned hostile to the prosecution should have not been given undue weightage. The recovery of charas weighing 800 grams and opium 150 grams from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused is satisfactorily proved, however, the accused have been acquitted erroneously.

9. Mr. D.S.Nainta, learned Addl. Advocate General while taking us to the evidence available on record has strenuously contended that the trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in its right perspective. The impugned judgment, as such, has been sought to be quashed and set aside.

10. On the other hand, Sh. G.R.Palsra, Advocate, learned counsel representing the accused respondent Krishna has urged that for want of cogent and reliable evidence to prove the recovery of contraband allegedly charas and opium from the conscious and exclusive possession of the said accused renders the entire prosecution case highly doubtful. The improvements, contradictions as occurred in the evidence are stated to be fatal to the prosecution case. It has thus been urged that learned trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while acquitting the accused of the charge framed against each of them.

11. At the out set, it is deemed appropriate to observe that the recovery of narcotic drug or psychotropic substance from the conscious and physical possession of the accused is sine qua non for recording the findings of conviction against him. We have drawn the support from the judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 71 of 2013, titled State of Himachal Pradesh V. Karnail Singh @ Kaila, decided on 8th September, 2016, in which judgment of Bombay High Court in Rubyana alias Smita Sanjib Bali V. State of Maharashtra and others, 1996 Crl. L.J. 148 to conclude that the possession must be conscious and intelligent and mere physical presence of the accused in proximity or even close to something incriminating is not sufficient.

12. Now if coming to the rival contentions in the light of the given facts and circumstances and the evidence available on record, rapat rojnamacha Ext. PW-5/A reveals that the police party headed by Sub Inspector Ami Chand (PW-9), incharge of Police Post, Slapper left for village Slapper for conducting traffic checking at 5.00 p.m. on national highway. As per the prosecution case, when PW-9 along with other police officials were present at Slapper bridge at 6.00 p.m. near the gate of Dehar Power House, both accused arrived there on a motorcycle bearing registration No. HR-36F-0146. The motorcycle was being driven by accused Mohinder Pal Singh (since dead) and the pillion rider was his co-accused Krishna. Admittedly, nothing incriminating was recovered from either of them or from the dicky etc., of the motorcycle. The contraband allegedly charas was recovered from a military coloured bag being carried by accused Krishna with her. The independent witnesses PW-1 Sher Singh and PW-8 Roshan Lal though have admitted their signatures on all the documents put to them while in the witness box, however, they have not supported the prosecution case qua the recovery of charas weighing 800grams and opium weighing 150grams from the bag allegedly being carried by accused Krishna with her in their presence at all. The present as such is a case, which is not supported by the independent witnesses allegedly associated by the I.O at the time of conducting search and seizure on the spot.

13. Learned Additional Advocate General has heavily relied upon the own statement of the I.O and that of Constable Gopal Singh, PW-5 and Constable Lekh Ram, PW-7, none else but two Constables, who as per rapat Rojnamcha Ext. PW-5/A were accompanying the I.O. for conducting traffic checking on the national highway at Slapper. True it is that the official witnesses can be relied upon, however, with all circumspection and caution i.e. their testimony needs to be closely scrutinized. It is held by a Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 3 of 2013 titled Joga Singh V. State of Himachal Pradesh, decided on 7th July, 2016 while placing reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in Makhan Singh V. State of Haryana, (2015) 12 SCC 247. The relevant extract of the same reads as follows:

> ".....In peculiar circumstances of the case, it may not be possible to find out independent witnesses at all places and at all times. Independent witnesses who live in the same village or nearby villages of the accused are at times afraid of to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Though it is well settled that a conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In the present case, it is not as if independent witnesses were not available....."

14. Whether in the given facts and circumstances, the evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of I.O. PW-9, Constable Gopal Singh, PW-5 and Constable Lekh Ram, PW-7 can be relied upon or not, the answer to this poser in all fairness and also in the ends of justice would be in negative for the reason that the recovery of contraband allegedly charas and opium in the manner as claimed in the police report filed under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and the documents annexed thereto is highly doubtful. The accused were nabbed at Slapper bridge allegedly at 6.00 p.m. Had the investigation been taken place on the spot in the manner as claimed, it was likely to take only 2-3 hours for completion. The rukka Ext. PW-4/B if seen amply demonstrates that the time of reducing the same into writing was initially at 18.30 hours (6.30.p.m). However, there is cutting in time, which by way of overwriting was changed to 10.00 p.m. The I.O. PW-9 and the witness Lekh Ram, PW-7 have admitted such cutting in this document, however failed to explain the same. Meaning thereby that the accused were not nabbed at 6.00 p.m. at Slapper bridge, however, before that during day time and may be at 1.00-1.30 p.m. as deposed by the independent witness Roshan Lal or 2.00-2.30 p.m. as deposed by PW-8 Roshan Lal while in the witness box. They both have not been cross-examined to elicit something contrary that they were not called at 1.00-1.30 p.m. or 2.00-2.30 p.m. but 6.00 p.m in the evening. The accused, therefore, seems to have been apprehended during day time i.e. around 1.00-1.30 p.m. or 2.00-2.30 p.m. and being so, the rukka was rightly prepared at 18.30 hours (6.30 p.m). The time of prepration of this document, however, has been changed as 10.00 p.m. to the reasons best known to the I.O., which according to us for filling up the lacuna left in the investigation of the case.

15. The updation of NCB forms on the spot is also doubtful for the reason that in the rukka reference qua updation thereof has been added later on and in different ink. Similarly, if coming to the recovery memo Ext. PW-7/B, the reference qua updation of this document is not in continuity and in sequence of the recitals made therein and rather in the end of this document.

16. Interestingly enough, according to PW-7, the personal search of accused Krishna was conducted by him, however, to the contrary, as per version of the I.O. PW-9, her search was conducted by a Lady Constable, who was called from Police Station, Sundernagar by him at sometime in between 6.00 p.m. to 10.00 p.m. His ignorance as to when she reached on the spot belies his testimony that the search of accused Krishna was conducted by a Lady Constable. The story to this effect has also been fabricated and engineered.

17. When the search and seizure seems to be not taken place at 6.00 p.m and rather during day time itself, therefore, it is not known as to why the registration of the case was delayed till 23.40 hours (11.40 p.m.). Otherwise also, had the search and seizure been taken place at 6.00 p.m., as claimed by the prosecution, six hours time was not required to deliver the rukka in the Police Station at Sundernagar, which as a matter of fact, is connected by Chandigarh-Manali-Leh national highway one of the busiest roads.

18. Interestingly enough, as per re-seal memo Ext. PW-4/C, the parcel containing the recovered charas and opium along with sample parcels were produced before Head Constable Amar Nath, PW-4 and the then MHC, Police Station, Sundernagar as well as officiating SHO. As per this document, the said witness has re-sealed all the parcels with seal 'C', however, if coming to his statement Ext. D-X recorded under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the I.O. PW-9 when produced before him the parcel containing the case property and also the sample parcels, the same were already sealed with seal 'A' and 'C'. Although, when statement Ext. D-X was put to him in his cross-examination, he has denied portion A to A, B to B and C to C thereof being incorrect, however, without any reasonable and plausible explanation as to how his statement under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure came to be recorded in such a manner and fashion. Meaning thereby that the parcels containing the case property and samples were not re-sealed in the manner as claimed by the prosecution.

19. The contradictions, discrepancies and improvements as discussed hereinabove and occurred in the prosecution evidence renders the testimony of I.O. PW-9 and also Constable Gopal Singh, PW-5 as well as that of Constable Lekh Ram, PW-7 highly doubtful and it would not be appropriate to place reliance on the same in order to record the findings of conviction against the accused.

20. The independent witnesses have turned hostile to the prosecution as according to them, search and seizure have took place on the spot in their presence. As per testimony of PW-1 Sher Singh, a meat seller at Slapper, he admits that the police had come to his shop around 2.00-230 p.m and had taken the scale and weights therefrom. True it is that when put to cross-examination, he has admitted his signatures on the documents and also on the parcels containing the recovered charas and opium as well as on sample parcels, however, as per his testimony, he had signed the same at the instance of police. His education is only up to 2nd or 3rd standard, therefore, it can reasonably be believed that he could have not understood the contents of the documents even if readover and explained to him by the police. Therefore, he seems to have signed these documents at the instance of police without knowing the consequences thereof. Now if coming to the testimony of another independent witness Shri Roshan Lal, PW-8, he has also denied the search and seizure having taken place in his presence, however, according to him he was made to sign the documents by the police. He is matriculate and seems to have deposed falsely, however, when the prosecution case right from the beginning till end hardly inspires any confidence, even if it is believed that this witness has deposed falsely, the final outcome shall remain the same as in the trial Court. The testimony of PW-1 and PW-8 rather leads to the only conclusion that the accused were not apprehended on Slapper bridge at 6.00 p.m and rather during day time i.e. as per testimony of PW-1 1.00-1.30 p.m., whereas, as per that of PW-8 at 2.00-2.30 p.m. Furthermore, as per testimony of PW-8, he was called to the office of CID police near Slapper bridge where many police officials including three Lady Constables were present. Otherwise also, the degree of proof in a case of this nature should be high because there is provision of deterrent punishment against an offender, if otherwise held guilty after holding full trial. We can draw support in this regard from the judgment of apex Court in Noor Aga V. State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417, wherein it has been held as under:

> "56. The provisions of the Act and the punishment prescribed therein being indisputably stringent flowing from elements such as a heightened standard for bail, absence of any provision for remissins, specific provisions for grant of minimum sentence, enabling provisions granting power to the Court to impose fine of more than maximum punishment of Rs. 2,00,000/- as also the presumption of guilt emering from possession of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances, the extent of burden to prove the foundational facts on the prosecution, i.e.,"proof beyond all reasonable doubt" would be more onerous. A heightened scrutiny test would be necessary to be invoked. It is also so because whereas, on the one hand, the court must strive towards giving effect to the parliamentary object and intent in the light of the international conventions, but, on the other, it is also necessary to uphold the individual human rights and dignity as provided for under the UN Declaration of Human Rights by insisting upon scrupulous compliance of the provisions of the Act for the purpose of upholding the democratic values. It is necessary for giving effect to the concent of "wider civilization". The courts must always remind itself that it is a well settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that more serious the offence, the stricter is the degree of proof. A higher degree of assurance, thus, would be necessary to convict an accused. In State of Punjab v. Baldev singh, it was stated: (SCC p. 199, para 28)

"28....It must be borne in mind that severer the punishment, greater has to be the care taken to see that all the safeguards provided in a statute are scrupulously followed."

[See also Ritesh Chakravarti v. State of M.P.)

57. It is also necessary to bear in mind that superficially a case may have an ugly look and thereby, prima facie, shaking the conscience of any court but it is well settled that suspicion, however, high may be, can under no circumstances, be held to be a substitute for legal evidence."

21. In view of what has been said hereinabove, we find no illegality or infirmity with the impugned judgment. The same, as such, calls for no interference by this Court. Consequently, the appeal being devoid of any merits is dismissed. The personal bond furnished by accused Krishna stand cancelled and surety discharged.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Tej Singh ....Appellant.
Versus
State of H.P. ....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 153 of 2007.
Date of Decision: 9th December, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 436 and 427- Informant was watching television – he heard murmuring of the persons on the backside – he came out and saw G and accused T – informant went inside – his wife came and noticed that cow shed was put on fire – domestic bitch died in the fire – the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the witnesses had improved upon their versions making their testimonies doubtful – G was not cited as a witness and adverse inference has to be drawn against the prosecution- the prosecution version was not proved beyond reasonable doubt and the Court had wrongly convicted the accused- appeal allowed- judgment passed by the Trial Court set aside.(Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Atul Jhingan, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the appellant/convict against judgment recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Mandi, H.P. in Sessions Trial No.4 of 2005 on 7.5.2007, whereby, he convicted the accused/appellant herein for his committing offences punishable under Sections 436 and 427 besides sentenced him to suffer imprisonment for the aforesaid offences as under:

Sections	Sentenced imposed
436 of the IPC	Accused stands sentenced to suffer rigorous imprisonment for five years with fine of Rs.10,000/-, in case of default in the payment of fine amount the accused shall further undergo imprisonment for one years.
427 of the IPC	Sentenced to suffer imprisonment for six months and to pay a fine of Rs.1,000/- and in default to undergo imprisonment for 1 month.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on the intervening night of 13th and 14th October, 2003, complainant Narotam Ram was watching television at 1045 p.m. in his house. Then he heard murmuring of persons on the back side of his house and the complainant came out and noticed that Ghanshayam and accused Tej Singh were going on the path by the side of the house of the complainant in tipsy condition. The complainant thereafter went to sleep and in the meantime his wife Kala Devi came outside the house to urinate. She raised cries and complainant immediately came outside and noticed that his cowshed has been set on fire and the complainant immediately untethered/untied the cow, buffalo and calf and brought them outside the cowshed. However, a domestic bitch could not be saved and was burnt in the house fire which has spread on all the sides. All the family members tried to extinguish the fire but the same could not be controlled. The complainant incurred loss of 3000 bundles of grass. In the meanwhile other persons from the village, on seeing the fire also tried to extinguish the fire. There were other articles in the cowshed which were also burnt. Tej Singh and Ghanshayam has put his house on fire because of previous enmity. Thereafter complainant Narotam made a telephone call in police post Rewalsar and the same was entered in the daily diary. Thereafter H.C. Joginder Pal rushed to the spot and found that the cowshed of Narotam was completely burnt by fire. Joinderpal recorded the statement of Narotam Ram and the same was sent through constable Subhash Chand to police station Balh for registration of the case. On the basis of which the FIR was registered in the police station concerned. The police started the investigations in the case and completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 436 and 427 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the accused/appellant.

6. The convict/appellant is aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned defence counsel has concertedly and vigorously contended that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court are not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, they are sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends that the findings of conviction be reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and be replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended that the findings of conviction recorded by the Court below are based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and do not necessitate interference, rather merit vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The entire fulcrum for testing the veracity of the genesis of the prosecution case rests upon the FIR qua the occurrence recorded before the Police Station concerned by the informant/complainant (PW1). The FIR qua the relevant occurrence stands borne on Ex.PC. It stood recorded on anvil of a statement comprised in Ex.PA made before the Investigating Officer concerned by the complainant/informant (PW1). For the prosecution to succeed in its endeavour of proving the charge against the accused/convict it was under an imperative obligation to obtain apposite elicitations from the prosecution witnesses holding bespeakings qua thereupon consonance besides corroboration standing meted by them vis-a-vis the revelations manifested in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC. The effect, if any, of any contradictions or improvements occurring therefrom in the respective testifications of material prosecution witnesses would belittle the creditworthiness of the genesis of the prosecution case.

10. For making the relevant unearthings qua the prosecution witnesses while testifying qua the embodiments occurring in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC, theirs making any departure therefrom, an allusion to their respective testifications is imperative. An allusion to the testification of PW-1, on whose previous statement comprised in Ex. PA, FIR comprised in Ex.PC stood registered before the police station concerned underscores the factum of his though in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC unearthing therein qua accused Tej Singh along with Ghanshayam standing noticed by him from his window to proceed towards their house whereafter he echoes therein qua his closing the window of his house and thereupon his proceeding to his bedroom to sleep, whereupon his wife who had hitherto proceeded outside for easing herself on returning to her homestead apprised him qua their cowshed standing set ablaze. Both in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC there is no narration by PW-1 qua his wife PW-2 on returning to her homestead after easing herself outside hers thereupon apprising him qua accused Tej Singh setting ablaze their cowshed. Even when the aforesaid articulations remained uncommunicated in both Ex. PA besides in Ex.PC by PW-1, the complainant/informant, he yet proceeded to while testifying in Court make disclosures therein qua his wife who had hitherto proceeded outside for easing herself on returning to her homestead hers apprising him qua their cowshed standing set ablaze by Tej Singh. The effect of the factum probandum aforesaid remaining unnarrated by the informant both in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC renders his testification qua it to stand stained with a vice of gross improvement besides a vice of a stark embellishment surfacing vis-a-vis his previous statement recorded in writing whereform an inference is erectable qua his testimony qua the aforesaid testified factum qua his wife who had hitherto proceeded outside for easing herself on returning to her homestead hers apprising him qua their cowshed standing set ablaze by the accused being unamenable for credence standing placed thereupon. Furthermore the effect thereof is qua the entire genesis of the prosecution case standing jettisoned.

11. PW-2, the wife of the complainant/informant (PW-1) , who had conveyed the necessary awakenings qua the aforesaid factum to PW-1, though in her testification has also rendered a version ascribing a penally inculpable role to the accused/convict/appellant herein also therein she has made communications qua hers sighting the accused/respondent to set ablaze her cowshed yet the aforesaid testified factum also warrants its standing disimputed credence arousable from the factum qua when the necessary awakenings stood purveyed at the earliest to PW-1, the informant by PW-2, his wife, the entire gamut of the awakenings holding there within also the factum of hers sighting Tej Singh to set ablaze her cowshed stood enjoined to stand communicated by her to the informant for facilitating the latter to make apposite concurrent communications in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC, yet with his omitting to do so, constrains an inference qua the aforesaid echoings not standing communicated at the apposite stage by PW-2 to PW-1. Significantly, also thereupon when the aforesaid factum remained unembodied in Ex.PA besides in Ex.PC the necessary sequel therefrom is qua PW 2, his wife who had hitherto proceeded outside for easing herself on hers returning to her homestead hers not apprising him qua their cowshed standing set ablaze by the accused/appellant. Moreover, conspicuously, when both are to be concluded to preceding the lodging of the FIR naturally holding inter se confabulations qua the factum aforesaid also when the aforesaid factum was enjoined to stand narrated thereat by PW-2 to PW-1, its remaining unembodied in Ex.PA, stems an inference qua the aforesaid factum remaining uncommunicated at the earliest by PW-2 to PW-1 wherefrom it is obvious to conclude qua PW-2 subsequent to the lodging of the FIR qua the occurrence hers both in collusion with PW-1 besides in collusion with the Investigating Officer concerned engineering and contriving the factum aforesaid merely for, as evident from record with hers holding enmity with the accused/respondent, hers hence, conjuring to wreak vendetta upon him.

12. Be that as it may, PW-1 had noticed from the window of his house one Ghanshayam accompanying Tej Singh. However, there is no ascription of any incriminatory role to Ghanshayam nor also despite Ghanshayam purportedly accompanying Tej Singh at the relevant juncture, the prosecution though by its joining him as a prosecution witness could unearth from him the truth qua the relevant occurrence, yet it omitted to join Ghanshayam either as a prosecution witness nor obviously Ghanshyam stepped into the witnesses box. Since, the testification of the aforesaid Ghanshayam constituted the best independent evidence for giving succor to the charge significantly when he though may have rendered an uninterested or unbiased version qua the occurrence vis-a-vis the interested inimical version qua it communicated by PW-1 and PW-2 also when for the reasons aforesaid the version of the prosecution witnesses stands stained with a pervasive vice of improvements besides embellishments vis-a-vis the prosecution case especially vis-a-vis the previous statement(s) recorded in writing of PW-1 constrains a conclusion qua the Investigating Officer by colluding with PW-1 and PW-2 his smothering the truth qua the genesis of the occurrence.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court suffers from a perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

14. Consequently, the instant appeal is allowed and the judgment impugned hereat is set aside. Accordingly, the appellant herein/convict is acquitted of the charge. The fine amount, if any, deposited by the appellant herein before the learned trial Court be refunded to him forthwith. The personal and surety bonds of the appellant stands canceled. Records be sent back forthwith.

Civil Revision No. 52 of 2016
Decided on : 9.12.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 21 Rule 32- A decree for permanent prohibitory injunction was passed for restraining the defendants from causing any obstruction upon the path existing in the suit land- an application for execution was filed, which was dismissed by the Court- held, that the decree had obtained finality – an oral prayer was made during the pendency of suit and appeal that the defendant had encroached upon the suit land and a decree of mandatory injunction be passed – however, the prayer was declined in absence of the pleadings – a fresh suit would be barred by the principle of res-judicata- the Executing Court had wrongly dismissed the Execution Petition and the decree holder was deprived of the fruits of the decree obtained by him- petition allowed and order of Executing Court set aside – Executing Court directed to decide the same afresh.(Para-5 to 7)

For the Petitioners: Mr. Devender K Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. G.R Palsara, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The instant petition stands directed against the impugned order recorded by the learned executing Court upon a petition constituted therebefore under Order 21 Rule 32 of CPC by the DHs/petitioners herein (for short "the plaintiffs) whereby the aforesaid petition stood dismissed by it.

2. The learned trial Court pronounced qua the petitioners/plaintiffs (for short "the plaintiffs) an apposite decree of permanent prohibitory injunction whereupon the defendants stood restrained from causing any obstruction upon a path existing on the suit land depicted in Tatima Ex.PW-1/A.

3. During the pendency of the suit before the learned trial Court the defendants purportedly caused obstruction upon the path existing on the aforesaid suit land whereupon the plaintiffs made an oral request before the learned trial Court qua a relief of mandatory injunction standing pronounced by it for directing the defendants to remove the obstruction raised by them upon the path existing upon the suit land. The learned trial Court declined the aforesaid relief to the plaintiffs. The declining of the aforesaid relief to the plaintiffs by the learned trial Court is not ridden with any inherent procedural fallacy given the plaintiffs without begetting apposite amendments in the plaint by instituting therebefore an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC theirs merely making therebefore an oral submission for the according of the apposite relief to them, oral relief whereof naturally warranted its standing declined as tenably declined by the learned trial Court. Also evidence, if any, in consonance therewith for hence a decree of mandatory injunction standing pronounced upon the defendants was wholly discardable it naturally being beyond pleadings.

4. The defendants' omitted to assail the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced vis-à-vis the plaintiffs by theirs carrying an appeal therefrom before the learned first Appellate Court. Consequently the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced by the learned trial Court attained finality besides conclusivity.

5. Be that as it may despite the defendants' not assailing the decree of the learned trial Court whereby they stood injuncted against causing any obstruction upon the path borne on tatima Ex.PW-1/A reflected in the operative portion of the judgment and decree pronounced by the learned trial Court, the plaintiffs' though carried an appeal therefrom before the learned first Appellate Court whereby they assailed the rendition recorded by the learned trial Court whereby relief of mandatory injunction stood refused vis-à-vis them yet therebefore also they orally submitted qua the defendants' during the pendency of the suit before the learned trial Court causing obstruction upon the path comprised in the aforesaid Khasra Number whereupon they had staked a claim qua an an easementary right of its user for facilitating theirs accessing their house besides made an oral prayer therebefore qua an apposite decree of mandatory injunction standing pronounced against the defendants. The aforesaid oral prayer made by the plaintiffs before the learned trial Court besides before the learned appellate Court stood aptly declined to them for theirs before either of the Courts omitting to beget an apposite amendment in the plaint by moving an appropriate application constituted under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC. Also the plaintiffs did not concert to assail the relevant findings qua the facet aforesaid embodied in paragraph 22 of the judgment of the First appellate Court, paragraph whereof stands extracted hereinafter by theirs preferring an appeal therefrom before this Court. In sequel thereto finality besides conclusivity stands imputed to the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court qua the relevant factum probandum of the defendants' not warranting vis-à-vis them any rendition of any decree of mandatory injunction arising from theirs during the pendency of the suit before the learned trial Court or during the pendency of the suit before the learned First Appellate Court raising obstructions on the path by stacking material thereupon whereby the user of path by the plaintiffs depicted in the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction besides embodied in tatima Ex.PW-1/A stood fully forestalled besides thwarted.

> "22. Keeping in view the aforesaid evidence led by the plaintiffs, this Court is of the opinion that the aforesaid evidence led by the plaintiff failed to prove on record that during the pendency of the suit the defendants obstructed the said path with cut stones and wood etc. This evidence further reveals that the matter in controversy with the obstruction of the part and granting of mandatory injunction in favour of the plaintiffs was not within the knowledge of the parties. Since, the matter was not in the knowledge of the parties especially the defendants, as such the defendants was having no opportunity to lead evidence in respect of it and in these circumstances in doing justice to one party, the court can not do injustice to another party and the trial court after dealing the matter elaborately and discussing the statements of the parties, rightly did not grant the relief of mandatory injunction in favour of the plaintiffs, such, being the situation, I have no hesitation to conclude that the plaintiffs have in fact failed to prove on record by leading cogent and satisfactory evidence that the defendants during the pendency of the suit obstructed the use of said party and in the absence of any specific pleadings and specific evidence the plaintiffs were not entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction and hence, the judgment and decree under challenge are legal and valid and the same do not require any modification or interference at the hands of this court. As such, this point is decided against the plaintiffs."

6. Hereat is to be adjudged the compatible worth qua the conclusivity of the findings recorded by the learned First appellate Court qua a decree of mandatory injunction being un-renderable against the defendants vis-à-vis the conclusivity of the apposite verdict rendered by the learned trial Court besides affirmed by the learned First appellate Court arising from the factum of the defendants' not carrying an appeal thereagainst before the learned first Appellate Court wherefrom an inference stands engendered qua the defendants acquiescing to the findings besides qua the conclusivity of the decree pronounced upon them whereupon they stood restrained from obstructing the path depicted in tatima Ex. PW-1/A.

7. For pronouncing an efficacious decision upon the aforesaid facet imperatively when obviously the bar of res judicata besets the plaintiffs against theirs instituting a fresh suit against the defendants vis-à-vis the aforesaid relief preponderantly when it accrued earlier whereat it stood un-ventilated by the plaintiffs significantly when they omitted to avail the apposite statutory mechanism whereupon they stand forestalled besides interdicted to in a freshly constituted suit canvass a relief for its removal by the defendants comprised in the latters standing mandatorily injuncted to remove it whereupon the act of the defendants comprised in theirs obstructing the path decreed for user by the plaintiffs would hence stand rendered un-redeemed, ought to not be necessarily borne in mind. Given the factum aforesaid qua a statutory bar of res judicata forbidding the plaintiffs to institute a fresh suit for redeeming the prohibited act of the defendants comprised in theirs obstructing the path embodied in the apposite tatima also when for reasons aforesaid the defendants acquiesce to the conclusivity of the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced upon them it is deemed both just and befitting, significantly also for facilitating the plaintiffs to reap the benefit of a conclusively recorded decree of permanent prohibitory injunction dehors any omission on their part to beget an apposite amendment in the plaint seeking embodying therein a relief of mandatory injunction, to record a finding qua the plaintiffs qua their omissions aforesaid not standing in the way of an efficacious affirmative rendition standing pronounced by the learned Executing Court concerned upon an apposite petition constituted therebefore for execution of the aforesaid decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced against the defendants. In case finality is attached to the findings occurring in paragraph 22 of the judgment of the learned first Appellate Court it would frustrate the working of the binding decree pronounced upon the defendants qua the user by the plaintiffs of a path existing on the suit land. Throughout since the rendition of a conclusively rendered decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced against the defendants upto its efficacious affirmative execution standing ordered by the learned Executing Court comprised in its directing qua appropriate consummatory coercive steps standing taken, its mandate hold full sway besides both the plaintiffs and the defendants are bound to revere its mandate. Even if assumingly no efficacious evidence nor any evidence of cogent worth may stand adduced qua the defendants raising any obstruction upon the suit land yet the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction dehors any obstructive act done by the defendants during the pendency of the suit before the learned trial Court or during the pendency of the appeal before the first appellate Court also dehors no scribed relief in consonance therewith standings prayed for by the plaintiffs would not estop this court to permit the executing court to carry the mandate of the conclusively recorded decree of permanent prohibitory injunction pronounced qua the plaintiffs, conspicuously when thereupon the mandate of the conclusively recorded decree pronounced qua the suit land would beget consummation besides would obviate its frustration. For facilitating its consummation, though the learned executing Court stood enjoined to pronounce an appropriate order, contrarily it by relegating the impact of the aforesaid germane factum probandum comprised in the enforceable executable conclusive decree, has inaptly dismissed the execution petition.

In view of the above there is merit in this petition and the same is allowed. The impugned order stands quashed and set aside. The Execution Petition be decided afresh within three months by the learned Executing Court. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. Records be sent back.

For the Respondents: Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj K Vashishta, Advocate for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

The instant petition stands directed against the impugned order recorded on 17.7.2014 by the learned Court below upon the objections constituted therefore under Order 21 Rule 97 readwith Section 151 of Code of Civil procedure by the petitioners herein wherewithin they resisted the execution of the conclusively recorded rendition pronounced qua JD/non-objector B.M Kapila impleaded herein as respondent No.2. The verdict of dismissal of the apposite objections constituted therebefore by the petitioners herein under the afore-stated provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure whereunder they purveyed their resistance qua execution of a conclusively recorded verdict of eviction of the non-objector/ respondent No.2 herein from the demised premises stands canvassed by the counsel for the petitioners to stand founded upon an inherent procedural fallacy arouse-able from the factum of the learned Court below in blatant transgression of the mandate of a judgment reported in Latest HLJ 2014(2)928 titled as Rajinder Singh and others versus Sadhu Ram wherewithin this Court had recorded a conclusion qua objections constituted under Order 21 Rule 97 of CPC before the learned Executing Court by the objectors/resisters to the execution of a conclusively recorded decree of eviction pronounced upon the JD warranting trial thereon analogous to trial of a Civil Suit whereupon the executing Court stood enjoined to strike issues on the contentious pleadings of the parties at lis also thereupon it stood enjoined to permit them to adduce their respective evidence thereon whereas apparently with the impugned rendition making a vivid disclosure qua the aforesaid compliance(s) remaining un-begotten renders the impugned rendition to suffer the ill fate of it standing quashed and set aside.

2. The aforesaid submission addressed herebefore by the learned counsel for the objectors/petitioners herein is bereft of his remaining attentive to all the attendant material which exists on record. Initially the conclusively recorded rendition pronounced qua eviction of JD/respondent No.2 herein from the demised premises occurred on 14.9.2004 also the pronouncement aforesaid attained finality whereafter it stood put to execution before the learned Executing Court, only in course whereof objectors/petitioners herein (Successors-in-interest of late Sh. D.N Kapila, brother of the JD) constituted therebefore objections purveying their resistance qua the execution of a conclusively recorded rendition of eviction of the JD/respondent No.2 herein from the relevant demised premises,objections whereof stood anvilled qua his/theirs continuing to hold tenancy qua the relevant premises under the landlord/DH also his/theirs holding possession thereof whereupon they espoused qua the decree in execution not holding any binding effect upon their rights as tenants in the relevant demised premises.

3. The DH/non-objector/respondent No.1 herein repudiated the objections preferred by the objectors/petitioners herein before the learned Executing Court wherein the DH canvassed qua Mr. D.N Kapila surrendering his tenancy in the year 1990 qua the relevant premises whereafter he espoused qua Mr. D.N Kapila thereafter departing for his native place at Nadaun, in sequel whereto JD/respondent No.2 herein stood inducted by him as a tenant in the relevant premises.However the objectors before the learned Executing Court alongwith their apposite objections appended receipts in personification of the DH/landlord receiving rent from Mr. D.N Kapila subsequent to the latter purportedly surrendering his tenancy in the year 1990. However a close perusal thereof underscores the factum of none of the receipts which exist on record subsequent to 1990 displaying thereinqua the landlord/DH receiving therein from the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein the amount of money constituted therein as rent qua the relevant premises. Also a photocopy of the receipt issued by the Physician who attended upon the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein with a disclosure therein of the latter holding his residence in the tenanted premises whereupon the petitioners' assayed qua theirs predecessor-in-interest thereat holding possession of the tenanted premiseswould not foreclose any inference qua thereupon the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein holding possession of the demised premises, as it merely appears to be a suo moto unilateral display by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein whereby it acquires a taint of invention besides concoction rendering it to be discardable, nor also any electricity bills appended therewith holding therewithin reflections qua the relevant tariff displayed therein qua consumption of electricity qua the demised premises standing demanded from the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein would hold any tenacity for concluding qua the brother of the JD predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein thereupon belying the factum of the JD/respondent No.2 herein holding tenancy of the demised premises, significantly when the demand of tariff qua the relevant premises as stand displayed therein may be a sequel to the JD/respondent No.2 herein not obtaining from the authorities concerned alteration of the electricity connection in his name.

4. The aforesaid discussion though prima-facie unveils an inference qua the impugned rendition pronounced by the learned Court below not suffering from any gross taint yet the counsel for the petitioners herein vehemently insists qua omission of striking of an apposite issue(s) by the learned Court below on the contentious pleadings of the parties at contest also its omission to permit them to adduce their respective evidence thereon prejudicing the espousal therebefore of the petitioners whereupon he contends qua the tenacity of the impugned verdict hereat standing belittled.

5. The insistence made by the learned counsel for the petitioners herein upon the mandate of this Court encapsulated in the verdict relied upon by him supra though holds therewithin the afore-referred legal expostulation of exacting inflexible rigor whereas its mandate standing evidently infracted when may hence entail the inevitable sequel qua the impugned rendition suffering the misfortune of its standing invalidated, yet its sharpness besides gravity stands bluntedby a rendition recorded by the Hon'ble Apex Court in (1998) 3 Supreme Court Cases 723 in a case titled as Silverline Forum Pvt. Ltd versus Rajiv Trust & another, relevant paragraphs whereof occurring at Sr. No. 12,13 and 14 which stand extracted hereinafter, contrarily therewithin holding qua the learned Executing Court, on standing seized with objections constituted therebefore by the resister or objector to the conclusively recorded rendition of eviction pronounced upon a person holding possession/occupying the relevant premises as a tenant under the DH wherein they ventilate qua theirs thereat holding its possession also thereupon theirs concerting to escape the effect upon them of the conclusively recorded rendition of eviction pronounced upon a person impleaded as a JD therein, the learned executing Court holding the discretion to or its may directing the contesting parties to adduce evidence on the apposite issue(s) as arise(s) for determination on the apposite contentious pleadings of the parties whereupon the ensuing sequel is there being no omnibus fetter nor any preemptory obligation upon the learned Executing Court to always in all eventualities proceed to strike issues on the contentious pleadings reared therebefore by the DH besides by the apposite objector/resister by the latter constituting therebefore a petition under Order 21 Rule 97 sub rule 2 of CPC nor also there being a perennial peremptory dictate upon the learned executing Court to permit adduction of evidence thereon by the relevant combatants thereat.

> "12. The words "all questions arising between the parties to a proceeding on an application under Rule 97" would envelop only such questions as would legally arise for determination between those parties. In other words, the Court is not obliged to determine a question merely because the resistor raised it. The questions which executing Court is obliged to determine under Rule 101, must possess two adjuncts. First is that such questions should have legally arisen between the parties, and the second is, such questions must be relevant for consideration and determination between the parties, e.g. if the obstructor admits that he is a transferee pendente lite it is not necessary to determine a question raised by him that he was unaware of the litigation when he purchased the property. Similarly, a third party, who questions the validity of a transfer made by a decree-holder to an assignee, cannot claim that the question regarding its validity should be decided during execution proceedings. Hence, it is necessary that the questions raised by the resistor or the obstructor must legally arise between him and the decree-holder. In the adjudication process envisaged in Order 21, Rule 97(2) of the Code, execution Court can decide whether the question raised by a resistor or obstructor legally arises between the parties. An answer to the said question also would be the result of the adjudication contemplated in the sub-section.

13. In the above context we may refer to Order 21, Rule 35(1) which reads thus :

> " 35 "Where a decree is for the delivery of any immovable property, possession thereof shall be delivered to the party to whom it has been adjudged, or to such person as he may appoint to receive delivery on his behalf, and, if necessary, by removing any person bound by the decree who refuses to vacate the property."

14. It is clear that executing Court can decide whether the resistor or obstructor is a person bound by the decree and he refuses to vacate the property. That question also squarely falls within the adjudicatory process contemplated in Order 21, Rule 97(2) of the Code. The adjudication mentioned therein need not necessarily involve a detailed enquiry or collection of evidence. Court can make the adjudication on admitted facts or even on the averments made by the resistor. Of course the Court can direct the parties to adduce evidence for such determination if the Court deems it necessary."

6. Now hereat it has to be determined whether the aforesaid condition constituted therein in exception to the general principle qua the learned Executing Court striking issues on the contentious pleadings of the parties at contest thereat besides permitting them to adduce their evidence thereon, stands hereat satiated. For making the aforesaid unearthings the factum of an evident close relationship of brothers existing inter-se the JD/respondent No.2 herein vis-à-vis Mr. D.N Kapila, the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein does inevitably warrant a conclusion qua the apposite objections standing seeped in a vice of a deep collusion occurring inter-se both also theirs being contrived besides engineered merely for preempting the DH to obtain issuance of warrants of possession qua the demised premises from the Executing Court.

7. Aggravated momentum to the aforesaid inference stands evinced from the factum of a legal notice making a disclosure therein qua the counsel representing the petitioners herein issuing/serving upon the DH, a notice, ventilating therein a grievance qua the JD alongwith the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein standing inducted as a tenant in the relevant premises by the DH. The aforesaid disclosure occurring therein makes a palpable display qua the petitioners acquiescing to the factum of joint tenancy existing qua the relevant premises inter-se D.N Kapila and B.M Kapila. The notice aforesaid stood issued on 8.5.2014 hence subsequent to the conclusively recorded pronouncement made on 14.9.2004 by the learned Rent Controller concerned against the JD/respondent No.2 herein.

8. In the afore-stated backdrop the effect of an omission by the respondent No.2 herein to discharge the apposite onus on the relevant issue(s) qua the petition suffering from a vice of non-joinder and mis-joinder of parties when stands coagulated with the afore-stated communications occurring in the notice at hand appended with the petition hereat holding echoings therein qua the respondent No.2 herein/JD alongwith the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein jointly holding tenancy qua the demised premises also when the counsel who served the legal notice upon the DH is also the counsel who represented the JD before the Rent Controller concerned is qua thereupon a graphic display emanating qua the espousal made in the objections reared by the objectors/petitioners herein being an invention besides a concoction merely for preempting the execution of the conclusively recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below. Moreover, the effect of the aforesaid inference is qua with Mr. D.N Kapila residing alongwith Mr. B.M Kapila in the relevant premises his throughout holding awareness qua the pendency of the apposite petition constituted by the DH before the learned Court concerned against Mr. B.M Kapila (his brother) whereupon he was enjoined to seek his impleadment therein whereas his afore-stated omission begets a sequel of his acquiescing to the apposite conclusive pronouncements made qua his brother Mr. B.M Kapila whereupon the relevant liability of eviction pronounced upon Mr. B.M Kapila is alike the latter binding upon him also.

9. The summon bonum of the above discussion qua the principle held in the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra), relevant paragraphs whereof stand extracted hereinabove qua there being no rigid fiat upon the learned executing Court to strike apposite issue(s) on the contentious pleadings of the parties in a petition constituted therebefore by the Objectors/resisters under Order 21 Rule 97 (2) of CPC nor it concomitantly being under an inflexible obligation to permit them to adduce their respective evidence thereon unless it is deemed necessary besides expedient for facilitating it to record its pronouncement, when stands applied hereat especially when the afore-stated material makesa loud pronouncement qua the apposite objections as stood preferred therebefore standing engineered besides concocted contrarily when only the apposite objections hold a prima-facie tinge of tenacity besides creditworthiness thereupon alone the learned Executing Court prima-facie standing enjoined to strike issues on the contentious pleadings of the parties besides stood enjoined to permit them to adduce their respective evidence thereonsignificantly when throughout it would be facilitative for recording an effective determination. For reiteration when the aforesaid principle whereupon the learned Executing Court stood enjoined to strike issues upon the contentious pleadings constituted therefore by the combatants therefore stands hinged upon the aforesaid endeavor facilitating it to pronounce an efficacious rendition upon the apposite concert existing therebefore remains unsatiated, thereupon the espousal made by the learned counsel for the petitioners qua for omission(s) thereof the verdict impugned hereat warranting interference necessitates its standing discountenanced. There is no merit in this petition the same is accordingly dismissed. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of tenant/revisionist that learned Appellate Authority under section 24(3) of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 is not legally competent to remand back whole case to learned Rent Controller to decide the same afresh is decided accordingly. Power of learned Appellate Authority under H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 is defined under Section 24 (3) which is quoted in toto:-

> 24(3) The Appellate Authority shall decide the appeal after sending for the records of case from Controller and after giving the parties an opportunity of being heard and if necessary after making such further inquiry as it thinks fit either personally or through Controller."

14. It is well settled law that H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 is special act. It is also well settled law that when there is conflict between special act and general act then special act always prevails. It is held that power of appellate authority is defined in a positive manner under section 24(3) of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987. It is held that learned Appellate Authority under H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 can make further inquiry as it thinks fit either personally or through Controller during pendency of appeal. It is held that words "further inquiry" means inquiry for deciding the appeal only. See 1997(1) SLJ 484 (HP) Braham Dass and others vs. Satya Wati and others. See ILR 1976 HP 620 Smt. Surinder Kaur vs. Mohinder Pal Singh. See 1961 PLR 865 Shri Krishan Lal Seth vs. Smt. Pritam Kumari.

15. In the present case learned Appellate Authority framed additional issue to the effect that "whether tenant has ceased to occupy premises in question continuously for a period of twelve months preceding the date of filing eviction petition without reasonable cause. Onus placed upon landlady. Thereafter learned Appellate Authority remanded back case to learned Rent Controller to decide case afresh and dispose of appeal finally.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionist that learned Appellate Authority undersection 24(3) H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 is legally competent to remand whole case to learned Rent Controller for deciding afresh is rejected being devoid of any force in view of rulings cited supra. It is held that there is no power of whole case remand to appellate authority under section 24(3) of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987. It is held that learned Appellate Authority was legally competent to frame additional issue and it is held that learned Appellate Authority was legally competent to make further inquiry relating to additional issue either personally or through Controller during pendency of appeal. It is held that learned Appellate Authority was not competent to remand case as whole to learned Rent Controller for fresh decision in view of rulings cited supra. It is held that learned Appellate Authority has committed procedural illegality in present case. Point No.1 is decided accordingly.

Point No. 2 (Relief)

17. In view of findings upon point No.1 civil revision petition is partly allowed. Order of remand passed by learned Appellate Authority under section 24(3) of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act 1987 dated 03.05.2014 is set aside. Learned Appellate Authority Hamirpur H.P. is directed to dispose of Rent Appeal No. 1 of 2011 afresh in accordance with law. It is further held that learned Appellate Authority during pendency of appeal will be legally competent to make further inquiry as it thinks fit either personally or through Controller relating to additional issue framed by learned Appellate Authority in para No. 15 of order dated 03.05.2014 and thereafter learned Appellate Authority shall dispose of appeal No. 1 of 2011 afresh in accordance with law. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Files of learned Appellate Authority and learned Rent Controller be sent back forthwith along with certified copy of order. Since rent petition is pending since 2007 learned Appellate Authority shall dispose of appeal No. 1 of 2011 within three months after receipt of file. Parties are directed to appear before learned Appellate Authority on 27.12.2016. Revision petition is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J.

NTPC Limited. ...Appellant.

Versus

Shri Amar Singh & another. ...Respondents.

RFA No. 325 of 2010

Date of Decision: December 13, 2016.

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- The land was acquired for the construction of Kol Dam- Reference Court re-determined the market value @ Rs.5 lacs per bigha after relying upon exemplar sale deed and exemplar award –held in appeal that claimants had claimed compensation @ Rs.15 lacs per bigha category/classification wise- the Reference Court is bound to determine market value, which is just fair and reasonable- Collector determined the market value at different rates – exemplar sale deeds were duly proved- similarity of the acquired land with exemplar sale deeds was established- the market value in exemplar sale deeds worked out to be Rs.7,50,000/- per bigha but allowing deduction up to 33.13%, the fair market value was found to be 5 lacs per bigha – similarity of the land in previous award was established with the acquired land – award has attained finality –sale deeds relied upon by the respondents could not form the basis for determining market value as the similarity between the lands was not established – appeal dismissed. For the Appellant:	Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for the appellant-NTPC.
For the Respondents:	Mr.Naresh K. Sood, Sr. Advocate with M/s Aman Sood and Varun Rana, Advocates, for respondent No.1. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr.Puneet Rajta, Dy. AG., for respondent No.2-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J (oral).

If the claimant(s) are held legally entitled for rates, on uniform basis, irrespective of classification and category, then the increase in the amount of re-determination of the market value of the acquired land is only marginal. The rates stand increased from Rs. 4,35,447.26 to Rs. 5,00,000/- per bigha. The Collector himself observed that though the market value of the acquired land situate in Village Kayan, the village in question, could be Rs. 4,90,000/-, but required to be scaled down to Rs. 3,54,244/-, but however, in terms of award No.2 of 2002, Collector Land Acquisition, determined the market value of the acquired land awarding different rates, classification/category wise, ranging from Rs. 90,718.82 to Rs. 4,35,447.26 per bigha.

2. In terms of the impugned award dated 30.07.2010, passed by District Judge, Mandi, H.P., in Reference Petition No.163 of 2003, titled as Amar Singh Versus LAC, Kol Dam Project, Sunder Nagar, District Mandi and another, the Reference Court re-determined the market value of the entire acquired land, irrespective of its category/classification, by uniformly awarding a sum of Rs. 5,00,000/- per bigha and while doing so, it referred to and relied upon ten exemplar sale deeds, produced by the claimants as also exemplar award dated 17.01.2009 (Ex.PX), so passed by its Predecessor, whereby market value with respect to land acquired in Village Ropa, came to be determined @ Rs. 5,00,000/- per bigha. Undisputedly villages Ropa and Kayan are adjoining to each other.

3. Certain facts are not in dispute: (i) 252-12-09 bighas of land came to be acquired in Mauja Kayan, Tehsil Sunder Nagar, District Mandi, H.P., with the publication of notification in the official gazette on 19.12.2000, so issued under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act); (ii) The acquisition proceedings concluded with the passing of Collector's award No. 2 of 2002 dated 19.07.2002, under Section 11 of the Act and the State taking over possession of the land; (iii) The purpose of acquisition being construction of Dam, commonly known as Kol Dam; (iv) Dissatisfied with the offer made by the Collector, claimants filed petitions under Section 18 of the Act, which came to be clubbed with Reference Petition No.163 of 2003, and on the basis of common evidence led by the parties, disposed of in terms of impugned award; (v) While the claimants accepted the award, only the beneficiary preferred the present appeal(s) under Section 54 of the Act; (vi) It is the common case of parties that the entire acquired land came to be submerged with the construction of Dam by the beneficiary. Also there is no evidence on record of either any requirement or any developmental activity carried out on the spot.

4. It is contended on behalf of the claimants that since they have not assailed the impugned award, as such, they are satisfied with the market value, so determined by the Reference Court.

5. It be only observed that out of the acquired land, maximum land is of a superior quality.

6. With these admitted/undisputed facts, material placed on record by the parties is being appreciated for just decision of the case.

7. It is a settled principle of law that onus of establishing true market value of the acquired land, higher than the one which stands determined by the Collector, is always upon the claimants.

8. Perusal of the Collector's award reveals that claimants themselves claimed compensation @ Rs. 15,00,000/- per bigha. But then it was category/classification wise.

9. It is a settled principle of law that Collector's award is a mere offer and in the proceedings under Section 18 of the Act, Court is duty bound to determine the market value, which is just, fair and reasonable, on the basis of material placed on record by the parties. The conclusion with respect to re-determination of the market value, in the instant case, is clearly based on the evidence led by the claimants, which cannot be said to have been appreciated erroneously. Material, in its entirety, stands considered by the Court below.

10. With vehemence, Mr. Neeraj Gupta, learned counsel, contends that Reference Court erred in considering the fact that before the Collector, claimants had themselves elected for award of compensation on the basis of classification/category, hence they were precluded from seeking re-determination of the market value of the acquired land on uniform basis.

11. To rebut the same, Mr. Naresh K. Sood, learned Senior Counsel, seeks reliance on the decision rendered by the Apex Court in Chimanlal Hargonvinddas Versus Special Land Acquisition Officer, Poona and another, AIR 1988 SC 1652; (1988) 3 SCC 751, wherein the Court made the following observations:-

> "4 The following factors must be etched on the mental screen :
> (1) A reference under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act is not an appeal against the award and the Court cannot take into account the material relied upon by the Land Acquisition Officer in his Award unless the same material is produced and proved before the Court.
> (2) So also the Award of the Land Acquisition Officer is not to be treated as a judgment of the trial Court open or exposed to challenge before the court hearing the Reference. It is merely an offer made by the Land Acquisition Officer and the material utilised by him for making his valuation cannot be utilised by the Court unless produced and proved before it. It is not the function of the court to sit in appeal against the Award, approve or disapprove its reasoning, or correct its error or affirm, modify or reverse the conclusion reached by the Land Acquisition Officer, as if it were an appellate Court.

(3) The Court has to treat the reference as an original proceeding before it and determine the market value afresh on the basis of the material produced before it.

(4) The claimant is in the position of a plaintiff who has to show that the price offered for his land in the award is inadequate on the basis of the materials produced in the Court. Of course the materials placed and proved by the other side can also be taken into account for this purpose.

(5) The market value of land under acquisition has to be determined as on the crucial date of publication of the notification under S. 4 of the Land Acquisition Act (dates of Notifications under Ss. 6 and 9 are irrelevant).

(6) The determination has to be made standing on the date line of valuation (date of publication of notification under S. 4) as if the valuer is a hypothetical purchaser willing to purchase land from the open market and is prepared to pay a reasonable price as on that day. It has also to be assumed that the vendor is willing to sell the land at a reasonable price.

(7) In doing so by the instances method, the Court has to correlate the market value reflected in the most comparable instance which provides the index of market value.

(8) Only genuine instances have to be taken into account. (Sometimes instances are rigged up in anticipation of Acquisition of land.)

(9) Even post-notification instances can be taken into account (1) if they are very proximate, (2) genuine and (3) the acquisition itself has not motivated the purchaser to pay a higher price on account of the resultant improvement in development prospects.

(10) The most comparable instances out of the genuine instances have to be identified on the following considerations :

(i) proximity from time angle

(ii) proximity from situation angle.

(11) Having identified the instances which provide the index of market value the price reflected therein may be taken as the norm and the market value of the land under acquisition may be deduced by making suitable adjustments for the plus and minus factors vis-a-vis land under acquisition by placing the two in juxtaposition.

(12) A balance-sheet of plus and minus factors may be drawn for this purpose and the relevant factors may beevaluated interms of price variation as a prudent purchaser would do.

(13) The market value of the land under acquisition has thereafter to be deduced by loading the price reflected in the instance taken as norm for plus factors and unloading it for minus factors.

(14) The exercise indicated in clauses (11) to (13) has to be undertaken in a common sense manner as a prudent man of the world of business would do. We may illustrate some such illustrative (not exhaustive) factors :-

(For table see below)

Plus factors	Minus factors
1. Smallness of size.	1. largeness of area.

2. Proximity to a road.	2. situation in the interior at a distance from the road.
3. frontage on a road.	3. narrow strip of land with very small frontage compared to depth.
4. nearness to developed area.	4. lower level requiring the depressed portion to be filled up.
5. regular shape.	5. remoteness from developed locality.
6. level vis-a-vis land under acquisition.	6. some special disadvantageous factor which would deter a purchaser.
7. special value for an owner of an adjoining property to whom it may have some very special advantage.

> (15) The evaluation of these factors of course depends on the facts of each case. There cannot be any hard and fast or rigid rule. Common sense is the best and most reliable guide. For instance, take the factor regarding the size. A building plot of land say 500 to 1000 sq. yds cannot be compared with a large tract or block of land of say 10000 eq. yds. or more. Firstly while a smaller plot is within the reach of many, a large block of land will have to be developed by preparing a lay out, carving out roads, leaving open space, plotting out smaller plots, waiting for purchasers (meanwhile the invested money will be blocked up) and the hazards of an entrepreneur. The factor can be discounted by making a deduction byway of an allowance at an appropriate rate ranging approx. between 20% to 50% to account for land required to be set apart for carving out lands and plotting out small plots. The discounting will to some extent also depend on whether it is a rural area or urban area, whether building activity is picking up, and whether waiting period during which the capital of the entrepreneur would be locked up, will be longer or shorter and the attendant hazards.
> (16) Every case must be dealt with on its own fact pattern bearing in mind all these factors as a prudent purchaser of land in which position the Judge must place himself.
> (17) These are general guidelines to be applied with understanding informed with common sense." (Emphasis supplied)

Reliance is also sought on the decision rendered by the Apex Court in Special Land Acquisition Officer Versus Karigowda and others, (2010) 5 SCC 708.

12. Significantly while responding to the reference petition or at the time of recording evidence, such objection never came to be taken by the beneficiary. Even before this Court, it is not a pleaded ground in the memo of appeal. In fact, as is evident from the reference petition, claimants had claimed rates @ Rs. 25,00,000/- per bigha, on uniform basis.

13. In any event, Reference Court is duty bound to determine such market value, which is just, fair and reasonable.

14. The law for award of compensation at uniform rates, when the purpose of acquisition is common and no developmental activity is required to be carried out is no longer res integra and stands settled by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Viluben Jhalejar Contractor (Dead) by

LRs Versus State of Gujarat, (2005) 4 SCC 789 (paras 22 and 23); Himmat Singh and others Versus State of Madhya Pradesh and another, (2013) 16 SCC 392 (para 34); Peerappa Hanmantha Harijan (Dead) By Legal Representatives and others Versus State of Karnataka and another, (2015) 10 SCC 469 (paras 80 and 81); as also this Court in RFA No. 953 of 2012, titled as Land Acquisition Collector & another Versus Jatinder Singh, decided on 01.06.2016 and other connected matters. As such, at this point in time, in view of admitted/undisputed factual matrix, as noticed earlier, it would not be permissible for the beneficiary to raise such objections.

15. While determining the market value, Collector accounted for certain sale transactions with respect to the village in question and formed an opinion that even though the market value, irrespective of its classification, would be Rs. 4,90,455.85 per bigha, but however, it did not "appear" to be true representative of the market value for if sale transactions pertaining to a contiguous village i.e. Ahan, were considered then the market value of the acquired land could be Rs. 3,54,244/- per bigha. But then significantly and eventually, the Collector himself determined the market value to be as under:-

Market value determined as per the classification of land

Class of land	Area	LR per bigha	Total LR	Rate per bigha
Barani Abbal	=117-1-2	0.72 p	84.279	435447.26
Barani Doyam	=77-17-15	0.62p	48.290	374969.20
Bagicha Barani	=14-10-11	0.62p	9.007	374969.06
Banjar Kable Kasht	=16-6-15	0.15p	2.450	90695.68
Khadyatar	=3-19-10	0.13p	0.516	78508.87
Gair Mumkin	=22-16-16	0.15p	3.426	90718.82
Grand Total	=252-12-09		147.968	3,54,243.54

16. Record reveals that for establishing their claims, claimants have proved on record the following ten sale transactions (Ex.P-1 to Ex.P-10), through sixteen witnesses, namely, Harender Sen (PW.1), Amar Singh (PW.2), Gandhi Ram (PW.3), Ghamira (PW.4), Bajiru (PW.5), Briju (PW.6), Babu Ram son of Sunder Ram (PW.7), Babu Ram son of Bansi Ram (PW.8), Ranjit (PW.9), Roop Lal (PW.10), Khazana Ram (PW.11), Sohan Singh (PW.12), Sunder (PW.13), Smt. Revatu (PW.14), Smt. Neelam Thakur (PW.15) and Yadvinder (PW.16):-

Exts.	Documents	Date of sale	Area in Bigha	Mauja	Sale price
Ex.P1	Sale deed	20.12.1988	0-3-0	Kayan	Rs. 10,000/-
Ex.P2	Sale deed	5.5.2000	0-2-6	Kayan	Rs. 1,10,000/-
Ex.P3	Sale deed	7.4.2000	0-1-10	Kayan	Rs. 60,000/-
Ex.P4	Sale deed	4.4.2000	0-2-0	Kayan	Rs. 80,000
Ex.P5	Sale deed	7.4.2000	0-2-0	Kayan	Rs. 80,000/-
Ex.P6	Sale deed	26.7.2000	0-2-0	Kayan	Rs. 1,00,000/-
Ex.P7	Sale deed	12.5.2000	0-1-0	Kayan	Rs. 50,000/-
Ex.P8	Sale deed	4.4.2000	0-1-10	Kayan	Rs. 60,000/-
Ex.P9	Sale deed	1.5.2000	0-3-0	Kayan	Rs. 1,20,000/-
Ex.P10	Sale deed	5.5.2000	0-2-6	Kayan	Rs. 1,10,000/-

17. Close examination of testimonies of the aforesaid witnesses would only establish: (i) the sale transactions to have been proven on record, in accordance with law, for the vendor and vendee stepped into the witness box; (ii) Similarity of the exemplar sale deed with that of acquired land vis-a-vis its potential, use and nature stands proved; (iii) the beneficiary never doubted veracity of the witnesses and their testimony about the authenticity and genuineness of the sale transactions; and (iv) the land situate in village Kayan is similar to the land situate in adjoining village Ropa, Tehsil Sunder Nagar, District Mandi, Mohal Tatapani in Tehsil Karsog, District Mandi and Mohal Bahot Kasol in District Bilaspur.

18. There is also no evidence, establishing the fact that the said sale transactions were either speculative or fictitious in nature. There is no evidence establishing that these sale transactions came to be effected in anticipation and vain hope of the claimants of their land being acquired for this very same public purpose. As such, this Court is of the view that the said sale transactions are genuine.

19. Noticeably the District Judge has returned contradictory findings on this issue. In paragraphs 32, 33 and 34, it expressed doubts about the transactions being genuine. But however in the following paragraph 35 itself, itself considered these very sale transactions for justifying re-determination of the market value. While rendering its opinion in paragraphs 32, 33 and 34 of the impugned award, Court below ventured into adventurism and formed its opinion without any basis. Though the market value in terms of these exemplar transactions works out to be Rs. 7,50,000/- per bigha, but by allowing deductions up to the extent of 33.13 %, the Reference Court found the fair market value of the acquired land to be Rs. 5,00,000/- per bigha.

20. An endeavour was made to justify such conclusion by also relying upon award dated 17.01.2009, passed by the Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court Mandi, District Mandi, in Reference Petition No.78/2002/74 of 2005, titled as Kirpa and others versus LAC, N.T.P.C. (Kol Dam) and another (Ex.PX).

21. Now if one were to peruse the testimonies of the claimants' witnesses, one would find even this award to have been proven, in accordance with law. In one voice, the witnesses have categorically deposed, which fact stands unrebutted, that "The market value of the land of mohal Ropa, irrespective of classification has been determined at Rs.5 lacs per bigha". Under these circumstances, Reference Court, was right in relying upon the said award (Ex.PX).

22. Apparently, contention that award (Ex.PX) could not be relied upon, also merits rejection for the reason that witnesses themselves have deposed about the similarity of the acquired land with that of exemplar award, on which there is no cross-examination. Their testimony goes unrebutted.

23. Also, and most significantly, in the award (Ex.PX), the Reference Court took into account fourteen sale transactions, pertaining to Village Kayan, which also stand proved by the claimants in the proceedings in question. Hence very same transactions stand commonly proved in both the reference petitions.

24. Also award (Ex.PX), has now attained finality. Decision rendered by this Court in NTPC Ltd. Versus Kirpa and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 253, subject matter of award (Ex.PX), stands affirmed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India. In the said decision this Court observed that:-

> "18.Mr. N.K. Sood, Sr. Advocate, has drawn the attention of the Court to Award No.2 of 2002 vide Ext. P-15. Award No. 2 of 2002 pertains to the acquisition of land in village Kyan for Kol Dam Hydel Project. The compensation was awarded at the rate of Rs. 4,35,447.26 paise per bigha. The notification under Section 4 of the Act, as noticed hereinabove, by acquiring the land of Village Ropa, was also published on 11.12.2000. Mohal Kyan is adjoining to Mohal Ropa. It has also come on record that village Ropa is having better quality of land, since it is irrigated vis-a-vis Mohal Kyan. The HP PWD has already purchased land at village Ropa for a consideration of Rs. 4,62,000/- per bigha. The land of Mohal Kyan was though sold in small plots, in the year 2000, but for approximate price of Rs.40,000/- Rs 50,000/- per biswa. The learned Reference Court has correctly taken into consideration the sale transactions made vide sale deeds Ext. P-1 and Ext. PW-5/A and award No.2 of 2002 Ext. P-15, while determining the market value of the acquired land of the claimants."

25. Noticeably it was award No.2 of 2002, so passed by the Collector, subject matter of the present appeal, was relied upon by this Court while affirming findings returned by the Reference Court in award (Ex.PX).

26. Specific attention is invited to sale transactions dated 17.12.1988 (Ex.RA), 10.08.1989 (Ex.RB) and 17.11.1999 (Ex. RC), so placed on record by the beneficiary. Sale transactions (Ex.RA and Ex.RB) pertain to the adjoining Mohal, whereas, sale transaction (Ex.RC) pertains to the Mohal in question. Record reveals that only certified copies of the sale deeds were tendered in evidence. No doubt, in view of the statutory provisions (Section 51-A of the Act) and the law laid down by the Apex Court in Cement Corpn. of India Ltd. Versus Purya and others, (2004) 8 SCC 270, these sale transactions cannot be ignored, but however, there is no evidence on record, establishing comparability of the acquired land with these exemplar sale transactions. No ocular evidence was led by the beneficiary. In this view of the matter, these sale transactions cannot be accounted for, for just determination of a fair market value of the acquired land.

27. Reliance by the beneficiary on the decision rendered by the Apex Court in Trishala Jain and another Versus State of Uttranchal and another, (2011) 6 SCC 47, is also misplaced for the decision is rendered in the attending facts and circumstances totally different from the one in hand. Also this Court has otherwise dealt with the issue in the earlier part of the judgment.

28. No other point urged or proved.

29. Hence in the given facts and circumstances, no interference is warranted. It cannot be said that the findings returned by the Reference Court are perverse, illegal or erroneous. As such, present appeal stands dismissed, so also pending application(s), if any.

30. Cross-objection, if any, shall also stand disposed of.

31. Quite evidently, in terms of award No.2 of 2002, so passed by the Collector, several land reference petitions came to be clubbed and disposed of by the common impugned award dated 30.07.2010, passed by District Judge, Mandi, in Reference Petition No.163 of 2003, titled as Amar Singh Versus LAC, Kol Dam Project and another. Common evidence was led by the parties in land Reference Petition No.163 of 2003, subject matter of the present appeal. Learned counsel for the parties jointly submit that decision rendered in the present appeal would have an automatic bearing on the other connected appeals, arising out of the very same impugned award, pending before this Court. Registrar (Judicial) to take appropriate instructions from Hon'ble the Chief Justice for listing of such connected appeals, before the appropriate Court, particulars whereof shall also be supplied by learned counsel for the parties.

Cases referred:

Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36

Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94

For the Appellant	:	Mr. Vikram Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondents	:	Mr. Manoj Pathak, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, Judge

On 13.1.2012, Yashwant Singh (PW-5) noticed dead body of a male, lying below a Car bearing No.DL-2C-5286, somewhere between Newti and Kalara, information whereof, was telephonically given to Police Station, Nerwa. Police Party, headed by SI Hari Ram (PW-23), reached the spot and conducted necessary investigation. Statement of Dinesh Chauhan (PW-1), under the provisions of Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Ex.PW-1/A) was recorded, which led to registration of FIR No.4/2012, dated 14.1.2012 (Ex.PW-17/A), under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station, Nerwa. On the request the of Investigating Officer, a team of Experts from the State Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, District Shimla, Himachal Pradesh, inspected the spot on 14.1.2012. They took samples of fingerprint, paint/blood from the vehicle and the blood stained soil. Inquest Report (Ex.PW-10/B) was prepared and dead body sent for postmortem, so conducted by Dr. A.K. Sharma (PW-10), who issued report (Ex.PW-10/C). Investigation revealed the accused to be involved in the crime. Hence, the accused, who was arrested on 28.1.2012, made a disclosure statement on 4.2.2012 (Ex.PW-11/A), to the effect that he could get identified the place where he had consumed liquor with the deceased as also the spot of crime, and pursuant thereto, he got such fact discovered. Investigation further revealed that the accused intentionally and voluntarily caused disappearance of evidence of murder. Police took on record several incriminating articles and with the completion of investigation, which prima revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, challan was presented in the Court for trial.

2. Accused was charged for having committed offences, punishable under the provisions of Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code, to which he did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

3. In order to establish its case, prosecution examined as many as 26 witnesses and statement of the accused, under the provisions of Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was also recorded, in which he took plea of innocence and false implication. However, he did not lead any evidence in defence.

4. Finding the testimonies of prosecution witnesses not to be inspiring in confidence, accused stands acquitted on all counts, in terms of impugned judgment dated 29.6.2013, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh, in Sessions Trial No.16-S/7 of 2012, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh v. Narender Kumar.

5. We have heard Mr. Vikram Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, on behalf of the State as also Mr. Manoj Pathak, Advocate, on behalf of the accused. We have also minutely examined the testimonies of the witnesses and other documentary evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. Having done so, we are of the considered view that no case for interference is made out at all. We find that the judgment rendered by the trial Court is based on complete, correct and proper appreciation of evidence (documentary and ocular) so placed on record. There is neither any illegality/infirmity nor any perversity with the same, resulting into miscarriage of justice.

6. It is a settled principle of law that acquittal leads to presumption of innocence in favour of an accused. To dislodge the same, onus heavily lies upon the prosecution. Having considered the material on record, we are of the considered view that prosecution has failed to establish the essential ingredients so required to constitute the charged offence.

7. In Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36, Constitution Bench of the apex Court, has held as under:

> "(6) It must be observed at the very outset that we cannot support the view which has been expressed in several cases that the High Court has no power under S. 417, Criminal P.c., to reverse a judgment of acquittal, unless the judgment is perverse or the subordinate Court has in some way or other misdirected itself so as to produce a miscarriage of justice. In our opinion, the true position in regard to the jurisdiction of the High Court under S. 417, Criminal P.c. in an appeal from an order of acquittal has been stated in – 'Sheo Swarup v. Emperor', AIR 1934 PC 227 (2) at pp.229, 230 (A), in these words:
> > "Sections 417, 418 and 423 of the Code give to the High Court full power to review at large the evidence upon which the order of acquittal was founded, and to reach the conclusion that upon that evidence the order of acquittal should be reversed. No limitation should be placed upon that power, unless it be found expressly stated in the Code. But in exercising the power conferred by the Code and before reaching its conclusions upon fact, the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses, (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial, (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt, and (4) the slowness of an appellate Court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a Judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses. To state this, however, is only to say that the High Court in its conduct of the appeal should and will act in accordance with rules and principles well known and recognized in the administration of justice." "

8. Undisputedly, there is no eye-witness to the occurrence of the incident.

9. Prosecution wants the Court to believe that in the night of 13.1.2012, accused Narender Kumar, deceased Suresh Chauhan and Kahan Chand (PW-2), together consumed alcohol, and thereafter accused murdered the deceased and by concealing his blood stained clothes, destroyed the evidence.

10. From the testimony of Dinesh Chauhan (PW-1), brother of the deceased, it is evidently clear that after identifying the dead body, he lodged the report with the police. He suspected that his brother was crushed under the vehicle by someone. Further, only suspicion led him believe it to be an act of murder and not accident. Significantly, save and except for the incriminating material, which allegedly came to be recovered in his presence, he does not disclose complicity of the accused in the crime. Neither he nor has anyone else deposed about the motive of crime. Also, it is not the case of prosecution that accused harboured any animosity or had reason to murder the deceased.

11. Kahan Chand himself was a suspect, as has also come in the testimony of Investigating Officer. He himself admits to have been in the company of the deceased and the accused. And this was prior to the occurrence of the alleged incident. Deposition of this witness is a lengthy one, but then he does not disclose any circumstance with regard to involvement of the accused in the alleged crime. The theory of 'last seen' holds good qua this witness, as much as it would against the accused. In fact, involvement of this witness in the alleged crime has not been ruled out at all. But none else has deposed against the accused and the deceased lastly seen together.

12. At this juncture, we may observe that even the conduct of the accused cannot be taken as a circumstance, suspecting his involvement in the crime. It is not that he had disappeared or was not available for interrogation. In fact, as and when called for by the police, he made himself available and visited the Police Station, immediately after the occurrence of the incident, and more specifically on 16th, 17th& 18th January, 2012. Accused came to be arrested only on 28.1.2012. But then, there is nothing on record to establish, more specifically from the testimony of the Investigating Officer, as to what prompted arrest of the accused. Other than Kahan Chand, none came forward to disclose that the accused was lastly seen in the company of the deceased. Prosecution wants the Court to believe that accused surrendered on 28.1.2012, but then why would he do that, for there was nothing incriminating against him. It is not the case of prosecution that very same day police recorded his confessional statement. It came to be recorded only on 4.2.2012.

13. Significantly, police wants the Court to believe that involvement of the accused surfaced with the conduct of Test Identification Parade, so held on 31.1.2012, in the presence of Shri Nikhil Aggarwal (PW-21). Surprisingly, it was Kahan Chand, who identified the accused. What was the purpose of conducting such an exercise is not evident from the record, particularly when identity of the accused or Kahan Chand was never in dispute or doubt, which fact is evident from the admission made by the police officials, of both of them having visited the Police Station on previous occasions, i.e. 16th, 17th& 18th January, 2012. In this backdrop, the circumstance of Test Identification Parade loses significance.

14. Identity of the deceased is not in doubt. As per medical opinion (Ex.PW-10/D), he died as a result of ante-mortem traumatic asphyxia. Significantly, the doctor found the deceased to have consumed alcohol, contents whereof, as per opinion of the expert, were found to the extent of 297.02 mg%. This as per medical science is very high, rendering the person be in a state of drunkenness. Possibility of the deceased having died, after sustaining injuries under the influence of alcohol, has not been ruled out by the Investigating Officer.

15. Next circumstance, which is brought to our notice, is the disclosure statement (Ex. PW-11/A), allegedly made by the accused in the presence of police officials. Why no independent witness was associated? remains unexplained. In any event, we do not find version of Constable Naresh Kumar (PW-11) to be inspiring in confidence, more so for the reason that his testimony in Court, is bordering falsehood. He states that prior to 4.2.2012, he never visited Kalara, which fact is contradicted, in fact belied by Constable Kuldeep Singh (PW-12), according to whom, he took photographs of the spot on 14.1.2012 and from the photograph (Ex.PW-12/A-28) so taken by him, we notice that in fact, Constable Naresh Kumar was present on the spot. There is yet another reason for discarding the disclosure statement. Police was already aware of the spot of crime and no new fact came to be discovered, pursuant to the alleged disclosure statement made by the accused.

16. In support of his case, Mr. Vikram Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, presses reports (Ex.PW-22/A & 22/B) of the Experts of the State Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga. In our considered view, even these reports do not advance the case of the prosecution any further. These reports are inconclusive with regard to the fingerprints and samples of blood, allegedly taken from the vehicle. Also, they do not, in any manner, link the accused to the crime. In fact, we find the Investigating Officer to be extremely impartial towards the accused. Why is it that he did not have the fingerprints so taken from the vehicle, matched with that of Kahan Chand (PW-2).

17. Police has established the record of Mobile phone allegedly used by the accused, but then, it does not advance the case of prosecution any further, for it is not disputed that accused is a local resident.

18. From the material placed on record, prosecution has failed to establish that the accused is guilty of having committed the offences, he was charged for. The circumstances cannot be said to have been proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused does not stand proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt.

19. The chain of events does not stand conclusively established, leading only to one conclusion, i.e. guilt of the accused. Circumstances when cumulatively considered do not fully establish completion of chain of events, indicating to the guilt of the accused and no other hypothesis other than the same.

20. Hence, it cannot be said that prosecution has been able to prove its case, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence so as to prove that the accused committed murder of Suresh Chauhan and also intentionally and voluntarily caused disappearance of evidence.

21. For all the aforesaid reasons, we find no reason to interfere with the judgment passed by the trial Court. The Court has fully appreciated the evidence so placed on record by the parties.

22. The accused has had the advantage of having been acquitted by the Court below. Keeping in view the ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court in Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94, it cannot be said that the Court below has not correctly appreciated the evidence on record or that acquittal of the accused has resulted into travesty of justice. No ground for interference is called for. The present appeal is dismissed. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

Arbitration Appeal No. 3/2015
Decided on: 14.12.2016

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 34-Objections were filed against the award of the arbitrator in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), which were dismissed as not maintainable – held, that the proceedings were initiated in the year 1986, when Arbitration Act, 1940 was in force – the Act was replaced in the year 1996, when the proceedings were initiated under the Act of 1940, its provisions would regulate the subsequent proceedings notwithstanding the commencement of 1996 Act- the award was not filed before the Court and the objections could not have been filed directly – the order passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division) set aside- objection were ordered to be returned for presentation before appropriate Court. (Para-2 to 14)

Cases referred:
Milkfood Limited vs. GMC Ice Cream (P) Ltd. (2004) 7 SCC 288
Hasham Abbas Sayyad vs. Usman Abbas Sayyad and others, AIR 2007 (SC) 1077

For the Appellant: Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Bhupinder Pathania, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral):

The question posed in this petition is purely a legal one and, therefore, it is not at all necessary to refer to the facts, save and except that the appellant filed objections against the award passed by the Arbitrator in the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), which were dismissed on the ground that the same were not maintainable, under section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (for short "Act of 1940"), as the award has been passed under the Arbitration Act, 1940.

2. The moot question, however, is whether the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) at the first place had the jurisdiction to entertain such objections or the order passed by him is without jurisdiction and is thus coram non judis.

3. It is not in dispute that the proceedings, which have ultimately culminated into an award under challenge, had been initiated in the year 1986 and it is for the fourth time that an award has come to be passed on 10.2.2009 by the Arbitrator-cum-Managing Director of the respondent-corporation.

4. A notice of the commencement of the arbitration is the first essential step towards the making of default appointment in terms of Chapter-II of the Arbitration Act, 1940 (for short "Act of 1940").

5. In the instant case, evidently, this notice was issued somewhere in the year 1986 when the provisions of the Act of 1940 alone were in vogue wherein section 8 of the Act conferred the power upon the Court to appoint Arbitrator on an application made in this behalf. Section 20 conferred wide jurisdiction on the Court for directing the filing of the arbitration and appointment of Arbitrator. Section 21 conferred powers on the Court in a pending suit on an agreement of the party to refer the differences between them for arbitration in terms of the Act. The Act provided for filing of the award in the Court on making of a motion by either of the party to make award rule of the Court to have the award set aside on the grounds specified in the award and for an appeal against the decision of such a motion. This Act was replaced by the Act of 1996, which by virtue of section 85 repealed the earlier enactment.

6. Therefore, seminal issue, which arises for consideration at this stage is whether the proceedings would be governed by the Act of 1940 or the Act of 1996.

7. This question is no more res integra in view of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Milkfood Limited vs. GMC Ice Cream (P) Ltd. (2004) 7 SCC 288, wherein it has been clearly held that where the notice of arbitration has been issued under the Arbitration Act, 1940, then the proceedings thereafter would be governed by the Act of 1940 irrespective of the Act of 1996 having come into force. It shall be apt to reproduce the relevant observations as under:

> "[45] 'Commencement of an arbitration proceeding' and 'commencement of a proceeding before an arbitrator' are two different expressions and carry different meanings.
> [46] A notice of arbitration or the commencement of an arbitration may not bear the same meaning, as different dates may be specified for > commencement of arbitration for different purposes. What matters is the context in which the expressions are used. A notice of arbitration is the first essential step towards the making of a default appointment in terms of Chapter II of the Arbitration Act, 1940. Although at that point of time, no person or group of persons charged with any authority to determine the matters in dispute, it may not be necessary for us to consider the practical sense of the term as the said expression has been used for a certain purpose including the purpose of following statutory procedure required therefor. If the provisions of the 1940 Act applies, the procedure for appointment of an arbitrator would be different than the procedure required to be followed under the 1996 Act. Having regard to the provisions contained in Section 21 of the 1996 Act as also the common parlance meaning is given to the expression 'commencement of an arbitration' which admittedly for certain purpose starts with a notice of arbitration, is required to be interpreted which would be determinative as regard the procedure under the one Act or the other is required to be followed. It is only in that limited sense the expression 'commencement of an arbitration' qua 'a notice of arbitration' assumes significance."

8. It is not in dispute that under the Act of 1940, there is no provision for filing objections directly in the Court before the award having been filed as per the mandate of section 14 of the Act of 1940 for making it rule of the Court and notice thereof issued to the parties. It is only thereafter while resorting to section 30 of the Act that the award can be set aside, which procedure admittedly has not been followed in the instant case.

9. However, learned Assistant Advocate General would, however, argue that the appellant having taken a chance by filing objections before the Civil Judge (Senior Division) cannot now turn around and question the jurisdiction.

10. I am afraid, such contention cannot be accepted for the simple reason that neither consent nor waiver nor acquiescence can confer jurisdiction upon a Court, which otherwise is not competent to try the lis.

11. It is well settled and needs no authority that "where a Court takes upon itself to exercise a jurisdiction it has not possessedits decision amounts to nothing". Consequently, any order passed by the Court having no jurisdiction is non est and its invalidity can be set up when it is sought to be enforced or is acted upon as a foundation for a right, even at the stage of execution or in collateral proceedings. Any order passed by such authority is coram non judis.

12. This aspect of the matter has been considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hasham Abbas Sayyad vs. Usman Abbas Sayyad and others, AIR 2007 (SC) 1077, wherein it was held as under:

> "[21] The core question is as to whether an order passed by a person lacking inherent jurisdiction would be a nullity. It will be so. The principles of estoppel, waiver and acquiescence or even res judicata which are procedural in nature would have no application in a case where an order has been passed by the Tribunal/Court which has no authority in that behalf. Any order passed by a court without jurisdiction would be coram non judice being a nullity, the same ordinarily should not be given effect to.
> [22] This aspect of the matter has recently been considered by this Court in Harshad Chiman Lal Modi V/s. DLF Universal Ltd. and Another, 2005 7 SCC 791, in the following terms :
> "We are unable to uphold the contention. The jurisdiction of a court may be classified into several categories. The important categories are (i) Territorial or local jurisdiction; (ii) Pecuniary jurisdiction; and (iii) Jurisdiction over the subject matter. So far as territorial and pecuniary jurisdictions are concerned, objection to such jurisdiction has to be taken at the earliest possible opportunity and in any case at or before settlement of issues. The law is well settled on the point that if such objection is not taken at the earliest, it cannot be allowed to be taken at a subsequent stage. Jurisdiction as to subject matter, however, is totally distinct and stands on a different footing. Where a court has no jurisdiction over the subject matter of the suit by reason of any limitation imposed by statute, charter or commission, it cannot take up the cause or matter. An order passed by a court having no jurisdiction is nullity."

See also Zila Sahakari Kendrya Bank Maryadit v. Shahjadi Begum & Ors., 2006 (9) SCALE 675 and Shahbad Co-op.Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Special Secretary to Govt. of Haryana & Ors. 2006 (11) SCALE 674 para 29]

[23] We may, however hasten to add that a distinction must be made between a decree passed by a court which has no territorial or pecuniary jurisdiction in the light of Sec. 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and a decree passed by a court having no jurisdiction in regard to the subject matter of the suit. Whereas in the former case, the appellate court may not interfere with the decree unless prejudice is shown, ordinarily the second category of the cases would be interfered with."

13. Consequently, the order passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division) Mandi on 29.12.2014 is coram non judis and is accordingly quashed and set aside and the objections preferred by the appellant are ordered to be returned to him for being presented before the competent court. In case the same is done within 30 days of the receipt of the certified copy of the Award, the Court shall extend the benefit of section 14 of the Limitation Act to the appellant and thereafter proceed to decide the objections as expeditiously as possible and in no event later than three months from the date of filing of objections.

14. The appeal is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

For the respondents:	Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No. 1. Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

Challenge in this Letters Patent Appeal is to judgment and order, dated 29th April, 2016, made by the learned Single Judge/Writ Court in CWP No. 2648 of 2015, titled as Lalita Devi versus State of H.P. and another, whereby the writ petition filed by the appellant-writ petitioner came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

3. The appellant-writ petitioner appeared in the Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by respondent No. 2, i.e. Himachal Pradesh Board of School Education, Dharamshala (for short "Board") on 30th November, 2014. The answer key was circulated vide press note, dated 9th December, 2014 and time was given for submitting objections, if any, till 18th December, 2014.

4. It appears that objections were filed qua questions No. 30, 73 and 123, were considered by respondent No. 2-Board by referring the matter to the subject experts, the result was prepared after taking note of the expert's opinion and thereafter, the result was declared by respondent No. 2-Board, in terms of which the appellant-writ petitioner was declared to be unsuccessful.

5. Being aggrieved, the appellant-writ petitioner invoked the jurisdiction of the Writ Court by the medium of CWP No. 2648 of 2015 and sought writ of mandamus directing respondent No. 2-Board to award full marks to her in respect of Questions No. 30, 73 and 123 and declare her to have qualified the Teacher Eligibility Test-2014, on the grounds taken in the memo of the writ petition.

6. Respondent No. 2-Board filed reply to the writ petition and has specifically stated that the final answer key was prepared on the basis of the report of the subject experts. It is apt to reproduce paras 3 and 4 of the preliminary submissions in the reply filed by respondent No. 2-Board herein:

> "3. That the respondent Board had also received the objections on question No. 30, 73 and 123 printed in the booklet series D. These questions were printed at serial No. 17, 75 and 145 in booklet series A. It is pertinent to mention here that there were four booklet series that is A, B, C and D, wherein the questions were similar but jumbled. Hence, the respondent Board had sought the opinion from the subject experts on the questions printed in booklet series A.
> 4. That the respondent Board had prepared the final answer key on the basis of the report of the subject experts and result was prepared on the basis of the final result. The copy of final answer key of booklet series A is annexed as Annexure R-

2/2. Hence, the present writ petition may kindly be dismissed in the interest of justice."

7. The Courts are not experts, thus, cannot substitute the expert opinion. If the Commission or any Body conducting the examination has to do the needful as per the Rules, after receiving compliant(s), the decision, if any made, cannot be interfered by the Courts.

8. The Apex Court in a case titled as Pankaj Sharma versus State of Jammu and Kashmir and others, reported in (2008) 4 Supreme Court Cases 273, has held that the decision of the Public Service Commission in deleting the defective/wrong questions and to allot those marks on pro-rata basis and to call the persons for interview if a candidate gets in after getting additional marks on pro-rata basis was legal one. It is apt to reproduce para 50 of the judgment herein:

"50. But there is an additional factor also which supports this view. It is clear from the fact that after the receipt of the complaints, the Commission had issued Press Note on 6-7-2005 and assured the candidates that the Commission would look into the matter and no injustice would be caused to them. The Commission also obtained expert advice and thereafter suo motu decided to delete certain questions by allotting those marks pro-rata to remaining questions. It is, therefore, clear that even according to the Commission, some action was necessary, after the examination was over."

9. The Apex Court in other cases titled as Kanpur University, through Vice-Chancellor and others versus Samir Gupta and others, reported in (1983) 4 Supreme Court Cases 309, and Abhijit Sen and others versus State of U.P. and others, reported in (1984) 2 Supreme Court Cases 319, has held that the Courts can pass appropriate directions in appropriate cases in order to avoid delay and recurrence of such lapses.

10. The same view has been taken by one of us (Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice) while sitting in Single Bench as a Judge of the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir, in a case titled as Showkat Ahmad Dar & Ors. versus State & Anr., reported in 2012 (4) JKJ 141 [HC].

11. It would also be profitable to reproduce paras 6 to 9 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in a case titled as The Secretary, West Bengal Council of Higher Secondary Education versus Ayan Das & Ors., reported in 2007 AIR SCW 5976, herein:

"6. The permissibility of re-assessment in the absence of statutory provision has been dealt with by this Court in several cases. The first of such cases is Maharashtra State Board of Secondary and Higher Secondary Education & Anr. v. Paritosh Bhupeshkumar Sheth & Ors. reported in (1984 (4) SCC 27). It was observed in the said case that finality has to be the result of public examination and, in the absence of statutory provision, Court cannot direct re-assessment/re-examination of answer scripts.

7. The courts normally should not direct the production of answer scripts to be inspected by the writ petitioners unless a case is made out to show that either some question has not been evaluated or that the evaluation has been done contrary to the norms fixed by the examining body. For example, in certain cases examining body can provide model answers to the questions. In such cases the examinees satisfy the court that model answer is different from what has been adopted by the Board. Then only the court can ask the production of answer scripts to allow inspection of the answer scripts by the examinee. In Kanpur University and Ors. v. Samir Gupta and Ors. (AIR 1983 SC 1230) it was held as follows:-

"16. Shri Kacker, who appears on behalf of the University, contended that no challenge should be allowed to be made to the correctness of a key answer unless, on the face of it, it is wrong. We agree that the key answer should be assumed to be correct unless it is proved to be wrong and that it would not be held to be wrong by an inferential process of reasoning or by a process of rationalization. It must be clearly demonstrated to be wrong, that is to say, it must be such as no reasonable body of men well versed in the particular subject would regard as correct. The contention of the University is falsified in this case by a large number of acknowledged text-books, which are commonly read by students in U.P. Those text books leave no room for doubt that the answer given by the students is correct and the key answer is incorrect.

17. Students who have passed their Intermediate Board Examination are eligible to appear for the entrance Test for admission to the Medical Colleges in U.P. Certain books are prescribed for the Intermediate Board Examination and such knowledge of the subjects as the students have is derived from what is contained in those text-books. Those text books support the case of the students fully. If this were a case of doubt, we would have unquestionably preferred the key answer. But if the matter is beyond the realm of doubt, it would be unfair to penalize the students for not giving an answer which accords with the key answer, that is to say, with an answer which is demonstrated to be wrong".

8. Same would be a rarity and it can only be done in exceptional cases. The principles set out in Maharashtra Board' case (supra) has been followed subsequently in Pramod Kumar Srivastava v. Chairman Bihar Public Service Commission, Patna & Ors. (2004 (6) SCC 714), Board of Secondary Education v. Pravas Ranjan Panda & Anr. (2004 (13) 714) and President, Board of Secondary Education, Orissa and Anr. v. D. Suvankar and Anr. (2007 (1) SCC 603).

9. In view of the settled position in law, the orders of learned Single Judge and the Division Bench cannot be sustained and stand quashed."

12. This Court in a case titled as Mukesh Thakur and another versus Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission, reported in 2006 (1) Shim. LC 134, interfered and quashed the result made by the Commission, was subject matter of Civil Appeals No. 907 and 897 of 2006 before the Apex Court, titled as Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission versus Mukesh Thakur and another, reported in (2010) 6 Supreme Court Cases 759. It is apt to reproduce paras 23 to 26 of the judgment herein:

"23. The situation will be entirely different where the court deals with the issue of admission in mid-academic session. This Court has time and again said that it is not permissible for the courts to issue direction for admission in mid-academic session. The reason for it has been that admission to a student at a belated stage disturbs other students, who have already been pursuing the course and such a student would not be able to complete the required attendance in theory as well as in practical classes. Quality of education cannot be compromised. The students taking admission at a belated stage may not be able to complete the courses in the limited period. In this connection reference may be made to the decisions of this Court in Pramod Kumar Joshi (Dr.) v. Medical Council of India, (1991) 2 SCC 179; State of U.P. v. Dr. Anupam Gupta, 1993 Supp (1) SCC 594 : AIR 1992 SC 932; State of Punjab v. Renuka Singla, (1994) 1 SCC 175 : AIR 1994 SC 932, Medical Council of India v. Madhu Singh, (2002) 7 SCC 258; and Mridul Dhar v. Union of India, (2005) 2 SCC 65.

24. The issue of revaluation of answer book is no more res integra. This issue was considered at length by this Court in Maharashtra State Board of Secondary and Higher Secondary Education v. Paritosh Bhupeshkurmar Sheth, (1984) 4 SCC 27 : AIR 1984 SC 1543, wherein this Court rejected the contention that in the absence of the provision for revaluation, a direction to this effect can be issued by the Court. The Court further held that even the policy decision incorporated in the Rules/ Regulations not providing for rechecking/verification/revaluation cannot be challenged unless there are grounds to show that the policy itself is in violation of some statutory provision. The Court held as under: (SCC pp. 39-40 & 42, paras 14 & 16)

> "14. .....It is exclusively within the province of the legislature and its delegate to determine, as a matter of policy, how the provisions of the Statute can best be implemented and what measures, substantive as well as procedural would have to be incorporated in the rules or regulations for the efficacious achievement of the objects and purposes of the Act...
> 16. .....The Court cannot sit in judgment over the wisdom of the policy evolved by the legislature and the subordinate regulation-making body. It may be a wise policy which will fully effectuate the purpose of the enactment or it may be lacking in effectiveness and hence calling for revision and improvement. But any drawbacks in the policy incorporated in a rule or regulation will not render it ultra vires and the Court cannot strike it down on the ground that, in its opinion, it is not a wise or prudent policy, but is even a foolish one, and that it will not really serve to effectuate the purposes of the Act."

25. This view has been approved and relied upon and re-iterated by this Court in Pramod Kumar Srivastava v. Bihar Public Service Commission, (2004) 6 SCC 714, observing as under: (SCC pp. 717-18, para 7)

> "7. ... Under the relevant rules of the Commission, there is no provision wherein a candidate may be entitled to ask for revaluation of his answer book. There is a provision for scrutiny only wherein the answer books are seen for the purpose of checking whether all the answers given by a candidate have been examined and whether there has been any mistake in the totalling of marks of each question and noting them correctly on the first cover page of the answer book. There is no dispute that after scrutiny no mistake was found in the marks awarded to the appellant in the General Science paper. In the absence of any provision for revaluation of answer books in the relevant rules, no candidate in an examination has got any right whatsoever to claim or ask for revaluation of his marks."

A similar view has been reiterated in Muneeb-Ul-Rehman Haroon (Dr.) v. Govt. of J&K State , (1984) 4 SCC 24 : AIR 1984 SC 1585; Board of Secondary Education v. Pravas Ranjan Panda, (2004) 13 SCC 383; Board of Secondary Education v. D. Suvankar, (2007) 1 SCC 603; W.B. Council of Higher Secondary Education v. Ayan Das, (2007) 8 SCC 242 : AIR 2007 SC 3098; and Sahiti v. Dr. N.T.R. University of Health Sciences, (2009) 1 SCC 599.

26. Thus, the law on the subject emerges to the effect that in the absence of any provision under the statute or statutory rules/regulations, the Court should not generally direct revaluation."

13. The Apex Court, after discussing the law and judgments, which were governing the field till the date of the decision, has laid down the tests.

14. Coming to the merits of the case in hand, it appears that the purpose of inviting objections from the candidates before the examiner examines the papers and declares the result is just to examine those objections before declaring the result.

15. In the instant case, it has specifically been averred by respondent No. 2-Board, as discussed hereinabove, that they have invited the objections, asked the subject experts to examine the objections, objections were examined, some mistakes were found, were rectified and thereafter, the result was declared. Thus, no case for interference is made out.

16. Had respondent No. 2-Board not invited the objections or had failed to take into account the said objections and the expert's opinion, in that eventuality, the judicial review was permissible.

17. Respondent No. 2-Board has specifically pleaded that the candidates have filed objections to the answer key. It has also furnished opinion of subject experts on the objected questions alongwith the reply.

18. At the costs of repetition, it is beaten law of land that the Courts are not experts, have to respect the opinion of the experts and cannot substitute the same. In the instant case, the experts have examined the questions and given their opinion. Thus, the objections raised by the candidates have been considered and judicial review is not permissible. Therefore, the writ petition was not maintainable on this count.

19. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a batch of writ petitions, CWP No. 9169 of 2013, titled as Vivek Kaushal & others versus Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission, being the lead case, decided on 17th July, 2014; CWP No. 6812 of 2014, titled as Arvind Kumar & others versus Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission, and other connected matters, decided on 16th October, 2014; CWP No. 3866 of 2015, titled as Lalit Mohan versus H.P. Public Service Commission, decided on 2nd November, 2015; and CWP No. 699 of 2016, titled as Rustam Garg and others versus Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission, decided on 29th March, 2016.

20. It is pertinent to record herein that the judgment rendered by this Court in Vivek Kaushal's case (supra) stands upheld by the Apex Court vide order, dated 7th August, 2014, rendered in Special Leave to Appeal (C) Nos. 20992 to 20995 of 2014.

21. Having glance of the above discussions, the Writ Court has rightly appreciated the controversy after applying the tests laid down by the Apex Court and this Court.

22. Viewed thus, the impugned judgment is well reasoned and legal one, needs no interference.

23. Having said so, the impugned judgment is upheld and the appeal is dismissed alongwith all pending applications.

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- The land was acquired for the construction of Kol Dam- Land Acquisition Collector awarded the compensation at different rates- reference was made – exemplar sale deeds were produced, which were subsequent to initiation of acquisition proceedings- no material was placed on record to establish its similarity of potential, use, kind and nature with the acquired land – the Court has awarded compensation in respect of other acquired land of the same Tehsil on uniform basis irrespective of classification nature and category of land- Reference Court awarded compensation on uniform basis by taking the highest rate so determined by the Collector himself after relying upon several decisions of the Apex Court – the Reference Court had rightly determined the compensation- appeal dismissed.(Para-4 to 10)

Cases referred:

Haridwar Development Authority Versus Raghubir Singh and others, (2010) 11 SCC 581

For the Appellant: Mr. Kul Bhushan Khajuria, Advocate, for the appellant-NTPC.
For the Respondents: Mr. Ashwani Pathak, Sr. Advocate with Mr.Sandeep Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. R.S. Verma, Addl. AG., for respondent No.2-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J (oral).

In terms of the impugned award dated 08.11.2011, passed by Additional District Judge, Mandi, Camp at Karsog, H.P., in Reference Petition No.55 of 2008, titled as Balam Singh Versus LAC (Kol Dam), Bilaspur and another, so filed under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), Reference Court, has re-determined the market value of the entire acquired land by awarding Rs. 6,08,980/-the highest rate awarded by the Collector Land Acquisition with respect to the best quality of land. Significantly, Reference Court has not enhanced any amount other than uniformly applying the said rate with respect to entire 3-12-0 bighas of land, acquired for public purpose i.e. construction of Kol Dam.

2. Certain facts are not in dispute: (i) 3-12-0 bighas of land came to be acquired in village Kidiya, Tehsil Karsog, District Mandi, H.P., with the publication of notification in the official gazette on 12.12.2000 so issued under Section 4 of the Act; (ii) The acquisition proceedings concluded with the passing of the Collector's Award No. 55 of 2006, dated 16.07.2006, so issued under Section 11 of the Act, whereby he determined the market value at the following rates and the State taking over possession of the land:-

Village	Classification of land	Market value per bigha
Sarour	Dhani Abal	Rs.6,08,980.00
Thogi	Dhani Dom	Rs.5,03,071.00
Kidiya	Barani Abal, Abadi, Khalwara etc.	Rs.3,70,684/-
Randol	Barani Dom	Rs.2,97,871.00
Thali	Barani Som	Rs.1,98,580.00
	Bagicha Barani /Kulahu	Rs.6,61,935.00
	Banjar Kable Kasht/Banjar Jadid	Rs.99,290.00
	Khadyatar Gair Mumkin	Rs.79,472.00

(iii) The purpose of acquisition being construction of Dam, commonly known as Kol Dam; (iv) Dissatisfied with the offer made by the Collector, claimants filed petition under Section 18 of the Act, and on the basis of evidence led by the parties, disposed of in terms of impugned award; (v) While the claimants accepted the award, only the beneficiary preferred the present appeal(s) under Section 54 of the Act; (vi) It is the common case of parties that the entire acquired land came to be submerged with the construction of Dam by the beneficiary. Also there is no evidence on record of either any requirement or any developmental activity carried out on the spot.

3. With these admitted/undisputed facts, material placed on record by the parties is being appreciated for just decision of the case.

4. Record reveals that claimant Balam Ram examined himself as PW.1, claiming value of the acquired land to be Rs. 15,00,000/- per bigha. Now significantly, except for documentary evidence (Ex.P1), he did not place on record any exemplar sale deed. Though beneficiary did not lead any ocular evidence, but placed on record one exemplar sale deed (Ex.R1).

5. These documents, rightly stand rejected by the Reference Court for the reason that these sale transactions are subsequent to the initiation of acquisition proceedings and in any event there is nothing on record to establish its similarity of potential, use, kind and nature with that of the acquired land.

6. Noticeably with respect to other acquired land, in the same Tehsil, even this Court has awarded compensation, on uniform basis, irrespective of the classification, nature and category of land. In fact, in one such case reported in NTPC Ltd. Versus Kirpa and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 253, with respect to acquisition proceedings pertaining to the very same public purpose stands affirmed by the Apex Court.

7. Noticeably, Reference Court, while awarding compensation on uniform basis, by taking the highest rate, so determined by the Collector himself, referred to and relied upon several decisions rendered by the Apex Court and more pertinently so rendered in Haridwar Development Authority Versus Raghubir Singh and others, (2010) 11 SCC 581, wherein it is held as under:-

> "7. The question whether the acquired lands have to be valued uniformly at the same rate, or whether different areas in the acquired lands have to be valued at different rates, depends upon the extent of the land acquired, the location, proximity to an access road/Main Road/Highway or to a City/Town/Village, and other relevant circumstances. We may illustrate:
> (A). When a small and compact extent of land is acquired and the entire area is similarly situated, it will be appropriate to value the acquired land at a single uniform rate.
> (B). If a large tract of land is acquired with some lands facing a main road or a national highway and other lands being in the interior, the normal procedure is to value the lands adjacent to the main road at a higher rate and the interior lands which do not have road access, at a lesser rate.
> (C). Where a very large tract of land on the outskirts of a town is acquired, one end of the acquired lands adjoining the town boundary, the other end being two to three kilometers away, obviously, the rate that is adopted for the land nearest to the town cannot be adopted for the land which is farther away from the town. In such a situation, what is known as a belting method is adopted and the belt or strip adjacent to the town boundary will be given the highest price, the remotest belt will be awarded the lowest rate, the belts/strips of lands falling in between, will be awarded gradually reducing rates from the highest to the lowest.
> (D). Where a very large tract of land with a radius of one to two kilometers is acquired, but the entire land acquired is far away from any town or city limits, without any special Main road access, then it is logical to award the entire land, one uniform rate. The fact that the distance between one points to another point in the acquired lands, may be as much as two to three kilometers may not make any difference."

8. The Reference Court, rightly held the acquired land to fall within category (D).

9. Even the Collector, in his award observed that the value of the adjoining village i.e. Tatapani was more. It acknowledged the fact that deduction by 5% was to be effected with respect to village Kidiya only for the reason that it did not have facilities like road, hospital etc.

10. No other point urged or proved.

11. Hence in the given facts and circumstances, no interference is warranted. It cannot be said that the findings returned by the Reference Court are perverse, illegal or erroneous. As such, present appeal stands dismissed, so also pending application(s), if any.

12. Cross-objection, if any, shall also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

In the instant case, petitioner is a widow of deceased soldier Suman Kumar, who, at the time of his death, was serving as Assistant Sub Inspector in Central Reserve Police Force (for short 'CRPF') at Kishtwar in the State of Jammu & Kashmir. Late Shri Suman Kumar was initially recruited as Constable General Duty in CRPF in the year 1988 and was allotted the Constabulary No.880897767 and since then he remained posted at various stations. But, after his promotion to the post of ASI, he was posted in snowbound area of Tehsil and District Kishtwar of Jammu & Kashmir. Unfortunately, on 9.1.2014, deceased husband of the petitioner was found lying in an unconscious state on his bed and accordingly he was rushed to nearby hospital in Kishtwar, where he was declared dead by the doctors. Postmortem report suggests that late Shri Suman Kumar died of severe Myocardial Infraction (for short 'M.I.') which led to cardiopulmonary arrest.

2. Perusal of Annexure P-2, communication sent by Commandant-76 Battalion, CRPF, to Inspector General, CRPF, Western Sector, Chandigarh, reads as under:

> "Opinion as to cause of death: - After going autopsy of deceased, Dr.Opinion, patient has died from severe M.I., which leads to cardiopulmonary arrest and subsequent death."

3. Authority vide aforesaid communication also termed death of deceased ASI to be natural death and accordingly pension papers were processed for payment of admissible benefits, thereby allotting PPO No.239031411510 in favour of present petitioner being wife of deceased solider i.e. ASI Suman Kumar, granting her ordinary family pension in terms of Central Civil Services Rules, 1939.

4. By way of present petition, petitioner has claimed that she was entitled to be granted extra-ordinary family pension as defined in Central Civil Services (Extraordinary Pension) Rules, 1939 (for short 'CCS(EOP) Rules') because her husband died on account of illness while he was serving snowbound hostile area of Kishtwar. Petitioner further claimed that cause of death is/was directly attributable to the Government service, since her deceased husband was on active duty at that particular point of time and in all probabilities he suffered 'M.I.' on account of aggravated demands of duty and tough terrain.

5. Mr.Onkar Jairath, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, vehemently argued that action of the respondents in denying extraordinary pension in terms of Rule-3 of CCS(EOP) Rules is in violation of Rules occupying the field because it is an admitted case of respondents that at the time of initial recruitment of late Shri Suman Kumar in the CRPF and thereafter at the time of his posting in Kishatwar area being ASI, he was medically fit and he was not suffering from any kind of disease much less 'M.I.', which ultimately led to his death. As per Mr.Jairath, mere factum of his being medically fit at the time of his posting at Kishtwar strengthen the claim of the petitioner that cause of death of the husband of the petitioner is directly attributable to the Government service, especially when deceased ASI Suman Kumar was on active duty at that particular point of time that too in the insurgency hit area Kishtwar in the State of Jammu & Kashmir.

6. In support of his arguments Mr.Jairath invited the attention of this Court to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in Param Pal Singh vs. National Insurance Co.Ltd. and another, 2013 ACJ 526. Mr.Jairath also invited the attention of this Court to the following judgments passed by Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in Kamlesh Devi vs. State of Punjab, 2002(1) SCT 929, Promila Devi vs. Union of India and Others, CWP No.1399 of 2011(O&M), Smt.Kunta Devi vs. Union of India & Others, CWP No.17135 of 2009, wherein death on account of 'M.I.' has been held to be directly attributable to the service conditions.

7. Mr.Jairath further contended that Smt.Kunta Devi's case supra stands duly complied with by the respondents, which fact is evident from copy of order dated 21.2.2012 passed by Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in COPC No.3073 of 2011 (O&M) in CWP No.17135 of 2009, placed on record, wherein Hon'ble Court has directed the Pay and Accounts Officer, Central Pension Accounting Office, Ministry of Finance, Government of India, to issue PPO in favour of the petitioner. The Contempt Petition was disposed of with the direction to grant extraordinary family pension from the due date, as early as possible, but not later than two months from the date of receipt of certified copy of the aforesaid order.

8. Mr.Ashok Sharma, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India, while appearing on behalf of respondents refuted the aforesaid claim having been put forth on behalf of the petitioner by stating that petitioner was not entitled for grant of extraordinary pension in terms of Rule 3-A(1)(a) of the CCS(EOP) Rules, because death of the husband of the petitioner had no connection with the Government service and in no term it was attributable to Government Service.

9. Mr.Sharma, while inviting the attention of this Court to the aforesaid Rules, vehemently argued that for entitlement to extraordinary pension in the light of aforesaid Rules, death should be accepted as due to Government service, provided it is certified that it was attributable and aggravated by Government service. He further argued that to have benefit of aforesaid Rules for grant of extraordinary pension, there should be a casual connection between death and Government service. He also invited the attention of this Court to the guidelines issued by the Authorities for determining the aforesaid factors while deciding issue with regard to grant of extraordinary pension. According to learned Assistant Solicitor General, as per CCS(EOP) Rules Schedule-II, cases have been categorized in five distinct categories for determining the compensation payable for death or disability under different circumstances and he further stated that at best case of the husband of the petitioner could be considered under category-'A', wherein it has been specifically held that death and disability due to natural causes is not attributable to Government service e.g. chronic ailments like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty etc.

10. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Sharma forcefully contended that since husband of the petitioner died due to 'M.I.', there is neither any casual connection between the death and Government service nor same is attributable and aggravated by Government service and as such Authorities rightly granted ordinary family pension in favour of the present petitioner after the death of her husband, who was serving in CRPF. Mr.Sharma further argued that judgment having been relied upon by learned counsel representing the petitioner has no application in the present facts and circumstances, however, he fairly admitted that judgment passed by Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in Kunta Devi's case supra was accepted by the Authorities and extraordinary pension was granted to the petitioner in that case.

11. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

12. It is not in dispute that husband of the petitioner was serving as ASI in snowbound area of Tehsil and District Kishtwar of Jammu & Kashmir at the time of his death i.e. on 9.1.2014. It is also not in dispute that at the time of death of aforesaid ASI late Shri Suman Kumar, he was in active service of CRPF. Similarly, there is no quarrel, if any, with regard to cause of his death, who, as per medical information, died of severe 'M.I.' which led to cardiopulmonary arrest.

13. Though respondents have released ordinary pension to the petitioner, but her claim for grant of extraordinary pension has been rejected on the ground that death of her husband due to heart attack was natural and in no term could be said to be attributable and aggravated by his service. Since final order issued by Court of inquiry dated 18.2.2014 termed the death of the husband of the petitioner as natural and not attributable to or aggravated by Government Service/Service Conditions, respondents rejected the claim of the petitioner for grant of extraordinary pension while applying the provisions contained under Rule 3-A of CCS(EOP) Rules which provides as under:-

> "3-A(1)(a) Disablement shall be accepted as due to Government service, provided that it is certified that it is due to wound, injury or disease which:-
> i) Is attributable to Government Service, or > ii) Exited before or arose during Government service and has been and remains aggravated thereby.
> (b) Death shall be accepted as due to Government service provided it is certified that it was due to or hastened by:
> i) a wound, injury or disease which was attributable to Government service,
> or

(ii) the aggravation by Government service of a wound, injury or disease which existed before or arose during Government service

(2) There shall be a casual connection between

i) disablement and Government service; and

ii) death and Government service, for attributability or aggravation to be conceded. Guidelines in this regard are given in the appendix which shall be treated as part and parcel of these Rules."

14. The aforesaid Rules clearly suggest that for the grant of extraordinary pension in favour of individual deceased soldier, death should be accepted as due to Government service with further certification that it was due to wound, injury or disease which was attributable to Government service. Rules further suggest that there should be casual connection between death and Government service, for attributability or aggravation to be conceded. It would also be profitable to reproduce here-in-below Schedule-II of CCS(EOP) Rules, 1939, wherein factors have been defined for determination of compensation payable for death and disability under different circumstances:-

"Category 'A' Death or disability due to natural causes not attributable to Government service. Examples would be chronic ailments like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty etc.

Category 'B' Death or disability due to causes which are accepted as attributable to or aggravated by Government service. Diseases contracted because of continued exposure to a hostile work environment, subjected to extreme weather conditions or occupational hazards resulting in death or disability would be examples.

Category 'C' Death or disability due to accident in the performance of duties. Some examples are accidents while traveling on duty in Government vehicles or public transport, a journey on duty is performed by service aircraft, mishaps at sea, electrocution while on duty, etc.

Category 'D' Death or disability attributable to acts of violence by terrorists, anti social elements etc., whether in their performance of duties or otherwise. Apart from cases of death or injury sustained by personnel of the Central Police organizations while employed in aid of the Civil administration in quelling agitation, riots or revolt by demonstrators, other public servants including Police personnel etc, bomb blasts in public places or transport, indiscriminate shooting incidents in public etc , would be covered under this category.

Category 'E' Death or disability arising as a result of (a) attack by or during action against extremists, anti-social element, etc, and (b) enemy action in international war or border skirmishes and warlike situations, including cases which are attributable to (i) extremists acts, exploding mines, etc., while on way to an operational area (ii) kidnapping by extremists; and (iii) battle inoculation as part of training exercises with live ammunition."

15. In Category-'A' of the aforesaid Schedule, diseases, like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty have been termed to be not attributable to Government service.

16. But, in Category-'B' of the aforesaid Schedule, death or disability due to continued exposure to a hostile work environment, subjected to extreme weather conditions or occupational hazards have been accepted as attributable to or aggravated by Government service.

17. Similarly, death or disability occurred on account of accident while traveling on duty in Government vehicles or public transport, a journey on duty by service aircraft, mishaps at sea and electrocution have also been accepted as attributable to and aggravated by Government service.

18. Reply filed on behalf of respondents as well as arguments having been made by learned Assistant Solicitor General of India clearly suggests that case of the present petitioner, who died from 'M.I.', was considered by the Authorities under Category 'A', wherein chronic ailments like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty have not been termed as attributable to or aggravated by Government service.

19. At this juncture, it would be relevant to refer to following paras of reply filed by the respondents:

"Para 6. … … …In this instant case the husband of the petitioner died from severe MI (Myo cardial infraction) which leads to cardiopulmonary arrest and subsequent that, which was the type of a heart attack as petitioner mentioned in para no.4 of list of events and falls under category "A" wherein it is clearly mentioned that "Death or disability due to natural causes not attributable to Government service. Examples would be chronic ailments like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty etc. etc.

It is pertinent to mention here that the work accident while on duty is defined the other mishaps apart from examples like heart and renal disease, thus petitioner is entitled the extra ordinary pension under category "A" only.

Para 7. That in reply to this para, it is submitted that the husband of the petitioner died due to M.I which leads to cardiopulmonary arrest but the disease is neither attributable to the Govt.job nor aggravated during the same. It is submitted that late husband of the petitioner was medically SHAPE-I and he was advised to reduce weight, fat free diet and also regular exercise by the Medical officer of 76 Bn. CRPF. The petitioner wrongly interpreted the accident while on duty, whereas it is clearly mentioned in category "A" that the death, disability due to chronicle ailment like heart and renal disease comes under the category "A".

It is pertinent to mention here that the cold weather does not have direct connection with cardiopulmonary arrest. Apart from these the late husband of the petitioner was provided winder bears and other facilities to prevent the effect of the cold. Therefore, the averment of the petitioner is totally wrong and misconceived.

Para 8. That the contents of this para are wrong, hence denied. As submitted in para supra, the death of the husband of the petitioner was neither directly attributable to the Govt. service nor aggravated during the service. Since the medical category of the petitioner was of SHAPE-I, hence it cannot be said that the same is attributable to the Govt. service and cold weather does not have any direct connection with Cardiopulmonary arrest."

20. In nutshell, case of the respondents is that husband of the petitioner died due to natural cause i.e. 'M.I.' which is not attributable to Government Service and as such being covered under Category "A", petitioner is not entitled to grant of extraordinary pension in terms of aforesaid Rules.

21. True, it is that chronic ailments like heart and renal diseases, prolonged illness, accidents while not on duty have been declared to be not attributable to or aggravated by Government service under Category "A", but, if Category "B" is perused carefully, it clearly suggests that if disease is contracted because of continued exposure to a hostile work environment, subjected to extreme weather condition or occupational hazards resulting in death or disability same are to be accepted as attributable to or aggravated by Government service.

22. In the instant case, this Court cannot loose sight of the fact that at that relevant time late husband of the petitioner being ASI was in active service of CRPF and there is no denial of the fact that he was serving insurgency hit area i.e. Kishtwar (J&K). Similarly, this Court is fully conscious of extreme weather condition of the area of Kishtwar, especially in the month of January, when that entire area is submerged with snow.

23. In the aforesaid background, this Court deems it fit to refer to the aforesaid paras of reply filed by the respondents, wherein it has been repeatedly stated that deceased ASI Suman Kumar was fully fit and his medical category was of SHAPE-I; meaning thereby that deceased ASI Suman Kumar had no prior history of chronic heart disease.

24. Similarly, this Court finds no document having been placed on record by the respondents suggestive of the fact that at the time of unfortunate death of late ASI he was suffering from same kind of chronic disease, as stands mentioned in aforesaid Category "A" in Schedule-II of Rule 3. Though in para-7 respondents, while stating that late husband of petitioner was medically SHAPE-I, have stated that he was advised to reduce weight, fat free diet and also regular exercise by the Medical Officer of 76 Bn. CRPF. But, as has been observed above, there is no medical record placed on record by the respondents suggestive of the fact that the petitioner was not medically fit at the time of his death. Rather, respondents themselves have submitted that late husband of the petitioner was medically SHAPE-I and it cannot be said that death is attributable to Government service and cold, weather had no direct connection with cardiopulmonary arrest.

25. This Court, after taking note of the aforesaid specific averments contained in the reply filed by the respondents regarding medically fitness of late husband of the petitioner, has every reason to conclude that case of late husband of the petitioner could not be considered in the light of Category "A" as stands defined in Schedule-II. Rather, this Court is convinced and satisfied that late husband of the petitioner suffered from 'M.I.' which led to his death due to multiple factors i.e. hostile work environment at Kishtwar, due to insurgency coupled with extreme weather condition that too in the month of January and as such case of late husband of petitioner was required to be dealt with in terms of Category-"B" and not Category-"A". Since late husband of the petitioner has no past history of chronic ailment as defined in Category "A" supra, the disease ('M.I.') contracted by him during service is required to be deemed to be because of continued exposure to a hostile work environment and due to extreme weather condition and as such same can be termed to be attributable to or aggravated by Government service. Action of respondents in denying extraordinary pension to the petitioner after death of his husband does not appear to be reasonable and in accordance with the Rules occupying the fields. This Court can also take note of the fact that had the husband of the petitioner suffering from chronic heart disease, he would have not been posted at a place like Kishtwar, which is admittedly insurgency hit area. Similarly, when petitioner, at the time of his posting at Kishtwar, was medically fit and was placed under Category of SHAPE-I, it can be safely concluded that he had no past history of heart disease and as such it can be safely inferred that husband of the petitioner suffered sudden heart problem which led to his death.

26. Hon'ble Apex Court in Param Pal Singh vs. National Insurance Co.Ltd. and another, 2013 ACJ 526, while dealing with the case under Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, interpreted the words, "in the course of employment" Hon'ble Apex Court held that "in the course of employment" mean "in the course of work which the workman is employed to do and which is incidental to it". It would be profitable to reproduce following paras of the judgment, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held:-

> "26. Again in yet another celebrated decision of this Court in Ibrahim Mahmmod Issak, 1961 ACJ 422 (SC), this Court has set down the principles applied in such cases as under in paragraph 5:
> > "5. To come within the Act the injury by accident must arise both out of and in the course of employment. The words "in the course of the employment" mean "in the course of the work which the workman is employed to do and which is incidental to it." The words "arising out of employment" are understood to mean that "during the course of the employment, injury has resulted from some risk incidental to the duties of the service, which, unless engaged in the duty owing to the master, it is reasonable to believe the workman would not otherwise have suffered." In other words, there must be a casual relationship between the accident and the employment. The expression "arising out of employment" is again not confined to the mere nature of the employment. The expression applies to employment as such to its nature, its conditions, its obligations and its incidents. If by reason of any of those factors the workman is brought within the zone of special danger the injury would be one which arises 'out of employment'. To put it differently, if the accident had occurred on account of a risk which is an incident of the employment, the claim for compensation must succeed, unless of course the workman has exposed himself to an added peril by his own imprudent act. In Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Co. v. Highley, (1917) AC 352, Lord Summer laid down the following test for determining whether an accident "arose out of the employment." (Emphasis added)

27. Applying the various principles laid down in the above decisions to the facts of this case, we can validly conclude that there was CAUSAL CONNECTION to the death of the deceased with that of his employment as a truck driver. We cannot lose sight of the fact that a 45 years old driver meets with his unexpected death, may be due to heart failure while driving the vehicle from Delhi to a distant place called Nimiaghat near Jharkhand which is about 1152 kms. away from Delhi, would have definitely undergone grave strain and stress due to such long distance driving. The deceased being a professional heavy vehicle driver when undertakes the job of such driving as his regular avocation it can be safely held that such constant driving of heavy vehicle, being dependant solely upon his physical and mental resources & endurance, there was every reason to assume that the vocation of driving was a material contributory factor if not the sole cause that accelerated his unexpected death to occur which in all fairness should be held to be an untoward mishap in his life span. Such an 'untoward mishap' can therefore be reasonably described as an 'accident' as having been caused solely attributable to the nature of employment indulged in with his employer which was in the course of such employer's trade or business.

28. Having regard to the evidence placed on record there was no scope to hold that the deceased was simply travelling in the vehicle and that there was no obligation for him to undertake the work of driving. On the other hand, the evidence as stood established proved the fact that the deceased was actually driving the truck and that in the course of such driving activity as he felt uncomfortable he safely parked the vehicle on the side of the road near a hotel soon whereafter he breathed his last. In such circumstances, we are convinced that the conclusion of the Commissioner of Workmen's Compensation that the death of the deceased was in an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment with the respondent No.2 was perfectly justified and the conclusion to the contrary reached by the learned Judge of the High Court in the order impugned in this appeal deserves to be set aside. The appeal stands allowed. The order impugned is set aside. The order of the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation shall stand restored and there shall be no order as to costs."(pp.537-538)

27. Similarly, Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court in Kamlesh Kumari vs. Union of India, (2002) 1 SCT 929, held as under:-

"The word "Accident" also occurs in Section 3 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 but here too it has not been defined and it has come to acquire a settled meaning and denotes some unexpected event happening without design even though there may be negligence on the part of the person meeting with an accident. It would, therefore, include not only such obvious occurrence as collisions, tripping over floor obstacles, fall of roof, but also less obvious ones causing injury as strain which causes rupture, exposure to a draught causing chill, exertion causing apoplexy and shock causing neurasthenia. It would also include a heart attack which is an unexpected event happening without design".

28. Hon'ble Division Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in the aforesaid judgment, while interpreting word "accident", has also held that any unexpected event happening without design even though there may be negligence on the part of the person meeting with an accident can be termed as "accident". Hon'ble Division Bench, in the aforesaid judgment, has further held even exposure to a draught causing chill, exertion causing apoplexy and shock causing neurasthenia and heart attack which is unexpected event happening without design as an accident.

29. In the present case, as has been observed above, the petitioner at the time of his death was posted in the area, which is insurgency hit area and has extreme chillness during the month of January coupled with the fact that same is a hostile area and as such there are multiple reasons which compels this Court to conclude that 'M.I.' suffered by the petitioner was on account of continued exposure, hostile work, environment and extreme weather condition. This Court also perused the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in Promila Devi's case supra, which specifically dealt with issue of grant of extraordinary pension under Rule 3-A of the CCS(EOP) Rules, 1939, that too in case of employee of Central Reserve Police Force.

30. Aforesaid judgments further suggest that in those cases too persons had died due to 'M.I.' and it was held to be attributable to Government Service. Further perusal of order dated 21.2.2012, passed in COPC No.3073 of 2011(O&M), i.e. Kunta Devi's case supra, clearly suggests that aforesaid judgments having been passed by the Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court was accepted by the respondent i.e. C.R.P.F. and extraordinary pension was granted to the petitioner(s) therein. Hence, grievance of the petitioner in this writ petition, being fully covered by the aforesaid judgments, also deserves to be accepted.

31. Consequently in view of the aforesaid discussion this petition is allowed and the petitioner is held entitled to the benefits of the extraordinary family pension and other allied benefits, as provided by Rule 3-A of CCS(EOP) Rules. The needful be done as expeditiously, as possible, preferably within two months.

32. Interim direction, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Prem Chand .....Respondent.

Cr.Appeal No.226 of 2008
Decided on: 14/12/2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 377- Accused was convicted by the Trial Court and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for a period of 6 months- an appeal was filed, which was partly allowed and the sentence of imprisonment was modified – the accused was sentenced to undergo imprisonment till the rising of the Court - an appeal has been filed against the sentence imposed pleading that the sentence is inadequate – held, that only the sentence imposed by the Trial Court can be enhanced under Section 377 of Cr.P.C– in this case sentence was imposed by the appellate court- hence, appeal is not maintainable – permission granted to file a revision petition. (Para-4)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Ajay Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Manali pronounced an order of conviction upon the accused for his committing an offence punishable under Section 325 IPC. The learned Judicial Magistrate concerned also sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of six months besides sentenced him to pay a fine of Rs.2000/-, in default whereof he stood sentenced to undergo further simple imprisonment for a period of one month. The convict/accused standing aggrieved by the judgment recorded upon him by the learned Judicial Magistrate concerned whereupon he stood convicted for the offence for which he stood charged besides his standing aggrieved by the imposition of the afore-stated sentences upon him by the learned trial Court, he made a concert to assail them by preferring an appeal therefrom before the learned appellate Court. The learned appellate Court on standing seized with an appeal preferred therebefore by the accused/convict affirmed the apposite conviction pronounced upon him by the learned Judicial Magistrate concerned whereas it modified the sentence of imprisonment of six months imposed upon him by the learned trial Court to a sentence of his suffering imprisonment till the rising of the Court.

2. Imminently, the State of Himachal Pradesh did not under Section 377 of the Code of Criminal Procedure prefer any appeal before the learned first appellate Court for seeking enhancement of the sentence of imprisonment of six months imposed by the learned Judicial Magistrate concerned upon the accused/convict in a term higher than the aforesaid term of imprisonment. However, the State of Himachal Pradesh, through the instant appeal, constituted herebefore under Section 377 of the Cr.P.C. has sought enhancement of the term of imprisonment imposed upon the accused/convict by the learned first appellate Court whereupon he stood directed to suffer imprisonment till the rising of the Court, on anvil of it being grossly disproportionate vis-à-vis the concurrent renditions of conviction pronounced upon him by both the learned Courts below wherewithin both the learned Courts below concluded qua his committing a heinous offence constituted under Section 325 IPC.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent/accused has contended qua the instant appeal constituted herebefore under Section 377 Cr.P.C. being statutorily not maintainable herebefore significantly with the State of Himachal Pradesh on conviction of the accused by the learned trial Magistrate on his facing trial therebefore, in sequel whereto a sentence of imprisonment as occurs in its apposite verdict stood imposed upon him, omitting to therefrom institute an appeal under Section 377 Cr.P.C. before the learned first appellate Court whereas it thereat held the apposite statutory empowerment to make a concert therebefore for enhancing the sentence of imprisonment as stood pronounced by the learned trial Magistrate upon the accused/convict on the latter's facing trial before the learned trial Magistrate concerned, in a term higher than the one to which he stood sentenced to undergo, on anvil of the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon the accused/convict by the learned trial Magistrate being grossly inadequate besides grossly disproportionate vis-à-vis the order of conviction recorded upon him by the trial Magistrate qua the charge he faced therebefore under Section 325 IPC.

4. For testing the tenacity of the aforesaid submission addressed herebefore by the learned counsel for the respondent/accused, an allusion to the relevant provisions engrafted in Section 377 Cr.P.C. is imperative, provisions whereof stand extracted herein-after:-

"377. Appeal by the State Government against sentence.-

> (1) Save as otherwise provided in sub-section (2), the State Government may, in any case of conviction on a trial held by any Court other than a High Court, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court against the sentence on the ground of its inadequacy-
> (a) to the Court of Session, if the sentence is passed by the Magistrate and
> (b) to the High Court, if the sentence is passed by any other Court.
> (2) If such conviction is in a case in which the offence has been investigated by the Delhi Special Police Establishment, constituted under the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (25 of 1946), or by any other agency empowered to make investigation into an offence under any Central Act other than this Code, [1] the Central Government may also direct] the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal against the sentence on the ground of its inadequacy-
> (a) to the Court of Session, if the sentence is passed by the Magistrate; and
> (b) to the High Court, if the sentence is passed by any other Court.
> (3) When an appeal has been filed against the sentence on the ground of its inadequacy, the High Court shall not enhance the sentence except after giving to the accused a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against such enhancement and while showing cause, the accused may plead for his acquittal or for the reduction of the sentence."

An incisive perusal whereof makes a graphic disclosure qua on imminent workability of sub-section (2) thereof standing evinced, workability whereof evidently is un-evincible herebefore, the State Government holding a discretion to from an order of conviction besides a sentence imposed upon an accused on the latter's standing tried by any Court other than the High Court, to seek enhancement of the sentence pronounced upon the accused/convict by the learned trial Court, on anchorage of it being grossly inadequate, by its proceeding to prefer an appeal therefrom before the Court of Sessions, conspicuously, if the sentence stands recorded by the Sessions Court, also therefrom the State Government holds a statutory empowerment to before the High Court ventilate its apposite grievance under Section 377 Cr.P.C. The initial statutory bestowment under the afore-extracted provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, upon the State of Himachal Pradesh, to on an order of conviction besides a sentence of imprisonment standing pronounced upon the accused on his trial standing held by the learned trial Magistrate concerned, to on grounds of inadequacy of sentence imposed upon the convict/accused by the learned trial Magistrate seek its enhancement by its making an apposite motion thereunder before the Court of Sessions whereas evidently hereat, the aforesaid initial statutory bestowment conferred upon the State of Himachal Pradesh comprised in its by preferring an appeal under Section 377 Cr.P.C. before the learned Sessions Court assail the sentence pronounced upon the convict/accused by the learned trial Magistrate whereupon it held the statutory facilitation to seek enhancement of the sentence as stood imposed upon the accused on his trial standing held by the trial Magistrate, stood demonstrably omitted to be availed by the State of Himachal Pradesh, whereupon it is statutorily forbidden to avail herebefore the provisions of Section 377 Cr.P.C. for its thereupon making an apposite statutory endeavour for assailing besides seeking enhancement of the sentence pronounced upon the convict by the learned Additional Sessions Judge. The aforesaid statutory provisions also stand aroused from the factum of the sentence pronounced upon the convict by the learned Additional Sessions Judge on the latter's standing seized with an appeal preferred therebefore by the accused/convict not rendering the apposite pronouncement made by the learned Additional Sessions Judge being amenable to a construction qua its making ensuing from the learned Additional Sessions Judge trying the accused, reiteratedly when evidently the trial of the accused stood conducted by the learned trial Magistrate whereupon he stood convicted besides sentenced thereat alone the State Government held the statutory leverage to avail the apposite statutory provisions engrafted in Section 377 Cr.P.C. for its thereupon assailing before the learned Sessions Judge the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon the accused by the trial Magistrate besides seek its enhancement therefrom. Reinforcingly, it was apt for the State Government to assail under Section 377 Cr.P.C. the sentence pronounced upon the accused/convict by the learned appellate Court only when it had held the accused to trial. However, when the learned appellate Court did not try the accused rather when the trial of the accused stood conducted by the learned trial Magistrate on consummation whereof the accused stood convicted besides stood sentenced to undergo imprisonment whereupon his standing aggrieved by the apposite pronouncement recorded by the learned trial Magistrate he preferred an appeal before the learned appellate Court wherebefore despite the State Government holding the apposite statutory empowerment to therebefore contest the adequacy of sentence imposed upon the accused by the trial Court its yet waiving its apposite statutory empowerment renders its concert herebefore by anviling it upon Section 377 Cr.P.C. to warrant its standing discountenanced by this Court. The objection raised by the learned counsel for the respondent/accused qua the maintainability of the instant appeal constituted before this Court by the State under Section 377 Cr.P.C., is upheld. However, at this stage, the learned Deputy Advocate General seeks permission of this Court to withdraw the instant appeal with liberty reserved to the appellant herein to institute an appropriate revision petition before this Court for assailing the pronouncement of sentence imposed upon the accused/convict by the learned appellate Court. Prayer accepted. Accordingly, the appeal stands dismissed as withdrawn. However, liberty stands reserved to the appellant herein to by instituting an apposite revision petition before this Court, impugn the sentence pronounced upon the accused/convict by the learned first appellate Court. Also it shall be open to the appellant herein to avail the benefit of Section 14 of the Limitation Act. Records of the Courts below be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Dr. Sushant Deshta ...Petitioner.

Versus

State of H.P. and others ...Respondents.

CWP No. 4508 of 2015
Judgment reserved on : 16.11.2016
Date of decision: 15. 12. 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- The delimitation process for ZilaParishadTikkar Ward was concluded on 20.8.2015 – petitioner raised objections and delimitation was set aside – a direction was issued to complete the delimitation process in accordance with Rule 9 of H.P. Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 – model code of conduct came into force in the meantime – the final order of delimitation was passed – writ petitions were filed, which were dismissed as infructuous – the order passed by Deputy Commissioner completing the process of delimitation was challenged and the appeal was allowed- writ petition was filed challenging the order of election petition and the notification – held, that democracy is a basic feature of the Constitution- a specific procedure has been prescribed under the Rules and there is no possibility of deviating from the same – the procedure prescribed under the Rules is mandatory and has to be scrupulously followed – proposal regarding delimitation was required to be forwarded to the offices of ZilaParishad, Panchayat Samiti and Gram Panchayat for inviting objections – proposals were to be affixed on the notice board by the Secretaries of respective ZilaParishad, Panchayat Samiti and Gram Panchayat in the presence of two independent witnesses- no such exercise was undertaken – the language of the objections was same – Deputy Commissioner recorded the joint statements of the objectors – objections were not decided specifically – non-consideration of relevant material would make the order perverse and the Court has power to interfere with the same in exercise of judicial review – the authority is bound to given reasons in support of the objections - the order passed by Deputy Commissioner set aside- final order of delimitation also quashed and set aside.(Para-11 to 68)

For the Respondents	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Rupinder Singh and Ms. Meenakshi Sharma, Addl. A.Gs. with Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 and 2. Ms. Nishi Goel, Advocate, for respondent No.3. Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate, for respondent No.4. Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Advocate, with Mr. Munish Datwalia, Advocate, for respondents No. 5 to 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The instant writ petition has been filed for directing the respondents authorities to retain the Zila Parishad Ward Tikkar in its original form i.e. as existing in the year 2010 and the orders to the contrary, be quashed and set-aside.

Certain undisputed facts may be noticed.

2. The delimitation process for the Zila Parishad Tikkar Ward was concluded on 20.8.2015. However, based upon the objections raised by the petitioner, delimitation qua the constituencies of Zila Parishad Shimla including Tikkar Ward was set-aside by the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla vide his order dated 9.9.2015 and the matter was remanded back to the Deputy Commissioner, Shimla to complete the delimitation process in accordance with Rule 9 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 (for short Election Rules). However, before these objections could be decided, the State Election Commission vide notification dated 6.10.2015 issued the Model Code of Conduct and vide another notification dated 9.10.2015 the State Election Commission had given effect to Clause 12.1 of the Model Code of Conduct which inter alia provided as under:

> "12.1. The structural, classification or area of the Panchayats and Municipalities shall not be altered during a period of one hundred twenty days ending on the date on which the five year term of the said institutions are due to expire, no decision taken earlier shall be implemented during this period."

3. In compliance to the order of remand, the Deputy Commissioner again issued the final order of delimitation on 15.10.2015 qua the constituencies of Zila Parishad, Shimla which included the Zila Parishad Ward, Tikkar. In the meanwhile, certain writ petitions came to be filed before this Court assailing therein the delimitation process. However, vide judgment dated 28.10.2015 writ petitions were dismissed as having rendered infructuous in view of notification dated 9.10.2015 (supra).

4. It is averred that it was after passing of the judgment by this Court on 28.10.2015 that the State Election Commission vide notification dated 2.11.2015 withdrew Clause 12.1 (supra) as had been given effect to vide notification dated 9.10.2015. In the meantime, the petitioner assailed the subsequent order passed by the Deputy Commissioner on 15.10.2015 by filing an appeal before the learned Divisional Commissioner and the same was allowed vide judgment dated 6.11.2015. It is alleged that the respondents-authorities on 6.11.2015 itself set into motion delimitation process qua Zila Parishad Wards in question.

5. On 9.11.2015 the proposal for delimitation was required to be kept open for inspection in the office of the concerned Zila Parishad, Panchayat Samiti, Gram Panchayats. However, as the proposal qua delimitation was not received, the same was not done. It is further averred that majority of the Panchayat Secretaries of the Gram Panchayats falling within the Zila Parishad Ward, Tikkar have categorically stated that till 12.11.2015 no proposal for delimitation of Zila Parishad had been received by the concerned Gram Panchayats and the copies of such letters have been annexed as Annexure P-11 with the petition. At the same time, it is also averred that some of the persons did object by filing objections and the same were rejected without application of mind in a slip shod and cursory manner vide the impugned order dated 16.11.2015 and the delimitation qua Zila Parishad Ward Tikkar and other Zila Parishad Wards in District Shimla have been retained as had been previously detailed vide letters dated 3.10.2015 and 15.10.2015, respectively.

6. Based upon the aforesaid averments, the petitioner has sought quashing the notification dated 2.11.2015 (Annexure P-15) whereby the State Election Commission withdrew Clause 12.1 as had been given effect to vide notification dated 9.10.2015 (Annexure P-8). In addition thereto, the petitioner has also sought quashment of order dated 16.11.2015 (Annexure P-13) whereby respondent No.2 dismissed the objections filed by the petitioner and the further notification issued on 16.11.2015 (Annexure P-14) whereby he passed the final order of delimitation, as would be evident from the relief clause which reads thus:-

> "i) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash Annexure P-15, 16 i.e. notifications dated 2.11.2015 (whereby Election Commission withdrawn notification dated 9.10.2015).
> (ii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondent authorities not to implement Annexure P-15, 16 i.e. notifications dated 2.11.2015.
> (iii) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash Annexure P-13, 14 i.e. office order dated 16.11.2015 and letter dated 16.11.2015.
> (iv) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondent authorities not to implement Annexure P-13, 14 i.e. office order dated 16.11.2015 and letter dated 16.11.2015.
> (v) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondent authorities to retain Zila Parishad Ward Tikkar in its original form as existing in the year 2010."

7. The Principal Secretary, Panchayati Raj and Deputy Commissioner, Shimla (respondents No.1 and 2) have filed joint reply wherein they have raised certain preliminary objections and thereafter contested the claim of the petitioner on merits. The factual sequence of events has not been denied. It is averred that there was no procedural lapse on the part of the respondents either at the time of inviting or while deciding the objections regarding delimitation and in support of their claim, have relied upon the objection filed by the petitioner to contend that the proposal for delimitation was given wide publicity. In addition thereto, it has been averred that e-mail of draft notification of Zila Parishad Ward Tikkar was sent to the concerned executive officer Panchayat Samiti-cum-Block Development Officers for compliance and wide publicity was made in press and notification was also affixed in Zila Parishad office and DPO Office and this is the usual procedure of communication with the BDO Office.

8. As regards the notification dated 9.10.2015 and subsequent notification dated 2.11.2015, it is averred that these notifications have been issued by the State Election Commission and have no effect on the delimitation of Zila Parishad as it is only applicable to the re-organization of Gram Panchayat.

9. The Election Commission (respondent No.3) has filed its separate reply wherein it is averred that in pursuance to the provisions enshrined under Article 243E(3)(a) of the Constitution of India and Section 120 (2) (a) of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994, the State Election Commission has to conduct elections of Panchayati Raj Institutions before the expiry of five years term which was to expire on 21.1.2016. Therefore, in order to complete the election process, the Commission requires about 120 days to complete the statutory requirement and, therefore, enforced Clause 12.1-organizational-status-quo of the Model Code of Conduct so that the structural classification or area of the Panchayat and municipalities would not be altered during the period of 120 days ending with the date on which the five years term of the said institutions were due to expire. Accordingly, the notification dated 9.10.2015 was issued. However, thereafter, the Commission received requests from the Department of Urban Development and Department of Panchayati Raj vide their letters dated 2.11.2015 whereby they had requested the Commission to enforce the Clause 12.1 of the Model Code of Conduct only from the date of implementation i.e. 9.10.2015 or else it would result in delimitation and reservation in respect of those Panchayats which were altered due to inclusion of the areas in certain Municipalities, creation of Municipal Corporation, Dharamshala etc. The request was considered and the Commission found justification in the same and, therefore, in order to avoid fresh delimitation, the clarification/amendment was issued to implement the clause. The intention of the Commission was to enforce the Clause 12.1 of the Model Code of Conduct with immediate effect on 9.10.2015 as finds mention in notification itself but was constrained to amend the same in view of representations mentioned supra which then led to issuance of notification dated 2.11.2015.

10. During the pendency of the petition, three persons who claimed to have contested the elections, moved an application being CMP No. 6571 of 2016 seeking their impleadment as parties and the same was allowed vide order dated 24.8.2016 and the applicants were impleaded as respondents No. 5 to 7 in the writ petition. These respondents have not chosen to file separate reply and during the course of arguments have adopted the reply as also the arguments addressed on behalf of the official respondents.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

11. There can be no gainsaying that democracy is a basic feature of the Constitution. The democratic set-up of the country has always been recognized as a basic feature of the Constitution, like other features example Supremacy of the Constitution, Rule of law, Principle of separation of powers, Power of judicial review etc.

12. In People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL) and another vs. Union of India and another (2003) 4 SCC 399, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "94. The trite saying that 'democracy is for the people, of the people and by the people' has to be remembered for ever. In a democratic republic, it is the will of the people that is paramount and becomes the basis of the authority of the Government. The will is expressed in periodic elections based on universal adult suffrage held by means of secret ballot. It is through the ballot that the voter expresses his choice or preference for a candidate. "Voting is formal expression of will or opinion by the person entitled to exercise the right on the subject or issue", as observed by this Court in Lily Thomas Vs. Speaker, Lok Sabha [(1993) 4 SCC 234] quoting from Black's Law Dictionary. The citizens of the country are enabled to take part in the Government through their chosen representatives. In a Parliamentary democracy like ours, the Government of the day is responsible to the people through their elected representatives. The elected representative acts or is supposed to act as a live link between the people and the Government. The peoples' representatives fill the role of law-makers and custodians of Government. People look to them for ventilation and redressal of their grievances……"

13. It was on account of 73rd amendment to the Constitution by which Part-IX consisting of Article 243 to Article 243(O) has been introduced in the Constitution. The Constitution of Panchayats has been prescribed under Article 243-B and same reads thus:

"243B. Constitution of Panchayats

(1) There shall be constituted in every State, Panchayats at the village, intermediate and district levels in accordance with the provisions of this Part

(2) Notwithstanding anything in clause (1), Panchayats at the intermediate level may not be constituted in a State having a population not exceeding twenty lakhs."

14. It is in the light of the aforesaid provisions of the Constitution that one has to examine the provisions of the H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 (for short 'Act'), H.P. Panchayati Raj Rules or for that matter the H.P. Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 (for short Election Rules) as these have been enacted so as to bring these in conformity with the amended provisions of 73rd amendment of the Constitution.

15. Section 8 of the Act, provides for Constitution of Gram Panchayats and reads thus:

"8. Constitution of Gram Panchayats.-

(1) There shall be a Gram Panchayat for a Gram Sabha and every Gram Sabha shall, in the prescribed manner, elect from amongst its members a [Pradhan and Up-Pradhan] of the Sabha who shall also be called the [Pradhan and Up-Pradhan] of the Gram Panchayat and shall also elect from amongst its members an Executive Committee called the Gram Panchayat consisting of such number of persons not being less than seven and more than fifteen, including [Pradhan and Up-Pradhan] as the Government may by notification determine:

[Provided that the number of members excluding [Pradhan and Up-Pradhan] to be assigned to each Gram Sabha, shall be determined on the following scale:-

(b) with a population exceeding 1750 but not exceeding 2750 .. seven

(c) with a population exceeding 2750 but not exceeding 3750 ..nine

(d) with a population exceeding 3750 but not exceeding 4750 ..eleven

(e) with a population exceeding 4750 ..thirteen:]

Provided further that the number of members of a Gram Panchayat, excluding [Pradhan and Up-Pradhan] shall be determined in such a manner that the ratio between the population of the Gram Sabha and the number of seats of members in such a Panchayat to be filled by election shall, so far as practicable, be the same throughout the Sabha area:

[Provided further that the member of the Panchayat Samiti, representing a part or whole of the Gram Sabha area shall also be the member of the concerned Gram Panchayat(s) and shall have the right to vote.]

(2) Seats shall be reserved in a Gram Panchayat--

(a) for the Scheduled Castes, and

(b) for the Scheduled Tribes, and the number of seats so reserved shall bear, as nearly as may be, same proportion to the total number of seats in the Gram Panchayat as the population of the Scheduled Castes or the Scheduled Tribes in the Sabha area bears to the total population of the Sabha area:

Provided that in case no reservation of seats is possible as aforesaid due to small population of the Scheduled Castes and the population of Scheduled Castes of the Sabha area is atleast five percent of the total population of the Sabha area, one seat shall be reserved for the Scheduled Castes in such a Gram Panchayat:

Provided further that where there is no eligible candidate belonging to the Scheduled Castes to be elected as a member of the Gram Panchayat, no seat shall be reserved for Scheduled Castes:

Provided further that in non-tribal areas where there is Scheduled Tribes population in a Gram Sabha, seats shall be reserved for such members of the Scheduled Tribes within the reservation provided for the members of the Scheduled Castes and the determination of seats to be reserved amongst the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes shall be in proportion to their population in that Gram Sabha.

Explanation. - The expression "non-tribal area" for the purpose of this proviso shall mean the areas other than the Scheduled Areas specified in relation to the State of Himachal Pradesh.

(3) [One-half] of the total number of seats reserved under sub-section (2) shall be reserved for women belonging to the Scheduled Castes or, as the case may be, the Scheduled Tribes.

(3-A) [One-half] (including the number of seats reserved for women belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes) of the total number of seats to be filled by direct election in every Gram Panchayat shall be reserved for women.]

(4) The State Government may, by general or special order, reserve such number of seats for persons belonging to Backward Classes in a Gram Panchayat, not exceeding the proportion to the total number of seats to be filled by direct election in the Gram Panchayat as the population of the persons belonging to Backward Classes in that Gram Sabha area bears to the total population of that area and may further reserve [one-half] of the total seats reserved under this sub-section for women belonging to Backward Classes.

(5) The seats reserved under sub-sections (2),(3), (3-A)] and (4) shall be allotted by rotation to different constituencies in the Sabha area in such manner as may be prescribed.

(6) If for any reason the election to any Gram Panchayat does not result in the election of required number of persons as specified in sub-section (1), the Deputy Commissioner, shall within one month from the date on which the names of the elected persons are published by him under section 126 arrange another election to make up the deficiency."

16. Section 124 of the Act, reads thus:

"124. Territorial Constituencies.- For the convenience of the election and also after every increase increase or decrease of the Panchayat area, the Deputy Commissioner shall, in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf by the State Government-

18. The aforesaid provisions make it crystal clear that a specific procedure has been prescribed under the statutory rules and, therefore, there is no possibility of making any deviation therefrom by the authorities concerned.

19. Now, the further question that would arise for consideration is as to whether the procedure envisaged for proposal of delimitation of Zila Parishads is mandatory or directory. While determining whether a provision is mandatory or directory, in addition to the language used therein, the Court has to examine the context in which the provision is used and the purpose it seeks to achieve. It may also be necessary to find out the intent of the legislature for enacting such a provision and the serious and general inconveniences or injustice to persons relating thereto from its application. The provision is mandatory if it is passed for the purpose of enabling the doing of something and prescribes the formalities for doing certain things.

20. In Dattatraya Moreshwar vs. The State of Bombay and others, AIR 1952 SC 181, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down that law which creates public duties is directory but it if confers private rights it is mandatory. Relevant passage from this judgment is quoted below:

"It is well settled that generally speaking the provisions of the statute creating public duties are directory and those conferring private rights are imperative. When the provision of a statute relate to the performance of a public duty and the case is such that to hold null and void acts done in neglect of this duty would work serious general inconvenience or injustice to persons who have no control over those entrusted with the duty and at the same time would not promote the main object of legislature, it has been the practice of the Courts to hold such provisions to be directory only the neglect of them not affecting the validity of the acts done."

21. In State of U.P. and others vs. Babu Ram Upadhya, AIR 1961 SC 751, a Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the issue as to whether the provision involved in the said case was mandatory and held as under:

"For ascertaining the real intention of the Legislature, the Court may consider, inter alia, the nature and the design of the statute, and the consequences which would follow from construing it the one way or the other, the impact of other provisions whereby the necessity of complying with the provisions in question is avoided, the circumstance, namely, that the statute provides for a contingency of the non-compliance with the provisions, the fact that the non-compliance with the provisions is or is not visited by some penalty, the serious or trivial consequences that flow therefrom, and, above all, whether the object of the legislation will be defeated or furthered."

22. In Raza Buland Sugar Co. Ltd. Rampur vs. Municipal Board, Rampur, AIR 1965 SC 895, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that whether a provision is mandatory or directory, would, in the ultimate analysis, depend upon the intent of the law-maker and that has to be gathered not only from the phraseology of the provision but also by considering its nature, its design and the consequence which would follow from construing it in one way or the other.

23. In Sharif-Ud-Din vs. Abdul Gani Lone, (1980) 1 SCC 403, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the provisions of sub-section (3) of Section 89 of the J & K Representation of People Act, 1957, held that the difference between a mandatory and directory rule is that the former requires strict observance while in the case of latter, substantial compliance of the rule may be enough and where the statute provides that failure to make observance of a particular rule would lead to a specific consequence, the provision has to be construed as mandatory. The Hon'ble Supreme court held as under:-

"In order to find out the true character of the legislation, the court has to ascertain the object which the provision of law in question is to sub-serve and its design and the context in which it is enacted. If the object of the law is required to be defeated by non-compliance with it, it has to be regarded as mandatory....Whenever the statute provides that a particular act is to be done in a particular manner and also lays down that the failure to compliance with the said requirement leads to a specific consequence, it would be difficult to hold that the requirement is not mandatory and the specified consequence should not follow."

24. On the basis of the aforesaid exposition of law, it can conveniently be held that in order to declare a provision mandatory, the test to be applied is as to whether non-compliance of the provision could render entire proceedings invalid or not. Further, whether the provision is mandatory or directory, depends upon the intent of Legislature and not upon the language for which the intent is clothed.

25. Examined in the light of the law referred to above, this Court entertains no doubt that the procedure as prescribed under Chapter-II of the Election Rules is mandatory and is, therefore, required to be scrupulously followed. Statutory provisions have a very serious repercussion and it, therefore, implicitly makes it imperative and obligatory on the part of the authority to have strict adherence to such provisions.

26. It is not in dispute that it was in exercise of the powers under Rule 10 that the Divisional Commissioner had initially vide order dated 9.9.2015 and thereafter subsequently vide order dated 6.11.2015 set-aside the entire process of delimitation of the constituencies of Zila

Parishad, Shimla on the ground that this exercise was in violation of Rule 9 of the Election Rules (supra). Pertinently, though, vide subsequent order dated 6.11.2015, the appeal filed by the petitioner was accepted, yet, this was not followed by an order of remand, however, that part of the order as passed by the Divisional Commissioner can only be taken to be an oversight having no effect on the merits of the case. However, at the same time, this Court will have to fall back on the initial order passed by the Divisional Commissioner on 9.9.2015 as to what precisely was required to be done by respondent No.2 after the order passed by him had been set aside, the relevant portion whereof reads thus:

> "In view of the above discussions, the appeal is accepted and the order for final delimitation issued qua the constituencies of Zila Parishad Shimla, District Shimla is set aside and case is remanded back to the Deputy Commissioner, Shimla with the direction to complete the delimitation proceedings afresh as per Rule 9 of the H.P. Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994. It will also be appropriate for the Deputy Commissioner, Shimla to direct the Block Development Officers, Panchayat Secretaries and District Panchayat Officer concerned to display the draft notification on the notice board in the presence of two independent witnesses and send a certificate to this effect to them for record purposes. A copy of this order be sent to the Deputy Commissioner Shimla through special messenger for taking further action and case file of this Court be consigned to the Record Room after due completion."

27. From the aforesaid extracted portion of the order, it would be evidently clear that respondent No.2 in order to complete the delimitation proceedings afresh and thereby comply with the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner was required to ensure:

> (i) that the process of delimitation is undertaken afresh as per Rule 9 of the Election Rules;
> (ii) ensure that the Block Development Officers, Panchayat Secretaries and District Panchayat Officer concerned, display the draft notification on the notice board in the presence of two independent witnesses and send a certificate to this effect to him for record purposes.

28. In order to satisfy myself as to whether these directions had in fact been complied with in letter and spirit, the records of the Deputy Commissioner were summoned. The records reveal that immediately after passing of the order by the Divisional Commissioner on 6.11.2015 and even before the receipt of copy thereof, a note in vernacular was put up to the Deputy Commissioner, the English translation whereof reads as under:

> "In the ofice of District Panchayat Officer
> Kindly peruse: With reference to the appeal filed by Dr. Sushant Deshta, S/o Sh. Devender Deshta, R/o village Khangta, P.O. Tikkar, Tehsil Rohru, District Shimla, H.P., Sh. Ritesh Keprat S/o Sh. Hariman Prakash Keprat, R/o village and Post office Purag, Tehsil Kotkhai, District Shimla and Sh. Gopal Sharma S/o Sh. Vasudev Sharma, village Moonga, P.O. Chamba, Tehsil Suni, District Shimla, H.P. and others against the Notification dated 15.10.2015, issued by the Deputy Commissioner regarding delimitation, Ld. Divisional Commissioner on 6.11.2015, in the presence of District Panchayat officer, other officials of the office and appellants set aside and quashed the Notification dated 15.10.2015 as the Notification regarding re-constitution of the Zila Parishads has not been issued in accordance with the provisions of Act/Rules. In this regard it is submitted that notifications regarding delimitation of the wards of Zila Parishad, Shimla have already been issued twice earlier. Therefore, in compliance of the orders of the Ld. Divisional Commissioner dated 6.11.2015, notification regarding delimitation will have to be issued afresh and it will not be desirable to wait for the written orders of Ld. Divisional Commissioner because very little time is left for the election of the Panchayati Raj institutions and delimitation of constituencies is a lengthy process.

It is further submitted that notification regarding delimitation of the Panchayati Raj Institution was issued on 20.8.2015 and appeal against the said notification could be filed before the Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner from 21.8.2015 to 30.8.2015. During this period 10 appeals were filed before the Ld. Divisional Commissioner which was heard by him on 9.9.2015. While deciding the aforesaid appeals, he observed that wards of Zila Parishad have been notified by the Deputy Commissioner on the basis of the Census of 2011 whereas in the draft notification, ward and villages were notified as per the elections held in 2010, which leads to uncertainty as to whether the Deputy Commissioner entertained the objections from the general public or not. He has pointed out in his order that as per the provisions of rule 9(4) and 9(5), a draft proposal was required to be prepared at the first instance and thereafter objections/queries of the public were to be received. Final notification was to be issued after considering the objection & passing appropriate orders regarding objections He also observed that proposal regarding the delimitations were not prepared as per rules and public was not given appropriate opportunity to file the objections.

He accepted all the aforesaid appeals and set aside the orders of Deputy Commissioner regarding delimitation of the wards of Zila Parishad with the direction to start afresh the delimitation process as per Rule 9 of the Panchayati Raj (Election) Act, 1994. Further, Block Development officers, Panchayat Secretaries and District Panchayat Officers were directed to display the draft notification on the notice board in the presence of two independent witnesses.

Complying with the aforesaid orders of Ld. Divisional Commissioner, final proposals of delimitation of wards of Zila Parishad as existed in 2010 were considered as the draft proposals and accordingly on 3.10.2015, draft proposals regarding delimitation were re-issued. On 15.10.2015, after hearing the objections received in this regard, notification was issued by Deputy Commissioner and appeal against the said notification could be filed before the Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner w.e.f. 16.10.2015 to 25.10.2015. During this period, 3 appeals were filed before Ld. Divisional Commissioner which were heard by him and on 6.11.2015, he set aside the orders of Deputy Commissioner. He also observed in his order that the Deputy Commissioner did not comply the orders passed by his office on 9.9.2015 and the same discrepancy was noticed in the notification regarding delimitation issued on 3.10.2015 which was found in the draft notification issued on 7.8.2015 and the orders passed by him have not been adhered to.

In this regard it is submitted that Ld. Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner ordered that the objections raised by the appellants be included in the proposals and thereafter draft notification regarding the de-limitation be issued. After hearing the objections received on these draft notifications and passing an order qua their appropriateness. The orders be included in the final publication and the notification be issued.

Sir, in compliance of the orders of Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner, proposal of delimitation of the wards of Zila Parishad has been prepared as per Section 124 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and as per the provisions contained in the Rule 5, 8, 9 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj(Election) Rules, 1994.(flag "K") and copies of proposal regarding delimitation of wards will be forwarded to the offices of Zila Parishad, Shimla, all Panchayat Samitis and Gram Panchayats for inviting objections and same will be affixed on the notice boards by the secretaries of respective Zila Parishads'/Panchayat Samiti and Gram Panchayats' in the presence of two independent witnesses whose signatures will also be obtained. Further concerned secretaries of Zila Parishads'/Panchayat Samiti and Gram Panchayats will furnish certificate in this regard. To complete the further proceeding in respect of de-limitation of wards, the following schedule shall be followed:

29. A perusal of the aforesaid noting reveals that the respondents even before the receipt of the copy of the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner very well knew and understood the content and directions passed by the Divisional Commissioner whereby the proposal regarding delimitation of wards was required to be forwarded to the offices of Zila Parishad, Shimla, all Panchayat Samitis and Gram Panchayats for inviting objections and same were to be affixed on the notice boards by the Secretaries of respective Zila Parishads'/ Panchayat Samiti and Gram Panchayats' and this was to be effected in the presence of two independent witnesses whose signatures were to be obtained.

30. However, the further scrutiny of record reveals that practically no such exercise, in fact, had been undertaken by the respondents. There is nothing on the record to indicate that the proposal regarding delimitation for inviting the objections was affixed on all notice boards by the Secretaries of the concerned authorities and further there is no document evincing the signatures of two independent witnesses that were required to be obtained, which clearly indicates that the directions passed by the Divisional Commissioner had not at all been complied with before issuance of final order of delimitation.

31. No doubt, some objections had been filed. However, from a closer scrutiny of these objections, it transpires that though some of the persons could lay their hands on the proposal regarding delimitation and had filed their specific objections. While some of the persons filed random objections without even having any knowledge regarding the proposed delimitation and had clearly stated so about the non display of the proposal regarding delimitation.

32. It is also borne out from the record that three persons i.e. Sunder Singh Nainta, Suresh Salakta and Pratap Zinta filed three separate objections, but the contents thereof were the same and reads thus:

"To

The Deputy Commissioner,
Shimla, District Shimla.

Subject: Objections with respect to the delimitation of the Zila Parishad wards/constituencies of the Panchayati Raj Institutions for the year 2015.

Sir,

With reference to your office letter No. PCH-SML/Delimitation Ward 2015-2232-42 regarding the de-limitation of the Zila Parishad, Ward Tikkar, hereby submit our objections as follows:

1. As per the census of 2011, the total population of the Zila Parishad ward Tikkar in 2010 was 23459 which comprised the seven Panchayats of Rohru, Vidhan Sabha constituency viz., Sheel, Bral, Katlah, Karchari, Karasa, Ukhali, Mahaidali and Shekhal respectively with the total population of 9443 and 8 Panchayats' of Jubbal Kotkhai i.e. Kativan, Kutari, Pujarali No.3, Dharara, Hanstari, Pujarali No.4, Sharontha and it constituent a single ward. New ward of Seema Rantadi has been carved out of aforesaid seven Panchayats with populations of 9443,Lower Koti & Munchar Panchayat of Arhal ward and Samoli and Semma Rantad; Panchayats of Dhagoli Ward. The total population of this ward is only 17369 whereas the 8 Panchayats of Tikkar area having population of 14016 has been annexed in Kotkhai. We object this move. If new ward is required to be made, then it should be carved out from the 8 Panchayats of Tikkar area which have the highest population of 14016.

2. That the 8 Panchayat(s) of aforesaid Tikkar ward, proposed to merge with Kotkhai area, having different geographical conditions, means of communication, transport and administrative access.

3. That if the delimitation of the aforesaid ward of Zila Parishad has been undertaken on the basis of the Vidhan Sabha constituencies, whether it has been implemented in the entire Shimla District? If no, then restore the status of 2010 in respect of this ward too.

4. That the Seao ward of Gram Panchayat, Pujarli No.4 which falls in the Vidhan Sabha constituency of Rohru has been included in the Kotkhai constituency.

Therefore, in view of the aforesaid objection, the Deputy Commissioner, Shimla is requested to issue the appropriate orders in the interest of general public.

Thanking you.

33. One Neelam Saraik also filed objections, which reads thus:

"To

The Deputy Commissioner,
Shimla, District Shimla.

Subject: Regarding objection with respect to the delimitation of Zila Parishad ward, Tharola.

Sir,

With reference to subject cited above, it is submitted that presently, it has been proposed to denotify the Zila Parishad ward, Tharol, Development Block, Jubbal-Kotkhai and to annex it in the Tikkar and Kalbog. Further, Panchayats of Jai Peeri Mata Ward have also been proposed to be included in them. Due to these alterations, Tharola ward will cease to exist which will be against the geographical and social conditions of this area. Apart from this, it will have an adverse effect at the administrative level. Proposed ward will be divided into two different Development Blocks and Sub Divisions which will create many hardships for people in getting their work done. Similarly, representatives of people will also face difficulties in executing the work of public. This adjustment will lead to many difficulties. Therefore, I completely disagree with this process and the status of 2010 be maintained.

Therefore, keeping in view the aforesaid intention and feelings of general public, I, as an elected representativeand in full state of mind, file my objection in this regard.

If necessary, you can call me to present my views personally. I will always be available for that.

Thanking you.

Yours faithfully,
Sd/- Neelam Saraik."

34. One Ritesh Kaprate also filed random objections, which reads thus:

"To

The Deputy Commissioner, Shimla,

Subject: Regarding Delimitation of Tharola Ward, Tehsil Kotkhai, District Shimla.

Sir,

This is in reference to your office notification No. PCH-SML/delimitation ward 2015-2232-42 for following objections:-

1. It is submitted that above mentioned notification regarding delimitation is without jurisdiction and against provision of law, especially when the State Election Commission vide its latest notification dated 09.11.2015 has clarified that the notification dated 9th October, 2015 issued by the State Election Commission will have its prospective effect and the subsequent notification are not sustainable under the law.

2. It is submitted that the authorities has failed to follow the procedure prescribed under Rule 9 (4) of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Election Rules, 1994, especially when the proposed draft of the area required to delimited from the area of Zila Parishad was neither published nor intimated to the respective affected Panchayats. The reasonable opportunity for raising the objections and hearing was not properly provided.

Therefore, your goodself is requested to restore the status of 2010 in larger public interest.

Thanking you.

Yours sincerely,

35. Whereas Ajay Goandka, Prem Raj Janartha, Ajay Tegta, Shamsher Sunta, Hitesh Dhanta, Virender Nainta, Nishant Kumar, Rajat Chauhan, Ankur Chauhan and Pushkar Chauhan though filed separate objections, but the contents thereof is verbatim the same and reads thus:

"Dated: 13.11.15.

To

The Deputy Commissioner,
Distt. Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

Subject:- Objections w.r.t. notification dated 6.11.2015 vide : PHC-SML/Delimitation/Ward-2015-2232-42.

Dear Sir,

It is submitted to your kind self that I intend to file objections for the above captioned matter regarding delimitation of Zila Parishad Ward, Tikkar (Sub-division, Rohru) as under:-

1. That the Panchayats as mentioned in the draft delimitation notification of Tikkar ward i.e. Dharara, Hanstari, Kadiwan, Kuthari, Pujarli-3, Pujarli-4, Sharontha & Tikkar falls in Rohru Sub Division and development block whereas other remaining nine panchayats falls in Jubbal block & with Sub-Division, Theog.

2. That the Panchayat(s) which have been proposed to merge with Tikkar ward are geographically and topographically separated by physical barriers which are not easily accessible.

3. That the delimitation of Zila Parishad Ward on the basis of parliamentary constituency is against the established principles of law and is thus unconstitutional.

4. That it is apparent from the perusal of notification dated 09.10.2015 from the office of Election Commission that there shall not be delimitation of Zila Parishad ward(s) in the 2015 Panchayat elections.

5. That the draft notification in question has been notified in violation of established procedures of law, as the order passed by Ld. Divisional Commissioner dated 06.11.2015 whereby Ld. Div. Commissioner has quashed and set-aside the order for final delimitation issued on 15.10.2015 by Deputy Commissioner, Shimla.

6. That the proposed draft notification is not viable in its present form as it shall create a situation of pandemonium among the residents of concerned area as Tikkar ward wil fall in two different blocks and it will further increase the complexity.

7. That it is apparent from the entire series of events which has conspired till date that some political motives as well as an element of favourism is involved for the benefit of some politically influential persons.

It is, therefore, desired keeping in view the aforementioned facts that the status of year 2010 be maintained in the interest of law and justice.

Yours sincerely,

36. The Deputy Commissioner, i.e. respondent No.2 instead of deciding these objections individually, invented a noval procedure of having a joint statement of all the objectionists prepared and the same reads thus:

"JOINT STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF ALL THE OBJECTIONIST.

Dated: November 16, 2015.

We are placing on record Annexure A-1 which is a copy of statement stating that till dated 9.11.2011, no publication of the drat notification pertaining to delimitation of Ward Tikkar, proposed vide letter No. PCH-SML/delimitation/Ward-2015-2232-42, dated 6.11.2015 was received and hence was not affixed in the concerned Panchayat areas as is required under the provisions of law and moreover, statutory time period for filing objections is to be calculated thereon, i.e. after affixation has been effected.

We are also placing on record copy of Model Code of Conduct (as Annexure A-2) dated 6th October, 2015 pertaining to State Election Commission, Himachal Pradesh in which Section 12.1 reads as under:-

> "The structural, classification or area of the Panchayats and Municipalities shall not be altered during a period of one hundred and twenty days ending on the date on which the five years term of the said institutions are due to expire, no decision taken earlier shall be implemented during this period."

It is also averred that the draft Notification regarding the delimitation is without jurisdiction and the provisions of law as first proviso of clause 2.1 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayats and Municipalities Model Code of Conduct, 2015 provides that the Commission may enforce different provisions of this Code on different dates and hence Commission enforced Clause 12.1 "Organizational Status Quo" of the said Code on 9th October, 2015 with immediate effect and the Commission had no intention to enforce the said Clause retrospectively. It means that Model Code of Conduct" was in force from 9th October, 2015. Moreover, Election Commission in its detailed Notification No. SEC-16-70-2014-4513-15, dated 2nd November, 2015 has stated that Notification dated 9th October, 2015 by the State Government, if not given effect, the delimitation of the Wards in respect of affected Panchayats and Municipalities will have to be undertan de-novo and Commission will have to generate the new draft electoral rolls as per delimitation, which will further delay the Election process (Annexure A-3).

It is further averred that objectionists fail to understand by any stretch of imagination that on which grounds the draft notification dated 6.11.2016 has been prepared as the Ld. Divisional Commissioner on dated 6.11.2015 has quashed and set-aside the order for final delimitation issued on 15.10.2015 and automatically all proceedings thereto ought to have been stand quashed. Hence, it is apparent on the fact of record and from the entire series of events which has conspired till date that there is a major procedural lapse in the entire process so initiated.

It is, therefore, prayed in this premise that status-quo of the year 2010 be maintained for the sake of larger public interest and in the interest of law and justice.

37. This joint statement appears to have been got signed by only six of the objectionists and decided by a common order dated 16.11.2015, which reads thus:

"Office Order

Subject: Representation/Objections on the proposed draft of delimitation of Zila Parishad ward Shimla circulated vide letter No.PCH-SML/Delimitation/ward-2015-2232-42 dated 6.11.15.

The proposed/draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla was issued vide letter No.PCH-SML/Delimitation/ward-2015-2232-42 dated 6.11.2015 in compliance with the Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner Shimla order dated 6.11.2015. This draft proposal was issued by also taking into consideration the objections/suggestions made by the applicants to the Hon'ble Divisional Commissioner, Shimla on the final notification made by undersigned on 15.10.2015. This draft notification of dated 6.11.2015 of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla was circulated to the public through respective Zila Parishad office, BDO office and Gram Panchayat institutions to be made public for objection to all the concerned Panchayat Samitis and Gram Panchayat of District Shimla w.e.f. 7.11.2015 to 13.11.2015. The general public was also asked to submit their objections if any. The date of hearing of these objections was fixed on 16.11.2015 in the office of undersigned after giving reasonable time. The draft notification was made as per the provisions of the Section 124 of the H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and all the provisions of this section were adhered strictly.

On the above proposed draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla 15 (fifteen) objections are received. The representatives were given opportunity of being heard and their written statements was also recorded. After perusal of the record placed before me objections raised by the representatives were appreciated and dealt under Rule 6 of H.P. Panchayati Raj (Election) Rule, 1994 as follows:-

1) It was objected that the draft notification was not sent to the concerned Gram Panchayats and the area of the ward is not compact and contiguous. After considering the facts it is concluded that while preparing the draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla, utmost care have been given to make each

Zila Parishad ward Topographically and Geographically compact, contiguous, well connected by roads, telecommunication and natural boundaries. All 15 objection were received for this ward only. It is also mentioned here that the area of Zila Parishad ward Seema Rantari is a part of old Socio-geographic area from the time of pre-independence. This area is situated on the right and left side of the Pabber river. This area falls under Sub-division, Rohru and also Development Block, Rohru. As stated above and in para-2 due opportunity to the public was provided to represent on the draft. 15 (fifteen) objections are presented by the representatives by due date i.e. 16.11.2015, is itself a proof of that.

2. It is also objected that the due process has not been adopted while preparing and notifying the draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Wards and procedural lapses are committed. It is worthwhile to mention here that the draft notifications of delimitations of Zila Parishad Shimla circulated for objection on 7.8.2015 and on 3.10.2015 were on the accepted final proposal for the delimitation of Panchayati Raj Institutions on which the election were held in year 2010. The provisions of H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and H.P.Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 are strictly adhered to. Hence, no procedural lapses are committed while preparing and notifying the draft proposals of delimitation earlier as the proposal was to seek suggestions or objections on the existing Zila Parishad Wards.

3. It was also objected that the draft proposal of delimitation of Zila Parishad ward can not be made in the light of State Election Commission notification dated 9.10.2015. In this context, it is clarified that the State Election Commission has clarified vide letter No. SEC-16-68/2011-I-4661 dated 3.11.2015 that their notification dated 9.10.2015 enforcing clause 12.1 of the model code of conduct is not applicable on delimitation of wards within Panchayats.

In view of the above observations all the 15 number of objections received against the delimitation of Zila Parishad Ward, Tikker are rejected as this ward has been constituted in the larger public interest keeping in view the Topographical and Geographical compactness, Historical, Cultural, Socio-political aspects, Natural barriers and connectivity with transportation and telecommunication not to forget the existing administrative sub-division and Development Block, Rohru.

The objections submitted are hence, rejected and the draft notification is made final. The notification of delimitations of the Zila Parishad ward be finally notified.

Sd/-
Deputy Commissioner,
Dated: 16.11.2015. Shimla. ”

38. The contents of the aforesaid order makes it clear that in totality as many as 15 objections had been received by the Deputy Commissioner, yet majority of objections as had been raised therein have not even been dealt with in the impugned order. This is clearly evident from the perusal of the objections and the decision taken thereupon.

39. It would be noticed that the objections as referred to in para 32 supra, specifically pertained to the annexation of 8 panchayats of Tikkar Ward in Kotkhai and it was specifically stated that if at all new ward is required to be made then it should be carved out from the 8 Panchayats of Tikkar area having the highest population of 14016. It was also pointed out that the 8 Panchayats of Tikkar ward that were proposed to be merged with Kotkhai were having different geographical conditions, means of communication, transport and administrative access. Similar objection was raised qua inclusion of Seao ward of Gram Panchayat, Pujarli No.4 in the Kotkhai constituency.

40. As regards the objections referred to in para 33 (supra), the proposed delimitation was challenged on the ground that though it has been proposed to denotify the Zila Parishad Ward, Tharol, Development Block, Jubbal-Kotkhai and to annex it in the Tikkar and Kalbog by inclusion of Panchayats of Jai Peeri Mata Ward, however that would result in Tharola ward being obliterate as it would cease to exist and same would be against the geographical and social conditions of this area. It was also pointed out that apart from the above, it will also have an adverse effect at the administrative level and proposed ward would result in division of two different development blocks and sub divisions which would create many hardships for people in getting their work done. Similarly, representatives of the people would also face difficulties in executing the work of the public and such adjustment is bound to lead many difficulties.

41. The objections as referred to in para 34 (supra) have been filed randomly wherein it has been categorically averred that the proposed delimitation is without jurisdiction and against the provision of law especially when the State Election Commission vide its latest notification dated 9.11.2015 has clarified that the notification dated 9.10.2015 earlier issued by it would have prospective effect and, therefore, the subsequent notification is not sustainable in the eyes of law. Apart from that, it has been categorically submitted that the authorities have failed to follow the procedure prescribed as envisaged under Rule 9 (4) of the H.P. Panchayati Raj Election Rules, 1994, especially when the proposed draft of the area required to delimited from the area of Zila Parishad was never published nor intimated to the respective affected Panchayats. It has specifically been averred that reasonable opportunity of raising the objections and hearing had not been provided for before the order of delimitation.

42. Now, adverting to the objections as raised by the objectors whose names find mention in para 35 (supra), it would be noticed that specific objections against the proposed merger of the Panchayats had been preferred wherein it was pointed out that the draft delimitation notification of Tikkar ward, which otherwise comprises of Dharara, Hanstari, Kadiwan, Kuthari, Pujarli-3, Pujarli-4, Sharontha and Tikkar falls in Rohru Sub Division and Development Block, whereas the other remaining nine panchayats fall in Jubbal block and with sub division, Theog, which are geographically and topographically separated by physical barriers and are not easily accessible. The delimitation of Zila Parishad Ward on the basis of parliamentary constituency was also objected to as being against the established principles of law and thus unconstitutional. It was specifically stated that the proposed draft notification was not viable in its present form and was bound to create a situation of pandemonium among the residents of concerned area as Tikkar ward would fall in two different blocks and it would further increase the complexity. Lastly, it was stated that the proposed delimitation was actuated by political motives and had an element of favouritism with the backing of some politically influential persons.

43. As has been noticed in para 36 (supra), the respondent No.2 instead of dealing with the objections individually, prepared a joint statement on behalf of the so called all the objectionists wherein none of the aforesaid objections have in fact even been noticed much less considered and obviously, therefore, the decision based upon the so called these objections is no decision in the eyes of law and cannot withstand judicial scrutiny.

44. In addition thereto, it would also be noticed that the petitioner alongwith the petition has appended as many as eight certificates issued by the Secretaries of various Gram Panchayats certifying that the notification regarding delimitation of wards dated 6.11.2015 had never been received by these Panchayats and pertinently all the certificates have been issued on 13.11.2015 or thereafter.

45. The respondents have failed to place on record of this writ petition any contemporaneous official record so as to controvert these allegations. More importantly even the records produced before this Court do not indicate that the notification regarding delimitation had been displayed on all the notice boards of the Block Development Officers, Panchayat Secretaries and District Panchayat Officers and have further failed to prove that this exercise was undertaken in the presence of two independent witnesses as had been directed by the Divisional

Commissioner in the order of remand. No certificate evincing this fact has been placed on record, meaning thereby, that not only the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner was not complied with while undertaking the exercise of delimitation, but even the provisions of Rule 9 were never adhered to and given a complete goby.

46. Now, the crucial question that emerges and calls for attention of this Court is the scope of judicial review in such matters. This Court entertains, no doubt that the power of judicial review in matters of the present kind is limited, but this Court definitely has the competence to examine whether the respondent No.2 (Deputy Commissioner) has applied its mind to the material available on record before passing the impugned order and further oversee as to whether these findings suffer from vice of arbitrariness or perversity etc.

47. It is settled law that non-consideration of relevant material renders an order perverse. A finding is said to be perverse when the same is not available or supported by evidence brought on record or the same are against law and suffer from vice of procedural irregularities. Arbitrariness in State action can be demonstrated by existence of different circumstances. Whenever both the decision making process and the decision taken are based on irrelevant facts, while ignoring relevant considerations, such an action can normally be termed as arbitrary. Where the process of decision making is followed but proper reasoning is not recorded for arriving at a conclusion, the action may still fall in the category of arbitrariness. Rationality, reasonableness, objectivity and application of mind are some of the pre-requisites of proper decision making. The concept of transparency in the decision making process of the State has also become an essential part of our Administrative law.

48. It is more than settled that an action to be taken in a particular manner as provided by a statute, must be taken, done or performed in the manner prescribed or not at all. More than eighty years back, the Hon'ble Privy Council in Nazir Ahmad vs. King Emperor (AIR 1936, PC 253) held that where a power is given to do a certain thing in a certain way, the things must be done in that way or not at all and this has been approved and further expanded by the Hon'ble Supreme court in catena of judgments (Refer: Rao Shiv Bahadur Singh and anr. vs. State of Vindh-P, AIR 1954, SC 322; Deep Chand vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1961 SC 1527; State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Singhara Singh and Ors, AIR 1964, SC 358; Chandra Kishore Jha vs. Mahavir Prasad, 1999 (8) SCC 266 ; Dhananjaya Reddy vs. State of Karnataka, 2001 (4) SCC 9; State of Jharkhand & Ors vs. Ambay Cements and anr. (2005) 1 SCC 368 ; Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Limited vs. Essar Power Limited, 2008 (4) SCC 755 ; Zuari Cement Ltd vs. Regional Director, ESIC, Hyderabad & Ors., AIR 2015, SC 2764 ; and Uddar Gagan Properties Ltd. vs. Sant Singh and Ors. 2016 (5) JT 389.).

49. The aforesaid settled legal proposition is based on a legal maxim "Expressio unius est exclusion alterius" meaning thereby that if a statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner and in no other manner and following some other course is not permissible.

50. It would be noticed that as per the provisions contained in Rule 9, the Deputy Commissioner while considering the objections under sub-rule 4 was required to enquire into the same and pass final order of delimitation after recording in brief the reasons for acceptance or rejection of such objection. What the Rule postulates is not that the Deputy Commissioner is to write a detailed judgment nevertheless brief reasons for the decision had to be indicated inasmuch as it is an order affecting the rights of the parties and must therefore be supported by reasons. The order has to be reflective of due cogitation and requisite rumination. It must reflect application of mind, consideration of facts in proper perspective and appropriate ratiocination. The reasons ascribed may not be lengthy, but they should be cogent, germane and reflective. It is to be borne in mind, to quote from Wharton's Law Lexicon:

> "The very life of law, for when the reason of a law once ceases, the law itself generally ceases, because reason is the foundation of all our laws."

51. The necessity for giving reasons and making the order a speaking one has travelled all along to be a necessary ingredient in a justice delivery system. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly stressed that an order passed by a quasi-judicial authority or even an administrative authority affecting the rights of parties must be a speaking one.

52. In Daya Ram vs. Raghunath (2007) 11 SCC 241, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "Reasons are live links between the mind of the decision taker to the controversy in question and the decision or conclusion arrived at." Reasons substitute subjectivity by objectivity. The emphasis on recording reasons is that if the decision reveals the "inscrutable face of the sphinx", it can, by its silence, render it virtually impossible for the courts to perform their appellate function or exercise the power of judicial review in adjudging the validity of the decision. Right to reasons is an indispensable part of a sound judicial system, reasons at least sufficient to indicate an application of mind to the matter before court. Another rationale is that the affected party can know why the decision has gone against him. One of the salutary requirements of natural justice is spelling out reasons for the order made, in other words, a speaking order. The "inscrutable face of a sphinx" is ordinarily incongruous with a judicial or quasi-judicial performance."

53. In Chairman, Disciplinary Authority, Rani Lakshmi Bai Kshetriya Gramin Bank vs. Jagdish Sharan Varshney and others (2009) 4 SCC 240, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "whether there was an application of mind or not can only be disclosed by some reasons."

54. Towards the impressing need to inform reasons for a decision and the manner in which they are to be informed, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has succinctly summarized the legal position in Kranti Associates Private Limited and another Vs. Masood Ahmed Khan and others (2010) 9 SCC 496, in the following terms:-

> "(a) In India the judicial trend has always been to record reasons, even in administrative decisions, if such decisions affect anyone prejudicially.
> (b) A quasi-judicial authority must record reasons in support of its conclusions.
> (c) Insistence on recording of reasons is meant to serve the wider principle of justice that justice must not only be done it must also appear to be done as well.
> (d) Recording of reasons also operates as a valid restraint on any possible arbitrary exercise of judicial and quasi-judicial or even administrative power.
> (e) Reasons reassure that discretion has been exercised by the decision maker on relevant grounds and by disregarding extraneous considerations.
> (f) Reasons have virtually become as indispensable a component of a decision making process as observing principles of natural justice by judicial, quasi-judicial and even by administrative bodies.
> (g) Reasons facilitate the process of judicial review by superior Courts.
> (h) The ongoing judicial trend in all countries committed to rule of law and constitutional governance is in favour of reasoned decisions based on relevant facts. This is virtually the life blood of judicial decision making justifying the principle that reason is the soul of justice.
> (i) Judicial or even quasi-judicial opinions these days can be as different as the judges and authorities who deliver them. All these decisions serve one common purpose which is to demonstrate by reason that the relevant factors have been objectively considered. This is important for sustaining the litigants' faith in the justice delivery system.

(j) Insistence on reason is a requirement for both judicial accountability and transparency.

(k) If a Judge or a quasi-judicial authority is not candid enough about his/her decision making process then it is impossible to know whether the person deciding is faithful to the doctrine of precedent or to principles of incrementalism.

(l) Reasons in support of decisions must be cogent, clear and succinct. A pretence of reasons or "rubber-stamp reasons" is not to be equated with a valid decision making process.

(m) It cannot be doubted that transparency is the sine qua non of restraint on abuse of judicial powers. Transparency in decision making not only makes the judges and decision makers less prone to errors but also makes them subject to broader scrutiny. (See David Shapiro in Defence of Judicial Candor (1987) 100 Harward Law Review 731-37).

(n) Since the requirement to record reasons emanates from the broad doctrine of fairness in decision making, the said requirement is now virtually a component of human rights and was considered part of Strasbourg Jurisprudence. See Ruiz Torija v.Spain (1994) 19 EHRR 553, at 562 para 29 and Anya vs. University of Oxford, 2001 EWCA Civ 405, wherein the Court referred to Article 6 of European Convention of Human Rights which requires,

"adequate and intelligent reasons must be given for judicial decisions".

(o) In all common law jurisdictions judgments play a vital role in setting up precedents for the future. Therefore, for development of law, requirement of giving reasons for the decision is of the essence and is virtually a part of "due process".

55. Therefore, the further question that arises for consideration is as to whether the respondent No.2 while passing the impugned order has infact applied its mind and given reasons for his conclusion or has simply arrived at a conclusion without disclosing any reasons. As observed earlier, the real objections which were filed by the objectors were never considered by respondent No.2 and even the objections which were so considered by him, are bereft of any reason as is clearly evident from the perusal of impugned order (Annexure P-13) para-37 (supra). However, for better understanding and appreciation of the question posed before me, it will once again be necessary to refer to the impugned order of delimitation, the relevant portion whereof is extracted below:-

"1) It was objected that the draft notification was not sent to the concerned Gram Panchayats and the area of the ward is not compact and contiguous. After considering the facts it is concluded that while preparing the draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla, utmost care have been given to make each Zila Parishad ward Topographically and Geographically compact, contiguous, well connected by roads, telecommunication and natural boundaries. All 15 objection were received for this ward only. It is also mentioned here that the area of Zila Parishad ward Seema Rantari is a part of old Socio-geographic area from the time of pre-independence. This area is situated on the right and left side of the Pabber river. This area falls under Sub-division, Rohru and also Development Block, Rohru. As stated above and in para-2 due opportunity to the public was provided to represent on the draft. 15 (fifteen) objections are presented by the representatives by due date i.e. 16.11.2015, is itself a proof of that.

2. It is also objected that the due process has not been adopted while preparing and notifying the draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Wards and procedural lapses are committed. It is worthwhile to mention here that the draft notifications of delimitations of Zila Parishad Shimla circulated for objection on 7.8.2015 and on 3.10.2015 were on the accepted final proposal for the delimitation of Panchayati Raj Institutions on which the election were held in year

2010. The provisions of H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and H.P.Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 are strictly adhered to. Hence, no procedural lapses are committed while preparing and notifying the draft proposals of delimitation earlier as the proposal was to seek suggestions or objections on the existing Zila Parishad Wards."

56. It would be noticed that respondent No.2 while adjudicating upon the objections made specific note of two objections namely:-

(i) the area of the ward is not compact and contiguous; and

(ii) that the draft notification has not been sent to the concerned Gram Panchayats.

But then without discussing and assigning reasons, respondent No.2 concludes by stating "after considering the facts it is concluded that while preparing the draft notification of delimitation of Zila Parishad Shimla utmost care have been given to make each Zila Parishad ward Topographically and Geographically compact, contiguous, well connected by roads, telecommunication and natural boundaries." How and on what basis respondent No.2 arrived at the aforesaid conclusion is anybody's guess. What weighed and worked in his mind is not reflected in the impugned order and, therefore, I have no hesitation to conclude that the extracted portion above is only a conclusion devoid of any reasons.

57. Similarly, as regards the objection regarding draft notification having not been sent to the concerned Gram Panchayats, respondent No.2 while dismissing the objection has observed as under:-

" It is worthwhile to mention here that the draft notifications of delimitations of Zila Parishad Shimla circulated for objection on 7.8.2015 and on 3.10.2015 were on the accepted final proposal for the delimitation of Panchayati Raj Institutions on which the election were held in year 2010. The provisions of H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and H.P.Panchayati Raj (Election) Rules, 1994 are strictly adhered to. Hence, no procedural lapses are committed while preparing and notifying the draft proposals of delimitation earlier as the proposal was to seek suggestions or objections on the existing Zila Parishad Wards."

58. Evidently, even the aforesaid extracted portion is undoubtedly only a conclusion and how the same was arrived at is again anybody's guess. What was the material available with respondent No.2 or what prevailed upon him to arrive such a conclusion is again not spelt out. After-all, whether the notifications were sent to the concerned Gram Panchayats or not was a matter which was required to be established and proved by contemporaneous official records and reference whereof was essentially to be made in the impugned order. That apart, how and on what basis respondent No.2 concludes that there have been no procedural lapses committed while preparing and notifying the draft proposals of delimitation had to be clearly spelt out in the impugned order.

59. Thus, on the basis of impugned order, it cannot be said that the relevant factors have been objectively considered before passing the impugned order. The minimum that was expected of respondent No.2 was atleast to support his order with reasons which ought to have been cogent, clear and succinct, more especially, when the order passed by him was subject to appeal. As already concluded, the decision being bereft of any reasons is a result of caprice, whim and fancy of respondent No.2 and suffers from vice of arbitrariness as also non-application of mind.

60. In light of the various pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court noticed above, it is unnecessary to say anything beyond what has been so eloquently said in support of the need to give reasons for orders made by Courts and statutory or other authorities exercising quasi judicial functions. I only need to reiterate that in a system governed by the rule of law, there is nothing like absolute or unbridled power exercisable at the whims and fancies of the repository of such power. There is nothing like a power without any limits or constraints. That is so even when a Court or other authority may be vested with wide discretionary power, for even discretion has to be exercised only along well recognized and sound juristic principles with a view to promoting fairness, inducing transparency and aiding equity.

61. The decision making process of respondent No.2 is itself so flawed that the impugned order cannot be allowed to stand even for a moment. It does not require Solomon's wisdom to state that it is absolutely sans reasons, bereft of analysis and shorn of appreciation. That apart, the inquiry conducted by respondent No.2 is in violation of the directions passed by the Divisional Commissioner and cannot otherwise strictly be said to be in compliance to Rule 9 of the Election Rules.

62. As observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the absence of reasons renders an order indefensible/unsustainable particularly when the order is subject to further challenge before the higher forum and, therefore, the order passed by respondent No.2 is clearly not sustainable in the eyes of law.

63. Though, the learned Advocate General would contend that in case a fresh exercise is directed to be undertaken by the Deputy Commissioner, the same would only result in undoing the things which have already been settled.

64. I am afraid that such contention may be a valid and may weigh with the Court while dealing with service matters, more particularly, matter regarding interse seniority, but the same has no applicability in matters pertaining to elections which have to be decided strictly in accordance with the provisions of law i.e. Act, Rules etc. and these provisions have to be complied with and implemented with its rigours and have to be scrupulously followed.

65. Even otherwise, the aforesaid principle does not apply to the instant case as it is not even the case of the respondents that the petitioner has not approached this Court expeditiously for the relief or has been fence a sitter, who has allowed the things to happen and then approached the Court to put-forth a stale claim and thereby tried to unsettle the settled matters. The final order of delimitation in the instant case was published by respondent No.2 on 16.11.2015 and the instant petition thereafter was promptly filed by the petitioner on 23.11.2015.

66. The provisions contained in the various legislations including the Panchayati Raj Act, Rules and Election Rules are salutary and are intended to strengthen the fabric of our democracy at grass root level by curbing unprincipled and unethical practices and the rule of law are the basic features of democracy. The concept of free and fair elections are necessary concomitant and attribute of democracy.

67. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner, Shimla dated 16.11.2015 cannot be sustained. Accordingly, I find merit in this petition and the same is allowed. The order passed by respondent No.2 on 16.11.2015 (Annexure P-13) whereby he rejected the objections to the delimitation is quashed and set aside and consequently the final order of delimitation dated 16.11.2015 (Annexure P-14) is also quashed and set aside. The respondents are directed to undertake the delimitation of Zila Parishad Ward, Tikkar, afresh, that too, strictly in accordance with the orders passed by the Divisional Commissioner on 9.9.2015 (Annexure P-3) and also in accordance with the rules occupying the field.

68. The petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s), if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Date of Decision: 15.12.2016

Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881- Section 138- Accused issued a cheque, which was dishonoured on presentation- the accused pleaded guilty and was convicted by the Trial Court- sentence of fine equivalent to the amount mentioned in the cheque was imposed - held, that the accused can be sentenced to an imprisonment for a term, which may extend upto two years and fine which may extend to double the cheque amount – however, discretion has been conferred upon the Magistrate to impose appropriate sentence – the fact that the accused has pleaded guilty was a relevant fact to be taken into consideration while imposing sentence – the complainant has suffered no inconvenience by the sentence- petition dismissed. (Para-2 and 3)

For the petitioner: Mr. Anshul Attri, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Vivek, Advocate vice counsel.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The instant petition stands directed by the petitioner herein against the impugned order rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class-II, Nurpur, District Kangra, H.P. on 27.8.2015 in case No. 125-IV/2015, whereby the learned trial Court in sequel to the accused pleading guilty to the relevant charge convicted him for commission of an offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, also thereupon it imposed upon him a sentence of fine equivalent to the amount borne on the dishonored Negotiable instrument. Also a perusal of the impugned order discloses qua the accused on depositing the fine amount before the learned trial Court thereupon the complainant/petitioner herein standing entitled to receive it as compensation.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the complainant/petitioner has herebefore submitted with vigor qua the sentence afore-stated imposed upon the convict/accused being amenable for interference by this Court, its not holding concurrence with the mandate of Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. He submits qua the sentence of imprisonment prescribed therein also standing imposable upon the convict besides sentence of fine constituted in a sum double than the one borne in the dishonored instrument also being statutorily imposable upon the accused/convict whereas the aforesaid sentence(s) remaining un-imposed upon the convict by the learned Magistrate, renders the impugned order to beget an open infraction of its mandate. However the aforesaid submission is not amenable for acceptance significantly when the provisions of section 138 of the Act holding therewithin a mandate upon the Magistrate concerned, to on proven commission of an offence under Section 138 of the Act, his holding a discretionary jurisdiction to alternatively impose a sentence of imprisonment upon the convict for a term which may extend up to 2 years also his holding jurisdiction to in alternate thereto impose a sentence of fine upon him which may extend upto twice the amount of the dishonoured cheque besides he holds jurisdiction to impose both the aforesaid sentences upon the accused/convict. The statutory discretionary empowerment conferred upon the Judicial Magistrate concerned to impose the aforesaid alternative sentence(s) upon the convict or to impose all the sentences conjointly upon the convict does render the imposition by the learned Magistrate upon the accused/convict a sentence of fine equivalent to the amount borne on the dishonored Negotiable instrument to warrant no interference, conspicuously when the statutory discretion vested in him to impose a sentence of fine upon the convict extending to double the amount borne on the dishonoured Negotiable instrument stands not couched in a mandatory phraseology rather stands couched in a directory phraseology whereupon the imposition of a sentence of fine equivalent to the cheque amount upon the convict/accused by the learned Magistrate concerned does not suffer from any gross perversity or absurdity unless evidence stood adduced qua his while exercising the apposite statutory discretion his evidently acting with malafides. Significantly, when the aforesaid evidence remained un-adduced hereat, the statutory discretion exercised by the learned Magistrate in imposing the pronounced sentence upon the accused is un-bereft of any taint.

3. Further more the statutory discretion vested in the Magistrate concerned in the imposition of alternative sentence(s) aforesaid upon the convict, in exercise whereof he imposed upon the accused/convict the impugned sentence of fine also remains undemonstrated by the counsel for the complainant to stand exercised capriciously or arbitrarily. Contrarily with the Magistrate concerned while under the impugned award imposing upon the convict/accused a sentence of fine equivalent in a sum borne on the dishonoured negotiable instrument hers also ordering qua on its deposit its standing released to the complainant besides given the factum qua the convict/accused pleading guilty to the relevant charge whereupon consumption of time which would stand otherwise consumed by the learned trial Court for concluding the trial stood curtailed whereupon also hence the revisionist/complainant suffered no inconvenience, does also constrain this Court to record an inference of the statutory discretion exercised by the Magistrate concerned to impose the impugned sentence of fine upon the convict standing exercised in a just, fair and reasonable manner.

4. In view of the above, the present petition is dismissed. Impugned order stands maintained and affirmed. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly.

NTPC Ltd.(Kol Dam) ...Appellant.
Versus

RFA No. 118 of 2014
Date of Decision: December 15, 2016.

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- The land was acquired for the construction of Kol Dam – Land Acquisition Collector determined the compensation @Rs.4,69,955/- for cultivated land and Rs.1,04,416/- for uncultivable land – Reference petition was filed and the Reference Court determined the market value @ Rs.4,69,955/- per bigha – held in appeal that sale deeds were tendered in evidence but in absence of evidence regarding the similarity of the acquired land with exemplar sale deed, the deeds cannot be taken into consideration to determine the market value of the acquired land –the sale deed pertained to two different villages and very small chunk of lands - the reference Court had rightly declined to take exemplar sale transactions into consideration- appeal dismissed. (Para- 5 to 12)

Cases referred:
Cement Corpn. of India Ltd. Versus Purya and others, (2004) 8 SCC 270
Haridwar Development Authority Versus Raghubir Singh and others, (2010) 11 SCC 581

For the Appellant: Mr. Chandernarayan Singh, Advocate, for the appellant-NTPC.
For the Respondents: Mr. R.S. Verma, Addl. AG., for respondent No.19-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J (oral).

In terms of the impugned award dated 18.02.2014, passed by Additional District Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P., (Camp at Biaspur), , in Reference Petition No.141-4 of 2008, titled as Sukh Ram & others Versus LAC, Bilaspur and another, so filed under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), Reference Court, has re-determined the market value of the entire acquired land by awarding Rs. 4,69,955/-, the highest rate awarded by the Collector Land Acquisition with respect to the best quality of land. Significantly, Reference Court has not enhanced any amount other then uniformly applying the said rate with respect to entire 29-0 bighas of land, acquired for public purpose i.e. construction of Kol Dam.

2. Certain facts are not in dispute: (i) 29-0 bighas of land came to be acquired in village Harnora (III File), Tehsil Sadar, District Bilaspur, H.P. with the publication of notification in the official gazette on 14.08.2004, so issued under Section 4 of the Act; (ii) The acquisition proceedings concluded with the passing of the Collector's Award No.58 of 2007 dated 25.04.2007, so issued under Section 11 of the Act, whereby he determined the market value at the following rates and the State taking over possession of the land:-

> "The market value for Cultivated (Majrua) Rs. 4,69,955.00 (Rupees Four Lacs Sixty Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty Five) only and for Un-cultivated (Gair-Majrua) Rs.1,04,416.00 (Rupees One Lac Four Thousand Four Hundred and Sixteen) only as applied in Award No.5 of 2003 in village Harnora already approved by Distt. Collector, Bilaspur vide No.BLP-ADRA-4(9)/94-II-24142 dated 20-6-2002 appear to be just and reasonable for the land under acquisition in this award. Therefore, the rates already approved as discussed above have been applied in this award. (Annexure-C) ."

(iii) The purpose of acquisition being construction of Dam, commonly known as Kol Dam; (iv) Dissatisfied with the offer made by the Collector, claimants filed petitions under Section 18 of the Act, which came to be clubbed (with Reference Petition No.141-4 of 2008) and on the basis of common evidence led by the parties, disposed of in terms of impugned award; (v) While the claimants accepted the award, only the beneficiary preferred the present appeal(s) under Section 54 of the Act; (vi) It is the common case of parties that the entire acquired land came to be submerged with the construction of Dam by the beneficiary. Also there is no evidence on record of either any requirement or any developmental activity carried out on the spot.

3. With these admitted/undisputed facts, material placed on record by the parties is being appreciated for just decision of the case.

4. In the instant case, Reference Court has re-determined the market value of the acquired land by awarding the amount @ Rs. 4,69,955/- per bigha. It took into account the highest rate so awarded by the Collector Land Acquisition.

5. Record reveals that parties did place on record exemplar sale deeds in support of their respective claims. Whereas, as against claim of Rs. 15,00,000/- per bigha, so set up by the claimants, beneficiary tried to justify the passing of the award by the Collector. Now significantly, the claimants placed on record four sale deeds (Ex.P1 to Ex.P4) and beneficiary also placed on record four sale deeds (x.R1 to Ex.R4). But however, none of the witnesses i.e. Nathu Ram (PW.1), Kulbir Singh (PW.2), who stepped into the witness box could depose with regard to the similarity of the acquired land with that of the exemplar sale deeds. Also three sale deeds pertaining to land sold in village Chamyon and the sale transaction pertaining to village Harnora was only with respect to 0-12-0 bighas of land.

6. Insofar as beneficiary is concerned, sale deeds only came to be tendered in evidence which though could have been considered by the Reference Court in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Cement Corpn. of India Ltd. Versus Purya and others, (2004) 8 SCC 270. But however, in the absence of any evidence with regard to similarity of the acquired land with that of these exemplar sale deeds, even such sale deeds cannot be taken to be true reflective value of the acquired land. Also two of such sale transactions pertain to different villages and remaining two sale transactions pertain to very small chunk of land admeasuring 0-1-0 bigha. Hence, Reference Court did not take exemplar sale transactions in re-determining the market value of the acquired land.

7. Insofar as other issue of enhancement of the amount is concerned, one finds that Reference Court rightly applied principle of law laid down in Haridwar Development Authority Versus Raghubir Singh and others, (2010) 11 SCC 581, relevant portion of which reads as under:-

> "7. The question whether the acquired lands have to be valued uniformly at the same rate, or whether different areas in the acquired lands have to be valued at different rates, depends upon the extent of the land acquired, the location, proximity to an access road/Main Road/Highway or to a City/Town/Village, and other relevant circumstances. We may illustrate:
> (A). When a small and compact extent of land is acquired and the entire area is similarly situated, it will be appropriate to value the acquired land at a single uniform rate.
> (B). If a large tract of land is acquired with some lands facing a main road or a national highway and other lands being in the interior, the normal procedure is to value the lands adjacent to the main road at a higher rate and the interior lands which do not have road access, at a lesser rate.
> (C). Where a very large tract of land on the outskirts of a town is acquired, one end of the acquired lands adjoining the town boundary, the other end being two to three kilometers away, obviously, the rate that is adopted for the land nearest to the town cannot be adopted for the land which is farther away from the town. In such a situation, what is known as a belting method is adopted and the belt or strip adjacent to the town boundary will be given the highest price, the remotest belt will be awarded the lowest rate, the belts/strips of lands falling in between, will be awarded gradually reducing rates from the highest to the lowest.
> (D). Where a very large tract of land with a radius of one to two kilometers is acquired, but the entire land acquired is far away from any town or city limits, without any special Main road access, then it is logical to award the entire land, one uniform rate. The fact that the distance between one points to another point in the acquired lands, may be as much as two to three kilometers may not make any difference."

8. The Reference Court, rightly held the acquired land to fall within the category (D) of the aforesaid ratio.

9. No other point urged or proved.

10. Hence in the given facts and circumstances, no interference is warranted. It cannot be said that the findings returned by the Reference Court are perverse, illegal or erroneous. As such, present appeal stands dismissed, so also pending application(s), if any.

11. Cross-objection, if any, shall also stand disposed of.

12. Quite evidently, in terms of award No.58 of 2007, so passed by the Collector several land reference petitions came to be clubbed and disposed of by the common impugned award dated 18.02.2014, passed by Additional District Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. (Camp at Bilaspur), in Reference Petition No.141-4 of 2008, titled as Sukh Ram and others Versus LAC, Bilaspur and another. Common evidence was led by the parties in land Reference Petition No.28 141-4 of 2008, subject matter of the present appeal. Learned counsel for the parties contend that decision rendered in the present appeal would automatically apply to other connected matters which are pending before this Court. Registrar (Judicial) to take appropriate instructions from Hon'ble the Chief Justice for listing of such connected appeals before the appropriate Court, particulars whereof shall also be supplied by learned counsel for the parties.

Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

This Letters Patent Appeal is directed against judgment dated 21.9.2010 rendered by the learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP(T) No. 4716 of 2008 titled Shankar Lal and others versus State of Himachal Pradesh and another, whereby the writ petition filed by the appellants-petitioners (here-in-after, 'petitioners') was dismissed.

2. Facts in brief are that petitioners were initially appointed as Beldars/ Plant Observers. They were promoted to the post of Field Assistant in the pay scale of Rs.400-600. Petitioners claimed that on the basis of letter dated 21.6.1986 (Annexure P-2 of writ petition), State ordered merger of posts of Field Assistants with the posts of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors in the pay scale of Rs.450-800/-. Petitioners claimed that they were not granted aforesaid pay scale. Petitioners have relied upon Statutes 5.6(1) and 6 of the respondent-University seeking pay scale of Rs.450-800 (later revised to Rs.1200-2100). Annexure P-2 dated 21.6.1986 reads as under:

> "I am directed to refer to your No. 15-65/79-Udyan-I dated the 20th November, 1985 and to say that Governor, Himachal Pradesh is pleased to allow the scale of Rs.450-800 to the posts of Field Assistants presently in the scale of Rs.400-600. This revision will come into force w.e.f. 1.1.78 on notional basis and monetary benefits will accrue to the concerned incumbents w.e.f. 1.3.1986. The pay of the incumbents in the revised scale of Rs.450-800 (from the scale of Rs.400-600) will be fixed in accordance with the provisions of Audit Instruction(1) below F.R. 22 and they will be eligible to exercise option in accordance with the provision of F.R. 23 within a period of three months, failing which option will be deemed to have been exercised in favour of revised scale. Option once exercised will be final.
> The Governor is further pleased to order that the posts of Field Assistants shall be merged with those of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors."

3. Clauses 5.6(1) to 5.6(3) of Chapter V of "Statutes Regarding The Classification, Qualifications And Appointment Of Employees Of The University Other Than The Officers and Teachers" reads as under:

> "5.6(1) The scales of pay of the posts of category A, B, C and D employees of the University shall be as prevalent at present. Conditions and rules for the release of higher scales of pay, for admissibility of special pay and other allowance to the employees shall be the same as applicable from time to time to the employees holding corresponding posts in Himachal Pradesh Government. But the rules of local allowance shall be as admissible to Government servants at the concerned stations of posting.
> (2). The Board shall have the powers to review the conditions for the release of scales and the scales of pay and allowances attached to any post of the University as and when the same are revised by the Himachal Pradesh Government for their own employees.
> (3) For such posts in the University as do not exist under the Himachal Pradesh Government, the University reserves the powers to frame its own pay scales, which shall, as far as possible, be in consonance with the pay scales of comparable posts in the Himachal Pradesh Government/sister Universities in the State."

4. Clause 6 of Chapter VI, "Scales of Pay" provide as under:

> 6.(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in Chapters III, IV and V of the Statutes, the scales of pay to be prescribed by the Board shall follow the pattern given in the succeeding clauses of this Chapter.
> (2) The conditions and rules for grant of scales of pay, for admissibility of special pay and allowances [other than the allowances mentioned in clause (5) below] to all Officers (other than Estate Officer), teachers, Deputy Registrars, Assistant Registrar, Deputy Students' Welfare Officers, Assistant Students' Welfare Officers, Sports Officers and other posts on the UGC pattern, shall be the same as prescribed by the University Grants Commission from time to time.

(3) The conditions and rules for the grant of scales of pay, for admissibility of special pay and allowances [other than the allowances mentioned in clause (5) below] to the Estate Officer and other employees of the University shall be the same as applicable from time to time to the employees holding corresponding posts in Himachal Pradesh Government.

(4) For such posts in the University as do not exist under the Himachal Pradesh Government and which do not fall within the UGC pattern of scales, the pay scales and allowances [other than the allowances mentioned in clause (5) below] shall be such as the Board may determine having regard to the functions, duties, status and qualifications of such posts, in relation to other posts in the University.

(5) In granting the Hill Compensatory Allowance, House Rent Allowance and other local allowances (other than DA and ADA) Himachal Pradesh Government pattern shall be followed.

(6) The incumbents of various posts in the University shall be entitled to the pay scales, special pay and other allowances admissible to them on the date of commencement of these Statutes unless revised by the Board."

5. The respondent-University in its reply before the writ Court, took stand that Statute 5.6(1) is regarding the scale of pay of University employees and it is clear in the chapter that pay scale of Technical Staff should be equal with the Department of Agriculture/Horticulture/ Forests/Fisheries/ Animal Husbandry/Education or where the University has evolved its own pay scales, the same will be revised by keeping in view the relative position of pre-revised scales. The posts of Field Assistant Grade-I are treated equivalent with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors, as far as grant of scale is concerned and University is providing same scale to the Field Assistant Grade-I which is being granted to Horticulture Sub-Inspectors. However, respondent-University also stated in its reply that it is not bound to frame Recruitment and Promotion Rules parallel to that of the Horticulture Department. In case, scale of Horticulture Sub-Inspector is revised by the Government, University is bound to grant same scale to the Field Assistant Grade-I.

6. The learned Single Judge also held in the impugned judgment that the post of Field Assistant is feeder cadre for promotion to the post of Field Assistant Grade-I and as such pay scales of both the posts are different. Moreover, respondent-University has framed its own Recruitment and Promotion Rules and it has never taken any decision to merge posts of Field Assistants with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspector. As such petitioners could not seek benefit of revision of pay scales notionally from 1.1.1978 and monetary benefits from 1.3.1986, as claimed in the petition. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed. Now, the petitioners have challenged the aforesaid judgment of the learned Single Judge by preferring the present appeal.

7. Mr. Bharat Thakur, learned Advocate representing the petitioners vehemently argued that the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge is not sustainable as the same is not based upon correct interpretation of Statutes 5.6(1) and 5.6(3) and as such same can not be allowed to sustain. Mr. Thakur further stated that the petitioners are entitled to the benefit of automatic revision of pay scale from Rs.400-600 to Rs.450-800 in terms of revision order of the State Government dated 17.5.1986, on notional basis from 1.1.1978, 10.8.1982 and 8.3.1983, respectively and financial benefits from 1.3.1986 with all consequential benefits including seniority, arrears of pay scale revision. Mr. Thakur, specifically invited attention of this Court to clause 5.6(1) of Chapter V of the Statutes regarding classification, qualifications and appointment of employees of the University other than officers and teachers to suggest that the scale of pay of all the employees of categories A, B, C and D, shall be the same as applicable from time to time to the employees holding corresponding posts in the Himachal Pradesh Government. As per the counsel representing the petitioners, Statutes 5.6(1) and 6 of the respondent-University provide that petitioners are entitled to pay scale of Rs.450-800, which was subsequently revised to Rs.1200-2100.

8. Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, learned counsel representing respondent No.2-University supported the impugned judgment passed by the learned Single Judge. As per Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, pay scale of Rs.450-800 has been granted to the Field Assistant Grade I and post of Field Assistant is in the feeder cadre for promotion to the post of Field Assistant Grade I. As per Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, respondent-University has framed new Rules on 25.8.1988, wherein post of Field Assistant is in the feeder cadre for promotion to the post of Field Assistant Grade I and as such petitioners can not be granted pay scale of Rs.450-800 because the post of Field Assistant Grade I has been compared to that of Horticulture Sub-Inspector and, as and when the State Government revises/increases the pay scale of Horticulture Sub-Inspector, corresponding category of Field Assistant Grade I shall also get the same. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, submitted that there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge and same deserves to be upheld.

9. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case carefully.

10. True it is that perusal of Statute 5.6 clearly suggests that pays scales of technical staff other than laboratory staff are to be equated with the departments of Agriculture/Horticulture/ Forests / Fisheries/ Animal Husbandry/ Education, however, the University has evolved its own pay scales and same are required to be revised by keeping in view the relative position in the pre-revised pay scales. In the instant case, petitioners, on the basis of letter dated 17.5.1986/21.6.1986 (Annexure P-2 of the writ petition) issued by the State of Himachal Pradesh, whereby posts of Field Assistant have been ordered to be merged with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspector in the pay scale of Rs.450-800 are claiming grant of revision of pay scale of Rs.450-800 as was ordered by the State Government from retrospective date.

11. Record reveals that vide communication dated 6.4.1992 (Annexure P-14 of Writ Petition), respondent-University rejected the claim of the petitioners namely Shankar Lal by stating that matter with regard to revised pay scale of Rs.450-800 of Field Assistant on parity with the Department of Horticulture was put up before the Joint Coordination Committee of both the Universities on 16.1.1992, whereby following decision was taken:

> "Since the Technical combine was framed with a view to providing promotional avenues to the Technical Staff, the categories of which did not exist in the State Government, and as such Committee did not favour the abolition of Technical Combine."

12. Petitioners being aggrieved by aforesaid rejection of the revision, approached the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, by filing OA No. 2194 of 1997, which was later transferred to this Court and registered as CWP(T) No. 4716 of 2008, seeking following main relief(s):-

> "(i) That the applicants be held lawfully entitled for the grant of revised pay scale of Rs.450-800 on the State Government pattern with effect from the respective dates.
> (ii) That the decision of respondent-2/University as conveyed to the applicants vide Annexure P-14, dated 6-4-92 be declared illegal and be set aside, along-with all consequential benefits of arrears of pay, further promotions etc. to the applicants.
> (iii) That the respondents be directed to grant the scale of Rs.450-800 to the applicants on State Government pattern with effect from the corresponding date alongwith all consequential benefits thereof, such as, arrears of salary and further promotions etc. win a time bound period.
> (iv) That the respondents be directed to recast the seniority list of Field Assistants/Field Assistants Grade I strictly in accordance with the State Government decision and the applicants be placed at appropriately in the seniority list and be promoted further in case they become eligible in accordance with the rules. Any other seniority list/contrary decision of respondent-2/University be declared illegal and be quashed as far as it is in conflict with the State Government as contained in Annexure P-2."

13. It also emerges from the record that prior to framing of its own Recruitment and Promotion Rules, the respondent-University had been following the Recruitment and Promotion Rules of Krishi Vishva Vidyalaya notified on 27.3.1986, wherein pay scale of Field Assistant was Rs.400-600 and that of Field Assistant Grade I was Rs.450-800. But with effect from 4.8.1986, respondent-University framed its own Rules, whereby they placed Field Assistant in the pay scale of Rs.400-600 and Field Assistant Grade I in the pay scale of Rs.450-800. In the instant case, petitioners were promoted to the post of Field Assistant Grade I on 28.10.l987 31.5.1988 and 2.6.1986, respectively. Subsequently on 25.8.1988, respondent-University also framed new Rules, wherein post of Field Assistant was kept in the feeder cadre for promotion to the post of Field Assistant Grade I and as such petitioners can not be granted pay scale of Rs.450-800. Perusal of Rules framed by the respondent-University vide notification dated 25.8.1988 provides following procedure for appointment/promotion to the posts of Field Assistant and Field Assistant Grade I:

DR. YASHWANT SINGH PARMAR UNIVERSITY OF HORTICULTURE & FORESTRY, SOLAN-173230.

"PROMOTION RULES FOR FIELD STAFF"

Sr. No.	Name of the post	Mode of recruitment and ratio in which the posts are to be filled up		Educational qualification	Length of approved service	Field of Choice/Feeder posts	Composition of Promotion Committees
		By promotion	By direct recruitment
(1.)	(2)	(3)	(4)	(5)	(6)	(7)	(8)
1.	Field Assistant (Rs.400-600)	25%	75%	Matriculation Or Middle Or Literate	Three years Or With ten years Or With eighteen years	From amongst category 'D' Employees Do Do	1. Director/Dean concerned .. Chairman 2. Other Deans/Directors .. Member 3. Heads of the Depts/Res. Station Concerned … Member 4. Registrar or his nominee .. Member
2.	Field Assistant	75"%	25%	Matriculation	Five years	Field Asstt.	-do-

	Gr. I (Rs.450-800)

14. It is apparently clear that promotion to the post of Field Assistant should be made from amongst 'D' category employees and the post of Field Assistant Grade I is to be filled up 75% by promotion from amongst the Field Assistants and 25% by direct recruitment. Rules, further suggest that pay scale of Rs.450-800 stands revised to Rs.1200-2100. Since the respondent-University has framed its own Promotion Rules for filling up posts of Field Assistant and Field Assistant Grade I, and further the respondent-University has not taken any decision to merge the posts of Field Assistant with higher post of Field Assistant Grade I/Horticulture Sub-Inspector, this Court sees no force in the contentions having been put forth on behalf of the petitioners that they are entitled to be dealt in accordance with Notification dated 21.6.1986 (annexure P-2) issued by the Himachal Pradesh Government, whereby posts of Field Assistants have been ordered to be merged with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors, because as per Promotion Rules of the respondent-University, it has evolved its own pay scales of Rs. 400-600 for the post of Field Assistant and Rs. 450-800 for the post of Field Assistant Grade I, as such, petitioners can not claim revision of pay scales from 1.1.1978 on notional basis with monetary benefits from 1.3.1986, in terms of letter dated 21.6.1986 (Annexure P-2) issued by Himachal Pradesh Government ordering merger of Field Assistants with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors in the pay scale of Rs. 450-800.

15. At the cost of repetition, it is stated that as per new Rules having been framed by the respondent-University, higher post in the hierarchy is of Field Assistant Grade I, which is required to be filled in 75% by promotion from Field Assistants and 25% by direct recruitment. In view of aforesaid discussion, this Court does not find any illegality in the findings returned by learned Single Judge that the post of Field Assistant is feeder post for promotion to the post of Field Assistant Grade I and as such pay scales of both the posts are different.

16. Leaving everything aside, it clearly emerges from record that respondent-University has framed its own Promotion Rules and no decision has ever been taken to merge the posts of Field Assistant with Field Assistant Grade I/Horticulture Sub-Inspector, thus the petitioners are not entitled to the benefit of revision of pay scales in terms of letter dated 21.6.1986 (Annexure P-2). Otherwise also, respondent-University has specifically stated that as per own case of petitioners, post of Field Assistants in the State Government have been merged with that of Horticulture Sub-Inspectors as such there is no cadre of Field Assistants in the State Government and it is not understood qua which post/category, petitioners are claiming parity.

17. The Apex Court in a case titled as State of Haryana and others versus Charanjit Singh and others etc. etc., reported in AIR 2006 Supreme Court 161, held that the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' has no mechanical application in every case. It is apt to reproduce para 17 of the judgment herein:

> "17. Having considered the authorities and the submissions we are of the view that the authorities in the cases of Jasmer Singh, Tilak Raj, Orissa University of Agriculture & Technology and Tarun K. Roy lay down the correct law. Undoubtedly, the doctrine of "equal pay for equal work" is not an abstract doctrine and is capable of being enforced in a Court of law. But equal pay must be for equal work of equal value. The principle of equal pay for equal work" has no mechanical application in every case. Article 14 permits reasonable classification based on qualities or characteristics of persons recruited and grouped together, as against those who were left out. Of course, the qualities or characteristics must have a reasonable relation to the object sought to be achieved. In service matters, merit or experience can be a proper basis for classification for the purposes of pay in order to promote efficiency in administration. A higher pay scale to avoid stagnation or resultant frustration for lack of promotional avenues is also an acceptable reason for pay differentiation. The very fact that the person has not gone through the process of recruitment may itself, in certain cases, make a difference. If the educational qualifications are different, then also the doctrine may have no application. Even though persons may do the same work, their quality of work may differ. Where persons are selected by a Selection Committee on the basis of merit with due regard to seniority a higher pay scale granted to such persons who are evaluated by competent authority cannot be challenged. A classification based on difference in educational qualifications justifies a difference in pay scales. A mere nomenclature designating a person as say a carpenter or a craftsman is not enough to come to the conclusion that he is doing the same work as another carpenter or craftsman in regular service. The quality of work which is produced may be different and even the nature of work assigned may be different. It is not just a comparison of physical activity. The application of the principle of "equal pay for equal work" requires consideration of various dimensions of a given job. The accuracy required and the dexterity that the job may entail may differ from job to job. It cannot be judged by the mere volume of work. There may be qualitative difference as regards reliability and responsibility. Functions may be the same but the responsibilities made a difference. Thus normally the applicability of this principle must be left to be evaluated and determined by an expert body. These are not matters where a writ court can lightly interfere. Normally a party claiming equal pay for equal work should be required to raise a dispute in this regards. In any event the party who claims equal pay for equal work has to make necessary averments and prove that all things are equal. Thus, before any direction can be issued by a Court, the Court must first see that there are necessary averments and there is a proof. If the High Court, is on basis of material placed before it, convinced that there was equal work of equal quality and all other relevant factors are fulfilled it may direct payment of equal pay from the date of the filing of the respective Writ Petition. In all these cases, we find that the High Court has blindly proceeded on the basis that the doctrine of equal pay for equal work applies without examining any relevant factors."

18. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 13 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in New Delhi Municipal Council versus Pan Singh & Ors., reported in 2007 AIR SCW 1705, herein:

> "13. They, thus, formed a class by themselves. A cut-off date having been fixed by the Tribunal, those who were thus not similarly situated, were to be treated to have formed a different class. They could not be treated alike with the others. The High Court, unfortunately, has not considered this aspect of the matter."

19. The Apex Court in cases titled as State of Madhya Pradesh and others versus Ramesh Chandra Bajpai, reported in(2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 635, and State of Punjab & Anr. Versus Surjit Singh & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 6759, has discussed the development of law right from the year 1960 till 2009. It is apt to reproduce para 30 of the judgment delivered in Surjit Singh's case supra, herein:

> "30. Mr. Swarup may or may not be entirely correct in projecting three purported different views of this Court having regard to the accepted principle of law that ratio of a decision must be culled out from reading it in its entirety and not from a part thereof. It is no longer in doubt or dispute that grant of the benefit of the doctrine of 'equal pay for equal work' depends upon a large number of factors including equal work, equal value, source and manner of appointment, equal identity of group and wholesale or complete identity."

20. The Apex Court in the case titled as Steel Authority of India Limited and others versus Dibyendu Battacharya, reported in (2011) 11 Supreme Court Cases 122, has discussed the development of law and the judgments made by the Apex Court right from the year 1968, in paras 18 to 29 of the judgment. It is apt to reproduce paras 30 and 31 of the judgment herein:

> 30. In view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that parity of pay can be claimed by invoking the provisions of Articles 14 and 39(d) of the Constitution of India by establishing that the eligibility, mode of selection/recruitment, nature and quality of work and duties and effort, reliability, confidentiality, dexterity, functional need and responsibilities and status of both the posts are identical. The functions may be the same but the skills and responsibilities may be really and substantially different. The other post may not require any higher qualification, seniority or other like factors. Granting parity in pay scales depends upon the comparative evaluation of job and equation of posts. The person claiming parity, must plead necessary averments and prove that all things are equal between the concerned posts. Such a complex issue cannot be adjudicated by evaluating the affidavits filed by the parties.
> 31. The onus to establish the discrimination by the employer lies on the person claiming the parity of pay. The expert committee has to decide such issues, as the fixation of pay scales etc. falls within the exclusive domain of the executive. So long as the value judgment of those who are responsible for administration i.e. service conditions etc., is found to be bonafide, reasonable, and on intelligible criteria which has a rational nexus of objective of differentiation, such differentiation will not amount to discrimination. It is not prohibited in law to have two grades of posts in the same cadre. Thus, the nomenclature of a post may not be the sole determinative factor. The courts in exercise of their limited power of judicial review can only examine whether the decision of the State authorities is rational and just or prejudicial to a particular set of employees. The court has to keep in mind that a mere difference in service conditions does not amount to discrimination. Unless there is complete and wholesale/ wholesome identity between the two posts they should not be treated as equivalent and the Court should avoid applying the principle of equal pay for equal work.

21. The Apex Court in Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh and others versus Manju Mathur and another, reported in(2011) 2 Supreme Court Cases 452, held that similarity of designation or nature or quantum of work is not determinative of entitlement to equality in pay scales.

22. The Apex Court in Hukum Chand Gupta versus Director General, Indian Council of Agricultural Research and others, reported in (2012) 12 Supreme Court Cases 666, held as to how parity can be claimed or granted. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 20 of the judgment herein:

> 20. ..... There cannot be straitjacket formula for holding that two posts having the same nomenclature would have to be given the same pay scale. Prescription of pay scales on particular posts is a very complex exercise. It requires assessment of the nature and quality of the duties performed and the responsibilities shouldered by the incumbents on different posts. Even though, the two posts may be referred to by the same name, it would not lead to the necessary inference that the posts are identical in every manner. These are matters to be assessed by expert bodies like the employer or the Pay Commission. Neither the Central Administrative Tribunal nor a writ court would normally venture to substitute its own opinion for the opinions rendered by the experts. The Tribunal or the writ court would lack the necessary expertise to undertake the complex exercise of equation of posts or the pay scales."

23. A Division Bench of this Court in a case titled as Roshan Lal versus Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh and another, being CWP No. 873 of 1993, decided on 27th October, 1994, held that even if a post of one cadre is created in two departments and different pay scales are granted, that cannot be a ground to claim parity. In order to claim parity, the writ petitioners have to indicate that their jobs, duties, responsibilities and functions are similar. In this case, the Court has examined whether the post of Book Binder sanctioned in the High Court and Secretariat of the State Government and in other departments are entitled to same pay scale? No doubt, the post of Book Binder was created in all these departments, but it was held that it is for the writ petitioner to plead and prove that he was performing the same type of work and responsibilities and other factors are similar. This Court, after discussing all facts and factors, rejected the plea for grant of parity and the writ petition was dismissed. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of the judgment herein:

> "Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner, we find no justification in the submission. It is too much of the employee of the High Court to claim that the High Court should be equated with the Printing and Stationery Department of the State Government. Even on the basis of job, there would be no similarity. The Printing and Stationery Department would have continuous and different varieties of work needing a different type of Book Binder than the Book-Binder in the High Court."

24. A similar view has been taken by this Court in case titled as Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board versus Rajinder Upadhaya & others, being LPA No. 51 of 2009, decided on 11th September, 2014, LPA No. 11 of 2012, titled as The Principal Secretary (Personnel) & another versus Pratap Thakur, decided on 22nd September, 2014 and CWP No. 4184 of 2010 decided on 17.10.2014 titled Beli Ram versus Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh and another.

25. A similar view has also been taken by the apex Court while setting aside the judgment made by this Court in a latest judgment reported in 2014 AIR SCW 6581 titled State of Himachal Pradesh and another versus Tilak Raj. It is apt to reproduce para 22 of the said judgment herein.

> "22. It is also clear that disputed question of facts were involved in the petitions because according to the respondents, who were petitioners before the High Court, nature of work done by them was similar to that of the work of other Laboratory Attendants or Laboratory Assistants. Without looking at the nature of work done by persons working in different cadres in different departments, one cannot jump to a conclusion that all these persons were doing similar type of work simply because in a civil suit, one particular person had succeeded after adducing evidence. There is nothing on record to show that the High Court had examined the nature of work done by the respondents and other persons who were getting higher pay scale. The High Court had also not considered the fact that qualifications required for appointment to both the posts were different. In our opinion, the High Court should not have entertained all these petitions where disputed questions of fact were required to be examined. Without examining relevant evidence regarding exact nature of work, working conditions and other relevant factors, it is not possible to come to a conclusion with regard to similarity in the nature of work done by persons belonging to different cadres and normally such exercise should not be carried out by the High Court under its writ jurisdiction. It is settled law that the work of fixing pay scale is left to an expert body like Pay Commission or other similar body, as held by this Court in several cases, including the case of S.C. Chandra v. State of Jharkhand, 2007 8 SCC 279. Moreover, qualifications, experience, etc. are also required to be examined before fixing pay scales. Such an exercise was not carried out in this case by the High Court."

26. Having said so, there is no merit in the appeal and same is dismissed, alongwith pending applications, if any. Judgment passed by the learned Single Judge is upheld.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

The State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Appellants.

Versus

Shri Bhagat Ram & others ...Respondents.

RFA No. 57 of 2013 a/w connected matters.
Reserved on: 28.11.2016.
Decided on: 15.12.2016

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- Land Acquisition Collector had awarded compensation on the basis of the settlement –held, that statutory benefits payable under the Act cannot be waived by the Land Owners – there can be no estoppel against the law- the benefits were rightly granted by the Reference Court – appeal dismissed. (Para-3 to 7)

For the Appellants: Mr. R.S Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the Respondents: Mr. Sudhir Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

Since common questions of fact and law stand raised for consideration in all the appeals, hence they are taken up together for disposal.

2. The instant appeals stand directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned rendition recorded by the learned Reference Court whereby it in the amount constituted therewithin assessed compensation qua the lands of the respondents/landowners. The solitary contention addressed by the learned Additional Advocate General for unsettling the rendition recorded by the learned Reference Court stands hinged upon the factum qua with the respondents/landowners evidently entering into a consensual settlement with the appellants herein whereby they displayed their consent to receive the amount constituted therein as compensation amount assessable qua their lands as stood brought to acquisition thereupon the apt consensual settlement(s) warranted an inference qua theirs thereunder waiving besides abandoning their entitlement to seek any levy of the statutory benefits contemplated in the Land Acquisition Act on the consensually settled compensation amount whereas in the impugned rendition the learned Reference Court levying statutory benefits on the consensually agreed/settled compensation amount qua the apposite lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition by the appellants herein warrants its standing quashed and set aside.

3. For determining the tenacity of the aforesaid submission addressed herebefore it is imperative to make an allusion to the apposite recitals manifested in the consensual statement(s) respectively made/recorded by the landowners (RW-3/D and Ex.RW-3/E in RFA No. 57 to 83 of 2013 (Ex. RW-5/D and Ex.RW-5/E in RFA Nos. 1,2,3,4 and 6 of 2013) with the authorities concerned wherewithin the respondents/landowners display their acquiescence to receive 8 lacs per bigha as compensation for their lands as stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition. Significantly therewithin no vivid display occurs of the respondents/landowners while accepting a sum of Rs.8 lacs per bigha as compensation amount for their lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition, theirs also making a palpable explicit communication therein qua the aforesaid consolidated sum of 8 lacs per bigha agreed by them to be the compensation amount qua their lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition including also the statutory benefits levy-able thereon. In sequel the factum of non-occurrence therein with explicitly the aforesaid factum probandum does benumb the espousal of the learned Additional Advocate General qua with the landowners under the aforesaid statement(s) communicating their acceptance qua Rs. 8 lacs constituting the compensation amount for their lands which stood thereat proposed to be brought to acquisition theirs also unveiling therein the apposite willingness qua the amount aforesaid also including therein all statutory benefits levy-able thereupon nor also he can hence argue qua the respondents/landowners waiving besides abandoning their statutory rights qua the relevant statutory benefits standing levied thereon by the learned Reference Court.

4. Be that as it may a perusal of the apposite reference transmitted for adjudication by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned to the learned Reference Court unfolds qua preceding the Land Acquisition Collector concerned recording his award qua the acquired lands of the respondents/landowners wherein he meted deference to the consensual settlement(s) arrived at inter-se the respondents/landowners with the authorities concerned qua the relevant facet qua compensation amount assessable qua the lands of the respondents/landowners, his omitting to elicit the participation of respondents/landowners, sequel whereof is qua the consent award pronounced by the land Acquisition Collector concerned qua the lands of the respondents/landowners anvilled upon the relevant consensual settlement arrived inter-se them with the authorities concerned qua the relevant facet of compensation amount qua their lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition, obviously hence standing vitiated with a stain of its infracting the rule of Audi alteram partem. Since the participation of the landowners in the proceedings preceding the pronouncement of an apposite award by the LAC concerned determining therein the compensation amount vis-à-vis the landowners concerned qua their lands which stood brought to acquisition would have facilitated emergence of the trite fact qua theirs while recording their respective consensual settlement(s) with the authorities concerned qua the compensation amount manifested in their respective consensual statement(s) to stand constituted in a sum of Rs. 8 lacs per bigha, theirs, while agreeing qua Rs.8 lacs per bigha constituting the sum of compensation assessable qua their lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition, theirs also thereby acquiescing qua the amount aforesaid including also therewithin all the statutory benefits levyable thereon.

5. As afore-stated with the apposite consensual statement(s) recorded by the landowners with the authorities concerned omitting to make an explicit disclosure therein qua the respondents/landlords while accepting Rs.8 lacs as compensation amount qua their lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition theirs also making a candid disclosure therein qua the aforesaid amount also including all the statutory benefits peremptorily levy-able thereon whereupon this Court has erected an inference qua hence the plain language of their consensual statement(s) not purveying any leverage to any construction standing made thereupon qua the respondents/landowners waiving their entitlement to seek levy of statutory benefits thereon when stands construed with the award of the Land Acquisition Collector concerned for the reasons afore-stated standing ingrained with a vice of his infracting the rule of Audi alteram partem begets a formidable inference of the respondents/landowners not abandoning their rights to seek levy of statutory benefits on the compensation amount which stood consensually agreed by them to be constituted in a sum of Rs. 8 lacs per bigha.

6. Even otherwise all the statutory benefits levyable on the judicially determined compensation amount are imperatively levyable thereon. Significantly when the levying of statutory benefits even on compensation amount determined by the Land Acquisition Collector besides judicially determined by the learned Reference Court spurs from a peremptory/mandatory dictate of the apposite statutory provisions, similarly with the respondents/landowners while consensually agreeing qua Rs. 8 lacs per bigha comprising the relevant compensation amount qua theirs lands which stood proposed thereat to be brought to acquisition rendered the levying thereon of all the apposite statutory benefits to be their statutory entitlement. In aftermath with the levying of the apposite statutory benefits on the compensation amount being hence an inflexible statutory fiat peremptoriness whereof holding application even on the relevant compensation amount which stood consensually agreed to be received by the respondent landowners qua their respective lands, thereupon the levying thereon of the peremptory statutory benefit(s) was an unrelenting statutory exercise.

7. In aftermath no waiver can stand fastened upon the landowners qua the relevant consensual compensation amount not thereon begetting any levy of all the relevant statutory benefits nor the fiat of the principle of waiver or estoppel is workable qua any compensation amount consensually agreed to be received by the respondents/landowners unless cogent evidence stood displayed qua theirs with explicitly in the relevant writings marking the fact qua the consensually agreed relevant figure of compensation amount also including therewithin the statutory benefits whereas with the relevant echoings occurring in the relevant statements(s) not explicitly marking the aforesaid factum, the apposite conclusion therefrom reiteratedly is qua the respondents/landowners neither waiving their entitlement to seek levy of statutory benefits, on the consensually agreed compensation amount nor also they can stand estopped to claim levy thereon of the relevant statutory benefits.

8. Consequently there is no infirmity in the impugned award(s). The present appeals stand dismissed. Impugned award(s) stand maintained and affirmed. All pending applications are disposed of accordingly. The Registry is directed to place photocopies of this judgment on each file of the connected matters.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Vikas Sharma ....Petitioner

Vs.

State of Himachal Pradesh ....Respondent

Date of decision: 15th December, 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- An FIR was registered for the commission of offences punishable under Section 376 and 417 of I.P.C against the petitioner- petitioner and second respondent were training together and were having a live in relationship – the petitioner had promised to marry the second respondent but had married elsewhere – FIR was registered against the petitioner at the instance of the second respondent – it was pleaded that no offence has been made out against the petitioner and FIR be quashed – held, that it was established that the petitioner did not have the intention to marry the second respondent from the inception- second respondent had surrendered her mind, body and soul only because of the promise that petitioner would marry her – whether the physical contact was established between the parties with consent and without commitment of marriage would be seen during the course of trial – petition dismissed. (Para-3 to 9)

Case referred:

Amit Kapoor versus Ramesh Chander and another (2012) 9 SCC 460

For the petitioner :Mr. Aman Parth Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondent :Mr. Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General, for respondent No. 1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral)

Heard, Shri Amarn Parth Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate General. Though the case was listed for admission, however, with the consent of the parties, it is taken up for final hearing.

2. The petitioner is arraigned as an accused for the offence punishable under Sections 376 and 417of IPC (for short 'Code'). It transpires that second respondent herein is complainant and it is an admitted fact that the petitioner and the second respondent, while pursuing MBA were training together and were having a live-in relationship. It further transpires that there was some discord in the relationship.

3. It is the specific case of second respondent that she had established physical contact/relationship with the petitioner only because he had promised to marry her but later on he solemnized his marriage elsewhere, compelling the prosecutrix to register the aforesaid case against the petitioner. Quashing of the FIR has been prayed on the ground that no offence is made out and it is averred that when a man and woman are mature and know the consequences of the act then mere promise to marry on future date does not attract punishment.

4. In Amit Kapoor versus Ramesh Chander and another (2012) 9 SCC 460the Hon'ble Supreme Court has evolved the principal for proper exercise of jurisdiction with regard to quashing of criminal proceedings either under Section 379 or under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or together, as the case may be, and the same is summarized as follow:-

> "1. Though there are no limits of the powers of the Court under Section 482 of the Code but the more the power, the more due care and caution is to be exercised in invoking these powers. The power of quashing criminal proceedings, particularly, the charge framed in terms of Section 228 of the Code should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases.
> 2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.
> 3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.
> 4. Where the exercise of such power is absolutely essential to prevent patent miscarriage of justice and for correcting some grave error that might be committed by the subordinate courts even in such cases, the High Court should be loath to interfere, at the threshold, to throttle the prosecution in exercise of its inherent powers.
> 5. Where there is an express legal bar enacted in any of the provisions of the Code or any specific law in force to the very initiation or institution and continuance of such criminal proceedings, such a bar is intended to provide specific protection to an accused.
> 6. The Court has a duty to balance the freedom of a person and the right of the complainant or prosecution to investigate and prosecute the offender.
> 7. The process of the Court cannot be permitted to be used for an oblique or ultimate/ulterior purpose.

8. Where the allegations made and as they appeared from the record and documents annexed therewith to predominantly give rise and constitute a 'civil wrong' with no 'element of criminality' and does not satisfy the basic ingredients of a criminal offence, the Court may be justified in quashing the charge. Even in such cases, the Court would not embark upon the critical analysis of the evidence.

9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction, the Court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

13. Quashing of a charge is an exception to the rule of continuous prosecution. Where the offence is even broadly satisfied, the Court should be more inclined to permit continuation of prosecution rather than its quashing at that initial stage. The Court is not expected to marshal the records with a view to decide admissibility and reliability of the documents or records but is an opinion formed prima facie.

14. Where the charge-sheet, report under Section 173(2) of the Code, suffers from fundamental legal defects, the Court may be well within its jurisdiction to frame a charge.

15. Coupled with any or all of the above, where the Court finds that it would amount to abuse of process of the Code or that interest of justice favours, otherwise it may quash the charge. The power is to be exercised ex debito justitiae, i.e. to do real and substantial justice for administration of which alone, the courts exist.

16. These are the principles which individually and preferably cumulatively (one or more) be taken into consideration as precepts to exercise of extraordinary and wide plenitude and jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code by the High Court. Where the factual foundation for an offence has been laid down, the courts should be reluctant and should not hasten to quash the proceedings even on the premise that one or two ingredients have not been stated or do not appear to be satisfied if there is substantial compliance to the requirements of the offence."

5. It is evident from the material produced on record that there was close relationship between the petitioner and second respondent. Therefore, if the allegations that the petitioner had committed breach of promise to marry, in normal circumstances would alone not be a crime and complainant can only claim damage and would hardly constitute a case to be prosecuted for cheating on that ground alone. However, if the allegations of the complainant of cheating are coupled with the allegations that the petitioner had continued sexual relationship with her on the promise of marry and thereafter resiled then things would definitely be different. More particularly, if it is also established that the petitioner right from inception did not have the intention to marry, then obviously in such cases both the provisions of Section 417 coupled with Section 376 would be attracted.

6. If it that be the test, then there is sufficient material available on record, which does indicate that second respondent had surrendered not only her mind but body and soul to the petitioner only because of solemn promise that he would eventually marry her.

7. After having won the confidence of second respondent and after having sexually used and abused the second respondent, the petitioner cannot now turn out and claim that no offence is made out, more particularly, when it has already come on record that he has solemnized his marriage elsewhere.

8. Whether physical contact established by the petitioner with the second respondent was consensual and without commitment of marriage as is sought to be canvassed by the petitioner is essentially a matter which has to be seen and determined during the course of the trial? Therefore, no case for quashing of FIR at this stage is made out.

9. Accordingly, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed.

Cholamandlam MS General Insurance Company Limited ...Appellant.

FAO No. 337 of 2012
Decided on: 16.12.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 173- Insurer contended that the accident was not caused by the driver of the offending vehicle but by the deceased himself – however, the owner/insured and the driver have not questioned these findings and the insurer has no locus to question the same – insurer does not have the right to challenge the adequacy of compensation as it had not obtained the permission under Section 170 of Motor Vehicles Act- however, the Appellate Court is to do complete justice between the parties – the income of the deceased was Rs. 15,630/- per month- the deceased was bachelor and 50% of the amount has to be deducted towards personal expenses – claimants have lost dependency of Rs.7,800/- per month- the age of the deceased was 23 years and multiplier of 15 was applicable – Tribunal had wrongly applied the multiplier of 18- claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.7,800 x 12 x 15= Rs.14,04,000/- - claimants are entitled to the compensation of Rs.10,000/- each under the heads loss of love and affection, loss of estate and funeral expenses- total compensation of Rs.14,34,000/- awarded along with interest @ 7.5% per annum. For the appellant:	Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

For the respondents:	Nemo for respondents No. 1 and 2.
	Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.
	Nemo for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 30th April, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, Himachal Pradesh (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. Case No.

50 of 2009, titled as Shakuntla Devi and another versus Bhupinder Kaur and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 16,98,040/- with interest @ 8% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

3. The claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 25,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that they became the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Jai Gopal, while driving tipper, bearing registration No. HP-69-0723, rashly and negligently on 8th March, 2009, at about 5.15 P.M., at Village Nandpur, in which deceased-Pardeep Singh @ Ajay Sandu sustained injuries, was taken to Regional Hospital, Una, wherefrom was referred to PGI, Chandigarh, where he succumbed to the said injuries.

4. The respondents in the claim petition resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 8th June, 2011:

> "1. Whether Sandeep Singh died as a result of injuries sustained in accident due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No. 2 Jai Gopal while driving vehicle No. HP-69-0723? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled to and from whom? OPP
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR
> 4. Whether petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties i.e. the owner and insurer of motorcycle No. HP-20 B-0155 as alleged? OPR-3
> 5. Whether respondent No. 2-driver of vehicle No. HP-69-0723 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-3
> 6. Whether vehicle was being plied without valid and effective route permit, registration certificate and fitness certificate in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy as alleged? OPR-3
> 7. Relief."

6. The claimants have examined three witnesses and one of the claimants, namely Smt. Shakuntla Devi, herself stepped into the witness box as PW-3 to substantiate their claim. The owner-insured of the offending vehicle has examined two witnesses in support of his defence and the driver, namely Shri Jai Gopal, himself stepped into the witness box as RW-3. The insurer has not led any evidence.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, awarded compensation to the tune of ₹ 16,98,040/- with interest @ 8% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization in favour of the claimants and saddled the insurer with liability in terms of the impugned award.

8. The claimants, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

9. The appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

Issue No. 1:

10. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that the accident was not caused by the driver of the offending vehicle, but was caused by the deceased himself while driving the motorcycle. The owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the said findings. Thus, the insurer has no locus to question the same.

11. It is not the case of the appellant-insurer that there was collusion between the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle and the claimants. Had it taken the said defence and led evidence, question would have been different. Neither it has taken such defence nor has led any evidence. However, I have gone through the discussion made by the Tribunal in paras 11 to 17 of the impugned award, are legally and factually correct, need no interference. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

12. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 to 6.

Issues No. 3 to 6:

13. The appellant-insurer has not questioned the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 3 to 6. However, I have gone through the record and am of the view that the Tribunal has rightly made the discussion in paras 23 to 25 of the impugned award. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 3 to 6 are upheld.

Issue No. 2:

14. Admittedly, the insurer has not sought permission in terms of Section 170 of the MV Act, thus, is precluded from questioning the adequacy of the compensation.

15. I deem it proper to record herein that the appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act is alike the appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short, "CPC"). Therefore, the Court is under obligation to decide all issues arising in a case both on facts and law after appreciating the entire evidence.

16. The Apex Court in U.P.S.R.T.C. vs. Km. Mamta and others, reported in AIR 2016 Supreme Court 948, held that Section 173 of the MV Act and the first appeal under Section 96 CPC are alike and, therefore, the High Court is equally under legal obligation to decide all issues arising in the case. It is profitable to reproduce paragraph 24 of the said judgment hereunder:

> "24. An appeal under Section 173 of the M.V.Act is essentially in the nature of first appeal alike Section 96 of the Code and, therefore, the High Court is equally under legal obligation to decide all issues arising in the case both on facts and law after appreciating the entire evidence."

17. It is worthwhile to record herein that Part VII of the CPC provides for filing of appeals arising out of decrees and orders. Section 96 CPC provides for appeals from original decree. It is apt to reproduce Section 96 CPC hereunder:

> "96. Appeal from original decree. - 1) Save where otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie from every decree passed by any Court exercising original jurisdiction the Court authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of such Court.
> (2) An appeal may lie from an original decree passed ex parte.
> (3) No appeal shall lie from a decree passed by the Court with the consent of parties.
> (4) No appeal shall lie, except on a question of law, from a decree in any suit of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Cause, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed three thousand rupees."

18. Section 107 CPC deals with the "Powers of the Appellate Court" and sub-section (2) thereof, provides specifically that the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed on the trial Court. It is apt to reproduce Section 107(2) CPC as under:

> "107. Powers of appellate court.-
> (1) …….
> (2) Subject as aforesaid, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein."

19. Section 176 of the MV Act empowers the State Government to make rules for the purpose of implementing the provisions contained in Sections 165 to 174 of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce Section 176 of the Act, hereunder:

> "176. Power of State Government to make rules.
> A State Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of sections 165 to 174, and in particular, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:--
> f) The form of application for claims for compensation and the particulars it may contain, and the fees, if any, to be paid in respect of such applications;
> g) The procedure to be followed by a Claims Tribunal in holding an inquiry under this Chapter;
> h) The powers vested in a Civil Court which may be exercised by a Claims Tribunal;
>
> i) The form and the manner in which and the fees (if any) on payment of which an appeal may be preferred against an award of a Claims Tribunal; and
> j) Any other matter which is to be, or may be, prescribed."

20. In terms of the mandate of Section 176(c) of the MV Act, the Claims Tribunals are vested with the powers of Civil Court.

21. In a Claim Petition, summary procedure is to be adopted and all provisions of CPC are not applicable, rather only some provisions have been made applicable in terms of Section 169 of the MV Act read with Rule 232 of the Himachal Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1999 (for short "MV Rules"). It is apt to reproduce Rule 232 of the MV Rules herein:

> "232. The Code of Civil Procedure to apply in certain cases:-
> The following provisions of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall so far as may be, apply to proceedings before the Claims Tribunal, namely, Order V, Rules 9 to 13 and 15 to 30; Order IX; Order XIII; Rule 3 to 10; Order XVI, Rules 2 to 21; Order XVII; Order XXI and Order XXIII, Rules 1 to 3."

22. Now, the question is - whether the Appellate Court while hearing an appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act can pass such an order which ought to have been passed by the Tribunal, without there being any appeal/challenge or cross objections from the person against whom the order has been made? The answer is in the affirmative for the reasons given hereinabove read with the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court and the High Courts.

23. Part VII and Order 41 CPC deals with the powers and the scope of the Appellate Court in appeal proceedings.

24. The Apex Court in Sharanamma and others vs. Managing Director, Divisional Contr., North-East Karnataka Road Transport Corporation, reported in (2013) 11 SCC 517, has held that there are no fetters on the powers of the appellate Court to consider the entire case on facts and law, while hearing an appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 10, 11 and 12 of the said decision hereunder:

"10. When an Appeal is filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 (hereinafter shall be referred to as the 'Act'), before the High Court, the normal Rules which apply to Appeals before the High Court are applicable to such an Appeal also. Even otherwise, it is well settled position of law that when an Appeal is provided for, the whole case is open before the Appellate Court and by necessary implication, it can exercise all powers incidental thereto in order to exercise that power effectively. A bare reading of Section 173 of the Act also reflects that there is no curtailment or limitations on the powers of the Appellate Court to consider the entire case on facts and law.

11. It is well settled that the right of Appeal is a substantive right and the questions of fact and law are at large and are open to Review by the Appellate Court. Thus, such powers and duties are necessarily to be exercised so as to make the provision of law effective.

12. Generally, finding of fact recorded by Tribunal should not be interfered with in an Appeal until and unless it is proved that glaring discrepancy or mistake has taken place. If the assessment of compensation by the Tribunal was fair and reasonable and the award of the Tribunal was neither contrary nor inconsistent with the relevant facts as per the evidence available on record then as mentioned hereinabove, the High Court would not interfere in the Appeal. In the case in hand, nothing could be pointed out to us as to what were the glaring discrepancies or mistakes in the impugned Award of the Tribunal, which necessitated the Appellate Court to take a different view in the matter."

25. The Apex Court in the case titled as Giani Ram vs. Ramjilal, reported in 1969 (1) SCC 813, held that Order 41 Rule 33 CPC empowers the appellate Court to pass any decree which justice may require. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 8 and 9 of the judgment herein:

"8. Order 41, Rule 33 of the CPC was enacted to meet a situation of the nature arising in this case. In so far as it is material, the rule provides:

"The Appellate Court shall have power to pass any decree and make any order which ought to have been passed or made and to pass or make such further or other decree or order as the case may require, and this power may be exercised by the Court notwithstanding that the appeal is as to part only of the decree and may be exercised in favour of all or any of the respondents or parties, although such respondents or parties may not have filed any appeal or objection.

The expression "which ought to have been passed" means "which ought in law to have been passed". If the Appellate Court is of the view that any decree which ought in law to have been passed, but was in fact not passed by the subordinate court, it may pass or make such further or other decree or order as the justice of the case may require.

9. If the claim of the respondents to retain any part of the property after the death of Jwala is negatived, it would, be perpetrating gave injustice to deny to the widow and the two daughters their share in the property to which they are in law entitled. In our view, the case was one in which the power under Order 41, Rule 33, CPC ought to have been exercised and the claim not only of the three sons but also of the widow and the two daughters ought to have been decreed."

26. The Apex Court inthe cases titled as Narayanarao (dead) through LRs and others vs. Sudarshan, reported in 1995 Supp.(4) SCC 463; Mahant Dhangir and another vs. Madan Mohan and others, reported in 1987 (Supp.) SCC 528, and T.N. Rajasekar vs. N. Kasiviswanathan and others, reported in AIR 2005 SC 3794 held that the High Court, in order to do complete justice to the parties, can invoke the powers under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC and pass orders accordingly.

27. The Apex Court in another case titled as Delhi Electric Supply Undertaking vs. Basanti Devi and another, reported in JT 1999 (7) SC 486, while relying upon its earlier decision in Mahant Dhangir (supra), held in paragraph 19 as under:

> "19. Conditions as laid in provision of Order 41, Rule 33 are satisfied in the present case. When circumstances exist which necessitate the exercise of discretion conferred by Rule 33, the Court cannot be found wanting when it comes to exercise its powers."

28. This Court in H.P. Road Transport Corporation vs. Pt. Jai Ram and etc. etc., reported in AIR 1980 Himachal Pradesh 16, held that under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC, wide powers have been given to the appellate Court and once it is seized of a matter in its appellate jurisdiction, it is within its power to do complete justice between all the concerned parties. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of paras 39 and para 40 of the judgment herein:

> "39. .....Moreover, theme of Order 41 and especially the wide powers given to the Court under Rule 33 of Order 41 suggests that the intention of the Legislature is to see that 'once the Court is seized of a matter in its appellate jurisdiction, it is able to do complete justice between all the concerned parties. To us, therefore, it is very clear that the provision enabling a respondent to file cross-objections made in Rule 22 is a procedural provision under which even if a respondent has not preferred any appeal, the Court is enabled to do complete justice to the parties by allowing the respondent concerned to prefer cross-objections within the period of limitation. Under these circumstances, with great respect to the learned Judges of the Allahabad High Court, we find ourselves unable to accept their view that provision enabling a respondent to file cross-objections is a substantive provision and not a procedural one.
> 40. In view of our finding that provision for filing cross-objections contemplated by Order 41, Rule 22 is a procedural provision, the ratio of the above referred two decisions of the Supreme Court would at once be attracted, and this Court being seized of an appellate jurisdiction conferred by Section 110-D of the Motor Vehicles Act, It has to exercise that jurisdiction in the same manner in which it exercises its other appellate jurisdiction allowing the respondents in such appeals to prefer cross-objections."

29. Keeping in view the ratio of the judgment supra, it can safely be held that the appellate Court is competent to pass any order in the interest of justice.

30. The High Court of Rajasthan, while dilating upon the powers of the Appellate Court under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC, in the case titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Dama Ram and others, reported in 1994 ACJ 692, held that the appellate Court can rectify the error invoking Order 41 Rule 33 CPC even in the absence of Cross Objections or appeal by the claimants. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 7 of the said decision hereunder:

> "7. The Tribunal has not passed award in any case against the owner (insured) of the vehicle. It has passed awards against the appellant insurance company only. It is not in dispute that the Tribunal has categorically held that the said accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the truck by its driver. As such his employer, namely, Mohd. Rafiq, owner of the said truck, was liable for his negligent act. Thus the Tribunal committed a serious error in not making liable the owner and driver of the offending truck to pay the said amounts of compensation. This error can well be corrected by this court by invoking the provisions of Order 41, Rule 33, Civil Procedure Code, even if no cross-objection or appeal has been filed by the claimants-respondents. It has been observed in Kok Singh v. Deokabai AIR 1976 SC 634, paras 6 and 7, as follows:
> > (6) In Giani Ram v. Ramji Lal AIR 1969 SC 1144, the court said that in Order 41, Rule 33, the expression 'which ought to have been passed' means 'what ought in law to have been passed' and if an appellate court is of the view that any decree which ought in law to have been passed was in fact not passed by the court below, it may pass or make such further or other decree or order as the justice of the case may require.

(7) Therefore, we hold that even if the respondent did not file any appeal from the decree of the trial court, that was no bar to the High Court passing a decree in favour of the respondent for the enforcement of the charge. Reference of Murari Lal v. Gomati Devi 1986 ACJ 316 (Rajasthan), may also be made here. Similar view has been taken by me while deciding United India Ins. Co. Ltd. v. Dhali 1992 ACJ 1057 (Rajasthan)."

31. The High Court of Orissa at Cuttack in the case titled as M. Adu Ama vs. Inja Bangaru Raja and another, reported in 1995 ACJ 670, has laid down the same principle of law.

32. This High Court in Himachal Road Transport Corporation vs. Saroj Devi and others, reported in 2002 ACJ 1146, held that appellate Court is not precluded from passing order which it considers just in the facts of the case, without there being any cross objection or cross appeal. It is profitable to reproduce paragraph 15 of the said decision hereunder:

"15. Keeping in view the aforesaid decisions of Supreme Court and different High Courts including this Court , we feel that there being no prohibition in law, i.e., either under Motor Vehicles Act or under the provisions of Civil Procedure Code, this Court is not precluded from passing order which it considers just in the circumstances of a case without there being either cross-objection or cross-appeal. As such we are further of the view that Order 41, Rule 33 is fully applicable to the appeals under the Motor Vehicles Act."

33. In the case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Mast Ram and others, reported in 2004 ACJ 1039, the question arose before this High Court was – whether the appellate Court can modify the award in the absence of cross-appeal. This High Court answered in the affirmative. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 13 of the said judgment hereunder:

"13. Because of what has been held in this judgment, it is felt necessary to exercise power vested in this court under Order 41, Rule 33 of the Civil Procedure Code to set aside the findings in the operative portion of the award requiring the appellant to pay the amount and then to recover it from the 'insurer' (it should have been 'insured'?). This is a direction in the impugned award that needs to be set aside. On this aspect, Mr. Sharma had argued that there is no cross-appeal by the owner of the vehicle. To meet such a situation, legislature had enacted Order 41, Rule 33 in the Civil Procedure Code even in cases where an appeal is not filed by a party, like the owner in the present appeal. As such, this plea cannot be accepted."

34. This High Court in another case titled as LAC Solan and another vs. Bhoop Ram, reported in 1997(2) Sim.L.C. 229, modified the awards in exercise of powers under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC.

35. Faced with the similar situation, the Jammu and Kashmir High Court, in a case titled as State Bank of India vs. M/s Sharma Provision Store and another, reported in AIR 1999 J&K 128, held that a High Court can pass a decree which ought to have been passed by the trial Court. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of paragraph 7 of the said decision hereunder:

"7. .....This is an exceptional situation which authorises this Court in the present appeal to pass such decree as ought to have been passed or as the nature of the case demands. Similarly discretion vested in this Court under the aforesaid provision of law will not be refused to be exercised simply because respondents have not either filed an appeal or cross-objections."

36. This Court in FAO No.203 of 2010, titled as Nati Devi and another versus Maya Devi and others, decided on 20th May, 2016, FAO No. 448 of 2011, titled as Sarita Devi & others versus Ashok Kumar Nagar & others, decided on 17th June, 2016, and FAO (MVA) No. 599 of 2008, titled as Shri Raj Pal Yadav and another versus Smt. Jamna Devi and another, decided on 24th June, 2016,has taken the similar view.

37. Thus, it can easily be deduced that the mandate of Section 96, Section 107(2) and order 41 Rule 33 CPC is just to rectify the errors and achieve the aim and object of the legislation. The purpose of Order 41 CPC, as discussed hereinabove, is to enable the appellate Court to do complete justice between the parties and to pass order which ought to have been passed while keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case.

38. Admittedly, the age of the deceased was 23 years at the time of the accident. The Tribunal has rightly assessed the monthly income of the deceased to be ₹ 15,630/- in terms of the Bill/salary statement of the deceased, Ext. PW-4/B.

39. The deceased was bachelor at the relevant point of time. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly deducted one half towards his personal expenses in terms of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, the claimants have lost source of income to the tune of ₹ 7,800/- per month.

40. The Tribunal has wrongly applied the multiplier of '18'. In view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the MV Act, multiplier of '15' is just and proper.

41. Viewed thus, it is held that the claimants have lost source of income/dependency to the tune of ₹ 7,800/- x 12 x 15 = ₹ 14,04,000/-.

42. The claimants are also held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

43. Having said so, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 14,04,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- = ₹ 14,34,000/- .

44. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in awarding interest @ 8% per annum, which was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates.

45. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281;Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738;Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053;Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982;Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010,titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

46. Having said so, I deem it proper to reduce the rate of interest from 8% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

47. The factum of insurance is admitted, thus, the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with liability.

48. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of, as indicated hereinabove.

49. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts after proper verification.

50. Excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

51. Send down the record after placing copy of thejudgment on the Tribunal's file.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Gautam Nath and another .....Appellants

Versus

Shri Duni Chand and others .....Respondents.

FAO (MVA) No. 120 of 2012.
Date of decision: 16th December, 2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver was driving a tipper un-laden weight of which is 2800 kg. – it falls within definition of light motor vehicle – the driver had a licence to drive light motor vehicle- no endorsement of PSV was required – the driver had a valid licence at the time of accident – the Tribunal wrongly discharged the insurer from liability- appeal allowed and insurer directed to satisfy the award. (Para- 9 to 22)

Cases referred:
Ashok Gangadhar Maratha v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. AIR 1999 SC 3181
National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 SCC 217

For the appellants: Mr. G.R. Palsara, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 19.1.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal II, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MACT No. 38 of 2007, titled Duni Chand and others versus Sh. Gautam Nath and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,36,000/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum was awarded in favour of the claimants and owner and driver came to be saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Claimants and insurer have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to him.

3. Owner and driver have questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in discharging the insurer from the liability and prayed that the insurer be saddled with the liability.

5. Claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident, filed claim petition before the tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 15 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, which was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether the deceased Chaman Lal died due to rash and negligent driving of Tipper No. HP-58-1710 by respondent Leela Prakash as alleged? OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled for compensation, if so to what amount and from whom? OPP.
3. Whether there was breach of terms and conditions of insurance policy? OPR.
4. Whether the driver was not holding valid and effective driving license at the time of accident? OPR-3.
5 Relief.

6. Claimants have examined three witnesses and one of the claimants, namely Duni Chand also stepped into the witness-box as PW3. Respondents examined two witnesses, namely, Prem Singh and Leela Prkash driver of the offending vehicle No. HP-58-1710.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have proved that driver Leela Prakash had driven the offending vehicle bearing registration No. HP-58-1710 (Tipper) rashly and negligently and had caused the accident. There is no dispute about such findings. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

8. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 and 4 around which the entire controversy revolves. It was for the insurer to lead evidence to prove that the owner has committed willful breach, has not led any evidence. Thus, has failed to discharge the onus. The Tribunal has decided issue No. 4 without making any discussion. Driver was having licence to drive light motor vehicle, copy of which is on record as Ext. RW2/A, which does disclose that the driver was competent to drive LMV transport.

9. Admittedly, the driver was driving Tipper bearing registration No. HP-58-1710, the unladen weight of which is 2800 kilograms, as per the Registration Certificate, Ext. RW1/A, thus falls within the definition of “Light Motor Vehicle” as given in Sections 2 (21) and 2 (28) of the Motor Vehicles Act, for short “the Act”.

10. The learned counsel for the appellants argued that the issues stand already determined by this Court in series of appeals.

11. The same issue was raised before the Supreme Court in case titled Ashok Gangadhar Maratha v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. reported in AIR 1999 SC 3181. It is apt to reproduce paras 10, 11 and 14 of the said judgment herein:

> “10. Definition of "light motor vehicle" as given in clause (21) of Section 2 of the Act can apply only to a "light goods vehicle" or a "light transport vehicle". A "light motor vehicle" otherwise has to be covered by the definition of "motor vehicle" or "vehicle" as given in clause (28) of Section 2 of the Act. A light motor vehicle cannot always mean a light goods carriage. Light motor vehicle can be non-transport vehicle as well.
> 11. To reiterate, since a vehicle cannot be used as transport vehicle on a public road unless there is a permit issued by the Regional Transport Authority for that purpose, and since in the instant case there is neither a pleading to that effect by any party nor is there any permit on record, the vehicle in question, would remain a light motor vehicle. The respondent also does not say that any permit was granted to the appellant for plying the vehicle as a transport vehicle under Section 66 of the Act. Moreover, on the date of accident, the vehicle was not carrying any goods, and thought it could be said to have been designed to be used as a transport vehicle or goods carrier, it cannot be so held on account of the statutory prohibition contained in Section 66 of the Act.

14. Now the vehicle in the present case weighed 5,920 kilograms and the driver had the driving licence to drive a light motor vehicle. It is not that, therefore, that insurance policy covered a transport vehicle which meant a goods carriage. The whole case of the insurer has been built on a wrong premise. It is itself the case of the insurer that in the case of a light motor vehicle which is a non-transport vehicle, there was no statutory requirement to have specific authorisation on the licence of the driver under Form 6 under the Rules. It had, therefore, to be held that Jadhav was holding effective valid licence on the date of accident to drive light motor vehicle bearing Registration No. KA-28-567."

12. This Court in FAO No. 54 of 2012 titled Mahesh Kumar and another vs. *Smt. Piaro Devi and others decided on 25th July, 2014, held that such type of vehicle is LMV. It is apt to reproduce paras 10,11,14,16,18 and 19 of the said judgment herein:

"10.I deem it proper to reproduce the definitions of "driving licence", "light motor vehicle", "private service vehicle" and "transport vehicle" as contained in Sections 2 (10), 2 (21), 2(35) and 2 (47), respectively, of the MV Act herein:

(10) "driving licence" means the licence issued by a competent authority under Chapter II authorising the person specified therein to drive, otherwise than a learner, a motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any specified class or description.

xxx xxx xxx

(21) "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road-roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7,500 kilograms.

xxx xxx xxx

(35) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage, and stage carriage.

(47) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage , an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle."

11. Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides that a "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus, the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7500 kilograms. Section 2 (35) of the MV Act gives the definition of a "public service vehicle", which means any vehicle, which is used or allowed to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage and stage carriage. It does not include light motor vehicle (LMV). Section 2 (47) of the MV Act defines a "transport vehicle". It means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage, an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle.

14. It mandates that the driver should have the licence to drive a particular kind of vehicle and it must contain endorsement for driving a transport vehicle. In this section, the words "light motor vehicle" are not recorded. Meaning thereby, this section is to be read with the definition of other vehicles including the definition given in Section 2 (47) of the MV Act except the definition given in Section 2 (21) of the MV Act for the reason that Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides, as discussed hereinabove, that it includes transport vehicle also.

15.My this view is supported by Section 10 of the MV Act, which reads as under:

"10. Form and contents of licences to drive. -

(1) Every learner's licence and driving licence, except a driving licence issued under section 18, shall be in such form and shall contain such information as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(2) A learner's licence or, as the case may be, driving licence shall also be expressed as entitling the holder to drive a motor vehicle of one or more of the following cases, namely:-

(a) motor cycle without gear;

(b) motor cycle with gear;

(c) invalid carriage;

(d) light motor vehicle;

(e) transport vehicle;

(i) road-roller;

(j) motor vehicle of a specified description."

15- …. ….. …..

16. Section 10 (2) (d) of the MV Act contains "light motor vehicle" and Section 10 (2) (e) of the MV Act, which was substituted in terms of amendment of 1994, class of the vehicles specified in clauses (e) to (h) before amendment stand deleted and the definition of the "transport vehicle" stands inserted. So, the words "transport vehicle" used in Section 3 of the MV Act are to be read viz-a-viz other vehicles, definitions of which are given and discussed hereinabove.

17. ….. ……. …….. …….

18. The purpose of mandate of Sections 2 and 3 of the MV Act came up for consideration before the Apex Court in a case titled as Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791, and after examining the various provisions of the MV Act held that Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on the driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle, which he intends to drive. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 and 23 of the judgment herein:

"19. Section 2(2) of the Act defines articulated vehicle which means a motor vehicle to which a semi-trailer is attached; Section 2(34) defines public place; Section 2(44) defines 'tractor' as a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load; Section 2(46) defines `trailer' which means any vehicle, other than a semi- trailer and a side-car, drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Section 3 of the Act provides for necessity for driving license; Section 5 provides for responsibility of owners of the vehicle for contravention of Sections 3 and 4; Section 6 provides for restrictions on the holding of driving license; Section 56 provides for compulsion for having certificate of fitness for transport vehicles; Section 59 empowers the State to fix the age limit of the vehicles; Section 66 provides for necessity for permits to ply any vehicle for any commercial purpose; Section 67 empowers the State to control road transport; Section 112 provides for limits of speed; Sections 133 and 134 imposes a duty on the owners and the drivers of the vehicles in case of accident and injury to a person; Section 146 provides that no person shall use any

23. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving license for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables the Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licenses for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said Section. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are 'goods carriage', 'heavy goods vehicle', 'heavy passenger motor vehicle', 'invalid carriage', 'light motor vehicle', 'maxi-cab', 'medium goods vehicle', 'medium passenger motor vehicle', 'motor-cab', 'motorcycle', 'omnibus', 'private service vehicle', 'semi- trailer', 'tourist vehicle', 'tractor', 'trailer' and 'transport vehicle'."

19. The Apex Court in another case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 906, has also discussed the purpose of amendments, which were made in the year 1994 and the definitions of 'light motor vehicle', 'medium goods vehicle' and the necessity of having a driving licence. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 14 and 16 of the judgment herein:

"8. Mr. S.N. Bhat, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that the contention raised herein by the appellant has neither been raised before the Tribunal nor before the High Court. In any event, it was urged, that keeping in view the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' as contained in Section 2(21) of the Motor vehicles Act, 1988 ('Act' for short), a light goods carriage would come within the purview thereof.

A 'light goods carriage' having not been defined in the Act, the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' clearly indicates that it takes within its umbrage, both a transport vehicle and a non-transport vehicle.

Strong reliance has been placed in this behalf by the learned counsel in Ashok Gangadhar Maratha vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [1999 (6) SCC 620].

9. .....

10. .....

11. .....

12. .....

13. .....

14. Rule 14 prescribes for filing of an application in Form 4, for a licence to drive a motor vehicle, categorizing the same in nine types of vehicles.

Clause (e) provides for 'Transport vehicle' which has been substituted by G.S.R. 221(E) with effect from 28.3.2001. Before the amendment in 2001, the entries medium goods vehicle and heavy goods vehicle existed which have been substituted by transport vehicle. As noticed hereinbefore, Light Motor Vehicles also found place therein.

15. .....

16. From what has been noticed hereinbefore, it is evident that 'transport vehicle' has now been substituted for 'medium goods vehicle' and 'heavy goods vehicle'. The light motor vehicle continued, at the relevant point of time, to cover both, 'light passenger carriage vehicle' and 'light goods carriage vehicle'.

A driver who had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle, therefore, was authorised to drive a light goods vehicle as well."

13. Applying the ratio, the vehicle in question is a "Light Motor Vehicle".

14. Same principles of law have been laid down by this Court in FAOs No. 385 of 2007 & 388 of 2007, decided on 14.11.2014, FAOs No. 33 & 55 of 2010, decided on 17.10.2014, FAO No. 293 of 2006 decided on 4.4.2014, and FAO No. 319 of 2012 decided on 2.12.2016.

15. Having said so, the Tribunal has wrongly decided issue No. 4. Accordingly, it is held that the driver was holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and owner has not committed any breach.

16. It was for the insurer to plead and prove the insurer has committed willful breach in terms of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

"105. .....

(i) .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

17. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, herein:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

18. Having glance of the above discussion, findings on issue No. 3 are set aside and is decided in favour of the claimants and against the insurer.

19. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in discharging the insurer from the liability.

20. Factum of insurance is not in dispute. Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

21. In view of the above, the appeal is allowed, impugned award is modified and the insurer is directed to satisfy the award.

22. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest, as awarded by the Tribunal, within eight weeks from today in the Registry. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification. Statutory amount deposited by the appellants, is awarded as costs in favour of the claimants, be released accordingly.

23. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Hari Chand and another ..... Appellants

Versus

Chaya Kumari and others ..... Respondents

FAO No.415 of 2012 a/w
CO No.172 of 2013
Date of decision: 16.12.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle – it was nowhere provided that the driver was not competent to drive a motorcycle or a scooter – the Tribunal had fallen into error in holding that the driver did not have a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle – it was for the insurer to prove the breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and mere plea is not sufficient to seek exoneration. (Para-8 to 13)

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was running a tea shop and was earning Rs.8,000/- per month – however, no documentary proof was filed – the income of the deceased can be taken as Rs.6,000/- per month or Rs.200/- per day- after deducting 1/3rd amount towards the personal income, loss of source of dependency will be Rs.4,000/- per month – the deceased was 55 years of age and multiplier of 10 is applicable- thus, the claimants are entitled to Rs.4,000 x 12 x 10= Rs.4,80,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency – claimants are also entitled to Rs.10,000/- each under the heads loss of estate, loss of love and affection, loss of consortium and funeral expenses – the deceased remained admitted in the hospital w.e.f. 14th May, 2011 till 21st May, 2011 and must have spent some amount on the treatment – compensation of Rs.50,000/- awarded under the head treatment- claimants are entitled to Rs.4,80,000 + 40,000+ 50,000= Rs.5,70,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum.

For the appellants:	Mr.G.R. Palsara, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr.Adarsh Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2. Mr.Bhender Kumar Chaudhary, Advocate, for respondent No.3. Mr.P.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 25th July, 2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kullu, District Kullu, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.22 of 2011, titled Chaya Kumari and others vs. Hari Chand and others, whereby the claim petition was allowed and compensation to the tune of Rs.3,76,400/-, with interest at the rate of 9% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants No.1 and 3, and the owner and the driver came to be saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Feeling aggrieved, the owner and the driver have challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal, the claimants have filed Cross Objections No.172 of 2013 for enhancement of compensation, while the insurer has not laid challenge to the impugned award on any ground.

3. Facts of the case, in brief, are that on 14th May, 2011, at about 8.00 p.m., at Jhiri, District Mandi, H.P., original respondent No.2, namely, Karam Chand had driven the scooter bearing No.HP-34-7757 rashly and negligent, hit the deceased Pawan Kumar, as a result of which he sustained multiple injuries, was shifted to Zonal Hospital, Kullu, referred to PGI Chandigarh, where he succumbed to the injures, on 21st May, 2011. FIR bearing No.41/2011, dated 15.5.2011, was lodged at Police Station, Aut, District Mandi, H.P. It was pleaded that the deceased was running a tea shop and was earning Rs.8,000/- per month. Hence, the claim petition for compensation to the tune of Rs.10.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given therein.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents by filing replies. On the pleadings of the parties, the Tribunal framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether Pawan Kumar died on 14.5.2011 in a motor vehicle accident on account of rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2? OPP
> 2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation and at what rate of interest, the petitioners are entitled? OPP
> 3. Whether the respondent -3 is liable to make payment of compensation as indemnifier? OPP
> 4. Whether the vehicle in question was driven in breach of terms and conditions of the insurance policy? OPR-3
> 5. Whether respondent No.2 was not having valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle? OPR-3

5. In order to prove their claim, the claimants examined PW-1 Dr.Akshit Chandel and PW-3 HC Khem Chand, while one of the claimants, namely, Sumit Kumar stepped into the witness box as PW-2. On the other hand, the driver and the owner have examined Devi Ram as RW-1while the insurer has not led any evidence.

6. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, held that the claimants have proved that Karam Chand had driven the scooter rashly and negligently on the fateful day and had caused the accident, in which the deceased sustained injuries and succumbed to the same lateron. The said findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are not in dispute. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

7. Before I deal with issues No.2 and 3, I deem it proper to take up issues No.4 and 5 at the first place.

8. It is beaten law of the land that the insurer has to plead and prove that the owner of the offending vehicle has committed willful breach of the terms and conditions contained in the policy and mere plea here and there cannot be a ground for seeking exoneration.

9. The Apex Court in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531, has taken the similar view. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment hereinbelow:

> (i) .....
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in subsection (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings; but must also

establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

10. It is also profitable to reproduce para 10 of the latest judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 hereinbelow:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran ingh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is 8 :fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

11. Thus, it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy, has not led any evidence to that effect, thus, has failed to discharge the onus. The findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No.4 are not legally and factually correct and are liable to be set aside. Accordingly, the findings on issue No.4 are set aside and the said issue is decided against the insurer.

12. As far as issue No.5 is concerned, it has been proved on record that the driver, namely, Karam Chand, was having a valid and effective driving licence to drive a Light Motor Vehicle. The driving licence has been proved on record as Ext.RW-1/A, a perusal of which does disclose that the driver was competent to drive a Light Motor Vehicle. It was nowhere stipulated in the said driving licence that the driver was not competent to drive a motor cycle or scooter. The Tribunal has fallen into an error in holding that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the offending vehicle. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.5 are liable to be set aside and the same are set aside. The said issue is decided against the insurer.

13. In so far as issue No.3 is concerned, the factum of insurance is admitted. As has been discussed above, the insurer has failed to prove that the offending vehicle was being driven, at the relevant point of time, in contravention of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. Therefore, this issue is decided in favour of the claimants and against the insurer and the insurer is held liable to pay the compensation.

14. Coming to issue No.2, which pertains to the quantum of compensation, the deceased, as has been pleaded, was running a tea shop at the time of accident and was earning Rs.8,000/- per month. Qua the income of the deceased, no documentary proof has been proved on record, but, it has come in the statement of PW-2 Sumit Kumar that the deceased was earning Rs.8,000/- per month, which has remained uncontroverted. The Tribunal has wrongly assessed the income of the deceased at Rs.4,000/-. As per the pleadings and the evidence on record, it can safely be said that the deceased was earning Rs.6,000/- per month i.e. Rs.200/- per day. Thus, it is held that the deceased, at the time of death, was earning Rs.6,000/- per month and after deducting 1/3rd towards his personal expenses, loss of source of dependency to the claimants can be said to be Rs.4,000/- per month.

15. The Tribunal has wrongly applied the multiplier of 11. The deceased, at the time of accident, was 55 years of age. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120 read with the 2nd Schedule attached with the Act, multiplier of 10 is just and appropriate and is applied in the present case.

16. Having said so, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.4,000/- x 12 x 10 = Rs.4,80,000/- under the head 'loss of source of dependency'.

17. In addition, the claimants are also held entitled to Rs.10,000/- each, i.e. Rs.40,000/- in all, under the heads 'loss of estate', 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of consortium' and 'funeral expenses'.

18. Apart from the above, the claimants have superficially pleaded in the claim petition and also proved by leading evidence that the deceased, after the accident, remained admitted in the hospital w.e.f. 14th May, 2011 (the date of accident) till 21st May, 2011, when he succumbed to the injuries sustained by him. Thus, during this period, the claimants would have spent considerable amount for the treatment of the deceased. Thus, supposedly, I award Rs.50,000/- under the head 'treatment'.

19. Having said so, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.4,80,000/- + Rs.40,000/- + Rs.50,000/- = Rs.5,70,000/-.

20. The Tribunal has also fallen into an error in awarding interest at the rate of 9% per annum. It is beaten law of land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

21. Having said so, it is held that the amount of compensation shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the deposit thereof.

22. Yet again, the Tribunal has wrongly not awarded anything in favour of claimant Sumit Kumar, who is the son of the deceased. Accordingly, it is held that the amount of compensation shall be apportioned amongst all the claimants equally.

23. The amount of compensation, alongwith interest, shall be deposited by the insurer before the Tribunal below within a period of eight weeks from today and on deposit, the same be released in favour of the claimants forthwith. In case the owner/appellant has already deposited the amount of compensation, the same be released in his favour alongwith up-to-date interest accrued thereon, through payee's account cheque, after the amount is deposited by the insurer and released to the claimants.

24. In view of the above discussion, the appeal and the cross objections are allowed and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above. The appeal and cross objections stand disposed of accordingly.

For the petitioners/ applicants: Mr. Rakesh Manta, Advocate.

For the respondent/Non-applicant: Ms. Parul Negi, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral):

Cr. MP No. 1281 of 2016&Cr. MP No. 1283 of 2016

This Court vide its judgment dated 02.11.2016, dismissed the Criminal Revision Petition filed by the present applicants against judgments passed by the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Court No. 1, Kasauli in Criminal Case No. 73/2 of 2009 dated 08.08.2011 and Court of learned Sessions Judge, Solan in Criminal Appeal No. 33-S/10 of 2011 dated 08.03.2013, respectively, whereby the present applicants were convicted by the learned trial Court, which judgment was upheld by the learned appellate Court.

2. By way of these applications, applicants have averred that while dismissing the revision petition, this Court erred in not granting benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 to the convicts as is envisaged under Section 6 read with Section 11 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, keeping in view the fact that at the time when the crime was committed, both the accused were less than 21 years of age and even when the judgment was announced by the learned trial Court, the age of accused was less than 21 years.

3. According to Mr. Manta, there is no unfettered discretion vested in this Court so as not to comply with the provisions of Section 6 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and according to him, because the age of the convicts at the time when the crime was committed was less than 21 years, it was mandatory for this Court to have had granted them benefit of Probation of Offenders Act. For this purpose, Mr. Manta has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramji Missar and another Vs. State of Bihar AIR 1963 Supreme Court 1088 and Rattan Lal Vs. The State of Punjab AIR 1965 Supreme Court 444.

4. I have heard Mr. Rakesh Manta, learned counsel for the applicants/petitioners as well as learned Deputy Advocate General.

5. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court demonstrates that after convicting the accused and before imposing sentence upon them, learned trial Court considered the factum as to whether the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act was to be granted to the accused or not and after due application of mind, it held that keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case, the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act cannot be extended to the accused. The findings so returned by the learned trial Court are quoted hereinbelow:

> "27. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances and the manner in which the complainant was assaulted by the convicts much lenient view cannot be taken and the facts and circumstances of the case too suggest that it is also not a case where the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act can be given to the convicts. The complainant was very brutally assaulted by the convicts without any reason and it shows their high headedness. Owing to these facts and circumstances, neither much lenient view can be taken not the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act can be given to the convicts. However, keeping in view the fact that convicts are facing the trauma of the trial for the last three years and are first offenders a little lenient view is taken and the convicts are sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for one year and fine of Rs.1000/- (Rs. One thousand only) each for the commission of offence punishable under Section 325 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. In default of payment of fine the convicts shall further undergo simple imprisonment for thirty days."

6. Therefore, it is not a case where learned trial Court after convicting the accused, imposed sentence upon them in ignorance of the provisions of Section 6 of the Probation of Offenders Act.

7. A perusal of the grounds of appeal taken by the convicts before the learned appellate Court demonstrate that there was no challenge in the grounds of appeal to the adjudication made by the learned trial Court of not granting the convicts the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act. Similarly, even before this Court in the revision petition, there was no specific challenge laid to the order passed by the learned trial Court of not granting benefit of Probation of Offenders Act to the convicts and all that was stated in the revision petition was that the Courts below could have extended the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act to the convicts.

8. In my considered view, whether or not the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act is to be granted is a discretion vested with the Courts and though this discretion has to be exercised in a judicious manner by the learned Courts and not in an arbitrary manner, however, the convicts cannot force a Court to mandatorily grant a convict benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, if the convict happens to be less than 21 years of age at the time when the crime was committed, as is being canvassed by the petitioners. Neither Rule 6 of the Probation of Offenders Act nor Rule

11 of the same mandatorily directs a Court of law to grant benefit of Probation of Offenders Act to an accused if the accused happens to be less than 21 years of age at the time of commission of the offence, as is in fact the plea of the learned counsel for the petitioners. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in neither of the judgments relied upon by the petitioners has laid down this law that if an accused is less than 21 years of age as on the date when the offence is committed, then mandatorily he has to be granted benefit of Probation of Offenders Act.

9. Even otherwise, in my considered view, the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants/petitioners do not have any applicability in the facts of the present case, because therein the factual position was totally different as High Court in the matter reported in AIR 1963 Supreme Court 1088, had refused to exercise its powers under Section 11 of the Probation of Offenders Act on the ground that at the time when the accused were convicted by the learned trial Court, they were more than 21 years of age. It is not the factual position in this case, because admittedly it is not as if the learned trial Court refused to grant the accused benefit of Probation of Offenders Act on the ground that at the time when the judgment was announced by the learned trial Court, they were more than 21 years of age.

10. As I have already held above, learned trial Court has not denied the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act on the basis of erroneous or wrong consideration of age of the accused. It has denied the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act after taking into consideration the facts of the case.

11. Similarly, the factual position on which the Hon'ble Supreme Court adjudicated in AIR 1965 Supreme Court 444 is also not akin to the factual position in this case, because in that case, the issue was with regard to retrospective operation of the Probation of Offenders Act.

12. There is no force in the arguments of learned counsel for the applicants/petitioners that because the applicants were less than 21 years of age as on the day when the crime was committed, therefore, they were entitled to be extended the benefit under Sections 3 & 4 or Section 6 of the Probation of Offenders Act, as a matter of right.

13. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohd. Hashim Vs. State of UP & Ors., Criminal Appeal No. 1218 of 2016, decided on 28.11.2016 has held:

> "20. Presently, we shall advert to the second plank of the submission advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant. In Rattan Lal vs. State of Punjab7 . Subba Rao, J., speaking for the majority, opined thus:-
> "The Act is a milestone in the progress of the modern liberal trend of reform in the field of penology. It is the result of the recognition of the doctrine that the object of criminal law is more to reform the individual offender than to punish him. Broadly stated, the Act distinguishes offenders 7 AIR 1965 SC 444 Page 15 15 below 21 years of age and those above that age, and offenders who are guilty of having committed an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years absolute discretion is given to the court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct, subject to the conditions laid down in the appropriate provisions of the Act, in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years an injunction is issued to the court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case; including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the Act."
> We have reproduced the aforesaid passage to understand the philosophy behind the Act.
> 21. In this regard, it is also seemly to refer to other authorities to highlight how the discretion vested in a court under the PO Act is to be exercised. In Ram Prakash vs. State of Himachal Pradesh8 , while dealing with Section 4 of the PO Act in the context of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954, the Court opined that the word 'may' used in Section 4 of the PO Act does not mean 'must'. On the contrary, as has been held in the said authority, it has been made clear in categorical terms that the provisions of the PO Act distinguishes offenders below 21 years of age and those 8 AIR 1973 SC 780 Page 16 16 above that age and offenders who are guilty of committing an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. Thereafter, the Court has proceeded to observe:- "While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years, absolute discretion is given to the Court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years, an injunction is issued to the Court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the Act. (Ratan Lal vs. State of Punjab (supra) and Ramji Missir vs. the State of Bihar (AIR 1963 SC 1088)."

14. Therefore, in view of the findings returned above, these applications are dismissed.

15. As this Court has not interfered in the applications filed under Section 11(1) of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, these applications are accordingly dismissed as infructuous.

For the appellant(s): Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.

For the respondent(s): Ms. Anjali Soni Verma, Advocate, for the claimants in respective appeals.
Mr. Rita Goswami, Advocate, for owner and driver in respective appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

These appeals are outcome of one motor vehicle accident allegedly caused by driver, namely, Shakti Chand, while driving vehicle bus bearing registration No. HP-39-5281, rashly and negligently on 19.2.2009. Thus, I deem it proper to determine all these appeals by this common judgment.

2. Claimants had filed separate claim petitions before Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II Kangra at Dharamshala, for short "the Tribunal" for the grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in their respective claim petitions. The claim petitions were resisted by all the respondents and issues came to be framed by the Tribunal in all the claim petitions. I deem it proper to reproduce one set of issues framed in MACP No. 26-K/2009, subject matter of FAO No. 451 of 2012 herein.

1. Whether on account of rash and negligent driving by respondent No. 2 on 19.2.2009 caused the death of deceased Subham Chaudhary? OPP
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP
3. Whether the offending vehicle bearing registration No.HP-39-5281 as over loaded and violated the terms and conditions of the insurance policy? OPR
4. Whether the deceased was travelling in the vehicle No. HP-39-5281 as gratuitous passenger? OPR.
5. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR
6. Whether respondent No. 1 was not having valid route permit, registration certificate, and fitness certificate?
7. Whether the accident is the result of mechanical defect? OPR
8. Relief.

3. Compensation came to be granted by the Tribunal, in favour of the claimants in different claim petitions vide separate awards and insurer was saddled with the liability, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned awards", for short. The details of compensation awarded in the claim petitions vide impugned awards are as under:-

4. Claimants, owner-insured and driver have not questioned the impugned awards on any ground. Thus, the same have attained finality so far as they relate to them.

5. The appellant/ insurer has questioned the impugned awards on the following grounds;

(i) That the compensation awarded is excessive;

(ii) That it is case of overloading,

(iii) That the driver was not having a valid and effective diving licence at the time of accident.

6. All the three grounds are not well founded and sustainable, for the following reasons.

7. I have gone through all the impugned awards. The amount awarded is rather meager. Unfortunately, the claimants have not questioned the same and even have not prayed for the enhancement, are maintained. However, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding interest at a higher rate in four claim petitions, subject matter of FAOs No. 98 of 2013, 99 of 2013, 100 of 2013 and 101 of 2013. The interest was to be awarded at the rate of 7.5% per annum, for the following reasons.

8. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014, AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

9. Accordingly, interest @7.5% per annum is awarded from the date of claim petitions till realization of the amount in four appeals, referred to supra.

10. It is stated that the insurer has not questioned the impugned awards in other claim petitions for the reasons that the amount awarded was meager and in terms of the mandate of Motor Vehicles Act, for short "the Act" the appeal was not competent. It is worthwhile to mention herein that it is not the case of the insurer that the claim petitions were filed more than the risk covered. Seating capacity of the offending vehicle was 29 and the claim petitions have been filed for the compensation, viz-a-viz risk covered.

11. The Tribunal has rightly directed the insurer to satisfy the awards. Even otherwise, in case more claim petitions would have been filed, insurer had to satisfy the highest award. The Tribunal has awarded the amount relating to 29 claim petitions. Accordingly, this ground is also turned down.

12. Learned counsel for the insurer has argued that the interrogatories were sent to the District Judge, Mathura, for doing the needful, who has sent the report to the Tribunal, which does disclose that the original driving licence was not issued in the name of driver Shakti Chand and that has not been taken into consideration by the Tribunal. The driving licence is on record and it is recorded by the Tribunal that the original licence was not issued in favour of the driver aforesaid. But unfortunately, insurer has not taken any steps to prove the said report. However, be that as it may, the admitted case of the parties is that the driving licence was renewed in Kangra at Dharamshala and renewal is not fake. It was for the insurer to prove that the owner-insured was knowing that the licence was fake and that the insurer has committed willful breach in terms of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

(i) .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

13. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, herein:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

14. Viewed thus, this ground also fails and is accordingly turned down.

15. Factum of insurance is not in dispute. Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

16. Having glance of the above discussion, all the appeals are disposed of, impugned awards, except four, are upheld and the impugned awards so far the same relate to FAOs No. 98, 99, 100 and 101 of 2013, are modified, as indicated hereinabove.

17. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest @ 7.5% within eight weeks from today in the Registry. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned awards, through payees' account cheque, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification. Excess amount , if any be refunded to the appellant/insurer accordingly.

18. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Om Parkash ... Appellant
Versus

RSA No.229 of 2008
Reserved on: 25.11.2016
Date of decision:16.12.2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for specific performance and in the alternative for damages – it was pleaded that plaintiff had entered into an agreement to purchase the suit land for a consideration of Rs.98,000/- - a sum of Rs.70,000/- was paid as earnest money- the balance was to be paid at the time of the execution of the sale deed – the defendants failed to execute the sale deed- hence, the suit was filed – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was partly allowed- held in second appeal that both the Courts found that agreement to sell was executed between the parties – sum of Rs.70,000/- was paid as earnest money- - Courts also found that Rs.28,000/- was not paid by the plaintiff on or before the due date – a substantial amount was paid to the defendants at the time of execution of the agreement – the suit should have been decreed by the Courts for specific performance – appeal allowed and the suit of the plaintiff decreed for the specific performance of the agreement.(Para-13 to 19)

For the appellant: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Basant Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Ex parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of this appeal, appellant/plaintiff has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Solan, Camp at Nalagarh, in Civil Appeal No. 6-NL/13 of 2007 dated 16.01.2008, vide which learned Appellate Court while partly setting aside the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Nalagarh, in Civil Suit No. 162/1 of 2004 dated 30.04.2007, decreed the suit of the appellant/plaintiff partly, by holding the appellant/plaintiff to be entitled for decree for recovery of Rs.70,000/- from respondents/defendants with interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of payment till its realization with proportionate costs.

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the case are that the appellant/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff), filed a suit for specific performance of contract dated 15.11.2002 and in the alternative, suit for damages on the grounds that the defendants were owners in possession of the suit land measuring 1 Bigha 8 Biswas being 1/3rd share of total land measuring 4 Bighas 4 Biswas comprised in Khata/Khatauni Nos. 62min/62min, bearing Khasra No. 560 (4-4), situated in village Nangal Nihla, Pargana Plassi, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan and the plaintiff was interested to purchase the suit land and as defendants agreed to sell the said land to the plaintiff for a total sale consideration of Rs.98,000/-, accordingly an agreement to sell was reduced into writing on 15.11.2002 which was duly signed by the parties in the presence of the attesting witnesses. As per the plaintiff, a sum of Rs.70,000/- was paid as earnest money to the defendants at the time of execution of said agreement to sell on 15.11.2002 and it was agreed between the parties that the remaining amount of Rs.28,000/- shall be paid on or before 15.01.2003 and that the defendants will execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff on or before 15.01.2003. As per the plaintiff, he undertook to bear the expenses of sale deed and the defendants undertook to keep the suit land free from all encumbrances till the execution of the sale deed. Further as per the plaintiff, the balance amount of sale consideration i.e. Rs.28,000/- was also paid to the defendants on 30.11.2002 as the defendants had approached the plaintiff to pay the same on the ground that they were constructing their houses and therefore, they required the money. As per the plaintiff, defendants assured that they would execute the sale deed as and when the plaintiff would ask them to execute the sale deed, however, later on, they started postponing the execution of the sale deed of the suit land on one pretext or the other. As per the plaintiff, he remained always ready and willing and was still ready and willing to perform his part of contract dated 15.11.2002 but the defendants were not ready and willing to perform their part of contract and were not executing the sale deed of the suit land as per terms and conditions of agreement dated 15.11.2002. It was further pleaded in the plaint that the plaintiff requested defendants lastly on 12.05.2004 to execute the sale deed as per the terms of agreement dated 15.11.2002 but defendants were not ready to fulfil their part of contract and threatened to alienate the same to some other person and to cause wrongful loss to the plaintiff and wrongful gains for themselves. As per the plaintiff, the cause of action arose in his favour on 15.01.2003 when the defendants did not turn in the office of Sub Registrar, Nalagarh, to execute the sale deed as per terms of agreement dated 15.11.2002 and lastly on 12.05.2004 when defendants irrevocably refused to execute the sale deed. On these basis, the plaintiff prayed for decree for possession by way of specific performance of contract dated 15.11.2002 qua the suit land and in the alternative, decree for recovery of Rs.1,50,000/- alongiwth interest as damages so suffered and sustained by the plaintiff on account of non-performance of part of contract by the defendants with costs.

3. Defendants contested the suit and in the written statement took the stand that the consideration amount of sale agreement was not paid to the defendants and in fact, no agreement to sell was executed or signed by the defendants. As per averments made in the written statement, defendants had not agreed to sell their share to plaintiff. It was denied by the defendants that in November, 2002 an amount of Rs.28,000/- was also received by them from the plaintiffs as was pleaded by the plaintiff. The execution of sale agreement between the parties was denied and it was further stated in the written statement that if the sale agreement had been executed by the plaintiff himself, in that event the same was not binding on the defendants.

4. By way of replication, the plaintiff reiterated the claim as was made in the plaint.

5. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the decree qua possession by way of specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 as prayed? ... OPP

5. Whether the plaintiff is also entitled for the decree to the tune of Rs.1,50,000/- alongwith interest and damages as prayed? ... OPP

6. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable and competent in law and facts? ... OPD

7. Whether there is no cause of action, as alleged? .... OPD

8. Whether the plaintiff has properly valued the suit for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction? .... OPP

9. Whether the plaintiff has suppressed the material facts, as alleged? ... OPD

7. Relief.

6. On the basis of material placed on record by the respective parties, learned trial Court returned the following findings to the issues so framed:-

Issue No. 1:	No.
Issue No. 2:	No.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	Yes.
Issue No. 6:	Yes.
Relief. :	The suit of the plaintiff stands dismissed as per operative portion of the Judgment.

7. While dismissing the suit so filed by the plaintiff, learned trial Court held that the execution of agreement to sell Ext. P-1 was duly proved and as it was clearly mentioned in the agreement to sell that an amount of Rs.70,000/- was received by the defendants and remaining amount of Rs.28,000/- was to be paid on or before 15.01.2003 and failure to make said payment on or before 15.01.2003 would result in forfeiture of earnest money, therefore, it was to be examined whether the plaintiff had paid Rs.28,000/- to the defendants. Learned trial Court held that the plaintiff himself was not confident with regard to payment of Rs.28,000/- as it was mentioned in affidavit in examination-in-chief that if receipt of Rs.28,000/- was not proved then he was ready and willing to pay Rs.28,000/- again. Learned trial Court held that there was no need to mention this fact had he actually paid the same. It was further held by learned trial Court that the plaintiff had not deposed in his affidavit in examination-in-chief that he had gone to the office of Sub Registrar, Nalagarh, on 15.01.2003 for the purpose of execution of the sale deed. Learned trial Court also held that in the absence of any evidence having been led by the plaintiff in this regard it could be easily inferred that on 15.01.2003 plaintiff had not gone to the office of Sub Registrar. On these basis, it was concluded by learned trial Court that it stood proved that receipt of Rs.28,000/- and willingness to get the sale deed registered on 15.01.2003 by plaintiff was not proved. Learned trial Court further held that as the relief under Specific Relief Act was discretionary relief and person who was seeking specific performance should have come to the Court with clean hands and as plaintiff had failed to prove that he had paid Rs.28,000/- and was willing to execute the sale deed as per the terms and conditions of the agreement, the plaintiff was not entitled to specific performance of the contract in view of the terms and conditions of the agreement to sell in which it was mentioned that if the amount of Rs.28,000/- was not paid by the plaintiff on or before 15.01.2003, then Rs.70,000/- shall be forfeited. On these basis learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and decree so passed by learned trial Court, plaintiff filed an appeal.

9. Learned Appellate Court vide its judgment dated 16.01.2008 while partly setting aside the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, partly allowed the suit of the plaintiff by holding him entitled for recovery of Rs.70,000/- from the defendants with interest @ 6% per annum from the date of payment till its realization with proportionate costs. While arriving at the said conclusion, it was held by learned Appellate Court that dubious stand taken by the plaintiff in his affidavit about the payment of balance amount of Rs.28,000/- created a doubt as to the payment of this amount to the defendants on 30.11.2002 as there was no documentary proof of such document and it did not stand to reason that the plaintiff would have paid this amount without securing any receipt and without any witness. Learned Appellate Court held that even if the parties were closely related and if the amount had actually been paid on said date then why plaintiff did not ensure the execution of the sale deed, was also not explained. On these basis, it was held by learned Appellate Court that learned trial Court had rightly rejected this part of the evidence produced by the plaintiff to prove that the balance amount of sale consideration stood paid and had correctly drawn the inference that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. However, learned Appellate Court further held that learned trial Court wrongly rejected the claim of the plaintiff for return of advanced money, as though the balance amount was not paid by the plaintiff by the agreed date, the condition in the agreement to sell that if the same was not paid on or before the date mentioned in the agreement to sell, should not have been construed strictly as time was not generally the essence of the contract in case of sale of immoveable property. Learned Appellate Court further held that in the case in hand substantial amount was paid to the defendants as an advance by the plaintiff and he had stated in the deposition that he was willing and ready to pay the balance amount during the pendency of the suit. On these basis, it was held by learned Appellate Court that learned trial Court should have ordered the payment of the advance amount if no damages as claimed, especially when learned trial Court had specifically rejected the plea of the defendants of not executing the agreement to sell and not receiving the advance of Rs.70,000/- which fact was duly proved by the evidence of the plaintiff. On these basis, learned Appellate Court held the plaintiff to be entitled for decree for recovery of Rs.70,000/- from the defendants at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of payment till its realization with proportionate costs.

10. The judgment and decree so passed by learned Appellate Court stands assailed by the plaintiff on the ground that learned Appellate Court should have had passed a decree for specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 in favour of the plaintiff rather than passing a decree for recovery of Rs.70,000/- alongwith interest and proportionate costs which was admitted on 19.05.2008 on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the learned lower appellate Court mis-directed itself in not granting a decree for specific performance once it come to the conclusion that the agreement to sell has proved on record and that the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract?"

11. The judgment and decree passed by learned Appellate Court has not been challenged by the defendants.

12. I have heard learned Senior counsel for the appellant and have also gone through the records of the case as well as judgments and decrees passed by both learned Courts below.

13. The factum of agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002 Ext. P-1 having been executed between the plaintiff and defendants has been held concurrently in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants by both the learned Courts below. Similarly, the factum of defendants having received Rs.70,000/- out of total sale consideration of Rs.98,000/- has also been concurrently held by learned Courts below in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants. Whereas, learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff for specific performance of contract and for damages, learned Appellate Court while modifying the judgment and decree so passed by learned trial Court though dismissed the suit of the plaintiff for specific performance, however, it partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff held him entitled for recovery of Rs.70,000/- from the date of payment till its realization alongwith interest and proportionate costs. As per the appellant/plaintiff when both learned Courts blow had concurrently come to the conclusion that agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002 was duly executed between the plaintiff and defendants and the defendants had received an amount of Rs.70,000/- as advance out of total sale consideration of Rs.98,000/- from the plaintiff then the said Court should have had passed a decree for specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 in favour of the plaintiff rather than passing a decree for recovery of Rs.70,000/- as has been done by learned Appellate Court.

14. While denying the relief of specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 in favour of the plaintiff, both learned Courts below have held that as the plaintiff had neither paid the balance sale consideration of Rs.28,000/- as per terms of agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002 nor he had proved on record his willingness to execute the sale deed, therefore, he was not entitled for the specific performance of agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002.

15. A perusal of the judgment passed by learned Appellate Court demonstrates that the said Court held that clause contained in the agreement to sell to the effect that in case balance amount of Rs.28,000/- was not paid by the plaintiff to the defendants on or before 15.01.2003 then the earnest amount would be forfeited was not required to be construed strictly as time was not generally essence of the contract in case of sale of immoveable property.

16. In my considered view, taking into consideration the said findings returned by learned Appellate Court and the factum of willingness expressed by the plaintiff to perform his part of the agreement to sell both in the plaint as well as in the witness box, learned Appellate Court erred in not granting the relief of specific performance of agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002 in favour of the plaintiff. No doubt, the relief of specific performance of contract is a discretionary relief but the said discretion has to be exercised by the Court taking into consideration the totality of the circumstances and not in a whimsical manner. In the present case, admittedly out of the total sale consideration of Rs.98,000/-, a substantial amount of Rs.70,000/- stood paid to the defendants by the plaintiff at the time of the execution of agreement to sell. Neither the execution of agreement to sell nor receipt of an amount of Rs.70,000/- as earnest money has been disbelieved by both learned Courts below. Not only this, both learned Courts below erred in not appreciating that defence of the defendants was not that though they were willing to perform their part of the agreement, however, it was the plaintiff who failed to pay the balance amount and did not turn up for the execution of the sale deed. The stand of the defendants was of total denial about the execution of the agreement to sell itself which stand was found to be incorrect by both learned Courts below.

17. In this view of the matter, in my considered view, interest of justice demanded that learned Appellate Court should have had decreed the suit of the plaintiff for specific performance of agreement to sell dated 15.11.2002 rather than decreeing the suit of the plaintiff for recovery of Rs.70,000/- from the defendants. Learned Appellate Court could have had directed the plaintiff to pay the balance amount of Rs.28,000/- to the defendants as both the learned Courts had held that the plaintiff could not prove that he had paid the balance amount to the defendants, however, denial of the relief of specific performance to the plaintiff on this count cannot be justified.

18. In view of the above discussion, this appeal is allowed and the judgment and decree passed by learned Appellate Court is set aside whereby learned Appellate Court has not granted the decree of specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 in favour of the plaintiff and the suit of the plaintiff is decreed for specific performance of agreement dated 15.11.2002 qua suit land measuring 1 Bigha 8 Biswas being 1/3rd share of total land measuring 4 Bighas 4 Biswas comprised in Khata/Khatauni Nos. 62min/62min, bearing Khasra No. 560 (4-4), situated in village Nangal Nihla, Pargana Plassi, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan. Defendants are directed to execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff within a period of two months from today and the plaintiff is directed to pay the balance amount of Rs.28,000/- to the defendants at the time of execution of the sale deed. It is further directed that the expenses of the sale deed as well as other incidental expenses shall also be borne by the plaintiff. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

19. Appeal stands allowed in above terms. Miscellaneous applications pending, if any, also stand disposed of. Interim order, if any, also stands vacated.

Testimony of RW1 Sandeep Sharma remained un-rebutted on record. Testimony of RW1 Sandeep Sharma relating to payment to deceased is reliable, trustworthy and inspires confidence of Court. Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that the driver was under the influence of liquor and insurer is not liable – held, that the insurer had not led any evidence to prove this plea- the insurance policy does not contain any such clause – insurer cannot escape from liability on this ground. (Para-6 and 7)

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- The salary of the deceased was Rs.8,700/- per month – 1/3rd amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses – thus, the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.6,000/- per month- the age of the deceased was 30 years at the time of accident and multiplier of 16 is applicable – thus, claimants are entitled to Rs.6,000 x 12 x 16= Rs.11,52,000/- under the head loss of dependency – the claimants are also entitled to Rs.10,000/- each under the heads loss of love and affection, loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses- thus, total compensation of Rs.11,52,00 + 40,000/- =Rs.11,92,000/- awarded along with interest. (Para-8 to 14)

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the award dated 20th September, 2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (I), Mandi, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.128 of 2009, titled Smt. Kirana & others vs. Paras Ram & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.16,60,120/- alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and against the insurer (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants, the owner-insured and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any count. Thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer has raised the following three points.

1. That the accident was outcome of contributory negligence;

2. That the driver of the offending vehicle was driving the same under the influence of alcohol; and

3. That the Tribunal has wrongly assessed the compensation and awarded excessive compensation.

Point No.1

5. I have gone through the evidence. The claimants have specifically pleaded and proved that the driver of the offending vehicle had driven the same rashly and negligently and caused the accident. There is not an iota of evidence that it was case of contributory negligence. PW-3 HC Devinder Kumar has specifically given the events as to how the accident had taken place and the driver of the offending vehicle has not questioned the same. I wonder how the insurer can question the said findings, are against the driver. It was for the driver to question the same, has not questioned the same. It was also not the case of the insurer that there was collusion between the driver, owner and the claimants. Having said so the first point raised by the learned counsel for the appellant fails. The Tribunal has rightly determined issue No.1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

Point No.2

6. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the accident was caused due to the fact that driver of the offending vehicle was driving the vehicle under the influence of alcohol and caused the accident as such, has not led any evidence to prove the same. The insurance policy Ext. RX is not containing such terms and conditions. This Court in FAO (MVA) No.18 of 2009 titled Managing Director, HPMC Nigam Vihar Versus Naresh Kumar and others, has laid down the same principles of law. It is apt to reproduce paras 15 to 18 of the said judgment herein.

"15.The learned counsel for the insurance company has relied upon the terms and conditions of the insurance policy but the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the owner has committed willful breach. The condition No. 2 (c) of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy read as under:

"The Company shall not be liable to make any payment in respect of:

(c) any accidental loss or damage suffered whilst the insured or any person driving the vehicle with the knowledge and consent of the insured is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs." [Emphasis added]

16. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver was under the state of intoxication with the knowledge and consent of the insured. No such evidence has been led by the insurer that the owner was accompanying the driver and driver had taken the alcohol with the knowledge and consent of the insured. In the given circumstances, how the Tribunal has exonerated the insurer, is not forthcoming.

17. This Court in Khem Chand versus Smt. Uma Devi and others, reported in Latest HLJ 2010 (HP) 1, has laid down the same principle. It is apt to reproduce para-4 of the judgmentherein:-

"4. The law is very well settled that a claim which falls within the purview of an Act policy i.e. a liability falling within the ambit of Section 147 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (the Act) can only be contested by the Insurance Company on the grounds available to it under Section 149 of the Act. It is not permitted to contest the proceedings on any other grounds. Intoxication of the driver is not a ground available to the Insurance Company under Section 149 of the Act. Therefore, the liability, which is statutory under Section 147 of the Act, has to be satisfied by the insurer. It may be clarified that in case the insurer in addition to the liability which it is bound to cover under the Act covers other liability then in case of such extended liability, it may raise the defences available to it as per terms of the policy, but as far as statutory liability is concerned, the insurer has no authority to incorporate any term in the policy which is not contemplated in terms of Section 149 of the Act. Therefore, the Insurance Company could not have been permitted to raise this defence and it could not be permitted to recover the awarded amount from the insured."

18. This ground is not available to the insurer in terms of the mandate of Sections 147 and 149 of the Act."

7. Applying the test, this point also fails

Point No.3.

8. Though the insurer has not sought permission to contest the claim petition under Section 170 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, "the Act"), but while going through the impugned award, it appears that the amount is excessive for the following reasons.

9. Admittedly, the deceased was working as Sales Executive with Jagatjit Industries and his gross salary at the time of accident was Rs.8,700/- per month, which stands duly proved by salary certificate Ext.PW-4/B. 1/3 was to be deducted towards his personal expenses. Thus, it can be safely held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.6,000/- per month. The age of the deceased was 30 years at the time of the accident thus, the multiplier of '16' was rightly applied by the Tribunal, in view of Schedule II appended to the Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in case tilted as Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120.

10. Thus, the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.6,000x12x16= Rs.11,52,000/- under the head loss of dependency.

11. In addition a sum of Rs.10,000/- each is awarded in favour of the claimants under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate', and 'funeral expenses.

12. In view of the above discussion, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.11,52,000/- + Rs.40,000/- (Rs.11,92,000/-in all), alongwith interest, as awarded by the Tribunal.

13. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above.

14. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the impugned award and the excess amount, if any deposited, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque, after proper identification.

Cross Objections No.153 of 2013.

15. In view of the disposal of the appeal, the cross objections also stand disposed of.

16. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

	Mr. J.S. Bagga, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant-claimant-injured has called in question award, dated 17th March, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (II)-cum-Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 219/2005 (112S/2003), titled as Umed Singh versus Sh. Sohan Singh and others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned award").

2. The appellant-claimant-injured filed a claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 5,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that he became the victim of the vehicular accident which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Tilak Raj, while driving truck bearing registration No. HP-32-0670, rashly and negligently, on 13th April, 2002, at about 4.00 P.M., at place Kulah, near Swarghat.

3. The respondents resisted the claim petition on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 2nd August, 2005:

> "1. Whether the petitioner sustained injuries due to rash and negligent driving of Truck No. HP-32-0670 on 13-4-2002 at place Kulah near Swarghat being driven by respondent No. 2 as alleged? OPP

2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioner is entitled to and from whom? OPP

3. Whether respondent No. 2 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-3

4. Whether the petitioner was a gratuitous passenger at the time of the accident, if so its effect? OPR-3

5. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven in contravention of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy at the time of accident? OPR-3

6. Relief."

5. The appellant-claimant-injured has examined six witnesses in support of his claim and himself appeared in the witness box as PW-4. The insurer has examined two witness in support of its defence.

6. It is apt to record herein that the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle were proceeded against ex-parte by the Tribunal vide order, dated 13th July, 2009.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, dismissed the claim petition in terms of the impugned award. Hence, the appeal.

Issue No. 1:

8. The Tribunal, while making discussions in paras 11 to 18 of the impugned award, held that the claimant-injured has proved that the accident was caused by the driver, namely Shri Tilak Raj, while driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently at the relevant point of time, in which claimant-injured sustained injuries. The owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the said findings. The appellant-claimant-injured has also not questioned the same. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

9. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issue No. 4 at the first instance.

Issue No. 4:

10. The Tribunal has dismissed the claim petition on the ground that the appellant-claimant-injured was travelling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger at the time of the accident.

11. The appellant-claimant-injured has specifically pleaded in paras 10 and 24 of the claim petition that he was travelling in the offending vehicle as cleaner of the vehicle, which factum is admitted by the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle in their respective replies. Thus, there was no dispute about the factum of the appellant-claimant-injured being employed as cleaner with the offending vehicle. Therefore, there was no need to frame the issue relating to the said fact in terms of the mandate of Order XIV of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short "CPC").

12. However, the insurer has taken a specific plea in its reply that the appellant-claimant-injured was travelling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger at the time of the accident. Thus, it was for the insurer to discharge the onus.

13. The insurer has examined Shri Roshan Lal, Senior Assistant from the office of RLA, Gohar, as RW-1, who has specifically stated that the offending vehicle was registered as 'light goods vehicle' and conductor was permitted to travel with the driver in the offending vehicle.

14. Even otherwise, as per the registration certificate, Mark R-1, the seating capacity of the offending vehicle is '2+1', thus, the risk of the appellant-claimant-injured, being the cleaner, was covered, cannot be said to be gratuitous passenger. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in deciding issue No. 4 by holding that the appellant-claimant-injured was a gratuitous passenger. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are set aside and it is held that the appellant-claimant-injured was travelling in the offending vehicle as cleaner and not as a gratuitous passenger.

Issue No. 3:

15. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same, though has examined Shri Chet Singh Thakur, Clerk from the office of RLA (Motors), Rural Shimla, as RW-2, but has failed to do so. Even otherwise, the driving licence is on the record as Mark R-2, the perusal of which does disclose that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the offending vehicle. Accordingly, issue No. 4 is decided in favour of the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle and against the insurer.

Issue No. 5:

16. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being driven in contravention of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, thus, the owner-insured has committed a willful breach, has failed to do so, as discussed hereinabove. Accordingly, this issue is decided against the insurer.

Issue No. 2:

17. The Tribunal has not assessed the amount of compensation, to which the appellant-claimant-injured is entitled to. The perusal of the record does disclose that the claimant-injured remained admitted in Zonal Hospital, Bilaspur with effect from 13th April, 2002 to 17th April, 2002 and thereafter at IGMC, Shimla, with effect from 9th May, 2002 to 17th May, 2002.

18. It is beaten law of land that in an injury case, the compensation is to be awarded under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

19. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others,reported in AIR 1995 SC 755,Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another,reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085,Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited,reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787,and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in2012 AIR SCW 4771.

20. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

21. The claimant-injured has pleaded that he was earning ₹ 6,000/- per month as cleaner of the offending vehicle. However, by guess work, it can safely be held that he would have been earning not less than ₹ 3,000/- per month.

22. The disability certificate is on the record as Ext. PW-3/A, in terms of which the claimant-injured has suffered 45% permanent disability. Thus, it can be safely held that the claimant-injured has suffered loss of income to the tune of ₹ 1,500/- per month.

23. The age of the claimant-injured was 24 years at the time of the accident, which is not in dispute. Thus, the multiplier of '15' is to be applied in view of the second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short "MV Act") Act read with the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporationand another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, and upheld in Reshma Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

24. Having said so, the claimant-injured has lost source of income to the tune of ₹ 1,500/- x 12 x 15 = ₹ 2,70,000/-.

25. The claimant-injured has placed on record the cash memos/medical bills, Mark 1 to 36, amounting to ₹ 13,909.64/. Thus, he is held entitled to ₹ 13,910/- under the head 'medical expenses'.

26. The claimant-injured has also placed on record taxi bills/bus tickets, Ext. PW-1/A, Ext. PW-1/B, Mark 37 to 43 to the tune of ₹ 35,443/-, thus, is held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 35,500/- under the head 'transportation charges'.

27. The Apex Court in its latest decision in the case titled as Jakir Hussein versus Sabir and others, reported in (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the entire life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the judgment herein:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.
> 18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

28. In view of the ratio laid down by the apex Court in the judgment (supra), I am of the considered view that the claimant-injured is entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 50,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings' and ₹ 50,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

29. Having glance of the above discussions, the claimant-injured is held entitled to total compensation to the tune of ₹ 2,70,000/- + ₹ 13,910/- + ₹ 35,500/- + ₹ 50,000/- + ₹ 50,000/- = ₹ 4,19,410/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the impugned award till its realization.

30. The factum of insurance is admitted. Thus, the insurer is saddled with liability.

31. In view of the above, the impugned award is modified, the appeal is allowed and the claim petition is granted, as indicated hereinabove.

32. The insurer is directed to deposit the awarded amount before the Registry within eight weeks. On deposition, the same be released in favour of the claimant-injured strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in his bank account.

33. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

Decided on: 16.12.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 96- Plaintiff pleaded that he was assaulted and humiliated by the defendant No.1 in the presence of many people – the defendants subsequently gave him beatings- the Trial Court awarded the compensation of Rs. 22,000/- along with interest @ 9% per annum – held in appeal that witnesses of the plaintiff proved the case of the plaintiff – an FIR was registered regarding the incident – one defendant was convicted by the Juvenile Justice Board – MLC proved the injuries suffered by the plaintiff – compensation of Rs.22,000/- is inadequate and is enhanced to Rs.1 lac – appeal partly allowed. (Para-3 to 11)

For the Appellants: Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. K.D Sood, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Ankit Aggarwal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

The instant appeal stands directed by the defendants against the impugned judgment recorded by the learned District Judge, Hamirpur whereby he returned affirmative findings qua the plaintiff's entitlement to claim damages from defendant No.1 also thereupon he assessed damages qua the plaintiff comprised in a sum of Rs.22000/- alongwith 9% interest from the date of decree till realization, liability whereof qua its defrayment stood fastened upon defendant No.1.

2. The plaintiff also stands aggrieved by the pronouncement recorded by the learned Court below whereupon it assessed damages vis-à-vis him in the sum aforesaid, quantum whereof stands contended herebefore to be grossly disproportionate to his apposite entitlement thereof besides the plaintiff stands aggrieved by the pronouncement recorded by the learned District Judge whereby it fastened liability qua the quantum of damages assessed thereunder vis-à-vis the plaintiff only upon defendant No.1 whereas it was jointly and severably fastenable upon all the defendants.

3. In an incident which occurred on 15.3.1997 in the Court of the Sr. Sub Judge, Hamirpur the plaintiff alleges qua his therein standing assaulted by the defendant No.1 besides his standing humiliated in the presence of people present thereat whereafter despite the plaintiff for averting perpetration of further assaults upon him by defendant No.1 proceeding to the litigant hall, yet the defendant No.1 chasing him thereupto whereat he meted threats to him. The plaintiff also avers qua on 15.3.1997 at about 4.45 p.m. when he was returning home on his scooter all the defendants forcibly stopping him at Gandhi Gate in sequel whereto he avers qua his falling on the ground whereafter the defendants stand averred to belabor him with kick and fist blows in consequence whereof he sustained injuries on his nose, forehead, teeth and eyebrows. Also he avers qua his thereat standing intimidated by the defendants for his conducting case Onkar Walia versus Urmila in the Court of Sub Judge, Hamirpur against Urmila daughter of defendant No.1, sister of defendant No.2 and mother of defendant No.3. The plaintiff further avers qua on 17.3.1997 at about 9.30 a.m. when he was proceeding on his scooter to Court all the defendants forcibly stopped him near Satyanarayan Mandir whereat he stood manhandled by defendant No.1.

4. An FIR qua the incident bearing No. 59/07 stood lodged by the plaintiff against the defendants at Police Station, Hamirpur. The primadonna factum of the incidents aforesaid which occurred on 15.3.1997 and on 17.3.1997 respectively in the Court premises besides in the evening of the day aforesaid at Gandhi Gate and thereafter on 17.03.1997 at 9.30 A.M. near Satyanarayan Mandir warranted theirs standing unflinchingly proved by cogent reliable evidence standing adduced by the plaintiff whereupon the plaintiff would stand entitled to pecuniary damages for proven acts of tort of assault and battery standing perpetrated upon him.

5. In proof of the incident No.1 aforesaid, the plaintiff relied upon the testifications of PWs 5,6 and 7, all of whom rendered a credible account qua the incident which occurred on 15.3.1997in the Court premises. The oral testifications of the afore-stated ocular witnesses to the incident which occurred in the Court premises warrants imputation of credence thereto conspicuously when their respective testifications occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief remained unshred of their tenacity besides efficacy during the ordeal of a rigorous cross-examination whereto they respectively stood subjected to by the learned counsel for the defendants. In sequel thereto the ascription(s) made by the plaintiff in the suit qua defendant No.1 assaulting him in the Court premises stands invincibly proven.

6. The testification of the plaintiff in proof of the incident which occurred in the evening of 15.3.1997 at Gandhi Gate wherein he stood belabored by the defendants stands meted corroboration by the testification of an eye witness thereto who deposed as PW-6. The testification of PW-6 in corroboration to the testification of the plaintiff warrants imputation of credence thereto arising from the factum of his testification qua the relevant fact embodied in his examination-in-chief remaining uneroded during the ordeal of an exacting cross-examination to which he stood subjected to by the learned counsel for the defendants.

7. The incident of 17.3.1997 which occurred at 9.30 a.m at Satyanaryan Mandir, holding ascriptions therein qua the defendant No.1 manhandling the plaintiff, for obviation of his further manhandlings thereat by the defendant No.1 he stood evacuated by the people present thereat whereafter he fled therefrom and arrived in the premises of the Bar Association located in the Court campus whereupto also he stood chased by defendant No.1 also thereat the defendant No.1 unsuccessfully concerted to perpetrate an assault upon him stands proven by the un-eroded testification of the plaintiff, untainted corroboration whereto stands meted by PW-11 the then Pradhan of Bar Association, Hamirpur. In sequel thereto the incident aforesaid which occurred on 17.3.1997 near Satyanarayan Temple wherein the defendant No.1 manhandled the plaintiff also the incident subsequent thereto which occurred in the premises of the Bar Association located in the Court premises stands also emphatically proven.

8. Be that as it may the FIR borne on Ex.PW-2/A lodged with Police Station Sadar, Hamirpur by PW-11 sequelled the preferment before the Court concerned a report under Section 173 Cr.P.C by the Investigating Officer concerned. A charge in consonance therewith stood framed against the relevant accused yet the fate of the apposite charge is not evincible from the record which is available hereat. Conspicuously with the charge framed by the Court concerned against the accused named in the FIR Ex.PW-2/A remaining un-adjudicated by the trial Magistrate also does not purvey any vigour to the concert of the defendants to espouse qua thereupon the credible testimonies of PWs standing benumbed rather with co-accused/Juvenile at the relevant stage one Gaurav Walia against whom too penal ascriptions stand averred by the plaintiff when as unravled by a verdict recorded by the Juvenile Court embodied in Ex. PW-5/G stands convicted in respect thereto does give leverage to the espousal of the plaintiff qua his thereupon succeeding in establishing the averment(s) constituted in the complaint qua in the evening of 15.3.1997 the defendants jointly at Gandhi Gate belaboring him with kick and fist blows.

9. The effect of the aforesaid discussion brings to the fore the inevitable sequel of the plaintiff succeeding in proving his averment(s) qua the defendant No.1 and other co-defendants respectively at the place(s) afore-stated jointly apart therefrom singularly perpetrating upon him tort of assault and battery also theirs meteing intimidations to him. However, the defendants had concerted to exculpate their liability qua pecuniary damages standing assessed vis-à-vis the plaintiff arising from his/theirs in the afore-stated manner his/theirs respectively jointly besides singularly at the place(s) aforesaid perpetrating tort of assault and battery upon him, by anvilling upon registration of FIR No. 61/97 against the plaintiff, yet with Ex.P-7 making an open pronouncement therein qua the Judicial Magistrate concerned accepting the proposal made in the apposite report furnished before the Court concerned by the Investigating Officer qua the FIR aforesaid warranting cancellation renders the aforesaid espousal by the defendants qua the relevant facet to stand benumbed. Also with a criminal complaint instituted by defendant No.1 against the plaintiff as apparent from an order borne on Ex.DA standing anvilled upon a statement of the complainant borne on Ex.DB whereupon it stood ordered to be withdrawn sequels an inference of defendant No.1 making an unsuccessful bid to exculpate his liability for assessment of pecuniary damages qua the plaintiff arising from his perpetrating assault and battery upon him, contrarily the afore-stated pronouncements occurring in Ex. P-7 and in Ex.DA make loud echoings qua the defendants contriving to falsely implicate the plaintiff also connotes their acquiescence qua the ascriptions made qua them by the plaintiff holding sinew besides vigor.

10. The MLC comprised in Ex.PW-9/A proven by PW-9 unravels qua multiple injuries occurring on the person of the plaintiff. The aforesaid pronouncements made in the afore-stated MLC give succor to the testification of the plaintiff besides his witnesses qua the defendants jointly at Gandhi Gate belaboring the plaintiff with fist and kick blows.

11. The learned Court below had aptly for lack of cogent evidence declined quantification of pecuniary damages to the plaintiff as stood claimed by him for loss of professional income besetting him arising from his clientele suffering erosion in sequel to the proven incidents of assault besides battery standing perpetrated on his person respectively singularly by defendant No.1 also by other co-defendants while joining defendant No. 1 at places aforesaid. However with the plaintiff adducing unflinching evidence unraveled by the MLC aforesaid in proof of the factum of his standing assaulted besides his suffering injuries in the relevant incidents of assault and battery preponderantly also with the evident factum of his standing subjected to repeated assaults by defendant No.1 did entail upon the learned trial Court to compute qua the plaintiff pecuniary damages in a figure higher than the one which stood computed vis-à-vis him. Even though there is no unbending rule of inflexible rigor for purveying guidance in measuring besides calibrating monetary damages assessable qua a victim of tort of assault and battery yet dehors the aforesaid lack of rigid guidelines for computing pecuniary damages to a victim of proven tort of assault and battery, the status of the victim also the places whereat it evidently occurred ultimately the repetitive perpetration of assault(s) upon his person singularly by defendant No.1 also with the latter standing joined by other co-defendants are relevant parameters which are always to be borne in mind. Cumulatively bearing in mind besides meteing deference to the aforesaid factors it is deemed fit and appropriate to conclude qua computation of Rs.22000/- as pecuniary damages vis-à-vis the plaintiff on account of his standing subjected to proven tort of assault and battery respectively by defendant No.1 at two places afore-stated besides by all the defendants jointly in the evening of 15.3.1997 at Gandhi Gate, being a meager besides a scanty amount whereupon this Court is constrained to modify the aforesaid figure of pecuniary damages in a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees one lac). Also with the plaintiff proving ascriptions made by him vis-à-vis the defendant No.1 qua his perpetrating assault upon him singularly at two places besides with an evident display occurring of co-defendants joining defendant No.1in perpetrating an assault upon his person in the evening of 15.3.1997 at Gandhi Gage warranted the learned trial Court to hold decree qua all defendants being jointly and severely liable to pay pecuniary damages to the plaintiff especially when they were proven tortfeasor whereas its fastening the relevant liability singularly upon defendant No.1 has committed an error. In view of the above, the present appeal is dismissed. The impugned judgment is modified accordingly. Cross-objections are allowed to the extent qua pecuniary damages vis-à-vis the plaintiff standing enhanced from Rs.22,000/- to Rs.1,00,000/- also all the defendants are held jointly liable to defray to the plaintiff the aforesaid amount of damages.

Ashok Kumar. ....Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent.

Cr. MP (M) No.1484 of 2016
Decided on: 19th December, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 332, 353, 452, 342 and 504 read with Section 34 of I.P.C – the petitioner pleaded that he has been falsely implicated – informant had given beatings to the petitioner – held, that keeping in view the fact that simple injuries were sustained by the petitioner, the petitioner is permanent resident of the place and is not in a position to flee from justice or to temper with the prosecution evidence; bail application allowed subject to conditions. (Para-8)

For the petitioner: Mr. D.R. Verma and Mr. Arsh Rattan, Advocates.
For the respondent: Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge. (oral).

The present bail application has been maintained by the petitioner under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure seeking his release in case FIR No. 116 of 2016, dated 12.11.2016, under Sections 332, 353, 452, 342, 504 read with Section 34 Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as "the IPC"), registered at Police Station, Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P.

2. As per the learned counsel for the petitioner, the petitioner is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case due to extraneous circumstances. He is resident of the place and no purpose will be served by keeping him behind the bars.

3. Police report stands filed. As per the prosecution story, on 12.11.2016, complainant Rakesh Kumar, Constable No. 321, got his statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C., wherein he has stated that he is working in Police Station, Nadaun, as General Duty Constable from 2016 and on 12.11.2016 he was on night duty in Police Help Room at Bus Stand, Nadaun. At about 7:45 p.m. he went to the shop of Ashok Kumar (petitioner herein) wherefrom noise was coming and he asked not to create noise. On this, Ashok Kumar started abusing him and thereafter the complainant came to Police Help Room, but the petitioner also came there alongwith his son and driver and dragged him to his shop and gave him beatings and also damaged his uniform. Police registered a case against the present petitioner.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Deputy Advocate General for the State and gone through the record, including the police report, carefully.

5. As per the learned counsel for the petitioner, the petitioner has been implicated in the present case as the complainant was paying for the juice, which he has taken from the shop of the complainant, in old currency note of Rs. 500/- which the petitioner refused to accept. It is also submitted that in fact the complainant gave beatings to the petitioner.

6. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General has argued that the petitioner is making entirely a false case and as the petitioner is involved in a crime against the police, he may not be released on bail.

7. In rebuttal, the learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that for such a small offence, as registered by the police, the petitioner, who is a juice seller at Nadaun, is behind the bars since 12-13 November, 2016, and no fruitful purpose will be served by keeping him behind the bars, as the investigation in the present case is complete.

8. This Court has taken into consideration the nature of the injuries sustained by the complainant, which are, in fact, on his finger and other simple injuries and the fact that the petitioner is resident of the place and is not in a position to flee from justice, nor is he in a position to tamper with the prosecution evidence, therefore, no fruitful purpose will be served by keeping the petitioner behind the bars for unlimited period. This Court finds that the present is a fit case where the judicial discretion to admit the petitioner on bail is required to be exercised in favour of the petitioner, so it is ordered that the petitioner be released forthwith on bail on his furnishing personal bond to the tune of Rs. 20,000/- (rupees twenty thousand only) with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned ACJM/JMIC, Nadaun in case FIR No. 116 of 2016, dated 12.11.2016, under Sections 332, 353, 452, 342, 504 read with Section 34 IPC, registered at Police Station Nadaun. The bail is granted subject to the following conditions:

(i) That the petitioner will join investigation of the case and when called for by the Investigating Officer in accordance with law.

(ii) That the petitioner will not leave India without prior permission of the Court.

(iii) That the petitioner will not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Investigating Officer or Court.

9. In view of the above, the petition is disposed of. Copy dasti.

CWP No. 2609 of 2015
Reserved on: 05.12.2016
Decided on: 19.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was engaged as drawing master – she was subsequently asked not to come on the duty - respondent stated that the permission to fill up the post was withdrawn by respondent No.3 as no criteria was approved by the Government for distribution of marks- held, that the petitioner has scored maximum marks in the interview and her selection was not challenged – action of the respondent of not allowing the petitioner to work is arbitrary- writ petition allowed and respondent directed to permit the petitioner to work.

(Para- 7 to 11)

For the petitioner: Mr. P.P. Chauhan, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy.AG and Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. Deepak Kumar, Lecturer, GSSS Badahlag, Tehsil Kasauli, District Solan, H.P. in person.
Nemo for respondent No. 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for issuing the writ of certiorari, mandamus or any other appropriate writ/order or direction to the respondents.

2. Succinctly, the facts giving rise to the present petition, as per the petitioner, are that pursuant to interview held on 13.11.2014 by the School Management Committee/respondent (SMC), she was engaged as Drawing Master on and w.e.f. 15.11.2014. Surprisingly, she was asked verbally not to come on duty w.e.f. 01.03.2015. The petitioner has further contended that she is Plus Two and having Diploma in Arts and Crafts, thus she is fully eligible for the post of Drawing Master. She was initially engaged as Drawing Master by the SMC w.e.f. August, 2014, and she was being paid from collection made from the students. Subsequently, on 13.11.2014, SMC conducted interview for the post of Drawing Master on period basis qua GSSS, Badhalag, Solan, H.P., in which 12 out of 18 candidates participated. Merit list was drawn and the petitioner held first position and consequently she was issued an order of assignment on 14.11.2014. The petitioner joined her duties in the said school on 15.11.2014 and continued there till 28.02.2015, but till date no remuneration has been paid to the petitioner by the respondents. As per the petitioner, on 03.12.2014 fresh selection was conducted by the respondents, wherein also the petitioner, being meritorious, scored first rank out of 12 appearing candidates. However, to the utter surprise of the petitioner w.e.f. 01.03.2014 the Principal of the School verbally conveyed the petitioner not to come on duty. The respondents now intend to fill up the said vacancy through similar arrangement, which is wholly impermissible in law. Lastly, the petitioner, by way of filing the present writ petition, sought the following substantive reliefs:

> "(i) To issue a writ of certiorari or direction in nature thereof, quashing the impugned verbal order of respondent Principal whereby he has told the petitioner not to come on duty, as unconstitutional and illegal and contrary to the law;
> (ii) To issue a writ of mandamus, appropriate writ, order or direction in nature thereof, directing the respondent department/School Management Committee to continue the petitioner on the same post till fresh appointments are made by the respondent department on regular basis in accordance with Recruitment & Promotion Rules;
> (iii) To issue a further writ of mandamus or an appropriate writ, order or direction in nature thereof directing the respondents to reinstate the petitioner, in case the services of the petitioner are replaced by another incumbent appointed on the same basis and not on regular basis w.e.f. such illegal appointment with all consequential benefits and arrears of salary alongwith interest thereon @ 18% p.a.;
> (iv) To issue a further writ of mandamus or an appropriate writ, order or direction in nature thereof directing the respondents to pay the remuneration to the petitioner for the period from 15.11.2014 till 28.02.2015 alongwith interest thereon @ 18% p.a."

3. Respondents No. 1 to 4, by filing reply to the petition, have resisted the claim of the petitioner. The replying respondents have contended that the petitioner was engaged as Drawing Master on period basis by the President of SMC on 14.1.2014 pursuant to interview conducted under the Chairmanship of S.D.M. Solan. The petitioner joined her duties on 15.11.2014, however permission so granted for filling up the said post was withdrawn by respondent No. 3 on 21.11.2014, as no criteria was approved by the Government for distribution of marks in the personal interview. The petitioner performed her duties from 15.11.2014 to 24.11.2014 and private respondent No. 5 has to pay qua that period. The replying respondents have denied that the petitioner worked w.e.f. 15.11.2014 to 28.02.2015. As per the replying respondents, the petitioner was not informed verbally not to come to School w.e.f. 01.03.2015, but on 24.11.2015 she noted the orders of respondent No. 4. Ultimately, the replying respondents prayed that the writ petition may be dismissed.

4. I have heard the learned counsel/Additional Advocate General for the appearing parties and gone through the record carefully.

5. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner was duly selected in a selection process and subsequen procedure of selection, as approved by respondent No. 2, was not applicable to her, as the petitioner was selected/appointed before coming into force of that subsequent selection procedure.

6. Conversely, the learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the petitioner was asked not to work as she was selected in the earlier procedure of selection and same procedure stood withdrawn by respondent No. 3.

7. It is evident from the select list, which is annexed with the petition, that the petitioner was selected being most meritorious out of eighteen candidates. The selection committee was headed by S.D.M. Solan and they had awarded the marks after sub-dividing the marks for matric, Plus Two, Diploma, candidate belonging to the same Patwar Circle etc. etc. It is also manifest that the petitioner scored maximum marks in the said interview. The said selection process was not challenged by any other candidate, who appeared in it.

8. The petitioner was given appointment on 14.11.2014 and from the order it seems that the letter of the new procedure was received and issued after she was appointed. Though the petitioner has also enclosed with the petition a subsequent advertisement, inviting applications for the post in question, for which the petitioner was selected and appointed, but the respondents have stated that there was no such move ever.

9. In view of what has been discussed hereinabove, it is held that the petitioner was selected and appointed as Drawing Master in GSSS Badahlog, Tehsil Kasauli, District Solan, H.P., and she has a right to continue on the said post, as she was duly appointed after following the procedure prevalent at that time. The right of the petitioner has not diminished and the same cannot be abridged. Thus, this Court comes to the conclusion that the action of the respondents in not allowing the petitioner to work continuously is arbitrary. The action of the respondents also violates the principle of audi alteram partem, as the petitioner was not even provided an opportunity of being heard by the respondents.

10. The net result of the above discussion is that verbal order dated 01.03.2015, passed by respondent No. 4, asking the petitioner not come on duty, is illegal and appropriate writ is required to be issued to the respondents. Therefore, the respondents are directed to allow the petitioner to work on the post on which she was duly selected and appointed by them on 13.11.2014. However, the petitioner is not held entitled to any remuneration/wages for the period she could not work.

11. In view of the above, the petition stands disposed of. All pending application(s), if any, also stand(s) disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the appellant	Mr. G.C. Gupta, Senior Advocate with Mrs. Meera Devi, Advocate.
For the Respondents	Mr. Chandranarayana Singh,Advocate for respondent No.1. Mr. G.S. Rathore, Advocate for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Aggrieved by award dated 5.9.2005, passed by learned Commissioner under Workmen's Compensation Act, Sub-Division, Shimla (Rural), District Shimla in an application under Section 4 and 4(A) of the Workmen's Compensation Act registered as case No.02/2005 is in appeal before this Court.

2. Respondent No.1, hereinafter referred to as the applicant-claimant, is mother of deceased Narender Kumar. In the application she filed for the award of compensation against the owner of ill-fated vehicle i.e. truck No.HP51-1244, respondent No.2, hereinafter referred to as respondent No.1, and appellant, hereinafter referred to as respondent No.2-insurer. It is averred that her deceased son Narender Kumar died in the accident of truck No.HP51-1244 on 16.3.2005 at Jalog, Tehsil Suni, while driving the same. According to her, she was dependent upon the earning of deceased Narender Kumar, who was employed as driver by respondent No.1 with ill-fated truck on payment of Rs. 6,000/- per month as salary. The accident was reported to the Police of Police Station, Dhalli. The deceased at the time of his death was 22 years of age.

3. The first respondent, in reply to the application had submitted in preliminary that at the time of accident the vehicle was duly insured with insurer-respondent No.2, therefore, the liability, if any, to pay compensation to the applicant-claimant was of the said respondent. It was further averred that the vehicle was being driven by an authorized person, holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. There being no breach of the contract of insurance, on this score also it is respondent No.2-Insurer, who is liable to pay the compensation.

4. The contents of paras 1 and 2 of the applications were denied for want of knowledge and the petitioner was called upon to produce the documentary proof regarding the averments made therein. No reply was intended to be given to the contents of paras 3 and 4 of the application being matter of record. It was, however, reiterated that the liability to pay the compensation, if any, was that of respondent No.2.

5. The insurer-respondent No.2, has also pleaded in preliminary that as per the FIR, deceased was traveling in the vehicle as gratuitous passenger having no express or implied authority to drive the same. Without admitting the liability to pay the compensation, it was submitted that since the deceased was not holding a valid and effective driving licence; the insurer-respondent No.2 was not liable to pay the compensation. The deceased was brother of respondent No.1 and as such the mother had filed the claim petition to obtain compensation on false grounds. The vehicle was being driven in contravention of the provisions contained in the Motor Vehicles Act and there being breach of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, the insurer-respondent No.2 is not liable to pay the compensation. The application as constituted and instituted is stated to be neither competent nor maintainable nor was the applicant entitled to claim any damages. The application was also claimed to be bad for non-joinder of necessary parties.

6. On merits also, the insurer-respondent No.2 had denied that the deceased was employed as driver by respondent No.1 on payment of Rs. 6000/- per month as salary to him. He rather was travelling as gratuitous passenger in the ill-fated vehicle, hence the applicant is not entitled to award of any compensation.

7. On such pleadings of the parties, following issues were framed:

1. Whether the application is maintainable in the present form? OPP
2. Whether the vehicle is insured with the respondent No.2? OPR-1
3. Whether the deceased is covered under the definition of workman? OPP
4. Whether the deceased was traveling in the vehicle as a gratuitous passenger? OPR-2
5. Whether the deceased was not holding a valid driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-2
6. Whether the petition is being filed in collusion with the respondent No.1.? OPR-2
7. Whether the vehicle was being plied in contravention of Motor Vehicle Act? OPR-2
8. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPR-2
9. Relief.

8. Learned Commissioner, on appreciation of the evidence produced by the parties on both sides, has concluded that the deceased was a workman within the meaning of the Act and died during the course of his employment while driving the ill-fated truck. The application as such was held to be maintainable. Issues No.4 and 5 were answered against the insurer while arriving at a conclusion that the deceased was not travelling in the capacity of a gratuitous passenger in the ill-fated truck and rather was driving the same and holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same. The objections that the application was filed in collusion with respondent No.1 and that the truck was being plied in contravention of the provisions contained under Motor Vehicles Act and that the application was bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, were not acceded to while answering issues No.6 to 8 against insurer-respondent No.2.

Consequently, the application was allowed and a sum of Rs. 4,42,740/- was awarded as compensation by selecting 221.37 as the relevant factor whereas 50% of the wages of the deceased i.e. Rs. 2,000/- per month. Besides a sum of Rs. 1,26,180/- was also awarded as interest on the amount of compensation so worked out. Respondent No.2 was held liable to pay the entire amount to the applicant-claimant.

9. The insurer-respondent No.2 has assailed the legality and validity of the impugned award on the grounds inter alia that the findings recorded by learned Commissioner below on issues No.3 to 6 are erroneous and contrary to the facts proved on record. The owner of the vehicle, in reply to the application, had nowhere submitted that deceased was either employed by him as driver in the vehicle or the relationship of employer and employee was in existence between them. In reply to the application, he never averred that the salary of the deceased was Rs. 6000/- per month. The only case as set-up in the reply by the said respondent was that the vehicle was being driven by an authorized (wrongly mentioned as unauthorized) person holding a valid driving licence to drive the same. He has nowhere stated that the deceased was employed as driver with ill-fated truck.

10. The contents of paras 1 and 2 of the application for award of claim were denied for want of knowledge. Neither any record regarding payment of salary produced nor any such record qua appointment of the deceased as driver produced in evidence. Learned Commissioner, therefore, erroneously concluded that the salary of the deceased was Rs. 5,000/- per month. The findings so recorded are neither supported by the petition nor from the reply thereto filed on behalf of insured-respondent No.1. The deceased as per the evidence available on record was rather travelling in the ill-fated truck in the capacity of a gratuitous passenger. He was real brother of respondent No.1 and the claim petition was filed by the applicant in collusion with respondent No.1. The insurer-respondent No.2, therefore, could have not been saddled with the liability to pay the compensation.

11. The appeal has been admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

(a) Whether the respondent No.1 has proved on the record that the deceased was employed as a driver by respondent No.2 in the absence of any evidence on the record and whether any evidence in the absence of any pleadings could be looked into by the Commissioner below?

(b) Whether the Commissioner below is right in holding the salary of the deceased to be Rs.5,000.00 per month without the production of the records regarding the same by respondent No.2 and in view of his specific denial in the reply filed on his behalf?

(c) Whether the Commissioner below has rightly decided issues No.3, 4 and 7 in favour of the claimants in view of the allegations made in the application as well as the reply filed on behalf of respondent No.2?

12. Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mrs. Meera Devi, Advocate has strenuously contended that the relationship of employer and employee between the deceased and first respondent is not at all proved, therefore, neither the deceased could have been treated as a workman nor his salary taken as Rs. 5000/- per month. In reply to the claim petition the insured-respondent No.1 has not admitted that the deceased was employed by him as driver on payment of Rs. 6,000/- as salary per month and rather the averments to this effect in the application have been denied for want of knowledge. The testimony of the insured-respondent No.1 beyond the pleadings, according to Mr. Gupta, could have not been taken into consideration.

13. On the other hand, Shri G.S. Rathore, Advocate learned counsel representing the insured-respondent No.1 has urged that the insured while in the witness box has proved that the deceased was employed by him as driver with ill-fated truck and his salary was Rs. 5,000/- per month. According to Mr. Rathore, appointment of his own brother as driver is not legally barred. It has thus been urged that learned Commissioner below on appreciation of the evidence in its right perspective has rightly held the insurer-respondent No.2 liable to indemnify the insured.

14. Shri Chandranarayana Singh, Advocate learned counsel representing the applicant-claimant has submitted that the contents of reply to the application filed by first respondent manifestly reveals that he has not denied the engagement of the deceased as driver with ill-fated truck and rather while admitting the averments in paras 3 and 4 of the application being matter of record. It is implied that respondent No.1 has admitted that the deceased was employed as driver with the ill-fated truck. It has also been urged that the statement of insured respondent No.1 while in the witness-box, leaves no manner of doubt qua engagement of the deceased as driver with the ill-fated truck on payment of salary. Therefore, according to learned counsel, no other and further evidence was required to form an opinion that the deceased was a workman and died during the course of his employment. It has thus been urged by Mr. Singh, that learned Commissioner below has not committed any illegality and irregularity in allowing the claim petition and awarding a sum of Rs. 4,42,740/- as compensation to the applicant-claimant.

15. Although the appeal has been admitted on three substantial questions of law, yet Mr. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate has restricted his claim mainly on substantial question of law at (a) above.

16. True it is that in reply to the claim petition, respondent No.1 has not specifically admitted the averments in para 2 of the claim petition that the deceased was employed as driver with ill-fated truck on payment of Rs. 6000/- as salary per month. He, however, has even not denied also that the deceased was not employed by him as driver with ill-fated truck. The contentions in para 4 of the petition that the deceased was 22 years of age and the applicant was dependent upon him have, however, been admitted by the said respondent being matter of record. Meaning thereby that it is manifest and implied from the reply to the application filed on behalf of first respondent that he had engaged the deceased as driver with the ill-fated truck. Not only this, but while in the witness-box the applicant has categorically stated that the deceased was working as driver with the truck belonging to respondent No.1 and his wages was Rs. 6,000/- per month. She has tendered the postmortem report Ex.PW-11/B and the age certificate Ex.PW-11/C as well as death certificate Ex.PW-11/D in her statement. In her cross-examination, she even has proved the driving licence Ex.RX. She has been cross-examined on behalf of the insurer-respondent No.2, however, her testimony that the deceased was working as driver with ill-fated truck and died during the course of employment remained un-shattered because the suggestions to the contrary put to her were denied being wrong.

17. Now coming to the statement of respondent No.1, he has categorically stated that deceased Narender Kumar was driving the ill-fated truck at the time of accident. He was employed as driver on seeing his driving licence Ex.RX, which, according to him, was legal and valid. The wages of the deceased, according to respondent No.1, were Rs. 5,000/- per month. In his cross-examination conducted on behalf of the insurer, he tells us that the deceased was his real brother and at the time of accident the vehicle was deputed for bringing grass. The suggestions to the contrary that neither the deceased was employed by him as driver nor was he being paid Rs. 6000/- per month as wages have been denied being wrong.

18. True it is that Shri B.S. Dadwal, Administrative Officer of respondent No.2 has stated that the deceased was travelling unauthorizedly in the truck in question, however, when cross-examined, he has stated that the insurance policy nowhere prohibits the deployment of a real brother as driver of a vehicle by its owner and that the owner rather can employ any person as driver of the vehicle may be his real brother. He further tells us that in the FIR cancellation report was prepared and the same was registered against Narender Kumar, the deceased. Such evidence is, therefore, suggestive of that deceased Narender Kumar was employed by the owner of the vehicle as driver. The deceased was holding valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle involved in the accident. Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate no doubt has emphasized that some record regarding engagement of the deceased as driver and payment of wages to him should have been produced by the insurer-respondent No.1, however, he failed to pin-point the particulars of such record. Otherwise also, in terms of the law laid down by the apex Court in T.S. Shylaja versus Oriental Insurance Company & Another, (2014) 2 SCC,

587, in the absence of the particulars of such record/ document, the sole testimony of the insured qua engagement of a person as driver on payment of salary is sufficient to conclude that the deceased was a workman and died during the course of employment. Relevant portion of this judgment reads as follows:-

> "11. The only reason which the High Court has given to upset the above finding of the Commissioner is that the Commissioner could not blindly accept the oral evidence without analysing the documentary evidence on record. We fail to appreciate as to what was the documentary evidence which the High Court had failed to appreciate and what was the contradiction, if any, between such documents and the version given by the witnesses examined before the Commissioner. The High Court could not have, without adverting to the documents vaguely referred to by it have upset the finding of fact which the Commissioner was entitled to record. Suffice it to say that apart from appreciation of evidence adduced before the Commissioner the High Court has neither referred to nor determined any question of law much less a substantial question of law existence whereof was a condition precedent for the maintainability of any appeal under Section 30. Inasmuch as the High Court remained oblivious of the basic requirement of law for the maintainability of an appeal before it and inasmuch as it treated the appeal to be one on facts it committed an error which needs to be corrected."

19. It is seen that in the case supra also deceased driver was real brother of the owner of vehicle involved in the accident like in the present case before this Court.

20. No doubt, Mr. Gupta, has placed reliance on the judgment of the apex Court in Gottumukkala Appala Narasimha Raju & Others versus National Insurance Company Ltd. & Another, 2007 ACJ, 1025, where driver of the ill-fated tractor was husband of the owner, in which it has been held that in order to establish the contract of employment documentary proof and independent witnesses were required to be examined, however, in view of the ratio of the latest judgment of the apex Court in T.S. Shylaja's case supra, and also in the given facts and circumstances of the case is of no help to the case of the appellant-respondent No.2.

21. Similarly the ratio of the judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court in Brahmu Ram & Another versus United India Insurance Company & another, 2009(2) Shim. LC, 26, in which the judgment of the apex Court in Gottumukkala Appala Narasimha Raju's case supra has been relied upon, is also of no help to the case of respondent No.2-appellant.

22. If coming to the judgment again that of a coordinate Bench of this Court in Santosh Devi versus Oriental Insurance Co. & Another, 2011 (Supp.) Him. L.R 1715, the same is also distinguishable on facts.

23. On the other hand, the apex Court in Om Prakash Batish versus Ranjit @ Ranbir Kaur & Others,(2008) 12, SCC, 212 has held that in the proceedings before Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure or that of the Evidence Act are not strictly applicable. The Commissioner for the purpose of arriving at the truth can rely upon the evidence produced before it. Also that the manner in which the Commissioner appreciated the evidence adduced by the parties is out of the purview of an appellate Court. Relevant extract of this judgment reads as follows:-

> "16. A right of appeal under the Act is provided, both to the management as also the workman. It is difficult to hold that whereas for the workman the High Court shall exercise a wider jurisdiction but in the event the employer is the appellant, its jurisdiction would be limited. The High Court unfortunately proceeded on the basis that appreciation of evidence also would give rise to a substantial question of law.

17. In a proceeding initiated under the Act the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure or of the Evidence Act are not applicable. The Commissioner could lay down his own procedures. He could, for the purpose of arriving at the truth, rely upon such documents which were produced before it."

24. The apex Court has held so keeping in view that the Workmen's Compensation Act is a piece of beneficial legislation and to be construed liberally to impart substantial justice to the dependants upon the victim of an accident and in a case of personal injury, to the injured-workman.

25. In view of what has been said hereinabove no question of law, what to speak of substantial questions of law as formulated, arises for adjudication in this appeal. The appeal as such is dismissed. Consequently, the impugned award is affirmed. Pending application(s) if any shall also stand disposed of. No order so as to costs.

There is further recital in affidavit that Ladi was driving the car and Mohinder Pal was associating him in driving car. Compensation amount will be paid by Mohinder Pal co-respondent No. 1 on the concept of vicarious liability. There is no evidence on record thatvehicle was insured with insurance company and no insurance certificate placed on record.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that petition is not maintainable is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record by way of testimony of eye witness PW2 Bhajan Lal that deceased had died due to rash and negligent driving of maruti car No. HP-19-5008. Testimony of PW2 Bhajan Lal is corroborated by post mortem report placed on record. It is well settled law that widow of deceased can file application for compensation under Motor Vehicles Act 1988. Hence it is held that present petition is maintainable under Motor Vehicles Act 1988.

17. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that petitioner has no cause of action against respondents is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that cause of action is proved by way of oral as well as documentaries evidence placed on record. After careful perusal of oral and documentaries evidence placed on record it is held that petitioner has cause of action to file compensation petition under Motor Vehicles Act 1988 against co-respondents Nos. 1 and 2.

18. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. There is no evidence on record in order to prove that petitioner has not impleaded necessary party in present petition. It is held that petitioner has impleaded all necessary parties in petition as required in accordance with law. Plea of co-respondents Nos. 1 and 2 that petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary party is defeated on concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof).

19. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that in FIR number of vehicle not mentioned in FIR and on this ground appeal be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that FIR is not substantive piece of evidence but FIR is only a corroborative piece of evidence. It is held that in view of positive testimony of PW2 Bhajan Lal who is eye witness of accident non-mentioning of vehicle number in FIR is not fatal in present petition.

20. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of co-respondent No. 1 that co-respondent No.1 has sold vehicle No. HP-19-5008 and is not legally liable to pay compensation is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Co-respondent No.1 did not adduce any evidence on record in order to prove that he has sold vehicle to some other person at the time of accident. No affidavit relating to sale of vehicle No. HP-19-5008 at the time of accident is placed on record as required under Sales of Goods Act. It is well settled law that person who is owner at the time of accident is liable to pay compensation amount relating to accident. Hence it is held that co-respondent No.1 is liable to pay compensation amount in accordance with law.

21. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that petitioner Smt. Savitri Devi is not eye witness of accident and on this ground appeal be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case Savitri Devi has examined eye witness namely PW2 Bhajan Lal. PW2 Bhajan Lal has specifically stated in positive manner that deceased had died due to rash and negligent driving of vehicle No. HP-19-5008. Respondents did not adduce any independent rebuttal evidence in order to rebut testimony of PW2 Bhajan Lal. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

(Para-9 to 14)

For the petitioner: Mr. V.D. Khidta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rajnish K. Lal, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioner') against the order of learned District Judge, Bilaspur, H.P. passed in Civil Miscellaneous Appeal No. 1/14 of 2016, dated 25.04.2016, whereby the order passed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Bilaspur, H.P. in CMA No. 67/6 of 2015, dated 02.01.2016, was set aside.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present petition are that petitioner maintained a suit in the Court of first instance seeking permanent prohibitory injunction against the respondents/defendants (hereinafter referred to as 'the respondents'). The petitioner also maintained an application under Order 39, Rules 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC and the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Bilaspur, H.P. vide order dated 02.01.2016, restrained the respondents from interfering, transferring and changing the nature of job of the petitioner from his primary job, i.e., Operator of Hydra Crane and Fork Life for which he was trained and appointed till disposal of the main suit. The said order was assailed by the respondents in the Court of learned District Judge, Bilaspur, H.P., successfully. As per the petitioner, on 14.02.1994, he was appointed as Beldar in ACC, Barmana. Subsequently, on 01.04.2009, he was promoted and trained to operate the Hydra Crane. Respondent No. 1, who is General Manager, ACC Barmana, belongs from the native place of the petitioner. Owing to some family feud, respondent No. 1 is harassing the petitioner. The petitioner has further contended that he has not been trained to work in the mining department to which he is to be transferred. Special medical fitness is necessary to work in the mining department and he is not medically fit, as he is suffering from disk/back problem. His transfer to the mining department is mala fide action of respondent No. 1. The petitioner is being compelled to work in the mining department, operate a dumper and climb ladder having more than five steps. In the mining department he has to climb on a running Starker, which is hazardous and risky. As per the petitioner, Starker is an electrical instrument and computerized machine and he has no knowledge of the same and likewise Dumper moves on treacherous roads resulting into bumpy drive. The petitioner sought interim orders restraining the respondents from interfering, transferring or changing the nature of his job/work from his primary job for which he was appointed and trained by the respondents.

3. The respondents, by way of filing reply to the application, raised preliminary objections qua maintainability, locus standi, estoppel, jurisdiction etc. On merits it was averred by the respondents that respondent No. 1 is not inimical towards the petitioner. As per the respondents, the petitioner started working as Mazdoor in Grade-E w.e.f. 14.02.1994 and Clause-7 of appointment letter provides "it is understood and agreed that you are liable to be transferred to work in any of our works including quarries, departments or offices managed by this company or subsidiary company. If you are transferred permanently to and of the company's other units, your remuneration will be governed by the terms and conditions obtaining at that unit". The respondents have further averred that the petitioner was promoted as Machinery Attendant w.e.f. 01.01.2008 and as an Operator w.e.f. 01.04.2009 and was shifted from kiln department to motor vehicle department and he was subsequently transferred therefrom to mining department on 21.03.2014. The petitioner himself declined to undergo training in dumper operation and was willing to operate Hydra Crane only. As per the respondents, the petitioner was then shifted to crusher section for operating stacker/crusher and was to undergo training, but he again refused. The petitioner did not perform his duties and remained idle; hence he was charge-sheeted on 18.02.2015. The petitioner is medically fit and as per the terms and conditions of appointment, any employee of the company can be transferred anywhere in the company.

4. The learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Bilaspur, H.P. allowed the application under Section 39, Rules 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC. However, the learned Lower Appellate Court quashed and set aside the order passed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Bilaspur, H.P., hence the present petition.

5. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the learned Lower Appellate Court has failed to take into consideration the fact that the petitioner has a prima facie case in his favour and balance of convenience also lies in his favour. He has further argued that by rejecting the application under Section 39, Rules 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC, the petitioner is suffering irreparable loss. In the interest of justice, the order passed by the learned Lower Appellate Court rejecting the application of the petitioner may be set aside.

6. Conversely, the learned counsel for respondents No. 1 to 4 has argued that the petitioner has no prima facie case in his favour. As an employee, the petitioner cannot choose where he wants to work. He has also referred to the appointment letter and other documents, which are on record.

7. In rebuttal, the learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner is suffering from back ache and the work which he is being directed to perform is hazardous and he is not in a position to perform the same.

8. In order to appreciate the rival contention of the parties, I have gone through the record in detail and the pleadings of the parties, which are on record.

9. It is clear from the letter dated 21st March, 2014, that the petitioner was transferred to mining department and his services were urgently required in the said department. Vide another communication dated 25.03.2014, the petitioner was required to undergo training in dumper operation on and w.e.f. 26.03.2014 with some Senior HEMMO of mining department for a month. However, the petitioner refused to undergo the training and he wrote a letter dated 26.03.2014 to the authorities expressing that he has no interest to run heavy machinery, including dumper and he be allowed to operate Hydra Crane, which he was operating earlier. The petitioner nowhere highlighted his back problem to the authorities. Subsequently, vide letter dated 14.06.2014, the petitioner was transferred to crusher section. The said letter further revealed that the petitioner was required to operate the stacker/crusher and he was advised to report to HOD Crusher on 16.06.2014, but he did not do so. Thus, he was charge-sheeted on 18.02.2015 and the inquiry is still pending against him. Admittedly, the petitioner approached the Civil Court by filing suit for permanent prohibitory injunction coupled with injunction application on 20.03.2015. The petitioner approached the Civil Court much later to his last transfer. Earlier the petitioner did not highlight his ill-health to his employer. An employee can be posted anywhere by the employer in order to sub-serve the administration of work and the choice of the employee is always secondary. From the facts of the case it can be easily gathered that the petitioner is not interested to operate on a particular machine or undergo the training, he just wanted to continue on a specific machine only.

10. From the record it is not clear that the petitioner is having any major problem qua back ache. Although, he has produced the prescription slip on record, but the same nowhere justifies that the petitioner is not in a position to work. The appointment letter of the petitioner is amply clear that he can be posted anywhere. The petitioner cannot deny the orders of his superiors, as he is required to work and discharge duties as per the orders of his superiors.

11. In these circumstances, this Court finds that prima facie case does not exist in favour of the petitioner and balance of convenience is also not in his favour. In case interim order is granted in favour of the petitioner, other employees will also start disobeying the orders of their superiors and it will be difficult to run the administration for the respondents/defendants. The interests of justice demand that the petitioner should perform his duties as he is serving with the respondents.

12. In view of the above, I do not find any reason to interfere with the well reasoned order of the learned Lower Appellate Court. Accordingly, the petition, being devoid of merits deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed, however, with no orders as to costs.

13. The parties are directed to appear before the learned Trial Court on 12th January, 2017. The learned Trial Court will try to dispose of the Civil Suit as early as possible.

14. The petition stands disposed of as also pending application(s), if any.

The State of Himachal Pradesh and others ...Respondent.

CWP No. 2186 of 2016
Reserved on: 12.12.2016
Date of order: 20.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner had applied for sanitation tender at Mahatma Gandhi Medical Services Complex, Khaneri Rampur but ineligible firms were declared qualified in the technical bid- the tender was allotted to respondent no.4 despite the fact that it was not fulfilling terms and conditions of the tender documents- respondent no. 1 stated that the tender was allotted to respondent no.4 as it was found to be the lowest bidder - a writ petition was filed earlier, which was dismissed as not maintainable- respondent no.4 raised an objection that petitioner had not participated in the tender and cannot questionthe process – held, that petitioner had not participated in the tender process and has no locus standi to question the same – ESIC no. was wrongly blocked/cancelled by ESIC, which mistake was rectified by ESIC – no case for judicial review was made out—petition dismissed.

For the petitioner:	Mr. Javed Khan, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 3. Mr. Ashok Sood, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of the instant writ petition, the petitioner has called in question awarding of the sanitation tender process drawn by respondents No. 1 to 3 at Regional Hospital, Kullu, on the ground that the said tender has been allotted in favour of respondent No. 4 without following due process of law.

2. The petitioner has pleaded in paras 2 and 4 of the writ petition that the petitioner had applied for sanitation tender at Mahatma Gandhi Medical Services Complex (MGMSC) Khaneri, Rampur, for the financial year 2016-17, but the firms, which were not eligible, were declared qualified in the technical bid. Further averred that respondents No. 1 to 3 have wrongly and illegally awarded the sanitation tender at Regional Hospital, Kullu, in favour of respondent No. 4 despite the fact that it was not fulfilling the terms and conditions contained in the tender document.

3. The respondents have filed the replies. Respondents No. 1 to 3, in their reply, have stated that as per the check list of the documents to be attached with the technical bid, respondent No. 4 was found to be eligible and the tender of sanitation in respect of the Regional Hospital, Kullu, was allotted in its favour being the lowest bidder. But, when the fact of cancellation/rejection of the ESIC number of respondent No. 4 came into the notice of respondent No. 3, the matter was got verified from the Employees State Insurance Corporation, Baddi (for short "ESIC") and, thereafter, respondent No. 4 was asked to explain, which furnished new ESIC number allotted to it alongwith copies of various challans paid with effect from 15th February, 2015. Respondents No. 1 to 3 have specifically taken these pleas in the preliminary submissions and in paras 2 and 5 of the reply on merits.

4. Respondents No. 1 to 3 have also specifically stated that the petitioner had challenged the tender process for sanitation in respect of MGMSC Khaneri, Rampur, by the medium of CWP No. 882 of 2016, which was dismissed by this Court, being not maintainable vide judgment and order, dated 27th June, 2016, thus, cannot maintain this writ petition on similar grounds.

5. Respondent No. 4, in para 2 of the preliminary submissions and reply on merits, has specifically averred that it was registered with ESIC since February, 2015, under Employer's Code No. 1532240001001, was blocked/cancelled by ESIC without any enquiry/verification on the wrong assumption that the business premises of the said respondent is situated outside the municipal limits of Municipal Corporation, Shimla, which is non-implemented area under the Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948 (for short "the Act"). Further averred that when it came to know about the blocking/cancellation of the Employer's Code, it immediately approached ESIC alongwith revenue record and certificate from the concerned Patwari to the effect that its business premises is situated within the limits of Municipal Corporation, Shimla. Thereafter, ESIC revoked the rejection and issued fresh Employer's Code enforceable with effect from February, 2015, because a number/code, once blocked, cannot be re-allotted. Thus, it has been pleaded that respondent No. 4 was eligible in all respects.

6. Respondent No. 4 has also specifically stated that the petitioner has not participated in the tender process, thus, has no right to question the same. It has also been stated that the petitioner, being involved in the business of providing contract services in hospitals and other public institutions throughout the State of Himachal Pradesh, has obtained several service contracts by producing forged documents resulting in registration of various FIRs against the petitioner's firm and is facing trial. It is also stated that the petitioner is in the habit of approaching the Courts whenever his tender is rejected.

7. We have examined the pleadings read with the record and are of the considered view that respondents No. 1 to 3 have not committed any illegality or irregularity in awarding the tender in favour of respondent No. 4 being the lowest bidder for the following reasons:

8. Mr. Romesh Verma, learned Additional Advocate General, was asked to seek instructions as to whether the petitioner has participated in the tender process in question or not, has furnished list of the firms which have participated in the sanitation tender process at Regional Hospital, Kullu, for the year 2016-17, made part of the file. The perusal of the said list does disclose that the petitioner or his firm has not participated in the said tender process, has no locus to question the same. Thus, the writ petition is not maintainable only on this score.

9. It has duly been established by respondent No. 4 that the ESIC number was wrongly blocked/cancelled by ESIC, which mistake was rectified by ESIC, when pointed out by respondent No. 4 supported by relevant documents, by issuing fresh ESIC number with effect from February, 2015. The same ESIC number could not be issued to respondent No. 4 for the reason that once a number/code is blocked by the computer, the same cannot be re-allotted. Respondent No. 4 has used the said ESIC number and filed various challans for depositing the share of employer's contribution towards the contributory insurance premium of its employees. Thus, no case for judicial review is made out.

10. Having glance of the above discussions, the writ petition is dismissed alongwith all pending applications.

LPA No.28 of 2013.
Judgment reserved on : 13.12.2016.
Date of decision: December 20, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner joined the services of the department as daily waged beldar – he was engaged as a pipe fitter – his case was considered for regularization and he was appointed as a work charge beldar – he joined under protest and filed original application before the Tribunal – a direction was issued to appoint the petitioner to the post of work charge pipe fitter – a corrigendum was issued and the designation of the petitioner was shown as fitter – the petitioner filed an original application claiming the time scale on seniority basis – the application was transferred to the High Court and was dismissed – held in appeal that the petitioner was directed to be appointed as pipe fitter in the lowest grade with the scale of work charge beldarby the Tribunal – the corrigendum was issued in terms of the direction- the

For the Appellant	Mr.Sanjeev Bhushan, Senior Advocate with Ms.Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.
For the Respondents	Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr.P.M.Negi, Mr.Anup Rattan, Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 to 3. Mr.Sat Parkash, Advocate, for respondents No.4 and 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

This Letters Patent Appeal is directed against the judgment passed by the learned writ Court on 15.07.2011 whereby his claim for appointment as Pipe Fitter with retrospective effect came to be dismissed.

2. As per the pleaded case of the appellant, he joined services of the respondent-Department in the year 1984 as daily waged 'Beldar' and subsequently in July, 1986, was engaged as a Pipe Fitter. His case for regularization was considered in the year 1993 and he was appointed as a work charged 'Beldar' instead of a Pipe Fitter. He thereafter on 09.03.1995 joined under protest and at the same time filed OA (M) No.424/95 before the learned Tribunal wherein he claimed regularization as Pipe Fitter. The Original Application was decided on 25.06.1996 by directing that the appellant would be entitled for appointment to the post of work charged Pipe Fitter in the lowest grade i.e. the scale of Rs. 770-1350/- and his services would be regularized in the said category as and when vacancy is available with the respondent-Department.

3. In compliance to the judgment, the respondents on 07.03.1998 issued a corrigendum and the designation of the appellant instead of 'Beldar' was shown as Fitter in the scale of Rs. 770-1350/-.

4. Aggrieved by the corrigendum, the appellant filed O.A.No.78/2002 wherein he claimed that the respondent-Department should have appointed the appellant to the post of Pipe Fitter and granted him time scale on seniority basis. It was further averred that the respondents in violation of the judgment earlier passed by the learned Tribunal had appointed junior persons to the post of Pipe Fitter thereby violating the provisions of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

5. The respondents filed reply wherein it was averred that the judgment passed by the learned Tribunal in favour of the appellant had been implemented in its letter and spirit and the appellant had been appointed in the pay scale of Rs. 770-1350/-, even though no post of Pipe Fitter was available.

6. It was upon closure of the learned Tribunal at that time that the record of the Original Application No.78/2002 was transferred to this Court and was registered as CWP(T) No.8192/2008. The same came up for consideration before the learned writ Court on 15.07.2011 and the only argument put-forth by the appellant was that the judgment passed by the learned Tribunal on 25.06.1996 has not been implemented in its letter and spirit. However, the said contention was negated by the learned writ Court.

7. It is this judgment which has been assailed by the appellant on the ground that the learned writ Court had fallen in error in concluding that the petition had been filed for seeking compliance of the judgment of the erstwhile Tribunal in OA (M) No.424/95, whereas, the appellant had infact set up a claim that he should be considered as daily waged Fitter with effect from July, 1996, so as to be eligible and entitled for the grant of work charged status of Pipe Fitter after 10 years.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

8. At the outset, we may notice that the directions passed by the learned Tribunal in OA (M) No. 424/95 are very specific whereby the appellant was directed to be appointed as Pipe Fitter in the lowest grade with the scale of work charged 'Beldar' in the scale of Rs. 770-1350/- and the same read as under:-

> "The lowest grade of the post held by the applicant i.e. Beldar and Pipe Fitter to complete 10 years continuous service is that of Beldar, that is to say the scale of the Beldar is that of 770-1350, as such the applicant is to be made a work charged employee as Pipe Fitter in the lowest grade i.e. the scale of work charged Beldar in the scale of Rs.770-1350. The applicant would thus entitled to be appointed to the said post and his services to be regularised in the said category as and when vacancy is available with the respondent-department and the regularisation is to be done on the basis of seniority of the applicant in the seniority list maintained by the Department under the scheme."

9. We further find that the respondents in compliance of the aforesaid directions had infact issued a corrigendum on 07.03.1998 and the same reads as under:-

> "As the status of Pipe fitter in the lowest grade of Rs.770-1350 has been given by the Administrative Tribunal H.P. Shimla in OA No. (M)-424/95 as per judgment dated 25.06.1996 in favour of Shri Bhuri Singh S/o Sh.Tashi Ram Village Kuthed, P.O.Deola, Tehsil Churah, Distt. Chamba, the name of post as written as Beldar in the appointment order of Shri Bhuri Singh may be read as Fitter in the scale of Rs.770-1350. This is w.r.to the clarification as sought for vide IPH-A-5-E(3)28/97 dated 5.12.97 from the Financial Commissioner-cum-Secretary (IPH) to the Govt. of Himachal Pradesh Shimla."

10. From what has been extracted above, we have no doubt in our mind that the order passed by the learned Tribunal directing the appellant to be designated as Pipe Fitter in the lowest grade of Rs. 770-1350/- was duly complied with by the respondents by issuing corrigendum dated 07.03.1998. If that be so, then there is no occasion for the appellant to have any further grievance. What infact the appellant is striving for is questioning the orders passed by the learned Tribunal on 25.06.1996 in OA (M) No.424/95 which obviously is not permissible? If at all the appellant was aggrieved by the directions passed by the learned Tribunal whereby he was ordered to be placed in the lowest grade, he ought to have either filed a review petition or assailed the said order before the higher Forum/Court.

11. Having failed to do so, the findings as recorded by the learned Tribunal would obviously stare at his face having attained finality. That apart, even at the time of filing of CWP (T) No.8192/2008 out of which the present appeal arises was taken up for consideration, the only contention put-forth by the appellant was that the judgment passed by the learned Tribunal on 25.06.1996 had not been implemented in its letter and spirit, as would be evident from the perusal of the judgment, the relevant portion whereof reads thus:-

> "3. Mr. Rajesh Raghuvanshi, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the judgment dated 25th June, 1996 rendered by the learned Tribunal has not been implemented in letter and spirit.
> 4. However, it is evident from the material placed on record and the contents of Annexure-R dated 9.3.1998 filed with supplementary affidavit that the petitioner's designation was changed from Beldar to pipe fitter in the pay-scale of Rs. 770-1350.

5. The grievance of the petitioner stands redressed and the judgment rendered in OA (M) No. 424 of 1995 has already been implemented. Consequently, there is no merit in this petition and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any. No costs."

12. Having obtained judgment in his favour, the appellant cannot turn around and now claim that he should have been appointed as a daily waged Pipe Fitter with effect from July, 1986 alongwith pay-scale which in teeth of the findings recorded by the learned Tribunal in its judgment dated 25.06.1996 is not clearly available to him. That apart, even while filing OA No.78/2002 (CWP(T) No. 8192/2008), the only claim agitated at the time of arguments pertained only to the non-implementation of the aforesaid judgment and that being the position, the appellant is otherwise precluded and estopped from raising the contention as now sought to be raised in this appeal.

13. Consequently, we find no merit in this appeal and accordingly the same is dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Decided on : December 20, 2016

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25- The workman was appointed as a driver – his services were terminated orally without issuance of notice – a reference was made, which was allowed by the Labour Court- held, that the management had not challenged the award – the Industrial Tribunal had wrongly denied the benefit of backwages especially when continuity in service and seniority were granted – Writ Court does not have jurisdiction to re-appreciate the facts- however, Tribunal had failed to exercise the jurisdiction by denying the back wages – writ petition allowed and workman held entitled to 50% of back wages from the date of retrenchment till passing of award. (Para-9 to 16)

Cases referred:

Raghubir Singh vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar, 2014(6) SLR 6 (S.C.)

For the petitioner : Mr. V.B. Verma, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Senior Advocate with Mr. Munish Dhatwalia, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of instant petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner-workman (herein after, 'workman') has laid challenge to Award dated 4.12.2010 passed by the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Dharamshala in Ref. No. 74/2006, whereby the learned Tribunal below though has granted benefit of continuity in service and seniority from the date of illegal termination of the workman but has denied the back-wages.

2. Briefly stated facts, as emerge from the record are that appropriate Government made following terms of reference under Section 10(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act to the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court:

> "Whether the termination of services of Shri Kulvinder Singh S/o Shri Preetpal Singh workman by the M/s Cousins Gun Manufacturers Mandi, H.P. w.e.f. 20.5.2004 without complying the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as alleged by the workman is proper and justified? If not, what relief of service benefits and amount of compensation the above aggrieved workman is entitled to?"

3. Workman, in his statement of claim before the learned Tribunal below stated that he was appointed as a Driver by the respondent-management (herein after, 'management') in the year 1998 and as such he continued to work till 20.5.2004, whereafter his services were terminated by the management orally, without issuance of any notice. Since workman had completed more than 240 days in each calendar year, his services could not be terminated without resorting to the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act. Record further reveals that when the workman raised industrial dispute before the Labour-cum-Conciliation Officer, Management issued a notice alongwith cheque amounting to Rs.2815/- in favour of the workman virtually in compliance of Section 25 (F) of the Act, however, the fact remains that the same was not accepted by the workman. In the aforesaid background, workman claimed before the Tribunal that he be ordered to be re-engaged forthwith in the same capacity as he was working earlier alongwith consequential benefits including back-wages.

4. It also emerges from the record that despite various opportunities to the Management, it failed to file any reply to the statement of claim filed by the workman, as such, claim was decided on the basis of material adduced on record by workman. Workman while examining himself as PW-1 specifically stated that he was appointed as a Driver by the Management in the year 1998 and thereafter, he worked uninterruptedly till 20.5.2004, when his services were all of a sudden terminated without resorting to the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act. It is also stated that he has completed more than 240 days in each calendar year during his service with the Management. In support of his aforesaid claim, he also examined one Shri Manohar Lal as PW-2, who also corroborated version having been put forth by the workman that workman was working as Driver with the management from 1998 till 2004, when his services were terminated by the Management. As has been observed above that the Management despite sufficient opportunities, failed to file reply, as a result of which averments made in the statement of claim and statement having been made by the workman during the proceedings before the learned Tribunal below, remained unrebutted and learned Tribunal below rightly presumed and inferred that the workman had worked continuously and uninterruptedly with the Management since 1998 and his services were illegally terminated by the Management without following provisions of Section 25(F) of the Industrial Disputes Act and as such his termination was rightly quashed and set aside. At this stage, it may be taken note of as also clearly emerges from the Award passed by learned Tribunal below that when workman raised industrial dispute before the Labour-cum-Conciliation Officer, Management, in semblance of compliance of Section 25(F) of the Act, issued a notice alongwith cheque of Rs.2815/- to the workman, which was not accepted/ withdrawn by the workman, meaning thereby that there was admission on the part of the Management as far as non-compliance of Section 25(F) of the Act at the time of termination of services of workman is concerned. By way of impugned Award, learned Tribunal below while accepting the claim having been put forth by the workman, directed the Management to reengage the workman at same place and in the same post, against which workman was working with the Management at the time of his illegal termination. Award further suggests that workman was also held entitled to benefit of continuity in service and seniority from the date of his illegal termination, but he was not granted any back wages. In the aforesaid background, being aggrieved with the denial of back wages by the learned Tribunal below, workman approached this Court seeking following main relief:

" ii) Allow the present Civil Writ Petition and the petitioner may also be held entitled to full back wages while reinstating his services with seniority and other consequential service benefits from the date of his illegal termination i.e. 20-05-2010 with cost through out."

5. Since the management has not laid any challenge to the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal below whereby direction has been issued for reinstatement of workman with benefit of continuity in service and seniority, Award has attained finality to that extent qua the Management.

6. Mr. V.B. Verma, learned counsel representing the workman vehemently argued that the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below denying back wages to the workman is illegal and against the law laid down by the Apex Court in a catena of cases, wherein it has been categorically held that once workman is entitled to the benefit of continuity in service and seniority, he is also entitled to back wages and as such Award deserves to be modified. Mr. Verma, further contended that the learned Tribunal below has failed to appreciate that the onus to prove that workman was not gainfully employed during the period of termination was not upon the workman but the same was upon the Management, which claimed that during the period of retrenchment, workman remained gainfully employed. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid plea, he made this Court to travel through the records of the case to demonstrate that at no point of time, Management was able to prove on record by leading cogent and convincing evidence that the workman was gainfully employed during the period of retrenchment and as such impugned award having been passed by learned Tribunal below deserves to be modified. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Verma, further contended that despite there being order of reinstatement passed by learned Tribunal below, Management has not reengaged the workman, as such impugned award is harsh, inequitable and unfair to the workman especially for the reasons that after passing Award, substantial justice has eluded the workman since neither the workman has been reinstated nor he has been paid for the period.

7. Mr. B.S. Chauhan, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Munish Dhatwalia, Advocate, supported the award passed by Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court. Mr. Chauhan, vehemently argued that there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below as the same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the parties and as such there is no scope of interference by this Court, especially in view of the findings of fact recorded by the learned Tribunal below. In this regard he placed reliance upon judgment passed in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd. 2014 AIR SCW 3157. While refuting the contentions having been put forth on behalf of the learned counsel representing the petitioner, that onus was upon the Management to prove that workman was not gainfully employed during the period of retrenchment, Mr. Chauhan, strenuously argued that as per settled law, onus is always upon the person, who claims wages for the period of retrenchment, to prove that during the period of termination, he was not gainfully employed at some other place and as such there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below as far as denial of back wages is concerned. Mr. Chauhan, further contended that since the respondent Unit is closed for the reasons beyond the control of the Management, services of workman could not be reengaged and as such there is no disobedience on the part of the Management, as alleged by the workman. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Chauhan also invited attention of this Court to the judgment having been passed by the Apex Court in T.N. Terminated Full Time Temporary LIC Employees Assn. V. LIC, reported in (2016) 9 SCC 366, to suggest that considering the hardships of the respondent-Management, workman may not be held entitled to back wages.

8. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and also gone through the Award and records.

9. At the risk of repetition, it may be reiterated that there is no challenge to the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below by the respondent-Management, whereby workman has been held entitled to reinstatement with benefit of continuity in service and seniority, as such to that extent, award has attained finality qua the Management. Since no challenge has been laid to the impugned award by the Management, it can be safely inferred that for all intents and purposes, Management has accepted the workman to be in continuous service, who was admittedly appointed as Driver in the year 1998 and continued to work as such till 20.5.2004, when his services were illegally terminated by the Management, without resorting to the provisions contained in Industrial Disputes Act.

10. After perusing the pleadings as well as Award, this Court sees substantial force in the claim of the workman that he could not be denied back wages, especially when on the basis of the evidence adduced on record learned Tribunal came to the conclusion that the termination is bad being in violation of various provision of the Act, learned Tribunal could not deny the benefit of back wages, especially when the petitioner was granted the benefits of continuity in service and seniority. The benefit of continuity in service and seniority could only be granted by the Court if it was satisfied that workman/petitioner was not allowed to work during the retrenchment period despite there being sufficient work available with the management. In the present case, learned Tribunal while holding the termination of the petitioner bad came to the conclusion that the termination was in violation of Section 25-F of the Act, meaning thereby, learned Tribunal was convinced that after retrenchment of the petitioner, work was available but for some extraneous reasons services of the petitioner were terminated without resorting to provisions contained in Section 25-F of the Act. Otherwise, also this Court after perusing the evidence as has been discussed above is fully convinced that the respondent-company was unable to prove that at the time of retrenchment of the petitioner, no work was available and no persons junior to him were retained. Once, the petitioner was able to prove on record that at the time of his termination, no procedure as prescribed under Industrial Disputes Act, was followed, learned Tribunal below ought to have granted back wages also. Apart from above, when learned Tribunal on the basis of the evidence held the petitioner entitled to benefit of continuity in service and seniority, there was no occasion whatsoever, to deny the benefit of back wages because benefit of continuity of service could only be granted, if tribunal was satisfied that during retrenchment period petitioner was purposely stopped from discharging his duty despite there being availability of sufficient work.

11. In this regard reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Raghubir Singh vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar, 2014(6) SLR 6 (S.C.), wherein the Court held:

> "39. Now, it is necessary for this Court to examine another aspect of the case on hand, whether the appellant is entitled for reinstatement, back wages and the other consequential benefits. In the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase V. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (D. Ed) and Ors.,(2013)10 SCC 324: [2013(6) SLR 642 (SC), this Court opined as under:-
> > "22. The very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of service implies that the employee will be put in the same position in which he would have been but for the illegal action taken by the employer. The injury suffered by a person, who is dismissed or removed or is otherwise terminated from service cannot easily be measured in terms of money. With the passing of an order which has the effect of severing the employer employee relationship, the latter's source of income gets dried up. Not only the concerned employee, but his entire family suffers grave adversities. They are deprived of the source of sustenance. The children are deprived of nutritious food and all opportunities of education and advancement in life. At times, the family has to borrow from the relatives and other acquaintance to avoid starvation. These sufferings continue till the competent adjudicatory forum decides on the legality of the action taken by the employer. The reinstatement of such an employee, which is preceded by a finding of the competent judicial/quasi judicial body or Court that the action taken by the employer is ultra vires the relevant statutory provisions or the principles of natural justice, entitles the employee to claim full back wages. If the employer wants to deny back wages to the employee or contest his entitlement to get consequential benefits, then it is for him/her to specifically plead and prove that during the intervening period the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same emoluments. Denial of back wages to an employee, who has suffered due to an illegal act of the employer would amount to indirectly punishing the concerned employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages including the emoluments.

23. A somewhat similar issue was considered by a three Judge Bench in Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd. v. Employees of Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd. (supra).....The relief of reinstatement with continuity of service can be granted where termination of service is found to be invalid. It would mean that the employer has taken away illegally the right to work of the workman contrary to the relevant law or in breach of contract and simultaneously deprived the workman of his earnings. If thus the employer is found to be in the wrong as a result of which the workman is directed to be reinstated, the employer could not shirk his responsibility of paying the wages which the workman has been deprived of by the illegal or invalid action of the employer. Speaking realistically, where termination of service is questioned as invalid or illegal and the workman has to go through the gamut of litigation, his capacity to sustain himself throughout the protracted litigation is itself such an awesome factor that he may not survive to see the day when relief is granted. More so in our system where the law's proverbial delay has become stupefying. If after such a protracted time and energy consuming litigation during which period the workman just sustains himself, ultimately he is to be told that though he will be reinstated, he will be denied the back wages which would be due to him, the workman would be subjected to a sort of penalty for no fault of his and it is wholly undeserved. Ordinarily, therefore, a workman whose service has been illegally terminated would be entitled to full back wages except to the extent he was gainfully employed during the enforced idleness. That is the normal rule. Any other view would be a premium on the unwarranted litigative activity of the employer. If the employer terminates the service illegally and the termination is motivated as in this case viz. to resist the workmen's demand for revision of wages, the termination may well amount to unfair labour practice. In such circumstances reinstatement being the normal rule, it should be followed with full back wages..... In the very nature of things there cannot be a strait-jacket formula for awarding relief of back wages. All relevant considerations will enter the verdict. More or less, it would be a motion addressed to the discretion of the Tribunal. Full back wages would be the normal rule and the party objecting to it must establish the circumstances necessitating departure. At that stage the Tribunal will exercise its discretion keeping in view all the relevant circumstances. But the discretion must be exercised in a judicial and judicious manner. The reason for exercising discretion must be cogent and convincing and must appear on the face of the record. When it is said that something is to be done within the discretion of the authority, that something is to be done according to the Rules of reason and justice, according to law and not humour. It is not to be arbitrary, vague and fanciful but legal and regular.....

24. Another three Judge Bench considered the same issue in Surendra Kumar Verma v. Central Government Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, New Delhi (supra) and observed: Plain common sense dictates that the removal of an order terminating the services of workmen must ordinarily lead to the reinstatement of the services of the workmen. It is as if the order has never been, and so it must ordinarily lead to back wages too.....In such and other > exceptional cases the court may mould the relief, but, ordinarily the relief to be awarded must be reinstatement with full back wages. That relief must be awarded where no special impediment in the way of awarding the relief is clearly shown. True, occasional hardship may be caused to an employer but we must remember that, more often than not, comparatively far greater hardship is certain to be caused to the workmen if the relief is denied than to the employer if the relief is granted." (Emphasis supplied by this Court)" (pp.23-25)

12. Hence, this Court after carefully going through the aforesaid judgment having been passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, has no hesitation to conclude that learned Tribunal below erred in not granting back wages to the workman, while extending him benefit of reinstatement alongwith benefit of continuity in service and seniority, as such, impugned award deserves to be modified accordingly. Aforesaid view has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in (2016) 3 SCC 340 and (2016) 6 SCC 541.

13. As far as judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd. is concerned, there can not be any quarrel with the settled proposition of law that the Courts while examining correctness and genuineness of the Award passed by Tribunal has very limited powers to appreciate the evidence adduced before the Tribunal below, especially the findings of fact recorded by the Tribunal below and same can not be questioned in writ proceedings and writ court can not act as an appellate Court. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment having been relied upon by the learned counsel representing the Management, clearly suggests that error of law which is apparent on the face of record can be corrected by writ Court but not an error of fact, however, grave it may appear to be. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held in the aforesaid judgment that if finding of fact is based upon no evidence that would be recorded as error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held that in regard to findings of fact recorded by Tribunal, writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording said findings, tribunal erroneously refused to admit admissible evidence or erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence, which influenced impugned findings. It would be profitable to reproduce following paras of the judgment:

> "16. .....The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior Courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior Courts or Tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the Court or Tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the Court exercising it is no entitled to act as an Appellate Court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or Tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened for questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the Tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the Tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the interference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ Court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised.

14. Perusal of aforesaid findings returned by the Hon'ble Apex Court nowhere completely bars jurisdiction of writ Court to examine the correctness and genuineness of the Award having been passed by the Tribunal especially when there is an error of law apparent on the face of record. In the instant case, as has been discussed in detail, learned Tribunal below could not have denied benefit of back wages to the workman, especially when Tribunal, on the basis of material, came to the conclusion that the workman is entitled to reinstatement alongwith benefit of continuity in service and seniority. Once, the learned Tribunal below had come to the conclusion that the workman is entitled to the benefit of continuity in service and seniority, it ought to have granted benefit of back wages as has been laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case Raghubir Singh vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar.

15. Hence, this Court is of the view that learned Tribunal below failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it and erroneously refused to admit admissible claim of the workman and as such this Court has the jurisdiction to correct the same while exercising writ jurisdiction as laid down in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd.(supra).

16. Consequently, in view of above, the Award dated 4.12.2010 passed by the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Dharamshala in Ref. No. 74/2006, is modified to the extent of denying back wages to the workman. Workman is held entitled to the 50% of the back wages from the date of illegal retrenchment till the date of passing of the Award by the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court below.

17. Pending applications are disposed of.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A writ petition was filed by the petitioner seeking direction to the University to show the answer sheets/books of the petitioner and the copy of notification of dates of examination – the petition was dismissed – SLP was filed before the Supreme Court, which was also dismissed – a CMP was filed to provide the record kept in the sealed cover –the petitioner was directed to approach the authorities for obtaining the copy of the requisite documents – the petitioner filed the present application pleading that he is not satisfied with the order passed by the authority – held, that the language used by the petitioner is intemperate and contemptuous – the petitioner has attempted to interfere with the due course of judicial proceedings – no licence can be given to the petitioner to commit contempt of Court – however, no action was taken considering the fact that petitioner is a student — further, the writ petition has been disposed of and the Court has become functus officio - no direction can be issued – petition dismissed. (Para-6 to 24)

Radha Mohan Lal v. Rajasthan High Court (2003) 3 SCC 427
Jaswant Singh Vs. Virender Singh (1995 (supp.1) SCC 384)

For the Petitioner:	In person.
For the Respondents:	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Adocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Addl. A.Gs. and Mr. Kush Sahrma, Dy. A.G. for respondent No.1. Nemo for respondent Nos. 2 to 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

By medium of this application, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:

(a) "Recall the copy of answer book handed over to the respondent university vide order dated 15th November, 2016 in CMP No. 9077/2016 in Writ Petition No. 1449 of 2015 to the petitioner in the interest of justice and provide a copy of that with the seal of the court so that truth of the University can be verified in the open court in the interest of justice.

OR

(b) Verify the said answer book in the open court with an expert whether it bears handwriting of the petitioner or not in the interest of justice.

(c) Pass any other order deems fit to this Hon'ble Court in favour of petitioner in the interest of justice."

2. The writ petition is no longer on the dockets of this Court. The petitioner filed writ petition claiming therein four reliefs, however, at the time of hearing, only two reliefs were prayed for and the same read as under:

> "(i). That the respondent-University may be directed to show the answer sheets/books of the petitioner of the examination of 2nd Semester of 2nd Year M.Sc.(Horticulture), in First hourly, Mid term, Second hourly and Practical Examination for course No. FSC-516/Course title Systematics of Fruit Crops, Academic Year 2013-2014 and the copy of notification of dates of examination for the said examination, for which grading has been reported at Annexure P-1.
> (ii). That the respondent–University may be directed to show or place on records the answer sheets/books of the petitioner in examination of Practical examination and final examination of M.Sc (Horticulture), academic year 2013-14, Course No. FSC-506, 2nd semester, Course Title: Breeding of Fruit Crops, Cr. Hrs: 2+1 for which grading has been shown at Annexure P-2."

3. This Court vide judgment dated 2.9.2015 dismissed the petition after having arrived at conclusion that the same sans merit. The petitioner thereafter assailed the judgment passed by this Court by approaching the Hon'ble Supreme Court by filing SLP (C) No.6203/2016. However, the same was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 19.9.2016, which reads thus:

"Upon hearing the counsel the Court made the following

The special leave petition is dismissed. Pending application is disposed of."

4. After the dismissal of the Special Leave to Appeal, the petitioner filed CMP No. 9077 of 2016 wherein the prayer was made for providing the record kept in sealed cover as per the orders earlier passed by this Court on 2.9.2015.

5. Even though we had doubts regarding the maintainability of this application, however, vide order dated 15.11.2016, we asked the petitioner to approach the concerned authorities for obtaining the copy of requisite documents and at the same time, the Registry was directed to handover the sealed cover documents to the learned Senior Counsel of the respondent-University. This would be evident from the order passed on 15.11.2016, which reads thus:

> "Petitioner/applicant has moved this application in a decided CWP No. 1449 of 2015. It is moot question-whether this application is maintainable? We leave this question open. It is for the petitioner to approach the concerned authorities for obtaining the copy of the requisite documents. Registry is directed to hand over the sealed covered documents filed on 27.5.2015 to Ms. Ranjana Parmar, learned Senior Advocate. Accordingly, the application is disposed of."

6. It is thereafter that the petitioner has filed the instant application and would contend that he is not satisfied with the orders passed by the authorities concerned and prayed that the application may be decided on merit.

7. At the outset, we may point out that we are really pained and rather taken aback by some of averments made in the application, more particularly, those contained in para No.3, which reads thus:

> "That this Hon'ble Court had dismissed the writ petition No.1449 of Year 2015 without hearing it on merits and the Hon'ble High Court had told in the judgment of the said writ petition that the respondent University had filed the answer-book of the petitioner in the Hon'ble High Court and the Hon'ble High Court without verifying the answer book of the petitioner by means of expert test considered blindly that the answer book filed by the University is written by the petitioner in the sealed envelop."

8. We have already exercised great amount of restrain while adjudicating the writ petition on merit and even at that time we refrained ourselves from imposing exemplary costs only because the petitioner is a student, as would be clearly evident from para 9 of the judgment, which reads thus:

> "9. As the petitioner has based his claim on falsehood and has not come with clean hands, we would have normally awarded exemplary costs, but we refrain from doing so since the petitioner is only a student."

9. However, it appears that the sympathy and consideration shown to the petitioner was totally misplaced or else he would have taken extreme care and caution, more particularly, in the use of words and language while drafting the instant petition.

10. It is evidently clear from the language used by the petitioner that the same is intemperate and contemptuous and we have no hesitation to conclude that the petitioner by deliberately using the words in the para extracted above has attempted to interfere with the due course of judicial proceedings and such action could be construed to be obstructive or attending to obstruct the administration of justice.

11. No affront to the majesty of law can be permitted. The fountain of justice cannot be allowed to be polluted by disgruntled litigants. The protection is necessary for the courts to enable them to discharge their judicial functions without fear. (Ajay Kumar Pandey, Advocate, (1998) 7 SCC 248).

12. It is well settled that litigant cannot be permitted to browbeat the court or terrorize or intimidate the Judges as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chetak Construction Ltd. v. Om Prakash (1998) 4 SCC 577:

> "16. Indeed, no lawyer or litigant can be permitted to browbeat the court or malign the presiding officer with a view to get a favourable order. Judges shall not be able to perform their duties freely and fairly if such activities were permitted and in the result administration of justice would become a casualty and the rule of law would receive a setback. The Judges are obliged to decide cases impartially and without any fear or favour. Lawyers and litigants cannot be permitted to 'terrorise' or 'intimidate' Judges with a view to 'secure' orders which they want. This is basic and fundamental and no civilized system of administration of justice can permit it."

13. These observations were subsequently, reiterated in Radha Mohan Lal v. Rajasthan High Court (2003) 3 SCC 427.

14. Only because a party has appeared in person does not give him a licence thereby to commit contempt of the Court by using intemperate language or innuendos against the Judges while discharging the judicial function. The safeguards are not for the protection of any Judge individually but are essential for maintaining the dignity and decorum of the courts. No doubt, fair comments, even if, outspoken, but made without any malice or attempting to impair the administration of justice and made in good faith, in proper language, do not attract any punishment for contempt of court. However, when from the criticism deliberate, motivated and calculated attempt is discernible to bring down the image of judiciary in the estimation of the public or to impair the administration of justice or tend to bring the administration of justice into disrepute, the courts must bestir themselves to uphold their dignity and the majesty of law. No system of justice can tolerate such unbridled licence on the part of a person to permit himself the liberty or scandalizing a court by casting unwarranted, uncalled for an unjustified aspersions on the integrity, ability, impartiality or fairness of a Judge in the discharge of his judicial functions as it amounts to an interference with the due course of administration of justice. (Jaswant Singh Vs. Virender Singh (1995 (supp.1) SCC 384).

15. In ordinary circumstances, we would not have hesitated to initiate proceedings against the petitioner under the Contempt of Courts Act, however, again taking into consideration that the petitioner is still a student, whose career may otherwise be spoiled by any adverse order that may be passed by this Court, we leave the matter to rest here. However, with a stern warning to the petitioner to disassociate from such kind of misadventures in future.

We now proceed to consider the application on merit.

16. Indubitably, the main writ petition is not on the dockets of the Court and as observed earlier has been decided on 2.9.2015 and even the Special Leave to Appeal against the decision stands dismissed on 19.9.2015 and, therefore, it is settled law that once the writ petition has finally been decided and proceedings stand terminated the Court becomes functus officio. It is only by filing an application for review of the order passed earlier that the Court may be called upon to examine the issue raised therein. That apart, the Court would by invoking its inherent powers correct some kinds of error, which normally would be arithmetical, grammatical etc. However, such powers would be invoked only in exceptional circumstances to avoid miscarriage of justice. Fraud is genuine, albeit limited, exception to the important principle of finality of litigation upon which the doctrine of functus officio is founded.

17. "Functus officio" is a Latin term meaning having performed his or her office. With regard to an officer or official body, it means without further authority or legal competence because the duties and functions of the original commission have been fully accomplished.

18. "Functus" means having performed and "officio" means office. Thus, the phrase functus officio means having performed his or her office, which in turn means that the public officer is without further authority or legal competence because the duties and functions of the original commission have been fully accomplished.

19. Trayner's Latin Maxims, 4th Edn. Gives the expression functus officio the following meaning:

> "Having discharged his official duty. This is said of any one holding a certain appointment, when the duties of his office have been discharged. Thus a Judge, who has decided a question brought before him, is functus officio and cannot review his own decision."

20. In Wharton's Law Lexicon, 14th Edn., the expression functus officio is given the meaning, "a person who has discharged his duties, or whose office or authority is at an end."

21. P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Law Lexicon gives the expression the meaning, "A term applied to something which once has had a life and power, but which has become of no virtue whatsoever. Thus when an agent has completed the business which he was entrusted his agency is functus officio."

22. In Black's Law Dictionary Tenth Edition, meaning of functus officio is : "having performed his or her office (of an officer or official body) without further authority or legal competence because the duties and functions of the original commission have been fully accomplished."

23. In other words, the authority, which had a life and power, has lost everything on account of completion of purpose/activities/act.

24. Notably, what the petitioner is seeking is virtually a writ of mandamus in a decided case, which is legally impressible.

24. Accordingly, we found no merit in this application and the same is dismissed with the clear warning to the petitioner, as aforesaid.

The Registry is directed to send a copy of this order to the petitioner.

Solicitor General of India with Mr. Ajay Chauhan, Advocate for respondent Nos. 3 and 4. Mr. B.C. Negi, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Raj Negi, Negi, Advocate for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

This instant writ petition has been filed with the following substantive prayers:

i) To issue a writ in the nature of mandamus or any other appropriate writ, direction or order striking down sections 3 (6), 3 (6) (a) and 3 (6) (b) of the Himachal Pradesh Private Medical Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006 as amended vide Amendment Act No. 24 of 2015 as null and void being wholly arbitrary, grossly malafide, in contravention of the law settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and in naked breach of the fundamental rights of the petitioners under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India.

ii) To issue the orders of appropriate nature that the petitioner No.1 MM Medical College and Hospital or any other intuitions of Medical Streams which may be started by petitioners be governed by the MMU (E&R) Act."

2. It is vide notification dated 30.9.2015 that the State Government amended the Himachal Pradesh Private Medical Educational Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006 (Act No. 24 of 2015). The amendment carried in section 3 reads thus:

3. Amendment of section 3.- In section 3 of the principal Act, for sub-section (6), the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:-

"(6) If the State Government is satisfied that the institution affiliated to the Himachal Pradesh University or any other University has contravened any of the provisions of this Act, it may recommend to that University for withdrawal of recognition or affiliation of such institution.

(6-a) In order to insure common standards for maintaining the excellence of Medical Education in the State, the Himachal Pradesh University shall have the exclusive power to affiliate Private Medical Education Institutions set up in the State; and

(6-b) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, the Private Medical Educational Institutions shall be bound to comply with all the rules, directions and notifications issued by the State Government, from time to time, and provide all such facilities and assistance as are required to implement such rules, directions and notifications."

3. However, at the time of arguments, the petitioners have confined their arguments only to the amendment carried in sub-section (6-a) of section 3.

4. One of the moot questions that therefore arises for consideration in the instant petition is as to which authority has the power to decide regarding the affiliation of Medical College. Is it the Central Government through MCI or the State Government or is the petitioner-college, which is alleged to be constituent of Maharishi Markandeshwar University established under the Maharishi Markandeshwar University (Establishment and Regulation) Act, 2010, that can decide this question?

However, before answering the question certain facts, as pleaded may be recapitulated:

5. The petitioner No.1 is an unaided private college established by the petitioner No.3-Maharishi Markandeshwar University Trust (for short 'University Trust') and is a constituent of petitioner No.2 Maharishi Markandeshwar University (for short University).

6. The University was set up pursuant to letter of intent issued by the State Government on 20.8.2008 under section 5 (1) of the Himachal Pradesh Private Universities (Establishment and Regulations) Act, 2006 (for short 'Private University Act').

7. The petitioner-trust was issued an essentiality certificate by the State for establishment of a Medical College, subject to its observing all codal formalities as per law/prevailing Act/Rules/ Instructions and it was further made clear that the Trust would abide by the 'Private University Act'.

8. The petitioner-University after obtaining the essentiality certificate purchased 125.02 bighas of land at Khalogra in Kumarhatti-Solan contiguous to the land purchased by it for setting up the petitioner-University. On 16.6.2010, the Maharishi Markandeshwar University (Establishment and Regulation) Act, 2010 (for short 'MMU Act') was brought into force.

9. The University-Trust vide its letter dated 27.7.2012, requested the State Government for the grant of Essentiality Certificate to establish a new medical college at Kumarhatti, Solan under petitioner No. 2-University, which though was granted by the State Government on 29.8.2012, however, the same was subject to the following conditions:

i) The institution concerned will have to abide by the regulations/terms issued by the Medical Council of India and State; and

ii) The admission, fee structure and related issues shall be governed as per the Himachal Pradesh Private Medical Education Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006.

10. Petitioner No.3-Trust upon the receipt of essentiality certificate/NOC applied to the Central Government alongwith required scheme under section 10-A of the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 (for short 'IMC Act, 1956) for grant of permission for establishment of a new Medical College at Kumarhatti under petitioner No.2-University. The application was processed by the MCI and after carrying out the physical inspection of the Medical College, granted letter of intent to the petitioner-trust for establishment of a new Medical College from the academic session 2013-2014 with certain conditions.

11. Thereafter, vide letter of permission dated 14.7.2013, approval of the Board of Governors of MCI was granted for the establishment of a new Medical College in the name and style of Maharishi Markandeshwar Medical College and Hospital, Kumarhatti,Solan Himachal Pradesh by the Maharishi Markandeshwar University. The State Government vide notification dated 14.8.2013 issued under section 3(3) of the Private University Act notified the procedure for admission and fee structure for the University. It is here that the dispute with regard to affiliation of the petitioner-University began to arise.

12. There was protracted correspondence between the MCI and the State with regard to the affiliation of the petitioner-University and finally the MCI vide its letter dated 2.9.2015 informed the State Government and reiterated its earlier view that the petitioner-University was statutorily empowered by way of section 5 (1) (xxvi) "to setup colleges" and further that the State Legislature had itself granted the right to the petitioner-University to have its own college, therefore, in such case insisting on affiliation of its medical college to another University, i.e. H.P. University appeared to be contrary to the Act of Himachal Legislature.

13. It is thereafter that the State Government issued a notification thereby carrying out an amendment in the Himachal Pradesh Private Medical Educational Institutions (Regulations of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006, as aforesaid.

14. It is this amendment, which has been assailed in this writ petition mainly on the ground that the co-ordination and determination of standards in higher education falls in Entry 66, List-I of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India and therefore, the State Government cannot by controlling education in the State encroach upon the standards in the institutions for higher education, as these powers lie only within the purview of the University Grant Commission and the power vested in the MCI under Section 3 of the MCI Act, which are not merely advisory in nature, but are mandatory and the Universities are bound by the standards prescribed.

15. The respondent-State has contested the petition by taking various preliminary objections. It is averred that it is the State Government who alone is competent to regulate the standards of education to be imparted in Medical Colleges and this has so been recognized by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various pronouncements.

15. In addition to that, it is averred that in view of Entry 25 of List-III of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution, Union as well as State have the power to legislate subject to the provisions of Entry 66 of List-I of the Seventh Schedule, which deals with determination of standards in institutions for higher education. Therefore, the State has a right to control education, including medical education.

17. It is further averred that the letter of intent was actually issued in favour of petitioner No-1-Medical College and not to petitioners No.2 or 3. Moreover, the essentiality/ feasibility certificate was issued to the petitioners subject to the following conditions:

i) The institution concerned will have to abide by the regulations/terms issued by the Medical Council of India and State; and

ii) The admission, fee structure and related issues shall be governed as per the Himachal Pradesh Private Medical Education Institutions (Regulation of Admission and Fixation of Fee) Act, 2006.

18. It has thereafter been specifically denied that the State Government had approved to establish College under the MMU Act. It has been reiterated that it is the State Government, which alone has power to regulate any profession with regard to causing standards of quality, public welfare, equality of opportunity etc. and merely because the petitioners Institution is in the business of imparting education, cannot have unregulated right of admitting students in a non-transparent manner.

19. The MCI has filed a separate reply wherein it is averred that it is a statutory body constituted under the provisions of the MCI Act, 1956 and has been given the responsibility of discharging the duties of maintenance of highest standards of Medical Education throughout the country and in this regard by virtue of provisions of Section 33 of the MCI Act, 1956 has been empowered with the prior approval of the Central Government to frame regulations for laying down minimum standards of infrastructure, teaching and other requirements of conduct of medicine courses.

20. It is further averred that the regulations so issued are binding and mandatory and State enactments, rules and regulations framed by the Universities in relation to the conduct of medicine courses, to the extent they are inconsistent with the Act and the regulations made thereunder by the MCI, are repugnant by virtue of Article 254 of the Constitution of India.

21. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

22. Incidentally, both the parties have referred to and have heavily relied upon the recent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Modern Dental College and Research Centre and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and others, 2016 (7) SCC 353, in support of their respective claims. Learned counsel for the petitioner would contend that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 101 of the judgment (supra) has though held that Entry 66 of List-I is a specific Entry having a very specific and limited scope and the same deals with coordination and determination of standards in institution of higher education or research as well as scientific and technical institutions, however, it has further clarified the words "coordination and determination of standards" and has recognized the exclusive domain of the Union in prescribing such standards.

23. On the other hand, learned Advocate General would rely upon the observations made in paras 101, 103 and 107 of the judgment in Modern Dental College's case (supra) to contend that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has specifically held that regulating "education" includes even Medical Education, i.e. prescribed in List-II Entry 25, thereby giving concurrent powers to both Union as well as State and it has been clarified that when two Entries relating to Education, one to the Union List and other in the Concurrent List, co-exist, they have to be read harmoniously and then it becomes manifest that when it comes to coordination and laying down of standards in the higher education or research and scientific and technical institutions, power rests with the Union/Parliament to the exclusion of the State Legislatures. However, the other facets of education, including technical and medical education as well as governance of universities is concerned; even State Legislatures are given power by virtue of Entry 25, which is wide enough and is only circumscribed to the limited extent of it being subject to List-1 Entries 63 to 66.

24. In order to better appreciate the contentions raised by the parties, it would be necessary to advert to the observations as are necessary for the adjudication of this case and the same are contained in paras 98 to 103, which read thus:

> "[98] The next issue to be considered is whether the subject matter of admissions was covered exclusively by Entry 66 of List I, thereby the States having no legislative competence whatsoever to deal with the subject of admissions or determination of fee to be charged by professional educational institutions.
> [99] Main reliance placed on behalf of the appellants is on Bharti Vidyapeeth (Deemed University) & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra & Anr., 2004 11 SCC 755 Heavy reliance was also placed by the appellants on Gujarat University & Anr. v. Shri Krishna Ranganath Mudholkar & Ors.,1964 Supp1 SCR 112 and the judgment of the Constitution Bench in the case of Dr. Preeti Srivastava & Anr. v. State of M.P. & Ors., 1999 7 SCC 120
> [100] The competing Entries are: List I, Entry 66 and List III, Entry 25. In the process, List II, Entry 32 also needs a glance. Thus, for proper analysis, we reproduce these Entries below:

"List I

66. Co-ordination and determination of standards in institutions for higher education or research and scientific and technical institutions.

List II

32. Incorporation, regulation and winding up of corporation, other than those specified in List I, and universities; unincorporated trading, literacy, scientific, religious and other societies and associations; co-operative societies.

List III

25. Education, including technical education, medical education and universities, subject to the provisions of entries 63, 64, 65 and 66 of List I; vocational and technical training of labour."

[101] To our mind, Entry 66 in List I is a specific Entry having a very specific and limited scope. It deals with co-ordination and determination of standards in institution of higher education or research as well as scientific and technical institutions. The words 'co-ordination and determination of standards' would mean laying down the said standards. Thus, when it comes to prescribing the standards for such institutions of higher learning, exclusive domain is given to the Union. However, that would not include conducting of examination, etc. and admission of students to such institutions or prescribing the fee in these institutions of higher education, etc. In fact, such co-ordination and determination of standards, insofar as medical education is concerned, is achieved by Parliamentary legislation in the form of Medical Council of India Act, 1956 and by creating the statutory body like Medical Council of India (for short, 'MCI') therein. The functions that are assigned to MCI include within its sweep determination of standards in a medical institution as well as co-ordination of standards and that of educational institutions. When it comes to regulating 'education' as such, which includes even medical education as well as universities (which are imparting higher education), that is prescribed in Entry 25 of List III, thereby giving concurrent powers to both Union as well as States. It is significant to note that earlier education, including universities, was the subject matter of Entry 11 in List II 5 . Thus, power to this extent was given to the State Legislatures. However, this Entry was omitted by the Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976 with effect from July 03, 1977 and at the same time Entry 25 in List II was amended 6 . Education, including university education, was thus transferred to Concurrent List and in the process technical and medical education was also added. Thus, if the argument of the appellants is accepted, it may render Entry 25 completely otiose. When two Entries relating to education, one in the Union List and the other in the Concurrent List, co-exist, they have to be read harmoniously. Reading in this manner, it would become manifest that when it comes to co-ordination and laying down of standards in the higher education or research and scientific and technical institutions, power rests with the Union/Parliament to the exclusion of the State Legislatures. However, other facets of education, including technical and medical education, as well as governance of universities is concerned, even State Legislatures are given power by virtue of Entry 25. The field covered by Entry 25 of List III is wide enough and as circumscribed to the limited extent of it being subject to Entries 63, 64, 65 and 66 of List I.

[102] Most educational activities, including admissions, have two aspects: The first deals with the adoption and setting up the minimum standards of education. The objective in prescribing minimum standards is to provide a benchmark of the caliber and quality of education being imparted by various educational institutions in the entire country. Additionally, the coordination of the standards of education determined nationwide is ancillary to the very determination of standards. Realising the vast diversity of the nation wherein levels of education fluctuated from lack of even basic primary education, to institutions of high excellence, it was though desirable to determine and prescribe basic minimum standards of education at various levels, particularly at the level of research institutions, higher education and technical education institutions. As such, while balancing the needs of States to impart education as per the needs and requirements of local and regional levels, it was essential to lay down a uniform minimum standard for the nation. Consequently, the Constitution makers provided for Entry 66 in List I with the objective of maintaining uniform standards of education in fields of research, higher education and technical education.

[103] The second/other aspect of Education is with regard to the implementation of the standards of education determined by the Parliament, and the regulation of the complete activity of Education. This activity necessarily entails the application of the standards determined by the Parliament in all educational institutions in accordance with the local and regional needs. Thus, while Entry 66 List I dealt with determination and coordination of standards, on the other hand, the original Entry 11 of List II granted the States the exclusive power to legislate with respect to all other aspects of education, except the determination of minimum standards and coordination which was in national interest. Subsequently, vide the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976, the exclusive legislative field of the State Legislature with regard to Education was removed and deleted, and the same was replaced by amending Entry 25, List III, granting concurrent powers to both Parliament and State Legislature the power to legislate with respect to all other aspects of Education, except that which was specifically covered by Entry 63 to 66 of the List I."

25. Having gone through the judgment in Modern Dental College's case (supra), the relevant portion whereof has been extracted above, we find that the issue of affiliation has in fact not really been considered or dealt with in the aforesaid judgment. However, nonetheless the observations in para 101 (supra) have a definite bearing to the controversy in dispute. It has been clearly held that Entry 66 in List I deals with coordination and determination of standards which essentially means laying down the standards. It has been held that such standards insofar as medical education is concerned are achieved by the Parliamentary Legislation in the form of Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 by creating the statutory body like MCI. It has further been held that the functions that have been assigned to MCI include within its sweep determination of standards in a medical institution as well as coordination of standards and that of educational institutions. However, when it comes to regulating education, as such, which includes even medical education, the same is prescribed under List III Entry 25 thereby giving concurrent powers to both Union as well as States.

26. Judged in the light of aforesaid exposition of law, it would be necessary to advert to the provisions of the Indian Medical Council Act, 1956. Section 10-A provides for permission for establishment of new medical college, new course of study, etc. and reads thus:

"10A. Permission for establishment of new medical college, new course of study.

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or any other law for the time being in force,—

(a) no person shall establish a medical college; or

(b) no medical college shall—

(i) open a new or higher course of study or training (including a post-graduate course of study or training) which would enable a student of such course or training to qualify himself for the award of any recognised medical qualification; or

(ii) increase its admission capacity in any course of study- or training (including a post-graduate course of study or training), except with the previous permission of the Central Government obtained in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this section, "person" includes any University or a trust but does not include the Central Government.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this section, "admission capacity", in relation to any course of study or training (including post-graduate course of study or training) in a medical college, means the maximum number of students that may be fixed by the Council from time to time for being admitted to such course or training.

(2) (a) Every person or medical college shall, for the purpose of obtaining permission under sub-section (1), submit to the Central Government a scheme in accordance with the provisions of clause (b) and the Central Government shall refer the scheme to the Council for its recommendations.

(b) The scheme referred to in clause (a) shall be in such form and contain such particulars and be preferred in such manner and be accompanied with such fee as may be prescribed.

(3) On receipt of a scheme by the Council under sub-section (2), the Council may obtain such other particulars as may be considered necessary by it from the person or the medical college concerned, and thereafter, it may,—

(a) if the scheme is defective and does not contain any necessary particulars, give a reasonable opportunity to the person or college concerned for making a written representation and it shall be open to such person or medical college to rectify the defects, if any, specified by the Council;

(b) consider the scheme, having regard to the factors referred to in sub-section (7), and submit the scheme together with its recommendations thereon to the Central Government.

(4) The Central Government may, after considering the scheme and the recommendations of the Council under sub-section (3) and after obtaining, where necessary, such other particulars as may be considered necessary by it from the person or college concerned, and having regard to the factors referred to in sub-section (7), either approve (with such conditions, if any, as it may consider necessary) or disapprove the scheme and any such approval shall be a permission under sub-section (1):

Provided that no scheme shall be disapproved by the Central Government except after giving the person or college concerned a reasonable opportunity of being heard:

Provided further that nothing in this sub-section shall prevent any person or medical college whose scheme has not been approved by the Central Government to submit a fresh scheme and the provisions of this section shall apply to such scheme, as if such scheme has been submitted for the first time under sub-section (2).

(5) Where, within a period of one year from the date of submission of the scheme to the Central Government under sub-section (2), no order passed by the Central Government has been communicated to the person or college submitting the scheme, such scheme shall be deemed to have been approved by the Central Government in the form in which it had been submitted, and, accordingly, the permission of the Central Government required under sub-section (1) shall also be deemed to have been granted.

(6) In computing the time-limit specified in sub-section (5) the time taken by the person or college concerned submitting the scheme, in furnishing any particulars called for by the Council, or by the Central Government shall be excluded.

(7) The Council, while making its recommendations under clause (b) of sub-section (3) and the Central Government, while passing an order, either approving or disapproving the scheme under sub-section (4), shall have due regard to the following factors, namely:—

(a) whether the proposed medical college or the existing medical college seeking to open a new or higher course of study or training, would be in a position to offer the minimum standards of medical education as prescribed by the Council under section 19A or, as the case may be, under section 20 in the case of postgraduate medical education;

(b) whether the person seeking to establish a medical college or the existing medical college seeking to open a new or higher course of study or training or to increase its admission capacity has adequate financial resources;

(c) whether necessary facilities in respect of staff, equipment, accommodation, training and other facilities to ensure proper functioning of the medical college or conducting the new course of study or training or accommodating the increased admission capacity have been provided or would be provided within the time-limit specified in the scheme;

(d) whether adequate hospital facilities, having regard to the number of students likely to attend such medical college or course of study or training or as a result of the increased admission capacity, have been provided or would be provided within the time-limit specified in the scheme;

(e) whether any arrangement has been made or programme drawn to impart proper training to students likely to attend such medical college or course of study or training by persons having the recognised medical qualifications;

(f) the requirement of manpower in the field of practice of medicine; and

(g) any other factors as may be prescribed.

(8) Where the Central Government passes an order either approving or disapproving a scheme under this section, a copy of the order shall be communicated to the person or college concerned."

27. Section 19 provides for withdrawal of recognition and reads thus:

"19. WITHDRAWAL OF RECOGNITION

1. When upon report by the Committee or the visitor it appear to the Council:-

1. that the courses of study and examination to be undergone in, or the proficiency required from candidates at any examination held by any University or medical institution,

2. that the staff, equipment accommodation, training and other facilities for instruction and training provided in such University or medical institution or in any college or other institution affiliated to that University, do not conform to the standards prescribed by the Council, the Council shall make a representation to that effect to the Central Government.

2. After considering such representation, the Central Govt. may send it to the State Government of the State in which the University or medical Institution is situated and the State Government shall forward it along with such remarks as it may choose to make to the University or Medical Institution, with an intimation of the period within which the University or medical institution may submit its explanation to the State Government.

3. On the receipt of the explanation or, where no explanation is submitted within the period fixed, then on the expiry of that period, the State Government shall make its recommendations to the Central Government

4. The Central Government, after making such further inquiry, if any, as it may think fit, may by notification in the official Gazette, direct that an entry shall be made in the appropriate Schedule against the said medical qualification declaring that it shall be a recognised medical qualification, only when granted before a specified date or that the said medical qualification if granted to students of a specified college or institution affiliated to any university shall be a recognised medical qualification only when granted before a specified date or, as the case may be, that the said medical qualification shall be a recognised medical qualification in relation to a specified college or institution affiliated to any University only when granted after a specified date.

28. Section 19-A provides for minimum standards of medical education and reads thus:

"19A. MINIMUM STANDARDS OF MEDICAL EDUCATION

1. The Council may prescribe the minimum standards of medical education required for granting recognised medical qualifications (other than postgraduate medical qualifications) by universities or medical institutions in India.

2. Copies of the draft regulations and of all subsequent amendments thereof shall be furnished by the Council to all State Governments and the Council shall before submitting the regulations or any amendment thereof, as the case may be, to the Central Government for sanction, take into consideration the comments of any State Government received within three months from the furnishing of the copies as aforesaid.

3. The Committee shall from time to time report to the Council on the efficacy of the regulations and may recommend to the Council such amendments thereof as it may think fit. "

29. Under section 33, the Council has been conferred with powers to make Regulations with the previous sanction of the Central Government and in terms thereof it has framed the Establishment of New Medical Colleges, Opening of Higher Courses of Study and Increase of Admission Capacity in Medical Colleges Regulation, 1993 (hereinafter referred to as "Regulations").

30. It would be noticed that at the time of submitting an application for permission of the Central Government to establish Medical College, the desirous Medical College has to apply for permission to set up new Medical College, who in addition to other documents, is required to submit consent of affiliation for the proposed medical college from a recognized university. This would be evident from qualifying criteria No.4, which reads thus:

> "4. That Consent of Affiliation for the proposed medical college has been obtained by the applicant from a recognised university."

31. In addition thereto, in terms of Part-III of the application, the same is required to contain the name of the university alongwith certified copy of consent of affiliation and State Government's permission.

32. Appendix I to the Regulations provides for instruction to the applicant for permission of the Central Government for starting new or higher courses (including P.G. Degree/Diploma and higher specialties) in a Medical College/institution, which reads thus:

> For starting higher courses in medical subjects (Annexure I) in the medical colleges/ institutions, the applicant should be a recognised medical college or institution. The applicant should conform to the guidelines laid down in the recommendations on Graduate/Postgraduate Medical Education adopted by the Medical Council of India and modified from time to time and approved by the Central Government. They should apply to the Central Government for this permission along with the State Government's permission. University's affiliation and in conformity with the Medical Council of India regulations along with the documentary evidence to show additional financial allocation, provision for additional space, provision for additional equipment and other infrastructural facilities and provisions of recruitment of additional staff as per Medical Council of India norms.

33. Appendix I also provides for Qualifying Criteria, which reads thus:

> 3. Letter of University's permission for starting these courses at the existing medical college/institution has been obtained by the applicant from the University to which it is affiliated.

34. It also provides for List of Enclosures, which reads thus:

> 1.....
> 2. Certified copy of the consent of affiliation issued by a recognized University.
> 3-4.....

35. Now, what we can gather from the provisions of the MCI Act is that the committee constituted by the MCI is required to entertain the application for recognition, consider State opinion, cause inspection to be conducted by an expert team then grant or refuse recognition in terms of the Act. Once recognition is granted and public institution is permitted to commence the course, it is required to take an affiliation from the affiliating body, which is the University. Thus, grant of recognition and affiliation to an institute is condition precedent to running of the courses of the institute. If either of them is not granted to the institute, it would not be in a position to commence the relevant academic courses.

36. Grant of recognition is the basic requirement for the grant of affiliation. Therefore, it cannot be said that affiliation is insignificant or a mere formality on the part of the examining body. It is the requirement of law that the affiliation should be granted by the affiliating body in accordance with the prescribed procedure and upon proper application of mind.

37. 'Recognition' and 'affiliation' are expressions of distinct meaning and consequences. The affiliating body/examining body does not have any discretion to refuse the affiliation with reference to any of the factors which had been considered by the MCI while granting recognition. However, the examining body can always impose condition in relation to its own requirements. Some of which can be:

a) eligibility of students for admission;
b) conduct of examinations;
c) the manner in which the prescribed courses should be completed; and
d) to see that the conditions imposed by the MCI are complied with.

38. Despite the fact that 'recognition' itself covers the larger precept of 'affiliation' still the affiliating body is not to grant affiliation automatically but must exercise its discretion fairly and transparently while ensuring that conditions of the law of the university and the functions of the affiliating body should be complementary to the recognition of MCI and ought not to be in derogation thereto.

39. However, the purpose of 'recognition' and 'affiliation' is different. The difference was meticulously and succinctly delineated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajasthan Prdesh Vaidya Samiti, Sardarshahar and another vs Union of India and others, (2010) 12 SCC 609, wherein it was held that the purpose of 'affiliation' is only to prepare and present the students for public examinations, whereas 'recognition' of the institute is for other purpose mentioned under the statute and unless the institute is recognized by the appropriate authority, the institute cannot be amenable to any other provision of the statute applicable in this regard. 'Recognition' is a governmental function, which signifies an admission or an acknowledgement of something existing before. The State or the State Authority can lay down the condition for recognition of an educational institution that the same must have particular amount of funds or number of students or standard of education and so on and so forth subject to provisions of the Constitution. It would be apt to reproduce the relevant observations, which read thus:

> [20] In The Principal and Ors. v. The Presiding Officer and Ors., 1978 AIR(SC) 344, this Court held that 'recognition' means that the school has been recognized or acknowledged by the appropriate authority under the Statute and 'affiliation' means that the students of that school are eligible to appear in the examination. Therefore, purpose of affiliation is only to prepare and present the students for public examination, recognition of a private school is for the other purposes mentioned under the Statute and unless the school is recognized by the appropriate authority, the school cannot be amenable to any other provision of the Statute applicable in this regard.
> [21] In Re: The Kerala Education Bill, 1957 AIR 1958 SC 956; and T.M.A Pai Foundation and Ors. v. State of Karnataka and Ors., 2002 8 SCC 481, this Court held that it is always open to the State or the Statutory Authority to lay down conditions for recognition of an educational institution namely, that the institution must have particular amount of funds or properties or number of students or standard of education and so on and so forth and it is also permissible for the Legislature to make a law prescribing conditions for such recognition, however, such a law should be constitutional and should not infringe any Fundamental Right of the minorities etc. Recognition is a Governmental function.
> [22] This Court has persistently deprecated the practice of an educational institution admitting the students and to allow them to appear in the examinations without having requisite recognition and affiliation. This kind of infraction of law has been treated as of very high magnitude and of serious nature. Students of a un-recognised institution cannot legally be entitled to appear in any examination conducted by any government, university or board. (Vide Minor Sunil Oraon Thr. Guardian and Ors. v. C.B.S.E. and Ors., 2007 AIR(SC) 458).
> [23] Similarly, recognition must be there with the school to make it subject to the provisions of the Act. Recognition signifies an admission or an acknowledgement of something existing before. To recognize is to take cognizance of a fact. It implies an overt act on the part of the person taking such cognizance. (Vide T.V.V. Narasimham and Ors. v. State of Orissa, 1963 AIR(SC) 1227).
> [24] In State of Tamil Nadu and Ors. v. St. Joseph Teachers Training Institute and Anr., 1991 3 SCC 87, this Court held that students of un-recognised institutions are not entitled to appear in any public examination held > by the Government and it is not permissible for the Court to grant relief on humanitarian grounds contrary to law to the person who claim to have passed any examination from such institutions.

> 25. In view of the above, it is evident that any institution which is not recognised cannot impart an education and students thereof cannot appear in the examination held by the government, university or Board."

40. Closer to the point in issue is a subsequent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhartia Education Society vs. State of H.P., 2011 (4) SCC 527, wherein again the term 'recognition' and 'affiliation' came up for consideration and it was held that the purpose of 'recognition' and 'affiliation' is a different and it is apt to extract the relevant observations, which read thus:

> [19] The purpose of 'recognition' and 'affiliation' are different. In the context of NCTE Act, 'affiliation' enables and permits an institution to send its students to participate in the public examinations conducted by the Examining Body and secure the qualification in the nature of degrees, diplomas, certificates. On the other hand, 'recognition' is the licence to the institution to offer a course or training in teacher education.

41. It would be evidently clear from the aforesaid observations that 'affiliation' enables and permits an institution to send students to participate in the public examinations conducted by the Examining Body and secure the qualification in the nature of degrees, diplomas, certificates. Whereas, on the other hand, 'recognition' is the licence to the institution to offer a course or training in teacher education.

42. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case was dealing with a case relating to National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 (for short NCTE Act) and it was observed that prior to the NCTE Act, in absence of apex body to plan and coordinate development of teachers education system, respective regulation and proper maintenance of the norms and standards in the teacher education system, including grant of 'recognition' was largely exercised by the State Government and Universities/Boards. It is only after the enactment of NCTE Act, the functions of NCTE as 'recognizing authority' and the Examining Bodies as 'affiliating authorities' became crystallized, though their functions overlap on several issues. NCTE Act recognizes the role of examining bodies in their sphere of activity.

43. On the same analogy, it can conveniently be held that prior to the MCI Act, in the absence of apex body to plan and coordinate, the development of education system, respective regulation and proper maintenance of the norms and standards in the teacher education system, including grant of 'recognition' was largely exercised by the State Government and Universities/Boards. However, after the enactment of MCI Act, the functions of the MCI as recognizing authority and the examining body as affiliating authority became crystallized. Meaning thereby that the role of the MCI is mainly confined to recognition, whereas the affiliation is best left to the State Government or the examining university.

44. Here, it would be advantageous to refer to earlier judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh and another vs. Kumari Nivedita Jain and others, (1981) 4 SCC 296 wherein the powers conferred upon the MCI under MCI Act to make regulations to carry out the purpose of the Act have been clearly delineated and it was observed as under:

> "18. An analysis of the various sections of the Act indicate that the main purpose of the Act is to establish Medical Council of India, to provide for its constitution, composition and its functions; and the main function of the Council is to maintain the medical register of India and to maintain a proper standard of medical education and medical ethics and professional conduct for medical practitioners. The scheme of the Act appears to be that the Medical Council of India is to be set up in the manner provided in the Act and the Medical Council > will maintain a proper medical register, will prescribe minimum standards of medical education required for granting recognised medical qualifications, will also prescribe standards of post-graduate medical education and will further regulate the standards of professional conduct and etiquette and code of ethics for medical practitioners. The Act further envisages that if it appears to the Council that the courses of study and examination to be undergone in, or the proficiency required from candidates at any examination held by any University or Medical Institution do not conform to the standard prescribed by the Council or that the staff, equipment, accommodation, training and other facilities for instructions and training provided in such University or medical institution or in any college or other institution affiliated to that University do not conform to the standards prescribed by the Council, the Council will make a representation to that effect to the Central Government and on consideration of the representation made by the Council, the Central Government may take action in term of the provisions contained in Sec. 19 of the Act. The Act also empowers the Council to take various measures to enable the Council to judge whether proper medical standard is being maintained in any particular institution or not."

45. It would be clear from the extracted portion that the Medical Council of India has been set up to maintain a proper medical register, prescribe minimum standards of medical education required for granting recognised medical qualifications and also prescribe standards of post-graduate medical education and to regulate the standards of professional conduct and etiquette and code of ethics for medical practitioners. Whenever it appears to the Council that the courses of study and examination to be undergone in, or the proficiency required from candidates at any examination held by any University or Medical Institution do not conform to the standard prescribed by the Council or that the staff, equipment, accommodation, training and other facilities for instructions and training provided in such University or medical institution or in any college or other institution affiliated to that University do not conform to the standards prescribed by the Council, the Council will make a representation to that effect to the Central Government and on consideration of the representation made by the Council, the Central Government may take action in terms of the provisions contained in section 19 of the Act.

46. However, nowhere does the Act confer authority upon the Medical Council to itself affiliate a college with any particular University and that is best left to the State Government which is competent to affiliate the college to a State or other University provided the certificate for affiliation is otherwise in conformity with the norms and guidelines prescribed by the Central Government, i.e. Medical Council of India.

47. The affiliation primarily is the subject of the University of the State/Affiliating University/examining Body. The MCI, the State Government, the Affiliating Body or the University, as the case may, have been assigned a definite role under the provisions of the MCI Act. The provisions of the MCI Actidentify the scope and extent of power which each of the stakeholders is expected to exercise. While the MCI has been assigned the paramount role of according recognition, whereas the affiliation is best left to the State Government/University/examining body.

48. Notably, the Himachal Pradesh University Act, 1970 is the parent statute under which all the Universities in the State have to be constituted and this is so provided in section 7 of the Himachal Pradesh University Act, 1970, which reads thus:

> 7. Jurisdiction of the University.
> (1) Save as other wise provided by or under this Act, the powers conferred on the University shall be exercisable in the area constituting Himachal Pradesh.
> (2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no educational institution situated within the territorial limits of the University shall be admitted to any privilege of any other University, incorporated > by law in India, and any such privilege granted by any such other University to any such educational institution prior to the commencement of this Act, shall unless otherwise directed by the State Government be deemed to be withdrawn on the commencement of this Act, and any such institution shall be deemed to be admitted to the privileges of the Himachal Pradesh University.

> (3) Where any institution or body established outside Himachal Pradesh seeks recognition from the University, then the powers and jurisdiction of the University shall extend to such institution or body subject to the laws in force in the State within which, and the rules and regulations of the University within whose jurisdiction, the said institution or body is situated.

49. Indubitably, the petitioners have not assailed the constitutionality of the aforesaid provision. Sub-section (2) of section 7 starts with the non-obstante clause and, therefore, would have predominance and would prevail inspite of anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force. Once that is so, the petitioners can have no right to claim that it should be affiliated to a University of its choice despite the fact as contained in section 7 (supra).

50. Even otherwise the State Government in its quest and endeavour to ensure common standards of maintaining the excellence of medical education within the State can always exercise its power to affiliate a private educational medical institute set up in a State to a particular University set up within the State, as this power vests within the exclusive domain of the State. The State can always act as a regulatory authority to ensure good quality education and see that the excellence of education standard does not fall below than what has been prescribed by the State Government. Rather, it is crucial for the State to act as a regulator even if this may have some effect on the autonomy of the private institution as that would not mean that the freedom of the Institute under Article 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution of India has been violated.

51. Similar issue came before this Court in CWP No. 7668 of 2013, titled as H-Private Universities Management Association (H-PUMA) Vs State of Himachal Pradesh and others, decided on 23.7.2014 and this Court observed as under:

> 20. In view of the various pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it can safely be concluded that in a right to establish an institution, inherent is the right to administer the same which is protected as part of the freedom of occupation under Article 19 (1) (g). Equally, at the same time, it has to be remembered that this right is not a business or a trade, given solely for the profit making since the establishment of educational institutions bears a clear charitable purpose. The establishment of these institutions has a direct relation with the public interest in creating such institutions because this relationship between the public interest and private freedom determines the nature of public controls which can be permitted to be "permissible". Even the petitioners concede that they have established the institutions to ensure good quality education and would not permit the standard of excellence to fall below the standard as may be prescribed by the State Government. The petitioners also conceded that the State makes it mandatory for them to maintain the standard of excellence in professional institutions. Thus, ensuring that admissions policies are based on merit, it is crucial for the State to act as a regulator. No doubt, this may have some effect on the autonomy of the private unaided institution but that would not mean that their freedom under Article 19 (1) (g) has in any manner been violated. The freedom contemplated under Article 19 (1) (g) does not imply or even suggest that the State cannot regulate educational institutions in the larger public interest nor it be suggested that under Article 19 (1) (g), only insignificant and trivial matters can be regulated by the State. Therefore, what clearly emerges is that the autonomy granted to private unaided institutions cannot restrict the State's authority and duty to regulate academic standards. On the other hand, it must be taken to be equally settled that the State's authority cannot obliterate or unduly compromise these institutions' autonomy. In fact it is in matters of ensuring academic standards that the balance necessarily tilts in favour of the State taking into consideration the public interest and the responsibility of the State to ensure the maintenance of higher standards of education.

23. The State has power to regulate academic excellence particularly in matters of admissions to the institutions and, therefore, is competent to prescribe merit based admission processes for creating uniform admission process through CET. Any prayer for seeking dilution or even questioning the authority of the State to act an regulator is totally ill-founded in view of the various judicial pronouncements, particularly in Visveswaraiah Technological University (supra)and reiterated in Mahatma Gandhi University (supra).

52. Importantly, not only the aforesaid judgment was assailed by filing Special Leave Petition, but the same was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 21.11.2014.

53. From the aforesaid detailed discussion, we are of the considered view that the provisions of the MCI Act identify the scope and extent of power which each of the State stakeholders, i.e. MCI, State Government, Affiliating Body or the University is expected to exercise. While the MCI has been assigned the paramount role of according recognition, the affiliation is best left to the State Government/University/examining body and, therefore, it is beyond the competence of the MCI or the Central Government to dictate terms to the State insofar as the question of grant of 'affiliation' is concerned or direct the State to affiliate a Medical College to a particular University. This is clearly beyond the powers conferred by the Constitution upon the Central Government or for that matter even the MCI. Even the College seeking affiliation is bound by the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh University Act, 1970, more particularly, the provisions contained in Section 7 thereof and cannot of its own claim any right or privilege to get affiliated to any University of its choice including petitioner No.2.

54. Having said so, we find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed alongwith all applications leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Sandeep Chauhan .....Petitioner.

Versus

Union of India and others .....Respondents.

CWP No.300 of 2016.
Judgment reserved on: 22.11.2016.
Date of decision: December 20, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Construction work on selected reaches on NH-70 was advertised – two bids were submitted – one was rejected by Tender Evaluation Committee – the Committee decided to cancel the tender process being single tender - the work was re-advertised – six bids were received out of which four were rejected – a complaint was filed regarding concealment of facts by respondent No.5, which was found to be correct on inquiry – another complaint was filed against the petitioner- the tender was again cancelled – the petitioner filed a writ petition challenging the cancellation process- held, that the officer of respondent No.2 was associated at the time of inquiry into complaint made against respondent No.5- he had written a letter subsequently that in case of opening of financial bid, no cognizance will be taken by respondent No.2- this shows lack of coordination between the respondents - the objection of respondent No.5 regarding the fact that technical personnel will not be ready to work with the petitioner is an assumption belied by the documents showing that they had consented to work with the petitioner – petition allowed - letter quashed and set aside - respondents directed to award the work to the petitioner.(Para-17 to 29)

For the Petitioner	:	Mr.B.C.Negi, Senior Advocate with Mr.Yashwardhan Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondents:		Mr.Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India, with Ms.Sukarma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2. Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.3 and 4. Mr.Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

If only the respondents would have taken extra care and not un-necessarily have blown up the issue only on account of lack of coordination amongst themselves and rectified the error without much ado, the filing of the instant petition could have conveniently been avoided and the precious public time of the Court could have been better utilized for the disposal of other cases.

2. The petitioner aggrieved by the cancellation of tender, has filed the instant petition claiming therein the following substantive reliefs:-

> "i) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash Annexure P-7 and Annexure P-8 i.e. letter dated 25.01.2016 and corrigendum dated 01.02.2016.
> ii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the Respondent authorities not to implement Annexure P-7 and Annexure P-8 i.e. letter dated 25.01.2016 and corrigendum dated 01.02.2016.
> iii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondent authorities to award the work in question to the petitioner."
> Certain undisputed facts may be noticed.

3. The work of construction of retaining wall, breast wall, crash barrier, parapet etc. in selected reaches on NH-70 (New NH-03) Jallandhar- Hoshiarpur-Gagret-Mubarikpur-Amb-Kotli-Mandi road from Km. 152/0 to 196/495 in the State of Himachal Pradesh was sanctioned by the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (for short MORTH) for Rs. 1084.40 lacs vide letter dated 19.02.2015.

4. Tender for the said work was called for by the State PWD for the first time on 21.05.2015 and only two bids qua the same were received. One of the bid was by the petitioner, whereas, other bid was by one SAB Industries Limited. These bids were evaluated on 16.07.2015 by the Tender Evaluation Committee. However, the work experience submitted by the SAB Industries Limited did not fulfill the relevant clause of the 'Detailed Notice Inviting Tender' (for short 'DNIT'). Since there was only a single bidder, the same was declared as non-responsive and the Committee decided to cancel the tender process being single tender in the first call in accordance with the Central Vigilance Commissioner (CVC) guidelines.

5. Tender for the aforesaid work was called for the second time by the State PWD on 23.08.2015 and this time six bids were received. The bids so received were evaluated by the Committee on 26.10.2015 and this time four bids were found to be non-responsive and ultimately only the bids of the petitioner and respondent No.5 were left in the fray. During the aforesaid meeting, the Executive Engineer, NH Division, informed the Committee that a complaint had been received from the petitioner regarding concealment of facts with respect to the existing works in hand and commitments of the bids submitted by respondent No.5. He further informed that the veracity of this complaint was examined and was found to be genuine, as such, the Committee decided to declare the bid of respondent No.5 to be non-responsive under Clause 4.8 of DNIT which reads as under:-

> "Even though the bidders meet the above qaualifying criteria, they are subject to be disqualified if they have:
> -Made misleading or false representations in the forms, statements and attachments submitted in proof of the qualification requirements..."

6. However, in the meanwhile, the Regional Office of MORTH, Chandigarh i.e. respondent No.2 received various grievances from the bidders found to be non-responsive representing their cases and a complaint against the petitioner was received from respondent No.5. The representations/grievances/ complaints were referred to Chief Engineer (NH). As per the complaint submitted by respondent No.5, the petitioner had also concealed the fact regarding existing commitments of ongoing work and list of key personnel. Respondent No.2 in turn requested respondent No.4 to examine the veracity of this complaint before opening the financial bids. Respondent No.4 vide letter dated 21.01.2016 informed respondent No.2 that in order to deliberate upon the complaints of respondent No.5 and petitioner against each other, an internal Committee had been constituted, who in its meeting held on 14.12.2015 had decided that the objection against the petitioner was found to be false in respect of the concealed work details, however, regarding deployment of key personnel and requisite staff, it was decided by the Committee that an undertaking from the Contractor i.e. petitioner be taken before award of the work. It was further informed that the date for opening of financial bid had been fixed on 22.01.2016.

7. Respondent No.2 vide letter dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) requested respondent No.4 to scrupulously examine the veracity of various complaints and open the financial bids only after ascertaining that the charges levelled against the petitioner are found to be false and unfounded, lest tender process be annulled and short notice rebidding may be done. It also asked respondent No.4 not to proceed further with the opening of the financial bid as it was in disagreement with the procedure adopted and conveyed by respondent No.4 and it was observed that if the State PWD still goes ahead with the opening of the financial bid for the lone bidder i.e. petitioner, no cognizance will be taken by it and the same may be considered as null and void.

8. Respondent No.4 ultimately cancelled the tender process vide corrigendum dated 01.02.2016 (Annexure P-8) and the reason cited therein was "cancelled due to administrative reasons".

9. The petitioner has assailed the aforesaid action and would contend that the reasons cited in the letters dated 25.01.2016 and 01.02.2016 suffer from irrationality, unreasonableness besides being cryptic, vague and baseless and deserve to be quashed as respondents have failed to comply with the basic rules of natural justice and fair play.

10. The Union of India and the Regional Office of MORTH (respondents No.1 and 2) have filed their joint reply wherein the factual matrix of the case have not been disputed. However, it is claimed that the letter dated 21.01.2016 issued by the respondents was based upon the following:-

> "(i) Submission of the undertaking by Sh.Sandeep Chauhan petitioner before award of the work that the requisite staff shall be deployed, does not absolve him from the charge of concealment of facts which was the basis for the declaration of Sh.Om Prakash Sharma and Sons as non-responsive by the Committee in its meeting held on 26.10.2015.
> (ii) There were some contradictions with regard to the way the complaint against Sh.Om Prakash Sharma & sons was dealt by CE(NH). If during the meeting of evaluation committee held on 26.10.2015, CE (NH) confirmed that the veracity of the complaint against Om Prakash Sharma & Sons was examined and found to be genuine, then why the same complaint was again got verified in writing on 13.01.2016."

11. It is further claimed that vide letter dated 25.01.2016, respondent No.2 had only expressed its disagreement with the procedure adopted and conveyed by respondent No.4. However, this letter was not meant to convey any sort of decision, judgment or did not even amount to issuing directions to respondent No.4 and was basically meant to ensure fairness in the bidding process and to avoid any procedural lapse. It is further contended that after opening of the financial bids on 23.01.2016, respondent No.4 of its own had cancelled the tender process citing administrative reasons and had not made the letter of respondent No.2 dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) the basis for cancellation of tender in the tender cancellation order. Therefore, it is not understood as to why letter dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) has been made the basis of this writ petition.

12. Respondents No.3 and 4 have filed their joint reply wherein they too have not disputed the factual matrix of the case and have specifically claimed that it was the letter issued by respondent No.2 dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) that eventually led to the cancellation of the tender process.

13. In addition to the aforesaid, it is averred that as per Clause 32 of Section 1 (instructions to bidders) in SBD, the Employer is having power to cancel the bidding process before award of contract and in view of this Clause, the action of the respondents is claimed to be legal and justified. It is also claimed that even if the respondent-department opts to proceed with the tender process, the Government of India i.e. respondents No.1 and 2 will not revalidate the sanction and for want of funds this project/work cannot be executed and, therefore, even on this ground the action of the respondents is claimed to be legal and valid.

14. Respondent No.5 has filed a separate reply and contested the petition mainly on the ground that his bid has wrongly been declared as non-responsive. Whereas, it was the petitioner, who had misrepresented by showing Engineers Sunit Thakur and Ambitabh Thakur as his key personnel knowing fully well that Engineer Sunit Thakur had gone abroad and staying there since long, whereas, Engineer Amitabh Thakur was himself an independent Contractor and would never agree to work with the petitioner and therefore, could not be key technical personnel of the petitioner. Therefore, in such circumstances, even the bid offered by the petitioner ought to have been declared as non-responsive.

15. For completion of records, we may notice that the petitioner on 02.07.2016 filed an application bearing CMP No.6691 of 2016 whereby he sought to place on record certain additional documents. In terms of para-3 of the application, it has been submitted that the petitioner had mentioned Shri Amitabh Thakur and Shri Narender Singh Chauhan as the key personnel against whom an objection was taken that these persons would not be ready and willing to work with the petitioner. However, when these persons were contacted, they have shown their readiness and willingness to work with the petitioner as per the certificates appended with the application as Annexures P-9 and P-10, respectively. Besides that one Shri Gaurav Chauhan is also stated to be ready and willing to work as site Engineer in the event of the bid in question being allotted to the petitioner and in support of such contention a certificate issued by Shri Gaurav Chauhan has been appended as Annexure P-11.

16. Notably, this application came up for consideration before this Court initially on 04.10.2016 and on the said date learned counsel for respondent No.5 stated at the Bar that he is under instructions not to file any response to the application. His statement was taken on record and his right to file response was ordered to be closed. Whereas, other respondents were granted three weeks' time to file response. Thereafter, when the matter came up for consideration on 25.10.2016, the respondents were granted further two weeks' time to file response to the application, however, till date no response to the said application has been filed by the respondents.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material placed on record.

17. Indubitably, it was the letter issued by respondent No.2 on 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) that triggered the entire action and compelled respondents No.3 and 4 to cancel the tender process.

18. Now, as regards respondents No.3 and 4, the only reason given by them for cancelling the tender is the letter dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) issued by respondent No.2, as would be evident from para-6 of the preliminary submissions which reads thus:-

> "That the Govt. of India vide its letter No.RW/CH/HP/Misc/2760-62 dated 25-1-2016 communicated that the undertaking sought from petitioner will not absolve the petitioner as to whether he has wrongly mentioned the names of key personnel and concealed facts in his bid. The above communication also stated that if state PWD goes ahead with the opening of financial bid for the aforesaid work no cognizance will be taken by them and the same may be considered null and void. Hence, based upon this direction of respondent No.1 & 2 as well as public interest of road safety and lapse of sanction replying respondent decided to pass the order/corrigendum dated 1-2-2016 whereby the tender dated 23-08-2015 for the said work has been cancelled due to administrative reasons."

19. Admittedly, the project in question is of respondents No.1 and 2 for which an amount of Rs. 1084.40 lacs already stands sanctioned and respondents No.3 and 4 are only the executing agencies. Therefore, once respondent No.2 itself had made the threatening observations in its letter dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7), there was no option available with respondents No.3 and 4 but to cancel the tender process.

20. It is only now that respondents No.1and 2 in their reply have clarified that the letter dated 25.01.2016 had only expressed disagreement with the procedure adopted by respondent No.4 and had not asked him to cancel the tender process. The letter was basically to ensure fairness in the bidding process and to avoid any procedural lapse. Relevant portion of the reply reads thus:-

> "10.That in the absence of proper response from the Chief Engineer, HP PWD, the Regional Officer, M/oRTH, vide letter No.RW/CH/HP/Misc/2760-62 dated 25.01.2016, expressing disagreement with the procedure adopted, conveyed to the Chief Engineer, HP PWD that if the State PWD goes ahead with the opening of the financial bid for the lone bidder i.e. "the petitioner", no cognizance will be taken by his office and the same may be considered as null and void. This letter of the Regional Officer, M/oRTH was not meant for any sort of decisive, judgmental or issuing direction to the Chief Engineer, HP PWD. This letter of the Regional Officer, M/oRTH, was basically meant to ensure fairness in the bidding process and to avoid any procedural lapse. A copy of letter No.RW/CH/HP/Misc./2760-62 dated 25.01.2016 of the Regional Officer, MORT&H, Chandigarh is being appended alongwith as Annexure R-2."

21. It is evidently clear from the replies filed on behalf of the official respondents that there has been a complete lack of coordination and cooperation amongst them, though they were required to function harmoniously and work in unison as a team to achieve the desired target.

22. What is more surprising is that the meeting dated 26.10.2015, amongst others, was attended by Engineer Aditya Prakash, Regional Officer, on behalf of respondent No.2, in which the complaint made by the petitioner against respondent No.5 was found to be genuine and it was then that the bid of respondent No.5 was also declared to be non-responsive on account of concealment of fact and despite the petitioner being lone bidder, it was decided to open the financial bid submitted by him. However, this very Officer i.e. Aditya Prakash vide letter dated 25.01.2016 retracted from what had been decided in the meeting dated 26.10.2015.

23. Apart from the above, it would be noticed that vide letter dated 25.01.2016, Aditya Prakash, the Regional Officer, in para-6 of the letter had clearly and unequivocally threatened that in case respondents No.3 and 4 still choose to go ahead with the opening of the financial bid for the work, no cognizance will be taken by his Office (respondent No.2) and the same be considered as null and void, as would be evident from paras 5 and 6 of the letter which reads thus:-

> "5. The above mentioned content of letter of CE(NH) has been examined and found to be contradictory as far as dealing with the complaint of Sandeep Chauhan Contractor is concerned as mentioned in the minutes of the Technical Evaluation Committee meeting held on 26.10.2015 that
> > "Executive Engineer NH Division, HP PWD, Hamirpur informed that a complaint was received from Sandeep Chauhan, Govt. Contractor regarding concealment of the facts regarding existing work, in hand/commitments in the bid submitted by Om Prakash Sharma and sons. In this regard, CE (NH), chairman of the committee confirmed that the veracity of the complaint against Om Prakash Sharma & Sons was examined and found to be genuine."
> While, now it is stated in aforesaid letter of CE (NH) dated 21.01.2016 that in the meeting of PWD officers taken by CE (NH) on 14.12.2015 it was decided that complaint made by Shri Sandeep Chauhan Contractor was to be verified in writing to confirm the facts so that the financial bid is opened accordingly if found suitable. Thus, apparently during the meeting of Technical Evaluation Committee on 26.10.2015 the genuineness of the complaint of Sandeep Chauhan Contractor was not confirmed in writing. Further, the statement that "regarding key personnel it was decided to take undertaking from the contractor before award of work that the requisite staff shall be deployed as per Clause 4.5.4 of the Standard Bid Document" also not absolve Sandeep Chauhan Contractor as to whether he has wrongly mentioned the names of key personnel or not and concealed facts in his bid. The matter has accordingly been taken up with CE(NH) vide this office letter the same day dated 21.01.2016, again requesting thereby that the financial bid may be opened only after ascertaining that the charges levelled against the lone bidder left i.e. Sandeep Chauhan is false and unfounded, lest the tender process be annulled and short notice rebidding may be done.
> 6. As may be seen from the above, the issues being raised by this office/ELO Shimla are still to be properly responded by the State PWD w.r.t. various grievances/complaints involved. Under such circumstances, if the State PWD goes ahead with the opening of the financial bid for the work, no cognizance will be taken by this office and the same may be considered as null and void."

24. However, when reply to the writ petition was filed on behalf of respondents No.1 and 2, an affidavit sworn-in by one Abhilash Kumar, Engineer Liaison Officer, and a complete somersault has taken and it is averred that the letter dated 25.01.2016(Annexure P-7) was basically to ensure fairness in the bidding process and to avoid any procedural lapse and did not amount to a decision or a judgment or even a direction and, therefore, should not have been made the basis of the writ petition. If that was so, then why at the first place the letter dated 25.01.2016?

25. We have no doubt in our mind that the entire fiasco has been created by the official respondents themselves, in particular the respondent No.2 and the same has only resulted in precious time of the Court being wasted. It would have been better if the respondents No. 1 and 2 alongwith respondents No. 3 and 4 would have worked in tandem with a better coordination and thereby avoided such unsavoury mess.

26. Now, adverting to the objection of the respondents including respondent No.5 regarding the technical personnel mentioned by the petitioner in the bid document, according to them, would not be ready and willing to work with the petitioner. We find that this assumption has been clearly belied by the documents placed by the petitioner alongwith CMP No.6691 of 2016 annexed as Annexures P-9 and P-10, respectively. A perusal of these documents, reveal that the named technical personnels have consented to work with the petitioner.

27. As observed earlier, respondent No.5 has not contested this application by giving a statement before this Court on 04.10.2016, whereas, other respondents too have not contested this application despite having been given sufficient time and opportunity. Even otherwise, the question of engaging technical manpower would only arise if the contract is to be awarded in favour of the petitioner and for this purpose an undertaking from him for deployment of key personnel and staff has already been taken.

28. As there is virtually no opposition to the petition, we have no other option but to allow the same. Ordered accordingly. The letter dated 25.01.2016 (Annexure P-7) and corrigendum dated 01.02.2016 (Annexure P-8) are quashed and set aside and the respondents are directed to award the work in question to the petitioner within two weeks from today.

29. The petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

For the petitioner : Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate.
For the respondents : None for respondent No.1.
Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By medium of this petition, petitioner-workman (herein after, 'workman'), has laid challenge to Award dated 15.9.2010 passed by the learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla in Ref. No. 69 of 2006, whereby claim of the petitioner has been dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from the record are that the appropriate Government, in terms of Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (herein after, 'Act'), made following terms of reference to the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, for adjudication:

> "Whether the dismissal from service w.e.f. 2.12.2003 of Shri Som Dutt Sharma S/o Late Shri Ganga Ram workman by the Management of M/s Sidhrtha Super Spinning Mills Ltd., Nilala Khera, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP w.e.f. 1.12.2003 after conducting domestic enquiry by the management is legal and justified? If not, what relief of service benefits and amount of compensation, the above aggrieved workman is entitled to"?

3. Petitioner by way of statement of claim stated before the Tribunal that he was appointed as Librarian by the respondent No.2-Company (hereinafter, 'respondent-company') on 15.6.1984 and worked as such till 2.12.2003, when his services were illegally and wrongly terminated without notice and against the mandatory provisions of the Act. Workman further claimed that on 22.9.2003, he was issued a charge sheet under the Certified Standing Orders, whereby he was called upon to explain his position vis-à-vis alleged charge sheet. Vide reply dated 25.9.2003 (sic 25.9.2007), workman denied all the charges but the respondent-Company dissatisfied with the explanation having been rendered by the workman, appointed one Shri Sanjeev Sharma, Advocate who at the relevant time was junior of Shri Rajeev Sharma, Advocate, presently working as Consultant with the respondent-Company, as an Enquiry Officer in order to enquire into the facts of the case. As such, the enquiry was a mere eye-wash. Workman further claimed that the Enquiry Officer refused to record the statements of four witnesses, as a result of which, grave prejudice was caused to him. Workman further claimed that since he had raised voice against agreement dated 31.2.2003, , respondent-Company was hell bent to make him scapegoat. Workman further averred that there was a case registered under Section 406 IPC against one Devinder Jain, MD of the respondent-Company and for this reason also the Management of respondent-Company was maltreating the workman, on one pretext or the other as workman was one of the prosecution witnesses in that case. Workman further averred that a false case under Section 354 IPC was also got registered against him and in this regard, he had made a representation, but his services were terminated without notice and in an illegal manner without resorting to the mandatory provisions of the Act, as such, workman deserves to be reinstated in service with all consequential benefits including back wages.

4. Respondent-Company by way of reply to the statement of claim, refuted the claim of the workman, by raising preliminary objections regarding maintainability. On merits also, respondent-Company refuted the claim of the workman by stating that the workman continued to remain in employment with the respondent-Company with effect from 15.6.1984 till 2.12.2003, when his services were dismissed. It was denied that his services had been dismissed in an illegal and improper manner against the provisions of the Act. Respondent-Company claimed that disciplinary proceedings were initiated against the workman on the basis of a written complaint having been filed by one Shri Vashisht Pandey, wherein it had been alleged that he had tried to outrage the modesty of his wife while residing in the bachelor quarters of the labour colony. Said Vashisht Pandey had also lodged a complaint with the police regarding same incident. Respondent-Company further claimed that on the basis of allegations having been made by the complainant Vashisht Pandey, Management decided to conduct an independent inquiry against the workman in order to ascertain truth of allegations leveled against him. Accordingly, a person namely Shri Sanjeev Sharma was appointed as Enquiry Officer, who conducted enquiry strictly in terms of Certified Standing Orders and principles of natural justice. Respondent-Company further claimed that due and admissible opportunity of being heard was afforded to the workman by the Enquiry Officer before submitting final report. In nutshell, respondent-Company claimed that the Enquiry Officer having considered all the facts and circumstances of the case, submitted his report, on the basis of which, respondent-Company issued show cause notice-cum-proposed penalty, calling upon the workman to file reply. Pursuant to reply having been filed by the workman to the show cause notice, respondent-Company being dissatisfied with the explanation rendered by the workman, dismissed him from service. Respondent-Company further claimed that the management of the respondent-Company having regard to the misconduct of the workman, particularly his involvement in an immoral act, imposed penalty of dismissal, that too, after resorting to the provisions of the Act as well as principles of natural justice.

5. Learned Tribunal below, on the basis of pleadings as well as evidence led on record by the respective-parties, answered the reference in negative and rejected the claim of the workman. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned award, workman approached this Court, by way of present petition, seeking following main relief(s):

> "i) That a writ in the nature of certiorari may kindly be issued, quashing the impugned award dated 15.9.2010 (Annexure P-10).
> ii) That a writ in the nature of mandamus may kindly be issued directing the respondent No.2 to reinstate the petitioner with all consequential benefits.
> iii) That the respondents may kindly be directed to pay the salary for the period for which petitioner remained out of job and other benefits which have not been paid to the petitioner since 2003. The entire arrears may kindly be directed to be paid to the petitioner alongwith 12% interest from the date of its due."

6. Mr. J.R. Poswal, learned counsel representing the workman, vehemently argued that impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below is not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, as such, same deserves to be set aside. Mr. Poswal, while referring to the impugned award as well as record, vehemently argued that learned Tribunal below failed to take into consideration that the workman was working with the respondent-Company from the year 1984, without any interruption and as such his services could not be terminated in a casual manner without resorting to the provisions of the Act. While referring to the impugned award, Mr. Poswal, strenuously argued that learned Tribunal below before returning findings on the controversy at hand, failed to frame proper issues and as such faulted in returning findings on issues No. 1,2 and 4, because, admittedly, these are without any reasons. Mr. Poswal, further contended that the learned Tribunal below failed to appreciate that there was nothing on record suggestive of the fact that respondent-Company before terminating the services of the workman, issued any notice as envisaged under the Act, to the workman, calling upon him to explain his conduct and as such impugned award can not be allowed to sustain. Mr. Poswal further contended that since Smt. Sarita Pandey, was not a worker in the respondent-Company, no action, if any, could be taken by the respondent-Company on her complaint, especially when in no manner, she could be termed as 'workman' as defined under the Act and as such no domestic inquiry could be initiated against the workman and thus the impugned action of dismissing the workman by the respondent-Company, ought to have been quashed and set aside by the learned Tribunal below while adjudicating the reference made to it by the appropriate Government. Mr. Poswal, further contended that the respondent-Company could not terminate the services of the workman on the basis of domestic enquiry, more particularly, in terms of provisions of Section 11-A of the Act, wherein enquiry can only be conducted on the basis of complaint of a workman. But in the instant case, complaint has been lodged by Sarita Pandey, who was not a worker at any point of time and as such action of the respondent-Company in dismissing the services of the workman on the basis of domestic enquiry deserves to be set aside. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Poswal, forcefully contended that a bare perusal of impugned award clearly suggests that learned Tribunal below failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, as a result of which, grave prejudice has been caused to the workman, who admittedly, was not allowed to examine his witnesses by the Enquiry Officer, during the disciplinary proceedings. He further contended that the learned Tribunal below miserably failed to take note of the judgment Ext. PA, placed on record by the workman, to demonstrate that he was acquitted in criminal case having been filed by aforesaid Sarita Pandey. Since workman was acquitted in criminal proceedings, he was entitled to the benefit of same in the domestic enquiry proceedings. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Poswal, prayed that impugned order of dismissal having been issued by the respondent-Company, may be set aside after setting aside the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal below and workman be held entitled to reinstatement with back wages.

7. Mr. Rahul Mahajan, learned counsel representing the respondent-Company, supported the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal below. Mr. Mahajan, while referring to the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below vehemently argued that there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned award passed by learned Tribunal below and same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such there is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the same. While refuting the contentions having been raised by the learned counsel representing the workman, Mr. Mahajan strenuously argued that perusal of award as well as record clearly suggests that the workman was unsuccessful in proving that domestic enquiry against him was not conducted in accordance with law by not resorting to the principles of natural justice. Mr.Mahajan, specifically invited attention of this Court to the reasoning having been given by learned Tribunal below, to demonstrate that each and every aspect of the matter has been dealt with meticulously by the learned Tribunal below and as such there is no scope of interference by this Court, especially in view of findings of fact recorded by the learned Tribunal below. In this regard he placed reliance upon judgment passed in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd. 2014 AIR SCW 3157. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Mahajan, further contended that acquittal in criminal proceedings can not be ground for automatic reinstatement, especially when individual is held guilty in domestic enquiry. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Mahajan, prayed for dismissal of the writ petition.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the impugned award as well as record.

9. During proceedings of the case, this Court had an occasion to peruse the impugned award as well as other documentary evidence available on record, perusal whereof nowhere suggests that the learned Tribunal below misread and misconstrued evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, rather close scrutiny of impugned award clearly suggests that learned Tribunal below has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously and there is no scope of interference by this Court. However, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the submissions having been made by the learned counsel representing the workman, this Court carefully examined evidence led on record by the respective parties. Learned counsel representing the petitioner vehemently argued that Shri Sanjeev Sharma, Advocate, who happened to be junior of Mr. Rajeev Sahrma, Advocate was appointed as Enquiry Officer by the management of respondent-Company solely with a view to defeat the claim of the workman but perusal of impugned award as well as record clearly suggests that no objection, if any, was ever raised by the workman at the time of appointment of Sanjeev Sharma, Advocate, as Enquiry Officer, who at the time of appointment, called upon the parties and explained the procedure to be followed in the enquiry proceedings. If workman was at all aggrieved with the appointment of Shri Sanjeev Sharma, Advocate as an Enquiry Officer, he could always raise objection, if any, before the respondent-Company or the Enquiry Officer stating therein reasons, if any, against appointment of Sanjeev Sharma, as Enquiry Officer. There is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that at the relevant time, workman raised any objection with regard to appointment of Sanjeev Sharma, as an Enquiry Officer. Similarly, this Court sees no force in the contentions having been raised by the workman that no opportunity of examining witnesses was afforded by the aforesaid Enquiry Officer because learned Tribunal below has specifically recorded while returning its findings that there is nothing on record to show that which were the four witnesses, he wanted to examine and Enquiry Officer did not allow him to examine. Though the workman has stated that during enquiry proceedings, he was given opportunity to cross-examine witnesses of management but he was not allowed to examine his witnesses. But as has been notice above, workman was unable to prove before learned Tribunal below that which were those witnesses, whom he wanted to examine and as such there is no illegality and infirmity in the findings returned by the Court below that workman was unable to prove allegations against Enquiry Officer, Sanjeev Sharma. Similarly, nothing was placed on record by the workman to suggest that Sanjeev Sharma, being junior of one Shri Rajeev Sharma, Advocate, who happened to Consultant of the respondent-Company, was biased against him in any manner and he did not conduct enquiry in a fair and proper manner by resorting to the principles of natural justice. In the facts and circumstances of the case, it has been recorded by the learned Tribunal below that record clearly suggests that the workman was afforded due opportunity to be represented by Defence Assistant of his choice by the Enquiry Officer and to avail opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses of the respondent-Company. Hence, this Court sees no force in the contentions having been raised by the learned counsel representing the workman that learned Tribunal below has failed to appreciate the evidence its right perspective. Similarly, record clearly reveals that domestic enquiry was conducted by the Enquiry Officer in a most fair manner and due and admissible documents were made available to the workman during enquiry proceedings and pursuant to notice Exts. RC and RD, workman himself joined enquiry and examined witnesses. Learned Tribunal below after perusing zimni orders having been passed by Enquiry Officer, concluded that it clearly suggests that after completion of enquiry, report was given to the workman and he had also received notice from the respondent-Company regarding proposed penalty Ext. RD. Sanjeev Sharma, Advocate, Enquiry Officer, while deposing before the learned Tribunal below as RW-1 specifically proved that he was appointed as Enquiry Officer by the respondent-Company and he conducted enquiry against workman, after sending notice to both the parties specifically disclosing procedure to be followed by him while conducting enquiry. This Court, after carefully examining deposition of Sanjeev Sharma, sees no reason to disagree with the findings of the learned Tribunal below that domestic enquiry was conducted strictly in accordance with Certified Standing Orders.

10. Now, the Court would be adverting to the another contention raised by the learned counsel representing the workman, that no domestic enquiry could be initiated against him on the complaint of Smt. Sarita Pandey, who was not a workman. This Court, sees no force in the aforesaid contention of the learned counsel representing the workman because admittedly, complaint in the present case was lodged by the husband of Sarita Pandey i.e. Vashisht Pandey, who was admittedly workman as defined under Industrial Disputes Act. Since serious allegations were leveled against workman, by the husband of Sarita Pandey, respondent-Company in its wisdom thought it proper to get the matter investigated and as such it can not be said that no enquiry, could be initiated against the workman, on the basis of complaint having been made by the wife of fellow workman. Since a workman of the Company had specifically complained against the workman, respondent-Company rightly conducted enquiry against workman and after offering due opportunity of hearing, awarded appropriate punishment, more over, record nowhere suggests that the workman was able to prove on record, motive, if any, of husband of Sarita Pandey, to falsely implicate him in the case and as such aforesaid argument having been made by the workman deserves outright rejection.

11. As far as judgment of acquittal of workman, who has been held guilty in enquiry proceedings, vide Ext. PA in criminal proceedings having been initiated at the behest of wife of fellow workman, Vashisht Pandey is concerned, same was rightly not taken into consideration by the learned Tribunal below because it is well settled by now that once an employee is acquitted by a criminal court, as a matter of right he /she can not be reinstated in service. In this regard, reliance is placed on judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Deputy Inspector General of Police v. S. Samuthiram, reported in (2013) 1 SCC 598, wherein Apex Court has held as under:

> "26. As we have already indicated, in the absence of any provision in the service rule for reinstatement, if an employee is honourably acquitted by a Criminal Court, no right is conferred on the employee to claim any benefit including reinstatement. Reason is that the standard of proof required for holding a person guilty by a criminal court and the enquiry conducted by way of disciplinary proceeding is entirely different. In a criminal case, the onus of establishing the guilt of the accused is on the prosecution and if it fails to establish the guilt beyond reasonable doubt, the accused is assumed to be innocent. It is settled law that the strict burden of proof required to establish guilt in a criminal court is not required in a disciplinary proceedings and preponderance of probabilities is sufficient. There may be cases where a person is acquitted for technical reasons or the prosecution giving up other witnesses since few of the other witnesses turned hostile etc. In the case on hand the prosecution did not take steps to examine many of the crucial witnesses on eth ground that the complainant and his wife turned hostile. The court, therefore, acquitted the accused giving the benefit of doubt. We are not prepared to say in the instant case, the respondent was honourably acquitted by the criminal court and even if it is so, he is not entitled to claim reinstatement since the Tamil Nadu Service Rules, do not provide so.
> 27. We have also come across cases where the service rules provide that on registration of a criminal case, an employee can be kept under suspension and on acquittal by the criminal court, he be reinstated. In such cases, the re-instatement is automatic. There may be cases where the service rules provide in spite of domestic enquiry, if the criminal court acquits an employee honourably, he could be reinstated. In other words, the issue whether an employee has to be reinstated in service or not depends upon the question whether the service rules contain any such provision for reinstatement and not as a matter of right. Such provisions are absent in the Tamil Nadu Service Rules.
> 28. In view of the above mentioned circumstances, we are of the view that the High Court was not justified in setting aside the punishment imposed in the departmental proceedings as against the respondent, in its limited jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

12. Reliance is further placed on judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Commissioner of Police v. Mehar Singh, reported in (2013) 7 SCC 685 and State of West Bengal v. Sankar Ghosh, reported in (2014) 3 SCC 610, wherein above judgment has been followed. This judgment has further been followed in Baljinder Pal Kaur v. State of Punjab, reported in (2016) 1 SCC 671.

13. As far as judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd. is concerned, there can not be any quarrel with the settled proposition of law that the Courts while examining correctness and genuineness of the Award passed by Tribunal has very limited powers to appreciate the evidence adduced before the Tribunal below, especially the findings of fact recorded by the Tribunal below and same can not be questioned in writ proceedings and writ court can not act as an appellate Court. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment having been relied upon by the learned counsel representing the Management, clearly suggests that error of law which is apparent on the face of record can be corrected by writ Court but not an error of fact, however, grave it may appear to be. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held in the aforesaid judgment that if finding of fact is based upon no evidence that would be recorded as error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari.

Hon'ble Apex Court has further held that in regard to findings of fact recorded by Tribunal, writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording said findings, tribunal erroneously refused to admit admissible evidence or erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence, which influenced impugned findings. It would be profitable to reproduce following paras of the judgment:

> "16. .....The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior Courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior Courts or Tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the Court or Tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the Court exercising it is no entitled to act as an Appellate Court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or Tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened for questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the Tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the Tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the interference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ Court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised.

14. In the instant case, as has been discussed in detail, learned Tribunal below has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously and there is no error of law or fact apparent on record, which can be corrected by this Court while exercising writ jurisdiction.

15. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid law having been laid down by the Apex Court, this Court sees no force in the contentions having been raised by the workman that learned Tribunal below ought to have allowed his claim in view of judgment rendered by criminal Court in criminal proceedings initiated at the behest of wife of Vashisht Pandey,.

16. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed being without merits. Award dated 15.9.2010 passed by the learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla in Ref. No. 69 of 2006 is upheld. Pending applications are disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

The Tiara Co-operative Agriculture Service Society Ltd. ...Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and others. ...Respondents.

CWP No. 3148/2016
Reserved on: 19.12.2016
Decided on: 20.12. 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner, a cooperative society filed a writ petition seeking quashing of inspection note and the office order issued on the basis of the inspection note – held, that revisional power has been given to the State Government under Section 94 of H.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1968, where there is no provision of appeal – the petitioner can approach the competent authority for the redressal of his grievances – the alternative and efficacious remedy is available to the petitioner – petitioner is required to pursue that remedy and not to invoke the writ jurisdiction of the High Court- petition dismissed as not maintainable.

(Para-5 to 19)

Case referred:

State of Bihar and others vs. Jain Plastics and Chemicals Ltd; (2002 1 SCC 216

For the Petitioner: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, A.G. with Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Mr. Romesh Verma, Addl. A.Gs. and Mr. Kush Sharma, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

The petitioner is a Cooperative Society and has filed the instant petition primarily seeking quashing of the inspection note (Annexure P-4) submitted by respondent No.4 and has further sought quashing of office order dated 16.8.2016 (Annexure P-6) whereby the Assistant Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Dharamshala has, on the basis of the inspection note, ordered an inquiry (surcharge proceedings) against the petitioner under Section 69 (1) of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968 (for short "the Act") by appointing the Block Inspector as an Inquiry Officer, who has further been directed to submit his report within one month.

2. In addition to the aforesaid reliefs, the petitioner has also prayed for quashing of the notice (Annexure P-12) issued to it seeking therein its justification and comments regarding appointment of two employees being in violation of the applicable laws.

3. The petitioner was asked to justify the maintainability of the petition on the ground of availability of an alternative and efficacious remedy under the Act.

4. However, learned counsel for the petitioner would vehemently argue that no such statutory remedy is available to the petitioner and, therefore, it has filed the instant petition.

5. We have gone through the provisions of the Act and Rules and are of the considered view that the petitioner has not only an alternative but efficacious statutory remedy available to it under the Act.

6. Chapter-VIII of the Act specifically deals with the audit, inquiry, inspection and surcharge. Section 65 therein deals with inspection of co-operative societies. Section 67 deals with inquiry by the Registrar. Whereas, Section 69 relates to surcharge proceedings, which are to be initiated in case during the course of an audit, inquiry, inspection or the winding up of a co-operative society, it is found that any person who is or was entrusted with the organization or management of such society, or who is or has at any time been an officer or an employee of the society, has made any payment contrary to the provisions of the Act, the rules or the bye-law or has caused any deficiency in the assets of the society by breach of trust or wilful negligence or has misappropriated or fraudulently retained any money or other property belonging to the society, the Registrar may, of his own motion or on the application of the committee, liquidator or any creditor, inquire himself or direct any person authorized by him, by an order in writing in this behalf, to inquire into the conduct of such person.

7. Chapter-XII relates to the jurisdiction, appeal and review and the relevant provisions for the adjudication of this petition is contained in Section 94, which reads thus:

> "4. Review and Revision:— (1) The State Government except in a case in which an appeal is preferred under section 93 may call for an examine the record of any inquiry or inspection held or made under this Act or any proceedings of the Registrar or of any person subordinate to him or acting on his authority, and may pass thereon such orders as it thinks fit.
> (2) The Registrar may at any time,—
> (a) review any order passed by himself; or
> (b) call for and examine the record of any inquiry or inspection held or made under this Act or the proceedings of any person subordinate to him or acting on his authority and if it appears to him that any decision, order or award or any proceedings so called or should for any reason be modified, annulled or reversed, may pass such order thereon as he thinks fit;
> Provided that, before any order is made under sub-section (1) and (2), the State Government or the Registrar as the case may be shall afford to any person likely to be affected adversely by such orders an opportunity or being heard.
> "Provided further that every application under sub-section (1) and (2), to the State Government or the Registrar, as the case may be shall be made within ninety days from the date of the communication of the order sought to be reviewed or revised."

8. A bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions clearly shows that this Section gives revisional powers to the State Government in a case where no appeal under section 93 of the Act has been preferred and similar powers have been conferred upon the Registrar to be exercised either suo motu or on an application of a party, provided the same is preferred within 90 days from the date of communication of the order sought to be reviewed or revised and further that the person(s) likely to be effected adversely by such order is afforded an opportunity of being heard. It is immaterial whether the revisional power is exercised, on action initiated at the instance of the interested party or suo motu, the order passed would be within jurisdiction.

9. This Section specifically deals with the power of the State Government/Registrar to call for and to examine the record of any inquiry or inspection held or made under this Act or any proceedings. The State Government can examine any proceedings of the Registrar or any person subordinate to him or acting on his authority, whereas the Registrar is empowered to call for and examine the proceedings of any person subordinate to him or acting on his authority and if it appears to him that any decision, order or award or any proceedings so called or should for any reason be modified, annulled or reversed, may pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

10. However, it needs to be clarified that if revisional application is not maintainable, fortiori suo motu powers cannot also be exercised.

11. The power exercised by the State Government/Registrar under Section 94 of the Act is in the nature of supervisory jurisdiction conferred upon them.

12. In terms of the first proviso, the State Government or the Registrar, as the case may be, is obliged to afford to any person likely to be effected adversely by such order an opportunity of being heard. In terms of the section proviso, every application under sub-section (1) and (2), to the State Government or the Registrar, as the case may be, has to be made within 90 days from the date of the communication of the order sought to be reviewed or revised.

13. In view of what has been observed above, we can safely come to the following conclusions:

i) The State Government or the Registrar under Section 94 of the Act can exercise its suo motu revisonal jurisdiction or on an application made by an aggrieved party;

ii) the remedy of revision before the State Government is barred only in the cases where an appeal has already been preferred under section 93 of the Act;

iii) the remedy of revision either suo motu or otherwise can be exercised only against the decision or order passed by the authority under the Act or proceedings arising out of the Act or the Rules framed thereunder. However, this remedy cannot be invoked against an order passed by the society;

iv) the suo motu power of revision cannot be exercised by the State Government or the Registrar, as the case may be, if at the instance of an aggrieved party, the revision is not maintainable, fortiori suo motu power cannot also be exercised.

14. On the basis of the aforesaid application, we have no hesitation to conclude that the petitioner if aggrieved by the inspection note (Annexure P-4) on the basis of which, surcharge proceedings (Annexure P-6) have been ordered can conveniently approach the competent authority for the redressal of its grievance under section 94 of the Act.

15. As regards the communication (Annexure P-12) dated 21.9.2016, it is for the petitioner to file reply to the said communication. No exception can be taken to the same as it only calls upon the petitioner to justify the appointments of its employees and this communication per se does not adversely effect the rights of the petitioner.

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the firm view that writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitutional of India is not the proper proceedings for adjudicating the disputes as raised in the instant petition, more especially, when not only an alternative but equally efficacious and proper remedy is available to the petitioner under the Act.

17. It is settled law that when an alternative and equally efficacious remedy is open to the litigant, he should be required to pursue that remedy and not invoke the writ jurisdiction of the High Court. Equally, the existence of alternative remedy does not affect the jurisdiction of the Court to issue writ, but ordinarily that would be a good ground in refusing to exercise the discretion under Article 226. [See: State of Bihar and others vs. Jain Plastics and Chemicals Ltd; (2002 1 SCC 216.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the considered view that the instant petition is not maintainable as the proper remedy for the petitioner is to approach the statutory authorities in terms of the Act.

19. Before parting, we may observe that anything observed hereinabove shall not be construed to be opinion on the merits of the case.

20. With these observations, the petition is dismissed, so also the pending application(s). The petitioner is at liberty to pursue his remedy under the Act. Costs easy.

Decided on: December 21 , 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Writ petitioners were regularized as hostel attendants vide different office orders- they claimed that they were discharging the duties of higher post of Hostel Assistants and are entitled to the pay of the same– University had proposed the upgradation of the post but the proposal was returned by the Comptroller - the writ petition was allowed by the Writ Court holding that the University had proposed the upgradation of the post which strengthens the claim of the writ petitioners- held in appeal that University had 11 hostels and only four persons are occupying posts of regular Hostel Assistants – writ Court had rightly held that the writ petitioners are looking after the work of Hostel Assistants – the judgment was based upon correct appreciation of fact and law- however, the petitioners are entitled to the arrears for the period of three years prior to filing of writ petition.(Para-11 to 19)

Union of India and others versus Tarsem Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 648
Asger Ibrahim Amin versus Life Insurance Corporation of India, JT 2015 (9) SC 329

For the appellant — Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, Advocate
For the respondent(s): — Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Senior Advocate with Mr. Munish Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

Since common questions of law and facts are involved in all these appeals, same were taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of vide this common judgment.

2. These Letters Patent Appeals are directed against judgment dated 17.4.2015 rendered by the learned Single Judge of this Court in a batch of petitions i.e. lead case being CWP No. 4615 of 2012 titled Satish Chand vs. Dr. Y.S. Parmar University, whereby the petitions have been partly allowed and appellant University has been directed to pay to the respondents pay scale of Hostel Assistants from the time they were designated as Hostel Attendants. Appellant has also been directed to pay interest at the rate of 9% per annum till the date of payment.

3. Facts in brief emerging from the record are that the respondents after joining the services of the appellant-University were regularized as Hostel Attendants vide different office orders. The respondents claimed in the petition that though their services were regularized as Hostel Attendants but ever since they were performing duties of higher post of Hostel Assistants. It is the case of the respondents in the writ petition that there are only four posts of regular Hostel Assistants against eleven hostels and therefore, in the absence of regular Hostel Assistants, it is the respondents, who are discharging the duties of Hostel Assistants.

Respondents thus claimed equal pay for equal work. The writ petition was filed mainly with the following main relief(s):-

> "a) The writ of mandamus be issued against respondent, directing them to remove the anomaly in the pay scale of petitioner and respondent may further be directed to release the pay scale of Rs.3120-5160 w.e.f. 1996 and subsequently revised to Rs. 5910-20200 w.e.f. January, 2006 to the petitioner being Hostel Attendant as his counter part in the departments of State Govt. and H.P. University are being paid the pay scale of Rs.5910-20200 w.e.f. January, 2006 onwards alongwith consequential benefits.
> b) The respondents deserves to be directed to upgrade the post of Hostel Attendant to Hostel Assistant from class 1V to 111 as has been upgraded by the State Govt., CSKHPKV Palampur and H.P. University.
> b-a) The respondent may be directed to follow the principles of equal pay for equal work, further direct them to pay the scales of Hostel Assistant to the applicant because the applicant is performing the duties of Hostel Assistant.
> c) The respondents may be directed to release the arrears of pay to the petitioner w.e.f. Oct. 1999 till date along with 18% interest P.A."

4. During the course of hearing before the learned Single Judge, the respondents restricted their claim to relief (b-a) only.

5. Appellant University filed its reply and claimed that the Hostel Attendant is feeder category for promotion to the post of Hostel Assistant and case of upgradation of Hostel Attendants to that of Hostel Assistants in the revised pay scale of Rs. 5910-20200+1900 GP was sent to the Comptroller for being placed before the Finance Committee. However, the Comptroller returned the case with the observation that the case may be re-examined in light of approved core cadre strength and existing working strength. University further stated that the management vide item No. 8 of the proceedings of the meeting held on 30.3.2011 had approved the core strength of different categories of posts vide notification dated 8.4.2011 and the surplus post of different categories were abolished vide office order dated 25.4.2011 but the core strength was not approved by the State Government and as such fresh core cadre strength proposal was sent to the State Government vide letter dated 30.1.2014 and approval of same was stated to be awaited.

6. The learned Single Judge after hearing the learned counsel for the parties, came to the conclusion that as the respondents were discharging duties of the post of Hostel Assistant and it was the University itself, which proposed upgradation of posts of Hostel Attendants to that of Hostel Assistants, therefore, it strengthens the claim put forth by the respondents that in fact they are discharging and performing duties of Hostel Assistants in the absence of regular Hostel Assistants. The learned Single Judge thus partly allowed the petitions as noticed above.

7. The University being aggrieved, challenged the judgment passed by learned Single Judge by filing the present appeal.

8. Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, learned counsel appearing for the appellant-University vehemently argued that that the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge is not based on correct appreciation of facts available on record as well as Rules governing the field, as such, same is not sustainable, in the eyes of law. He further contended that the findings returned by the learned Single Judge that the respondents though designated as Hostel Attendants are in fact working as Hostel Assistants, are solely based upon certificate (Annexure PA) issued by the Warden of the Hostel, who was not competent to issue such certificate and as such same could not be taken into consideration while recording aforesaid findings. Mr. Thakur further argued that the learned Single Judge failed to appreciate that the post of Hostel Assistant is promotional post for feeder post of Hostel Attendants and same can not be equated as claimed by the respondents. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Thakur strenuously argued that the direction issued by the learned Single Judge to pay to the respondents pay scale of the post of Hostel Assistants from the time they were designated as Hostel Attendants, is also against law laid down by the Apex Court as well this Court, whereby financial benefits, if any, have been restricted only to three years prior to the date of approaching the Court for redressal of their grievances.

9. Mr. B.S. Chauhan, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Munish Thakur, Advocate, appearing for the respondents-petitioners supported the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge. Mr. Chauhan, vehemently argued that there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgment passed by learned Single Judge and same is based upon proper appreciation of facts as well as Rules occupying the field and as such there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, for this Court, especially in view of the fact that learned Single Judge has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously. Mr. Chauhan, forcefully contended that a bare perusal of impugned judgment as well as pleadings available on record clearly suggests that the respondents though were appointed as Hostel Attendants but since their appointment, they have been regularly performing the duties of Hostel Assistants and as such impugned judgment having been passed by learned Single Judge being correct in law, deserves to be upheld.

10. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record of the case.

11. Perusal of the pleadings as well as impugned judgment clearly suggests that the respondents though were regularized as Hostel Attendants vide different orders but ever since their regularization, they have been discharging and performing duties of higher post of Hostel Assistants. It is also undisputed that there are eleven hostels in the appellant-University and only four persons are occupying posts of regular Hostel Assistants, meaning thereby that learned Single Judge has rightly concluded that in the absence of adequate staff of regular Hostel Assistants, respondents are discharging and performing duties of Hostel Assistants. Perusal of Annexure PA placed on record i.e. certificate issued by Warden of the Hostel clearly suggests that respondents though appointed as Hostel Attendants in the Hostels, are looking after works like maintaining stock/store items, giving complaints of the hostel regarding electricity, maintenance etc. If aforesaid certificate having been issued by the Warden is perused juxtaposing Annexure R-3, wherein duties of Hostel Assistants have been defined, clearly suggests that for all intents and purposes, respondents have been discharging duties of Hostel Assistants. Annexure R-3 suggests that Hostel Assistants are supposed to distribute mess bills for collection of money, collection of telephone charges from students, to make reports to the concerned warden regarding complaints of water/electricity etc., to maintain register of incoming and outgoing calls of hostel.

12. Hence, this Court, after careful perusal of Annexure PA vis-à-vis Annexure R-3, sees no illegality or infirmity in the findings returned by the learned Single Judge that the respondents are performing duties of Hostel Assistants. Similarly, pleadings available on record nowhere suggest that the appellant-University placed on record material, if any, to demonstrate that respondents are actually not performing duties of Hostel Assistants. Moreover, University specifically pleaded before the writ Court that it had proposed upgradation of Hostel Attendants to the post of Hostel Assistants in the revised pay scale, which did not find favour at the level of the Government. Aforesaid admission having been made on behalf of the appellant-University clearly strengthens the claim of the respondents that for all intents and purposes, they are discharging duties of Hostel Assistants, rather, attempt on the part of the appellant to send the proposal to appropriate authority for upgradation of seven posts of Hostel Attendants to that of Hostel Assistants clearly suggests that the University had acknowledged the claim of the respondents that they have actually been discharging duties of Hostel Assistants. It also emerges from the record that there is no dispute qua the duties and responsibilities as well as work being performed by them as the same is being performed by the Hostel Assistants and as such, learned Single Judge rightly concluded that the appellant can not deny the legitimate claim of the respondents and their action in denying the pays scale of Hostel Assistants to the respondents is ex facie arbitrary, irrational and unjust.

13. Careful perusal of impugned judgment passed by learned Single Judge suggests that the same is based upon correct appreciation of law having been laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a catena of judgments. Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly observed that the principle of "equal pay for equal work" is not a mere slogan but a fundamental right which can be enforced through constitutional remedies prescribed therein. Hence, learned Single Judge rightly concluded that determining of grant of pay scale is not the sole prerogative of the executive, rather an aggrieved employee has every right to knock the doors of justice for the redressal of his grievances.

14. Hence this Court sees no reason to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned Single Judge, in as much as, respondents have been held entitled to the pay scale of Hostel Assistants. However, we see substantial force in the contentions having been raised by the learned counsel representing the appellant-University that the arrears, if any, in terms of judgment passed by learned Single Judge, were required to be restricted only for the period of three years prior to the filing of writ petition.

15. The Limitation Act, 1963, for short "the Act" provides for some mechanism or period within which an aggrieved person can seek the redressal of his grievances.

16. The question arose for the first time before the apex Court in case Jai Dev Gupta versus State of Himachal Pradesh and another reported in AIR 1998 SC 2819, whether the arrears can be restricted only for three years prior to the filing of the writ petition, in terms of the mandate of Limitation Act. The question was answered in affirmative by the apex Court. It is apposite to reproduce paras 2 and 3 of the said judgment herein.

> "2. Learned Counsel appearing for the appellant submitted that before approaching the Tribunal the appellant was making number of representations to the appropriate authorities claiming the relief and that was the reason for not approaching the Tribunal earlier than May, 1989. We do not think that such an excuse can be advanced to claim the difference in backwages from the year 1971. In Administrator of Union Territory of Daman and Diu v. R. D. Valand, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 593, this Court while setting aside an order of Central Administrative Tribunal has observed that the Tribunal was not justified in putting the clock back by more than 15 years and the Tribunal fell into patent error in brushing aside the question of limitation by observing that the respondent has been making representations from time to time and as such the limitation would not come in his way. In the light of the above decision, we cannot entertain the arguments of the learned Counsel for the appellant that the difference in backwages should be paid right from the year 1971. At the same time we do not think that the Tribunal was right in invoking Section 21 of the Administrative Tribunals Act for restricting the difference in backwages by one year.
> 3. In the facts and circumstances of the case, we hold that the appellant is entitled to get the difference in backwages from May, 1986. The appeal is disposed of accordingly with no order as to costs."[emphasis supplied]

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court in another judgment delivered in case Union of India and others versus Tarsem Singh reported in (2008) 8 SCC 648, has laid down the same propositions of law and held that arrears should be restricted to three years prior to filing of writ petition. It is apt to reproduce paras 4 to 8 of the said judgment herein.

> "4. The principles underlying continuing wrongs and recurring/ successive wrongs have been applied to service law disputes. A continuing wrong refers to a single wrongful act which causes a continuing injury. Recurring/successive wrongs are those which occur periodically, each wrong giving rise to a distinct and separate cause of action. This Court in Balakrishna S.P. Waghmare v. Shree Dhyaneshwar Maharaj Sansthan,, explained the concept of continuing wrong (in the context of Section 23 of Limitation Act, 1908 corresponding to section 22 of Limitation Act, 1963) :
> > It is the very essence of a continuing wrong that it is an act which creates a continuing source of injury and renders the doer of the act responsible and liable for the continuance of the said injury. If the wrongful act causes an injury which is complete, there is no continuing wrong even though the damage resulting from the act may continue. If, however, a wrongful act is of such a character that the injury caused by it itself continues, then the act constitutes a continuing wrong. In this connection, it is necessary to draw a distinction between the injury caused by the wrongful act and what may be described as the effect of the said injury.

5. In M.R. Gupta v. Union of India,, the appellant approached the High Court in 1989 with a grievance in regard to his initial pay fixation with effect from 1.8.1978. The claim was rejected as it was raised after 11 years. This Court applied the principles of continuing wrong and recurring wrongs and reversed the decision. This Court held :

> "5……The appellant s grievance that his pay fixation was not in accordance with the rules, was the assertion of a continuing wrong against him which gave rise to a recurring cause of action each time he was paid a salary which was not computed in accordance with the rules. So long as the appellant is in service, a fresh cause of action arises every month when he is paid his monthly salary on the basis of a wrong computation made contrary to rules. It is no doubt true that if the appellant s claim is found correct on merits, he would be entitled to be paid according to the properly fixed pay scale in the future and the question of limitation would arise for recovery of the arrears for the past period. In other words, the appellant s claim, if any, for recovery of arrears calculated on the basis of difference in the pay which has become time barred would not be recoverable, but he would be entitled to proper fixation of his pay in accordance with rules and to cessation of a continuing wrong if on merits his claim is justified. Similarly, any other consequential relief claimed by him, such as, promotion etc., would also be subject to the defence of laches etc. to disentitle him to those reliefs. The pay fixation can be made only on the basis of the situation existing on 1.8.1978 without taking into account any other consequential relief which may be barred by his laches and the bar of limitation. It is to this limited extent of proper pay fixation, the application cannot be treated as time barred....
> 6. In Shiv Dass v. Union of India, 2007 9 SCC 274, this Court held:
> > "8…..The High Court does not ordinarily permit a belated resort to the extraordinary remedy because it is likely to cause confusion and public inconvenience and bring in its train new injustices, and if writ jurisdiction is exercised after unreasonable delay, it may have the effect of inflicting not only hardship and inconvenience but also injustice on third parties. It was pointed out that when writ jurisdiction is invoked, unexplained delay coupled with the creation of third party rights in the meantime is an important factor which also weighs with the High Court in deciding whether or not to exercise such jurisdiction.
> > 10. In the case of pension the cause of action actually continues from month to month. That, however, cannot be a ground to overlook delay in filing the petition.... If petition is filed beyond a reasonable period say three years normally the Court would reject the same or restrict the relief which could be granted to a reasonable period of about three years.
> 7. To summarise, normally, a belated service related claim will be rejected on the ground of delay and laches (where remedy is sought by filing a writ petition) or limitation (where remedy is sought by an application to the Administrative Tribunal). One of the exceptions to the said rule is cases relating to a continuing wrong. Where a service related claim is based on a continuing wrong, relief can be granted even if there is a long delay in seeking remedy, with reference to the date on which the continuing wrong commenced, if such continuing wrong creates a continuing source of injury. But there is an exception to the exception. If the grievance is in respect of any order or administrative decision which related to or affected several others also, and if the re-opening of the issue would affect the settled rights of third parties, then the claim will not be entertained. For example, if the issue relates to payment or re-fixation of pay or pension, relief may be granted in spite of delay as it does not affect the rights of third parties. But if the claim involved issues relating to seniority or promotion etc., affecting others, delay would render the claim stale and doctrine of laches/limitation will be applied. In so far as the consequential relief of recovery of arrears for a past period, the principles relating to recurring/successive wrongs will apply. As a consequence, High Courts will restrict the consequential relief relating to arrears normally to a period of three years prior to the date of filing of the writ petition.

8. In this case, the delay of 16 years would affect the consequential claim for arrears. The High Court was not justified in directing payment of arrears relating to 16 years, and that too with interest. It ought to have restricted the relief relating to arrears to only three years before the date of writ petition, or from the date of demand to date of writ petition, whichever was lesser. It ought not to have granted interest on arrears in such circumstances."

18. The apex Court in a latest judgment delivered in case Asger Ibrahim Amin versus Life Insurance Corporation of India reported in JT 2015 (9) SC 329 has also laid down the same principles of law. It is profitable to reproduce paras 4, 4.1 and 16 of the said judgment herein.

"4. As regards the issue of delay in matters pertaining to claims of pension, it has already been opined by this Court in Union of India v. Tarsem Singh, 2008 8 SCC 648 that in cases of continuing or successive wrongs, delay and laches or limitation will not thwart the claim so long as the claim, if allowed, does not have any adverse repercussions on the settled third-party rights. This Court held:

> 7. To summarise, normally, a belated service related claim will be rejected on the ground of delay and laches (where remedy is sought by filing a writ petition) or limitation (where remedy is sought by an application to the Administrative Tribunal). One of the exceptions to the said rule is cases relating to a continuing wrong. Where a service related claim is based on a continuing wrong, relief can be granted even if there is a long delay in seeking remedy, with reference to the date on which the continuing wrong commenced, if such continuing wrong creates a continuing source of injury. But there is an exception to the exception. If the grievance is in respect of any order or administrative decision which related to or affected several others also, and if the reopening of the issue would affect the settled rights of third parties, then the claim will not be entertained. For example, if the issue relates to payment or refixation of pay or pension, relief may be granted in spite of delay as it does not affect the rights of third parties. But if the claim involved issues relating to seniority or promotion, etc., affecting others, delay would render the claim stale and doctrine of laches/limitation will be applied. Insofar as the consequential relief of recovery of arrears for a past period is concerned, the principles relating to recurring/successive wrongs will apply. As a consequence, the High Courts will restrict the consequential relief relating to arrears normally to a period of three years prior to the date of filing of the writ petition. [emphasis is ours]

4.1. We respectfully concur with these observations which if extrapolated or applied to the factual matrix of the present case would have the effect of restricting the claim for pension, if otherwise sustainable in law, to three years previous to when it was raised in a judicial forum. Such claims recur month to month and would not stand extinguished on the application of the laws of prescription, merely because the legal remedy pertaining to the time barred part of it has become unavailable. This is too well entrenched in our jurisprudence, foreclosing any fresh consideration.

5 to 15..... ....

16. We thus hold that the termination of services of the Appellant, in essence, was voluntary retirement within the ambit of Rule 31 of the Pension Rules of 1995. The Appellant is entitled for pension, provided he fulfils the condition of refunding of the entire amount of the Corporation's contribution to the Provident Fund along with interest accrued thereon as provided in the Pension Rules of 1995. Considering the huge delay, not explained by proper reasons, on part of the Appellant in approaching the Court, we limit the benefits of arrears of pension payable to the Appellant to three years preceding the date of the petition filed before the High Court. These arrears of pension should be paid to the Appellant in one instalment within four weeks from the date of refund of the entire amount payable by the Appellant in accordance of the Pension Rules of 1995. In the alternative, the Appellant may opt to get the amount of refund adjusted against the arrears of pension. In the latter case, if the amount of arrear is more than the amount of refund required, then the remaining amount shall be paid within two weeks from the date of such request made by the Appellant. However, if the amount of arrears is less than the amount of refund required, then the pension shall be payable on monthly basis after the date on which the amount of refund is entirely adjusted."

19. Having said so, it is held that the writ petitioners are entitled to the arrears for the period of three years prior to the filing of writ petitions. The impugned judgment is modified accordingly and the appeals are disposed of, alongwith pending applications, if any.

Cases referred:

Jayaram Mudaliar versus Ayyaswami and others AIR 1973 SC 569

Guruswamy Nadar versus P.Lakshmi Ammal (D) by L.R.s and others AIR 2008 SC 2560,

For the Petitioner : Mr.P.S.Goverdhan, Advocate vice Mr.V.S.Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Anupinder Rohal, Advocate vice Mr.Tek Chand Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is directed against the order dated 07.01.2013 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No.1, Shimla, whereby the objections filed by the petitioner under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure came to be dismissed.

2. It is not in dispute that the suit filed by the decree holders was dismissed by the learned trial Court, however, the said judgment and decree was reversed by the learned first appellate Court and the operative portion of the judgment reads thus:-

> "34. ……The defendant No.1 is directed to execute and register a sale deed of the disputed premises i.e. one room, one kitchen, another room between kitchen and bath/WC towards Eastern side Ashok Sharma building in the ground floor of a house built on 4/59 shares, measuring 0-4 biswa, out of the land comprised in Khata Khatauni No.14/14, 15, Khasra No.214/202 and 201/52, kitas 2, measuring 2 bighas 19 biswas, situated at Village Shakral, Pargana Chabrogti, Tehsil and District Shimla, H.P. in favour of the legal representatives of original plaintiff Badri Singh (present appellants) within a period of three months from today itself. The stamp duty and other expenses of execution and registration of sale deed shall be borne by the appellants (legal representatives of the original plaintiff). The parties are left to bear their own costs."

3. The respondents on the basis of the judgment and decree passed by the learned first appellate Court filed execution petition under Order 21 Rule 32 of the Civil Procedure Code for execution of decree of specific performance. On receiving notice from the learned executing Court, the petitioner filed objections under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure on the ground that the decree in question is unexecutable against the petitioner as she is not in possession of the flat in question. It was also averred that husband of the petitioner had procured loan to run his company known as 'M/s N.R. and Company' and mortgaged the entire building with Banker i.e. UCO Bank. The husband of the petitioner could not liquidate the loan amount, therefore, the Banker took possession of the building under SARFESI ACT and auctioned the same to one Shri Naresh Chauhan for an amount of Rs. 24.50 lacs. The petitioner was intimated by the Banker through letter dated 14.02.2008 informing that the premises in question had been auctioned in a private bid to Shri Naresh Chauhan for total amount of Rs. 24.50 lacs. The petitioner tried to liquidate the loan amount, but she could not do so and as per her information, the same has been confirmed in favour of the auction purchaser. The husband of the petitioner faced great losses in the business and went in depression due to which he left the petitioner and minor daughter and his whereabouts are not known.

4. The objections preferred by the petitioner were dismissed by the learned Executing Court vide its order dated 07.01.2013 (for short 'impugned order'). It is against this order that the petitioner has approached this Court by invoking the supervisory jurisdiction of this Court under Article 227 of the Constitution.

5. It is contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the findings recorded by the learned executing Court are totally perverse as it has failed to take into consideration that the petitioner is neither in possession nor owner of the premises in question and, therefore, not in a position to execute the sale deed in compliance to the judgment and decree dated 30.06.2009. It is further stated that once the premises in dispute have been sold in an open auction to one Shri Naresh Chauhan, who has become the registered owner thereof, the petitioner cannot be asked to perform, that what is impossible and deliver the premises which is not in his possession.

I have heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

6. As regards the possession of the disputed premises, I find that in para-1 of the objections, the petitioner has categorically stated that the possession of the premises is already with the respondents and the said averments read thus:-

> "1. That the judgment and decree under execution is unexcitable decree as the same can not be executed as the JD/Objector is not in possession of the flat/set regarding which decree has been passed. It is submitted that the husband of JD/objector had procured loan to run his company namely N.R. & Company and the JD/objector stood as surety in favour of the company of her husband and mortgaged the building in dispute which had been purchased from the predecessor of DH/plaintiffs long back and due to losses in the company, the husband of the JD/objector could not liquidate the said loan in time and the banker under SARFESI Act took the possession of the entire building and auction the same to one Sh. Naresh Chauhan for an amount of Rs.24.50 lacs as is clear from the perusal of letter issued by banker i.e. Uco Bank, annexed herewith. The JD/objector is not in physical possession of the same and the DH/plaintiffs are in illegal occupation of the flat and their status can not be held more than that of tenant. It is further submitted that the objector/JD is trying her level best to liquidate the loan amount and take back the possession of the building from the bank or any other person to whom the same has been handed over. As per information of the objector/JD, the auction sale has not been confirmed in the name of auctioneer so far as no intimation in that regard has not been given to her. It is worthwhile to mention here that the JD/objector is not in possession of any documents presently as all the documents with respect to building in dispute had been handed over to Bank. At the cost of repetition, JD/objector is trying her level best to deposit the loan amount and take back the possession of the building. It is further submitted that the where about of husband of the JD/objector is not known for the last more than four years. It is further submitted that the husband of JD/objector faced big losses in the business and was under great depression due to which he left the JD/objector and one daughter in the year 2007. Since then the where about of husband of JD/objector are not known. It was only for this reason that the JD/objector could not liquidate the loan amount."

7. Once this is the admitted position, it is not understood as to how the petitioner claims that the physical possession of the premises has been taken over by the UCO Bank and how the said premises were further sold to any other person. In addition to what has been observed aforesaid, it would be noticed that the respondents in reply to the objections have categorically claimed themselves in physical possession of the premises even prior to the execution of the agreement and, therefore, any right created during the pendency of the suit would obviously not hamper their rights in view of the doctrine of lis pendens which applies to a transfer pendente lite and would prevent the rights of any third party from being fructified or getting matured.

8. It is more than settled that the doctrine of lis pendens was intended to strike at the attempts by parties to a litigation to circumvent the jurisdiction of a Court, in which a dispute of rights or interests of a immovable property was pending by a private dealings which might remove the subject matter of the litigation from the ambit of Court's power to decide a pending dispute or frustrate its decree. Alienees acquiring any immovable property during a litigation over it are bound, by the application of the aforesaid doctrine, by the decree passed in the suit even though they may not have been impleaded in it.

9. In Jayaram Mudaliar versus Ayyaswami and others AIR 1973 SC 569in the Corpus Juris Secundum (Vol. LIV. 570) defines the lis pendens in the following terms:-

> "Lis pendens literally means a pending suit; and the doctrine of lis pendens has been defined as the jurisdiction, power, or control which a court acquires over property involved in a suit, pending the continuance of the action, and until final judgment therein"."

10. The doctrine of lis pendens is available to the purchaser at the execution of sale and the doctrine further applies to the Court sales also.

11. Here, it shall be apt to reproduce the following observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Guruswamy Nadar*versus* P.Lakshmi Ammal (D) by L.R.s and others AIR 2008 SC 2560, which read thus:-

> "3.....The main argument which was advanced before learned Single Judge was that Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 provides that a decree for specific performance against a subsequent purchaser for bona fide who has paid the money in good faith without notice of the original contract can be enforced as the same is binding on the vendor as well as against the whole world. As against this, it was contended by the respondents that Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act which lays down the principle of lis pendens that when a suit is pending during the pendency of such suit if a sale is made in favour of other person, then the principle of lis pendens would be attracted. In support of this proposition a Full Bench decision of the Allahabad High Court in Smt. Ram Peary and others v. Gauri and others [AIR 1978 All. 318] as well as a Division Bench judgment of the Madras High Court was pressed into service. Therefore, the question before us in this case is what is the effect of the lis pendens on the subsequent sale of the same property by the owner to the second purchaser. Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act clearly says subsequent sale can be enforced for good and sufficient reason but in the present case, there is no difficulty because the suit was filed on 3.5.1975 for specific performance of the agreement and the second sale took place on 5.5.1975. Therefore, it is the admitted position that the second sale was definitely after the filing of the suit in question. Had that not been the position then we would have evaluated the effect of Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act read with Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act. But in the present case it is more than apparent that the suit was filed before the second sale of the property. Therefore, the principle of lis pendens will govern the present case and the second sale cannot have the overriding effect on the first sale. The principle of lis pendens is still settled principle of law. In this connection, the Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Smt. Ram Peary (supra) has considered the scope of Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act. The Full Bench has referred to a decision in Bellamy v. Sabine[(1857) 44 ER 842 at p.843)wherein it was observed as under:
> > " It is scarcely correct to speak of lis pendens as affecting a purchaser through the doctrine of notice, though undoubtedly the language of the Courts often so describes its operation. It affects him not because it amounts to notice, but because the law does not allow litigant parties to give to others, pending the litigation, rights to the property in dispute, so as to prejudice the opposite party.
> > Where a litigation is pending between a plaintiff and a defendant as to the right to a particular estate, the necessities of mankind required that the decision of the Court in the suit shall be finding, not only on the litigant parties, but also on those who derive title under them by alienations made pending the suit, whether such alienees had or had not notice of the pending proceedings. If this were not so, there could be no certainty that the litigation would ever come to an end."

Similarly the Privy Council in Faiyaz Husain Khan v. Munshi Prag Narain [(1907) 34 Ind App 102] where the Court lay stress on the necessity for final adjudication and observation that otherwise there would be no end to litigation and justice would be defeated. The Full Bench of Allahabad High Court further referred to the work of Story on Equity IIIrd Edition,(para 406) which expounded the doctrine of lis pendens in the terms as follows:

> " Ordinarily, it is true that the judgment of a court binds only the parties and their privies in representations or estate. But he who purchases during the pendency of an action, is held bound by the judgment that may be made against the person from whom he derives title. The litigating parties are exempted from taking any notice of the title so acquired; and such purchaser need not be made a party to the action. Where there is a real and fair purchase without any notice, the rule may operate very hardly. But it is a rule founded upon a great public policy; for otherwise, alienations made during an action might defeat its whole purpose, and there would be no end to litigation. And hence arises the maxim pendent elite, nihil innovetur; the effect of which is not to annul the conveyance but only to refer it subservient to the rights of the parties in the litigation. As to the rights of these parties, the conveyance is treated as if it never had any existence; and it does not vary them."

Normally, as a public policy once a suit has been filed pertaining to any subject matter of the property, in order to put an end to such kind of litigation, the principle of lis pendens has been evolved so that the litigation may finally terminate without intervention of a third party. This is because of public policy otherwise no litigation will come to an end. Therefore, in order to discourage that same subject matter of property being subjected to subsequent sale to a third person, this kind of transaction is to be checked. Otherwise, litigation will never come to an end."

12. Another factor which is very intriguing is that there is no material placed on record by the petitioner wherefrom it can be gathered as to when exactly the husband of the petitioner took loan from the UCO Bank. The letter issued by the UCO Bank has been placed on record. The contents of the letter (Annexure P-6) do reveal that on account of loan taken by the husband of the petitioner, the account was declared as non performing account on 01.07.2006 and it also finds mention therein that the premises has been sold through a private sale to one Shri Naresh Chauhan for a sum of Rs. 24.50 lacs. However, that in itself is inconsequential as the suit out of which it gives rise to the decree sought to be executed was presented on 10.06.2003 and, therefore, any transaction entered into by the petitioner after the said date would be hit by the doctrine of lis pendens.

13. As regards other objections regarding there being no agreement between the parties etc., the same are not open to challenge as these objections have been conclusively decided by the first appellate Court which judgment and decree admittedly has attained finality.

14. However, before parting, I would now like to advert to another aspect of the case which relates to the all out endeavours made by the petitioner to prolong these proceedings.

15. A perusal of the order sheet indicates that further proceedings in the execution petition have been ordered to be stayed vide an ex parte order passed by this Court on 06.05.2013. Thereafter, the petitioner took no steps for getting the respondents served and eventually on 04.09.2014, this Court passed the following orders:

> "Steps for service of respondents, complete in all respects be positively taken within a period of four weeks. If steps are not taken within the aforesaid period, petition shall automatically stand dismissed for non prosecution without any further reference to this Court. In the event of steps being taken, notices be issued to the respondents returnable for 22nd October, 2014."

16. Lateron, vide order dated 19.12.2014, the order passed earlier on 04.09.2014 was though recalled, however, even thereafter no serious endeavour was made by the petitioner to get the respondents served, as would be evident from the order sheet dated 03.06.2015 which reads thus:-

> "As per Registry report steps for service of co-respondents No.1 to 3 not taken. Steps be taken within two weeks. Thereafter, notices be issued to co-respondents No.1 to 3 returnable within four weeks. Be listed thereafter."

17. Thereafter, on 03.09.2015, learned counsel representing the petitioner made out a grievance with regard to incorrect proceedings recorded by the official of this Registry and accordingly Registrar (Judicial) was directed to examine and submit his report and the matter was directed to be listed on 09.09.2015. On 09.09.2015, it was the learned counsel for the petitioner, who candidly conceded that the process fee so filed by him was lying under objection and the same escaped his attention.

18. It is eventually on 29.10.2015 that respondents No.1 and 2 came to be served, yet no steps for service of respondent No.3 were effected uptill 03.06.2016. On 21.07.2016, notices issued to respondent No.3 were stated to be awaited, however, since these were actual date notices, they could not be awaited any further and, therefore, the petitioner was directed to take fresh steps for the service of respondent No.3 within two days. Despite this order, the petitioner took no steps to serve respondent No.3 uptill 23.08.2016. Even on 23.08.2016, the process fee was filed only because the case was listed before this Court on 24.08.2016. Even thereafter, the petitioner took no steps and eventually on 30.11.2016, this Court after taking into consideration that the notices to respondent No.3 had been issued on 25.10.2016 and the statutory period of service had come to an end, concluded that respondent No.3 would be deemed to be served and was thereafter proceeded ex parte.

19. The aforesaid narration of facts makes it evidently clear that the petitioner after having obtained ex parte order from this Court has abused the process of law and managed to keep the proceedings in a state of limbo for more than 3 ½ years. Obviously, this was done with an intent to tire out the decree holders so as to make them to succumb to the illegal and unjustified demand of the petitioner and the same is not legally permissible.

20. Having said so, there is no merit in this petition and the same is otherwise nothing but an abuse of the process of the Court. Accordingly, the petition is dismissed with costs of Rs. 30,000/- to be paid to the respondents within four weeks from today and in default thereof, the respondents shall be at liberty to have the same recovered by resorting to the process of execution. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of. Interim order dated 06.05.2013 is vacated.

(Para-5 to 18)

For the Appellant: Mr.V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General with Mr.Vikram Thakur and Mr.Puneet Rajta, Deputy Advocate Generals.

For the Respondents: Mr.Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur J.

State has filed the instant appeal against the acquittal of respondents vide judgment dated 17.9.2011 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Kangra at Dharamshala in case RBT S.C. No. 71-J/VII/2010/2007 in FIR No. 72 of 2006, registered under Sections 306, 498-A read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jawali, District Kangra, H.P.

2. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and also have gone through the records of the case.

3. Prosecution case is that deceased Nisha Devi alias Monika was married to respondent No. 1 Ajay Kumar in the year 2004. Respondent No. 2, Shakuntla Devi was mother-in-law of deceased. After one year of marriage, respondents started maltreating deceased Nisha Devi for want of sufficient dowry in her marriage and respondents used to beat deceased Nisha Devi and did not allow her to sleep on the cot for no cot was brought by her from her parental house. On 22nd March, 2006 at about 7:00 P.M., PW-1, Surestha Devi, mother of deceased heard about death of her daughter and inquired from one Shambhu Nath. After knowing about death of her daughter, PW-1, Surestha Devi along with her relatives and villagers went to the house of accused/respondents. On information, police also reached there. After preparation of inquest report, dead body of deceased was sent for post mortem. Initially possibility of death due to asphyxia was not ruled out by doctor who conducted post mortem on 23.3.2006. However, as per chemical analysis report, deceased was found to have consumed Phosphate. In these circumstances, on 25.3.2006 FIR under Sections 306, 498-A read with Section 34 IPC was registered in pursuance to statement of PW-1, Surestha Devi. On conclusion of the trial, respondents were acquitted by the trial Court.

4. To prove allegations of dowry demand and maltreatment to deceased Nisha Devi by respondents, prosecution has relied upon statements of PW-1 Surestha Devi, PW-2 Darshan Singh, PW-3 Shambu Singh and PW-4 Tripta Devi and also complaint Ex. PW-1/B alleged to be written at the instance of deceased, Nisha Devi against the respondents.

5. Scrutiny of statements of prosecution witnesses PW-1, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 reflects that allegations of demand of dowry is not proved on record, rather it has been contradicted by PW-1, Surestha Devi herself by admitting in cross-examination that it was correct that accused persons did not demand dowry at the time of solemnization of marriage and also did not demand dowry from her after the marriage till the death of Nisha Devi. She admitted that they had not given any article in dowry till death of deceased Nisha Devi and respondent Ajay Kumar used to visit her house till death of her daughter. She admitted that on account of poverty, deceased was married to Ajay and she had also stated that accused Ajay Kumar had agreed for marriage by saying that he will not demand any dowry because of their poverty.

6. PW-2 Darshan Singh, uncle of deceased Nisha Devi stated that PW-1 and deceased Nisha Devi used to tell him that accused beat her for demand of dowry. However in cross-examination he stated that he did not know that deceased Nisha Devi did not like accused Ajay, but had married on account of poverty. He admitted that respondent Ajay Kumar used to visit house of in laws till death of his wife Nisha Devi.

7. PW-3 Shambu Singh is silent about the maltreatment and demand of dowry by respondents to deceased Nisha Devi or her mother.

8. Statement of PW-4 Tripta Devi is general in nature and she is not specific about time, place and date of dowry demand and torture as she has not stated any specific instance disclosed by deceased Nisha Devi to her in this regard. Her allegations are vague which cannot be basis for conviction for want of corroboration by substantial evidence on record.

9. In view of admission of PW-1 in her cross-examination, allegations of demand of dowry and maltreatment to deceased Nisha Devi by respondents stand shattered. There is no convincing and confidence inspiring evidence on record proving allegations of maltreatment by respondents for dowry.

10. Document Ex. PW-1/B relied upon by prosecution is alleged to be written at the instance of deceased Nisha Devi. PW-1, Surestha Devi in her examination-in-chief has stated that deceased Nisha Devi was taken to the house of her sister Nimo Devi and along with Nimo Devi, they went to the house of somebody, where this complaint was written. The name of that somebody was never disclosed nor Nimo Devi was examined by the prosecution, rather she was given up to avoid repetition. There was no evidence on record to show that in whose house, PW-1and Nimo Devi along with deceased Nisha Devi had visited and who scribed the document Ex. PW-1/B. Therefore, there was no question of repetition of the fact, rather Nimo Devi was a necessary witness to be examined to prove the fact, which was not stated by any other witnesses examined by the prosecution. PW-1 in her cross-examination has also admitted that this complaint (Ex. PW-1/B) was not disclosed to the police at the time of lodging of FIR.

11. Perusal of Ex. PW-1/B indicates that alleged signatures of Nisha Devi are not at a place where the same should have been in normal course after scribing application/complaint Ex. PW-1/B but the application appears to be manipulated or fabricated on blank paper already available with signature of Nisha Devi. There is suspicion about the genuineness of this document. Even PW-1, Surestha Devi, mother of deceased has not stated that this complaint was scribed at the instance of deceased Nisha Devi in her presence and even she did not disclose that who scribed this complaint. At the bottom of the document, copy of this document has been stated to be forwarded to Pradhan Gram Panchayat, Sunet, Police Post Fatehpur and also to Police Station, Jawali, but no corresponding evidence has been led to corroborate or to prove the genuineness of this document by calling record from Gram Panchayat Sunet or Police Station, Jawali, therefore, this document cannot be considered to be reliable to infer that document/complaint Ex. PW-1/B was written at the instance of deceased Nisha Devi for respondents were maltreating or beating deceased for want of dowry or otherwise.

12. There is another fact which renders document Ex. PW-1/B doubtful. The inquest report Ex. PW-7/A was prepared immediately after death of deceased Nisha Devi in presence of PW-1, her relatives and villagers accompanying her. PW-2 Darshan Singh has been cited as a witness in inquest report as relative of deceased, who identified the deceased before sending her dead body for post mortem. It was the case of the prosecution that respondents did not disclose cause of death as poisoning immediately after death and had stated that deceased died because of stomach pain. However in inquest report, it has been clearly mentioned that deceased Nisha Devi had informed one Sarla that she had consumed some poison and had asked to save her and to call her husband. At that time no complaint was lodged regarding beating or maltreatment to deceased Nisha Devi for want of dowry, despite the fact that PW-1, PW-2 and other villagers were present on the spot. Sarla was an important witness, who was neither cited as a witness nor examined by the prosecution and her non-examination definitely invites adverse inference against the prosecution.

13. The prosecution has failed to explain the reasons for registration of FIR after three days of the death, particularly when there is no reference of any maltreatment and demand of dowry in inquest report Ex. PW-7/A, which was prepared immediately after death of deceased Nisha Devi before sending her dead body for post mortem. It indicates that registration of FIR against the respondents was an afterthought for extraneous reasons, best known to the prosecution. It is a case of no specific and conclusive evidence against the respondents with regard to maltreatment or demand of dowry from deceased, her parents or relatives.

14. Learned Deputy Advocate General contended that in present case, death has taken place within seven years of the marriage and that too for demand of dowry and he further argued that even if the demand of dowry is not proved, then provisions of Sections 113-A and 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1972 (for short the 'Act') for drawing presumption for abetment of suicide to deceased Nisha Devi by subjecting her to cruelty are attracted.

15. In our opinion Section 113-B is not attracted in the present case because for drawing presumption under Section 113-B of the Act, initial burden lies upon the prosecution to prove demand of dowry and only thereafter Court shall presume that respondents had caused dowry death. In present case, there is no confidence inspiring evidence on record to prove that respondents had ever made any demand of dowry or had maltreated deceased for such demand or otherwise. Therefore, Section 113-B of the Act is not applicable in the present case.

16. In so far as Section 113-A is concerned, under this Section the Court may presume having regard to all the other circumstances of the case that respondents had abetted deceased Nisha Devi for committing suicide. Scrutiny of statements of PW-1, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 do not disclose any cruelty on the part of respondents for want of dowry or otherwise and the evidence led by prosecution is not sufficient to hold that deceased Nisha Devi was ever subjected to any cruelty by respondents for want of dowry or otherwise. Therefore, the provision of Section 113-A of the Act is also not attracted in the present case.

17. Respondents have been acquitted by learned trial Court and presumption of innocence of respondents has been fortified. In such case burden of proving guilt of respondents heavily lies upon prosecution.

18. In view of above discussion, prosecution has failed to prove the case against the respondents by leading cogent, reliable, trustworthy and confidence inspiring evidence. Learned trial Court has correctly and completely appreciated the evidence on record and has rightly acquitted the respondents. No case for interference is made out in the present appeal, therefore, the same being devoid of any merit, is dismissed. Personal bail and surety bonds of respondents are discharged. Record be sent back to the trial Court.

Licence was renewed from Licencing Authority Una. It is held that insurance company did not examine official of Licencing Authority Una who has renewed licence. Learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal has rightly closed evidence of insurance company. The present appeal is preferred by the appellant/State under Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure assailing the judgment of acquittal, dated 31.5.2011, passed by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Chamba, District Chamba,H.P., in Sessions Trial No.11 of 2011, whereby the accused was acquitted of the charges framed against him under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act,1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act").

2. Briefly stating, as per prosecution story, facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 26.2.2011, at about 1.00 p.m., a secret information was received by ASI, Jeet Singh that the accused deals in smuggling of Charas and has gone towards Chamba side for bringing Charas and if nakka is laid at Bonkhari mor (curve), the accused can be nabbed with Charas. To this effect, a daily diary report Ex.PW-6/A, was entered and sent to the Superintendent of Police, Chamba, through Constable, Subhash Chand No.572. After sending information, Investigating Officer/ASI, Jeet Singh took out I.O. kit and proceeded to the spot alongwith Constable, Anuj Kumar and Home Guard, Palwinder. The witnesses Vijay Kumar and Surinder were found standing at Toll Tax Barrier, where they were waiting for bus. He apprised Vijay and Surinder about the secret information of possession of Charas by the accused and whether or not they were ready to accompany him to Bonkhari mor. Thereafter, they both agreed to accompany him to Bonkhari mor and, as such, they were made to sit in the vehicle (Alto Car) No.HP-20D-0997, belonging to the Investigating Officer. The Investigating Officer, alongwith these witnesses and Constable, Anuj Kumar and Home Guard, Palwinder reached at Bonkhri mor at about 1.45 p.m. and laid a nakka there and started waiting for the accused by concealing their presence below the road. The word 'Sahajada garments' was printed on the said polythene packet and on opening it, one more packet of Khakhi colour was recovered, containing black coloured hard substance in the shape of candles and balls, which, on smell and experience, was found to be Charas. Thereafter, the Charas was weighed, which was found 1kg.540 grams, with polythene packet. The Charas, so recovered, was put in the Khakhi colour packet, which in turn, was put in the packet of 'Sahajada garments' and then the same was parceled and sealed in a piece of cloth by affixing three seals of impression 'K'. Sample seal Ex.PW-1/B, was taken separately. NCB forms Ex.PW-10/F were completed in triplicate and seal was embossed thereon and the seal was handed over to witness Surinder and thereafter the case property was taken into

On consideration, the accused was charged for the commission of offence under Section 20 of the NDPS Act, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. To prove its case, the prosecution examined, as many as, thirteen witnesses, in order to substantiate the charge against the accused.

4. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the accused was separately examined under Section 313 Cr.PC. The accused denied the prosecution case in its entirety and had not led any evidence in defence. After the completion of the trial, the learned trial Court acquitted the accused of the charges framed against him.

5. Heard. Mr. Virender Verma, Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the Court below has committed illegality in acquitting the accused and has not appreciated the evidence correctly and to its true perspective. The learned Court below has failed to appreciate that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond reasonable doubt and so the judgment of acquittal may be set-aside and the accused be convicted.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Vivek Singh Thakur, learned counsel for the respondent, has argued that the accused is innocent and the only conclusion, after appreciating the evidence on record, leads towards the innocence of the accused and there is no merit in the appeal and the same be dismissed and the accused be acquitted.

NCB forms Ex.PW-10/F were completed in triplicate and seal was embossed thereon and the seal was handed over to witness Surinder and thereafter the case property was taken into possession, vide memo, Ex.PW-1/C. Thereafter, he scribed rukka Ex.PW-13/A (mark B) and thereafter, sent the same to the Police Station for registration of the case through Constable, Anuj Kumar. Accused was arrested. The personal search of the accused was also taken after arrest memo Ex.PW-1/E. He has also recorded the statements of the witnesses, namely Vijay and Surinder. Case file was also handed over to him by Constable Anuj Kumar at the spot at about 8.30 p.m. He has further stated that after resealing the case property at the Police Station, the same was deposited by the Station House Officer to the M.H.C. Thereafter, he became busy in another case and handed over the case file to ASI, Surjeet Singh. He returned the file after investigation to him. He presented the file to SHO for preparation of challan. He further stated that the daily diary report Ex.PW-10/D was entered when the case property was presented by him for resealing purpose. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that witness Vijay Kumar was not known to him prior to 26.2.2011. He has also denied the suggestion that it becomes dark at 5.00 pm during the month of February at Bonkhari mor. Self stated that it becomes dark at about 6.30 pm during February. He has also admitted that the statements of the witnesses, was recorded by him on the road with the reflection of light from the shop of Sadhu Ram and other lights, which were on the road. He also denied the suggestion that he had not written in the statements of the witnesses that Vijay and Surinder met him at Toll Tax Barrier and that he had received secret information about possession of Charas by the accused and they should not accompany him. He has also admitted that the secret source had not been disclosed about the colour of clothes of the accused. He also denied the suggestion that Bonkhari Mod was a busy highway. He has also deposed that the accused was wearing shirt and trouser, but was not aware about the colour thereof. He had not entered number of the vehicle in the departure report. He has deposed that after complying with Section 50 of the Act, he gave personal search of the police officials and witnesses to the accused and effected the recovery. He further denied the suggestion that consent memo was prepared after sending the rukka. He had written in the rukka that accused was apprised about his legal rights to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. He denied the suggestion that accused did not appear at Chakra road. He has also denied that witnesses were not present with him at the spot. He denied the suggestion that no Charas was recovered from the accused and the accused was not apprised of his legal right of search before Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. He has also denied the suggestion that no proceedings were conducted at the spot and that parcel and other case property were not produced for resealing by him before the Station House Officer.

21. There were two independent witnesses, namely Surinder Singh (PW1) and Vijay Kumar (PW12). The prosecution story is that in the presence of the independent witnesses, accused was informed that the Police has suspicion that he was carrying narcotics and the accused has legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, but the accused gave his consent to be searched before the Police at the spot. Now, Surinder Singh, the independent witness (PW1) has stated that on 26.2.2011, he was waiting for the bus alongwith Vijay Kumar near Police Post, Banikhet, at about 1-30/1-45 PM, when ASI, Jeet Singh and Constable, Anuj and one Home Guard came to him and requested him and Vijay Kumar to accompany them to Bonkhari curve (Mor) and accordingly, they reached at Bonkhri Mod at 1-45 PM and were sitting below the road and at about 3-00 PM, accused appeared from Chakra road-side whose identity and whereabouts were ascertained and accused disclosed his name as Darshan Lal. According to him, accused was told about the secret information received qua him regarding possession of Charas and that his search is to be taken and on search, a polythene packet was recovered which had been concealed by the accused below his trouser near stomach which was found containing Charas. However, he has not stated anything that the accused had been apprised of his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer before carrying out his search. Rather, he stated that before recovery of Charas, no documents whatsoever were prepared and the documents were prepared simultaneously at the time of recovery of Charas. Though, this witness was declared hostile by the prosecution but nothing favourable to the prosecution has come. He has specifically denied that accused had been apprised of his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. Though, he admitted that the accused had stated that he was ready to be searched by the police at the spot, but once the accused was not apprised of his indefeasible legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, the whole search and recovery becomes doubtful. So, as the witness has not stated anything with regard to the fact that the accused had been apprised about his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, the prosecution story becomes suspicious with regard to the recovery and the benefit of it is always required to be given to the accused. At the same point of time when this witness was cross-examined by the defence counsel, he stated that he know the Investigating Officer, as he used to go to the Police Post in connection with the service of summons, as he was the Chowkidar of the Panchayat. He has further stated that the distance of his village and the Police Post was 10 Kms from his village and many other persons were there and there were 10-12 shops. It has also come in the prosecution story that the alleged recovery was effected at 3.00 PM. It is surprising why any resident of Bonkhari Mor was not associated by the police. This witness has also not supported the sealing of the samples at the spot. In his statement, he stated that no police official departed from the spot till 8.00 PM, the same is in contradiction to the contents of the F.I.R.

22. The another independent witness namely Vijay Kumar, who appeared as PW12, has also not supported the prosecution story and stated that he alongwith Surinder was taken to Bonkhari Mod from where he was about to go to his house, but was stopped by the police and in the meanwhile, he was apprised by the police that accused has been found in possession of the Charas and was made to sign certain papers. In these circumstances, he too was declared hostile, but without any assistance to the prosecution. No doubt, he stated that the person nabbed by the police had disclosed his name as Darshan Lal and witness has identified his signatures on memo Ex.PW-2/A encircled A and that the parcel was also sealed in his presence, but he has denied rest of the prosecution story. He also categorically denied that the accused had been apprised of his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer or that the accused had consented to be searched by the police party at the spot or consent memo Ex.PW-2/A was prepared at the spot. He also denied that search of the accused was carried out in his presence and a polythene packet had been recovered which had been concealed below the belt or that Charas was weighed in his presence or sample seal was taken or NCB forms were completed on the spot or rukka was sent from the spot or accused was arrested. During his cross-examination, he has stated that witness Surinder was known to him for the last about 4-5 years, but witness Surinder has stated that this witness was known to him from childhood and that he was also associated as witness in one another case after 26.2.2011. He further stated that he was not resident of Bonkhari Mor, as such, he was not required to be associated. So, he was a stock witness and, as such, his signatures were obtained somewhere else and it was projected that the accused had been nabbed in his presence. Once he has categorically stated that neither Charas was recovered in his presence nor accused had been apprised of his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer nor the accused consented to be searched by the police, the entire prosecution case falls to ground and it is not substantiated that mandatory provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act have been complied.

23. Constable, Anuj (PW2) was present with the Investigating Officer and corroborated the prosecution story. As per him, rukka was written by the Investigating Officer and handed over to him at 4-50 PM, which he took to the Police Station for registration of the case and handed over to MHC at 6-15 PM and at 6-45 PM, case file was given to him by the MHC, which he further delivered to the Investigating Officer at the spot at 8.30 PM. So far as his version regarding depositing the rukka is concerned, PW1 has categorically stated that he remained at the spot till 8.00 PM and so long he remained there, no police official departed from the spot. PW-12 Vijay Kumar has also stated that no rukka was sent in his presence. PW-1 and PW-12, are also not the residents of Bonkhari Mor and belong to far off places and appear to be stock witnesses. If so, it is also doubtful that the rukka had been dispatched in the manner projected and possibility of completing all the papers lateron cannot be ruled out. According to him, accused had been explained the meaning of Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, but when confronted with his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Ex.PW-13/A, said statement was silent that the accused had been explained such meaning as such an inference arises that the accused was not apprised of his legal right as projected by the independent witnesses. He has further stated that the Court of Judicial Magistrate and residence was at a distance of 10 Kms. from the spot. He also stated that the parcel was stitched in the presence of Vijay and Surinder but PW-1 has denied the same. Apparently, he was under the influence of Investigating Officer. Since the independent witnesses have not rendered assistance to the prosecution story and his version regarding explaining the meaning of the Magistrate or Gazetted Officer is silent in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., possibly of deposing falsely to cover up the lacuna left by PW-1 cannot be ruled out. Therefore, his version without corroboration of independent witnesses cannot be believed.

24. Further, though the independent witness PW-1, has stated that that the accused was not informed that he has a right to be searched before a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, meaning thereby that the provision was not complied with. At the same point of time, even PW-2, Constable Anuj Kumar has stated that the accused was apprised of his legal right to be searched before a Magistrate, Gazetted Officer or the police officials present on the spot and even this is also not a proper compliance of the mandatory provisions under the law. In these circumstances also, the findings of the Court below cannot be said to be against the law while convicting the accused.

25. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/mis-appreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

27. In these circumstances, as the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond shadow of doubt. This Court finds that the learned trial Court has rightly dealt with the evidence and found the same to be not worthy of credence. We, thus, find no merit and substance to interfere with the well reasoned judgment, passed by learned Appellate Court and the appeal filed by the appellant is accordingly dismissed.

28. In view of the aforesaid decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and discussion made hereinabove, we find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed.

29. All the pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present appeal is preferred by the appellant/State under Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure assailing the judgment of acquittal, dated 15.5.2009, passed by the learned Special Judge(3), Kangra at Dharamshala, District Kangra, H.P., in Sessions Trial No.29-

D/VII/2006, of 2010, whereby the accused persons have been acquitted of the charges framed against them under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act,1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act").

2. Briefly stating, as per prosecution story, facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 13.4.2005, a Police Party consisting of ASI, Kamal Chand, HC, Bhag Chand No.69, HC, Uttam Chand No.142, HHC, Janam Singh No.377, HHC, Tungal Singh No.733, Constable, Santosh Kumar No.279 and one Ramesh Kumar son of Harbans Lal r/o countryside House, Bhagsunag, laid a naka near Jogibara on Kharadanda Road and at about 7.30 AM a Maruti Van bearing No.HP-01-0654, came which was checked by them. The vehicle was driven by Tek Chand resident of Bhagyara, P.O. Jari, District Kullu, HP and other occupants disclosed their names, as Pawan Kumar resident of Mamleeg, District Solan, who was residing at Dharamkot, District Kangra and Ganga Ram resident of Malana, Tehsil and District Kullu. It has been alleged that Pawan Kumar had a bag in his lap and on suspicion, the bag was opened, which was containing Charas in polythene packets in the shape of tablets and balls and on weighing, it was found 505 grams. In another packet of the bag, an agreement, dated 19.10.2004,containing two sheets, which was between Kala Ram and Pawan Kumar, a copy of Jamabandi of Mohal Chohla qua Khatauni No.165 to 169, dated 6.10.2004, Jamabandi for the year 1997-98, Khatauni No.261, Mohal Chohla, dated 14.10.2004 were found. Two samples of Charas, each containing 25 grams, were drawn and put in two empty cigarette packets, which were sealed with seal impression 'M' (with 6 seals each) and the remaining 455 grams Charas was put in polythene packet and placed in the same very bag, which was put in a cloth parcel and sealed with seal impression 'M'. It has been averred that ASI, Kamal Chand filled in NCB-I, in triplicate, and specimen impression of seal was also obtained separately and seal was handed over to Ramesh Kumar. The contraband material and other documents besides the vehicles were seized vide separate memorandum in the presence of the witnesses and a copy thereof was handed over to the accused persons. All the accused admitted the contraband, as Charas and ASI, Kamal Chand prepared rukka and sent the same to the Police Station through Constable Santosh Kumar where FIR No.78/05, dated 13.4.2005, was registered. Site plan was prepared and the statements of the witnesses were recorded by ASI, Kamal Chand, who handed-over the case property to the Station House Officer, Onkar Nath, who, in turn, resealed the same and sample seal impression "A" was taken and handed-over the same along with documents to MHC, Sushil. The sample was sent to the Laboratory for analysis and report was obtained. After completion of the investigations, the challan against the accused persons was put in the Court under Section 20 of the NDPS Act.

3. The accused persons in their statements, under Section 313 Cr.PC denied the prosecution case in its entirety and had not led any evidence in defence. After the completion of the trial, the learned trial Court acquitted the accused of the charges framed against them.

4. Heard. Mr. Virender Verma, Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the Court below has committed illegality in acquitting the accused persons and has not appreciated the evidence correctly and to its true perspective. The learned Court below has failed to appreciate that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused persons conclusively and beyond reasonable doubt and so the judgment of acquittal may be set aside and the accused persons be convicted.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents/accused (hereinafter called the 'accused') have argued that the accused persons are innocent and the only conclusion, after appreciating the evidence on record, leads towards the innocence of the accused persons and there is no merit in the appeal and the same be dismissed and the accused persons be acquitted.

6. To appreciate the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties, we have gone through the record of the case in detail.

7. PW-1, ASI Bhag Chand stated that he remained posted as HC in Police Post, Forystgang. He further deposed that on 13.4.2005 at about 2.20 a.m., he alongwith ASI Kamal

Chand, HC Uttam Chand and HHC Tungal Singh and HHC Dharam Singh and Constable, Santosh Kumar were at Khara Danda Road Jogibara and performing the nakka bandi by checking the vehicles. At about 7.30 a.m., a taxi (Van) bearing No.HP-01K-0654 came from Dharamshala side and on checking the same, it was found that two persons were sitting in the rear seat and the occupants of the Car became perplexed during checking. On asking, they disclosed their names, as Pawan Kumar and Ganga Ram, resident of Solan and Kullu, respectively. The vehicle was being driven by Tek Chand. On checking the bag, it was found containing polythene packet, which was containing Charas and on weighing, it was found 505 grams and two samples were drawn, 25 grams each. The Charas was in the shape of tablets and balls. He has further stated that each sample was put in a packet and sealed with seal impression 'M' and the remaining Charas was also put in a packet and sealed with seal impression 'M' and was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/A, which was signed by accused persons and Chander Bahadur, Uttam Chand and Ramesh Chand respectively. PW1 also identified Charas as P1, sample P2 and bag P3. He also admitted that nearby the nakka/place of occurrence, there were various houses and establishments and no person from the locality was associated.

8. PW-2, Constable Santosh Kumar stated that he was posted in the Police Post, Forsythgang and accompanied ASI, Kamal Chand and was one of the members of the police party and saw Taxi HP-01K-0654, which was stopped at the time of naka at Jogibara and saw the accused persons in that vehicle. He further stated that Pawan Kumar had a bag in which was a polythene bag, which on opening found containing Charas, which was 505 grams and samples were drawn in his presence and sealed on the spot. He further stated that samples were taken in his presence and he was deputed by said Kamal Chand with the rukka, which he handed-over to the Incharge, Police Station, Dharamshala. He also identified the accused persons and bag (P3) and Charas (P1). He further stated that various vehicles were checked and they remained at nakka for about 4-5 hours. He has also admitted that nearby the place of nakka, there were many houses and establishments. He also stated that Ramesh Kumar had come on the spot and he had brought weighing scale from the shop of a goldsmith.

9. PW-3, Chander Bahadur, who was running a shop of Goldsmith at Cantt. Road, Dharamshala Cantt. since his birth, has stated that he identified his signatures at place Ex.PW3/A on seizure memo Ex.PW1/A, but denied to have seen the occurrence and seizure of the contraband material. He also did not support the prosecution case.

10. PW-4, Ramesh Kumar stated that he was running a Guest House at Bhagsunag and he did not join the proceedings on 13.4.2005 at Jogibara. He also did not support the prosecution case even when he was cross-examined by the learned P.P. after being declared hostile.

11. PW-5, ASI Subhash Chand stated that he received Special report through HHC Gungal Singh on 14.4.2005, while he was working as a Reader to Superintendent of Police and he handed over the same to Kapil Sharma, the then Superintendent of Police and that the report has been exhibited as Ex.PW5/A and extract of register as Ex.PW5/B.

12. PW-6, HC Tungal Singh has stated that he was posted in Police Station, Dharamshala since the year 2006. He had handed-over the special report Ex.PW5/A to the office of Superintendent of Police, on 14.4.2005.

13. PW-7, SHO Prem Dass was posted at Police Station, Banjar and has prepared the challan.

14. PW-8, ASI Onkar Nath has stated that he was working as Investigating Officer at Police Station, Dharamshala. He has further stated that ASI, Kamal had handed-over three packets sealed with seal impression 'M' along NCB form along with same seal. After that, he had handed-over the material to PW10, Sushil Kumar, MHC. In his cross-examination, he stated that his seal was made of lead. He, at his own, prepared it and the seal was not allotted by the Government to him and he had lost the seal.

15. PW-9, Kamal Chand was the Investigating Officer, who headed the police party on 13.4.2005 and had laid a naka at Jogi Bara on Khara danda Road. He also proved copy of report Ex.PW9/A. He further stated that at about 7.30 a.m., a taxi Maruti Van bearing No. HP-01K-0654, which was driven by Tek Chand and two other persons, one Ganga Ram were sitting in rear seat. Pawan Kumar had on bag in his lap, which contained a polythene packet. On opening the same, Charas was found in the shape of tablets and balls. He further stated that he asked Chander Bahadur to bring weighing scale and weights. Charas was weighed, it was found 505 grams. He had deposed that Ramesh Kumar was already with the police party. Two samples, 25 grams each, were drawn. Each sample part was put in empty cigarette packet and each packet was put in a cloth packet and sealed with seal impression 'M'. The remaining Charas was put in the polythene bag and thereafter put in a cloth parcel and was sealed with seal impression 'M'. The material was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/A, and the same was signed by the accused persons, Ramesh Kumar, Chander Bahadur, Bhag Chand and Uttam Chand. Specimen impression of seal 'M', Ex.PW9/B, was obtained by him and he also filled NCB forms Ex.PW9/C. He handed over the seal to Ramesh Kumar. The report of the Chemical Examiner is Ex.PW9/D. He also prepared ruka, Ex.PW9/F and site Plan Ex.PW9/E. He also sent Special report Ex.PW5/A, through Tungal Singh, HHC. He also proved statement of Chander Bahadur Ex.PW9/G. He handed over the case property along with other documents to PW8 Onkar Nath, SHO. He also identified the Charas P1, sample P2 and Bag P3. The other documents found in the bag were Ex.A1 to A3. He has deposed that F.I.R. (A4) was written by Sushil Kumar and also identified his signatures on the same. He also admitted that nearby the place of nakka, there were many houses and establishments. He has also admitted that he had not associated any witness from the locality nor tried to associate any Executive Magistrate. The Chemical Report is Ex.PW9/D. He denied that he had any prior information that the accused were bringing Charas in a vehicle.

16. PW-10, Sushil Kumar, has stated that he was posted as MHC at Police Station, Dharamshala. He has further stated that PW9, Karam Chand had deposited three packets sealed with seal impression 'M' with him and further resealed it with seal impression 'A' alongwith NCB forms. He has also admitted that he made entry in the Malkhana Register and sent the sample alongwith documents to the F.S.L. He further admitted that there was no entry in the Malkhana Register about the deposit of the NCB forms.

17. It has come on record that near the alleged place of recovery, there are many houses and shops and further at a distance of 1- 2 Kms., there is Officer's Colony at Chilgarhi, Dharamshala, where Executive Magistrates and high police officers are residing. No one amongst them was associated. PW-4, Chander Bahadur has specifically stated that he did not join the proceedings and no Charas was recovered by the police in his presence, though he was cross-examined at length by the learned Public Prosecutor after being declared hostile, but he denied all the suggestions put to him by the learned Public Prosecutor. PW-4, Uttam Chand was given-up by the prosecution. PW-3, Chander Bahadur has also stated that he is running a shop of Goldsmith at Cantt. Road, Dharamshala, since his birth. He also did not support the prosecution case and he has specifically stated that neither he was called by the police nor he knows what was recovered by the police. He was cross-examined at length by the learned Public Prosecutor after being declared hostile, but nothing favourable to the prosecution has come. He has also specifically stated that he has put his signatures due to the reason that he was having affinity with the police, as his shop was situated near the Police Station. He has also not identified any accused person and he has specifically denied that the seal was handed over to Ramesh Kumar by the police when he was cross-examined. Meaning thereby that he has not supported the recovery, sealing and taking of the samples by the police on the spot.

18. In these circumstances, when the independent persons, who were associated by the police have not supported the case of the prosecution at all, we have to consider whether the learned Court below has committed illegality in not convicting the accused persons on the basis of statements of the police witnesses to this effect. It is found that A.S.I., Bhag Chand has stated that the police party consisted ASI, Kamal Chand, HC, Uttam Chand, HHC Tungal Singh, HHC

Dharam Singh and Constable Santosh Kumar, but he did not state that PW-3 and PW-4 were also with them. PW-2, Santosh Kumar, stated that he has gone to call Goldsmith and thereafter, he went to the Police Station. Even PW-4, Ramesh Kumar has denied his signature on Ex.PW-1/A. From the statement of the Police witnesses, the presence of PW3 and PW4 also becomes doubtful, resulting that the prosecution story with respect to search and seizure becomes suspicious. Further, it is in evidence of PW-8, ASI, Onkar Nath that he had resealed the samples and the remaining Charas with his own seal 'A', but he had not stated that he had also taken the specimen seal impression separately and handed over the same to the MHC. PW-10, ASI, Sushil Kumar has stated that the case property and samples were given to him by PW-9, ASI, Kamal Chand. Further, PW-10, Sushil Kumar has admitted that there is no mention in the Malkhana register that NCB forms were also deposited with him.

19. In these circumstances, the learned Court below has committed no illegality in not basing the conviction on the statement of police witnesses alone as their statements were contradictory and not inspiring confidence.

20. The result of the above discussion is that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

21. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/mis-appreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

23. In these circumstances, as the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond shadow of reasonable doubt, this Court finds that the learned trial Court has rightly dealt with the evidence and found the same to be not worthy of credence. We, thus, find no merit and substance to interfere with the well reasoned judgment, passed by learned Appellate Court and the appeal filed by the appellant is accordingly dismissed.

24. In view of the aforesaid decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and discussion made hereinabove, we find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed.

25. All the pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Vinod Kumar and others. …Petitioners.

Versus

State of H.P. and others. …Respondents.

CMPMO No. 487/2016
Decided on: 22.12.2016

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- Reference petition was ordered to be dismissed in default- held, that the reference petition cannot be dismissed in default and the reference Court had wrongly ordered the dismissal – direction issued to restore the reference petition to its original number and to decide the same in accordance with law. (Para-2 to 5)

Cases referred:

Khazan Singh (dead) by L.Rs. v. Union of India, AIR 2002 SC 726

Thakur Dass vs. Land Acquisition Collector and others, Latest HLJ 2003 (HP) 13
Yogesh Verma and others vs. State of H.P. and others, 2004 (1) Shim. L.C. 16

For the Petitioners: Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Manish Datwalia, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Meenakshi Sharma, Addl. A.G. with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Asstt. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral):

It is rather unfortunate that even after the legal position of law having been settled more than one and a half decade back, this Court is once again called upon to answer the question as to whether Reference Petition under section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act (for short the 'Act'), can be ordered to be dismissed in "default".

2. The impugned order reads thus:

"19.11.2015: Present : None for the petitioners.

Sh. Sudhir Sharma, Ld. Dy.D.A. for the state/respondents.

Petition called time and again, neither petitioners, nor any counsel appeared on their behalf. It is 3.55 P.M. Hence, the petition is hereby dismissed in default. File after its due completion be consigned to the records."

3. As far back as in the year 2002 (precisely 24.1.2002), the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Khazan Singh (dead) by L.Rs. v. Union of India, AIR 2002 SC 726, had made it absolutely clear that reference made under section 18 of the Act cannot be dismissed in default. It would be apt to reproduce the relevant observations, which read thus:

"[7] The provisions above subsumed would thus make it clear that the Civil Court has to pass an award in answer to the reference made by the Collector under S. 18 of the Act. If any party to whom notice has been served by the Civil Court did not participate in the inquiry it would only be at his risk because an award would be passed perhaps to the detriment of the concerned party. But non-participation of any party would not confer jurisdiction on the Civil Court to dismiss the reference for default."

4. This settled proposition of law was thereafter repeatedly followed and reiterated by this Court. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to:

i) Thakur Dass vs. Land Acquisition Collector and others, Latest HLJ 2003 (HP) 13; and

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Meemo Devi .....Petitioner/Defendant.
Versus
Saroj Kumari .....Respondent/plaintiff.

CMPMO No.207 of 2016.
Date of decision: 23.12.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiff/applicant filed an application seeking an ad interim injunction, which was partly allowed by the Trial Court and the defendant/respondent was restrained from mortgaging or creating charge over the suit land – however, relief of injunction for restraining the defendant/respondent from interfering with the suit land was declined on the ground that defendant/respondent was in possession of the suit land - an appeal was filed, which was allowed and the defendant/respondent was restrained from interfering with the suit land – held, that the Appellate Court had not upset the findings recorded by the Trial Court that defendant/respondent was in possession and therefore, could not have granted injunction for restraining the defendant/respondent from interfering with the suit land – petition allowed and order of Appellate Court set aside. (Para-4 to 7)

For the Petitioner : Mr.Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Naresh Kaul, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral).

The petitioner/defendant (hereinafter referred to as the petitioner) has filed this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India against the judgment dated 21.03.2016 passed by the learned Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala, Camp at Jawali.

2. It is not in dispute that the plaintiff/respondent (hereinafter referred to as the respondent) alongwith suit for declaration and injunction had filed an application under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 CPC which was partly allowed by the learned trial Court and the petitioner was restrained from mortgaging or creating charge over the land comprised in Khata No.137, Khatauni No.179, Khasra No.103, land measuring 0-40-23 HMs. to the extent of 3449/4023 shares i.e. 0-34-49 HMs., situated in Mohal Bhanyari, Mauza Bhali, Tehsil Jawali, District Kangra, H.P. during the pendency of the suit. However, as regards the relief of injunction restraining the petitioner from dispossessing the respondent or from transferring it by way of sale, gift or exchange the same was declined.

3. This constrained the respondent to file an appeal before the learned first appellate Court, who vide impugned judgment dated 21.03.2016 has allowed in entirety the application filed by the respondent and thereby has restrained the petitioner from dispossessing the respondent from suit land and also from alienating the suit land or creating charge over it in any manner whatsoever. It is this judgment which has been assailed by way of instant petition mainly on the ground that once the learned trial Court had found the petitioner to be in possession of the suit land, then no injunction could have been granted in favour of the respondent without first upsetting these findings.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material placed on record.

4. At the outset, I may observe that the manner, in which the order passed by the learned trial Court has been set aside, is not at all satisfactory as the first appellate Court has virtually gone astray without appreciating the real controversy in issue. It was on the basis of the material placed on record that the learned trial Court had arrived at a finding that it was the petitioner, who was in possession of the suit land and had, therefore, granted injunction to that extent, as would be clear from para-7 of the order which reads thus:-

> "7. In regard to relief of injunction restraining the respondent from dispossessing the applicant, perusal of record shows that the applicant is herself residing at Pragpur which is clear from Marriage Certificate and copy of Parivar Register of Ramesh Chand due to which at this stage it appears that the applicant is herself out of possession due to which she cannot be dispossessed from the suit land. Further, when applicant is appearing out of possession of the suit land then in said case relief in regard to injunction restraining respondent from dispossessing the applicant cannot be granted in her favour at this stage."

5. Evidently, the learned first appellate Court without discussing the aforesaid findings and further without even arriving at an independent conclusion that the respondent is in possession of the suit land restrained the petitioner from dispossessing the respondent, who was not even in possession of the suit land. To say the least, the findings recorded by the learned first appellate Court are perverse and, therefore, cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

6. Consequently, this petition is partly allowed and the impugned judgment is set aside to the extent it restrains the petitioner from interfering with the possession of the respondent, who otherwise is not in possession of the suit land.

7. It is clarified that though the respondent is directed not to interfere in the peaceful possession of the petitioner over the suit land, however, at the same time, the petitioner is restrained from mortgaging, transferring the suit property by way of sale, gift or exchange or creating charge over it during the pendency of the suit.

8. The petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Gian Chand & ors. ...Appellants.

Versus

M/s Mohan Transport Company and others ...Respondents.

FAO No.405 of 2011.
Reserved on : 30.11.2016.
Decided on: 26.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- The vehicle fell down on the house of the claimant and caused damage to the same – MACT awarded compensation – it was pleaded that liability of the insurance company is restricted to Rs. 6,000/- and no extra premium was paid – compensation is excessive- held, that damages sustained by the petitioner were not specified in the valuation report- photographs do not show damage to the residential house – the report Ex.RW-1/A shows the damage to the extent of Rs. 17,200/- - this report was prepared by an independent person/expert – compensation was rightly assessed by the MACT- appeal dismissed.

(Para-10 to 12)

For the appellants Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate.

For the respondents Mr. Dinesh Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Respondent No.2 already ex-parte.
Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, is maintained by the appellants/claimants/petitioners (hereinafter referred to as the 'petitioners') for enhancing the amount awarded by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P, in MAC Petition No.10 of 2007, vide impugned award dated 20.7.2011.

2. Brief facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 8.10.2006 at about 11:00 PM, the offending vehicle Bulkar bearing No.HP-24-5740 came from Swarghat side in a very high speed and straightway struck against the STD booth and house of the petitioners and fell down on two latrines at village Chehari on National Highway-21, as a result of which, residential house, STD booth and two latrines of the petitioners were damaged. The wall of the house consisting of three storey residential building sustained cracks. It is further averred in the petition that at the time of accident, the bulkar vehicle was being driven by its driver, respondent No.2, in a very high speed and in a rash and negligent manner. There was a P.C.O machine, three telephones and the apparatus installed in the S.T.D booth, which stood completely damaged due to which the daily income earned by the petitioners from this booth has been completely stopped. The petitioners are poor persons and cannot afford expenditure to repair and rebuild the damaged portion of their house.

3. The respondents contested the claim petition. In reply on behalf of respondent No.1 preliminary objections has been raised that the petition is not maintainable and the petitioners have no locus standi to file the claim petition. On merits, it has been denied that the amount as claimed is highly excessive and exorbitant. In reply on behalf of respondent No.2, it has been submitted that no damage has been caused to the house, STD booth and other structure of the petitioners nor any accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2. It has been further submitted that the amount of compensation as claimed is highly excessive and exorbitant. Respondent No.2 further submitted that at the relevant time, suddenly a cow came in front of the bulker of the replying respondent and then respondent No.2 applied immediate brakes, due to which the vehicle slightly struck with the STD booth and no damage has been caused to the structure, as alleged. In reply on behalf of respondent No.3, preliminary objections have been taken that the petition is not maintainable, the petition does not disclose any cause of action against the replying respondent, the replying respondent had not issued any policy of the insurance insuring or contracting to indemnify respondent No.1 for any loss, the vehicle was being driven without relevant documents i.e. Registration Certificate, Route permit, fitness certificate, the liability of the Insurance Company is limited to the extent of Rs. 6000/-. On merits, the replying respondent submitted that no particulars of the policy of insurance have been supplied by the concerned parties.

4. The learned Tribunal below framed the following issues on 27.11.2007 :

"1. Whether on 8.10.2006 at about 11:00 PM at village Chehri, the property of the petitioner i.e. residential house etc. was damaged due to the rash and negligent driving of bulker/truck No.HP-24-5740 being driven by respondent No.2, as alleged ? OPP.

2. If Issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioner is entitled to and from whom ? OPP.

3. Whether respondent No.2 was not possessed of a valid and effective driving licence, at the relevant time ? OPR-3.

4. Whether the offending truck/bulker was being plied without valid documents at the relevant time in contravention of provisions of Motor Vehicles Act ? OPR-3.

5. Whether the liability of respondent No.3 is limited to the extent of Rs. 6000/-only ? OPR-3.

6. Relief."

5. After deciding Issue Nos.1 and 2 in favour of the petitioners, Issue Nos.3 to 5 against the respondents No.3. Learned tribunal below allowed the claim petition, as per operative portion of the award.

6. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners has argued that the learned Tribunal below has not taken into consideration the report given by an independent person and has given the findings which are perverse. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.1 has argued that it is the insurance company, who is liable to pay the compensation, as the vehicle of respondent No.1 insured with respondent No.3.

7. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.3 has argued that the third party liability of Insurance Company under the Act, is to the tune of Rs. 6000/- and respondent No.1 has not paid extra premium for making the liability to the extent of rupees seven lacs. He has further argued that the learned Tribunal below has awarded an amount of Rs. 17,200/-, the Insurance Company has not chosen to file an appeal, as the amount was meager.

8. In rebuttal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners has argued that the Insurance Company/respondent No.3 is liable to make the payment to the extent of full damages to the tune of Rs. 1,75,000/-.

9. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the record of the case carefully.

10. The only question involved in the present case is with respect to the damages. In his statement PW-2, petitioner has deposed that as a result of the accident his S.T.D booth, latrines, bathroom and septic tank were damaged, his house sustained cracks and he had sustained loss. However, no cogent and satisfactory evidence has been led by the petitioners to prove the amount of loss sustained by them. In the valuation report Mark-A, the damages sustained by the petitioner has not been specified. The petitioners have failed to explain as to on what basis, the amount of damages have been assessed in the valuation report. In photographs Ex.PW3/A to Ex.PW3/D, it is not clear as to whether the latrines, bathrooms and septic tank have also been damaged. The damage allegedly sustained to the residential house has not been also shown in the photographs. PW-5 Mangal Nath, an eye witness had only stated that the S.T.D booth of the petitioners has been damaged and thereafter the bulkar fell down on the latrines and septic tank, however, he had not stated that the latrines and septic tank have been completely damaged. It was incumbent upon the petitioners to have led cogent and satisfactory evidence on record with respect to the damages sustained by him. On the other hand, RW-1 Sita Ram, the surveyor of the Insurance company has categorically admitted in his cross-examination that in the alleged accident one P.C.O, one bathroom at the road level and one bathroom below the road level had sustained damages and no damage was caused to the latrines and septic tank. He has further deposed that he had assessed the damages in the presence of petitioner Gian Chand. In his report, Ex.RW1/A, he has stated that the P.C.O, one bathroom at the road level and one bathroom below the road level sustained damages, but no damage has been caused to the joint bathroom and septic tank. The report of Surveyor is an important document and it cannot be brushed aside unless satisfactory evidence to the contrary is brought on record. The petitioners have failed to lead any satisfactory evidence on record contrary to the report of Surveyor and also regarding the fact that he had sustained damages with respect to latrines and septic tank, the valuation report Mark-A cannot be accepted. Hence, in the facts and circumstances of the case, report Ex.RW1/A, it can be safely held that the petitioner has sustained damages in the sum of Rs. 17,200/- only. The petitioner also claimed damages in respect of the consequential loss of business, as it has been pleaded in the petition that the daily income of the petitioner from the S.T.D booth has completely stopped.

11. The only evidence which has come on record is the report of surveyor, who was an independent person and an expert, whose report is on record, who was assessed the damages to the tune of Rs. 17,200/-. So, I find no illegality or irregularity with the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal below, hence the same needs no interference. As far as the liability of respondent No.3/Insurance Company is concerned, no findings are required to be given on this point, as no appeal/cross objections are maintained by the Insurance Company. No other points argued so, needs no consideration.

12. The net result of the above discussion is that the appeal is devoid of any merit deserves dismissal and the same is accordingly dismissed. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, parties are left to bear their own costs. Pending application (s), if any, shall also stands disposed of.

For the Respondents	Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, Sr.Advocate with Ms Vandana Kuthiala, Advocate, for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J.

Invoking Extra Ordinary Writ jurisdiction of this Court, petitioner lays challenge to the impugned notice dated 22.3.2016 (Annexure P-2) and order dated 24.11.2016 (Annexure P-6), whereby proceedings for assessment stands initiated by the Revenue under the provisions of Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the Act).

2. Petitioner Sh. Virbhadhra Singh (CWP No. 3079 of 2016) by way of separate petition also lays challenge to similar notice/order. As prayed for, by the learned counsel, these petitions were heard together and in principle, only facts of CWP No. 3077 of 2016, were argued before us, for difference pertains only to the amount of income declared and the dates of filing of returns under Section 139 of the Act. Hence we proceed to discuss the facts of CWP No. 3077 of 2016.

3. The issues, which this Court is called upon to consider, are: (a) whether an order passed by an authority under the Act, in view of availability of equally efficacious remedy, is amenable to interference by way of writ jurisdiction, (b) whether exercise of power by the jurisdictional authority, in initiating action for assessment of escaped income, is justiciable by a Writ Court, (c) whether the jurisdictional authority had sufficient material to form reasons of belief, (d) whether such reasons do exist and if so, can this Court go into sufficiency thereof, (e) whether sanction accorded by the appropriate authority is in accordance with law, (f) whether the order passed by the authority is in conformity with the settled procedure of law, and (g) whether action of the authorities below can be said to be arbitrary, whimsical or capricious.

4. Petitioner, a permanent resident of Himachal Pradesh is regularly assessed to income tax. On 28.07.2009, she filed a return, declaring her net taxable income for the assessment year 2009-10 (hereinafter referred to as the relevant year), to be Rs. 4,81,340/- (Annexure P-1, page 13), and the source mainly being rent, salary and interest from deposits. Prima facie, finding certain income to have escaped assessment, on 22.03.2016 she received a notice, under Section 148 of the Act, issued by the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla (Annexure P-2, page 16).

5. Pursuant thereto vide communication dated 25.04.2016 (Annexure P-3, page 17), petitioner chose the return already filed to be considered as the one having filed under Section 148 of the Act. Her request for supply of "reasons" for re-opening the case was acceded to vide communication dated 09.05.2016 (Annexure P-4, page 19). Her further request for supply of "approval" (sanction) of the superior officer, so made vide communication dated 02.06.2016 (page 18) was promptly met by the Department, which led to her filing detailed objections vide communication dated 16.06.2016 (Annexure P-5, page 25) and 21.06.2016 (page-32) which now stands rejected by the Assessing Officer in terms of order dated 24.11.2016 (Annexure P-6, page 40).

6. Perusal of aforesaid communications reveals that on 22.03.2016, the Assessing Officer, forwarded his reasons of belief to the superior officer i.e. Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla and the very same day, the said officer, after expressing his satisfaction thereupon, on finding the case fit for issuance of notice under Section 148 of the Act, returned the file and same day, notice issued by the Assessing Officer, was served upon the petitioner.

7. For better appreciation, reasons so recorded by the Assessing Officer, prompting him to initiate action under Section 147 of the Act, with respect to the present petitioner are extracted as under:-

" Reasons for issue of Notice u/s. 148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 for Assessment Year, 2009-10 in the case of Smt. Pratibha Singh.

1. Smt. Pratibha Singh is filing her income tax return in the capacity of an individual. The assessee filed her return for the Assessment Year 2009-10 on 28.07.2009 showing net income of Rs.4,81,340/-. Such income consisted of salary of Rs. 1,20,952/- and income from other source of Rs. 3,60,388/-. The return has not been scrutinized u/s 143(3) of the Income Tax Act, 1961.

2. As per the information available with the department obtained from Life Insurance Corporation (LIC), Smt Pratibha Singh invested in Life Insurance Policy in Assessment Year 2009-10 as per the details given below:-

Name of the beneficiary of the Life Insurance Policy	Date on which investment made	Amount invested (Rs.)	Policy particulars
Smt. Pratibha Singh	15.11.2008	50,00,000/-	LIC policy no. 153158575 (Growth fund)

3. Information obtained from LIC in relation to investment by Smt. Pratibha Singh is placed as Annexure –A to this note.

4. Summary of findings

4.1 I have carefully perused the return of income of Smt. Pratibha Singh (Assessment Year 2009-10) and documents obtained from LIC.

4.2 Smt. Pratibha Singh has shown her return of income of Rs. 4,81,340/- only in her return of income.

4.3 Smt. Pratibha Singh has invested Rs. 50,00,000/- in insurance policy during Financial Year 2008-09.

4.4 The gross total income of Rs. 4,81,340/- disclosed in her return was not sufficient to invest Rs. 50,00,000/- in LIC policy made by her in Financial Year 2008-09.

5. From the information obtained and analysis of return of income, it is clear that Smt. Pratibha Singh had made investments amounting to Rs. 50,00,000/- in insurance policy during Financial Year 2008-09. Smt. Pratibha Singh was the beneficiary of the investment made in the insurance policy. The meager income shown in the return for the Financial Year 2008-09 or such income shown in previous 5 years was not sufficient to justify availability of fund for investment of Rs. 50,00,000/- in LIC policy as discussed above. Therefore, the unexplained investments made into the insurance policy needs to be assessed in the hands of Smt. Pratibha Singh, the beneficiary of the investment made.

6. Reasons forming belief

In view of the above, I have reasons to believe that an amount of at least Rs. 50,00,000/- has escaped assessment in the case of Smt. Pratibha Singh for Assessment Year 2009-10 within the meaning of section 147/148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961." (Emphasis supplied)

8. Significantly, while admitting, petitioner tried to explain the source of such investment, being an agricultural income, from a Hindu Undivided Family (HUF), a separate legal entity, inter alia comprising of herself and her husband Shri Virbhadra Singh, owner of the agricultural land in the State of Himachal Pradesh.

9. Prima facie finding her explanation not to be satisfactory, objections filed by the petitioner came to be rejected by the Assessing Officer, relevant portion whereof is extracted as under:-

"(iii) The assessee is a member of M/s Virbhadra Singh, HUF is a matter of record and needs further verification. Moreover, it has not been proved that the HUF has earned agriculture income of this large extent during the financial year 1999-2000 to 2008-09, which is more clearly established from the fact that the HUF had declared income of Rs. 16,38,940/- plus agriculture income of Rs.7,35,000/- in the assessment year 2009-10, which has been assessed as such in the original assessment order passed u/s 143(3) on 29.07.2011 by the Addl. CIT, Shimla Range, Shimla. Agricultural income of the HUF was declared as per the details given below:

Sr.No.	A.Y.'s	Agriculture Income Declared
1.	2000-01	4,50,000
2.	2001-02	5,00,000
3.	2002-03	4,50,000
4.	2003-04	6,00,000
5.	2004-05	8,00,000
6.	2005-06	9,00,000
7.	2006-07	12,05,000
8.	2007-08	16,00,000
9.	2009-10	7,35,000

So far, no other assessment/appellate order has been passed in the case of HUF for Asstt. Year 2009-10 or any previous assessment years, in which agriculture income, more than the above amounts, have been worked out by any of the Assessing Officer or Appellate authorities. Therefore, the submissions that the investment for purchase of LIC worth Rs. 50.00 lac. made during the financial year 2008-09 relevant to the assessment year 2009-10, is made out of agriculture income of the HUF is not proved and thus, can't be accepted.

(iv) From the above details, it is noticed that the HUF has earned net agriculture income of Rs. 72.40 lacs only during the period of above nine assessment years.

Thus, it can't be said that investment for purchase of LIC Policy for Rs. 50.00 Lacs in your case was made out of agriculture income of the HUF."

(Emphasis supplied)

10. It is the pleaded case of the petitioner that (a) reopening of the case is bad in law and facts, (b) there is no escapement of any income, for investment came to be made by the HUF, which fact, was known to the Assessing Officer, as very same action also stood initiated against the said entity, (c) there was no material before the Assessing Officer enabling him to form reasons of belief of escapement of any income, (d) sanction accorded is in a mechanical manner, much less without any application of mind, (e) order rejecting the objections is non speaking, (f) by exceeding jurisdiction, the Assessing Officer committed grave illegality in initiating the impugned action.

11. On the other hand, it is the pleaded case of the Revenue that (i) though in the original return, petitioner declared her income to be Rs. 4,81,340/-, but none was from agricultural source. (ii) Factum of purchase of Insurance Policy, never came to be reflected in the return filed for the relevant year. (iii) Only on receipt of information from the Office of Life Insurance Corporation of India, Shimla, such fact came to be discovered. (iv) Even in response to the notice under Section 148 of the Act, source of such investment never came to be disclosed. (v) As such on 23.05.2006, in compliance of Section 142(1) of the Act, a detailed questionnaire was issued to her. (vi) Proceedings initiated with respect to the HUF could not be completed, for on her asking, further proceedings are stayed by this Court. (vii) The income still remains un-assessed.

12. During the course of hearing, learned counsel cited following decisions which we have considered. The need to clarify such fact arises only for the reason that in the pleadings and/or proceedings conducted so far by the Assessing Officer, parties have referred to several decisions.

Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel cited:

13. The relevant provisions, to which our attention is invited are Sections 68, 147 to 153 of the Act.

14. Section 147 is evidently clear. Insofar as its application to the instant facts are concerned, what is required is, fulfillment of essential ingredient(s) that: (i) The Assessing Officer (ii) must have reason(s) to believe, (iii) that any income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment (iv) for any assessment year, (v) which he is empowered to (vi) may assess, and (vii) if the income is understated by the assessee, it shall be deemed to be an income chargeable to tax having escaped assessment.

15. However, for initiating such action, in compliance of Section 148, the Assessing Officer has to (i) record his reasons (ii) forward the same to an authorized officer, as the case may be, so mentioned in Section 151, (iii) who, shall record his satisfaction, on the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer that it is a fit case for issuance of such notice, and only thereafter, (iv) the Assessing Officer shall issue notice to the assessee requiring him/her to furnish within a specified period, return of his/her income, in a prescribed form.

16. In view of the statutory mandate, so contained in Section 153, in the given facts and circumstances, assessment proceedings are necessarily required to be completed before 31.12.2016.

17. Section 68, which deals with the concept of deemed income, provides that where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and he offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee.

18. As a matter of abandoned caution, in a tabulated form we reproduce facts relevant to each one of the petitioners:

Assessment Year 2009-10	CWP 3077 of 2016, Smt. Pratibha Singh (Wife)	CWP 3079 of 2016, Shri Virbhadra Singh. (Husband) (Karta of HUF)
Date of filing of Return	Rs. 4,81,340/- on 28.7.2009 (P-1)	Rs. 5,03,330/- on 24.7.2009 (P-1)
Date of notice u/s 148 of the Act	22.3.2016 (P-2)	22.3.2016 (P-2)
Date when request for supply of reasons was made	25.4.2016	27.4.2016
Reasons supplied on	9.5.2016 (P-4)	9.5.2016 (P-4)
Objections filed on	16.6.2016 (P-5)	29.6.2016 (page 21)

Date of rejection of objections on same ground in both the cases.	24.11.2016	24.11.2016

19. It is a common case of parties that original return filed by the petitioner, in compliance of Section 139, was not subjected to assessment under sub-section (3) of Section 143. Return dated 28.07.2009, came to be processed only under sub-section (1) of Section 143, in which there is no reference of such investment. Thereafter, the first communication inter se the parties, is the notice dated 22.03.2016, so issued by the Assessing Officer under Section 148 of the Act.

Scope of jurisdiction

20. Scope of interference with an order passed by an authority under a Statute, providing an equally alternate and efficacious remedy is now well settled. The issue is no longer res integra, hence we restrict the discussion only to the decisions pertaining to the Statute in issue.

21. A Constitution Bench of the apex Court in Thansingh Nathmal v. The Superintendent of Taxes, Dhubri and others, AIR 1964 SC 1419, observed that:

> "7.....The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is couched in wide terms and the exercise thereof is not subject to any restrictions except the territorial restrictions which are expressly provided in the Articles. But the exercise of the jurisdiction is discretionary: it is not exercised merely because it is lawful to do so. The very amplitude of the jurisdiction demands that it will ordinarily be exercised subject to certain self-imposed limitations. Resort to that jurisdiction is not intended as an alternative remedy for relief which may be obtained in a suit or other mode prescribed by statute. Ordinarily the Court will not entertain a petition for a writ under Art. 226, where the petitioner has an alternative remedy, which without being unduly onerous, provides an equally efficacious remedy. Again the High Court does not generally enter upon a determination of questions which demand an elaborate examination of evidence to establish the right to enforce which the writ is claimed. The High Court does not therefore act as a court of appeal against the decision of a court or tribunal, to correct errors of fact, and does not by assuming jurisdiction under Art. 226 trench upon an alternative remedy provided by statute for obtaining relief. Where it is open to the aggrieved petitioner to move another tribunal, or even itself in another jurisdiction for obtaining redress in the manner provided by a statute, the High Court normally will not permit by entertaining a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution the machinery created under the statute to be bypassed, and will leave the party applying to it to seek resort to the machinery so set up."

22. A three-Judge Bench of the apex Court in The Commissioner of Income-tax, Gujarat v. M/s A. Raman and Co., AIR 1968 SC 49, held that:

> "6. The High Court exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution has power to set aside a notice issued under Section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, if the condition precedent to the exercise of the jurisdiction does not exist. The Court may, in exercise of its powers, ascertain whether the Income-tax Officer had in his possession any information: the Court may also determine whether from that information the Income-tax Officer may have reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. But the jurisdiction of the Court extends no further. Whether on the information in his possession he should commence a proceeding for assessment or reassessment, must be decided > by the Income-tax Officer and not by the High Court. The Income-tax Officer alone is entrusted with the power to administer the Act; if he has information from which it may be said prima facie, that he had reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment, it is not open to the High Court, exercising powers under Article 226 of the Constitution, to set aside or vacate the notice for reassessment on a re-appraisal of the evidence."

23. In Raymond Woolen Mills (supra), their Lordships of the Supreme Court rejected challenge to the issuance of notice for reassessment by observing that at the stage of notice, court can only consider whether there is a prima facie case for reassessment. Reopening of proceedings cannot be quashed by going into the "sufficiency" or "correctness" of the material relied upon by the assessing authority.

24. In Vijaybhai N. Chandrani (supra), the Apex Court while reversing the view taken by the High Court in quashing a notice of reassessment issued under Section 153-C of the Act, by relying upon its earlier decisions, in Bellary Steels & Alloys Ltd. V. CCT, (2009) 17 SCC 547; and Indo Asahi Glass Co. Ltd. v. ITO, (2002) 10 SCC 444, directed the assessee to first exhaust alternate remedies provided under the Act, by filing reply to the notice and take consequential action, if any, before the jurisdictional forum.

25. In Chhabil Dass Aggarwal (supra), in somewhat similar circumstances, where notice issued under Section 148 of the Act and the ex-parte assessment proceedings came to be quashed by a writ Court, the Apex Court, by referring to its several judicial pronouncements, including that of the Constitution Bench (Five Judges) in K.S. Rashid and Son v. Income Tax Investigation Commission, AIR 1954 SC 207, observed that restriction of not entertaining a writ petition, when an efficacious and alternate remedy is available, is self imposed. It is essentially a rule of policy, convenience and discretion, rather than the rule of law. Only where an exceptional case warranting interference; existence of sufficient grounds; for invoking extra ordinary jurisdiction, is made out, power, which is discretionary in nature, must be exercised. Where hierarchy of appeal is provided by a statute, party must exhaust the statutory remedies before invoking the writ jurisdiction. The right or liability created by a statute giving a special remedy for enforcing it must be availed of. The Court reiterated the principle laid down in Union of India Versus Guwahati Carbon Ltd., (2012) 11 SCC 651 and in Munshi Ram Versus Municipal Committee, Chheharta, (1979) 3 SCC 83, that when a statute provides for a person aggrieved, a particular remedy to be sought in a particular Forum and in a particular way, it must be sought in that manner, to the exclusion of all other modes and Forums. But it did recognize certain exceptions to this rule and that, inter alia being, where the action of the statutory authority is not in accordance with the statutory provisions; in defiance of fundamental principles of judicial procedure; and in total violation of principle of natural justice.

26. Justifying the action of the petitioner in bypassing the statutory remedy and directly assailing the notice for reassessment, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, seeks reliance on the decision rendered by the Bombay High Court, in Ajanta Pharma Ltd. (supra). The decision came to be rendered in the given facts and circumstances, where reason for reassessment being non-discloser of invoice/details of the purchase of the trading goods exported and failure to co-relate the trading exports with the trading goods exported was found to have been non-existent, in fact contradicted from the record rendering the reasons of the Assessing Officer to be totally "flimsy" and not "sufficient to draw conclusion about the escapement of income" and there being "no material" before the Assessing Officer, entitling him to reopen the case of assessment, the Court found the notice so issued to be ex-facie, bad in law. Hence it exercised its discretionary power in quashing such action. Significantly, the Court observed that a writ would lie only if the impugned action is ex-facie without jurisdiction or again in excess of the jurisdiction vested in the authority or the action being totally arbitrary. It cautioned that extra ordinary jurisdiction cannot be allowed to be availed as a matter of course and while deciding the issue of jurisdiction, finding of the authority on the factual aspect may be necessary, in which case, necessarily the assessee would be required to approach the Assessing Officer.

27. Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, learned Senior Counsel, also invites our attention to a decision dated 16.09.2006, rendered in Ema India Ltd. (supra), which we need not discuss in view of the settled position of law.

28. Thus it cannot be said that jurisdiction of this Court, in entertaining a petition even when an equally efficacious remedy is available to a party, is totally ousted. Notwithstanding the statutory remedies available to the aggrieved party, restriction imposed by a writ Court is more in the nature of restraint. With the ever increasing and growing scope of judicial review, exercise of extraordinary writ jurisdiction cannot be circumscribed.

29. But however, in the given facts and circumstances, for reasons to follow, we do not find the petitioner to have made out a case warranting interference in a petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

30. While contending that this Court has no jurisdiction to quash the order of rejection of objections by the Assessing Officer, Shri Vinay Kuthiala, learned Senior Advocate, seeks reliance on the decision rendered by the High Court of Madras in Kalanithi Maran (supra). We are unable to persuade ourselves to agree with such submission. The procedure for filing the objections and obligations to decide the same, came to be evolved with following observations made by the apex Court in GKN Driveshafts (supra), wherein it is held as under:

> "5. We see no justifiable reason to interfere with the order under challenge. However, we clarify that when a notice under section 148 of the Income Tax Act is issued, the proper course of action for the noticee is to file return and if he so desires, to seek reasons for issuing notices. The assessing officer is bound to furnish reasons within a reasonable time. On receipt of reasons, the noticee is entitled to file objections to issuance of notice and the assessing officer is bound to dispose of the same by passing a speaking order. In the instant case, as the reasons have been disclosed in these proceedings, the assessing officer has to dispose of the objections, if filed, by passing a speaking order, before proceeding with the assessment in respect of the above said five assessment years."

31. Since then, the practice has been in vogue. The mechanism evolved is only a safeguard, a protection from harassment of the assessee, for avoiding unwarranted harassment, from undesirable adjudicatory process, so initiated, perhaps on jurisdictional error or such material which ex-facie may be false or reason(s) which prima facie appears to be baseless or without any cause or justification. The object being, affording an opportunity to an assessee of putting across its case, by placing authentic and undisputed material, satisfying no escapement of income from assessment, enabling the authority to consider, and if so required, drop the proceedings. There can be a fact situation where out of malice or for extraneous reasons, an Assessing Officer may decide the objections, in a palpably illegal manner. What if it is against the mandate of the said decision? In any event, orders passed by a Statutory authority are always amenable for challenge in a writ Court which power, perhaps the Court may exercise, when warranted, in the attending facts and circumstances.

Non Cooperative Attitude

32. Non cooperative attitude and conduct of the petitioner is vehemently pressed as a primary ground for rejection of the petition. Specific attention is drawn to the affidavit filed in response to the petition: (a) petitioner failed to furnish information during the entire period of 8½ months. (b) Save and except for filing of photocopies of few bank accounts; unverified and unauthenticated statement of account of the loaner and the order of reassessment so passed qua him, no information privy only to the petitioner, stands furnished. (c) No response to a detailed questionnaire dated 23.5.2016 is furnished. (d) Endeavour of the revenue in having a centralized investigation and assessment of all parties concerned, has, yet not, yielded any result, for such order came to be quashed by this Court and now the matter is pending before the Apex Court. (e)

On the petitioner's asking, proceedings of assessment relating to financial year 2009-10 and 2012-13 in relation to the HUF, a separate legal entity, also stand stayed by this Court.

33. Much emphasis is laid on the following observations made by the Apex Court in Sasi Enterprises (supra):-

> "17. We are, in these appeals, concerned with the question of non- filing of returns by the appellants for the assessment year 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94. Each and every order passed by the revenue as well as by the Courts were taken up before the higher courts, either through appeals, revisions or writ petitions. The details of the various proceedings in respect of these appeals are given in paragraph 30 of the written submissions filed by the revenue, which reveals the dilatory tactics adopted in these cases. Courts, we caution, be guarded against those persons who prefer to see it as a medium for stalling all legal processes. We do not propose to delve into those issues further since at this stage we are concerned with answering the questions which have been framed by us." (Emphasis supplied)

34. In the given facts and circumstances, we are not inclined to dismiss the petition on such a ground. However, on this issue, we refrain from making any observation, save and except that petitioner is duty bound to fully cooperate in the expeditious adjudication of all proceedings.

35. But at this point of time, we do wish to express our anguish on a particular fact. Neither in the petition nor in response, it stands mentioned that with respect to similar proceedings initiated against the HUF, of which petitioner is a member, on her asking, this Court in CWP No. 2029 of 2015, by way of interim order dated 26.03.2015, had stayed the same. In fact, it was only when submissions on merits were ending and that too on a query put by the Court, after going through the response so filed during the course of hearing, to which no opportunity of filing rejoinder was sought, that it came to be disclosed. Though the petition is pending adjudication before this Court, but neither was any request for postponement of the present petition nor tagging it with the same was made. On a specific query as to why no steps for expeditious disposal of the said petition were taken by either of the parties, Court was simply informed that interim order is subject matter of challenge before the Apex Court. Significantly proceedings have not been stayed. Still further, no request for adjournment of the present petition was made. In fact, learned counsel vehemently proceeded to end their submissions with the judgment being reserved. We refrain from saying anything more.

Reasons to believe

36. The expression "reasons to believe" stands adequately elaborated by the Apex Court in its various pronouncements. The issue is no longer debatable.

37. By relying upon its earlier decision, rendered by a Constitution Bench (five-Judge) judgment, in Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd., v. Income-tax Officer, Companies District I, Calcutta and another, AIR 1961 SC 372, a Three-Judge Bench of the apex Court in S. Narayanappa and others v. Commissioner of Income-Tax, Bangalore, (1967) 63 ITR 219 : [AIR 1967 SC 523], held that:

> "if there are in fact some reasonable grounds for the Income-tax Officer to believe that there had been any non-disclosure as regards any fact, which could have a material bearing on the question of under-assessment that would be sufficient to give jurisdiction to the Income Tax Officer to issue the notice under S. 34. Whether these grounds are adequate or not is not a matter for the Court to investigate. In other words, the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the Income-tax Officer to act is not a justiciable issue. It is of course open for the assessee to contend that the Income-tax Officer did not hold the belief that there had been such non-disclosure. In other words, the existence of the belief can be challenged by the assessee but not the sufficiency of the reasons for the belief.

> Again the expression "reason to believe" in S. 34 of the Income-tax Act does not mean a purely subjective satisfaction on the part of the Income-tax Officer. The belief must be held in good faith: it cannot be merely a pretence. To put it differently it is open to the Court to examine the question whether the reasons for the belief have a rational connection or a relevant bearing to the formation of the belief and are not extraneous or irrelevant to the purpose of the Section. To this limited extent, the action of the Income-tax Officer in starting proceedings under S. 34 of the Act is open to challenge in a Court of law".

38. The position came to be reiterated by a two-Judge Bench of the apex Court in Lakhmani (supra), wherein the Court held that the grounds or reasons which lead to the formation of belief must have a material bearing on the question of escapement of income of the assessee from assessment because of his failure or omission to disclose fully and truly, all material facts.

39. Later on in Phool Chand (supra), it stood clarified that decision to quash the action in Lakhmani Mewal Das (supra), was based on its given fact situation, where information received by the Assessing Officer was wholly vague, indefinite, farfetched, remote and without any basis for holding a reasonable belief, warranting action, under Section 147. It further observed that:

> "19.....Acquiring fresh information, specific in nature and reliable in character, relating to the concluded assessment which goes to expose the falsity of the statement made by the assessee at the time of original assessment is different from drawing a fresh inference from the same facts and material which was available with the I.-T.O. at the time of original assessment proceedings. The two situations are distinct and different. Thus, where the transaction itself on the basis of subsequent information is found to be a bogus transaction, the mere disclosure of that transaction at the time of original assessment proceedings cannot be said to be a disclosure of the "true" and "full" facts in the case and the I.-T.O. would have the jurisdiction to reopen the concluded assessment in such a, case. It is correct that the assessing authority could have deferred the completion of the original assessment proceedings for further enquiry and investigation into the genuineness to the loan transaction but in our opinion his failure to do so and complete the original assessment proceedings would not take away his jurisdiction to act under S. 147 of the Act, on receipt of the information subsequently. The subsequent information on the basis of which the I.-T.O. acquired reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment on account of the omission of the assessee to make a full and true disclosure of the primary facts was relevant, reliable and specific. It was not at all vague or non-specific."
> "26... ...One of the purposes of S. 147, appears to us to be, to ensure that a party cannot get away by wilfully making a false or untrue statement at the time of original assessment and when that falsity comes to notice, to turn around and say "you accepted my lie, now your hands are tied and you can do nothing." It would be travesty of justice to allow the assessee that latitude."

40. The Apex Court also had an occasion to deal with the amended provisions in Rajesh Jhaveri (supra). The Court found the scope and effect of section 147 to 148 as substituted with effect from April 1, 1989, to be substantially different from the earlier provisions. For conferment of jurisdiction under original section 147(a), two conditions required satisfaction (i) the Assessing Officer must have reason to believe that the income profits or gains chargeable to income tax have escaped assessment, and (ii) he must also have reason to believe that such escapement occurred by reason of either omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully or truly all material facts necessary for his assessment of that year. However, under the substituted section 147, only the first condition required satisfaction of reason to believe, that the income had escaped assessment. It further observed that:-

> "19. Section 147 authorises and permits the Assessing Officer to assess or reassess income chargeable to tax if he has reason to believe that income for any assessment year has escaped assessment. The word reason in the phrase reason to believe would mean cause or justification. If the Assessing Officer has cause or justification to know or suppose that income had escaped assessment, it can be said to have reason to believe that an income had escaped assessment. The expression cannot be read to mean that the Assessing Officer should have finally ascertained the fact by legal evidence or conclusion. The function of the Assessing Officer is to administer the statute with solicitude for the public exchequer with an inbuilt idea of fairness to taxpayers."
> "20.....At that stage, the final outcome of the proceeding is not relevant. In other words, at the initiation stage, what is required is 'reason to believe', but not the established fact of escapement of income. At the stage of issue of notice, the only question is whether there was relevant material on which a reasonable person could have formed a requisite belief. Whether the materials would conclusively prove the escapement is not the concern at that stage. This is so because the formation of belief by the Assessing Officer is within the realm of subjective satisfaction." (Emphasis supplied)

41. It is also the law that the Assessing Officer is not precluded to reopen assessment of an earlier year on the basis of his finding of fact, so made on the basis of fresh material, so discovered, in the course of assessment of next assessment year [Ess Ess Kay Engineering (supra)].

42. In Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd., v. Income-tax Officer, Companies District I, Calutta and another, AIR 1961 SC 372, the apex Court held that:

> "9. There can be no doubt that the duty of disclosing all the primary facts relevant to the decision of the question before the assessing authority lies on the assessee. To meet a possible contention that when some account books or other evidence has been produced, there is no duty on the assessee to disclose further facts, which on due diligence, the Income-tax Officer might have discovered, the Legislature has put in the Explanation, which has been set out above. In view of the Explanation, it will not be open to the assessee to say, for example - "I have produced the account books and the documents : You, the assessing officer examine them, and find out the facts necessary for your purpose : My duty is done with disclosing these account-books and the documents". His omission to bring to the assessing authority's attention these particular items in the account books, or the particular portions of the documents, which are relevant, will amount to "omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment." Nor will he be able to contend successfully that by disclosing certain evidence, he should be deemed to have disclosed other evidence, which might have been discovered by the assessing authority if he had pursued investigation on the basis of what has been disclosed. The Explanation to the section, gives a quietus to all such contentions; and the position remains that so far as primary facts are concerned, it is the assessee's duty to disclose all of them - including particular entries in account books, particular portions of documents and documents, and other evidence, which could have been discovered by the assessing authority, from the documents and other evidence disclosed."

43. The Apex Court in M/s S. Ganga Saran and sons (Pvt.) Ltd., Calcutta v. Income Tax Officer and others, (1981) 3 SCC 143 has observed as under:

> "6..... (a) are "has reason to believe" and these words are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief, entertained by the Income-tax Officer must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be reasonable or in other words it must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The Court, of course, cannot investigate into the adequacy or sufficiency of the reasons which have weighed with the Income-tax Officer in coming to the belief, but the Court can certainly examine whether the reasons are relevant and have a bearing on the matters in regard to which he is required to entertain the belief before he can issue notice under Section 147 (a). If there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Income-tax Officer could not have reason to believe that any part of the income of the assessee had escaped assessment and such escapement was by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and the notice issued by him would be liable to be struck down as invalid." (Emphasis supplied)

44. The Apex Court in Income Tax Officer, Cuttack and others v. Biju Patnaik, 1991 Supp. (1) SCC 161, observed that while examining the existence of reasons, record can be looked into.

45. In M/s Niranjan & Co. Pvt. Ltd. v. Commissioner of Income Tax, West Bengal-I and others, 1986 (Supp) SCC 272, the apex Court held that:

> "21. It was contended on behalf of the assessee/appellant relying on the observations of this Court in Commr. of Income-tax, Gujarat v. A. Raman and Co., (AIR 1968 SC 49) (supra), that the Income-tax Officer must have had reason to believe and in consequence of information he must have that reason to believe and it was submitted that the information was already there and there was no new information from which the Income-tax Officer could have formed the belief. Having regard to the facts of this case as discussed above and the nature of the information indicated before, we are of the opinion that there was information in the form of a revised return and since the information mentioned before came to the knowledge of the Income-tax Officer subsequent to the making of the first assessment and the information being such from which a reasonable person could have formed the belief that there was escapement of income or under-assessment of income, it cannot be said that there was no jurisdiction of the Income-tax Officer to re-open the assessment. Whether in fact the reassessment to be made pursuant to the notice issued, the income assessed would be more by Re, 1/- or less than the income already assessed is not material or relevant for the question of jurisdiction to issue the notice under S. 147 of the Act."

46. Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, has referred to a decision of this Court in Sahil Knit Fab (supra). So far as the ratio of law is concerned, there is no dispute and we need not discuss in view of our discussion (supra). On facts, we find the decision of the Appellate Authority, so rendered in favour of the assessee, to be affirmed in the peculiar facts and circumstances, for it was found that there was no plausible reason available with the Assessing Officer, forming a belief of escapement of income. Though the assessee had claimed deduction on the basis of loss(s) in business but after five years, the Assessing Officer worked out profit at the rate of 14%, by comparing the profit of another company engaged in similar business, which approach was considered to be illogical and unrealistic. The jurisdictional issue was sought to be raised after a gap of five years, without considering the change of business environment.

47. It is not in dispute that reasons of belief came to be placed before the sanctioning authority. Though initially, in vain, an attempt was made to argue that notice (Annexure P-2) came to be issued without obtaining any prior sanction and/or no reasons of belief were ever prepared or placed before the sanctioning authority, but when confronted, Shri Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, in all fairness did not press the point any further.

48. The factum of investment came to the notice of the Revenue only upon receipt of information from the office of L.I.C. Shimla.

49. From the pleadings of the parties and the material placed on record, it is evidently clear that in the nine preceding years, income of the HUF, cumulatively from agricultural source is Rs. 73.40 lacs. In the relevant year, income from such source is also not more than Rs. 16,00,000/- and even from other source it is Rs. 16.38 lacs (approx.). Undisputedly, petitioner is member of the HUF.

50. For the relevant year (2009-10) Smt. Pratibha Singh declared her individual income, from all sources, to be Rs. 4,81,340/- and Sh. Virbhadra Singh, declared his income from all sources to be Rs. 5,03,330/-. It is not argued before us that prior to the filing of objections (dated 16.6.2016), petitioner(s) ever disclosed either the factum of investment or the source of purchase of such policies.

51. Though specifically not pleaded but from communication dated 21.6.2016 (Page 32) it can be inferred that the factum of purchase of policy from another source, i.e. HUF came to be disclosed by the Karta, i.e. Shri Virbhadra Singh on 15.1.2014. Quite apparently, similar proceedings also came to be initiated against the said HUF, for in the relevant year, income declared from agricultural source was not more than Rs. 7,35,000/-. In the said proceedings, Karta tried to explain the source in the following manner:

> "That no new FDR's have been purchased by the assess except renewal of old FDR's. During the referred year the assessee had purchased LIC policies of worth Rs. 25,00,000/- in his own name. The assessee has issued cheques of Rs. 15,00,000/- i.e. (Rs.10,00,000/- vide No. "500256" dated 18/06/2008 and Rs. 5,00,000/- vide no. "632173" dated 18/06/2008 payable at ICICI Bank, shimla and UCO Bank, Shimla respectively) and the source of remaining Rs. 10,00,000/- was agricultural income from orchard being managed by Sh. Anand Chauhan. Out of the same agriculture income, two more LIC policies of Rs. 50,00,000/- each were purchased in the name of assessee and his wife Mrs. Pratibha Singh. The LIC premium paid receipts of the said policies are enclosed herewith for your kind verification (Annexure A-5).

52. Adjudicatory proceedings pertaining to the HUF could not be completed. To ensure that proceedings of assessment with respect to the petitioner do not become time barred, rendering it to be fait accompli, the Assessing Officer rightly questioned the source of such huge investment. The undisputed claim of the petitioner being purchase of such policies only from the agricultural income of the HUF. It is in this backdrop, we find reasoning adopted by the Assessing Officer in Paras (ii), (iii) and (iv) of order dated 24.11.2015 to be clear, cogent and reasonable.

53. Significantly petition is conspicuously silent about the exact amount of income of the HUF from the said agricultural source.

54. In the instant case, based on the information supplied by LIC, finding the income disclosed by the Assessee to be far less than the subscribed amount, which information, prima facie, was not found to be true and also the assessee's justification, prima facie not emanating from the record, the Assessing Officer, based on certain definite information, decided to carry on with the assessment, both by assigning reasons and affording opportunity to the petitioner.

55. To contend that the department was aware purchase of policies out of the funds of HUF would still not make the case any better, for: (i) material placed on record reveals income of the HUF, from the agricultural source, to be not more than Rs. 72.40 lacs (approximately); (ii) which fact is also not disputed in the petition; (iii) in any case, it was the only adjudicated amount, to be accepted to be correct, considering the petitioner herself impugning the action of assessment of the said assessee.

56. The petitioner may have justifiable explanation for the said amount, but from the material placed before us, it cannot be said that the reasons of belief are ex facie false, incorrect, untenable or that objections raised by the petitioner stand rejected only on flimsy grounds, in an arbitrary manner.

57. The burden to prove the income which stands accounted for, is on the assessee. In Sreelekha Banerjee V. Commissioner of Income Tax, (1963) 49 ITR (SC) 112, the Court held that:

> "It seems to us that the correct approach to questions of this kind is this. If there is an entry in the account books of the assessee which shows the receipt of a sum on conversion of high denomination notes tendered for conversion by the assessee himself, it is necessary for the assessee to establish, if asked; what the source of that money is and to prove that it does not bear the nature of income. The department is not at this stage required to prove anything. It can ask the assessee to bring any books of account or other documents or evidence pertinent to the explanation if one is furnished, and examine the evidence and the explanation. If the explanation shows that the receipt was not. of an income nature, the department cannot act unreasonably and reject that explanation to hold that it was income. If, however, the explanation is unconvincing and one which deserves to be rejected, the department can reject it and draw the inference that the amount represents income either from the sources already disclosed by the assessee or from some undisclosed source. The department does, not then proceed on no evidence, because the fact that there was receipt of money is itself evidence against the assessee. There is thus, prima facie, evidence against the assessee which he fails to rebut, and being unrebutted, that evidence can be used against him by holding that it was a receipt of an income nature. The very words 'an undisclosed source' show that the disclosure must come from the assessee and not from the department. In cases of high denomination notes, where the business and the state of accounts and dealings of the assessee justify a reasonable inference that he might have for convenience kept the whole or a part of a particular sum in high denomination notes, the assessee prima facie discharges his initial burden when he proves the balance and that it might reasonably have been kept in high denomination notes. Before the department rejects such evidence, it must either show an inherent weakness in the explanation or rebut it by putting to the assessee some information or evidence which it has in its possession. The department cannot by merely rejecting unreasonably a good explanation, convert good proof into no proof."

58. When an assessee claims to have borrowed money, onus to establish such fact lies upon him. But discharged such onus, would still not preclude the Assessing Officer to otherwise examine the genuineness of the transaction, as an independent and unbiased fact finding authority.

59. What is required to be proved by the assessee is not only identity but also creditworthiness and genuineness of the transaction, beyond reasonable doubt, as held in Mangilal Jain (supra); CIT v. United Commercial and Industrial Co. P. Ltd., (1991) 187 ITR 596); and Shankar Industries (supra).

60. We find existence of reasonable ground, enabling the Assessing Officer to form a belief, with regard to the non-disclosure/escapement of income. The belief cannot be said to be arbitrary, capricious or without any basis. It is neither pretentious. There is rational connection between the material and the reasons. Doubt stands raised with regard to the transactions being bogus in nature. Whether, at the first instance, assess was obliged to disclose receipt of such huge amounts, or not is definitely a matter, which requires consideration by the Assessing Officer, during the course of proceedings. The principle of 'cause and justification' so laid in Rajesh Jhaveri (supra), stands fully substantiated by the Revenue.

61. The Assessing Officer has rejected the objections on the grounds, which appear to be reasonable on the basis of material before him.

62. It cannot be said that the belief is arbitrary or irrational or there is not intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief "so that on such reasons, no one properly instruct on facts and law, could reasonably entertain the belief", as held by the apex Court in Ganga Saran (supra).

63. Also, the belief of the Assessing Officer, on the information so received by him, is not such that "from which a reasonable person could have formed the belief that there was" no escapement of income or underassessment of income, as held by the apex Court in A. Raman (supra).

Undue haste and non application of mind

64. Submission that process of recording of reasons, obtaining sanction, and issuance of notice, was carried out without application of mind and in undue haste is factually incorrect.

65. Reasons for belief, were placed before the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla, who wrote "Yes, it is a fit case for issuing notice under Section 148". Prescribed performa was filled up with the requisite information before the matter came up for consideration by such authority.

66. From the affidavit, so filed in response to the petition, which goes unrebutted, it is evident that the Assessing Officer had been applying his mind for quite some time, it being a different matter that he could have expedited the process. Be that as it may, information which came to be received was processed and placed before the appropriate authority on 22.3.2016. It is not that the sanctioning authority had no material before according sanction. Only after perusing the reasons of belief, so recorded by the Assessing Officer, and finding it to be a case fit for issuance of notice, did the authority accord its sanction. It is brought to our notice that offices of the Assessing Officer and the Sanctioning Authority are in the very same building and petitioner is also a local resident. It was convenient for the authority to have dealt with the matter the very same day. It is not a herculean, much less an impossible task to accomplish.

67. Significantly, no malafides stand alleged, much less against any one the concerned officers.

68. While contending that the sanctioning authority acted mechanically by simply stating "Yes", rendering the impugned action to be wholly illegal, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, invites our attention to the decision rendered by the Apex Court in Chhugamal Rajpal (supra). In the said case, the Court specifically observed total non application of mind by the Assessing Officer, whose reasons were not only vague but in the realm of uncertainty, warranting investigation pertaining to the loans, allegedly made by certain persons. It is in this backdrop, Court observed that the Assessing Officer himself was not sure about the truth of alleged transactions. The Court found that there was no material with the Assessing Officer, enabling him to record reasons of belief, that by reason of the assessee's omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his/her assessment for the accounted year in question, income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment for that year. The exercise of power by the authority was found to be mechanical in nature, for had he applied his mind, he would'nt have formed satisfaction, in according sanction, and also as a result of non application of mind, noted the word "Yes" and affixed his signatures thereunder.

69. Our attention is invited to the decision rendered by the Calcutta High Court in S.P. Agarwalla (supra), wherein it is observed that the Commissioner has to consider and apply his mind to the material relied upon by the Assessing Officer and that such power is not to be exercised mechanically. Commissioner can consider sufficiency and relevancy of the material while refusing or granting such sanction.

70. Also attention is invited to the decision rendered by the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Arjun Singh (supra), wherein it was observed that exercise of power by the sanctioning authority, in less than 24 hours indicated non application of mind. On first brush, it appears to be like that. But closer scrutiny reveals the decision distinguishable on facts. The jurisdictional authority was trying to reopen assessment, on the basis of alleged escapement of income, in relation to which, after registration of the F.I.R., not only the Court of competent jurisdiction discharged the assessee but even the jurisdictional officer, after investigation had concluded the adjudicatory proceedings, ten years prior to the initiation of impugned action. The Court found the Assessing Officer not possessing any material, enabling him to record reasons of belief. Also simultaneous issuance of notices of inquiry and reassessment came to be initiated against the assessee who was called upon to furnish information of money spent on the construction of a house and much prior to conclusion of such inquiry, the Assessing Officer, by pre-judging the issue, without any basis or material, proceeded to reassess the income declared by the assessee. It is in this backdrop, the Court found the revenue to have acted with undue haste.

71. On this count, our attention is also invited to the decision rendered by the Delhi High Court in Central India Electric Supply (supra), where the sanctioning authority had simply appended its signature below the word “Yes” so affixed by a rubber stamp. In the given facts, the Court found the decision taken to be purely mechanical in manner.

72. However the instant case is not that of mere rubber stamping, for the competent authority, in principle, was in agreement with the reasons assigned by the Assessing Officer, so placed before him, which came to be considered and sanction accorded, with proper application of mind. He himself wrote “Yes, it is a fit case for issuing notice u/s 148”.

73. Hence, in the given facts and circumstances, we do not find such action to be illegal, raising suspicion or doubt, with regard to proper application of mind by the authorities concerned.

Protective and Precautionary Principle

74. While contending that revenue was not sure as to whether the alleged escaped income was to be assessed qua the present petitioner or the said HUF, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, invites our attention to the decision rendered by a Division Bench of Gujarat High Court in Sagar Enterprises (supra). The said decision is clearly distinguishable on facts. Considering the fact that undisclosed income of the assessee came to be added by way of protective addition in the previous assessment year, the Court found that it was not open for the revenue to account for the same in the succeeding financial years. It is in this backdrop, it held the revenue itself, not sure of the year of its taxability, hence such income could not be deemed to be chargeable to tax, having escaped assessment.

75. In fact, the principle of protective precautionary assessment came up for consideration before the apex Court in Lalji Haridas (supra), wherein by upholding, action of reassessment initiated by the Revenue, they observed that “In cases where it appears to the income-tax authorities that certain income has been received during the relevant assessment year but it is not clear who has received that income and prima facie it appears that the income may have been received either by A or B or by both together, it would be open to the relevant income-tax authorities to determine the said question by taking appropriate proceedings both against A and B. That being so, we do not think that Mr. Nambiar would be justified in resisting the enquiry which is proposed to be held by respondent No.1 in pursuance of the impugned notice issued by him against the appellant. Under these circumstances we do not propose to deal with the point of law sought to be raised by Mr. Nambiar”.

76. In Income Tax Officer, A-Ward, Lucknow v. Bachu Lal Kapoor, AIR 1966 SC 1148, the apex Court reiterated the aforesaid principle.

77. In Sunil Kumar Jain (supra), the Court affirmed the action of the Jurisdictional Officer in reopening assessments even in case where such income came to be assessed in the hands of another. In this backdrop, it was observed that:-

> "Going to the merits of the case, we find that it is not in dispute that the cash amount of Rs. 2,19,000 and the pawned articles valued at Rs. 10,506 have been claimed by the petitioners as belonging to them. Merely because it has been taxed at the hands of Sri Prem Chandra Jain will not preclude the Income-tax Officer from assessing the same at the hands of the right person. From the reason recorded for reopening of the assessment which has been reproduced above it will be seen that the basis for initiating proceedings is the claim made by the petitioners on the basis of the alleged will executed by Smt. Shyama Devi, thus it cannot be said that there was no relevant material for taking proceedings under section 147 of the Act."
> "In the case of Lalji Haridas [1961] 43 ITR 387 the apex court has held that in cases where it appears to the income-tax authorities that certain income has been received during the relevant year but it is not clear who has received that income; and, prima facie, it appears that the income may have been received by A or by B or by both together, it would be open to, the income-tax authorities to determine the question who is responsible to pay tax by taking assessment proceedings both against A and B.
> In the case of S. Gyani Ram and Co. [1963] 47 ITR 472 this court has held that the mere fact that a particular income has been assessed in the hands of a particular person as his income will not prevent the Income-tax Officer from coming to the conclusion on fresh materials that that income is the income of another person and taking proceedings under section 34 of the Act for reassessment against the latter on the ground that this income had escaped assessment in his assessment.
> In the case of Sidh Gopal Gajanand [1969] 73 ITR 226 this court has held that the validity of notice under section 34 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 cannot be impugned on the ground that the assessment proceeding was already pending in respect of the same income against another entity and where it appears that the income may have been received either by A or by B or by both together, it would be open to the income-tax authorities to determine the said question by taking appropriate proceedings against both A and B.
> In the case of R. Dalmia [1972] 84 ITR 616 the Delhi High Court has held that where the items of escaped income in respect of which the assessment is proposed is specific but the question as to whether the income, if earned, was earned by one person singly or by him along with others is a matter of inquiry, if the Income-tax Officer has reason to believe that it could have been earned either by one person singly or by him along with others there is nothing to prevent him from initiating proceedings against the concerned assessees in both capacities. In such a case where it appears to the Income-tax Officer, that certain income had been received during a particular year but it is not clear who has received that income it is open to the Income-tax Officer to start proceedings against all the persons individually or collectively to ascertain the correct position. In the case of Sohan Singh [1986] 158 ITR 174 the Delhi High Court has taken a similar view.
> In the case of Smt. Durgawati Singh [1998] 234 ITR 249 this court has held that it is settled that when there is a doubt as to which person amongst two was liable to be assessed, parallel proceedings may be taken against both and alternative assessments may also be framed. It is also equally true that while a protective assessment is permissible, it is not open to the income-tax appellate authorities constituted under the Act to make a protective order. The law does not permit assessment of the same income successively in different hands. The tax can only be levied and collected in the hands of the person who has really earned the income and is liable to pay tax thereon.

In the case of Banyan and Berry [1996] 222 ITR 831 the Gujarat High Court has held that where there is doubt or ambiguity about the real entity in whose hands a particular income is to be assessed, the assessing authority is entitled to have recourse to making a protective assessment in the case of one and a regular assessment does not affect the validity of the other assessment inasmuch as if ultimately one of the entities is really found to be liable to assessment, then the assessment in the hands of the entity alone remains the effective assessment and the other becomes infructuous. The levy is enforceable only under one assessment and not under both."

78. The principle squarely applies in the facts of instant case, which for brevity we need not reiterate.

79. Reliance on a decision dated 04.03.2016, rendered by the Calcutta High Court in Prem Chand Shaw (supra), is only for the purpose of pressing the provisions of Section 292-B of the Act, which, in the instant case, we do not find to be applicable.

80. While drawing our attention to the decision rendered by the Full Bench of Delhi Court in Sophia Finance Ltd. (supra), Shri Vinay Kuthiala wants us to adjudicate the merits of the matter, which under these proceedings is impermissible. The decision can be of help only to the extent that the authority would be empowered to examine the transaction, which in his belief required explanation.

81. In the instant case, we find that the petitioner seeks adjudication, on merits, of the fact in issue, which is impermissible in law. In the absence of definite and authentic information, this Court cannot as a fact finding authority, by way of a roving inquiry examine the matter, holding the proceedings initiated under Section 148 of the Act to be untenable on merits. Assessee is always open to make all such submissions before the appropriate authority.

82. At this stage, what is required to be considered by the jurisdictional authority is only reasons to believe and not "the established fact of escapement of income", in lines of Rajesh Jhaveri (supra).

83. We further find the order rejecting the objections to be a reasoned one. It is certainly not cryptic. Every issue raised by the assessee stands considered and dealt with, with a rider that it is open for the assess to appear before the Jurisdictional Officer and place all material for just determination and conclusion of the proceedings. The view expressed by the Assessing Officer is only prima facie. It is not a case of change of opinion.

84. Thus in the given facts and the circumstances, we do not find the impugned action to be illegal, arbitrary, whimsical or capricious. It cannot be said that there was no material before the Assessing Officer to proceed in accordance with law. It also cannot be said that there was no basis for the Assessing Officer to have formed reasons of belief. We do not find it to be a fit case, warranting interference by this Court, for the action cannot be said to be ex facie illegal or based on extraneous reasons and circumstances. This Court is not required to go into the correctness or sufficiency of reasons. It definitely is not a case where the Assessing Officer lacked jurisdiction. It is also not a case of jurisdictional error. It also cannot be said that he exceeded such jurisdiction. Also, exercise of such power, statutory in nature, cannot be said to be either arbitrary or based on extraneous factors, consideration or circumstances. No malafides stands alleged against anyone.

85. We are quite convinced that reasons to believe formed by the Assessing Officer emanate from the record, having material bearing on the question of jurisdictional fact, so raised by him.

86. Perusal of material placed on record does not reflect the impugned action to be ex-facie illegal or not borne out from the record. This Court is not required to go into the sufficiency of material which led to the formation of reasons of belief, more so, when reasons are relevant and emanate from the record and are also germane for just adjudication of facts in issue. There is proper compliance of procedure. Also the assessee can adequately represent herself before the authority which otherwise has jurisdiction to initiate the impugned action.

87. Repetitive though it may sound, but we reiterate that it is not a case of lack of jurisdiction. It is also not a case where the authority has exceeded its jurisdiction or the action is based on no material or that no reasons are recorded by the Assessing Officer or that reasons assigned are absolutely irrelevant or based on extraneous factors/circumstances. It also cannot be said that the impugned action is not bonafide or is based on vague , irrelevant or unspecific information. It is not that the Assessing Officer has prejudged the issue and proceeded to initiate action with a predetermined mind. In fact, there is no such assertion in the petition. Also no malafides stand alleged.

88. It cannot be said that rejection of the objections are based on frivolous or extraneous factors and circumstances. There is complete and proper application of mind to the attending facts and circumstances. The objections rejected, by a speaking order also stand duly communicated to the petitioner. Mere rejection of objections would not lead to formation of opinion about the Assessing Authority under all circumstances deciding the matter in favour of the revenue. No material stands placed before us justifying investment of huge amount out of the declared income of HUF. It is not that the assess is precluded from producing such material before the Assessing Officer.

89. Significantly, before this Court, what is the other stand of the HUF, vis-a-vis its transaction with said Anand Chauhan or Shrikand Orchard in Tehsil Rampur, District Shimla, in relation to the agricultural land, is a closely guarded secret. Whether such fact is relevant or not is a subject matter of consideration by the fact finding authority.

90. No other point is urged.

91. It stands clarified that we have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case, which, the authority below, shall adjudicate, in accordance with law, uninfluenced of any observations made by this Court.

92. Hence in view of our aforesaid discussion, we find no merit in the present petitions, which stand dismissed.

93. Since no interim order was passed, no further order or direction is required to be passed in the miscellaneous application which also stands dismissed alongwith the main petition.

In view of the aforesaid, present petition, stands disposed of accordingly, as also pending application(s), if any.

For the petitioner		Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate, in Cr. Revision No.4186 of 2013 and Ms. Bhavna Dutta, Advocate, in Cr. Revision No.139 of 2014.
For the respondent	:	Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondents No.1 & 2. Ms. Bhavna Dutta, Advocate, for respondent No.3 in Cr. Revision No.4186 of 2013 and Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.3 in Cr. Revision No.139 of 2014.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

Both the Criminal Revision arise out of one and the same judgment and common questions of law and facts are involved in the same, hence, both the revisions were taken up for hearing together and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

The present Criminal Revision under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is maintained by the petitioner Sudershan Singh in Criminal Revision No.4186 of 2013 (hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioner') and Rakesh Kumar in Criminal Revision No.139 of 2014 (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.3.') to quash and set aside the impugned order dated 19.11.2013, passed by learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P.

2. The facts giving rise to this petition are that the petitioner is co-owner-in-possession of Khasra No.2391 and 2478, situated in Village Mohal Sandhiar (Baradh) P.O Chhat, Tehsil Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. It is averred in the petition that the villagers requested the petitioner to allow them to construct a road from Barud to Paneta and petitioner gives an undertaking that he is ready to provide his land for construction of road, as per the survey and allowed the construction of the road over his land, as per the survey. The 'Kachha' road was constructed at the spot, in the year 2006, after erecting a retaining wall to give support to the residential house of the petitioner, so that it may not collapse due to the construction of the road. In the year 2011, the wall constructed for giving support to the residential house of the petitioner was collapsed due to the use of JCB by Gram Panchayat and due to the collapse of the wall certain creaks were developed in the house of the petitioner. Thereafter, the road was closed on account of the collapsed retaining wall, the matter was also brought to the notice of Gram Panchayat, an agreement took place between the members of Gram Panchayat and the petitioner. The Gram Panchayat, has agreed to re-erect the damaged wall, vide agreement dated 20.3.2011. The Gram Panchayat, in pursuance to the agreement dated 20.3.2011 did not re-erect the retaining wall, which was damaged by them till 2013, when the house of petitioner again developed more creaks. The petitioner erected the retaining wall, which are two feet in length and one feet in height to support his house. It is further averred that when the respondents threatened to damage the entire wall forcibly, the petitioner Sudershan Kumar filed a suit before the learned Court below, thereafter respondent No.3 reported the matter to the police on 4.2.2013, on the basis of which complaint/'Kalendera' under Section 133 of Cr. P.C, was prepared by the Station House Officer, Police Station, Ghumarwin and the same was sent to respondent No.2/Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, thereafter the proceedings were initiated and passed the impugned order dated 19.11.2013.

3. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has argued that the impugned order passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, is contrary to law, as the learned Magistrate has no power to pass an order under Section 133 Cr. P.C, as the Civil Suit was pending adjudication. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.3 has argued that the impugned order passed by the learned Magistrate, is just and reasoned. He has further argued that whole of the parapet was required to be removed and the impugned order may be modified accordingly by allowing the revision petition of respondent No.3.

4. In rebuttal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has argued that the impugned order is required to be set aside with a direction to the parties to get their case decided in a proper manner in the Civil Court.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

6. The petitioner led his evidence in the learned Court below by producing five witnesses. On the other hand, respondent (now petitioner) has produced two witnesses. CW-1 Geeta Devi has deposed that the pillar and wall raised on the road be removed, so that road become wider for 108 Ambulance. In her cross-examination, she has stated that this road is open for small vehicles and large vehicles cannot pass through this road. CW-2 Giatri Devi, has stated that due to narrow road, heavy vehicles cannot pass through the road. In her cross-examination, she has stated that she does not know whether the tractor pass through the road or not. She has also stated that she does not know how much land has been given by Sudarshan Singh for the road. CW-3 Gian Chand, has deposed that the respondent has raised two feet wall and has narrowed the road. CW-4 Rakesh Kumar, has stated that the road was constructed in the year 2006 by Gram Panchayat and after six years Sudarshan Singh, has narrowed it by raising a wall. In his cross-examination, he has stated that the trucks do not pass through this road. He has stated that he does not know how much land Sudharshan Singh, has given for road. CW-5 Piar Chand, has stated that Sudharshan Singh, has blocked the road by raising parapet. On the spot, there is a pillar due to which small vehicles cannot cross. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he does not know whether the road/path is in Government land or in private land. He has stated that earlier tractor use to pass through this road. He has stated that he does not know whether the tractor of Nanda Pradhan, goes through this way or not. Petitioner Sudershan Singh, has stated that he is working as Forest Guard and deposed that he has not blocked any road. Earlier a false complaint was registered, thereafter Gram Panchayat visited the spot. He has stated that he has filed a Civil Suit against the State of Himachal Pradesh and Gram Panchayat, Chhat. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he has given written consent to make the road. He has stated that he has given consent to small vehicles not to heavy vehicles and JCB etc.

7. From the above, it is clear from the record that the public nuisance has been caused by the petitioner and the impugned order passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, dated 19.11.2013, is just, reasoned and as per the Section of 133 Cr. P.C, the obstruction/public nuisance is required to be removed immediately, as it was obstructing the public passage. The learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, has passed the impugned order dated 19.11.2013, after visiting the spot and verifying the fact with regard to the passing of the vehicles and the impugned order asking for the removal of the parapet to the extent of two feet in length and one feet in width is seems to be just and reasoned, after appreciating the evidence and facts. The order of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, is as per law and he has taken into consideration that after removing a portion of parapet, there will be a smooth turning of vehicles. So, I do not find any illegality or infirmity with the order (s) passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, directing the removal of a portion of the parapet. The order passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, is after appreciating the evidence, which has come on record and law has been applied correctly. So, no interference is required in the impugned order dated 19.11.2013, passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur.

8. With these observations, both these revisions are requires dismissal and are accordingly dismissed. No orders as to costs. Pending applications, if any shall also stands disposed of.

(Para-8 to 11)

For the appellants Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Anita Dogra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present Regular Second Appeal is maintained by the appellants against the judgment and decree passed by learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi, H.P, camp at Karsog, in Civil Appeal No.56 of 2006, dated 9.8.2007, whereby the learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi, H.P, camp at Karsog, had set aside the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Karsog, District Mandi, in Civil Suit No.6 of 2005, dated 31.3.2006.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present appeal are that respondent/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the plaintiff') filed a suit for recovery of Rs. 64,597/- against the appellants/defendants (hereinafter referred to as 'the defendants') alleging that defendant No.1 availed loan from the plaintiff-bank for a sum of Rs. 6500/- on 4.3.1987, for running his 'Karyana shop". Plaintiff-bank agreed to provide loan of Rs. 6500/- i.e. Rs. 5000/- for shed and Rs. 1500/- for 'Karyana goods" at the rate of 14% per annum with quarterly rests on providing at least one guarantor for the said loan and interest. On 24.3.1987, defendant No.1 executed demand promissory note, agreement and other requisite documents for a sum of Rs. 6500/- payable with interest thereon, at the rate of 14% quarterly rests. Defendant No.2 stood guarantor for defendant No.1, both are jointly and severally liable for the payment of the aforesaid loan amount. Defendant No.1 was sanctioned Rs. 6500/-, out of which Rs. 5000/-, was paid to Sant Ram, who prepared the shed and Rs. 1500/- were paid to Churamani and sons, as per terms and conditions of the loan agreement. Defendant No.1 placed on record the balance confirmation letters and acknowledged his liability on different dates i.e. balance confirmation letters dated 23.1.1989, 20.11.1991, 15.5.1993, 27.10.1993, 12.6.1996, 16.7.1997, 29.2.2000 and 10.2.2003, but defendants failed to pay the amount, in accordance with the terms and conditions laid down in the agreement, as such the plaintiff-bank recalled the entire amount and issued notices to the defendants. The total amount due alongwith interest upto 7.1.2005 becomes Rs. 64597/- alongwith interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of institution of the suit till its realization of the total amount.

3. The suit has been resisted and contested by the defendants by filing written statement and has taken the preliminary objections qua maintainability, estoppel and cause of action. It has been contended by the defendant that he has never applied for the loan nor any loan was provided by the said bank to defendant No.1. Defendant No.1 stood guarantor of defendant No.2. Defendant further denied the execution of demand promissory note, agreement and other documents for the alleged loan of Rs. 6500/-, when defendant No.1 stood guarantee for defendant No.2. Plaintiff-bank obtained the signatures on the bank documents of defendant No.1, on the pretext of guarantor of defendant No.2. Defendant further averred that at that time Rajinder Sachdeva, was Manager of Himachal Gramin Bank, Churag, numerous fake and fraud loan cases had been made by him and has been convicted by the learned Court below. The Manager was absconded and declared as Proclaimed Offender in FIR No.163/89, FIR No.44/90, FIR No.47/1990 etc. under Sections 420, 467, 468 of the Indian Penal Code. Defendant further averred that Sant Ram never prepared the shed and fake and fraud bills were collected by the bank.

4. The learned trial Court framed following issues :

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the recovery of Rs. 64597/- along with interest at the rate of 14% p.a. with quarterly rests, as prayed for ? OPP.

2. Whether the present suit is not maintainable ? OPD.

3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act, conduct and deeds to file the present suit ? OPD.

4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action ? OPD.

5. Whether the defendant No.1 never applied for the loan and defendant No.2 has never given guarantee for defendant No.1 ? OPD.

6. Relief."

5. The learned trial Court after deciding Issue No.1 against the plaintiff, Issue Nos.2 to 4 in favour of the defendants, Issue No.5 against the defendant dismissed the suit. However, the learned lower Appellate Court set aside the findings of the learned Court below and decreed the suit of the plaintiff and thereafter the present appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law :

"1. Whether the learned First Appellate Court has misread and misconstrued the oral as well as documentary evidence of parties especially documents Ex.D1 to Ex.D4 which has materially prejudice the case of the appellants ?

2. Whether the learned First Appellate Court has fallen into error by not considering this fact that the then Branch Manager Shri Rajinder Sachdev has prepared false and fake loan cases and criminal case has been registered against him and the first Appellate Court has not taken note of previous judgment and decree in Civil Suit No.12/89 dated 19.4.1990 and due to this fact the case of the appellants have been materially prejudiced ?

3. Whether the judgment and decree of the learned First Appellate Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law because of the fact that amount of

Rs. 6500/- has been shown as loan case in the present case as well as in Civil Suit No.12/89 which fact has been totally ignored by the learned First Appellate Court which has materially prejudiced the case of the present appellants ?"

6. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant has argued that the judgment and decree passed by the learned Court below is against the law. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent has argued that the judgment and decree passed by the learned Court below is just, reasoned and after appreciating the facts, which have come on record, to its true perspective.

7. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

8. It is proved that on 4.3.1987, defendant No.1 Surat Ram, applied for a loan of Rs. 6500/- to the plaintiff-bank for running his "Karyana" business and loan of Rs. 6500/- was sanctioned and advanced in favour of defendant No.1. The shed was constructed by defendant No.1 through Sant Ram and amount of Rs. 5000/-, was paid at the instance of defendant No.1 to Sant Ram. Defendant No.1 also purchased the goods worth of Rs. 1500/- from Churamani and sons and amount of Rs. 1500/-, was paid to Churamani and sons at the instance of defendant Surat Ram. PW-1 Maninder Jistu, Branch Manager, Churag Branch of the plaintiff-bank has deposed that he had been authorized on behalf of the plaintiff-bank to institute and plead the case vide General Power of Attorney Ex.PW1/A. He has stated that at the time of institution of the suit, the plaintiff-bank was entitled to recover an amount of Rs. 64,597/- from the defendants. In his cross-examination, he showed his ignorance about a criminal case registered against Rajinder Sachdeva, the then Manager of the plaintiff-bank. PW-2 Mast Ram, employee of the plaintiff-bank, who remained posted as Clerk-cum-Cashier in Churag Branch, has stated that defendant No.1 had applied for a loan of Rs. 6500/-, for running "Karyana" business out of which Rs. 5000/-, were transferred in favour of Sant Ram at the instance of defendant Surat Ram, as Sant Ram had constructed shed of Surat Ram worth of Rs. 5000/-. Surat Ram had also purchased goods worth of Rs. 1500/- from Churamani & Sons. He has further stated that defendant No.1 had executed consideration voucher Ex.PW2/A, transfer vouchers Ex.PW2/B, Ex.PW2/C, demand promissory note Ex.PW2/D, agreement Ex.PW2/E, receipt Ex.PW2/F, letter of authority Ex.PW2/H. Letter of witness Ex.PW2/B, loan application Ex.PW2/K. He has also deposed that defendant No.2 had stood guarantor, who had executed the guarantee deed Ex.PW2/L. In his cross-examination, he has shown his ignorance that Rajinder Sachdeva was posted as Branch Manager of the plaintiff-bank in the year 1987 and had prepared the fake loan case. He has also stated that he does not know if Rajinder Sachdeva stood tried in a criminal case for preparing false and fake loan cases and that said Rajinder Sachdeva absconded and was declared as Proclaimed Offender. PW-3, Ashok Thakur, has deposed that Rajinder Sachdeva was posted as Branch Manager of Churag Branch of the plaintiff-bank in the year 1987, but he has denied that Rajinder Sachdeva had prepared the documents pertaining to the false loan cases. PW-4 R.K. Sharma, remained posted as Branch Manager at Churag Branch of the plaintiff-bank from June 1994 to June 1998 and as per his statement, defendant No.1 Surat Ram had signed the balance confirmation letter Ex.PW4/A, in his presence. In his cross-examination, he has shown his ignorance about the documents pertaining to false loan cases by Rajinder Sachdeva, the then Manager of the plaintiff-bank. PW-5 Anil Sharma, has also admitted that in the year 1987, Rajinder Sachdeva was Manager of the Churag Branch of the plaintiff-bank, but he has stated that said Rajinder Sachdeva, had not prepared the false documents pertaining to the false loan cases. PW-6 Swaroop Singh, also remained posted in Churag Branch of the plaintiff-bank from August 1993 to June 1995 and as per his statement, Surat Ram had executed balance confirmation letter Ex.PW6/A in his presence. PW-7 B.R. Kaundal, has deposed that balance confirmation letter Ex.PW7/A was executed by defendant Surat Ram in his presence on 29.2.2000. He has also shown his ignorance that Rajinder Sachdeva, Branch Manager of Churag Branch, had prepared the document of false loan cases. DW-1, Surat Ram, has deposed that he had not applied for loan to the plaintiff-bank nor he had received the same. He had only stood as guarantor of Geeta Ram at that time and his signatures was procured by the bank employee on several papers. He has also deposed that later on bank employee procured his signatures on papers and he had told them that he had not applied for the loan nor received the same. He has also deposed that a case of cheating was registered against the then Branch Manager, who had prepared false documents of several loan cases. The Manager had absconded and declared as Proclaimed Offender. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that his signatures on pronote Ex.PW1/D, balance confirmation letters Ex.PW2/B, Ex.PW2/C, Ex.PW7/A and Ex.PW5/A. DW-2 Devi Ram has proved on record the statement of account Ex.DW2/A of defendant Surat Ram. DW-3 Krishan Lal, has deposed that defendant Surat Ram, had purchased goods amounting to Rs. 1500/- from him, vide bill Ex.PW2/G and amount of Rs. 1500/- was paid by him to the plaintiff-bank. PW-2 has also deposed that Surat Ram had applied for loan of Rs. 6500/-, to the plaintiff-bank vide application Ex.PW2/K. The loan of Rs. 6500/- was sanctioned by the bank in favour of defendant Surat Ram and defendant Surat Ram had executed documents Ex.PW2/A, Ex.PW2/B, Ex.PW2/D, agreement Ex.PW2/A, revival letters Ex.PW2/H and statement of Surat Ram Ex.PW2/D. PW-2 has proved on record that the loan of Rs. 6500/- was sanctioned in favour of the defendant Surat Ram and has executed the aforementioned documents. Ex.PW2/E agreement whereby the defendant had agreed to return loan of Rs. 6500/-, to the plaintiff-bank with interest at the rate of 14% per annum with quarterly rests in installment of Rs. 150/- per month. Defendant No.2 had stood as guarantor of defendant No.1, who had executed the guarantee deed Ex.PW2/L. As per the statement of PW-3, it is proved that defendant Surat Ram had acknowledged his liability by executing balance confirmation letter Ex.PW3/A to Ex.PW3/D. Similarly, PW-4 has proved on record balance confirmation letter Ex.PW4/A. PW-5 has also proved on record the balance confirmation letters Ex.PW5/A. PW-6 and PW-7 have also proved on record the balance confirmation letters Ex.PW6/A and Ex.PW7/A, respectively. Defendant No.1 had acknowledged his liability by executing the balance confirmation letter and thus, the period of limitation was extended from time to time till institution of the suit.

9. The case of the plaintiff is also corroborated by DW-3, who is owner of shop M/s Churamani & sons. As per his statement, he has sold goods worth of Rs. 1500/- to defendant Surat Ram, vide bill Ex.PW2/G and then amount of Rs. 1500/- was paid to him by the plaintiff-bank.

10. The net result of the above discussions is that the findings arrived at by the learned lower Appellate Court are just, reasoned and after appreciating the facts, which have come on record, to its true perspective. Substantial question of law No.1 is answered accordingly holding that the learned lower Appellate Court below has not misconstrued the oral as well as documentary evidence, which has come on record. As far as substantial question of law No.2 is concerned, the learned lower Appellate Court below has not committed any error, as in the present suit, the judgment and decree has been passed, after appreciating the fact, which has come on record in the present case to its true perspective. The learned Court below has decided the present case in the facts and circumstances and the evidence, which has come on record in the present case is rightly appreciated, so the findings of the learned lower Appellate Court does not suffer from any illegality and infirmity, as it has been proved on record that the defendant has taken a loan of Rs. 6500/- from the plaintiff-bank.

11. In view of the above discussion, there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment and decree passed by the learned lower Appellate Court, so no interference of this Court is required. In these circumstances, the appeal of the appellant is without merit and deserves dismissal, hence the same is dismissed. However, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, parties are left to bear their own cost (s). Pending application (s), if any, shall also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

The New India Insurance Company, through its Divisional Manager. ...Appellant.

Versus

Smt. Hiravati Sharma and others. ...Respondents.

FAO No.407 of 2011.
Cross Objection: 327 of 2012.
Reserved on : 30.11.2016.
Decided on: 26.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was travelling in the vehicle with the goods – vehicle fell down due to the rashness and negligence of the driver – deceased sustained grievous injuries and died – compensation of Rs. 3 lacs was awarded by the Tribunal- held, that income of the deceased was rightly taken to be Rs. 3,500/- per month and compensation was rightly assessed as Rs. 3 lacs- there was no proof that accident had taken place due to the mechanical defect – the deceased was owner of goods and insurance company cannot escape from liability – appeal dismissed. (Para- 10 and 11)

For the appellant	Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents	Mr. N.S. Shandil, Advocate, for respondents No.1 & 2. Nemo for respondents No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1994, is maintained against the award dated 26.7.2011, passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, in MAC Petition No.18-S/2 of 2009, whereby the learned Tribunal below has awarded compensation of Rs. 3,00,000/- to the petitioners alongwith interest at the rate of 8% per annum.

2. The brief facts giving rise to the present appeal are that respondents No.1 & 2, who are the claimants/cross objectors in present the appeal (hereinafter referred to as the 'petitioner') maintained a petition for compensation on account of the death of their son in an accident caused due to the rash and negligent driving of respondent No.4 (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.3') while driving the vehicle owned by respondent No.3 (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.1') and insured by the appellant herein (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.2').

3. As per the petitioner, on 14.2.2009, Deepak Sharma was travelling in the vehicle i.e. Mahindra Pick Up bearing registration No.CH-23T-9715 (Engine No.21794 and Chassis No.41974), as owner of goods was going from Koti to Dhalli and thereafter to Kotkhai, when the vehicle reached near Karyalghati, it met with an accident and the vehicle went down the highway. Deepak Sharma, received grievous injuries and died at the spot. The accident has taken place due to the rash and negligent driving of the driver of vehicle. After the death of Deepak Sharma, the petitioners had been left high and dry. The petitioners had claimed compensation of Rs. 5,00,000/-, on account of the death of their son. Respondent No.1 was registered owner of Mahindra Pick Up bearing No. CH-23T-9715. Respondent No.1 was vicariously liable for rash and negligent act of his driver. Respondent No.2 had provided comprehensive insurance cover to the vehicle for the period from 31.8.2008 to 30.8.2009. The respondent No.2 was liable to indemnify the insured.

4. Respondent No.1 had resisted and contested the claim petition. He had admitted his ownership and possession of vehicle bearing No. CH-23T-9715. Respondent No.1 had purchased the vehicle from registered dealer at Chandigarh on 31.8.2008. Respondent No.2 had provided comprehensive insurance cover to the vehicle. On 14.2.2009, respondent No.3 had been on the wheel of the vehicle. Respondent No.3 had been taking Deepak Sharma and his goods to Kotkhai. The charge of rash and negligent driving against the driver had been denied. The accident had taken place due to sudden mechanical brake down of the vehicle. Respondent No.1 had expressed ignorance about the age, income and occupation of the deceased. The petitioners were not dependent for maintenance on their son. They were not entitled to compensation from respondent No.1.

5. Respondent No.2 had also resisted and contested the claim petition. It had admitted having provided insurance cover to vehicle bearing No. CH-23T-9715 at the time of accident. Further alleged that respondent No.1 had contravened the terms and conditions of the insurance policy. Respondent No.3 had not been in possession of a valid and effective driving licence. Deepak Sharma had been travelling in the vehicle as gratuitous passenger. Risk of carriage of gratuitous passenger had not been covered by the insurance policy provided by respondent No.2. It is alleged that respondent No.1 was required to get the vehicle registered within one month of sale thereof. Temporary registration No.CH-23T-9715 could not be treated valid at the time of accident. The petitioners were parents of respondent No.3. The deceased had not been in receipt of income of Rs. 5000/- per month. Respondent No.2 was not liable to pay compensation to the petitioners.

6. The learned Tribunal below framed the following issues :

"1. Whether Sh. Deepak Sharma died due to rash and negligent driving of Mahindra Pick Up bearing temporary No.CH-23T-9715 by respondent No.3? OPP.

2. In case No. (i) is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioners are entitled to and from whom ? OPP.

3. Whether Sh. Deepak Sharma was travelling in vehicle in question at the time of accident as an unauthorized or gratuitous passenger ? OPR.

4. Whether the vehicle in question was being driven in contravention of terms and conditions of the insurance policy ? OPR-2.

5. Whether the respondent No.3 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident ? OPR- 2.

6. Whether the petition is result of collusion between the petitioners and respondent No.1 and 3 ? OPR-2.

7. Relief."

7. After deciding Issue Nos.1 & 2 in favour of the petitioners, Issue Nos.3 to 6 against the respondents, the learned Tribunal below awarded an amount of Rs. 3,00,000/- to the petitioner and against the respondents, as the vehicle was insured by respondent No.2, the liability was to be fixed by respondent No.2 to pay the amount of compensation. The petitioner who is respondent No.1 in the present case has also maintained cross objections under Order 41 Rule 22 CPC, for enhancement of the compensation. These cross objections are also dealt with the present appeal.

8. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant has argued that the learned Tribunal below has not taken into consideration the fact that the deceased was gratuitous passenger and so, the Insurance Company was having no liability. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner, who are the respondents in the present appeal and who maintained cross objections has argued that the deceased was owner of the goods, as he was carrying the manure in his vehicle for selling to the owners of the apples orchard, which is generally business of the people in the area from where the deceased belongs. He has further argued that the amount of compensation as awarded by the learned Tribunal below is too much on the lower side and requires to be enhanced.

9. In rebuttal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant has argued that the amount of compensation as awarded by the learned Tribunal below is already on the excessive side and the question of enhancement does not arise. He has further reiterated that as the deceased was gratuitous passenger, no amount is required to be paid by the Insurance Company, as the vehicle was plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy.

10. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the record of the case carefully.

11. PW-1 Head Constable Prem Chand, had tendered in evidence copy of FIR No.29/09 under Sections 279 and 304-A of the Indian Penal Code, Police Station, Dhalli, Ex.PW1/A. Respondent No.3 had been booked on charges of rash and negligent driving by the local police. PW-2 Krishan Dutt, has deposed that his son Deepak Sharma had been looking after his household and property. Petitioner No.2 had been owner-in-possession of property, as per jamabandi Ex.PW2/A. Deepak Sharma, had been cultivating vegetables and had been earning Rs. 5000/- per month from all sources. On 14.2.2009, Deepak Sharma, had been carrying his goods to Kotkhai and had boarded the vehicle of respondent No.1. The driver had been driving the vehicle rashly and negligently, as a result of which vehicle had gone down the highway in the area of Karyalghati. Deepak Sharma had suffered fatal injuries in the accident. After the death of their son, the petitioners had been left high and dry. Ex.PW2/B was death certificate of Deepak Sharma, Ex.PW2/C, postmortem report of the dead body of Deepak Sharma. The date of birth of Deepak Sharma was 2.8.1989. Deepak Sharma had left the School from 8th standard. The petitioners were from B.P.L family and Ex.PW4/A was BPL card of the petitioners. Bishan Singh while appearing as PW-3 has stated that on 15.2.2009, he had been on way from his house to Shimla. When PW-3 had been passing through Karyalghati, he had noticed marks of the accident. PW-3 had stopped and found one vehicle having gone down the highway. PW-3 had found the dead body of Deepak Sharma, at some distance from the vehicle. The respondent examined Sanjay Sharma as RW-1, who has stated that on 14.2.2009, he had been on the wheel of the vehicle. Deepak Sharma had boarded the vehicle alongwith his goods for Kotkhai. When the vehicle was in the area of Karyalghati, shaft of the vehicle had suddenly broken down. The vehicle had gone down the highway. Deepak Sharma had suffered fatal injuries, but there is no proof of mechanical defect as stated by RW-1. He was interested person to say so and the learned tribunal below has rightly held that the accident has occurred due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.1, who is driving the vehicle and appeared before the learned tribunal below as RW-1. RW-2 Lokeshwar Dutt, who has stated having purchased the vehicle from registered dealer at Chandigarh on 31.8.2008. The dealer had got the vehicle insured, as per the insurance policy, Ex.PW2/B. Respondent No.1 had produced the driving licence of respondent No.3. The accident had taken place on 14.2.2009 at about 9:30 PM. So, the learned Tribunal below has rightly held that the accident has occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the driver of the vehicle. As far as the status of the deceased was concerned, it has come on record that he was owner of the goods. Further, the Insurance Company has charged the premium for two workmen also. It has also come on record that the manure belongs to the deceased. The Insurance Company cannot escape his liability for the owner of the goods. In this case, the Insurance Company has already charged premium for two workmen also. As far as the compensation amount is concerned, the learned tribunal below has rightly taken the income of the petitioner at the rate of Rs. 3500/- per month, as there was no specific proof with regard to his income as alleged by the petitioners. I find no illegality in the compensation as worked out by the learned tribunal below.

12. The net result of the above discussion is that the findings arrived at by the learned Tribunal below holding that the Insurance Company is liable, needs no interference, as the same are just, reasoned and after appreciating the fact, which has come on record, to its true perspective. Further, this Court finds that there is no infirmity and perversity with the impugned award passed by the learned Tribunal below awarding Rs. 3,00,000/-, to the petitioner, as the learned Tribunal below has taken into consideration the income of the deceased earning about Rs. 3500/- per month. No other points argued needs no consideration.

13. With these observations, the appeal as well cross objections requires dismissal and accordingly dismissed. Pending application (s), if any, shall also stands disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the Petitioner:	M/s Vishal Mohan, Pranay Pratap Singh, Sushant Keprate, Aditiya Sood and Jai Vardhan Khurana, Advocates, for the petitioner(s).
For the Respondents:	Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, Sr.Advocate with Ms Vandana Kuthiala, Advocate and Mr. Diwan Singh Negi, Advocate, for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J.

Invoking Extra Ordinary Writ jurisdiction of this Court, petitioner Sh. Virbhadra Singh lays challenge to the impugned notice dated 29.3.2016 (Annexure P-2) and order dated 24.11.2016 (Annexure P-5), whereby proceedings for assessment stands initiated by the Revenue under the provisions of Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the Act).

2. Petitioners Smt. Pratibha Singh (CWP No. 3078 of 2016) and Sh. Vikramaditya Singh (CWP No. 3080 of 2016) by way of separate petitions also lay challenge to similar notice/order. As prayed for, by the learned counsel, these petitions were heard together and in principle, only facts of petitioner Sh. Virbhadra Singh (CWP No. 3072 of 2016), were argued before us, for the difference pertained to the amount of income declared and the dates of filing of returns under Section 139 of the Act. Hence we proceed to discuss the facts of CWP No. 3072 of 2016.

3. The issues, which this Court is called upon to consider, are: (a) whether an order passed by an authority under the Act, in view of availability of equally efficacious remedy, is amenable to interference by way of writ jurisdiction, (b) whether exercise of power by the jurisdictional authority, in initiating action for assessment of escaped income, is justiciable by a Writ Court, (c) whether the jurisdictional authority had sufficient material to form reasons of belief, (d) whether such reasons do exist and if so, can this Court go into sufficiency thereof, (e) whether sanction accorded by the appropriate authority is in accordance with law, (f) whether the order passed by the authority is in conformity with the settled procedure of law, and (g) whether action of the authorities below can be said to be arbitrary, whimsical or capricious.

4. Petitioner, a permanent resident of Himachal Pradesh, is regularly assessed to income tax. On 02.08.2012, he filed a return, declaring his net taxable income for the assessment year 2012-13 (hereinafter referred to as the relevant year), to be Rs. 17,60,090/- (Annexure P-1, page 11), and the source mainly being salary and income from house property.

Prima facie, finding certain income to have escaped assessment, on 29.03.2016 he received a notice, under Section 148 of the Act, so issued by the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla (Annexure P-2, page 15).

5. Pursuant thereto, on 20.04.2016, petitioner filed a fresh return declaring the very same income. Also a request for supply of "reasons" for re-opening the case was made, which was duly complied with vide communication dated 09.05.2016 (Annexure P-3, page 16). Objections thereto, so filed by the petitioner on 29.06.2016 (Annexure P-4, page 59), stand rejected by the Assessing Officer in terms of order dated 24.11.2016 (Annexure P-5, page70).

6. Perusal of aforesaid communications reveals that on 29.03.2016, the Assessing Officer, forwarded his reasons of belief to the superior officer i.e. Joint Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla, and the very same day, the said officer, after expressing his satisfaction thereupon, on finding the case fit for issuance of notice under Section 148 of the Act, returned the file and same day, notice issued by the Assessing Officer, was served upon the petitioner.

7. It was the information received from the Deputy Director of Income Tax (Investigation), Faridabad, vide communication dated 15.12.2015, which led the Assessing Officer initiate action against the petitioner under Section 147 of the Act.

8. Survey conducted with respect to the affairs of one Vakamulla Chandrashekhar (hereinafter referred to as the loaner) revealed that in the relevant year, following payments were made: (i) Rs. 2.4 Crores to Sh. Virbhadra Singh; (ii) Rs. 1.5 Crore to Smt. Pratibha Singh; and (iii) Rs. 2 Crores to Sh. Vikramaditya Singh. The loaner stated such payments to be interest free loans, made out of his "agricultural income" and "unsecured loans" so received by him from third parties. Prima facie, such plea was found to be not true, hence on careful appreciation of material before him, the Assessing Officer, formed reasons of belief, relevant portion whereof, is extracted herein under:-

> "4. Summary of findings
> I have carefully perused the return of income of Sh. Virbhadra Singh (Assessment Year 2012-13) and information received from and copies of the statements recorded by the Investigation Wing and the following facts emerge:-
> 4.1 Sh. Virbhadra Singh is showing his return with gross total income of Rs.18,66,089/- from salary and income from other sources.
> 4.2 Sh. Virbhadra Singh has received interest free unsecured loans of Rs. 2.4 Crores from Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar in Financial Year 2011-12.
> 4.3 Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar submitted that he advanced the above mentioned loans to Sh. Virbhadra Singh out of his agricultural income of Rs. 3.4 Crores in Financial Year 2011-12 and out of unsecured loans taken by him from Sh.Gurusharan Singh (Rs. 0.49 Crores), Jai Bharat Foods (Rs. 0.73 Crores) etc.
> 4.4 However, it was proved that Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar was not having sufficient agricultural land to substantiate his claim.
> 4.5 Sh. Ram Parakash Bhatia, who was controlling various paper entities including Jai Bharat Foods, admitted on oath that he had provided accommodation entries to Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar in lieu of unaccounted cash. He also stated on oath that no actual agriculture produce were purchased by him from Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar.
> 4.6 Sh. Gurusharan Singh denied giving any loan to Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar.
> 4.7 Thus, the creditworthiness of Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar remain unproved to advance such huge amount of Rs. 2.4 Crores as interest free unsecured loan to Sh. Virbhadra Singh in Assessment Year 2012-13.

4.8 From the discussion made above, it is clear that Rs. 2.4 Crores received by Sh. Virbhadra Singh in Assessment Year 2012-13 from Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar was unexplained credit in the hand of Sh. Virbhadra Singh and needs to be assessed in the hands of Sh. Virbhadra Singh u/s 68 of the Income Tax Act, 1961.

5. Reasons forming belief

In view of the above, I have reasons to believe that an amount of Rs. 2.4 Crores which was received by Sh. Virbhadra Singh from Sh. Vakamulla Chandrashekhar in Assessment Year 2012-13 as interest free unsecured loan is actually unexplained credit in the hand of Sh. Virbhadra Singh, which has escaped assessment in the case of Sh. Virbhadra Singh for Assessment Year 2012-13 within the meaning of section 147/148 of the Income Tax Act, 1961."

(Emphasis supplied)

9. Though factum of receipt of such payments came to be admitted by the petitioner, only in the objections filed in response to a notice issued under Section 148 of the Act, but he justified the same by raising a plea that: (i) In the year 2014, the amount stood repaid alongwith interest @ 10%; (ii) There was no dispute about (a) identity of the person, (b) genuineness of the transaction, (c) creditworthiness of the loaner; (iii) In the relevant year, the loaner had himself disclosed an income of Rs. 65,59,020/-, which was in addition to "huge agricultural income". (iv) The relevant jurisdictional authority, vide order dated 27.03.2015 had already assessed the amount in question, in the hands of the loaner (v) As assessee was not obliged to maintain books of accounts, provisions of Section 68 of the Act were not applicable. (vi) Impugned action was a result of total non-application of mind.

10. In the writ petition no additional ground stands pleaded.

11. Prima facie finding the explanation not to be satisfactory, such objections came to be rejected by the Assessing Officer by inter alia observing that: (i) Parties contradicted with regard to the nature of loan; (ii) in the absence of any proof or evidence, justifying income from agricultural source or unsecured loans, creditworthiness of the creditor remained to be examined; (iii) Though in the hands of the loaner, a sum of Rs. 3,40,85,000/-, so claimed as income from agriculture was assessed as an income from undisclosed source, under Section 68 of the Act, yet genuineness of the transaction required examination. More so, when such assessment was subject matter of challenge in an appeal before the appropriate jurisdictional authority; (iv) Even though assessee was not maintaining books of accounts, but however, information to which only he had access, in the nature of bank accounts etc. required submission and examination, in deciding a jurisdictional issue of fact; (v) In the absence of any prior assessment, there is no jurisdictional error in the Assessing Officer, calling upon the assessee to place all material in its power and possession, enabling the officer to decide the fact in issue; (vi) There was proper application of mind by the sanctioning authority; and (vii) Assessee's participation in the assessment proceedings would also help proper adjudication of the case on merits.

12. In response to the petition, Revenue justifies its action by (i) expressing doubts about the creditworthiness of the loaner; (ii) the nature of transaction; (iii) Revelation of a fact that in the relevant year, certain investments for purchase of a Farm House at Delhi, were made by the children of the petitioner in the name of M/s Maple Destination and Dreambuilt Pvt. Ltd. Company; (iv) Non-cooperative attitude of the assessee in: (a) not furnishing information and placing on record material within his power and possession of which only he had access; (b) not responding to a detailed questionnaire dated 23.05.2016; (c) placing on record only unauthenticated photocopies of few bank accounts; (v) Uncertainty with regard to the order of assessment made in the case of the loaner by the jurisdictional authority; (vi) Reasons of belief being only prima facie in nature; and (vii) The assessee having ample opportunity of placing all material and substantiating his case.

14. The relevant provisions, to which our attention is invited are Sections 68, 147 to 153 of the Act.

15. Section 147 is evidently clear. Insofar as its application to the instant facts is concerned, what is required, is fulfillment of essential ingredient(s) that: (i) The Assessing Officer (ii) must have reason(s) to believe, (iii) that any income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment (iv) for any assessment year, (v) which he is empowered to (vi) may assess, and (vii) if the income is understated by the assessee, it shall be deemed to be an income chargeable to tax having escaped assessment.

16. However, for initiating such action, in compliance of Section 148, the Assessing Officer has to (i) record his reasons (ii) forward the same to an authorized officer, as the case may be, so mentioned in Section 151, (iii) who, shall record his satisfaction on the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer that it is a fit case for issuance of such notice, and only thereafter, (iv) The Assessing Officer shall issue a notice to the assessee, requiring him/her to furnish within a specified period, return of his/her income, in a prescribed form.

17. In view of the statutory mandate, so contained in Section 153, in the given facts and circumstances, assessment proceedings are necessarily required to be completed before 31.12.2016.

18. Section 68, which deals with the concept of deemed income, provides that where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and he offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee.

19. As a matter of abandoned caution, in a tabulated form, we reproduce facts, relevant to each one of the petitioners:

20. It is a common case of parties that original return dated 02.08.2012 filed by the petitioner, in compliance of Section 139 was not subjected to assessment under sub-section (3) of Section 143. Return dated 02.08.2012, came to be processed only under sub-section (1) of Section 143, in which there is no reference of these transactions. Thereafter, the first communication inter se the parties, is the notice dated 29.03.2016, issued by the Assessing Officer under Section 148 of the Act.

SCOPE OF JURISDICTION

21. Scope of interference with an order passed by an authority under a Statute, providing an equally alternate and efficacious remedy, is now well settled. The issue is no longer res integra, hence we restrict the discussion only to the decisions pertaining to the Statute in issue.

22. A Constitution Bench of the apex Court in Thansingh Nathmal v. The Superintendent of Taxes, Dhubri and others, AIR 1964 SC 1419, observed that:

> "7.....The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is couched in wide terms and the exercise thereof is not subject to any restrictions except the territorial restrictions which are expressly provided in the Articles. But the exercise of the jurisdiction is discretionary: it is not exercised merely because it is lawful to do so. The very amplitude of the jurisdiction demands that it will ordinarily be exercised subject to certain self-imposed limitations. Resort to that jurisdiction is not intended as an alternative remedy for relief which may be obtained in a suit or other mode prescribed by statute. Ordinarily the Court will not entertain a petition for a writ under Art. 226, where the petitioner has an alternative remedy, which without being unduly onerous, provides an equally efficacious remedy. Again the High Court does not generally enter upon a determination of questions which demand an elaborate examination of evidence to establish the right to enforce which the writ is claimed. The High Court does not therefore act as a court of appeal against the decision of a court or tribunal, to correct errors of fact, and does not by assuming jurisdiction under Art. 226 trench upon an alternative remedy provided by statute for obtaining relief. Where it is open to the aggrieved petitioner to move another tribunal, or even itself in another jurisdiction for obtaining redress in the manner provided by a statute, the High Court normally will not permit by entertaining a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution the machinery created under the statute to be bypassed, and will leave the party applying to it to seek resort to the machinery so set up."

23. A three-Judge Bench of the apex Court in The Commissioner of Income-tax, Gujarat v. M/s A. Raman and Co., AIR 1968 SC 49, held that:

> "6. The High Court exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution has power to set aside a notice issued under Section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, if the condition precedent to the exercise of the jurisdiction does not exist. The Court may, in exercise of its powers, ascertain whether the Income-tax Officer had in his possession any information: the Court may also determine whether from that information the Income-tax Officer may have reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. But the jurisdiction of the Court extends no further. Whether on the information in his possession he should commence a proceeding for assessment or reassessment, must be decided by the Income-tax Officer and not by the High Court. The Income-tax Officer alone is entrusted with the power to administer the Act; if he has information from which it may be said prima facie, that he had reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment, it is not open to the High Court, exercising powers under Article 226 of the Constitution, to set aside or vacate the notice for reassessment on a re-appraisal of the evidence."

24. In Raymond Woolen Mills Ltd. (supra), their Lordships of the Supreme Court rejected challenge to the issuance of notice for reassessment by observing that at the stage of notice, court can only consider whether there is a prima facie case for reassessment. Reopening of proceedings cannot be quashed by going into the "sufficiency" or "correctness" of the material relied upon by the assessing authority.

25. In Vijaybhai N. Chandrani (supra), the Apex Court while reversing the view taken by the High Court in quashing a notice of reassessment issued under Section 153-C of the Act, by relying upon its earlier decisions, in Bellary Steels & Alloys Ltd. V. CCT, (2009) 17 SCC 547; and Indo Asahi Glass Co. Ltd. v. ITO, (2002) 10 SCC 444, directed the assessee to first exhaust alternate remedies provided under the Act, by filing reply to the notice and take consequential action, if any, before the jurisdictional forum.

26. In Chhabil Dass Aggarwal (supra), in somewhat similar circumstances, where notice issued under Section 148 of the Act and the ex-parte assessment proceedings came to be quashed by a writ Court, the Apex Court, by referring to its several judicial pronouncements, including that of the Constitution Bench (Five Judges) in K.S. Rashid and Son v. Income Tax Investigation Commission, AIR 1954 SC 207, observed that restriction of not entertaining a writ petition, when an efficacious and alternate remedy is available, is self imposed. It is essentially a rule of policy, convenience and discretion, rather than the rule of law. Only where an exceptional case, warranting interference; existence of sufficient grounds; for invoking extra ordinary jurisdiction, is made out, power, which is discretionary in nature, must be exercised. Where hierarchy of appeal is provided by a statute, party must exhaust the statutory remedies before invoking the writ jurisdiction. The right or liability created by a statute giving a special remedy for enforcing it must be availed of. The Court reiterated the principle laid down in Union of India Versus Guwahati Carbon Ltd., (2012) 11 SCC 651 and in Munshi Ram Versus Municipal Committee, Chheharta, (1979) 3 SCC 83, that when a statute provides for a person aggrieved, a particular remedy to be sought in a particular Forum and in a particular way, it must be sought in that manner, to the exclusion of all other modes and Forums. But it did recognize certain exceptions to this rule and that, inter alia being, where the action of the statutory authority is not in accordance with the statutory provisions; in defiance of fundamental principles of judicial procedure; and in total violation of principle of natural justice.

27. Justifying the action of the petitioner in bypassing the statutory remedy and directly assailing the notice for reassessment, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, seeks reliance on the decision rendered by the Bombay High Court, in Ajanta Pharma Ltd. (supra). The decision came to be rendered in the given facts and circumstances, where reason for reassessment being non-discloser of invoice/details of the purchase of the trading goods exported and failure to co-relate the trading exports with the trading goods exported was found to have been non-existent, in fact contradicted from the record rendering the reasons of the Assessing Officer to be totally "flimsy" and not "sufficient to draw conclusion about the escapement of income" and there being "no material" before the Assessing Officer, entitling him to reopen the case of assessment, the Court found the notice so issued to be ex-facie, bad in law. Hence it exercised its discretionary power in quashing such action. Significantly, the Court observed that a writ would lie only if the impugned action is ex-facie without jurisdiction or again in excess of the jurisdiction vested in the authority or the action being totally arbitrary. It cautioned that extra ordinary jurisdiction cannot be allowed to be availed as a matter of course and while deciding the issue of jurisdiction, finding of the authority on the factual aspect may be necessary, in which case, necessarily the assessee would be required to approach the Assessing Officer.

28. Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, learned Senior Counsel, also invites our attention to a decision dated 16.09.2006, rendered in Ema India Ltd. (supra), which we need not discuss in view of the settled position of law.

29. Thus it cannot be said that jurisdiction of this Court, in entertaining a petition even when an equally efficacious remedy is available to a party, is totally ousted. Notwithstanding the statutory remedies available to the aggrieved party, restriction imposed by a writ Court is more in the nature of restraint. With the ever increasing and growing scope of judicial review, exercise of extraordinary writ jurisdiction cannot be circumscribed.

30. But however, in the given facts and circumstances, for reasons to follow, we do not find the petitioner to have made out a case warranting interference in a petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

31. While contending that this Court has no jurisdiction to quash the order of rejection of objections by the Assessing Officer, Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, learned Senior Advocate, seeks reliance on the decision rendered by the High Court of Madras in Kalanithi Maran(supra).

We are unable to persuade ourselves to agree with such submission. The procedure for filing the objections and obligation to decide the same, came to be evolved with the following observations made by the apex Court in GKN Driveshafts (supra), wherein it is held as under:

> "5. We see no justifiable reason to interfere with the order under challenge. However, we clarify that when a notice under section 148 of the Income Tax Act is issued, the proper course of action for the noticee is to file return and if he so desires, to seek reasons for issuing notices. The assessing officer is bound to furnish reasons within a reasonable time. On receipt of reasons, the noticee is entitled to file objections to issuance of notice and the assessing officer is bound to dispose of the same by passing a speaking order. In the instant case, as the reasons have been disclosed in these proceedings, the assessing officer has to dispose of the objections, if filed, by passing a speaking order, before proceeding with the assessment in respect of the above said five assessment years."

32. Since then, the practice has been in vogue. The mechanism evolved is only a safeguard, a protection from harassment of the assessee, for avoiding unwarranted harassment, from undesirable adjudicatory process, so initiated, perhaps on jurisdictional error or such material which ex-facie may be false or reason(s) which prima facie appears to be baseless or without any cause or justification. The object being, affording an opportunity to an assessee of putting across its case, by placing authentic and undisputed material, satisfying no escapement of income from assessment, enabling the authority to consider, and if so required, drop the proceedings. There can be a fact situation where out of malice or for extraneous reasons, an Assessing Officer may decide the objections, in a palpably illegal manner. What if it is against the mandate of the said decision itself? In any event, orders passed by a Statutory authority are always amenable for challenge in a writ Court which power, perhaps the Court may exercise, when warranted, in the attending facts and circumstances.

NON COOPERATIVE ATTITUDE

33. Non cooperative attitude and conduct of the petitioner is vehemently pressed as a primary ground for rejection of the petition. Specific attention is drawn to the affidavit filed in response to the petition: (a) petitioner failed to furnish information during the entire period of 8½ months. (b) Save and except for filing of photocopies of few bank accounts; unverified and unauthenticated statement of account of the loaner and the order of reassessment so passed qua him, no information privy only to the petitioner, stands furnished. (c) No response to a detailed questionnaire dated 23.5.2016 is furnished. (d) Endeavour of the revenue in having a centralized investigation and assessment of the loaner and the loanee, has, yet not, yielded any result, for such order came to be quashed by this Court and now the matter is pending before the Apex Court. (e) On the petitioner's asking, proceedings of assessment relating to financial year 2009-10 and 2012-13 in relation to the HUF, a separate legal entity, also stand stayed by this Court.

34. Much emphasis is laid on the following observations made by the Apex Court in Sasi Enterprises (supra):-

> "17. We are, in these appeals, concerned with the question of non- filing of returns by the appellants for the assessment year 1991-92, 1992-93 and 1993-94. Each and every order passed by the revenue as well as by the Courts were taken up before the higher courts, either through appeals, revisions or writ petitions. The details of the various proceedings in respect of these appeals are given in paragraph 30 of the written submissions filed by the revenue, which reveals the dilatory tactics adopted in these cases. Courts, we caution, be guarded against those persons who prefer to see it as a medium for stalling all legal processes. We do not propose to delve into those issues further since at this stage we are concerned with answering the questions which have been framed by us." (Emphasis supplied)

35. In the given facts and circumstances, we are not inclined to dismiss the petition on such a ground. However, on this issue, we refrain from making any observation, save and except that petitioner is duty bound to fully cooperate in the expeditious adjudication of all proceedings.

REASONS TO BELIEVE

36. The expression "reasons to believe" stands adequately elaborated by the Apex Court in its various pronouncements. The issue is no longer debatable.

37. By relying upon its earlier decision, rendered by a Constitution Bench (five-Judge) judgment, in Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd., v. Income-tax Officer, Companies District I, Calcutta and another, AIR 1961 SC 372, a Three-Judge Bench of the apex Court in S. Narayanappa and others v. Commissioner of Income-Tax, Bangalore, (1967) 63 ITR 219 : [AIR 1967 SC 523], held that:

> "if there are in fact some reasonable grounds for the Income-tax Officer to believe that there had been any non-disclosure as regards any fact, which could have a material bearing on the question of under-assessment that would be sufficient to give jurisdiction to the Income Tax Officer to issue the notice under S. 34. Whether these grounds are adequate or not is not a matter for the Court to investigate. In other words, the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the Income-tax Officer to act is not a justiciable issue. It is of course open for the assessee to contend that the Income-tax Officer did not hold the belief that there had been such non-disclosure. In other words, the existence of the belief can be challenged by the assessee but not the sufficiency of the reasons for the belief. Again the expression "reason to believe" in S. 34 of the Income-tax Act does not mean a purely subjective satisfaction on the part of the Income-tax Officer. The belief must be held in good faith: it cannot be merely a pretence. To put it differently it is open to the Court to examine the question whether the reasons for the belief have a rational connection or a relevant bearing to the formation of the belief and are not extraneous or irrelevant to the purpose of the Section. To this limited extent, the action of the Income-tax Officer in starting proceedings under S. 34 of the Act is open to challenge in a Court of law".

38. The position came to be reiterated by a two-Judge Bench of the apex Court in Lakhmani Mewal Das (supra), wherein the Court held that the grounds or reasons which lead to the formation of belief must have a material bearing on the question of escapement of income of the assessee from assessment because of his failure or omission to disclose fully and truly, all material facts.

39. Later on in Phool Chand (supra), it stood clarified that decision to quash the action in Lakhmani Mewal Das (supra), was based on its given fact situation, where information received by the Assessing Officer was wholly vague, indefinite, farfetched, remote and without any basis for holding a reasonable belief, warranting action, under Section 147 of the Act. It further observed that:

> "19.....Acquiring fresh information, specific in nature and reliable in character, relating to the concluded assessment which goes to expose the falsity of the statement made by the assessee at the time of original assessment is different from drawing a fresh inference from the same facts and material which was available with the I.-T.O. at the time of original assessment proceedings. The two situations are distinct and different. Thus, where the transaction itself on the basis of subsequent information is found to be a bogus transaction, the mere disclosure of that transaction at the time of original assessment proceedings cannot be said to be a disclosure of the "true" and "full" facts in the case and the I.-T.O. would have the jurisdiction to reopen the concluded assessment in such a, case. It is correct that the assessing authority could have deferred the completion of the original assessment proceedings for further enquiry and investigation into the genuineness to the loan transaction but in our opinion his failure to do so and complete the original assessment proceedings would not take away his jurisdiction to act under S. 147 of the Act, on receipt of the information subsequently. The subsequent information on the basis of which the I.-T.O. acquired reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment on account of the omission of the assessee to make a full and true disclosure of the primary facts was relevant, reliable and specific. It was not at all vague or non-specific."

"26... ...One of the purposes of S. 147, appears to us to be, to ensure that a party cannot get away by wilfully making a false or untrue statement at the time of original assessment and when that falsity comes to notice, to turn around and say "you accepted my lie, now your hands are tied and you can do nothing." It would be travesty of justice to allow the assessee that latitude."

40. The Apex Court also had an occasion to deal with the amended provisions in Rajesh Jhaveri (supra). The Court found the scope and effect of section 147 to 148 as substituted with effect from April 1, 1989, to be substantially different from the earlier provisions. For conferment of jurisdiction under original section 147(a), two conditions required satisfaction (i) the Assessing Officer must have reason to believe that the income profits or gains chargeable to income tax have escaped assessment, and (ii) he must also have reason to believe that such escapement occurred by reason of either omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully or truly all material facts necessary for his assessment of that year. However, under the substituted section 147, only the first condition required satisfaction of reason to believe, that the income had escaped assessment. It further observed that:-

"19. Section 147 authorises and permits the Assessing Officer to assess or reassess income chargeable to tax if he has reason to believe that income for any assessment year has escaped assessment. The word reason in the phrase reason to believe would mean cause or justification.If the Assessing Officer has cause or justification to know or suppose that income had escaped assessment, it can be said to have reason to believe that an income had escaped assessment. The expression cannot be read to mean that the Assessing Officer should have finally ascertained the fact by legal evidence or conclusion. The function of the Assessing Officer is to administer the statute with solicitude for the public exchequer with an inbuilt idea of fairness to taxpayers."

"20.....At that stage, the final outcome of the proceeding is not relevant. In other words, at the initiation stage, what is required is 'reason to believe', but not the established fact of escapement of income. At the stage of issue of notice, the only question is whether there was relevant material on which a reasonable person could have formed a requisite belief. Whether the materials would conclusively prove the escapement is not the concern at that stage. This is so because the formation of belief by the Assessing Officer is within the realm of subjective satisfaction." (Emphasis supplied)

41. It is also the law that the Assessing Officer is not precluded to reopen assessment of an earlier year on the basis of his finding of fact, so made on the basis of fresh material, so discovered, in the course of assessment of next assessment year [Ess Ess Kay Engineering Co. (supra)].

42. In Calcutta Discount Co. Ltd., v. Income-tax Officer, Companies District I, Calutta and another, AIR 1961 SC 372, the apex Court held that:

> "9. There can be no doubt that the duty of disclosing all the primary facts relevant to the decision of the question before the assessing authority lies on the assessee. To meet a possible contention that when some account books or other evidence has been produced, there is no duty on the assessee to disclose further facts, which on due diligence, the Income-tax Officer might have discovered, the Legislature has put in the Explanation, which has been set out above. In view of the Explanation, it will not be open to the assessee to say, for example - "I have produced the account books and the documents : You, the assessing officer examine them, and find out the facts necessary for your purpose : My duty is done with disclosing these account-books and the documents". His omission to bring to the assessing authority's attention these particular items in the account books, or the particular portions of the documents, which are relevant, will amount to "omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment." Nor will he be able to contend successfully that by disclosing certain evidence, he should be deemed to have disclosed other evidence, which might have been discovered by the assessing authority if he had pursued investigation on the basis of what has been disclosed. The Explanation to the section, gives a quietus to all such contentions; and the position remains that so far as primary facts are concerned, it is the assessee's duty to disclose all of them - including particular entries in account books, particular portions of documents and documents, and other evidence, which could have been discovered by the assessing authority, from the documents and other evidence disclosed."

43. The Apex Court in M/s S. Ganga Saran and sons (Pvt.) Ltd., Calcutta v. Income Tax Officer and others, (1981) 3 SCC 143 has observed as under:

> "6..... (a) are "has reason to believe" and these words are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief, entertained by the Income-tax Officer must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be reasonable or in other words it must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The Court, of course, cannot investigate into the adequacy or sufficiency of the reasons which have weighed with the Income-tax Officer in coming to the belief, but the Court can certainly examine whether the reasons are relevant and have a bearing on the matters in regard to which he is required to entertain the belief before he can issue notice under Section 147 (a). If there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Income-tax Officer could not have reason to believe that any part of the income of the assessee had escaped assessment and such escapement was by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and the notice issued by him would be liable to be struck down as invalid." (Emphasis supplied)

44. The Apex Court in Income Tax Officer, Cuttack and others v. Biju Patnaik,1991 Supp. (1) SCC 161, observed that while examining the existence of reasons, record can be looked into.

45. In M/s Niranjan & Co. Pvt. Ltd. v. Commissioner of Income Tax, West Bengal-I and others, 1986 (Supp) SCC 272, the apex Court held that:

> "21. It was contended on behalf of the assessee/appellant relying on the observations of this Court in Commr. of Income-tax, Gujarat v. A. Raman and Co., (AIR 1968 SC 49) (supra), that the Income-tax Officer must have had reason to believe and in consequence of information he must have that reason to believe and it was submitted that the information was already there and there was no new information from which the Income-tax Officer could have formed the belief.

> Having regard to the facts of this case as discussed above and the nature of the information indicated before, we are of the opinion that there was information in the form of a revised return and since the information mentioned before came to the knowledge of the Income-tax Officer subsequent to the making of the first assessment and the information being such from which a reasonable person could have formed the belief that there was escapement of income or under-assessment of income, it cannot be said that there was no jurisdiction of the Income-tax Officer to re-open the assessment. Whether in fact the reassessment to be made pursuant to the notice issued, the income assessed would be more by Re, 1/- or less than the income already assessed is not material or relevant for the question of jurisdiction to issue the notice under S. 147 of the Act."

46. Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, has referred to a decision of this Court in Sahil Knit Fab (supra). So far as the ratio of law is concerned, there is no dispute and we need not discuss in view of our discussion (supra). On facts, we find the decision of the Appellate Authority, so rendered in favour of the assessee, to be affirmed in the peculiar facts and circumstances, for it was found that there was no plausible reason available with the Assessing Officer, forming a belief of escapement of income. Though the assessee had claimed deduction on the basis of loss(s) in business but after five years, the Assessing Officer worked out profit at the rate of 14%, by comparing the profit of another company engaged in similar business, which approach was considered to be illogical and unrealistic. The jurisdictional issue was sought to be raised after a gap of five years, without considering the change of business environment.

47. It is not in dispute that reasons of belief came to be placed before the sanctioning authority. Though initially, a vain attempt was made to argue that notice (Annexure P-2) came to be issued without obtaining prior sanction and/or no reasons of belief were ever prepared or placed before the sanctioning authority, but when confronted, Shri Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, in all fairness did not press the point any further.

48. Now in the instant case, the fact that investigation came to be conducted against the "Tarini Group" owned by Vakamulla Chandershekhar (loaner) is not disputed in the petition. The Assessing Officer, as is evident from the reasons of belief and response filed to the petition, was in receipt of information from the Deputy Director of Income Tax (Investigation), Faridabad, which revealed that out of his agricultural income and advances received from his friends, loaner had advanced payments as interest free unsecured loan to the petitioner and his family members.

49. The factum of advancement of such money came to be admitted only in response to the notice. Prior thereto, both the petitioner and his family members maintained stoic silence.

50. Also, the source from which the loaner itself received such income, prima facie, was found to be false, which fact surfaced only during the course of investigation conducted under Section 131-133A of the Act. There were only paper transactions. Neither did the loaner receive any unsecured advance from anyone, much less the three entities, particulars whereof were disclosed by him, nor did he have sufficient income from agricultural source. Such fact also stood substantially corroborated with the disclosure of his income in the previous years. Further Smt. Tripurana Ahalya Devi, whom loaner claimed to be his Aunt, on oath, denied having know him at all, much less entered into any transaction with him, monetary or otherwise. Even transactions of unsecured loans were discovered to be bogus, for being mere paper entries taken from Ram Prakash Bhatia,who allegedly owned 17 concerns, including the ones so disclosed by the loaner, from a small room at C-48/3A-1, Lawrence Road, Delhi-35. Similarly Gurcharan Singh also denied having either known or entered into any transaction of any nature with the loaner, and that for making false entries of unsecured loans, someone had opened an account in his name.

51. Noticeably, as already observed, prior to issuance of notice dated 29.03.2016 under Section 148 of the Act, neither the petitioner nor anyone of his family members ever disclosed having received such huge amount of Rs. 5.9 crores from the loaner. Even with the filing of fresh return, factum of such transaction never came to be disclosed. Such admissions came only with the filing of statement of objections dated 29.06.2016. Whether obliged in law to do so or not, petitioner also chose not to answer the questionnaire.

52. But what really acquires significance is the very nature of transaction raising reasonable doubt about its genuineness. Whereas petitioner contends the transaction to be interest bearing, the loaner terms it as a non interest bearing loan. Also, from the record so made available to us, prima facie, even the petitioners appear to have taken a divergent view. No authentic documents of payment of interest stand filed. What is the special relationship which the petitioner held with the loaner remains undisclosed. Are they family members? Friends? or have any business relationship? Nothing remains disclosed. Disclosure of such information would only enable the Assessing Officer in proper adjudication of fact in issue.

53. Whether there is contradiction in the stand taken by the petitioner before us, itself is a question which needs to be examined by the Assessing Officer, for the writ petitioner wants the Court to believe that loan was repaid with interest at the rate of 10%. No authentic document of such transaction stands placed before us. In fact qua payment of interest no document stands placed either by the petitioner's wife or his son. In the case of petitioner, the document annexed does not conclusively establish payment of interest. The Assessing Officer, in our considered view, has considered the entire material while forming its prima facie view with regard to the alleged payments of interest. Also what was the purpose of loan and what was the source from where it came to be returned is a question, which being a jurisdictional fact requires adjudication by the Assessing Officer. The petitioner may also have justifiable explanation of repayment, but from the material placed before us, it cannot be said that either the initiation of process of assessment or rejection of objections is on flimsy grounds or in an arbitrary manner.

54. The burden to prove the income which stands accounted for, is on the assessee. In Sreelekha Banerjee V. Commissioner of Income Tax, (1963) 49 ITR (SC) 112, the Court held that:

> "It seems to us that the correct approach to questions of this kind is this. If there is an entry in the account books of the assessee which shows the receipt of a sum on conversion of high denomination notes tendered for conversion by the assessee himself, it is necessary for the assessee to establish, if asked; what the source of that money is and to prove that it does not bear the nature of income. The department is not at this stage required to prove anything. It can ask the assessee to bring any books of account or other documents or evidence pertinent to the explanation if one is furnished, and examine the evidence and the explanation. If the explanation shows that the receipt was not. of an income nature, the department cannot act unreasonably and reject that explanation to hold that it was income. If, however, the explanation is unconvincing and one which deserves to be rejected, the department can reject it and draw the inference that the amount represents income either from the sources already disclosed by the assessee or from some undisclosed source. The department does, not then proceed on no evidence, because the fact that there was receipt of money is itself evidence against the assessee. There is thus, prima facie, evidence against the assessee which he fails to rebut, and being unrebutted, that evidence can be used against him by holding that it was a receipt of an income nature. The very words 'an undisclosed source' show that the disclosure must come from the assessee and not from the department. In cases of high denomination notes, where the business and the state of accounts and dealings of the assessee justify a reasonable inference that he might have for convenience kept the whole or a part of a particular sum in high denomination notes, the assessee prima facie discharges his initial burden when he proves the balance and that it might reasonably have been kept in high denomination notes. Before the department rejects such evidence, it must either show an inherent weakness in the explanation or rebut it by putting to the assessee some information or evidence which it has in its possession. The department cannot by merely rejecting unreasonably a good explanation, convert good proof into no proof."

55. It is a matter of record that order reassessing income of the loaner came to be passed by the jurisdictional authority, i.e. Assessing Officer at New Delhi only on 27.3.2015. Before us there is nothing on record to show that prior to initiation of impugned action, the present jurisdictional officer was aware of passing of any such order. Perhaps for this reason, such fact is missing in the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer.

56. Assuming hypothetically that order of assessment against the loaner, which is subjudice, attains finality, even then what would be its effect on the nature of transactions and creditworthiness of the loaner would be a matter of consideration by the Assessing Officer. Whether such order itself would be sufficient establishing creditworthiness of the loaner, particularly when in the last six preceding years, he disclosed income from agricultural source to be less than Rs. 3,00,000/-and its unusual increase to Rs. 85,00,000/-only in the year in question, is again a matter to be considered by the Jurisdictional Officer. Prima facie it stands noticed by the officer that income of the loaner, cumulative from all sources, for the last five preceding years, is far less than Rs. 5.9 Crores, the amount lent to the petitioner and his family member.

57. Also, according to the loaner, in the recent years by understating its value, a company closely held by the petitioner's children, had purchased a Farm House at New Delhi, for a sum of Rs. 6.61 crores.

58. When an assessee claims to have borrowed money, onus to establish such fact lies upon him. But discharge of such onus, would still not preclude the Assessing Officer in otherwise examining the genuineness of the transaction, as an independent and unbiased fact finding authority.

59. We find existence of reasonable ground, enabling the Assessing Officer to form a belief, with regard to the non-disclosure/escapement of income. The belief cannot be said to be arbitrary, capricious or without any basis. It is neither pretentious. There is rational connection between the material and the reasons. Doubt stands raised with regard to the transactions being bogus in nature. Whether, at the first instance, assessee was obliged to disclose receipt of such huge amounts, or not is definitely a matter, which requires consideration by the Assessing Officer, during the course of proceedings. The principle of 'cause and justification' so laid in Jhaveri (supra), stands fully substantiated by the Revenue.

60. The Assessing Officer has rejected the objections on the grounds, which appear to be reasonable on the basis of material before him.

61. It cannot be said that the belief is arbitrary or irrational or there is no intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief "so that on such reasons, no one properly instruct on facts and law, could reasonably entertain the belief", as held by the apex Court in Ganga Saran (supra).

62. Also, the belief of the Assessing Officer, on the information so received by him, is not such that "from which a reasonable person could have formed the belief that there was" no escapement of income or underassessment of income, as held by the apex Court in A. Raman (supra).

63. What is required to be proved by the assessee is not only identity but also creditworthiness and genuineness of the transaction, beyond reasonable doubt, as held in Mangilal Jain (supra); CIT v. United Commercial and Industrial Co. P. Ltd., (1991) 187 ITR 596); and Shankar Industries (supra).

EXERCISE OF UNDUE HASTE AND NON APPLICATION OF MIND BY THE JURISDICTIONAL AUTHORITIES

64. Submission that process of recording of reasons, obtaining sanction, and issuance of notice, was carried out without application of mind and in undue haste is factually incorrect.

65. From the affidavit, so filed in response to the petition, which goes unrebutted, and for which no opportunity was sought, it is evident that the Assessing Officer had been applying his mind for more than three months, it being a different matter that he could have expedited the same. Be that as it may, information which came to be received by him in December, 2015, was processed and placed before the appropriate authority on 29.3.2016. It is not that the sanctioning authority had no material before according sanction. Only after perusing the reasons of belief, so recorded by the Assessing Officer, and finding it to be a case fit for issuance of notice, did the authority accord its sanction. It is brought to our notice that offices of the Assessing Officer and the Sanctioning Authority are in the very same building and petitioner is also a local resident. It was convenient for the authority to have dealt with the matter the very same day. It is not a herculean, much less an impossible task to accomplish.

66. Significantly, no malafides stand alleged, much less against any one the concerned officers.

67. Hence, in the given facts and circumstances, we do not find such action to be illegal, raising suspicion or doubt, with regard to proper application of mind by the authority concerned.

68. We further find the order rejecting the objections to be a reasoned one. It is certainly not cryptic. Every issue raised by the assessee stands considered and dealt with, with a rider that it is open for the assessee to appear before the Jurisdictional Officer and place all material for just determination and conclusion of the proceedings. The view expressed by the Assessing Officer has been held to be a prima facie one. It is not a case of change of opinion.

69. While contending that the sanctioning authority acted mechanically by simply stating "Yes", rendering the impugned action to be wholly illegal, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, invites our attention to the decision rendered by the Apex Court in Chhugamal Rajpal (supra). In the said case, the Court specifically observed total non application of mind by the Assessing Officer, whose reasons were not only vague but in the realm of uncertainty, warranting investigation pertaining to the loans, allegedly made by certain persons. It is in this backdrop, Court observed that the Assessing Officer himself was not sure about the truth of alleged transactions. The Court found that there was no material with the Assessing Officer, enabling him to record reasons of belief, that by reason of the assessee's omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his/her assessment for the accounted year in question, income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment for that year. The exercise of power by the authority was found to be mechanical in nature, for had he applied his mind, he would'nt have formed satisfaction, in according sanction, and also as a result of non application of mind, noted the word "Yes" and affixed his signatures thereunder.

70. Our attention is invited to the decision rendered by the Calcutta High Court in S.P. Agarwalla (supra), wherein it is observed that the Commissioner has to consider and apply his mind to the material relied upon by the Assessing Officer and that such power is not to be exercised mechanically. Commissioner can consider sufficiency and relevancy of the material while refusing or granting such sanction.

71. Also attention is invited to the decision rendered by the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Arjun Singh (supra), wherein it was observed that exercise of power by the sanctioning authority, in less than 24 hours indicated non application of mind. On first brush, it appears to be so. But closer scrutiny reveals the decision to be distinguishable on facts. The jurisdictional authority was trying to reopen assessment, on the basis of alleged escapement of income, in relation to which, after registration of the F.I.R., not only the Court of competent jurisdiction discharged the assessee but even the jurisdictional officer, after investigation had concluded the adjudicatory proceedings, ten years prior to the initiation of impugned action. The Court found the Assessing Officer not possessing any material, enabling him to record reasons of belief. Also simultaneous issuance of notices of inquiry and reassessment came to be initiated against the assessee who was called upon to furnish information of money spent on the construction of a house and much prior to conclusion of such inquiry, the Assessing Officer, by pre-judging the issue, without any basis or material, proceeded to reassess the income declared by the assessee. It is in this backdrop, the Court found the revenue to have acted with undue haste.

72. On this count, our attention is also invited to the decision rendered by the Delhi High Court in Central India Electric Supply (supra), where the sanctioning authority had simply appended its signature below the word "Yes" so affixed by a rubber stamp. In the given facts, the Court found the decision taken to be purely mechanical in manner.

73. However, the instant case is not that of mere rubber stamping, for the competent authority, in principle, was in agreement with the reasons assigned by the Assessing Officer, so placed before him, which came to be considered and sanction accorded, with proper application of mind. He himself wrote "I am satisfied that it is a fit case for issue of notice u/s 148".

PROTECTIVE AND PRECAUTIONARY PRINCIPLE

74. Capacity/creditworthiness of the creditor and genuineness of the transaction is a question of fact, which we afraid cannot be allowed to be agitated or adjudicated in the present proceedings. Whether assessment of income in the hands of loaner would conclusively establish genuineness and nature of the transaction or his creditworthiness, in our view, is a question of fact to be considered only by the Assessing Officer, after going through the relevant material, which the parties may choose to place, more so in the light of Explanation 2(b) of Section 147 and Section 68 the Act. Whether it is a case of double taxation; protective and precautionary assessment or whether income assessed in the hands of one can be assessed as an income in the hands of another, in the given facts and circumstances, is yet to be considered and decided by the adjudicating authority, based on settled principles of law.

75. While contending that revenue was not sure as to whether the alleged escaped income was to be assessed qua the present petitioner or loaner, Mr. Vishal Mohan, learned counsel, invites our attention to the decision rendered by a Division Bench of Gujarat High Court in Sagar Enterprises (supra). The said decision is clearly distinguishable on facts. Considering the fact that undisclosed income of the assessee came to be added by way of protective addition in the previous assessment year, the Court found that it was not open for the revenue to account for the same in the succeeding financial years. It is in this backdrop, it held the revenue itself, not sure of the year of its taxability, hence such income could not be deemed to be chargeable to tax, having escaped assessment.

76. In fact, the principle of protective precautionary assessment came up for consideration before the apex Court in Lalji Haridas (supra), wherein by upholding, action of reassessment initiated by the Revenue, they observed that "In cases where it appears to the income-tax authorities that certain income has been received during the relevant assessment year but it is not clear who has received that income and prima facie it appears that the income may have been received either by A or B or by both together, it would be open to the relevant income-tax authorities to determine the said question by taking appropriate proceedings both against A and B. That being so, we do not think that Mr. Nambiar would be justified in resisting the enquiry which is proposed to be held by respondent No.1 in pursuance of the impugned notice issued by him against the appellant. Under these circumstances we do not propose to deal with the point of law sought to be raised by Mr. Nambiar".

77. In Income Tax Officer, A-Ward, Lucknow v. Bachu Lal Kapoor, AIR 1966 SC 1148, the apex Court reiterated the aforesaid principle.

78. In Sunil Kumar Jain (supra), the Court affirmed the action of the Jurisdictional Officer in reopening assessments even in case where such income came to be assessed in the hands of another. In this backdrop, it was observed that:-

> "Going to the merits of the case, we find that it is not in dispute that the cash amount of Rs. 2,19,000 and the pawned articles valued at Rs. 10,506 have been claimed by the petitioners as belonging to them. Merely because it has been taxed at the hands of Sri Prem Chandra Jain will not preclude the Income-tax Officer from assessing the same at the hands of the right person. From the reason recorded for reopening of the assessment which has been reproduced above it will be seen that the basis for initiating proceedings is the claim made by the petitioners on the basis of the alleged will executed by Smt. Shyama Devi, thus it cannot be said that there was no relevant material for taking proceedings under section 147 of the Act."
> "In the case of Lalji Haridas [1961] 43 ITR 387 the apex court has held that in cases where it appears to the income-tax authorities that certain income has been received during the relevant year but it is not clear who has received that income; and, prima facie, it appears that the income may have been received by A or by B or by both together, it would be open to, the income-tax authorities to determine the question who is responsible to pay tax by taking assessment proceedings both against A and B.
> In the case of S. Gyani Ram and Co. [1963] 47 ITR 472 this court has held that the mere fact that a particular income has been assessed in the hands of a particular person as his income will not prevent the Income-tax Officer from coming to the conclusion on fresh materials that that income is the income of another person and taking proceedings under section 34 of the Act for reassessment against the latter on the ground that this income had escaped assessment in his assessment.
> In the case of Sidh Gopal Gajanand [1969] 73 ITR 226 this court has held that the validity of notice under section 34 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 cannot be impugned on the ground that the assessment proceeding was already pending in respect of the same income against another entity and where it appears that the income may have been received either by A or by B or by both together, it would be open to the income-tax authorities to determine the said question by taking appropriate proceedings against both A and B.
> In the case of R. Dalmia [1972] 84 ITR 616 the Delhi High Court has held that where the items of escaped income in respect of which the assessment is proposed is specific but the question as to whether the income, if earned, was earned by one person singly or by him along with others is a matter of inquiry, if the Income-tax Officer has reason to believe that it could have been earned either by one person singly or by him along with others there is nothing to prevent him from initiating proceedings against the concerned assessees in both capacities. In such a case where it appears to the Income-tax Officer, that certain income had been received during a particular year but it is not clear who has received that income it is open to the Income-tax Officer to start proceedings against all the persons individually or collectively to ascertain the correct position. In the case of Sohan Singh [1986] 158 ITR 174 the Delhi High Court has taken a similar view.
> In the case of Smt. Durgawati Singh [1998] 234 ITR 249 this court has held that it is settled that when there is a doubt as to which person amongst two was liable to be assessed, parallel proceedings may be taken against both and alternative assessments may also be framed. It is also equally true that while a protective assessment is permissible, it is not open to the income-tax appellate authorities constituted under the Act to make a protective order. The law does not permit assessment of the same income successively in different hands. The tax can only be levied and collected in the hands of the person who has really earned the income and is liable to pay tax thereon.

In the case of Banyan and Berry [1996] 222 ITR 831 the Gujarat High Court has held that where there is doubt or ambiguity about the real entity in whose hands a particular income is to be assessed, the assessing authority is entitled to have recourse to making a protective assessment in the case of one and a regular assessment does not affect the validity of the other assessment inasmuch as if ultimately one of the entities is really found to be liable to assessment, then the assessment in the hands of the entity alone remains the effective assessment and the other becomes infructuous. The levy is enforceable only under one assessment and not under both."

79. While drawing our attention to the decision rendered by the Full Bench of Delhi Court in Sophia Finance(supra), Shri Vinay Kuthiala wants us to adjudicate the merits of the matter, which under these proceedings is impermissible. The decision can be of help only to the extent that the authority would be empowered to examine the transaction, which in his belief required explanation.

80. If the reasons assigned by the Assessing Officer for initiating action are considered in the light of law laid down by the Supreme Court, it is not possible to hold that he did not have any material before him for entertaining a belief, that the income of the petitioner had escaped assessment.

81. Perusal of material placed on record does not reflect the impugned action to be ex-facie illegal or not borne out from the record. This Court is not required to go into the sufficiency of material which led to the formation of reasons of belief, more so, when reasons are relevant and emanate from the record and are also germane for just adjudication of facts in issue. There is proper compliance of procedure. Also the assessee can adequately represent himself before the authority which otherwise has jurisdiction to initiate the impugned action.

82. It is not a case of lack of jurisdiction. It is also not a case where the authority has exceeded its jurisdiction or the action is based on no material or that no reasons are recorded by the Assessing Officer or that reasons assigned are absolutely irrelevant or based on extraneous factors/circumstances. It also cannot be said that the impugned action is not bonafide or is based on vague , irrelevant or unspecific information. It is not that the Assessing Officer has prejudged the issue and proceeded to initiate action with a predetermined mind. In fact, there is no such assertion in the petition. Also no malafides stand alleged.

83. It cannot be said that rejection of the objections are based on frivolous or extraneous factors and circumstances. There is complete and proper application of mind to the attending facts and circumstances. The objections rejected, by a speaking order, also stands duly communicated to the petitioner. Mere rejection of objections cannot lead to formation of an opinion about the Assessing Authority, under all circumstances, deciding the matter in favour of the revenue.

84. In the instant case, we find that the petitioner seeks adjudication, on merits, of the fact in issue, which is impermissible in law. In the absence of definite and authentic information, this Court cannot as a fact finding authority, by way of a roving inquiry examine the matter, holding the proceedings initiated under Section 148 of the Act to be untenable on merits. Assessee is always open to make all such submissions before the appropriate authority.

Reliance on a decision dated 04.03.2016, rendered by the Calcutta High Court in Prem Chand Shaw (supra), is only for the purpose of pressing the provisions of Section 292-B of the Act, which, in the instant case, we do not find to be applicable.

85. Thus in the given facts and the circumstances, we do not find the impugned action to be illegal, arbitrary, whimsical or capricious. It cannot be said that there was no material before the Assessing Officer to proceed in accordance with law. It also cannot be said that the there was no basis for the Assessing Officer to have formed reasons of belief. We do not find it to be a fit case, warranting interference by this Court, for the action cannot be said to be ex facie illegal or based on extraneous reasons and circumstances. This Court is not required to go into the correctness or sufficiency of reasons. It definitely is not a case where the Assessing Officer lacked jurisdiction. It is also not a case of jurisdictional error. It also cannot be said that he exceeded such jurisdiction. Also, exercise of such power, statutory in nature, cannot be said to be either arbitrary or based on extraneous factors, consideration or circumstances. No malafides stands alleged against anyone.

86. We are quite convinced that reasons to believe formed by the Assessing Officer emanate from the record, having material bearing on the question of jurisdictional fact as also fact in issue so raised by him.

87. At this stage, what is required to be considered by the jurisdictional authority is only reasons to believe and not "the established fact of escapement of income", on the lines of Rajesh Jhaveri (supra).

88. It stands clarified that we have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case, which, the authority below, shall adjudicate, in accordance with law, uninfluenced of any observations made by this Court.

89. No other point is urged.

90. Hence in view of our aforesaid discussion, we find no merit in the present petitions, which stand dismissed.

91. Since no interim order was passed, no further order or direction is required to be passed in the miscellaneous application which also stands dismissed alongwith the main petition.

CWP No.: 4895 of 2015
Reserved on: 30.11.2016
Date of Decision: 26.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A proposal was prepared to notify Ner Chowk Panchayat as Municipal Corporation – objections were invited from the inhabitants who opposed the formation of municipality – a notification was issued declaring the areas of Ner chowk as Municipal Corporation – present writ petition was filed challenging the decision – respondents replied that Nagar Panchayat fulfilled the criteria required for the constitution of new Municipality – the town was a hub of Industrial and Business activities – there was a considerable floating population of workers in the area which required civic amenities- these amenities could only be provided by a Municipality – the procedure prescribed by the law was followed and it was prayed that writ petition be dismissed – held, that allegations of malafides were made against a member of legislative assembly- it was incumbent to implead that person as a party – the proposal fulfilled the criteria laid down in the Act- objections were invited and considered – the proposal was approved by the Cabinet – mere error in the nomenclature by mentioning Nagar Parishad instead of Nagar Panchayat will not invalidate the notification- no record was produced to show that notification was not in a public interest or was issued with some ulterior motive – the Courts are not to interfere with the legislative function unless the decision was not in public interest but was taken with ulterior motive at the behest of some interested persons – petition dismissed.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge :

This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner as a pro bono publico praying for the following reliefs:

> "(i) A writ of certiorari may be issued and the impugned notifications Annexure P-9 dated 07.01.2015 and Annexure P-10 dated 19.01.2015 declaring Nerchowk as Municipal Council may be quashed and set aside being illegal, arbitrary and unconstitutional.
> (ii) A writ of certiorari may be issued setting aside and quashing Annexure P-16 dated 26.09.2015 which includes Gram Sabha area for inclusion into Municipal Council Ner Chowk.
> (iii) Any other or further writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit in the facts and circumstances of the present case may also be passed in favour of the petitioner.

2. As per the petitioner, in the year 2013, Excise and Taxation Minister of Himachal Pradesh, who was also Member of Legislative Assembly from Balh constituency in District Mandi desired that Ner Chowk Panchayat of District Mandi, which falls in Balh constituency be notified as Municipal Council under Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994. It is further the case of the petitioner that "in order to satisfy such desire" of the MLA concerned, respondents No. 1 to 3 prepared a proposal and thereafter respondent No. 3, i.e. Director, Urban Development to the Government of Himachal Pradesh directed Deputy Commissioner, Mandi (respondent No. 5) to examine the proposal after taking into consideration the criteria laid down to notify an area as Municipal Council, vide communication dated 01.02.2013 (Annexure P-1). As per the petitioner, the entire proposed area comprised of villages having "arable lands" and both inhabitants of the area as well as livestock were dependent thereupon and in fact there was no need or requirement of specifying Ner Chowk either as a Municipal Council or as a Nagar Panchayat.

3. As per the petitioner, the proposal of the respondent-State to classify Ner Chowk as Municipal Council, which was "swayed only by Hon'ble Excise & Taxation Minister's desire" was strongly opposed by the affected inhabitants including the petitioner during the stage of investigation conducted by the authorities. Resolutions were passed by Gram Sabhas of Gram Panchayat Kasarla, Gram Panchayat Bhangrotu, Gram Panchayat Dador and Gram Panchayat Ner against the said proposal.

4. Further as per the petitioner, to satisfy the desire of Excise and Taxation Minister, respondent No. 2 vide notification dated 04.06.2014, proposed that areas of Dador, Ner, Kasarla, Malthed and Bhangrotu Panchayats be declared as municipal areas. According to the petitioner, this notification was issued without considering the objections filed by the local inhabitants. Further as per the petitioner, respondent No. 3 also invited objections vide Notification dated 04.06.2014 (Annexure P-4) from the inhabitants of the area as per the provisions of Sub-section (5) of Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994. Vide notification dated 04.06.2014, proposal was to classify the specified area as "Nagar Panchayat" and not as "Municipal Council". Again, inhabitants of the affected area opposed the formation of municipality by filing written objections, however, respondents without properly and legally considering the written objections of the inhabitants of the proposed area and without affording any reasonable opportunity of being heard to them, issued notification dated 07.01.2015 (Annexure P-9), declaring areas of Ner Chowk specified in the schedule enclosed as Nagar Panchayat Ner Chowk, District Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, in exercise of powers conferred by Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994. Further as per the petitioner, since Excise & Taxation Minister of Himachal Pradesh, i.e. the local Member of the Legislative Assembly had desired that Ner Chowk be notified as Municipal Council and not as Nagar Parishad, therefore, respondent-State by-passed the procedure prescribed in Sub-section (2) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 and vide corrigendum dated 19.01.2015 (Annexure P-10) converted Ner Chowk from "Nagar Panchayat" to "Nagar Parishad", i.e. Municipal Council. As per the petitioner, while doing so, neither any notice was issued nor any objections or suggestions were invited. Further as per the petitioner, thereafter respondent No. 2 on 18.03.2015 issued a notification under Sub-sectio (2) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act for excluding the Gram Sabha areas proposed to be included in the Nagar Parishad Ner Chowk and invited suggestions and objections, which were duly filed by the affected persons, however, without considering the suggestions/objections and even before the report of respondent No. 5 being available on record, respondent No. 3 vide notification dated 26.09.2015 excluded the areas of Gram Sabhas for inclusion in Municipal Council. As per the petitioner, the said exclusion was on the basis of notification dated 07.01.2015 and not on the basis of objections raised by the affected people and report submitted by respondent No. 5 in public hearing. Further as per the petitioner, without finalization of the objections, State divided Ner Chowk municipality into wards and respondent No. 5 vide notification dated 03.10.2015 invited objections, which were not yet finalized at the time of filing of the petition. In this background, the petitioner has filed this petition praying for the reliefs already mentioned above.

5. Respondents No. 1 to 3 in their reply denied the allegations made in the petition. It was mentioned in the reply that information/proposal received from the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi vide letter No. 7666, dated 07.01.2014, as per which, annual income of proposed Nagar Panchayat was Rs. 14,075,912/- and tentative population was 15161, was forwarded to the State Government vide letter dated 19.02.2014 with the observation that as per the provisions of Section 3 of the H.P. Municipal Act, 1994, proposed Nagar Panchayat fulfilled both criteria required for constitution of new Municipality. It was further mentioned in the reply that as per the report furnished earlier by the Deputy Commissioner, dated 13.02.2002, Gram Panchayat Dador vide resolution No. 16 dated 01.07.2001 had submitted its No Objection Certificate for constitution of Nagar Panchayat, Ner Chowk as the adjoining area and the said town was a hub of industrial and business activities, and there was a considerable floating population of workers in the area, which required civic amenities, which could only be provided by a Municipality. It was further mentioned in the reply that for providing proper civic facilities to the inhabitants of the area, the constitution of Nagar Panchayat was necessary for the development of the same. It was further mentioned in the reply that Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 empowered the State Government to issue notification by proposing any local area to be Municipal area after observing the procedure laid down therein. As per the respondents, the procedure so laid down was followed, which included affixing the notification of the proposal at some conspicuous place in the office of Deputy Commissioner within whose jurisdiction the proposed local area existed for inviting objections as well as taking into consideration the objections which were so received. It was further mentioned in the reply that the objections which were received through Deputy Commissioner, Mandi were placed before the competent authority and after going through the same, it was found that inhabitants had raised objections regarding deprivation of benefits of Gram Panchayat area, i.e. MANREGA, levying of Municipal Charges etc. and burden of taxes on BPL families. It was further mentioned in the reply that after taking into consideration the report of the Deputy Commissioner which was to the effect that Ner Chowk area fulfilled the criteria laid down in law to be declared a Municipality and further keeping in view the fact that it was a hub of Industries and urbanization in the said area was giving rise to problems related to urbanization which could be handled only by way of urban development schemes of the Government of India and State Government, the objections so raised by the inhabitants were not found sustainable. It was further mentioned in the reply that the matter for constitution of Nagar Parishad Ner Chowk was placed before Council of Ministers for necessary approval and thereafter, after obtaining approval of the Council of Ministers, notification dated 07.01.2015 was issued. It was further mentioned in the reply that as per the approval accorded by the Council of Ministers, Nagar Parishad, Ner Chowk, i.e. Municipal Council was constituted by including certain areas/Panchayats, however, while issuing notification dated 07.01.2015, by mistake it was shown as Nagar Panchayat instead of Nagar Parishad and this was lateron rectified by issuing corrigendum dated 19.01.2015. As per the respondent-State, this was a bonafide mistake and the same did not require inviting objections being an administrative matter. On these bases, respondents No. 1 and 3 opposed the petition.

6. Remaining respondents in their respective replies also supported the plea of the State and it was mentioned in their respective replies that the procedure as contemplated both under the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 as well as Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act was followed in issuance of notifications which were impugned by way of the present writ petition. It was also mentioned in their respective replies that there was no illegality committed by the State in the issuance of the notifications subject matter of the writ petition.

7. Rejoinder was filed to the reply filed to the reply filed by respondents No. 1 to 3, however, no rejoinder(s) were filed to the replies so filed by the remaining respondents.

8. Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner primarily argued that the entire exercise undertaken by the respondents was in violation of the statutory provisions provided both in the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 as well as Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act. As per Mr. Bhushan, the procedure contemplated in Sections 3 and 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 was not followed and further even otherwise as the process was initiated by the respondents to convert Ner Chowk into a Nagar Panchayat, the subsequent act of declaring/converting the same into a Nagar Parishad without inviting any objections etc. in this regard was per se illegal and not permissible in law. Mr. Bhushan also argued that there was no public interest involved in the declaration of areas of Ner Chowk specified in Schedule appended with notification dated 07.01.2015 as Nagar Parishad, because this entire exercise in fact had been undertaken by the respondent-State to appease the local member of Legislative Assembly from Balh constituency, who also happened to be the Excise and Taxation Minister. On these grounds, Mr. Bhushan prayed that the petition be allowed and the notifications impugned by way of this petition be quashed and set aside.

9. On the other hand, Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General has argued that there was no merit in the contention of the petitioner that the exercise of declaring Ner Chowk as Nagar Parishad Ner Chowk was done to satisfy the whims of the local MLA as alleged or that the issuance of impugned notification was in violation of the statutory provisions contemplated and laid down in Sections 3 and 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 or the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act. Mr. Dogra argued that the entire process was undertaken by the respondent-State strictly in accordance with the provisions by duly notifying the proposal and thereafter inviting objections and dealing with the objections objectively. It was further submitted by Mr. Dogra that the petition so filed by the petitioner could not be termed as a public interest litigation because no public spirited person would ever oppose the conversion of a "Panchayat" into a "Nagar Parishad" when the proposed area was fulfilling the criteria contemplated in Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 to be declared a "Nagar Parishad". According to Mr. Dogra, by declaring the areas specified in the Schedule appended with notification dated 07.01.2015 as Nagar Parishad, these areas were to get all the facilities of urbanization, which was in larger public interest. It was also argued by Mr. Dogra that the petition in fact was not maintainable as the person against whom malafides were alleged to the effect that the entire process was undertaken by the Government at the behest of said person, was not impleaded as party respondent in the case. Mr. Dogra argued that even otherwise in the entire writ petition, the petitioner could not point out as to what was the personal advantage which the local MLA was to gain in case the area in issue was declared as a Nagar Parishad. According to Mr. Dogra, it was the duty of the representative of the people of an area to work for the welfare of the people of that area and in case a local MLA moves a proposal for converting Panchayat areas into a Nagar Parishad, if the area in issue fulfills the condition contemplated in the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, then there is nothing wrong in it until and unless it could be proved that the same was being done by the person concerned with an ulterior motive. Mr. Dogra also argued that petitioner was not able to demonstrate as to what prejudice was caused to him by issuance of corrigendum vide which the proposed areas were declared as Nagar Parishad instead of Nagar Panchayat, because the factum remained that the entire formalities which were contemplated to be undertaken in declaring the proposed areas to be a Nagar Parishad were in fact undergone and undertaken by the department. Mr. Dogra also argued that it was not a case where Nagar Panchayat was converted as Nagar Parishad, but it was a case where Panchayat areas were converted into Municipality, be it Nagar Panchayat or Nagar Parishad. On these counts Mr. Dogra prayed that there was no merit in the petition and the same be dismissed.

Ms. Nishi Goel, learned counsel appearing for respondent No. 6 has adopted the arguments of learned Advocate General.

10. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the pleadings as well as the records of the case, which were directed by this Court to be made available vide order dated 15.07.2016.

11. Before dealing with the case on merit, we would like to deal with the issue raised by learned Advocate General with regard to maintainability of the petition that the same was not maintainable as the person against whom allegations of malafides were made was not impleaded as a party respondent.

12. A perusal of the averments made in the petition clearly demonstrate that there are allegations of malafide made in paras-4 & 7 of the same, which are being reproduced hereinbelow:

> "4. That in the year 2013, the present Hon'ble Excise and Taxation Minister of Himachal Pradesh, who is also MLA from Balh constituency, desired that Nerchowk Panchayat of District Mandi, which falls in Balh constituency, may be notified as Municipal Council under Section 3 of the H.P. Municipal Act, 1994. In order to satisfy such desire, the respondents No. 1 and 3 prepared a proposal. The respondent No. 3 vide communication dated 01.02.2013 directed respondent No. 5 to examine the proposal after taking into consideration the criteria laid down to notify an area as Municipal Council. The communication dated 01.02.2013 is appended herewith and marked as Annexure P-1. The perusal of the same will reveal that the respondent No. 5 was directed to take into consideration the following instructions:-
> (a) The population as latest census should exceed five thousands;

(b) The revenue general for local administration should exceed Rs.Ten lakhs; and

(c) The resolution passed by concerned Gram Panchayats in favour of constitution of Municipal Council.

7. That in order to satisfy the desire of the Hon'ble Excise and Taxation Minister of the State, the respondent No. 2, vide notification dated 04.06.2014 proposed that the areas of Dador Panchayat, Ner Panchayat, Kasarla Panchayat, Malthed Panchayat and Bhangrotu Panchayat should be declared as municipal area. It is submitted that this impugned notification was issued without considering the abovestated objections filed by local inhabitants. However, vide this notification the respondent No. 3 invited objections from the inhabitants of the areas specified as required under Section 4(5) of the Act. The notification dated 04.06.2014 alongwith specified area is appended herewith and marked as Annexure P-4."

13. Incidentally, the said Member of Legislative Assembly has not been impleaded as a party respondent in the petition. In other words, allegations have been made and malafides have been alleged against a person, who has not been impleaded as a party respondent in the petition. In our considered view, when petitioner was leveling allegations of nepotism against the Member of the Legislative Assembly, who also happened to be holding the office of Minister, then it was incumbent upon the petitioner to have had impleaded the said person as party respondent in the case. Said person was not only a property party, but he was also a necessary party as the allegations leveled against him were not innocuous but were serious. Therefore, in our considered view, there is considerable force in the said contention of Mr. Dogra and the petition in fact is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, however, we will not dwell on this issue any further and will now proceed to adjudicate the case on merit.

14. Sections 3 and 4 of Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 provide as under:

"3. Classification of municipalities.- (1) There shall be constituted three classes of municipalities in accordance with the provisions of this section as specified below :-

(i) "Nagar Panchayat" for a transitional area with population exceeding two thousand and generating annual revenue exceeding rupees five lakhs for the local administration;

(ii) "Municipal Council" for a smaller urban area with population exceeding five thousand and generating the annual revenue exceeding rupees [ten] lakhs for the local administration;

(iii) "Municipal Corporation" for a larger urban area with population exceeding fifty thousand and generating annual revenue exceeding rupees two crores for the local administration and which has been declared to be a municipal area under section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Corporation Act, 1994 (12 of 1994) :

Provided that a municipality under this section may not be constituted in such urban areas or part thereof as the State Government may, having regard to the size of the area and the municipal services being provided or proposed to be provided by an industrial establishment in that area and such other factors as it may deem fit, by notification, specify to be an industrial township:

Provided further that no cantonment or part of a cantonment shall form part of a municipality.

Explanation.- In this sub-section, " a transitional area", "a smaller urban area" or "a larger urban area" means such area as the State Government may, having regard to the population of the area, the density of the population therein, the revenue generated for local administration, the percentage of employment in non-agricultural activities, the economic importance or such other factors as the State Government may deem fit, specify, by notification for the purpose of this section.

(2) The State Government shall, by notification, constitute the municipalities and specify the class to which a municipality shall belong in accordance with the provisions of this section after observing the procedure as laid down in section 4: Provided that the municipalities existing at the commencement of this Act and listed as Nagar Panchayat or as Municipal Council in the Schedule to this Act, would be deemed to have been constituted and notified as such, under and in accordance with the provisions of this section:

Provided further that the State Government may, after giving a reasonable notice of not less than thirty days of its intention to do so, amend the schedule, by notification and declare any Nagar Panchayat as a Municipal Council or any Municipal Council as a Nagar Panchayat.

4. Procedure for declaring municipal area.- (1) The State Government may, by notification, propose any local area to be a municipal area under this Act.*

(2) Every such notification under sub-section (1) shall define the limits of the local area to which it relates.

(3) A copy of every notification under this section, with a translation thereof in such language as the State Government may direct shall be affixed at some conspicuous place in the office of the Deputy Commissioner, within whose jurisdiction the local area to which the notification relates lies, and at one or more conspicuous places in that local area.

(4) The Deputy Commissioner shall certify to the State Government the date on which the copy and translation were so affixed and the date so certified shall be deemed to be the date of publication of the notification.

(5) If any inhabitant desires to object to a notification issued under sub-section (1), he may, within six weeks from the date of its publication submit his objection in writing through the Deputy Commissioner to the State Government and the State Government shall take his objection into consideration.

(6) When six weeks from the date of publication have expired, and the State Government has considered and passed orders on such objections as 22 may have been submitted to it, the State Government may, by notification, declare the local area for the purposes of this Act, to be a municipal area.

(7) The State Government may, by notification, direct that all or any of the rules which are in force in any municipal area shall, with such exceptions and adaptations as may be considered necessary, apply to the local area declared to be a municipal area under this section, and such rules shall forthwith apply to such municipal area without further publication.

(8) When a local area, the whole or part of which was a notified area under the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1968 (19 of 1968) or a Nagar Panchayat under this Act, is declared to be Municipal Council under this section, the Municipal Council shall be deemed to be a perpetual successor of such notified area committee or of Nagar Panchayat, as the case may be, and in respect of all its rules, bye-laws, taxes, and all other matters, whatsoever and the Nagar Panchayat shall continue in office and shall notwithstanding anything contained in this Act be deemed to be the Municipal Council until the appointment and election of members is notified by the State Government under section 27.

(9) A municipality shall come into existence on such day as the State Government may, by notification, appoint in this behalf."

15. A perusal of these provisions demonstrate that as per Section 3 of the Act, three classes of Municipality are contemplated, i.e., Nagar Panchayat, Municipal Council and Municipal Corporation. Municipal Council or Nagar Parishad is contemplated for a smaller urban area with population exceeding five thousand and generating the annual revenue exceeding rupees ten lakhs for the local administration.

16. Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 lays down the procedure for declaring Municipal areas. As per this Section, State Government may by notification propose any local area to be a municipal area under the Act. A copy of such notification has to be affixed at some conspicuous place of the office of Deputy Commissioner, within whose jurisdiction the local area to which notification relates lies and at one or more conspicuous places in that local area. It further contemplates that Deputy Commissioner shall certify to the State Government the date on which the copy and translation were so affixed and the date so ordered shall be deemed to be the date of publication of the notification and if any inhabitant desires to object the notification, he may within six weeks from the date of its publication, submit his objections in writing to the State Government through the Deputy Commissioner and the State Government shall take the objections into consideration. This Section further contemplates that after expiry of six weeks from the date of publication and after State Government has considered and passed orders on objections as have been submitted to the notification, the State Government may by notification declare the local area for the purposes of this Act to be a municipal area.

17. Therefore, now it has to be gathered from the records as to whether the procedure contemplated in Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 has been followed in letter and spirit by the respondents before the issuance of impugned notification or not, to consider the allegations of the petitioner that the procedure has not been followed.

18. As per the records, Secretary (Urban Development) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh issued notification dated 04.06.2014 proposing areas as specified in the Schedule enclosed thereto to be declared as municipal area under Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 in order to constitute a municipality under Sub-section (2) of Section 3 of the Act to be classified as Nagar Panchayat at Ner Chowk for better development and improved arrangement in the said area.

19. Vide this notification, inhabitants of the area specified in the Schedule were called upon to submit their objections/suggestions, if any, to the proposed declaration to Secretary (Urban Development) in writing through Deputy Commissioner within a period of six weeks from the date of publication of the notification in the Rajpatra. There is a communication available on record dated 19.02.2014 from Director, Urban Development, Himachal Pradesh to Secretary (Urban Development) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, on the subject "Proposal regarding constitution of Nagar Panchayat Nerchowk" to the effect that as per the proposal received from Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, the figures of population and annual revenue were as under

1.	Total income of proposed N.P. Nerchowk (revenue generation from own source)	14075912-00
2	Total population (Tentative population in the proposed area)	15161 souls

20. This demonstrates that the proposal fulfilled the criteria contemplated under Sub-clause (ii) of Sub-section (1) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, as per which, "Municipal Council/Nagar Parishad" means a smaller urban area with population exceeding five thousand and generating annual revenue exceeding rupees ten lakhs for local administration.

21. Records also demonstrate that the Council of Ministers on 19.02.2014 approved the constitution of "Nagar Panchayat" at Ner Chowk and thereafter, notification dated 04.06.2014 was issued by the Government. The factum of issuance of notification dated 04.06.2014 is not disputed by the petitioner nor inviting objections on the proposal by the authorities is disputed. What is disputed by the petitioner is that the objections which were filed by the affected persons pursuant to the said notification were neither considered nor decided by the authorities before issuing notification declaring Ner Chowk initially as a "Nagar Panchayat" and thereafter as a "Nagar Parishad" by way of corrigendum.

22. Records demonstrate that after the issuance of notification dated 04.06.2014, objections were received from various quarters, which are available on record. Records further demonstrate that vide notification dated 07.01.2015, respondent-State in exercise of powers conferred by Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, declared the areas of Ner Chowk specified in the Schedule enclosed with said notification as Nagar Panchayat, Ner Chowk, District Mandi. This was followed by issuance of a corrigendum dated 19.01.2015 to the effect that words "Nagar Panchayat", Nerchowk published vide notification dated 07.01.2015 be read as "Nagar Parishad", Nerchowk.

23. Records also demonstrate that before issuance of notification dated 07.01.2015, the matter was placed before the Cabinet on 25.11.2014. What was approved by the Cabinet is as under:

"Approved the constitution of Nagar Parishad, at Nerchowk".

24. Pursuant to this, notification dated 07.01.2015 was issued in which as per respondent-State, inadvertently instead of words "Nagar Parishad", the words "Nagar Panchayat" were mentioned, which mistake was corrected/rectified vide corrigendum dated 19.01.2015.

25. The above discussion demonstrates that the area which was proposed to be declared Municipality, fulfilled the criteria for being declared as a Nagar Panchayat as well as Nagar Parishad. Besides this, both for declaring the proposed area either as "Nagar Panchayat" or as "Nagar Parishad", the statutory requirement was issuance of a notice under Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 and inviting objections from the inhabitants desirous to object to the said notification. It is not the case of the petitioner that had the initial proposed notification dated 04.06.2014 been issued for Nagar Parishad Nerchowk instead of Nagar Panchayat Nerchowk, then either its tone and tenor would have been different or its contents would have had been different or the procedural formalities which were required to be fulfilled would have been different. Probably, the only difference would have been that instead of words "Nagar Panchayat", the proposal would have contained the words "Nagar Parishad". Be that as it may, fact of the matter still remains that the proposal was to convert areas of Panchayat specified in the proposal into a Municipality.

26. We have already discussed above that inviting of objections is not disputed by the petitioner and during the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner could not objectively point out as to what would have been substantive difference in the objections invited, had the initial proposal itself been for Nagar Parishad instead of Nagar Panchayat. The objections on record demonstrate that the objections against the proposed Nagar Panchayat, as invited vide notification, dated 04.06.2014, were not to this effect that the proposal should not be for Nagar Panchayat, but should be for Nagar Parishad. The objections were to this effect that the Panchayat areas should be allowed to remain as Panchayat areas only. Besides this, it is evident from the reply filed by respondents No. 1 to 3 that the objections so received were taken into consideration and they were not found to be sustainable, as primarily the objections demonstrated that the objectors therein were aggrieved by the fact that if the area was permitted to be converted into a Municipality, then it would deny the inhabitants of the area benefits of Gram Panchayat area, MANREGA and the inhabitants would be subjected to levy of Municipal charges etc. The objections so filed, as is evident from the reply filed by respondents No. 1 and 3, were overruled in larger public interest taking into consideration the benefits which otherwise the inhabitants were to gain once this area was declared as Municipality. Therefore, it cannot be said that the objections were either not considered or decided before the impugned notifications were issued by the department.

27. A perusal of notification dated 07.01.2015 also demonstrates that it is mentioned therein that before issuance of this notification, objections/suggestions received from inhabitants of Gram Panchayat Nerchowk, District Mandi within the prescribed limit were considered and decided by the Government. There is no reason for us to disbelieve the same as nothing has been placed on record to the contrary by the petitioner.

28. Records also demonstrate that these objections/suggestions were placed before the Urban Development Minister for consideration, however, the same did not find favour with the Minister concerned as it was decided that "notification of constituting Ner Chowk as N.P. may be issued as it is the fastest growing urban area in the State".

29. Therefore, in view of above, there is no merit in the contention of the petitioner that the objections which were received against the proposal were neither considered nor decided before the issuance of impugned notification. At the cost of repetition, we are re-stating that during the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out as to what would have been the qualitative difference in objections submitted by the objectors had the initial proposal not been for Nagar Panchayat, but the same had been for a Nagar Parishad.

30. Now coming to the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that this entire exercise was undertaken by the State Government not in public interest but at the behest of local MLA to satisfy his whims, according to us, this argument is also not sustainable on merit. First of all, as we have already observed above, the MLA against whom malafides have been alleged has not been impleaded as party respondent in the petition. Be that as it may, the petitioner has not produced on record any material from which it could be inferred that the proposal so made by the local MLA was made either with an ulterior motive or the same was not in public interest. It is not a case where the proposal was moved by a person, who had no relation with the area and was a stranger qua the area which was proposed to be declared as a Municipality. In the present case, the proposal was mooted by the local MLA, who, in our considered view, in his capacity as public representative, is duty bound to make efforts to ensure the larger benefit of the people in the area, which he is representing. Further, the petitioner has not been able to demonstrate that after the proposal was mooted by the Local MLA, the State declared the area as Nagar Parishad either by not following the procedure or by flouting the procedure laid down in Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994. Therefore, in our considered view, there is no force in this argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner.

31. Coming to the factum of initial notification dated 07.01.2015, having been issued for declaring the proposed area as Nagar Panchayat and thereafter the words "Nagar Panchayat" have been substituted with words "Nagar Parishad" vide corrigendum dated 19.01.2015, in our considered view, the issuance of neither of these two notifications can be faulted with on the basis of grounds taken in the petition. We have already held that the procedure contemplated for declaring the area as a Municipality was strictly followed by the Government before issuance of notification dated 07.01.2015. Respondent-State has duly explained the need to issue corrigendum dated 19.01.2015. Replies filed by the respondents as well as records demonstrate that after fulfilling all the formalities as are contemplated in Section 4 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, when the matter was placed before the Cabinet for its approval on 25.11.2014, the approval granted by the Cabinet is as follows:

"Approved the constitution of Nagar Parishad at Nerchowk".

This was followed by issuance of notification dated 07.01.2015, however, inadvertently in this notification, instead of "Nagar Parishad", the words published were "Nagar Panchayat". To correct/rectify this mistake, corrigendum dated 19.01.2015 was issued, in which the words "Nagar Panchayat", Nerchowk were substituted with words "Nagar Parishad", Nerchowk. It is also pertinent to observe that before issuance of corrigendum, there was no requirement to serve a notice of not less than 30 days, as is contemplated in second proviso to Sub-section(2) of Section

3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, because pursuant to notification dated 07.01.2015, the procedure contemplated in Sub-Section (2) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 had not yet been completed and corrigendum was issued by the State Government before that. Therefore, there is no merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that corrigendum dated 19.01.2015 is not sustainable in law as it is in violation of second proviso to Sub-section(2) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994.

34. Now coming to notification dated 26.09.2015, vide which Gram Sabha areas have been excluded for the purpose of including them into Municipal Council, respondents No. 2 and 4 in their reply have stated that in view of final notification issued by the Department of Urban Development Annexure P-9, dated 07.01.2015 and corrigendum Annexure P-10, dated 19.01.2015 regarding Nagar Parishad, Ner Chowk, Panchayati Raj Department had issued final notification for exclusion of the areas from respective Gram Panchayats/Gram Sabhas taking into consideration the opinion of the Law Department, wherein it was mentioned that the provisions of the second proviso to Sub-section(2) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 have precedence over the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act. It was also mentioned in the reply that proposal for the inclusion of areas of the respective Gram Panchayats/Gram Sabhas was initiated and notified by the Department of Urban Development at first instance as per the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994 and, therefore, Panchayati Raj Department had issued final notification vide Annexure P-16, 26.09.2015 for exclusion of areas from the respective Gram Panchayats/Gram Sabhas and role of the Panchayati Raj Department was limited to follow the provisions of Panchayati Raj Act where the Urban Development Department had notified the Gram Panchayat areas to be included in Municipal limits. Incidentally, the stand so taken by the Panchayati Raj Department to justify the issuance of notification dated 26.09.2015 (Annexure P-16) has not been rebutted by the petitioner by filing any rejoinder etc. We otherwise also find considerable merit in the averments so made in the reply for the reason that the fact of the matter remains that the affected inhabitants of Gram Panchayats/Gram Sabhas, who were excluded from Gram Panchayats/Gram Sabhas vide notification dated 26.09.2015 (Annexure P-16) were otherwise heard under the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994, as they were given due opportunity of filing their objections vide notification dated 04.06.2014. Therefore, it cannot be said that the affected parties were not given an opportunity of being heard, as is being tried to be portrayed by the petitioner.

35. Even otherwise, declaration of Municipalities is a legislative function, which is undertaken by the Government in larger public interest and ordinarily Courts are not to interfere in the decisions so undertaken by the State Government until and unless the judicial conscious of the Court is satisfied that the decision so taken is not in public interest, but has been taken with ulterior motive at the behest of some interested person or persons who personally stand to gain by the declaration of such Municipality. In this case, the petitioner has not been able to demonstrate or prove the same. Petitioner has not been able to demonstrate or prove that the declaration of area subject matter of the writ petition into a Nagar Parishad is either not in public interest or this decision has not been taken by the Government in larger interest of inhabitants of the area, but the same has been taken by the State Government to help a few individuals or the declaration was not done by following statutory requirements of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Act, 1994.

36. It is settled law that function of the Government while establishing a Municipality is neither executive nor administrative, but it is a legislative process.

37. In Tulsipur Sugar Co. Ltd. Vs. The Notified Area Committee, Tulsipur, (1980) 2 SCC 295, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with U.P. Town Areas Act, 1914 has held that power of the State Government to make a declaration under the same is legislative in character.

38. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Baldev Singh and Ors. Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (1987) 2 SCC 510, has held that affording of hearing to affected persons is essential prerequisite for constituting notified area, however, hearing contemplated is not required to be oral and can be by inviting objections and disposing them of in a fair way.

39. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sundarjas Kanyalal Bhathiaja and ors. Vs. The Collector, Thane, Maharashtra and ors., AIR 1990 SC 261,has also held that rules of natural justice are not applicable to legislative action plenary or subordinate. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in para-23 of the judgment has held:

> "23. Reverting to the case, we find that the conclusion of the High Court as to the need to reconsider the proposal to form the Corporation has neither the attraction of logic nor the support of law. It must be noted that the function of the Government in establishing a Corporation under the Act is neither executive nor administrative. Counsel for the appellants was right in his submission that it is legislative process indeed. No judicial duty is laid on the Government in discharge of the statutory duties. The only question to be examined is whether the statutory provisions have been complied with. If they are complied with,, then, the Court could say no more. In the present case the Government did publish the proposal by a draft notification and also considered the representations received. It was only thereafter, a decision was taken to exclude Ulhasnagar for the time being. That decision became final when it was notified under Section 3(2). The Court cannot sit in judgment over such decision. It cannot lay down norms for the exercise of that power. It cannot substitute even "its juster will for theirs.""

40. In Karnail Singh and another Vs. Darshan Singh and Ors., 1995 Supp.(1) SCC 760, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that amalgamation of two gram sabhas into one is an administrative decision taken by the authorities in public interest and the Court would not interfere unless the same is vitiated with malafides.

41. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Solapur Midc Industries Association and ors. Vs. State of Maharashtra and ors., reported in (1996) 9 SCC 621,has held:

> "3. It is not disputed that since the State Government has not yet withdrawn the industrial estate/industrial area concerned from the hold of the Corporation, the provisions of the 1961 Act continue to apply. The Preamble thereof is suggestive of its objects sought to be achieved namely the orderly establishment in industrial areas and industrial estates of industries, and to assist generally in the organisation thereof, and for that purpose to establish the Industrial Development Corporation and for purposes connected with the matters therewith. The purpose of the 1949 Act on the other hand, as is suggestive from its Preamble, is to provide for the establishment of Municipal Corporations with a view to ensure a better municipal government of the cities in which municipal corporations are set up. These being the basic differences as to the ambit of the two statutes, the High Court, in our view, rightly arrived at the conclusion that there was inter se no conflict between the two. There may be certain areas such as provision for civil amenities in which there is identity of purpose but these are ancillary and incidental to the main purpose of the respective two statutes. The suggestion drawn from the Assembly debates, to which our attention has been drawn, while passing the 1961 Act, suggestive of the fact that the industrial estates or industrial areas on ripening were meant to be kept under the purview of the 1961 Act until some civic administration in the form of a Panchayat or Municipality could take over is not supported by any statutory provision available in the respective two Acts. As said before the topics of legislation being different, there was no question of their rubbing against each other because being enacted under two different legislative fields."

42. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nagar Panchayat Kurwai and another Vs. Mahesh Kumar Singhal and ors., reported in (2013) 12 SCC 342, has held that Nagar Panchayat, is a unit of self-government, which is a sovereign body having both constitutional and statutory status and considerable powers are conferred on it to carry out various schemes for economic development and social justice at the local level.

43. In view of above discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, we do not find any merit in the petition, which is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. No order as to costs.

For the Appellant: Mr. Satyan Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Surender Kumar Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

Instant Regular Second Appeal filed under Section 100 of the Code of Civil procedure, is directed against the judgment and decree dated 17.11.2006, passed by learned District Judge, Mandi, H.P., in Civil Appeal No.8 of 2006, reversing the judgment and decree dated 24.11.2005, passed by learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Sundernagar, District Mandi, H.P. in Civil Suit No.70/2002, whereby suit for compensation having been filed by respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff') was dismissed.

2. Briefly stated facts, as emerged from the record, are that plaintiff-respondent filed a suit as an indigent person under Order 33 Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure for compensation amounting to Rs.two lacs alongwith interest @ 8% against appellant-defendant averring therein that on 16.2.1998, when he was sleeping on the roof of his house at village Jarol, then all of sudden at 9.00 A.M. there was a dazzling spark and a big mass of fire got discharged from the electric wire, passing above the house of the plaintiff, and the said mass of the fire engulfed the plaintiff, as a result of which his body was badly burnt. Plaintiff further averred that in the aforesaid incident he was suffered injury to his right arm, fingers and right leg. It is further averred by the plaintiff in the plaint that his muscles from left leg were removed and planted on the right side of the whole body. Plaintiff further averred that due to electrocution, he was unable to walk, sit and sleep properly and suffered pain continuously. Plaint further reveals that after aforesaid incident, plaintiff became unconscious and was taken to Primary Health Centre, Jarol and thereafter to Civil Hospital, Sundernagar, but doctors at Civil Hospital, Sundernagar referred the plaintiff to PGI, Chandigarh, where he remained admitted for 3½ months. Plaintiff further alleged that after having taking treatment from PGI, Chandigarh, he again remained as indoor patient at Civil Hospital, Sundernagar for 3½ months and in this process, his entire savings were spent on his treatment. Plaintiff also claimed that he was accompanied by two attendants and was given three bottles of blood and 500 bottles of glucose and in this process he spent more than Rs.two lacs on his treatment. Plaint further suggests that at the time of accident, plaintiff was a qualified carpenter and used to earn Rs.200/- per day, but by the said accident he has now been deprived of doing any physical work. It is further averred in the plaint that there is a history of longevity in his family, since his father is still alive and his grand-father expired at the age of 90 years and at that relevant time he was 25 years of age. In the aforesaid background, the plaintiff claimed compensation to the tune of Rs.two lacs with interest from the defendants.

3. Defendants, by way of detailed written statement refuted the version having been put forth by the plaintiff on the ground of maintainability, estoppel, cause of action, non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties and lack of jurisdiction. Apart from above, defendant also contested the case of the plaintiff on merits by stating that he is not a poor person, rather, he has handsome income from the land and other sources. Defendants admitted that they have installed 33 KV H.T. line, which passes through village Jarol in the year 1965, and the same is well maintained having rail polls of iron and none of the house come underneath the line at the time of its erection. Defendants further claimed that no accident from electricity wires has taken place and as such the plaintiff is not entitled for any compensation. Defendants further averred that no complaint, whatsoever, was received by the staff of the defendants nor any FIR was lodged. Defendants further claimed that at the time of alleged accident, plaintiff was not owner of house at Jarol, rather he had one small khokha from where he used to sell beedies, cigrates and toffees etc. Defendants further claimed that there was no house underneath the electricity line, as claimed by the plaintiff, and if any person constructs anything under the line then that person himself is responsible for the same and no compensation, if any, can be claimed against the defendants. In nutshell, defendants stated that since there was no accident, as alleged by the plaintiff, there is no question of negligence on the part of defendants and plaintiff was not entitled to any compensation. Defendants further stated that they have maintained the electricity line and there was neither complaint of loose sagging of line nor it ever touched the ground and the line was erected as per law. It is further alleged by the defendants that requisite height as well as vertical and horizontal distances are maintained from the ground level as well as from the houses. In the aforesaid background, defendants sought dismissal of the suit.

4. Learned trial Court, on the pleadings of the parties, framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether on 16.2.1995 there was discharge from electric wires passing over the houses of the plaintiff as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether this discharge from the electric wires was on account of negligent act/omission on behalf of officials of defendants as alleged, if so, to what effect? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff suffer on accout of electrocution and as such he is entitled for damages? If so, to what extent? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff is also entitled to interest? If so, at what rate? OPP.

5. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.

6. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.

7. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the suit? OPD.

8. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD.

9. Whether the court has no jurisdiction to entertain the suit as alleged? OPD.

10. Whether the plaint is not properly valued as alleged? OPD.

11. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is liable to be dismissed with special cost U/S 35-A of the CPC? OPD.

12. Whether the plaintiff has suppressed the material facts from the court as alleged? If so, to what effect?

13. Relief."

5. Subsequently, learned trial Court on the basis of pleading of the parties, vide judgment dated 24.11.2005 dismissed the suit having been filed by the plaintiff seeking therein compensation on account of electrocution suffered by him due to negligence of the defendants.

6. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, plaintiff preferred an appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure in the Court of learned District Judge, Mandi, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.8 of 2006. Learned District Judge, taking note of the pleadings as well as evidence adduced on record by respective parties, allowed the appeal, set aside the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court and decreed the suit of the plaintiff for Rs.1,66,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till its realization.

7. In the aforesaid background, appellant-defendant filed instant Regular Second Appeal laying therein challenge to the judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Mandi, whereby suit of the plaintiff was decreed with a prayer to quash and set aside the same.

8. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:-

"(1) Whether the plaintiff was entitled to compensation without the negligence having been proved and as such, there has been misreading of evidence by the first appellate Court?

9. Mr.Satyan Vaidya, learned Senior Advocate, vehemently argued that judgment passed by the learned District Judge, whereby suit having been filed by the present plaintiff was decreed, is not sustainable as the same is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by respective parties and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Vaidya further contended that learned District Judge, while coming to the conclusion that plaintiff suffered injury on account of electrocution, miserably failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the appellant, who in no manner could be termed to be negligent as has been held by the Court below. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid argument, Mr.Vaidya contended that there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that plaintiff was able to prove the manner/circumstances in which he suffered electricity shock because as per evidence led on record by the plaintiff, electricity lines in question were in existence for many years and similarly the slab covered house was also in existence for many years. Mr.Vaidya, while specifically inviting the attention of this Court to the statement, having been made by the plaintiff PW-2, wherein he claimed that on that ill-fated day, he was basking in the sun at around 9.00 A.M., when the plaintiff claimed to have suffered electric shock, while sleeping over the slap on account of dazzling spark coming from overhead electric wires in the form of a round ball of fire. Mr.Vaidya forcefully contended that it is impossible to believe that there was dazzling spark in the electric wires, because no positive evidence worth the name was led on record by the plaintiff from where it could be inferred that spark, if any, was caused due to joining of the electric wires.

10. Mr.Vaidya, while referring to the judgment passed by learned trial Court, strenuously argued that the same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record and as such there was no occasion, whatsoever, for the first appellate Court to set aside the same that too on very flimsy grounds and as such impugned judgment having been passed by learned first appellate Court deserves to be quashed and set a side. Mr.Vaidya, further contended that no definite opinion with regard to dazzling spark allegedly coming from the overhead electric wires could be given without there being examination, if any, of technical expert, who would have proved the possibility of generation of such spark and the consequent possibility and capability of causing injury to human being by such spark and as such findings recorded by the learned District Judge in the absence of such evidence has rendered judgment and decree passed by learned Court below vitiated and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

11. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Vaidya invited the attention of this Court to medical evidence on record to suggest that even nature of injury suffered by the plaintiff was not properly appreciated by learned District Judge, because, if for the sake of arguments it is accepted that dazzling spark came from overhead electric wires, the possible nature of the injuries, which could have been inflicted on the person of the plaintiff are not proved and as such, judgment passed by learned first appellate Court, whereby appellants-defendants have been held to be negligent, is not sustainable being contrary to the material available on record.

12. Mr.Vaidya further contended that learned District Judge has brushed aside the legal evidence led by the defendants, particularly, positive evidence led on record that there is automatic tripping of electricity in case of any fault on the line or fault, as alleged by the plaintiff and as such version of plaintiff is doubtful that there was some dazzling spark emanated from the electricity wires at the relevant point of time. Mr.Vaidya further contended that learned District Judge assessed the compensation on higher side because otherwise also plaintiff would have been entitled to compensation to the extent of 40% loss of income suffered by him. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Vaidya prayed that the present appeal may be accepted and the suit filed by the plaintiff may be dismissed after setting aside the impugned judgment passed by learned District Judge.

13. Mr.Surinder Verma, learned counsel representing the respondents, supported the judgment passed by the learned District Judge. Mr.Verma, while referring to the judgment passed by learned District Judge, strenuously argued that bare perusal of the same suggests that same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such there is no scope of interference of this Court, especially in view of the fact that Court below has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously. Mr.Verma further contended that bare perusal of the judgment passed by learned trial Court, whereby the suit having been filed by the present plaintiff was dismissed, clearly suggests that evidence led on record by the plaintiff was not read in its right perspective, as a result of which erroneous finding had come on record which was rightly set aside by the learned first appellate Court in the appeal having been preferred by the plaintiff.

14. Mr.Verma further contended that bare perusal of the evidence led on record by the plaintiff clearly suggests that he was electrocuted due to negligence on the part of the defendants and as such he was rightly compensated by the learned District Judge, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff for compensation. With a view to substantiate aforesaid arguments, Mr.Verma invited the attention of this Court to the oral as well as documentary evidence led on record by the plaintiff to demonstrate that plaintiff successfully proved on record that when he was sleeping on the roof of his house, there was dazzling spark and a big mass of fire got discharged from the electric wire, passing above the house of the plaintiff and said mass of the fire engulfed the plaintiff, as a result of which he suffered injuries on his body and he was unable to walk, sit and sleep properly. He invited the attention of this Court to the medical evidence led on record by the plaintiff to suggest that plaintiff successfully proved on record that in the aforesaid incident he was rendered 40% disable and as such he was entitled to be compensated qua the amount which he actually spent on his treatment.

15. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Verma strenuously argued that there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned judgment passed by first appellate Court, whereas judgment passed by learned trial Court clearly suggests that same is not based upon proper appreciation of evidence, as such, the same was rightly set aside by the first appellate Court. Mr.Verma further prayed that the appeal filed by the appellant may be dismissed.

16. Minute scrutiny of impugned judgment vis-à-vis evidence, be it ocular or documentary, adduced on record by respective parties, nowhere suggests that there has been misreading and mis-appreciation of evidence by the learned first appellate Court, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff after setting aside the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court below. Rather, this Court is of the view that plaintiff successfully proved on record that he suffered injuries on his person after being electrocuted while he was sleeping on the roof/slab of his house.

17. Plaintiff, with a view to prove his case, examined himself as PW-1 and successfully proved on record the version put forth by him in the plaint by stating that on 16.2.1998, when he was sleeping on the roof of his house, a dazzling spark came from High Tension Wires passing over his house, as a result of which he suffered injuries on his body. He also stated that he was taken to Chandigarh for treatment for such burnt injury on his right arm and leg. He also stated that he suffered 40% disability in the aforesaid accident as was assessed by the doctor. Cross-examination conducted upon this witness suggests that appellants-defendants were not able to extract anything contrary to what he stated in his examination-in-chief, rather plaintiff admitted in his cross-examination that High Tension Line is existing for the last 30-40 years and he has one house at Jarol. The aforesaid statement cannot be read in isolation, especially in view of further statement having been given by plaintiff, wherein he stated that said house was purchased by him from PW-2 Balak Ram. Plaintiff specifically stated that the house in which he is living is in existence for the last 40 to 45 years and the same is pucca house. Perusal of cross-examination conducted on the aforesaid plaintiff witness nowhere, suggests that any suggestion worth the name regarding negligence, if any, on his part was put to him, rather question with regard to existence of property and its ownership were put to plaintiff, who successfully proved on record that at the time of accident he was living in the house which was in existence for more than last 40 to 45 years.

18. With a view to prove his case, plaintiff also examined PW-2 Balak Ram and PW-3, Bangalu, who also corroborated the version put forth by the plaintiff. PW-2 specifically stated that earlier he was living in the said house for the last 4-5 years prior to purchase made by the plaintiff. It has also come in his statement that on the date of accident, Balak Ram was sleeping on the roof of the house and accident took place due to sparking of the wires. In his cross-examination, he corroborated the version put forth by the plaintiff that the house, which was sold by him to the plaintiff, was constructed by his ancestors about 30 to 35 years back. Interestingly, cross-examination conducted on this witness, nowhere suggests that suggestion, if any, was put to him that it was only after 1998-99, plaintiff raised fresh construction of the house over the purchased land/ house, rather question with regard to income of the plaintiff were put to this witness.

19. PW-3 specifically stated that he saw dazzling light coming from High Tension Line in the shape of balloon, which fell on the plaintiff Babu Ram. He also stated that thereafter Babu Ram was shifted to local dispensary. Like PW-2, he also stated in his cross-examination that electric wires passing through Jarol are quite old and Balak Ram sold his house to the plaintiff.

20. Apart from above oral evidence, plaintiff also led on record documentary evidence in shape of sale deed Ex.PW-2/A, whereby PW-2 Balak Ram had sold his land comprised in Khasra Nos.2324/1117 and 2324/1117/1, measuring 0-0-9 bigha for total consideration of Rs.50,000/- on 6.8.1999. Perusal of aforesaid sale deed clearly suggests that there is/was a house existing over the land referred hereinabove. Similarly, Jamabandi for the year 1997-98 annexed with sale deed also suggests that Khasra No.2624/1117, measuring 0-1-0 bigha is recorded as 'Gair Mumkin Makan' and as such version put forth by the defendants in their written statement that there is no house of the plaintiff over the disputed land was rightly rejected by learned first appellate Court in appeal having been preferred by the plaintiff.

21. Conjoint reading of the statements of aforesaid plaintiff witnesses, coupled with the documentary evidence led on record by the plaintiff, clearly proves on record that High Tension Lines passes over the house of the plaintiff, which is in existence for more than 35-40 years. It also stands proved on record that at the time of incident, house was owned and possessed by plaintiff, who had purchased it from Balak Ram PW-2.

22. Aforesaid plaintiff witness is unequivocally stated that on that day when plaintiff was sleeping on the roof of this house, dazzling light came from High Tension line in the shape of balloon and engulfed the plaintiff, as a result of which he sustained injuries on his person.

23. Defendant, with a view to refute the claim of the plaintiff, examined one Garza Ram as DW-1, who happened to be Foreman at that relevant time. He in his statement stated that 33 KV HT line is under his supervision and no complaint, whatsoever, was received in the year 1998 from any person. He also stated that there is no house at Jarol, but in his cross-examination stated that High Tension line was installed in the year 1965. In his cross-examination he also admitted that plaintiff suffered burn injuries though exact cause is not known to him. He also stated that he cannot say that the plaintiff was sleeping on 16.2.1998 on the roof of his house. He also stated that he was not aware that the house of the plaintiff is under High Tension line. It has also come in his statement that High Tension line has to be 22 feet from the ground, but he feigned ignorance about the height of the said line from the roof of the house of the plaintiff.

24. DW-2 Surender Kumar, T-mate with Sub Division, Sundernagar, stated that in the event of any fault of the High Tension line, there is automatic tripping. He further stated that plaintiff has built his house in the year 1998, whereas High Tension line was laid much prior to that. In his cross-examination, he also admitted that High Tension line passes over the house of the plaintiff. He further admitted that a person standing on the house of the plaintiff can even touch the said standing person.

25. Perusal of aforesaid statements having been made by the defendant witnesses clearly suggests that there are material contradictions in the stand having been taken by both the aforesaid witnesses with regard to existence of the house of the plaintiff on the spot. DW-1 in his statement stated that there is no house of the plaintiff in Jarol, whereas DW-2 though admitted that the plaintiff has house at Jarol, but, the same was built in the year 1998, whereas High Tension line was laid much prior to that. DW-2 further admitted that High Tension line passes over the house of the plaintiff. As has been discussed above, DW-2 in his statement categorically admitted that person standing on the roof of the house of the plaintiff can even touch the High Tension line, which clearly belies the stand taken by the appellants-defendants in their written statement that there is no house of the plaintiff below the High Tension line and the height of the High Tension line has been properly maintained under the H.P. Electricity Act. Evidence led on record, be it ocular or documentary, nowhere suggests that defendants were able to prove on record that plaintiff raised construction of his house in the year 1998-99, as claimed by DW-2 in his statement. Similarly, no evidence worth the name has been led on record by the defendants to prove the averments contained in the written statement that there is no house of the plaintiff at Jarol below HT line. Perusal of the impugned judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court clearly suggests that court below while concluding that defendant-department was negligent in maintaining the HT line passing over the house of the plaintiff, carefully examined the provisions contained in Indian Electricity Act and Rules, wherein under Rule 80, height of 12 feet is/ was required to be maintained from the upper portion of the roof of the building, but in the instant case, as emerged from the statement of DW-2, there was no distance at all between the roof of the plaintiff and the HT line because he categorically stated that HT line passing over the roof of the plaintiff could even touch the head of the person. Aforesaid statement having been made by DW-2 coupled with the fact that defendants failed to maintain height in terms of Rule 80 of the Indian Electricity Act, as reproduced in the impugned judgment of the trial Court, this Court is unable to accept the contention having been made by Shri Vaidya, learned Senior counsel representing the appellants-defendants, that plaintiff was not able to prove any negligence on the part of the appellants-defendants and as such he was not entitled to any compensation.

26. Conjoint reading of the evidence led on record by the plaintiff as well as defendant clearly proves on record that on ill-fated day plaintiff suffered injuries on his person after being electrocuted. Plaintiff successfully proved on record that house in question was in existence prior to laying of HT line by the defendants and as such by no stretch of imagination it can be concluded especially, in view of the evidence led on record by the defendant that construction, if any, was raised by the plaintiff after laying of the HT line. Medical evidence led on record by the plaintiff clearly proves on record injuries suffered by the plaintiff during aforesaid incident. PW-4 Dr.L.D. Vaidya specifically proved disability certificate Ex.PW-4/A. Ghanshayam Gupta, also proved on record that on 16.2.1998 plaintiff was admitted in the hospital and thereafter referred to PGI, Chandigarh for better treatment. Prescription slip made at the time of admission of the plaintiff after accident also suggests that the plaintiff had suffered electric shock injuries and even after getting back from the PGI, he was periodically checked up by doctors at Sundernagar. Dr.Anil Chauhan PW-5 also supported the version put forth by the plaintiff that he was treated for electric burn injury and he proved on record discharge certificate Ex.PW-5/A. Cross-examination conducted upon these witnesses nowhere suggests that defendants-appellants were able to extract anything contrary to what they stated in their examination-in–chief. Similarly, there is no mention, if any, with regard to other reason, if any, of injuries allegedly suffered by the plaintiff.

27. Hence, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court, which is admittedly based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff. This Court, after carefully examining the entire evidence led on record, has no hesitation to conclude that plaintiff successfully proved on record that he suffered injuries on his body after being electrocuted by the HT wire passing over his house, whereas no positive evidence has been led on record by the defendants, which could persuade this Court to conclude that appellants-defendants were not negligent in maintaining the HT wire, which was admittedly in existence prior to construction of the house in question. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

28. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid detailed discussion, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court and as such the same is upheld and that of the learned trial Court is set aside. Hence, present appeal fails and the same is, accordingly dismissed.

29. Interim direction, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

For the Appellant: Mr.Y.P. Sood, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

Instant Regular Second Appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 25.2.2008 passed by learned District Judge (Forest), Shimla in Civil Appeal No.43-S/13 of 2007/06, affirming the judgment and decree dated 29.11.2005, passed by Civil Judge(Senior Division), Chopal, District Shimla in Civil Suit No.22-1 of 2005, whereby suit for recovery having been filed by the plaintiff-respondent (hereinafter referred to as the `plaintiff') has been decreed.

2. Briefly stated the facts, as emerged from the record, are that the plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of a sum of Rs.27,000/- against the defendant in the Court of learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Chopal, District Shimla, stating therein that the defendant approached him and offered to purchase the apple crop in the apple season of the year 2004 from the apple orchard of plaintiff. Plaintiff further averred that deal was settled between plaintiff and defendant for full and final consideration amounting to Rs.1,01,000/- only. As per plaintiff, defendant made payment of Rs.76,000/- to the plaintiff being part payment of the cost of apple crop but remaining balance payment of Rs.25,000/- was to be made after sale of entire apple crop in the market. Plaintiff further claimed that defendant had agreed in writing and had undertaken to make the remaining payment of the sale of apples in the market. Plaintiff averred in the plaint that defendant acknowledged the liability to pay the balance amount of Rs.25,000/- in favour of plaintiff on 31.8.2004 and beside above, defendant-appellant acknowledged the liability to make payment to the plaintiff on 11.7.2004, on which day he admitted the payment of Rs.11,000/- made by him to the plaintiff on 10.7.2004 and Rs.11,000/- earlier to 10.7.2004. Plaintiff further averred in the plaint that defendant-appellant acknowledged the liability to pay an amount of Rs.25,000/-, being balance payment, payable to the plaintiff, which is still recoverable from the defendant. Since defendant failed to make the payment within the stipulated period, plaintiff claimed an amount of Rs.27,000/- alongwith pending and future interest @ 8% per annum for one year i.e. w.e.f. 11th July, 2004 to 10th July, 2005.

3. Defendant by way of written statement refuted the aforesaid claim of the plaintiff as set up in the plant in toto by stating that he neither approached the plaintiff nor offered to purchase his apple crop. He further stated that no deed was finally settled between him and plaintiff and as such there is no question of payment of Rs.27,000/- and remaining balance of Rs.25,000/-. Defendant also denied that he ever acknowledged the liability to pay the balance amount of Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff on 31.8.2004.

4. By way of replication, plaintiff reasserted his claim as set up in the plaint controverting the stand taken by the defendant in the written statement in toto.

5. On the basis of aforesaid pleadings learned trial Court below framed following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of recovery of Rs.27,000/- as prayed for? OPP.

2. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

3. Whether the plaintiff has no locus-standi and cause of action to file the present suit? OPD.

4. Relief."

6. Subsequently, learned trial Court vide judgment dated 29.11.2005 decreed the suit of the plaintiff for a sum of Rs.27,000/- and held him entitled for recovery of Rs.27,000/- from defendant with future interest @ 8% per annum from 11th July, 2004 to 10th July, 2005 till the realization of total decreetal amount with entire costs of the suit.

7. Appellant-defendant being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court filed an appeal in the Court of learned District Judge, Shimla, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.43-S/13 of 2007/06. Further, fact remains that aforesaid appeal, having been preferred by the defendant, was dismissed, as a result of which, judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court came to be upheld.

8. In the aforesaid background, appellant-defendant approached this Court by way of filing instant Regular Second Appeal praying therein for quashing and setting aside the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below.

9. This Court vide order dated 10.7.2009 admitted the instant appeal on the following substantial question of law:-

"Whether the findings recorded by the courts below in the absence of proof of execution and signatures of the appellant on Exhibit PW-1/A and PW-1/B are sustainable in view of the fact that the first appellate court below itself has come to the conclusion that the engtries made in PW-1/A and PW-1/B have not been proved in accordance with Section 67 of the Evidence Act?"

10. Mr.Y.P. Sood, learned counsel representing the appellant, vehemently argued that the judgments and decrees passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same are not based upon correct appreciation of evidence. Mr.Sood, while referring to the judgment passed by both the Courts below, further contended that both the Courts below, while decreeing the suit of plaintiff, mis-appreciated and mis-read the entire pleadings and evidence, as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the appellant-defendant who successfully proved on record that at no point of time he had purchased apple crop of the plaintiff, as alleged in the plaint.

11. With a view to substantiate his arguments that Courts below have failed to appreciate that there has been complete variance in the pleadings and evidence led by the plaintiff, Mr.Sood strenuously argued that bare perusal of plaint suggests that respondent had specifically alleged that out of alleged amount of Rs.1,01,000/-, Rs.76,000/- were paid to him and Rs.25,000/- were agreed to be paid by the appellant lateron. But in evidence, respondent alleged that he had made payment of Rs.11,000/- in two installments; first of Rs.10,000/- and second of Rs.1,000/- and remaining amount of Rs.65,000/- was paid by the defendant on 10th July, 2004. Mr.Sood, while referring to the variance allegedly made by the plaintiff in the plaint as well as in the replication, contended that Courts below miserably failed to appreciate the material variance between the pleadings and proof and as such failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it in accordance with law, as a result of which findings returned by the appellate Court are vitiated and cannot be allowed to sustain.

12. Mr. Sood, further contended that diary Ex.PW-1/A and pages of the diary Ex.PW-1/B could not be relied upon by the Courts below while fastening the liability on the appellant, especially when entries made in the same were not proved in accordance with Section 67 of the Indian Evidence Act. He further argued that no transaction could be proved, if any, between the parties by placing reliance upon the aforesaid diary Ex.PW-1/A and Ex.PW-1/B and no decree, whatsoever, could be passed by Courts below on the basis of self-created evidence. Mr.Sood, further contended that learned Courts below miserably erred in recording findings on the basis of inadmissible evidence i.e. diary Ex.PW-1/A. He further contended that contents of Ex.PW-1/B were never proved to have been recorded at the instance of appellant; neither the signatures of the same have been proved to be that of appellant. Since respondent-plaintiff did not lead any evidence as to in whose presence and when entries Ex.PW-1/B were made at the instance of appellant, no decree for recovery of amount as claimed in plaint could be passed against the defendant by the Courts below while placing reliance upon the aforesaid documents and as such judgments passed by both the Courts below deserve to be quashed and set aside.

13. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Sood invited the attention of this Court to the observations/findings returned by first appellate Court that, "Though the writing and signatures of the defendant on 12.7.2004 have not been proved in accordance with the provisions of Section 67 of the Indian Evidence Act, yet it appears that this diary was maintained by the plaintiff in the regular course of business", to suggest that even first appellate Court was convinced that no reliance, if any, could be placed upon the writings and signatures allegedly made in Diary Ex.PW-2/A and Ex.PW-2/B by the defendant, but despite that, judgment and decree passed by trial Court was upheld, which clearly suggests that there is no application of mind by the learned first appellate Court while analyzing and examining the genuineness and correctness of impugned judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Sood prayed that appeal may be accepted and the judgment and decree passed by the Courts below may be quashed and set aside.

14. In support of his contention Mr.Sood, also placed reliance on the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation and Another vs. Bajrang Lal, 2014 (4) SCC 693, D.R. Rathna Murthy vs. Ramappa, 2011(1) SCC 158 and Life Insurance Corporation of India and Another vs. Ram Pal Singh Bisen, 2010(4) SCC 491.

15. Mr.B.C. Verma, learned counsel representing the respondent supported the judgments and decrees passed by both the Courts below. Mr.Verma vehemently argued that bare perusal of the judgments and decree passed by both the Courts below, nowhere suggests that the same are not based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record by the respective parties, rather, close scrutiny of same suggests that Courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously and as such, there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, by this Court in the concurrent findings of fact and law returned by both the Courts below.

16. With a view to refute the contentions having been made by the counsel representing the appellant, Mr.Verma, invited the attention of this Court to the statements having been adduced on record by the plaintiff witnesses to demonstrate that apart from documentary evidence, Ex.PW-1/A and Ex.PW-1/B, there was overwhelming evidence led on record by the plaintiff to prove that defendant had purchased standing apple crop of the orchard of the plaintiff and in this regard he had paid an amount of Rs.75,000/- to the plaintiff and remaining Rs.25,000/- was agreed to be paid by the defendant after sale of the apple crop. He also refuted the contention put forth on behalf of Mr.Sood, learned counsel representing the appellant-defendant, that no reliance could be placed upon the documentary evidence i.e. Ex.PW-2/A and Ex.PW-2/B since it was not proved in accordance with law. As per Mr.Verma, both the Courts below rightly placed reliance upon the documentary evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff to conclude that an amount of Rs.25,000/- was payable by the defendant to the plaintiff on account of his liability to pay the balance sale consideration to the plaintiff.

17. Mr.B.C. Verma, learned Counsel appearing for the respondent-plaintiff, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below and vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the fact that both the Courts below have meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. He also urged that scope of interference by this Court is very limited, especially when two Courts have recorded concurrent findings on the facts as well as law. In this regard, to substantiate his aforesaid plea, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264.

18. Perusal of pleadings as well as evidence led on record by respective parties to substantiate their pleadings clearly establish on record that there was a deal between the plaintiff and defendant with regard to apple crop in the apple season of year 2004. As per deal, plaintiff sold entire apple crop in the apple season of year 2004 to the defendant for full and final consideration/costs of Rs.1,01,000/- only. Plaintiff specifically stated in the plaint that out of aforesaid agreed amount, defendant made part payment of Rs.76,000/-, whereas remaining amount of Rs.25,000/- was to be paid after sale of entire apple crop in the market, which was agreed by the defendant in writing and he had undertaken to make the same good after sale of the apple in the market.

19. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid claim, plaintiff examined himself as PW-1 and reiterated the version put forth by him in the plaint by stating that he sold the apple orchard to defendant in the year 2004 for a sale consideration of Rs.1,01,000/-. He further stated that out of agreed amount, an amount of Rs.76,000/- was paid to him by the defendant and remaining amount of Rs.25,000/- was agreed to be paid lateron. It has also come in his statement that Rs.11,000/- were paid in the month of June and an amount of Rs.65,000/- was paid by the defendant on 10th of July. He also stated that he had made entry in his diary on 10.7.2004 and on 11.7.2004 it was acknowledged by the defendant that he has still to make payment of Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff. Plaintiff further stated before the Court below that on 31.8.2004, one deed was scribed by Jhinu Ram, wherein it was again agreed by the defendant to make payment of Rs.25,000/- to him. Plaintiff also stated before the Court that on 12.7.2005, he deposited an amount of Rs.65,000/- in shape of FDR in the bank at Jhiknipul. He also stated that since defendant failed to make balance amount of Rs.25,000/- to him, he filed a suit for recovery of an amount of Rs.25,000/- alongwith interest. During his statement, he also proved entry allegedly made by him as well as by defendant on 10th and 11th July, 2004 in his diary Ex.PW-1/A. Cross-examination conducted upon this witness, nowhere suggests that defendant was able to extract anything contrary to what plaintiff stated in his examination-in-chief. He specifically denied that no transaction to sell the Orchard to the defendant was ever entered into between him and the defendant for an amount of Rs.1,01,000/-. He also denied the suggestion that no payment of Rs.65,000/- was made by the defendant on 10.7.2004. He further denied the suggestion put to him by the defendant that an amount of Rs.25,000/- is not outstanding against the defendant. Close scrutiny of aforesaid statement having been made by PW-1 clearly proves on record the contents of plaint having been filed by the plaintiff.

20. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid claim, plaintiff also examined PW-2 Sham Singh and PW-3 Jhinu Ram. PW-2 also corroborated the version put forth by the plaintiff with regard to sale of apple orchard to the defendant by the plaintiff for a total consideration of Rs.1,01,000/-. He also supported the version put forth by PW-1 that out of aforesaid amount an amount of Rs.10,000/- was paid in advance in his presence. Similarly, in his cross-examination, defendant was not able to extract anything contrary to what he stated in examination-in-chief, rather he specifically denied the suggestion put to him that no advance payment of Rs.10,000/- was paid by the defendant to the plaintiff.

21. PW-3 Jhinu Ram admitted that he scribed document Ex.PW-3/A, wherein defendant undertook to make balance payment of Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff. He admitted his signatures on the document Ex.PW-3/A encircled 'B'. He also admitted that defendant acknowledged all the terms and conditions laid down in document Ex.PW-3/A. Cross-examination conducted upon this witness also nowhere, suggests that defendant was able to extract anything contrary to what he stated in his examination-in–chief. He also denied the suggestion put to him by the defendant that apples from the orchard of the plaintiff were not forwarded to the defendant and defendant was not an apple contractor. Aforesaid plaintiff witnesses PW-2 and PW-3 clearly proved the stand of the plaintiff that he had sold apple crop in the year 2004 from his apple orchard to defendant for a total consideration of Rs.1,01,000/-.

Both the aforesaid witnesses categorically stated that an amount of Rs.75,000/- was received by the plaintiff as an advance payment, whereas remaining amount of Rs.25,000/- was to be paid by the defendant after sale of the apple crop. True, it is that to substantiate aforesaid claim, plaintiff also placed reliance upon documentary evidence Ex.PW-1/A and Ex.PW-1/B and stated that in the month of June, 2004, defendant had made payment of Rs.11,000/- and on 10th July, 2004, he had made payment of Rs.65,000/-. Similarly, plaintiff also stated that he had made entry in his diary Ex.PW-2/A, wherein defendant acknowledged that he still to make payment of Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff. As has been noticed above, that apart from documentary evidence, as discussed above, plaintiff by way of leading cogent and convincing evidence in shape of PW-2 and PW-3 successfully proved on record that he had sold his apple crop to defendant for total consideration of Rs.1,01,000/-, out of which he received Rs.75,000/- in total and as such, it cannot be concluded by trial Court below, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff, solely placed reliance upon entry made in the diary i.e. Ex.PW-1/A and Ex.PW-1/B. Rather, plaintiff by way of leading oral evidence, as has been discussed above, successfully proved that there was deal between him and defendant with regard to apple crop in the year 2004 and just to substantiate his aforesaid claim, he placed reliance upon documentary evidence, which certainly corroborated oral version put forth by the plaintiff as well as his witnesses.

22. Apart from above, factum with regard to payment of Rs.65,000/- on 10.7.2004 stands duly proved from the statement of PW-4 i.e. Incharge, H.P. State Cooperative Bank, Jhiknipul, who corroborated the version put forth by the plaintiff that on 12.7.2004 he deposited Rs.65,000/- in shape of FDR i.e. Ex.PW-1/D in the name of Murat Singh i.e. plaintiff. There is nothing in cross-examination of this witness, which could be beneficial in any way to the case of defendant. Hence, this Court after conjoint reading of aforesaid statements of plaintiff witnesses has no hesitation to conclude that plaintiff successfully proved on record that defendant owed him Rs.25,000/- as balance payment towards total consideration of Rs.1,01,000/- in terms of oral agreement entered into between him and the plaintiff.

23. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that oral evidence led on record was sufficient for courts below to conclude that defendant owed Rs.25,000/- to plaintiff on account of balance payment out of total consideration and reliance, if any, placed on record by the courts below, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff on documentary evidence as discussed above, is only of corroborative nature. If plaint of plaintiff as well as his statement made before the Court is read in its entirety, it nowhere suggests that entire claim of the plaintiff was based upon documentary evidence i.e. diary Ex.PW-2/A and Ex.PW-2/B, rather, same was entered in evidence in support of his claim which he otherwise proved successfully by leading cogent and convincing oral evidence. To the contrary, if the written statement having been filed by the defendant as well as his statement is perused and examined carefully, it is total case of denial. He denied that no payment of Rs.65,000/- was ever made by him to the plaintiff. He also denied that he ever gave undertaking in writing on 31.8.2004, 10.7.2004 and 11.07.2004.

24. Apart from this, defendant did not examine any witness in support of his aforesaid claim, whereas, plaintiff by leading convincing evidence ,as has been discussed above, successfully proved his claim as set up in the plaint. PW-3 Jhinu Ram, who scribed document Ex.PW-3/A successfully proved on record that 31.8.2004 defendant Kewal Ram had acknowledged his liability to pay balance amount of Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff. Cross-examination conducted upon the aforesaid witness, nowhere suggests that any suggestion was put to him that he had some motive to falsely depose against the defendant. Rather, in cross-examination, he was put a suggestion that the plaintiff never offered his orchard to the defendant for sale which was specifically denied by PW-3 Jhinu Ram. There was no suggestion worth name with regard to document Ex.PW-3/A, which certainly compel this Court to conclude that on 31.8.2004, defendant acknowledged his liability to pay Rs.25,000/- to the plaintiff. Similarly, if document Ex.PW-3/A is taken into consideration, it certainly gives support to the contention of PW-1 that he had made certain entries on 10th and 11th July, 2004, wherein defendant had acknowledged balance payment of Rs.25,000/- payable by him to the plaintiff.

25. This Court, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of findings returned by the Courts below that "perusal of signatures of defendant appended in diary Ex.PW-1/A are similar to his signatures appended by him on the summons", also perused both the documents which clearly suggests that there is striking similarity between both the signatures allegedly appended by the defendant on both the documents. There cannot be any quarrel with regard to the observation having been made by the learned first appellate Court while rejecting the appeal preferred by the appellant-defendant that writing and signatures of defendant on11.7.2004 have not been proved in accordance with Section 67 of the Indian Evidence Act, but, as has been discussed in detail above, the aforesaid assertion/stand may not have any bearing on the other findings returned by the Courts below, which are otherwise based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff. Certainly record suggests that writings and signatures of the defendant, as contained in the documentary evidence Ex.PW-2/A, were not proved in accordance with the provisions of Section 67 of the Indian Evidence Act, but as has been observed above, plaintiff, apart from placing reliance upon aforesaid documentary evidence, successfully proved on record by leading oral cogent and convincing evidence that he sold his apple crop to defendant for a total consideration of Rs.1,01,000/-, out of which he had received an amount of Rs.75,000/- from defendant. Since defendant was unable to shatter the testimony of aforesaid plaintiff witnesses, claim set up by the plaintiff could not be defeated merely on the averments contained in the written statement having been filed by the defendant.

26. At this stage, it may be noticed that case of the defendant was of total denial and he, apart from himself, failed to examine any witness in support of his claim. If defendant was seriously aggrieved with the assertion/claim of the plaintiff that defendant appended his signatures on the diary Ex.PW-1/A on 11.7.2004 and acknowledged balance payment, definitely he had option to move an appropriate application before appropriate Court of law for getting his signatures compared from the handwriting expert or Government Examiner of Questioned Documents, but, unfortunately, there is nothing on the file suggestive of the fact that any steps were ever taken by the defendant in this regard. Similarly, if defendant was prejudiced with the observation, if any, made by the learned Court below while recording the statement of PW-1, he had remedy of assailing the same by way of appropriate proceedings before the appropriate court of law.

27. This Court is fully satisfied that both the Courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in the present matter. Since both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings, which otherwise appear to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence, this Court has very limited jurisdiction/scope to interfere in the matter. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the relevant contents of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma's case supra, wherein the Court has held as under:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."(p.269)

28. Hence, this Court after carefully examining the evidence available on record has no hesitation to conclude that apart from documentary evidence Ex.PW-1/A, there was ample evidence led on record by the plaintiff to prove his claim and as such Courts below rightly decreed the suit of the plaintiff for an amount of Rs.27,000/- and there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgments having been passed by both the Courts below. Though writings contained in the document Ex.PW-1/B were not proved in accordance with Section 67 of the Indian Evidence Act, but, oral evidence led on record clearly corroborates the entries made in the diary Ex.PW-1/A. Substantial question is answered accordingly.

29. As far as judgments relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant-defendant are concerned, this Court is of the view that the same are not applicable in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma's case (supra).Moreover, this Court, while examining the correctness and genuineness of submissions having been made by the learned counsel representing the appellant, has perused evidence led on record by the respective parties, perusal whereof clearly suggests that the same have been appreciated in its right perspective.

30. In the facts and circumstances discussed above, this Court is of the view that findings returned by the trial Court below, which were further upheld by the first appellate Court, do not warrant any interference of this Court as findings given on the issues framed by the trial Court below as well as specifically taken up by this Court to reach the root of the controversy, appears to be based upon correct appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence. Hence, the present appeal fails and is dismissed, accordingly. There shall be no order as to costs.

31. Interim order, if any, is vacated. All the miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Parkash Chand & Others ....Appellants-Plaintiffs

Versus

State of H.P. & Others ..Respondents-Defendants

Date of decision: 27.12.2016

Code of Civil procedure, 1908- Section 100- Plaintiffs pleaded that their land was acquired for the construction of Chamera Hydro Electric Project Stage-II (NHPC) – Government decided to award Rs.2,50,000/- to the affected families, who were not given employment as per the agreement entered at the times of acquisition – employment or the compensation was not paid to the plaintiffs – hence, the suit was filed for the recovery of compensation- defendants denied the claim of the plaintiffs and asserted that requisite compensation was paid to the plaintiffs – the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and the judgement and decree passed by the Trial Court were set aside – held in second appeal that acquisition was not disputed – it was also not disputed that one member of the family of the ousted person was to be provided employment and in the alternative compensation – it is admitted that plaintiffs had received compensation of Rs.2,50,000/- regarding 3-2 bighas of land – plaintiff asserted that they are entitled to financial package regarding 17 biswas of land– record shows that 17 biswas of land was not independent but part of the acquired land – financial package was received by all the legal representatives of P, the previous owner- plaintiffs are not entitled to separate compensation – appeal dismissed. (Para-17 to 28)

For the Appellants: Mr.Anand Sharma, Advocate.

For Respondents 1 & 2: Mr.P.M. Negi, Additional Advocate General with Mr.Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

For Respondent No.3: Mr.Sameer Thakur, Advocate vice Mr.Rajnish Maniktala, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellants-plaintiffs against the judgment and decree dated 22.6.2006, passed by the learned District Judge, Chamba, District Chamba, H.P., reversing the judgment and decree dated 5.8.2005, passed by learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Chamba, District Chamba, whereby the suit filed by the appellants-plaintiffs has been decreed.

2. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the appellant-plaintiffs (herein after referred to as the `plaintiffs'), filed a suit for recovery of Rs.2,50,000/- from the defendants being compensation amount in lieu of employment which was to be offered to the family members of oustees of Chamera Hydro Electric Project, Stage-II (NHPC). It is averred by the plaintiffs that the land belonging to them had been acquired on behalf of defendant No.3, Chamera Hydro Electric Project, Stage-II (NHPC) vide notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act dated 28.4.1988 and during the process of acquisition through private negotiation list of 120 families, whose land had been acquired, was prepared by defendant No.3 as 'oustees'. It is further averred by the plaintiffs that their names figured at Sr.No.11 of the list of oustees, whereas name of Smt.Ghimo, mother of the plaintiffs, figured at Sr.No.21. It is stated that on 18.11.2002 a High Power Committee constituted by the Government decided that a sum of Rs.2,50,000/- be awarded to the affected families, who were not given any employment as agreed at the time of negotiation between the claimants and Chamera Project Authorities. It is averred by the plaintiffs that uniform rate of compensation i.e. at the rate of Rs.40,000/- per bigha was decided to be paid by defendant No.3, whereas the land valued about Rs.4,00,000/- per bigha. It is further alleged in the plaint that defendant No.3 had deposited Rs.2,50,000/- for each of the 120 families, whose names figured in the list of oustees, and the said amount was deposited on 21.7.2003 with defendant No.2 for payment. It is alleged by the plaintiffs that they approached defendant No.2 for release of Rs.2,50,000/-, but the same was refused without assigning any valid reason. It is further alleged by the plaintiffs that their parents were having land in the same area to the extent of 3-2 bighas, which was also acquired and their names figured at Sr.No.21 in the list, as referred to above, but as their father, namely, Premo had died on 28.3.1994, the name of their mother Smt.Ghimo was shown as one of the oustees in place of their father being widow. It is further averred by the plaintiffs that their mother Smt.Ghimo had died on 7.3.2002, leaving behind Class-I legal heirs. It is also averred by the plaintiffs that since they were not given amount of Rs.2,50,000/-, despite being oustees, as stated above, they were constrained to file Civil Writ Petition No.673/2003, which was withdrawn by them on 23.9.2003 with permission to file Civil Suit in the competent Court of law. Suit in question has been filed by the plaintiffs claiming recovery of Rs.2,50,000/- with costs and interest at the rate of 12% per annum w.e.f. 22.7.2003 with the prayer that the same be decreed.

3. Defendants No.1 and 2, by way of filing written statement, raised various preliminary objections qua maintainability, suppression of material facts and locus standi. On merits, defendants admitted the plaintiffs to be resident of village Jukhradi and owners of land measuring 3-2-16 bighas. It is averred by the defendants that the above said land was owned by the father of plaintiffs, namely, Premo son of Madho son of Paraga, which had been acquired through private negotiation during 1988 vide award No.2/1988, dated 31.12.1988 in Mohal Karian by NHPC Chamera Project6-II. It is further averred by the defendants that the plaintiffs were not owners of the land measuring 4-9-0 bighas, as this land was infact owned by one another Premo son of Mussadi son of Kundan resident of village Karian. Thus, the plaintiffs have no locus standi as they are suppressing the true facts just to take this benefit twice. It is also alleged that the plaintiffs alongwith their sisters, who are legal heirs of deceased Premo son of Madho, have already been paid sufficient package of Rs.2,50,000/-, which were acknowledged by them and other legal heirs. It is further alleged that at the time of disbursement of package, an amount of Rs.2,50,000/- has been disbursed against Sr.No.21 in the list of oustees to the plaintiffs being legal heirs of Sh.Premo son of Madho. The defendants admitted that matter was discussed in the State Level Meeting held under the Chairmanship of Chief Minister and thereafter High Level Committee was constituted in which 120 families had been identified, who were the land owners and were given sufficient package of Rs.2,50,000/- each in lieu of employment. It is further asserted that perusal of list of oustees clearly shows that the land measuring 4-9-0 bighas was owned by Premo son of Mussadi son of Kundan, which has no concern with the plaintiffs and that the names of plaintiffs No.1 and 2 have been wrongly mentioned in the list of oustees due to typing mistake against entry made at Sr.No.11. In the aforesaid background the defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. Defendant No.3 also, by way of filing written statement, resisted the suit by raising preliminary objections of jurisdiction and that there was no cause of action against defendant No.3, since the entire amount of land acquired by defendant No.3 has been deposited with defendants No.1 and 2 with regard to land acquired for Chamera Stage-II. It is further alleged by defendant No.3 that no cause of action arose by filing of CWP No.673/2003 by the plaintiffs and subsequently withdrawal thereof. In view of above, defendant No.3 prayed for dismissal of the suit filed by the plaintiffs.

5. The plaintiffs filed replication, whereby they again reaffirmed their own case and refuted the case of defendants as pleaded in the written statement.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for recovery of Rs.2.50 lacs from the defendants as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the suit is not maintainable as alleged? OPD 1 and 2.

3. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit as alleged? OPD.

4. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to try this case as alleged? OPD.

5. Relief."

7. Learned trial Court vide judgment and decree dated 5.8.2005 decreed the suit of the plaintiffs against defendants No.1 and 2 for recovery of Rs.2,50,000/-, however, dismissed against defendant No.3

8. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, appellants-defendants No.1 and 2 filed an appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short `CPC') read with Section 21 of the H.P. Courts Act, assailing therein judgment and decree dated 5.5.2008 passed by learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Chamba, in the Court of learned District Judge, Chamba.

9. Learned District Judge, Chamba vide impugned judgment and decree dated 22.6.2006 accepted the appeal preferred by the defendants by setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court.

10. In the aforesaid background the present appellants-plaintiffs filed this Regular Second Appeal before this Court.

11. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

"(1) Whether the findings of the learned lower appellate court are based upon misreading of evidence and calls for an interference by this court?

12. Mr.Anand Sharma, learned counsel representing the appellants-plaintiffs, vehemently argued that the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the appellants-plaintiffs and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Sharma, while referring to the evidence available on record, contended that learned first appellate Court while reversing the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court has mis-read and mis-construed the record and has returned the erroneous findings that the plaintiffs are not entitled for compensation to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- on account of financial package announced by the defendants payable to the oustees in lieu of employment to their family members. Mr.Sharma further contended that it stands duly proved on record that the names of plaintiffs were figuring at Sr.No.11 of the list of oustees prepared by the Department, on the basis of information submitted by the Authorities who had acquired the land on behalf of NHPC. Mr.Sharma furthercontended that learned first appellate Court failed to appreciate that the names of the plaintiffs were included in the list of oustees at Sr.No.11 in the independent capacity since their land measuring 17 biswas was also acquired by the respondents on behalf of NHPC for construction of Dam.

13. With a view to substantiate the aforesaid contentions, Mr.Sharma invited the attention of this Court to Ex.PA i.e.; Jamabandi for the year 1988-89, wherein names of plaintiffs have been reflected as owners in possession of land measuring 0-17 biswas, comprised in Khata No.209/220, Khatauni No.289, Khasra No.196, which was not inherited by the plaintiffs from their parents, but they had purchased the same from the Central Government andsuch land comprised in Khata No.205 min, Khatauni No.285 min, Khasra Nos.46, 86 was acquired independently of Khasra No.196 which actually belonged to theirparents. Mr.Sharma further contended that learned first appellate Court completely ignored mutation No.653 i.e. Ex.PL, whereby the names of the plaintiffs, on the basis of Sale Certificate issued by the Central Government, were incorporated in the Revenue Records and thereafter their names were reflected in the names of list of oustees prepared by the Department for the purpose of granting financial package in terms of understanding arrived at between the NHPC as well as the State Government.

14. Mr.Sharma further contended that learned first appellate Court erred in not taking into consideration the specific pleataken by defendants No.1 and 2 that the plaintiffs-appellants were not entitled for the compensation amount against the name reflected atSr.No.11 in the list of oustees because the same belonged to one Shri Premo son of Shri Mussadi having 14-9 bighas of land. Mr.Sharma also stated that thereis no evidence led on record in this regard by the defendants and as such learned trial Court rightly drawn an adverse inference against defendants No.1 and 2 for having failed to establish the specific plea raised by them in the written statement. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Sharma prayed that suit filed by the appellants-plaintiffs be decreed and the judgment and decree passed by the first appellate Court may be quashed and set aside.

15. Mr.P.M. Negi, learned Additional Advocate General duly assisted by Mr.Ramesh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, supported the judgment and decree passed by the learned first appellate Court. Mr.Negi vehemently argued that the bare perusal of judgment passed by the first appellate Court suggests that the same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record and there is no illegality and infirmity in the same and the same needs to be upheld. While refuting the contention having been put forth on behalf of Mr.Anand Sharma, Mr.Negi stated that it duly stands proved on record that on account of land, the plaintiffs, being sons of Premo, had already received financial package alongwith other family members to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- qua the land which was acquired for the construction of Dam by the said Authorities and as such they were estopped from filing independent claim of financial package on the ground that since their land measuring 17 biswas was also acquired in independent capacity, they are also entitled to financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/-.

Mr.Negi further stated that appellants-plaintiffs have no concern with the another financial package sanctioned in the name of Premo son of Mussadi son of Kundan and as such learned appellate Court rightly concluded that the plaintiffs cannot be allowed to take advantage of typographical mistake crept during preparation of list of oustees. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Negi, while referring to the statement of Tehsildar (Relief & Rehabilitation), strenuously argued that if for the sake of arguments it is presumed that 17 biswas of land, independent of land measuring 3-2-16 bighas, owned bytheir father was also acquired apart from land measuring 3-2-16 bighas, even then it stands proved thatthe same was also included in the aforesaid land measuring 3-2-16 bighas and accordingly financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- was made in favour of the plaintiffs as well as other legal representatives of late Shri Premo son of Madho. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Negi strenuously argued that once it stands duly proved on record that the plaintiffs are the sons of late Shri Premo, whose land measuring 3-2-16 bighas has admittedly been acquired and qua the same compensation has been given to him and as such they cannot be allowed to claim financial package independently on account of their names reflected at Sr.No.11 in the list of oustees because aforesaid financial package is payable to the oustees in terms ofnegotiation held with the claimants and National Hydroelectric Power Corporation Limited (for short `NHPC') Authorities. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Negi prayed that present petition may be dismissed.

16. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

17. Close scrutiny of pleadings as well as documents available on record suggests that defendants acquired huge chunk of land for the construction of Chamera Hydro Electric Project, Stage-II, Karian, Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. through a private negotiation held with the claimants and National Hydroelectric Power Corporation Limited (for short `NHPC') Authorities. Record further suggests that in lieu of land acquired by the Authorities, uniform compensation at the rate of Rs.40,000/- per bigha was paid to all the affected persons. It has been specifically pleaded in the pleadings of both the parties that at the time of acquisition of land, Memorandum of Understanding (for short `MOU') was entered into between the State Government as well as defendant No.3-Chamera Hydro Electric Project, wherein condition was stipulated that one member of the family of oustees would be provided job in upcoming Project. Perusal of Ex.PC, i.e. proceedings of meeting of High Powered Committee held on 18.11.2002, suggests that Authorities decided to give alternative package in lieu of employment to the affected families @ Rs.3,00,000/- in cases of Chamera-I and Rs.2,50,000/- per affected family in cases of Chamera-II. Perusal of aforesaid document further suggests that it was agreed that amount in question would be given in one installment to Chamera-II and in two equal installments to Chamera-1. With the declaration of aforesaid package, no claim from any person regarding employment in Chamera-I and Chamera-II was to be entertained by the Authorities as far as employment is concerned. It also emerge from the record that after aforesaid decision having been taken, the Authorities concerned prepared list of oustees so that due and admissible compensation in terms of aforesaid decision having been arrived at between defendants No.1, 2 and 3 is paid to the affected families whose land was acquired for the construction of Project. In the present case plaintiffs; namely; Parkash Chand, Baldev and Mohinder, who admittedly are sons of sons of late Shri Premo son of Shri Madho, residents of village Jukhrari, P.O. Bharis Kothi, Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. filed a suit for recovery of Rs.2,50,000/- in terms of financial package announced by the Authorities in lieu of employment to one member of the affected families. As per plaintiffs, they owned and possessed land measuring 3-2-16 bighas in the name of Smt.Ghimo wife of late Shri Premo. Plaintiffs further claimed that apart from above, they had land measuring 4-9 bighas at village Karian, Tehsil and District Chamba, which was also acquired by the State of Himachal Pradesh for and on behalf of defendant No.3 vide notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act on 28.4.1988. Plaintiffs, on the basis of list of 120 families prepared by the Authorities, claimed that they being oustees, whose names figured at Sr.No.11, are also entitled to the financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/-, but despite several requests their claim has not been entertained by the Authorities. As per own case of the plaintiffs, their parents were having land in the same area which was also acquired by the Authorities and they were also included in the list of oustees at Sr.No.21. It is admitted case of the plaintiffs that on account of acquisition of land measuring 3-2 bighas belonging to their parents they had received financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- which was lateron received by all the Legal Representatives including plaintiffs in equal share. In nutshell plaintiffs' case is that since 17 biswas of land independent of 3-2 bighas of land owned and possessed by their parents was also acquired for the purpose of construction of Project, they are also entitled to financial package announced by the Authorities in lieu of employment toone member of the family in independent capacity.

18. On the other hand, defendants refuted the claim of the plaintiffs by stating that plaintiffs have no concern with the another financial package sanctioned in favour of Shri Premo son of Mussadi son of Shri Kundan, whose name has been reflected at Sr.No.11 of the list of oustees. Defendants further claimed that the plaintiffs cannot be allowed to take advantage of typographical mistake committed by the staff while preparing list of oustees. As per defendants, plaintiffs being legal heirs of Shri Premo son of Shri Madho son of Shri Parago, have no concern with the land of Shri Premo son of Shri Mossadi son of Shri Kundan and as such they cannot take the benefit of financial package twice, especially when it is admitted case of the plaintiffs that they have already received financial package of Rs.2,50,000/- on account of land measuring 3-2-16 bighas owned and possessed by their father Premo son of Madho.

19. Interestingly, in the present case, plaintiffs initially claimed that their land measuring 4-9 bighas at village Karian Tehsil and District Chamba was acquired by the State of Himachal Pradesh on behalf of NHPC and as such they are entitled to financial package on account of the same in terms of their names figuring at Sr.No.11 in the list of oustees.

20. While refuting the stand having been taken by defendants in the written statement, plaintiffs by way of replication claimed that they filed suit being owners of land measuring 0-17 bighas, comprising of Khasra No.196, as depicted in Jamabandi for the year 1988-89. Plaintiffs further claimed that note appended in red ink in the aforesaid Jamabandi clearly suggests that land in question was acquired by the State of Himachal Pradesh for NHPC on 31.3.1994. Plaintiffs further claimed in the replication that their father namely; Premo; was owner in possession of 3-2-16 bighas, whereas they are owners to the extent of 0-17 bighas of land which was entered in their names and had allegedly purchased it from custodian department vide mutation No.633 attested on 28.2.1989. Plaintiffs in their replication have categorically stated that amount of package has been rightly sanctioned in their names, but in the column of land it has been wrongly mentioned as 4 bighas 9 biswas of land.

21. Learned trial Court on the basis of documentary evidence adduced on record decreed the suit of the plaintiffs and held them entitled to the amount of Rs.2,50,000/-, whereas, learned first appellate Court in appeal having been filed by the defendants reversed the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court and came to the conclusion that the plaintiffs have already availed the package of Rs.2,50,000/- qua the land which was earlier in the name of their late father Shri Premo son of Shri Madho which was passed to them after the death of their mother, Smt.Ghimmo. Learned first appellate Court also concluded that land measuring 0-17 bighas, comprising of Khasra No.196, which was allegedly purchased by the plaintiffs from the custodian department already stood included in the land of Smt.Ghimmo widow of Shri Premo son of Shri Madho and as such, no separate compensation to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- can be claimed by the plaintiffs qua the land measuring 0-17 bighas. Learned first appellate Court also observed that plaintiffs have already availed package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- being legal heirs of late Smt.Ghimmo widow of late Shri Premo alongwith their sisters being Class-I heirs and as such they cannot be allowed to claim the aforesaid package again and again on the strength of name reflected qua Sr.No.11 in the list of oustees.

22. In the instant case, plaintiff Mohinder Kumar, with a view to prove his case appeared as PW-1 and stated that 17 biswas of land owned and possessed by them had been acquired by defendant No.3, but none of the plaintiffs was provided job. He also stated that his father also owned land in village Jukhrari which was acquired by NHPC but since he alongwith his other two brothers were not provided job by NHPC, they were held entitled to financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- each. It is the admitted case of the plaintiffs that they have already received an amount of Rs.2,50,000/- on account of financial package announced by the respondents in lieu of job. Whereas, defendants with a view to refute the claim of plaintiffs cited one Shri Sirikanth, Naib Tehsildar (R&R), D.C. Office, Chamba, who in his statement deposed that Land Acquisition cases are being dealt with by him in the capacity of Naib Tehsildar (Relief & Rehabilitation). He also stated that defendant No.3 had deposited an amount of Rs.2,50,000/- for all the oustees of Chamera-II. He also stated that the plaintiffs filed present suit with regard to land of other person namely; Premo son of Mussadi son of Kundan and they have no connection with the same. He also stated that land measuring 17 biswas, comprising Khasra No.196, Ex.PA, is already included in the land measuring 3-2-16 bighas and the land shown vide Ex.PB had also been shown/entered in the award Mark DA which also includes some other land besides the land shown vide Ex.PA and Ex.PB in the names of Premo son of Madho.

23. This Court with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of aforesaid statements having been made by Shri Sirikant, Naib Tehsildar (Relief & Rehabilitation) perused documentary evidence available on record. While going through the record, this Court could lay its hand to Ex.PM i.e. certificate issued by Land Acquisition Officer, Chamera Hydro Electric Project, Karian, District Chamba. Perusal of aforesaid certificate suggests that land measuring 2-5-16 bighas owned and possessed by Premo son of Madho son of Parago, resident of Mohal Karian, Tehsil and District Chamba, Hadbast No.174, Khatauni No.106/164 min, Kitta 5, measuring 3-2 bighas was acquired by NHPC vide award dated 31.12.1988. It also emerge from this certificate that total area of the land was 3-4 bighas and Shri Premo son of Madho had 1/3rd share in the same and as such he was owner in possession of the land measuring 2-5-16 bighas. It clearly emerge from Ex.PM that NHPC had acquired 2-5-16 bighas of land belonging to Premo son of Madho son of Parago, resident of village Karian vide award dated 31.12.1988. Since aforesaid land was acquired by the defendants, family members of late Shri Premo were entitled to financial package as per understanding arrived at between the Authorities. It is also not disputed that qua the aforesaid land having been acquired by the defendants, plaintiffs being LRs of Premo son of Madho received complete financial package which was further divided into equal shares of the legal representatives of deceased Premo son of Madho. Now, if Ex.PA and Ex.PB having been placed on record by the plaintiffs are perused, land measuring 3-2 bighas, which was in the name of their father late Shri Premo, was acquired. As per own case of plaintiffs, as stated in replication, land measuring 17 biswas comprising Khasra No.196 was acquired by the defendants independently of land measuring 2-5-16 bighas owned and possessed by their father late Shri Premo. But perusal of Ex.PA and Ex.PB clearly suggests that land measuring 3-2-16 bighas in total belonging to late Shri Premo son of Madho son of Parago was acquired by the defendants which clearly corroborates the version put forth on behalf of Shri Sirikanth, Tehsildar (Relif & Rehabilitation), D.C. Office, Chamba. He categorically stated that land measuring 17 biswas comprising in Khasra No.196 was already included in land measuring 3-2-16 bighas at the time of passing award Mark DB. If land measuring 17 biswas is added to 2-5-16 bighas, it exactly comes 3-2-16 bighas, meaning thereby that learned first appellate Court rightly came to conclusion that land measuring 17 biawas comprising in Khasra No.196 Ex.PA stands included in land measuring 3-2-16 bighas and as such plaintiffs are not entitled to another financial package in lieu of employment since they have already received financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- on account of acquisition of their land measuring 3-2-16 bighas. Hence, this Court after perusing aforesaid documents Ex.PM, Ex.PA and Ex.PB, sees no illegality and infirmity in the findings returned by the first appellate Court and by no stretch of imagination it can be said that first appellate Court misread and misconstrued the documentary evidence available on record while denying the claim of plaintiffs.

24. Similarly, list of persons, who have applied/submitted their family details for employment in Chamera Hydro Electric Project Stage-II, suggests that name of Smt.Ghimo Devi widow of Premo i.e. father of plaintiffs was reflected at Sr.No.21. It also emerge from the list that land measuring 3-2-0 bighas was acquired. Similarly, at Sr.No.11 of the list, name of some Parkash son of Premo resident of village Jukhrari has been shown, but, the name of the land owner whose land was acquired by the NHPC has been shown as Premo son of Mussadi. More interestingly qua the name at Sr.No.11 land measuring 4-9-0 bighas has been shown to be acquired by the Authorities.

25. Since total land acquired qua Sr.No.11 has been shown to be 4-9-0 bighas, version put forth on behalf of the plaintiffs that his name stands figured at Sr.No.11 cannot be accepted for two reasons; firstly, name shown at Sr.No.11 is of Parkash son of Premo son of Mussadi, secondly, qua Sr.No.11, 4-9-0 bighas land has been shown to be acquired by the Authorities, whereas, as per own case of plaintiffs 17 biswas of land owned and possessed by them independent of their father was acquired. This Court, after carefully examining the particulars given qua Sr.No.11 in the list of oustees has reason to accept the version put forth on behalf of defendants that Parkash son of Premo son of Mussadi is different from plaintiffs and they are not entitled to second financial package on account of 17 biswas of land owned and possessed by them independent of their father. This Court after carefully examining the aforesaid aspect of the matter is convinced and satisfied that land measuring 17 biswas owned and possessed by the plaintiffs was included by the authorities while passing award and thereafter the plaintiffs being LRs of late Shri Premo son of Shri Madho son of Shri Parago has received an amount of Rs.2,50,000/- on account of financial package in lieu of job which was to be offered to one member of the family of the oustees whose land was acquired by the Authorities for construction of Project.

26. This Court also viewed this case from another angle. As per understanding arrived at between Government and the NHPC, one member of the family was to be offered employment in lieu of acquisition of their land but lateron it was resolved that in lieu of employment one time financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- would be provided to the affected family. Hence, this Court sees no force in the claim of the plaintiffs that since 17 biswas of land owned and possessed by them independent of their father was acquired by the Authorities, they are also entitled to financial package because admittedly financial package is payable in lieu of employment which was to be offered to one member of the family.

27. In the present case, since it is admitted case of the parties that financial package to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- stands received by all the Legal Representatives of deceased Premo, there is no force in the claim of the plaintiffs and as such same was rightly rejected by the first appellate Court. Hence, this Court, after examining the evidence available on record, sees no force in the contentions having been put forth on behalf of the plaintiffs that learned first appellate Court, while reversing the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, misread and misconstrued the evidence. Rather, perusal of evidence available on record clearly suggests that the learned trial Court failed to arrive at correct decision on the basis of evidence available on record. Substantial question is answered accordingly.

28. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this appeal is dismissed. The judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court below is upheld and that of the learned trial Court is quashed and set aside.There shall be no order as to costs. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

For the Appellants: Mr.Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate with Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For Respondents No.1to 20 Mr.Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellants-plaintiffs against the judgment and decree dated 23.3.2006, passed by the learned Additional District Judge (Presiding Officer), Fast Track Court, Solan Camp at Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P., affirming the judgment and decree dated 30.03.2005, passed by the learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Nalagarh, whereby the suit filed by the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as the `plaintiffs') has been dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts, as emerged from the record, are that appellants-plaintiffs are legal heirs of original plaintiff Kishori Lal, who died during the pendency of the suit. It is averred in the plaint that the suit filed by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs was for declaration that he had become owner of suit property comprised in Khasra Nos.926, 927, 928, 1058 and 1059, measuring 421.71 sq.mtrs. and plot comprised in Khasra No.1051, measuring 26.25 sq.meters, situated in up-Mohal New Nalagarh by abandonment, alternatively by adverse possession.

3. It is averred in the plaint that respondents-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendants') are the progeny of Nand Karan who might be living in Nalagarh Town and his share might have been devolved in favour of his heirs, if any. It is further averred that Dwarka Dass, Piara Lal and Sukhdev were seen by deceased plaintiff Kishori Lal. They were Gautam Brahmins and predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs was also stated to be Gautam Brahmin. The aforesaid Dwarka Dass, Piara Lal and Sukhdev left Nalagarh Town before the partition of the country and settled in Delhi and when left Nalagarh, they handed over the property to predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs i.e. Kishori Lal and asked him to construct his house etc. Consequently, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs constructed his house over the suit property by spending huge amount and started living there. But, when after 2-3 years all the aforesaid persons namely; Dwarka Dass, Piara Lal and Sukhdev came back and saw the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs living in the house upon the suit property, which was constructed by him in the year 1951 and which construction was within their knowledge, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs proclaimed himself to be owner in possession of the said property because from 1951 till date neither the aforesaid persons during their life time nor their progeny ever objected the same.

4. It is further averred in the plaint that the defendants were not born in Nalagarh and have neither Ration Card nor names in the Voter List, whereas the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs lived in the house over the suit land and has electric meter and water connection since 1962 in the name of his son Ashok Kumar. It is further averred that the possession of predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs has also been recognized and recorded in the settlement record by Settlement Officer at the time of Settlement of the town. The entry in the revenue record in the column of ownership is nothing but since the names were continuing so it continued and no interference was made in this column of ownership by Settlement Authority. The fact remains that predecessor-in-interest of defendants never interfered in the possessary rights of plaintiffs.

5. It is further averred in the plaint that the value of the land during the year 1948 was not more than 48 to 50 rupees and relations between both the families were cordial. The owners abandoned this property in favour of deceased plaintiff Kishori Lal on 26 Bhadhon of Bikrami year 2004 corresponding to the year 1948. In the aforesaid background the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs filed a civil suit.

6. Defendants, by way of filing written statement, resisted and contested the claim of the plaintiffs. They also filed counter claim against the plaintiffs. In the written statement, defendants admitted the possession of Kishori Lal over land measuring 421-71 sq.mtrs., but denied the plea of abandonment. It was pleaded that house of Kishori Lal had collapsed and in the year 1958 he was allowed by the then owners to occupy two rooms in the house situated over Khasra Nos.926, 927, 928, 1058 and 1059, total land measuring 421-71 sq.mtrs. as licensee till he was not able to construct his own house. Now, with the death of Kishori Lal, the license stands extinguished. It is averred by the defendants that no construction was made by Kishori Lal over this land.

7. As regards land comprised in Khasra No.1051 measuring 26.25 sq.mtrs. it is averred that Kishori Lal had never been in possession of this land. The defendants-respondents filed counter claim for possession of suit property measuring 421.71sq.mtrs. They prayed for injunction to restrain the plaintiffs from changing the nature of this land and from demolishing the structure. Qua Khasra No.1051, defendants sought an injunction to restrain plaintiffs from disposing of the same. In the aforesaid background the defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit.

8. The predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs filed replication-cum-written statement to the counter claim, whereby the averments of the plaint are re-asserted and that of counter claim are denied. It is pleaded that Kishori Lal during his life time raised construction which was never objected and even if the plea of licensee taken by defendants does not sustain since licence has become irrevocable in view of the fact that Kishori Lal was allowed to raise construction on this land.

9. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether predecessor-in-title of defendants have abandoned the rights qua suit property in favour of plaintiff, if so, its effect? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiff has acquired title qua the suit land by way of adverse possession in the alternative? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the declaration that he is owner in possession of the suit land? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff is also entitled qua correction of revenue record vis-à-vis injunction, as prayed? OPP.

5. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action and locus standi, as alleged? OPD.

6. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable? OPD.

7. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file the present suit by his admission, acts and omission? OPD.

8. Whether deceased Kishori Lal was a licensee in possession over the suit property, as alleged? OP-Counter Claimants

9. Whether Counter claimants are entitled for the relief of possession qua suit land, as prayed? OP-Counter Claimants

10. Whether counter claimants are entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed?OP-Counter Claimants

11. Whether there is no cause of action for filing counter-claim, as alleged? OPP.

12. Whether the counter claim is not maintainable? OPP.

13. Relief."

10. Learned trial Court vide common judgment and decree dated 30.03.2005 dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs and decreed the counter claim filed by the defendants.

11. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, whereby suit filed by the plaintiffs-appellants was dismissed and counter claim by the defendants-respondents were decreed, appellants-plaintiffs filed an appeal assailing therein judgment and decree dated 30.03.2005 passed by learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Nalagarh, in the Court of learned Additional District Judge (Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court), Solan camp at Nalagarh.

12. Learned Additional District Judge (Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court), Solan, Camp at Nalagarh vide judgment and decree dated 23.3.2006 dismissed the appeal preferred by the plaintiffs-appellants by affirming the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. Learned first appellate Court also affirmed the decree passed by the learned trial Court in the counter claim.

13. In the aforesaid background, the present appellants-plaintiffs filed this Regular Second Appeal before this Court, details whereof have already been given above.

14. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

"(1) When the defendants-respondents admitted the possession of the plaintiffs-appellants over the suit land and also acknowledged the plaintiffs-appellants having raised permanent structure long before the institution of suit and counter claim, have not both the Courts below acted in excess of their jurisdiction in decreeing the counter claim granting decree for possession to the defendants-respondents by dismantling the structure of the plaintiffs by ignoring from consideration the provisions of Specific Relief Act, whereby it was imperative for the Courts below to have seen the feasibility of compensating the defendants in terms of money?

2. When the defendants themselves set up a case of creation of license in favour of the plaintiffs and admitted the raising of permanent structures by the plaintiffs over the suit property, was not the same resulted in creation of permanent license as per the provisions of Section 60 of the Easement Act? Have not both the Courts below acted with material illegality and irregularity in mechanically passing the decree for possession by removal of structures when the defendants or their predecessors never revoked the alleged license and acaquiesced in the acts of the plaintiffs in raising permanent structures over the suit land?

3. Whether both the Courts below have committed grave error of jurisdiction in granting the decree for possession by dismantling the structures by ignoring the fact that the counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents was beyond the period of limitation, as per the facts established on the record?

4. Whether findings of both the Courts below that plaintiffs-appellants have failed to prove that adverse possession are the result of misreading of Ex.DA and other documents which were inadmissible in evidence and further failing to consider that the presumption attached to the revenue entries stood duly rebutted on account of rival claim put forth by the parties. Have not both the Courts below committed grave error of law in misconstruing and misapplying correct principles of law while deciding the issue of adverse possession?

5. Whether both the Courts below have acted with material illegality in not property appreciating the contention put forth by the plaintiffs regarding abandonment of the right by the predecessor-in-interest of defendants-respondents in favour of the plaintiffs-appellants when the value of the property in suit at the relevant time was less than Rs.100 and for creation of such right no registered document was required?

6. When the counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents was not in consonance with the provisions of Code of Civil procedure and valuation, are not the judgments and decrees passed b y both the Courts below illegal, erroneous and perverse and stand vitiated?"

15. At this stage, it may be noticed that today i.e. on 27th December, 2016, when this matter was listed before this Court,attention of Mr.Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate, representing the appellants-plaintiffs was invited towards the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and Anothr versus Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682 and Laxmidas Dayabhai Kabrawala vs. Nanabhai Chunilal Kabrawala and others, AIR 1964 SC 11, which was further followed by this Court while dismissing RSA No.293 of 2006, titled as Piar Chand & Others versus Ranjeet Singh & Others, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while dismissing the counter claim, Court may or may not draw a formal decree but if rights are finally adjudicated, it would assume the status of a decree and same needs to be laid challenge, if any, by way of filing separate appeal affixing required court fee.

16. In view of aforesaid law having been laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court deemed it fit to frame additional substantial question of law for proper adjudication of the case at hand. The additional substantial question of law is as under:-

1. "Whether the learned First Appellate Court has erred in entertaining the composite appeal having been preferred by the appellants-plaintiffs against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court dismissing the suit of the plaintiffs and decreeing the counter claim preferred by the defendants-respondents that too without affixing separate/ requisite court fee as far as counter claim is concerned.

17. Mr. Bhupender Gupta, learned Senior Advocate, vehemently argued that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Gupta, further contended that bare perusal of the of the judgments passed by both the Courts below suggests that evidence led on record by the appellants-plaintiffs has not been read in its right perspective and as such, great prejudice has been caused to the appellants-plaintiffs against whom decree for possession has been passed.

18. Mr.Gupta, while making his submission qua the additional issue having been framed by this Court, contended that genuine and legitimate claim of the appellants-plaintiffs cannot be allowed to be defeated on mere technicalities and this Court has wide power to ignore such technicalities and can proceed ahead to decide the matter on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties to do substantive justice in the matter. Mr.Gupta, further claimed that the learned trial Court while dismissing the suit of the plaintiffs decreed the counter claim of the defendants-respondents and appellants-plaintiffs rightly preferred composite appeal against the same before the learned District Judge laying challenge therein to the composite decree passed in the suit as well as in the counter claim in favour of the defendants. He further contended that no appeal, if any, could be filed without there being any decree and as such, appellants-plaintiffs had no option but to file composite appeal against the impugned judgment and decree, whereby suit of the plaintiffs-appellants was dismissed and counter claim of the defendants-respondents was decreed.

19. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Gupta, strenuously argued that the counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents deserve to be dismissed after setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the Courts below. In support of his contention Mr. Gupta, also placed reliance on the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in Narhari and others vs. Shanker and others, AIR 1953 S.C.419, Gangadhar and another vs. Shri Raj Kumar, AIR(1983) Supreme Court 1202, Tamilnad Mercantile Bank Shareholders welfare Association(2) versus S.C.Sekar and others (2009)2 Supreme Court Cases 784 and B.S. Sheshagiri Setty and others versus State of Karnataka and others (2016)2 Supreme Court Cases 123.

20. Mr.Gupta,Learned Senior Counsel, vehemently argued that the impugned judgment and decree passed by learned first appellate is not sustainable in the eye of law as the same is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence as well as law on point. Mr.Gupta contended that bare perusal of impugned judgment passed by learned first appellate Court suggests that the same is based on conjectures and surmises and learned first appellate Court has fallen in grave error while affirming the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court that too on the very flimsy grounds.

21. Mr.Ajay Sharma, learned Senior counsel appearing for the respondents-defendants, supported the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court. Mr. Sharma, vehemently argued that bare perusal of the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court suggests that the same is based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such, there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, by this Court especially in view of the concurrentfindings of fact recorded by the Court below. He further contended that the present appeal is not maintainable in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015) 2 SCC 682, which was further followed by this Court while passing judgment dated 16.9.2016 in RSA No.293 of 2006.Mr. Sharma also placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidas Dayabhai Kabrawala vs. Nanabhai Chunilala Kabrawala and others, AIR 1964 SC 11.

22. Mr. Sharma, while concluding his arguments, further contended that apart from above, this Court has very limited power while exercising power under Section 100 CPC to re-appreciate the evidence and as such, he placed reliance on the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264, herein below:-

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the Courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that plaintiffs have established their right in 'A' schedule property. In the light of concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for re-appreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the 'A' schedule property for road and that she could not have full fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 C.P.C., concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the Courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."

23. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

24. Keeping in view the specific objection with regard to maintainability having been raised by the appellants-plaintiffs in the light of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court deems it fit to take additional substantial question of law framed by this Court at first instance for adjudication.

25. Perusal of the counter claim filed on behalf of the defendants-respondents suggests that while filing written statement they asserted counter claim but fact remains that no requisite fee was paid on the aforesaid counter claim. The appellants-plaintiffs denied the aforesaid counter claim of the respondents-defendants terming the same to be false and claimed that there was no negligence on the part of the appellants-plaintiffs as claimed in the counter claim.

26. Careful perusal of the trial court record further suggests that appellants-plaintiffs refuted the aforesaid counter claim of the respondents-defendants by way of replication as well as by filing separate written statement. However, the fact remains that learned trial Court after framing issues, as have been reproduced above, dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs and decreed the cross-objection having been filed by the respondents-defendants. Operative part of the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court clearly suggests that the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the appellants-plaintiffs, whereas decreed the counter claim of ownership and possession preferred on behalf of the respondents-defendants. Careful perusal of the decree sheet available on record suggests that decree for possession was passed in favour of the respondents-defendants and against the appellants-plaintiffs.

27. Careful perusal of the decree, as referred, hereinabove, suggests as follows:-

> "The cumulative effect of the aforesaid discussions and findings is that the plaintiff failed to establish the claim. Accordingly, suit stands dismissed, however, counter claimants are successful and counter claim stands decreed with cost. They are entitled for decree of possession qua the suit property comprised in Khewat/Khatauni Nos.141/185 bearing Khasra No.926, 927, 928, 1058 and 1059, total measuring 421.71 sq.mtrs alongwith house which was on licence with deceased plaintiff and further L.R.'s of deceased plaintiff are directed to surrender and handover the possession to the counter-claimants. However, they are at liberty to take material of so stated existing construction of kitchen, bathroom, latrine over suit property after putting counter-claimants in possession of the suit property by dismantling the said structure at their own cost. Consequently, a decree for injunction is also passed in favour of the counter-claimants as prayed."

28. Perusal of aforesaid decree prepared by the learned trial Court, while dismissing the suit and accepting the counter claim of the defendants, clearly suggests that proper decree was drawn as far as acceptance of the counter claim filed by the defendants is concerned.

29. Appellants-plaintiffs, being aggrieved with the aforesaid judgment and decree, approached the learned District Judge by way of an appeal under Section 96 CPC laying therein challenge to aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. At this stage, it would be appropriate to reproduce cause title/ head note of appeal preferred by the appellants-plaintiffs before the learned District Judge, which reads thus:-

> "Appeal against the judgment and decree dated 30.3.2005 passed by the learned trial court Civil Judge(Senior Division), Nalagarh in a civil suit No.230/1 of 1999 and counter claim No.55/1 of 2004, titled as Kishori Lal v ersus Sumati Devi and others, whereby the suit of the appellants/plaintiffs has been dismissed and the counter claim of the respondents/defendants/ counter claimants has been decreed with costs."

30. Careful perusal of aforesaid cause title as well as relief claimed in the appeal clearly suggests that appellants-plaintiffs before the learned first appellate Court prayed that the appeal filed by them be accepted with costs and the judgment and decree dated 30.3.2005 passed by learned trial Court be set aside, but there is no prayer, if any, for setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, whereby counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents have been decreed and they were declared owners in possession of the suit property.

31. Before adverting to the submissions having been made on behalf of the learned counsel representing both the parties, it would be appropriate to refer to relevant provisions of law applicable in the present case i.e. Order 8 Rule 6A:

> "6A. Counter claim by defendant.- (1) A defendant in a suit may, in addition to his right of pleading a set off under rule 6, set up, by way of counter claim against the claim of the plaintiff, any right or claim in respect of a cause of action accruing to the defendant against the plaintiff either before or after the filing of suit but before the defendant has delivered his defence or before the time limited for delivering his defence has expired, whether such counter claim is in the nature of a claim for damages or not:

Provided that such counter claim shall not exceed the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of the court.

(2) Such counter claim shall have the same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original claim and on the counter claim.

(3) The plaintiff shall be at liberty to file a written statement in answer to the counter claim of the defendant within such period as may be fixed by the court.

(4) The counter claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the rules applicable to plaints."

32. Aforesaid provisions of law entitles defendant in a suit to set up counter claim against the claim of the plaintiff in respect of cause of action accruing to him against the plaintiff either before or after filing the suit, but definitely before defendant files his defence or before the time stipulated for delivering the defence is expired. Needless to say that aforesaid right of filing counter claim is in addition to his right of pleading as set up in Rule 6. Further perusal of aforesaid provisions of law suggests that counter claim, if any, filed on behalf of the defendant would be treated as a plaint and same would be governed by Rules applicable to the plaint. Similarly, counter claims filed on behalf of the defendant would have same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original claim and the counter claim.

33. Similarly, Rule 6A(3) enables the plaintiff to file a written statement, if any, to the counter claim filed by the defendant. Rule 6D specifically provides that in case suit of the plaintiff is stayed, discontinued or dismissed, the counter claim filed on behalf of the defendant would nevertheless be proceeded with.

34. Similarly, Rule 6E provides that if plaintiff fails to file reply to the counter claim made by the defendant, the Court may pronounce judgment against the plaintiff in relation to the counter-claim made against him/her, or make such order in relation to the counter-claim as it deems fit. It would be relevant here to refer to Order VIII Rule 6F:

"6F. Relief to defendant where counter-claim succeeds.- Where in any suit a set-off or counter-claim is established as a defence against the plaintiffs claim and any balance is found due to the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be , the Court may give judgment to the party entitled to such balance."

35. Perusal of aforesaid Order VIII Rule 6F clearly suggests that where in any suit a set-off or counter claim is established as a defence against the plaintiffs' claim and any balance is found due to the plaintiff or the defendant, Court may give judgment to the party entitled to such balance. Further perusal of Order VIII Rule 6G suggests that no pleadings, if any, subsequent to the written statement filed by a defendant other than by way of defence to set up a claim can be presented except with the leave of Court.

36. Under Order VIII Rule 10 when any party fails to file written statement as required under rule 1 or rule 9 within the stipulated time, the Court shall pronounce judgment against him, or make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit and on the pronouncement of such judgment a decree shall be drawn up.

37. Careful perusal of aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that counter claim, if any, preferred by the defendant in the suit is in nature of cross suit and even if suit is dismissed counter claim would remain alive for adjudication. Since counter claim is in nature of cross suit, defendant is required to pay the requisite court fee on the valuation of counter claim.

It has been specifically provided in the aforesaid provisions that the plaintiff is obliged to file a written statement qua counter claim and in case of default court can pronounce the judgment against the plaintiff in relation to the counter claim put forth by the defendant as it has an independent status. As per Rule 6A(2), the Court is required to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit both on the original claim and also on the counter-claim.

38. In the present case, as clearly emerged from the judgment passed by the learned trial Court, learned trial Court effectively determined the rights of the parties on the basis of counter claim as well as written statement thereto filed by the respective parties and as such it attained the status of decree. It would be profitable here to reproduce definition of the term 'decree' as contained in Section 2(2) of CPC:-

> "2.(2) "decree" means the formal expression of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint and the determination of any question within [1][ * ] Section 144, but shall not include –
> (a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or
> (b) any order of dismissal for default.
> Explanation- A decree is preliminary when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and partly final;"

39. Close scrutiny of aforesaid definition of "decree" clearly suggests that there should be formal expression of adjudication by the Court while determining the rights of the parties with regard to controversy in the suit, which would also include the rejection of plaint. Similarly, determination should be conclusive determination resulting in a formal expression of the adjudication. It is settled principle that once the matter in controversy has received judicial determination, the suit results in a decree, either in favour of the plaintiff or in favour of the defendant.

40. In this regard, it would be appropriate to place reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and Another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682, wherein the Court has held as under:-

> "16. We have referred to the aforesaid decisions to highlight that there may be situations where an order can get the status of a decree. A Court may draw up a formal decree or may not, but if by virtue of the order of the Court, the rights have finally been adjudicated, irrefutably it would assume the status of a decree. As is evincible, in the case at hand, the counter-claim which is in the nature of a cross-suit has been dismissed. Nothing else survives for the defendants who had filed the counter-claim. Therefore, we have no hesitation in holding that the order passed by the learned trial Judge has the status of a decree and the challenge to the same has to be made before the appropriate forum where appeal could lay by paying the requisite fee. It could not have been unsettled by the High Court in exercise of the power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. Ergo, the order passed by the High Court is indefensible."

41. After perusing aforesaid judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court need not to elaborate further on the issue at hand because Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that if by virtue of order of the Court rights have finally been adjudicated, it would assume the status of decree. Hon'ble Apex Court has also stated that Court may or may not draw a formal decree but if rights are finally adjudicated, it would assume the status of a decree. Learned Apex Court has further held that in such like situation order passed by trial Judge has the status of decree and challenge to the same has to be made before the appropriate forum where appeal could lay by paying the requisite fee.

42. If the matter is viewed from another angle, admittedly appellants-plaintiffs filed suit for declaration that they became owners of the suit property as detailed hereinabove by abandonment and alternative by adverse possession. Aforesaid claim having been set up by the plaintiffs in the present suit was dismissed; meaning thereby plaintiffs were not declared as owners of the suit land. Whereas, in the aforesaid suit having been filed by the plaintiffs, defendants filed written statement-cum-counter claim seeking declaration to the effect that they may be declared owners in possession of the suit property, which relief was extended by the trial Court by decreeing the counter claim of the defendants declaring them to be the owners in possession of the suit property.

43. Since, as has been observed above, no challenge has been laid to the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court decreeing the counter claim of the defendants, whereby they have been declared to be owners in possession of the suit property, composite appeal laying therein challenge to the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge(Senior Division), Nalagarh, District Solan, in Civil Suit No.230/1 of 1999 was not maintainable. Moreover, relief as claimed in the appeal having been filed by the appellants-plaintiffs could not be extended to them without setting aside the judgment and decree passed in the counter claim in favour of the defendants. Once defendants have been declared to be owners in possession of the suit property by the trial Court while decreeing their counter claim, it is not understood how relief as prayed for in Civil suit having been filed by the plaintiffs could be extended without setting aside the judgment and decree passed in the counter claim.

44. Accordingly, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the counsel representing the appellants-plaintiffs that in the absence of specific decree drawn by learned trial Court at the time of decreeing the counter claim filed by the defendants, plaintiffs could not file separate appeal. Additional substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

45. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court is of the view that learned first appellate Court erred in entertaining the composite appeal having been preferred on behalf of the appellants-plaintiffs laying challenge therein to the judgment passed by the learned trial Court dismissing the suit of the appellants-plaintiffs as well as decreeing the counter claim preferred on behalf of the defendants-respondents. In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra) as well as provisions contained in the law as discussed above, appellants-plaintiffs being aggrieved with the dismissal of the suit and decreeing the counter claim ought to have filed separate appeals by affixing separate court fee and composite appeal, as has been preferred in the present case, was not maintainable. In view of the aforesaid findings having been returned by this Court on the additional substantial question of law, other substantial questions of law have become redundant and as such, are not required to be answered at this stage.

47. As far as judgments relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the appellants-plaintiffs are concerned, this Court is of the view that the same are not applicable in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra).

48. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, as well as latest law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani's case *(supra), the present appeal is not maintainable and the same is accordingly dismissed. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

Cases referred:
State of H.P. versus Ramesh Chand, Latest HLJ 2007 (HP) 1017
Dharam Pal and another v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2009 (2) Shim. LC 208

For the petitioner Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Rajnish K. Lal, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Punit Rajta, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way this revision petition, petitioner/accused has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, in Criminal Appeal No. 36 of 2007, dated 15.01.2010, vide which learned Appellate Court, while dismissing the appeal filed by the present petitioner, upheld the judgment of conviction and sentence imposed upon the present petitioner by the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, in Case No. 206-I-05/20-III-06, dated 16.05.2007, whereby learned trial Court convicted the present petitioner for commission of offence punishable under Section 61 (1) (a) of Punjab Excise Act, as applicable to State of Himachal Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as 'Act') sentenced him to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of three months and to pay a fine of Rs. 5,000/- for commission of offence punishable under Section 61 (1) (a) of the Act.

2. The case of the prosecution was that on 29.04.2005, at about 6:00 p.m. when PW5 ASI Chaman Lal and HHC Jagat Ram were present at main bazaar, a secret information was received that Joginder Singh (petitioner/ accused) had kept huge quantity of liquor and in case search was made, the same could be recovered. As per the prosecution, on the basis of said information, rukka Ext. PW5/A was prepared, which was sent to Police Station, on the basis of which, FIR Ext. PW5/B was registered. Witnesses PW2 Kishore Chand and PW1 Anil Kumar were associated and the search of shop of accused was conducted in the presence of said witnesses, which led to recovery of 12 bottles of country liquor bearing mark Una No. 1, each containing 750 ml. of country liquor. Permit was demanded from the accused for possessing the bottles which could not be produced by him. Out of bottles so seized from the accused, three bottles were retained as samples which were sent to C.T.L. Kandaghat for chemical analysis through PW4 Constable Chaman Lal. Result of chemical analysis Ext. PW5/E revealed that each sample of country liquor contained 50 % proof alcohol in it. After the completion of investigation, challan was filed in the Court and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, he was accordingly charged for commission of offence punishable under Section under Section 61 (1) (a) of Punjab Excise Act, as applicable to State of Himachal Pradesh, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. On the basis of evidence led by the prosecution both ocular as well as documentary, learned trial Court held that prosecution was able to prove its case against the accused that he was found in possession of country liquor in excess of the limit of retail sale and he had failed to produce any permit for possessing them as was required in law. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that accused had violated the provisions of Section 61 (1) (a) of the Act and it convicted the accused.

4. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment so passed by the learned trial Court, accused filed an appeal which was dismissed by learned Appellate Court vide judgment dated 15.01.2010. While upholding the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court it was held by the learned Appellate Court that the prosecution had established the case against the appellant/accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and learned trial Court had correctly awarded the sentence of three months' simple imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs. 5,000/- on the accused as 12 bottles of country liquor, brand Una No. 1, were recovered from the accused and such type of liquor smuggling was causing loss to the State Exchequer.

5. The judgments so passed against the accused by both the learned Courts below are under challenge by way of this revision petition.

6. Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, learned senior counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that the judgment of conviction passed against the accused by the learned trial Court as well as judgment passed by learned Appellate Court are perverse because learned trial Court as well as learned Appellate Court failed to appreciate that the prosecution was not able to prove that the petitioner in fact was in possession of 12 bottles of country liquor. According to Mr. Sood it was admitted case of the prosecution that out of 12 bottles allegedly seized from the accused, only three were sent for chemical analysis. It was argued and urged by Mr. Sood that as only three bottles were sent for chemical analysis, it could not be assumed that remaining 9 bottles which were allegedly recovered from the accused were also containing country liquor. Mr. Sood further argued that out of three bottles which were allegedly recovered from the petitioner containing country liquor and sent for chemical analysis, a perusal of the report of Chemical Examiner demonstrated that country liquor was found in only two of them. He drew attention of this Court to report of the Chemical Examiner Ext. PW5/E, as per which opinion given after the chemical analysis of the samples of country liquor bottles was as under.

> "Opinion:- The samples of country liquor lots No. 1479 and 1479/2 contain 50.0 % proof alcohol strength each."

On the strength of the opinion so given by the chemical examiner, it was argued by Mr. Sood that as prosecution could prove on record that only two bottles allegedly recovered from the accused were containing country liquor and the same were within the permissible limit, his conviction for violating the provisions of Section 61 (1) (a) of the Punjab Excise Act as applicable to the State of Himachal Pradesh was totally perverse. On these bases, it was submitted by Mr. Sood that the judgment of conviction passed by the learned Trial Court and upheld by learned Appellate Court was liable to be set aside.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Vikram Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General argued that though Ext. PW5/E does refer to country liquor having been found only in two bottles out of three bottles sent to CTL Kandaghat but this did not absolve the petitioner from the commission of offence for which he stood convicted by both the learned Courts below. Mr. Thakur further argued that it was a matter of record that petitioner was apprehended with 12 bottles of country liquor. On these bases, it was urged by Mr. Thakur that learned Courts below rightly held the accused guilty of the offence for which he was charged with and the same did not call for any interference.

8. I have heard the learned senior counsel appearing for the petitioner as well as learned Deputy Advocate General and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the Courts below.

9. Before proceeding in the matter, it is relevant to take note of what is the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court. It is settled law that the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court does not extend to re-appreciation of evidence. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the High Court in exercise of its revisional power can interfere only if the findings of the Court whose decision is sought to be revised is shown to be perverse or untenable in law or is grossly erroneous or glaringly unreasonable or where the decision is based on no material or where the material facts are wholly ignored or where judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or capriciously. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjaysinh Ramrao Chavan Versus Dattatray Gulabrao Phalke and Others, (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 123, that unmerited and undeserved prosecution is an infringement of guarantee under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In this case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the purpose of revision jurisdiction is to preserve the power in the Court to do justice in cases of criminal jurisprudence.

10. It is a matter of record that out of 12 bottles which were allegedly recovered from the petitioner, three were retained as samples, which as per the prosecution were sent to CTL Kandaghat for chemical analysis. It is also a matter of record that report of the Chemical Examiner, H.P.C.T.L. Kandaghat is to the effect that samples of country liquor, lot No. 1479/1 and 1479/2 contained 50% proof alcohol strength each. There is no opinion qua sample of country liquor "lot No. 1479/3". A perusal of this document further shows that there is some interpolation/overwriting in the same and that numerical figure "2" mentioned in the opinion pertaining to lot No. 1479/3 had been subsequently converted into "3". Be that as it may, the fact of the matter still remains that as per the report of the Chemical Examiner, only two samples were found to be containing 50% proof of alcohol strength each. Chemical Examiner was not examined as a witness by the prosecution. It is not a disputed issue that no permit is required for possessing two bottles of country liquor. From the record it cannot be said that prosecution was able to prove that accused in fact was in the possession of 12 bottles of country liquor without a permit. Prosecution was not even been able to prove that accused was in possession of three bottles of country liquor. Therefore, in these circumstances, when the prosecution was not able to demonstrate from the material produced on record that the accused in fact was in possession of bottles of country liquor in excess of what is permitted without a permit, learned trial Court erred in convicting accused for violating provisions of Section 61 (1) (a) of the Act and learned Appellate Court also erred in upholding the judgment of conviction so passed by the learned trial Court. Both the learned Courts below erred in not appreciating that in the absence of any evidence to demonstrate that the petitioner was possessing more than the permissible limit of country liquor bottles, he could not have been convicted for violating the provisions of Section 61 (1) (a) of the Act.

11. This Court in 2003 CR.L.J. 1346, Mahajan v. State of Himachal Pradesh, Cr. Rev. No. 69 of 2000, dated 02.05.2002 has held.

> "In exercise of the powers conferred by Ss. 5 and 58 of the Punjab Excise Act, the Governor, Himachal Pradesh on 29-3-1985 issued an order bearing No. EXN.F(1)-4/76 published in Himachal Rajpatra (Extra-ordinary) on 30-3-1985 prescribing the limit for possession of Indian made foreign spirit (for short, IMFS) in respect of the areas/territories comprised in Himachal Pradesh immediately before 1st November, 1966. This order was issued by way of amendment of O. 2 of Himachal Pradesh Intoxicants Licence and Sale Orders, 1965. The relevant order reads:-
> "2-A. Limit for retail possession:
> The following are the maximum quantities of intoxicants which can be sold in each transaction in retail sale under the Punjab Excise Act, 1914, in the said area:-

(1)	Foreign spirit	Two bottles each of the capacity of 750 ml.
(2)	Beer whether imported or made in India.	Twelve bottles each of the capacity of 650 ml.
(3)	Cider (liquor manufactured by fermentation of juice of any fruit) whether imported or made in India.	Six quarter bottles.
(4)	Country liquor	Two bottles each of the capacity of 750 ml.
(5)	Country fermented liquor.	Six quart bottles.
(6)	Bhang	100 grams.
(7)	Rectified spirit	One pint of 375 ml.
(8)	Denatured spirit	One bottle of 650 ml.

Note.—The limit of transportation mentioned at Items Nos. (1) and (2) above shall be alternative with the limit mentioned at Item No. (4) :

Provided that a person may, for bona fide consumption by him, the members of his family, or his guest, purchase, transport and possess foreign spirit up to 12 bottles of the capacity of 750 ml. each inclusive of imported spirit and 36 bottles of the capacity of 650 ml. each of Beer on the authority of a permit in Form L-50 granted by the Excise Officer, holding the charge of the District, on payment of a permit fee according to the following scale for a financial year or part thereof:-

Quantity	Permit fee
Exceeding six bottles of IMFS of 750 ml. each and 12 bottles of 650 ml. each of Beer but not exceeding 12 bottles of IMFS and 36 bottles of Beer.	Fifty rupees only

Note :-- The possession limit by one family living in a separate and distinct premises will be six bottles of IMFS of 750 ml. each and 24 bottles of Beer of 650 ml. each at one time. Imported liquor will be considered as part of stocks of IMFS and bottles of foreign liquor which may be of one litre or two litres will be converted, for this purpose, to the limits prescribed for IMFS in 750 ml. bottles:

Provided further that in case of possession and purchase of denatured spirit for industrial purposes, a permit may be obtained from the Excise Officers of the 1st Class as declared by the State Government."

(Emphasis supplied)

In view of the above quoted order issued by the State Government, the permissible prescribed limit for possession of Indian made Foreign Spirit without permit at one time by a family is six bottles of IMFS of 750 ml. each and 24 bottles of Beer of 650 ml. each.

In the present case, as per the prosecution story, eight bottles of XXX Rum were recovered from the possession of the accused. Admittedly, samples out of only three bottles were taken by the Investigating Officer and sent for analysis. Such samples were found to be of IMFS vide report Ex. P.W.5/E.

In view of such report, at the most, the prosecution has been able to prove the possession of the accused only qua three bottles of IMFS. Nothing has come on the record to show that the remaining five bottles alleged to have been recovered from the accused also contained IMFS.

Before the accused could be convicted for the offence, the prosecution was obliged to prove that he was in conscious possession of IMFS in excess of the prescribed limit of six bottles of 750 ml. each. The prosecution, as stated above, could prove the possession of the accused only qua three bottles, which possession is below the prescribed limit. The conviction and sentence imposed upon the accused by the two Courts below, on this short ground alone cannot be sustained."

12. This Court in Latest HLJ 2007 (HP) 1017, State of H.P. versus Ramesh Chand, Cr. Appeal No. 159 of 2000, decided on 21.06.2007 has held.

"It is well settled law that in appeal against acquittal if two views are reasonably possible of the evidence on the record, then the view in support of acquittal of the case should be preferred. In the instant case the regrettable features are that the respondent was alleged to have been found in possession of 12 bottles of IMFL near the bus stand Sujanpur and it has come in evidence that many persons were present during that time but no attempt was made to associate an independent witness by the police in order to inspire confidence in the prosecution case in view of the fact that no article connecting the accused was found in his ruck-sack. Secondly, out of 12 bottles of IMFL, samples of only three bottles were taken, so the prosecution has left us in lurk as to what another nine bottles contained. Thirdly, there is no link evidence, who had taken the case property to the police station; further LHC Mahant Ram (PW-4) is stated to have taken the sample for analysis to Chemical Laboratory, Kandaghat, but as PW-4 did not whisper even a single word about it. No one came forward to say that the case property/samples were not tempered withy. It is imperative on the prosecution to over-rule the possibility of tempering with the case property/or the samples till its examination. Since link evidence is missing in the instant case, benefit of which has to be given to the accused. Lastly, the seal with which the case property was sealed was not produced by LHC Mahant Ram, with whom it was entrusted. In view of the above discrepancies, case of the prosecution does not inspire confidence and conviction cannot be sustained on the version given by the official witnesses before the trial court. Accordingly, the impugned judgment of acquittal cannot be disturbed.

For the reasons aforesaid, the appeal merits dismissal which is accordingly dismissed. The respondent is discharged of the bail bonds, entered upon by him during the proceedings of the trial."

13. This Court in 2009 (2) Shim. LC 208, Dharam Pal and another v. State of Himachal Pradesh, Cr. Rev. No. 4 of 2003, dated 8th April, 2009 has held.

"According to prosecution, 48 bottles were recovered from the van. The prosecution case is that samples were taken only from four bottles which were ultimately sent for chemical examination and report of the Chemical Examiner Ex.PW-5/F was obtained. In Mahajan Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2003 Cr. L.J. 1346, 8 bottles of XXX Rum were recovered but samples were taken from three bottles and such samples were found to be of IMFS. On those facts a learned Single Judge of this Court in para 12 has held as follows:

> "In view of such report, at the most, the prosecution has been able to prove the possession of the accused only qua three bottles of IMFS. Nothing has come on the record to show that the remaining five bottles alleged to have been recovered from the accused also contained IMFS."

There is nothing on record to show that the bottles from which the samples were not taken were in fact containing liquor. In other words, there is no worth believing material on record to show that 44 bottles were containing liquor. Therefore, prosecution case at its best is that four bottles were containing liquor."

14. In view of discussion held above as well as the law laid down by this Court, this revision petition is allowed and judgment of conviction and sentence imposed upon the petitioner by the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, in case No. 206-I-05/20-III-06, dated 16.05.2007, is set aside alongwith judgment passed in Criminal Appeal No. 36 of 2007, dated 15.01.2010 by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur. Petitioner is acquitted of the offence for which he was charged. Amount of fine deposited by the petitioner, if any, is directed to be refunded to him as per law. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 133- The petitioner filed an application pleading that respondent No. 1 had blocked flow of rainy and domestic water - respondent No.1 pleaded that civil litigation was going between the parties – no water was blocked by him and false application was filed – SDM dismissed the application by holding that there was no nuisance and general public was not involved in the dispute- a revision was filed before Additional Sessions Judge, which was dismissed- held, that power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is to be used sparingly for keeping the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors – it was not disputed that a civil suit was pending between the parties regarding the subject matter – there was no public nuisance as it was not established that drain was being used by public at large – filing of an application before Criminal Court to settle the civil dispute amounted to abuse of the process of the Court – petition dismissed with cost of Rs.10,000/- (Para-9 to 19)

Ms. Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of this petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, petitioner has prayed for quashing of judgment dated 20.12.2013 passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Una, Camp at Amb, in Criminal Revision No. 1/2012 RBT No. 2/2013/2012, vide which learned Court below while dismissing revision petition so filed by the present petitioner upheld the order passed by learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Amb, District Una, in case No. 74/CR/07 titled State Vs. Harpal Singh instituted under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. dated 03.09.2010.

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of this petition are that petitioner Kashetar Pal Singh filed an application before Gram Panchayat, Lower Bhanjal dated 08.04.2007 to the effect that respondent No. 1 Harpal Singh had blocked the flow of rainy and domestic water of the petitioner as well as other local residents near the house of the petitioner which had caused damage to the house of the petitioner. On these bases, a Kalandra was filed by the police, Police Station Amb, under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. against respondent No. 1 Harpal Singh in the Court of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Amb, on the ground that Harpal Singh had blocked the flow of water forcibly causing danger to the house of petitioner and that on 03.07.2007 police visited the spot and associated petitioner as well as respondent No. 1 with the inquiry which revealed that the houses of petitioner, Satya Devi and Pushpa Devi, were adjacent to each other and respondent No. 1 Harpal Singh had constructed his house later on and had made Nallah for free flow of rain water underneath his house and rain water was also going through the same and Harpal thereafter had blocked the free flow of water by putting cement, concrete etc. on the drain as a result of which water was not going through the drain and was seepaging in the house of Kashetar Pal Singh endangering the house ofKashetar Pal Singh. It was on the basis of this inquiry that police submitted Kalandra before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Amb.

3. Respondent No. 1 in his response submitted before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate stated that he had not blocked any rainy water as alleged. According to him, petitioner had constructed septic tank adjacent to the drain behind his abadi and at the back side of abadi of petitioner. As per respondent No. 1, he had not blocked/obstructed any water and in fact, police had prepared a false Kalandra against the respondent. It was also mentioned in his response that there was civil litigation going on between the parties on the same subject matter in the Court of Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Court No. 1, Amb i.e. case No. 121/07 and parallel proceedings were not maintainable on the same cause in the Court of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate.

4. Learned Sub Divisional Magistrate vide order dated 03.09.2010 dismissed Kalandra by holding that there was no nuisance and further the matter in issue was not of public interest and general public was not involved in the said dispute.

5. This decision of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate was challenged by way of a revision petition which was dismissed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Una, Camp at Amb on 20.12.2013.

6. While dismissing the revision petition, it was held by learned Court below that under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. Sub Divisional Magistrate on taking such evidence as he thinks fit could remove nuisance or unlawful obstruction from any public place or from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public. Learned Revisional Court held that the report submitted by police did not mention that path was a public path. It further held that as per report there was dispute of drain between the parties and Executive Magistrate could not take cognizance of private disputes of the parties under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. Learned Court further held that object of Section 133 of Cr.P.C. was to enable an Executive Magistrate to pass quick orders and deal speedily with the cases of public nuisance or where obstruction was caused to the right of public at large. It was further held by learned Revisional Court that there was no evidence to hold that drain on the spot was used by general public. It also held that it was also a matter of record that on the same cause of action there was a civil case pending between the parties in the Court of Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Court No. 1, Amb. Learned Appellate Court also held that in the said civil suit petitioner Kashetar Pal had sought relief of prohibitory injunction restraining Harpal from raising any sort of construction, blocking the rainy as well as domestic flow of water over the portion ABCDEFGH as shown yellow in colour in the site plan which was being used as drain being part of land measuring 0-35-38 hectares, Khata No. 187 min, Khatauni No. 417 min, Khasra No. 1090. Learned Revisional Court also held that perusal of the pleadings of the parties before Civil Court demonstrated that there was no dispute of public nuisance on the spot and Section 133 of Cr.P.C. did not apply to private nuisance. It further held that as there was a civil dispute between the parties and the dispute in issue did not involve public nuisance, therefore, the order of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate could not be said to be illegal and that revision petition was without any substance as there was nothing on record to prove that drain was used by public at large. It was further held by learned Revisional Court that there was neither any illegality nor perversity in the order passed by learned Sub Divisional Magistrate and that the same did not warrant any interference.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned Revisional Court, petitioner has filed this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

8. Before proceeding any further, it is necessary to deal with the scope of this Court while exercising its supervisory jurisdiction conferred upon it under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

9. A three-Judge bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam and another Vs. Chhabi Nath and others, (2015) 5 Supreme Court Cases 423, has held that all the courts in the jurisdiction of a High Court are subordinate to it and subject to its control and supervision under Article 227. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that control of working of the subordinate courts in dealing with their judicial orders is exercised by way of appellate or Revisional powers or power of superintendence under Article 227. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that while appellate or Revisional jurisdiction is regulated by the statutes, power of superintendence under Article 227 is constitutional.

10. It is settled law that power under Article 227 is intended to be used most sparingly and only in appropriate cases for the purpose of keeping subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors.

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ouseph Mathai and others Vs. M. Abdul Khadir, (2002) 1 Supreme Court Cases 319, has held that no doubt Article 227 confers a right of superintendence over all courts and tribunals throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises the jurisdiction but no corresponding right is conferred upon a litigant to invoke the jurisdiction under the said Article as a matter of right. In fact power under this Article casts a duty upon the High Court to keep the inferior courts and tribunals within the limits of their authority and that they do not cross the limits, ensuring the performance of duties by such courts and tribunals in accordance with law conferring powers within the ambit of the enactments creating such courts and tribunals. Only wrong decisions may not be a ground for the exercise of jurisdiction under this Article unless the wrong is referable to grave dereliction of duty and flagrant abuse of power by the subordinate courts and tribunals resulting in grave injustice to any party.

12. A five-Judge bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Waryam Singh and another Vs. Amarnath and another, A.I.R. 1954 S.C. 215, has held that this power of superintendence conferred by Article 227 is, as pointed out by Harries, C.J., in - 'Dalmia Jain Airways Ltd. V. Sukumar Mukherjee', AIR 1951 Cal 193 (SB) (B), is to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors.

13. Coming to the facts of this case, learned counsel for the petitioner could not deny the fact that the issue with regard to which Kalandra was filed before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate was already subject matter of civil suit which had been instituted by him against respondent No. 1.

14. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner neither could point out as to what was the jurisdictional error committed by the learned Court below while deciding the revision petition or what was the perversity with the findings arrived at by learned Revisional Court and by the Court of learned Sub Divisional Magistrate to the effect that the issue raised in Kalandra was in fact a private dispute inter se the present petitioner and respondent No. 1 and there was no element of public nuisance involved in the same. In fact, it is evident from a perusal of the judgment passed by learned Revisional Court as well as other material placed on record by the parties that the issue which was raised by the petitioner by way of filing a complaint before Gram Panchayat was in fact a private dispute existing between him and respondent No. 1 qua which he had already instituted a civil suit in the Court of competent jurisdiction. Therefore, it cannot be said that the Revisional Court erred while coming to the conclusion that the findings retuned by learned Sub Divisional Magistrate that the issue raised in the Kalandra was not a matter of public interest, was the correct decision.

15. In my considered view, it was correctly held by learned Revisional Court that the dispute did not involve public nuisance and there was no illegality with the order passed by learned Sub Divisional Magistrate. Learned Revisional Court also correctly held that there was nothing on record to demonstrate that the drain was used by the public at large and that it was a matter of record that there was a civil dispute between the petitioner and respondent No. 1 on the same cause and the dispute in fact did not involve public nuisance.

16. In fact, taking into consideration that the petitioner had already filed a suit on the same cause against respondent Harpasl Singh, his act of moving an application before Gram Panchayat and on the basis of the same of getting a Kalandra submitted under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Amb, was nothing but an abuse of the process of law. Learned Sub Divisional Magistrate by correctly concluding that there was no element of public interest/public nuisance involved in the complaint/ Kalandra so filed, rightly dismissed the same. Similarly learned Revisional Court after appreciation of material on record correctly held that the issue raised by the petitioner did not fall within the ambit of Section 133 of Cr.P.C.

17. Proceedings under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. are not intended to settle private dispute between two members of the public. It is settled law that if a dispute is of civil nature then dispute cannot be entertained by Magistrate under Section 133 of Cr.P.C. The provisions of the said section can be used only for settlement of dispute in relation to a public right in the general interest of public at large.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of M.P. Vs. Kedia Leather & Liquor Ltd. and others, (2003) 7 Supreme Court Cases 389, has held that to bring in application of Section 133 of Cr.P.C., there must be imminent danger to the property and consequential nuisance to the public. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that the object and purpose behind Section 133 of the Code was essentially to prevent public nuisance and it involves a sense of urgency in the sense that if the Magistrate fails to take recourse immediately irreparable damage would be caused to the public.

19. In view of my findings returned above and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, I do not find any merit in the present petition and the same is accordingly dismissed with cost, assessed at Rs.10,000/-, which shall be deposited by the petitioner in the Registry of this Court within a period of six weeks from today and thereafter, paid to respondent No. 1 by the Registry of this Court as per procedure. Pending miscellaneous applications, if any, stand disposed of. Interim order, if any, also stands vacated.

20. For the limited purpose of ascertaining as to whether the cost so imposed upon the petitioner is deposited by him in the Registry or not, the case shall be listed on 01.03.2017.

For the Non-applicants/ Defendants/Applicant: Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocat for non-applicants/defendants No. 1 and 2.
Ms. Renuka Thakur, Advocate, vice Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate, for non-applicant/ defendant No.3.
Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Ishan Thakur, Advocate, for the applicant/ defendant No.4.
Defendant No.5 ex parte.
Mr. R.L.Chaudhary, Advocate, for non-applicant/defendant No.6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

This order shall dispose of the application filed by the applicant/defendant No.4 for rejection of the plaint on the ground that it does not disclose any cause of action against him.

2. The non-applicant/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiff'), is an ex-employee of defendant No.1- bank and aggrieved by his supersession has filed this suit mainly seeking therein the decree of declaration, mandatory injunction and compensation to the tune of Rs. 1 crore on account of damages caused to his reputation as well as harassment and mental agony caused to him.

3. Besides, the H.P. State Co-operative Bank Ltd, through its Chairman/Managing Director having been impleaded as defendant No.1, the plaintiff has also impleaded the Managing Director of the Bank as defendant No.2 and in addition thereto, certain private parties including defendant No.4 Amit Kashyap, who worked as the Managing Director of defendant No.1 from the period w.e.f. 26.10.2010 to 29.01.2013 and thereafter 02.07.2013 to 27.05.2014 have also been impleaded as party defendant by name.

4. It is averred that prior to joining of defendant No.4 as Managing Director of defendant No.1-Bank, the plaintiff was not personally known to him. Whatever documents and materials were brought before him as regards the work and conduct of the plaintiff, appropriate decision in light of the extant service rules was taken thereupon, that too, in a bonafide manner without any ill-will or any other extraneous consideration. Even otherwise, in case the plaintiff was not satisfied with the action/inaction on the part of the defendant No.4, he was free to avail all suitable departmental or legal remedies against these orders, which admittedly have not been availed of or resorted to by the plaintiff. It is further averred that looking to the nature of the relief sought for in the suit, the matter if at all justiciableis inter se between the plaintiff from one hand and defendants No. 1 and 2 on the other hand and the other defendants including defendant No.4 have no concern with the same. The impleadment of the applicant/defendant No.4 by name, signifies as regards the relief No.3 i.e. relief for grant of damages/compensation to the tune of Rs. 1 crore. He has roped the applicant by name, however, such impleadment is not only unnecessary, but it is gross abuse of the process of the Court.

5. It is averred that all the actions of the applicant/defendant No.4 have been taken in his official capacity, that too, in a bonafide manner in discharge of his official duties. That apart, the averments made in the plaint as such suffer from serious vice of insufficiency inasmuch as the plaint does not disclose any cause of action against the applicant and, therefore, deserves to be dismissed. It is averred that there is lack of necessary averments or allegations against the applicant on the basis of which the decree can be passed against the defendant No.4.

6. The plaintiff has contested the application by filing a reply wherein preliminary submission has been made with regard to the maintainability of the application on the ground that the same is misconceived and therefore, deserves to be dismissed. That apart, it is claimed that a legal notice dated 17.7.2015 was issued to the applicant with the same averments, however, he failed to reply the same and, therefore, it does not lie in his mouth to make averments in the application that the suit is not maintainable. As a matter of fact, the applicant/defendant No.4 had failed to discharge his duties in accordance with rules and regulations and that too, promptly and, therefore, the suit is maintainable. In addition thereto, it is submitted that categoric allegations of malafide have been made in paras 10 to 18 of the plaint, which is indicative of legal malafide on the part of the applicant. The adamancy shown by the applicant to change the Inquiry Officer is indicative of his malafide attitude towards the plaintiff. On reply to the merits of the application, it is submitted that the private parties including the applicant are necessary parties to the suit as they cannot escape the liability as it is on account of their acts that the plaintiff has been constrained to file the instant suit.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case carefully.

7. It is not in dispute that the applicant/defendant No.4 has been made as a party in this suit only because he at one time remained the Managing Director of the defendant No.1-Bank. Therefore, as per the settled law the acts done in discharge of official duty, are normally protected and are immune from the prosecution provided that these acts are done in good faith are bonafide and should not be tainted with the bias of malafides.

8. Mr. P.P. Chauhan, learned counsel for the non-applicant/plaintiff would argue that it is only on account of illegal and malicious act of the applicant that he has been arrayed as a party to the suit and to buttress this submission he has relied upon the contents of paras 10 to 18 of the plaint which reads thus:

> "10. That the aforesaid request for change of enquiry officer made by the plaintiff vide letter dated 28.01.2011 was turned down vide letter dated 01.03.2011 illegally and maliciously and without passing a speaking order.

11. That on 24.04.2011 vide an un-dated letter the plaintiff had made a request for being promoted to the post of Senior Manager in pursuance to the approval by the Registrar dated 17.08.2010. However, no heed was paid thereto.

12. That vide impugned letter dated 11.06.2011, the request for further promotion during the pendency of the departmental proceedings made on 24.04.2011 vide an undated letter was turned down. The said communication was wholly illegal and against the well settled legal position by Hon'ble Supreme Court of India and this Hon'ble Court that in case during Departmental Promotion Committee, no chargesheet has been issued either in criminal case or departmental case, the promotions cannot be withheld. This principle of law was very much in the knowledge of the Bank and has been ignored purposely and knowingly.

13. That subsequent to the aforesaid, vide a letter of plaintiff dated 29.06.2011 it was brought to the notice of the concerned authority that since the enquiry had been conducted on 20.04.2011 and a report thereof had been submitted to the concerned authority thereof, promotion orders of the plaintiff be kindly not delayed.

14. That in the month of June 2012, the plaintiff received an order whereby the plaintiff was informed that though the enquiry report had been submitted by the enquiry officer on 22.04.2011 wherein all three charges levelled against the plaintiff stood proved the same was not being accepted in view of the objection raised by the plaintiff. It was further pointed out therein that the enquiry had been conducted within a day. Hence a de-novo enquiry by the same official was ordered, copy of which was received through fax by the plaintiff on 15.06.2012. It is further stated that the said inquiry has been conducted by Sh. Jitender Jamwal, the then Assistant Manager in District Office Mandi and the Defendant No.6 herein, who was present on 20.04.2011 and which fact is discernible from the order dated 12.10.2012 and also verifiable from the fact that the proceedings have been written in his handwriting. The said Sh. Jitender Jamwal was neither Inquiry Officer nor in anyway connected with the inquiry. The said Sh. Jitender Jamwal was working in District Office, Mandi and the plaintiff was working under him and during the course of their official dealings, there were clashes between the two on many occasion and the said Sh. Jitender Jamwal used to threat the plaintiff with dire consequences. This is how the said defendants No. 5 and 6 have taken undue interest in harming the career and reputation of the plaintiff by holding the inquiry in illegal and arbitrary manner.

15. That in response to the aforesaid order directing a de-novo enquiry by the same official, the plaintiff once again reiterated his objection qua the appointment of the same enquiry officer. The same was filed/received in the office of the concerned authority, i.e. the defendant Nos. 2, 4 and 5 on 20.06.2012.

16. That thereafter to the utter surprise of the plaintiff vide impugned order dated 12.10.2012 the Managing Director of the Bank i.e. the defendant Nos. 2 and 4 have ordered the dismissal of the plaintiff from service in the utmost illegal, arbitrary and malicious manner with a view to harass the plaintiff as well as jeopardize his reputation.

17. That from aforementioned facts and attending circumstances it is clearly evident that the memorandum dated 28.09.2010 was issued post grant of approval dated 17.08.2010 wherein the promotion of the plaintiff by the Registrar had been approved on 22.04.2011 but till June, 2012 no action had been taken thereon. Moreover, after June, 2012 nothing has been done qua the pending enquiry which had been ordered undated and received by the plaintiff through fax on 15.06.2012.

> 18. That the aforesaid facts and attending circumstances reflected a complete non-application of mind on the part of the Managing Director i.e. the defendant Nos. 2 and 4 besides malicious act on his part with a view to harass the plaintiff and cause loss of reputation and monetary benefits to him. As the Managing Director of the Bank, i.e. the defendant Nos. 2 and 4, re-ordered holding of fresh enquiry, as the enquiry report submitted on 22.04.2011 was completed within a day. After having passed the aforesaid order received by the plaintiff in 15.06.2012, the Managing Director of the Bank i.e. the defendant Nos. 2 and 4 took a volte face and based on the enquiry report submitted on 22.04.2011 which was completed within a day proceeded to dismiss the plaintiff."

9. As observed earlier, it is only on account of the fact that the applicant/defendant No.4 has been impleaded as a party as at the relevant time he served as Managing Director of the Bank, therefore, malafide in the case of the applicant would mean any act performed by him not for the proposed purpose.

10. What is the true import of malafides in relation to exercise of power has been succinctly brought forth by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Krishna Iyer in State of Punjab and another vs. Gurdial Singh and others, AIR 1980 SC 319 in his Lordship's inimitable style in the following manner:

> "9. The question, then, is what is mala fides in the jurisprudence of power? Legal malice is gibberish unless juristic clarity keeps it separate from the popular concept of personal vice. Pithily put, bad faith which invalidates the exercise of power - sometimes called colourable exercise or fraud on power and often-times overlaps motives, passions and satisfactions - is the attainment of ends beyond the sanctioned purposes of power by simulation or pretension of gaining a legitimate goal. If the use of the power is for the fulfillment of a legitimate object the actuation or catalysation by malice is not legicidal. The action is bad where the true object is to reach an end different from the one for which the power is entrusted, goaded by extraneous considerations, good or bad, but irrelevant to the entrustment. When the custodian of power is influenced in its exercise by considerations outside those for promotion of which the power is vested the court calls it a colourable exercise and is undeceived by illusion. In a broad, blurred sense, Benjamin Disraeli was not off the mark even in Law when he stated: "I repeat……that all power is a trust -- that we are accountable for its exercise -- that, from the people, and for the people, all springs, and all must exist". Fraud on power voids the order if it is not exercised bona fide for the end designed. Fraud in this context is not equal to moral turpitude and embraces all cases in which the action impugned is to effect some object which is beyond the purpose and intent of the power, whether this be malice- laden or even benign. If the purpose is corrupt the resultant act is bad. If considerations, foreign to the scope of the power or extraneous to the statute, enter the verdict or impel the action, mala fides or fraud on power, vitiates the acquisition or other official act."

11. It is more than settled that malafide should be pleaded by specific allegations. Merely to say that the action was not justified and it was out of bias that the impugned action was taken, is not, in the least, any allegation of malafide.

12. The legal meaning of 'malice' and the grounds for holding an action of the State to be malafide was considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Andhra Pradesh and others vs. Goverdhanlal Pitti (2003) 4 SCC 739 wherein malice were attributed to the State in the matter of acquiring of land and it was held :

> "12. The legal meaning of malice is "ill-will or spite towards a party and any indirect or improper motive in taking an action". This is sometimes described as "malice in fact". "Legal malice" or "malice in law" means 'something done without lawful excuse'. In other words, 'it is an act done wrongfully and wilfully without reasonable or probable cause, and not necessarily an act done from ill feeling and spite'. It is a deliberate act in disregard of the rights of others'. [See Words and Phrases legally defined, Third Edition, London Butterworths 1989].

13. Where malice is attributed to the State, it can never be a case of personal ill-will or spite on the part of the State. If at all, it is malice in legal sense, it can be described as an act which is taken with an oblique or indirect object. Prof. Wade in its authoritative work on Administrative Law [8th Edn., at pg. 414] based on English decisions and in the context of alleged illegal acquisition proceedings, explains that an action by the State can be described mala fide if it seek to 'acquire land' 'for a purpose not authorised by the Act'. The State, if it wishes to acquire land, should exercise its power bona fide for the statutory purpose and for none other'.

14. The legal malice, therefore, on the part of the State as attributed to it should be understood to mean that the action of the State is not taken bona fide for the purpose of the Land Acquisition Act and it has been taken only to frustrate the favourable decisions obtained by the owner of the property against the State in the eviction and writ proceedings."

13. Reverting back to the case, a perusal of paras 10 to 18 of the plaint reveal that only general and vague allegations of malafides have been alleged and the same obviously cannot be treated to be a foundation for the malafide. There must be specific pleading regarding malafides and as observed above, the mere use of expression as 'malafides' or for extraneous reasons or for an ulterior motive etc. is not enough and details must be furnished and material facts have to be set out against the particular person alongwith the incidents in a manner as provided under Order 6 Rule 4 CPC.

14. Having failed to establish 'malice' in fact, Mr. P.P.Chauhan, learned counsel for the plaintiff would then argue that malice in law is writ large in the action of the applicant. This plea is not legally tenable after all legal malafide on the part of the applicant/defendant No.4 can only be understood to mean that the action of the applicant is not taken bonafidely. There is a marked difference between a wrong, erroneous or an illegal decision from the one which is tainted with malafide. From the perusal of the pleadings as quoted above, it is clearly evident that the allegations of malafide are far too general and vague and lack any specific facts and acts and, therefore, such vague allegation cannot be treated to be with foundation for the malafide. Allegations of malafide require high order of credibility, particularly when the imputations are made against the holder of an office having higher responsibility. There must be an averment to bad faith. After all, the malafide means dishonest intention of corrupt motive. Further, the malice must be based on factual matrix which cannot remain in the realm of insinuation, surmises, conjectures or vague suggestions.

15. In Ludovico Sagrado Goveia vs. Cirila Rosa Maria Pinto and others (2016) 9 SCC 615, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"24. Ground VI is totally vague and lacking in particulars. A charge of malafides has to be made out with great clarity and particularity. Also, the appellant cannot claim to be in the dark as every auction-sale was publicly advertised in newspapers. We, therefore, do not accede to the counsel's fervent plea to remit the rest of the writ petition to the High Court for hearing."

16. Confronted with this situation, learned counsel for the non-applicant/plaintiff would then argue that even in absence of specific instances regarding malafides, he would establish the same by leading evidence as he has sufficient weapons in his armoury to establish and prove these facts.

17. I am afraid that even such contention cannot be accepted, as it is more than settled that the pleadings are the foundation of the evidence and no amount of evidence beyond the pleadings can be led. This position has been long settled and was reiterated by a learned

Division Bench of this Court (of which I was a member) wherein this Court has elaborately considered in detail the relevance of pleadings in State of Himachal Pradesh and others versus Baldev and others 2016 (1) SLC 361 and it was observed as under:-

> "38. While deciding a civil suit, the pleadings are the foundation of the case. The pleadings play an important role in making the judgment and decree and that is why it is said that the pleadings are the heart, soul and essential foundation of a judicial verdict. It is the bedrock of the judicial disposal.
> 39. In the instant case, at the cost of repetition, the plaintiffs-respondents have not prayed for relief of compensation or recovery of possession, no such foundation was laid.
> 40. The Apex Court in the case titled as State of Orissa & Anr. versus Mamata Mohanty, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 1332, held that the relief, not founded on pleadings, cannot be granted. It is apt to reproduce para 35 of the judgment herein:
> > "35. Pleadings and particulars are required to enable the court to decide the rights of the parties in the trial. Thus, the pleadings are more to help the court in narrowing the controversy involved and to inform the parties concerned to the question in issue, so that the parties may adduce appropriate evidence on the said issue. It is a settled legal proposition that "as a rule relief not founded on the pleadings should not be granted." Therefore, a decision of a case cannot be based on grounds outside the pleadings of the parties. The pleadings and issues are to ascertain the real dispute between the parties to narrow the area of conflict and to see just where the two sides differ. (Vide : Sri Mahant Govind Rao v. Sita Ram Kesho, (1898) 25 Ind. App. 195; M/s. Trojan & Co. v. RM. N.N. Nagappa Chettiar, AIR 1953 SC 235; Ishwar Dutt v. Land Acquisition Collector & Anr., AIR 2005 SC 3165 : (2005 AIR SCW 578); and State of Maharashtra v. Hindustan Construction Company Ltd., (2010) 4 SCC 518 : (2010 AIR SCW 2265)) "

> 41. The parties, the Courts of first instance, the Appellate Courts or the Revisional Courts cannot travel beyond the pleadings in view of the mechanism provided in CPC, which provides as to what procedure is to be followed after trial stage, i.e. after framing the issues, in terms of Order XIV CPC and how it has to be taken to its logical end after framing the issues.
> 42. The Apex Court in the case titled as Hari Chand versus Daulat Ram, reported in AIR 1987 Supreme Court 94, held that when the plaintiff fails to prove his case as pleaded in the plaint, the relief cannot be granted by the Court, which is neither pleaded nor prayed. It is apt to reproduce para 11 of the judgment herein:
> > "11. On a consideration of all the evidences on record it is clearly established that the alleged encroachment by construction of kuchha wall and khaprail over it are not recent constructions as alleged to have been made in May 1961. On the other hand, it is crystal clear from the evidences of Ramji Lal P.W. 1 and Daulat Ram D.W. 1 that the disputed wall with khaprail existed there in the disputed site for a long time, that is 28 years before and the wall and the khaprail have been affected by salt as deposed to by these two witnesses. Moreover the court Amin's report 57C also shows the said walls and khaprail to be 25-30 years old in its present condition. The High Court has clearly come to the finding that though the partition deed was executed by the parties yet there was no partition by metes and bounds. Moreover there is no whisper in the plaint about the partition of the property in question between the co- sharers by metes and bounds nor there is any averment that the suit property fell to the share of plaintiffs vendor Ramji Lal and Ramji Lal was ever in possession of the disputed property since the date of partition till the date of sale to the plaintiff. The plaintiff has singularly failed to prove his case as pleaded in the plaint."

43. The Apex Court in the case titled as Bachhaj Nahar versus Nilima Mandal & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 287, held that the Court cannot, on finding that the plaintiff has not made out the case put-forth by him, grant some other relief. It is apt to reproduce para 12 of the judgment herein:

"12. It is thus clear that a case not specifically pleaded can be considered by the court only where the pleadings in substance, though not in specific terms, contains the necessary averments to make out a particular case and the issues framed also generally cover the question involved and the parties proceed on the basis that such case was at issue and had led evidence thereon. As the very requirements indicate, this should be only in exceptional cases where the court is fully satisfied that the pleadings and issues generally cover the case subsequently put forward and that the parties being conscious of the issue, had led evidence on such issue. But where the court is not satisfied that such case was at issue, the question of resorting to the exception to the general rule does not arise. The principles laid down in Bhagwati Prasad and Ram Sarup Gupta (supra) referred to above and several other decisions of this Court following the same cannot be construed as diluting the well settled principle that without pleadings and issues, evidence cannot be considered to make out a new case which is not pleaded. Another aspect to be noticed, is that the court can consider such a case not specifically pleaded, only when one of the parties raises the same at the stage of arguments by contending that the pleadings and issues are sufficient to make out a particular case and that the parties proceeded on that basis and had led evidence on that case. Where neither party puts forth such a contention, the court cannot obviously make out such a case not pleaded, suo motu."

44. The pleadings and particulars are necessary to enable the Court to decide the rights of the parties in the trial.

45. The Apex Court in the case titled as National Textile Corporation Ltd. versus Nareshkumar Badrikumar Jagad & Ors., reported in 2011 AIR SCW 6180, has laid down the same principle. It is apt to reproduce para 7 of the judgment herein:

"7. Pleadings and particulars are necessary to enable the court to decide the rights of the parties in the trial. Therefore, the pleadings are more of help to the court in narrowing the controversy involved and to inform the parties concerned to the question in issue, so that the parties may adduce appropriate evidence on the said issue. It is a settled legal proposition that "as a rule relief not founded on the pleadings should not be granted". A decision of a case cannot be based on grounds outside the pleadings of the parties. The pleadings and issues are to ascertain the real dispute between the parties to narrow the area of conflict and to see just where the two sides differ. (Vide: M/s. Trojan & Co. v. RM N.N. Nagappa Chettiar, AIR 1953 AIR 235; State of Maharashtra v. M/s. Hindustan Construction Company Ltd., AIR 2010 SC 1299; and Kalyan Singh Chouhan v. C.P. Joshi, AIR 2011 SC 1127)."

18. The learned counsel for the non-applicant/plaintiff would thereafter argue that an adverse inference ought to be drawn against the applicant/defendant No.4 as despite the service of notice under Section 80 CPC upon the applicant, he did not choose to contest the same by filing reply and thereby attorned to the contents therein and would rely upon the judgment rendered by the three Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Salem Advocate Bar Association, T.N. vs. *Union of India (2005) 6 SCC 344 wherein it was held as under:

> "38. Section 80(1) of the Code requires prior notice of two months to be served on the Government as a condition for filing a suit except when there is urgency for interim order in which case the Court may not insist on the rigid rule of prior notice. The two months period has been provided for so that the Government shall examine the claim put up in the notice and has sufficient time to send a suitable reply. The underlying object is to curtail the litigation. The object also is to curtail the area of dispute and controversy. Similar provisions also exist in various other legislations as well. Wherever the statutory provision requires service of notice as a condition precedent for filing of suit and prescribed period therefore, it is not only necessary for the governments or departments or other statutory bodies to send a reply to such a notice but it is further necessary to properly deal with all material points and issues raised in the notice. The Governments, Government departments or statutory authorities are defendants in large number of suits pending in various courts in the country. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that in large number of cases either the notice is not replied or in few cases where reply is sent, it is generally vague and evasive. The result is that the object underlying Section 80 of the Code and similar provisions gets defeated. It not only gives rise to avoidable litigation but also results in heavy expense and cost to the exchequer as well. Proper reply can result in reduction of litigation between State and the citizens. In case proper reply is sent either the claim in the notice may be admitted or area of controversy curtailed or the citizen may be satisfied on knowing the stand of the State. There is no accountability in the Government, Central or State or the statutory authorities in violating the spirit and object of Section 80.
> 39. These provisions cast an implied duty on all concerned governments and States and statutory authorities to send appropriate reply to such notices. Having regard to the existing state of affairs, we direct all concerned governments, Central or State or other authorities, whenever any statute requires service of notice as a condition precedent for filing of suit or other proceedings against it, to nominate, within a period of three months, an officer who shall be made responsible to ensure that replies to notices under Section 80 or similar provisions are sent within the period stipulated in a particular legislation. The replies shall be sent after due application of mind. Despite such nomination, if the Court finds that either the notice has not been replied or reply is evasive and vague and has been sent without proper application of mind, the Court shall ordinarily award heavy cost against the Government and direct it to take appropriate action against the concerned Officer including recovery of costs from him."

19. It is not in dispute that defendant No.1 is only a Co-operative Society and not Government and, therefore, the provisions of Section 80 CPC do not apply. However, learned counsel for the non-applicant/plaintiff would persist that defendant No.1 being a statutory authority would nonetheless fall within the definition of Government as provided under Section 80 CPC. However, I find this contention to be based upon a complete misunderstanding of the provisions of the H.P. State Co-operative Societies Act. Defendant No.1 is only constituted and not created under the Act and functions like any other Co-operative Society and is mainly regulated in terms of the provisions of the Act, except as provided in the byelaws of the Society. The State has no say in the functions of the Society, membership, acquisition of shares and all other matters are governed by the byelaws framed under the Act. The terms and conditions of the employees of the Co-operative Society indisputably are governed by the Rules.

20. For the proper understanding of this proposition, it would be necessary to advert to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.S. Rana vs. Registrar, Coop. Societies and another (2006) 11 SCC 634, wherein it was observed as under:

> "9. It is not in dispute that the Society has not been constituted under an Act. Its functions like any other Co-operative Society are mainly regulated in terms of the provisions of the Act, except as provided in the bye-laws of the Society. The State has no say in the functions of the Society. Membership, acquisition of shares and all other matters are governed by the bye-laws framed under the Act. The terms and conditions of an officer of the Co-operative Society, indisputably, are governed by the Rules. Rule 56, to which reference has been made by Mr. Vijay Kumar, does not contain any provision in terms whereof any legal right as such is conferred upon an officer of the Society.
> 10. It has not been shown before us that the State exercises any direct or indirect control over the affairs of the Society for deep and pervasive control. The State furthermore is not the majority shareholder. The State has the power only to nominate one director. It cannot, thus, be said that the State exercises any functional control over the affairs of the Society in the sense that the majority directors are nominated by the State. For arriving at the conclusion that the State has a deep and pervasive control over the Society, several other relevant questions are required to be considered, namely: (1) How the Society was created?; (2) Whether it enjoys any monopoly character?; (3) Do the functions of the Society partake to statutory functions or public functions?; and (4) Can it be characterized as public Authority?
> 11. Respondent No.2, the Society does not answer any of the afore-mentioned tests. In the case of a non-statutory society, the control thereover would mean that the same satisfies the tests laid down by this Court in Ajay Hasia vs. Khalid Mujib Sehravardi [(1981) 1 SCC 722]. [See Zoroastrian Coop. Housing Society Ltd. vs. District Registrar, Coop. Societies (Urban) & Ors. reported in 2005 (5) SCC 632.]
> 12. It is well settled that general regulations under an Act, like Companies Act or the Co-operative Societies Act, would not render the activities of a company or a society as subject to control of the State. Such control in terms of the provisions of the Act are meant to ensure proper functioning of the Society and the State or statutory authorities would have nothing to do with its day-to-day functions.
> 13. The decision of the Seven Judge Bench of this Court in Pradeep Kumar Biswas vs. Indian Institute of Chemical Biology (2002) 5 SCC 111, whereupon strong reliance has been placed, has no application in the instant case. In that case, the Bench was deciding a question as to whether in view of the subsequent decisions of this Court, the law was correctly laid down in Sabajit Tewary vs. Union of India & Ors. [(1975) 1 SCC 485], and it not whether the same deserved to be overruled. The majority opined that the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) was 'State' within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India. This Court noticed the history of the formation thereof, its objects and functions, its management and control as also the extent of financial aid received by it. Apart from the said fact it was noticed by reason of an appropriate notification issued by the Central Government that CSIR was amenable to the jurisdiction of the Central Administrative Tribunal in terms of Section 14(2) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. It was on the aforementioned premises this Court opined that Sabhajit Tewary (supra) did not lay down the correct law. This Court reiterated the following six tests laid down in Ajay Hasia vs. Khalid Mujib Sehravardi [(1981) 1 SCC 722]:

"(1) One thing is clear that if the entire share capital of the corporation is held by Government, it would go a long way towards indicating that the corporation is an instrumentality or agency of Government.

(2) Where the financial assistance of the State is so much as to meet almost entire expenditure of the corporation, it would afford some indication of the corporation being impregnated with Governmental character.

(3) It may also be relevant factor ..... whether the corporation enjoys monopoly status which is State conferred or State protected.

(4) Existence of deep and pervasive State control may afford an indication that the corporation is a State agency or instrumentality.

(5) If the functions of the corporation are of public importance and closely related to Governmental functions, it would be a relevant factor in classifying the corporation as an instrumentality or agency of Government.

(6) 'Specifically, if a department of Government is transferred to a corporation, it would be a strong factor supportive of this inference' of the corporation being an instrumentality or agency of Government."

This Court further held (Pradeep Kumar Biswas case, SCC P. 134, para 40):

" 40. This picture that ultimately emerges is that the tests formulated in Ajay Hasia are not a rigid set of principles so that if a body falls within any one of them it must, ex hypothesi, be considered to be a State within the meaning of Article 12. The question in each case would be -- whether in the light of the cumulative facts as established, the body is financially, functionally and administratively dominated by or under the control of the Government. Such control must be particular to the body in question and must be pervasive. If this is found then the body is a State within Article 12. On the other hand, when the control is merely regulatory whether under statute or otherwise, it would not serve to make the body a State."

(Emphasis supplied)

14. As the respondent No.1 does not satisfy any of the tests laid down in Pradeep Kumar Biswas (supra), we are of the opinion that the High Court cannot be said to have committed any error in arriving at a finding that the respondent-Bank is not a State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India."

21. Notably, defendant No.1-Bank in the instant case is not different from the bank which was in issue before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.S. Rana's case. That apart, this Court has otherwise repeatedly held that defendant No.1-bank to be not falling within the meaning of Article 12 or under Article 226 of the Constitution. (Refer: Chandresh Kumar Malhotra vs. H.P.State Coop. Bank and others 1993 (2) Sim. L.C. 243, Vikram Chauhan vs. The Managing Director and others Latest HLJ 2013 (HP) 742 (FB), Thalappalam Ser. Co-op. Bank Ltd. and others vs. State of Kerala and others 2013 AIR SCW 5683 and Sanjeev Kumar and others vs. State of H.P. and others Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 1061).

22. It needs to be clarified that defendant No.1 is a Co-operative Society governed by the Act wherein though there is a provision for mandatory notice provided under Section 76, however, the same is applicable only to the cases where the dispute touches the Constitution, management or the business of the Society. However, even this provision does not apply to the disputes involving the matters pertaining to service of the employees of the Co-operative Society as held by this Court in Sumer Chand Katoch vs. The Kangra Central Cooperative Bank Ltd. 1996 (2) Sim. L.C. 134 wherein it was held as under:

"13. The next question is whether the District Judge is right in rejecting the plaint under Order VII, Rule 11 (d), C P. C. on the ground that the suit was not maintainable without giving notice under section 76 of the Act. Section 76 of the Act is :-

> "76. Notice necessary in suits.- No suit shall be instituted against a society or any of its officers in respect of any act touching the constitution, management or the business of the society, until the expiration of two months after notice in writing has been delivered to the Registrar or left at his office, stating the cause of action, the name, description and place of residence of the plaintiff and the relief which he claims ; and the plaint shall contain a statement that such notice has been so delivered or left."

14. By now it is well settled that section 76 of the Act is mandatory and its compliance is must and does not permit any exception as is apparent from its language, which is couched in negative terms. Its language is similar to that of section 80, C. P C , which fell for consideration of the Supreme Court of India in State of Madras v C. P. Agencies, AIR 1960 SC 1309, wherein the learned Judges have held that:-

> "..... . Section 80 is express, explicit and mandatory and admits of no implications or except ions..... The object of section 80 is manifestly to give the Government or the public officer sufficient notice of the case which is proposed to be. brought against it or him so that it or he may consider the position and decide for itself or himself whether the claim of the plaintiff should be accepted or resisted. In order to enable the Government or the public officer to arrive at a decision it is necessary that it or he should be informed of the nature of the suit proposed to be filed against it or him and the facts on which the claim is founded and the precise reliefs asked for."

15. Under section 76 of the Act also notice of two months is required to be delivered to the Registrar, Co-operative Societies or left at his office, stating the cause of action, the name, description and place of residence of the plaintiff and the relief which he claims so that the Registrar may look into the matter and issue appropriate directions to the management of the cooperative society either to contest the claim or to accept it in the interest of the society From the scheme of the Act it is clear that the Registrar, Co-operative Societies is a statutory authority who exercises overall control in respect of constitution, management and business of a co-operative society, as such, he plays a vital role in respect of a disputes touching the constitution, management and business of the society. Section 76 of the Act further provides that the plaint shall contain a statement that such a notice has been so delivered or left Therefore, if the mandatory notice under section 76 of the Act is not delivered or left, the plaint can be rejected under Order VII, Rule II (d), C P. C In view of this, the District Judge is right to the extent that compliance of section 76 of the Act is mandatory before a suit is entertained in respect of a dispute touching the constitution, management or the business of the society. (Please see: Gangappa Gurupandappa Gugwad v. Rachawwa, AIR 1971 SC 442 and The Jwali Harijan Co-operative Agricultural Society v. Maghu etc etc . AIR 1992 HP 34.

16. However, the vital question for the application of section 76 of the Act is whether the matter in respect of setting aside the termination order and grant of consequential relief is a matter touching the constitution, management or the business of the society, as stated in section 76 of the Act. This Court may hold without any fear of contradiction that it is not an act touching she constitution and the business of the society. In Deccan Merchants Co-operative Ltd v. Dalichand Jugraj Jain, AIR 1969 SC 1320 ; Co-operative Central Bank Ltd v Additional Industrial Tribunal, Andhra Pradesh, AIR U70 SC 245 and The Allahabad District Co operative Ltd v Hanuman Butt Tewari, AIR 1982 SC !20, it is held by the learned Judges of the Supreme Court that since the word 'business' is Equated with the actual trading or commercial or other similar business activity of the society, the dispute relating to conditions of service of the workman employed by the society cannot be held to be a dispute touching the business of the society.

17. The words 'touching the constitution, management or the business of a co-operative society used in section 76 of the Act also occur in section 72 of the Act, which provides than any dispute touching the constitution, management, or the business of a co-operative society arising between the parties stated therein, shall be referred to the Registrar for decision and no court shall have jurisdiction to entertain any suit or other proceeding in respect of such dispute. Undoubtedly, these words used in both these sections carry the identical meaning. Section 72 of the Act is para materia to section 96 of the Gujarat Co-operative Societies Act, 1961, which fell for consideration of learned Judges of the Supreme Court in The Gujarat State Co-operative Land Development Bank Ltd v, P. R. Mankad and another (supra). Interpreting the expression 'management of the society', it was held that :-

> "35. ……..Grammatically, one meaning of the term 'management' is : 'the Board of Directors' or 'the apex body or Executive Committee at the helm which guides, regulates, supervises, directs and controls the affairs of the Society. In this sense, it may not include the individuals who under the overall control of that governing body or Committee, run the day-today business of the Society..... Another meaning of the term 'management' may be: 'the act or acts of managing or governing by direction, guidance, superintendence, regulation and control the affairs of a society'.
> 36. A still wider meaning of the term which will encompass the entire staff of servants and workmen of the Society, has been convassed for by Mr. Dholakia The use of the term 'management' in such a wide sense in section 96 (1) appears to us, to be very doubtful.
> 37. Be that as it may, what has been directly bidden 'out-of-bounds for the Registrar by the very scheme and object of the Act, cannot be indirectly inducted by widening the connotation of 'management', A construction free from contexual contraints, having the effect of smuggling into the circumscribed limits of the expression 'any dispute', a dispute which from its very nature is incapable of being resolved by the Registrar, has to be eschewed. Thus considered, a dispute raised against the Society by its discharged servant claiming reliefs such as reinstatement in service with back wages, which are not enforceable in a Civil Court is outside the scope of the expression 'touching the management of the Society used in section 96 (I) of the Act of 1961, and the Registrar has no jurisdiction to deal with and determine it Such a dispute squarely falls within the jurisdiction of the Labour Court under the B I. R. Act."*

18. In view of these clear observations of the learned Judges of the Supreme Court, the District Judge was not right in relying upon the judgment of Rajasthan High Court in Sawai Madhopur Co-operative Marketing Society Ltd v. Rajasthan State Co-operative Tribunal, Jaipur and another (supra) The learned Judge of Rajasthan High Court took the view that having regard to the provisions of the Rajasthan Co operative Societies Act and the Rules, the dispute in question relating to validity of the suspension and termination is a dispute touching the management of the society and falls within the ambit of section 75 of the Rajasthan Co operative Societies Act. According to them, the ambit and import of word 'touching' are very wide and it includes any matter which relates to the management of the society, more particularly, when the Registrar deals with the matters relating to the officers and employees as provided in the Act and the Rules. Section 75 of the Rajasthan

Co-operative Societies Act is para materia to section 72 of the Act and also section 96 of the Gujarat Co-operative Societies Act, which was under consideration of the learned Judges of the Supreme Court in The Gujarat State Co-operative Land Development Bank Ltd v. P R Mankad and another (supra). The learned Judges of the Rajasthan High Court have tried to distinguish the judgment of the Supreme Court by stating that, "it appears that attention of their Lordships of the Supreme Court was not drawn to the provision of section 76 under Chapter VII of the Gujarat Act and the Rules made thereunder". Section 76 of the Gujarat Cooperative Societies Act falls under Chapter VII, which deals with the management of societies and reads as under :-

> "76. The qualifications for the appointment of a manager, secretary, accountant or any other officer or employee of a society and the conditions of service of such officers and employees shall be such as may, from time to time, be prescribed ;
> Provided that no qualification shall be prescribed in respect of any officer not in receipt of any remuneration."

19. The reasoning of learned Judges of Rajasthan High Court is that consideration of section 76 of the Gujarat Co-operative Societies Act and the Rules made thereunder prescribing the qualification for the officers and employees of the society would have assisted the learned Judges of the Supreme Court to give wider meaning to the term 'management' covering within its encompass the disputes of appointment, termination and other conditions of service of the officers and the employees of the society. With all respect to the learned Judges of Rajasthan High Court, this Court finds it difficult to agree with this reasoning given by them. It cannot be presumed that the learned Judges of the Supreme Court did not consider section 76 of the Gujarat Co-operative Societies Act for coming to their conclusion inspite of their not referring this section in their judgment. Even if the provision like section 76 of the Gujarat Co-operative Societies Act figures in a chapter pertaining to the management of the societies it does not lead to the conclusion that the term 'management which grammatically means 'the Board of Directors or 'the apex body or 'Executive Committee at the helm would include the officers and employees of the society, who run the day-to-day business under their overall control. Moreover, the Rajasthan Co-operative Societies Act and Rules and the Act and Rules of the State of Himachal Pradesh materially differ in respect of the provisions pertaining to the Officers and employees of the society, more specifically, section 148 (2) (xxvii) and (xxx), as reproduced in paragraph 6 of the judgment in Sawai Madhopur Co-operative Marketing Society Ltd. v. Rajasthan State Co-operative Tribunal, Jaipur and another (supra), on which the learned Judges of Rajasthan High Court mainly based their conclusion. Therefore, applying the ratio of the judgment of the Supreme Court in The Gujarat State Co-operative Land Development Bank Ltd. v. P. R. Mankad and another (supra), this Court holds that the dispute pertaining to termination of the services of the appellant-plaintiff is not the dispute touching the management of the respondent-defendant bank for which notice under section 76 of the Act was required before filing of the suit."*

23. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find merit in this application and the same is accordingly allowed and consequently, the plaintiff's suit as against defendant No.4/applicant is ordered to be rejected and his name is ordered to be struck off from the array of the defendants in the memorandum of parties. Amended memo of parties be filed within a week.

For the appellant. Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate.
For the respondents Mr. Nimish Gupta, Advocate for respondents No. 1(a) and 1(b).
None for respondents No. 2 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (oral).

By way of this appeal, the appellant/plaintiff has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Chamba, in Civil Appeal No. 40/04, dated 26.11.2007, vide which, learned Appellate Court, while dismissing the appeal so filed by present appellant upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Chamba, District Chamba, in Civil Suit No. 97/2001, dated 26.02.2004.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of this case are that appellant/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff') filed a suit for declaration to the effect that mutation No. 717, dated 31.07.1996 and subsequent revenue entries entered on the basis of aforesaid mutation regarding property comprised in Khasra Nos. 442, 443, measuring 0-2-14 bighas, Khata Khatauni No. 136 min/173, 174, situated in Mohal Bharmour, Pargana and Tehsil Bharmour, District Chamba, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'suit land') were illegal, null and void and inoperative upon the rights of the plaintiff and also suit for restraining the respondents/defendants (hereinafter referred to as defendants) from interfering, dismantling or changing the nature of the suit land. As per plaintiff, actual owner of the suit land was Nanak Chand, father-in-law of the plaintiff, who had executed a Will in favour of plaintiff on 08.05.1991. After the death of Nanak Chand, defendants No. 1 and 2 got suit property mutated in their favour vide mutation No. 717, dated 31.07.1996 in collusion with revenue staff. Factum of these revenue entries in the revenue record came to her notice in the month of January 2001 when defendants started interfering in her peaceful possession over the suit land. It was further her case that mutation No. 717 and subsequent entries in the revenue record were wrong and illegal and not binding upon the rights of the plaintiff and on these bases, she prayed for the reliefs already mentioned above.

3. The claim of the plaintiff was contested by defendant No. 1 Arjun, who took the stand in the written statement that Nanak Chand was a co-sharer in Khasra Nos. 442 and 443 and he had not executed any Will qua Khasra Nos. 442 and 443 and Will, if any, was procured by Ranjha Ram (defendant No. 2), husband of the plaintiff for the benefit of his wife. It was further mentioned in the written statement defendant No. 2 had also procured another Will in favour of his son Manoj Kumar and Manoj Kumar had also filed a similar suit against defendant No. 1. It was further the stand of defendant No. 1 that suit property was rightly mutated in favour of defendant No. 1 and that too at the instance of defendant No. 2 and there was no collusion with the revenue staff as alleged. On these bases, claim of the plaintiff was contested by defendant No. 1.

4. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether deceased Nanak Chand had executed a valid Will in favour of the plaintiff as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether revenue entries showing defendants the owners of the suit land are illegal, null and void as alleged? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as alleged? OPP

4. Whether the plaint is bad for non joinder of necessary parties? OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff has filed the suit in collusion with defendant No. 2 as alleged? OPD

6. Relief."

5. On the basis of evidence led by the parties both ocular as well as documentary in support of their respective claims, the issues so framed were answered by the learned trial Court in the following manner:-

"Issue No.1	: No.
Issue No. 2	: No.
Issue No. 3	:No.
Issue No. 4	:Yes.
Issue No. 5	:No.
Relief	:The suit of the plaintiff dismissed as per operative part of the Judgment."

6. Learned trial Court dismissed the suit so filed by the plaintiff by holding that there was no evidence on record to prove that Nanak Chand had purchased the suit land from Chatro and that Nanak Chand in fact was not owner of the suit land. On these bases, it was further held by the learned trial Court that when the suit land was not in the name of Nanak Chand, he could not have had bequeathed the suit land by way of Will Ext. PW2/A. While arriving at the said conclusion, learned trial Court held that plaintiff had failed to furnish any jamabandi on record from which it could be demonstrated that Nanak Chand was owner of the suit land and in the absence of entry in the name of Nanak Chand as owner in the jamabandi, it could not be barely presumed that Nanak Chand was owner of the suit land before the execution of the Will. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that Will Ext. PW2/A was not a valid Will as plaintiff had failed to establish that Nanak Chand was owner of the suit land which was bequeathed by way of said Will.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the dismissal of her suit, plaintiff filed an appeal.

8. Learned Appellate Court while dismissing the appeal so filed by the plaintiff returned the findings that though appellant claimed herself to be beneficiary of the Will Ext. PW2/A but she had not claimed in her suit that she had rendered services to her father-in-law during his lifetime. Learned Appellate Court went on to hold that it was settled law that where there was disinheritance of heirs of equal degree and no reason for exclusion was disclosed, then the Will was shrouded with suspicion. Learned Appellate Court further held that scrutiny of the Will Ext. PW2/A demonstrated that there was nothing on record which could show as to why Nanak Chand excluded his wife and sons and why he opted to bequeath his property in favour of his daughter-in-law especially when there was no mention of plaintiff serving him at any point of time nor the plaintiff had claimed having served her father-in-law during his lifetime. On these bases, it was held by the learned Appellate Court that Will in fact was shrouded with suspicious circumstances and therefore, it could be safely concluded that Shri Nanak Chand had not executed any valid Will in favour of plaintiff.

9. Feeling aggrieved, the plaintiff has filed this appeal which was admitted on 20.11.2008 on the following substantial questions of law:

> "1. Whether exclusion of the sons and wife from the duly executed Will that too for part of the property in favour of daughter in law can be said to be a suspicious circumstance particularly when the testator has not bequeathed the entire property.
> 2. Whether presumption of genuineness can be attached to a duly executed registered Will?"

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below.

11. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court demonstrates that the plaintiff was non-suited by the learned trial Court on the ground that plaintiff had failed to establish that the suit land in fact was owned by the testator of the Will i.e. Shri Nanak Chand. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that when Nanak Chand was not proved to be the owner of the suit land, he could not have had bequeathed the suit property by way of a Will in favour of his daughter-in-law.

12. Findings so returned by the learned trial Court were assailed by way of appeal by the appellant/plaintiff before the first Appellate Court.

13. However, learned Appellate Court rather than adjudicating as to whether the findings returned by the learned trial Court to the effect that Nanak Chand was not proved to be the owner of the suit land on record, ventured to adjudicate on the veracity of the Will on the point as to whether the plaintiff had proved the execution of Will in accordance with law or whether defendant had succeeded in proving that Will was shrouded with suspicious circumstances.

14. In my considered view, learned Appellate Court in the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case erred in doing so. This is for the reason that as learned trial Court had returned the findings that Nanak Chand was not the owner of the suit land which was bequeathed by him by way of Will Ext. PW2/A in favour of plaintiff, therefore, until and unless learned Appellate Court had returned findings on this issue as to whether Nanak Chand was owner of the suit land or not, it could not have had ventured to adjudicate upon the issue as to whether Will Ext. PW2/A was shrouded with suspicious circumstances or not. In this view of the matter, in my considered view, this appeal deserves to be allowed on this short point alone and the matter deserves to be remanded back to the learned Appellate Court with a direction to adjudicate the appeal afresh after taking into consideration the findings returned by the learned trial Court as well as the grounds taken in the appeal by the appellant/plaintiff before the first Appellate Court to challenge the findings so returned by the learned trial Court.

15. Accordingly, this appeal is allowed and judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No. 40/04, dated 25.11.2007, is set aside and the case is remanded back to the learned Appellate Court for adjudication afresh after taking into consideration the findings returned by the learned trial Court while dismissing the suit of the plaintiff and the grounds taken in appeal by plaintiff before the learned Appellate Court in challenge to the judgment and decree so passed by the learned trial Court. Parties through their counsel are directed to appear before the learned Appellate Court on 09.01.2017. Keeping in view the fact that the civil suit pertains to the year 2001, this Court hopes and trusts that learned Appellate Court shall decide this case, as expeditiously as possible, preferably within a period of six months from today. No orders as to costs. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Onkar Chand ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P. and others. ...Respondents.

CMPMO No. 508/2016
Decided on: 29.12.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 24- An application seeking the transfer of election petition filed on the ground that respondent No. 2 had made uncalled for remarks, had disclosed that he was going to set aside the election of the petitioner and behaviour of respondent No. 2 is rude – held, that a transfer petition is not to be dealt in a light hearted manner - transfer of a case from one authority to another should not be granted readily for any fancied notion of the petitioner – the authority should have shown an unfair attitude or biased frame of mind against the petitioner – mere suspicion of denial of justice is not sufficient to order transfer - election petition is pending for ten months – sixteen proceedings have been held, which proves that respondent No. 2 is not biased against the petitioner, otherwise he would have decided the matter by now – mere allegation that justice will not be done is not sufficient to transfer the matter-petition dismissed.(Para-5 to 9)

Case referred:
Usmangani Adambhai Vahora versus State of Gujarat and another (2016) 3 SCC 370

For the Petitioner: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Meenakshi Sharma, Addl. A.G. with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Asstt. A.G. for respondents No.1 and 2.
Nemo for respondents. 3 to 8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral):

By medium of this petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India, the petitioner has sought transfer of election petition pending before the Authorized Officer-cum-SDO (C), Sujanpur, District Hamirpur on the ground that the said Officer is biased.

2. The brief facts as are necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that an election petition came to be filed by respondent No.3 against the petitioner, which is pending before respondent No.2. It is averred that respondent No.2, has time and again, during the course of trial, made uncalled for remarks and, therefore, the petitioner apprehends that he would not get justice. It is further averred that respondent No.2 has openly disclosed that he is going to set aside the election of the petitioner. It is also averred that ever since the date of filing of the election petition on 23.2.2016, about 16 dates of hearing stand fixed by respondent No.2 and on each and every date of hearing, respondent No.2 has openly stated that he would decide the election petition within 2-3 months and he is going to set aside the election of the petitioner.

3. Apart from this, the behaviour of respondent No.2 is rude to the extent that the petitioner has been driven to the wall and it is on account of political pressure being exercised upon him that he has time and again disclosed that he intends to make an adverse decision against the petitioner.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner and have gone through the material placed on records of the case.

5. The basic principle governing transfer of petition is that such petition is not to be dealt with in a light-hearted manner and transfer of a case from one authority to another should not be granted readily for any fancied notion of the petitioning litigant because of the reason that such transfer of a case from one authority to another in effect casts doubt on the integrity competence and reputation of the concerned authority. Unless and until a sufficiently cogent ground is disclosed, transfer should not be allowed as a matter of course. The authority from which the case is sought to be transferred must be shown to have disclosed a definitely unfair attitude or biased frame of mind against the petitioner. Transfer can only be ordered when the party has reasonable apprehension that the justice would be denied to him. The mere fact that the party has suspicion in this regard cannot constitute a valid ground. Likewise, mere presumption or possible apprehension cannot and should not be made the basis of transferring a case from one authority to another.

6. In Usmangani Adambhai Vahora versus State of Gujarat and another (2016) 3 SCC 370, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that seeking transfer at the drop of a hat is unconceivable. It was further held that order of transfer is not to be passed as a matter or routine or merely because the interested party has expressed some apprehension about proper conduct of trial. The power of transfer has to be exercise cautiously and in exceptional situations, where it becomes necessary to do so to provide credibility to trial. There has to be a real apprehension that there would be miscarriage of justice.

7. On a careful scrutiny of the material placed on record, it cannot be gathered or held that there was a real apprehension or bias against the authority.

8. Evidently, as per the showing of the petitioner himself, the election petition is pending for the last more than ten months and has not been decided against the petitioner and in fact as many as 16 proceedings have been held in the case, which only prove that respondent No.2 is not biased against the petitioner or else by now, the proceedings would have culminated into an adverse order against the petitioner. It cannot be said that there is reasonable apprehension on the part of the petitioner that justice would not be done. The petitioner has failed to point out circumstance from which it can be inferred that he entertains apprehension and that is reasonable in the circumstances as alleged.

9. It is one of the principles of the administration of justice that justice should not only be done but it should be seen to be done. However, a mere allegation that there is apprehension that justice would not be done in a given case does not suffice. The Court has further to see whether the apprehension is reasonable or not. To judge of the reasonableness of the apprehension, the state of the mind of the person who entertains the apprehension is no doubt relevant but that is not all. The apprehension must not only be entertained but must appear to the Court to be a reasonable apprehension. This apprehension must be reasonable and not imaginary, based upon conjecture and surmises. However, no universal or hard and fast rule can be prescribed for deciding a transfer petition, which has always to be decided on the basis of each case.

10. Having said so, I find no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed in *limine, s*o also the pending applications.

For the appellant : Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Additional Advocate Generals.
For the respondent : Mr. Ajay Kumar, Senior Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj Vashisht, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal is maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh against the judgment of acquittal of the accused in a case under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985, passed by the learned Special Judge, Kullu, dated 31.3.2011, in Session trial No.43/2008.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 31.5.2008, Police party while on patrolling duty, was present at Shishmati Kullu. In the meanwhile, ASI Balbir Singh, received a secret information to the effect that one person, namely, Kamlesh alias Kaka (hereinafter referred to as 'the accused') resident of Shishamati, having his shop near temple of Khalari Narayan, is indulging in the sale of smack. The informant also informed ASI Balbir Singh that if search conducted a large quantity of smack can be recovered. ASI Balbir Singh (Investigating Officer) complied with the provisions of Section 42 (2) of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') and the said information was sent to the higher Police Officers. Thereafter, Investigating Officer alongwith other accompanying Police Officials proceeded to conduct the search of the shop of the accused and accused was found present in the shop. Police reached there at about 4:10 pm, in the second room of the shop, three persons were found taking tea. On inquiry, they disclosed their names as Sonu alias Rajinder, Mandeep alias Sonu and Ashok Kumar. Mandeep alias Sonu and Sonu alias Rajinder joined as witnesses by the police. In addition to this, Investigating Officer also associated ASI Man Singh as witness. Thereafter, Investigating Officer conducted the search of the shop of the accused. During search from the eastern side of the shop, Investigating Officer found two wrapping paper rolls from the lower shelf of the counter. In addition to this, one large packet (pura) made of wrapping papers, weighing scale made of brass, one weight of ten grams and one weight of two grams were also found in the same shelf. When the said 'p*ura*' was opened, it was found containing heroin type substance. When the said substance was checked on the narcotic drugs testing kit, then positive result of heroin was found. On weighing the recovered heroin was found 14 grams. Out of it two samples of 1-1 gram each were separated for chemical analysis. In compliance to the other formalities, Investigating Officer filled in NCB form in triplicate and the case property after sealing the same, was taken into possession. The investigation was later on entrusted to ASI Lal Chand, who made further investigation. After receipt of the chemical examiner's report, challan was presented in the Court.

3. The prosecution in order to prove its case has examined as many as 10 witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, wherein he has denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. No defence was led by the accused.

4. Learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the appellant has argued that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and the learned trial Court has acquitted the accused, just on the basis of surmises and conjectures, therefore, the accused is liable to be convicted.

5. On the other hand, Mr. Ajay Kumar, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the accused has argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. He has further argued that as per the law in Nallabothu Ramulu alias Seetharamaiah and others vs. State of Andhra Pradesh,2014 (12) Supreme Court Cases, 261, where two views are possible then one favourable to the accused is required to be taken. He has further argued that there is no perversity in the impugned judgment, therefore, the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

6. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, this Court has gone through the record in detail and have minutely scrutinized the statements of the prosecution witnesses.

7. PW-1 Nanak Chand took the information under Section 42 (2) of the Act, to Addl. Superintendent of Police, Kullu, at about 4:25 pm.

The shop of the accused was having three shutters, but he could not disclose about the fact whether all the shutters were open or not. When the question regarding the ownership of the shop was asked from this witness, he disclosed that it was accused who disclosed to them that all the shops were in his possession. He has admitted that except one weighing scale Ex.P-7 weight of ten grams Ex.P-8 and weight of two grams Ex.P-9, they were having no other weighing scale. He has deposed that Investigating Officer firstly weighed two grams of heroin and thereafter separated the same in two parts.

On the same day, PW-8 Lal Chand, produced the case property consisting one bulk parcel and two sample parcels alongwith specimen seal impressions of 'T' as well as NCB form in triplicate. The said information was found authentic by this witness and as such, he complied with the provisions of Section 42 (2) of the NDPS Act and prepared the information Ex.PW1/A and sent the same to the then Addl. Superintendent of Police Ahmed Sayed through Constable Nanak Chand. Thereafter, this witness alongwith other accompanying Police officials proceeded to the spot and reached there within few minutes. One person was found standing on the counter of the shop. On inquiry, he disclosed his name as Kamlesh (accused). The case property was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW2/B, thereafter prepared ruqa Ex.PW10/B and handed over the same to ASI Man Singh, with a direction to take the same to Police Station, Kullu. Thereafter, this witness telephonically informed ASI Lal Chand, Incharge, Police Post, City Kullu, to come present on the spot. In his cross-examination, he deposed that when he received secret information, the entire police party was also present there. Thereafter, he enquired about the shop of the accused from a person, but he admitted that he did not associate the said person in the investigation from whom he inquired about the shop of the accused. He has admitted that no personal search of the accused was conducted and only his shop was searched. So far as the alleged independent witnesses are concerned, according to this witness, they were present at the time when he searched the shop. He has also admitted that the area where the shop of the accused is allegedly situated is thickly populated area. He has further deposed that since he was having specific secret information, he only searched one shop of the accused, where the accused was found standing.

17. In the present case, PW-10 ASI Balbir Singh, (Investigating Officer) was having a specific secret information regarding indulgence of the accused in the sale of smack and other narcotics. He found the said information authentic and after complying the provision of Section 42 (2) of the NDPS Act, prepared the information Ex.PW1/A and sent the same to the then Addl. Superintendent of Police Ahmed Sayed through Constable Nanak Chand. Thereafter, this witness alongwith other accompanying Police Officials proceeded to the spot and reached there within a few minutes. One person was found standing on the counter of the shop. On inquiry, he disclosed his name as Kamlesh (accused) in the present case. The Investigating Officer also found three other persons sitting in the shop, who were having tea and disclosed their names as Sonu alias Rajinder, Mandeep alias Sonu and Ashok Kumar. The accused as well as other two-three persons were apprised about the secret information received by the Investigating Officer. Investigating Officer associated ASI Man Singh, Mandeep alias Sonu and Sonu alias Rajinder, as witnesses in the investigation. Investigating Officer gave personal search to the accused, thereafter the search of the shop was conducted and found two silver foils/wrapping papers rolls, one large packet (pura) made of wrapping papers kept on the lower shelf on the counter. He has also found one weighing scale made of brass, one weight of ten grams and one weight of two grams from the same shelf. When the said large packet (pura) was opened, it was found containing heroin type white powder, the result of which, on checking with the help of narcotic detection kit was found positive. Thereafter, the heroin was recovered weighing 14 grams. He also took two samples of 1-1 gram each, which were separated from the recovered heroin. The samples were separated sealed in two packets by affixing the seals on the sample filled in the NCB forms and seal impression was also taken. This witness duly identified the other specimen sample seals attached with the sample and bulk parcel. The case property was taken into possession by him. Investigating Officer prepared the rukka and sent the same through ASI Man Singh with a direction to take the same to Police Station, Kullu and handed over the further investigation to ASI Lal Chand. The case property was duly identified by this witness in the Court. PW-8 ASI Lal Chand, took further investigation from PW-10 ASI Balbir Singh. He reached at the spot at about 7:50 PM. He prepared the spot map and recorded the statement of witnesses, as per their version. He arrested the accused and produced the case property before the then Station House Officer, Police Station, Kullu, Shri Partap Singh, who resealed the same with seal impression 'H' on the bulk parcel. The bulk was also sealed by him with six seal impression 'H'. He has also filled the relevant columns of NCB forms in triplicate and obtained the specimen sample seal of 'H'. According to PW-8 ASI Lal Chand, there are two shops at the spot having three shutters and these were owned by accused Kamlesh. PW-3 ASI Man Singh, has supported the version of PW-10 ASI Balbir Singh (Investigating Officer) on material aspect of the case. PW-7 Inspector Partap Singh, has stated about the registration of FIR, on the receipt of rukka making endorsement and handing over the case file to ASI Man Singh with a direction to take the same to Investigating Officer at the spot. As far as taking the case property to FSL in safe custody has also been proved on record, as the narcotics were recovered from the shop of the accused, on the basis of secret information, there is sufficient compliance of Section 42 (2) as required under the Act. PW-2 Mandeep Singh alias Sonu independent witness has admitted his presence in the shop at the time of recovery. He was declared hostile and in his cross-examination, he has admitted his signatures on the documents. He has also admitted that some documents were written. He also admitted the presence of Rajinder alias Sonu at the place. He has stated that his statement was not recorded by the police. He has admitted that the police have come to the shop of the accused. Though, he has thereafter not supported the recovery, but he has admitted his signature in the recovery memo. He has admitted that memo Ex.PW2/A to Ex.PW2/C bears his signature. He also admitted that when he signed these documents no pressure was put by the police.

18. From the above, it is clear that the independent witnesses have tried to shield the accused, but his admission on the signatures of the memos Ex.PW2/A to Ex.PW2/C and his admission with regard to his presence and the presence of other independent witnesses on the spot and that he signed the documents without any pressure shows that he is not stating the truth before the Court.

19. As stated here-in-above, the prosecution by leading cogent, convincing and reliable evidence of PW-8 ASI Lal Chand, PW-10 ASI Balbir Singh and other police witnesses has proved on record the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt that the prosecution has recovered 14 grams of heroin from the shop of the accused on 31.5.2008 at about 4:00 PM, at Shishmati, District Kullu, H.P, which was in the exclusive possession of the accused and accused was in possession of heroin, on the basis of secret information, heroin was lying in the shop of the accused. So, we hold that the accused has committed an offence under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. The findings arrived at by the learned Court below with respect to the non compliance of provision of the Act are not in accordance with law and thus are required to be set aside. The findings of the learned Court below that the heroin was not recovered from the possession of the accused are also against the proved facts on record and liable to be set aside.

20. Consequently, the appeal is allowed and accused Kamlesh alias Kaka is convicted under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. Thus, accused Kamlesh alias Kaka now convict is required to be heard on quantum of sentence for the offence punishable under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985.

21. Let the convict be produced before this Court on 12.01.2017 by issuing a production warrant.

22. Before parting with the case, we would be failing in our duty, if ignore the manner in which PW-2 Mandeep Singh alias Sonu, independent witness has conducted himself while in the witness box. Taking note of the statement, he made while in the witness box, in our opinion, he has not disclosed true facts. He has admitted his signatures on the recovery memo Ex. PW2/A to Ex.PW2/C. He while in the witness box admits his signatures on these memos. In his cross-examination, he has admitted his signatures on the documents. He has also admitted that some documents were written. He also admitted the presence of Rajinder alias Sonu at the place. He has stated that his statement was not recorded by the police. He has admitted that the police have come to the shop of the accused. Though, he has thereafter not supported the recovery, but he has admitted his signature in the recovery memo. He has admitted that memo Ex.PW2/A to Ex.PW2/C bears his signature. He also admitted that when he signed these documents no pressure was put by the police. If nothing of this sort took place in his presence, he should not have signed these documents. Therefore, he has not spoken the truth and has rendered himself liable to be dealt with in accordance with law including his prosecution under Section 211 of the Indian Penal Code and also within the meaning of sub-Section (1) of Section 195 of the Indian Penal Code.

23. Section 340 of the Code of Criminal Procedure takes care of such a situation. The provisions contained under the Section ibid reveal that if on an application made to it or otherwise, the Court is of the opinion that it is expedient and in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made into any offence referred to in clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 195 of the Code, which appears to have been committed in relation to proceeding of a case in that Court, the Court shall hold a preliminary inquiry and after recording a finding that by producing a document or giving a statement in evidence, an offence referred to in clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 195 of the Code is made, order to make a complaint in writing to a Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction over the matter.

24. Section 340 of the Code of Criminal Procedure contemplates a preliminary inquiry to be conducted by the Court to form an opinion that it is expedient and in the interest of justice to hold inquiry into the offence which appears to have been committed. It is not mandatory for the trial Court to hold preliminary inquiry, because it has the opportunity to see the witness while in the witness box and to observe his demeanour. We, however, feel that the appellate Court, having no such opportunity to observe the demeanour of the witness, should hold an inquiry and give an opportunity of being heard to him, before forming an opinion that an offence within the meaning of clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 195 of the Code of Criminal Procedure appears to have been committed by him. It is only thereafter, an order qua filing a complaint, as contemplated under Section 340 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, should be passed.

25. Therefore, before initiating any action against PW-2 Mandeep Singh alias Sonu, we deem it expedient and in the interest of justice to call upon him to show cause as to why an action be not initiated against him in the light of the observations in this judgment. Consequently, there shall be a direction to the Registry to issue show cause notice to PW-2 Mandeep Singh alias Sonu, for 12.01.2017 and the proceedings be registered against him separately. A copy of judgment be also sent to PW-2 Mandeep Singh alongwith show cause notice. Office of learned Advocate General to collect notice from the Registry of this Court for onward transmission to the Superintendent of Police, Kullu, for effecting service thereof upon the witness Mandeep Singh well before the date fixed. The record of the learned trial Court be retained for being referred to at the time of further consideration of the matter, after taking on record the version of the witness to be referred to as 'the respondent' in the proceedings ordered to be drawn separately against him.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh .....Appellant.

Versus

Labh Singh. .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 292 of 2014
Reserved on :10.11.2016
Decided on :29.12.2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 306 and 498-A- Deceased was married to the accused – one daughter was born – the accused started beating the deceased under the influence of liquor- she complained that her husband used to beat her and he had also tried to kill her – she committed suicide by consuming poison- the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court - held in appeal that marriage of the deceased with the accused was not disputed – it was also not disputed that deceased had consumed poison – the allegations made by the deceased are nothing but normal wear and tear of normal married life – they do not amount to such willful conduct, which would have driven the deceased to commit suicide – the instances of maltreatment and cruelty pertain to 1-2 years prior to the commission of suicide – there is no evidence that deceased was subjected to cruelty prior to commission of suicide – the Trial Court had taken a reasonable view while acquitting the accused- appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 25)

Cases referred:
State of H.P. Vs. Pardeep Singh and another, Latest HLJ 2013 (HP) 1431
Manju Ram Kalita versus State of Assam (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 330

For the appellant	:	Mr. M.A. Khan and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. AGs.
For the respondent	:	Mr. Rahul Singh Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh aggrieved by the judgment dated 23.5.2014 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kullu in Sessions trial No. 7 of 2014(2012) is in appeal before this Court. The complaint is that learned trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in its right perspective and acquitted the accused erroneously. The findings of acquittal of the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'accused') are claimed to be contrary to the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW1 Chaman Lal, the brother of deceased, her father Shri Bidhu Ram PW4 and sister Smt. Jamuna Rana PW5. They all stated in one voice that the accused had been administering beating to deceased Chinta Mani and it is on account of that she consumed poison and committed suicide.

2. Deceased Chinta Mani had consumed poison on 7.3.2012. She was brought to Regional Hospital, Kullu and as per MLC Ext.PW9/J admitted there at 9:50 A.M. She later on died and information in this regard was given by HHC Ved Ram No. 228 on PAR duty in Regional Hospital, Kullu at 12:45 P.M. Rapat Ext.PW9/A came to be entered in police station. PSI Ashok Kumar (PW9) accompanied by HC Jai Singh and L.C. Ram Kali went to hospital to conduct inquiry in the matter. In the hospital PW1 Chaman Lal, brother of the deceased was present. He made statement Ext.PW1/A and reported that the deceased was married to accused four years prior to her death as per Hindu rites and customary ceremonies. One daughter was born to them out of this wedlock. After the marriage, the accused started beating the deceased under the influence of liquor. He had been torturing her not only physically but mentally also. He was advised not to do so on several occasions but of no avail. About one year prior to her death she had come to the house of PW1 and complained that her husband had been administering beating to her under the influence of liquor. Also that on one occasion he tried to set her on fire and to kill. She lived in his house for 12-13 days. He thereafter discussed the matter with her husband the accused and she was taken by him to the matrimonial home. The accused allegedly did not mend his behavior and as the deceased was again beaten up by him, therefore, she went to Mohal to the house of her sister PW5 Jamuna Rana. There also she lived for a week and thereafter made to go back to the matrimonial home. It was, therefore, reported by the complainant party that Chinta Mani had committed suicide by consuming poison on account of being tortured mentally as well as physically by her husband, the accused.

3. On the basis of the statement Ext.PW1/A FIR Ext.PW7/B was recorded in Police Station, Sadar Kullu. PW9 had photographed the dead body. The photographs are Ext.P1 to Ext.P8. He also prepared the inquest papers Ext.PW9/B and Ext.PW9/C. He thereafter moved the application Ext.PW9/D to the Medical Officer for conducting post mortem of the dead body. After getting the post mortem conducted, the dead body was handed over to Gaytri Dutt, brother-in-law of the deceased vide memo Ext.PW9/E. Spot map Ext.PW9/F was prepared. One vial 'Nuvon' was taken in possession vide recovery memo Ext.PW2/A from the house of the accused.

The photographs of the house Ext.P12 and Ext.P13 were also taken by PW9. The house was video graphed vide CD Ext.P14. The statements of the witnesses were recorded. The Chemical Examiner's report Ext.PW9/G and MLC of the deceased Ext.PW9/J were also collected from the hospital.

4. On completion of the investigation, challan was prepared by PW8 Shri Sher Singh, the then Inspector/SHO, Police Station, Kullu.

5. Learned trial Court on appreciation of the challan and documents annexed therewith has framed charge for the commission of the offence punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code against the accused. He, however, pleaded not guilty to the charge and claimed trial. Therefore, in order to sustain charge against him, the prosecution has examined nine witnesses in all. Besides Chaman Lal PW1, brother of the deceased, Shri Bidhu Ram PW4 her father and sister PW5 Smt. Jamuna Rana are the material prosecution witnesses. PW2 Sukh Chand is a witness of recovery of vial which was taken in possession vide memo Ext.PW2/A. The remaining prosecution witnesses PW3 HHC Uttam Singh, PW7 SI Om Chand and PW8 Inspector/SHO Sher Singh are police officials who remained associated during the investigation of the case in one way or the other. Pw9 is the Investigating Officer. PW6 is Dr. Rajinder Kohli who has proved the post mortem report Ext.PW6/A.

6. The accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has admitted that the deceased was his legally wedded wife and she consumed poison and expired in Regional Hospital, Kullu on 7.3.2012 at 12.45 P.M. Rest of the prosecution case has, however, been denied by him either being wrong or for want of knowledge. According to him, he is innocent and the witnesses have deposed falsely against him. He however, did not opt for producing any evidence in his defence.

7. Mr. M.A. Khan, learned Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that cogent, reliable and convincing evidence produced by the prosecution has proved the commission of offence by the accused beyond all reasonable doubt, however, the same is stated to be erroneously brushed aside and the accused acquitted of the charge framed against him on flimsy grounds.

8. On the other hand, Mr. Rahul Singh Verma, Advocate, learned Counsel representing the accused has urged that the present is a case of no offence and as such the accused has rightly been acquitted of the charge framed against him by the learned trial Court.

9. Before coming to the rival submissions and appreciation of the evidence available on record, it is desirable to take note of as to what constitute an offence within the meaning of Section 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code and also the meaning of 'abetment' in legal parlance. We can draw support in this regard from the judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in State of H.P. Vs. Pardeep Singh and another, Latest HLJ 2013 (HP) 1431. The relevant text of this judgment is as under:

> "10. At the outset it is desirable to discuss as to what constitutes the commission of an offence punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code. A bare reading of Section 498-A reveals that sine qua non to establish the said offence is subjecting to cruelty the wife by her husband or relative with a view to coerce her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or willful conduct of the husband of such woman or a relative, of such a nature as is likely to drive her to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health."

10. The Apex Court in Manju Ram Kalita versus State of Assam (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 330 has held as under:

> "Cruelty*" for the purpose of Section 498-A IPC is to be established in the context of Section 498-A IPC as it may be different from other statutory provisions. It is to be determined/ inferred by considering the conduct of the man, weighing the gravity or seriousness of his acts and to find out as to whether it is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide, etc. It is to be established that the woman has been subjected to cruelty continuously/persistently or at least in close proximity of time of lodging the complaint. Petty quarrels cannot be termed as "cruelty" to attract the provisions of Section 498-A IPC. Causing mental torture to the extent that it becomes unbearable may be termed as cruelty."

12. So far as the commission of offence punishable under Section 306 of the Indian Penal Code is concerned, the prosecution is required to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that some person has committed suicide as a result of abetment by the accused.

13. In the case in hand, the deceased had committed suicide on 25.5.2008 in her matrimonial home at village Nau-Shehra, District Kangra, H.P. One of the ingredients of the commission of offence under Section 498-A IPC, therefore, stands proved. The prosecution, however, is further required to prove that it is the accused alone who had abetted the commission of suicide by the deceased.

14. Abetment has been defined under Section 107 of the Indian Penal Code. Its simple meaning is that a person abets the doing of a thing who firstly instigates any person to do a thing, or secondly, engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to doing of that thing, or intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing can be said to have abetted the doing of that thing.

15. ..... It is worthwhile to mention here that in a case of this nature, torture and harassment ordinarily is meted out to the victim in the four walls of the house and such cases mostly depend upon the circumstantial evidence. In the absence of direct evidence, the legislature in its wisdom has enacted Section 113-A of the Indian Evidence Act which provides that if a married woman commits suicide within the period of seven years from the date of marriage and there are allegations that she did so because of being subjected to cruelty either by her husband or relatives of her husband or by both. Having regard to all other circumstances, the Court can presume that she has committed suicide on being abetted by her husband or by such relatives of her husband. The Apex Court in Wazir Chand and another versus State of Haryana (1989) 1 Supreme Court Cases 244 has held that if any person instigates any other person to commit suicide and as a result of such instigation, the other person commits suicide, the person causing the instigation is liable to be punished under Section 306 of the Indian Penal Code.

16. In a case of suicidal death, the onus to prove that suicide was abetted by the accused alone is on the prosecution and to raise the presumption under Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, one of the ingredients that the deceased was subjected to cruelty is required to be proved first by the prosecution."

11. The settled legal principles are, therefore, that in order to bring guilt home to the accused for the commission of an offence punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code evidence to coerce the deceased to convince her parents to meet dowry demand of her husband or his relative and that it is due to such willful conduct of the accused which had driven the deceased to commit suicide is required to be proved by the prosecution.

12. Admittedly, the deceased was married to accused Labh Singh. One female issue was born to her out of this wedlock. She consumed 'Nubon' a poisonous substance on 7.3.2012 in the matrimonial home. She was brought to Regional Hospital, Kullu for treatment at 9:50 A.M. She was admitted in the hospital, however, could not be saved and passed away at 12:45 P.M. on that day itself. She, therefore, has died within seven years of her marriage with accused Labh

Singh. As per the medical evidence available on record she was carrying 4-5 months old pregnancy at the time of her death.

13. In the statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Ext.PW1/A the instances of cruelty on the perusal thereof reads as follow:

i) Accused used to torture the deceased mentally as well as physically and had also been administering beatings to her.

ii) One year prior to commission of suicide by her, she came to the house of her brother the complainant PW1 Chaman Lal at village Chhurla and told that her husband (accused) used to administer beating to her under the influence of liquor.

iii) Also that on one occasion he attempted to set her on fire.

14. In view of the instances of cruelty as aforesaid nothing suggesting has come on record that her husband had maltreated the deceased in the matrimonial home with a view to coerce her parents to meet demand of dowry of the accused. The allegation if believed to be true amount to bear and tears of normal married life. The same do not amount to such willful conduct of the accused which had driven the deceased to commit suicide within the meaning of Section 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code. True it is that her brother Chaman Lal the complainant while in the witness box as PW1 has supported the allegation against the accused in the statement Ext.PW1/A. However, the alleged maltreatment and incident of beatings to the deceased pertains to one year prior to the commission of suicide by her. The so called threatening by the accused to set her on fire is also not an incident i.e. immediately before the commission of suicide by her but disclosed to PW1 during her visit to his house somewhere one year also before the occurrence. In his cross-examination, he tells us that she disclosed the alleged incident of beatings given to her by the accused in the year 2012 i.e. two years prior to commission of suicide by her. He admitted that the matter was not reported either to police nor he ever consulted the elderly placed persons in the village. He, however, had discussed the matter with the accused and his colleague teacher Tej Singh. The deceased had told him that accused threatened to set her on fire about 8-10 days back on her visit to his house i.e. in the year 2010. The deceased had brought to the notice of Jamuna Rana such conduct and behavior of the accused during her visit which according to PW1 was after 4-5 months of her visit to his house, meaning thereby that to Jamuna also the deceased had revealed the incident somewhere in the year 2010 or 2011. According to Jamuna Rana PW5 the deceased had come to her house somewhere in August and September 2011. Even if the deceased had gone to her house somewhere 6-7 months prior to commission of suicide by her, PW Jamuna Rana has also not made any complaint to anyone including the members of the family of accused against his conduct and behavior. The testimony of PW1 and PW5 lead to the only conclusion that the so called instances of maltreatment and cruelty of the deceased pertain to the period prior to 1-2 years of commission of suicide by her.

15. The present as such is not a case where soon before the death of the deceased she was subjected to cruelty in connection with demand of dowry. In order to bring guilt home to the accused in a case of this nature approximate link between harassment and cruelty in connection with demand of dowry and death of victim resulting out of it should be pleaded and proved. However, in the case in hand, there is no iota of evidence to show that soon before the commission of suicide by the deceased she was treated with cruelty by the accused. The statement of her father Bidhu Ram PW4 is also of no help to the prosecution case for the reason that as per his testimony his deceased daughter had come to his house about two years back and told about she was being maltreated and tortured by the accused. According to him after about one week he made her to understand to return to the matrimonial home. During that visit she allegedly had also informed him qua the accused having attempted to set her on fire and thereby to kill her. However, his statement in cross-examination reveals that he never made any complaint to the police against the accused. No statement that the deceased disclosed setting her on fire by the accused is however made by him before the police. Therefore, by stating so, this witness has improved his earlier version which is not legally permissible.

16. This alone is the evidence produced by the prosecution to connect the accused in the commission of offence because the remaining prosecution witnesses are police officials who remained associated during investigation of the case in one way or the other. The evidence as has come on record by way of their testimony could have been used as link evidence had the prosecution been otherwise able to establish the involvement of the accused in the commission of offence.

17. The present no doubt is a case where the deceased has committed suicide within seven years of her marriage in the matrimonial home with the accused. However, in the given facts and circumstances as well as the evidence available on record the presumption that it is the accused who abetted the commission of suicide by her cannot be drawn for the reasons that the prosecution has miserably failed to discharge the initial onus upon it. There is again no question of accused having instigated the deceased to commit suicide or abetted the commission of suicide by her within the meaning of Section 107 of the Indian Penal Code. As a matter of fact, the present is a case where nothing suggesting that the deceased was being tortured or harassed by the accused in relation to the demand of dowry or otherwise and the degree of cruelty was so high that she was not able to understand comparison between life and death and in such a state of mind, chosen the pangs of death. True it is that in normal circumstances, no person takes such a drastic step to do away with his/her life that too without there being any cause, however, present is not a case where it can be said that the deceased has committed suicide owing to cruel treatment meted out to her by the accused.

18. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. The personal bond furnished by the accused shall stand cancelled and the surety discharged.

19. Before parting with this judgment, we would be failing in our duty if ignore the facts which otherwise would have been of some help to the investigating agency to unearthen the truth, had the same been taken into consideration and gone into during the course of inquiry, investigation or trial.

20. As per the prosecution case the deceased was found to have consumed poisonous substance early in the morning i.e. 7:45 A.M on 7.3.2012. The reliance in this regard can be placed on the MLC Ext.PW9/J which reveals that the deceased was brought to the Regional Hospital, Kullu for treatment and attended upon by the doctor on duty at 9:50 A.M. As per record the only evidence i.e. rapat Ext.PW9/A the information qua deceased having consumed some poisonous substance and as a result thereof died in the hospital was given at 12:45 P.M. by Ved Ram who allegedly was on PAR duty in the hospital. The MLC reveals that the deceased when brought to hospital was attended upon by Dr. Rajinder Kohli. The first and foremost duty of Dr. Kohli who is PW6 in this case was to have apprised the police of Police Station, Kullu qua the deceased having been brought in serious condition as a case of poisoning to the hospital for treatment. There is no evidence that any such information was given by PW6 Dr. Rajainder Kohli to Kullu police.

21. The information when received at 12:45 P.M. in the Police Station the I.O. PW9 though conducted the investigation, however, did not inquire into this aspect of the matter. He in his cross-examination has admitted that as per the investigation he conducted the deceased was brought to hospital at 9:50A.M. by the accused and other villagers. He neither inquired the matter from those villagers who had brought the deceased to the hospital nor from the Medical Officer who on her arrival in the hospital attended her. It is only the MLC Ext.PW9/J of the deceased was collected by him from the hospital and the other record qua the treatment given to her has not been obtained.

22. Therefore, the doctor on duty i.e. PW6 Dr. Rajinder Kohli prima-facie had not given the intimation to the police of Police Station, Kullu that deceased was brought to the hospital at 9:50 A.M. for treatment in serious condition as the case of poisoning. Likewise the I.O. PW9 had not conducted inquiry nor tried to find out as to what prevented PW6 Dr. Rajinder Kohli to give requisite information to the police. Had the intimation been received by the police well in time the statement of deceased could have possibly been recorded and had she been found fit to make statement may have divulged the circumstances leading to consumption of poison by her and commission of suicide.

23. As per the evidence available on record Sube Ram, the father of the accused was serving in Regional Hospital, Kullu. Therefore, delaying the intimation to the police can also be on account of some foul play or with a view to help the accused. In case the acts attributed to PW6 Dr. Rajinder Kohli and the I.O. PW9 Ashok Kumar are ultimately turned to be true, they not only committed an act of dereliction of duty and rendered themselves liable to be proceeded against departmentally but also of certain offences punishable under the Penal Laws of the Land. Anyhow, before any direction in this regard is passed by us, it is desirable to afford both of them the opportunity of being heard.

24. Being so, issue show cause notice to PW6 Dr. Rajinder Kohli, the then Medical Officer, Regional Hospital, Kullu and PW9 Shri Ashok Kumar, the then PSI Police Station, Kullu calling upon them to appear in this Court on 2.3.2017 in person and show cause why they should not be prosecuted under the Penal Laws of the Land for their act prima facie of omission and why a direction should not be issued to their respective appointing and disciplinary authority to initiate departmental action against them for imposition of penalty.

25. Learned Additional Advocate General to collect the present addresses of both of them and file the same in the Registry within a week.

State of H.P. .... Respondent.

Cr. R. No. 182 of 2008.

Decided on: 29.12.2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 292- IndianCopy Right Act, 1957- Section 68-A- Accused was found in possession of pornographic VCDs –he was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed – held in revision that seizure memo contains FIR number along with the sections under which the FIR was registered in the same ink, same pen, same flow and same handwriting as the remaining contents - FIR number has also been mentioned in the statements of the witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. – these documents were prepared prior to sending of ruqua and it was not possible to record the FIR number at that time – this falsifies the version of the prosecution and makes it difficult to rely upon the statements of official witnesses especially when independent witnesses have turned hostile – further independent witnesses were not associated from the locality and were taken by the I.O. with him – there was no compliance of Section 65-B of Indian Evidence Act- appeal allowed – judgment of Trial Court and Appellate Court set aside. 7. PW3, Sanjeev Kumar, who was part of the police party stated that on 15.11.2006 Subhash Chand Gift Centre was checked at Nalti by Sub Inspector Guler Chand and from the counter of the said shop 19 CDs were recovered. He stated that out of these CDs, 09 were pirated and 10 were pornographic which were checked at the spot. He further stated that these CDs were taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW1/A. In his cross-examination, this witness admitted it to be correct that at Nalti there were 25-30 shops. He also stated that police party did not associate any local person with the investigation. He further stated that Ramesh had joined the investigation at the spot only and that Ramesh was not taken along by the police party. He also stated that the entire proceedings at Nalti consumed about 3 to 4 hours. He admitted that before checking the counter the police party had not given its search to anyone.

8. The next relevant witness is Sub Inspector Guler Chand who entered the witness box as PW6. This witness deposed that he was posted as Sub Inspector at Police Station, Hamirpur since July, 2006. He also deposed that on 15.11.2006 at around 2:45 p.m. some unknown person passed on information that Subhash Chand a shopkeeper at Nalti Bazar had kept pirated CDs in his shop which he used to sell and in case the shop was raided then the said CDs could be recovered. He further stated that on this he entered the Rapat i.e. Rapat No 29, Ext. PW6/A, and went to the spot in a vehicle alongwith HC Manohar Lal, Constable Sanjeev Kumar and on the way he also took witnesses Ramesh and Subhash Verma alongwith him. He further deposed that after reaching the shop of accused, search was carried out which revealed 19 CDs inside the counter which were not bearing any mark or identification sign of any Company and were in fact pirated. He further deposed that all the CDS were checked in a CD-Player which was found in the shop of accused and out of recovered CDs, 10 VCDs were found to be pornographic. He also deposed that remaining 09 pirated VCDs contained songs sung by various artists. He further deposed that Fard was prepared at the spot which was signed by witnesses Ramesh, Subhash and Sanjeev Kumar. He also deposed that he recorded the statements of the witnesses, arrested the accused and sent Ruqua, Ext. PW6/E, through HC Manohar Lal. In his cross-examination, this witness deposed that he had associated witness Subhash from his shop and witness Ramesh from outside the Police Station. He also deposed that he had taken both these witnesses alongwith him. He stated that he had taken the entire raiding party from there (Police Station) only. He also deposed that in Nalti there were about 25-30 shops and that he had not associated any local person of the area or Panch, Pradhan or shopkeeper etc. He also stated in his cross examination that before carrying out the raid he had not given his search to anyone. He also stated in his cross examination that the shop of witness Subhash was adjacent to the Police Station and that witness Ramesh Chand was a resident of village Anu. He further deposed that proceedings took place between 3:15 p.m to 6:00 p.m and Ruqua was sent at around 4:15 p.m.

9. Learned trial court on the basis of evidence produced before it by the prosecution held that the prosecution was able to prove successfully its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt for commission of offences punishable under Section 68-A of Copyright Act and Section 292 of IPC. Accordingly learned trial court convicted the accused for commission of the said offences. While returning the finding of conviction learned trial court held that though PW1 and PW2 turned hostile, however, statement of PW3, Constable Sanjeev Kumar, and PW6, Sub Inspector Guler Chand, proved the case of the prosecution as there was nothing to doubt the testimony of these two witnesses. Learned trial court also held that the factum of the Investigating Officer not associating any independent local witness also had no bearing as the requirement of having independent witness to corroborate evidence of Police Officers had to be viewed from a realistic angle. Learned trial court further held that even if search was made in violation of the provisions of Section 100 (4) of Cr.P.C. then also conviction can be recorded if the testimonies are found to be satisfactory. Learned trial court further held that the discrepancies in the statements of prosecution witnesses were otherwise bound to come with the passage of time and they were not sufficient to reject the prosecution case. On these bases, it was held by learned trial court that prosecution had proved that the accused was found in possession of 19 VCDs, out of which 10 were pornographic and 09 were pirated. It was also held by learned trial court that as per the provisions of Section 52-A of Copyright Act it was essential that the name and address of the person who had made the video film and declaration that he had obtained necessary licence or consent from the owner of the copyright for making such video film, the name and address of the copyright owner were mentioned on VCD and if these requirements are not mentioned then it amounts to offence punishable under Section 68-A of Copyright Act. Learned trial court also held that it was not necessary for the prosecution to track and trace the owner of the copyright to adduce evidence for infringement of copyright. It was also held by learned trial court that prosecution witnesses had consistently held that VCDs were found to be pornographic in nature and since the VCDs were kept in a shop therefore there was a reasonable inference that the same was kept for the purpose of sale or hire. On these bases, learned trial court returned the finding of conviction against the accused.

10. In appeal the finding so returned by learned trial court were upheld by learned appellate court. While upholding the judgment of conviction, learned appellate court held that neither non-association of local witnesses was fatal to the case of the prosecution nor there could be any such presumption that CDs were in fact planted by the Investigating Officer. Learned appellate court also held that the Investigating Officer had no animus against the accused and therefore statement of Investigating Officer had to be believed as the Investigating Officer had no interest to state falsely against the accused. Learned appellate court also held that even PW3 had duly supported the version of the Investigating Officer. Learned appellate court also held that it was evident from the police record that CDs were duly played on CD-player and were found to be of above description and further the conclusions arrived at by learned trial court that the pirated CDs were without any name and address and manufacture etc. and other CDs were pornographic was the correct conclusion. Accordingly learned appellate court dismissed the appeal so filed by the accused.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgments passed by learned courts below, the accused has preferred the present revision petition.

12. Mr. B.L. Soni learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the judgments passed by both the learned courts below against the accused were not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same were perverse in view of the fact that the findings of conviction returned by both the learned courts below against the accused were not borne out from the records of the case. Mr. Soni argued that both the learned courts below erred in not appreciating that the prosecution had failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. Mr. Soni argued that both the learned courts below erred in not appreciating that the independent witnesses had not supported the case of the prosecution because no CDs were recovered from the accused in the mode and manner as the prosecution wants this Court to believe. He further argued that beside this there were major contradictions and inconsistencies in the statements of PW3 and PW6 which belied and falsified the entire case of the prosecution, however, both learned courts below gravely erred in not appreciating the testimonies of PW3 and PW6 in their correct perspective which had led to grave injustice to the petitioner. It was further argued by Mr. Soni that neither the documentary evidence was correctly appreciated by both learned courts below nor it was appreciated by both learned courts below that the petitioner was falsely implicated in the case by the prosecution. On these bases, Mr. Soni prayed that the judgments of conviction passed by both learned courts below against the petitioner were liable to be set aside and the petitioner deserved to be acquitted. Mr. Soni also drew attention of this Court to various documents purportedly prepared by the Investigating Officer at the spot and he argued that the factum of FIR number being mentioned in these documents in the same ink, handwriting and flow even before the FIR was lodged demonstrated that none of these documents was actually prepared at the spot and all these documents were concocted subsequently in the Police Station. Mr. Soni also argued that another perversity with the judgments passed by both learned courts below was that both learned courts below erred in not appreciating that the CDs which were allegedly recovered from the possession of the petitioner were never exhibited in accordance with Section 65B of the Indian Evidence Act.

13. Mr. Vikram Thakur learned Deputy Advocate General, on the other hand argued that there was no merit in the present revision petition as there was no perversity with the findings of conviction returned against the accused by both the learned courts below. Mr. Thakur argued that both PW3 and PW6 had proved and corroborated the case of the prosecution on all material aspects and both the learned courts below after taking into consideration the entire evidence had rightly found the accused guilty of the offence with which he was charged. Accordingly, it was prayed by Mr. Thakur that as there was no merit in the revision petition, the same be dismissed.

14. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Deputy Advocate General and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

15. Before proceeding in the matter, it is relevant to take note of what is the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court. It is settled law that the scope of revisional jurisdiction of this Court does not extend to re-appreciation of evidence. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the High Court in exercise of its revisional power can interfere only if the findings of the Court whose decision is sought to be revised is shown to be perverse or untenable in law or is grossly erroneous or glaringly unreasonable or where the decision is based on no material or where the material facts are wholly ignored or where judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or capriciously. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjaysinh Ramrao Chavan Versus Dattatray Gulabrao Phalke and Others, (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 123, that unmerited and undeserved prosecution is an infringement of guarantee under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. In this case, Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the purpose of revision jurisdiction is to preserve the power in the Court to do justice in cases of criminal jurisprudence.

16. Coming to the facts of this case, the case of the prosecution is that on 15.11.2006 a secret information was received from some unknown person at Police Station, Hamirpur at about 2:45 p.m. to the effect that in Nalti Bazar if raid is conducted in the shop of accused, pirated VCDs could be recovered which were kept by the accused for sale to consumers. This has come in the testimony of the Investigating Officer PW6 Guler Chand who also stated that after the receipt of the said information he entered Rapat No. 29 Ext. PW6/A and thereafter proceeded to the spot in a vehicle alongwith HC Manohar Lal and Constable Sanjeev Kumar and also associated witnesses Ramesh and Subhash Verma from near the Police Station itself. This witness has further deposed that after raid was conducted in the shop of the accused purportedly in the presence of independent witnesses namely, Ramesh Chand and Subhash Verma, and 19 pirated VCDs were recovered which included 10 VCDs containing pornographic material, a ruqua was sent to Police Station i.e. Ext. PW6/E through HC Manohar Lal. It has come in his testimony that ruqua was sent through HC Manohar Lal for the registration of the case. It has also come in the testimony of this witness that before ruqua was sent, the CDS so recovered in the raid from the shop of accused were sealed in a parcel and recovery memo was prepared at the spot which was signed by witnesses Ramesh, Subhash Verma and Sanjeev Kumar.

17. Memo of recovery is on record as Ext. PW1/A, FIR is Ext. PW5/B and ruqua is on record as Ext. PW6/E.

18. A perusal of ruqua demonstrates that the same was sent by Investigating Officer on 15.11.2006 at 4:15 p.m. This document further demonstrates that on the basis of this ruqua, FIR No. 418/06 was registered against the accused at Police Station and a perusal of FIR, Ext. PW5/B, demonstrates that the time of registration of the FIR is 4:45 p.m. This means that before 4:45 p.m. no one was aware about the FIR number. However, surprisingly recovery memo Ext. PW1/A which as per the Investigating Officer himself was prepared much before the ruqua was sent to the Police Station for the registration of the case, contains FIR No. 418/06 alongwith all the Sections under which the said FIR was lodged and that too in the same ink, same pen, same flow and same handwriting with which the remaining contents of this exhibit have been entered upon by the Investigating Officer. Similarly, FIR number is also recorded in the statements which were recorded under Section 161 of Cr. P.C. of witnesses Subhash Verma and witness Ramesh Chand. Statement of PW6 i.e. the Investigating Officer also reveals that these statements were recorded by the Investigating Officer before the ruqua was sent by him to the Police Station for the registration of the case.

19. The above facts in my considered view shroud the case of the prosecution with cloud of suspicion. During the course of arguments, Mr. Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General could not explain as to how FIR number were already mentioned in the recovery memo and that too in the same pen, handwriting and flow in which the remaining contents of this documents were entered when admittedly this document was prepared much before the registration of the FIR. Now in this background when we peruse the statements of PW1 and PW2 who as per the prosecution were independent witnesses, there appears to be merit in the statement of these two witnesses who have deposed in the Court that they were never taken by the police to Nalti and no recovery of VCDs took place from the shop of the accused in their presence at Nalti and in fact their signatures were obtained on the documents in the Police Station.

20. Not only this, a careful perusal of the statement of PW3 and PW6 also creates a serious doubt over the veracity of the prosecution case. This is for the reason that whereas PW3 has stated that witness Ramesh Chand was associated with the proceedings by the Investigating Officer at the spot itself, however, PW6, the Investigating Officer has stated that both the independent witnesses were taken alongwith by him (Investigating Officer) from around the Police Station itself. This contradiction in the testimony of PW3 and PW6 cannot be said to be a minor inconsistency. In my considered view it is a major contradiction taking into consideration other facts which have been enumerated by me above, which if taken together create serious doubt as to whether any pirated and pornographic VCDs were actually recovered from the premises of the accused which were allegedly kept by him for sale to the general public, as the prosecution wants this Court to believe.

21. A perusal of the judgments passed by both learned courts below demonstrates that they have not at all dealt with these issues and the documents on record having not been appreciated in their correct perspective leading to perversity in their respective judgments. The appreciation of the effect of non-joining of independent witnesses at the spot despite the fact that even as per PW3 and PW6 there were 25-30 shops at Nalti by both learned courts below can also not be termed to be sustainable. Though there is no doubt that it is not as if in each and every case it is only if independent witness corroborate the testimony of police witnesses then the testimony of police witnesses can be believed, however, in this case the prosecution has not been able to explain as to why independent local witnesses of the area concerned were not associated with the alleged raid conducted in the shop/premises of the accused and why PW1 and PW2 were associated by the Investigating Officer from the Police Station itself. However, this even if PW6 had taken PW1 and PW2 alongwith him as independent witnesses, there was no bar for him to have had associated any other local independent witness to give credence to the case of the prosecution. However, it is categorically stated by both PW3 and PW6 that no independent witness of the area was associated by them in the search and seizure. In addition, it has also come in the statement of both these witnesses that no personal search of theirs was given by them before they conducted the case, before they searched the premises of the accused. All these factors when taken together create a serious doubt about the truthfulness of the case of the prosecution and in my considered view, on the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution it could not be said that the prosecution was able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt and when the case of the prosecution is rendered doubtful then it is obvious that the benefit of doubt has to go to the accused.

22. As far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner qua the learned courts below not appreciating the factum of non-compliance of the provisions of Section 65-B of the Evidence Act is concerned, in my considered view there is considerable force in the same. There is no material on record from which it can be inferred that the requirements of Section 65-B of the Evidence Act were satisfied by the prosecution as there is neither any certificate in terms of Section 65-B of Evidence Act obtained nor there is any expert opinion on record under Section 45-A of the Evidence Act.

23. Recently the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Harpal @ Chotta and others Versus State of Punjab (Criminal Appeal No. 2539 of 2014/388 of 2015) decided on 21.11.2016 has held:-

> "Qua the admissibility of the call details, it is a mater of record that though PWs 24, 25, 26 and 27 have endeavoured to prove on the basis of the printed copy of the computer generated call details kept in usual ordinary course of business and stored in a hard disc of the company server, to co-relate the calls made from and to the cell phones involved including those, amongst others recovered from the accused persons, the prosecution has failed to adduce a certificate relatable thereto as required under Section 65B(4) of the Act. Though the High Court, in its impugned judgment, while dwelling on this aspect, has dismissed the plea of inadmissibility of such call details by observing that all the stipulations contained under Section 65 of the Act had been complied within, in the teeth of the decision of this Court in Anvar P.V. ordaining an inflexible adherence to the enjoinments of Sections 65B(2) and (4) of the Act, we are unable to sustain this finding. As apparently the prosecution has relied upon the secondary evidence in the form of printed copy of the call details, even assuming that the mandate of Section 65B(2) had been complied with, in absence of a certificate under Section 65B(4), the same has to be held inadmissible in evidence.

> This Court in Anvar P.V. has held in no uncertain terms that the evidence relating to electronic record being a special provision, the general law on secondary evidence under Section 63 read with Section 65 of the Act would have to yield thereto. It has been propounded that any electric record in the form of secondary evidence cannot be admitted in evidence unless the requirements of Section 65B are satisfied. This conclusion of ours is inevitable in view of the exposition of law pertaining to Sections 65A and 65B of the Act as above."

24. High Court of Kerala in Konnadan Abdul Gafoor Vs. State of Kerala, 2016 CRI.L.J. 2647 has held:-

> "9. The probative information stored in digital form in a compact disc can be used before court as digital evidence or electronic evidence. The digital evidence is highly fragile and can be easily altered, damaged or destroyed and also time sensitive. Therefore special precaution should be taken to this document to collect preserve and examine this evidence. No analysis of the compact disc (hereinafter referred as CD) was made by the investigating officer to discover the files in it. This includes normal files, deleted files and encrypted files. Therefore, for identification of the files in the CD digital evidence is necessary. Identification of the type of information stored in the disc is necessary, for this appropriate technology can be used to extract it. Without examining the digital data in a scientific manner, viewing of the CD by the Magistrate, Assistant Public Prosecutor and the Sub Inspector is unsustainable in law and their satisfaction is not an appreciation of electronics evidence in law. An electronic record by way of secondary evidence shall not be admitted in evidence unless the requirements under Section 65B are satisfied. Thus, in the case of CD, the same shall be accompanied by a certificate in terms of Section 65B obtained at the time of taking the documents, without which, the secondary evidence pertaining to that electronic record, is inadmissible. Moreover the expert opinion under Section 45A of the Evidence Act was not obtained relating to the stored data in electronic form. In the absence of such a certificate and opinion, the oral evidence to prove existence of such electronic evidence is not sufficient to prove authenticity thereof.
> 10. However, while considering the offence under Section 292(2)(a), the prosecution has to prove that the accused sold, distributed and publically exhibited the obscene materials. Simply certain CDs were seized from a shop on the basis of information, in cannot be taken for granted that the revision petitioner was guilty of such crime. It is the primary responsibility of the prosecution to prove that the accused was in possession of the shop and the seized articles are obscene articles. In a case for offence under Section 292 of the IPC, prosecution has to prove that the accused sells, let to hire, distribute, publicly exhibits or in any manner puts into circulation, or for purposes of sale, hire, distribution, public exhibition or circulation, makes, produces or has in his possession any obscene book, pamphlet, paper drawing, painting, presentation or figure or any other obscene object whatsoever as alleged by the prosecution. There must be direct evidence with regard to the possession or sale of the obscene books or articles. There is no presumption with regard to possession, mere fact that some books were seized from a particular shop by a police officer. There may be exceptional cases, where the rule of presumption applies. In such cases, the proved facts and circumstances may speak for themselves and court may be justified in reaching a conclusion in the light of available evidence."

Therefore also, in my considered view, the judgment of conviction passed against the present petitioner by learned trial court and upheld by learned appellate court is not sustainable in law.

In view of discussion held above, this revision petition is allowed and judgment of conviction and sentence imposed upon the petitioner by the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, in case No. 22-I of 2007/40-II of 2007, dated 5.4.2008, is set aside alongwith judgment passed in Criminal Appeal No. 27 of 2008, dated 10.9.2008 by the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur. Petitioner is acquitted of the offences for which he was charged. Amount of fine deposited by the petitioner, if any, is directed to be refunded to him as per law. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

For the Appellants : Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate.
For the Respondents: M/s Sudhir Thakur and Anirudh Sharma, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 12th April, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, District Solan, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 24-S/2 of 2008, titled as Smt. Vidya Thakur & others versus Shri Raj Kumar and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 11,30,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the appellants/owner and driver were saddled with liability (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. The claimants have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far the same relates to them.

3. The owner and driver have questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned Counsel for the appellants/owner and driver argued that the accident was not caused by driver, namely, Raj Kumar and prayed that the impugned award be set aside.

5. The argument is mis-conceived and devoid of any force for the following reasons.

6. The claimants filed a claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 25,00,000/, as per the break-ups given in the said petition.

7. Precisely, the case of the claimants was that on 21.04.2008, at about 5.50 a.m., driver, namely, Raj Kumar, had driven vehicle-truck bearing registration No. HP-11-B-0299, rashly and negligently and caused the accident, in which deceased Nardev Singh Thakur sustained injuries and succumbed to the same.

8. The respondents filed replies.

9. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether deceased expired in an accident caused due to the rash and negligent driving of respondent No. 1 while driving the vehicle of respondent No. 2? .....OPP

2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioners are entitled and from whom? ...OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? ....OPR

3-A Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, as alleged? ....OPR

4. Relief."

10. The parties led evidence.

11. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that driver, namely, Raj Kumar, caused the accident, while driving the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, at the relevant point of time, in which deceased Nardev Singh Thakur lost his life.

Issue No. 1.

12. The claimants have examined HHC Kanshi Ram (PW-2), who stated that FIR (Ext. PW-2/A) was lodged against driver-Raj Kumar and after investigation, final report in terms of Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was presented against him before the Court of competent jurisdiction. The other evidence, oral and documentary, is on record which is sufficient proof to hold that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the driver.

13. Admittedly, appellant No. 1-Smt. Darshan Kaur is the registered owner of the offending vehicle and appellant No. 2-Raj Kumar is her son who was driving the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly determined Issue No. 1.

14. Before I deal with Issues No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with Issues No. 3 & 3-A.

Issue No. 3.

15. It was for the respondents/owner and driver to prove how the claim petition was not maintainable, have failed to do so.

16. The Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for short 'the MV Act' has gone through a sea change and sub section (6) to Section 158 and sub section (4) to Section 166 of the MV Act have been added, whereby the Claims Tribunal can treat report of accident forwarded to it under Section 158 (6) of the MV Act as an application for compensation. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issue No. 3-A.

17. It was for the respondents/owner and driver to prove how the claim petition was bad for non-joinder of necessary parties. Driver-Raj Kumar has caused the accident and FIR (Ext. PW-2/A) was lodged against him. Thus, the owner and driver were the necessary parties to the claim petition, as discussed hereinabove. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 3-A are upheld.

Issue No. 2

18. The deceased was a TGT teacher and was drawing gross salary to the tune of Rs. 27,000/- per month, as per the salary certificate (Ext. PW-6/A), was 56 years of age at the time of the accident and had to retire at the age of 58 years.

19. Keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, 1/4th is to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased. Thus, it can be safely said and held that the claimants have lost source of pendency to the tune of Rs. 20,000/-, per month till the age of retirement, i.e., for two years only.

20. The compensation under the head 'loss of income' was to be assessed while keeping in view the fact that the deceased had to retire within two years and thereafter for the rest period, the same was to be assessed while keeping in view the pension payable.

21. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Kerala High Court in case titled T.T. Narayanan and another versus Mrs. P. Bridget and others reported in II (1991) ACC 120 (DB). It is apt to reproduce para 3 of the said judgment herein:

> "3. On the date of the occurrence and death deceased had 46 months more service left as headmaster. He was in a pensionable job and he would have drawn pension for fifteen years, namely, till he attains 70 years. The Tribunal computed pay and allowances due for 46 months and the pension due for 15 years and deducted 20% for personal expenses of the deceased and 10% for uncertainties of life and thus arrived at the compensation payable to the claimants. The only submission urged by learned Counsel for the appellants in this regard is that on account of premature death of U. Vincent, the amount of family pension for the period of 15 years has to be deducted from the amount awarded. This submission appears to be correct. Family would be entitled to maximum family pension of Rs. 150/- per month. Computing this for 15 years and deducting 30% the amount of family pension would be Rs. 18,900/-. This amount has to be deducted from Rs.

1,28,688/- awarded by the Tribunal. The correct quantum payable therefore would be Rs. 1,09,788/-."

22. This Court in FAO No. 171 of 2012, titled asICICI Lombard General Insurance Co. Ltd versus Smt. Satya Devi & others and another connected matter, decided on 04.11.2016, has laid down the same principle.

23. The multiplier of '7' is applicable in this case while keeping in view of the age of the deceased, other attending circumstances and the 2nd Schedule appended to the MV Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in the judgments, supra, andthe judgment rendered by the Apex Court in case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

24. The multiplier of '2' was applicable for assessing loss of dependency/income under the head 'loss of salary' and multiplier '5' was applicable, i.e., (after deducting multiplier '2' out of multiplier '7') for assessing loss of dependency/income under the head 'loss of pension'.

25. The claimants have lost source of dependency and are entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 20,000/-x 12 x 2 =Rs. 4,80,000/-,under the head 'loss of salary'.

26. The Tribunal has rightly held that after retirement, he would not have taken pension less than Rs. 12,000/- per month. 1/4th is to be deducted keeping in view the 2nd Schedule of the MV Act read with judgments rendered by the Apex Court, supra, the loss of source of dependency comes to Rs.9,000/-. Thus, it can be safely held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 9,000/-x 12 x 5= Rs. 5,40,000/- under the 'loss of pension'.

27. The claimants are also held entitled to a sum of Rs.10,000/- each, i.e. Rs.40,000/-, under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

28. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to total compensation to the tune of Rs. 4,80,000/- + Rs. 5,40,000 + Rs. 40,000/- = Rs. 10,60,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum as awarded by the Tribunal.

29. Accordingly, the impugned award is modified as indicated hereinabove.

30. The respondents/owner and driver are directed to deposit the awarded amount within eight weeks from today. On deposit, the same be released in favour of the claimants through payees' account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

31. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

32. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

For the petitioners. :Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents :Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge

By way of this petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, petitioners have prayed for the following reliefs.

> "It is, therefore, respectfully prayed the present petition may kindly be accepted impugned orders dated 31.10.2014 in Civil Misc. Appeal No. 6-D/XIV-2013 passed by ld. Addl. District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., orders dated 1.6.2013 in Civil Misc. Appeal No. 76/2012 in Civil Suit No. 93/2012 passed by Ld. Civil Judge (Sr. Division), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., whereby application under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 CPC filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs stands dismissed and appeal filed also stands dismissed, may very kindly be set aside and application filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs, under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 CPC may very kindly be allowed, thereby respondents herein may very kindly be restrained from changing the nature, raising any boundary wall and construction on the suit land and also from interfering in the possession of the applicants/petitioners/plaintiffs with respect to the land detailed in the suit and application, during the pendency of the suit, in the interest of law and justice."

2. Facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that vide order dated 01.06.2013, Court of learned Civil Judge (Sr. Divn.), Kangra at Dharamshala dismissed an application filed by the present petitioners/plaintiffs under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'CPC') i.e. CMA No. 76/2012, in Civil Suit No. 93/2012, vide which petitioners/plaintiffs had prayed for issuance of interim injunction restraining the respondents/defendants from interfering in the peaceful possession of the petitioners/plaintiffs and changing the nature or raising any construction over the suit land, subject matter of Civil Suit No. 93/2012, which had been filed by petitioners/plaintiffs against the respondents/defendants. As per petitioners/plaintiffs, suit land which was recorded in the ownership and possession of respondents/ defendants was carved out of Khasra Nos. 223 and 224, which were owned and possessed the petitioners/plaintiffs, Manjeet Singh and other co-sharers jointly and respondents/defendants had filed an application for partition of the joint land before Assistant Collector 1st Grade, who had abruptly ordered the partition. However as per the petitioners/plaintiffs, appeal filed against the order so passed by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade was accepted by the Appellate Authority i.e. learned Sub Divisional Collector, Dharamshala, who set aside the order of partition. As per the petitioners/plaintiffs, respondents/ defendants were still interfering in the peaceful possession of the petitioners/plaintiffs. On these bases, temporary injunction was prayed for in the civil suit which was so filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs against the respondents/defendants.

3. The application so filed for grant of temporary injunction was contested by respondents/defendants on the grounds that in fact they were owners in possession of the suit land and entries to this effect stood incorporated in revenue records and there was no joint-ness of land in between the parties and they were having no knowledge of the appeal filed against the order of partition.

4. Learned trial Court dismissed the application so filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 by holding that the suit land comprising Khasra No. is recorded as 'Gair Mumkin Rasta', whereas the land comprising Khasra Nos. 772/223, 1022/773/224, 1025/773/224, 1146/774/224 was recorded in the exclusive ownership and possession of plaintiffs, defendants and other co-sharers. Learned trial Court held that records demonstrated that respondent Manjit Singh had filed an application for partition before Assistant Collector 1st Grade which was allowed on 18.07.2002 and appeal filed against the said order was allowed by Collector, Dharamshala on 07.07.2009 who remanded back the case to Assistant Collector 1st Grade to examine the objections of the petitioners/ plaintiffs after affording an opportunity of being heard. Learned trial Court further held that order dated 23.03.2013 passed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade demonstrated that partition order dated 18.07.2002 in file No. 19/99 was given a final effect in the revenue record w.e.f. 21.05.2003 and entries to this effect had also been carried out in jamabandis for the year 2004-2005 and 2009-2010. On these bases, it was held by the learned trial Court that it was apparent that parties were no more having joint status and suit land stood partitioned by metes and bounds and appropriate remedy for plaintiffs was to approach the higher forum on the side of revenue courts for redressal of grievance. It further held that said application was fairly and squarely hit by Section 41 (h) of the Specific Relief Act, as well as Section 171 (2) (xvii) of H.P. Land Revenue Act. On these bases, learned trial Court held that there was no prima facie case in favour of plaintiffs and balance of convenience was rather in favour of respondents/defendants. Accordingly, learned trial Court dismissed the application so filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs.

5. Feeling aggrieved, petitioners/plaintiffs filed an appeal i.e. Civil Misc. Appeal No. 6-D/XIV/2013 which was dismissed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala vide order dated 31.10.2014. While dismissing the appeal it was held by the learned Appellate Court that suit land stood partitioned by Assistant Collector 1st Grade vide order dated 18.07.2002 and pursuant to partition order, suit land stood allotted to respondents/defendants and partition had been given effect to in the revenue record. Learned Appellate Court also held that petitioners/plaintiffs had assailed the partition order before Sub Divisional Collector, who has set aside order dated 18.07.2002 and remanded back the case to Assistant Collector 1st Grade and after remand, Assistant Collector 1st Grade did not interfere with the partition order already passed on 18.07.2002 on the ground that partition had already been given effect to in the revenue records. Learned Appellate Court further held that admittedly the said order passed by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade dated 23.03.2013 had not been assailed, meaning thereby that partition order had attained finality and the fact remained that suit land stood partitioned and respondents/defendants were in possession of the suit land. Learned Appellate Court further held that being owners in possession of the suit land, respondents had every right to use the same in the manner they intended to and petitioners/plaintiffs had no prima facie case in their favour. It also held that balance of convenience was also not in favour of petitioners/plaintiffs nor they were going to suffer any irreparable loss in any manner. On these bases, learned Appellate Court upheld the order passed by learned trial Court and dismissed the appeal so filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs.

6. Feeling aggrieved, petitioners/plaintiffs have filed this petition.

7. Before proceeding further, it is necessary to deal with the scope of this Court while exercising its supervisory jurisdiction conferred upon it under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

8. A three-Judge bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam and another Vs. Chhabi Nath and others, (2015) 5 Supreme Court Cases 423, has held that all the courts in the jurisdiction of a High Court are subordinate to it and subject to its control and supervision under Article 227. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that control of working of the subordinate courts in dealing with their judicial orders is exercised by way of appellate or Revisional powers or power of superintendence under Article 227. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that while appellate or Revisional jurisdiction is regulated by the statutes, power of superintendence under Article 227 is constitutional.

9. It is settled law that power under Article 227 is intended to be used most sparingly and only in appropriate cases for the purpose of keeping subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ouseph Mathai and others Vs. M. Abdul Khadir, (2002) 1 Supreme Court Cases 319, has held that no doubt Article 227 confers a right of superintendence over all courts and tribunals throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises the jurisdiction but no corresponding right is conferred upon a litigant to invoke the jurisdiction under the said Article as a matter of right. In fact power under this Article casts a duty upon the High Court to keep the inferior courts and tribunals within the limits of their authority and that they do not cross the limits, ensuring the performance of duties by such courts and tribunals in accordance with law conferring powers within the ambit of the enactments creating such courts and tribunals. Only wrong decisions may not be a ground for the exercise of jurisdiction under this Article unless the wrong is referable to grave dereliction of duty and flagrant abuse of power by the subordinate courts and tribunals resulting in grave injustice to any party.

11. A five-Judge bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Waryam Singh and another Vs. Amarnath and another, A.I.R.1954 S.C. 215, has held that this power of superintendence conferred by Article 227 is, as pointed out by Harries, C.J., in - 'Dalmia Jain Airways Ltd. V. Sukumar Mukherjee', AIR 1951 Cal 193 (SB) (B), is to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the Subordinate Courts within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors.

12. Coming to the facts of this case. Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners argued that jurisdictional error which was committed by learned Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala while dismissing the appeal so filed by the petitioners against the order passed by the learned trial Court whereby it had refused to grant temporary injunction in favour of petitioners was that learned Appellate Court did not appreciate that the subsequent order passed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade dated 23.03.2013 stood assailed before the Appellate Authority. It was further urged by Mr. Sharma, that besides this, both the learned Courts below erred in not appreciating that as there was a prima facie case in favour of petitioners and balance of convenience was also in their favour, as such, it was incumbent for the learned Courts below to have had restrained the respondents/defendants from carrying out any construction over the suit land during the pendency of the civil suit, otherwise very purpose of filing the suit would have had frustrated. Mr. Sharma further argued that learned Courts below also erred in not appreciating that what stood allotted to the respondents by way of partition was in excess of what they were entitled to as per their share. Mr. Sharma relied upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case Zenit Mataplast Private Limited Versus State of Maharashtra and others, (2009) 10 Supreme Court Cases 388 and on the strength of this judgment he urged that the impugned orders be set aside and during the pendency of the civil suit, respondents/ defendants be directed not to carry out any construction over the suit land.

13. Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondents/defendants, on the other hand, argued that there was no merit in the present petition because fact of the matter was that in the appeal proceedings which had been preferred by the petitioners against the order passed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade, dated 23.03.2013, no stay order had been granted by the Appellate Authority and factum of filing appeal was never disclosed by petitioners before learned Appellate Court. Mr. Bhushan submitted that the arguments which were being advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner were in fact beyond the scope of plaint also and in fact there was no illegality in the orders which stood assailed before this Court because both the learned Courts below had rightly held that there was neither any prima facie case nor balance of convenience was in favour of petitioners nor they were to suffer any irreparable loss if temporary injunction, as prayed for, was not granted. Mr. Bhushan argued that had injunction been granted against the defendants, then that would have caused irreparable loss to the defendants because effect of the said order would have had been that true owners who are duly recorded as owners in possession of the suit land would have had been restrained from utilizing the same. Mr. Bhushan further argued that even otherwise whatever construction was to be carried out by the respondents/ defendants during the pendency of the suit was always subject to the decision of the civil suit and the defendants were ready to face the consequences. On these grounds, he argued that there was no merit in the present petition and the same be dismissed.

14. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case as well as the orders passed by the learned Courts below.

15. It is settled law that any party which seeks interim injunction/protection in its favour has to prove three things. (1) Prima facie case, (2) Balance of convenience and (3) Irreparable loss. It is the own case of the petitioners/plaintiffs that the suit land as per revenue record is recorded in the ownership and possession of the respondents/ defendants. The contention of the petitioner is that said revenue entries are recorded on the basis of partition proceeding effected by Assistant Collector 1st Grade which stands challenged by them before the appropriate authority. Be that as it may, fact of the matter still remains that as per the revenue record it is the respondents/defendants who are owners in possession of the suit land and not the petitioners/ plaintiffs. Therefore, it cannot be said that there is a prima facie case in favour of the petitioners/plaintiffs. Learned counsel for the petitioners has not placed on record any stay granted by the Appellate Authority in the proceedings which stands initiated against the order of partition passed by learned Assistant Collector 1st Grade, meaning thereby that as of now the order of partition passed by the said authority is in force. In this view of the matter, even balance of convenience cannot be said to be in favour of petitioners/plaintiffs because the order of partition stands duly implemented in the revenue record and till the time same is set aside or stayed by the competent authority, its operation in law cannot be curtailed. Besides this, when as per revenue records, petitioners/plaintiffs are not owners in possession of the suit land, then it cannot be said that if temporary injunction is not granted in their favour and respondents are not restrained from carrying out construction, petitioners/plaintiffs will suffer irreparable loss and very purpose of filing the civil suit will be frustrated. This is for the reason that ordinarily injunction is not granted against the true owners. Besides this, as the petitioners/plaintiffs have already filed a suit against the respondents/defendants, which is pending adjudication, construction, if any, carried out over the suit land by the respondents/defendants would be subject to decision of the suit. In addition, there is no bar for petitioners to approach the Appellate Authority by way of an appropriate application for stay of operation of the partition order till the appeal filed by them is decided or for moving an application praying for any other appropriate relief in this regard. I also find merit in the contention of learned senior counsel appearing for the respondents/defendants that even otherwise injunction cannot be granted in favour of petitioners on contentions which are beyond the scope of plaint filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs.

16. The judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case Zenit Mataplast Private Limited Versus State of Maharashtra and others, (2009) 10 Supreme Court Cases 388 relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioners/plaintiffs is also of no assistance to the case of petitioners in the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case because this Court has come to the conclusion that neither the petitioners have any prima facie case in their favour nor balance of convenience is in their favour nor it can be said that they would suffer from irreparable loss if temporary injunction is not granted in their favour. In fact, it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above judgment that grant of temporary injunction is governed by three basic principles, prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss, which are required to be considered in the appropriate proportion in the facts and circumstances of a particular case. Hon'ble Supreme Court held that it is not appropriate for any Court to hold a mini trial at the stage of grant of temporary injunction.

17. Therefore, in view of findings returned above, in my considered view, there is neither any jurisdictional error committed by the learned first Appellate Court while dismissing the application of the petitioner nor it could be said that findings returned by the learned Civil Judge (Sr. Divn.) Kangra at Dharamshala while dismissing the application under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 of the petitioners/plaintiffs suffer from any perversity. However, it is clarified that dismissal of this petition shall not come in the way of petitioners for approaching the Appellate Authority before whom order dated 23.03.2013, passed by the Assistant Collector 1st Grade stands assailed for seeking appropriate interim relief from the said authority. Accordingly, as there is no merit in the present petition, the same is dismissed. It is made clear that findings returned in this case shall have no bearing on the merits of the Civil Suit and the Civil Suit shall be decided by the learned trial Court uninfluenced by the findings returned and observations made by this Court in this petition. Interim orders, if any, stand vacated. Pending miscellaneous applications, if any, also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the appellant:	Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Rajiv Rai, Advocate, for respondent No. 1. Nemo for respondents No. 2 to 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant-insurer has called in question award, dated 15th December, 2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Chamba, District Chamba (HP) (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No. 17/2010, titled as Smt. Brahmi and others versus The Oriental Insurance Company Limited and another, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 29,98,432/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants and the owner-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-insurer has called in question the impugned award on the ground that deceased himself was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently at the time of the accident, the claimants are the parents and children of the deceased and the owner-insured is the wife of the deceased, thus, the claim petition was not maintainable.

4. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

5. The following points arise for determination in this appeal:

(i) Whether the legal representatives/ heirs of deceased-Desh Raj, who was driving the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time and caused the accident, can file a claim petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") for grant of compensation? and

(ii) Whether the claim petition was maintainable?

6. In order to determine both these points, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case herein.

7. The claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 166 of the MV Act for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 30,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that they lost their bread earner, namely Shri Desh Raj, in the vehicular accident, while driving the car, bearing registration No. HP-54-2475, on 16th February, 2010, at about 4.30 P.M., at place Nand Gram near Maredi, P.S. Chamba, on his way back from Government Senior Secondary School, Jadera.

8. The respondents in the claim petition, i.e. the insurer and the owner-insured of the offending vehicle, have filed the replies. The insurer has resisted the claim petition whereas the owner-insured, who is the widow of deceased-Desh Raj, has not resisted the claim petition.

9. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether Des Raj died on 16.2.2010, at about 4.30 PM at Nand Gram near Maredi within the jurisdiction of P.S. Chamba in a vehicular accident involving vehicle No. HP-54-2475? OPP

2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners being dependant of deceased are entitled for the grant of compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? OPP

3. Whether the respondent No. 1 is liable to indemnify the owner in respect of death of deceased, who is husband of owner of offending vehicle? OPR-2

4. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR-1

5. Whether the offending vehicle was not having valid registration certificate, fitness certificate, valid route permit etc. if so, its effect? OPR-1

6. Whether the driver of the offending vehicle was not holding a valid and effective driving licence? OPR-1

7. Whether the deceased was not third party? OPR-1

8. Relief."

10. In support of their claim, the claimants examined Dr. Davinder Kumar as PW-1, Shri Pankaj Kapoor as PW-2, HC Pawan Kumar as PW-4 and one of the claimants, namely Sh. Sarwan Kumar, himself stepped into the witness box as PW-3. The insurer examined Shri Ramesh Kumar, Branch Manager, as RW-1. The owner-insured has not led any evidence.

11. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants are the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by deceased-Desh Raj while driving car, bearing registration No. HP-54-2475, on 16th February, 2010, at about 4.30 P.M., at place Nand Gram near Maredi and decided issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants. The Tribunal determined issue No. 3 in favour of the owner-insured. Issues No. 2 and 4 to 7 came to be decided against the insurer and compensation to the tune of ₹ 29,98,432/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization was granted in favour of the claimants.

Issues No. 1 and 4:

12. The claimants in para 24 of the claim petition have specifically stated that the offending vehicle was being driven by deceased-Desh Raj himself at the time of the accident. The owner-insured of the offending vehicle has admitted the said factum. In the FIR, Ext. PW-4/A also, it has specifically been recorded that the accident had occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by deceased-Desh Raj. HC Pawan Kumar, while appearing in the witness box, has testified the contents of the FIR to be correct. Thus, it can be safely held that deceased-Desh Raj had caused the accident because of his own rash and negligent driving. The findings of the Tribunal that deceased-Desh Raj was not responsible for the accident, while deciding issue No. 1, are not legally sustainable and are accordingly set aside.

13. Had the claimants pleaded and proved that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving, the claim petition under Section 166 of the MV Act would have been maintainable, as the rash and negligent driving is sine qua non for maintaining a claim petition seeking compensation in terms of the provisions of Section 166 of the Act.

14. My this view finds support from the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Minu B. Mehta and another versus Balkrishna Ramchandra Nayan and another, reported in AIR 1977 Supreme Court 1248, wherein it has been held that in a motor accident claim case, the proof of negligence is necessary for saddling the owner or the insurance company with liability. It is apt to reproduce para 36 of the judgment herein:

"36. In a recent judgment of Madras High Court a Division Bench in A. A. O. Nos. 607 of 1973 and 296 of 1974 M/s. Ruby Insurance Co. Ltd. v. V. Govindaraj, delivered on 13th December, 1976 has suggested the necessity of having social insurance to provide cover for the claimants irrespective of proof of negligence to a limited extent say Rs. 250 to Rs. 300 a month .It has also suggested that instead of a lump sum payment which does not often reach the claimants a regular monthly payment to the dependants by the nationalsied insurance company or bank would be desirable. Unless these ideas are accepted by the legislature and embodied in appropriate enactments Courts are bound to administer and give effect to the law as it exists today. We conclude by stating that the view of the learned judges of the High Court has no support in law and hold that proof of negligence is necessary before the owner or the insurance company could be held to be liable for the payment of compensation in a motor accident claim case."

(Emphasis added)

15. The correctness of the judgment in Minu B. Mehta's case (supra) came up for consideration before the Apex Court in the case titled as Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad versus Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai, reported in (1987) 3 Supreme Court Cases 234, wherein it was held that the observations made by the Apex Court in Minu B. Mehta's case (supra) were in the nature of obiter dicta.

16. Both these judgments, i.e. Minu B. Mehta's and Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation's cases (supra), came up for consideration and were re-examined by the Apex Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Meena Variyal and others, reported in (2007) 5 Supreme Court Cases 428. It would be profitable to reproduce paras 24 to 27 of the judgment herein:

"24. It was argued by learned counsel for the appellant that since on the finding that the deceased was himself driving the vehicle at the time of the accident, the accident arose due to the negligence of the deceased himself and hence the insurer is not liable for the compensation. Even if the case of the claimant that the car was driven by Mahmood Hasan was true, then also, the claimant had to establish the negligence of the driver before the insured could be asked to indemnify the insured. The decision in Minu B. Mehta & Anr. Vs. Balkrishna Ramchandra Nayan & Anr. (1977) 2 SCC 441 : (1977) SCR 886, of a three Judge Bench of this Court was relied on in support.

25. In that decision, this Court considered the question whether in a claim for compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, proof of negligence was essential to support a claim for compensation. On the facts in that case, their Lordships found that the appeal was liable to be dismissed subject to certain directions issued therein. But their Lordships, in the light of the fact that the High Court had discussed the law on the question and it was of some importance, felt that it was necessary to state the position in law. Noticing that the liability of the owner of the car to compensate the victim in a car accident due to negligent driving of his servant is based on the law of tort, the court discussed the scheme of the Act of 1939 and the law on the question. Regarding the view of the High Court that it was not necessary to prove negligence, the court held: (Minu B. Mehta case, SCC pp. 455-56, para 33)

"33. The reasoning of the two learned judges is unacceptable as it is opposed to basic principles of the owner's liability for negligence of his servant and is based on a complete misreading of the provisions of Chapter VIII of the Act. The High Court's zeal for what it considered to be protection of public good has misled it into adopting a course which is nothing short of legislation."

Their Lordships also noticed that proof of negligence remained the lynch pin to recover compensation. Their Lordships concluded by saying: (Minu B. Mehta case, SCC pp. 456-57, para 37)

"We conclude by stating that the view of the learned Judges of the High Court has no support in law and hold that proof of negligence is necessary before the owner or the insurance company could be held to be liable for the payment of compensation in a motor accident claim case."

26. Learned counsel for the respondent contended that there was no obligation on the claimant to prove negligence on the part of the driver. Learned counsel relied on Gujarat SRTC v. Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai and another, 1987 (3) SCC 234 in support. In that decision, this Court clarified that the observations in Minu B. Mehta's case (supra) are in the nature of obiter dicta. But, this Court only proceeded to notice that departures had been made from the law of strict liability and the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 by introduction of Chapter VIIA of the 1939 Act and the introduction of Section 92A providing for compensation and the expansion of the provision as to who could make a claim, noticing that the application under Section 110A of the Act had to be made on behalf of or for the benefit of all the legal representatives of the deceased. This Court has not stated that on a claim based on negligence there is no obligation to establish negligence. This Court was dealing with no-fault liability and the departure made from the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 and the theory of strict liability in the scheme of the Act of 1939 as amended. This Court did not have the occasion to construe a provision like Section 163A of the Act of 1988 providing for compensation without proof of negligence in contradistinction to Section 166 of the Act. We may notice that Minu B. Mehta's case was decided by three learned Judges and the Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation case was decided only by two learned Judges. An obiter dictum of this Court may be binding only on the High Courts in the absence of a direct pronouncement on that question elsewhere by this Court. But as far as this Court is concerned, though not binding, it does have clear persuasive authority. On a careful understanding of the decision in Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation (supra) we cannot understand it as having held that in all claims under the Act proof of negligence as the basis of a claim is jettisoned by the scheme of the Act. In the context of Sections 166 and 163A of the Act of 1988, we are persuaded to think that the so called obiter observations in Minu B. Mehta's case (supra) govern a claim under Section 166 of the Act and they are inapplicable only when a claim is made under Section 163A of the Act. Obviously, it is for the claimant to choose under which provision he should approach the Tribunal and if he chooses to approach the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Act, we cannot see why the principle stated in Minu B. Mehta's case should not apply to him. We are, therefore, not in a position to accept the argument of learned counsel for the respondents that the observations in Minu B. Mehta's case deserve to be ignored.

27. We think that the law laid down in Minu B. Mehta & Anr. Vs. Balkrishna Ramchandra Nayan & Anr. (supra) was accepted by the legislature while enacting the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 by introducing Section 163A of the Act providing for payment of compensation notwithstanding anything contained in the Act or in any other law for the time being in force that the owner of a motor vehicle or the authorised insurer shall be liable to pay in the case of death or permanent disablement due to accident arising out of the use of the motor vehicle, compensation, as indicated in the Second Schedule, to the legal heirs or the victim, as the case may be, and in a claim made under sub-section (1) of Section 163A of the Act, the claimant shall not be required to plead or establish that the death or permanent disablement in respect of which the claim has been made was due to any wrongful act or neglect or default of the owner of the vehicle concerned. Therefore, the victim of an accident or his dependants have an option either to proceed under Section 166 of the Act or under Section 163A of the Act. Once they approach the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Act, they have necessarily to take upon themselves the burden of establishing the negligence of the driver or owner of the vehicle concerned. But if they proceed under Section 163A of the Act, the compensation will be awarded in terms of the Schedule without calling upon the victim or his dependants to establish any negligence or default on the part of the owner of the vehicle or the driver of the vehicle." (Emphasis added)

17. The Apex Court, in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Company Limited versus Premlata Shukla & others, reported in 2007 AIR SCW 3591, held that proof of rashness and negligence on the part of the driver of the vehicle is sine qua non for maintaining an application under Section 166 of the MV Act.It is apt to reproduce para 10 of the judgment herein:

"10. The insurer, however, would be liable to re-imburse the insured to the extent of the damages payable by the owner to the claimants subject of course to the limit of its liability as laid down in the Act or the contract of insurance. Proof of rashness and negligence on the part of the driver of the vehicle, is therefore, sine qua non for maintaining an application under Section 166 of the Act."

(Emphasis added)

18. The Apex Court in the case titled as Surinder Kumar Arora & another versus Dr. Manoj Bisla & others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2241, while approving the principle laid down by the Apex Court in Meena Variyal's case (supra), held that once the victim of an accident or his legal dependants approached the Tribunal for grant of compensation in terms of the mandate of Section 166 of the MV Act, they have necessarily to establish the rash and negligent driving. It is worthwhile to reproduce paras 7 to 12 of the judgment herein:

"7. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties to the lis, the question that would arise for our consideration and decision is, whether the parents of the deceased are entitled to the payment of compensation under the provisions of the Act by the respondent Insurance Company. In order to answer the issue that we have framed for ourselves, the facts in brief requires to be noticed:

8. The claimants are the parents of the deceased person. The deceased was a doctor by profession. The deceased was travelling in the motor vehicle driven by respondent no.1, who happens to be a close associate/friend. It has come in the evidence of the claimants as well as respondent no.1 that the vehicle in question was not driven in a rash and negligent manner by respondent no.1.

9. Admittedly, the petition filed by the claimants was under Section 166 of the Act and not under Section 163-A of the Act. This is not in dispute. Therefore, it was the entire responsibility of the parents of the deceased to have established that respondent No.1 drew the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner which resulted in the fatal accident. Maybe, in order to help respondent No.1, the claimants had not taken up that plea before the Tribunal. Therefore, High Court was justified in sustaining the judgment and order passed by the Tribunal. We make it clear that if for any reason, the claimants had filed the petition under Section 163-A of the Act, then the dicta of this Court in the case of Kaushnuma Begum (Smt.) & Ors. (AIR 2001 SC 485 : 2001 AIR SCW 85) (supra) would have come to the assistance of the claimants.

10. In our view the issue that we have raised for our consideration is squarely covered by the decision of this Court in the case of Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. (AIR 2007 SC 1609 : 2007 AIR SCW 2362) (supra). In the said decision the Court stated:

"…Therefore, the victim of an accident or his dependents have an option either to proceed under Section 166 of the Act or under Section 163-A of the Act. Once they approach the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Act, they have necessarily to take upon themselves the burden of establishing the negligence of the driver or owner of the vehicle concerned. But if they proceed under Section 163-A of the Act, the compensation will be awarded in terms of the Schedule without calling upon the victim or his dependants to establish any negligence or default on the part of the owner of the vehicle or the driver of the vehicle."

11. We are in agreement with the principles stated by this Court in the aforesaid decision.

12. In view of the above, in our opinion, neither the Tribunal nor the High Court has committed any error whatsoever which would call for our interference in the appeal filed by the parents of the deceased. Accordingly, we reject the appeal. However, we direct that the amount paid by the respondent Insurance Company by way of interim compensation under Section 140 of the Act, shall not be recovered from the appellants by the respondent Insurance Company. No order as to costs. Ordered accordingly."(Emphasis added)

19. This Court in the case titled as United India Insurance Company Limited versus Sh. Mohan Lal and others, being FAO No. 281 of 2012, decided on 18th November, 2016,has laid down the same principle.

20. In the case titled as Ningamma and another versus United India Insurance Company Limited, reported in (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 710, the Apex Court has held that when a claim is made by the legal representatives of the deceased, it has to be proved that the deceased was not himself responsible for the accident by his rash and negligent driving.It is apt to reproduce pars 21, 24 and relevant portion of para 25 of aforesaid judgment herein:

"21. In our considered opinion, the ratio of the aforesaid decision is clearly applicable to the facts of the present case. In the present case, the deceased was not the owner of the motorbike in question. He borrowed the said motorbike from its real owner. The deceased cannot be held to be employee of the owner of the motorbike although he was authorised to drive the said vehicle by its owner, and therefore, he would step into the shoes of the owner of the motorbike. We have already extracted Section 163A of the MVA hereinbefore. A bare perusal of the said provision would make it explicitly clear that persons like the deceased in the present case would step into the shoes of the owner of the vehicle.

23. .....

24. However, the question remains as to whether an application for demand of compensation could have been made by the legal representatives of the deceased as provided in Section 166 of the MVA. The said provision specifically provides that an application for compensation arising out of an accident of the nature specified in Sub-section (1) of Section 165 may be made by the person who has sustained the injury; or by the owner of the property; or where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased; or by any agent duly authorised by the person injured or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be.

25. When an application of the aforesaid nature claiming compensation under the provisions of Section 166 is received, the Tribunal is required to hold an enquiry into the claim and then proceed to make an award which, however, would be subject to the provisions of Section 162, by determining the amount of compensation, which is found to be just. Person or persons who made claim for compensation would thereafter be paid such amount. When such a claim is made by the legal representatives of the deceased, it has to be proved that the deceased was not himself responsible for the accident by his rash and negligent driving....."(Emphasis added)

21. Applying the test to the instant case, deceased-Desh Raj was himself driving the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, as is evident from the perusal of the FIR, Ex. PW-4/A and also admitted by the parties. The contents of the FIR have not been disputed by the claimants, rather, they themselves have proved the contents of the FIR, which is exhibited as Ext. PW-4/A.

22. The legal representatives of deceased-Desh Raj have not taken plea of rash and negligent driving for the reasons best known to them, which, as discussed hereinabove, is sine qua non for maintaining claim petition under Section 166 of the MV Act.

23. Having said so, the claim petition under Section 166 of the MV Act was not maintainable.

24. Had the claimants filed the claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act, then rashness and negligence was not required to be proved. The claimants were only required to prove that the death was outcome of the use of the motor vehicle. The claimants have not filed the claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act.

25. The Tribunal or the Appellate Court can treat the claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act, is not maintainable in the instant case in view of the fact that the income of the deceased has been proved to be ₹ 23,791/- per month and for maintaining the claim petition under Section 163-A of the MV Act, the income of the victim of a vehicular accident should be less than ₹ 40,000/- per annum, as has been held by a Division Bench of this Court, of which (Justice Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice) was a member, in a case titled as Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. versus Sihnu Ram and others, being FAO No. 474 of 2010, decided on 28th September, 2016, while replying upon the various judgments rendered by the Apex Court.

26. In view of the discussions made hereinabove, the claim petition was not maintainable. Viewed thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 1 and 4 are set aside.

Issues No. 2, 3 and 5 to 7:

27. In view of the findings returned hereinabove, it is useless to discuss and determine these issues.

28. Both the points, framed hereinabove, are determined accordingly.

29. Having glance of the above discussions, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is set aside and the claim petition is dismissed.

30. Registry to release the deposited amount, if any, in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque. It is made clear that in case the claimants have received any amount of compensation under “No Fault Liability”, the same shall not be recovered by the appellant-insurer.

31. Send down the record after placing copy of thejudgment on the Tribunal's file.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice .

These two appeals are outcome of a common judgment and award dated 2.12.2013, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Shimla, H.P., hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC Petition No.136-S/2 of 2012/10, titled Sh. Roop Singh versus Sh. Baldev Singh Thakur and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.10,16,800/- alongwith 9% interest came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and insurer came to be saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award" on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. The insurer has filed appeal being FAO No. 52 of 2014, on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling it with the liability and the claimant has filed appeal being FAO No. 180 of 2014, for enhancement of compensation, on the grounds taken in their respective appeals.

3. This judgment shall govern both these appeals.

4. The owner/insured and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

5. Following two points are to be determined in these appeals.

(i) Whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability, and;

(ii) Whether the amount awarded is inadequate?

6. In order to determine both these points, it is necessary to give a brief resume of relevant facts herein.

7. The claimant/injured Roop Singh, being the victim of a vehicular accident, filed claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.15,00,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on account of the injuries suffered by him on 31.3.2009 at 9.30 P.M. near Harabag Tehsil Sunder Nagar, District Mandi, H.P. in a motor vehicular accident caused by driver Khajana Ram while driving vehicle bearing registration No. HP-65-0644, rashly and negligently due to which he sustained grievous injuries on his right arm and right leg, i.e., compound fracture. He took first aid at Government Hospital, Sunder Nagar and thereafter referred to I.G.M.C. Shimla where he remained admitted w.e.f. 1.4.2009 to 13.4.2009 and from 22.10.2009 to 31.10.2009. He was operated upon his right leg and arm at IGMC Shimla. It is stated that he has spent a sum of Rs.3,20,000/- on his treatment at IGMC Shimla and an amount of Rs.1,50,000/- is required for his further treatment.

8. The claim petition was resisted by all the respondents by filing replies. The Tribunal, on the pleadings of the parties framed following issues.

1. Whether petitioner suffered injuries on account of rash and negligent driving of respondent No.2 on 31.3.2009? OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved to what amount of compensation the petitioner is entitled to and from whom? OPP.
3. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR.
4. Whether truck No. HP-65-0644 was being plied in violation of RC, route permit? OPR.
5. Relief.

9. The claimant/injured, in support of his case, examined as many as seven witnesses and respondents on the other hand examined as many as five witnesses.

10. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimant/injured has proved that the driver, namely, Khajana Ram had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently. The driver has not questioned the said findings and insurer has no right to question the said findings.

11. I.O. HHC Durga Singh appeared in the witness-box as RW2 and has also stated that the driver of the offending vehicle has driven the same rashly and negligently. There is sufficient proof on the file indicative of the fact that the driver of the offending vehicle has driven the said vehicle rashly and negligently. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

12. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 and 4.

Issue No.3.

13. Driving licence Ext. RW3/A is on record, which does disclose that the driver was competent to drive the offending vehicle. The Tribunal has made discussion in para 29 of the impugned award and has rightly held that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. It is apt to record herein that the learned counsel for the insurer has not questioned the said findings. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issue No.4.

14. It was for the insurer to prove that the owner has committed willful breach, has not led any evidence. Insurance policy, registration certificate and other documents are on record. Tribunal has rightly made discussion in para 30 of the impugned award. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are upheld.

Issue No.2.

15. Factum of insurance is not in dispute. Claimant/injured was driver by profession and was driving another vehicle No.HP-69-0819, which was hit by offending vehicle, as discussed hereinabove, thus, fall within the definition of third party and his risk is covered. Learned counsel for the insurer has not disputed the liability. Disability certificate Ext. PW1/C, is on the record, which does disclose that the claimant/injured has suffered 30% permanent disability which has affected his professional capability. His right leg has shortened, cannot drive the vehicle, the way he was driving before the accident. Thus, it can be safely held that it has affected his earning capacity to the extent of 50%. The Tribunal, after making discussion in paras 14 to 18 has rightly held that the injured has lost earning to the tune of Rs.7800/- per month.

16. The age of the claimant/injured was 34 years at the time of accident. The multiplier applicable is "15" in view of the 2nd Schedule attached to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 for short "the Act", read with Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporationand another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld in Reshma Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of "16".

17. At the cost of repetition, claimant/Injured was driver by profession and he cannot drive the way he was driving before the accident. But it can be held that he can do the work as a labourer and can perform other jobs. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly deducted 50% towards the personal expenses of the claimant/injured and held that the claimant/injured has lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.3900/- per month. Viewed thus, it can be safely held that the claimant/injured has lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.3900/-x12x15= Rs.7,02,000/-.

18. The Tribunal has rightly awarded the amount on other heads, i.e., Rs.50,000/- under the head "pain and suffering during treatment", Rs.50,000/- "loss of enjoyments of life" Rs.60,000/- under the head "loss of earning capacity during treatment", Rs.83,000/- under the head "medical expenses" and Rs.25,000/- under the head "Special diet and attendant charges", needs no interference.

19. Thus, in all, the claimant/injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.7,02,000/-+Rs.50,000+ Rs,50,000/-+Rs.60,000/-+ Rs.83,000/-+ Rs. 25,000/-. Total Rs. 9,70,000/-.

20. The Tribunal has awarded interest @9% per annum. However, the interest was to be awarded at the rate of 7.5% per annum, for the following reasons.

21. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014, AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

22. Accordingly, interest @7.5% per annum instead of 9% is awarded from the date of claim petition till realization of the amount.

23. Having glance of the above discussion, the appeal being FAO No. 52 of 2014, filed by the insurer is allowed, the impugned award is modified as indicated hereinabove and the appeal being FAO No. 180 of 2014, filed by the claimant/injured for enhancement of compensation is dismissed.

24. The points are answered accordingly.

25. Registry is directed to release the amount alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum in favour of the claimant, strictly, in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in his bank account and excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the insurer alongwith interest accrued thereon, through payees' cheque account, after proper verification.

26. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Cr. Appeal No. 372 of 2016
Reserved on: 25.11.2016
Decided on: 30.12.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Deceased was married to the accused- two children were born – accused killed the deceased – he was tried and convicted by the Trial Court – held in appeal that daughter of the accused had witnessed the incident – the weapon of offence was got recovered by the accused – blood stains were found on the same – medical evidence showed that the injuries could have been caused with the weapon of offence- it was duly proved that there was altercation between the accused and the deceased after which the accused had killed the deceased – the oral and circumstantial evidence proved the guilt of the accused- appeal dismissed.(Para-10 to 25)

For the appellant: Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate.
For the respondent: Ms. Meenakshi Sharma, Addl. AG, with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Asstt. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal has been preferred by the appellant/accused/convict (hereinafter referred to as "the accused") laying challenge to the judgment, dated 02.01.2006, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge(I), Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. (Camp at Sarkaghat), in Trial No. 20 of 2014, whereby he was convicted for the commission of offence under Section 302 Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as "IPC") and was sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and also to pay fine of Rs. 20,000. In case of default in payment of fine, the accused was further ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for one year.

2. The factual matrix, as per the prosecution story, giving rise to the present appeal are that deceased/victim, Sumna Devi (hereinafter referred to as "the deceased") was married to the accused and out of said wedlock two children were born. The accused had suspicion upon the fidelity of the deceased. On 27.10.2013, Police Post Dharampur got information through Smt. Tambo Devi (PW-1), Pardhan, Gram Panchayat Binga, that the deceased had been murdered at village Dabrot. This information formed the basis for rapat No. 5, Ex. PW-19/A, which was recorded in Police Post, Dharampur. ASI, Nasib Singh alongwith other police officials went to the place of occurrence. Statement, under Section 154 Cr.P.C., of Smt. Tambo Devi (PW-1) was recorded, wherein she stated that on 27.10.2013, during day time, when she had gone to bring grass, around 4:30 p.m. she received a telephonic call from Anil Kumar, Ward Panch. The Ward Panch informed her that the mother of the accused, Smt. Gambhari Devi, divulged to him that her daughter-in-law had been killed by someone inside the house. Subsequently, she telephonically informed PW-2, Ravi Kumar, Vice President qua the incident and reached the spot around 4:45 p.m. She discovered the dead body of the deceased, with several injuries, lying in the room. Blood stained clothes, stones were also there on the bed. Minor daughter of the deceased, on being questioned by PW-1, divulged that the accused quarreled with her mother and killed her. Statement of PW-1, Ex. PW-1/A, formed the basis for rukka, which was sent by ASI Nasib Singh, through constable Baldev Singh (PW-9), to Police Station, Sarkaghat. SI Prashotam Dhiman made his endorsement over rukka and FIR, Ex. PW-9/A, was registered. As per the prosecution story, prior to rushing to the spot of occurrence, ASI Nasib Singh informed about the occurrence to the Superintendent of Police, Mandi, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Sarkaghat and Station House Officer, Police Station, Sarkaghat. Shri Desh Raj, Photographer, was also associated by the police, who took photographs of the spot as well as the dead body, which are Ex. PW-14/A1 to Ex. PW14/A6. ASI Nasib Singh examined the dead body, which was lying on double folding-bed in the ground floor. Subsequently, SHO and Dy. SP, Sarkaghat, also came on the spot.

3. ASI Nasib Singh filled form 25-35A, Ex. PW-1/H. The dead body was taken into possession and sent for post mortem examination at CH Sarkaghat, alongwith application, Ex. PW-13/A, under the supervision of Constables Hem Raj and Desh Raj. Spot map, Ex. PW-19/B, was prepared. Blood stained stones were also found over the bed. Blood stained smeaj, bra, shirt, salwar, blood stains from first floor, from stairs, bed sheet/khind (mattress), were collected vide memos, viz., Ex. PW-1/B to Ex. PW-1/G. The articles were wrapped in different parcels and sealed with seal impression 'S'. Facsimile of seal impression 'S', Ex. PW-1/G, was separately taken on a piece of cloth, which was witnessed by PW-1, Tambo Devi, and PW-2, Ravi Kumar. The parcels, alongwith seal impression, were taken into possession vide aforesaid memos. Statements of PW-1, Tambo Devi, and PW-2, Ravi Kumar, were recorded by ASI Nasib Singh.

Case property was deposited with MC HHC Ramesh Kumar. On application, Ex. PW-12/A, the accused was medically examined at CH Sarkaghat, and his Medico Legal Certificate, Ex. PW-12/B, was obtained. ASI Nasib Singh handed over the case file to SI/SHO Satish Kumar for further investigation. On 28.10.2013, SI Satish Kumar (PW-20) started investigation and visited the spot alongwith PW-5, Smt. Neela Devi alias Leela and Inder Singh (sister of deceased and her maternal uncle). PW-14, Desh Raj, Photographer, was also associated. Statement of Kumari Shiwani, Ex. PW-7/A, was recorded in presence of Neela Devi alias Leela, Inder Singh and the same was signed by the aforesaid persons and attested by PW-20, SI Satish Kumar, also did videography of the statement in association with Photorapher Desh Raj. On 30.10.2013, the accused was interrogated in the police station by PW-20 in presence of Ajay Chandel, Pardhan Gram Panchayat Ropari and Santosh Kumar brother of the deceased. PW-3/A, was recorded and baint was recovered at his instance in presence of aforesaid witnesses. Sketch of the baint, Ex. AS3, was prepared on a piece of paper in presence of Santosh Kumar and Ajay Chandel. Videography of the entire recovery proceedings was done. Recovered baint was wrapped in a cloth parcel and sealed with seal impression 'N' at six places. Facsimile seal, Ex. Spot map, Ex. PW-20/A, qua recovery of baint, was prepared.

On the basis of statement of the accused, Ex. PW-2/A, fard nishandehi, Ex. PW-2/B was prepared and spot map, Ex. PW-20/B, was drawn. After receiving the result from RFSL, the case property, vide rapat No. 17(A), was taken from malkhana Incharge for showing the same to Medical Board Members, who conducted the post mortem of the deceased. Copy of Pariwar register, Ex. PW-6/B, was obtained from the Secretary Gram Panchayat, Binga, on moving an application, Ex. PW-6/A. Statements of Constable Ramesh Kumar, Baldev Singh and Gambhari Devi were recorded.

6. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined as many as twenty witnesses. The statement of the accused, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., was recorded. No defence was led by the accused.

7. The learned Court below, vide its judgment dated 02.01.2016, convicted the accused for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and to pay fine of Rs. 20,000/-. In case of default in payment of fine, the accused was also ordered to further undergo simple imprisonment for one year, hence the present appeal.

8. We have heard the learned Counsel for the respondent/accused and learned Additional Advocate General for the respondent/State.

9. The learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and the accused may be acquitted by setting aside the judgment of conviction, as recorded by the learned Court below. Conversely, the learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the findings of conviction, as recorded by the learned Court below are just, reasoned and deserves no interference, as the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. In rebuttal, the learned counsel for the accused has argued that the prosecution has failed to connect the accused with the offence and, thus the accused may be acquitted.

10. As per the prosecution, the accused gave beatings to the deceased with baint (bamboo stick) and stones on 27.10.2013 during day time due to which she died. The whole incidence was witnessed by minor daughter of deceased, Kumari Shiwani (PW-7) and minor son Rahul. Kumari Shiwani informed to her grand mother, Gambhari Devi, and she informed Ward

Panch, Anil Kumar. Ward Panch further informed about the incidence to PW-1 Pardhan, Tambo Devi, and PW-1 informed PW-2, Up Pardhan, Ravi Kumar. PW-1 also telephonically informed the police.

11. The statement of PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, is very vital. Being a minor witness, her awareness was verified by the learned Trial Court by putting questions of different nature and she was declared a competent witness. PW-7 has deposed that the deceased was her mother, accused is her father and Gambhari Devi is her grand mother. There are seven rooms in her house and she used to sleep with her grand mother in the room of first floor and her parents used to sleep in the ground floor. She has further deposed that there is window in each room and one can see inside the room through the gap of door and window. As per this witness, she was present alongwith her brother, Rahul, when her mother died. She has also identified the photographs of the deceased and admitted that there were injury marks on the person of the deceased. She heard the noise of cries of her mother and when she peeped inside, she noticed that her mother was lying unconscious on bed and blood was oozing from her body. She noticed blood stains on the spot and bed, which is also identifiable in the photographs. PW-7 has further deposed that her father had not visited their house after the death of her mother and she used to live with her grand mother. She has stated that when her mother was being given beatings by baint, she was in the courtyard. On the day of occurrence she did not go to school and was present in the house, as it was Sunday. She had given statement, Ex. PW-7/A, to the police, which bears her signatures. As per the version of this witness, nobody rescued her mother. She identified baint, Ex. AS2, and deposed that with the same baint her father gave beatings to her mother and the baint was on the ground floor. This witness was exhaustively cross-examined and during her cross-examination she deposed that cow barn is near to the house and at the time of occurrence her grand mother had gone to work in NREGA near Government School, Marhi. She denied that she alongwith her brother was with her grand mother at Marhi. She voluntarily stated that her brother was at home and she had gone to Marhi School with her grand mother, however, she further stated that she could reach Marhi School from her house in two minutes. She could not divulge name of her mausi, but she stated that she knows her by face. This witness denied that there was no baint in the hand of the accused and she had seen the baint in the Court. She voluntarily stated that baint was lying in the ground floor, which was earlier used by dada (Jabra), who has expired. A very imperative Court question was put to this witness, "why she had gone to the place of work of her grand mother"?She replied that "I had gone to call my grand mother by saying that my mother had died". The statement of PW-7 was recorded by the police in presence of her mausi, Leela Devi and Inder Singh and the same was videographed by IO. This fact is fortified by PW-14, Desh Raj (Photographer) and he tendered CD, which is Ex. CI. The videography is duly proved by PW-14, Desh Raj.

12. PW-5, Neela Devi, elder sister of the deceased stated that she, being an illiterate lady, did not remember the date, month and year. As per the version of this witness, the marriage of the deceased was solemnized with the accused and the deceased was having two children. The deceased alongwith her children during the month of Sauj (September) visited her house for 4-5 days and the deceased told her that accused is not keeping her well and suspecting upon her fidelity on which she advised the deceased to live properly in her in-laws' house. Subsequently, she came to know that her sister was murdered by the accused by using baint and stones. When she heard about the death of her sister, she alongwith Inder Singh, her maternal uncle, went to Sarkaghat and saw the dead body of the deceased. This witness has further stated that she and her maternal uncle were taken by the police to the place of occurrence where statement of PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, was recorded in their presence. Videography of the recording of the statement was also done and PW-7 stated that her mother was killed by her father with baint and stones. PW-5 in her cross-examination has admitted that the deceased married the accused by going against her parents. She also admitted that the accused loved the deceased, but later on their relations became strained and the accused started giving beatings to the deceased. She had denied that on the day of occurrence Kumari Shiwani (PW-7) had gone to school. She has further stated that she was present in the house, as it was Sunday.

13. PW-3, Ajay Chandel alongwith Santosh Kumar witnessed the recovery of weapon of offence, i.e., baint, Ex. AS2, which was recovered on disclosure statement made by the accused. PW-3 deposed that during the year 2011 he was Pardhan of Ropari Panchayat and on 30.10.2013 he alongwith brother of the deceased (Santosh Kumar) went to Police Station Sarkaghat. As per this witness, the accused, who is present in the Court, was being inquired by the police in the Police Station. The accused divulged to the police that he could get the baint recovered. The statement of the accused, Ex. PW-3/A, was recorded by the police, which bears his signatures and also the signatures of marginal witnesses. Subsequently, police took the accused alongwith witnesses to Dabrot/Marhi and the accused got recovered the baint from a room of ground floor, which was concealed under a folding double bed. Sketch of the baint, Ex. AS3, was prepared and it was packed, sealed with seal impression 'N' at four places. This witness has also identified parcel, Ex. AS-1 and baint Ex. AS-2, which were taken into possession vide memo, Ex. PW-3/C. As per this witness, whole process was also videographed. In cross-examination, this witness has deposed that he might have visited Police Station, Sarkaghat, between 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and he was taken by brother of the deceased, being Pardhan of the Panchayat. He met the accused in the courtyard of police station as he was brought out of judicial lock up.

14. The weapon of offence, i.e., baint was sent for chemical analysis and as per report, Ex. PW-13/B, Assistant Director RFSL Centre Range Mandi, detected blood traces on the said baint. Dr. Ashish Guleria, (PW-13) deposed that on 27.10.2013, ASI Naseeb Singh, through application, Ex. PW-13/A, prayed for conducting postmortem on the dead body of the deceased. He alongwith Dr. Dharampal conducted the postmortem on 28.10.2013 and gave their report, Ex. PW-13/B, wherein they have opined as under:

> Probable time between injury and death was within one hour. The probable time between death and postmortem was within 24 hours."

Viscera containing spleen part of liver, one kidney, stomach, blood were sealed in separate Jars sealed with seal impression CH Sarkaghat, after taking facsimile seal impression, Ex. PW-13/C, on a separate piece of cloth was handed over the police. Police brought report No. 8578, Ex. PW-13/B, from RFSL Mandi, which was issued by Assistant Director RFSL Mandi. After perusal of the same, finally the Medical Board observed that no alcohol, no poison has been detected in viscera. Therefore, the opinion remained the same. On 27.12.2013, SHO, P.S. Sarkaghat, moved an application, Ex. PW-13/D, whereby the weapon of offence, i.e., baint was shown to the medical board. PW-13 alongwith Dr. Dharampal gave their opinion, Ex. PW-13/E, opining that injuries mentioned in postmortem report can be caused by bamboo stick/baint. Dr. Dharampal also identified stones, Ex. P1 to Ex. P4. According to this witness, injuries mentioned in postmortem report, Ex. PW-13/B, can be caused with the recovered stones and other bodily injuries, which were found on the body of the deceased, were sufficient to cause death in ordinary course. In his cross-examination, this witness admitted that time between injuries and death cannot be said with precision. He has also admitted that there should be three member board to conduct the postmortem. This witness denied that injuries, as mentioned in Ex. PW-13/B, can be caused in an accident. He has also denied that the injuries sustained by the deceased are possible by fall from stairs.

15. PW-4, Anil Kumar, stated that he was informed by the mother of the accused, Gambhari Devi, telephonically that the accused killed the deceased. He went to the spot and disclosure statement of the accused, Ex. PW-2/A, was recorded. On the basis of Ex. PW-2/A, police prepared the spot map, Ex. PW-2/B in his presence. This witness could not divulge the exact time when he received telephonic call from the mother of the accused. He admitted that he did not go through the contents of Ex. PW-2/A.

16. Smt. Tambo Devi, Pardhan, deposed as PW-1. Her statement, Ex. PW-1/A, under Section 154 Cr.P.C was recorded by the police. She deposed that when she reached the house of the deceased, Gambhari Devi, Rakesh Kumar and two minor children were weeping. She did not make any inquiry from Gambhari Devi. As per this witness, accused Rakesh Kumar disclosed that someone killed his wife and the children did not disclose anything. The minor daughter had gone to school. This witness was declared hostile and during her cross-examination she has admitted that blood stained shirt, smeaj, shirt, bra and salwar were taken into possession vide memo, Ex. PW-1/B, and were packed in a cloth parcel, which was sealed with seal impression 'S'. She admitted that soil stained with blood, broken bangles and soil stained with blood from the ground floor were taken into possession vide memos, Ex. PW-1/C to Ex. PW-1/E. In presence of PW-2, Ravi Kumar, khind (mattress) and bed sheet were recovered vide memo, Ex. PW-1/F. Ex. P-1 to Ex. P-9 (articles) were recovered in her presence. This witness in her cross-examination deposed that she met the accused on way when she was going to his house. She has denied that police did not recover anything from the spot and there was rumour that someone killed the deceased. She volunteered that accused was saying that his wife was killed by someone.

17. Shri Ravi Kumar, while appearing as PW-2 has deposed that accused divulged that someone had killed his wife. PW-2 has further stated that PW-1, Pardhan, telephonically informed the police. He has deposed that in presence of Tambo Devi, Pardhan, vide memo, Ex. PW-1/B, stone, smeaj, shirt, salwar and bra were taken into possession. As per this witness, in his presence, soil stained with blood was also taken into possession vide memo, Ex. PW-1/C. He has admitted the police took into possession cement pieces, Ex. P11, soil, Ex. P12, vide memo Ex. PW-1/D, khind (mattress), Ex. P13 and double bed sheet, Ex. P15, vide memo, Ex. PW-1/F. He has admitted that Investigating Officer filled form 25-35, Ex. PW-1/H, in his presence. He has also admitted that seal impression, Ex. PW-1/G, of seal 'S' was taken on piece of cloth. This witness was declared hostile, as he deposed that PW-7 Kumari Shiwani did not disclose any facts qua killing of her mother. PW-2 has denied that PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, divulged to the police that her father killed her mother with stones. He has also denied that on the basis of Ex. PW-2/A accused identified the place of occurrence. During his cross-examination he has deposed that police came on the spot at about 6/6:15 p.m.

18. PW-6, Lalit Kumar, issued copy of Pariwar Register, Ex. PW-6/B, of the accused. PW-8, HHC Shyam Lal, deposed that MHC, Police Station, Sarkaghat, handed over 12 cloth parcels to him, which were sealed with different seal impressions and he deposited the same in proper condition at RFSL, Mandi. As per this witness, on his return he handed over the receipt to MHC. PW-9, Constable Baldev Singh, brought rukka, Ex. PW-1/A, from the spot and gave the same to SHO, Prashotam Dhiman, who registered the FIR, Ex. PW-9/A. PW-10, HHC Ramesh Chand, deposed that on 27.10.2013, ASI Naseeb Singh, around 11:55 p.m., deposited with him five parcels, which were sealed with seal impression 'S'. On 28.10.2013, he gave the above parcels to PW-9, Constable Baldev Singh vide RC No. 29/13, Ex. PW-10/A, with a direction to deposit the same in malkhana. No tampering had occurred during the time he possessed the said parcels. PW-11, Dharam Singh, Incharge of malkhana, deposed that on 28.10.2013 vide RC No. 29/13, Constable Baldev Singh, deposited ten cloth parcels, which were sealed with different seal impressions and one envelope of specimen seal impression CHK. He made entry in malkhana register at Sr. No. 1152/13. He also tendered the abstract copy of malkhana register, Ex. PW-11/A. He has further deposed that on 30.10.2013, SI Satish Kumar (PW-20), deposited a cloth parcel having seal impression 'N' at six places, which stated to have contained a baint. No tampering took place during the time he possessed the case property.

19. Dr. Dinesh, M.O. CH Sarkaghat (PW-12), conducted the medical examination of the accused and issued MLC, Ex. PW-12/B. According to him the accused was not under alcoholic influence. He has further stated that he did not take urine and blood samples of the accused. As per this witness, he has recovered pant and shirt containing blood stains and packed the same. He has denied that he did not preserve the clothes of the accused. PW-15, Gian Chand, Patwari, prepared the spot map, Ex. PW-15/B and issued jamabandi, Ex. PW-15/C depicting the location of the house of the accused. PW-16, HC Hoshiyar Singh, deposed that on 07.11.2013 he sent 12 parcels, as per list mentioned in RC, Ex. PW-16/C to RFSL Mandi for chemical analysis through HHC Shyam Lal. PW-17, Constable Sanjeev Kumar, had drawn rapats, Ex. PW-17/A and Ex. PW-17/B qua departure and arrival of Investigating Officer alongwith case property, which was to be shown to the medical board. PW-18, Parshotam Dhiman, registered FIR, Ex. PW-9/A. PW-19, ASI Nasib Singh, Investigating Officer, investigating the matter. PW-20 is SI/SHO Satish Kumar, partly investigating the matter.

20. The statement of PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, who is a minor witness, is very material evidence. The statement of a child witness is reliable and trustworthy, if the Court comes to the conclusion that the child witness is not tutored. PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, admittedly used to reside with her grand-mother, Gambhari Devi (mother of the accused). In her cross-examination, she could not divulge the names of her maternal grand parents, as she was not in touch with them. Evidently, the statement of PW-7, Ex.PW-7/A, was recorded in presence of Neela Devi alias Leela and Inder Singh and videography of the same was also done. In the video CD, Ex. C-1, which was played in the open Court by the leaned Trial Court, PW-7 unequivocally deposed that her father (accused) killed her mother. PW-7 meticulously stated that it was Sunday on 27.10.2013, so she did not go to school, thus tutoring of this witness is not probable. PW-7 was living under the care and custody of Smt. Gambhari Devi, her grand mother, who was given up by the prosecution, being won over by the accused. Thus, there is likelihood of pressurizing of this witness by her grand mother. After scrutinizing the statement of this witness coupled with the facts of the case, it is worth noticing that in fact the pressure is supposed to be on the child witness (PW-7) to depose in favour of the accused as she was living in the care and custody of her grand mother, who is mother of the accused. PW-7 was subjected to extensive cross-examination, but she has specifically stated that she had gone to call and tell her grand mother that her mother had died. She has specifically denied the suggestion put by the learned counsel for the accused that baint was not in hands of her father. She also denied that she had seen baint, Ex. AS2, for the first time in the Court. In fact, she has identified the baint as the one which was used by her dada (grand father), locally called Jabara. In these circumstances, after exhaustively examining the statement of child witness (P'W-7), it can safely be held that there is no infirmity in her statement. It is correct that the competency of a child witness depends upon the degree of his/her understanding and in the case in hand the degree of understanding of Kumari Shiwani (PW-7), child witness, is in fact very good and par excellence, thus it can be inferred that she was not tutored.

21. As per prosecution story baint, Ex. AS2 was got recovered by the accused himself. Manifestly, CDs Ex. C2, Ex. C3 and the statement of PW-3, Ajay Chandel, reveal that accused made a disclosure statement, Ex. PW-3/A. The said statement was made in presence of PW-3, Ajay Chandel, and as per CD accused led the police party and witnesses inside the room and he got recovered a baint (Ex. AS2), which was hidden below a folding double bed. Now, if the recovery part is examined in conjunction with the statement of PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, then the story of the prosecution stands further fortified, as PW-7 deposed specifically that baint was in the ground floor and the same was recovered from the ground floor. As per the testimony of PW-7, the said baint belonged to her Dada (Jabra), who is no more. Lastly, the recovery of baint has been further substantiated by PW-3, Ajay Chandel. Thus, the recovery of baint stands fully established by the prosecution.

22. It is emanating from the record that consequent upon the disclosure statement, Ex. PW-3/A, made by the accused, PW-20 SI Satish Kumar effected recovery of baint, vide recovery memo, Ex. PW-3/B. There no incriminating material available on record disproving disclosure statement, Ex. PW-3/A. Apparently, the recovery was effected after three days of occurrence, i.e., on 30.10.2013. The recovered baint, Ex. AS2, was sent to RFSL, Mandi, for chemical analysis and the report of Assistant Director RFSL, Ex. PW-13/B, depicts that blood was detected in traces over the baint, but the same was insufficient for the purpose of serological examination. Thus, the chemical analysis reveals that blood was found on the said baint. As per postmortem report, Ex. PW-13/A, Dr. Ashish Guleria (PW-13), opined that injuries mentioned in the postmortem report can possibly be caused by baint, Ex. AS2. Thus, the conspectus of the above discussion is that statement of PW-7, child witness, stands duly substantiated viz-a-viz disclosure statement, Ex. Pw-3/A, recovery memo, Ex. PW-3/B, RFSL report, Ex. PW-13/B and statement of Dr. Ashish Guleria, PW-13.

23. As per the prosecution story ASI Nasib Singh (PW-19) was asked to come on the spot by PW-1, Tambo Devi, Pardhan, Gram Panchayat, Binga. This fact also stands corroborated by PW-1, Tambo Devi, PW-2 Ravi Kumar and PW-4, Anil Kumar. PW-19 recovered four stones, Ex. P1 to Ex. P4, which were stained with blood. The recovery of stones has been admitted by PW-1, Tambo Devi, and PW-2, Ravi Kumar. Recovered stones were chemically examined at RFSL, Mandi, and as per report, Ex. PW-13/B, human blood was detected on the stones. PW-12, Dr. Dinesh, Medical Officer, C.H. Sarkaghat, handed over to police samples of blood and urine alongwith pant and T-shirt containing blood stains, which were sealed with seal impression CH. As per the testimony of PW-13, Dr. Ashish Guleria, the injuries mentioned in postmortem report can be caused by stones, Ex. P1 to P4, and baint, Ex. AS2. Admittedly, accused was arrested on 27.10.2013 and was medically examined by PW-12, Dr. Dinesh, on 28.10.2013. PW-12 preserved pant and T-shirt of the accused, which were stained with human blood, and he handed over the same to police. The defence did not give any explanation qua presence of blood on the clothes of the accused. The fact that the accused was suspecting fidelity of the deceased also stands substantiated by PW-5, Neela Devi alias Leela (sister of the deceased). As per her statement accused, when deceased and their children stayed in her house for 4-5 days, the deceased divulged to her that accused was suspecting on her character. Nothing incriminating has come on record to disbelieve her statement.

24. On meticulous analysis of the material on record, it can be held that on the day of occurrence there was an altercation between the accused and the deceased and accused taking help of stones, Ex. P-1 to Ex. P-4, baint, Ex. AS2, killed the deceased. The entire happening was witnesses by PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, and her younger brother Rahul. PW-7, Kumari Shiwani, saw the occurrence through a window side that is why she deposed that her mother was crying for help. As her grand mother had gone to work in NREGA, nobody helped the deceased. Recovery of weapon of offence, that is, baint, Ex. AS2, and its identification by PW-7 demonstrates that the same was used as a weapon of offence by the accused.

25. Manifestly, blood traces were found on the recovered baint and pant and shirt of the accused were also stained with blood, which were preserved by PW-12, Dr. Dinesh, while medically examining him. The presence of human blood on Ex. AS2, baint, and stones, Ex. P-1 to Ex. P4, show that these were used for committing the offence. Thus, the chain of circumstances is complete. In these circumstances, this Court finds that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond the shadow of doubt, thus the judgment of conviction passed by the learned Court below deserves no interference. Accordingly, the appeal, being devoid of any merit, is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of.
