7. Learned counsel for respondent submits that accident had occurred in the year 2008 and respondent No. 1/claimant is waiting for her lawful claim for last eight years. Claim petition was also decided in the year 2010 and for more than last six years, present petition is pending in this Court and therefore, he has prayed that despite the fact that alternate remedies are available to petitioner under the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act to assail the impugned award by filing an appeal, present petition may be decided on merits in the interest of justice and for benefit of poor respondent No. 1/claimant, who is suffering for non release of amount in her favour due to pendency of present lis challenging the award passed in her favour by the MACT.

8. In similar matter coordinate bench of this Court had dismissed CWP No. 542 of 2011 vide judgment dated 24th April, 2012, titled ICICI Lombard General Insurance Company Limited Vs. Sh. Hem Raj and another, being non-maintainable. The said judgment was assailed in LPA No.269 of 2012 and Division Bench of this Court vide judgment dated 6th December, 2012 had decided the issue in dispute between parties on merits leaving the question of maintainability of writ petition against the impugned award open.

9. Issue involved in present petition can be adjudicated and decided on the basis of material placed on record and pleadings of parties. Self imposed restriction/rule of exclusion of writ jurisdiction on account of availability of alternative remedy does not operate as an absolute bar to entertain a writ petition. It is a rule of discretion to be exercised depending upon facts of each case. I am of the opinion that in facts and circumstances, it would be in the interest of justice to adjudicate the dispute between parties herein present petition on merits on equitable ground as respondent No. 1/claimant is being deprived of the fruit of award passed in her favour in the year 2010 and relegating the parties to another round of litigation for adjudicating the matter under the remedy available to petitioner-company under Motor Vehicles Act would result into undue harassment and grave hardship to respondent No. 1/claimant for no fault on her part. Therefore, in peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, especially in the interest of claimant, I proceed to decide this petition on merits by exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of Constitution of India, without going into question of alternative remedy available to petitioner to assail the impugned award.

10. Learned counsel for petitioner-Company submits that present award deserves to be interfered with for the reasons that there is no positive evidence on record that respondent No. 1/claimant was earning Rs. 10,000/- per month and disability suffered by respondent No. 1 is 42%, whereas she has been awarded compensation by considering her working disability as 60%. It is further submitted that as PW-2 Laxmi Ram, appearing for respondent No. 1, had himself stated that respondent No. 1/claimant belonged to IRDP family and therefore, her income cannot be considered as Rs. 10,000/- per month at any stretch of imagination.

11. On the contrary, learned counsel appearing for respondent No. 1/claimant has supported the award passed by the MACT on the ground that there is no evidence on record that respondent No. 1/claimant belonged to IRDP family except irrelevant bald assertion of PW-2 without any substantial material and no such suggestion was put to her. Further that petitioner-company has not disputed income of respondent No. 1/claimant as Rs. 10,000/- during her cross-examination. He also submits that in given facts and circumstances of a case working disability of a person may be more or less than percentage of physical disability and in present case, respondent No. 1/claimant has suffered 42% physical disability of lower limb which definitely affects her working ability more than percentage of disability of the said limb and further submits that working disability taken as 60% by the MACT is on lower side, whereas for lower limb with 42% disability, working disability of a person will be more than that of 60%.

12. Though there is no positive evidence on record to establish that respondent No. 1 was earning Rs. 10,000/- per month at the time of accident, however, at the same time contention of petitioner-Company is also not tenable that at the time of accident respondent No. 1/claimant belonged to IRDP family as self stated hazy line of PW-2 Laxmi Ram is not sufficient to hold that respondent No. 1/claimant was in IRDP at the time of accident or at the time of his making statement. There is no document on record showing that respondent No. 1/claimant was in IRDP family at the time of accident or even thereafter.

13. So far as working capacity of respondent No. 1 is concerned, same has rightly been determined by the MACT, because working disability cannot be equal to percentage of physical disability of a person in every case. Working disability will vary in each case irrespective of percentage of physical disability depending upon loss of limb or damage to part of the body and also nature of work performed by victim. In facts and circumstances of the case working disability may be lesser and even negligible than physical disability and in some cases, lesser physical disability may have larger effect on working disability of a victim. In present case, there is disability of lower limb to the extent of 42% and in life, for every movement, a person depends upon lower limb. Therefore, even 60% disability may be considered to be taken on the lower side, but as there is also no positive evidence for establishing extent of working disability of respondent No. 1/claimant, in my opinion on the basis of guess work, the MACT has rightly taken the working disability as 60%.

14. In Arun Kumar Agrawal and another Vs. National Insurance Company Limited and others (2010) 9 SCC 218, the Apex Court, for an accident occurred prior to 2003, has considered income of a housewife as Rs. 5,000/-. Hon'ble Mr. Justice A.K. Ganguly, J. in his concurring conclusion/paras, has observed as under:-

> "41. Despite the clear constitutional mandate to eschew discrimination on grounds of sex in Article 15(1) of the Constitution, in its implementation there is a distinct gender bias against women and various social welfare legislations and also in judicial pronouncements.

> 44. This bias is shockingly prevalent in the work of Census. In the Census of 2001 it appears that thosewho are doing household duties like cooking, cleaning of utensils, looking after children, fetchingwater, collecting firewood have been categorized as non-workers and equated with beggars,prostitutes and prisoners who, according to Census, are not engaged in economically productivework. As a result of such categorization about 36 crores (367 million) women in India have beenclassified in the Census of India, 2001 as non-workers and placed in the category of beggars,prostitutes and prisoners. This entire exercise of Census operation is done under an Act ofParliament.
> 49. Work is very vital to the system of gender reconstruction in societies and in this context masculineand feminine work is clearly demarcated. The question which obviously arises is whether Censusdefinition of work reflects the underlying process of gender discrimination.
> 50. Women are generally engaged in homemaking, bringing up children and also in production ofgoods and services which are not sold in the market but are consumed at the household level. Thus,the work of women mostly goes unrecognized and they are never valued. Therefore, in the categorization by the Census what is ignored is the well known fact that womenmake significant contribution at various levels including agricultural production by sowing,harvesting, transplanting and also tending cattles and by cooking and delivering the food to thosepersons who are on the field during the agriculture season."

15. In absence of other evidence on record, Rs. 5,000/- per month income of house wife was considered to be appropriate for an accident occurred prior to 2003. In present case date of accident is 11.12.2008. Even it is considered that respondent No. 1/claimant was performing work equivalent to a labourer then also her earning is to be considered that of a labourer. In the year 2003 earnings of house wife were taken as Rs. 5,000/-. In the year 2010, this earning is bound to be increased 30% to 50% i.e. Rs. 6,500/- to Rs. 7,500/-. In the year 2010, daily wage of a labourer was more than Rs. 200/- per day i.e. more than Rs. 6,000/- per month. Even considering earning of respondent No. 1/claimant on lower side, it would be appropriate to consider it to be Rs. 6,000/- per month.

16. Considering income of respondent No. 1/claimant as Rs. 6,000/- per month, loss of income suffered by her comes to be Rs. 3,600/- per month. The MACT has rightly applied multiplier of 11 and after applying this multiplier, loss of future income comes to be Rs. 4,75,200/-.

17. The amount awarded under the heads of amount spent on medicines and in hospital and also for pain and sufferings warrants no interference. However, keeping in view nature of disability, particularly lower limb of the body, respondent No. 1 will definitely face difficulty in movement and some extra care and arrangement causing some extra expenditure for her movement, will be required. Therefore, under head of transportation, besides Rs. 20,000/- spent during the treatment, Rs. 10,000/- also required to be granted for future expenses to be incurred for her movement in life. Besides this, respondent No. 1/claimant is also entitled for loss of enjoyment of amenities to the extent of Rs. 30,000/-

18. At the time of filing petition and also at the time of leading evidence by way of affidavit, respondent No. 1 has clearly stated that she was under treatment at that time. The MACT has awarded Rs. 80,000/- for amount spent on medicine and also amount of Rs. 10,000/- with respect to amount spent in hospital, but nothing has been awarded for undergoing treatment and for future treatment. Therefore, respondent No. 1/claimant is also entitled for Rs. 20,000/- for future treatment and care.

19. In view of above discussion respondent No. 1/claimant is held entitled for following amount of compensation:-

1.	Loss of income:	Rs. 4,75,200/-
2.	Amount spent on medicines:	Rs. 80,000/-
3.	Amount spent in hospital:	Rs. 10,000/-
4.	Amount for future treatment and care.	Rs. 20,000/-
5.	Pain and sufferings:	Rs. 1,00,000/-
6.	Loss of enjoyment and amenities.	Rs. 30,000/-
7.	Transportation including future Expenditure for life time.	Rs. 30,000/-
	Total	Rs. 7,45,200/-

20. It is further contended on behalf of the petitioner company that the MACT has awarded interest @12% per annum in the year 2010, which was on higher side at the relevant point of time. Considering the date of filing of petition as well as decision of claim petition, it would be appropriate to award interest @9% per annum from the date of filing of the petition, instead of 12% per annum on the amount of compensation.

21. Impugned award is modified in above terms. Needless to say that respondent No. 1/claimant is also entitled to the cost of petition to the tune of Rs. 10,000/- assessed by the MACT.

22. Registry is directed to calculate the amount adding interest to which respondent No. 1/claimant is entitled on the basis of modified award and the said amount along with up to date proportionate interest be released in her favour by remitting the same in her saving bank account, to be furnished by her counsel and the excess amount, if any, along with up to date proportionate interest, shall be refunded to the petitioner-company by remitting the same to its bank account, particulars of which shall be furnished by its counsel.Petition stands disposed of in above terms along with pending application(s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Shri Avtar Singh ....Appellant

Versus

Sh. Tilak Raj & another ....Respondents

Decided on : 11.11.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Monthly income of the claimant was Rs.5,000/- - claimant had sustained 25% permanent disability- claimant was 35 years at the time of accident – Tribunal had erred in applying the multiplier of 16- multiplier of 14 is applicable- thus, the claimant is entitled to Rs.1250 x 12 x 14= Rs.2,10,000/- - amount awarded under other head is maintained and total compensation of Rs.3,34,000/- awarded with interest @ 7.5% per annum- the claim of third party cannot be defeated on the ground of breach of the terms and conditions of the policy – the insurer saddled with liability with the right to recovery.(Para-16 to 24)

Cases referred:

Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs Delhi Transport Corporation and another, AIR 2009 SC 3104
Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120

For the Appellant : Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.
Mr. P.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the judgment and award, dated 5th June, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P. (for short 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 42 of 2008, titled as Tilak Raj versus Shri Avtar Singh & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,64,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and appellant-owner was saddled with liability (for short 'the impugned award').

2. The claimant, driver and insurer have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The owner-insured has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned Counsel for the appellant-owner/insured argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling him with the liability and the amount awarded is excessive.

5. Thus, the following questions are to be determined in this appeal:

1. Whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the owner-insured with liability and discharged the insurer?
2. Whether the amount awarded is adequate?

6. In order to determine the aforesaid questions, it is necessary to examine the pleadings of the parties and record.

7. The claimant had invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 6,00,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

8. The respondents resisted and contested the claim petition by filing replies.

9. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether the petitioner has suffered injuries due to rash and negligent driving of Qualis, bearing No. PB-18-J-0074 by its driver-respondent No. 2, as alleged? ..OPP

2. If Issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner/claimant is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? …OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form?…OPRs

4. Whether the vehicle in question was being driven by respondent No. 2 at the time of accident in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy? …OPR-3

5. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question at the time of accident?…OPR-3

6. Relief."

10. The parties led evidence. The Tribunal after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the driver was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, the owner-insured has committed willful breach, saddled him with liability and discharged the insurer and granted compensation to the tune of 3,64,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum in favour of the claimant.

Issue No. 1

11. There is no dispute qua findings recorded on issue No. 1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are upheld.

12. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with Issues No. 3 to 5.

Issue No. 3

13. The respondents have not led any evidence to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable, thus have failed to discharge the onus. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issues No. 4 & 5

14. The Tribunal has held that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and the same was in the name of Jaswinder Singh, son of Shri Karam Singh and not in the name of Sarvjeet Singh, son of Shri Balbir Singh. Further, it has recorded that there was no evidence on the record to show that the owner-insured had engaged the driver after exercising due care and caution and has taken steps as required under law while engaging driver.

15. Having said so, I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly recorded the findings that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and the owner-insured has committed willful breach. Thus, the findings, recorded by the Tribunal on issues No. 4 & 5 are upheld.

16. The Tribunal has assessed the monthly income of the claimant-injured at Rs. 5,000/- per month and held that the claimant has suffered 25% permanent disability and granted him compensation to the tune of Rs. 15,000/, under the head 'loss of dependency'. The claimant-injured has not questioned the same. Accordingly, the same is upheld.

17. The age of the claimant-injured was 35 years at the time of accident. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of '16'.

18. The multiplier of '14' is applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120.

19. Thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 1250 x 12 x 14 = Rs. 2,10,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

20. The amount awarded under the other heads is maintained.

21. Accordingly, the claimant-injured is held entitled to total compensation under the following headswith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization,

(i) loss of dependency :	Rs. 2,10,000/-
(ii) Medical expenses :	Rs. 14,000/-
(iii) Attendant charges, special diet and transportation:	Rs. 15,000/-
(iv) Loss of income:	Rs. 15,000/-
(v) Pain and suffering:	Rs. 30,000/-

(vi) Loss of amenities of life:	Rs. 50,000/-
Total:	Rs. 3,34,000/-

22. Now, the question is- who is to be saddled with liability.

23. As discussed hereinabove, the owner-insured has committed willful breach. The claimant is the third party.

24. It is a beaten law of the land that right of third party cannot be defeated and even if the owner-insured has committed breach, the insurer has to satisfy the award, with right of recovery.

25. Viewed thus, the insurer is saddled with the liability, with right of recovery.

26. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insured stated at the Bar that an amount of Rs. 25,000/- stands already deposited before the Registry.

27. The insurer is at liberty to lay a motion before the Tribunal for recovery of the amount.

28. The insurer is directed to deposit the awarded amount minus the amount already deposited by the owner-insured before the Registry within a period of eight weeks from today.

29. The Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant-injured, strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award after proper identification, through payees' account cheque and by depositing the same in his account.

30. The impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove and the appeal is disposed of.

31. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

Regular Second Appeal No.270 of 2006.
Judgment Reserved on: 19.09.2016.
Date of decision: 11.11.2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff pleaded that she is owner in possession of the suit land – defendant has no right over the same - previous owner K had not executed any Will – the defendant pleaded that K had executed a Will in favour of the defendant and he has become the owner after the death of K – suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was allowed- held in second appeal that plaintiff had not appeared in the witness box to prove that Will was a forged document and adverse inference has to be drawn against her – the deceased had put her thumb impression on the Will and plaintiff had not sought the comparison of the thumb impression to determine the genuineness of the same – the execution of the Will was proved by the defendant by leading cogent and convincing evidence – the Appellate Court had rightly held that the execution of the Will was proved – appeal dismissed.(Para-12 to 35)

For the Appellants:	Mr.Ankush Dass Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr.Rakesh Kumar, Advocate.
For Respondents: No.1, 2, 4 to 6.	Mr.G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate with Mr.Romesh Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellants-plaintiffs against the judgment and decree dated 24.03.2006, passed by learned District Judge, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, H.P., reversing the judgment and decree dated 17.06.2004, passed by the learned Civil Judge(Junior Division)-1, 1st Class-I. Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, H.P., whereby the suit filed by late Smt.Geeta Devi, predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-plaintiffs, has been decreed.

2. The brief facts of the case are that late Smt.Geeta Devi, predecessor-in-interest of the appellants-plaintiffs (herein after referred to as the 'plaintiff'), filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of permanent injunction against the respondent-defendant (hereinafter referred to as the `defendant') stating therein that she is owner in possession of the suit land comprised in Khata No.70, Khatauni No.87, Khasra Nos.535/414, 555/453, 454, 557/470, Kita 4 measuring 10 Kanal 11 Marlas, situated in Tika Ramehra, Tappa Mehlta, Tehsil Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P. and land comprised in Khata No.49, Khatauni No.83, Khasra Nos.1064, 1068, Kita 2 area 13 Marlas to the extent of 1/7th share and Khata No.46, Khatauni No.87, Khasra No.1092, area measuring 13 Marlas and Khata No.47, Khatauni No.88, Khasra No.1090, area 3 Marla, 1/7th share situated in Tika Loharni Mauza Mehlta, Tehsil Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P. (herein after referred to as the `suit land').

3. It is averred in the plaint that plaintiff Geeta Devi was daughter and Smt.Kaulan Devi was wife of Shri Paras Ram. It is further averred that Shri Paras Ram also married Smt.Nikki Devi and Smt.Kalan Devi, who were died issueless. Thereafter, Shri Paras Ram was also died. It has been averred by the plaintiff that a portion of the suit land was acquired by Smt.Kaulan Devi from her husband Shri Paras Ram. The plaintiff has further averred that she is the legal heir of Smt.Kaulan Devi, who died on 31.10.1993, and after the death of Smt.Kaulan Devi, she became owner in possession of the suit land. It has also been averred that the defendant is stranger to the suit land and has no right, title or interest over the same. It has been averred that the defendant started interfering with the ownership and possession of the plaintiff over the suit land with effect from the 1st week of February, 1994 on the ground of execution of Will dated 25.10.1993, purported to have been executed in his favour by Smt.Kaulan Devi. It has further been pleaded that Smt.Kaulan Devi has not executed any valid Will in favour of the defendant, as she was not in sound disposing state of mind before her death and as such she was unable to execute the alleged Will dated 25.10.1993. The alleged Will, set up by the defendant, is forged, false and fictitious and the same has been prepared fraudulently after the death of Smt.Kaulan Devi in connivance with the scribe and witnesses. It has also been averred that the alleged Will is the result of undue influence and importunity and thus the same is illegal, null and void and is not binding on the plaintiff. The plaintiff has sought declaration of her ownership and possession over the suit land by restraining the defendant from interfering with her ownership and possession over the suit land.

4. The defendant resisted and contested the suit by filing written statement. It has been admitted by the defendant that the suit land was owned and possessed by Smt.Kaulan Devi wife of Shri Paras Ram. It has also been admitted that the plaintiff is the daughter of Paras Ram. It has been asserted by the defendant that after the death of Smt.Kaulan Devi, he succeeded the suit land on the basis of valid Will dated 25.10.1993 (Ex.DW-2/A) executed by her in her sound disposing state of mind. It has been averred that the defendant and his parents were looking after and maintaining Smt.Kaulan Devi for the last several years. Smt.Kaulan Devi died on 31.10.1993. It has further been averred by the defendant that the plaintiff was step-daughter of Smt.Kaulan Devi, as she was born to Smt.Nikki Devi wife of Shri Paras Ram, who died within a few days of birth of the plaintiff. It has further been averred that the plaintiff was taken away by her maternal uncle and brought up by him. The marriage of the plaintiff was also performed by her maternal uncle. It has been averred by the defendant that after the death of Smt.Kaulan Devi, he is owner in possession of the suit land and the plaintiff is not entitled to any relief, much less to the discretionary relief of permanent injunction.

5. On the pleading of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of declaration and permanent injunction, as prayed ? OPP.

1-A. Whether Smt.Kalan Devi has executed a valid and registered Will dated 25.10.1993 in favour of the defendant, as alleged? OPD.

2. Relief."

6. The learned trial Court decided both the issues in favour of the plaintiff and accordingly decreed the suit of the plaintiff with costs. The appeal preferred by the defendant before the learned Appellate Court was allowed with costs and the judgment and decree of the learned trial Court was reversed.

7. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

"(1) Whether there has been misreading of evidence by the learned first appellate Court who also not recorded the reasoning for reversal of the findings?

8. Mr.Ankush Dass Sood, learned Senior Counsel, argued that judgment passed by learned first appellate Court deserves to be quashed and set aside since same is not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence as well as of law. Mr.Sood further contended that bare perusal of material available on record clearly suggests that Will Ex.DW-2/A is shrouded by suspicion and could not be accepted being a fake and forged document. Mr.Sood strenuously argued that defendant miserably failed to demonstrate on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A was genuine and was actually executed by deceased Paras Ram in sound and disposing state of mind and as such no reliance could be placed on the same. Mr.Sood further argued that learned District Judge being first appellate Court wrongly determined issue No.1A in favour of defendant-respondent No.1, which is contrary to sufficient evidence on record. As per Mr.Sood, there was sufficient evidence on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A, dated 25.10.1993 executed by Smt.Kaulan Devi in favour of defendant was shrouded by suspicious circumstances and as such onus was upon the defendant being propounder of the Will to dispel such suspicious circumstances. But perusal of evidence led on record clearly suggests that defendant was not able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that Will Ex.DW-2/A was free from suspicion. With a view to demonstrate his aforesaid arguments, Mr.Sood invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by learned trial Court, wherein learned trial Judge, while discussing the evidence on record, came to the conclusion that Will Ex.DW-2/A in question was shrouded by suspicious circumstances and in this regard he culled out suspicious circumstances in para-22 of his judgment dated 17.6.2004.

9. Mr.Sood, while specifically referring to para-22 of the judgment, made serious attempt to persuade this Court that judgment passed by learned trial Court, wherein Will Ex.DW-2/A was held to be shrouded by suspicious circumstances, is based upon correct appreciation of evidence led on record by the plaintiff as well as law and as such same deserves to be upheld. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Sood forcefully contended that findings of fact returned by learned trial Court could not be reversed by the learned first appellate Court without assigning there sufficient/plausible reasons, but as per him, perusal of judgment passed by learned first appellate Court, nowhere suggests that learned first appellate Court while differing with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court assigned sufficient reasons as required under Section 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure as well as judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Madhusudan Das vs. Smt.Narayani Bai and Others, AIR 1983 SC 114 and as such judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court deserves to be quashed and set aside.

10. To the contrary, Shri G.D. Verma, learned Senior Counsel representing the respondent, supported the judgment passed by the first appellate Court. Mr.Verma, argued that judgment passed by learned first appellate Court is based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, of this Court in the present facts and circumstances of the case. Mr.Verma further contended that Will Ex.DW-2/A was duly executed by deceased Smt.Kaulan Devi in favour of defendant in sound and disposing state of mind and as such same could not be held to be shrouded by suspicious circumstances by the learned trial Court. During arguments having been made by Mr.Verma, he made this Court to travel through the statements made by the plaintiff witnesses as well as documents placed on record to demonstrate that at no point of time plaintiff was able to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is not genuine document executed by deceased Smt.Kaulan Devi. Mr.Verma further argued that plaintiff miserably failed to lead evidence, be it ocular or documentary, on record suggestive of the fact that Will Ex.DW-2/A was falsely got executed by the defendant using force and undue influence upon testatrix Smt.Kaulan Devi. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Verma, invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by the first appellate Court and contended that judgment passed by first appellate Court is based upon correct appreciation of evidence on record and learned first appellate Court, while differing with the judgment passed by trial Court, has assigned sufficient reasons in support of its findings that Will Ex.DW-2/A is valid document, duly executed by Smt.Kaulan Devi in sound and disposing state of mind. He also stated that once suit was filed by the plaintiff alleging therein that Will Ex.DW-2/A set up by defendant is a result of fraud, onus was upon plaintiff to prove the validity of the Will Ex.DW-2/A that the same is not genuine document and is shrouded by suspicious circumstances, by way of leading cogent and convincing evidence, but perusal of material made available on record, nowhere suggests that Will Ex.DW-2/A is result of fraud as alleged by the plaintiff.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

12. Needless to say that law regarding nature and onus of the proof of the Will is by way of propounder and in that regard the manner in which the evidence is required to be appreciated has been duly prescribed in the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in H.Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others, AIR 1959 SC 443.

13. Guidelines framed in H.Venkatachala Iyengar case (supra) were further reiterated by Constitutional Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in Shashi Kumar Banerjee and Others vs. Subodh Kumar Banerjee since deceased and after him his legal representatives and others, AIR 1964 SC 529. The Court held:

> "4. The principles which govern the proving of a will are well settled; (see H. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B. N. Thimmajamma, 1959 (S1) SCR 426 : 1959 AIR(SC) 443) and Rani Purniama Devi v. Khagendra Narayan Dev, 1962 (3) SCR 195 : 1962 AIR(SC) 567). The mode of proving a will does not ordinarily differ from that of proving any other document except as to the special requirement of attestation prescribed in the case of a will by S. 63 of the Indian Succession Act. The onus of > proving the will is on the propounder and in the absence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will, proof of testamentary capacity and the signature of the testator as required by law is sufficient to discharge the onus. Where however there are suspicious circumstances, the onus is on the propounder to explain them to the satisfaction of the Court before the Court accepts the will as genuine. Where the caveator alleges undue influence, fraud and coercion, the onus is on him to prove the same. Even where there are no. such pleas but the circumstances give rise to doubts, it is for the propounder to satisfy the conscience of the Court. The suspicious circumstances may be as to genuineness of the signature of the testator, the condition of the testator's mind, the dispositions made in the will being unnatural improbable or unfair in the light of relevant circumstances or there might be other indication in the will to show that the testator's mind was not free. In such a case the Court would naturally expect that all legitimate suspicion should be completely removed before the document is accepted as the last will of the testator. If the propounder himself takes part in the execution of the will which confers a substantial benefit on him, that is also a circumstance to be taken into account, and the propounder is required to remove the doubts by clear and satisfactory evidence. If the propounder succeeds in removing the suspicious circumstances the Court would grant probate, even if the will might be unnatural and might cut off wholly or in part near relations. It is in the light of these settled principles that we have to consider whether the appellants have succeeded in establishing that the will was duly executed and attested. (Page-531)

14. Now, this Court would be adverting to the evidence led on record by the respective parties to explore the answer to substantial question of law, "whether there has been mis-reading of evidence by the learned first appellate Court and whether no reasons have been recorded by learned first appellate Court while reversing the findings returned by the learned trial Court that Will Ex.DW-2/A was shrouded by suspicious circumstances". Keeping in view the pleadings on the point as well as submissions having been made on behalf of the respective parties by their counsel, it would be necessary and apt at this stage to refer to the plaint filed by the plaintiff; namely; Smt.Geeta Devi.

15. Perusal of plaint clearly suggests that plaintiff filed a suit for declaration to the effect that she is owner in possession of suit land, as described hereinabove, with consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from interfering in the suit land in any manner, whatsoever, or getting mutation sanctioned on the basis of alleged Will Ex.DW-2/A, dated 25.10.993. Plaintiff further in para-3 of plaint, which is reproduced here-in-below, stated that the defendant is stranger to the suit land and he has no right, title or interest over the suit land. It has been further stated in the said para that defendant has started illegal and unauthorized interference over the suit land by alleging that Smt.Kaulan Devi has executed a Will:

> "3. That defendant is a stranger to suit land and defendant has got no right, title over the suit land. Defendant has started illegal and unauthorized interference over the suit land by alleging that Smt.Kalan Devi has executed a Will in his favour. Kalan Devi has not executed any Will in favour of Defendant as she was unable to execute the alleged will dated 25.10.93 as she was not of having disposing mind before her death. The alleged will is fictitious, forged one and has been prepared after her death in connivance with the scribe and witnesses in fraudulent manner. The alleged will could be the result of undue influence and importunity also. The alleged will is illegal, null and void and is not binding on the plaintiff."

16. Perusal of aforesaid para contained in plaint clearly suggests that plaintiff prayed for relief of permanent prohibitory injunction against defendant on the ground that Will Ex.DW-

2/A is allegedly executed by deceased Smt.Kalan Devi in favour of defendant is fictitious, forged one allegedly prepared by defendant after her death in connivance with the scribe and witnesses in fraudulent manner. Plaintiff further claimed that alleged Will, which is a result of undue influence and importunity is not binding on the plaintiff.

17. The defendant in written statement claimed that Smt.Kaulan Devi executed a valid Will in the sound disposing mind on 25.10.93 in favour of defendant and Will was executed by Smt.Kaulan Devi of her own free will without any pressure of any side.

18. It is ample clear from the pleadings, as reproduced hereinabove, that plaintiff sought declaration as well as decree for permanent prohibitory injunction on the ground that Will Ex.DW-2/A set up by defendant is fictitious and forged document got prepared by the defendant after the death of Smt.Kaulan Devi in connivance with scribe and witnesses in fraudulent manner; meaning thereby onus had shifted on plaintiff to prove that Will is not a genuine document, as has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Daulat Ram and Others vs. Sodha and Others, (2005)1 SCC 40 :-

> "10. Will being a document has to be proved by primary evidence except where the Court permits a document to be proved by leading secondary evidence. Since it is required to be attested, as provided in Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, it cannot be used as evidence until one of the attesting witnesses at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence. In addition, it has to satisfy the requirements of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. In order to assess as to whether the Will has been validly executed and is a genuine document, the propounder has to show that the Will was signed by the testator and that he had put his signatures to the testament of his own free will; that he was at the relevant time in a sound disposing state of mind and understood the nature and effect of the dispositions and that the testator had signed it in the presence of two witnesses who attested it in his presence and in the presence of each other. Once these elements are established, the onus which rests on the propounder is discharged. But where there are suspicious circumstances, the onus is on the propounder to remove the suspicion by leading appropriate evidence. The burden to prove that the will was forged or that it was obtained under undue influence or coercion or by playing a fraud is on the person who alleges it to be so." (Page 43)

19. But, interestingly, perusal of judgment dated 17.6.2004 passed by learned trial Court clearly suggests that it proceeded to decide the controversy at hand on the premise that onus, if any, to prove that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a valid document is upon the propounder of the Will i.e. defendant in the present case, completely ignoring the fact that at first instance plaintiff herself termed Will Ex.DW-2/A as a fictitious/forged document procured by playing fraud. At the cost of repetition, it is once again stated that once plaintiff had termed Will Ex.DW-2/A to be forged and fictitious document, onus was upon her to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is not a forged document, rather the same is a result of fraud, by leading cogent and convincing evidence on record. However, in the present case learned trial Court on the basis of pleadings of the parties framed two following issues:-

> "1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of declaration and permanent injunction, as prayed? OPP.
> 1A. Whether Smt.Kalan Devi has executed a valid and registered Will dated 25.10.1993 in favour of the defendant, as alleged? OPD."

but, while deciding the matter at hand, proceeded to decide issue No.1A at first instance and for this purpose analyzed the evidence led on record by the defendant. Whereas learned trial Court in view of specific stand taken by the plaintiff vis-à-vis Will Ex.DW-2/A in the plaint ought to have taken evidence led on record by the plaintiff for critically analyses at first instance to reach just and fair conclusion that whether plaintiff was able to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is result of fraud as alleged in plaint. Had trial Court taken issue No.1 for discussion at first instance, he would have examined the evidence led on record by the plaintiff at first instance, from where he would have made an attempt to gather, whether plaintiff was able to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is not a genuine document and the mutation sanctioned on the basis of such Will is of no consequence.

20. Leaving everything aside, this Court solely with a view to answer substantial question of law, examined the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court, perusal whereof nowhere suggests that learned first appellate Court, while reversing the judgment of trial Court misread the evidence available on record and recorded no reason. Rather, perusal of judgment passed by the first appellate Court clearly suggests that it undertook an exercise to critically examine the evidence led on record while coming to the conclusion that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a valid document duly executed by Smt.Kaulan Devi in her sound disposing state of mind in favour of defendant. This Court solely with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the arguments having been made on behalf of the plaintiff also examined the evidence led on record by the respective parties.

21. Perusal of para-22 of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court though suggests that trial Court had culled out certain circumstances, which persuaded learned trial Court to conclude that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a forged document shrouded by suspicious circumstances, but, as has been discussed and observed hereinabove that in the given facts and circumstances of the case onus was upon the plaintiff to prove that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a forged document by leading cogent and convincing evidence. But interestingly, none of the plaintiff witness stated that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a result of fraud and was procured by defendant by playing fraud upon testatrix; namely; Smt.Kaulan Devi. Moreover, plaintiff, who claimed herself to be a legal heir of deceased Kaulan Devi, never stepped into witness box, rather she gave her power of attorney to her husband, who appeared as PW-1. This Court was unable to find on record any explanation rendered by the plaintiff that what prevented her from entering the witness box to prove what she stated in the plaint. Perusal of statement made by PW-1, nowhere suggests that effort, if any, was ever made to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a fictitious and forged document procured by the defendant by playing fraud upon the testatrix Smt.Kaulan Devi. PW-1 stated that testatrix Kaulan Devi died in October, 1993 and she was not keeping well at the time of her death. He further stated that Kaulan Devi was not able to speak for the last 15-16 days and she did not execute any Will and nor she was able to execute any Will. He also stated that she was looked after and maintained by him and his wife and her last rites were also performed by him. But in his cross-examination he admitted that Geeta Devi-plaintiff was brought up by her maternal uncle. Though he stated that Kaulan Devi remained ill for 15-20 days before death and he got her medically examined in Government Hospital, Bassi, but interestingly he did not place any document on record to prove that during her last days she was got medically examined by the plaintiff at Government Hospital, Bassi. Similarly, PW-1 nowhere stated that Kaulan Devi was not in a sound and disposing state of mind and was unable to append thumb impression on the alleged Will Ex.DW-2/A. Rather, he stated that Kaulan Devi remained ill for 10-15 days prior to his death and she was not even able to talk. PW-1 nowhere stated that Will in question is a result of fraud and same is a forged document procured by the defendant by playing fraud in connivance with scribe and attesting witnesses as alleged in the plaint.

22. Withholding of the plaintiff herself from the witness box and thereby denying the defendant an opportunity for cross-examination is a valid and sufficient ground for Court to draw an adverse inference against the plaintiff.

23. In this regard reliance is placed on the judgments passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Khatri Hotels Private Limited and Another vs. Union of India and Another, (2011)9 SCC 126 , Man Kaur (Dead) by LRs. Vs. Hartar Singh Sangha, (2010)10 SCC 512, Rattan Dev vs. Pasam Devi, (2002)7 SCC 441, Iswar Bhai C Patel alias Bachu Bhai Patel vs. Harihar Behera and Another, (1999)3 SCC 457 and our own High Court in Kamlesh Rani vs. Balwant Singh, 2010(3) Shim.L.C. 141.

24. Similarly, PW-3 stated that Kaulan Devi was not keeping well prior to her death and even she was not able to speak. But he also nowhere stated that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a forged and fictitious document procured by the defendant by playing fraud. He also not stated that Kaulan Devi was totally incapacitated and was not in a position to put thumb impression. Similarly, these aforesaid two witnesses, nowhere stated that defendant had no cordial relation with Kaulan Devi and there was no occasion/motive for Kaulan Devi to execute Will Ex.DW-2/A in favour of defendant. Though these aforesaid plaintiff witnesses stated in their statements that Kaulan Devi was being looked after by plaintiff and her husband, but there is no explanation worth name that in what capacity plaintiff; namely; Geeta Devi was staying with Kaulan Devi because it has come in evidence that plaintiff Geeta Devi was brought up by her maternal uncle and after her marriage she was residing with her husband at a place distant from house of deceased Kaulan Devi. Though plaintiff in plaint specifically alleged that Will was procured fraudulently by the defendant in connivance with the scribe; namely; Ramesh Chand and attesting witnesses but none of plaintiff witnesses stated anything with regard to these aforesaid persons, who allegedly connived with the defendant while procuring/preparing forged Will. Though plaintiff by way of leading documentary evidence made an attempt to prove on record that Kaulan Devi never used to append thumb impression on the documents, rather, she being Pradhan of Gram Panchayat used to sign the document. In this regard plaintiff produced evidence in the shape of various documents allegedly signed by Smt.Kaulan Devi. PW-1 as well as his witnesses stated before the Court below that Smt.Kaulan Devi used to sign the ration card and proceedings of the Gram Panchayat. This Court also perused the Ration Card as well as Register of proceedings of Gram Panchayat of 1962-63, which suggest that Kaulan Devi had been signing documents. But signature of Smt.Kaulan Devi as available in the aforesaid proceedings of Gram Panchayat itself appears to be clumsy. Ex.PW-2/A,placed on record by the plaintiff, pertains to year 1962-63, whereas undisputedly alleged Will is dated 25.10.1993; meaning thereby that thumb impression, if any, was appended upon Will after 30 years of alleged signatures of the Gram Panchayat Proceedings. There cannot be any dispute that a person, who used to sign 30 years back cannot append thumb impressionin later part of his/her life, especially when she was in frail health as claimed by the plaintiff. Moreover, none of the plaintiff witnesses stated that they saw signing Kaulan Devi in their presence. Whereas, defendant also produced Ration Card of Smt.Kaulan Devi on record, perusal whereof suggests that Smt.Kaulan Devi used to put thumb impression on the document.

25. Apart from above, during pendency of appeal, the defendant had moved an application under Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure for leading additional evidence, wherein document with regard to holding of time deposit account by the deceased Kaulan Devi in the Post Office was sought to be brought on the record. By way of application, defendant also stated that Kaulan Devi was holding Post Office saving account, whereas plaintiff, while filing reply to the aforesaid application, nowhere disputed the averments and feigned ignorance of having saving account by late Smt.Kaulan Devi with the local Post Office and Cooperative Society. Similarly, the defendant also averred in the application that deceased Kaulan Devi was holding Account No.36 in Cooperative Society and had been operating that account and she was also holding ration card. Defendant specifically stated that in all the aforesaid documents and transactions, Smt.Kaulan Devi had been putting thumb impression. To substantiate averments contained in the application, pass book of account, ration card and certificate issued by Secretary, Cooperative Society were also appended with the application, perusal whereof clearly suggests that deceased Kaulan Devi had been appending thumb impression upon the documents. Whereas, plaintiff while filing reply to the aforesaid application, nowhere disputed the averments and feigned ignorance of having saving bank account by late Smt.Kaulan Devi with the local Post Office and Cooperative Society. Similarly, perusal of reply to the application, nowhere suggests that at any point of time plaintiff stated that Smt.Kaulan Devi had not put thumb impression on the documents in the local Post Office and Cooperative Society. In view of the fact that thumb impression of the deceased was available on local post Office and Cooperative Society, it could not be concluded by the learned trial Court merely on the basis of statement made by PW-1 that Kaulan Devi never used to put thumb impression, rather she used to sign. Moreover, at no point of time plaintiff applied for comparison of thumb impression of Smt.Kaulan Devi on Will Ex.DW-2/A with that of the account of local Post Office and Cooperative Society, as a result of which Court below had no option but to accept the contention put forth on behalf of the defendant that testatrix Kaulan Devi had been putting thumb impression on the document.

26. PW-1 Brij Lal as well as other witnesses though stated that testatrix Kaulan Devi was not well for 10-15 days prior to her death and she was not able to understand the documents like the Will Ex.DW-2/A, but, as has been discussed hereinabove, none of these plaintiff witnesses stated that at the time of execution of alleged Will Ex.DW-2/A testatrix Kalan Devi was not in sound disposing state of mind. Statements to the effect that Kaulan Devi was not keeping well for 10-15 days prior to her death cannot be termed to besufficient to conclude that she was totally incapacitated even to put thumb impression on the documents.

27. After perusing the entire evidence led on record by the plaintiff, this Court is unable to conclude that plaintiff was able to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a forged and fictitious documents procured by the defendant by playing fraud. Since plaintiff had termed the Will to be forged and fictitious documents, onus was upon her to prove on record that Will is forged and fictitious document procured fraudulently by the defendant by leading cogent and convincing evidence, but none of plaintiff witnesses, as has been discussed in detail, has either stated or has explained circumstances from which it could be inferred/gathered that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a result of fraud. Whereas, defendant stated that his parents and he himself had been looking after and maintaining Smt.Kaulan Devi. He also stated that testatrix; namely; Kaulan Devi, had been visiting in defendant's house. Aforesaid assertion stands duly corroborated with the admission having been made by PW-3 Bhuru Ram. In his cross-examination, he categorically admitted that defendant and his parents had been visiting Smt.Kaulan Devi. He admitted the plaintiff to be the daughter of Kaulan Devi, who was the second wife of Paras Ram. He specifically stated that he and his father served Kaulan Devi and Geeta Devi never visited her parental house nor they saw her. It has also come in his statement that plaintiff Geeta Devi was brought up by and was married by her maternal uncle. He further stated that Kaulan Devi executed a Will in his favour and money was bequeathed in favour of his mother.

28. DW-2 Vidya Sagar stated that Will was executed by Kaulan Devi in favour of defendant Shakti in his presence. He specifically stated that Will was read over and explained to Kaulan Devi who after admitting the contents to be correct, put her thumb mark on the Will in his presence and the other witnesses signed the Will as witnesses in his presence. He categorically stated in his statement that she was in sound disposing mind at the time of execution of the Will. It has also come in his statement that Kaulan Devi was being looked after and served by Sandhya Devi and Partap i.e. parents of the defendant. He also stated that he never saw plaintiff Geeta Devi visiting the house of deceased Kaulan Devi. However, in his cross-examination he stated that Will was executed at the residence of Sandhya Devi at Gayaldi, where he was called by nephew of the defendant. He stated that when he reached there, Bhagat Ram and Roop Lal were already sitting there on the cot in the Varandah and Ramesh Chand came after 15 minutes. It is also deposed by him that testatrix Kaulan Devi dictated that she bequeathed her movable and immovable property in favour of Shakti Chand and nothing more was dictated by her.

29. Bhagat Ram DW-3 also stated that Kaulan Devi executed a Will Ex.DW-2/A in favour of defendant in his presence. He also stated that he signed the Will as witness. It has also come in his statement that Will was written by Ramesh Chand at the instance of Kaulan Devi, which was read over and explained to her and thereafter she put her thumb impression on the same. He also stated that other witnesses also signed the Will in her presence. He specifically stated that Kaulan Devi was in sound disposing mind at that time and she was being looked after and served by defendant and her mother. Like DW-2, he also stated that he never saw plaintiff

Geeta Devi visiting Kaulan Devi at any point of time. It has also come in his statement that Will was produced before Tehsildar, where he again signed the Will. Cross-examination conducted upon these aforesaid defendantwitnesses, who allegedly signed as marginal witnesses on the Will Ex.DW-2/A, nowhere suggests that any suggestion worth name was ever put to these attesting witnesses that Kaulan Devi never executed Will in favour of defendant. No suggestion to the effect that thedefendant got the Will prepared fraudulentlyin connivance with scribe andwitnesses. Similarly, no suggestion was put that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a result of fraudand same isforged and fictitious document and they never appended their signatures upon the same. Since scribe Ramesh Chand had passed away, there was no occasion for defendant to cite him as a plaintiff witness in support of his claim, but attesting witnesses, as have been discussed hereinabove, clearly proved on record that Will was executed by late Smt.Kaulan Devi in their presence in sound and disposing state of mind. Both the attesting witnesses categorically stated that they and scribe signed the Will in the presence of testatrix. But learned trial Court while coming to the conclusion that Will is shrouded by suspicious circumstances also observed that thumb impression of testatrix had appeared at the end, whereas attesting witnesses and scribe signed the Will above the thumb impression of the testatrix. But, as has been rightly observed by learned District Judge, Will Ex.DW-2/A was not prepared and scribed by trained/license deed writer and as such aforesaid discrepancy pointed out by learned trial Court could not be termed as suspicious circumstance in any manner, especially in the teeth ofspecific and unequivocal statements of both the attesting witnesses that Kaulan Devi got the Will scribed from late Shri Ramesh Chand in their presence and she had appended signatures in their presence with sound disposing state of mind. It is not understood as to how learned trial Court came to the conclusion that thumb impression of the deceased was available on the blank paper and space of thumb impression was used for preparation of the Will and attestation thereof, because it was none of the case of the plaintiff. Moreover, no evidence, if any, in this regard was ever led on record by the plaintiff witnesses. Perusal of cross-examination conducted upon PW-2 and PW-3 suggests that no suggestion worth the name was ever put to PW-2 and PW-3 with regard to thumb impression of the testatrix appearing at the bottom. Had defendant put this suggestion to PW-2 and PW-3, they would have definitely explained the circumstances under which the thumb impression of the testatrix was obtained at the bottom. Similarly, no attempt was made by the plaintiff to prove on record that Kaulan Devi had put thumb mark on the blank paper for some other purpose, but the same was fraudulently used by the defendant for preparing alleged Will Ex.DW-2/A. It may be noticed that Will Ex.DW-2/A was prepared on the judicial paper of 1987 and in this regard plaintiff, nowhere made an attempt to prove on record that judicial paper used for preparing Will was not procured by Kaulan Devi, especially for execution of Will.

30. This Court, after perusing evidence led on record by the defendant, has no hesitation to conclude that defendant was able to prove on record that Will Ex.DW-2/A was duly executed by late Smt.Kaulan Devi in his favour in sound disposing state of mind. At this juncture, it would be relevant to refer to the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925:

> "63. Execution of unprivileged Wills. —Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [12] [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules:—
> (a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.
> (c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, > or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

31. Perusal of aforesaid provision clearly suggests that for valid attestation of Will, it must be proved that Will was attested by at least two witnesses and each of these witnesses must either see the testator signing or affixing his mark on the Will or it shall be signed by some other person, in their presence, on thedirection of testatrix. Similarly, these witnesses must receive from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark or the signature of such other person. Apart from above, these witnesses must sign Will in the presence of the testator.

32. In the present case, defendant by leading cogent and convincing evidence, as has been discussed in detail, was successful in proving that Will was executed by late Smt.Kaulan Devi in her sound disposing state of mind after understanding the contents contained in the document and put her signatures on the document on her own free will.

33. This Court, after carefully perusing the evidence led on record by defendant, has no hesitation to conclude that defendant was able to prove that Will Ex.DW-2/A was validly executed by Smt.Kaulan Devi, whereas evidence led on record by the plaintiff, which has been discussed in the earlier part of the judgment, nowhere suggests that plaintiff was able to discharge onus shifted upon her after terming Will Ex.DW-2/A as a forged and fictitious document, that Ex.DW-2/A is a forged document procured fraudulently by the defendant and as such this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court who definitely while reversing the judgment passed by trial Court examined entire evidence available on record in right perspective and by no stretch of imagination it can be said that there has been a misreading of evidence by Court below. This Court is of the firm view, after perusing the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Daulat Ram's case supra that onus was upon plaintiff to prove, especially when in her plaint she had termed the Will to be forged and fictitious document and there was no requirement for this Court to examine the evidence, if any, led on record by the defendant to examine the genuineness and correctness of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court. Perusal of par-22 of the judgment passed by trial Court clearly suggests that trial Court while culling out suspicious circumstance, nowhere taken into consideration evidence led on record by the plaintiff upon whom onus was heavy to prove that Will is forged and fictitious document, rather close reading of para-22 suggests that learned trial Court selectively used the evidence led on record by the defendant while pointing out suspicious circumstances. Careful perusal of aforesaid para-22 of the judgment passed by learned trial Court compels this Court to conclude that the evidence led on record by the defendant was not appreciated in its right perspective by the trial Court, rather same was selectively referred by learned trial Court while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff. Otherwise also plaintiff was supposed to stand on her own legs while proving the contents of the plaint and by no means she could be allowed to take benefit of weakness/discrepancies, if any, in the case of the defendant.

34. While concluding and upholding the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court, this Court is of the view that learned trial Court wrongly proceeded to decide the case at hand on the premise that onus, if any, to prove that Will is not shrouded by suspicious circumstance was upon the defendant because by now it is well settled that onus to prove that will is forged and fictitious document is upon the person, who alleges the same. Since in this case plaintiff had termed Will as a forged and fictitious document, she was under obligation to prove on record by leading cogent and convincing evidence that Will Ex.DW-2/A is a result of fraud, but in the present case as clearly emerge from the record especially the judgment passed by learned trial Court, that trial Court decided the matter on the premise that onus, if any, to prove that Will was free from suspicion is/was upon defendant.

35. Consequently, in view of the facts and circumstances discussed hereinabove, this Court is of the view that there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court and as such it does not warrant any interference by this Court, moreover, as has been discussed in detail hereinabove, appellant-plaintiff was not able to make out her case to persuade this Court that Will Ex.DW-2/A is fake and fictitious document procured by the defendant by undue influence. Similarly, this Court, after perusing the evidence led on record by the plaintiff, was unable to see any circumstance which could compel this Court to return the findings that Will Ex.DW-2/A is shrouded by suspicious circumstances. Hence present appeal fails and is dismissed, accordingly.

36. All the interim orders are vacated. All the miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

Decided on : 15th November, 2016.

Employees Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Deceased was employed as driver- he died during the course of his duties- compensation of Rs.9,97,000/- was awarded by the Commissionerwith interest @12% per annum - funeral expenses of Rs.40,000/- were also awarded- held in appeal that it was not disputed that deceased was driver and he had died during the course of his employment – Commissioner had taken the salary as Rs.10,000/- - the claimant had pleaded that deceased was drawing salary of Rs.7,000/- per month and Rs.120/- per day as daily allowance –compensation of Rs.80,000/- in lump sum is to be awarded when the actual income is not proved – since, in the present case the actual income was proved – therefore, compensation could not have been restricted to Rs.80,000/- in lump sum- Rs.40,000/- could not have been awarded towards funeral expenses in absence of any statutory provisions – interest was payable on the compensation amount after one month of the accident – appeal partly allowed. (Para-6 to 8)

For the Appellants: Mr. G.D. Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents No.1 to 4 : Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
Respondent No.5 proceeded against ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

CMP(M) No. 789 of 2015.

Heard. In view of the averments made in the application which are duly supported by an affidavit and in the interest of justice, the delay in filing the appeal is condoned. Application stands disposed of.

FAO No. 563 of 2016.

The instant appeal arises from an order rendered by the Commissioner for Employees Compensation, Chachiot at Gohar, District Mandi, H.P., (for short the "Commissioner"), on 17.01.2015 in E.C. Act No. 4 of 2011, whereby, compensation quantified in a sum of Rs.9,97,000/- along with simple interest @12% p.a. from the date of death of the deceased till its realization alongwith funeral expenses quantified at Rs.40,000/- stood assessed qua the claimants, who are the successors-in-interest of one Murari Lal, who uncontrovertedly suffered fatal injuries during the course of his performing employment as a driver under respondent No.5.

2. The appellant herein standing aggrieved by the rendition of the learned Commissioner hence concert to assail it by preferring an appeal therefrom before this Court.

3. Uncontrovertedly, the predecessor-in-interest of the claimants/respondents No.1 to 4 herein suffered his demise in a motor vehicle accident involving vehicle bearing No. HP-32B-7777, whereon he stood employed as a driver by respondent No.5 herein. The learned counsel for the appellant herein submits qua his not controverting the factum of the demise of the deceased occurring during the course of his performing employment in the ill-fated vehicle as its driver under respondent No.5. Even, the conclusion recorded by the learned Commissioner on the issue apposite to the aforesaid factum does not disclose qua his conclusion qua the occurrence of demise of the deceased arising during the course of his performing duties as a driver at the relevant time in the ill-fated vehicle bearing No. HP-32B-7777, suffering from any perversity of it standing anchored upon irrelevant or discardable evidence or its omitting to mete deference to the germane besides relevant evidence.

4. The counsel for the appellant herein submits at the bar qua his not contesting the findings recorded in the impugned order by the learned Commissioner qua the claimants/respondents No.1 to 4 herein holding the apposite capacity to on demise of their predecessor-in-interest stake a claim for compensation against respondent No.5, also concomitantly, against the appellant herein, given the evident existence of a valid contract of insurance covering the apposite liability of the insurer to indemnity the insured qua compensation assessed under the Act arising from occurrence of demise of his lawfully engaged driver in the ill-fated vehicle during the course of his performing employment under the insured.

5. The counsel for the appellant makes a vociferous submission qua the determination recorded by the learned Commissioner qua the deceased drawing from his employment as a driver under respondent No.5 an amount of Rs.10,000/- per month standing anvilled upon evidence which is beyond pleadings, significantly when in the claim petition the claimants record a pointed averment qua the deceased drawing from his avocation as a driver under respondent No.5 a sum of Rs.7000/- per month, whereupon he espouses qua any evidence which stood adduced before the learned Commissioner qua his drawing from his relevant employment, a salary/ amount of Rs.10,000/- per month being obviously beyond pleadings, hence, discardable rendering hence the reliance thereupon to be inapt. However, the aforesaid submission is unacceptable especially when apart from the claimants recording an averment in the apposite claim petition qua their predecessor-in-interest drawing an amount of Rs.7000/- per month as salary from his employer, theirs also making a communication therein qua his drawing a sum of Rs.120/- per day as daily allowance from his employer. Since, the totaling of a sum of Rs.7000/- drawn as salary per month by the deceased from his employment as a driver under respondent No.5 alongwith an amount of Rs.120/- per day yields a figure of Rs.10,000/- per mensem, consequently, the testification of the claimants qua their predecessor-in-interest drawing an amount of Rs.10000/- per month as wages/salary from his relevant employment under respondent No.5 is obviously not beyond pleadings. Moreover, a perusal of the order impugned hereat discloses qua the learned Commissioner concluding qua the deceased drawing a sum of Rs.10,000/- per month from his avocation as a driver under respondent No.5 being the apt amount whereto the relevant statutory principles were purportedly enjoined to be applied for computing the compensation amount assessable qua the claimants. For lack of repudiation thereto by respondent No.5 comprised in his adducing cogent evidence therebefore constituted in his adducing into evidence the salary register maintained by him personifying his defraying to the predecessor-in-interest of respondents No.1 to 4 an amount lesser than Rs.10,000/- per month as salary/wages for the work performed by him as a driver in the relevant vehicle. In sequel, the omission of respondent No.5 to adduce the best evidence in portrayal of the deceased drawing an amount lesser than Rs.10,000/- from him as salary/wages from his employment as a driver under him, enhances an inference qua the testification of the claimants qua the facet aforesaid being both credible besides reliable whereupon it was apt for the learned Commissioner to anvil his apposite findings.

6. However, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant has with vigour contended of yet the learned Commissioner proceeding to move stray from the provisions of Section 4 of the Workmen Compensation Act (hereinafter referred to as the "Act"), relevant provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, digression whereof by him stands espoused by the learned counsel for the appellant to emanate from his while determining inconsonance with the initial condition embodied in clause (a) to subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act, the amount per month drawn as salary/wages by the deceased workman from his employment as a driver under respondent No.5 whereto on his inaptly applying the statutory principles, he assessed compensation amount payable to the claimants, his though also standing enjoined to mete deference to the condition alternative to the primary condition of sub section 1(a) of Section 4 of the Act, wherewithin a mandate is held qua his being bound irrespective of the actual amount of the wages/salary drawn by the deceased workman to restrict the relevant compensation amount at Rs.80,000/- in lump sum, whereas, his slighting the impact of the condition alternative to the primary condition to sub section 1(a) of Section 4 of the Act upon the relevant facet, has sequeled his hence grossly mis-assessing the compensation amount qua the claimants. However, the aforesaid submission has no force given the learned counsel appearing for the appellant though aptly submits qua the two conditions enumerated in clause (a) of subsection 1 of Section 4 of the Act standing enjoined to be conjunctively read also he makes an apt submission of the condition alternative to the initial relevant condition wherewithin an echoing is embodied qua the learned Commissioner also standing enjoined to restrict the compensation amount assessable qua the dependents of the deceased workman at Rs.80,000/- yet his further submission qua the learned Commissioner standing hence enjoined to restrict the relevant compensation amount at a sum of Rs.80,000/- is for the reasons ascribed hereinafter grossly inapt. (I) A reading in its entirety of the condition alternative to the relevant statutory initial condition makes a vivid disclosure of it postulating qua its warranting reverence only when the initial condition remains unsatiated. While making a dilation upon the aforesaid factum qua the relevant initial statutory condition holding an expostulation of the Commissioner standing enjoined to deduct 50% of the actual wages drawn by the deceased from his relevant employment whereon he is enjoined to apply the relevant statutory principles for computing the compensation amount, for attraction whereof upsurgings of firm evidence qua the actual wages per mensem drawn by the deceased from his relevant employment under respondent No.5 is enjoined to spur. Also with the initial statutory condition encapsulated in the hereinafter extracted relevant statutory provisions standing satiated there would hence be no occasion for attraction hereat of the condition alternative to it. Since, the conclusion drawn by the learned Commissioner in determining the compensation amount qua the claimants stands anvilled upon the deceased evidently drawing a sum of Rs.10,000/- per month as salary/wages from his employment under respondent No.5, necessarily with the learned Commissioner recording an apt conclusion qua the aforesaid facet, it hence begot satiation of the initial statutory condition embodied in the relevant provisions whereupon obviously the learned Commissioner did not err to mete thereto the relevant statutory deduction of 50%. Consequently, when the initial condition embodied in clause (a) to sub section (1) of Section 4 of the Act stands satiated, the condition alternative to it holding therewithin a mandate of the Commissioner standing enjoined for attracting hereat its application, to stand seized of firm evidence qua paucity of relevant evidence qua the actual amount of wages per mensem drawn by the deceased workman from his relevant employment under his employer, whereupon, he holds an empowerment to determine only a sum of Rs.80,000/- in lump sum as compensation to the dependents of the deceased workman. However, when as aforestated the initial statutory condition stand satiated, the learned Commissioner was not enjoined to place any dependence upon the statutory condition alternative to it. (ii) Also assumingly, if the condition alternative to the initial condition is also construed to be holding any attraction hereat yet with the relevant alternative statutory condition expostulating a sum of Rs.80000/- in lump sum being statutorily available for standing assessed as compensation by the learned Commissioner vis-a-vis the dependents of the deceased workman also assumingly its mandating qua with the Commissioner taking into account both the conditions embodied in the relevant statutory provisions wherefrom his apposite reckonings of the relevant compensation amount stand aroused unraveling qua the relevant compensation amount arrived at by his applying the initial condition being higher vis-a-vis his applying the condition alternative to it, yet his standing enjoined by the statutory phrase "which ever is more" occurring in the relevant provisions to mete deference to the figure/amount of compensation which is higher whereupon obviously when the working of the initial statutory condition sequels computation of compensation vis-a-vis the claimants of the deceased workman at a figure higher than the one which would stand arrived at on the condition alternative to it also standing applied, the attraction besides workability of the condition alternative to the initial statutory condition stands negated, Imperatively, hence, with the attraction hereat of the primary statutory condition fetching a compensation amount vis-a-vis the dependents of the deceased workman in a sum higher than yielded by application hereat of the condition alternative to it, contrarily, renders hence the reckoning of the initial statutory relevant statutory condition by the learned Commissioner while determining compensation amount vis-a-vis the claimants of the deceased workman to be apt. As a corollary the initial condition when reckoned results in assessment of compensation amount higher than the one which would occur on application of the condition alternative to it embodied in the relevant statutory provisions besides when a literal reading of the condition alternative to the initial condition enshrines qua when on application of the initial statutory condition, compensation amount higher than Rs.80,000/- is assessable qua the claimants of the deceased workman renders it to be discardable whereupon hence the apposite quantification of compensation by the learned Commissioner renders it to fall within the apt relevant statutory ambit of the attractable relevant statutory condition embodied in clause (a) to subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Act.

> 4. Amount of Compensation.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the amount of compensation shall be follows, namely:-
> (a) Where death result from the injury- an amount equal to (fifty per cent) of the monthly wages of the deceased workman multiplied by th relevant factor;
> or
> an amount of (eighty thousand rupees), whichever is more;
> (b).....

7. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant submits that the quantification by the learned Commissioner vis-a-vis respondents no.1 to 4 a sum of Rs. 40,000/- as funeral charges is beyond the statutory provisions engrafted in the Act. The aforesaid submission of the learned counsel appearing for the appellants holds vigour. Consequently, the quantification by the learned Commissioner under his impugned order qua a sum of Rs.40,000/- being defrayable to respondents No.1 to 4 as funeral charges is set aside.

8. The learned Commissioner in his impugned award has levied interest @ 12% per annum on the compensation amount assessed by him, levy whereof has been ordered to commence from the date of death of the deceased whereas under the relevant statutory provisions the commencement of levy of interest @12% was enjoined to occur on one month elapsing since the accident. Consequently, the levy of interest on the compensation amount assessed by the learned Commissioner shall commence on one month elapsing since the accident.

9. For the reasons recorded herein-above, the instant appeal is partly allowed and the award impugned before this Court is modified to the extent that a sum of Rs.40,000/- adjudged by the learned Commissioner vis-a-vis respondents No.1 to 4 towards funeral expenses of the deceased shall stand excluded from the compensation amount determined by him in their favour. Consequently, the levy of interest on the compensation amount assessed by the learned Commissioner shall commence on one month elapsing since the accident. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the appellant Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate.

For the respondents Mr. G.D. Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Ishan Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 6.12.2004 passed by learned District Judge, Solan in Civil Appeal No. 39-S/13 of 2003 whereby learned Lower Appellate Court has dismissed the appeal and affirmed the judgment and decree dated 8.1.2003 passed by learned Sub Judge Ist Class, Kasauli at Solan district Solan in Civil Suit No. 100/1 of 1998.

2. The subject matter of dispute in the present lis is the land entered in Khewat Khatauni No. 43/53, Khasra Nos. 295/19, 34, 41, 297/48 and 81, Kitas 5, measuring 9 bighas 11 biswas situate in village Nandal, Pargana Keontan-I Tehsil and District Solan. The appellant (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiff') claims the same to be in his possession and that of his sister Sita Devi, the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendant') in equal shares. On an application filed by the defendant, learned Assistant Collector Ist Grade, Solan has ordered the partition of the suit land and ignored the objections the plaintiff raised against the partition proceedings. His claim is that he was in cultivating physical possession of the suit land since time immemorial and the defendant after her marriage in village Kyar never remained in possession of the suit land. The objections so raised were rejected by the Assistant Collector Ist Grade and while allowing the application for partition had approved the mode of partition. Consequently, the Khataunies and Sanad Taksim were prepared taking into consideration the nature and possession of the suit land. According to the plaintiff though he had objected to the mode of partition and Sanad Taksim whereby the best piece of suit land was allotted to the defendant, however, the objections so raised by him were erroneously rejected. Therefore, by filing the suit he had sought the decree of declaration that the order of partition dated 7.5.1997 is null and void and also for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from causing any interference in the suit land.

2. The defendant on entering appearance had contested the suit. In preliminary, she has raised the objections qua maintainability thereof and that the plaintiff is estopped due to his own act, conduct and acquiescences to file the suit and also that in view of the provision contained under Section 171(XVII) of the H.P. Land Revenue Act the civil court has no jurisdiction to try and entertain the suit. On merits, while denying the plaintiff's case being incorrect it has been asserted that the suit land was rightly ordered to be partitioned and the parties allotted the land taking into consideration its kind and possession.

3. On such pleadings of the parties, following issues were framed:

1. Whether the order dated 7.5.1997 qua Sanad Taksim is illegal null and void as alleged passed by Ld. A.C. Ist Grade Solan in case No. 14/9 of 1991/92 titled as Sita Devi Vs. Lavel Chand? ……OPP
2. In case issue No. 1 is decided in affirmative, whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction? ….OPP
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? ….OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit by his own acts, conduct and acquiescence? ….OPD
5. Whether the suit is bad due to the provisions of section 171(XVII) of H.P. Land Revenue Act? ….OPD
6. Relief.

4. Learned trial Court after holding full trial has taken issues No. 1, 3 and 5 for consideration all together and while issue No. 1 has been answered against the plaintiff whereas issues No. 3 and 5 in favour of the defendant has dismissed the suit being not maintainable as well as barred under the provisions of Section 171 (XVII) of the H.P. Land Revenue Act. Consequently, the plaintiff was not held entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction and as such issue No. 2 was answered against him.

5. Learned Lower Appellate Court in appeal has affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court and dismissed the appeal.

6. The judgment and decree passed by learned Lower Appellate Court has been assailed in the present appeal on the grounds, inter-alia, that in view of Sanad Taksim was illegal, the order of partition was not executable. The suit as such was not barred under sub Section (1) of Section 171 (XVII) and XVIII) of the H.P. Land Revenue Act. The partition proceedings being not carried out in accordance with law, it is urged that the declaration as sought should have been granted. In any event the plaint should have been ordered to be returned for presentation in appropriate Court instead of dismissal of the suit or rejection of the plaint.

7. The appeal has been admitted on the following substantial question of law:

Whether in view of the findings that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit, ordering rejection of the plaint is sustainable?

8. Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate has argued that in the given facts and circumstances at the most the plaint should have been ordered to be returned to the plaintiff for presentation before the competent Court having jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute between the parties. This is the short question which has been sought to be adjudicated in the preset appeal by Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, learned Senior Advocate. In support of the submissions so made Mr. Kapil Dev Sood has placed reliance on the judgments of the Apex Court in R.S.D.V. Finance Co. Pvt. Ltd., v. Shree Vallabh Glass Works Ltd.*, AIR 1993 Supreme Court 2094, Athmanathaswami Devasthanam v. K. Gopalaswami Ayyangar, AIR 1965 Supreme Court 338 and that of the High Court of Allahabad in Governing Council of Kayastha Pathshala, Prayag and others v. Ram Chandra Srivastava and others,* AIR 1992 Allahabad 158. The law laid down in these judgments amply demonstrate that where the Court arrives at a conclusion that it has no jurisdiction to try a suit the appropriate order to be passed should not be dismissal of the suit but qua the return of the plaint for presentation before the appropriate forum. Admittedly, the jurisdiction of the civil Court to try and entertain a suit of this nature is barred under Sub Section (1) of Section 171 clause (XVII) and XVIII) of H.P. Land Revenue Act. The remedy available against an order of partition is to file an appeal/revision before the revenue authorities i.e. Collector.

9. Divisional Commissioner and even Financial Commissioner also in hierarchy. Being so, there is substance in the submissions made on behalf of the respondent-defendant that an order to return the plaint in this case may not serve any purpose. According to Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate, an order allowing the plaintiff to withdraw the suit with liberty reserved to seek remedy against the order of partition available under the provisions of the HP Land Revenue Act would serve the ends of justice. Mr. Kapil Dev Sood, learned arguing counsel on behalf of the appellant-plaintiff is also not averse to the submissions so made on behalf of the defendant. Therefore, the judgment and decree under challenge in this appeal is ordered to be quashed and set aside and the plaintiff is permitted to withdraw the suit with liberty reserved to resort to the remedy available to him to challenge the order of partition before appropriate forum having jurisdiction to entertain and decide the controversy between the parties in accordance with law.

10. The present appeal is disposed of accordingly with no order so as to costs. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

Date of decision: November 16, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279 and 337- HRTC bus and a private bus were in competition- the accused was driving the private bus in a rash and negligent manner and hit HRTC bus – the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the rashness and negligence should be more than carelessness or error of judgment – prosecution is required to prove that the act on the part of the accused was responsible for the accident - PW-9 did not state that accused was driving the bus in a rash and negligent manner- PW-11 stated in cross-examination that accident had taken place due to the breakage of patta (leaf) of the bus – the prosecution case was contradictory and vague – the accused was rightly acquitted- appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 15)

Cases referred:
Raj Kumar vs. State of H.P., 1997(2) Shim.L.C. 161
Manju Baradia vs. State of Chhatisgarh, 2002(1) Accidents Compensation Judicial Reports 24
Lalit Kumar vs. Union of India and another, 1990(2) Sim. L. C. 233

For the appellant Mr. Pramod Thakur, Addl. AG.
For the respondent Mr. K.S. Banyal, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vijender Katoch, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

State of Himachal Pradesh aggrieved by the judgment dated 18.5.2007 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial magistrate, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur in Police challan No. 194-I-98/195-II-98 has preferred the present appeal. The complaint is that learned trial Court has misread, misconstrued and misappreciated the evidence available on record and erroneously acquitted the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'accused') of the accusation put to him under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian penal Code.

2. Accident of HRTC Bus No. HP-20-0676 and a private bus bearing registration No. HP-22-5785 had taken place at Chabuttra on Sujanpur-Hamirpur road on 15.8.1998 at 5:30 P.M. While the HRTC bus was enroute Palampur to Haridwar and on its way of Hamirpur from Sujanpur, the private bus was on its way from Hamirpur to Sujanpur. The record reveals that another private bus "Sheetla Bus Service" also plies from Palampur to Hamirpur simultaneously behind Palampur-Haridwar HRTC bus. The evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW11 Om Parkash the driver of HRTC bus and PW5/1 Gorakh Ram reveal that on the fateful day also both i.e. HRTC bus and Sheetla bus service were being plied to its destination after each other. Both buses were in competition. According to PW11 it is the driver of Sheetla Bus Service who daily competes with HRTC bus. The case has been registered at the instance of PW9 Bhumi Chand on his statement Ext.PW6/A. It was reported by this witness that the accident occurred at such a stage when the offending bus HP-22-5785 being driven in a rash and negligent manner arrived at the place of accident and struck against the HRTC bus because on account of high speed its driver lost control over the same. The investigation has been conducted by Shri Bakshi Ram PW6, the then SI (SHO) Police Station, Sujanpur. During the course of investigation spot map Ext.PW6/C was prepared and the place of accident with both buses standing there also got photographed vide photographs Ext.P1 to Ext.P7. In the accident the passengers of both buses received minor injuries on their persons.

3. On the completion of investigation the police has filed the challan against the accused. Learned trial Magistrate on finding a prima-facie case having been made out against the accused had put notice of accusation to the accused that it is on account of rash and negligent driving attributed to him the accident had taken place and that he has committed an offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian Penal Code. He, however, pleaded not guilty and has claimed trial. The prosecution has examined 12 witnesses in all. The material prosecution witnesses are PW2 Chandu Lal, who was on duty as conductor with HRTC bus at the time of accident, PW5/1 Shri Gorakh Ram and PW9 Shri Bhumi Chand who were travelling in HRTC bus. The remaining prosecution witnesses are formal.

4. The accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has denied all the incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the prosecution evidence being wrong and stated that the accident has occurred due to rash and negligent driving attributed to the driver of HRTC bus. No evidence, however, has been produced by him in his defence.

5. Learned trial Judge on appreciation of the evidence available on record and analyzing the rival submissions has arrived at a conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. Consequently, the accused has been acquitted of the accusation as was put to him.

6. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds, inter-alia, that cogent and reliable evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW2 Chandu Lal, PW5/1 Gorakh Ram, PW9 Bhumi Chand and PW11 Om Parkash has been ignored and brushed aside erroneously and to the contrary learned trial Court has based its findings on hypothesis conjectures and surmises. Irrespective of the prosecution having proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt that it is accused who was driving the offending bus at a high speed, the findings to the contrary recorded by the Court below being erroneous and perverse the accused is stated to be wrongly acquitted. The impugned judgment as such has been sought to be quashed and set aside.

7. Mr. Parmod Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General has pointed out from the record that the ingredients of offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian Penal Code stand satisfactorily proved from the testimony of complainant PW9 and also that of the conductor of bus PW2 as well as its driver PW11. According to Mr. Thakur, the accused in all fairness and in the ends of justice should have been convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian penal Code.

8. On the other hand, Mr. K.S. Banyal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Vijender Katoch, Advocate while repelling the arguments addressed on behalf of the appellant-State has urged that what to speak of cogent and reliable evidence the present is a case of no evidence and as such the accused according to Mr. Banyal has been rightly acquitted by learned trial Court.

9. Before coming to the given facts and circumstances and also the reappraisal of the evidence available on record it is desirable to take note as to in legal parlance what constitute an offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian penal Code. This Court in Raj Kumar vs. State of H.P., 1997(2) Shim.L.C. 161 has held that mere rashness and negligence is not sufficient for recording the findings of conviction against an offender, however, such rashness and negligence must be criminal rashness and negligence which in view of the ratio of the judgment ibid is more than mere carelessness or error of judgment. The prosecution is also required to plead and prove that it was an act on the part of the accused alone responsible for the accident in question. The High Court of Chhatisgarh in Smt. Manju Baradia vs. State of Chhatisgarh, 2002(1) Accidents Compensation Judicial Reports 24 has gone one step further while holding that the speed of offending vehicle alone is no criteria to come to the conclusion that the same was being driven in rash and negligent manner but other factors such as density of traffic, width of the road and the attempt of the driver to take precautions to avert the accident etc. also need to be taken into consideration. It is also observed in this judgment that the latest trend to hold a driver of the vehicle guilty in case of accident is contrary to the law unless it is shown by the prosecution by leading cogent, reliable and positive evidence that it was accused alone who was rash and negligent, hence responsible for the accident in question.

10. Therefore, in view of the above legal position, it is crystal clear that rashness and negligence due to which an accident is occurred should not be mere rashness and mere negligence and rather criminal rashness and criminal negligence.

11. Now it is to be determining from the evidence available on record that the prosecution has been able to show that it was the criminal rashness and criminal negligence on the part of the accused due to which this accident has occurred. The material prosecution witness who is complainant also Shri Bhumi Chand while in the witness box as PW9 has stated that the accident had occurred on account of the fault attributed to the driver of the offending private bus (the accused). He has nowhere stated that at the time of accident the accused was driving the bus in a rash and negligent manner. This witness, therefore, has made all together a contrary statement to his previous statement Ext.PW6/A recorded by the police under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal procedure. He, therefore, while in the witness box has not supported the version in his statement Ext.PW6/A qua the manner in which the accident had occurred. The another witness is PW5/1 Gorakh Ram. He was also travelling in HRTC bus enroute Palampur to Haridwar. As per his version the speed of the bus was normal. He also expressed his inability to tell the manner in which the accident had taken place. Since he resiled from his statement recorded by the I.O. during the course of investigation, therefore, was allowed to be cross-examined by learned Public Prosecutor. He has denied any statement made to the police. It is also denied that he has deliberately avoided to make a statement against the driver to save him. In his further cross-examination conducted on behalf of the accused he has admitted that the contents of his statements were readover and explained to him by the police. He however, expressed his ignorance that one private bus was in competition with HRTC bus in which he was travelling. If coming to the testimony of PW11 who happens to be the driver of HRTC bus, no doubt, as per his version the offending bus was being driven in speed and on seeing it he stopped the bus being driven by him on road side. However, the accident could not be avoided because the driver of the private bus lost his control and hit the HRTC bus on which he was driver at the relevant time. However, if his statement in cross-examination is seen he admitted that after the departure of the Palampur-Haridwar HRTC bus from Palampur bus stand Sheetla bus also depart simultaneously from Palampur bus stand. Both buses are being plied after each other. He also admits that the driver of Sheetla bus used to be in competition with HRTC bus daily. This witness also admit a curve at the place of accident and as per his version the accident occurred on account of the patta (leaf) of the private bus broken and on account of that the bus skidded in one side of the road. According to him the accident had taken place on account of breakage of patta of the bus.

12. The only material witness is Chandu Lal who was on duty as conductor with HRTC bus on the date of accident. According to him the accident occurred on account of the rash and negligent driving attributed to the driver of Thakur bus (accused). In his cross-examination, he also tells us that the accident occurred at a place where there was curve. His denial that Sheetla bus was being driven behind HRTC bus is contradictory with that of Om Parkash PW11 the driver of the HRTC bus.

13. Now if the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW2, PW5/1, PW9 and PW11 is closely scrutinized, it is only PW2 who has stated that the offending bus was being driven by the accused in a rash and negligent manner. The testimony of the remaining three witnesses amply demonstrate that they have not said so while in the witness box. As per the testimony of PW5/1 the speed of the bus rather was normal. The close scrutiny of the evidence produced by the prosecution in support of its case that the accused was rash and negligent and as such responsible for the accident in question reveal that the same is contradictory and vague also. This Court in Lalit Kumar vs. Union of India and another, 1990(2) Sim. L. C. 233 has held that where the evidence qua rashness and negligence on the part of the accused is vague and contrary to the facts of the case he cannot be convicted on the basis thereof.

14. There is ample evidence available on record to show that Sheetla Private Bus Service was also being plied simultaneously after the departure of the HRTC bus from Palampur. Both buses are in fact being driven in competition i.e. one after the other most probably on account of business rivalry. The testimony of PW11 the driver of HRTC bus that the accident has occurred on account of breakage of patta of Sheetla bus being driven by the accused has caused major dent in the prosecution story. Therefore, with such self contradictory evidence and there being no proof that the rashness and negligent if any on the part of accused was criminal rashness and criminal negligence the accused could have not been convicted at all. There is no need to discuss the remaining prosecution evidence being formal in nature and could have been of some help to the prosecution had its case that the accused was driving the offending bus in a rash and negligent manner been proved in accordance with law.

15. I, therefore, find no merit in the appeal. The same is accordingly dismissed. Consequently the judgment under challenge in this appeal is affirmed. Personal bonds furnished by the accused shall stand cancelled and surety discharged.

For the petitioner: Mr. V.S. Rathore, Advocate for the petitioner.
For the respondent: Mr. P.M. Negi, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for the respondent(s)-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Criminal revision petition No. 47 of 2009 filed under Section 397 of Cr.PC read with Section 401 of the Cr.PC, is directed against the judgment dated 23.3.2009, rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba Division, Chamba, HP, in Criminal Appeal No.20/2008, modifying the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Dalhousie, District Chamba, H.P., in Cr. Case No.138-II of 1999, whereby the petitioner herein was held guilty of having committed offences under Sections 353 and 332 of the IPC and accordingly, was convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for one year and to pay fine of Rs. 2000/- under Section 332 of the IPC and in default of payment of fine, to undergo further simple imprisonment for three months and under Section 353 of the IPC, simple imprisonment for one year and to pay fine of Rs. 2000/- and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months. However, fact remains that the petitioner herein feeling aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court preferred an appeal before the learned Sessions judge, who vide judgment dated 23.3.2009, modified the judgment by convicting and sentencing the petitioner only under Section 332 of the IPC and imprisonment till the rising of the Court and to pay a fine of Rs. 2000/- and in default, to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months, whereas, criminal appeal No. 213 of 2009 has been filed by the State under Section 377 of the Cr.PC, against the judgment dated 23.3.2009, passed by the learned Sessions Judge Chamba in criminal appeal No. 20/2008, for enhancement of sentence of the petitioner.

2. Since both the cases have arisen from the common judgment dated 23.3.2009 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 20/2008, this Court vide order dated 4.10.2016 clubbed the same for final adjudication together, accordingly, same are being taken for disposal together since common question of law and facts are involved.

3. Briefly stated facts necessary for adjudication of the case are that on 18.5.1999, complainant Suresh Kumar lodged report with police Station R.H. Chowari, District Chamba, that petitioner-accused gave beatings to him while he was discharging his duty as a public servant. Police on the basis of aforesaid compliant registered FIR i.e. Ext.PA and thereafter carried out investigation. After the completion of investigation, police presented the challan under Sections 353 and 332 of IPC, in the competent Court of Law.

4. Learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Dalhousie, District Chamba, HP, after satisfying itself that prima facie case exists against the accused, put a notice of accusation, to which she pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. Learned trial Court on the basis of evidence adduced on record by the prosecution, found the accused guilty of having committed offence under Sections 353 and 332 of IPC and accordingly, convicted and sentenced her as per description already given above.

5. The present petitioner-accused being aggrieved with the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court, filed an appeal under Section 374 of Cr.PC, before the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Chamba Division, Chamba, HP, who vide judgment dated 23.3.2009, modified the appeal (as has been mentioned herein above). Hence, this criminal revision petition before this Court.

6. Mr. Virendrer Rathore, Advocate representing the petitioner-accused vehemently argued that the impugned judgments of conviction and sentence recorded by the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. While referring to the judgments passed by the Courts below, Mr. Rathore further contended that the entire prosecution evidence led on record is not worth lending any credence being unreliable and untrustworthy and as such, no conviction could be recorded on the basis of the same. Mr. Rathore further contended that both the courts below miserably failed to determine the question as to whether the complainant was performing the official duty when the alleged dispute in question occurred between the parties. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid argument, Mr. Rathore, invited attention of this Court to the fact that it has come in the statement of PW3 Rattan Chand that at that relevant time, the file was in his custody, which was demanded by the petitioner and he took out the file in question from the Almirah and showed to the petitioner. Mr. Rathore stated that in view of the aforesaid material fact, there was no occasion for the petitioner to ask file from the complainant Suresh Kumar. He also stated that it stands nowhere proved that Suresh Kumar (complainant) was in charge of the file and same was in his custody, rather it is ample clear from the evidence on record that Suresh Kumar prevented the petitioner from taking the file to SMO for initiating action against Kanchan Rana (nurse), who had in fact encroached upon the hospital land by constructing the septic tank. Mr. Rathore, with a view to prove motive of complainant Suresh Kumar in falsely implicating the petitioner accused, invited attention of this Court to the examination in chief as well as cross-examination conducted on prosecution witnesse Suresh Kumar (complainant), whereby he has admitted his relation with Kanchan Rana, who allegedly raised construction on govt. land by raising septic tank. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Rathore forcefully contended that bare perusal of the judgments vis-a vis statement adduced on record by the parties clearly suggest that both the courts below committed grave irregularity and illegality by ignoring the fact that both the parties (complainant as well as the accused) are public servants and complaint, if any, at the first instance, was lodged at the behest of the petitioner namely Bharti Rana. He further stated that Suresh Kumar only lodged complaint to counter the FIR of the petitioner. Mr. Rathore further informed that the complainant Suresh was also convicted under Sections 525 and 323 IPC in the FIR lodged by the petitioner accused by the learned trial Court. Mr. Rathore further stated that the courts below committed glaring mistake by not trying both the cases together especially in view of the fact that both the complaints had arisen from one event. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Rathore prayed that this petition may be allowed after setting aside the judgments passed by the Courts below. He also prayed that in view of the fats and circumstance of the case, there is no force, if any, in the criminal appeal preferred by the State for enhancement of the sentence and same may be ordered to be dismissed, in the interest of justice.

7. On the other hand, Mr. P.M. Negi, learned Additional Advocate General duly assisted by Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, representing the State supported the impugned judgments passed by the courts below. Mr. Negi, strenuously argued that the judgments passed by the courts below are based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and as such, in the given facts and circumstances of the case, no interference, whatsoever, of this Court, is warranted, especially in view of the fact that courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously. He further argued that learned first appellate Court while accepting the appeal preferred by the petitioner has taken very lenient view and has modified the sentence till rising of the Court, which is not in consonance with the alleged offence having been committed by the petitioner and as such, same deserves to be enhanced. He further stated that bare perusal of the statements adduced on record by the prosecution suggests that prosecution was able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the petitioner-accused had given beatings to the complainant Suresh Kumar, who was discharging his official duty at the time of the incident and as such, no leniency, if any can be showed to the petitioner by this Court. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Negi, also reminded this Court that it has very limited powers while exercising its revisionary powers under Section 397 of the Cr.PC as far as re-appreciation of the evidence is concerned. In this regard, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case State of Kerala Vs. Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999)2 Supreme Court Cases 452, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "In its revisional jurisdiction, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceedings for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order. In other words, the jurisdiction is one of supervisory jurisdiction exercised by the High Court for correcting miscarriage of justice. But the said revisional power cannot be equated with the power of an appellate court nor can it be treated even as a second appellate jurisdiction. Ordinarily, therefore, it would not be appropriate for the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence and come to its own conclusion on the same when the evidence has already been appreciated by the Magistrate as well as Sessions Judge in appeal, unless any glaring feature is brought to the notice of the High Court which would otherwise tantamount to gross miscarriage of justice."

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record

9. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the prosecution witnesses solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

10. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

11. During the proceedings of the case, this Court had an occasion to peruse the entire evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, perusal whereof clearly suggests that complainant Suresh Kumar as well as the petitioner accused were posted and working as clerk and staff nurse, respectively in Rural Hospital, Chowari, at the time of alleged incident. It also emerge from the record that both the aforesaid persons lodged counter complaint against each other in the police station, which ultimately culminated into trial and conviction of both the parties, as recorded by the trial Court.

12. It appears that though complainant Suresh Kumar was convicted by the learned trial Court under Sections 325 and 323 IPC but later on he was acquitted of the charges by learned first appellate Court in the appeal preferred by him and thereafter, State chose not to file any appeal against his acquittal in FIR lodged by the petitioner accused. In the present case, which has arisen on the complaint of PW1, proseuciton with a view to prove its case examined was many as seven witnesses.

13. PW1 Dr. C.B.P. Singh, SMO, deposed before the Court below that on 18.5.1999, petitioner Bharti Rana reported to him that complainant Suresh Kumar (clerk) gave beatings to her. He further stated that thereafter Suresh also came there and stated that Bharti Rana gave him beating with slaps and shoes. He further stated that Prehlad Singh rescued Suresh Kumar from Bharti Rana and thereafter complainant also gave a slap to Bharti Rana. But in is cross-examination, he specifically denied that Suresh Kumar gave beatings to Bharti.

14. PW2 Suresh Kumar (complainant) deposed that on 18.5.1999, he was sitting in his office along with Rattan Chand and Yashpal. He further stated that in the meantime, accused came there and asked for file pertaining to some Govt. land. It has come in his statement that file was handed over to her but she insisted that papers were not complete. He further stated that thereafter he handed over the file to the Rattan Chand but accused demanded all the papers of file but she was advised to get the same with the permission of the Senior Medical Officer. PW2 further stated that thereafter accused mis-behaved and started pulling the file and thereafter accused snatched the file and started beating him with the shoe but he was rescued by the Rattan Chand and Yashpal Verma. He also stated that in the meantime, Sanjay Kumar also came to the room and also stopped the accused from beating him. PW2 also stated that after aforesaid incident, accused went to the office of SMO and accused again gave beating to him with shoe in the office of SMO. He further stated that he also slapped accused in order to rescue himself from being beaten by the accused however, in his cross-examination; he denied that he gave beatings to Bharti Rana and inflicted injuries on her person.

15. PW3 Rattan Chand also supported the version of PW2 by stating that at about 12 am, Bharti Rana demanded the file from PW2 concerning land papers. She asked him to separate the papers in the file but he showed is inability to do the same without the permission of SMO and thereafter the complainant closed the file and the accused started pulling the file. He specifically stated that when she pulled the file towards him, Bharti gave him beatings with Chappal. He further stated that Suresh Kumar was rescued by Yashpal, who was in the room. PW3 further stated that thereafter Bharti went to the room of SMO and Suresh also followed her.

However fact remains that in his cross examination, he denied that Suresh Kumar ever gave beatings to Bharti Rana.

16. PW4 Sanjay Gupta also supported the version of PW2 that on 18.5.1999, he was in the office of SMO, and while passing through the corridor, he heard noise of quarrel from the office room. He went inside the room and saw that accused was holding shoe in her hand to give beatings to the complainant. PW4 further stated that he advised both the complainant and the accused to report the matter to SMO. But in is cross-examination, he feigned ignorance, if the complainant had given beatings to Bharti Rana.

17. PW5 Dr. Rameshwar Jyoti, who medically examined the complainant Suresh Kumar stated that while examining the complainant, he found two injuries on his person as mentioned in the MLC Ext.PW5/A.

18. PW6 HC, Pritam Singh, I.O. stated that he had moved an application for medical examination of complainant Suresh Kumar and during investigation, he had prepared spot map Ext.PW6/A. He also stated that on 21.5.1999, Bharti Rana handed over one Sandal Ext.P1, which was taken into possession vide memo Ext.PW3/A.

19. Petitioner-accused in her statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.PC, denied the case of the prosecution and stated that the complainant Suresh Kumar is brother of Kanchan, who is having litigation with her and she has been falsely implicated by the complainant, Suresh Kumar at the behest of the Kanchan.

20. Close scrutiny of the prosecution evidence, as has been discussed in detail above, clearly suggests that on 18.5.1999, the complainant Suresh as well as petitioner accused had dispute over some file pertaining to land of RH hospital, which resulted in the allegation and counter allegation of assault on each other. PW1 Dr. CBP Singh categorically stated that the complainant Suresh Kumar also gave slap to the Bharti petitioner-accused. If his statement is read in its entirety, it clearly emerges from the record that both the parties (petitioner as well as complainant) gave beatings to each other. It is also undisputed that both the persons were posted and working as clerk and Staff nurse respectively in the same hospital and at that time, both were discharging official duties at that particular time.

21. PW2 in his own statement stated that accused came to his room and demanded file pertaining to govt. land from him, meaning thereby, she had asked for file, if any, in the capacity of official of that particular office because none of the prosecution witnesses have stated that documents as were asked for, by the petitioner accused, were of private in nature. PW2 in his statement specifically stated that he showed file to her, whereupon petitioner accused told that her papers were not on file and she started abusing him. He further stated that thereafter accused Bharti asked him to separate the documents from the file, which he refused to do by saying that same cannot be done without permission of SMO.

22. This Court, after perusing the aforesaid portions of statements made by PW2 as well as PW3, has reason to presume that petitioner accused was asking for certain papers which belonged to her. Though all the prosecution witnesses have stated that petitioner accused gave beatings to the complainant but none of the PWs have specifically stated that petitioner accused prevented Suresh Kumar from discharging his public duty. Though, PW1 in his cross-examination denied that Suresh Kumar gave beatings to her but in examination he specially stated that Prehlad Singh rescued him from Bharti and thereafter Suresh Kumar also gave slap to Bharti Rana, meaning thereby dispute in question between the parties, which ultimately resulted into scuffle, was admittedly personal in nature.

23. PW2 complainant also admitted that he slapped the accused in order to rescue himself from being beaten by the accused. It has come in the statements of PW2 i.e. the complainant Suresh Kumar and PW3 Rattan Chand clerk that the complainant Suresh Kumar was rescued by the Yashpal Verma, who was in the room but interestingly, he was not cited as prosecution witnesses and as such, no much reliance could be placed upon the statement of PW2 and PW3, who were admittedly in the room when scuffle between the parties took place. Rather after perusing the statements of PW2 and PW3, it clearly emerges that information, as was being asked by the petitioner-accused, was denied by tPW2 Suresh Kumar as well as Rattan Chand in whose custody those document were. PW4 Dr. Sanjay Gupta though stated that when he was going to office of SMO, he heard noise coming from the office room. He further stated that he saw Bharti Rana was holding a shoe in her hand to give beating to Suresh Kumar.

24. Careful perusal of statement of PW4 nowhere suggests that he saw Bharti Rana beating Suresh Kumar. He also stated that he advised both the complainant and the accused to report the matter to SMO. However, in his cross examination, he feigned ignorance, if Suresh PW2 also gave beatings to the petitioner but that may not be of any consequence, especially in view of the candid admission of the complainant himself that he gave beatings to the accused Bharti Rana with a view to rescue himself.

25. This Court, after bestowing thoughtful consideration upon the evidence led on record by the prosecution as well as stand taken by the petitioner-accused in her statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.PC, is of the view that prosecution was not able to prove its case that petitioner-accused Bharti tried to prevent/obstruct the complainant from discharging his duty and in this process, she gave beating to the complainant. At the cost of the repetition, it may be stated that none of the PWs stated that the petitioner obstructed the complainant from discharging his public duties and as such, this Court sees force in the contention raised by the petitioner that since prosecution was unable to prove that the complainant was given beating while he was discharging public duties, no conviction, if any, could be recorded under Section 332 of the IPC. Though , perusal of prosecution evidence available on record indicates towards the use of criminal force by the petitioner-accused over the complainant but definitely, there is no evidence to suggest that same was done to deter public servant from discharging his public duty and as such, conviction, if any, under Section 332 IPC, cannot be held to be valid and legal.

26. Moreover as emerge from the record that both the parties (petitioner and the complainant) were discharging their public duty in the same office at that relevant time. It also stands proved on record that both the parties gave beating to each other. Learned trial Court has also convicted the complainant under Sections 325 and 323 of the IPC, but later on he was acquitted by the learned first appellate Court.

27. This Court after carefully examining the evidence led on record has no hesitation to conclude that the prosecution was not able to prove the offence under Section 332 of the IPC allegedly having been committed by the petitioner-accused because there is no evidence on record to suggest that intention of petitioner-accused was to prevent or deter the complainant from discharge of his duty. None of prosecution witness has specifically sated that petitioner-accused made an attempt to prevent or deter complainant from discharge of his duty, rather, this Court, after perusing the entire evidence led on record, is of the view that dispute, if any, between the parties was personal in nature. Apart from above, prosecution has not been able to prove that alleged assault had any nexus or casual connection or consequent relation with the performance of the duty by the complainant as public servant. It is settled law that to punish a person under Section 332 of the IPC, there should be evidence suggestive of the fact that accused had intent to prevent or deter the victim from discharge of his duty as such public servant. In this regard, reliance is placed upon D. Chattaiah and Anr. V. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1979) 1 SCC 128, wherein Hon'ble the Apex Court has held as under:-

> "10. It was thus manifest that the assault on the Typist (P.W.1) had no real nexus or casual connection, or consequential relation with the performance of his duty as public servant. There was not even a soientilla of evidence from which it could be reasonably inferred that the intent of the assailants was to prevent or deter P.W.1. from the discharge of his duty as such public servant,
> 11. In view of the above, the charge as laid under Section 332 I.P.C. and, the conviction of the appellant on that count, cannot be sustained. The appellants could, at the most, be held guilty under Section 323 I.P.C. the injuries caused being simple."

28. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made herein above, present petition is allowed and judgments passed by the courts below are quashed and set-aside, as a result of which, criminal appeal preferred by the State for enhancement is also dismissed. Petitioner accused is acquitted of the charges framed against her. Interim order, if any, vacated. Bail bonds of the accused are discharged. Pending application, if any also stands disposed of

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

The instant petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is directed against the order dated 27.3.2014 passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Solan, District Solan, rejecting the application filed by the plaintiff-petitioner (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiff') under Section 151 read with Order 8 Rule 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short 'CPC') praying therein for rejection of amended written statement filed by the respondents.-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendants').

2. Briefly stated the facts, as emerged from the record, are that the plaintiff filed a suit for specific performance of contract against the predecessor-in-interest of defendants No.1 to 7, whereas defendant No.8 was arrayed as proforma defendant. During the course of trial, plaintiff moved an application under Order 6 Rule 17 read with Section 151 CPC for carrying out amendment in the plaint since there was a clerical/mathematical error in the original plaint filed by the plaintiff. By way of amendment, plaintiff proposed to make change in para-2 of the plaint, whereby plaintiff intended to substitute dated 14.12.1976 by 14.12.1978. Plaintiff in application claimed that inadvertently date of agreement was mentioned as 14.12.1976, whereas agreement between the parties was entered into on 14.12.1978. Aforesaid application was resisted by the defendants, but fact remains that learned trial Court below allowed the aforesaid amendment. Accordingly, plaintiff filed amended plaint (Annexure P-2).

3. At this stage, it may be noticed that predecessor-in-interest of defendants No.1 to 7; namely Shri Sukh Ram, had already filed written statement to the un-amended plaint i.e. Annexure P-3. But since he expired during the pendency of the suit, his legal representatives (for short 'LRs') were brought on record and arrayed as defendants No.1 to 7. Consequent upon filing of amended plaint by plaintiff, LRs of deceased defendant No.1 i.e. 1(a) to 1(g) filed written statement. Plaintiff, being aggrieved with filing of amended written statement by the LRs of deceased defendant No.1, filed an application under Section 151 read with Order 8 Rule 9 CPC praying therein for rejection of written statement filed by the defendants as same was beyond the scope of amendment.

4. Learned trial Court vide order dated 27.3.2014 (Annexure P-8), rejected the application preferred on behalf of the plaintiff (for short 'impugned order'). Learned trial Court, while dismissing the application, came to the conclusion that since defendant No.2 had not filed any written statement before settlement of issues, written statement filed by him is liable to be rejected and he cannot take undue advantage of the fact that the plaintiff was allowed to amend the plaint. But as far as amended written statement filed by defendants No.1(a) to (g) is concerned, learned Court below came to the conclusion that defendant No.1 is free to take many pleas, whatsoever, of his choice and his written statement cannot be confined to amendment made in the plaint filed by the plaintiff. Learned Court below further concluded that perusal of the written statements filed by defendant nowhere suggests that defendant No.1 has withdrawn any statement made in his earlier statement but he has taken some additional plea in the amended written statement for which he is entitled. In this regard learned trial Court placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in V.K.N. Pillai vs. P.Pillai AIR 2005 SC 614, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that Courts should be more generous in allowing amendment of written statement as question of prejudice is less likely to operate in that event.

5. Plaintiff, being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the impugned order dated 27.03.2014, passed by the learned trial Court, approached this Court by way of instant petition praying therein for quashing and setting aside of the same.

6. Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr.Janesh Gupta, Advocate, vehemently argued that impugned order is not based upon correct appreciation of the facts as well as law and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Gupta termed impugned order as highly unjust, illegal, arbitrary, against facts and law and prayed that the same cannot be allowed to sustain. Mr. Gupta contended that no fresh plea could have been raised by defendants in the amended written statement while specifically filing reply to the amended petition preferred on behalf of plaintiff without leave of the Court. With a view to substantiate his arguments that there is drastic deviation/change in the amended written statement filed by defendants No.1(a) to 1(g), Mr. Gupta made this Court to travel through the original plaint vis-à-vis original written statement filed by the parties. While referring to the averments contained in the original plaint, Mr. Gupta stated that by way of amendment only correction of date was carried out with the permission of the Court by moving an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, whereas defendants, without obtaining any leave from the Court, made drastic changes in the written statement, wherein altogether new pleas have been taken in the written statement. As per Mr. Gupta, since amendment of plaint was only to rectify the clerical/mathematical mistake, no fresh plea could have been taken by the defendants for filing written statement, which have drastically changed the original stand taken by their predecessor-in-interest. He further stated that since defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) stepped into the shoes of original defendant No.1, they had not independent stand and they were bound by the written statement filed by their predecessor-in-interest, but bare perusal of amended written statement clearly suggests that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) changed the entire complexion of the original pleadings placed on record by their predecessor-in-interest, which was not permissible without obtaining leave of the Court by moving appropriate application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Gupta forcefully contended that whole approach adopted by learned trial Court, while rejecting the application on behalf of plaintiff for rejection of written statement filed by defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) is not only erroneous but patently adverse and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

7. Mr.Bimal Gupta, learned Senior Counsel, duly assisted by Mr.Vineet Vashishta, Advocate, supported the impugned order passed by the learned trial Court. While referring to the impugned order, Mr.Bimal Gupta, strenuously argued that there is no illegality/infirmity in the order passed by the learned trial Court, as such, there is no scope of interference as far as this Court is concerned, because bare perusal of impugned order suggests that same is based upon correct appreciation of law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court and respective High Courts. Mr.Gupta further contended that when defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) were impleaded as LRs of defendant No.1, they have every right to file written statement and as such there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned orders passed by learned trial Court and same deserves to be upheld. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid arguments, he invited the attention of this Court to Order 22 Rules 3 & 4 CPC to demonstrate that being LRs of original defendant No.1, they have every right to file additional written statement taking therein inasmuch as pleas appropriate to their character as LRs of the deceased defendant. However, Mr.Gupta, while refuting the contention put forth on behalf of the plaintiff that defendants by way of amended written statement carried out drastic deviation/changes in the written statement, made this Court to travel through the amended written statement to suggest that no additional pleas have been taken by the defendants in the amended written statement, rather pleas, already having been taken by original defendant, have been simply elaborated and explained and as such there is no inconsistency/ variation in the pleas taken in the pleadings originally made by deceased defendant No.1. In support of his aforesaid contention that being LRs of deceased defendant No.1, defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) were entitled to file independent defence appropriate to their character, Mr.Gupta placed reliance upon the judgments passed by Hon'ble Apex Court, our own High Court as well as other High Courts in Abdul Razak (Dead) through LRs and Others vs. Mangesh Rajaram Wagle and Others, (2010)2 SCC 432, Sumtibai and Others vs. Paras Finance Co.Regd.Partnership Firm Beawer (Raj.) thorough Mankanwar (Smt) w/o Parasmal Chordia (Dead) and Others, (2007)10 SCC 82, M.P. State Agro Industries Development Corpn.Ltd. and Another vs. Jahan Khan, (2007)10 SCC 88 and Sawan Singh vs. Radha Kishan, 1979 Law Suit (HP) 11, Smt.Amar Devi vs. Smt.Shakntla Devi, RSA No.81 of 1969, decided on May, 1, 1975, Sayed Sirajul Hasan vs. Sh.Syed Murtaza Ali Khan Bahadur and Others, AIR 1992 Delhi and Sri Srinivasmurthy Mandiram rep. by its Executive Trustee D.Srinivasan vs. Mrs.Gnanasoundari, AIR 2004 (Mad.) 513.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case carefully.

9. Before proceeding to decide the controversy at hand on merits, it would be appropriate to reproduce relevant provisions of Order 6 Rule 17 as well as Order 8 Rule 9 CPC, which are as follows:

> "ORDER 6 - PLEADINGS GENERALLY
> 1.Pleading— "Pleading", shall mean plaint or written statement.

2. Pleading to state material facts and not evidence

Rule 17*-Amendment of pleadings— The Court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties."*

ORDER 8 - WRITTEN STATEMENT, SET-OF AND COUNTER- CLAIM.

Rule 9. Subsequent pleadings— No pleading subsequent to the written statement of a defendant other than by way of defence to a set-off or counter-claim shall be presented except by the leave of the Court and upon such terms as the Court thinks fit; but the Court may at any time require a written statement or additional written statement from any of the parties and fix a time of not more than 30 days for for presenting the same."

10. The aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that in normal circumstances any party to lis can move an application under aforesaid provisions of law for carrying out amendment, which may be necessary for determining the real controversy between the parties. Though Court has power to allow amendments even after commencement of trial but in that eventuality party seeking amendment needs to prove on record that inspite of due diligence it could not have moved the application for amendment before the commencement of trial.

11. Similarly, Order 8 Rule 9 clearly suggests that no pleadings, subsequent to written statement of a defendant other than by way of defence to set up a counter claim, can be presented except by leave of Court. In the event of application having been made on behalf of party to carry amendment in the written statement, Court may fix time which may not exceed 30 days from presenting the same. But fact remains that for carrying out amendment, if any, in the written statement, prior leave of the Court is necessary.

12. Conjoint reading of aforesaid provisions of law i.e. Order 8 Rule 9 and Order 6 Rule 17 CPC clearly lays down a rule of pleadings. If a party intends to make further pleadings, after filing of the original plaint, on account of his having failed to make certain pleas in the original plaint, can certainly file an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC seeking leave of Court to carry out necessary amendment. Similarly, if defendant wants to make further pleading after the written statement having been filed to raise certain pleas in the original written statement can move an application under aforesaid provisions of law. But in both these eventualities, parties need to move an application seeking therein leave of Court to amend their respective pleadings.

13. Conjoint reading of the aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that party seeking to file amended plaint/written statement necessarily need to show to the Court the circumstances as to why they failed to raise plea in the original pleadings preferred by them and definitely amendment cannot be claimed as a matter of right because close reading of aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that Court in exercise of its discretion may or may not grant leave to present a fresh pleading.

14. In the instant case, as clearly emerge from the pleadings, as have been filed by both the parties, plaintiff moved an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC seeking therein relief to amend original plaint, wherein inadvertently date of agreement was not correctly mentioned, accordingly after obtaining leave of the Court plaintiff carried out amendment by substituting date of agreement from 14.12.1976 to 14.12.1978. At this stage it may be noticed that prior to aforesaid amendment in the plaint, original defendant No.1 had already filed written statement specifically answering all the averments contained in the original plaint. Since Court had allowed the amendment, defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) being LRs of original defendant No.1 filed amended written statement, perusal whereof certainly suggests that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) raised many pleas which changed the complexion of original written statement filed by defendant No.1.

15. Mr.Bimal Gupta, learned Senior counsel representing defendants-respondents, while refuting the contention put forth on behalf of Mr.Bhupinder Gupta, learned Senior counsel for the plaintiff-petitioner, though stated that there is no drastic change/deviation from the original stand taken by the original defendant No.1 in original written statement, but this Court perused both the written statements i.e. amended and un-amended juxtaposing each other, which clearly suggests that defendants raised numerous new pleas, which were not originally taken in the original written statement filed by the deceased defendant No.1. True, it is that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) by way of amended written statement made an attempt to elaborate and explain the pleas already taken by the deceased defendant No.1 in original written statement, but perusal of amended written statement clearly suggests that in the aforesaid process LRs of deceased defendant No.1 have carved out altogether new case to the detriment of plaintiff who only after seeking leave of the Court corrected date of agreement of contract. As has been discussed hereinabove, pleadings filed by both the parties can be suitably amended at any stage by the respective parties in terms of Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, but in that regard party, intending to carry out amendment, needs to file an appropriate application assigning therein the reasons for amendment and amendment, if any, can be carried out only after obtaining the leave of the Court.

16. In the present case, there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g), before filing amended written statement, wherein entire complexion of original written statement has been changed, moved appropriate application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC praying for amendment in the written statement. There is no dispute that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) had right to file additional written statement to the amended plaint but definitely under the garb of that right defendants could not amend the entire written statement filed by their predecessor-in-interest. At best defendant, while filing reply to the amended petition, could only carry out amendment to the extent the plaint is amended. In case written statement in toto is/was to be amended, defendants ought to have filed an independent application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC seeking leave of the Court to amend the written statement. Court, while exercising powers under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, may or may not grant leave to amend written statement.

17. In the present case, this Court, after perusing the entire pleadings made available on record, has no hesitation to conclude that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) without obtaining leave of the Court amended written statement beyond the pleadings of amended plaint and as such this Court is not in a position to accept the reasoning assigned by the Court below while rejecting the application under Order 8 Rule 9 CPC filed by the plaintiff to reject the written statement. This Court, while examining the correctness and genuineness of the impugned order passed by the learned trial Court below, made an attempt to lay its hand to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court as mentioned by trial Court i.e. V.K.N. Pillai vs. P.Pillai, AIR 2005 SC 614, but there is no such judgment available in the book.

18. No doubt, Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly held that Court should be more generous in allowing amendments, but in that regard parties seeking amendment needs to apply in terms of specific provisions of law citing therein reasons for carrying out amendment in the pleadings. In the instant case, as has been discussed in detail, defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) being LRs of original defendant No.1 in the garb of reply to the amended plaint carried out whole sale amendment in the written statement that too without obtaining leave of the Court. Amendment, if any, in the written statement by the defendant was justified to the extent of amendment carried out in the plaint, but, as has been observed hereinabove, perusal of amended written statement clearly suggests that entire stand taken by original defendant in original written statement has been changed. Learned trial Court while rejecting the application has also placed reliance on the judgment passed by Hon'ble High Court of Rajasthan in Ram Chandra vs. Mahindra Singh, AIR 1980 Rajasthan 04 (303), but same may not be applicable in view of law laid down by our own High Court in Sawan Singh and Others vs. Radha Kishan and Others, AIR 1980 HP 8, wherein this Court has concluded that new or inconsistent pleas can only be taken by filing appropriate application for amendment under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC. In Sawan Singh's case supra, this Court in paras 11 and 12 has held as under:-

"11. As evident from the above noted observation, the learned Judge was led away by the consideration that rules of procedure are handmaids of justice, and since he was considering the amendment of written statement, he was inclined to hold that in defence all plausible pleas can be taken by a defendant. It was held that once the court directed the additional written statement to be filed, impliedly the court permitted the defendant to take up even inconsistent pleas without seeking for an amendment under Order VI, Rule 17. In the subsequent decision New Bank of India Ltd. v. Smt. Raj Rani, AIR 1966 Punj 162 (supra) the learned Judge, who spoke for the Bench in Girdharilal v. Krishan Datt, AIR 1960 Punj 575 (supra), was the Presiding Judge and once again he reiterated his previous view with slight modification that one has to see the order granting amendment of the plaint and permission for the filing of additional written statement. If the said order is unrestricted and merely says that additional written statement be filed, it would mean that the defendant gets the unrestricted right to take up any pleas he prefers, may be inconsistent with the original pleas or may be new pleas or may consist of new grounds.

In that case, the plaintiff sought for the amendment because a certain fixed deposit receipt had matured and he wanted a decree for that amount as well. The court asked for additional written statement. New pleas were taken and it was contended that without amendment in the pleadings, such new pleas could not be raised. The learned Judge upheld his previous view, and held that the defendant got untrammelled right to take up any pleas he preferred, and the order under Rule 9 of Order VIII was required to be seen and if there was nothing to indicate in that order that pleadings were restricted, new pleas or even inconsistent pleas could be taken up by the defendant. These two cases were followed in Lachhmi Devi (supra) and the learned Judge of this Court while allowing the plaintiff to amend the plaint because a certain party was to be added, asked for additional written statement. New and inconsistent pleas were taken in the additional written statement and the same were allowed by the court. Thus the above noted three cases took the view contrary to that in Tek Chand Chitkara v. Union of India, ILR (1974) Him Pra 616 (supra).

12. As we have already pointed out, Order VI deals with pleadings generally and the provisions of that order do apply to plaint as well as to written statement. Under Order VIII, Rule 9, there is a provision for subsequent written statement. Nevertheless Rule 9, Order VIII has to stand with Rule 7 and 17 of Order VI. Under Rule 9, Order VIII, additional written statement can be permitted to be filed. But that does not mean that Rule 7 and 17 of Order VI have been given a go-bye. If such additional written statement contains any departure in the pleadings within the meaning of Order VI, Rule 7, in our opinion Rule 17, Order VI will be effective and a proper amendment of the pleadings will have to be asked for. Without the court applying its mind as to whether there has been really a departure in the pleadings and as to whether the amendments should be permitted for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy, in OUT opinion, the mere fact that additional written statement has been permitted to be filed under Rule 9 of Order VIII will not give a right to the defendant to raise new or inconsistent pleas, or to make allegation contrary to the facts alleged in the previous pleadings.

The observations, of the learned Judge in Girdharilal (supra) and New Bank of India Ltd. (supra) depending upon the nature and application of the law of procedure, in our opinion will be of no avail, the reason being that it would by itself be a rule of law as to whether Rule 7 and 17 of Order VI are not required to be complied with and merely because Rule 9 of Order VIII has been observed, a departure would be permitted in the pleadings without seeking for an amendment under Rule 17 of Order VI. That would not be a question of procedure, although while allowing or disallowing the amendment the court can always take a liberal view and may even permit the defendant to raise whatever defence he choses to take in his favour.

Therefore, in our opinion, it will be a question of the application of the law pointed out in Rule 7 and 17 of Order VI and not a pure question of procedure to be decided for allowing a departure in the pleadings under a pretence that additional written statement is permitted to be filed under Rule 9 of Order VIII. With respects to the opinion expressed in the above-noted two Punjab cases we have further to observe that the language used in the order allowing the amendment in the plaint or allowing the additional written statement to be filed would be of no consequence. It is obviously correct that under Order VIII, Rule 9 the Court would allow the subsequent written statement merely because the plaint was amended. While making that order the court is not expected to be aware of the pleas which may be taken while filing such additional written statement. It is only when the additional written statement is filed that the court will become conversant with the pleas taken in that additional written statement. At that point of time Rule 7 and 17 of Order VI will come into play and in case in the opinion of the court the additional written statement is not confined to the amendments sought for in the plaint, the defendant will be compelled to file an application for amendment of the pleadings under Rule 17 of Order VI. Thereafter the court will examine the entire matter, and if the amendments sought for were necessary for determining the real question in controversy the court may or may not allow the amendments. In fact, the mere direction by the court that additional written statement be filed, would convey only one meaning that the additional written statement hereinafter to be filed has to confine to the amendments already sought for by the plaintiff. If the court prejudges the issues and permits additional pleas to be taken by the defendant, in a particular case it may elaborate its order seeking for the additional written statement by making pertinent observations. But, as we have stated above, we cannot conceive of a case in which the court will be in a position to prejudge the issues and make an elaboration in its order to enable new pleas in additional written statement.

At any rate, in the case before us, the orders were simple under Order VIII, Rule 9 permitting additional written statements to be filed. After that stage the court was not aware as to what sort of pleas were likely to be raised in the additional written statements. The question arose at the time when the additional written statements were filed and the court found that there was departure in the pleadings and rightly asked for the amendment under Rule 17 of Order VI."

19. Now, this Court would be adverting to the another contention put forth on behalf of the counsel representing the defendants that being LRs of deceased defendant No.1, they are entitled to file written statement appropriate to their character as LRs of deceased defendant. At this stage, it would be relevant to reproduce hereinbelow the provisions contained in Order 22 Rules 3 & 4 CPC:

"ORDER 22 - DEATH, MARRIAGE AND INSOLVENCY OR PARTIES

Rule-3. Procedure in case of death of one of several plaintiffs or of sole plaintiff—

(1) Where one of two or more plaintiffs dies and the right to sue does not survive to the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs alone, or a sole plaintiff or sole surviving plaintiff dies and the right to the sue survives, the Court, on an application made in that behalf, shall cause the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff to be made a party and shall proceed with the suit.

(2) Where within the time limited by law no application is made under sub-rule (1) the suit shall abate so far as the deceased plaintiff is concerned, and, on the application of the defendant, the Court may award to him the costs which he may have incurred in defending the suit, to be recovered from the estate of the deceased plaintiff.

4. Procedure in case of death of one of several defendants or of sole defendant—

(1) …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. …. ….

(2) Any person so made a party may make any defence appropriate to his character as legal representative of the deceased defendant."

20. Before perusing the aforesaid provisions of law, it may be stated that sub-rule 2 of Rule 4 of Order 22 definitely does not deal with rule of pleadings i.e. Order 6 Rule 17 and Order 8 Rule 9 CPC. Aforesaid provisions of law are nothing to do with Order 6 Rule 17 CPC and same are independent of Order 8 Rule 9. Close scrutiny of aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that it is complete in itself and it enables a person, who has been made a party under Order 22 Rule 4 to take any defence, which may be appropriate to his/her character as LRs of deceased defendant. The aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that being LRs of deceased i.e. the original defendant/party can file any defence which is appropriate to his character as LRs of deceased and Court has no discretion to stop or debar him from doing so. But careful perusal of the aforesaid provisions clearly suggests that a party, seeking to file an additional written statement being LRs of deceased defendant, necessarily need to move an application under Order 8 Rule 9 read with Order 22 Rule 4 CPC and seek permission of the Court before raising a defence appropriate to his character as LRs of deceased defendant. Party applying under Order 8 Rule 9 needs to assign cogent reason for additional written statement because written statement, if any, in terms of sub-rule 2 of Rule 4 of Order 22 would be additional written statement on behalf of LRs appropriate to their character as LRs of deceased defendant. Sub-rule 2 of Rule 4 of Order 22 is not a rule of pleading and it has no relation, whatsoever, with Order 6 Rule 17 CPC and similarly the same are independent of Order 8 Rule 9 CPC. Sub-rule 2 Rule 4 of Order 22 has its own application and limitation and it enables a person, who has been made a party under Order 22 Rule 4, to take any defence subject to the condition that defence so made should be appropriate to his character as LRs of deceased defendant. Whereas, Order 8 Rule 9 empowers the Court with a discretion to allow a defence or to file written statement; meaning thereby party cannot raise as a matter of right any fresh plea by way of filing written statement without obtaining leave of the Court, which the Court, in its discretion, may or may not grant.

21. But as per case titled: J.C. Chatterjee & Others vs. Shri Sri Kishan Tandon and another, AIR 1972 SC 2526, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if LRs of deceased defendant chooses to raise any such defence, he being entitled to do so, Court has no discretion to stop or debar him from doing so and in that eventuality Order 8 Rule 9 may not have any application. But aforesaid reference/observation in the judgment cited hereinabove was made by the Hon'ble Apex Court while dealing with the issue of entitlement of filing additional written statement by the LRs of deceased defendant under Order 22 Rule 4 CPC.

22. Close scrutiny of aforesaid provisions of law under Order 22 Rule 4 clearly suggests that leave is given to the substituted defendants to render appearance and to make any defence appropriate to their character as LRs of deceased defendant and leave is given to these defendants being LRs to file additional written statement. Once additional written statement in terms of Order 22 Rule 4 is filed by LRs of original defendant, Court before whom written statement is filed needs to examine whether defence taken by the LRs is appropriate to his/their character of LRs of the deceased defendant or not. Though plain reading of Order 8 Rule 9 CPC suggests that grant of leave before making amendment in written statement or filing additional statement is necessary, but if Order 22 Rule 4 CPC is read in its entirety with the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court, referred hereinabove, it suggests that LRs have the right to make the defence appropriate to their character as LRs and Order 8 Rule 9 has no application in that event and Court has no discretion to stop or debar them from doing so.

23. In the instant case there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) filed additional written statement in terms of Order 22 Rule 4 sub-rule 2 as LRs of the deceased defendant where they had independent right to raise any defence appropriate to their character as LRs of the deceased defendant. Rather, they filed amended written statement pursuant to amendment carried out by the plaintiff in plaint after seeking due leave of the Court by moving an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC. This Court is of the view that since defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) entered into the shoes of original defendant, who had already filed written statement to the plaint, they could only carry out amendment, if any, to the extent of amendment carried out in the plaint and by no stretch of imagination they could carry out wholesale amendment in the written statement, as has been observed above. There is no quarrel that under Order 22 Rule 4 sub-rule 2, defendants being LRs of deceased defendant have/had right to raise any defence, which is appropriate to their character as LRs, but in that eventuality they could only file an additional written statement in their independent capacity incorporating therein their defence appropriate to their character. But in the instant case, LRs of deceased defendant without resorting to the provisions contained in Order 22 Rule 4 sub-rule 2 CPC filed amended written statement to the original written statement, that is not permissible. Once LRs No.1(a) to 1(g) chose to file amendment to the written statement originally filed by their predecessor-in-interest, they could only restrict themselves to the stand already taken by their predecessor-in-interest. New pleas, if any, in defence appropriate to their character could only be taken by defendants No.1(a) to 1(g) being LRs of deceased defendant in terms of Order 22 Rule 4 by way of filing additional written statement.

24. Perusal of the judgments relied upon hereinabove by learned Senior counsel appearing on behalf of defendants clearly suggests that LRs of deceased defendant can raise, as a matter of right, any defence which is appropriate to his/their character as LRs of deceased defendant and Court has no discretion to stop or de-bar him/them from doing so. But in the present case, as has been discussed in detail, there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that defendants 1(a) to 1(g) while carrying out amendment in the original written statement filed by their predecessor-in-interest exercised their right as envisaged under Order 22 Rule 4(2) because at no point of time additional written statement, if any, in terms of aforesaid provision of law was filed.

25. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made hereinabove, impugned order passed by learned trial Court deserves to be quashed and set aside and amended written statement filed by defendants 1(a) to 1(g) is rejected. However, it may be clarified that defendants being LRs of original defendant No.1 are always at liberty to file additional written statement in terms of provisions of Order 22 Rule 4, if so advised. This petition is disposed of with the aforesaid observation. Interim order, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Suman Sharma and others ....Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 755 of 2008.

Date of Decision: 18th November, 2016.

Indian penal Code, 1860- Section 451, 352 and 506 read with Section 34- Informant had gone to attend a local fair, where she was abused by the accused- the accused gave beatings to her on her return- the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that testimony of the informant is corroborated by PW-2 and PW-3- there is nothing in their cross-examination to show that they were making incorrect statements – delay in reporting the matter was satisfactorily explained- appeal allowed- accused convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 451, 352 and 506 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. (Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. Rakesh Dogra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Rampur Bushehar, District Shimla, H.P., rendered on 01.09.2008 in Case No. 111-2 of 2004, whereby, he acquitted the accused/respondents herein for theirs allegedly committing offences punishable under Sections 451, 352 and 506 of the IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 15.05.2004 at about 8.30 p.m. at place Kumarsain complainant Rekha Devi resident as tenant of Subhash Bhardwaj with her children and niece Jogindra Devi. The niece of complainant Jogindra Devi solemnized the marriage with one Raju. The complainant was being harassed by the parents of Raju that she is the main culprit. She further narrated to the police that when she had gone to attend a local fair then accused persons abused her. When the complainant returned back to her home at about 8.30 p.m. then accused persons appeared on the spot and gave beatings to her. She brought the matter to the notice of Police Station Kumarsain wherein FIR Ex.PW1/A was lodged against the accused. During the course of investigating site plan of the site of occurrence was prepared. Statements of the witnesses were recorded as per their version.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 451, 352 and 506 read with Section 34 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 4 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded by the trial Court, in which they claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, they did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondents herein.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The testification of the complainant qua the relevant incident embodied in FIR comprised in Ex.PW1/A is free from any taint or blemish qua hers (a) either contradicting her previous statement recorded in writing (b) besides the sanctity of her testification comprised in her examination-in-chief stands uneroded given hers in her cross-examination not deposing contradictorily thereto. Consequently, the testification of the complainant unbereft of any blemish or taint for thereupon it being construable to be uncreditworthy warrants imputation of reliance thereupon. Moreover, the testifications of the eye witnesses to the occurrence, who deposed as PW-2 and PW-3 lend formidable vigour to the testification of PW-1. A perusal of their respective testifications unveils the trite factum qua theirs deposing qua the relevant incident in tandem with the testification of PW-1 also an incisive reading of their respective testification omits to disclose qua their respective testimonies standing ridden with any taint of their improving or embellishing upon their respective previous statements recorded in writing nor their respective cross-examinations unveil a version qua the occurrence contradictory to the one enunciated by them in their examinations-in-chief also the respective testifications of the prosecution witnesses are unbereft of any taint or stain of any intra se contradictions. Consequently, when the untaint ridden besides obviously creditworthy evidence qua the relevant occurrence stood adduced by the prosecution before the learned trial Court, the latter for merely frivolous reasons embedded in evidence disclosing the prevalence of enmity inter se the complainant and the accused arising from theirs rearing a vendetta against her for hers encouraging Raju son of accused No.1 and brother of accused No. 2 to solemnize marriage by elopement with one Jogindra, who stands related to the complainant besides though with the police station concerned standing located in proximity to the relevant site of occurrence, the incident standing not promptly reported thereat by the complainant, rather hers reporting the incident before the police station concerned with one day's delay, whereupon, it concluded qua the embodiments occurring in the FIR acquiring a stain of theirs holding a concocted besides an engineered version qua the incident.

10. The tenacity of the aforesaid reasons, is bereft of any vigour especially when all the prosecution witnesses render an untaint ridden creditworthy version qua the occurrence. The mere factum of PW-3 in her cross-examination echoing qua in her presence no scuffling or fighting occurring inter se the complainant with the accused/respondents herein stood also inaptly concluded by the learned trial Court qua hers hence not lending corroboration to the testimony of PW-1, whereas, with hers in her testification comprised in her examination-in-chief making a disclosure qua hers evacuating the complainant from the clutches of the accused/respondents herein, testification whereof when stood unconcerted to be shred of its efficacy by the learned defence counsel while holding her to cross-examination comprised in his not putting apposite suggestions to her, begets an inference qua hence the aforesaid testification of PW-3 comprised in her examination-in-chief qua hers evacuating the complainant from the clutches of the accused/respondents vividly unveiling qua the accused/respondents holding the complainant imperatively hence it also conveying qua there occurring a scuffle inter se the complainant with the accused/respondents herein whereupon the effect of the testification of PW-3 in her cross-examination wherein she had deposed qua no scuffle or fighting occurring in her presence inter se the complainant with the accused not acquiring any paramount worth, for constraining the learned trial Court to dispel the testification of PW-3 embodied in her examination-in-chief wherein she has with candor made a communication qua hers besides others evacuating the complainant from the clutches of the accused/respondents herein. Conspicuously, when hence there was an imminent display therein qua a scuffle occurring inter se complainant and the accused/respondents herein merely on hers desultorily deposing in her cross-examination qua no scuffling and fighting occurring inter se both would not benumb the effect of the relevant communications made by her in her examination-in-chief nor the learned trial Court could hence erode its effect.

11. Since, in explication of the apposite delay, the complainant has purveyed a tangible ground comprised in the factum qua at the relevant time her husband being unavailable at home also hers tending to her minor children hence when it did comprise a tangible ground for the learned trial Court to dispel the vigour of the omission of the complainant to with utmost promptitude report the matter to the police station concerned, whereas, its negating the effect of the aforesaid explication purveyed by the complainant for the delay in the lodging of the FIR qua the relevant incident before the police station concerned, has hence committed a gross illegality in undermining the impact of the relevant explication besides it has committed a gross illegality in mis-appreciating the impact of the untaint ridden testimonies of prosecution witnesses thereto.

12. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court suffers from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

13. Consequently, the instant appeal is allowed and the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court in favour of the accused/respondents herein is set aside. Accordingly, the accused are held guilt for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 451, 352 and 506 of the IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC. They be produced before this Court on 2.12.2016 for theirs being heard on quantum of sentence.

Decided on : 21st November, 2016.

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955- Section 13- The marriage between the parties was solemnized on 4.12.1994 – two children were born- the husband assaulted the wife causing her injuries – she was residing with her parents – husband had not made any efforts to take her to matrimonial home- the petition was dismissed by the Trial Court- held in appeal that it was duly proved that husband had subjected the wife to physical cruelty – he had not made any efforts to bring the wife from her parental home- this proved the desertion on the part of the husband – the marital ties had broken down irretrievably – petition allowed and the marriage between the parties ordered to be dissolved.(Para-7 to 10)

For the Appellant: Mr. Amandeep Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Anil Jaswal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed against the judgment rendered by the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, H.P. ON 22.08.2012 in H.M.A. Petition No. 41 of 2009, whereby, the petition aforesaid constituted therebefore by the petitioner/appellant herein stood dismissed.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the marriage inter se the contesting parties hereat stood solemnized on 4.12.1994 at village Matwar, PO Jalari, Tehsil Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P. Two children stand begotten from their wedlock. In the apposite petition, the petitioner herein averred qua the respondent herein had at public place abused and assaulted her whereupon she stood constrained to lodge an FIR with the Police Station, Naudan. Also she averred therein on 11.05.2007, the respondent herein assaulting her at bus stand Naudan, in sequel, whereto injuries stood inflicted upon her. She continued to aver therein qua the respondent herein being habitual drunkard besides his openly threatening to eliminate her. Since, three years hitherto, the institution of the apposite petition before the learned Additional District Judge, Hamirpur, she avers of her staying with her parents. She avers of the respondent herein not making any concerted efforts to retrieve her to her matrimonial home whereupon she deposes qua the respondent herein hence with his holding the apposite animus deserdendi alienating her from his matrimonial company. Moreover, she avers qua her stay at her matrimonial home being incongenial arising from the respondent herein perpetrating physical cruelty upon her rendering her stay with the respondent herein at latter's home to be unsafe.

3. The petition for divorce instituted by the petitioner/appellant herein before the learned Additional District Judge, Hamirpur stood contested by the respondent herein by his instituting reply thereto wherein he controverted all the allegations constituted against him in the apposite petition by the appellant herein in the petition.

4. The petitioner/appellant herein filed rejoinder to the reply of the respondent, wherein, he denied the contents of the reply and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the petition.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the respondent has treated the petitioner, his wife with cruelty as alleged ?OPP
2. Whether the respondent has deserted his wife petitioner as alleged? OPP
3. Whether the petition is not maintainable, as alleged? OPR
4. Whether the petitioner is estopped to file the present petition by her own act and conduct, as alleged? OPR
5. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence adduced before the learned Additional District Judge, he concluded qua the incidents of physical cruelty embodied in the apposite petition remaining unproven for paucity of adduction of germane apposite cogent evidence. Also he concluded of the petitioner/appellant herein against the wish besides without the consent of the respondent herein departing from her matrimonial home, wherefrom, he concluded qua proof of the imperative ingredient of the respondent herein holding the enjoined animus deserdendi not emanating, leading him to conclude of the entire evidence adduced before him not holding any formidable sinew to make a conclusion qua either the respondent herein treating the petitioner/appellant herein with physical beside mental cruelty also no clinching evidence standing adduced in portrayal of the respondent herein deserting the matrimonial company of his lawfully married spouse, constraining it to hence decline the relief claimed in the apposite petition preferred before him by the petitioner/appellant herein. The learned trial Court in making the aforesaid conclusions has remained grossly oblivious to the relevant germane evidence in portrayal of the incident(s) of physical cruelty averred in the petition sequeling the lodging of an FIR by the petitioner/appellant herein before the Police Station concerned. Even if, a copy of the FIR stood not tendered into evidence, its non adduction into evidence was insignificant especially when in his cross-examination to which the respondent herein stood subjected to by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner/appellant herein, he acquiesces qua in the year 2007, an FIR standing lodged by the petitioner/appellant herein against him qua the incident of cruelty averred in the petition. In sequel whereto, he has also acquiesced qua his facing trial before the Court concerned. The further concomitant effect of the aforesaid acquiescences of the respondent herein is qua this Court standing entailed to record a firm inference qua thereupon the petitioner/appellant herein while imputing qua the respondent herein incidents of cruelty, her imputation not lacking in veracity besides obviously her departure in sequel thereto from her matrimonial home to her parental home standing prodded by a good and reasonable cause. The incidents of physical cruelty perpetrated upon the petitioner/appellant herein by the respondent herein when stand concluded to constitute a reasonable cause for the lawfully married spouse of the respondent herein to depart from her matrimonial home to her parental home renders unbereft of vigour the conclusion recorded by the learned trial Court qua her departure to her parental home being against the wish besides without the consent of her husband wherefrom it also inaptly concluded qua her continuous stay at her parental home not warranting it to afford the relief claimed in the apposite petition.

7. Be that as it may, even if, the petitioner/appellant herein had for a prolonged and inordinate duration refrained from cohabiting with her husband yet the aforesaid omission of the appellant herein/petitioner to cohabit with her husband would not inhibit this Court to conclude qua the respondent herein not holding the requisite animus deserdendi unless evidence of immense potency stood adduced in portrayal of the respondent herein throughout the period when the petitioner/appellant herein continued to stay at her parental home, his making vigorous sincere, genuine efforts to retrieve her to his matrimonial company. Though, the respondent herein has in his testification made an attempt to articulate qua his concerting to retrieve his married spouse to her matrimonial home, yet his endeavour visibly appears to smack of ingrained falsity, inference whereof is derivable from the factum of his sister-in-law (sister of the appellant herein) while deposing as RW-4 making a communication in her examination-in-chief qua the petitioner/appellant herein unraveling her to qua her husband belabouring her at her matrimonial home whereupon she stands constrained to cohabit with him. Also she in her testimony comprised in her examination-in-chief unveils therein qua hers concerting to persuade her to return to her matrimonial home by guaranteeing her safe stay thereat. Moreover, in her cross-examination to which she stood subjected to by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant/petitioner she acquiesces to the suggestion put her by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner/appellant herein qua the father of the petitioner/appellant herein receiving a telephonic call whereupon he stood apprised qua the respondent herein belabouring the petitioner/appellant herein. She has also acquiesced to the suggestion put to her by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant while holding her to cross-examination qua hers not making any personal effort along with the respondent herein to visit the parental home of the petitioner/appellant herein for thereupon theirs conjointly endeavouring to retrieve her to her matrimonial home. The effect of the aforesaid acquiescences made by the respondent's witness is qua the respondent herein at her matrimonial home belaboruing his married spouse also therefrom bely the proclamations made by him qua his making efforts to retrieve his married spouse to her matrimonial home.

8. In aftermath, with the conclusion recorded by this Court qua the petitioner/appellant herein holding a good reasonable cause to depart to her parental home when stands entwined with the inference aforesaid erected qua the respondent herein not making any sincere concerted efforts to retrieve his married spouse to her matrimonial home, begets a derivative of the respondent herein holding the animus deserdendi to permanently alienate himself from the matrimonial company of his married spouse. In sequel thereto, with the incidents of perpetration of physical cruelty upon the petitioner/appellant herein by the respondent herein standing emphatically established besides with the respondent herein evidently holding the relevant animus deserdendi to alienate himself from the matrimonial company of his married spouse though enjoined the learned trial court to render a decree in the apposite petition for dissolution of marital ties laid therebefore by the petitioner/appellant, whereas, it omitting to afford the relief as prayed for, has apparently committed a grave legal misdemeanor.

9. Moreover, RW-4 acquiesces in her cross-examination qua hers trying to prevail upon the respondent herein to wean himself from consuming liquor also hers concerting to dissuade him from belabouring the petitioner/appellant herein wherefrom also the apposite averments in consonance therewith constituted in the apposite petition acquire corroborative succor besides with hers in her cross-examination acquiescing to the suggestion put to her by the learned counsel for the petitioner qua hers concerting to wean the respondent herein from his ill conduct towards the petitioner herein not yielding the appropriate result constrains an inference of the casting in the apposite petition an apposite averment qua the stay of the petitioner/appellant herein at her matrimonial home being both unsafe besides incongenial hence standing proved, wherefrom, it is inevitable to conclude of their being abysmal want of affability inter se the married spouses also their mutual discord not being amenable to any truce or improvement rather their marital ties standing irretrievably broken down, wherefrom the rendering of an apposite decree for dissolution of their marital ties is both befitting besides sagacious.

10. For the foregoing reasons, it is apt to clinchingly conclude of with the marital ties of the petitioner/appellant herein with the respondent herein standing broken down irretrievably hence, the rendition of a decree qua severance of their marital ties would be both just and expedient. Consequently, the instant appeal is allowed. Accordingly, the marriage inter se the petitioner/appellant and the respondent herein is ordered to be dissolved. In sequel, the judgment and decree impugned before this Court is quashed and set aside. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff pleaded that he is owner in possession of the suit land – the defendants have encroached upon a portion of the suit land – the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- held in second appeal that the demarcation proved the encroachment – there was no infirmity in the process of demarcation – an owner has a right to claim possession of the encroached land- the suit was rightly decreed by the Courts- appeal dismissed.(Para-8 to 13)

Case referred:
Dr. Abdul Khair versus Miss Shella Myrtla James and another, AIR 1957, Patna, 308

For the Appellant: Mr. R.K. Gautam, Senior Advocate with Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate.
For Respondents No.1 to 3: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate with Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the defendants/appellants herein against the impugned rendition of the learned District Judge, Chamba, Himachal Pradesh, whereby he dismissed the appeal of the defendants/appellants herein and affirmed the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Cvil Judge (Senior Division), Dalhousie, District Chamba, H.P., whereby the latter Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff. The defendants/appellants herein stand aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Chamba. Theirs standing aggrieved, they have therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court an order reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land comprising khata/khatauni No.39/54, khasra No.192, measuring 252-3 square yards situated in Mauza Kasba Chowari, Pargana Chowari, Tehsil Bhatiyat, District Chamba, H.P., alongwith proforma defendants No.3 and 4. The defendants are strangers to the suit land having no right, title or interest in the same. Land of the defendants comprising khasra No.193 is just adjacent to the suit land. Defendants have encroached upon the 49.0 sq. yards area of the suit land by raising structure and constructing sehan. Demarcation of the suit land was carried outon 27.05.2003 and it was found that defendants have encroached upon the khasra No. 192/1 measuring 49 sq. yards. It has been prayed that the suit of the plaintiff be decreed for possession of 49 sq. yards of suit land, specifically khasra No.192/1. It has also been prayed that the suit be decreed for permanent prohibitory injunction and defendants be restrained from raising any further structure on the suit land.

3. Defendants No.1 and 2 contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, estoppel and locus standi. On merits, it has been submitted that the demarcation report is illegal and the suit land has not been legally partitioned by Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Bhatiyat and it is not binding on the defendants.

4. The plaintiff/respondent herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendants/appellants herein, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to relief of possession as prayed for? OPP

2. Whether plaintiff is entitled to relief of mandatory injunction, as prayed for? OPP

3. Whether plaintiff is entitled to relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP

4. Whether the suit in the present form is not maintainable as alleged? OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to sue as alleged? OPD

6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit as alleged? OPD

7. Whether suit land has not been legally partitioned by the A.C. 1st Grade, if so, its effect, as alleged? OPD.

8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the respondent herein/plaintiff. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the appellants/defendants before the learned first Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal.

7. Now the defendants/appellants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court in its impugned judgement and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 18.09.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted herbeforeby the defendants/appellants against the judgment and decree of the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

1. Whether the Courts below have wrongly given undue weightage to the demarcation report Ex.DW3/A which is otherwise not liable to be admitted being based against the set provisions of law specially Instructions issued by the Financial Commissioner, H.P. regarding conducting of demarcation?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

8. The respective estates of the litigating parties adjoin each other. The best germane evidence for clinching the trite factum of the contesting defendants while raising construction upon their land contiguous to the land of the plaintiff, theirs also subjecting the land of the latter to construction, stands comprised in a demarcation report prepared by the demarcating officer concerned, in sequel, to his holding a valid demarcation of the contiguous estates of the parties at contest. The best evidence aforesaid stands comprised in Ex.PW3/A besides in Ex.PW3/B respectively comprising the demarcation report and the tatima, whereunder unravelments occur qua the extent of encroachment made by the defendants on the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff. However, the mere factum of the relevant enunciations occurring therein would not per se imbue any sanctity to them unless evidence stands adduced qua the demarcating officer concerned while holding demarcation of the contiguous estates of the parties at lis, his revering the mandate of the apposite rules and instructions. For validating the apposite demarcation held by PW-3, enjoined upsurging of evidence qua his preceding his holding the relevant demarcation his obtaining the consent of the litigating parties qua the fixed points wherefrom he stood authorized to conduct the relevant demarcation proceedings. However, satiation qua the aforesaid mandate stands evidently unbegotten. Even if, PW-3, preceding his holding the relevant demarcation of the contiguous estates of the contesting parties hereat omitted to obtain their consent qua the fixed points wherefrom he stood authorised to hold the relevant demarcation would not per se negate nor invalidate his demarcation report comprised in Ex.PW3/A unless potent unflinching evidence stood adduced before the learned trial Court depicting qua his not at the relevant time holding the relevant musabi also evidence standing adduced qua his therefrom not holding the apposite measurements besides potent evidence displaying his thereafter not relaying onto the relevant fields the apposite measurements borrowed by him from the relevant musabi standing adduced. However, the aforesaid evidence is amiss. In aftermath, the findings recorded by the demarcating officer comprised in Ex.PW3/A and in Ex.PW3/B qua the defendants subjecting the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff to unauthorized construction do not suffer from any inherent infirmity. Also conclusivity to the relevant pronouncements made therein are acquired by the factum of the defendants, on Ex.PW3/A and Ex.PW3/B standing adduced into evidence before the learned trial Court not thereat ventilating their apposite objections thereto holding portrayals qua on account of the demarcating officer infracting the apposite mandate of the relevant rules and instructions, theirs holding no tenacity. The effect of theirs omitting to before the learned trial Court prefer objections to the validity of Ex.PW3/A besides to the validity of Ex.PW3/B begets an inference qua theirs acquiescing to the relevant unfoldments occurring therewithin.

9. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant has contended with much vigour qua with the prescriptions held in the relevant rules and instructions qua the demarcating officer at the relevant time holding the relevant “musabi” standing infracted, infraction whereof arising from PW-3 voicing in his cross-examination qua his not at the relevant time holding the relevant “musabi” rather his holding the “momy”, hence, the tenacity of the relevant pronouncements occurring in Ex.PW3/A besides in Ex.PW3/B suffering erosion, whereupon he contends qua the relevant concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below warranting theirs being set aside. However, the aforesaid submission lacks force or vigour arising from the factum of though the relevant rules prescribe qua the demarcating officer at the relevant time holding the relevant “musabi” yet the mere factum of his thereat not holding the relevant “musabi” rather his holding the “momy” which too carries replications of all the relevant reflections occurring in the “musabi” whereupon obviously the “momy” alike the “musabi” purveys leverage to the demarcating officer to borrow therefrom all the relevant measurements of the relevant fields, would not erode the efficacy of Ex.PW3/A and Ex.PW3/B unless forthright evidence stood adduced qua the “momy” carried at the relevant time by the demarcating officer not therein replicating the relevant manifestations borne on the relevant

"musabi". However, when no evidence stood adduced qua the "momy" carried at the relevant time by the demarcating officer not replicating the relevant manifestations occurring in the apposite "musabi" constrains an inference qua the "momy" holding omnibus affinity with the "musabi" qua all the relevant manifestations also leads to a deduction qua the demarcating officer borrowing therefrom the relevant measurements , whereafter he relayed them onto the relevant fields, significantly, when no evidence to bely the aforesaid inference stood adduced by the defendants/appellants before the learned trial Court whereupon immense teancity stands acquired by Ex.PW3/A.

10. With this Court concluding qua the pronouncements occurring in Ex.PW3/A besides in Ex.PW3/B not standing bereft of tenacity, it is appropriate to adjudicate the submission addressed herebefore by the counsel for the defendants/appellant, anvilled upon the pronouncement made by this Court in RSA No.390 of 2002, titled as Prem Chand and others versus Kesho Ram and others, decided on 10.01.2013, whereupon, this Court after validating the relevant pronouncements occurring in the relevant demarcation report proceeded to in substitution of it rendering a decree of demolition of the structure raised by the delinquent litigant upon the land, owned and possessed by the persons aggrieved by the errant conduct of the delinquent, rendered a decree of compensation vis-a-vis the plaintiffs therein. A close reading of the pronouncement of this Court recorded in the aforesaid rendition unveils (a) the factum qua raising of construction by the defendant(s) on the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff(s) not begetting an inference of the latter acquiescing or abandoning or waiving his rights thereon unless evidence stood adduced in display of his despite knowing the factum of the defendant raising construction on land owned and possessed by him yet his permitting the defendants to raise construction thereon; (b) the demarcation report alone comprising the relevant best evidence also it constituting the relevant material wherefrom the relevant knowledge emanates qua the defendant(s) encroaching upon the land of the plaintiff(s) also no inference qua earlier thereto the plaintiff(s) deriving knowledge qua the defendant(s) raising construction upon the land owned and possessed by him/them can stand imputed to the plaintiff(s) nor also earlier thereto any inference being erectable qua the plaintiff(s) acquiescing besides abandoning or waiving his/their rights qua the land owned and possessed by him/them whereon construction stood raised by the defendant(s), whereupon the principle of waiver for estopping him/them to agitate his/their relevant grievance is unavailable for erection vis-a-vis the plaintiff(s) merely for his/their failing to make prompt concerts holding contemporaneity in timing vis-a-vis the the stage of raising of construction by the defendant(s).

11. With the mandate encapsulated in a decision reported in Dr. Abdul Khair versus Miss Shella Myrtla James and another, AIR 1957, Patna, 308, the relevant paragraph 15 whereof stands extracted hereinafter, wherewithin the trite expostulation of law stands expounded qua the relief for compensation to the aggrieved plaintiff(s) in substitution to the rendition of a decree of demolition of the unauthorized construction raised by the defendant(s) upon his/their land being unamenable for standing pronounced by Courts of law, constrains this Court to not accept the submission addressed herebefore by the counsel for the defendants/appellants qua this Court modifying the concurrently recorded verdicts of both the Courts below by its awarding damages qua the plaintiffs. Relevant paragraph No.15 reads as under:

> "(15) the next important question for consideration is, is the decree for compensation in lieu of the ejectment, awarded by the first court of appeal, which has been affirmed by Mr. Justice Misra, correct in law. IN my opinion such a decree is contrary to law. When the first court of appeal found in agreement with the first court, that the land in question belonged to the plaintiff, such being the findings as to the property in the land, the courts could not compel the plaintiff to part with his legal rights and accept compensation against will, howsoever reasonable it might appear to be.
> A similar question came up for consideration before the Bombay High Court in two cases,- 'Govind Vankaji Kulkarni v. Sadashiv Bharma Shet', ILR Bom 771 (L); and – Jethalal Hirachand v. Lalbhai', ilr 28 boM 298 (m). In the latter case, inw hich the first case was affirmed Chandavarkar J., while considering the finding of the learned District Judge that the plaintiff was entitled to no more than compensation, because there has been on the part of the defendant a technical encroachment in as much as a foot or so of the plaintiff ground had been taken to support the wall which divided the properties of the parties observed:

> "But if the foot or so of ground so taken by the defendant belongs to the plaintiff the act of the defendant is one of continuous trespass on the plaintiff's property and the wrongdoer cannot be heard to say that he has deprived the owner of only a little and that of not much use to the latter. Too allow such a defence and on the strength of it award compensation is to let a trespasser put a value of money's worth on another man's property and deprive him of its against his will".

His Lordship went on further to observe:

> "But where a man builds on another man's property against the will of the latter or without his consent, the invasion, is practically one where pecuniary compensation cannot be regarded as not only deprived of the property be he is also entitled to make. How are the damages to be estimated in such a case and and how can it be said that an award of compensation can do justice to the owner who leases the property, and all opportunity besides of using it for purposes which he may consider profitable, on beneficial to himself."

His Lordship for the above principle relied (N). I respectfully agree with his Lordship Chandavarkar J., with his above statement of law on the subject, and consider that his Lordship has laid down the correct statement of law on the point. Relief by way of compensation in such a case is tantamount to allowing a trespasser to purchase another man's property against that man's will.

On no principle of law or equity is that allowable. In my opinion therefore, the second question posed by me must also be answered in the negative by saying that the plaintiff cannot in law or equity be awarded compensation in lieu of ejectment to which he is legally entitled. His right to recover the encroached land arises out of his ownership and he is no t estopped, either by acquiescence or waiver, to estopped by conduct from claiming his right to possession."

12. Even otherwise, even if, assuming the aforesaid manner of redressing the grievance of the plaintiff/aggrieved holds any legal weight, it was enjoined upon the defendant(s) to raise it earlier before the Courts below also they stood enjoined to adduce evidence qua the value borne by the suit land whereon unauthorised construction stands raised by them, significantly, when it would facilitate this Court to record an order qua the quantum of damages assessable vis-a-vis the plaintiff(s). However, for lack of aforesaid concerts earlier hereto by the defendants/appellants does not empower them to espouse herebefore qua this Court in the manner aforesaid modifying the concurrently recorded decrees of demolition of the unauthorised construction raised by the defendants upon the suit land owned and possessed by the plaintiff(s).

13. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court are based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Consequently, substantial question of law is answered in favour of the respondent/plaintiff and against defendants/appellants herein.

14. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the plaintiff/appellant against the impugned rendition of the learned District Judge, Bilaspur, Himachal Pradesh, whereby he dismissed the appeal of the plaintiff/appellant herein and affirmed the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P., whereby the latter Court partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff. The plaintiff/appellant herein stands aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Bilaspur. His standing aggrieved, he has therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court an order reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff had instituted a suit for declaration with consequential relief of permanent injunction against defendants NO.1 to 12 on the allegations that Shri Puran son of Shri Ram Saran was owner in possession of land described in khasra Nos. 112/35, 74, 75, and 76 measuring 10-12 bighas situated in revenue estate Halwari, Khasra No. 499/1, measuring 2/3 bighas situated in revenue estate Ladda and Khasra Nos. 27, 146, 457/165, 209, 213, 249, 322, 388, 399 and 389 measuring 19-10 bighas situated in revenue estate, Chhaproh, Pargana Sarium, Tehsil Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur. The plaintiff, defendant No.1 and Shri Sita Ram (father of defendants No.6 and 7) are sons of Shri Puran. Defendants No. 3, 4 are sons of the plaintiff. It is stated that the parties were Brahmins by caste and were governed by Hindu Mitakshra Law in the matter of alienation and succession. The plaintiff, defendant No.1 and Shri Sita Ram along with their father Shri Puran constituted a joint Hindu family. The suit land was ancestral though recorded under the ownership and possession of Shri Puran in the books of the Collector. The suit was stated to be joint Hindu coparcenary property. As such, Shri Puran could not alienate the same through Will. The plaintiff had stated that he had 1/5th share in the suit land. Shri Puran had died in 1971. Much after the death of Shri Puran, the plaintiff had been informed of succession to the estate of his father. In the books of the Collector, defendant No.1 had been recorded owner in possession of the suit land measuring 19-10 bighas of revenue estate, Chhaproh. Defendant No.2 had been recorded owner in possession of the rest of the suit land of revenue estates Ladda and Halwari. Mutation of the suit land had been attested in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 on the strength of Will dated 22.6.1965 purported to have been executed by Shri Puran in favour of defendant No.1 and his mother defendant No.2. It is stated that Shri Puran could not have executed the Will of the suit land in favour of his wife and defendant No.1. The plaintiff wanted to institute suit claiming his share in the suit land after the death of his father. Defendant No.1 as also defendant No.2 had requested the plaintiff not to institute the suit since the litigation would bring bad name to the family. Defendant No.1 had got suit land measuring 19.10 bighas of revenue estate Chhaproh of the share of the plaintiff and Sit Ram mutated in their favour as per relinquishment deed. Defendant No.2 had assured the plaintiff that after her death the suit land of revenue estate, Ladda and Halwari shall go to the natural male heirs. As such, the plaintiff did not institute the suit claiming his share in the joint Hindu coparcenary property in 1971. The plaintiff had stated that defendant No.2 on 5.9.1989 had gifted the suit land of revenue estates Ladda and Halwari in favour of defendants No.5 to 12. Defendant No.2 could not gift the joint Hindu coparcenary property of revenue estates Ladda and Halwari in favour of her daughters or their husbands. The plaintiff had, therefore, instituted suit for declaration to the effect that the defendants No. 1,3,4, 6 and 7 and himself constituted a joint Hindu family. The suit land was ancestral joint Hindu coparcenary property with Shri Puran. Shri Puran could not execute the Will of the suit land in favour of defendants No.1 and his mother. Also the defendant NO.2 could not execute gift of the suit land situated in revenue estates Ladda and Halwari in favour of defendants No.5 to 12. A permanent injunction had been sought restraining defendants No.1 to 12 from not allowing the plaintiff to enjoy his share of the joint property. Alternatively, the plaintiff had sought relief of possession of his share of the suit land.

3. Defendants No.1,2 and 5 to 12 contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, limitation, estoppel and misjoinder. It had also been averred that the plaintiff had not paid correct court fees and as such, the court could not proceed with the trial of the suit. On merits, the defendants admitted the relationship of the plaintiff and the defendants with Shri Puran. It had been stated that Shri Puran had been absolute owner of the suit land. The suit land was not ancestral property of Shri Puran qua the plaintiff. The plaintiff and defendants No.1,3,4,6 and 7 did not constitute a joint Hindu family. The parties were separate in mess and worship. Shri Puran was competent to execute the Will of the suit land in favour of defendants No.1 and 2. The Will dated 22.6.1965 executed by Shri Puran was stated valid and binding on the plaintiff. Mutation of the suit land had been rightly sanctioned in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 on the strength of the last and final Will dated 22.6.1965 of Shri Puran. The plaintiff had been notified of the Will executed by his father in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 in due course. Defendants No.1, 2 and 5 to 12 had denied having agreed to grant the share, if any, of the plaintiff in the suit land situated in revenue estate, Chhaproh. Defendant No.2 had no where stated that after her death, the suit land of revenue estates Ladd and Halwari shall go to male natural heirs. Defendant No.2 was absolute owner in possession of the suit land situated in revenue estates Ladda and Halwari. Defendants No. 5 to 12 had been looking after and maintaining defendant No.2 Defendant No.2 had been competent to gift her property in favour of defendants NO.5 to 12. The plaintiff was bound by the registered gift deed dated 5.2.1989. The plaintiff was not entitled to 1/5th share of the suit land. The plaintiff was not entitled to any relief much less to the discretionary relief of permanent injunction.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the suit land is joint Hindu Family coparcenary and ancestral property in the hands of plaintiff and defendants Nos.1,3,4, 6 and 7?OPP

2. Whether the Will dated 22.06.1965 with regard to suit land executed by Shri Puran in favour of the defendants No.1 and 2 is illegal and void? OPP.

3. Whether the gift deed dated 5.2.1989 executed by Smt. Ajudhiya Devi in favour of defendants is wrong and void? OPP

4. Whether the plaintiff along with defendants No.1, 2, father of defendants Nos.6 and 7 and defendants No.9 and 10 are having 1/5th share in suit land after successor of Shri Puran? OPP

5. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction? OPP.

6. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.

7. Whether the suit is not within limitation? OPD

8. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file the suit by his conduct and deeds? OPD

9. Whether the suit is not maintainable on the grounds of non-payment of court fee? OPD

10. Whether the suit is bad for misjoinder of necessary parties? OPD

11. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the latter Court partly decreed the suit of the appellant herein/plaintiff. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the appellant/plaintiff before the learned first Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal.

6. Now the plaintiff/appellant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgement and decree by the learned first Appellate Court . When the appeal came up for admission on 16.03.2005, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted herebefore by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree of the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the Will of ancestral property can be validly executed without legal necessity by divesting any beneficiary of such ancestral property, having acquired right over the property by birth?

2. Whether the gift deed Ex.P-19 executed by Smt. Ajudiya Devi is without consideration and he same is illegal in as much as she is not the owner of the suit property to the extent of the share of the plaintiff; if so its effect?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

7. Late Shri Puran, the predecessor-in-interest of the parties at contest, owned land located in mauza Chaproh besides in mauzas Halwari and Ladda. During his life time, he executed a testamentary disposition qua his land located in the aforesaid mohals/mauza vis-a-vis the contesting defendants No.1 and 2. Defendant Ajudhiya Devi, his surviving widow in pursuance to hers thereupon receiving the aforesaid estates of her pre-deceased husband executed a gift deed comprised in Ex.P-19. Both the learned courts below concurrently recorded qua the suit land borne in mauza Chhaproh partaking the trait of ancestral coparcenary property whereas the suit land borne in mauza Halwari and mauza Laddda not partaking the trait of ancestral coparcenary property rather the suit land located in the latter Mohals/mauzas comprising the self acquired property of deceased Puran. Both the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below record a finding qua the apposite Will standing stained with a stain of illegality qua embodiments occurring therein qua land located in village Chhaproh standing bequeathed therein vis-a-vis defendants No.1 and 2. However, gift deed comprised in Ex.P19 stands concurrently concluded to be valid. The stain of illegality omnibusly imbuing the aforesaid documents qua lands borne in all mauza/mohals aforesaid stands canvassed by the counsel for the plaintiff/appellant to spur from one Puran, the common ancestor of the litigating parties hereat making acquisition of land(s) located in mauja Halwari and in mauja Ladda from the income earned by him from ancestral coparcenary property located at Mohal Chhaproh rendering them hence to also acquire the characteristic trait of theirs being construable to be ancestral coparcenary property whereupon he qua them also stood interdicted to execute a valid testamentary disposition vis-a-vis defendants No.1 and 2. Significantly, he reiterates qua with the land held by Puran located in Village Chhaproh standing concluded by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the Courts below to partake the trait of ancestral property/coparcenary property also when evidently there occur enunciations qua the aforesaid Puran from the income derived by him from land located in village Chhaproh, his acquiring lands located in village Ladda and Harwali renders the estates occurring in latter mohals to acquire an alike trait.

8. Both the learned Courts below dispelled the vigour of the aforesaid espousal of the learned counsel for the plaintiff. However, the learned counsel for the plaintiff contends qua the appreciation meted by the learned Courts below of the relevant evidence suffering from a taint qua theirs mis-appraising besides omitting to appreciate its probative worth. The aforesaid submission made herebefore by the counsel for the plaintiff/appellant herein would yield formidability only on forthright evidence standing adduced in display of the plaintiff's espousal qua deceased Puran from the earnings reared by him from lands located in Village Chhaproh, his acquiring estates/properties located in village Halwari and in village Ladda. The best evidence qua the aforesaid facet stood comprised in the plaintiff adducing the relevant revenue records pertaining to the time contemporaneous to the year 1955 whereat Puran acquired properties/estates located in village Halwari and in village Ladda, holding a candid visible display therein qua the quality of land located at village Chhaproh besides its income generating capacity. However, the aforesaid evidence remained unadduced by the plaintiff before the learned trial Court. For omission of the plaintiff to adduce the aforesaid best evidence for clinching his espousal contrarily benumbs his contention qua one Puran acquiring, from the income reared by him from lands located in Village Chhaproh properties/estates located in village Ladda and Halwari besides thereupon the estates/properties of Puran located in the latter mohals/mauzas concomitantly do not partake or acquire any trait of ancestral coparcenary property. Concomitantly also the renditions concurrently recorded by both the learned Courts below qua hence with the aforesaid Puran standing bestowed with absolute title thereto, his thereupon holding the relevant capacity to execute vis-a-vis his properties/estates located in village Ladda and Halwari, a valid testamentary disposition vis-a-vis defendants No.1 and 2 do not suffer from any taint of any illegality. Also when Ajudhiya Devi has under a gift deed comprised in Ex.P-19 alienated her interest/title qua the lands located in villages Ladda and Halwari, hence, obviously does not render it to stand vitiated.

9. Even otherwise, the plaintiff in discharging the relevant onus of proving qua one Puran acquiring from his income reared from ancestral coparcenary property located in village Chhaproh, estates/properties located in villages Halwari and Ladda, had merely depended upon his bald oral testimony. His bald testimony carries no legal vigour for want of his omitting to adduce the aforesaid relevant best evidence. Also the testification of the plaintiff qua his since his employment in the year 1957 in Bharat Petroleum at New Delhi remitting funds to his father Puran through money orders, hence, his contributing to the income of the Hindu Undivided Family of which he was a constituent, wherefrom, he espouses qua the relevant acquisitions stood consummated by his deceased father Puran also does not hold any legal worth for want of his (a) not placing on record except one receipt of Rs.50/- pertaining to the year 1959, the relevant apposite documentary evidence for succoring his espousal; (b) with the relevant acquisition occurring in the year 1955 renders the effect, if any, of any remissions made by the plaintiff to his deceased father Puran in the year 1957 to not hold no vigour qua thereupon the latter in the year 1955 whereon the relevant acquisitions occurred hence utilizing any portion of remissions, if any, made by PW-1 to deceased Puran for thereupon facilitating the latter to purportedly therefrom acquire estates/properties located in village Halwari and Ladda and (c) reliable evidence standing adduced in portrayal of Puran, the common ancestor of the litigating parties hereat serving in the Indian Railway, wherefrom, it can be concluded qua his drawing salary from his relevant employment in the Indian Railway wherefrom it is to be concluded qua his purchasing therefrom the estates/properties located in villages Ladda and Halwari, whereupon, hence, the properties located thereat partake the characteristic trait qua their being hence construable to be his self acquired properties.

10. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court are based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Consequently, both the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the defendants/respondents and against the plaintiff/appellant herein.

11. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Since common questions of law as well as facts are involved in the present cases, this Court vide order dated 6.10.2016 clubbed aforesaid petitions and since then has been hearing them together with the consent of the parties.

2. By way of present Civil Writ Petition(s) filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioners have laid challenge to the decision of the respondent-State Annexures P-17 & P-11 respectively, whereby approval of Government has been conveyed for issuance of essentiality and feasibility certificate/NOC in favour of respondent No.2, Northern International Educational Society in CWP No.2392 of 2016 and respondent No.5, Kangra Valley Nursing College Educational Society in CWP No.1740 of 2016(in short 'Respondents societies') for starting GNM/B.Sc. Nursing courses attached to Dr. RPGMC, Tanda, District Kangra, H.P, whereby respondents-societies have been allotted 60 seats each in both courses.

3. In nutshell, case of the petitioners is that since the respondents-societies had not applied in terms of notice inviting expression of interest for opening of B.Sc. (Nursing) College and General Nursing & Midwifery (GNM) training schools in Himachal Pradesh in terms of the advertisement (Annexure P-3), dated 24.9.2014 published in daily news paper, there was no occasion for the respondent-State to consider the case of the 'Respondents-societies' for grant of courses and allotment of seats attached to Dr. RPGMC, Tanda, District Kangra, H.P. The Department of Medical Education & Research, Government of Himachal Pradesh vide Annexure P-3, invited expression of interest for opening of B.Sc (Nursing) College and General Nursing and Midwifery (GNM) training schools in Himachal Pradesh at two locations i.e. Rohru and Tanda. As per advertisement, Government of Himachal Pradesh expressed its intention to establish B.Sc Nursing College and General Midwifery Schools under Public Private Partnership in terms of notifications No. HFW-B(F)4-5/2013,dated 04-06-2013 and No. HFW-B(F)4-3/2014, dated 30.6.2013 and No. HFW-B(F)4-9/2014, dated 24.07.2014 at Rohru and Tanda. The aforesaid notifications issued by the respondent-State provided 40 seats in General Nursing and Midwifery at Rohru attached with Civil Hospital, Rohru and Jubbal, whereas 60 seats each in GNM and B.Sc Nursing were offered for location Tanda attached to Dr. RPGMC, Tanda. Note appended with the aforesaid advertisement clearly provided that the party/Trust/ Society which have already applied for opening of GNM Schools/B.Sc Nursing College under preferred location Rohru & Tanda are also required to submit fresh proposals alongwith supporting documents but no initial inspection fee would be charged from those institutions which had paid inspection fee earlier.

4. In the instant case pursuant to aforesaid advertisement, petitioners as well as respondents-societies made applications for grant of courses at Rohru and Tanda.

5. Documents annexed with the petitions suggest that respondent-authorities after evaluating the proposals submitted by the petitioners namely Jyoti Education Welfare Society and National Career Public Education Committee as well as respondents-Societies, submitted its evaluation report Annexure P-6. The final evaluation report submitted by the committee suggests that respondent Kangra Valley Nursing College Educational Society was awarded 36 points, whereas present petitioner Jyoti Institute of Nursing was awarded 32 points. But before some action could be taken on the aforesaid report having been submitted by the Directorate Level Evaluation Committee, Additional Chief Secretary(Heath) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh on the representation filed by the Chairman, Northern International Education & Research Centre, Ghurkhari, District Kangra, H.P., directed the Director Medical Education & Research, Himachal Pradesh to examine the case of Northern International Education & Research Centre for starting up GNM & B.Sc courses with annual intake of 60 seats each for preferred location at Tanda.

6. Perusal of Annexure P-9, dated 20.12.2014 suggests that the Director Medical Education & Research with reference to communication sent by the Additional Chief Secretary (Health) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh informed that the advertisement had been published in news paper dated 24.9.2014 inviting expression of interest from the interested parties for preferred location Rohru and Tanda on or before 15.10.2014. The Director, specifically informed the Additional Chief Secretary (Health) that as per the note appended in aforesaid notice inviting expression, "the party/Trust/ Society, which had already applied for opening of GNM Schools/ B.Sc Nursing College under preferred location Rohru & Tanda were also called/advised to submit fresh proposal alongwith supporting documents. The Director, Medical Education &Research further informed that all the 11 applicants who had earlier applied for GNM & B.Sc Nursing courses under preferred location at Tanda in the year, 2008 could also respond to the EOI called by the department in the month of September, 2014 alongwith other applicants without any initial inspection fee, but none of the applicants except Kangra Valley Nursing College Educational Society submitted their proposals/ representations afresh in the light of advertisement dated 24.9.2014 and as such, department considered the proposals of four applicants for opening of Nursing Institution at Rohru and Tanda. The Director further informed the Additional Chief Secretary (Health) that evaluation report in respect of four applicants already stands submitted to the Government vide letter dated 18.12.2014 for taking further necessary action at Government level. But it appears that despite aforesaid communication having been sent by the Director Medical Education and Research, respondent–State directed the Director Medical Education & Research to carry out inspection of Northern International Education & Research Society Ghurkari alongwith other four applicants who had applied in terms of advertisement dated 24.9.2014. The communication (Annexure P-11), dated 19.5.2015 further suggests that the Directorate Level Evaluation Committee after carrying out necessary inspection submitted its report alongwith photocopy of inspection reports conducted by SDM level committee in respect of Northern International Education Society Ghurkhari, District Kangra, H.P. However, evaluation Committee, on the basis of inspection carried out by it, awarded 35 points in favour of Northern International Education & Research Centre Society. Aforesaid evaluation report submitted by the Director Medical Education, who is also Chairman of the evaluation committee did not recommend the case of aforesaid society. The Chairman Evaluation committee categorically stated that the applicant does not fulfill the parameters of the INC, hence, his application cannot be considered.

7. Further, perusal of communication (Annexure P-13), dated 30.11.2015, suggests that respondent-State again directed the Director Medical Education and Research Himachal Pradesh to carryout fresh inspection of Northern international Education & Research Centre Society on the basis of the criteria already in practice and send report to the department. Pursuant to the aforesaid communication, the Director Medical Education submitted Directorate level evaluation committee report in respect of Northern International Education & Research Centre Society, whereby society was declared qualified.

8. Accordingly, in view of aforesaid report submitted by the Directorate level evaluation committee, proposal regarding issuance of NOC/Essentiality certificate to start GNM and B.Sc Nursing courses under preferred location i.e. Dr. RPGMC, Tanda in favour of Northern International Education Society was placed before the cabinet in its meeting held on 14.1.2016.

9. It is undisputed that respondents-societies had not applied in terms of advertisement dated 24.9.2014 at first instance and as such, their cases were not considered by the SDM level evaluation committee while submitting evaluation report dated 18.12.2014, wherein respondent Kangra Valley Nursing College Educational Society was awarded 36 points and the petitioner Jyoti Institute was awarded 32 points. It emerges from the record that respondent Northern International Education & Research Centre Society filed representation (Annexure P-8) before Additional Chief Secretary (Health) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh in terms of the order dated 4.12.2014 passed by this Court in CWP No.209/2013, praying therein that it may be granted NOC for running courses in GNM and B.Sc Nursing with Dr. RPGMC Tanda.

10. Perusal of representation Annexure P-8, suggests that pursuant to different notifications issued by the respondent-State inviting applications for setting up GNM & B.Sc Nursing at Tanda, Northern International Education and Research Centre had applied and inspection of the premises was done but no NOC was issued in favour of this institute regarding Tanda and as such, it filed CWP No.1438 of 2009. During the pendency of aforesaid petition, Court was informed that though location at Dharamshala is vacant but same has been rejected by Indian Nursing Council. In the meanwhile, respondent-State issued notification dated 23.7.2011 providing therein that now there is no bar that only one Nursing Institution can be attached with one hospital, however, it was informed that Dr. RPGMC Tanda would not be provided as preferred location since centre of excellence is proposed to be opened there. But subsequently, as per notification dated 30.9.2013, Dr. RPGMC Tanda was again preferred as a location for opening Nursing Institutes(s) in private sector with 60 seats each in GNM and B.Sc. (Nursing), accordingly, Northern International Education Society submitted its application on 3.7.2008, praying therein for starting B.Sc(Nursing) and GNM Courses at Ghurkhari attached with Dr. RPGMC at Tanda. But it appears that pursuant to aforesaid application having been preferred by Northern International Education Society, no decision could be taken by the authorities.

11. By way of aforesaid representation, respondent society prayed for granting essentiality certificate in view of the fact that its premises were earlier inspected on two occasions in the years 2005 and 2008 by the authorities pursuant to earlier application submitted by it.

12. Perusal of Annexure P-9 suggests that respondent-State taking cognizance on the aforesaid representation of the respondent society, directed the Director, Medical Education & Research to carry out inspection of Northern International Education & Research Centre alongwith other applicants, who had applied in terms of advertisement dated 24.9.2014. Thereafter, the Director, Medical Education & Research, after evaluating the premises, submitted its report declaring therein respondent to be qualified.

13. In the instant case, this Court after carefully perusing the material placed on record is not satisfied and convinced with the method adopted by the respondent authorities while analyzing/scrutinizing the applications submitted by the petitioners as well as respondents societies pursuant to the advertisement dated 24.9.2014 and we have no hesitation to conclude that no uniform yardstick was applied by the evaluation committee while carrying out the inspection of applicant institutions and as such, is of the view that it would be in the interest of justice if authorities are directed to conduct fresh inspection of all the institutions/societies, had applied in terms of the advertisement dated 24.9.2014 as well as Northern International Education and Research Centre, whose case was considered by the Government while accepting its representation dated 6.1.2015 so that allegations of bias as well as arbitrary exercise of power as alleged by the parties, is put to rest.

14. Needless to say, authorities would carry out fresh inspection strictly in terms of the guidelines framed in this regard by the respondent-State as well as INC after affording adequate opportunity of being heard to all the applicants including petitioners as well as respondents-societies. At this stage, it may be observed that this Court deemed to have passed this order while keeping in view the claims and counter claims of the parties viz-a-viz genuineness and correctness of the evaluation report submitted by the evaluation committee formulated by State of Himachal Pradesh while recommending issuance of NOC as well as feasibility certificate for setting up GNM & B.Sc nursing courses.

15. The observations made hereinabove shall not cause prejudice to the parties, in any way.

16. Respondent-State is directed to do the needful in view of the aforesaid observations within a period of two weeks from today and submit its report in sealed cover to this Court on or before the next date of hearing. List on 30.11.2016. Copy Dasti.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Kubja Devi. .....Appellant.

Versus

Shri Ishwar Dass. .....Respondent.

Date of decision: November 24, 2016.

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955- Section 25- Petitioner had applied for a decree of judicial separation – the parties agreed to dissolve their marriage by a decree of customary divorce – maintenance of Rs.450/- per month was awarded- petition for enhancement was filed, which was dismissed on the ground that maintenance amount was mutually settled by the parties and there was no provision for enhancement – held in appeal that agreement regarding the receipt of Rs.450/- per month as maintenance will not create estoppel to debar the petitioner from seeking enhancement of the amount of alimony in the changed circumstances- husband admitted that his salary was Rs.3,300/- per month when he had agreed to pay Rs.450/- as maintenance -he further admitted that his salary was Rs.16,000/- per month at the time of retirement – his total salary was Rs.23,204/- per month as per salary certificate – husband is getting handsome amount from pension – hence, maintenance enhanced to Rs.2,500/- per month. (Para-5 to 10)

Ram Shanker Rastogi vs. Smt. Vinay Rastogi, AIR 1991 Allahabad 255

For the appellant	Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. R.K. Gautam, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Megha Kapur Gautam, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Appellant, hereinafter referred to as the petitioner, is divorced wife of the respondent. She is aggrieved by the order dated 2.3.2010 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Mandi in an application under Section 25(2) of Hindu Marriage Act registered as HMP No. 30 of 2005 whereby her prayer for enhancement of maintenance allowance/alimony amount from Rs. 450/- per month to Rs. 6000/- per month has been dismissed.

2. The facts are not in controversy. The petitioner was admittedly wife of the respondent. The petitioner-wife had filed a petition under Section 10 of the Hindu Marriage Act for a decree of judicial separation. The petition was allowed by learned District Judge Mandi, Kullu and Lahaul & Spiti districts at Mandi on 31.1.1983. The respondent-husband has filed an appeal registered as FAO No. 76 of 1983 in this Court against the judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Mandi. During the course of proceedings in the appeal before this Court the petitioner and respondent have agreed to dissolve the marriage by a decree of customary divorce. The divorce deed in original has been produced in evidence by the petitioner and marked as Ext.DA. In terms of this document, the parties mutually agreed for payment of Rs. 450/- per month towards alimony/maintenance allowance to the petitioner by her husband, the respondent, till her death or she remarried. There is no controversy so as to the payment of Rs. 450/- per month by the respondent to the petitioner for her maintenance. However, her grouse is that with the passage of time the income of her husband, the respondent, is increased, therefore the monthly maintenance Rs. 450/- also deserves to be enhanced accordingly and as such, in the petition under Section 25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act she filed in the trial Court claimed a sum of Rs. 6000/- per month by way of such enhancement.

3. Learned trial Judge has framed the following issues in the petition:

1. Whether the petitioner is entitled for enhancement of the alimony amount, if so, to what extent? OPR
2. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR
3. Whether the petition is lamentably delayed and she is estopped from filing the petition? OPR

4. Relief.

4. Learned trial Judge after having taken on record the evidence and also hearing the parties on both sides has arrived at a conclusion that since the petitioner at the time of dissolution of her marriage with the respondent by a decree of customary divorce had agreed to receive Rs. 450/- per month till her death or remarriage as maintenance allowance and that there is no stipulation in the divorce deed Ext.DA that she will have right for further enhancement of the maintenance allowance, therefore, her claim for enhancement of the alimony/maintenance allowance is not sustainable. The petition, as such was ordered to be dismissed vide order under challenge in this appeal.

5. After hearing the matter at length, in the light of the given facts and circumstances and also the evidence available on record as well as the law cited at the Bar, it would not be improper to conclude that the agreement qua the payment of a sum of Rs. 450/- per month to the petitioner as maintenance allowance in terms of the divorce deed Ext.DA cannot be treated as an estoppal to debar the petitioner for seeking enhancement of the amount of alimony in the changed circumstances. The law on the issue is no more res integra. The High Court of Tripura at Agartala in Harilal Sarkar vs. Subhra Sarkar, (2016) 165 AIC 784 :*2016 SCC OnLine Tri 356 a case having similar facts has held that an order qua maintenance allowance based on the settlement/compromise during the course of proceedings in a divorce petition has to be treated an order of maintenance passed under Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act and as such a petition for enhancement of the amount filed under Section 25(2) of the Act is maintainable and not barred by the principle of estoppal. It is seen that three points were formulated by learned Judge after taking into consideration the provisions of law and also the law laid down by various high Courts by way of judicial pronouncements and has held as under:

> "10. On the face of the submission made by the learned counsel for the parties, 3(three) pertinent questions have emerged for consideration, which are as under :
> (i) Whether by agreement the jurisdiction of the competent court under Section 25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 can be ousted?
> (ii) Whether the judgment and order dated 14.09.2010 is the order of maintenance under Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act or not?
> (iii) Whether the right to future maintenance is transferrable and if not whether the settlement is void, so far the terms of maintenance is concerned ?
> WHETHER BY AGREEMENT THE JURISDICTION OF THE COMPETENT COURT UNDER SECTION 25(2) OF THE HINDU MARRIAGE ACT, 1955 CAN BE OUSTED?
> 11. By agreement, jurisdiction of the court which has been created by a statute cannot be taken away. Section 25 as a whole confers the jurisdiction on the competent court to provide permanent alimony and maintenance " at the time of passing any decree or at any time subsequent thereto," on application made to it for the purpose by either the wife or the husband, as the case may be, order that the respondent shall pay maintenance and
> support such gross sum (alimony) which is factored by various element as statutorily provided or by the law as developed in the course of time. It is no more res integra that if any agreement comes in conflict with any valid statute or its provision that becomes unlawful agreement and void in terms of Section 23 of the Indian Contract Act. Hence the jurisdiction of the court for granting maintenance at the time of passing any decree or subsequent thereto cannot be taken away by the settlement/agreement. It is true that if the order is passed under Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 in that case the competent court may vary, modify or rescind any order of maintenance or gross maintenance in a change in the circumstance under Section

25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. But at the same time, if any settlement which has been acted on by the court or recorded, the parties thereto cannot in the ordinary course take the stand contrary thereto and in that case, their action might be hit by the principle of estoppel, if not, such stand emanates from the statute.

WHETHER THE JUDGMENT AND ORDER DATED 14.09.2010 IS THE ORDER OF MAINTENANCE UNDER SECTION 25(1) OF THE HINDU MARRIAGE ACT OR NOT?

12*. There was a compromise petition before the court on settlement of the quantum of the maintenance which was termed as the fixed maintenance and the court had given its approval by passing the compromise decree on granting divorce and maintenance. It is a well accepted proposition that compromise decree pertains the charter of agreement and the decree is drawn accordingly. It can perhaps be said that the quantum ofmaintenance under the decree was not the result of any decision by the court, it was the result of an agreement between the parties, which was acknowledged by the court, for purpose of making it executable at the instance of maintenance-holder.*

13. In Seshi Ammal and another Vs. Thaiyu Ammal, reported in AIR 1964 Madras 217(V 51 C 61), the Madras High Court has enunciated the law holding that such a case will be one where the maintenance is fixed by a decree of court though the basis of it was an agreement it will come directly under Section 25. Thus, the respondent will be entitled to have an enhancement of maintenance once she proves that there has been a material change in the circumstances justifying the enhancement. Therefore, even if agreement relating to the quantum may be the part of the settlement but when the decree passed on adopting the said settlement it becomes the order under Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act. And as such the court has the statutory jurisdiction under Section 25(2) to direct enhancement of the maintenance with a change in the circumstances. The said manner may not be applicable in the case where the permanent alimony has been settled and paid by means of one-time payment. That payment has to be treated as the property transferred for purpose of maintenance.

WHETHER THE RIGHT TO FUTURE MAINTENANCE IS TRANSFERRABLE AND IF NOT WHETHER THE SETTLEMENT IS VOID SO FAR THE TERMS OF MAINTENANCE IS CONCERNED ?

14. Section 6(dd) of the Transfer of Property Act has been incorporated by the Amending Act, 1929. Prior to the amendment there was a conflict of opinion on whether a right of future maintenance when it was fixed by a decree, was transferable. The Madras High Court held that it was, in (Rajah D.K. Thimmanayanim Bahadur Varu, Rajah of Kalahasti and others Vs. Rajah Damara Kumara Venkatappa Nayanim Bahadur Varu and others reported in AIR 1928 Madras 713), but the Calcutta High Court ruled that it was not. Asad Ali Mokat Vs. Haidar Ali reported in 1910 (ILR) 38 Cal 13 did not agree with the decision of Madras High Court. The words 'in whatsoever manner arising, secured or determined' as appearing are very comprehensive and it is submitted that they overrule cases in which when the right has been created by a deed of transfer, it was held that the question whether the right was alienable depends upon the intention of the parties as expressed in the deed.

15. The Privy Council in Lal Rajindra Narain Singh alias Lallu Sahib Vs. Mt. Sundar Bibi reported in AIR 1925 PC 176

held that a right of future maintenance cannot be attached as the right to future maintenance is not capable of transfer. In this regard provisions of Section 60 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 can be referred as co-terminous provision of Section 6(dd) of the Transfer of Property Act as the said provision operates in the similar field, for protection of right of future maintenance from attachment. Therefore, so far the settlement is concerned the parties can determine in whatsoever manner the maintenance in the circumstances when the settlement or the compromise was struck. In this case, the decree dated 14.09.2010 as passed by the Judge, Family Court, West Tripura in T.S.(Divorce) No. 183 of 2010 is couched with the order of maintenance though the quantum, has emerged from an agreement as stated, and such order has been passed under Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1956. There can be no other interpretation, harmonious to the object of Section 25 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. The determination of the maintenance was in the circumstances which existed at the time of execution of the settlement/ compromise cannot extinguish the authority of the court as provided under Section 25(2) of the said Act. If the word 'fixed' quantifying the maintenance is attributed and read in its literal meaning, such agreement shall come in conflict with the statutory provision and the public policy, hence, that part of the agreement shall be void in terms of Section 23 of the Indian Contract Act. In the event of permanent alimony, as settled and as termed as the property for maintenance will not come within the province of Section 25(2).

16. Hence, there is not illegality when the Judge, Family Court, Agartala exercised the jurisdiction under Section 25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act by enhancing the maintenance from Rs.4000/-to Rs.6000/-. Even if, a fixed maintenance allowance is agreed upon towards a decree of divorce, the quantum if accorded and recorded by the court, has to be understood for purpose of maintenance within the ambit of Section 25(1) of the Hindu Marriage Act and with the change in the circumstances the same shall be liable to be re-assessed under Section 25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act. The statutory purpose is very simple is to preserve the value of the maintenance allowance. This statutory principle shall equally apply when the maintenance to be paid periodically in terms of any settlement.

17*. Having held so, we do not find any merit in this appeal from the order and accordingly the same is dismissed".*

6. Similar is the ratio of High Court of Allahabad in Ram Shanker Rastogi vs. Smt. Vinay Rastogi, AIR 1991 Allahabad 255. The facts of this case were also identical to the present one before this Court. It has been held in this judgment that the plea of estoppal or res judicata cannot be invoked in a case of this nature nor the question of maintainability of petition under Section 25(2) for enhancement of maintenance allowance previously awarded by a consent order cannot be raised. This judgment reads as follows:

"10. Neither the provisions of S. 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure nor the principles of res judicata will bar a suit for maintenance on an enhanced rate for a different period under altered circumstances even though on an earlier occasion a maintenance decree had been passed and a certain rate of maintenance had been fixed thereunder. The reason being that such a decree as to the rate of maintenance is not final.

11. The case of Hirabai Bharucha v. Pirojshah Bharucha, AIR 1945 Bombay 537, stems from proceedings under S. 40 of the Parsi Marriage and Divorce Act, 1936. Under this provision, a Court is authorised to award permanent alimony to a wife either at the time of the passing of any decree under that Act or subsequently thereto. The wife is granted a decree of divorce. After the decree is passed, the husband and wife arrive at certain consent terms. One of the terms of the consent order is :

"This Court doth declare that the defendant hereby agrees not to claim any alimony now or at any time in future.".

The wife applies under S. 40 for alimony. It is held that on grounds of public policy the wife cannot enter into a contract that she will not claim any alimony in future. The contract is void and the Court will take notice of that and ignore that part of the order although it was made by consent. Reliance is placed upon a remark by Lord Atkin :

"The wife's right to future maintenance is a matter of public concern which she cannot barter away."

Accepting this proposition, the learned Judge takes the view that the wife cannot barter away her right to future maintenance and enter into a contract to that effect and such a contract will be a void contract in the eye of law.

12. Let us now read Section 25. Subsection (1), inter alia, provides that any Court exercising jurisdiction under the Act may, at the time of passing any decree or at any time subsequent thereto, order that the respondent shall pay to the applicant for her or his maintenance and support such gross sum or such monthly or periodical sum for a term not exceeding the life of the applicant as, having regard to the respondent's own income and other property, if any, the income and the other property of the applicant, the conduct of the parties and other circumstances of the case, which may seem to the Court to just. Sub-section (2) may be extracted :--

(2) If the court is satisfied that there is a change in the circumstances of either party at any time after it has made an order under sub-section (1), it may at the instance of either party, vary, modify or rescind any such order in such manner as the court may deem just."

Admittedly, the Second Civil Judge exercised powers under the Act while passing a decree of divorce under S. 13 and, as already indicated, he passed an order fixing a certain sum as the monthly maintenance allowance for the wife. The Court did not pass any order that the wife will not claim an enhancement of the maintenance allowance in future Assuming a wife gives up her right to claim a higher rate of maintenance allowance in future her consent, in our opinion, will not bring into existence a valid contract. Such an agreement will not only defeat the provisions of subsection (2) of S. 25 but will also frustrate the purpose of giving maintenance allowance. Judicial notice can be taken of rising prices with the result that the cost of bare existence is regularly rising, rather mercurially. In principle, it makes no difference between an agreement by a wife not to claim any alimony at all and an agreement not to claim any enhancement of the rate of maintenance allowance, whatever be the change in the circumstances".

7. Now if adverting to the facts of this case, the respondent while in the witness box as RW1 has admitted that at the relevant time when the deed of divorce Ext.DA was executed and he agreed to pay Rs. 450/- per month as maintenance allowance to his wife the petitioner his salary was Rs. 3300/-. According to him, at the time of his retirement his salary was Rs. 16,000/- per month. The salary certificate Ext.PW2/A reveals that his total salary as on 31st January 2008 was Rs. 23,204/- per month. He retired as Regional Manager from Himachal Road Transport Corporation after superannuation on 29.2.2008. The petitioner though claimed that she has no source of income and that during these days of exorbitant prices it is not possible for her even to meet with requirement of both ends meal. However, even if it is believed that she is owner in possession of some land which according to respondent is measuring 4-2-10 bighas it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that income from the produce thereto is sufficient for her maintenance. The only plea of the respondent that she has earning from selling illicit liquor is not available to him because manufacturing of illicit liquor and its sale is an illegal act and a husband is not expected to force his wife to indulge in any such illegal activity for earning her livelihood.

8. By way of leading additional evidence respondent intends to produce in evidence the copy of FIR No. 301 dated 27.8.2010 registered in Police Station Balh under Section 61 of the Punjab Excise (HP amendment) Act, 1965 which was registered against the petitioner. Since the maintenance allowance is not sufficient, therefore, in case the FIR is rightly registered against her it is her husband the respondent who by not maintaining her properly has compelled her to indulge in such unlawful activity. The FIR even if taken on record and allowed to be produced in evidence will hardly of any help to the case of the respondent. Therefore, the application being devoid of any merit is ordered to be dismissed.

9. Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, learned Counsel has strenuously contended that the settlement of Rs. 450/- per month as maintenance allowance at the time of dissolution of the marriage of the parties by a decree under customary divorce is hardly of any consequences nor debar the petitioner from seeking enhancement of the maintenance allowance. According to Mr. Saklani there cannot be any estoppal against the statutory provisions and as Section 25(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act extends a right in favour of the wife for seeking enhancement of maintenance allowance. The agreement qua payment of Rs. 450/- towards maintenance allowance does not come in the way of petitioner to seek further enhancement.

10. The respondent is a retired officer from Himachal Road Transport Corporation. It can be reasonably believed that he is getting a handsome amount by way of pension and must have get some amount towards his retiral benefits. True it is, that number of dependants upon him is six. It can reasonably be believed that to maintain a family having six family members is difficult during these days. The facts, however, remain that the respondent must spare additional amount for the maintenance of the petitioner also so that she can lead honorable life and is also not forced to starve. Therefore, having regard to all pros and consthough the petitioner is not entitled to enhancement of the maintenance allowance at Rs. 6000/- per month, however, payment of Rs. 2500/- per month to be payable to her from the date of filing of this appeal in this Court i.e. 3.5.2010 would serve the ends of justice. The arrears towards maintenance allowance in terms of this judgment shall be deposited by the respondent in the trial Court in four equal installments. He shall deposit the first installment on or before 31st March, 2017, the second on or before 30th September 2017, the third by 31st March, 2018 and the last and final by 30th September, 2018. The maintenance allowance from December 2016 onwards shall however be paid by him at the enhanced rates i.e. Rs. 2500/-. The failure of the respondent to adhere to the payment schedule as directed shall result in initiation of execution proceedings against him and in that event he shall be liable to pay the amount/balance amount together with interest @6% per annum.

11. With the above observations, the appeal stands disposed of.

12. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

CWP No.2024 of 2015
Judgment Reserved on: 09.11.2016
Date of decision: 24.11.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for establishing green house for growing agriculture and horticulture produce – he was to pay Rs.18 lacs and remaining amount of Rs.30 lacs was to be financed by the Bank- he was entitled to subsidy – the petitioner failed to repay the amount and notice under Section 13(2) of Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 was issued – he approached the writ Court, which passed an order for release of subsidy into the account of the petitioner- however, the subsidy was not released – held, that the project was to be implemented within a period of two years – issuance of letter of intent will not enable a person to get the subsidy – subsidy cannot be claimed as a matter of right- the petitioner had failed to furnish the certificate of completion of project and his case was rightly not considered by the respondents- writ petition dismissed.(Para-10 to 23)

Case referred:
Pashimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited and Others vs. Adarsh Textiles and Another, (2014)16 SCC 212

For the Petitioner:	Mr.Ajay Vaidya, Advocate.
For Respondent No.1:	Mr.Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India with Mr.Ajay Chauhan, Advocate.
For Respondents No.2 & 3:	Mr.L.S. Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

By way of present writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has invoked extra ordinary jurisdiction of this Court and has prayed for following main relief(s):-

> "i) To quash and set aside annexure P-9 and to pass an appropriate writ, order or direction to Respondent No.2 to release the subsidy amounting to Rs.10 (substituted by Rs.10 lacs vide order dated 09.11.2016) in a time bound manner.
> b) Respondent No.1 to respondent No.2 may kindly be directed to adhere to the contents of annexure P-2 in letter and spirit, that is to release the subsidy of Rs.Ten lac in a time bound manner."

2. Briefly stated, facts as emerge from record are that the petitioner, who is an agriculturist, applied for Letter of Intent (for short 'LOI') under the "Development of Commercial Horticulture through Production and Post Harvest Management of National Horticulture Board", Scheme, (for short 'Scheme') for starting the Project, i.e., Green House for growing agriculture and horticulture produces. Total cost of which was Rs.48 lacs, out of which petitioner had to pay Rs.18 lacs and remaining amount of Rs.30 lacs was to be financed by the Bank. Petitioner averred that the said application for LOI was approved by the respondent vide letter dated 08.08.2006 (Annexure P-2), which was valid for one year only. Thereafter, the petitioner approached respondent No.2 for granting of term loan of Rs.30 lacs, who, after verifying that all the formalities have been completed by the petitioner, sanctioned the term loan and then disbursed the same by Central Bank of India on different dates in his favour. As per terms and conditions of LOI, petitioner was entitled to the subsidy on the loan amount to be released by respondent No.2 within two years.

3. Records further reveal that theaforesaid business could not run successfully and due to financial constrains petitioner failed to repay the loan as per the agreement and as such default occurred for not paying the monthly installments. Accordingly, vide notice dated 03.10.2011 under Section 13(2) of the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (for short 'SARFAESI' Act) Central Bank of India issued notice to petitioner for taking possession of the immovable property on account of non-repayment of loan amount. It also emerges from the pleadings that petitioner conveyed the respondents that due to financial constrains he was/is not in a position to pay the total loan amount in one go and prayed for some reasonable installments to clear the same and thereafter petitioner has deposited an amount of Rs.20,98,125/- with the aforesaid Bank. Communication made to the aforesaid Bank by the petitioner also suggests that he was unable to repay the loan amount since he did not receive subsidy from respondent No.1 in terms of LOI (Annexure P-2).

4. In the aforesaid background, petitioner approached this Court by way of writ petition bearing CWP No.2310 of 2012-A, which was disposed of on 29.4.2014 with the direction to respondent No.2 to process the petitioner's case for subsidy, in terms of LOI (Annexure P-2); and the terms of Contract, after affording due opportunity of hearing to all concerned. While passing aforesaid order, this Court also held that amount of subsidy, to which the petitioner would be held entitled, shall be released directly into hisbank account with respondent No.3.

5. Pursuant to directions given in the aforesaid judgment dated 29th April, 2014, respondents No.2 and 3 passed fresh order dated 14th/19th August, 2014 (Annexure P-9), impugned herein, perusal where of suggests that same was passed after hearing the petitioner personally. But fact remains that vide aforesaid impugned order respondent No.3 rejected the case of the petitioner for grant of subsidy on the ground that he was unable to place on record any document suggestive of the fact that he had completed Project in terms of LOI (Annexure P-2) issued by the respondents.

6. Petitioner, being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the impugned order dated 14th/19th August, 2014 passed by respondent No.3, approached this Court by way of instant writ petition praying therein the reliefs as reproduced above.

7. Shri Ajay Vaidya, learned counsel representing the petitioner, while referring to Annexure P-9, impugned order passed by respondent No.3, vehemently argued that same is not in consonance with the directions contained in judgment dated 29th April, 2014 passed by this Court in CWP No.2310 of 2012-A and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Vaidya further contended that aforesaid impugned order passed by the authority is patently illegal and contrary to record because there was no question, if any, to submit completion certificate by the petitioner because bare perusal of LOI (Annexure P-2) suggests that the petitioner had completed the Project and he was entitled to the subsidy in terms of Scheme. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Vaidya forcefully contended that bare perusal of impugned order passed by respondent No.3 suggests that there is no application of mind and case of petitioner for grant of subsidy has been turned down on hyper-technical grounds and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside and petitioner is required to be granted subsidy in light of LOI (Annexure P-2).

8. Mr.L.S. Thakur, learned counsel representing respondents No.2 and 3, supported the impugned order passed by respondent No.3 by stating that a bare perusal of the same suggests that despite ample opportunities, petitioner failed to furnish requisite information/documents to enable the respondents to process his case for subsidy claim. Shri Thakur, with a view to refute the aforesaid contention put forth on behalf of the counsel representing the petitioner that Project was complete in all respect, invited the attention of this Court to the reply filed by respondents No.2 and 3 to demonstrate that Project in question was never completed and same was sold to some other party without informing respondents No.2 and 3. He further stated that since no joint inspection, as per criteria laid down in the column could be conducted for assessment of subsidy, there was no question, if any, to release subsidy as is being claimed by the petitioner and in the aforesaid background he sought dismissal of the petition with costs.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

10. Careful perusal of LOI (Annexure P-2) suggests that in response to application/proposal submitted by present petitioner, letter of expression was issued under the Scheme for the activity proposed in the application. But same suggests that its scope was limited to merely for approval of activity proposed in the application and in no manner it could be termed as endorsement or approval of the Project. Close scrutiny of documents referred to hereinabove also suggests that LOI issued in favour of present petitioner was subject to certain conditions which are reproduced hereinbelow:

"i) This LOI is being issued on the condition that the proposed activity is a completely new activity and it is not for any pre-existing activity or for any component thereof.

ii) The LOI will be valid for one year from the date of issue. The Promoter should accordingly approach a Bank/FI of his choice immediately after obtaining the LOI from NHB and get his term loan sanctioned by the Bank/FI.

(iii) Mere grant of LOI by NHB does not in any way obviate the responsibility of the Bank/FI to carefully scrutinize the project proposal. The Bank/FI shall be solely responsible for financial appraisal of the project. Therefore, the Bank/FI while sanctioning the project proposal has to cautiously examine/evaluate and appraise the proposal thoroughly after conducting a detailed field inspection to ensure the technical feasibility & financial viability of the project. The Bank after due field verification must ensure that this proposal is not for any pre-existing activity but is in respect of a completely new activity as proposed in the LOI application/DPR submitted by the beneficiary.

iv) The project should, however, be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan. The payment of back-ended subsidy will be made after project has been successfully completed according to the term and conditions of the loan/or as per the approved feasibility cum project report, as the case may be.

v) The projects will not be eligible for NHB subsidy under this scheme where cultivation of seasonal/short duration horticulture crops is envisaged in open field.

vi) Mere issuance of LOI will not guarantee the grant of subsidy to the beneficiary unless the proposal is implemented in accordance with the information given in the application of LOI/Detailed Project Report (DPR) and within overall guidelines of the scheme. Any deviation in implementation of project will lead to rejection of proposal for which promoter will be solely responsible.

vii) The quantum of subsidy will be decided after taking into account the recommendation of the Joint Inspection Team as constituted by NHB and on the basis of cost norms of NHB in respect of different admissible items of expenditure in the project. However, in case there is a variation between the cost as appraised by Bank and the cost norms of NHB, the lowest cost will be considered. In addition, NHB will also have the right to restrict admissible components and expenditure thereon to such limit as may be considered justified.

viii) The project will not be eligible to receive subsidy under NHB schemes in case benefit of subsidy/grant-in-aid from other agencies of Govt. of India has been availed/is proposed to be availed.

ix) The Board reserves the right to cancel the LOI at any time in case there has been misrepresentation by the Promoter OR any information furnished by the Promoter is found false or there has been concealment of any facts.

x) NHB reserves the right to modify, add and decide any terms & condition to this LOI without assigning any reason thereof.

xi) NHB's interpretation on various terms & conditions of LOI will be final."

11. Clause-iv of the LOI mentioned hereinabove suggests that Project was required to be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan and thereafter payment of back ended subsidy, if any, was to be made, that too, after successful completion of Project according to terms and conditions of the loan and was as per the approved feasibility-cum-project report.

12. Further clause-v clearly suggests that Project could not be granted NHB for subsidy in the Scheme where cultivation of seasonal/short duration horticulture crops is/was envisaged in open field.

13. Most importantly clause-vi suggests that mere issuance of LOI will not guarantee the grant of subsidy to the beneficiary unless the proposal is implemented in accordance with the information given in the application of LOI.

14. Finally quantum of subsidy in terms of Scheme was to be decided by joint inspection Team after taking into account the work done by the applicant.

15. Clause-ix of the LOI further gives liberty to respondents to cancel the LOI at any time in case of mis-representation/concealment of facts by the promoter.

16. Minute reading of aforesaid LOI clearly suggests that completion of Project is condition precedent for grant of subsidy. Similarly, quantum of subsidy is required to be determined by Joint Inspection Team which would visit the Project site and make recommendation qua the admissibility of subsidy.

17. Similarly, condition No.(iv) suggests that Project should be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan.

18. This Court with a view to test the correctness and genuineness of submissions having been made on behalf of petitioner that the Project was complete examined LOI (Annexure P-2), but it nowhere suggests that petitioner had completed the Project within stipulated time and in this regard he had furnished information/claim with the respondents for grant of subsidy. Rather, perusal of Annexure P-2 suggests that on the application having been filed by petitioner, LOI was issued to him in token of approval for activity proposed in the application and in no manner it could be termed as an approval of the Project cost indicated in the application. Conditions contained in LOI (Annexure P-2), which have been reproduced hereinabove, itself suggest that it was incumbent upon the petitioner to comply with certain conditions before making himself eligible for grant of subsidy in terms of Scheme, referred hereinabove.

19. Apart from LOI (Annexure P-2), there is no document available on record by the petitioner suggestive of the fact that pursuant to LOI issued vide order dated 8.8.2006, Project was completed within stipulated time and thereafter same was examined by Joint Inspection Team, which had to recommend the case for grant of subsidy. All other documents, save and except Annexure P-2, placed on record by the petitioner relate to communication with the Central Bank of India from where petitioner had availed loan to the tune of Rs.30 lacs for setting up the Project. Hence, this Court has all the reasons to conclude that at no point of time petitioner completed the Project in terms of Annexure P-2, as such, he was rightly not granted subsidy. At this stage, it would be profitable to reproduce para-3 of preliminary submission and para-6 of preliminary objections to the reply filed by respondents No.2 and 3, which reads as under:

"Preliminary Submissions:

3. That it is respectfully submitted that Subsidy is a grant from the government and any citizen cannot claim a right to get subsidy. The sanction and disbursement of the subsidy is strictly governed by the terms and conditions of the scheme and also the Letter of Intent which are as follows:

- The LOI will be valid for one year from the date of issue. The promoter should approach the Bank/FI of his choice immediately after obtaining the LOI from NHB and get his term loan sanctioned by the bank/FI.
    - Mere grant of LOI by NHB does not in any way obviate the responsibility of the Bank/FI to carefully scrutinize the project proposal. The Bank/FI shall be solely responsible for financial appraisal of the project. Therefore, the Bank/FI while sanctioning the proposal has to cautiously examine/evaluate and appraise the proposal thoroughly after conducting a detailed field inspection to ensure the technical feasibility and financial viability of the project.
    - The project should, however, be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan. The payment of back-ended subsidy will disbursed after project has been successfully completed according to the term and conditions of the loan/or as per the approved feasibility cum project report, as the case may be.
    - Mere issuance of LOI will not guarantee the grant of subsidy to the beneficiary unless the proposal is implemented in accordance with the information given in the application of LOI/Detailed Project Report (DPR) and within overall guidelines of the scheme. Any deviation in implementation of project will lead to rejection of proposal for which promoter will be solely responsible.
    - NHB reserves the right to modify, add and delete any terms and conditions to the LOI without assigning any reason thereof.
    - Bank/FI are advised to furnished the details as per operational guidelines to our State office immediately after release of full amount of term loan and completion of the project for conducting joint inspection and consideration of subsidy."

"Preliminary Objections:

6. In compliance of the directions passed by this Hon'ble Court, the Petitioner was given due opportunity to represent his case for subsidy along with supporting documents before answering Respondent twice. During personal hearing, Petitioner informed that the project work was not functional since long and he has sold out the assets of the project and the project is now abandoned. It is stated that neither the answering Respondent nor the bank was informed about the disposing of assets. As such joint inspection as per the criteria laid down was not possible for assessment of subsidy and thereby the case of the petitioner was duly rejected in accordance to the guidelines. Further, as per the term loan account provided by the petitioner, it was evident that the project was irregular in payment of installment since beginning and due to which his loan account was declared NPA. As per the guidelines, projects with NPA account are not considered with back end subsidy and the same was duly communicated to the petitioner vide letter dated 19th Aug, 2014 and the same is annexed as "ANNEXURE R-6". Further, the petitioner has deliberately not made Central Bank of India party to these proceedings for his oblique motives. Thus, this petition deserves to be dismissed at preliminary stage."

20. Reply filed by respondents clearly suggests that Project was required to be implemented within a period of two years from the date of sanction of loan and thereafter only payment of back ended subsidy could be disbursed after successful completion of Project in accordance with terms and conditions set out in LOI issued at the time of initial approval. It emerges from the reply filed by the respondents that after issuance of directions by this Court in CWP No.2310 of 2012-A, various opportunities were given to the petitioner to furnish documents in support of his claim, which were essential for taking the joint inspection, but same were not furnished, as a result of which, no assessment of quantum of subsidy could be made by Joint Inspection Team as prescribed in LOI. It also emerges from the record that even during personal hearing having been afforded to the petitioner, he himself informed the respondents that Project work was not functional since long and as such he sold out the assets of the Project and the Project is now abandoned. But this Court sees no documents available on record suggestive of the fact that in this regard information, if any, was ever sent to the respondents. Perusal of communication dated 14th/19th August, 2014 (Annexure R-6) placed on record further suggests that as per own submission of petitioner that he had obtained Term Loan Account from bank i.e. Central Bank of India, he was irregular in re-payment of installments since beginning and due to his inconsistent default, loan account was declared Non Performing Assets (for short `NPA') vide notice dated 3rd October, 2011 under Section 13(2) of SARFAESI Act. Since loan account of petitioner was declared NPA, case of the petitioner for back ended subsidy could not be considered in terms of general guidelines issued for all the Schemes vide Annexure R-4. Otherwise also subsidy, if any, being concession, cannot be claimed as a matter of right, rather it is the prerogative of the State to extend the benefit of subsidy.

21. In this regard reliance is placed on Pashimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited and Others vs. Adarsh Textiles and Another, (2014)16 SCC 212, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

> "26. It can be culled out from order dated 14.6.2006 that the State Government intended the benefit to be extended to power-loom 'weavers' alike farmers. The activity of manufacturing textile is generally understood as the weaving of such textile and man who is engaged in such power-loom activity is known as weaver. Weaving means: to form a fabric by interlacing yarn on a loom. It also means the method of pattern of weaving or the structure of a woven fabric, as observed by this Court in Ess Dee Carpet Enterprises v. Union of India (1990) 1 SCC 461. The State Government thus, never intended the benefit to be given to big industries like HV-2 industries. In the circumstances, it was incumbent upon the Commission to consult the State Government before passing clarification order dated 14-15/9/2006 while applying its order dated 11.7.2006 to HV-2 consumers. When the State Government has written to the Commission on 6.10.2006, thereafter there was no justification for the Commission not to recall the clarification issued on 14-15/9/2006 as it was the prerogative of the State Government to extend the benefit ofsubsidy to a class or particular class of consumers and subsidy being a concession could not have been enforced as a matter of right. The Commission was bound to act as per such directives of State Government. (p.220) (Emphasis supplied)

22. After carefully perusing the pleadings as well as documents made available on record, we are fully convinced and satisfied that the petitioner failed to comply with the conditions contained in the LOI (Annexure P-2) and at no point of time he furnished certificate of completion of the Project from the borrower bank and as such his case was rightly not considered by respondents No.2 and 3 for grant of back ended subsidy in terms of Scheme referred hereinabove. It is admitted case of the petitioner that due to financial constrains he was unable to run the Project and he sold the same to other person. It is also clear from the impugned order that the petitioner's account was declared NPA on account of non-repayment of loan advanced for the completion of the Project.

23. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussions made hereinabove, we do not see any illegality and infirmity in the impugned order dated 14th/19th August, 2014 (Annexure P-9) passed by the respondents rejecting the claim of the petitioner and as such this Court sees no occasion to interfere in the present case by invoking extra ordinary jurisdiction, as prayed for, by the petitioner in the present petition. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed.

24. Interim direction, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

Learned Special Judge, Hamirpur has acquitted respondent No. 1 (hereinafter referred to as 'accused No.1') of the charge framed against him under Section 363, 366-A, 376, 506 and 120-B of the Indian Penal Code and under Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 and his co-accused Chander Parkash, father (hereinafter referred to as 'accused No.2') and Salochna Devi, mother (hereinafter referred to as 'accused No.3') of the charge under Section 366-A read with Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code vide impugned judgment dated 10.06.2014 passed in Sessions Trial No. 22/2013.

2. Accused Nos. 2 and 3 are parents of accused No. 1 Rajeev Kumar. The allegations against them are that on 01.08.2013 accused No. 1 had made a phone call to PW-1, the prosecutrix (name withheld) and asked her to come to Hamirpur. She went to Hamirpur and received there at bus-stand by Chander Parkash, accused No. 2. She was taken to their residence near Gandhi Chowk, Hamirpur, where accused No. 3 happens to meet her. She lived there in the Company of accused persons for five days. Thereafter, she went with accused No. 1 to Beas. They stayed at Beas for a day and then went to 'Baba Bakala'. They stayed there in a 'Saraye' (inn) for 4-5 days. It is at this place, the prosecutrix allegedly was subjected to sexual intercourse by accused No. 1 without her consent and against her will. After visiting 'Baba

Bakala', they went to 'Budha Samadhi'. There also she was subjected to sexual intercourse by the said accused forcibly. They stayed at 'Budha Samadhi' for five days and thereafter went to Amritsar. There, accused Nos. 2 and 3 also joined them. Accused No. 1 had taken her cellphone. She was also threatened by the said accused with dire consequences, if she revealed the incident to anyone else. While at Amritsar, they were traced by the police of Police Station, Hamirpur on 24.08.2013. The prosecutrix was entrusted in superdari to a Lady Constable vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/A. All the three accused and the prosecutrix were brought by the police to Sujanpur on 25.08.2013. During the course of investigation, the clothes of prosecutrix were taken into possession. She was got medically examined in the hospital. Her statement Ext. PW-1/E was recorded in the Court.

3. On the completion of investigation report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was filed against all the three accused. Learned Special Judge on going through the report and documents annexed thereto and also hearing learned Public Prosecutor and learned defence counsel has found a prima-facie case under Section 363, 366-A, 376, 506, 120-B IPC and Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 having been made out against accused No.1, whereas, under Section 366-A and 120-B IPC against accused No.2 and 3. The charge against them was framed accordingly. The accused, however, pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The prosecution in order to sustain the charge against the accused persons had examined 25 witnesses in all.

4. On the other hand, accused No. 1 in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has admitted that they were traced by the police at Amritsar on 24.08.2013 and the prosecutrix was handed over to Lady Constable Praveen Kumari (PW-5) vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/A. They were brought to Police Station, Sujanpur on 25.08.2013 by the I.O. ASI Ashok Kumar (PW-25). The Police got him medically examined and it is Dr. Mohinder Singh Rana (PW-14) who had examined him vide MLC Ext. PW-14/B. The rest of the prosecution case has either been denied by him being wrong or for want of knowledge. Similarly, his co-accused while admitting that they were brought to Police Station, Sujanpur by ASI Ashok Kumar (PW-25) on 25.08.2013, have denied all the incriminating circumstances appearing against them in prosecution evidence being wrong. In their defence, it was pleaded that a false case has been engineered against them and that the witnesses have deposed falsely under the pressure of local M.L.A Shri Rajinder Rana. They, however, opted for not producing any evidence in their defence.

5. Learned Special Judge on appreciation of the evidence comprising oral as well documentary has concluded that the prosecution failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. Also that, as per evidence available on record, the prosecutrix was above 18 years of age and as such, a consenting party, even if was subjected to sexual intercourse by accused No. 1. No evidence was found to be there on record showing the involvement of accused Nos. 2 and 3 in the commission of offence punishable under Section 366-A and 120-B IPC and the accused, as such, were acquitted of the charge framed against each of them.

6. The respondent-State aggrieved by the findings of acquittal recorded by learned Special Judge has questioned the legality and validity of the impugned judgment on the grounds inter-alia that the evidence available on record has been considered in a slip-shod and perfunctory manner. The impugned judgment has been passed on hypothesis, conjectures and surmises. The evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of the prosecution witnesses has been brushed aside for untenable reasons. The date of birth of the prosecutrix as 12.09.1997 though stands established from the certificate Ext. PW-11/B issued by the Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Chamyana and copy of parivar register Ext. PW-10/B, however, the same has erroneously been ignored and to the contrary learned Special Judge has erroneously concluded that her age was not less than 18 years. The testimony of the mother of the prosecutrix PW-2 and her brother PW-3 in this regard is stated to be misconstrued, misunderstood and mis-appreciated. Learned Special Judge is stated to have gone wrong while calculating the age of prosecutrix at his own in utter disregard to the cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution. The Court has erroneously swayed by the admission made by PW-2 and PW-3 that the prosecutrix failed twice/thrice while pursuing her studies in the school. Learned Special Judge was also wrong while holding that in view of there was no mark of injuries and symptoms of rape, the present was a case of consent. The prosecutrix has supported the prosecution case that she was called by accused No. 1 by making call to her over cellphone and while in his company, he subjected her to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will. Such evidence is stated to be erroneously ignored. There is ample evidence to prove that accused Nos. 2 and 3 took active part in ensuring the kidnapping of the prosecutrix by accused No. 1 and thereafter to accompany accused No. 1 to different places under the threat that there is apprehension of they both were likely to be nabbed by the police, however, learned Special Judge has erroneously concluded that cogent and reliable evidence to show the involvement of accused Nos. 2 and 3 was not available on record.

7. Mr. M.A. Khan, learned Additional Advocate General has forcefully contended that the present is a case where a minor below 16 years of age has been sexually assaulted by accused no. 1 and thereby he has committed a heinous offence, however, acquitted by learned Special Judge below while mis-appreciating, mis-construing and misreading cogent and over whelming evidence having come on record.

8. On the other hand, learned defence counsel has urged that the prosecutrix being more than 18 years of age had voluntarily accompanied accused No. 1 and visited several places with him. Although, cogent and reliable evidence except for her own testimony to show that she was subjected to sexual intercourse forcibly by accused No. 1, however, even if ultimately it is held that she was subjected to sexual intercourse such an act was not without her consent and against her will and rather consensual. So far as accused Nos. 2 and 3 are concerned, according to learned defence counsel, the present is a case of no evidence against the said accused. It has, therefore, been urged that all the accused have rightly been acquitted by learned Special Judge and as such the impugned judgment calls for no interference.

9. The nature of the offence, the accused persons allegedly committed is not only heinous but also grievous in nature because as per the allegations, accused No. 1 has not only removed the prosecutrix, allegedly a minor from her lawful guardianship in connivance with his parents, accused Nos. 2 and 3, but also subjected her to sexual intercourse against her will and without her consent.

10. It is, however, yet to be determined by us with the help of evidence available on record that the prosecutrix at the relevant time was a minor or that removed from her lawful guardianship by the accused persons in connivance with each other and also that the sexual assault made on her by accused No. 1 was without her consent and against her will, however, it is desirable to take note as to under what circumstances the commission of offence allegedly committed by the accused can be inferred. A bare perusal of Section 361 IPC reveals that if a female under 18 years of age is enticed away by a person from her lawful guardianship without the consent of her guardian, such person can be said to have committed the offence of kidnapping. The essential ingredients to constitute an offence of kidnapping, therefore, is enticing away a minor from her lawful guardianship without the consent of her guardian or any other person legally authorized to consent on behalf of such guardian of minor. Such person can be said to have committed an offence of kidnapping punishable under Section 363 of the Indian Penal Code. Section 366-A IPC takes care of a situation where a girl below 18 years of age is induced to leave a place so that she can be forced to have illicit intercourse with another person and such person can be said to have committed offence punishable under Section 366-A of the Indian Penal Code.

11. Now if coming to Section 120-B of the Act, it is required to be pleaded and proved that a criminal conspiracy was hatched and the culprit was a party to such conspiracy.

12. Now if coming to the commission of offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code in a case of minor, the commission of offence can be said to have committed if it is established that the prosecutrix has been subjected to sexual intercourse by the accused or in a case where the prosecutrix is not minor, the prosecution is additionally required to plead and prove beyond all reasonable doubt that such an act with her was against her will and without her consent.

13. Now if coming to the legal principles attracted in a case of this nature, in State of Punjab Vs. Gurmeet Singh and others, AIR 1996 SC 1393, the Apex Court has held that the own statement of the prosecutrix if inspires confidence is sufficient to bring the guilt home to the accused. The apex Court in order to ensure that an innocent person is not implicated in the commission of an offence of this nature, while taking note of the judgment in Gurmeet Singh's case supra has however diluted the ratio thereof in Ranjit Hazarika Vs. State of Assam, (1998) 8 SCC 635 and held that the statement of prosecutrix cannot be universally and mechanically applied to the facts of every case of sexual assault, as in its opinion, in such cases, the possibility of false implication can't also be ruled-out. Similar was the view of the matter taken again by the apex Court in Vimal Suresh Kamble Vs. Chaluverapinake Apal S.P. and another, (2003) 3 SCC 175. While placing reliance on this judgment and the law laid down by the Apex Court in the judgment supra, this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 481 of 2009 titled State of Himachal Pradesh V. Negi Ram, decided on 27th May, 2016 has held as under:

> "15. Therefore, the legal position as discussed supra makes it crystal clear that irrespective of an offence of this nature not only grievous but heinous also, the Court should not got swayed merely by passion and influence only on account of the offence has been committed against a woman and rather keep in mind the cardinal principle of criminal administration of justice, that an offender has to be believed to be innocent unless and until held guilty by the Court after satisfying its judicial conscience on the basis of given facts and circumstances of each case as well as proper appreciation of the evidence available on record."

14. Now if coming to the merits of the case, in a case of this nature, it is the age aspect, which assumes considerable force. As noticed supra, the age of the prosecutrix, in the case in hand, has been claimed below 16 years. It is the extract of parivar register Ext. PW-10/B and the date of birth certificate Ext. PW-11/B have been relied upon by the prosecution to prove this part of the prosecution case. The extract of parivar register Ext. PW-10/B cannot be treated to be a legal and acceptable piece of evidence in order to determine the age of a person because it is the entries in the birth and death register, that too, when the person at whose instance the same were entered at the time of birth of that person, if examined qua authenticity and genuineness thereof can be treated as cogent and convincing evidence qua the exact age of the said person. Therefore, the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of Smt. Reeta Chandel (PW-10) who has proved the extract of parivar register Ext. PW-10/B is hardly of any help to the case of the prosecution.

15. Now if coming to the date of birth certificate Ext. PW-11/B issued by Pawan Kumar, Secretary Gram Panchayat, Chamyana, he has not said as to from which record this document was issued by him. Though, he has deposed while in the witness box that the certificate is true and correct as per original record brought by him to the Court and that as per such record, the date of birth of the prosecutrix is 12.09.1997, however, nothing has come on record that the record he had produced was original birth and death register. Even if it is believed that such record was original birth register, nothing has come on record as to at whose instance, the entries qua the birth of prosecutrix were recorded in the said register. On the other hand, he has admitted cutting in this register against the alleged entries qua the birth of the prosecutrix made. Therefore, Ext. PW-11/B cannot also be said to be legal and acceptable evidence in order to inter that the prosecutrix was born on 12.09.1997. In case Ext. PW-11/B is excluded, there hardly remains any other cogent and reliable evidence accept for oral evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of her mother Smt. Sunita Devi (PW-2) and Anil Kumar (PW-3).

16. Now if coming to the statement made by her mother PW-2, the prosecutrix was admitted in school at the age of six years. At the relevant time, she was a student of 10th class. According to this witness prosecutrix failed twice, whereas, as per testimony of PW-3 her brother, she failed twice or thrice. Learned Special Judge, therefore, has not committed any illegality or irregularity while arriving at a conclusion that the prosecutrix on the day of occurrence was above 18-19 years of age for the reason that had she failed before her admission in 10th class twice or thrice, she being admitted in the school at the age of six years was aged (10+6+2/3)=18-19 years. Learned Additional Advocate General, as such, is not right while arguing that evidence qua age aspect of the prosecutrix has not been considered by learned Special Judge in its right perspective. The present rather is a case where the prosecution has miserably failed to prove that on the date of occurrence, the prosecutrix was below 18 years of age. Except for the testimony of the prosecutrix that accused No. 2 met her at Hamirpur in the bus stand and that she was taken by the said accused to his quarter at Gandhi Chowk, Hamirpur, where accused No. 3 happened to meet her and that it is the said accused managed her elopement with accused No. 1 at the pretext that there was every likelihood of they being nabbed by the Hamirpur police, there is no corroboration thereto from any independent source. On the other hand, conduct and behaviour of the prosecutrix to be discussed hereinafter amply demonstrates that she accompanied the accused voluntarily and visited several places without lodging any protest at any stage of her stay with accused No. 1 lead to the only conclusion that she was not a minor below 18 years of age nor enticed away by accused No. 1 himself or at the behest of his parents, accused Nos. 2 and 3, after having hatched conspiracy, with a view to force her to sexual intercourse. The prosecutrix rather had attained the age of discretion and she was at the verge of reaching at the age of majority, hence left the house of her parents without any persuasion or deceitful means and rather voluntarily accompanied accused No. 1 and permitted him to take her away from one place to another. Merely a passing reference in her statement that her cellphone was taken from her by accused No. 1 and that she was threatened with dire consequences cannot be believed to infer that she was threatened to do away with her life by accused No. 1 had hue and cry been raised by her or protest lodged. Therefore, no case either under Section 363 or 366-A and for that matter under Section 506 and 120-B of the Indian Penal Code is made out against accused No. 1. Similarly, no case for the commission of an offence under Section 366-A or 120-B of the Indian Penal Code is made out against his co-accused also. Thus, the prosecution has failed to bring guilt home to any of the accused from the evidence available on record and as such, they have rightly been acquitted of the charge framed against each of them. We are drawing support in this regard from the judgment of this Court in Trilok Chand versus State of H.P. 1996(1) Sim. L.C. 187, which read as follows:

> "9. After scrutinizing the available evidence carefully, I am of the considered opinion that no offence under Section 366, Indian Penal Code is made out. It may be that the prosecutrix was below eighteen years on the day of occurrence, however, it is absolutely clear from her conduct and the evidence that she had reached the stage of discretion. She was in complete love with the accused for along time. She had written number of letters to him disclosing her close intimacy and friendship with the accused. It is not possible to believe that the prosecutrix was in any way influenced or coerced by the accused either for friendship, or for marriage and providing her ornaments and clothes. It appears that she had already settled to elope with the accused that is why the accused came at that hour of night entering into the room where the prosecutrix was sleeping with her sister and two brothers and parents in the adjoining room. The fact that the prosecutrix had not bolted the door from inside also reinforces the conclusion that she had invited the accused to take her at that time of the night. She changed her clothes and left this place so secretly that the elopement was not noticed by any one of the inmates. There could be no reason for the prosecutrix to be under any kind of pressure from the accused. Voluntarily, she left the place and moved with the accused from place to place for days together without raising hue and cry. The facts rather disclose that it was the prosecutrix > who played the dominant role in leaving the house. When the elopement was settled, it can be legitimately inferred that the accused may not have at all entered the room of the prosecutrix and coerced her to leave the place as alleged. Rather, she must be waiting for his appearance. At one time, she had gone out during the night looking for the accused, though, she had stated that she had done so for urination, yet the fact remains that when she returned to the room, she did not bolt the door from inside. Consequently, it is plainly clear that the prosecutrix left her father's guardianship voluntarily and the accused was not responsible for the same. The trial Judge has not appreciated the evidence correctly with the result that wrong conclusion has been drawn on this aspect of the case."

17. It is now to be seen that in the given facts and circumstances, the prosecution has been able to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that the prosecutrix has been subjected to sexual intercourse by accused No. 1 without her consent and against her will. As is held in para supra, the prosecutrix has not been proved to be below 16 years of age. She was major above 18 years of age. She, as per the prosecution case itself had received a call over her cellphone from accused No. 1 who asked her to come to Hamirpur. She boarded a bus from village Chhail(Patlandar) to Hamirpur. His mother, who is accused No. 3 also talked with her and told her that marriage will be solemnized with accused No. 1. She, therefore, boarded bus for Hamirpur and received there at bus stand by accused No.2. She was brought by the said accused to Gandhi Chowk to his quarter. There, she met with accused No. 3. She lived in that quarter for 4-5 days. Gandhi Chowk area of Hamirpur town is thickly populated. As a matter of fact, it is headquarter of Hamirpur district. There exists the Collectorate, Police Headquarter and also Judicial Court Complex nearby Gandhi Chowk. Though, no such evidence has come on record, however, judicial notice thereof can be taken. She, however, not raised any hue and cry during her stay in the quarter of accused at Gandhi Chowk. She went to Beas with accsued No. 1. They may have travelled by road from Hamirpur to Beas. There is no evidence that she lodged any protest against her being taken away by the said accused to that place. They stayed at Beas, a religious place, which place is visited by hundreds of devotees everyday. There is no evidence that she raised any hue and cry and lodged protest at Beas. On the other hand, she went along with accused No. 1 to Baba Bakala, where she allegedly was subjected to sexual intercourse for the first time. They stayed there for 4-5 days in a 'Saraye', however, she never lodged any protest at that place also. Then they went to Budha Samadhi and there also they lived for five days. She was subjected to sexual intercourse by accused at this place also. After staying at Budha Samadhi for five days, they came to Amritsar. It is at that place, she was apprehended by the police of Police Station, Sujanpur on 24.08.2013 in the company of accused. According to her, accused No. 1 was known to her one month prior to the occurrence. He used to call her over cellphone, however, she did not disclose the same to her mother and brother. Her brother Anil Kumar (PW-3) was working at the residence of Shri Rajinder Rana, a local M.L.A. No doubt, while in the witness box, it is stated that her cellphone was taken by accused No. 1 and she was threatened by him with dire consequences, in case disclosed anything to anyone. It is denied that accused No. 1 did not entice her away from her lawful guardianship and that she accompanied him voluntarily. It is also denied that the said accused did not subject her to forcible sexual intercourse. She, however, admitted that while she belongs to general category the accused belongs to reserve category.

18. Such evidence having come on record lead to the only conclusion that the accused never subjected the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will. Even if it is believed that she was subjected to sexual intercourse by accused No. 1, such an act cannot be said to be without her consent and rather consensual. The present is also not a case where her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she was interested in fear of death or of hurt. It is also not the prosecution case that she was of unsound mind and as such unable to understand the nature of the act allegedly committed by accused No. 1 with her. As a matter of fact, the present was a case based by the prosecution on 6th situation below Section 375 of the Indian Penal code, however, failed to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that the prosecutrix was below 18 years of age on the date of occurrence. On the other hand, her conduct, as is apparent from her own testimony itself demonstrates that she was a consenting party to her elopement with accused No. 1. The scientific investigation conducted rule-out the possibility of commission of sexual intercourse with her as blood and semen could not be detected on either of the exhibits, which were sent for chemical analysis, however, the clinical examination conducted by PW-12 Dr. Rajneesh Thakur reveals that she was exposed to quietus. However, there being no evidence qua the mark of violence on her body, it cannot be believed that she was assaulted sexually against her will and without her consent. The evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of PW-2 and PW-3 being hearsay is not of much help to the prosecution case. Similarly, the remaining prosecution witnesses who remained associated during the course of investigation of the case in one way or the other are formal and their testimony would have only been termed as link evidence had the prosecution been otherwise able to bring guilt home to the accused persons beyond all reasonable doubt. The charge under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code framed against the accused thus also bound to fall to the ground.

19. The reappraisal of the evidence on record leads to the only conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused persons beyond all reasonable doubt and as such, they have rightly been acquitted of the charge framed against each of them by learned trial Court. Consequently, the findings recorded by learned trial Court calls for no interference. We, therefore, find no illegality, irregularity or infirmity in the impugned judgment. The same, as such, is ordered to be affirmed.

20. For all the reasons discussed hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. Personal bonds furnished by the accused persons shall stand cancelled and sureties discharged.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary.J.

This judgment shall dispose of the present appeal (Cr. Appeal No. 567 of 2000), Criminal Appeal No. 35 of 2001 and Criminal Revision No. 155 of 2000, arising out of the judgment dated 21.8.2000, passed by learned Addl. Sessions Judge (I), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. in Sessions Case No. 40-P/97.

2. It is the convicts, (hereinafter referred to as the accused) who have preferred this appeal in this Court. They both were charged under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, with the allegations that on 19.10.1996 around 10 p.m. at Village Sukarna, in furtherance of their common intention to kill one Arjun Singh Katoch, they assaulted him and he succumbed to the injuries inflicted by both of them and thereby they murdered said Shri Arjun Singh. They, however, were convicted by learned Additional Sessions Judge-I, Kangra at Dharamshala for the commission of offence, punishable under Section 304 (II) of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 3 years and to pay a fine of Rs.5000/-. In default of payment of fine, each of them has to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a term of 6 months.

3. Connected Criminal Appeal No. 35 of 2001 has been filed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the conviction and sentence of both convicts under Section 304 (II) read with Section 34 IPC instead of under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC.

4. If coming to Cr. Appeal No. 155 of 2000, the same has also been preferred against the judgment ibid by Ms. Raman Katoch, the widow of deceased Arjun Singh with a prayer to convict both accused for the commission of offence punishable under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC and accordingly enhance the sentencepassed against each of them.

5. The prosecution case, as disclosed from the report field under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and the documents annexed therewith, in a nutshell, is that not only both the accused, but deceased Arjun Singh was also resident of village Nagehar under Police Station, Baijnath, District Kangra. They were cousins in relation. The deceased was working as Branch Manager in a Company, namely Golden Land in its Shimla Office.

6. On 19.10.1996, marriage of a fellow villager namely Nagesh, was being solemnized. Deceased Arjun Singh had also gone from Shimla to his village to attend the marriage. The Baraat of Nagesh had to go to village Sukarna. Deceased Arjun Singh and his friend PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, PW9 Yashbir Singh and PW5 Janak Chand also went to village Sukarna as Baraties (member of marriage party) in a Maruti Car bearing registration No.CH1-0J-3572. The deceased and his friends had dinner at the place of bride. Around 10 p.m. after having dinner they planned to come back to their native place, village Nagehar. They all boarded the car. Deceased Arjun Singh was on its wheel. They were hardly 100-150 yards away from the house of bride, when noticed that other Baraties, including both the accused, were dancing on the tune of band and the band party following them. On noticing there being congestion over the road, deceased Arjun Singh stopped the vehicle in one side of the road. He switched off the engine and the lights also. He thereafter came out of the car for answering the call of nature. When he did not come back for about 10-12 minutes, other occupants of the car, including PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, who as a matter of fact, is the complainant in this case, noticed that the deceased was being beaten up by some persons. After some time, the front door of the car was opened by some one, who administered a blow on the hand of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja and also slapped him. He got frightened and fled away towards nearby fields. He hided himself in the bushes there. S/Shri Yudbir Singh, Yashbir Singh and Janak Chand, who were occupying the rear seat of the car, also got frightened and they also fled away. When the people who were present at the spot dispersed, someone started the car of the deceased and the deceased was taken to hospital at Baijnath. The complainant (PW1 Suresh Dhameja) went on foot to the hospital. They noticed the deceased in an injured condition there. They also noticed that blood was oozing out of his mouth, nose and head. The deceased was found to have been brought to hospital by one Rani alias Dilwar and Kamal Bhushan in his own car. In the hospital at Baijnath, first aid was given to the deceased. He thereafter was referred to Civil Hospital at Palampur. He was brought in the same car to Palampur. The Medical Officer on duty there, however, had referred the deceased to PGI Chandigarh. While being removed to PGI Chandigarh, he succumbed to the injuries received on his person around 2.30 a.m. on the way to Chandigarh. His dead body was brought back to Baijnath.

7. Consequent upon the information entered in Rapat Rojnamcha Ext.PW17/A of Police Station, Baijnath, police party headed by ASI Roshan Lal PW-17 and comprising HC Uttam Chand, Constable Tilak Raj, Rumal Singh and HHG Rajinder Kumar had already swung into action. They went to the hospital at Baijnath, where the deceased was shifted immediately after the occurrence.

8. Statement of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja to the aforesaid effect was recorded under Section 154 Cr. P.C and on the basis thereof FIR Ext.PW17/B under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code was registered against both the accused in Police Station, Baijnath. The investigation was initially conducted by ASI Roshan Lal PW-17. He prepared inquest papers Ext.PW3/A, and made an application Ext.PW2/B for getting the postmortem of the dead body conducted in Sub Divisional Hospital at Palampur. He also got the dead body photographed vide photographs Exts. P-12 to P-18, the negatives whereof are Exts. P-19 to P-25. It is thereafter, he went to the spot and prepared spot map Ext.PW17/C. Blood lying on the spot and broken pieces of wind screen of the car were taken into possession by PW-7.

9. It transpired during the investigation that on seeing the deceased driving his car to his native place after having dinner in the house of the bride and he having stopped the car on seeing the Barateis dancing on the road, both accused shouted on him that he is proud of his having the car and on this they started quarreling with each other. Accused Anil Katoch had given pushes to the deceased on account of which he fell down. Thereafter, both the accused, who happens to be real brothers, administered beatings to him with kicks and fisticuffs. The deceased fell down and became unconscious. It is Rani alias Dilwar and Kamal Bhushan, who took the deceased from the place of occurrence and brought inside the car in an unconscious condition. While the deceased was being removed to Hospital, both accused warned said Shri Rani and Kamal Bhushan to tell the doctor in the hospital that it was a case of an accident and threatened them to meet the same fate had they failed to do so.

10. When the involvement of both the accused established during the investigation of the case, they were arrested at Dehra near Court Campus on 26.10.1996. During their interrogation, they both admitted their involvement in the murder of Arjun Katoch. Accused Anil Katoch, while in custody, made a statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act and pursuant to it, identified the place of occurrence to the Police and also got recovered his clothes which he was wearing at the time of occurrence. The clothes of the accused were identified by PW-1 Suresh Dhameja. Investigating Agency recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr. P.C. The clothes of accused Anil Katoch and that of the deceased were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for analysis. As per the report Ext.PX, received from the laboratory, human blood was found available on the clothes of the deceased, whereas blood was not found on the clothes of accused Anil Katoch.

11. The investigation conducted by the police further reveals that the deceased and the accused are the descendants of a common ancestor. They were quarreling with each other right from the time of their grand father. It is on account of enmity between the families of the accused and the deceased, the accused had shifted from village Nagehar to Bandiankhopa. On account of their enmity, Sub Divisional Magistrate, Palampur in the proceedings under Section 107 Cr. P.c., had released the mother of the accused, Smt. Sayongal, their uncles Shakti Chand and Bideshwari as well as grand father Lal Singh on their personal bonds with the condition to maintain peace and law and be of good behaviour for a period of one year vide order dated 3.10.1972. It is on account of such old enmity, both the accused taking benefit of the occasion of marriage, had beaten up deceased Arjun mercilessly and as a result thereof caused his death.

12. On the completion of the investigation, report under Section 173 Cr. P.C was filed by the Investigating Agency in the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala. The case was assigned to the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (I), Kangra at Dharamshala.

13. As noticed at the outset, learned trial Court after having gone through the Challan and the documents annexed therewith has framed charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code against each accused person. Since they pleaded not guilty to the charge, therefore, the prosecution was called upon to produce evidence in order to sustain the charge so framed against the accused persons.

14. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, is a personal friend of deceased Arjun Singh. It is on the basis of statement Ext.PW1/A, he made under Section 154 Cr. P.C., FIR Ext.PW17/B was registered in Police Station, Baijnath. PW-2 Dr. O.P. Ramdev had examined the deceased in Civil Hospital at Baijnath, where he was brought in an injured condition for medical treatment. He has proved MLR Ext.PW2/A. The endorsement Ext.PW2/B on the application made by the police was also made by this witness. PW-3 Dr. D.S. Chandel has conducted the postmortem of the dead body of the deceased, on an application Ext.PW3/A made by the police for the purpose. This witness has proved postmortem report Ext.PW3/B. He has taken in possession shirt Ext.P2, pants Ext.P3, under-wear Ext.P4, vest Ext.P5, belt Ext.P6, golden ring Ext.P7 and other ring Ext.P8 of the deceased. The same were sealed by him in a parcel. PW-4 Dr. Jyotinder Pal, Medical Officer, Civil Hospital, Baijnath had examined injured Ranjit Singh vide MLR Ext.PW4/A, injured Pawan Kumar vide MLR Ext.PW4/B and also one Anish Sharma vide MLR Ext.PW4/D. According to him, the injuries mentioned in Exts. PW4/A and PW4/D could have been caused in a scuffle.

15. The star prosecution witness is PW-5 Janak Chand, who has been examined as an eye witness. PW-6 Tarlok Chand, is Patwari, who has prepared the copy of Latha Shajra Ext.PW6/A. PW-7 Ajay Kumar is photographer. He has proved photographs Exts. P-12 to P-18 and the negatives thereof Exts. P-19 to P-25. The remaining witnesses who have also been associated as eye witnesses to the occurrence are PW-8 Yogeshwar Singh, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh and PW-11 Sushil Kumar. PW-12 Sanjeet Kumar is running a photo studio at Paprola. This witness had covered the marriage so far as photography and videography are concerned.

16. The other eye witnesses are PW-13 Ranjit, PW-14 Jaswant Kumar, PW-18 Gareesh Sharma and PW-21 Parveen Kumar. The remaining witnesses i.e. PW-15 LHC Dhruv Singh, PW-16 LHC Tilak Raj and PW-19 LHC Trilok Chand are police officials, who remained associated in one way or the other during the investigation of the case. PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal is Investigating Officer of this case. PW-20 Durga Chand is the real brother of deceased Arjun Singh. PW-22 Shakti Chand is the then Inspector/SHO, Police Station, Baijnath, who has investigated the case partly and also filed the Challan in the Court.

17. On the other hand, the statements of both the accused were also recorded under section 313 Cr. P.C. They, however, not opted for producing any evidence in their defence.

18. Learned trial Judge on appreciation of the evidence available on record and affording due opportunity of being heard to the prosecution as well as the accused, has held both the accused guilty for the commission of an offence punishable under Section 304 Part-II of the Indian Penal Code and they both have been convicted and sentenced in the manner, as pointed out at the outset.

19. In this appeal, it has been averred that out of 22 witnesses examined by the prosecution to bring guilt home to both accused, none of them has supported the prosecution case and some of them even were declared hostile also. However, irrespective of it, learned trial Court has erroneously convicted the accused for the commission of offence punishable under Section 304 (II) read with Section 34 IPC. The findings recorded by learned trial Court are stated to be against settled principles in criminal administration of justice. Learned trial Court has gravely erred in recording the findings of conviction against convicts solely on the basis of few sentences in the statement of PW-5 Janak Singh, irrespective of the fact that his statement was not reliable because he allegedly tried to save his nephew Ranjit and cousin Raju from their prosecution in this case. Also that as per the prosecution case, the deceased alighted from the Car whereas other occupants remained seated inside. The occurrence was, therefore, not witnessed by anyone as such there was no question of identification of the assailants by either of the witnesses. Therefore, how PW-5 Janak Singh could have seen the accused beating the deceased. The other occupants PW-1 Suresh Kumar, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh have categorically stated that since the deceased had alighted from the Car after switching off its engine and lights, therefore, they could not see as to what has happened outside and when someone hit PW-1, they all ran away from the spot. PW-5 Janak Singh, went to the hospital on the same day. On the next day also, he did not tell anything to the police though remained present in Police Station from 7:30 AM till 2:30 PM. He did not tell anything to the police at the time of prepration of the inquest report. It is only on 21.10.1996, in the evening, he has improved his version and named the accused as the assailants for the first time. Therefore, his testimony was highly undependable and unreliable and hence could not have been relied upon to record the findings of conviction against the accused. It has, therefore been urged that learned trial Court has convicted both the accused by placing reliance on highly inadmissible evidence.

20. If coming to the connected appeal preferred by the State of Himachal Pradesh, the legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds, inter alia, that the trial Court though has rightly appreciated the evidence in so far as commission of offence is concerned, however, it has gone wrong in holding that only an offence punishable under Section 304 (II) IPC is made out. The evidence available on record clearly establishes that the offence committed by the accused was punishable under Section 302 of the IPC and not under Section 304 (II) IPC. Therefore, the impugned judgment to this extent has been sought to be quashed. The deceased who had been mercilessly beaten up and injuries caused on vital parts of his body, the present was a clear cut case of intention to kill him. Therefore, the accused have allegedly committed his murder. The motive to kill him was old enmity between the two families.

The evidence, oral as well as documentary, to this effect was produced by the prosecution. Therefore, it has been urged that the offence committed by both accused is punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and not under Section 304 (II) IPC.

21. If coming to Criminal Revision Petition No. 155 of 2000, the grouse of the widow of deceased Arjun Katoch is also similar to that of the State of Himachal Pradesh in Cr. Appeal No. 35 of 2001. As per her version, the only bread winner in the family consisting of herself and three children has been murdered by the accused, therefore, according to her, they are liable to be convicted under Section 302 IPC and not under Section 304(II) IPC. Her husband was beaten up to death mercilessly by both the accused due to enmity and lesser sentence awarded against them according to her neither commensurate with the heinous offence they committed with nor the sentencing policy. Since, learned trial Court has convicted them under Section 304 (II) of the IPC instead of under Section 302 IPC, therefore, it has been urged that while convicting them under Section 302 IPC, in the matter of awarding sentence they both be dealt with sternly.

22. Sh. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate learned counsel representing the accused has vehemently argued that the trial Court has placed reliance on the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand and ignored the evidence as has come on record by way of remaining witnesses, including the complainant PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, the presence of whom on the spot is satisfactorily established and as such according to Mr. Chitkara, learned trial Court has erroneously concluded that a case punishable under Section 304(II) IPC read with Section 34 IPC is made out against them. According to Mr. Chitkara, the present is a case of no evidence and as such no findings of conviction could have been recorded against the accused. It has also been pointed out that as per the prosecution case itself, several persons were present at the place of occurrence and as nothing tangible suggesting the involvement of the accused in the commission of offence has come on record, therefore, it is not safe to place reliance on the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand, who according to learned counsel is a liar and has deposed falsely.

23. On the other hand, Mr. D.S.Nainta, learned Addl. Advocate General, while repelling the arguments addressed on behalf of the accused, has urged that the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand and the attendant surrounding circumstances leave no manner of doubt that the assailants were none else but both the accused. According to Mr. Nainta, both the accused have brutally murdered deceased Arjun Katoch in view of enmity between the two families i.e. the family of the deceased on one hand and that of the accused on the other. It has also been argued that both the accused were liable to be convicted and punished for the commission of offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and not under Section 304(II) read with Section 34 IPC and as such the trial Court is stated to have misread and misconstrued the evidence while arriving at a conclusion that no case under Section 302 IPC was made out against the accused. It has, therefore, been urged that the judgment to the extent of the accused have committed the offence punishable under Section 304(II) IPC read with Section 34 IPC be quashed and set aside with further prayer that both the accused be convicted under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced accordingly.

24. Mr. Surender Sharma, Advocate representing the widow of deceased Arjun Katoch in connected Cr. Revision No. 155 of 2000 while adopting the arguments addressed on behalf of the State of H.P. has further urged that the manner in which the deceased has been brutally murdered and a sole bread winner snatched from the members of his family rendering thereby them to starve, the accused may be convicted and sentenced under Section 302 of the IPC. A deterrent sentence has been sought to be passed against both the accused.

25. We have carefully analysed the rival submissions and also appreciated the entire evidence available on record.

26. Admittedly, the marriage of one Nagesh resident of village Nagehar was scheduled to be held on 19.10.1996 at his native place Nagehar, Tehsil Baijnath, District Kangra. The barat of Nagesh had to go to village Sukarna. Bridegroom Nagesh was co-villager of the deceased. The deceased and both accused were successors-in-interest of common ancestor. Both families initially were residing at Village Bandiankhopan, however, on account of enmity, the family of deceased had shifted to Village Nagehar and constructed a house there. The deceased and both convicts as well as witnesses examined by the prosecution in support of its case had attended the barat of aforesaid Nagesh and they were present at the place of bride i.e. village Sukarna.

27. If coming to the prosecution case, the deceased was accompanied by his friends PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-5 Janak Chand, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh and one Suresh Kumar Kapoor his servant. They had reached well before the arrival of barat at the place of bride. Not only this, but they also had their dinner before the baratis who reached later on in barat there. The complainant in this case is PW-1 Suresh Dhameja. He was residing at that time at Shimla. Since the deceased was also working as Branch Manager in a Company, namely, Golden Land at Shimla, therefore, they both were known to each other. It is, in this background, PW-1 Suresh Dhameja also accompanied the deceased to his native place village Nagehar in Tehsil Baijnath, Distt. Kangra and attended the barat with him at village Sukarna, the bride's native place.

28. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, in his statement Ext. PW-1/A recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. has reported to the police that after having dinner they started their return journey to village Nagehar around 10:00 PM. While at a distance of 200 yards from the house of bride, they noticed barat proceeding towards her house and baratis in good number dancing on the tune of the band. Finding the road congested at that place, Arjun Stopped his Maruti Car bearing No. CH-01-J-3572 on road side and not only switched off its engine but also the lights in order to give safe passage to the procession. He himself opened the door and alighted from the Car to answer the call of nature. He, however, did not come back for 10-12 minutes. There was lot of commotion behind the Car. On this, he peeped out from the door of Car and noticed that out of the persons in procession/barat, few of them were beating the deceased. After some time, someone came near the window of front seat where he was sitting and gave a blow on his head on the back side and also slapped him twice or thrice. On this, he had fled away from the Car and hided himself in nearby fields. Later on, the occupants of the rear seat had also fled away from the Car. When the crowd in procession dispersed, that very car was started by someone and deceased was removed to the hospital at Baijnath in injured condition. He accompanied by PW-5 Janak Chand, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh also went to the hospital at Baijnath on foot and noticed the deceased lying there in injured condition and blood was oozing out from his nose, mouth and also the head. He was brought to hospital by Rani @ Dilawar, Kamal Bhushan and Om Prakash. The doctor on duty provided first medical aid to the deceased and he was referred to Sub Divisional Hospital, Palampur for further treatment. The doctor on duty there referred the deceased to PGI, Chandigarh. He, however, died on the way to PGI, Chandigarh around 2:30-3:00 AM on 20.10.1996. It was reported by PW-1 Suresh Dhameja that Arjun died on account of the injuries he sustained in the occurrence. He requested the appellants to enquire from the baratis about the occurrence. He, however, refused for his own medical examination as no visible injuries were on his person. It is, on the basis of this statement, FIR Ext. PW-17/B was registered in PS Baijnath and the police swung into action.

29. Besides the complainant PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, the prosecution has examined PW-5 Janak Chand another occupant of the car of the deceased, PW-8 Yogeshwar Singh, a witness to the inquest papers Ext. PW-3-A, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh who were also travelling in the same car being driven by the deceased. PW-11 Sushil Kumar, a member of band party, PW-13 Ranjt, PW-14 Jaswant Kumar, PW-18 Girish Sharma and PW-21 Parveen Kumar, who being in barat were present at the place of bride at village Sukarna. PW-20 Durga Chand is the elder brother of deceased Arjun Katoch. The remaining witnesses i.e. PW-6 Tarlok Chand Patwari Patwar Circle Bahi, PW-7 Ajay Kumar photographer and PW-12 Sanjeet Kumar another photographer are formal. The remaining prosecution witnesses PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal and PW-22 Insp. Shakti Chand are police officials who remained associated in one way or the other during the course of investigation of the case, hence formal. PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal has conducted the investigation of this case partly and partly by PW-22 Insp. Shakti Chand, the then Insp./SHO PS Baijnath.

30. The statements of both the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C have also been recorded. They have denied the entire prosecution case for want of knowledge or being incorrect. They both pleaded in their defence that they have been implicated by the police in a false case.

31. There cannot be any dispute qua the presence of both accused and the deceased as well as witnesses aforesaid at village Sukarna, as they had gone to attend the barat of one Nagesh. There cannot also be any quarrel so as to vital injuries present on the person of deceased he sustained after alighting from the Car. There cannot also be any dispute qua deceased Arjun Katoch succumbed to injuries he received on the way to PGI Chandigarh.

32. According to PW-1 Suresh Dhameja when he saw behind from the window of the Car, he found that quarrel was going on behind the Car. Few persons were giving beatings to deceased Arjun Katoch. In the meantime, somebody came and gave him fist blows. That person also gave him 3-4 slaps. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja since ran away from the spot and hided himself in fields situate nearby, therefore, nothing has come in his statement as to who were the assailants and rightly so because he had no occasion to witness as to who were administering beatings to the deceased. Similarly, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh who were other occupants of the car while in the witness-box have not stated anything that it is the accused who were the assailants and rather as per their version, being pitch dark, they could not witness the occurrence. As per the version of PW-9 Yashbir Singh, 40-50 persons were dancing on the tune of band whereas as per PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, the number of such persons was 20-25. If coming to the testimony of PW-11 Sushil Kumar, a member of the band party, he admitted that both the accused were also in procession. While few baratis had left for dinner, the remaining 15-20 were dancing on the band which the band party was playing. The time was 10:00 PM when a Car approached them. The Car was stopped and as the band party left for the place of bride, therefore, nothing happened in their presence. Likewise, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, PW-11 Sushil Kumar is also turned hostile to the prosecution. They all have been cross-examined at length by learned Public Prosecutor, however, their testimony that they have not witnessed the occurrence nor seen the accused administering beatings to the deceased remained un-shattered.

33. According to PW-13 Ranjit, he was having dinner when he heard about some quarrel having taken place. He had neither visited the place of occurrence nor the deceased was beaten by the accused in his presence. Similar is the version of PW-14 Jaswant Kumar. According to him, though he was present in the procession/barat and on a call to baratis to have dinner, he had gone to have dinner and nothing happened in his presence nor the deceased was beaten up by the accused in his presence. PW-13 Ranjit and PW-14 Jaswant Kumar were also allowed to be cross-examined by learned Public Prosecutor, however, nothing lending support to the prosecution case, could be elicited from their testimony.

34. Another witness PW-18 Girish Sharma, while admitting the presence of Arjun Katoch, the deceased and both the accused at village Sukarna in connection with marriage of Nagesh, has also denied any quarrel or occurrence having taken place in his presence because as per his version, he had already gone to have dinner. Therefore, the baratis present at village Sukarna in connection with marriage of Nagesh and cited as witnesses except for PW-5 Janak Chand have supported the prosecution case that it is the accused persons who have beaten up the deceased with kicks as well as inflicted fist blows and thereby caused multiple injuries, grievous in nature on his person.

35. It is seen that learned trial Court in order to record the findings of conviction against both the accused has heavily relied upon the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand. Interestingly enough, in case PW-5 Janak Chand had witnessed that it were the accused, the assailants and administered beatings to the deceased, it is not understandable as to why he did not disclose so to the police at the first available opportunity i.e. on 19.10.1996 itself in the hospital at Baijnath, where he had gone with PW-1 Suresh Dhameja and as per the evidence available on record, the police of PS Baijnath had also arrived there by that time. Neither other occupants of the Car i.e. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-5 Janak Chand, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10

Yudhbir Singh nor other baratis were examined by the prosecution who could have corroborated the testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand to the effect that it is the accused who have administered beatings to the deceased. His testimony rather stands fully contradicted from that of other occupants of the car i.e. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-5 Janak Chand, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh and one Suresh Kumar Kapoor. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja has even not been declared hostile nor cross-examined on behalf of the prosecution. PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal met in Civil Hospital Baijnath with all the occupants of car, including PW-5 Janak Chand, however, none of them including this witness had revealed to PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal that it is the accused who had been quarrelling with the deceased and administered beatings to him. The statement of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja was recorded on the following morning i.e. on 20.10.1996 around 7:00 AM, after the death of Arjun Katoch, early in the morning i.e. at 2:30-3:00 AM. The police had also interrogated PW-5 Janak Chand, PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, however, it was not revealed by either of them that the assailants were the accused. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja has also not disclosed in his statement Ext. PW-1/A that the accused were the assailants. PW-5 Janak Chand is a witness to the inquest papers Ext. PW-3/A, however, at that time also, he did not inform the police that the assailants were the accused. He is also one of the signatory to the inquest papers.

36. The prosecution evidence reveals that it was during the night intervening 20-21.10.1996, PW-5 Janak Chand for the first time introduced the story that he had seen the accused quarrelling with deceased Arjun Katoch. This story to the reasons best known to the prosecution and for that matter to PW-5 Janak Chand, also is false and concocted in view of the reasons, as discussed hereinabove. When, as per the prosecution case itself, the deceased had not only turned off the engine but also switched off the head lights of the car and alighted alone therefrom to urinate, no doubt, the occupants of the car observed commotion at backside of the car. However, when PW-1 Suresh Dhameja was assaulted by un-identified persons, who even tried to damage the car also, all the occupants of the car alighted from it and ran away for their safety. The deceased was removed to hospital by Rani @ Dilawar, Kamal Bhushan and Om Prakash. They have not been cited as witnesses by the prosecution for the reasons best known to it.

37. If coming to the testimony of PW-2 Dr. O.P. Ramdev, who had examined the deceased in CH Baijnath, aforesaid Rani @ Dilawar, Kamal Bhushan and Om Prakash had disclosed that deceased had received injuries in a road accident. It is these three persons, who could have supplied some authentic and material information qua the manner in which the incident sparked off or the deceased received injuries in an accident. However, as already pointed out, the prosecution to the reasons best known to it has withheld them from the Court. In such circumstances, an adverse inference has to be drawn against the prosecution.

38. As noticed hereinabove, the police and all occupants of the car, including PW-5 Janak Chand had reached in the hospital at Baijnath. That was the earliest opportunity to PW-5 Janak Chand to have disclosed to the police that he had seen accused quarrelling with the deceased. No explanation, whatsoever, is forthcoming to show as to why their statements, including that of PW-5 Janak Chand were not recorded at the earliest possible occasion which was available to the police. The testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand that he could only identify the accused and not other baratis is highly unbelievable for the reason that being a co-villager, how it can be said that he could not identify the remaining 20-25 baratis and that too his co-villagers. His testimony to the effect that other occupants except for PW-1 Suresh Dhameja also alighted from the car and PW-1 Suresh Dhameja came to them with a complaint that somebody had administered beatings to him seems to be false because in view of the testimony of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, they all were sitting in the car when PW-1 Suresh Dhameja was assaulted by someone from behind. It is rather they all ran away from the spot to save their lives. The time being 10:00 PM, it can reasonably be believed that there was complete darkness, how PW-5 Janak Chand could have identified the accused persons alone to be the assailants, particularly when as per the prosecution case, the engine and lights of the car were turned off by the deceased before alighting therefrom. The testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand that no one including him intervened in the fight between the accused persons and deceased could also not be believed for the reason that in case deceased was being beaten up by two persons i.e. accused in the presence of 20-25 persons, in ordinary course of circumstances, someone would have come forward for his rescue. This witness seems to have made a tutored version while in the witness-box. The story, he introduced, while in the witness-box that when Arjun Katoch stopped the Car, it was accused Anil Katoch who came nearer to him and started altercation with the deceased and it was on this score the deceased alighted from the car after turning off its engine and lights, is also far fetched because as per the own case of the prosecution, the car was stopped by the deceased on seeing baratis in a procession proceeding while singing and dancing towards the house of bride and there being congestion on the road at that place, he turned off the engine and also lights and then alighted from the car to call of nature and not after having altercation with accused Anil Katoch.

39. When the occurrence had taken place behind the car in complete darkness, how PW-5 Janak Chand who sitting in the car on seeing PW-1 Suresh Dhameja was assaulted by someone, ran away with other occupants to save their lives could have witnessed that it is the accused who were assailants and had beaten the deceased. The testimony of this witness that he was standing at a distance of 15 yards from the place of occurrence is again far fetched and not corroborated by any other and further evidence available on record. It is again far fetched that this witness could have identified a person up to a distance of 60-65 meters and that too when as per his own version it was not a full moonlit night nor he could see the moon. His testimony that when they returned to the spot Arjun was found to be taken to hospital by someone reveals that he had also ran away from the spot to save his life along with other occupants of the car and as such he had no occasion to witness that deceased was being beaten by the accused. PW-1 Suresh Dhameja has also stated that when he came out of the place where he had hided himself, the other occupants of vehicle, including PW-5 Janak Chand also met him and they all went to the hospital. Interestingly enough, the alleged history of road side accident given to PW-2 Dr. O.P. Ramdev by Rani @ Dilawar, Kamal Bhushan and Om Prakash remained unchallenged as the prosecution did not dispute the same at any stage during the course of trial.

40. The intimation to the police was given by PW-2 Dr. O.P. Ramdev at 10:45 PM over phone. The same was entered in daily diary vide Ext. PW-17/A and the police party led by PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal reached in the hospital at Baijnath. When all the occupants of the car, including PW-5 Janak Chand were present in the hospital at that time, this witness did not disclose to the police that he had seen the accused quarrelling with the deceased. He himself admitted the presence of police in the hospital well before their arrival. PW-17 ASI Roshan Lal has admitted in his cross-examination that when he reached in hospital, PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, Dilawar and Janak Chand were present there. PW-9 Yashbir Singh and PW-10 Yudhbir Singh also reached there, however, neither of them disclosed the manner in which the occurrence had taken place nor he recorded their statements. He admitted that when the statement of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja Ext. PW-1/A was recorded, Janak Chand was also present there. Had it been so, this witness could have revealed to the police that the assailants were the accused persons. The statement of PW-5 Janak Chand, therefore, seems to be recorded after due deliberation. In case the evidence as has come on record by way of his testimony is excluded, there hardly remains any evidence to implicate both the accused in the commission of the offence. Further testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand that he did not disclose the manner in which the occurrence had taken place at 7-7:30 AM on 20.10.1996 when interrogated by the police, when the inquest papers were prepared at 2-2:30 PM nor when the post mortem of the dead body was conducted in the hospital due to afraid of from accused Anil Katoch who is an Advocate and Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat as well as a Judo crate player is unbelievable. PW-5 Janak Chand, in our considered opinion, has rather made a false statement in the Court. PW-5 Janak Chand even did not disclose the manner in which the occurrence took place to anyone also because PW-8 Yogeshwar Singh has admitted while in the witness-box that PW-5 Janak Chand did not disclose anything even to him also.

41. Taking into consideration the entire gamut, the ratio of the judgment of the Apex Court in Sat Paul vs. Delhi Administration, 1976 (1) SCC 727, relied upon by Mr. Chitkara, learned counsel is fully attracted in the given facts and circumstances of this case and as such it would not be improper to place reliance upon the testimony of eye-witnesses who turned hostile, including that of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja that no one could witness that it is the accused who had administered beatings to the deceased. The relevant text of the judgment reads as under:

> "51. From the above conspectus, it emerges clear that even in a criminal prosecution when a witness is cross-examined and contradicted with the leave of the court, by the party calling him, his evidence cannot, as a matter of law, be treated as Washed off the record altogether. It is for the Judge of fact to consider in each case whether as a result of such cross-examination and contradiction, the witness stands thoroughly discredited or can still be believed in regard to a part of his testimony. If the Judge finds that in the process, the credit of the witness has not been completely shaken, he may, after reading and considering the evidence of the witness, as a whole, with due caution and care, accept, in the light of the other evidence on the record, that part of his testimony which he finds to be creditworthy and act upon it. If in a given case, the whole of the testimony of the witness is impugned, and in the process, the witness stands squarely and totally discredited, the Judge should, as matter of prudence, discard his evidence in toto."

42. The ratio of the judgment again that of the Apex court in Ganesh Bhavan Patel vs. State of Maharashtra, 1978 (4) SCC 371, is also fully attracted in the case in hand because here also the I.O. has miserably failed to take down the statements, at least, of the occupants of the car at the earliest opportunity available to him and thereby rendered the entire prosecution story highly doubtful. The relevant text of the judgment reads as follows:

> "15. As noted by the Trial Court, one unusual feature which projects its shadow on the evidence of P.Ws., Welji, Pramila and Kuvarbai and casts a serious doubt about their being eyewitnesses of the occurrence, is the undue delay on the part of the investigating officer in recording their statements. Although these witnesses were or could be available for examination when the investigating officer visited the scene of occurrence or soon thereafter, their statements under Section 161 Cr. P.C. were recorded on the following day. Welji (P.W. 3) was examined at 8 a.m., Pramila at 9.15 or 9.30 a.m., and Kuvarbai at 1 p.m. delay of a few hours, simpliciler, in recording the statements of eyewitnesses may not, by itself, amount to a serious infirmity in the prosecution case. But it may assume such a character if there are concomitant circumstances to suggest that the investigator was deliberately marking time with a view to decide about the shape to be given to the case and the eyewitnesses to be introduced. A catena of circumstances which lend such significance to this delay, exists in the instant case."

43. Coming to the instant case, in view of the evidence having come on record by way of the testimony of PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, PW-9 Yashbir Singh, PW-10 Yudhbir Singh, PW-11 Sushil Kumar, PW-12 Sanjeet Kumar, PW-13 Ranjit and PW-14 Jaswant Kumar, no one could witness that the accused were the assailants and caused fatal blows on the person of the deceased leading to his death. PW-5 Janak Chand is a liar and in view of the discussion hereinabove, his testimony that it is the accused who were the assailants and administered beatings to the deceased, being not corroborated by any other independent source, cannot be believed to be true by any stretch of imagination. The prosecution rather has made an effort to engineer a false case against the accused by examining this witness. It is, therefore, not at all proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the assailants were the accused alone and none else. In the criminal administration of justice, the findings of conviction can only be based on cogent, reliable and clinching evidence, which in the present case is lacking. Learned trial Court was not at all justified in placing reliance on the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand while recording the findings of conviction against the accused. The present rather, in our considered opinion, is a case of no evidence.

44. If coming to the another aspect of the prosecution story that both the accused have beaten up the deceased to death on account of enmity between the two families, the prosecution has examined PW-20 Durga Chand, who is brother of the deceased. As per his version, both accused are sons of his real Uncle. They were not having cordial relations with the accused persons from the very beginning because of quarrelsome nature of their family. PW-5 Janak Chand has also admitted in his cross-examination that the accused were not having cordial relations with the deceased and his brothers nor were on speaking terms. He, however, has expressed his inability to tell that it was due to old enmity, PW-20 Durga Chand and his brother Ranvir had manipulated a false case against the accused. It is pertinent to note that the relations between the two families seems to be inimical, however, it cannot be said that the accused have killed the deceased due to enmity and rather as per the settled legal principles, the enmity is a double edged weapon and as such the possibility of the accused having been implicated in a false case by PW-20 Durga Chand and other relations of the deceased cannot be ruled out.

45. Undue weightage should not have been given by the learned trial Court to the alleged recovery of the clothes of accused Anil Katoch from the place of his in-laws for the reason that this part of the prosecution case has also not been satisfactorily proved. True it is that PW-5 Janak Chand and the I.O. PW-22 Insp. Shakti Chand have deposed about the recovery of the clothes Ext. P-9 to P-12 at the behest of accused Anil Katoch, however, nothing tangible has come on record to show that these clothes were blood stained and the blood, if any, thereon was of the same group as that of the deceased. Even if the blood stains were there on the clothes, the same could have been of the own blood of the said accused as one can receive injury on his person in ordinary course of circumstances also. Above all, no evidence has come on record to show that it were the same clothes worn by accused Anil Katoch at the time of so called occurrence. No witness from the place of the in-laws of accused Anil Katoch was associated at the time of alleged recovery of the clothes. This Court in Randhir Singh alias Tira and others vs. State of H.P., 2007 (2) SLC 294, has emphasized for the necessity of association of independent witnesses from the locality at the time of recovery. Above all, the report of Forensic Science Laboratory Ext. PX is inconclusive for want of the findings that the blood found on these clothes was of same person. It is also not the case of the prosecution that accused Anil Katoch has also received injuries on his person in the occurrence. The scientific officer who has prepared the report has not been examined. Therefore, the report is not admissible in evidence, being hit by the provisions contained under Section 293 Cr.P.C. The Apex Court in Kansa Behera vs. State of Orissa, 1987(3) SCC 480, a case where no evidence in the report of serologist about the group of blood was found during analysis of blood stained shirt/dhoti recovered at the instance of the accused, has held that on the basis of such recovery, the accused cannot be connected with the commission of the offence. The relevant text of this judgment reads as under:

> "11. As regards the recovery of a shirt or a dhoti with blood stains which according to the serologist report were stained with human blood but there is no evidence in the report of the serologist about the group of the blood and therefore it could not positively be connected with the deceased. In the evidence of the Investigating Officer or in the report, it is not clearly mentioned as to what were the dimensions of the stains of blood. Few small blood stains on the cloths of a person may even be of his own blood especially if it is a villager putting on these clothes and living in villages. The evidence about the blood group is only conclusive to connect the blood stains with the deceased. That evidence is absent and in this view of the matter, in our opinion, even this is not a circumstance on the basis of which any inference could be drawn."

46. Similar is the ratio of the judgments of this Court in State of H.P. vs. Edward Samual Chareton, 2000 (2) Shim. L.C. 228, and Ajay Sharma vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2002 (3) Sim.L.C. 329.

47. When PW-1 Suresh Dhameja, while in the witness-box, has expressed his inability to tell the number of persons who allegedly were giving beatings to the deceased and as per that of PW-3 Dr. D.S.Chandel in his cross-examination that the injuries on the person of the deceased can possibly be sustained in an attack by mob whereas as per that of PW-2 Dr. O.P. Ramdev such injuries are possible by fist blows and kicks, the possibility of the deceased having been thrashed and assaulted by the mob cannot be ruled out. The perusal of Ext. PW-4/C reveals that Anish was one of the material witness in this case, however, he has been withheld and as such an adverse inference under Section 114 G of the Indian Evidence Act can be drawn against the prosecution on this score also. As per the own evidence produced by the prosecution, the injuries were there on the person of Ranjit Singh (PW-13), Pawan Kumar and Anish Sharma, corresponding to the period of scuffle with Arjun Singh deceased. They were medically examined by PW-4 Dr. Jyotindra Pal vide MLRs Ext. PW-4/A and PW-4/B, the possibility that they were got medically examined on account of police having suspected their involvement in the scuffle cannot be ruled out. Their medical examination vide Ext. PW-4/A and PW-4/B find support from the testimony of PW-4 Dr. Jyotinder Pal.

48. According to PW-18 Girish Sharma, Ranjit Singh, Pawan Kumar, Kaku, Anish and K.K. Thakur had also attended the barat. PW-5 Janak Chand is the brother of Ranjit Singh aforesaid. PW-5 Janak Chand has expressed his ignorance that Raju and Ranjit were also among those baratis who were singing and dancing. According to him, he had not stated so in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He, however, when confronted with portion F to F of his statement Ext. PW-5/D it was found recorded therein that Raju and Ranjit had also attended the marriage. He has admitted that Ranjit is his real brother whereas Raju the son of his real Uncle. Though, the suggestion that it was Raju and Ranjit who were the main culprits having given beatings to Arjun Katoch is denied being wrong by PW-5 Janak Chand. However, the possibility of the said accused having deposed falsely to save both Raju and Ranjit from their prosecution in this case cannot be ruled out. The plea in defence raised by the accused to this effect appears to be nearer to the factual position.

49. Therefore, in view of the above, the prosecution story that the accused had mercilessly administered beatings to deceased and killed him on account of old enmity and that the recovery of clothes at the instance of accused Anil Katoch connect them with the commission of the offence also not substantiate the findings of conviction recorded against both the accused. On the other hand, as pointed out hereinabove, neither of the witness implicate the accused persons in the commission of the offence. It is, PW-5 Janak Chand, who alone has deposed against them. The possibility of he having deposed falsely to save his brother Ranjit and cousin Raju, in view of the detailed discussion hereinabove, can't also be ruled out.

50. Therefore, examining the prosecution case from any angle, no case either under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC or for that matter under Section 304(II) read with Section 34 IPC is made out against either of the accused. In our considered opinion, learned trial Court has went wrong and recorded the findings of conviction against them erroneously on the basis of the sole testimony of PW-5 Janak Chand. Being so, what to speak of the conviction and sentence of both the accused for the commission of offence punishable under Section 302 IPC, as claimed by the State of H.P. in connected Cr. Appeal No. 35 of 2001 as well as by Smt. Raman Katoch widow of deceased Arjun Katoch in Cr. Revision No. 155 of 2000, no case is made out against the accused persons and they as such deserves to be acquitted from the charge framed against each of them.

51. In view of what has been said hereinabove, Cr. Appeal No. 567 of 2000 succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, the impugned judgment dated 21.8.2000 is quashed and set aside and both the accused are acquitted of the charge framed against each of them. Connected Cr. Appeal No. 35 of 2001 filed by the State of Himachal Pradesh and Cr.

Revision No. 155 of 2000 filed by Smt. Raman Katoch, being devoid of any merit are hereby dismissed. Consequently, personal bonds executed by both the accused are cancelled and sureties discharged.

For the petitioner: Mr. Vinay Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

The present criminal revision petition filed under Sections 397/401 of the Cr.PC, is directed against the judgment dated 2.5.2008, passed by the learned Sessions Judge, (F), Shimla, HP, in Criminal Appeal No. 1-S/10 of 2008/03, affirming the judgment of conviction dated 20.9.2003, passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate Ist Class, Chopal, District Shimla, HP, in Case No. 55-1 of 2003/24-II of 2003, whereby the accused-petitioner has been sentenced as per description given herein below:-

"Section 279 IPC

To undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six monthsand in case of default, to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one month.

Section 337 of IPC

To undergo simple imprisonment for three months with fine of Rs. 500/- and in default of deposit of fine, further simple imprisonment for a period of one month.

Section 338 of IPC

The convict is sentenced for six months with fine of Rs. 500/-.

Section 304 (A) of IPC

One year rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2000/- and in case of default of deposit of payment, to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two months."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that on 24.2.2003, one Sh. Rajinder Lal, got his statement recorded under Section 154 of Cr.PC, to the police stating therein that he was going with Dak to Post Office Nerwa and when he reached Rana Kiyar, he boarded the truck bearing No. HP-08-0811 and sat in the body of truck along with 80-90 persons. He further reported that vehicle in question was being driven by the petitioner accused namely Kalimudeen, who was known to him. As per, the complainant, when truck reached near Mahila Mandal Halao, it suddenly went off the road and fell into 150 feet deep gorge as a result of which, many people sustained injuries and some of them died on the spot. The complainant further stated that truck in question was being driven by the accused rashly and negligently, as a consequence, truck met with an accident. On the basis of aforesaid statement having been made by the complainant, police registered formal FIR Ext.PW17/A and I.O. visited the spot. After completion of investigation, police came to conclusion that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the petitioner accused, and accordingly, presented the challan under Sections 279, 337, 338 and 304(A) of the IPC, before the competent court of law.

3. Learned Judicial Magistrate Ist Class, Chopal District Shimla, (HP), after satisfying itself that prima facie case exists against the accused put a notice of accusation, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. Learned trial Court on the basis of evidence adduced on record by the prosecution, found the accused guilty of having committed offence under the aforesaid Sections and convicted and sentenced him as per description already given above.

4. The present petitioner-accused being aggrieved with the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court, filed an appeal under Section 374 of Cr.PC before the Court of learned Sessions Judge, (F), Shimla, HP, who vide judgment dated 2.5.2008, dismissed the appeal. Hence, this criminal revision petition before this Court.

5. Mr. Vinay Thakur, Advocate, representing the petitioner vehemently argued that the impugned judgments of conviction and sentence recorded by the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record, as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Thakur, while referring to the judgments passed by the courts below, strenuously argued that bare perusal of the same suggests that both the courts below have failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, as a result of which, great prejudice has been caused to the petitioner, who was admittedly not driving the vehicle rashly and negligently. Mr. Thakur, further contended that both the courts below wrongly convicted the petitioner for the aforesaid offences because, none of the prosecution witnesses supported the case of the prosecution that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently at that relevant time, rather all the material prosecution witnesses turned hostile. Mr. Vinay further, contended that learned courts below failed to appreciate the positive evidence available on record suggestive of the fact that accident occurred due to mechanical defect in the truck. He further stated that it has specifically come in the statement of PWs that after noticing the mechanical defect by the accused, he (accused) shouted to passengers to save their lives, if possible, because truck went out of the control of the petitioner but by no stretch of imagination, it could be concluded by the courts below on the basis of evidence available on record that the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the petitioner, especially, when his own children were also travelling in the same. Mr. Vinay, while referring to the finding of the courts below to the effect that when the truck was in bad condition, petitioner should not have plied the same or he should have avoided the accident by applying brakes, contended that aforesaid circumstances relied upon to the petitioner were never put to him under Section 313 Cr.PC and as such, trial was vitiated as petitioner has been prejudiced by not putting such circumstances/evidence to him. He further stated that case of the prosecution was that petitioner was driving the vehicle rashly and negligently as he was driving the vehicle in high speed but there is no evidence led on record by the prosecution to prove speed at that relevant time of the vehicle involved in the accident. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Vinay, invited attention of this Court to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled Jacob Mathew vs. State of Punjab, 2005 Cr. LJ. 3710 to suggest that "to prove the criminal negligence, the mensrea has to be proved and the principle of res-ipsa liquitor is not applicable in the criminal case especially when the accused is sought to be punished for criminal negligence. He also invited attention of this Court to the statements having been made by the PWs to demonstrate that none of PWs supported the case of the prosecution that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently by the petitioner-accused that too in high speed and as such, no conviction could be recorded by the courts below on the aforesaid evidence adduced on record by the prosecution. Mr. Vinay Thakur, also contended that the learned trial Court swayed with emotion while recording the conviction of the petitioner because many people died and some of them suffered injuries on account of accident. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Vinay, prayed for acquittal of the petitioner after setting aside the judgment of conviction recorded by the courts below.

6. Per contra, Mr. Ramesh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, representing the State supported the impugned judgments passed by the courts below. He vehemently argued that bare perusal of the impugned judgments suggests that same are based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. He further contended that in the given facts and circumstances of the case, no interference, whatsoever, of this Court, is warranted, especially, in view of the concurrent findings of fact recorded by the courts below. Mr. Ramesh, further argued that there is no force in the contention put forth by the counsel representing the petitioner that none of prosecution witness has supported the case of the prosecution because all the material PWs though turned hostile, but in their cross examination, they have categorically admitted that at that relevant time, 80-90 people were travelling in the truck being driven by the petitioner in high speed. Mr. Thakur, further contended that bare factum that at that relevant time 80-90 people were travelling in the truck, was sufficient to conclude sheer negligence of the petitioner accused, which was not a passengers vehicle but was meant for carrying goods. He specifically invited attention of this Court to the mechanical report Ext.PZ led on record by the prosecution to refute the contention put forth by the counsel representing the petitioner that there was mechanical defect, which led to the accident. While specifically referring to the mechanical report, Mr. Ramesh, vehemently argued that as per mechanical report, there was no defect in the truck at that relevant time, rather same was found to be in third gear, which suggest that vehicle in question was being plied in high speed at that relevant time. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Ramesh Thakur also reminded this Court that it has very limited powers while exercising its revisionary powers under Section 397 of the Cr. PC to re-appreciate the evidence, especially when it stands duly proved on record that the courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case State of Kerala Vs. Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999)2 Supreme Court Cases 452, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "In its revisional jurisdiction, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceedings for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order. In other words, the jurisdiction is one of supervisory jurisdiction exercised by the High Court for correcting miscarriage of justice. But the said revisional power cannot be equated with the power of an appellate court nor can it be treated even as a second appellate jurisdiction. Ordinarily, therefore, it would not be appropriate for the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence and come to its own conclusion on the > same when the evidence has already been appreciated by the Magistrate as well as Sessions Judge in appeal, unless any glaring feature is brought to the notice of the High Court which would otherwise tantamount to gross miscarriage of justice."

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record

8. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the prosecution witnesses solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

9. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

10. Perusal of the records made available to this Court suggests that on 24.2.2003, truck bearing No. HP-08-0811, carrying 80-90 persons met with an accident, as a result of which several people suffered injuries whereas some occupants lost their lives. Petitioner accused has admitted in his statement under Section 313 recorded by the court below as far as death of various occupants is concerned but denied that vehicle was being driven by him rashly and negligently. Hence, in view of the aforesaid statement having been made by the petitioner accused under Section 313, there is no dispute, if any, qua the accident as well as driving of the vehicle by him at that relevant time. Accordingly this Court, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of pleas/submissions having been made/taken by the learned counsel for the petitioner that there is no evidence available on record suggestive of the fact that accident took place due to rash and negligent act of the driver, carefully perused the entire evidence adduced on record by the prosecution. Prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as 23 witnesses.

11. PW1 Rajinder Singh (complainant) while making deposition before the learned trial Court stated that at that relevant time, he was travelling in the truck along with other persons but he is not aware who was driving the vehicle and he heard some noise and truck rolled down. He further stated that he does not know who was at fault and accident took place and some people have died and some received injuries. This witness was declared hostile but in his cross examination, aforesaid witness denied that he is not known to the accused. He also denied that accused was plying the vehicle rashly and negligently and caused accident.

12. Similarly, PW2 Kumari Savita stated that she was travelling in truck and accused was plying the truck and when they reached near Halao, truck rolled down, as a result of which, she sustained injury but she is not aware how accident occurred. This witness also turned hostile. But in her cross examination, she admitted that truck was in full speed and rolled down.

13. PW3 Govind (conductor of the truck) stated that there was a rally of Shatrughan Sinha at Nerwa and many people were sitting in truck and truck was being driven by the accused. He further stated that truck was in slow speed and he was seated on the conductor seat. He further stated that he heard the accused shouting that if any person can save himself, he can. This aforesaid witness was also declared hostile but in cross examination conducted by learned APP, he admitted that people were also sitting on the tool and body of the truck. He also in his cross examination denied the suggestion that vehicle in question was being driven rashly ad negligently by the petitioner accused.

14. PW4, Master Parkash (minor) also stated that he was not aware how accident took place but he was in the truck which rolled down.

15. PW5 Santosh Kumar stated that about 86 persons were sitting in the truck which met with an accident, as a result of which he sustained injuries. He also stated that his wife also sustained injuries but he is not aware about who was plying the truck.

16. PW6 Radho Devi stated that truck was in speed and it rolled down and she sustained injuries.

17. PW7 Ashok Kumar while deposing before the learned trial Court stated that at that relevant time there were about 75-80 persons in the truck. He further stated that people were sitting in the tool and body of the vehicle in question because there was a rally of BJP and truck was in speed and it rolled down due to negligent driving of the accused. However, in his cross examination, he stated that truck was in the speed of 100 km per hour. He denied that on that day, he came to Nerwa after running from house. He further admitted that he never drove the truck and cannot say about the speed of the truck.

18. PW8 Kumari Kaushalya and PW9 Kumari Devi also stated that at that relevant time, 70-80 persons were occupying the truck and truck was going to rally. In their cross-examination, they stated that they were not aware of the speed of the truck.

19. PW10 Parma Nand though stated that truck was in rash speed but in his cross examination, he admitted that there was defect in truck, as a result of which, accident took place. Aforesaid witness, on his re-examination on the aforesaid point again stated that he had heard the sound of breaking of “Kamani” of the truck, as a result of which, accident took place.

20. PW11 Sant Ram in his cross examination admitted that people were raising slogans and people were also telling the driver to ply the vehicle in speed as they wanted to reach the destination. But in his cross examination, PW11 specifically stated that since he never plied the vehicle, he cannot tell the exact speed of the vehicle.

21. PW12, Khiyali Ram stated that truck was full with people but he is not aware of the speed of the truck. PW 13 Rainu Devi stated that truck was in speed and rolled down.

22. PW14 Kumari Lalita stated that the truck was in speed. She also admitted in cross-examination that she was sitting in the back side of the truck. Similarly, PW15 Deeva Devi and PW16 Bali Devi also corroborated the version put forth by the PW14 that truck was in speed

23. PW17 ASI Yodha Ram only registered the FIR Ext. PW17/A. PW18 Bjagat Singh only identified the deceased.

24. PW19 Ran Singh, who also suffered injury on the accident also not supported the case of prosecution and as such, he was declared hostile. He in his cross examination by APP, also stated that he cannot tell about the actual speed of truck.

25. PW20 Jagat Ram also corroborated the version put forth by the other PWs that truck met with an accident, as a result of which some people died and some sustained injuries. But in his cross-examination, he was unable to state about the speed of the truck because many people had occupied the truck. PW21 Nek Mohammad (one of the injured) also supported the version put forth by PW10 that he heard some noise of breaking 'kamani'. He also stated that truck was in slow speed.

26. PW23 ASI Ramesh Chand, stated that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the accused. In his cross examination, he admitted that no witness from the village of the accused was associated. He further admitted that there are four shops of photographs and he did not get photographs clicked from the place from where the truck was rolled down. He also admitted that three daughters of the accused were also sitting in the truck but he denied that anybody told him that accused was plying the vehicle in rash and negligent manner. He further admitted in his cross examination that from where the vehicle rolled down, there is no parapet but he is not aware about from which door mechanic entered into the vehicle.

27. Conjoint reading of aforesaid PWs clearly suggests that none of PWs supported the version put forth on behalf of the prosecution. True, it is that all aforesaid prosecution witnesses stated that vehicle in question was carrying 80-90 people at that relevant time and the vehicle in question was being driven by the petitioner accused. But fact remains that all material prosecution witnesses who were occupants at that time of accident turned hostile as far as factum of rash and negligent driving of the petitioner accused is concerned. PW8, PW 14, PW15 and PW16 though in their examination in chief stated that truck was in speed but in their cross–examination all these aforesaid prosecution witnesses stated that they are unable to tell the exact speed of the vehicle at that relevant time. Similarly, depositions made by other prosecution witnesses in examination-in-chief though suggests that truck was in rash speed but if their cross examination is perused carefully, it nowhere supports the case of the prosecution that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently, at that relevant time by the petitioner. Admittedly, all the PWs in one voice stated that at that relevant time there may be more than 80-90 people sitting in the truck. True, it is that some of the PWs stated that truck was being driven rashly and in speed but admittedly, there was no evidence worth the name led on record by the prosecution suggestive of the fact that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently by the petitioner accused at that relevant time because none of the prosecution witness stated something qua the exact speed, if any, of the vehicle.

28. True, it is that speed may not be exact criteria to determine the question with regard to rash and negligent driving of the accused, but while proving rash and negligent driving of the driver of the il- fated vehicle, prosecution is expected to lead positive evidence on record suggestive of the act that vehicle was in high speed or same was being driven in such a manner it endangered the human lives travelling in the same.

29. Though petitioner has made an attempt to demonstrate that accident occurred due to sudden mechanical defect occurred in the truck, which version of the petitioner, finds strength with statements of PW3, PW10 and PW21, wherein they stated that they heard some noise and thereafter, truck fell in the gorge. PW3 further stated that after noticing the mechanical effect petitioner accused, shouted and asked people to save their lives. But aforesaid attempt having been made by the petitioner accused could not succeed in view of the mechanical report i.e. Ext.PZ, whereby it has been specifically reported that truck was found in third gear and steering and break system were found in working order and there is no mention with regard to breakage of 'kamani' as claimed by the petitioner.

30. Leaving everything aside, this Court after perusing the entire evidence available on record is fully convinced and satisfied that prosecution was able to prove on record that at that relevant time, vehicle in question was carrying 80-90 people. It also emerge from the statement of PWs that people were sitting on the tool box and body of the truck also. It has also come in the statement of PWs that people were going to attend some political rally at Nerwa, which suggest that vehicle in question was specifically engaged by the occupants of the ill fated truck on that relevant date for carrying them to the site of rally.

31. Now the question which arises for determination of this court is :-

> "Whether act of petitioner accused, who was driving the vehicle at that relevant time, in allowing 80-90 people to board the truck, which is admittedly not a passenger vehicle, is rash and negligent act or not?"

This Court has no hesitation to conclude that though, there may not be any evidence suggestive of the fact that vehicle in question was being driven in rash and negligent manner by the petitioner accused at that relevant time but admittedly there is ample evidence suggestive of the fact that petitioner accused was negligent in allowing 80-90 people to board the vehicle in question on that day. Suggestion put forth by the defence to some of the prosecution witnesses that some of the occupants of the vehicle were insisting upon driver of the vehicle to drive fast also supports the case of the prosecution that driver was negligent while driving the vehicle as a result of which so many people lost their lives and many sustained injury.

32. Hence, this Court sees force much less substantial in the argument having been made by the learned Deputy Advocate General that petitioner accused was negligent. Mere permission by the petitioner accused to allow 80-90 people to board the vehicle is itself a sheer negligence at his part. True, it is that concept of negligence differs in civil and criminal law and what may be negligence in civil law may not necessarily be negligence in criminal law. To prove negligence in criminal law, the element of mens rea must be shown to exist.In the Jacob Mathew's case supra, Hon'ble Apex Court has stated that for an act to amount to criminal negligence, the degree of negligence should be much higher i.e. gross or of a very high degree. In the instant case, conduct of the petitioner in allowing 80-90 people to board the truck itself indicates towards the high degree of negligence.

33. It is not the case of the petitioner that he was compelled to drive ill fated truck, which was carrying 80-90 people at that relevant time, meaning thereby, decision, if any, to allow 80-90 people to board ill fated truck was of petitioner accused. There cannot be any quarrel with the argument having been advanced by the counsel representing the petitioner that driving of vehicle at fast speed cannot be termed as rash and negligent act but as has been discussed above, sheer conduct of the petitioner to allow large number of people in truck suggest that he was negligent and because of his rash and negligent act, many people lost their lives and others suffered injuries.

34. In the present case, it stands duly proved that accused allowed 80-90 people to board his truck, which was not meant for carrying the passengers. It also emerges from the evidence available on record that the petitioner accused allowed some passengers to sit in the tool box on a hilly road, which is certainly an act of serious negligence. It may be taken note of that there is no space or sitting for passenger, if any, in the truck, which is admittedly a goods transport vehicle.

35. This Court while sifting evidence also found that suggestion was put to PW11 Sant Ram that vehicle was not in good condition and more people should not have boarded the same. This aforesaid suggestion having been made by the defence also indicates towards the high degree of negligence on the part of the petitioner accused, because if at all, vehicle was not in good condition, petitioner ought not to have allowed the passengers to board the truck but in the present case, it stands duly proved on record that vehicle in question was carrying passengers to the rally at Nerwa. This Court cannot lose sight of the fact that due to aforesaid act of negligence, many people lost their lives and suffered several injuries, which fact stands duly proved by the medical evidence led on record by the prosecution.

36. Hence, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgments passed by the courts below and same deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

37. Faced with this situation, learned counsel for the petitioner-accused also prayed that accused may be given the benefit of probation under Section 4(b) of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 keeping in view his age and his being first offender. He also stated that mitigating circumstance in this case is that more than 13 years have passed after happening of that incident and passing the judgment dated 20.9.2003, whereby the accused was convicted and he has already suffered agony during the pendency of the appeal in the court of learned Sessions Judge, as well as in High Court of Himachal Pradesh. In support of the aforesaid arguments, Mr. Vinay Thakur, also invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by this Hon'ble Court in Yudhbir Singh versus State of Himachal Pradesh 1998(1)S.L.J. 58, wherein it has been held as under:

> 9. The only mitigating circumstance that appears to be there is that the time gap of about six years between the date of occurrence as well as the date of decision of this revision petitioner. During this entire period sword of present case looming over the head of the petitioner was always there. That being so, this court is of the view that instead of sending the petitioner to jail as ordered by the courts below, he is given the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. Accordingly, it is ordered that he shall furnish personal bond in the sum of Rs. 5,000/- to the satisfaction of the trial Court within a period of four weeks from today to keep peace and to be of good behavior for a period of one year from the date of execution of the bond before the court below as well as not to commit any such offence. In addition to being given benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, petitioner is further directed to pay a sum of Rs. 3,000/- each to PWs Baldev Singh and Dilbagh Singh injured as compensation. Shri R.K. Gautam submitted that this amount of compensation be deposited with the trial Court on or before 31.8.1997, who will thereafter pay the same to said persons.

38. In this regard, reliance is also placed upon Hon'ble Apex Court judgment Ramesh Kumar @ Babla versus State of Punjab 2016 AIR (SC) 2858, wherein it has been held as under:

> "7. Accordingly the appeal is allowed in part by converting appellant's conviction under Section 307 IPC to one under Section 324 IPC. On the question of sentence, it is pertinent to note that the occurrence took place in 1997. In his statement under Section 313 of the code of Criminal Procedure the appellant gave his age in 2002 as 36 years. He claimed that he and others went to the place of occurrence on getting information that his brother Sanjay Kumar was assaulted by Ramesh Kumar (Complainant). He brought his brother to Police Station and lodged a report. As noticed by trial court, parties are involved in civil as well as criminal litigation from before. High Court has noted that appellant, as per custody certificate, is not involved in any other case. In such circumstances, it is not deemed necessary to send the appellant immediately to Jail custody after about 19 years of the occurrence when he appears to be 50 years of age and fully settled in life.
> 8. In view of aforesaid, in our view the ends of justice would be met by granting benefit of Probation of Offenders Act to the appellant. We order accordingly and direct that the appellant be released on executing appropriate bond before the trial court to appear and receive sentence of rigorous imprisonment for 1 (one) year when called upon to do so and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour."

39. The reliance is also placed upon the Hon'ble Apex Court judgment Hari Kishan and State of Haryana versus Sukhbir Singh 1988 AIR (SC) 2127, wherein it has been held as under:

"8. The question next to be considered is whether the accused are entitled to the benefit of probation of good conduct? We gave our anxious consideration to the contentions urged by counsel. We are of opinion that the High Court has not committed any error in this regard also. Many offenders are not dangerous criminals but are weak characters or who have surrendered to temptation or provocation. In placing such type of offenders, on probation, the Court encourages their own sense of responsibility for their future and protect them from the stigma and possible contamination of prison. In this case, the High Court has observed that there was no previous history of enmity between the parties and the occurrence was an outcome of a sudden flare up. These are not showing to be incorrect. We have already said that the accused had no intention to commit murder of any person. Therefore, the extension of benefit of the beneficial legislation applicable to the first offenders cannot be said to be inappropriate.

9. This takes us to, the third questions which we have formulated earlier in this judgments. The High Court has directed each of the respondents to pay Rs.2500/- as compensation to Joginder. The High Court has not referred to any provision of law in support of the order of compensation. But that can be traced to section 357 Criminal Procedure Code Section 357, leaving aside the unnecessary, provides:-

"357. Order to pay compensation:

(1) When a court imposes a sentence of fine or a sentence (including a sentence of death) of which fine forms a part, the Court may, when passing judgment, order the whole or any part of the fine recovered to be applied-

(a) in defraying the expenses properly incurred in the prosecution;

(b) in the payment to any person of compensation for any loss or injury caused by the offence, when compensation is in the opinion of the Court, recoverable by such person in a civil Court;

Xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Xxxxxxxxxxx

Xxxxxx

(3) When a Court imposes a sentence, of which fine does not form a part, the Court may, when passing judgment, order the accused person to pay, by way of compensation. Such amount as may be specified in the order to the person who has suffered any loss or injury by reason of the act for which the accused person has been sentenced.

(4) An order under this section may also be made by an Appellate Court or by the High Court or Court of Session when exercising its power of revision.

(5) At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this Section.

11. The payment by way of compensation must, however, be reasonable. What is reasonable, may depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The quantum of compensation may be determined by taking into account the nature of crime, the justness of claim by the victim and the ability of accused to pay. If there are more than one accused they may be asked to pay in equal terms unless their capacity to pay varies considerably. The payment also vary depending upon the acts of each accused. Reasonable period for payment of compensation, if necessary by installments, may also be given. The Court may enforce the order by imposing sentence in default."

40. This Court also cannot lose sight of the stern observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Saurabh Bakshi 2015 (5) SCC 182, *w*hile dealing with the accident case. Their lordships in the aforesaid judgment in paras No. 1, 14, 24 and 25 have held as under;

> "1. Long back, an eminent thinker and author, Sophocles, had to say:
> "Law can never be enforced unless fear supports them."
> Though the aforesaid statement was made centuries back, it has its pertinence, in a way, with the enormous vigour, in today's society. It is the duty of every right thinking citizen to show veneration to law so that an orderly, civilized and peaceful society emerges. It has to be borne in mind that law is averse to any kind of chaos. It is totally intolerant of anarchy. If any one defies law, he has to face the wrath of law, depending on the concept of proportionality that the law recognizes. It can never be forgotten that the purpose of criminal law legislated by the competent legislatures, subject to judicial scrutiny within constitutionally established parameters, is to protect the collective interest and save every individual that forms a constituent of the collective from unwarranted hazards. It is sometimes said in an egocentric and uncivilised manner that law cannot bind the individual actions which are perceived as flaws by the large body of people, but, the truth is and has to be that when the law withstands the test of the constitutional scrutiny in a democracy, the individual notions are to be ignored. At times certain crimes assume more accent and gravity depending on the nature and impact of the crime on the society. No court should ignore the same being swayed by passion of mercy. It is the obligation of the court to constantly remind itself that the right of the victim, and be it said, on certain occasions the person aggrieved as well as the society at large can be victims, never be marginalised. In this context one may recapitulate the saying of Justice Benjamin N. Cardizo "Justice, though due to the accused, is due to the accuser too". And, therefore, the requisite norm has to be the established principles laid down in precedents. It is neither to be guided by a sense of sentimentality nor to be governed by prejudices.
> 14. In this context, we may refer with profit to the decision in Balwinder Singh (supra) wherein the High Court had allowed the revision and reduced the quantum of sentence awarded by the Judicial Magistrate, First Class, for the offences punishable under Section 304A, 337, 279 of IPC by reducing the sentence of imprisonment already undergone that is 15 days. The court referred to the decision in Dalbir Singh v. State of Haryana and reproduced two paragraphs which we feel extremely necessary for reproduction:- (Balwinder Singh case, SCC pp. 186-87, para12)
> "12...1. When automobiles have become death traps any leniency shown to drivers who are found guilty of rash driving would be at the risk of further escalation of road accidents. All those who are manning the steering of automobiles, particularly professional drivers, must be kept under constant reminders of their duty to adopt utmost care and also of the consequences befalling them in cases of dereliction. One of the most effective ways of keeping such drivers under mental vigil is to maintain a deterrent element in the sentencing sphere. Any latitude shown to them in that sphere would tempt them to make driving frivolous and a frolic.
> 13. Bearing in mind the galloping trend in road accidents in India and the devastating consequences visiting the victims and their families, criminal courts cannot treat the nature of the offence under Section 304-A IPC as attracting the benevolent provisions of Section 4 of the Probation of

> Offenders Act. While considering the quantum of sentence to be imposed for the offence of causing death by rash or negligent driving of automobiles, one of the prime considerations should be deterrence. A professional driver pedals the accelerator of the automobile almost throughout his working hours. He must constantly inform himself that he cannot afford to have a single moment of laxity or inattentiveness when his leg is on the pedal of a vehicle in locomotion. He cannot and should not take a chance thinking that a rash driving need not necessarily cause any accident; or even if any accident occurs it need not necessarily result in the death of any human being; or even if such death ensues he might not be convicted of the offence; and lastly, that even if he is convicted he would be dealt with leniently by the court. He must always keep in his mind the fear psyche that if he is convicted of the offence for causing death of a human being due to his callous driving of the vehicle he cannot escape from a jail sentence. This is the role which the courts can play, particularly at the level of trial courts, for lessening the high rate of motor accidents due to callous driving of automobiles." (Dalbir Singh case, SCC pp. 84—85 & 87, paras 1 &13)"
> 24. Needless to say, the principle of sentencing recognizes the corrective measures but there are occasions when the deterrence is an imperative necessity depending upon the facts of the case. In our opinion, it is a fit case where we are constrained to say that the High Court has been swayed away by the passion of mercy in applying the principle that payment of compensation is a factor for reduction of sentence to 24 days. It is absolutely in the realm of misplaced sympathy. It is, in a way mockery of justice. Because justice is "the crowning glory", "the sovereign mistress" and "queen of virtue" as Cicero had said. Such a crime blights not only the lives of the victims but of many others around them. It ultimately shatters the faith of the public in judicial system. In our view, the sentence of one year as imposed by the trial Magistrate which has been affirmed by the appellate court should be reduced to six months
> 25. Before parting with the case we are compelled to observe that India has a disreputable record of road accidents. There is a nonchalant attitude among the drivers. They feel that they are the "Emperors of all they survey". Drunkenness contributes to careless driving where the other people become their prey. The poor feel that their lives are not safe, the pedestrians think of uncertainty and the civilized persons drive in constant fear but still apprehensive about the obnoxious attitude of the people who project themselves as "larger than life". In such obtaining circumstances, we are bound to observe that the law-makers should scrutinize, relook and revisit the sentencing policy in Section 304-A IPC, so with immense anguish."

41. After giving my thoughtful consideration to the submissions as well as law cited by Mr. Vinay Thakur, Advocate representing the accused in the present case, I am of the view that same cannot be made applicable in the present case for granting the benefit of Section 4 of probation of Offenders Act, 1958. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment cited above has deprecated the practice of courts in settling the matter by awarding compensation or releasing the accused by giving the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958.

42. After bestowing my thoughtful consideration to the evidence led on record, I have no hesitation to conclude that prosecution was not able to prove on record rash and negligent driving, if any, on the part of the petitioner accused. However, action of accused in allowing 80-90 persons to board the ill fated truck clearly suggests that he was negligent. It has also come in evidence that truck was not in good condition and as such, petitioner accused should not have allowed the people to board the truck, which is/was definitely meant for carrying passengers. Hence, this Court is of the view that boarding of 80-90 people in the ill fated truck, certainly indicates towards the negligent conduct on the part of the petitioner and as such, he deserves to be convicted and sentenced for the same. In view of the above, judgment passed by the courts below deserve to be upheld. This Court is of the view that conviction recorded by the courts below is on higher side and same needs to be modified, especially, when prosecution was not able to prove the rash and negligent driving of the petitioner. Moreover, more than 13 years have passed after occurrence of the incident and during this period, petitioner must have suffered mental agony. It has also come in evidence that at the time of incident, his daughters were also travelling in the same. Hence, this Court deems it fit to modify the sentence as imposed by the courts below to three months for all the offences. Petitioner accused is directed to surrender himself before the learned trial Court forthwith to serve the sentence as awarded by learned trial Court, which has been further modified by this Court vide this judgment. Needless to say that order dated 22.10.2009, passed by this Court, whereby sentence imposed by the Court below was suspended, shall stand vacated automatically. Pending applications, if any, stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Lal Chand .....Petitioner
Versus
State of HP .....Respondent

Cr. Revision No. 193 of 2010.
Date of Decision: 28.11.2016.

Cases referred:
State of Kerala Vs. Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999)2 Supreme Court Cases 452
Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241

For the petitioner: Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

The present criminal revision petition filed under Sections 397/ 401 of the Cr.PC, is directed against the judgment dated 18.8.2010, passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, HP, in Criminal Appeal No. 30 of 2010, affirming the judgment/order of conviction and sentence dated 31.5.2010 and 2.6.2010, passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Barsar, District Hamirpur, HP, in Criminal Case No. 19-II-2008/2007, whereby present petitioner has been sentenced as under:-

"Section 341 of IPC

To pay fine of Rs. 500/- and in default of payment of fine, simple imprisonment for one month;

Section 323 of IPC

To undergo six months rigorous imprisonment and pay fine of Rs. 500/- and in default, two months simple imprisonment;

Section 326 of IPC

To undergo three years rigorous imprisonment and to pay fine of Rs. 3500/- under Section 326 of the IPC and in default of payment of fine, simple imprisonment for one year;

Section 504 of IPC

To undergo six months rigorous imprisonment;

Section 506 IPC

To undergo six months rigorous imprisonment."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerged from the record are that during the intervening night of July 19/20, 2007, at about 10:40 pm, Police Post, Deothsidh received telephonic call from the Medical Officer, PHC, Bijhar that one Ram Chand and Urmila Devi had been brought to the hospital in injured condition. On the basis of aforesaid information, police entered rapat Ext.PW11/B and immediately, recorded statement Ext.PW1/A of the complainant namely Ram Chand, wherein the complainant stated that he is resident of Village Mangnoti and has three sons. He further disclosed to the police that they are residing outside due to employment and he is a handicap person and tailor by profession. He further stated that he and his wife have been residing together in the house. On 19.7.2007, after taking meals, when they were sleeping in their house, Anita Devi, wife of Lal Chand (accused) knocked at their door and told that Lal Chand (accused for the sake of brevity) was beating her and asked for help. The complainant suggested her to call respectable persons of the village but she insisted them to accompany her. When they accompanied her towards her house, the accused came there and started hurling abuses to them. The complainant and his wife asked him not to abuse, upon the same, the accused came in anger and assaulted his wife with "Danda" on her head. The complainant turned back out and wanted to run, but the accused assaulted him with a "Darat" on his left wrist causing grievous injury on his person. When he raised alarm, Sapna Devi, Ram Kishan, Baldev and other villagers came there and the accused ran away from there by threatening them. On the basis of aforesaid statement, police registered formal FIR Ext.PW14/A and conducted investigation. Police prepared the site plan Ext.PW16/B. As per story of prosecution, accused made a disclosure statement Ext.PW15/A, stating therein that he had concealed one "Darat" in his house about which he knows and that he can get the same recovered. Accordingly, "darat" Ext.P6 and Danda Ext.P5 were taken into possession vide memo Ext.PW7/A. Khaka of "Darat" Ext.PW15/E and map of the spot Ext.PW15/F, were also prepared. Police also recorded statement of witnesses under Section 161 and thereafter, presented challan under Sections 341,323, 326, 504 and 506 of IPC, before the competent Court of law.

3. Learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Barsar, District Hamirpur, HP, on being satisfied that prima facie case exists against the accused put a notice of accusation to him under Sections 341,323, 326, 504 and 506 IPC, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. Learned trial Court on the basis of evidence adduced on record, held the accused guilty of having committed offence under the aforesaid Sections and accordingly convicted and sentenced him as per description already given above.

4. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court, the petitioner-accused filed appeal under Section 374 of Cr.PC before the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, HP, who vide judgment dated 18.8.2010, dismissed the appeal preferred by the petitioner accused. Hence, this criminal revision petition before this Court.

5. At this stage, it may be noticed that sequel to order dated 30.9.2016, Registry issued notice to the petitioner, who has come present in the Court. Petitioner namely Lal Chand, submitted that he is not in a position to engage the lawyer and as such, he may be given service of legal aid counsel. Accordingly, in view of the aforesaid request, this Court requested Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate, to conduct his case, who readily agreed for the same. Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate, representing the petitioner-accused vehemently argued that the impugned judgments of conviction and sentence recorded by the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Chaudhary, while referring to the judgments passed by the Courts below further contended that courts below have not read the evidence in its right perspective, rather judgments are based upon the conjectures and surmises, as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the petitioner, who is an innocent person Mr. Chaudhary, further stated that the courts below have not taken into consideration that no explanation worth the name was rendered by the prosecution for delay in lodging the FIR because PW2 admittedly admitted that incident took place on 17.9.2007, whereas it was reported to the police on the intervening night of 19/20.9.2007 and as such, story put forth by the prosecution could not be accepted while recording conviction of the petitioner accused that too on the flimsy grounds. While referring to the statements made by the prosecution witnesses, Mr. Chaudhary, forcefully contended that none of the independent witness has supported the case of the prosecution, rather turned hostile, but despite that courts below merely on the statement of the complainant and his wife, recorded conviction of the petitioner accused. Mr. Chaudhary, further argued that both the courts below miserably failed to appreciate that the complainant had made an attempt to outrage the modesty of wife of the petitioner accused, which fact stands duly proved with the statement made by PW4 Sapna Devi, who in her cross examination specifically stated that the complainant had made complaint with regard to the alleged attempt to outrage the modesty of wife of the petitioner accused. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Chaudhary strenuously argued that the complainant himself admitted in his cross examination that there is a litigation pending between them, which clearly suggests that the complainant had motive to falsely implicate the accused, whereas court below despite noticing the factum qua litigation pending between the parties, wrongly came to conclusion that such defence is a double edged weapon and it has to be appreciated in the light of the facts of the each case and wrongly recorded the conviction of the petitioner accused. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Chaudhary, prayed that present petitioner accused may be acquitted of the charges framed against him after setting aside the judgment of conviction recorded by the courts below, which are not based upon the true facts.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Ramesh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, representing the respondent-state supported the impugned judgments passed by the courts below. Mr. Thakur strenuously argued that the judgments passed by the courts below are based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and as such, in the given facts and circumstances of the case, no interference, whatsoever, of this Court, is warranted, especially in view of the fact that courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously. With a view to refute the contention put forth by Mr. Chaudhary, he also invited attention of this Court to the statement of PWs to demonstrate that there are no inconsistencies in the statements made by the PW1 and PW2, who in unequivocal terms have stated that they were given beatings by the petitioner-accused. Mr. Thakur further stated that though Independent witnesses turned hostile but if their statements are read in its entirety, it suggests that on that day, the complainant and his wife Urmila were given beatings by the petitioner accused and as such, there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgments passed by the courts below. He also invited attention of this Court to the medical evidence adduced on record by the prosecution to suggest that bare reading of MLC Ext. PW13/A and Ext.PW13/B suggests that the complainant as well as his wife suffered grievous injuries, which were admittedly caused by the petitioner accused and as such, he does not deserve any leniency and he has been rightly convicted by the courts below. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Thakur, reminded this Court that it has very limited powers while exercising its revisionary powers under Section 397 of the Cr.PC as far as re-appreciation of the evidence is concerned. In this regard, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case State of Kerala Vs.

Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999)2 Supreme Court Cases 452, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "In its revisional jurisdiction, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceedings for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order. In other words, the jurisdiction is one of supervisory jurisdiction exercised by the High Court for correcting miscarriage of justice. But the said revisional power cannot be equated with the power of an appellate court nor can it be treated even as a second appellate jurisdiction. Ordinarily, therefore, it would not be appropriate for the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence and come to its own conclusion on the same when the evidence has already been appreciated by the Magistrate as well as Sessions Judge in appeal, unless any glaring feature is brought to the notice of the High Court which would otherwise tantamount to gross miscarriage of justice."

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

8. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the prosecution witnesses solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

9. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

10. During proceedings of the case, this Court had an occasion to peruse the judgments passed by both the Courts below as well as evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, perusal whereof suggests that on 19th July, 2007, the complainant Ram Chand and his wife Urmila received injuries on the arm and head respectively. Petitioner accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 denied the case of the prosecution in toto and produced DW1 as defence witness, who stated that Ram Chand and his wife resides at Chandigarh. He also stated that the petitioner accused had no quarrel with Ram Chan and Urmila Devi and false case has been prepared against the petitioner. He also stated that there is an illicit relation of Ram Chand with the wife of the accused i.e. Anita. In his cross-examination, he admitted that Lal Chand is his younger brother.

11. Perusal of judgments passed by the courts below suggests that aforesaid version put forth by DW1 Amar Nath was altogether dis-believed on the ground that he was younger brother of the petitioner accused Lal Chand. Careful perusal of the record especially, statement of PW1 i.e. Ram Chand suggests that parties were in litigation for last 18-19 years with each other. PW1 specifically admitted in his cross-examination that his mother had litigation with father of the accused for the last 18-19 years. But it appears that court below brushed aside the aforesaid factum of having litigation between the parties by concluding that plea of litigation and enmity is a double edged weapon and it has to be appreciated in the light of facts of each case.

12. True, it is that plea of litigation and enmity is to be appreciated in the light of the facts of each case and it is a double edge weapon and courts while examining correctness and genuineness of such plea/defence taken by either of the party needs to carefully examine the evidence in its entirety vis-à-vis other material available on record.

13. After carefully examining the entire evidence available on record, especially, where all the material PWs have turned hostile, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that courts below have gravely erred in brushing aside the aforesaid plea of pendency of litigation and enmity between the parties by the petitioner-accused. Similarly, if the judgment passed by the courts below are read in its entirety, it also compels this Court to observe that court below while discarding the evidence adduced on record by the petitioner accused in the shape of DW1 Amar Nath, applied different yardsticks because apparently, version put forth by DW1 in his defence statement was discarded by the court below on the ground that he is a younger brother of the petitioner accused Lal Chand. But judgments passed by the courts below suggest that conviction of the petitioner has been only recorded on the statements of PW1 and PW2, who are admittedly husband and wife and none of the independent witness has corroborated the versions put forth by PW1 and PW2 and as such, it is not understood that when court below discarded the statement of DW1 on the ground that he is an interested witness, and then how conviction of petitioner could be based merely on the statements of PW1 and PW2, who are admittedly related to each other.

14. After observing the aforesaid discrepancies in the judgments passed by the courts below, this Court proceeded to critically examine the entire evidence led on record by the prosecution to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the submissions having been made on behalf of petitioner accused and to ensure that impugned judgments are not perverse and same are based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence as submitted by the learned Deputy Advocate General appearing for the respondent State.

15. PW1 the complainant Ram Chand, stated that he and his wife were sleeping in their house when Anita (wife of the accused) knocked their door and informed that her husband was beating her. PW1 further stated that he advised her to call the respectable persons of the village but later on, on her asking, they went there, where petitioner accused started hurling abuses on them. He asked him not to abuse him but he snatched the 'danda' and inflicted a blow of the same on the head of his wife. He further stated that he tried to escape but accused also inflicted a sickle blow on his arm, as a result of which, blood started oozing out. He further stated that he raised alarm, upon which, Anil, Baldev, Sapna, Ram Kishan and other person of the village came at the spot. But in the meantime, accused fled away from the spot threatening him to kill him in future. He further stated that he was brought to the hospital in the Jeep of Papu and there, he got recorded statement, Ext.PW1/A, to the police and after discharge from the hospital, he took shelter in the house of Amar Nath DW1. He also stated that blood stained shirt Ext.P2, trouser Ext.P3 and wife's Dupatta Ext.P4 were handed over to the police, which were sealed in a parcel with seal "J" and taken into possession vide memo Ext.PW1/B. He further stated that he was medically examined vide MLC Ext.PW1/C. He also identified stick Ext.P5 as weapon of offence with which his wife was beaten. He also identified sickle Ext.P6 as the weapon of offence.

16. In his cross-examination, PW1 admitted that houses of Laxmi Ram and Anant Ram are at a height from their house and at the time of occurrence, nobody except his wife was present in the spot. He also admitted that ward member Sapna Devi had reached the spot. He also admitted that stick Ext.P5 belonged to him but self stated that it was snatched by the accused. He denied the suggestion put to him that accused had not given beatings to his wife with danda. Similarly, he stated that he did not disclose to the police that accused had snatched danda from his hand. Similarly, in cross examination, he feigned ignorance that he has signed Ext.PW1/B. Most importantly, in his cross examination, he admitted that litigation is pending between his mother and father of the accused for the last 18-19 years. He further denied the suggestion put to him by the defence that on 19.7.2007, he manhandled accused's wife Anita and attempted to outrage her modesty. He also denied that he had earlier tried to ravish Anita and matter was reported to ward member.

17. PW2 Urmila Devi corroborated the version put forth by her husband. She also identified the stick Ext.P5 as weapon of offence with which accused allegedly inflicted blow on her head. She also identified the sickle Ext.P6 with which her husband received injury on his arm. She also identified the accused in the Court. In her cross examination, she admitted that police recorded their statement on 17.7.2007, when she was confronted with her statement where she disclosed to the police that Anita had asked them to call village Panchayat, she feigned ignorance. She was also confronted with her statement made to police that she became unconscious and re-gained consciousness on hearing cries of her husband. She denied the suggestion put to her that stick and sickle were produced to the police by her husband. She also admitted that stick Ext.P5 belongs to her husband, but denied that sickle Ext.P7 also belongs to them. She also admitted that Anita Devi, Sapna Devi along with other villagers reached the spot. She also denied the allegation that accused had ravished the accused's wife Anita.

18. Conjoint reading of aforesaid PWs, who were present at the spot at the time of occurrence, though suggests that on 19.7.2007, they on insistence of Anita Devi, went to her house, whereupon they were given beatings by the petitioner but if their statements are read in its entirety, there are material contradictions with regard to weapon allegedly used by the petitioner accused for giving beatings to the complainant and his wife. PW1 specifically stated in his statement that accused snatched "danda" from his hand and then gave blow on the head of his wife. On the other hand, both the PWs made an attempt to prove on record that at the time of alleged occurrence, petitioner accused was carrying sickle in his hand. It is not understood that if petitioner accused was carrying sickle in his hand, where was the occasion for him to snatch the "danda" from the petitioner accused. Similarly, it is not understood that why at that time, petitioner complainant Ram Chand was carrying danda in his hand. It is admitted case of the prosecution that the complainant Ram Chand and his wife went to the house of Anita (wife of the accused) on her asking, meaning thereby, wife of the petitioner accused was known to the complainant and his wife. As per PW1, after alleged incident of inflicting injury on his arm, he raised alarm upon which Baldev, Subhash, Ram Kishan and other villagers came to the spot for his rescue and thereafter, he was brought to the hospital in Papu's Jeep. But PW1 in his cross examination feigned ignorance whether the statement of Papu was recorded by the police or not.

19. PW3, Anil Kumar while making statement before the Court stated that he is owner of Taxi No. HP-02-8718. He further stated that on the alleged day at about 10/11:00 pm, he heard noise and he went to the roof of his house to see the incident. He further stated that he saw that Ram Chand had sustained injury on his arm and wife of Ram Chand namely Urmila and Anita, wife of the accused, were also present on the spot. He further stated that he was told by the public to take injured to the hospital but he nowhere stated in his statement that, who gave injuries to Ram Chand and his wife. Aforesaid witness was declared hostile by the prosecution but in his cross examination by the prosecution, he admitted that alleged occurrence occurred on 19.7.2007. He denied that Ram Chand had disclosed him that he was given beating by Lal Chand. He admitted that he along with Ram Kishan and Baldev brought the complainant Ram Chand and his wife to Bijari Hospital. In his cross examination, he admitted that Ram Chand is his uncle.

20. PW4 Sapna Devi Ward Member also not supported the case of the proseuciton and accordingly, was declared hostile. In her cross-examination by prosecution, she denied that she resiled from her earlier statement. She further in her cross examination by defence admitted that accused and his wife had complained to her that Ram Chand had ravished Anita. She further stated that Sulochna and Biasan Devi also supported such allegation of the accused. She specifically stated that aforesaid complaint was made to her in the month of July. She further admitted that accused had not caused any hurt to the complainant and his wife. She further admitted that the complainant Ram Chand had illicit relations with the wife of the accused. It has also come in his cross examination that weapon of offence was produced to the police by Ram Chand and she had not taken any action on the complaint of the accused, rather tried conciliation.

21. PW5 Baldev Raj stated that on 20.7.2007, he came out of his house on hearing noise and noticed bleeding wound on the arm of the complainant Ram Chand. He also stated that accused was present on the spot. He further stated that he witnessed injury on the person of Ram Chand and his wife and both of them disclosed to him that accused had beaten them. He further stated that on 21.7.2007, police took into possession the cloths Exts.P.2 to P.4 vide memo Ext.PW1/B but in his cross examination, while admitting that the clothes were sealed by the police in his presence, he feigned ignorance that dupatta Ext.P1, was produced by the police by Sapna Devi. He denied that he has deposed, falsely against the accused due to enmity.

22. Similarly, PW6 Ram Kishan stated that on 19.7.2007, he visited the accused at around 8:00 pm and then he returned back to his house. He stated that at about 9:45 pm, he heard noise and came to spot where he saw injuries on the person of Ram Chand and his wife. He further stated that there was injury on the hand of Ram Chand and on the head of his wife. When he inquired from them, they disclosed that the accused gave beatings to them. He stated that he brought them to the hospital. Ram Chand had produced clothes Ext.P.2 to P4 to the police vide memo Ext.PW1/B. He also Identified the accused person in the Court. But in his cross-examination, he admitted that PW5 Baldev had not reached the spot but met them on the way.

23. Close scrutiny of aforesaid alleged independent witnesses, nowhere proves the case of the prosecution, rather all the prosecution witnesses, especially, PW3 and PW4 have turned hostile because they have specifically denied that petitioner accused gave beatings to the complainant and his wife. PW3 though in his examination in chief stated that the complainant Ram Chand had disclosed him that they have been beaten by the petitioner accused, but in his cross examination; he denied that Ram Chand had disclosed him that he has been beaten by the accused Lal Chand.

24. Similarly, PW4 Sapna specifically denied that petitioner accused gave beating to the complainant and his wife, rather, in her cross examination by the prosecution, she categorically admitted that accused had not caused any hurt to the complainant and his wife. She further stated that the complainant had illicit relation with the wife of the accused and weapon of the offence were produced by the Ram Chand.

25. Similarly, if statements of other independent witnesses Baldev PW5 and PW6 Ram Kishan are also read in juxtaposing each other, there are material contradictions qua the timing and date of incident. Similarly, both the PWs have contradicted each other with regard to their presence on the spot of incident at that relevant time. PW5 stated on 20.7.2007, he came out of his house on hearing noise and noticed bleeding wound on the arm of Ram Chand but the statement of PW6 suggests that he brought them to the hospital and he in his cross-examination admitted that Baldev had not reached the spot but met on the way, which clearly belies the statement of PW5 Baldev Raj, who claimed that he was present at the spot immediately after the alleged incident. Similarly, there are contradiction with regard to the production of Duppata Ext.P1 to the police by Sapna Devi. PW5 feigned ignorance that Dupatta was produced to the police by Sapna Devi, whereas Sapna Devi nowhere stated that Dupatta Ext.P1 was taken into custody by the police in her presence.

26. PW9 Suresh Kumar also not supported the case of prosecution. During his cross-examination by prosecution, he admitted his signatures on Mark-Z but he disowned the contents of the same, rather stated that he had signed the memo in good faith. He also denied that the accused made any disclosure statement in his presence. He also disowned portion A to A of statement Mark-Z recorded by the police.

27. PW7 Pritam Chand also not supported the prosecution case. In his statement, he stated that accused made disclosure statement in his presence. He also like PW9 Suresh, admitted his signature on Mark-Z but disowned the contents of the same. He also disowned portion A to A of the statement of Mark Z recorded by the Police. PW7 stated that on 25.7.2007, the accused led them towards the room of his house, from where he got recovered one sickle and stick to the police vide memo Ext.PW7/A. In his cross examination, he disclosed that he is resident of village Barla, which is 2 ½ k.m. away from the spot of recovery. He also admitted that he is a frequent witness for the police. He admitted in his cross examination that ASI Chhota Ram called him to the spot telephonically.

28. Perusal of the aforesaid PWs 7, 8 and 9, nowhere proves the recovery, if any, of weapon allegedly used by the petitioner accused for inflicting injury on the arm of the complainant and head of his wife Urmila Devi. None of the aforesaid witnesses supported the prosecution case, rather all these PWs before whom, police had allegedly recovered weapon denied that accused made disclosure statement in their presence. Moreover, no prayer, if any, could be made on the statement of PW7, who himself stated that on 25.7.2007, accused Lal Chand led them towards the room of his house from where he got recoverd one sickle and stick. He himself stated that he is a frequent witness to the police and came to the spot on asking of ASI Chhota Ram, who called him to come to the spot telephonically.

29. HC Jagdish Kumar who had conducted some part of the investigation appeared as PW16 and denied that the Sapna Devi had disclosed to him that no such occurrence ever took place. He further denied that Sapna had disclosed about the illicit relation of Ram Chand with the wife of the accused.

30. PW15 ASI Chhota Ram deposed that on July, 24, 2007, the case file was handed over to him for further investigation. He stated that accused Lal Chand had recorded his statement Ext.PW15/A, under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act in the presence of witnesses Jagtar Singh and Suresh. He also recorded statements Ext.PW15/B of Suresh Kumar and Ext.PW15/C of Jagtar Singh and thereafter they went to village Mangnoti where in the presence of Pradhan Pritam Chand and Up-Pradhan Mahinder Singh, accused identified his house. He further stated that he made khakha of Darat Ext.PW15/E and map of the spot Ext.PW15/F and handed over the case file to ASI Subhash Chand due to his transfer. In his cross examination, he denied that accused had not made any disclosure statement. It is also denied that he had recorded statements of Jagtar Singh and Suresh on his own.

31. Perusal of statement of PW9 Suresh, PW 7 Pritam Chand and PW15 ASI Chhota Ram, leaves no doubt in the mind of this Court that prosecution was not able to prove the recovery of weapon allegedly used by the petitioner accused while inflicting injury on the arm and head of the complainant and his wife. Aforesaid witnesses especially, PWs 7 and 9 nowhere supported the claim of PW15 that the petitioner made disclosure statement before aforesaid prosecution witnesses and as such, version put forth by PW15 could not be accepted in the absence of corroboration if any, from aforesaid witnesses, who allegedly signed the disclosure statement.

32. PW13 Dr. Shashi Dutt Sharma, who medically examined the complainant and his wife Urmila Devi, stated that he issued MLC Ext.13/A and injury was simple in nature, which could be caused by blow of danda. Similarly, he issued MLC Ext.PW13/B and after going through the X-ray he opined that the complainant Ram Chand had sustained grievous injury caused with sharp weapon possibly with sickle Ext.P6.

33. In his cross examination, he specifically denied that possibility of injury on the person of Urmila was, when a person falls from stairs and when person runs and strikes his-her fore-head with some object. He denied that possibility of injury on the person of the accused Ram Chand by way of fall or when a running person strikes with an object or when arm of a running person is pressed under its weight or if heavy material falls on the arm of a person. He further stated that object will not have enough force to cause such type of injury.

34. In the instant case, though medical evidence on record suggests that complainant and his wife sustained injuries but same was not sufficient to record conviction against the accused because prosecution remained unsuccessful in proving that injuries on the head and arm of PW1 and his wife was in fact caused by accused. None of independent witness associated by the prosecution supported the case of the prosecution, rather all the material witnesses have resiled. Even in the cross-examination, prosecution has not been able to extract anything contrary to what they stated in their examination in chief. Similarly, prosecution has not been able to prove the recovery of alleged weapon allegedly used for inflicting injury on the person of the complainant and his wife. Apart from above, as has been observed, in the earlier part of the judgment, courts below failed to apply same yardstick while weighing the evidence of prosecution as well as defence because evidence led on record by the defence in the shape of DW1 was solely discarded by the courts below on the ground that DW1 was related to the petitioner accused It is ample clear from the perusal of the judgment passed by the courts below that conviction of the petitioner accused has been recorded solely on the statement of PW1 and PW2, who are admittedly husband and wife.

35. This Court after examining the entire prosecution evidence available on record, has no hesitation to conclude that there was no sufficient evidence adduced on record by the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and both the courts below wrongly placed reliance upon the statement of PW1 and 2, who were the sole witnesses to alleged incident and recorded conviction of the petitioner accused, who successfully proved on record that families of the complainant as well as petitioner accused had litigation pending in court for the last 18-19 years. As noticed above this Court, noticed material contradiction in the statement of PWs and as such, same could not be relied upon while recording conviction of the petitioner accused, hence, judgments passed by the courts below deserve to be quashed and set aside.

36. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made herein above, present petition is allowed and judgments passed by the courts below are quashed and set-aside. Petitioner accused is acquitted of the charges framed against him. Interim order, if any, vacated. Bail bonds of the accused are discharged. Needles to say, Mr. Chaudhary, shall be entitled to fee as is admissible to the legal aid counsel as per law. Pending application, if any also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Mansarovar Infratech Private Limited .....Petitioner.

Versus

Neftogaz India Privat Limited and others. .....Respondents.

Arbitration Case No. 70 of 2015
Reserved on: 29.08.2016
Date of decision: 28th November, 2016

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 8- The work of widening and strengthening of Theog-Kotkhai-Hatkoti-Rohru Road from 0+00 k.m. to 80+684 k.m. was awarded in favour of second respondent who executed a sub contract with the first respondent- first respondent entered into an agreement with the petitioner - the work was subsequently cancelled and the machinery of the petitioner was impounded along with the machinery of second respondent – a civil suit was filed by the petitioner, which is pending disposal- a civil writ petition was filed, which was dismissed as not maintainable in view of the arbitration clause- the payment of the bill has not been made to the petitioner- hence, permission was sought to appoint the arbitrator – the respondent No.2 stated that it had not entered into any contract with the petitioner and the petition is not maintainable- held, that principal contractor is liable to indemnify the claim of the sub-contractor like the petitioner – however, in absence of any signed written agreement between the parties, the petition is not maintainable against the respondent No.2- however, there is a written memorandum of understanding between the petitioner and the respondent No.1, which can be referred to the arbitrator – the petition allowed and Arbitral Tribunal appointed to adjudicate the claim of non-payment of the dues of the petitioner. (Para-9 to 16)

Cases referred:

Chloro Controls India Private Limited V. Severn Trent Water Purification Inc. and others, (2013) 1 Supreme Court Cases 641

Essar Oil Limited V. Hindustan Shipyard Limited and others, (2015) 10 Supreme Court Cases 642

For the petitioner:	Mr. Rahul Singh Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. N.K. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate for respondent No.2. Respondents No. 1 and 3 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge.

The petitioner is a Company registered under the Companies Act, 1956. This petition has been filed by the petitioner with a prayer to appoint an Arbitral Tribunal for resolution of its disputes with the respondents.

2. The Himachal Pradesh Road and other infrastructure Development Corporation (HPRIDC) had awarded the work namely "Widening and strengthening of Theog-Kotkhai-Hatkoti-Rohru Road from 0+000Km to 80+684 Km." vide Contract No. (PW/SRP/RIDC/HP/5 (ICB)). An agreement came to be executed between the Government of Himachal Pradesh and the 2nd respondent in this regard. The 2nd respondent had executed a sub-contract with Naftogaz India Private Limited, the 1st respondent on 30.07.2011 and thereby tendered the execution of the aforesaid work by respondent No. 1. Respondent No. 1 had further executed memorandum of understanding (MoU)/agreement, Annexure P-1 with the petitioner-Company on 16.12.2011. Before that, letter of intent dated 01.11.2011, Annexure P-2 was issued by respondent No. 1 to petitioner-Company. In terms of Memorandum of Understanding, Annexure P-1, the residuary work was to be executed by petitioner and payment allegedly to be released in its favour by respondent No. 2 i.e. the Principal Contractor. Respondent No. 2 with respect to the work executed by the petitioner has made through RTGS, payment of Rs.1,75,00,000/- on 28.04.2012 and Rs.47,92,436/- on 28.06.2012 on verification of its bills by respondent No. 1 on approval thereof by respondent No. 2. The statement of accounts, Annexure P-3 has been produced by the petitioner in support of this aspect of its case.

3. The Government of Himachal Pradesh had cancelled the work tendered to the 2nd respondent on 2.7.2012. As a result thereof, the machinery of the petitioner deployed for execution of the work was also impounded by the employer along with machinery of Principal Contractor, the 2nd respondent. A Civil Suit for recovery of damages on this score filed by the petitioner is pending disposal in this Court. A Civil Writ Petition bearing No. 3195/2014 filed by the petitioner was dismissed by this Court being not maintainable, in view of the arbitration clause in the Memorandum of Understanding, Annexure P-1. The liberty was reserved to the petitioner to seek appointment of Arbitrator for resolution of disputes in accordance with law.

Since payment of pending bills i.e. dated 5.12.2013 in the sum of Rs.2,08,32,094/- and dated 04.01.2015 in the sum of Rs.3,35,98,304/- has not been made by the 2nd respondent for want of verification thereof by the 1st respondent and as there exist arbitration clause in the MoU, Annexure P-1 qua resolution of disputes between the parties by an Arbitrator, hence this petition.

4. The sub-contractor, the 1st respondent has failed to put in appearance despite due service of notice, therefore, was ordered to be proceeded against ex-parte. The proforma respondent No. 3 is also ex-parte. Now if coming to the reply filed on behalf of Principal Contractor, the 2nd respondent, in preliminary it is averred that there being no arbitration agreement in existence between the petitioner and the said respondent and that in terms of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1966, the arbitration can only be between two contracting parties i.e. the signatory to an agreement and also that since the 2nd respondent has never entered into any agreement with the petitioner, therefore, petition qua said respondent is devoid of merits and as such sought to be dismissed. The Memorandum of Understanding, Annexure P-1 is between the petitioner and the 1st respondent and as per the same, arbitral proceedings can only be held at Noida (U.P.), therefore, this petition is stated to be not maintainable in this Court. In view of Civil Suit No. 31/15 is stated to be filed by the petitioner in this Court for recovery of amount based upon similar claims/disputes, therefore, on this score also, this petition is not maintainable, because two parallel proceedings for adjudication of almost same and similar claims are not legally permissible.

5. On merits, while reiterating that there exists no agreement between the petitioner and the 2nd respondent, the petition against the said respondent is stated to be not maintainable. The payment of Rs.1,75,00,000/- on 28.04.2012 and Rs.47,92,436/- on 28.06.2012 by the 2nd respondent to the petitioner were not on account of its liability towards the petitioner nor the same were made towards the part payment for execution of work and rather to respondent No. 1 through bank transfer on account of advance and payment of salary etc., to its workers. The liability of the 2nd respondent qua execution of work in question was towards respondent No. 1 and not the petitioner. The agreement (MoU) dated 16.12.2011, Annexure P-1 is stated to be between the petitioner and respondent No. 1, hence an arrangement mutually binding them and not the 2nd respondent. The claims, if any, of the petitioner have to be met by the 1st respondent and the 2nd respondent is not liable to indemnify the same. The petition, as such, has been sought to be dismissed.

6. In rejoinder, the petitioner-Company has denied the contentions to the contrary being wrong and has reiterated its case as set out in the petition.

7. Mr. Rahul Singh Verma, learned counsel representing the petitioner has strenuously contended that respondents No. 1 and 2 both are liable to indemnify the claims of the petitioner, as according to him, in terms of Section 8 and 45 of the Act, the arbitral proceedings can be sought to be initiated against 3rd party like the 2nd respondent. The Principal Contractor, in the present case, according to Mr. Verma had sub-contracted the work to the 1st respondent and that the petitioner-Company has been associated vide Memorandum of Understanding, Annexure P-1 to execute the work at such sums and costs payable by the Principal Contractor, of course, through its sub-contractor, the 1st respondent. It has, therefore, been urged that in a situation, if arbitral proceedings are allowed to be initiated only against the 1st respondent, the sub-contractor the petitioner will have to file civil suit against the 2nd respondent for adjudication of his claims against the said respondent and in that event two parallel proceedings qua same subject matter of dispute will take place simultaneously. Mr. Verma in support of arguments, he addressed has placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in Chloro Controls India Private Limited V. Severn Trent Water Purification Inc. and others, (2013) 1 Supreme Court Cases 641.

8. In order to repel the arguments addressed on behalf of the petitioner-Company, Mr. N.K. Sood, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate has very ably argued that for want of a singed contract agreement between the petitioner and the 2nd respondent, the appointment of Arbitrator against the 2nd respondent cannot be sought and as such, the petition qua said respondent has been sought to be dismissed. Mr. Sood has also urged the question of jurisdiction of this Court to entertain the petition. The ratio of judgment in Chloro Controls India Private Limited (Supra) according to Mr. Sood is not applicable and rather distinguishable in the given facts and circumstances of this case.

9. Analyzing the rival submissions in the given facts and circumstances and also the legal provisions, the sole question arises for determination in this petition is as to whether no arbitral proceedings can be sought to be initiated against the 2nd respondent, who is not signatory to the Memorandum of Understanding, Annexure P-1 nor any contract agreement exists between the said respondent and the petitioner. The answer to this poser in all fairness and in the ends of justice would be in affirmative for the reason that bare reading of Section 8 of the Act makes it crystal clear that it is only those parties who can be referred to arbitration where there exists an arbitration agreement between them and one of such party to such agreement personally or any person claiming through or under him may apply for appointment of arbitrator, however, not later than the date of submitting his first statement on substance of disputes. This Court in this regard is supported by the ratio of judgment of the Apex Court in Essar Oil Limited V. Hindustan Shipyard Limited and others, (2015) 10 Supreme Court Cases 642, where in the similar facts and circumstances, the Apex Court has held as under:

> "22. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties at length and have also considered some judgments cited by them and the documents which had been placed on record and relied upon by them.
> 23. Upon hearing the learned counsel and looking at the contract entered into between the appellant and the respondent and upon perusal of other letters, we believe that the view expressed by the High Court cannot be accepted.
> 24. It is true that the ONGC had made payment to the appellant directly on several occasions. Upon perusal of the correspondence, we find that some understanding, but not amounting to any agreement or contract, was arrived at between the ONGC and the respondent for making direct payment to the appellant, possibly because the respondent was not in a position to make prompt payments to the appellant. It also appears that on account of the delay in making payment to the appellant, the work of the ONGC was likely to be adversely affected. The ONGC was interested in getting its work done promptly and without any hassles. In the circumstances, upon perusal of the correspondence, which had taken place between the ONGC and the respondent, it is clear that so as to facilitate the respondent, the ONGC had made payments on behalf of the respondent to the appellant directly.
> 25. Simply because some payments had been made by the ONGC to the appellant, it would not be established that there was a privity of contract between the ONGC and the appellant and only for that reason the ONGC cannot be saddled with a liability to pay the amount payable to the appellant by the respondent.
> 26. It is also pertinent to note that the Arbitration Agreement was only between the appellant and the respondent. The ONGC was not a party to the Arbitration Agreement. When a dispute had arisen between the appellant and the respondent in relation to payment of money, the appellant had initiated the arbitration proceedings. As the ONGC was not a party to the Arbitration Agreement, it could not have been represented before the Arbitral Tribunal. If the ONGC was not a party before the Arbitral Tribunal, the Tribunal could not have made any Award making the ONGC liable to make payment to the appellant. In the aforestated factual and legal position, the Arbitral Tribunal could not have made the ONGC liable in any respect and rightly, the majority view of the Arbitral Tribunal was to the effect that the ONGC, not being a party to any contract or Arbitration

> Agreement with the appellant, could not have been made liable to make any payment to the appellant.
> 27. We are in agreement with the view expressed by the majority of the Arbitral Tribunal. In our opinion, the High Court had committed an error by not considering the above facts and by observing that the appellant will have to take legal action against the ONGC for recovery of the amount payable to it. If one looks at the relationship between the appellant and the respondent, it is very clear that the respondent had given a sub-contract to the appellant and in the said agreement of sub-contract, the ONGC was not a party and there was no liability on the part of the ONGC to make any payment to the appellant. Moreover, we could not find any correspondence establishing contractual relationship between the ONGC and the appellant. In the circumstances, the ONGC cannot be made legally liable to make any payment to the appellant. As stated hereinabove, only for the sake of convenience and to get the work of the ONGC done without any hassle, the ONGC had made payment to the appellant on behalf of the respondent without incurring any liability to make complete payment on behalf of the respondent.
> 28. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant failed to show any document in the nature of a contract entered into between the appellant and the ONGC whereby the ONGC had made itself liable to make payment to the appellant. Even when the payment had been made by the ONGC, it was very clear that the payments were made on behalf of the respondent as the ONGC was debiting the account of the respondent by the amount paid to the appellant. It is important that the payment was made to the appellant only upon certification of work done by the respondent. The ONGC had given a contract to the respondent. The ONGC had never entered into any contract with the appellant and therefore, it did not rely upon any certification or any statement made by the appellant in relation to quantum of work done by the appellant. This fact also shows that the ONGC was concerned with the work which had been approved by the respondent and instead of making payment to the respondent, the ONGC had made payment to the appellant on behalf of the respondent, though there was no legal obligation on the part of the ONGC to make such a payment to the appellant.
> 29. For the aforestated reasons, we do not agree with the view expressed by the High Court and the impugned judgment delivered by the High Court is set aside. The ONGC shall not be liable to make payment, as rightly decided by the Arbitral Tribunal, to the appellant but the payment shall have to be made by the respondent, who had given a sub- contract to the appellant. Majority view of the Arbitral Tribunal on the above issue is confirmed and the view of the High Court is not accepted. The respondent shall accordingly make payment to the appellant."

10. The controversy in this petition is squarely covered by the ratio of the judgment ibid in favour of respondent No. 1 and against the petitioner. The law laid down by the Apex Court in Chloro Controls India Private Limited (Supra) being distinguishable on facts is not applicable to this case. In that case, the appointment of Arbitrator was sought under Section 45 of the Act, which pertains to the foreign arbitration and not domestic arbitration. True it is that the scope of Section 8 of the Act has also been discussed in this judgment, however, in order to find out a distinction between two provisions i.e. under Section 8 of the Act and also under Section 45. It has been held in this judgment that there is mark distinction between the provisions contained under Section 8 and Section 45 of the Act. As a matter of fact, it is Section 8 of the Act which pertains to the domestic arbitral proceedings in view of the judgment in Essar Oil Limited (supra). It has further been held in this judgment that the payment to the sub-contractor/an associate like the petitioner herein directly by the Principal Contractor should not be construed to infer that there being no contract agreement in existence, still the Principal Contractor is liable to indemnify the claims of the associate/sub-contractor like the petitioner. Above all, the 2nd respondent has clarified to the satisfaction of this Court that a sum of Rs.1,75,00,000/- on 28.04.2012 and Rs.47,92,436/- on 28.06.2012 deposited by the 2nd respondent through RTGS in the account of petitioner is the payment made to respondent No.1. The appointment of arbitrator can be sought by a party to an agreement against the other party to such agreement, if there exists a signed contract agreement between the said parties. Being so, the petition against respondent No. 2 is not maintainable nor is there any question of any disputes between the said respondent and the petitioner.

11. There exists a contract agreement (MoU), Annexure P-1 between the petitioner and the sub-contractor i.e. the 1st respondent. The arbitration clause in existence in the contract agreement, Annexure P-1 reads as follows:

> "25. That in respect for the matters requiring resolution of dispute, the parties shall meaningfully negotiate in an endeavor to resolve such matters and will be sorted out amicably. If the matter, question or dispute to arbitration subject to the provision of the India Arbitration and conciliation act 1996 and contract act 1957 and they statuary modifications and enactment thereof. The language of the arbitration shall be the English language and arbitration proceeding shall be held in Noida (Uttar Pradesh)."

12. As noticed at the very out set, since the 1st respondent has not opted for putting appearance despite service and rather allowed itself to be proceeded against ex-parte, the petitioner-Company has been able to show that the disputes on account of non-payment of its dues have arisen. Therefore, such disputes in terms of arbitration clause referred to hereinabove can only be resolved by an arbitral tribunal. Therefore, a case for appointment of Arbitrator to adjudicate the disputes between the petitioner and the 1st respondent deserves to be appointed.

13. Now if coming to the arguments addressed on behalf of the petitioner that exclusion of the 2nd respondent from arbitral proceedings would result in filing a civil suit for recovery of claims against the said respondent and consequently would result into two parallel proceedings qua the same subject matter of dispute, the same in view of there being no contract between the petitioner and the 2nd respondent is far fetched. Whatever is the grouse of the petitioner, it is against respondent No. 1 and not against respondent No.2. Any how these findings shall remain continued to the decision of this petition, the suit or petition, if any, filed by the petitioner against the 2nd respondent will be decided by the Court concerned on its own merits and in accordance with law.

14. Therefore, though the 2nd respondent has denied any outstanding claims of the petitioner against it, however, if any such claims of the petitioner exist against the 2nd respondent, a suit can be filed for recovery of the same in appropriate Court having jurisdiction over the matter.

15. Now if coming to the 2nd limb of arguments that in terms of MoU, the arbitral proceedings can only be initiated in Noida (U.P.). True it is that it find so recorded under Clause 25 thereof, however, the same is only for the purpose of holding the arbitral proceedings and not oust the jurisdiction of this Court to entertain this petition and appoint the Arbitrator. Since the Theog-Kotkhai-Hatkoti-Rohru road, work whereof has been executed by the petitioner is situated within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court, therefore, the Arbitrator can only be appointed by this Court. A reference in this behalf can also be made to the provisions contained under Section 20 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which provides that the suit can be instituted either at a place where defendant resides or where the cause of action arose. In the case in hand, since the cause of action has arisen within the jurisdiction of this Court, therefore, this petition is absolutely maintainable.

16. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this petition succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, an Arbitral Tribunal comprising Shri Harish Bahl, Senior Advocate and Shri Chandranarayana Singh, Advocate, is appointed to resolve the disputes having arisen on account of non-payment of claims of the petitioner i.e. Rs.2,08,32,094/- as per the bill dated 05.02.2013 and Rs.3,35,98,304/- dated 04.01.2015, total Rs.5,44,30,398/- the balance payment towards execution of work of Theog-Kotkhai-Hatkoti-Rohru road. Learned Arbitral Tribunal shall enter upon the reference within two weeks from the date of receipt of an authenticated copy of this judgment. It is left open to the Arbitral Tribunal to fix the fee at its own, of course taking into consideration the guiding factors in Schedule-IV to Arbitration and Conciliation Act. The parties on both sides shall share the fee so settled equally. A sum of Rs.1,00,000/- is to be deposited by them on the 1st date of hearing. Both the members of Arbitral Tribunal shall share this amount at per their entitlement. The remaining amount shall be payable to the Arbitral Tribunal on termination of proceedings i.e. on or before the pronouncement of award.

17. With these observations, the petition stands disposed of.

Decided on : 28/11/2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 323, 325 and 506 read with Section 34- Informant was in her house with her son – the accused came and made inquiry from the informant about her son- accused pulled the arm of the shirt worn by the informant and tore it from arm and neck – son of the informant came, who was beaten by the accused along with other co-accused – the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the presence of accused K and A was not disputed in the cross-examination –the grievous hurt was not established as x-ray was not connected to the MLC- recovery of the torn short was proved, which corroborated the prosecution version - no person had deposed about the role of J- hence, he was rightly acquitted- appeal partly allowed and accused A and K convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 451, 323 and 506 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. (Para- 9 to 17)

For the Appellant: Mr. R.S.Thakur, Additional. A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. N.S.Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 7.6.2008 by the learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, in Case No. 287/2 of 2004/2001, whereby she acquitted the respondents (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 15.2.2001 the complainant Kailash Devi came to the Police Station alongwith her son Mukesh Kumar and Kashmiri Devi Pradhan Berthin. The complainant reported that on 15.2.2001 in the morning they were in their house when at about 8.30 the accused Kishore Kumar came in side their house and asked where is Mukesh Kumar. She stated that Mukesh Kumar was in side the house. On this the accused Kishor Kumar asked her to bring Mukesh outside into the courtary. The complainant Kailash Devi asked the accused Kishore Kumar what the matter was, however, Kishor Kumar accused insisted that he shall himself ask to Mukesh Kumar and became angry. The accused Kishor Kumar pulled the arm of shirt worn by the complainant and tore it from the arm and neck. The accused threatened that he will burn the vehicle belonging to the complainant and he will do away with like of Mukesh Kumar by using pistol. In the meanwhile, Mukesh Kumar came out side to rescue the complainant, however, accused Kishor Kumar pulled Mukesh Kumar towards the Berthin Chowk there accused Kishore Kumar along with his brother Ashok Kumar and co-accused Jeevan started beating Mukesh Kumar with kicks and fist blows. Due to these beatings Mukesh Kumar was injured in his stomach and back etc. On the statement of complainant the F.I.R. was registered. The injuries received by Mukesh Kumar were got medically examined. The injuries were found to be simple in nature except the dental injuries which were found to be grievous with the blunt weapon. Thus case under Section 325 IPC was made out against the accused. Police took into possession shirt belonging to Kailash Devi and prepared spot map and recorded the statement of witnesses. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. A charge stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 325, 323, 506 IPC read with Section 34 IPC to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 6 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record by the learned trial Court and theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The learned trial Court had pronounced a verdict of acquittal upon the accused respondents (a) on anvil of the complainants' testification before the learned trial Court holding visible digressions from the contents embodied in Ext. PW1-/A wherein she had unveiled qua Kishore Kumar visiting her house, whereas her testification in contradiction thereto holding echoings qua co-accused Ashok Kumar visiting her house; (b) hers while testifying embellishing besides improving upon the factum qua the wielding of a pistol by Ashok Kumar significantly when the factum aforesaid stood undisclosed by her in her previous statement recorded in writing; (c) the testifications of the prosecution witnesses omitting to unflinchingly unveil the factum qua denture of victim Mukesh Kumar suffering impairment also a tooth standing dislodged therefrom; (d) contradictions occurring in the testification of PW-4 vis.a.vis. the testification of PW-1 qua the place whereat shirt Ext.P-1 belonging to PW-1 begot tearings significantly with PW-1 deposing qua Ext.P-1 begetting tearings at her house whereas in contradiction thereof PW-4 testifying qua the relevant tearings borne thereon occurring near Berthin Chowk; (e) Omission of examination by the prosecution of the doctor who prepared MLC qua Mukesh Kumar.

10. Insofar as the initial reason as stands propounded by the learned trial Court to pronounce an order of acquittal upon the accused respondents significantly its portraying qua thereupon the genesis of the prosecution case remaining unproven stands bereft of vigour arising from the factum of the learned defence counsel while subjecting PW-1 to cross-examination his putting a suggestion to her couched in an affirmative phraseology, holding therewithin unfoldments, qua both Ashok Kumar and Kishore Kumar visiting the house of PW-1, suggestion whereof obviously elicited from her an apposite affirmative response. However, the learned counsel appearing for the accused respondents contends of the impact of the aforesaid couching in an affirmative phraseology of the suggestion aforesaid put by the learned defence counsel to PW-1 while holding her to cross-examination is merely an attempt on his part to belittle her creditworthiness rendering them to be not readable to hold any communication qua any acquiescence thereof by the defence. However, the aforesaid submission is unacceptable to this Court as the learned counsel for the respondents while holding the prosecution witnesses to cross-examination stands enjoined to with utmost skill besides with extreme wariness formulate the suggestions to be put to the prosecution witnesses. A defence counsel for negativing the testifications of the prosecution witnesses occurring in their respective examinations in chief stands enjoined to put suggestions to them couched in a disaffirmative phraseology whereupon the prosecution witnesses would proceed to render their answer thereto either in the affirmative or in the negative. However, the learned defence counsel while holding PW-1 to cross examination rather has proceeded to couch in an affirmative phraseology the apposite suggestions which he purveyed to PW-1 while holding her to cross examination, answer(s) whereto also stood elicited from her in the affirmative. The sequel of the aforesaid affirmative couching of the phraseology of the apposite suggestions put by the learned defence counsel to PW-1 while holding her to cross-examination cannot hold any communication than of the defence acquiescing to the factum of both Kishore Kumar and Ashok Kumar recording their respective presence at the relevant site of occurrence at the stage when the genesis of the prosecution case erupted. Therefrom it was inapt for the learned trial Magistrate to conclude qua with PW-1 while testifying qua the aforesaid facet hers hence improving besides detracting from her previous statement in writing wherein she disclosed qua accused Kishore Kumar recording his presence at the relevant site of occurrence in contradiction whereof she testified qua rather accused Ashok Kumar recording his presence at the relevant site of occurrence her testification hence standing vitiated with the taints aforesaid nor it was apt for the learned trial Magistrate to conclude qua with blatant contradictions occurring in the testification of PW-1 embodied in her examination in chief vis.a.vis. her previous statement recorded in writing wherein the presence of both Ashok Kumar and Kishore Kumar at the relevant site of occurrence stood unembodied, its vigour hence standing eroded besides dispelled, conspicuously when the effect of the aforesaid acquiescence of the defence for reasons aforestated is qua both accused Ashok Kumar and co-accused Kishore Kumar recording their presence at the relevant site of occurrence.

11. Apparently in the previous statement qua the prosecution case embodied in F.I.R. comprised in Ext.PW-1/A there occurs a bespeaking therein by the complainant qua Kishore Kumar threatening to eliminate Mukesh Kumar by firing a pistol shot at him in consonance therewith the learned defence counsel while holding PW-1 to cross examination put a suggestion to her couched in an affirmative phraseology whereto PW-1 rendered an apposite affirmative answer thereupon the inevitable sequel which is warranted, is qua the defence acquiescing to the aforesaid factum yet unlike the sequel emanating from the precedingly alluded acquiescence made by PW-1, the effect of the acquiescence of the defence of Ashok Kumar at the relevant time wielding a pistol would not capitalize any inference qua thereupon the prosecution succeeding in proving qua accused Ashok Kumar wielding a pistol significantly when on a close reading of the cross-examination of the Investigating Officer it is apparent qua its unveiling qua during the course of his holding investigations his not recovering any pistol from the possession of the accused nor obviously any memo in consonance therewith neither stood adduced in evidence nor stood concomitantly proven. In sequel thereto it appears of the prosecution not proving the factum of Ashok Kumar wielding a pistol more especially when on conclusion qua the investigations held by the Investigating Officer no recitals occur in the apposite report filed by him before the Court concerned holding therewithin echoings qua accused Ashok Kumar while holding a pistol his infracting the provisions of the Arms Act.

12. The learned trial Magistrate had concluded qua the prosecution abysmally wanting in adducing cogent proof for succoring the charge qua the accused respondents qua theirs committing an offence punishable under Section 325 IPC arising from the teeth of Mukesh Kumar standing dislocated from his denture on blows standing perpetrated upon him by the accused. Also on anvil of the prosecution witnesses deposing contrarily qua the factum aforesaid besides on anvil of the prosecution not proving the apposite MLC nor the prosecution proving the report of the radiologist concerned who conducted an x-ray examination of the denture of Mukesh Kumar, it concluded of hence the aforesaid factum remaining unsubstantiated. Initially the learned Additional Advocate General makes a submission qua with the prosecution witnesses in their respective cross-examinations significantly PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 while meteing apposite affirmative answers to the suggestions couched in an affirmative phraseology as stood put to them by the learned defence counsel suggestion(s) whereof while encompassing the facet aforesaid hence holding a loud proclamation of the defence acquiescing qua the teeth occurring in the denture of Mukesh Kumar suffering dislocation besides their falling apart therefrom. However, the aforesaid submission warrants its standing discountenanced given the Investigating Officer in his cross-examination echoing therein qua on Mukesh Kumar recording his presence before him his complaining qua only his suffering pain in his denture whereas his thereat not detecting any of his teeth standing dislocated therefrom or their falling apart from his denture. The aforesaid unfoldments made by the Investigating Officer during the course of his standing subjected to cross-examination by the learned defence counsel when obviously is enjoined to be read in coagulation with the testifications occurring in the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses who contrarily on apposite affirmative suggestions qua the facet aforesaid put respectively to them by the learned defence counsel meted affirmative answers thereto, in sequel whereto the apposite conclusion which warrants its standing formed by this Court significantly when the Investigating Officer on his standing subjected to cross-examination by the learned defence counsel he voices therein qua at the relevant time his not detecting the teeth occurring in the denture of Mukesh Kumar suffering any dislocation or theirs falling apart therefrom yet with the learned APP concerned not thereupon concerting to belie him by making a request upon the learned Magistrate for holding him to cross-examination qua the factum aforesaid begets an inference qua this Court standing constrained to conclude qua the prosecution acquiescing to the factum of the teeth occurring in the denture of Mukesh Kumar neither standing dislocated nor any of his teeth occurring therein falling apart.

13. Moreover, reiteratedly when this Court for reasons aforestated has concluded qua the Investigating Officer belying the testifications of other prosecution witnesses qua the facet aforesaid also when with his hence belying the testifications of the other prosecution witnesses qua the relevant facet aforesaid he stood not concerted by the learned APP to stand subjected to further examination or further cross-examination whereupon hence it is to be concluded of the prosecution acquiescing qua the factum of the relevant testifications qua the facet aforesaid occurring in the cross-examination of the Investigating Officer enjoying an aura of truth besides credibility. Also an inference stands erected qua the aforesaid testification of the Investigating Officer embodied in his cross-examination countervailing the effect of affirmative answers rendered by the prosecution witnesses to the apposite affirmative suggestion put to them by the learned defence counsel while holding them to cross-examination.

14. Furthermore, the prosecution was enjoined to significantly with the MLC concerned also the report of the Radiologist who subjected the denture of Mukesh Kumar to X-ray examination not falling within the ambit of Section 293 Cr.P.C whereupon alone the aforestated apposite report(s) hence falling within the statutory ambit of Section 292 Cr.P.C. would render them to be per se admissible dehors their respective authors not stepping into the witness box. In sequel thereto it was imperative for the prosecution to prove the apposite MLC prepared by the doctor concerned qua victim Mukesh Kumar also to prove the apposite X-ray conducted by the radiologist concerned by its leading their respective authors into the witness box. The prosecution omitted to discharge the aforesaid onus of hence cogently proving the apposite MLC qua Mukesh Kumar besides the apposite report prepared qua him by the Radiological expert whereupon it is to be concluded of the prosecution not proving the contents existing therein. In sequel, thereto it is to be concluded of the prosecution not succeeding in proving the charge under Section 325 IPC against the accused.

15. Shirt Ext.P-1 stood recovered under memo Ext.PW-1/B and one of the witnesses thereto PW-4 has proven the factum of his signature occurring in memo Ext.PW-1/B whereunder its recovery stood effectuated. Also in his testification PW-4 echos qua Ext.P-1 belonging to PW-1 consequently with his admitting the occurrence of his signatures on Ext.PW-1/B wherein its recovery stood effectuated he stands estopped by the mandate of Sections 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act to resile from its contents whereupon obviously an inference qua hence unflinching proof emanating from PW-4 qua effectuation of the relevant efficacious recovery thereunder can stand formidably erected besides with PW-4 also deposing qua Ext.PW-1/B standing owned by PW-1 whereupon his testification in contradiction with PW-1 qua its begetting tearings not as deposed by PW-1 at the latter's house but at Berthin Chowk pales into insignificance especially when the factum aforesaid of its begetting tearings at the house of PW-1 when stands unveiled in the examination in chief of PW-1 has remained unconcerted to stand rid of its sanctity by the learned defence counsel while holding her to cross-examination by his putting apposite suggestions for hence eroding the tenacity of the aforesaid unfoldments occurring in the examination in chief of PW-1. In sequel thereto also the effect of PW-4 contradicting PW-1 qua the relevant tearings brone on the shirt comprised in Ext.P-1 standing begotten not at the house of PW-1 rather at Berthin Chowk looses its force besides effect nor also thereupon the genesis of the prosecution case qua the relevant tearings qua the shirt of PW-1 standing begotten at her house stands uneroded of its sanctity. A close reading of the testifications of the prosecution witnesses does unfold of the learned defence counsel while holding them to cross-examination putting affirmative suggestion to them holding therewithin communication qua the accused dragging victim mukesh Kumar upto Berthin Chowk whereat they belaboured him whereto affirmative answer stood meted by the prosecution witness. The natural corollary thereof is of with the defence acquiescing to the factum of the accused respondent dragging victim Mukesh Kumar upto Berthin Chowk whereat they belaboured him, the factum aforesaid warranting imputation of credence thereupon.

16. Since none of the prosecution witnesses depose qua any incriminatory role in the alleged occurrence of accused Jeevan Kumar hence he stands acquitted of the charge framed against him in sequel whereto the judgement impugned herebefore against him is maintained and affirmed.

17. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Judicial Magistrate has not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned Judicial Magistrate suffers from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record. In sequel thereto, I find merit in the instant appeal, which is accordingly allowed and the judgment of acquittal qua accused respondents Ashok Kumar and Kishore Kumar rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, is quashed and set-aside. Consequently, for the reasons aforesaid the accused respondents Ashok Kumar and Kishore Kumar stand convicted for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 451, 323 and 506 read with Section 34 IPC whereas they stand acquitted for offences punishable under Section 325 IPC. They be produced before this Court on 16th December, 2016 for theirs being heard on the quantum of sentence.

For the Appellant (s): Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.

For Respondent(s) : Mr. R.K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Mohan Sharma, Advocate.

For the applicants in CMP No. 9535 of 2016 in RFA No.352 of 2011 : Mr. Sanjay Jaswal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

All the aforesaid appeals are being disposed of by a common judgment as they all pertain to lands which stood acquired under a notification common each of them besides thereupon the Land Acquisition Collector pronounced a common award.

2. Under the impugned awards recorded by the learned Reference Court(s), the latter assessed compensation qua the lands of the landowners @ Rs.750/- per square meter, whereupon, the compensation amount assessed qua the lands of the landowners by the Land Acquisition Collector suffered a steep hike. The State of Himachal Pradesh, standing aggrieved by the impugned awards of the learned Reference Court whereupon it for begetting their reversal has instituted herebefore the instant appeal(s).

3. RFA No. 358 of 2011 stands directed against the impugned award rendered on 22.5.2010 in RBT Ref. Case No. 28-K/05/03 by the learned Reference Court whereby it on the anvil of previous awards comprised in Ex.PW1/B and in Ex. C-1 has qua lands of the respondents concerned herein assessed compensation amount at par with the compensation amount determined qua the lands of the landowners in RBT Ref. Case No.47-K/05/03, wherefrom RFA No. 352 of 2011 has arisen.

4. The lands of the landowners were brought to acquisition for the purpose of extension of Air Port at Gaggal. In respect of the lands of the landowners as stood brought to acquisition, the Land Acquisition Collector, on anvil of the annual average market price of lands prevailing in the mohal concerned at the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification had thereupon, assessed compensation qua the lands brought to acquisition. The landowners standing aggrieved by the relevant pronouncement of the Land Acquisition Collector, had therefrom preferred reference petitions before the learned Reference Court whereupon the latter proceeded to pronounce the relevant awards impugned hereat.

5. The learned Reference Court while pronouncing its rendition in RBT Ref. Case No. 55-K/2003, (pronouncement whereof stood relied upon by the learned Reference Court concerned in making its pronouncement in RBT Ref. Case No. 47-K/05/03) wherefrom RFA No. 111 of 2009 has arisen had computed compensation qua the lands of the landowner(s) by placing reliance upon sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A. For reliance thereupon by the learned Reference Court to hold a sanctified aura of validity, it was incumbent upon the learned Reference Court to ensure qua existence therebefore of evidence pronouncing qua satiation standing begotten qua the twin legal parameters (a) proximity in location angle occurring inter se the lands/land comprised in sale exemplar Ex.PW3/A vis-a-vis the lands of the landowners as stood brought to acquisition and (b) The execution of Ex.PW3/A holding proximity in time angle vis-a-vis the issuance of an apposite notification for bringing to acquisition the lands of the landowners.

6. At the outset, it is imperative to determine from the evidence as exists herebefore qua satiation standing begotten qua the enshrined parameter qua proximity in time angle occurring inter se issuance of the apposite notification under the Act whereupon the lands of the landowners stood brought to acquisition vis-a-vis the execution of Ex.PW3/A, whereupon, reliance as stood placed thereupon would hold tenacity. The principle of proximity in time occurring inter se execution of Ex.PW3/A vis-a-vis the issuance of the apposite notification whereupon the land/lands of the landowners stood brought to acquisition would stand satiated on Ex.PW3/A standing provenly executed in close proximity preceding the issuance of a notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act) or its execution occurring in contemporaneity vis-a-vis the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act whereupon the lands of the landowners stood brought to acquisition. However, hereat the execution of the sale exemplar embodied in Ex.PW3/A occurred on 3.11.2000 whereas the apposite notification under the Act whereupon the lands of the landowners stood brought to acquisition, stood prior thereto issued on 28.6.1999. However, the mere factum qua the occurrence of execution of Ex.PW3/A taking place subsequent to the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act, would not dispel its sanctity nor thereupon the learned Reference Court would stand faulted in placing reliance thereupon unless as mandated in a verdict recorded by the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in A. Natesam Pillai versus Special Tahsildar, Land Acquisition, Tiruchy, (2010)9 SCC 118, the relevant paragraph No.13 whereof stands extracted hereinafter, unflinching evidence stood adduced before the learned Reference Court in portrayal of the market value borne by the lands occurring in proximity to the location of the land(s) which stood brought to acquisition earlier thereto besides thereupto its execution remaining unfluctuated besides stable also evidence standing adduced qua their occurring no apparent upsurgings or hikes in the market value of the apposite lands borne on the apposite post notification executed sale exemplar since the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act upto the execution of the sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A. However, with a portrayal standing embodied in Ex.PW3/A qua the value of the lands depicted therein standing constituted in a sum of Rs.45,000/- per kanal at a stage subsequent to the issuance of the apposite notification under Section 4 of the Act whereas with PW2 Vinod Kumar in his testification communicating therein qua the land(s) brought to acquisition holding a value Rs. 5 to 6 lacs per kanal whereupon obviously an evident steep hike since the issuance of the apposite notification under Section 4 of the Act vis-a-vis the occurrence of execution of a sale exemplar embodied in Ex.PW3/A, stands evidently evinced. Accentuated vigour to the inference aforesaid qua since in close contemporaneity to the issuance of the apposite notifucation under the Act whereunder the lands of the landowners stood brought to acquisition upto the stage of post notification executed sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A, the market value of lands occurring in close proximity vis-a-vis the lands of the landowners noticing fluctuations besides escalations stands galvanized from the testification of RW-1, who has therein unveiled qua in close contemporaneity to the issuance of the apposite notification, the market value borne by the lands in the mohal concerned standing constituted in a sum of Rs.14,974/- per kanal, whereas, with the market value of land comprised in Ex.PW3/A pronouncing therewithin qua its sale consideration standing constituted in a sum of Rs.45,000/- per kanal, is a loud besides an apparent disclosure qua the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court qua any reliance placed upon Ex.PW3/A being unbereft of any stain of vitiation unless evidence stands adduced in portrayal of the market value of the relevant lands at the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification upto the execution of the post notification executed sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A not unraveling fluctuations or escalations since therefrom upto the execution of Ex.PW3/A, whereas, with hereat stark noticeable fluctuations besides steep hikes in the value of the relevant lands since the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification upto the execution of Ex.PW3/A are vividly apparent thereupon the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court for reliance being placed upon a post notification executed sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A stands infracted, rendering reliance placed thereupon by the Reference Court to hold no vigour. Necessarily when reiteratedly the market value of the relevant lands located in proximity to the lands brought to acquisition display a visible escalation contrarily when there was a surging ahead of the market value of lands occurring in proximity to the land(s) brought to acquisition, the principle envisaged in the relevant paragraph of the aforesaid citation qua a post notification executed sale exemplar being amenable for reliance being placed thereupon only on evidence surging forth in personification qua the market value of lands prevailing in the locality whereat the lands of the landowners brought to acquisition stood located at the time contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification or in close preceding proximity prior thereof remaining upto the occurrence of execution of Ex.PW3/A stable besides unfluctuated, hence, standing visibly transgressed. Moreover, infraction of the principle encapsulated in the aforesaid citation qua a post notification executed sale exemplar holding probative sinew for reliance being placed thereupon for determining compensation amount qua the apposite lands as stood prior thereto subjected to initiation of acquisition proceedings in respect thereof, on eruption of evidence qua since the issuance of the apposite notification upto the execution of the apposite post notification executed sale exemplar there occurring no visible steep hike in the value of lands located in proximity to the relevant lands, stands also reiteratedly triggered, by the factum of RW-1 testifying qua the five year average market value of the lands located in proximity to the lands of the landowners as stood brought to acquisition at the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification standing detected to be in a sum of Rs.14,974/- per kanal whereas with the relevant apposite post notification executed sale exemplar comprised in Ex.PW3/A depicting therewithin the market value of the land borne thereon to hold a value of Rs.45000/- per kanal does hold a stark display qua the prices of the relevant lands prior to or at the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act upto the execution of Ex.PW3/A noticing a steep hike rather than there occurring no apposite fluctuations since the issuance of the apposite notification under Section 4 of the Act upto the execution of Ex.PW3/A, whereupon imputation of reliance upon the apposite post notification executed sale exemplar Ex.PW3/A, is bereft of sanctity. Paragraph No.13 of the aforereferred verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court reads as under:-

> "This Court in Administrator General of W.B. v. Collector, Varanasi (1988)2 SCC 150 has held:
> > "13. ....Such subsequent transactions which are not proximate in point of time to the acquisition can be taken into account for purposes of determining whether as on the date of acquisition there was an upward trend in the prices of land in the area. Further under certain circumstances where it is shown that the market was stable and there were no fluctuations in the prices between the date of the preliminary notification and the date of such susbequent transaction, the transaction could also be relied upon to ascertain the market value. This Court in State of U.P. v. Major Jitendera Kumar, (19082)2 SCC 382 observed:

"3..... It is true that the sale deed, Ex. 21 upon which the High Court has relied is of a date three years later than the notification under Section 4 but no material was produced before the court to suggest that there was any fluctuation in the market rate at Meerut from 1948 onwards till 1951 and if so to what extent. In the absence of any material showing any fluctuation in the market rate the High Court thought it fit to rely upon Ext. 21 under which the Housing Society itself had purchased land in the neighbourhood of the land in dispute. On the whole we are not satisfied that any error was committed by the High Court in relying upon the sale deed, Ext. 21."

But this Principle could be appealed to only where there is evidence to the effect that there was no upward surge in the prices in the interregnum. The burden of establishing this would be squarely on the party relying on such subsequent transaction." (emphasis supplied)." ....(p.122).

7. The further effect of the landowners not adducing evidence within the ambit of the aforesaid exception to the normal rule qua an apposite post notification executed sale exemplar not warranting imputation of reliance thereupon, is qua also an inference standing erected qua the apposite;y executed post notification sale exemplar holding a vice of rigidness also the sale consideration embodied therein being unamenable for any apposite reliance standing placed thereon, significantly, when it stood evidently executed with the executants thereto while perceiving the impending launching of acquisition proceedings qua lands occurring in proximity thereof, theirs inflating the sale consideration pronounced therein merely for begetting qua the lands of the landowners determination of an unfair and unjust compensation amount. In formulating the aforesaid expostulation of law, this Court is supported by a verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in K. Posayya and others versus Special Tahsildar, (1955)5 SCC 233, relevant paragraph No.4 whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

"4. The question, therefore, is what is the correct principle of law to be applied in determining the market value of vast extent of lands acquired for a project. Admittedly, Ex. A-1 dated 31.12.1980 is the torchlight for the claimants to lay higher claim. It is a post notification sale of the land situated in Chakrdevrapalli. According tot he claimants, it is situated at a distance of 3 to 4 kms from Village Alivelu. According to Land Acquisition Officer, the distance between the two villages is 30 kms. Possession of these lands admittedly was taken between 15.4.1977 i.e. prior to the notification under Section 4(1) and 14.7.1980, shortly after the notification under Section 4 (1). It would, thus, be clear that the sale deed was brought into existence after the notification and possession was taken of the lands. This is the notorious document relied in all the subsequent references. Only the attestor was examined in proof of the documents. It would be obvious that it was a brought-up document to inflate the market value of the lands under acquisition not only in this village but in the surrounding villages. The High Court, therefore, was right in rejecting the said document and refusing to place reliance for determination of the compensation, Exhibit !-2, judgment of the Single Judge of the High Court in AS No. 2500 of 1986 arising out of OP No.49 of 1984 of the same reference court. The lands therein were acquired for Vengalrayasagar project. They are the wet lands. Since the counsel for the Government did not appear and no material was placed on record and since in earlier cases, award was confirmed for a sum of Rs.22,000 per acre, the Single Judge enhanced the compensation to Rs.22,000. That is obviously an illegal approach adopted by the High Court in determining the market value of project area i.e. large tracts of lands covered by the project. It would appear that the other references were not brought to the notice of the learned Judges. Therefore, it cannot be formed the basis to fix the market value at higher rate, though the judgment may be wrong." ...(p.236)

8. Be that as it may, the non existence at the apposite stage of sale exemplar(s) executed prior to or in contemporaneity to the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act whereupon alone the learned Reference Court held the requisite facilitation for its thereupon assessing a just, reasonable and fair compensation amount vis-a-vis the lands of landowners, was not a sufficient factor for it to rely upon a legally frail Ex.PW3/A rather it was enjoined to mete reverence to the award of the Land Acquisition Collector, who while determining compensation amount qua the lands of the landowners meted deference to the apposite market value as stood approved by the District Collector concerned.

9. The learned Senor Counsel appearing for the respondents herein has concerted to validate the verdicts recorded by the Reference Court by making an espousal qua with the learned Reference Court meteing 50% deduction from the value of the land borne in Ex.PW3/A, renders the apposite verdicts recorded on the land reference petitions constituted therebefore by the landowners to fall within the ambit of the principle enshrined by this Court in a decision reported in Bhakra Beas Management Board & Anr. Versus State of H.P. & others, Latest HLJ 2003(H)) 1202 wherein this Court has proceeded to mere 40% deduction qua the value of the land(s) borne on the sale exemplar existing therebefore, wherefrom this Court assessed compensation qua the lands of the landowners, arrayed as respondents therein. The pronouncement recorded by this Court in the aforereferred case would hold vigour only when Ex. Px which existed therebefore as a recoknable sale exemplar for assessment of compensation qua the lands of the landowners therein alike Ex.PW3/A embodying therein a post notification executed sale exemplar. However, an incisive, close circumspect reading of the pronouncement relied upon by the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the respondents herein unveils qua Ex. Px which constituted therebefore the relevant sale exemplar standing executed six year's prior to the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act whereunder the lands of the landowners therein stood brought to acquisition. The aforesaid factum per se brings-forth a visible distinctivity inter se Ex. Px vis-a-vis Ex.PW3/A. Consequently, when thereat Ex. Px stood executed prior to the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act whereas with hereat Ex.PW3/A evidently comprising a post notification executed sale exemplar, thereupon the verdict relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel for the respondents herein does not fall within the ambit of the rule encapsulated in the binding judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court for thereupon reliance thereon holding any validation.

10. Consequently, with Ex.PW3/A being wholly unreliable rather warranting its standing discarded, the mere factum of the learned Reference Court meteing 50% deduction vis-a-vis the price of land comprised therein for thereupon its awarding compensation amount qua the lands of the landowners herein neither falls within the ambit of the ratio propounded in the judgment relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel appearing of the respondents herein nor also thereupon the relevant material pronouncing upon the market value borne by the lands of the landowners at the apposite stage in contemporaneity vis-a-vis the issuance of the apposite notification under the Act depicting therein the relevant reliable approved assessment meted thereto by the District Collector warranted any disimputation of credence as untenably done by the learned Reference Court. Reiteratedly when Ex.PW3/A is wholly discardable also when for reasons aforestated reliance thereupon by the learned Senior Counsel when stands hinged on anvil of an evident inapplicable pronouncement hereat recorded previously by this Court in the afore referred citation renders any reliance thereupon to be grossly untenable, corollary whereof is the mere factum of meteing of a 50% deduction from the value of the land borne therein vis-a-vis the lands of the landowners herein for thereupon assessing compensation amount qua the respondents herein would not validate any reliance placed thereupon by the learned Reference Court. The learned Senior Counsel has remained grossly unmindful qua in the citation relied upon by him, this Court has meted a 40% deduction from the value of lands borne in Ex. Px, a pre-notification executed sale exemplar therein, whereupon it determined the compensation amount therein merely on the anvil of disproportionateness in size of land borne therein vis-a-vis the size of acquired lands therein, his unmindfulness qua the gravity of the aforestated ratio propounded therein has led him to misespouse qua parity emerging in the factual matrix prevailing therein vis-a-vis the factual matrix herein whereupon naturally he mis espouses qua its applicability hereat.

11. Furthermore, the learned Reference Court has held qua landowners standing entitled to 20% per anum increase on the market value assessed on the anvil of Ex.PW3/A by him qua the lands of the landowners, entitlement whereof stands concluded by it commence from 28.6.1999 whereat the apposite notification issued, upto 16.11.2011 whereat the relevant award(s) stood pronounced by it. However, the aforesaid benefit bestowed by the learned Reference Court upon the landowners is ridden with a gross vice of untenability arising from the factum of it bestowing the aforesaid benefit upon the landowners/respondents herein on the anvil of the aforesaid discradable post notification executed sale exemplar embodied in Ex.PW3/A also its thereupon detracting from the trite expostulation of law qua the judicially determined market value of lands prevalent at the stage contemporaneous to the issuance of the apposite notification alone constituting the anvil wherefrom the statutory price hike was meteable.

12. For the reasons aforestated, the award(s) of the Reference Court suffers from a gross illegality spurring from gross mis-appreciation of the import of Ex.PW3/A besides its undermining the impact thereon of the mandate of the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court referred to hereinabove. Consequently, the instant appeals are allowed and the award(s) rendered by the learned Reference Court are set aside. In sequel, the award(s) of the Land Acquisition Collector is maintained and affirmed.

CMP No. 9535 of 2016 in RFA No.352 of 2011.

13. During the pendency of the aforesaid RFA, CMP No. 9535 of 2016 stands filed herebefore by the applicants, namely, Vipin Kumar, Bhupinder Kumar and Ravinder Kumar claiming therein a relief qua theirs being permitted to be impleaded as party(ies) in the array of respondents, on ground of the impugned rendition assessing compensation qua the respondent(s) therein standing constituted in a sum in gross disproportion qua his entitlement thereto, entitlement whereof stands borne in the apposite revenue record. However, in the face of an averment standing recorded therein qua Civil Suit bearing No. 56/2014, titled as Bhupinder Kumar & others versus Neeru Ram and others pending before the Civil Court concerned for rendition of a decree for declaration, permanent prohibitory injunction and mandatory injunction, qua the facet aforesaid, thereupon the relief for impleading of the applicants herein in the apposite array of the parties to the lis hereat also in-consequence to their impleadment any pronouncement thereupon would forestall the Civil Court concerned to record its apposite verdict on the relevant issue(s) raised therebefore. For obviation whereof the application stands dismissed. However, for not prejudicing the rights canvassed in the Civil Suit by the applicants herein, it is directed qua till the Civil Court concerned records its decision in the aforesaid Civil Suit, the compensation amount, if any, which remains undisbursed qua the respective landowners in RFA No. 352 of 2011 shall not be released in their respective favour.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Ganga Devi ....Petitioner.

Versus

Om Prakash ....Respondent.

Date of decision: 29th November, 2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 9 Rule 13- Applicant filed an application for setting aside ex-parte decree on the ground that she was not properly served – the application was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was also dismissed – held, that process server had made the endorsement on the back of the summons regarding the personal service along with the copy of plaint – the endorsement was not proved to be false – the service was properly effected – appeal dismissed.(Para-3 to 5)

For the Petitioner: Mr. P.S. Goverdhan, Advocate.
For Respondent : Mr. Dinesh Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

Under Ex. AW1/D, the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Solan, ex-parte decreed the suit of the plaintiff. The pronouncement of the Civil Court aforesaid occurred on 23.8.2011. On 7.03.2012, the defendant/petitioner herein motioned the learned trial Court under an application constituted there before under Order 9, Rule 13 of the CPC, wherein, she concerted to beget quashing of the ex-parte pronouncement recorded by the learned trial Court, on anvil of hers not coming to be properly served in consonance with the mandate of Order 5, Rule 2 of the CPC constituted in the factum of the process server concerned in transgression thereof while proceeding to effectuate personal service of the apposite summons upon her, the latter remaining unappended with a copy of plaint nor obviously the process server concerned delivering its copy to the defendant at the stage when he effectuated personal service of summons upon her in Civil Suit No. 47/1 of 2010.

2. The aforesaid ground stood discountenanced by the learned trial Court. In an appeal carried therefrom by the defendant before the learned District Judge, the latter affirmed the pronouncement recorded by the learned trial Court on the application moved therebefore by the defendant/petitioner herein under Order 9, Rule 13 of the CPC. Consequently, the defendant standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below has instituted the instant revision petition whereby she concerts to beget their reversal hereat.

3. As aforestated with the defendant in her apposite application constituted under Order 9, Rule 13 of the CPC before the learned trial Court canvassing therein qua the copy of summons at the relevant stage when the process server effectuated personal service of summons upon her, remaining unappended with a copy of plaint, is an abundant portrayal of the defendant acquiescing to the factum of the process server concerned effectuating personal service of summons upon her. In sequel, thereto, the trite factum warranting adjudication is whether the contention of the learned counsel for the defendant qua the reason assigned in the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below qua at the relevant time whereat the process server concerned effectuated upon her personal service of summons, the latter standing accompanied by a copy of the plaint also the latter standing delivered to the defendant not holding any tenacity acquires any succour.

4. The counsel for the defendant/petitioner in making the aforesaid submission qua it not holding any tenacity hinges it upon the factum qua with the process server concerned recording an endorsement on the reverse of the relevant summons wherewithin a display is held qua his at the relevant time also delivering a copy of the plaint to the defendant enjoined the plaintiff/respondent herein to examine the process server concerned for thereupon facilitating unearthings from him qua the veracities of the recitals occurring on the reverse of the summons, whereas the plaintiff omitting to examine the process server rendered the endorsement made on the reverse of the summons by the process server concerned to not hold any validity or authenticity. However, the aforesaid contention holds no force as apparently the onus in proof qua the factum of the defendant standing not come to be properly served arising from the factum of the summons at the relevant time they stood uncontrovertedly delivered to her theirs remaining unaccompanied by a copy of the plaint nor the latter standing delivered upon her, was squarely cast upon the defendant/petitioner herein. Also the defendant/petitioner herein stood enjoined to by adducing emphatic sustainable evidence hence discharge the onus qua the aforesaid issue. In sequel, thereto, obviously, the plaintiff/respondent herein was not enjoined to discharge the onus on the aforesaid issue. In aftermath, with the onus qua the aforesaid issue remaining undischarged by the defendant/petitioner herein comprised in hers summoning the process server concerned for hers thereupon subjecting him to examination for making apposite elicitations from him for belying the efficacy of the endorsement made by him on the reverse of the summons wherein recitals stood embodied qua his alongwith personally serving a copy of summons upon the defendant his also thereat delivering a copy of the plaint to her, besides when the aforesaid endorsement would stand belied by the defendant by hers procuring the relevant apposite records available with the establishment of the learned trial Court. However, the defendant/petitioner omitted to make the aforesaid efforts for belying the efficacy of the endorsement made by the process server on the reverse of the summons wherein echoings are held qua his along with the summons delivering also a copy of the plaint to her, whereupon the apt sequel is of it holding validity. In aftermath, the argument addressed by the counsel for the petitioner before this Court qua the mandate of Rule (2) of Order 5 of the CPC standing infringed whereupon he submits qua no proper service standing effectuated upon the defendant holds no force also thereupon he cannot espouse qua the ex-parte decree pronounced upon the defendant wanting in efficacy. .

5. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition, which is accordingly dismissed. The renditions impugned before this Court are maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Hem Ram & Another ....Appellants-Defendants

Versus

Bhagwan Dass & Others ....Respondents-Plaintiffs

Regular Second Appeal No.428 of 2006.
Judgment Reserved on: 21.11.2016
Date of decision: 29.11.2016

Transfer of Property Act, 1882- Section 60- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit for redemption of mortgage pleading that the land was mortgaged for Rs.240/- defendants pleaded that mortgagor had lost the right of redemption – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court – an appeal was filed, which was allowed – held in second appeal that the land was mortgaged in the year 1930 and the period of redemption expired in 1971- however, Debt Redemption Act, 1976 furnished a fresh opportunity for getting the relief – mere expiry of 30 years from the date of mortgage does not extinguish the right of mortgagor- appeal dismissed. For the Appellants: Mr.G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Ajay Kumar, Sr.Advocate with Mr.Dheeraj K. Vashishta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellants-defendants against the judgment and decree dated 5.8.2006, passed by the learned District Judge, Solan, District Solan, H.P., reversing the judgment and decree dated 05.12.2005, passed by the learned Civil Judge(Senior Division) Kasauli, District Solan, H.P, whereby the suit filed by the appellants-plaintiffs has been dismissed.

2. Briefly stated facts, as emerged from the record, are that the respondents-plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiffs') filed a suit for possession by way of redemption of the mortgage to the effect that the land measuring 1-7-18 bighas and land measuring 1-1-11 Bigha comprised in Khata/Kthatauni No.28/55 and 13/16, total measuring 2-9-9 bighas, situated in Mauza Bandh and Bani, Pargana Ghar, Sub Tehsil Krishangarh was earlier owned by one Ram Baksh and thereafter on his death by his legal heirs Shiv Ram, Kanchnoo, Thankiya etc. out of whom Gopala successor-in-interest of Thankiya, one of the sons of Ram Baksh, had mortgaged his 1/5th share in this land in favour of one Shangaru for a sum of Rs.240/- in the year 1930. It is averred by the plaintiffs that on the death of Shangaru, he was succeeded by Chet Ram and on the death of Chet Ram by his wife Banto, who was recorded as mortgagee in possession of the entire suit land. It is further averred by the plaintiffs that in the year 1974 Banto sold her mortgagee rights in favour of appellants-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendants') 1 and 2 and mutation to this effect was accordingly attested by revenue authorities. The plaintiffs alongwith other share holders claiming to have succeeded to the entire land filed a suit for redemption of the mortgage in the trial court.

3. Defendants by way of filing written statement denied the locus standi of the plaintiffs to file the suit and their right and title to the property. It is averred by the defendants that they have purchased the land through registered sale deed. However, it is admitted that Shingaru was mortgagee of the suit land and after his death his estate was succeeded by Chet Ram and on his death Banto stepped into his shoes. It is denied that Banto had remarried after his death in 1953 and she had no right or interest in this suit land. It is also denied that Gopala had mortgaged 1/5th share out of the suit land. It is also alleged by the defendants that the mortgager had lost right, title or interest in the land in the year 1970, therefore, no question of redemption arose. In the aforesaid background, the defendants claimed themselves to be the owners of the suit land and sought dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues for determination:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree of redemption and possession, as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the sale deed No.136 dated 24.8.1974 is wrong, illegal and without jurisdiction and consequently mutation No.224 and 125 are null and void, as alleged? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction ? OPP.

4. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction, as alleged ? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to file the present suit, as alleged ? OPD.

6. Whether the suit lacks material better particulars, as alleged? If so its effect? OPD.

7. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form, as alleged? OPD.

8. Whether the suit is barred by limitation ? OPD.

9. Whether the defendants have spent more than Rs.75,000/- on the development of land, as alleged? If so, its effect? OPP.

10. Relief."

5. Subsequently vide judgment and decree dated 5.12.2005 learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, plaintiffs preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, Solan, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.8-S/13 of 2006. Learned District Judge allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment passed by the learned trial Court. Resultantly, the suit of the plaintiffs for possession by redemption of the mortgage is decreed and the defendants are ordered to deliver the possession of the suit land, description whereof has been given above. Hence present Regular Second Appeal has been preferred by the appellants-defendants praying therein for setting aside the impugned judgment and decree dated 5.8.2006 passed by the learned appellate Court below.

6. This Court vide order dated 11.5.2007 admitted the appeal on the following substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether the ld.first appellate court has misread the provisions of The H.P. Debt Reduction Act, 1976, which has materially prejudiced the case of the appellants?

2. Whether the provisions of Limitation Act, 1963 have overriding effect over The H.P. Debt Reduction Act, 1976?"

7. Mr.G.R. Palsra, learned counsel appearing for the appellants-defendants, vehemently argued that judgment passed by the first appellate Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same is not based upon the proper appreciation of facts as well as law on the point and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Palsra contended that learned first appellate Court misread the provisions with regard to redemption of mortgage and wrongly placed reliance upon the provisions of H.P. Debt Reduction Act, 1976 (hereinafter referred to as 'Debt Reduction Act') which was not applicable and attracted in the present case. While inviting the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by learned trial Court, Mr.Palsra strenuously argued that learned trial Court rightly came to the conclusion that the provisions of the 'Debt Reduction Act' are not applicable in the present case since the plaintiffs had lost their right of redemption in the year 1970 i.e. prior to commencement of 'Debt Reduction Act' in the year 1976. He further invited the attention of this Court to Section 6 of the Act to suggest that same was prospective in nature and in no situation could be made applicable in the case of plaintiffs who had admittedly lost their right to redeem the mortgage in the year 1970. He further invited the attention of this Court to Section 27 of the aforesaid Act to suggest that provisions contained in the Act referred to hereinabove could not be made applicable in the present case, especially in view of the fact that loan in terms of Act was advanced to the plaintiffs by predecessor-in-interest of the defendants prior to commencement of this Act and as such judgment passed by learned first appellate Court deserves to be quashed and set aside.

8. Mr.Palsra further argued that by no stretch of imagination provisions contained in the aforesaid Act could override the provisions of Limitation Act, 1963, wherein specific period of limitation of redemption of mortgage is prescribed for 30 years and grace period of 7 years has further been provided for old cases and as such, findings of the learned first appellate Court that the plaintiff was entitled to file suit at any time after commencement of the aforesaid Act deserves to be quashed and set aside being contrary to the provisions contained in the Act itself. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Palsra forcefully contended that bare perusal of judgment passed by learned first appellate Court itself suggests that appellate Court restricted its findings only qua the issue of limitation, whereas all the other material points, as raised in the ground of appeal, were ignored. Whereas, being last fact finding Court, learned first appellate Court was expected to return findings qua all the issues and as such, judgment, totally being contrary to the provisions of law, as alleged, deserves to be quashed and set aside. He further stated that sale deed was executed in the year 1974, but there is nothing on record to suggest that it was challenged by the plaintiffs till 3rd June, 1996, when they filed suit which was completely time barred because limitation for challenging the sale deed is three years, but this aspect of the matter has been totally ignored by the learned first appellate Court and as such judgment deserves to be quashed and set aside.

9. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Palsra prayed that instant appeal may be accepted and judgment passed by learned first appellate Court may be quashed and set aside.

10. Mr.Ajay Kumar Sood, learned Senior Counsel duly assisted by Mr.Dheeraj K.Vashishta, Advocate, supported the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court. Mr.Sood, while referring to the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court, vehemently argued that same is based upon correct appreciation of facts as well as law on the point and as such there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in any manner, as the learned first appellate Court has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously. While refuting the contentions, having been put forth by Mr.Palsra, Mr.Sood invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled: Singh Ram (D) Thr.L.Rs. vs. Sheo Ram and Others, AIR 2014 SC 3447 to demonstrate that special right of usufructuary mortgagor under Section 62 of the Transfer of Property Act to recover possession commences when mortgage money is paid out of rents and profits or partly by payment or deposit by the mortgagor. Until then, limitation does not start for purposes of Article 61 of the Schedule to the Limitation Act. Mr.Sood, while placing reliance upon judgment supra, forcefully contended that an usufructuary mortgagee is not entitled to file a suit for declaration that he had become an owner merely on the expiry of 30 years from the date of the mortgage. Mr.Sood further contended that it is undisputed that mortgage of land in favour of predecessor-in-interest of the defendants had been effected in the year 1930 and it was usufructuary mortgage as the possession of the property was delivered to the mortgagee with authority to enjoy all rights of the owner. He further stated that earlier period of 30 years was provided for redemption of usufructuory mortgage under Limitation Act, but with the introduction of 'Debt Reduction Act' debtor could file the suit for redemption of mortgage or for accounts at any time after the commencement of the Act, which admittedly came into force in the year 1953 and as such learned first appellate Court, while accepting the appeal having been preferred by plaintiffs, rightly came to the conclusion that plaintiffs had right to file suit for redemption by virtue of provisions of aforesaid Act because the amount taken under mortgage by the mortgagee was nothing but a loan as defined in definition of land in 'Debt Reduction Act'.

11. Lastly, Mr.Sood strenuously argued that now, in view of latest judgment supra, there is no force in the present appeal having been preferred by the appellants-defendants because it has been specifically held in the aforesaid case that mere expiry of period of 30 years from the date of mortgage does not extinguish the right of the mortgagor under Section 62 of the Transfer of Property Act. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Sood prayed for dismissal of the appeal.

12. I have heard learned counsel appearing for the parties and gone through the record of the case carefully.

13. After carefully perusing the pleadings on record as well as provisions of law applicable in the present case, this Court deems it fit to take both the substantial questions of law together for adjudication, as they are closely linked to each other.

14. It clearly emerges from the record that plaintiffs mortgaged the suit land in favour of predecessor-in-interest of appellants-defendants in 1930 and there is no dispute that it was usufructuary mortgage because possession of the property was delivered to mortgagee with the authority to enjoy all rights of the owner. There is also no dispute with regard to the fact that earlier period of redemption of mortgage was 60 years, but, on coming into operation the Limitation Act, 1963, it was reduced to 30 years. But, in the cases where old Limitation Act applied, period of 7 years was given as grace period.

15. In the present case, as per defendants, period of limitation of 30 years is provided under Limitation Act after adding grace period of 7 years, which came to an end in the year 1971 and as such suit filed in the year 1996 by the plaintiffs was rightly dismissed being time barred by learned trial Court. Defendants further claimed that provisions of 'Debt Reduction Act' cannot be made applicable in the present case because the same was applicable to only to that mortgage which was subsisting at that time and no benefit, if any, could be taken by mortgagee whose right to redeem has expired prior to commencement of provisions of 'Debt Reduction Act'. Learned trial Court, while dismissing the suit of the plaintiffs being time barred, came to the conclusion that mortgagee had lost his right for redemption in the year 1970 i.e. 26.6.1970, after expiry of 30 years of period provided under Limitation Act. Learned trial Court further concluded that the provisions of 'Debt Reduction Act' cannot be made applicable in the case of plaintiffs because this Act itself came in existence in the year 1976 and by that time right of mortgagor to redeem the mortgage had already extinguished. As per trial Court, provisions contained in 'Debt Reduction Act' were not applicable in the case because it was prospective in nature. Accordingly, learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs being time barred by observing that a dead relief cannot be revived by coming into existence the provisions of 'Debt Reduction Act' which already came into force in 1976.

16. Learned first appellate Court, taking contrary view, came to the conclusion that as per Section 6 of the H.P. Debt Reduction Act, 1953, mortgagor could file suit for redemption at any time after commencement of this Act because at that relevant time property mortgaged on 1930 was subsisting at the time of commencement of the Act. Apart from above, learned first appellate Court came to the conclusion that admittedly mortgagee Banto had transferred her mortgage rights in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 in the year 1974 vide sale deed Ex.DW-2/A in favour of appellants-defendants, which clearly suggests that, while making sale of mortgagee rights in favour of defendants, she made acknowledgement of her mortgagee right. Perusal of Ex.DW-2/A i.e. mortgage clearly suggests that mortgagee Banto transferred her mortgagee right in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 in the year 1974 vide sale deed. Perusal of aforesaid document Ex.DW-2/A clearly suggests that Banto had not sold the land as an absolute owner, rather she clearly stated in the sale deed that she has the mortgagee right in the landed property and selling the land as mortgagee, meaning thereby that defendants No.1 and 2 entered her shoes as a mortgagee. By no stretch of imagination, they became absolute owners as claimed by them. Now in view of aforesaid background, this Court would proceed to specifically answer the substantial question of law and it would be profitable to reproduce here Section 6 of H.P. Debt Reduction Act, 1976:-

> "6. Debtor's right to sue.-Notwithstanding the terms of any contract regarding the date or dates on which a debt shall become due, a suit to which this Act applies for the redemption of a mortgage or for accounts may be instituted by a debtor at any time after the commencement of this Act."

17. The use of expression "at any time" for filing a suit clearly indicates the intention of legislature to provide a fresh opportunity to the debtor for getting relief under the Act and as such, in no situation, it can be concluded that the aforesaid provision is prospective in nature. After carefully perusing the aforesaid provision of law, it is not understood as to how learned trial Court concluded that provision of this Act is applicable prospectively and debtors, who had taken loan as defined under the Act by mortgaging their property prior to commencement of this Act, had no right to institute a suit under Section 6 of this Act. Judgment passed by learned trial Court though suggest that during arguments, having been made by the parties before the trial Court, attention of the trial Court was invited to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Kanshi Ram and Another vs. Lachhman (Dead) Through LRs and Others, (2001)5 SCC

546, but learned trial Court was of the view that same is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case. However, this Court, after carefully perusing the law supra laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court, is of the view that the view taken by trial Court, while dismissing the suit, was blatantly incorrect, especially in view of aforesaid law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court wherein, in the aforesaid case Hon'ble Apex Court, while setting aside the judgment passed by High Court, categorically observed that reason given by High Court in support of the findings that the suit was barred by limitation is that more than 30 years had elapsed since the date of mortgage when the suit was filed and as such mortgagor lost his right to redeem the property mortgaged is fallacious because it defeats the object and the purpose of the statute enacted by the legislature especially to give relief to debtors in the State.

18. At this stage, it would be profitable to reproduce the following paras of the judgment in Kanshi Ram's case supra:

> "8. Chapter III in which sections 5 to 9 are included deals with "Suits and Decrees". The sections in the chapter contain non-obstante clauses giving the provisions therein overriding effect over any law for the time being in force or decree or contract or agreement to the contrary.
> 9. Section 6 provides that notwithstanding the terms of any contract regarding the date or dates on which a debt shall become due; a suit to which this Act applies for the redemption of a mortgage or for accounts may be instituted by a debtor at any time after the commencement of this Act. (emphasis supplied).
> 15 The object of the Act and the scheme underlying it as obtained from the provisions made therein is to grant relief to debtors and enable them to get back properties mortgaged by them with possession for a loan. The use of expression "at any time" for making an application or filing a suit is indicative of the legislative intent that the Act provides a fresh opportunity to the debtor for getting relief under the Act. The legislature has taken care to make the relevant provisions of the Act granting relief to debtors by giving overriding effect over any law, agreement, contract or decree contrary to the provisions of the Act. It was not disputed before us during hearing of the case that the plaintiffs filed the suit under provisions of the Act for restoration of the possession of the mortgaged property. Undisputedly there is no decree for foreclosure in favour of the creditor/mortgagee.
> 16. In the backdrop of the above the question of limitation is to be considered. The reason given by the High Court in support of the finding that the suit was barred by limitation is that more than 30 years had elapsed since the date of the mortgage (February, 1946) when the suit was filed in 1981. Therefore the mortgagor had lost his right to redeem the property mortgaged. The provisions in section 27 of the Limitation Act have been considered in support of the finding. This reasoning appears to us to be fallacious. It defeats the object and the purpose of the statute enacted by the legislature specially to give relief to debtors in the State. The first appellate Court had given cogent reasons in support of its finding in favour of the appellants. The Court held and in our view, rightly that the suit was one for recovery of possession from the mortgagee who was in unauthorised possession of the mortgaged property after the mortgage loan was satisfied. The cause of action for filing such a suit under the Act arose when the enactment was enforced in 1979. Viewed from that angle the suit was filed in time and the trial court and the first appellate Court rightly recorded the findings to that effect. The High Court erred in reversing the concurrent finding of the courts below on the erroneous assumption that the suit was one for redemption of the mortgage simpliciter. It is relevant to note here that the present suit is not one filed under section 60 or 62 of the Transfer of Property Act. It is a suit filed for relief on the basis of the Himachal Pradesh Debt Reduction Act, 1976." (pp.548-551)

defendants that the learned first appellate Court mis-read the provisions of 'Debt Reduction Act', rather judgment passed by learned first appellate Court is strictly in conformity with the view taken by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment and learned first appellate Court has rightly come to conclusion that suit for redemption under Section 6 of the 'Debt Reduction Act' could be filed at any time after commencement of the Act. Moreover, mortgage made in the year 1930 was subsisting at the time of coming into force the aforesaid Act because there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that decree, if any, for foreclosure in favour of mortgage was ever passed by any competent Court of law. Hence, this Court sees no illegality in the findings returned by the learned first appellate Court that the plaintiffs had right to file suit for redemption by virtue of provisions of aforesaid Act as undisputedly plaintiffs had taken amount under mortgage by mortgaging land.

20. As far as substantial question of law No.2 is concerned, undoubtedly Limitation Act, 1963 provides limitation for filing the suit, if any, for redemption of mortgage. But, with the introduction of 'Debt Reduction Act' State Government intended to grant relief to debtors and to enable them to get back properties mortgaged by them with the possession for a loan. Perusal of 'Debt Reduction Act' clearly suggests that Legislature, while invoking aforesaid Act, has specifically taken care to make the relevant provisions of the Act granting relief to debtors by giving over-riding effect over any law, agreement, contract or decree contrary to the provisions of the Act. Though, after perusing the aforesaid Act, this Court is of the view that after promulgation of the same debtors, as defined in the aforesaid Act, could file suit for redemption at any time after commencement of the Act, but perusal of aforesaid Act suggests that no limitation was provided in the Act; meaning thereby that for determining limitation, if any, for filing suit under 'Debt Reduction Act', ultimately parties were to fall back upon Limitation Act, 1963. It is settled law that special Act brought by legislature has over-riding effect over any law. But in the present facts and circumstances of the case, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has specifically held that usufructuary mortgagor right under Section 62 of the Transfer of Property Act continuous till mortgage money is paid and mere expiry of period of 30 years from the date of mortgage does not extinguish right of mortgagor under Section 62 of the Transfer of Property Act, provisions of Limitation Act, 1963 may not be applicable in the present case.

21. Hon'ble Apex Court in Singh Ram (D) Thr.L.Rs. vs. Sheo Ram and others, AIR 2014 SC 3447, has upheld the view taken by Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Kishan & Ors. vs. Sheo Ram & Ors., AIR 2008 Punjab & Haryana 77, and over-ruled the judgment passed by Full Bench of this Court in Bhandaru Ram vs. Sukh Ram, AIR 2012 HJP 1, wherein Full Bench of this Court had held that for redemption of usufructuary mortgage, where no time fixed for redemption of mortgage money, limitation period would be 30 years as prescribed under Article 60 of Limitation Act.

22. At this stage, it would be apt to reproduce the view taken by Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Kishan's case supra:-

> "Since the mortgage is essentially and basically a conveyance in law or an assignment of debt or for discharge of some other obligation for which it is given, the security must, therefore, be redeemable on the payment or discharge of such debt or obligation. Fact that at one point of time the mortgagor for one or the other reason mortgaged his property to avail financial assistance on account of necessities of life, the mortgagor's right cannot be permitted to be defeated only on account of passage of time. The mortgagee remains in possession of the mortgaged property; enjoys the usufruct thereof and, therefore, not to lose anything by returning the security on receipt of mortgage debt.
> The limitation of 30 years under Article 61(a) beings to run "when the right to redeem or the possession accrues". The right to redemption or recover possession accrued to the mortgagor on payment of sum secured in case of usufructuary mortgage, where rents and profits are to be set off against interest on the mortgage debt, on payment or tender to the mortgagee, the mortgage money or balance thereof or deposit in the Court. The right to seek foreclosure is coextensive with the right to seek redemption. Since right to seek redemption accrues only on payment of the mortgage money or the balance thereof after adjustment of rents and profits from the interest thereof, therefore, right of foreclosure will not accrue to the mortgagee till such time the mortgagee remains in possession of the mortgaged security and is appropriating usufruct of the mortgaged land towards the interest on the mortgaged debt. Thus, the period of redemption or possession would not start till such time usufruct of the land and the profits are being adjusted towards interest on the mortgage amount. In view of the said interpretation, the principle that once a mortgage, always a mortgage and, therefore, always re-deemable would be applicable. The plea that after the expiry of period of limitation to sue for foreclosure, the mortgagees have a right to seek declaration in respect of their title over the suit property would not be tenable. The mortgage cannot be extinguished by any unilateral act of the mortgagee. Since the mortgage cannot be unilaterally terminated, therefore, the declaration claimed is nothing but a suit for foreclosure. It is equally well settled that it is not title of the suit, which determines the nature of the suit. The nature of suit is required to be determined by reading all averments in plaint. Such declaration cannot be claimed by an usufructuary mortgagee. Therefore, in case of usufructuary mortgage, where no time-limit is fixed to seek redemption, the right to seek redemption would not arise on date of mortgage but will arise on date when mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee or deposits in Court, the mortgage money or the balance thereof. Thus, it was held that once a mortgage always a mortgage and is always redeemable."

23. Hon'ble Apex Court in view of conflicting decision on the point having been rendered by Full Benches of two High Courts, referred hereinabove, laid down law in Singh Ram's case supra affirmed the view taken by Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court asunder:-

"10. We have given our anxious consideration to the question of law arising in the cases.

11. We are in agreement with the view taken in the impugned judgment that in a usufructuary mortgage, right to recover possession continues till the money is paid from the rents and profits or where it is partly paid out of rents and profits when the balance is paid by the mortgagor or deposited in Court as provided under Section 62 of the T.P. Act.

12. It will be appropriate to refer to the statutory provisions of the T.P. Act and the Limitation Act:-

"T.P. Act

58. "Mortgage", "mortgagor", "mortgagee", "mortgage-money" and "mortgaged" defined.

(a) A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b) Simple mortgage-Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money, and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

(c) Mortgage by conditional sale-Where, the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property-on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale:

PROVIDED that no such transaction shall be deemed to be a mortgage, unless the condition is embodied in the document which effects or purports to effect the sale.

(d) Usufructuary mortgage-Where the mortgagor delivers possession or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, or partly in lieu of interest or partly in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee a usufructuary mortgagee.

(e) English mortgage-Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a proviso that he will re- transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

(f) Mortgage by deposit of title-deeds-Where a person in any of the following towns, namely, the towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and in any other town which the State Government concerned may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf, delivers to a creditor or his agent documents of title to immovable property, with intent to create a security thereon, the transaction is called a mortgage by deposit of title- deeds.

(g) Anomalous mortgage - A mortgage which is not a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, a usufructuary mortgage, an English mortgage or a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds within the meaning of this section is called an anomalous mortgage.

60. Right of mortgagor to redeem At any time after the principal money has become due, the mortgagor has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage- money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver to the mortgagor the mortgage-deed and all documents relating to the mortgaged property which are in the possession or power of the mortgagee, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such third person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by a registered instrument) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

Provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by the act of the parties or by decree of a court.

62. Right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession

In the case of a usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor has a right to recover possession of the property together with the mortgage-deed and all documents relating to the mortgaged property which are in the possession or power of the mortgagee,-

(a) where the mortgagee is authorised to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,-when such money is paid;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorised to pay himself from such rents and profits or any part thereof a part only of the mortgage-money, when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage money or the balance thereof or deposits it in court hereinafter provided.

Limitation Act:-

Art. 61 By a mortgagor

a)	To redeem or recover possession of immovable property mortgaged.	Thirty years	When the right to redeem or to recover possession accrues
b)	xxxxxxxxx	xxxxxx	xxxxxxxxx

(emphasis supplied)

A perusal of above provisions shows that Article 61 refers to right to redeem or recover possession. While right of mortgagor to redeem is dealt with under Section 60 of the T.P. Act, the right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession is specially dealt with under Section 62. Section 62 is applicable only to usufructuary mortgages and not to any other mortgage. The said right of usufructuary mortgagor though styled as 'right to recover possession' is for all purposes, right to redeem and to recover possession. Thus, while in case of any other mortgage, right to redeem is covered under Section 60, in case of usufructuary mortgage, right to recover possession is dealt with under Section 62 and commences on payment of mortgage money out of the usufructs or partly out of the usufructs and partly on payment or deposit by the mortgagor. This distinction in a usufructuary mortgage and any other mortgage is clearly borne out from provisions of Sections 58, 60 and 62 of the T.P. Act read with Article 61 of the Schedule to the Limitation Act. Usufructuary mortgage cannot be treated at par with any other mortgage, as doing so will defeat the scheme of Section 62 of the T.P. Act and the equity. This right of the usufructuary mortgagor is not only an equitable right, it has statutory recognition under Section 62 of the T.P. Act. There is no principle of law on which this right can be defeated. Any contrary view, which does not take into account the special right of usufructuary mortgagor under Section 62 of the T.P. Act, has to be held to be erroneous on this ground or has to be limited to a mortgage other than a usufructuary mortgage. Accordingly, we uphold the view taken by the Full Bench that in case of usufructuary mortgage, mere expiry of a period of 30 years from the date of creation of the mortgage does not extinguish the right of the mortgagor under Section 62 of the T.P. Act.

13. We may now refer to decisions of this Court.

(i) In Prabhakaran & Ors. vs. M. Azhagiri Pillai & Ors., (2006) 4 SCC 484, suit of mortgagor for redemption was held to be within limitation. However, in para 13, it was observed:-

"13. Article 148 of the Limitation Act, 1908 (referred to as "the old Act") provided a limitation of 60 years for a suit against a mortgagee to redeem or to recover possession of immovable property mortgaged. The corresponding provision in the Limitation Act, 1963 ("the new Act" or "the Limitation Act" for short), is Article 61(a) which provides that the period of limitation for a suit by a mortgagor to redeem or recover possession of the immovable property mortgaged is 30 years. The period of limitation begins to run when the right to redeem or to recover possession accrues. In the case of a usufructuary mortgage which does not fix any date for repayment of the mortgage money, but merely stipulates that the mortgagee is entitled to be in possession till redemption, the right to redeem would accrue immediately on execution of the mortgage deed and the mortgagor has to file a suit for redemption within 30 years from the date of the mortgage. Section 27 of the Limitation Act provides that "at the determination of the period hereby limited to any person for instituting a suit for possession of any property, his right to such property shall be extinguished". This would mean that on the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed under the Act, the mortgagor would lose his right to redeem and the mortgagee would become entitled to continue in possession as the full owner."

The above observations do not take into account the special right of usufructuary mortgagor under Section 62 of the T.P. Act to recover possession which commences after mortgage money is paid out of rents and profits or partly out of rents and profits and partly paid or deposited by mortgagor. Thus, we are unable to accept the same as correct view in law.

(ii) In Jayasingh Dhyanu Mhoprekar & Anr. vs. Krishna Babaji Patil & Anr., 1985 (4) SCC 162, the question of limitation for redemption was not involved. Question was whether mortgagor's right of redemption was affected when mortgaged land was allotted to mortgagees by way of grant under the provisions of the Bombay Paragana and Kulkarni Watans (Abolition) Act, 1950, it was observed:-

"6. The only question which arises for decision in this case is whether by reason of the grant made in favour of the defendants the right to redeem the mortgage can be treated as having become extinguished. It is well settled that the right of redemption under a mortgage deed can come to an end only in a manner known to law. Such extinguishment of right can take place by a contract between the parties, by a merger or by a statutory provision which debars the mortgagor from redeeming the mortgage. A mortgagee who has entered into possession of the mortgaged property under a mortgage will have to give up possession of the property when the suit for redemption is filed unless he is able to show that the right of redemption has come to an end or that the suit is liable to be dismissed on some other valid ground. This flows from the legal principle which is applicable to all mortgages, namely "Once a mortgage, always a mortgage". It is no doubt true that the father of the first defendant and the second defendant have been granted occupancy right by the Prant Officer by his order dated February 5, 1964 along with Pandu, the uncle of Defendant 1. But it is not disputed that the defendants would not have been able to secure the said grant in their favour but for the fact that they were in actual possession of the lands. They were able to be in possession of the one-half share of the plaintiffs in the lands in question only by reason of the mortgage deed. If the mortgagors had been in possession of the lands on the relevant date, the lands would have automatically been granted in their favour, since the rights of the tenants in the watan lands were allowed to subsist even after the coming into force of the Act and the consequent abolition of the watans by virtue of Section 8 of the Act. The question is whether the position would be different because they had mortgaged land with possession on the relevant date."

Apart from judgments mentioned in reference order, reference may be made to some other judgments dealing with the issue. (iii) In Harbans vs. Om Prakash, (2006) 1 SCC 129, this Court upheld the view that limitation for redemption does not start from date of mortgage in a usufructuary mortgage and held that view in State of Punjab & Ors. vs. Ram Rakha & Ors., (1997) 10 SCC 172 was contrary to earlier view in Seth Gangadhar vs. Shankar Lal, 1959 SCR 509. It was observed:-

"7. Reference may be made to certain paragraphs in Seth Gangadhar v. Shankar Lal, 1959 SCR 509 which read as follows:

"[4.] It is admitted that the case is governed by the Transfer of Property Act. Under Section 60 of that Act, at any time after the principal money has become due, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender of the mortgage money to require the mortgagee to reconvey the mortgaged property to him. The right conferred by this section has been called the right to redeem and the appellant sought to enforce this right by his suit. Under this section, however, that right can be exercised only after the mortgage money has become due. In Bakhtawar Begam v. [pic]Husaini Khanam,ILR (1914) 36 All 195 (IA at p. 89) also the same view was expressed in these words:

'Ordinarily, and in the absence of a special condition entitling the mortgagor to redeem during the term for which the mortgage is created, the right of redemption can only arise on the expiration of the specified period.'

Now, in the present case the term of the mortgage is eighty-five years and there is no stipulation entitling the mortgagor to redeem during that term. That term has not yet expired. The respondents, therefore, contend that the suit is premature and liable to be dismissed.

[6.] The rule against clogs on the equity of redemption is that, a mortgage shall always be redeemable and a mortgagor's right to redeem shall neither be taken away nor be limited by any contract between the parties. The principle behind the rule was expressed by Lindley, M.R. In Santley v. Wilde, (1899) 2 Ch. 474 in these words:

'The principle is this: a mortgage is a conveyance of land or an assignment of chattels as a security for the payment of a debt or the discharge of some other obligation for which it is given. This is the idea of a mortgage: and the security is redeemable on the payment or discharge of such debt or obligation, any provision to the contrary notwithstanding. That, in my opinion, is the law. Any provision inserted to prevent redemption on payment or performance of the debt or obligation for which the security was given is what is meant by a clog or fetter on the equity of redemption and is therefore void. It follows from this, that "once a mortgage always a mortgage".'

[7.] The right of redemption, therefore, cannot be taken away. The courts will ignore any contract the effect of which is to deprive the mortgagor of his right to redeem the mortgage. One thing, therefore, is clear, namely, that the term in the mortgage contract, that on the failure of the mortgagor to redeem the mortgage within the specified period of six months the mortgagor will have no claim over the mortgaged property, and the mortgage deed will be deemed to be a deed of sale in favour of the mortgagee, cannot be sustained. It plainly takes away altogether, the mortgagor's right to redeem the mortgage after the specified period. This is not permissible, for 'once a mortgage always a mortgage' and therefore always redeemable. The same result also follows from Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act. So it was said in Mohd. Sher Khan v. Seth Swami Dayal, AIR 1922 PC 17:

'An anomalous mortgage enabling a mortgagee after a lapse of time and in the absence of redemption to enter and take the rents in [pic]satisfaction of the interest would be perfectly valid if it did not also hinder an existing right to redeem. But it is this that the present mortgage undoubtedly purports to effect. It is expressly stated to be for five years, and after that period the principal money became payable. This, under Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act, is the event on which the mortgagor had a right on payment of the mortgage money to redeem.

[14.] In comparatively recent times Viscount Haldane, L.C. repeated the same view when he said in G. and C. Kreglinger v. New Patagonia Meat and Cold Storage Co. Ltd, 1914 AC 25 (AC at pp. 35-36):

'This jurisdiction was merely a special application of a more general power to relieve against penalties and to mould them into mere securities. The case of the common law mortgage of land was indeed a gross one. The land was conveyed to the creditor upon the condition that if the money he had advanced to the feoffor was repaid on a date and at a place named, the fee simple would revest in the latter, but that if the condition was not strictly and literally fulfilled he should lose the land forever. What made the hardship on the debtor a glaring one was that the debt still remained unpaid and could be recovered from the feoffor notwithstanding that he had actually forfeited the land to the mortgagee. Equity therefore, at an early date began to relieve against what was virtually a penalty by compelling the creditor to use his legal title as a security.

My Lords, this was the origin of the jurisdiction which we are now considering, and it is important to bear that origin in mind. For the end to accomplish which the jurisdiction has been evolved ought to govern and limit its exercise by equity judges. That end has always been to ascertain, by parol evidence if need be, the real nature and substance of the transaction, and if it turned out to be in truth one of mortgage simply, to place it on that footing. It was, in ordinary cases, only where there was conduct which the Court of Chancery regarded as unconscientious that it interfered with freedom of contract. The lending money, on mortgage or otherwise, was looked on with suspicion, and the court was on the alert to discover want of conscience in the terms imposed by lenders.'

[15.] The reason then justifying the Court's power to relieve a mortgagor from the effects of his bargain is its want of conscience. [pic]Putting it in more familiar language the Court's jurisdiction to relieve a mortgagor from his bargain depends on whether it was obtained by taking advantage of any difficulty or embarrassment that he might have been in when he borrowed the moneys on the mortgage. Was the mortgagor oppressed? Was he imposed upon? If he was, then he may be entitled to relief.

[16.] We then have to see if there was anything unconscionable in the agreement that the mortgage would not be redeemed for eighty-five years. Is it oppressive? Was he forced to agree to it because of his difficulties? Now this question is essentially one of fact and has to be decided on the circumstances of each case. It would be wholly unprofitable in enquiring into this question to examine the large number of reported cases on the subject, for each turns on its own facts.

The section is unqualified in its terms, and contains no saving provision as other sections do in favour of contracts to the contrary. Their Lordships therefore see no sufficient reason for withholding from the words of the section their full force and effect.'

[17.] First then, does the length of the term — and in this case it is long enough being eighty-five years itself lead to the conclusion that it was an oppressive term? In our view, it does not do so. It is not necessary for us to go so far as to say that the length of the term of the mortgage can never by itself show that the bargain was oppressive. We do not desire to say anything on that question in this case. We think it enough to say that we have nothing here to show that the length of the term was in any way disadvantageous to the mortgagor. It is quite conceivable that it was to his advantage. The suit for redemption was brought over forty-seven years after the date of the mortgage. It seems to us impossible that if the term was oppressive, that was not realised much earlier and the suit brought within a short time of the mortgage. The learned Judicial Commissioner felt that the respondents' contention that the suit had been brought as the price of landed property had gone up after the war, was justified. We are not prepared to say that he was wrong in this view. We cannot also ignore, as appears from a large number of reported decisions, that it is not uncommon in various parts of India to have long-term mortgages. Then we find that the property was subject to a prior mortgage. We are not aware what the term of that mortgage was. But we find that that mortgage included another property which became free from it as a result of the mortgage in suit. This would show that the mortgagee under this mortgage was not putting any pressure on the mortgagor. That conclusion also receives support from the fact that the mortgage money under the present mortgage was more than that under the earlier mortgage but the mortgagee in the present case was satisfied with a smaller security. Again, no complaint is made that the interest charged, which was to be measured by the rent of the property, was in any manner high. All these, to our mind, indicate that the mortgagee had not taken any unfair advantage of his position as the lender, nor that the mortgagor was under any financial embarrassment.

[18.] It is said that the mortgage instrument itself indicates that the bargain is hard, for, while the mortgagor cannot redeem for eighty-five years, the mortgagee is free to demand payment of his dues at any time [pic]he likes. This contention is plainly fallacious. There is nothing in the mortgage instrument permitting the mortgagee to demand any money, and it is well settled that the mortgagee's right to enforce the mortgage and the mortgagor's right to redeem are coextensive."

8. On the contrary, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that in Panchanan Sharma v. Basudeo Prasad Jaganani, 1995 Supp (2) SCC 574 it was clearly held that when there is no stipulation regarding period of limitation it can be redeemed at any time. It was, inter alia, held as follows: (SCC p. 576, para 3)

"The sale certificate, Ext. C-II does not bind the appellant and, therefore, the mortgage does not stand extinguished by reason of the sale. It is inoperative as against the appellant."

9. Though the decision in State of Punjab case prima facie supports the stand of the appellant, the decision rendered by a three-Judge Bench of this Court in Ganga Dhar case according to us had dealt with the legal position deliberately and stated the same succinctly."

(iv) In Parichhan Mistry (Dead) by L.Rs. & Anr. vs. Acchiabar Mistry & Ors., (1996) 5 SCC 526, it was observed:-

"2. The High Court came to the conclusion that the mortgagors having failed to pay a portion of the rent for realisation of which the landlord had filed a suit and obtained a decree and that said decree being put to execution and the mortgagee having paid up the decretal dues, the mortgagor loses his right of redemption and, therefore the suit for redemption must fail. The [pic]learned Judge came to the conclusion that the equity of redemption, in the facts and circumstances of the case was extinguished and, therefore, the mortgagor is not entitled to redeem. The short question that arises for consideration is whether in the facts and circumstances of the case the High Court was right in coming to a conclusion that right of redemption got extinguished and the mortgagor had no right of redemption. It is true that a right of redemption under a mortgage deed can come to an end, but only in a manner known to law. Such extinguishment of right can take place by contract between the parties or by a decree of the court or by a statutory provision which debars the mortgagors from redeeming the mortgage. The mortgagor's right of redemption is exercised by the payment or tender to the mortgagee at the proper time and at the proper place, of the mortgage money. When it is extinguished by the act of the parties the act must take the shape and observe the formalities which the law prescribes. The expression "act of parties" refers to some transaction subsequent to the mortgage and standing apart from the mortgage transaction. A usufructuary mortgagee cannot by mere assertion of his own or by a unilateral act on his part, convert his position on moiety of the property as mortgagee into that of an absolute owner. It is no doubt true that the mortgagee would be entitled to purchase the entire equity of redemption from the mortgagor. The mortgagee occupies a peculiar position and, therefore, the question as to what he purchases at a court sale is a vexed question, but being in an advantageous position where the mortgagee availing himself of his position gains an advantage he holds, such advantage is for the benefit of the mortgagor. It has been so held by this Court in the case of Sidhakamal Nayan Ramanuj Das v. Bira Nayak, AIR 1954 SC 336 and Mritunjoy Pani v. Narmanda Bala Sasmal, (1962) 1 SCR 290. This being the position of law if for some default in payment of rent a rent decree is obtained and the mortgagee pays off the same even then the mortgage in question is liable to be redeemed at the option of the mortgagor. The mortgagee cannot escape from his obligation by bringing the equity of redemption to sale in execution of a decree on the personal covenant. By virtue of purchase of the property by the mortgagee in court sale, no merger takes place between the two rights nor the mortgage stands extinguished."

(v) In Achaldas Durgaji Oswal (Dead) Thr. L.Rs. vs. Ramvilas Gangabisan Heda (Dead) Thr. L.Rs. & Ors., (2003) 3 SCC 614, this Court upheld the view that right of redemption was not lost despite failure of a mortgagor in a usufructuary mortgage to make deposit in terms of a preliminary decree for redemption. It was observed:-

"7. Mr Mohta, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents on the other hand, would submit that whereas Order 34 Rule 7 would apply both in respect of the suit for foreclosure and redemption of mortgage, Order 34 Rule 8 thereof refers to final decree in redemption suit only. The learned counsel would contend that having regard to the well-established rule "once a mortgage always a mortgage", the right of a mortgagor to redeem the mortgage would continue unless the same is extinguished either by reason of a decree passed by a court of law or by an agreement of parties. The learned counsel pointed out that in this case the application for drawing up of a final decree was filed within a period of three years from the date of making the deposit and thus the same was not barred by limitation.

Findings

8. Usufructuary mortgage is defined in Section 58(d) of the Transfer of Property Act in the following terms:

"58. (d) Where the mortgagor delivers possession or expressly or by implication binds himself to deliver possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property or any part of such rents and profits and to appropriate the same in [pic]lieu of interest, or in payment of the mortgage-money, or partly in lieu of interest or partly in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

9. Mortgagor, despite having mortgaged the property might still deal with it in any way consistent with the rights of the mortgagee. He has an equitable right to redeem the property after the day fixed for payment has gone by but his right or equity of redemption is no longer strictly an equitable estate or interest although it is still in the nature of an equitable interest. (See Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edn., Vol. 32, p.264.)

10. The right of the mortgagor, it is now well settled, to deal with the mortgaged property as well as the limitation to which it is subject depends upon the nature of this ownership which is not absolute, but qualified by reason of the right of the mortgagee to recover his money out of the proceedings. The right to redeem the mortgage is a very valuable right possessed by the mortgagor. Such a right to redeem the mortgage can be exercised before it is foreclosed or the estate is sold. The equitable right of redemption is dependent on the mortgagor giving the mortgagee reasonable notice of his intention to redeem and on his fully performing his obligations under the mortgage.

11. The doctrine of redemption of mortgaged property was not recognised by the Indian courts as the essence of the doctrine of equity of redemption was unknown to the ancient law of India. The Privy Council in Thumbasawmy Mudelly v. Mohd. Hossain Rowthen called upon the legislature to make a suitable amendment which was given a statutory recognition by reason of Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act which reads thus:

"60. Right of mortgagor to redeem.—At any time after the principal money has become due, the mortgagor has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver to the mortgagor the mortgage-deed and all documents relating to the mortgaged property which are in the possession or power of the mortgagee, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to retransfer the mortgaged property to him or to such third person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by a registered instrument) to have registered an acknowledgement in writing that any right in derogation of his interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

Provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by decree of a court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has [pic]been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money."

12. A right of redemption, thus, was statutorily recognized as a right of a mortgagor as an incident of mortgage which subsists so long as the mortgage itself subsists. The proviso appended to Section 60, as noticed hereinbefore, however, confines the said right so long as the same is not extinguished by an act of the parties or by a decree of court.

13. In the Law of Mortgage by Dr Rashbehary Ghose at pp. 231-32 under the heading "Once a mortgage, always a mortgage", it is noticed:

"In 1681 Lord Nottingham in the leading case of Howard v. Harris4 firmly laid down the principle: 'Once a mortgage, always a mortgage'. This is a doctrine to protect the mortgagor's right of redemption: it renders all agreements in a mortgage for forfeiture of the right to redeem and also encumbrances of or dealings with the property by the mortgagee as against a mortgagor coming to redeem. In 1902 the well-known maxim, 'once a mortgage, always a mortgage', was supplemented by the words 'and nothing but a mortgage' added by Lord Davey in the leading case of Noakes v. Rice5 in which the maxim was explained to mean 'that a mortgage cannot be made irredeemable and a provision to that effect is void'. The maxim has been supplemented in the Indian context by the words 'and therefore always redeemable', added by Justice Sarkar of the Supreme Court in the case of Seth Ganga Dhar v. Shankar Lal.

It is thus evident that the very conception of mortgage involves three principles. First, there is the maxim: 'once a mortgage, always a mortgage'. That is to say, a mortgage is always redeemable and if a contrary provision is made, it is invalid. And this is an exception to the aphorism, modus et conventio vincunt legem (custom and agreement overrule law). Secondly, the mortgagee cannot reserve to himself any collateral advantage outside the mortgage agreement. Thirdly, as a corollary from the first another principle may be deduced, namely, 'once a mortgage, always a mortgage, and nothing but a mortgage'. In other words, any stipulation which prevents a mortgagor from getting back the property mortgaged is void. That is, a mortgage is always redeemable.

The maxim 'once a mortgage always a mortgage' may be said to be a logical corollary from the doctrine, which is the very foundation of the law of mortgages, that time is not of the essence of the contract in such transactions; for the protection which the law throws around the mortgagor might be rendered wholly illusory, if the right to redeem could be limited by contract between the parties. Right to redeem is an incident of a subsisting mortgage and is inseparable from it so that the right is coextensive with the mortgage itself. The right subsists until it is [pic]appropriately and effectively extinguished either by the acts of the parties concerned or by a proper decree of the competent court."

4. In The Law of Mortgages by Edward F. Cousins at p. 294, in relation to protection of the right to redeem, it is stated:

"But the protection of embarrassed mortgagors could not be achieved by the mere creation of the equitable right of redemption. As soon as the practice in equity to allow redemption after the contract date became known, mortgagees sought to defeat the intervention of equity by special provisions in the mortgage-deed. These provisions were designed either to render the legal right to redeem illusory, and thus prevent the equity of redemption from arising at all, or to defeat or clog the equity of redemption after it had arisen. For example, the mortgage contract might provide for an option for the mortgagee to purchase the mortgaged property, thus defeating both the legal and equitable right to redeem, or might allow redemption after the contract date only upon payment of an additional sum or upon performance of some additional obligation. Consequently, the Chancellor began to relieve mortgagors against such restrictions and fetters on the legal and equitable rights to redeem imposed by special covenants in the mortgage.

The protection of a mortgagor against all attempts to defeat or clog his right of redemption involved the creation of subsidiary rules of equity, invalidating the various contrivances which ingenious conveyancers devised. These rules are sometimes summed up in a maxim of equity 'once a mortgage always a mortgage'. This means that once a contract is seen to be a mortgage no provision in the contract will be valid if it is inconsistent with the right of the mortgagor to recover his security on discharging his obligations. Provisions offending against the maxim may either touch the contractual terms of redemption, rendering the right to redeem illusory, or they may touch only the equitable right to redeem after the passing of the contract date, hampering the exercise of the right. Provisions of the latter kind are termed 'clogs' on the equity of redemption. Greene, M.R. in Knightsbridge Estates v. Byrne7 emphasized that provisions touching the contractual right to redeem are not properly to be classed as clogs on the equity of redemption. But it is evident that such provisions are in substance clogs on the equity of redemption, since they tend to defeat it altogether."

15. In Fisher and Lightwood's Law of Mortgage, the nature of the right of redemption is stated thus:

"The rights of redemption.— The right to redeem a mortgage was formerly conferred on the mortgagor by a proviso or condition in the mortgage to the effect that, if the mortgagor or his representative should pay to the mortgagee the principal sum, with interest at the rate fixed, on a certain day, the mortgagee, or the person in whom the estate was vested, would, at the cost of the person redeeming, reconvey to him or as [pic]he should direct (a). This is still the practice in the case of a mortgage effected by an assignment of the mortgagor's interest (b). A proviso for reconveyance was no longer appropriate after 1925 for a legal mortgage of land [which has to be made by demise (c)], and it is not necessary to have a proviso for surrender of the term in such a mortgage, since the term ceases on repayment (d). Nevertheless, in order to define the rights of the mortgagor and the mortgagee, a proviso is inserted expressly stating that the term will cease at the date fixed (e).

It has been seen (f) that, at law, whatever form the mortgage took, upon non-payment by the appointed time, the estate of the mortgagee became absolute and irredeemable, but that equity intervened to enable the mortgagor to redeem after the date of repayment.

There are, therefore, two distinct rights of redemption — the legal or contractual right to redeem on the appointed day and the equitable right to redeem thereafter (g). The equitable right to redeem, which only arises after the contractual date of redemption has passed, must be distinguished from the equity of redemption, which arises when the mortgage is made (g)."

16. The question which falls for consideration in this appeal must be considered keeping in view the statutory right of the mortgagor in terms of Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act. By reason of Article 61 of the Limitation Act, 1963, the limitation provided for a suit to redeem or recover the possession of immovable property mortgaged by a mortgagor is thirty years from the date of accrual of right to redeem or recover possession. Article 137 which is a residuary provision provides for limitation of three years in a case where no period of limitation is provided.

20. The statutory provisions, as noticed hereinbefore, are required to be construed having regard to the redeeming features of usufructuary mortgage, namely, (a) there is a delivery of possession to the mortgagee, (b) he is to retain possession until repayment of money and to receive rents and profits or part thereof in lieu of interest, or in payment of mortgage- money, or partly in lieu of interest and partly in payment of mortgage- money, (c) there is redemption when the amount due is personally paid or is discharged by rents or profits received, and (d) there is no remedy by sale or foreclosure.

21. Order 34 Rules 7 and 8 do not confer any right upon the usufructuary mortgagee to apply for final decree which is conferred on the mortgagee on other types of mortgages. By reason of sub-rule (1) of Rule 8 of Order 34, a mortgagor is entitled to make an application for final decree at any time before a final decree debarring the plaintiff from all rights to redeem the mortgaged property has been passed or before the confirmation of a sale held in pursuance of a final decree passed under sub-rule (3) of this Rule. No such application is again contemplated at the instance of the usufructuary mortgagee. By reason of sub-rule (1) of Rule 8 of Order 34, a right of redemption is conferred upon the mortgagor of a usufructuary mortgage. Such a provision has been made evidently having regard to the right of redemption of a mortgagor in terms of Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act and further, having regard to the fact that a usufructuary mortgagee would be entitled to possess the property in question till a final decree of redemption is passed.

22. The right of redemption of a mortgagor being a statutory right, the same can be taken away only in terms of the proviso appended to Section 60 of the Act which is extinguished either by a decree or by act of parties. [pic]Admittedly, in the instant case, no decree has been passed extinguishing the right of the mortgagor nor has such right come to an end by act of the parties.

23. A right for obtaining a final decree for sale or foreclosure can be exercised only on payment of such money. Such a right can be exercised at any time even before the sale is confirmed although the final decree might have been passed in the meanwhile. The mortgagee is also not entitled to receive any payment under the preliminary decree nor is the mortgagor required to make an application to recover before paying the same.

24. Even, indisputably, despite expiry of the time for deposit of the mortgaged money in terms of the preliminary decree, a second suit for redemption would be maintainable."

(vi) In Prithi Nath Singh vs. Suraj Ahir, (1963) 3 SCR 302, this Court approved the observations of Allahabad High Court in Rama Prasad vs. Bishambhar Singh, AIR 1946 All 400, that Sections 60 and 62 of T.P. Act make distinction in right of a usufructuary mortgagor and other mortgagor as follows:-

"11. In Ramprasad v. Bishambhar Singh, AIR 1946 All 400, the question formulated for determination was whether the suit being a suit to recover possession of the mortgaged property after the mortgage money had been paid- off was a suit "against the mortgagee to redeem" or "to recover possession of immovable property mortgaged". Braund, J., said, at p. 402:

"Now, it is quite obvious that that section (Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act) can only refer to a case in which a mortgagor under a subsisting mortgage approaches the Court to establish his right to redeem and to have that redemption carried out by the process of the various declarations and orders of the Court by which it effects redemption. In other words, Section 60 contemplates a case in which the mortgage is still subsisting and the mortgagor goes to the Court to obtain the return of his property on repayment of what is still due. Section 62, on the other hand, is in marked contrast to Section 60. Section 62 says that in the case of a usufructuary mortgage the mortgagor has a right to "recover possession" of the property when (in a case in which the mortgagee is authorised to pay himself the mortgage money out of the rents and profits of the property) the principal money is paid-off. As we see it, that is not a case of redemption at all. At the moment when the rents and profits of the mortgaged property sufficed to discharge the principal secured by the mortgage, the mortgage came to an end and the correlative right arose in the mortgagor "to recover possession of the property". The framers of the Transfer of Property Act have clearly recognised the distinction between the procedure which follows a mortgagor's desire to redeem a subsisting mortgage and the procedure which follows the arising of a usufructuary mortgagor's right to get his property back after the principal has been paid-off."

(vii) In Hamzabi & Ors. vs. Syed Karimuddin & Ors., (2001) 1 SCC 414, it was observed:-

"2. The right of the mortgagor to redeem had its origin as an equitable principle for giving relief against forfeiture even after the mortgagor defaulted in making payment under the mortgage deed. It is a right which has been jealously guarded over the years by courts. The maxim of "once a mortgage always a mortgage" and the avoidance of provisions obstructing redemption as "clogs on redemption" are expressions of this judicial protection. (See: Pomal Kanji Govindji v. Vrajlal Karsandas Purohit (1989) 1 SCC 458 in this context.) As far as this country is concerned, the right is statutorily recognised in Section 60 of the Transfer of Property Act. The section gives [pic]the mortgagor right to redeem the property at any time after the principal money has become due by tendering the mortgage money and claiming possession of the mortgaged property from the mortgagee. The only limit to this right is contained in the proviso to the section which reads:

"Provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by decree of a court."

3. While the expression "decree of court" is explicit enough, the phrase "act of parties" has given rise to controversy. One such act may be when the mortgagor sells the equity of redemption to the mortgagee. This Court in Narandas Karsondas v. S.A. Kamtam, (1977) 3 SCC 247 has said that: (SCC p. 254, para 34)"

(viii) Contrary view has been expressed in Sampuran Singh & Ors. vs. Smt. Niranjan Kaur (smt.) & Ors., (1999) 2 SCC 679 as follows:-

"14. Submission was, as aforesaid, that right to redeem only accrues when either the mortgagors tender the amount of mortgage or the mortgagees communicate satisfaction of the mortgage amount through the usufruct from the land. This submission is misconceived, as aforesaid, if this interpretation is accepted, then till this happens the period of limitation never start running and it could go on for an infinite period. We have no hesitation to reject this submission. The language recorded above makes it clear that right of redemption accrues from the very first day unless restricted under the mortgage deed. When there is no restriction the mortgagors have a right to redeem the mortgage from that very date when the mortgage was executed. Right accruing means, right either existing or coming into play thereafter. Where no period in the mortgage is specified, there exists a right to a mortgagor to redeem the mortgage by paying the amount that very day in case he receives the desired money for which he has mortgaged his land or any day thereafter. This right could only be restricted through law or in terms of a valid mortgage deed. There is no such restriction shown or pointed out. Hence, in our considered opinion the period of limitation would start from the very date the valid mortgage is said to have been executed and hence the period of limitation of 60 years would start from the very date of oral mortgage, that would be from March 1893. In [pic]view of this, we do not find any error in the decision of the first appellate court or the High Court holding that the suit of the present appellants is time-barred."

However, facts mentioned in para 3 show that possession remained with mortgagor and it was not a case of usufructuary mortgage.

14. We need not multiply reference to other judgments. Reference to above judgments clearly spell out the reasons for conflicting views. In cases where distinction in usufructuary mortgagor's right under Section 62 of the T.P. Act has been noted, right to redeem has been held to continue till the mortgage money is paid for which there is no time limit while in other cases right to redeem has been held to accrue on the date of mortgage resulting in extinguishment of right of redemption after 30 years.

15. We, thus, hold that special right of usufructuary mortgagor under Section 62 of the T.P. Act to recover possession commences in the manner specified therein, i.e., when mortgage money is paid out of rents and profits or partly out of rents and profits and partly by payment or deposit by mortgagor. Until then, limitation does not start for purposes of Article 61 of the Schedule to the Limitation Act. A usufructuary mortgagee is not entitled to file a suit for declaration that he had become an owner merely on the expiry of 30 years from the date of the mortgage. We answer the question accordingly.

16. On this conclusion, the view taken by the Punjab and Haryana High Court will stand affirmed and contrary view taken by the Himachal Pradesh High Court in Bhandaru Ram (D) Thr. L.R. Ratan Lal vs. Sukh Ram (supra) will stand over-ruled." (pp.3452-3464)

24. Since Hon'ble Apex Court has held that mere expiry of period of 30 years from the date of mortgage does not extinguish the right of the mortgagor under Section 62 of the Transfer of Property Act, there may not be any application of provisions of Limitation Act, 1963 and as such substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

25. Perusal of judgment passed by learned trial Court clearly suggests that suit of the plaintiffs was dismissed being time barred and as such this Court sees no force much less substantial force in the contention of Mr.Palsra that learned first appellate Court failed to deal with the other relevant issues apart from limitation, while accepting the appeal having been preferred by the plaintiffs because perusal of judgment passed by learned first appellate court clearly suggests that learned first appellate Court has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously.

26. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this appeal is dismissed. The judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court below is upheld and that of the learned trial Court is set aside and the suit filed by the plaintiffs is decreed.There shall be no order as to costs. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

Decided on : 29.11.2016

Limitation Act, 1963- Section 5- An appeal was filed against the award of Workmen Compensation Commissioner filed, which was barred by limitation – an application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal filed- held that appellant had deposited the amount before the Commissioner on 24.1.2011, which shows that it had notice regarding the award – the appeal was filed in the year 2015- no satisfactory explanation for the delay has been given – delay cannot be condoned- application dismissed. (Para-3)

For the applicant: Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. P.P Chauhan, Advocate for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (Oral)

Respondent No. 3 despite service, omitted to appear either in person or through counsel. Hence, proceeded against ex-parte.

2. Respondent No.1 stands served through publication under an apposite notice published in "Divya Himachal", notice whereof is placed on record. However respondent No.1 despite service standing effectuated upon her through substituted mode omits to record her appearance before this court either in person or through counsel. Hence she is proceeded against ex-parte.

3. In the impugned rendition recorded by the learned Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act, he fastened liability upon the insurer qua the compensation amount assessed thereunder vis-à-vis the claimants. The impugned rendition stood recorded on 17.3.2009 whereas the insurer has belatedly concerted to beget its reversal by preferring in the year 2015 an appeal therefrom before this Court. The insurer in the instant application has made a painstaking effort to purvey the good and sufficient cause which precluded it to earlier within limitation institute an appeal herebefore against the impugned judgment recorded on 17.3.2009 by the learned Commissioner. The appeal stands instituted herebefore with a gross besides with an inordinate delay occurring since the recording of the impugned judgment by the learned commissioner yet the immensity of delay would not constrain this Court to allow this application unless tangible material in portrayal of the insurer only nowat acquiring knowledge of the impugned judgment stood evinced. However a perusal of the judgment impugned hereat displays qua the insurer impleaded as respondent No.2 therein standing represented therebefore by its Counsel besides a receipt personificatory of the insurer in discharge of its liability fastened upon it under the impugned judgment depositing cheque No. 051589 before the learned Commissioner wherefrom an inference is erectable qua the insurer holding the apposite knowledge at the time contemporaneous to the recording of the impugned judgment by the learned Commissioner also an inference stands aroused qua its holding knowledge on 24.1.2011 whereat in discharge of its liability it deposited cheque bearing No. 051589 before the learned Commissioner. Consequently though with the insurer acquiring knowledge thereat qua the impugned judgment its yet omitting to assail it within limitation cannot at all render its belated apposite concert standing engendered by it standing beset with bonafide constraints or fetters in its relevant omission. Contrarily it stands concluded qua the insurer deliberately omitting to assail the impugned judgment. In aftermath, there is no merit in the application and the same is accordingly dismissed.

Date of decision: 29.11.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner challenged the appointment of respondent No.6 as Part Time Water Carrier – petitioner claims that she belongs to an IRDP family and has been included in the National Health Insurance Scheme – she had submitted an application and her name was recommended by Gram Panchayat – however, respondent No.6 was appointed – respondents No.1 to 4 stated that approval was granted for appointment of respondent No.6 as Part Time Water Carrierbefore the consideration of the case of the petitioner - held, that Rule 12 empowers the State to make the appointment on compassionate ground without following the selection process from amongst widow, women deserted by their husbands, or otherwise destitute, handicapped persons if such candidate falls below the poverty line - the petitioner had applied for recruitment under this Rule – the Rule was subsequently quashed but the appointment was made prior to the quashing- respondent No.6 is a widow and has placed on record BPL certificate – no document establishing the claim of the petitioner was filed – the appointment of respondent No.6 cannot be faulted- writ petition dismissed. (Para-12 to 16)

For the Petitioner: Mr.Anil Kumar, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Varun Chandel, Additional Advocate General with Mr.Pankaj Negi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 4.

None for respondent No. 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur J. (Oral).

In present petition, appointment of respondent No. 6 as Part Time Water Carrier (herein after referred to as PTWC) in Government Primary School, Tipp, Education Block Dehra, District Kangra, H.P. has been challenged.

2. I have heard learned counsel for parties and perused the documents placed on record.

3. Clause/Rule 12 of Recruitment Scheme for the appointment of Part Time Water Carriers in schools of Education Department (herein after referred to as 'Scheme') (Annexure P-1) empowers respondent-State to appoint PTWC on compassionate grounds, without following the selection process, amongst widows, women deserted by their husbands or otherwise destitute, handicapped persons if such candidate falls below the poverty line as defined by Rural Development Department from time to time.

4. Petitioner claims that she belongs to an IRDP family and no member of her family is serving in Government Department or Public Sector Undertaking and since she belongs to below poverty line family, thus has been included in the National Health Insurance Scheme. Therefore, as per Scheme she was most suitable person to be appointed as PTWC in Government Primary School, Tipp.

5. As per claim of the petitioner, post of PTWC in Government Primary School, Tipp was advertised by respondents No. 3 to 5 and in response to the said advertisement, she had submitted her application and her name was recommended by Gram Panchayat, Surani by passing an unanimous resolution dated 4.4.2010 (Annexure P-4).

6. It is contended on behalf of petitioner that name of respondent No. 6 was neither recommended nor was she eligible for appointment as PTWC under the provisions of Scheme (Annexure P-1), whereas, name of petitioner was recommended for appointment as water carrier in the Government Primary School, Tipp as her name was included in list of approved candidates. For substantiating her plea, she has relied upon Annexure P-5, claiming the same as list of candidates approved/recommended for appointment as PTWC in the schools mentioned against their names. In this list, name of petitioner has been shown at Sr. No. 6 against Government Primary School, Tipp.

7. It is further alleged by the petitioner that respondent No. 6 is joint owner of about 112 Kanal land in her village and her husband was working in a private firm/concern at Ludhiana Punjab, who expired in an accident during the course of his employment and as such, respondent No. 6 had received more than Rs. 3,00,000/- under Workmen Compensation Act and therefore, she was not eligible to be appointed under clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme.

8. Respondents No. 1 to 4 have filed reply to the petition, justifying appointment of respondent No. 6 as PTWC on compassionate grounds under clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme, as respondent No. 6 was below poverty line and a widow. It has further been clarified by respondent-State that Annexure P-5 is not a list of candidates approved or recommended for appointment as PTWC, but the same is list of candidates whose names were referred to the office of Deputy Director of Elementary Education for examination and prior to examination and approval for appointment of petitioner, approval for appointment of respondent No. 6 was granted and as such she was appointed as PTWC who joined her duties after completing all codal formalities under Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme.

9. In reply, respondents 1 to 4 have denied claim of petitioner that post of PTWC in Government Primary School, Tipp was advertised for filling up through interview and it is stated that case of petitioner was received for examination, whereas in the meantime name of respondent No. 6 was approved by Government, in pursuance to which respondent No. 6 was appointed and allowed to join her duty.

10. Respondent No. 5, Gram Panchayat has not chosen to contest the petition and no reply has been filed on its behalf.

11. Respondent No. 6 has filed separate reply stating therein that being a widow and belonging to BPL family, she was eligible and entitled to be appointed on compassionate grounds under Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme. She has placed on record copy of BPL certificate and certificate of income below Rs. 10,500/- per annum as Annexures R-6/A and R-6/B. Respondent No. 6 has also alleged concealment of material facts by petitioner by stating that petitioner is working as cook under Mid Day Meal Scheme in the same school, i.e. Government Primary School, Tipp. Respondent No. 6 has also clarified in reply that she was not only recipient of amount of compensation under Workmen Compensation Act on account of death of her husband, but it was disbursed amongst all dependents of deceased and share of respondent No. 6 in joint holding is meager one. It is also alleged that to the contrary, Sh. Braham Dass father-in-law of the petitioner being an ex-serviceman is receiving substantially handsome amount of pension.

12. Petitioner has not preferred to file rejoinder and also averments of replying respondents No. 1 to 4 and 6 have been otherwise rebutted Learned counsel for petitioner has also relied upon judgment dated 15.5.2015 passed by Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 7498 of 2014, titled as Mangla Devi Vs. State of H.P. and others, vide which Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme has been quashed and set aside being ultra virus and thus he has prayed for quashing and setting aside the appointment of respondent No. 6, made exercising power under Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme.

13. In judgment rendered by Division Bench in CWP No. 7498 of 2014 Clause/Rule 12 of Scheme has been struck down by declaring it ultra virus. In present case petitioner has not challenged the vires of clause/rule 12 of the Scheme, rather has claimed right under the same Clause/Rule 12 itself and clause/rule 12 of the Scheme was struck down on May 15, 2015 without any direction with respect to appointments made before striking down of the said Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme as all appointments made prior to 15.5.2015 under this clause/Rule were neither in question in that petition nor the candidates appointed prior to the said date were party before the Court. Therefore, candidates appointed under Clause/Rule 12 of Scheme prior to striking down of the said Clause/Rule will not be liable to be ousted automatically or otherwise on the basis of ratio laid down by the Division Bench in judgment referred supra, unless their appointments are assailed on that ground.

14. In present case, petitioner herself is banking upon provisions of Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme. Therefore, striking down of Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme is not advantageous to her, rather it has adverse effect on her claim as except claiming her entitlement for appointment under provisions of Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme, there is no other ground for her appointment to the post of PTWC against which respondent No. 6 has been appointed.

15. Respondent No. 6 is serving till date and concealment of appointment of petitioner as Mid Day Meal worker has also not been disputed. At the time of appointment of respondent No. 6 Clause/Rule 12 of Scheme was in force and she was considered and found within criteria fixed for appointment under the said Clause/Rule. It is admitted fact that respondent No. 6 is widow and she has also placed on record BPL certificate Annexure P-6/A and Income Certificate Annexure P-6/B, whereas petitioner, though, has claimed her belonging to below poverty line family but no document substantiating her claim has been placed on record. Petitioner has not questioned power of respondent-State to appoint a candidate under Clause/Rule 12 of Scheme but has claimed her right for appointment in exercise of power under Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme.

16. In view of above discussion, present petition, being devoid of merits is dismissed, along with pending application(s), if any.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and others .....Respondents

CWP No. 6472 of 2014
Decided on : November 29, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for the post of PGT English along with other candidates – respondent No.5 was selected – petitioner claimed that marks were wrongly awarded to respondent No.5 – held, that as per the communication made by Secretary, Gram Panchayat and Revenue Authorities, respondent No.5 is not a permanent resident of patwar circle – 10 marks were wrongly awarded to him- writ petition allowed – appointment of respondent No.5 set aside and respondent/State directed to offer appointment to the petitioner.

(Para-4 to 13)

For the petitioner : Mr. K.C. Sankhyan, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General for respondents No.1 to 3.
Respondents No.4 and 5 ex parte.
Mr. Rajinder Singh Dogra, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of present petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, petitioner has prayed for following main reliefs:

"i) That the selection and appointment of respondent No.5 Sh. Paras Ram as PGT (Eng) SMC issued vide order dated 18th July,2014 (Annexure P-9) may kindly be quashed and set aside and the respondents may kindly be directed to appoint the petitioner as PGT(Eng) under SMC Govt. SSS Gadagussain, Distt. Mandi forthwith.

ii). That the respondents particularly respondent No. Director, Hr.Edu. HP Shimla be directed to conduct detailed enquiry into the matter and panelize the respondent concerned for the act of commission & omission in deliberately ignoring the petitioner for her appointment."

2. Briefly stated the facts, as emerge from record are that the School Management Committee of Government Senior Secondary School Gadagussain (in short, 'SMC') advertised one post of PGT (English) as per "policy to engage Teacher(s) through the School Management Committee purely on period basis in Elementary/Higher Education Department of Himachal Pradesh in Tribal/Difficult areas" (annexure P-6 dated 17.7.2012). Petitioner being eligible candidate also applied for the post of PGT (English) on SMC basis for GSSS Gadagussain alongwith other fourteen candidates. As per record, interview was conducted on 26.6.2014 by respondents No.2 and 3, wherein eight candidates including petitioner and respondent No.5 appeared. On the basis of aforesaid interview held on 26.6.2014, SMC declared result on 18.7.2014, wherein respondent No.5 was declared selected. After the selection of respondent No.5, petitioner procured copy of appointment letter issued in favour of respondent No.5 and also the result sheet of the interview held on 26.6.2014, under Right to Information Act. On the perusal of result sheet procured by the petitioner under Right to Information Act, petitioner came to know that respondent No5. has been given 10 marks being permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain, whereas respondent No.5 was permanent resident of village Pattan, Mohal Seraj, Tehsil Banjar, District Kullu (Annexure P-7). Since respondent No. 5 was awarded 10 marks for his being permanent resident of Patwar Circle, he had procured 35.17 marks in total, whereas petitioner who was actually resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain procured 33.99 marks. As per the petitioner, if 10 marks awarded to respondent No. 5 on account of his being permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain are deducted as per policy, he could not have been at Sr. No. 1 and selected to the post of PGT (English) in the School concerned, as such, selection of respondent No. 5 deserves to be quashed and set aside being contrary to the recruitment procedure as laid down under the Policy. Petitioner, after coming to know of aforesaid illegality having been committed by the interview committee, made a representation to respondent Nos. 3 and 4 praying therein for reviewing the wrong selection but when no action was taken, he got issued a legal notice (Annexure P-11) on 7.8.2014 under Section 80 CPC, to the respondents calling upon them to review selection of respondent No.5. Since no action whatsoever, pursuant to issuance of legal notice was taken by the respondent, she was compelled to file instant writ petition before this Court.

3. Pursuant to issuance of notice by this Court, respondent No. 5 i.e. selected candidate Paras Ram, filed reply, wherein he refuted the claim of the petitioner by stating that he was also permanent resident of village Thachadhar, Gram Panchayat Thachadhar, PO Gadagussain, Sub-tehsil Balichowki, District Mandi, which falls within Patwar Circle, Gadagussain, as per certificate, annexure R-5/A. He further claimed that he was rightly awarded 10 marks on the basis of his being resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain.

4. Respondents No.1 to 4 failed to file any reply. However, during the course of hearing today, learned Deputy Advocate General, made available copy of communication sent by the Principal, Government Senior Secondary School Gadagussain, District Mandi, enclosing therein written statement/para-wise reply on behalf of respondent No.3, which is taken on record. Aforesaid communication also enclosed therewith communication dated 23.5.2015 sent by Naib Tehsildar Sub Tehsil Balichowki, and certificate issued by Gram Panchayat, Thachadhar, Development Block Seraj, Mandi, HP. Perusal of aforesaid communication/ proposed reply sent by the Principal, GSSS suggests that the matter regarding awarding of 10 marks on the basis of local Patwar Circle was taken up with the revenue authorities i.e. Naib Tehsildar/Tehsildar of the area concerned for clarification. Naib Tehsildar Balichowki District Mandi, HP and Secretary Gram Panchayat concerned, i.e. Thachadhar have clarified that Paras Ram (respondent No. 5) was not bonafide resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain. It would be apt to reproduce para-7 of the aforesaid communication /proposed reply as under:

> "7. With reference to the office letter No. EDN-H(19)B(1)-14/2012-SMC-CC dated 30-04-2015 pertaining to para No. 7 of CWP No. 6472 of 2014 the matter regarding awarding of 10 marks on the basis of local Patwar Circle was taken up with the revenue authorities i.e. Tehsildar/Naib Tehsildar of the Area concerned for clarification. The Naib Tehsildar Balichowki District Mandi (HP) and Secretary, Gram Panchayat concerned (i.e. GP Thachadhar) clarified that Sh. Paras Ram was not Bonafide resident of Patwar Circle Gadagusain Tehsil Balichowki District Mandi (HP) on the date interview (i.e. 26-06-2014) for the post of PGT English. Hence 10 marks cannot be awarded to him. The copy of letter No. NT/Balichowki/dk0dk0/2014-830 dated 23/05/2015 of the Naib Tehsildar Balichowki District Mandi (HP) and certificate issued by the Secretary of Gram Panchayat Thachadhar, are enclosed herewith for ready reference please."

5. Further perusal of communication dated 23.5.2015 of Naib Tehsildar, Sub Tehsil Bali Chowki, annexed with the communication sent by Principal, GSSS, suggests that respondent No.5, Paras Ram was not permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain till 8.5.2015 . Similarly, certificate dated 8.5.2015 suggests that the name of respondent No.5 Paras Ram son of Atma Ram, was not entered in the Parivar Register of Gram Panchayat Thachahar.

6. Perusal of annexure P-6 provides for appointment of teachers by the School Management Committee, relevant portion whereof reads as under:

> " Procedure for the appointment of a Teacher by the SMC to the educational institutions of Tribal/ difficult Areas"
> The School Management Committees of the educational Institutions located in the Tribal/Difficult areas have requested to fill up vacant posts of teachers in their schools. The Government is making all efforts to fill up all the vacant posts in the educational institutions in the State but even then some posts in the Tribal/Difficult areas remain vacant due to retirement, transfers, promotions etc. As such the studies of the students suffers badly. Keeping in view the betterment of the study of students in these areas, it has been decided by the Government to permit the School Management Committees of educational institution situated in Tribal/Difficult areas as notified by the Department of Personnel (Annexure-I), to provide the teachers against vacant post as per the clause 15 of the "Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009".

The Government hereby frames the following procedure for the appointment of teachers through the SMCs purely on period basis:

2. ...
3. ...
4. Member of the selection committee will be as under:-
    1. President SMC
    2. Head of the Institution-cum-Member Secretary of SMC
    3. Subject expert from outside the concerned Institution.
    4. Senior most Regular Teacher of the concerned Institution, (if the regular Teacher is not available, in the concerned institution, the same be called from the adjoining institution).
    5. The SMC will conduct an interview and follow distribution of Marks for evaluation during the course of Selection Process as per Annexure-II. Preference will be given to local eligible candidates."

7. Further, the scheme for evaluation of SMC's during the course of selection process suggests that 10 marks can be awarded to a candidate on account of his/her being permanent resident of Patwar Circle, where School is located. In this regard relevant portion of the scheme providing for Distribution of Marks* for evaluation of SMCs during the course of Selection Process, is reproduced herein below:

8. Perusal of clause 8 (b) suggests that 10 marks can only be awarded to those candidates, who are permanent residents of concerned Patwar Circle where higher/senior secondary school is situated. In the present case, as emerges from record, respondent No.5 was not permanent resident of concerned Patwar Circle Gadagussain and as such he could not be awarded 10 marks on account of his being permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain where School was located. In the instant case, perusal of annexure P-10 (result sheet) suggests that respondent No.5 was awarded 10 marks for being permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain, as a result of which he secured 35.17 marks in total, whereas petitioner secured 33.99 marks in total.

9. By way of present petition, petitioner claimed that if 10 marks wrongly awarded to respondent No.5 under aforesaid head are deducted, she comes at Sr. No.1 of merit list and deserves to be appointed as PGT (English).

10. It duly stands proved on record that respondent No.5 was wrongly awarded 10 marks on account of his being permanent resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain because, admittedly, at that time, he was not the resident of Patwar Circle Gadagussain. As such, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that he was wrongly awarded 10 marks.

11. In view of detailed discussion herein above, present petition is allowed and appointment order of respondent No.5 (annexure P-9 dated 18.7.2014, as PGT (English) in Government Senior Secondary School Gadagussain on period basis is hereby quashed and set aside. Respondent-State is directed to offer appointment as PGT (English) in Government Senior Secondary School Gadagussain to the petitioner., who was next in merit.

12. Pending applications are disposed of.

D.K. Yadav vs J.M.A. Industries Ltd reported in 1993 (3) SCC 259

For the petitioner : Ms. Taman Rana and Ms. Kiran Bala, vice Counsel.

For the respondents : Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of present petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, petitioner has prayed for following main reliefs:

> "(a) to issue a writ of certiorari or direction in nature thereof, quashing, quashing the impugned award dated 01/10/2010 being Annexure P-4 of the writ petition, as unconstitutional and illegal and contrary to the law;
> (b) to issue a writ of mandamus, appropriate writ, order or direction in nature thereof, directing the respondent to re-engage the petitioner with full back wages wef illegal termination of services alongwith interest on the arrears @ 18% pa;
> (c) to issue an appropriate writ, order or direction in nature thereof to give full justice to the petitioners in the circumstances of the case and may pass such further writ, order or orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit, proper, just and expedient in the circumstances of the case;"

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that petitioner was initially engaged as daily wager with effect from 3.10.1998 at Rohnat. He further claimed that he worked for 240 days in each calendar year, prior to his alleged termination. One Shri Bir Singh filed an Original Application before the Hon'ble Tribunal i.e. OA No. 2604/1999 wherein petitioner was impleaded as respondent No.5. Since Bir Singh in his Original Application claimed that the present petitioner, who was junior to him, has been retained, department, in order to defeat the claim of the applicant Bir Singh, also disengaged his services being junior without complying with the mandatory provisions of law. Petitioner being aggrieved, filed an OA No. 2968/2000 titled Narain Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others before the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal. The learned Tribunal vide order dated 30.11.2000, held his disengagement to be void ab initio and directed to re-engage the petitioner in the same capacity at the same place or in the vicinity where the work was available, with the direction that his services may not be disengaged save and except in accordance with law. Pursuant to aforesaid direction issued by the Tribunal, Department re-engaged the petitioner. Petitioner further claimed that the respondents solely with a view to harass him, repeatedly called him to join duties but at no point of time, he was allowed to mark his attendance so as to deprive him from claiming regularization in future. Petitioner also claimed that the department had been giving fictional breaks in service and ultimately in August, 2006, his services were disengaged without resorting to statutory provisions of Industrial Disputes Act, despite the fact that he had completed 240 days in a calendar year. Petitioner claimed that since his services were disengaged in violation of provisions of Sections 25F, 25G and 25H of Industrial Disputes Act, he deserves to be reinstated with all consequential benefits. Petitioner raised industrial dispute before appropriate Government, which in turn made following reference to the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, for adjudication:

> "Whether the termination of services of Shri Narain Singh S/o Shri Singhe Ram workman by the Divisional Forest Officer, Forest Division, Renukaji, District Sirmour, HP w.e.f. 1.8.2006 without complying the provisions o the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is proper and justified? If not, what relief of back wages, seniority, pas service benefits and amount of compensation, the above aggrieved workman is entitled to?

3. Respondent-State, by way of filing reply, contested the aforesaid claim of the petitioner-workman (hereinafter, 'workman') by stating that during October, 1998, petitioner was engaged as a seasonal/casual worker and one Bir Singh filed OA No. 2604/1999. But the respondents specifically denied that the services of the petitioner were disengaged with a view to defeat the claim of Bir Singh, who had filed aforesaid Original Application. Department further refuted the claim of the petitioner that he had completed 240 days in each calendar year except 1999. Rather, respondents claimed that pursuant to the direction passed by the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, in OA No. 2968/2000, filed by the petitioner, he was re-engaged but he himself left the job and as such there was no occasion for them to resort to the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act before disengaging the petitioner. Learned Industrial Tribunal, on the basis of material on record, came to the conclusion that the petitioner has miserably failed to prove that after his re-engagement upon order of Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, his services were again disengaged/ terminated in the month of August, 2006. Learned Tribunal below further came to the conclusion that it is abundantly clear from the Man Day's chart that in the year 1998, petitioner worked for 89 days, in 1999 for 256 days and in 2000 for 191 days and for 3 days in 2001 (July), as such respondents were not required to comply with the provisions of Section 25 of the Act. Learned Tribunal below also came to the conclusion that the Department has been able to prove on record that the workman himself left the job and as such there was no such requirement of resorting to the provisions of Section 25 of the Act, as claimed by the petitioner. Petitioner being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid findings recorded by the Learned Tribunal below vide Award date 1.10.2010, preferred the present petition, praying therein for the main reliefs as have been reproduced herein above.

4. It is ample clear from the Award passed by the learned Tribunal below that dispute prior to 30.10.2001 raised by the petitioner qua his disengagement of his services was adjudicated by the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal by holding the disengagement to be void ab initio in OA No. 2968/2000, filed by the petitioner and as such Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court was only required to adjudicate whether termination of services of petitioner by Divisional Forest Officer, Renukaji, with effect from 1.8.2006 without complying Section 25 of the Industrial Disputes Act, is legal or not. Petitioner before the learned Tribunal below claimed that his services were disengaged by the respondent in August, 2006 without complying the provisions of the Act ibid and as such his disengagement deserves to be quashed and set aside. Petitioner claimed before Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court that pursuant to order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal in OA No. 2968/2000, he was called for duty but his attendance was not marked.

5. Respondents, by way of written statement, refuted the aforesaid claim of the petitioner and claimed that consequent to order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal on 30.11.2000, services of petitioner were re-engaged but he himself abandoned the job.

6. It emerges from the impugned award that no documentary evidence worth the name was placed on record by the petitioner in support of his claim that his services were disengaged in contravention of the provisions of the Act ibid and that in the preceding calendar months i.e. before the date of termination, he had completed 240 days. Perusal of impugned award suggests that the petitioner tendered affidavit Ext. PA and copy of order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal Ext. PB, wherein admittedly he did not file any Man Days chart to demonstrate that he had worked till August, 2006, when his services were terminated by the respondents without resorting to the provisions of the Act. Learned Tribunal below also observed that no steps were taken by the petitioner to get relevant record summoned from the Department, with a view to substantiate that he had worked till August, 2006 and that in every calendar year, he had completed 240 days. It is settled law that burden of proof lies on the workman to show that he has worked continuously for 240 days in the preceding year and in this regard, workman is/was under obligation to adduce positive documentary evidence apart from examining himself to prove the factum of his being in service. In this regard, reliance is placed upon Relip Nagarpalika Vs. Babuji Gabhaji Thalore and others reported in 2009 (120) FLR 1007.

7. Respondents have examined RW-1 Vijay Pal, who has categorically stated that petitioner had never completed 240 days in any calendar year and in support of their claim, they produced Man Days chart Ext. RA. Perusal of Man Days chart suggests that the petitioner has worked for 89 days in 1998, 256 days in 1999 and 151 days in 2000 and 3 days in July 2001. It further suggests that prior to the illegal, termination of petitioner, as claimed by him, he has worked for 3 days that too in July 2001. Since the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal had ordered for re-engagement of petitioner vide order dated 30.11.2000, this Court sees no force in the contention put forth by the petitioner that though he was re-engaged but was not allowed to mark his presence in the attendance register. Learned Tribunal below rightly concluded that had the petitioner been attending his duties, and his attendance was not marked, he could have complained to the higher officers or could file contempt petition before the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal for non-compliance of order dated 30.11.2000. Similarly, it can not be believed that the petitioner kept on working till 2006 from 2001 without there being any payment of wages to him. Perusal of Ext. RA, Man Days chart clearly suggests that the petitioner has not actually worked after 2001 and he only worked for 3 days in July 2001.

8. In view of above, this Court sees no illegality in the findings recorded by the learned Tribunal below that since petitioner failed to prove on record that he had completed 240 days in a calendar year preceding the date of termination, there was no requirement for the Department to resort to the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act before disengaging the petitioner.

9. As far as plea of abandonment having been taken by respondent is concerned, same needs to be examined. Undisputedly, as emerges from impugned award, while refuting claim of the petitioner, specific stand of the department before learned Tribunal below was that the petitioner was re-engaged pursuant to order dated 30.11.2000 passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal in OA No. 2968/2000, filed by the petitioner. Respondents further claimed that pursuant to his re-engagement, petitioner only worked for 3 days in July 2001 and thereafter he, himself, abandoned the job and as such there was no requirement for the Department to issue notice under Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act. This Court, while deciding issue with regard to non-compliance of provisions of Industrial Disputes Act, especially in view of plea taken by the petitioner that he had complete 240 days in preceding calendar year, examined entire evidence led on record by both the parties, perusal whereof nowhere suggests that any evidence was led on record by the respondent-State in support of their claim of abandonment of job by the petitioner. Though this Court, after perusing evidence available on record, is satisfied and convinced that the workman had only worked for 3 days in 2001 after his re-engagement pursuant to order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, but there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that before allegedly terminating services of the workman on account of his having abandoned the job, respondents at any point of time, issued notice specifically calling upon the workman to explain why his services may not be dispensed with since he has failed to join his duties. Respondents categorically, in their reply before learned Tribunal below stated that the petitioner himself abandoned the job and as such there was no requirement of issuance of notice in terms of Industrial Disputes Act before terminating his services but as has been discussed above, this Court was unable to lay hand on any document suggestive of the fact that respondent issued communication/notice, if any, asking/advising the workman to join duty, failing which he would be inviting termination.

It is settled law that plea of abandonment taken by employer may not be sufficient to prove abandonment, rather it is necessary for the employer to place on record that specific notice was issued to the workman before alleged abandonment asking the workman to join duty within a stipulated period. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by Bombay High Court in case titled Ocean Creations Vs. Manohar Gangaram Kamble 2013 SCC Online Bom 1537:2014)140 FLR 725. It is profitable to reproduce paras No.8,9 and 10 of the judgment herein:-

> "8. The legal position is also settled that 'abandonment or relinquishment of service' is always a question of intention and normally such intention cannot be attributed to an employee without adequate evidence in that behalf. This is a question of fact which is to be determined in the light of surrounding circumstances of each case. It is well settled that even in case of abandonment of service, unless the service conditions make special provisions to the contrary, employer has to give notice to the workman calling upon him to resume duties and where he fails to resume duties, to hold an enquiry before terminating services on such ground.

9. In somewhat similar circumstances a Division Bench of this court comprising P.B.Sawant, J.(as he then was) and V.V.Vaze, J. in the case of Gaurishanker Vishwakarma v. Engle Spring Industries Pvt. Lted. Observed thus:

> ".....it is now well settled that even in the case of the abandonment of service, the employer has to give a notice to the workman calling upon him to resume his duty and also to hold an enquiry before terminating his service on that ground. In the present case the employer has done neither. It was for the employer to prove that the workman had abandoned the service..... It is therefore difficult to believe that the workman who had worked continuously for six to seven years, would abandon his service for no rhyme or reason. It has also to be remembered that it was the workman who had approached the Government Labour Officer with a specific grievance that he was not allowed to join his duty. It was also his grievance that although he had approached the company for work from time to time, and the company's partner Anand had kept on promising him that he would be taken in service, he was not given work and hence he was forced to approach the Government Labour Officer. In the circumstances, it is difficult to believe that he would refuse the offer of work when it was given to him before the Labour Officer...."

10. Again a learned Single Judge of this court R.M.Lodha, J(as he then was) in the case of Mahamadsha Ganishah Patel v. Mastanbaug Consumers' Co-op. Wholesale & Retail Stores Ltd. Observed thus:-

> "....The legal position is almost settled that even in the case of abandonment of service, the employer has to give notice to the employee calling upon him to resume his duty. If the employee does not turn up despite such notice, the employer should hold inquiry on that ground and then passs appropriate order of termination. At the time when employment is scarce, ordinarily abandonment of service by employee cannot be presumed. Moreover, abandonment of service is always a matter of intention and such intention in the absence of supportable evidence cannot be attributed to the employee. It goes without saying that whether the employee has abandoned the service or not is always a question of fact which has to be adjudicated on the basis of evidence and attending circumstances. In the present case employer has miserably failed to discharge the burden by leading evidence that employee abandoned service. The Labour Court has considered this aspect, and, in my view rightly reached the conclusion that the employer has failed to establish any abandonment of service and it was a clear case of termination. The termination being illegal, the Labour Court did not commit any error in holding the act of employer as unfair labour practice under Item-I, Schedule IV of the MRTU & PULP Act....."

10. Apex Court in D.K. Yadav vs J.M.A. Industries Ltd reported in 1993 (3) SCC 259, has held that it is fundamental rule that no decision must be taken, which will affect right of any person without first being informed of the case and giving him/her opportunity of putting forward his/her case. An order involving civil consequences must be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. The Apex Court has held as under:

> "9. It is a fundamental rule of law that no decision must be taken which will affect the right of any person without first being informed of the case and be given him/ her an opportunity of putting forward his/her case. An order involving civil consequences must be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. In Mohinder Singh Gill & Anr. v. The Chief Election Commissioner & Ors. [1978] 2 SCR 272 at 308F the Constitution Bench held that 'civil consequence' covers infraction of not merely property or personal right but of civil liberties, material deprivations and non- pecuniary damages. In its comprehensive connotion every thing that affects a citizen in his civil life inflicts a civil consequence. Black's Law Dictionary, 4th Edition, page 1487 defined civil rights are such as belong to every citizen of the state or country they include rights capable of being enforced or redressed in a civil action. In State of Orissa v. Dr. (Miss) Binapani Dei & Ors., this court held that even an administrative order which involves civil consequences must be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. The person concerned must be informed of the case, the evidence in support thereof supplied and must be given a fair opportunity to meet the case before an adverse decision is taken. Since no such opportunity was given it was held that superannuation was in violation of principles of natural justice.

10. In State of West Bengal v. Anwar Ali Sarkar [1952] SCR 289, per majority, a seven Judge bench held that the rule of procedure laid down by law comes as much within the purview of Art. 14 of the Constitution as any rule of substantive law. In Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India,. [1978] 2 SCR 62 1, another bench of seven judges held that the substantive and procedural laws and action taken under them will have to pass the test under Art, 14. The test of reason and justice cannot be abstract. They cannot be divorced from the needs of the nation. The tests have to be pragmatic otherwise they would cease to he reasonable. The procedure prescribed must be just, fair and reasonable even though there is no specific provision in a statute or rules made thereunder for showing cause against action proposed to be taken against an individual, which affects the right of that individual. The duty to give reasonable opportunity to be heard will be implied from the nature of the function to be performed by the authority which has the power to take punitive or damaging action. Even executive authorities which take administrative action involving any deprivation of or restriction on inherent fundamental rights of citizens, must take care to see that justice is not only done but manifestly appears to be done. They have a duty to proceed in a way which is free from even the appearance of arbitrariness, unreasonableness or unfairness. They have to act in a manner which is patently impartial and meets the requirements of natural justice."

11. Apex Court has further concluded that the management had power under Clause 13 of the Certified Standing Order to terminate the services of the appellant but principles of natural justice must be read into with the Standing Order, otherwise it would become arbitrary, unjust, unfair and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court has held as under:

"15. In this case admittedly no opportunity was given to the appellant and no enquiry was held. The appellant's plea put forth at the earliest was that despite his reporting to duty on December 3, 1980 and on all subsequent days and readiness to join duty he was prevented to report to duty, nor he be permitted to sign the attendance register. The Tribunal did not record any conclusive finding in this behalf. It concluded that the management had power under Cl. 13 of the certified Standing Orders to terminate with the service of the appellant. Therefore, we hold that the principles of natural justice must be read into the standing order No. 13 (2) (iv). Otherwise it would become arbitrary. unjust and unfair violating Arts. 14. When so read the impugned action is violative of the principles of natural justice.

16. This conclusion leads us to the question as to what relief the appellant is entitled to. The management did not conduct any domestic enquiry nor given the appellant any opportunity to put forth his case. Equally the appellant is to blame himself for the impugned action. Under those circumstances 50 per cent of the back wages would meet the ends of justice. The appeal is accordingly allowed. The award of the Labour Court is set aside and the letter dated December 12, 1980 of the management is quashed. There shall be a direction to the respondent to reinstate the appellant forthwith and pay him back wages within a period of three months from the date of the receipt of this order. The appeal is allowed accord- ingly. The parties would bear their own costs."

12. In the instant case, as has been mentioned above, no evidence, be it ocular or documentary, has been led on record by the respondents in support of their claim that petitioner himself abandoned job, whereas petitioner in his claim petition specifically alleged that after his re-engagement in the year 2001, he was not allowed to mark his attendance. In the judgment referred to herein above, it has been repeatedly held that abandonment of service is a matter of intention and such intention in the absence of supportive evidence, can not be attributed to the employee. Whether the employee has abandoned service, is a question of fact which needs to be adjudicated on the basis of evidence. In the present case, respondents have failed to discharge the burden by leading evidence that employee abandoned service and as such respondents failed to establish abandonment of service and it is clear cut case of termination.

13. In the instant case, it may be noticed that petitioner was initially engaged by the respondents as daily wager in 1998 i.e. 3.10.1998. He kept on working as daily wager till his disengagement. On 30.11.2000, Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal passed interim order in OA No. 2968/2000 directing the respondents to re-engage the workman in the same capacity and same place and vide order dated 30.10.2001, disposed of Original Application by affirming interim order and by holding termination of workman void ab initio, learned Administrative Tribunal vide aforesaid order, also directed to count period served by him in view of interim order for the purpose of seniority, meaning thereby petitioner was held entitled to seniority with effect from initial engagement i.e. 3.10.1998. Since respondents never assailed order dated 30.10.2001 passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, it attained finality, meaning thereby that petitioner rightly claimed benefit of re-instatement alongwith all consequential benefits by way of claim before the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court.

14. Consequently, in view of aforesaid discussion, this Court sees force in the contention put forth on behalf of the workman that he never abandoned job after his reinstatement pursuant to order passed by Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal and impugned award passed by the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court deserves to be quashed and set aside.

15. Accordingly, in view of detailed discussion as well as law discussed herein above, impugned award dated 1.10.2010 passed by learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla in Reference No. 39 of 2009 is set aside. Respondents are directed to reinstate the workman from the date of termination, with seniority and continuity in service, but without back wages.

16. Pending applications are disposed of.

State of Himachal Pradesh. .....Respondent.

Date of decision: 29th November, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- An FIR was registered for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 506 read with Section 34 of I.P.C – the police sought cancellation of FIR – the Court ordered the cancellation of the FIR with liberty to file a private complaint- held, that after the cancellation of FIR, filing of criminal complaint would amount to abuse of the process of the Court – order set aside and case remanded to the Trial Court with a direction to decide the same afresh. (Para-2 to 4)

For the petitioner: Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral).

Complaint herein is that learned trial Court vide impugned order dated 03.09.2015, Annexure P-4 has went wrong while ordering the cancellation of FIR No. 173/14 registered against her husband and his relations under Section 498-A, 506 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code in Police Station, Manali, District Kullu, H.P.

2. The petitioner herein is the complainant in FIR, Annexure P-1. She was married to accused Vinay Kumar as per Hindu Rites and Customs. She, however, later on was turned out from the matrimonial home allegedly after being tortured by her husband and his relations at the pretext of demand of dowry. At her instance, FIR, Annexure P-1 was registered against her husband Vinay Kumar and his father Kashmir Singh. The police on completion of the investigation has filed the report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and sought thereby cancellation of the FIR. The petitioner-complainant was summoned and associated by the Court below before passing the impugned order, Annexure P-4 qua cancellation of the FIR.

3. The perusal of impugned order reveals that FIR was ordered to be cancelled and liberty reserved to the complainant to file private complaint, if so advised. As a matter of fact, no such order could have been passed nor in view of the FIR already registered in the matter, the liberty in favour of the petitioner-complainant to file a criminal complaint could have been reserved, because in view of the cancellation of FIR any criminal complaint filed afresh would amount to abuse of process of the Court. The appropriate course available to learned trial Court was to have taken on record any other and further details pertaining to the occurrence and it is thereafter the matter considered afresh for passing an appropriate and reasoned order. In the event of any other details qua occurrence furnished by the petitioner-complainant to have considered the same while passing the order qua cancellation of FIR or otherwise in the cancellation report. In the event of any substance find out in the additional material/details if so furnished by the petitioner-complainant the matter could have been returned to the investigating agency for conducting further investigation in terms of the provisions contained under Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The impugned order, in the considered opinion of this Court, is, therefore, not legally sustainable and as such, quashed and set aside. Learned trial Court to decide the fate of cancellation report afresh after affording opportunity of being heard to the petitioner-complainant and in the light of material/details if any furnished by her in the trial Court. The parties through learned counsel representing them are directed to appear in the trial Court on 30th December, 2016. The record be sent back along with a copy of this judgment so as to reach in the trial Court well before the date fixed.

4. The petition is according allowed and stands disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellant-defendant (hereinafter referred to as the `defendant') against the judgment and decree dated 17.9.2007, passed by learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Una, District Una, H.P. affirming the judgment and decree dated 8.9.2000, passed by learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Court No.II, Amb, District Una, H.P., whereby the suit filed by the respondents-plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as the `plaintiffs') for declaration with permanent injunction and in the alternative suit for possession was partly decreed and they were declared joint owners in possession of suit land i.e. land measuring 2-19-70 Hects being 1/3rd share out of land measuring 6-59-11 Hects comprised in Khewat No.72, Khatauni No.131 to 134 and at present Khasra Nos.897, 900, 904, 909, 1197, 1558, 1684, 896, 905, 907, 1205, 1207, 1208, 895, 896/1, 906, 908, 1198, 1199, 898, 899, 901 to 903, 1203 and 1204 as entered in the Missalhaquiat Settlement for the year 1988-89, situated in village Pirthipur, Tehsil Amb, District Una, H.P. except the land measuring 0-56-74 Hects being 1/3rd share out of land measuring 1-70-22 Hects as it has been sold by Hari Singh to defendant vide sale deeds Ex.D-1 and Ex.D-3 to the extent of 1/5th share each and defendant was restrained from ousting the plaintiffs from joint possession, raising any construction till partition.

2. Briefly stated facts, as emerged from the record, are that the respondent-plaintiff Sheela Devi filed a suit for declaration to the effect that land measuring 2-76-44 Hects., description whereof has been given in the head-note of the plaint, situated in village Pirthipur, Tehsil Amb, District Una, H.P. is jointly owned and possessed by the parties to the extent of 1/5th share each, and mutation Nos.35 and 75, dated 21.10.1991 of the estate of Shri Hari Singh son of Shri Jallu deceased exclusively in the name of defendant No.1 are absolutely, wrong, false, frivolous, baseless, illegal, at the back of the plaintiff, null and void and confer no valid title on the defendant No.1, consequential suit for issuance of permanent injunction restraining defendant No.1 from ousting the plaintiff from joint possession, raising any construction, transferring or alienating the suit land in any manner till partition, in the alternative suit for joint possession. Plaintiffs averred in the plaint that the suit land was owned and possessed by Hari Singh son of Shri Jallu and he died intestate leaving behind the parties i.e. plaintiff and defendants who succeeded him after his death and are joint owners in possession of the same. Plaintiff claimed that defendant No.1, who is a headstrong and influential lady, in connivance with the revenue staff got sanctioned mutation Nos.34 and 75 dated 21.10.1991 from Assistant Collector 2nd Grade exclusively in her name as the successor of deceased Hari Singh. Plaintiff further claimed that at the time of sanctioning of aforesaid mutations, she was never informed and as such, these mutations are wrong, illegal, baseless as Hari Singh died intestate and after his death all the parties are entitled to succeed him. Plaintiff further claimed that despite there being several requests, defendant No.1 refused to admit her claim as a result of which she filed suit for declaration to the effect that the suit land is jointly owned and possessed by the parties to the extent of 1/5th share each.

3. Defendant No.1, by way of filing written statement, refuted the claim of the plaintiffs on the ground of maintainability and estoppel. On merits defendant claimed that her late father Shri Hari Singh was residing with her and she was looking after him. She further claimed that Shri Hari Singh sold some portion of the suit land to her as the plaintiffs had refused to look after him and to take his property. Defendant No.1 further averred that since the deceased was living with her, he, out of love and affection, disposed of whole of his property in favour of defendant No.1 by way of registered Will dated 9.3.1990. Defendant No.1 further averred that the Will was executed with the consent of the plaintiffs, but the plaintiffs at the instance of one Duni Chand, who intended to purchase the suit property, filed this suit against defendant No.1. In the aforesaid background the defendant sought dismissal of the suit.

4. By way of replication, the plaintiffs, while denying the allegations made in the written statement, reaffirmed the averments made in the plaint and controverted the contrary averments made in the written statement. It is specifically averred by the plaintiffs that there is neither any such sale deed nor Will which was ever executed by late Shri Hari Singh in favour of the defendant during his life.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues for determination:-

"1. Whether the suit land is owned and possessed by the parties as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of injunction as prayed for? OPP.

3. Whether deceased Hari Singh executed a valid Will dated 9.3.1990 in favour of defendant as alleged? OPD.

4. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped to file this suit by their acts and conduct? OPD.

6. Relief."

6. Subsequently, vide judgment and decree dated 8.9.2000 learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs declaring the parties to the suit joint owners in possession of the suit land to the extent of 1/5th share each except the land which was sold by Hari Singh to defendant No.1 vide sale deeds Ex.D-1 and Ex.D-3.

7. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, defendant preferred an appeal before the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Una, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.192/2K RBT 153/04/2000, but fact remains that appeal preferred by the defendant was dismissed as a result of which judgment and decree passed by the trial Court came to be upheld. Hence, present Regular Second Appeal has been preferred by the defendant praying therein for setting aside the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below.

8. This Court vide order dated 9.11.2010 admitted the appeal on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the learned courts below were correct in accepting the validity ofthe execution of the sale deed Ext.D-1 and out-rightly rejecting the validity and authenticity of the registered Will i.e. Ext.D-2 when the same were executed in the same circumstances?
> 2. Whether the learned courts below could have ignored the due registration of the Will Ext.D-2 wherein the marginal witnesses had clearly identified the status of testator before Sub Registrar?"

9. Shri Subhash Sharma, learned counsel appearing for the appellant-defendant, vehemently argued that judgments passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable and same are not based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties as well as law and as such same deserve to be quashed and set aside. While referring to the judgments passed by both the Courts below, Mr.Sharma forcefully contended that bare perusal of the same suggests that evidence led on record by the defendant was not appreciated in its right perspective. Rather, judgments are based upon conjectures and surmises and as such same cannot be allowed to sustain. Mr.Sharma further argued that bare perusal of evidence led on record by the defendant would go to show that defendants were able to prove on record by leading cogent and convincing evidence that deceased Hari Singh had executed a Will bequeathing his entire property in favour of defendant. With a view to substantiate his aforesaid arguments, he invited the attention of this Court to the depositions made by defendant witnesses to demonstrate that all the defendant witnesses in no uncertain terms stated that Will in question was duly executed by late Shri Hari Singh in favour of defendant and as such judgment which is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record deserves to be quashed and set aside. Mr.Sharma further argued that being a propounder of Will defendant No.1 discharged his onus by proving on record that Will in question was executed by late Shri Hari Singh in sound and disposing state of mind bequeathing his entire property in favour of defendant No.1, but despite that Courts below returned erroneous findings as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the defendant. While referring to the statement of DW-1, who is deed writer, Mr.Sharma stated that Court below itself appreciated his statement because bare perusal of statement suggests that two documents i.e. sale deed, Ex.D-1 and Will Ex.D-2 have been written on the direction of deceased Shri Hari Singh and thereafter it has been read over to the executant, who upon hearing and admitting the contents to be correct, put his signatures in Urdu upon the documents and the witnesses also put their signatures on the documents. He further stated that Ex.D-3 also being a sale deed finds mention at the relevant place. He forcefully contended that both the learned Courts below have applied different yardsticks while accepting the execution of sale deed Ex.D-1 and rejecting the authenticity, if any, of Will Ex.D-2. He further stated that the Courts below have come to believe the execution of the said sale deed and at the same time have not believed the veracity of the said registered Will executed by deceased Hari Singh in favour of his daughter i.e. appellant-defendant. He stated that both the documents were duly recorded in the register maintained by DW-1 and as such there is no occasion with the learned Courts below to believe veracity of the sale deed and to disbelieve the veracity of the said registered Will. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Sharma stated that there was no suspicious circumstance, as has been held by the learned trial Court, with which Will was termed to be shrouded, rather there was overwhelming evidence available on record suggestive of the fact that Will was free from suspicion and was executed by deceased Hari Singh in sound and disposing state of mind without there being any coercion and undue influence. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Sharma, prayed for acceptance of appeal after setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the Courts below.

10. Mr.N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondents-plaintiffs, supported the judgment passed by both the Courts below. Mr.Thakur, vehemently argued that bare perusal of the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below suggests that the same are based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record and there is no scope, whatsoever, of interference of this Court. While referring to the judgment passed by both the Courts below, Mr.Thakur argued with full vehemence that bare perusal of impugned judgments suggest that both the Courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter meticulously and as such there is no scope, whatsoever, to re-appreciate the evidence especially in view of concurrent findings of fact and law recorded by both the Courts below. While refuting the contention put forth on behalf of the learned counsel representing the appellant-defendant that there is total misreading and mis-appreciation of evidence, Mr.Thakur invited the attention of the Court to the evidence led on record by the respective parties to demonstrate that at no point of time defendant was able to prove on record byleading cogent and convincing evidence that Will Ex.D-2 was duly executed by deceased Shri Hari Singh. At this stage he invited the attention of this Court to the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of Indian Evidence Act to demonstrate that it was incumbent upon the defendant being propounder of the Will to cite either of two marginal witnesses as a witness in support of valid execution of Will. He contended that it is undisputed that no marginal witness was cited as a witness in support of Will Ex.D-2 and as such there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by both the Courts below.

11. Mr.Thakur, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondents-plaintiffs, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below and vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the fact that both the Courts below have meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. He also urged that scope of interference by this Court is very limited especially when two Courts have recorded concurrent findings on the facts as well as law. In this regard, to substantiate his aforesaid plea, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

13. Keeping in view the text and nature of the substantial questions of law reproduced hereinabove, this Court would be taking up both the questions together for consideration. During proceedings of the case, this Court had an occasion to peruse the impugned judgments as well as evidence led on record, be it ocular or documentary, by respective parties, perusal whereof nowhere suggests that there is any illegality and infirmity in the judgments passed by both the Courts below, rather same appear to be based upon correct appreciation of evidence led on record by the respective parties. However, this Court, solely with a view to explore the answer to the aforesaid substantial questions of law, criticallyanalysed the evidence on record.

14. In the instant case, plaintiff Smt.Sheela Devi filed a suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction that suit land, as described above, is jointly owned and possessed by the parties being successor of Hari Singh son of Jallu and mutation No.75, dated 21st October, 1991 exclusive in the name of defendant No.1 is baseless, wrong, frivolous, null and void. Plaintiff claimed that suit land was owned and possessed by Hari Singh and he died intestate leaving behind the parties as his successor-in-interest to succeed his moveable and immovable propertyand as such after his death they are joint owners in possession of the property, whereas, defendant, though not disputed the relationship with the plaintiff, claimed that suit land was disposed of by the deceased by way of sale deed in her favour and since she was looking after the deceased and was living with him, he (deceased Hari Singh) out of love and affection bequeathed the entire property in her favour and as such plaintiffs are not entitled to any share in the land as being claimed in the plaint. Defendant also claimed herself to be in possession of the property left by deceased by way of Will and by way of purchase.

15. Since plaintiffs claimed themselves to be the joint owners in possession of the suit land being successors of deceased Hari Singh, question which arises for consideration of this Court is, "whether findings returned by both the Courts below that Will Ex.D-1 is not a valid, legal and genuine Will of the deceased Hari Singh, is sustainable in view of the evidence adduced on record or not?" Defendant, while refuting the claim of the plaintiff set up a case that vide Will Ex.D-1 and Sale Deed Ex.D-2, deceased Hari Singh bequeathed and sold his property in her favour. She further claimed in written statement that deceased Hari Singh executed a Registered Will dated 9.3.1990, on account of love and affection, in sound and disposing state of mind, in favour of the defendant and Will was executed with the express and implied consent of the plaintiffs and the husband of plaintiff Urmila Devi was an attesting witness to the Will and the Will was executed with his consent.

16. Needless to say that law regarding nature and onus of the proof of the Will is by way of propounder and in that regard the manner, in which the evidence is required to be appreciated, has been duly prescribed in the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in H.Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others, AIR 1959 SC 443.

17. Guidelines framed in H.Venkatachala Iyengar case (supra) were further reiterated by Constitutional Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in Shashi Kumar Banerjee and Others vs. Subodh Kumar Banerjee since deceased and after him his legal representatives and others, AIR 1964 SC 529. The Court held:

> "4. The principles which govern the proving of a will are well settled; (see H. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B. N. Thimmajamma, 1959 (S1) SCR 426 : 1959 AIR(SC) 443) and Rani Purniama Devi v. Khagendra Narayan Dev, 1962 (3) SCR 195 : 1962 AIR(SC) 567). The mode of proving a will does not ordinarily differ from that of proving any other document except as to the special requirement of attestation prescribed in the case of a will by S. 63 of the Indian Succession Act. The onus of proving the will is on the propounder and in the absence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will, proof of testamentary capacity and the signature of the testator as required by law is sufficient to discharge the onus. Where however there are suspicious circumstances, the onus is on the propounder to explain them to the satisfaction of the Court before the Court accepts the will as genuine. Where the caveator alleges undue influence, fraud and coercion, the onus is on him to prove the same. Even where there are no. such pleas but the circumstances give rise to doubts, it is for the propounder to satisfy the conscience of the Court. The suspicious circumstances may be as to genuineness of the signature of the testator, the condition of the testator's mind, the dispositions made in the will being unnatural improbable or unfair in the light of relevant circumstances or there might be other indication in the will to show that the testator's mind was not free. In such a case the Court would naturally expect that all legitimate suspicion should be completely removed before the document is accepted as the last will of the testator. If the propounder himself takes part in the execution of the will which confers a substantial benefit on him, that is also a circumstance to be taken into account, and the propounder is required to remove the doubts by clear and satisfactory evidence. If the propounder succeeds in removing the suspicious circumstances the Court would grant probate, even if the will might be unnatural and might cut off wholly or in part near relations. It is in the light of these settled principles that we have to consider whether the appellants have succeeded in establishing that the will was duly executed and attested. (Page-531)

18. Though normally onus to prove the execution and validity of the Will lies upon the propounder but in case when it is alleged by the opposite party that Will is not genuine document, onus shifts on the person who alleges the Will to beforged, to prove the same.

19. In Daulat Ram and Others vs. Sodha and Others, (2005)1 SCC 40, the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

> "10. Will being a document has to be proved by primary evidence except where the Court permits a document to be proved by leading secondary evidence. Since it is required to be attested, as provided in Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, it cannot be used as evidence until one of the attesting witnesses at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence. In addition, it has to satisfy the requirements of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. In order to assess as to whether the Will has been validly executed and is a genuine document, the propounder has to show that the Will was signed by the testator and that he had put his signatures to the testament of his own free will; that he was at the relevant time in a sound disposing state of mind and understood the nature and effect of the dispositions and that the testator had signed it in the presence of two witnesses who attested it in his presence and in the presence of each other. Once these elements are established, the onus which rests on the propounder is discharged. But where there are suspicious circumstances, the onus is on the propounder to remove the suspicion by leading appropriate evidence. The burden to prove that the will was forged or that it was obtained under undue influence or coercion or by playing a fraud is on the person who alleges it to be so." (Page 43)

20. In the present case, defendant with a view to prove valid execution of the Will examined eight witnesses and placed documents Ex.D-1 to Ex.D-3 on the record. DW-1 is the scribe of the documents Ex.D-1 to D-3. DW-2 to DW-4 and DW-6 have been examined to prove the registration of Will Ex.D-2. DW-3 and DW-5 are the marginal witnesses to the sale deed Ex.D-3. DW-7 is the Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Dangoh, who was examined to prove a copy of family register Ex.DW-7/A of late Shri Hari Singh. DW-8 is the defendant herself.

21. As per defendant, Will Ex.D-2, dated 9.3.1990 was executed by late Shri Hari Singh in her favour. While perusing aforesaid documents, this Court found that there were two marginal witnesses; namely; Bal Kishan Namberdar and Hardeep Singh. But, unfortunately, none of these aforesaid marginal witnesses i.e. attesting witnesses were ever examined by the defendant as a witness in the Court to prove the execution of Will Ex.D-2. Similarly, none of the defendant witnesses, as have been detailed hereinabove, has stated anything with regard to non-citing of marginal witnesses. There is no explanation, worth the name, on record that why these marginal witnesses were not examined to prove the valid execution of Will Ex.D-2. At this stage, it would be profitable to reproduce Section 63 of the Indian Successions Act, 1925 as well as Section 68 of Indian Evidence Act:

> "Section 63 of Indian Succession Act, 1925
> "63. Execution of unprivileged Wills. —Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [12] [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules:—
> (a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.

(c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

"Section 68 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872"

"68 Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.—If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence: 1[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a Will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied.]"

22. Bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that execution of Will needs to be proved by examining at-least one of attesting witnesses. In the instant case, as has been noticed above, none of marginal witnesses i.e. Bal Kishan Namberdar and Hardeep Singh have been examined to prove the valid execution of the Will and as such Courts below rightly came to the conclusion that defendant was not able to prove on record valid execution of Will Ex.D-2.

23. Similarly, as per Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act once existence of some documents is denied, same cannot be taken into consideration in evidence unless one attesting witness is called/examined to prove the execution of the document, if alive. At the cost of repetition, it may be mentioned that there is no explanation, if any, with regard to absence of attesting witness; there is no whisper, if any, with regard to the whereabouts of the attesting witnesses. None of defendant witnesses have stated anything whether attesting witnesses were alive or not at the time of proving the same in the Court of law. Since defendant miserably failed to prove the valid execution of the Will Ex.D-2 strictly in terms of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and 68 of Indian Evidence Act, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by both the Courts below.

24. True, it is that in the case at hand defendant by way of examining scribe of the Will as well as Sub Registrar before whom the Will in question was registered and Registration Clerk, made an attempt to prove the valid execution of Will Ex.D-2, but, as has been noticed and observed above, that no marginal witness, who had appendedtheir signatures at the time of scribing of Will has been examined and as such there is no force much less substantial in the contention raised on behalf of learned counsel representing the defendant that defendant was able to prove on record, by leading cogent and convincing evidence, that the Will ExD-2 was validly executed by deceased Hari Singh.

25. As far as execution of sale deed i.e. Ex.D-1 is concerned, it emerge from the record that defendant though relied upon same set of evidence, which was applied in the case of proving the Will Ex.D-2, but in that case defendant successfully proved on record that sale deed Ex.D-1 was validly executed in her favour by deceased Shri Hari Singh.

26. DW-1 Amin Chand, while deposing in the witness box, stated that he prepared two documents, entered in his register at Sr.No.84 and 25, in favour of defendant Raj Kumari and both these documents were witnessed by two witnesses; namely; Bal Kishan and Hardeep Singh. He stated that documents i.e. sale deed Ex.D-1, Will Ex.D-2 and sale deed Ex.D-3 were written by him at the direction of executant Hari Singh. But, as has been noticed above, defendant has not examined any of the aforesaid marginal witnesses to prove the valid execution of Will Ex.D-2. He has further stated that documents Ex.D-1 and Ex.D-2 were written by him at the direction of late Shri Hari Singh (executant) and thereafter it was read-over to him and after hearing and admitting the contents of same correct, the executant put his signatures in Urdu upon the documents and the witnesses had also put their signatures on the same. He further stated that he has seen sale deed dated 19.10.1990, Ex.D-3, which was also written by him.

27. DW-2 Gurbachan Singh, Registration Clerk, deposed on oath before the Court that on document Ex.D-1, he has seen endorsement Ex.DW-2/A, which was signed by Sub-Registrar. Ex.DW-2/B and Ex.DW-2/C were also signed by Shri Ratti Ram Sharma, Registrar (Naib Tehsildar). It also emerge from the record that on the same day defendant No.1 got executed a sale deed Ex.D-1 of same land in favour of defendant from late Shri Hari Singh and both these documents i.e. sale deed Ex.D-1 and Will Ex.D-2 were executed on 9.3.1990.

28. Similarly, DW-3 Bakil Chand also deposed on oath that he was witness to tatima sale deed Ex.D-3 and he also put his signatures on the document which was also read over to them by the person who has written it. He also admitted his signatures under red circle in Ex.D-3 on endrosment Ex.DW-2/B.

29. DW-4 Shri S.L. Negi also stated that he has seen documents Ex.D-1, Ex.D-2 and Ex.D-3 and his signatures are not appearing on these documents and signatures of Ratti Ram appear on the said documents as he recognize his signatures.

30. DW-5 Renu Devi deposed on oath before the Court that she is Numberdar of village Anora. She stated that she has seen Tatima sale deed Ex.D-3 upon which she put her signatures as witness and petition writer also read-over the contents of said documents to Hari Singh and he put his signatures in Urdu upon the said documents after admitting it to becorrect. She further stated that Tehsildar also obtained the signatures of parties on the sale deed endorsement Ex.DW-2/B and Hari Singh executant also put his signatures on the same. She further admitted that police case pertaining to false identification is under trial in the Court at Dehra.

31. DW-6 Ratti Ram deposed before the Court that in the year 1990 he was posted as Naib Tehsildar-cum-Sub Registrar, Amb. Will Ex.D-2 came to him for registration on 9.3.1990 which was presented by Hari Singh testator. He further stated that Hari Singh testator was identified by witnesses Bal Kishan Numberdar and Hardeep Singh.

32. DW-2 Gurbachan Singh, Registration Clerk in the office of Sub-Registrar also stated that endorsement Ex.DW-2/A has been made by Sub Registrar, Amb and Sub-Registrar obtained the signatures of the witnesses and parties on Ex.D-1. He further stated that documents Ex.D-1 and Ex.DW-2/B and Ex.DW-2/C were signed by Shri Ratti Ram, Naib Tehsildar.

33. Conjoint reading of aforesaid evidence led on record by the defendant suggests that the defendant was able to prove on record that sale deed Ex.D-1 was registered but admittedly, as has been noticed above, defendant was not able to prove on record by way of pleadings, cogent and reliable evidence that Will Ex.D-2 in question was validly executed. At the cost of repetition it may be stated that there is non-compliance of provisions contained in Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act and as such both the Courts below rightly came to the conclusion that defendant was not able to prove on record that Will was validly executed. But if evidence led on record by defendant is read in its entirety, it stands duly proved on record that defendant was able to prove on record that sale deed Ex.D-1 was duly executed by Shri Hari Singh in her favour and same was registered with the Sub Registrar, Amb, who before registering the same, read over and explained the same to Hari Singh, who lateron appended his signatures upon the same in the presence of witnesses. Moreover, careful perusal of plaint filed by the plaintiff nowhere suggests that there was challenge, if any, to the sale deed, rather plaintiff, while terming mutation Nos. 34 and 75, dated 21.10.1991 wrong, false, frivolous has only stated that deceased Hari Singh died intestate and as such there was no occasion to enter mutation in the name of defendant. Defendant by way of written statement claimed herself to be owner of the land on the strength of sale deed Ex.D-1 and Will Ex.D-2 executed in her favour by the deceased Hari Singh.

34. This Court is fully satisfied that both the Courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in the present matter, since both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings, which otherwise appear to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence, this Court has very limited jurisdiction/scope to interfere in the matter. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the relevant contents of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma's case supra, wherein the Court has held as under:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained." (p.269)

35. As has been noticed above, it was essential for thedefendant being propouder of the Will to cite one of the marginal witness to prove the valid execution of Will in terms of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of Indian Evidence Act and requirement of law could not be overlooked or filled up solely in viewof the statement of Sub Registrar who registered the Will Ex.D-2, wherein he stated that marginal witnesses had identified the status of testator before him. Hence, in view of detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by both the Courts below.

36. In the facts and circumstances discussed above, this Court is of the view that findings returned by the trial Court below, which was further upheld by the first appellate Court, do not warrant any interference of this Court as finding given on the issues framed by the trial Court below as well as specifically taken up by this Court to reach the root of the controversy appears to be based on correct appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence, moreover, as has been discussed in detail that the defendant has not been able to make out a case to persuade this Court that document Ex.D-2 is a validly executed Will by deceased Hari Singh in sound disposing state of mind. Hence, present appeal fails and is dismissed, accordingly. Interim order, if any, is vacated. All the miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

State of Himachal Pradesh. .....Respondent.

Cr.MP(M) No. 1349 of 2016.
Date of decision: November 30, 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 323 and 506 of I.P.C – the petitioners are students, who had assaulted the members of rival students' union – held, that the violence in the University campus has become a permanent feature due to frequent fights between the members of rival unions- the petitioners have committed heinous offences and stringent conditions are required to be imposed to ensure cordial atmosphere – the petitioners are the permanent residents of Himachal Pradesh- hence, they are ordered to be released subject to conditions. (Para-6 to 13)

For the petitioners	Mr. Virender Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. Pramod Thakur, Addl. Advocate General. Mr. D.W. Negi, S.P. Shimla with Mr. ASI Ashwani Sharma, P.P., Summerhill in person.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Petitioners are accused in FIR No. 236 of 2016 registered against them and their co-accused in Police Station, West, Shimla under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 323 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. Accused-petitioner Amrish Kamal is pursuing his studies in Law department of Himachal Pradesh University, whereas accused-petitioner Jeewan Singh is a student of Tribal studies. On 1.10.2016, an information qua clash between student organizations having taken place was received in Police Post, Summerhill. The Incharge, Police Post rushed to the spot. The victim of the occurrence Shri Ashish Kumar has reported that 25-30 students belonging to Student Federation of India (SFI) who were reinstated by the University Authority only on that day assaulted the complainant and his companion with Khukri, Darat, Rods and Dandas in a planned manner and as a result therefof the members of the complainant party Pankaj Kumar, Ramesh Bisht, Praynjal Joshi, Rahul Sudan, Fakir Chand, Akshay, Vishal Verma, Deepak, Ashish and others had sustained injuries on their person. The complainant allegedly was thrown out from Y.S. Parmar hostel by the assailants. He was found to have received multiple grievous injuries on various part of his body. The accused party allegedly threatened the complainant party to do away with their lives and also proclaimed "have you forgotten past incidents". The names of the assailants were disclosed to be the co-accused of the accused-petitioners. The complainant did not disclose the name of the accused-petitioners being the assailants in the report he lodged with the police. On the basis of the report lodged by Ashish Kumar aforesaid the police has lodged the FIR and started conducting investigation in the case. The names of the assailants disclosed by the complainant in the report were arrayed as accused in the FIR.

3. During the investigation, it transpired that the accused persons after forming an unlawful assembly attacked the complainant party and had threatened to do away with their lives to achieve the common objective of the unlawful assembly. The accused-petitioners as such were arrested on the next day i.e. 2.10.2016. The injured Pankaj Kumar, Ramesh Bisht, Vishal Verma and Praynjal Joshi had disclosed the names of the accused-petitioners being also the assailants in their statements recorded on 3.10.2016. Being so, accused-petitioner Amrish Kamal was arrested on 3.10.2016, whereas accused-petitioner Jeewan Singh on 4.10.2016. They both are now lying confined in judicial custody.

4. This petition has been sought to be dismissed on the grounds, inter-alia, that the accused-petitioners are involved in the commission of a heinous crime. Also that past criminal history is in their credit as FIR No. 219/2014 was registered against accused-petitioner Amrish Kamal under Sections 143, 149 and 34 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station, Sadar Solan, whereas FIR No. 147/2016 under Sections 143 and 188 of the Indian penal Code against accused-petitioner Jeewan Singh in Police Station, Sadar Shimla. Criminal cases so registered against them are now pending disposal in the Court. It has also been urged that both accused are habitual offenders and previously also were found to have indulged in committing violence and rioting in the University campus.

5. While Mr. Thakur, learned Counsel representing the accused-petitioners has argued that the accused-petitioners are not hardened criminals and that they being the students of University were pursuing their studies sincerely may be dealt with leniently in the matter of grant of bail. Mr. Pramod Thakur, learned Additional Advocate has, however, urged that the on account of repeated incidents of violence and rioting in the University campus, it has become a great challenge to the University authorities and also the local police to maintain peace and congenial atmosphere in the University. The accused-petitioners and their companions are frequently indulging in the incidents of violence and rioting in the University campus. They have spoiled the teaching atmosphere and as a result thereof the career of other students who want to pursue their courses has been affected adversely.

6. I find considerable force in the submissions made by learned Additional Advocate General because due to frequent fights between the members of different students organizations, the violence in the University campus has become a permanent feature. This Court feels that the office bearers of various student organizations are not fighting for common cause i.e. to maintain congenial atmosphere in the University nor keeping in mind the welfare of the students and rather settling their scores with each other and perhaps at the behest of some outside forces. Being so, though to enlarge an offender like the accused-petitioners on bail, some time may amount to a misplaced sympathy, however, at the same time the Court has also to strike out balance between the magnanimity of offence allegedly committed and the liberty of a person booked as an offender in connection with the commission of such offence.

7. True it is, that the offence the accused-petitioners allegedly have committed is not only serious but heinous in nature. However, the only distinction in their case as compared to their co-accused is that the victim of the occurrence Ashish Kumar aforesaid did not disclose their names at the first available opportunity i.e. at the time of reporting the occurrence to the police of Police Post, Summerhill being also the assailants. Their names were rather disclosed by the injured witnesses Pankaj, Ramesh Bisht, Vishal Verma and Praynjal Joshi when their statements were recorded on the third day of the occurrence i.e. 3.10.2016. Undoubtedly, stringent conditions are required to be imposed upon both accused-petitioners in the event of they are admitted on bail. Order which reads as follows to this effect was passed in this application on 15.11.2016:

> "Learned Deputy Advocate General has placed on record the status report. ASP, Shimla Arjit Sen and Inspector/SHO Sanjeev Kumar, Police Station (East), Shimla have produced the record. Heard for sometime. This Court feels that in the event of the accused-petitioners are ordered to be admitted on bail, stringent conditions are required to be imposed upon them in order to ensure that there is no breach of peach in the University and teaching atmosphere is also not spoiled. Learned Counsel representing the petitioners sought adjournment to have instructions. Allowed. List on 21st November, 2016."

8. Not only this, but as per the order passed on 21.11.2016 fathers of both accused-petitioners were called upon to attend this Court in person. The order reads as under:

> "Heard further. Let Sh. Rattan Singh Kamal, father of accused-petitioner No. 1 and Sh. Narayan Singh, father of accused-petitioner No. 2 to attend this Court in person on the next date. List on 24th November, 2016."

9. Consequently, Satish Pal, elder brother of accused-petitioner Amrish Kamal and Narayan Singh, father of accused-petitioner Jeewan Singh had attended this Court on 24.11.2016.

10. The respondent-State was also called upon through learned Additional Advocate General to assist this Court as to what should be the appropriate conditions to be imposed upon the accused-petitioners so that they being student can be ordered to be admitted on bail and the teaching atmosphere in the University can also be maintained. Mr. D.W. Negi, the Superintendent of Police, Shimla district remained associated during the course of hearing in this petition and he is present in person even today also.

11. The situation in the University campus may be tense. It can also be believed reasonably that the administration had deployed sufficient manpower to take stock of the situation in the University campus and avert an untoward incident. However, this Court is seized of this petition filed by the accused petitioners, two in number for the grant of bail on the ground that their names were never disclosed by the complainant to be the assailants and that they have been falsely implicated by the police after the occurrence i.e. 1.10.2016. They are in custody from the date of their arrest. They belong to district Sirmour and district Mandi respectively. They are students of Himachal Pradesh University. Being so, there is no likelihood of their jumping over the bail or ultimately non-availability at the time of trial. They are, therefore, ordered to be admitted on bail subject to their furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs. 50,000/- each with 2-2 sureties each out of whom one shall be in their close relations i.e. father/brother to the satisfaction of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla district at Shimla. They shall further abide by the following conditions:

1. If they are still students of University and not disqualified to be a student of University and if they intend to pursue their further studies, shall have to disclose the proof of their place of abode in Shimla town to the satisfaction of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate at the time of furnishing bail bonds and in the event of pursuing their respective courses further they shall have to visit the University campus from such place of abode in Shimla town;
2. They are directed to report to Incharge, Police Post Summerhill before going to their respective department to attend the classes and shall also apprise the said Incharge of Police Post of their departure from the campus after attending classes. The Incharge of Police Post shall maintain record in this regard;
3. This arrangement shall continue for one month from the date the accused-petitioners are released on bail and shall be subject to review by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate thereafter on a report in this regard to be filed by the Incharge of police post;
4. The entries of the accused-petitioners in any of hostel of the University shall remain banned either in the capacity of a hosteller or guest of any other inmate who has been allotted hostel by the University;
5. They shall not be the member of any procession, dharana or of any unlawful assembly in the University campus;
6. On their release from custody they shall not attend any welcome party/function or any procession by their fellow students/organization inside or outside the University campus;
7. They shall not displace any party symbol or sticker except for identity card issued by the Competent authority in the University nor shall stand on the main gate of the University or any department wearing such stickers or badges showing their affiliation to a particular student organization or political party while in the University campus;
8. The sureties i.e. father/brother, as the case may be, shall keep on visiting the Dean/head of the department concerned to find out that the accused-petitioners are attending their classes regularly and also their performance in study once in a month;

9. The Dean/head of department shall maintain record of such visits so that the same is readily available if requisitioned by this Court or the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla for perusal.

10. shall join the investigation of the case as and when called upon to do so & on filing of challan against them regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

11. shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

12. shall not make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Investigating Officer;

13. shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

12. It is clarified that if the accused-petitioners misuse their liberty or violate any of the conditions imposed upon them; the Investigating Agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

13. The observations hereinabove shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition and have no bearing on the merits of the case. The application stands disposed of.

Baldev Singh ....Appellant-Defendant
Versus
Chet Ram & Ors. ....Respondents-Plaintiffs

2. RSA No.368 of 2007

Baldev Singh ....Appellant-Plaintiff
Versus
Chet Ram & Ors. ....Respondents- Defendants

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiffs pleaded that they are recorded as gairmaurusi tenants and had become the owners after the commencement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act – the defendant threatened to encroach upon the land – the defendant pleaded that revenue entries in favour of the plaintiffs were wrong – a counter-claim was also filed by the defendant – the Trial Court decreed the suit and dismissed the counter-claim – an appeal was filed, which was dismissed – held in second appeal that the original owner had not challenged the revenue entries – it was duly proved that plaintiffs were recorded as tenants, who had become the owner on the commencement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act- separate appeals should have been filed against the decree of the suit and dismissal of the counter-claim- appeal dismissed.(Para-17 to 35)

Cases referred:

Rajni Rani and Another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682
Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264

For the Appellant: Mr.C.N. Singh, Advocate, in both the appeals.
For the Respondents: Mr.G.D. Sharma, Advocate, in both the appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

Both these appeals are being disposed of by a common judgment as they call for determination of common question of law. Moreover, the identity of the parties in both the appeals is the same.

2. Plaintiffs (respondents herein), namely; Chet Ram, Sewak Ram and Devi Chand sons of late Shri Kirpa Ram, by way of suit for permanent prohibitory injunction filed under Section 38 of Specific Relief Act, prayed for decree of permanent injunction restraining the defendant (appellant herein) from causing any sort of interference in their peaceful ownership and possession and also from cutting trees or changing nature of the land and causing any damage and waste to land comprised in Khata/Khatauni No.16/44, Khasra Nos.220 min, 223, 224, 225, 227, 229, 230, 233 and 234, kittas 9, measuring 7 bighas 3 biswas, situated at Mauja Bhaget, Pargana Chail, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan (hereinafter referred to as `suit land').

3. Plaintiffs-respondents pleaded that they are recorded as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land as per latest Jamabandi, but they have become owners of the land in dispute by operation of law. It was further pleaded that the plaintiffs-respondents are successors-in-interest of deceased Kirpa Ram, who has been shown in possession of land in dispute as tenant on the share of deceased Shonkia. Plaintiffs-respondents claimed that they have become owners of the suit land by virtue of operation of law after H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 came into operation. Since defendant with malafide intention started advancing threats to encroach upon the land of the plaintiffs-respondents, they were compelled to file the suit as referred hereinabove.

4. Defendant-appellant also, by way of written statement, refuted the claim put forth on behalf of the plaintiffs-respondents by stating that neither plaintiffs nor their predecessor-in-interest were ever inducted as tenant over the suit land. The revenue entries existing in favour of the plaintiffs-respondents have been incorporated illegally and in unauthorized manner and as such same are void ab-initio. Defendant-appellant further averred that he is successor of the suit land and plaintiffs-respondents have no right, title or interest over the same. Defendant also filed a counter claim alongwith the written statement pleading therein that he is owner in possession of the suit land alongwith other co-owners and the revenue entries in favour of late Kirpa Ram and the plaintiffs have been incorporated wrongly and behind the back of the defendant and his predecessor-in-interest. Defendant-appellant also claimed that the plaintiffs-respondents are trying to dispossess him on the basis of the wrong revenue entries and in case they succeed in dispossessing the defendant from the suit land or the Hon'ble Court comes to the conclusion that the defendant is out of possession then in that eventuality the defendant may be held entitled for possession of the suit land on the basis of title.

5. In the aforesaid background, defendant also sought consequential relief against the plaintiffs-respondents by restraining them from interfering in ownership and possession of the defendant in any manner whatsoever.

6. On the settled issues, learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs-respondents and restrained the defendant-appellant from causing any sort of interference in the peaceful ownership and possession of the plaintiffs and also from cutting trees or changing the nature of the suit land, described hereinabove. While decreeing the aforesaid suit of the respondents-plaintiffs, trial Court below dismissed the counter claim of the defendant.

7. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree, decreeing the suit of the plaintiff and dismissing the counter claims of defendant-appellant, defendant-appellant approached the learned first appellate Court by way of Civil Appeal No.65-S/13 of 2006, laying challenge therein to the decree of suit by the learned trial Court as well as dismissal of the counter claim filed by the defendant-appellant. However, fact remains that the aforesaid appeal preferred by the appellant-defendant was dismissed and the judgment and decree of learned trial Court was affirmed.

8. In the aforesaid background, appellant-defendant approached this Court praying therein for quashing and setting aside of the judgment passed by both the Courts below. This Court vide order dated 28.8.2008 admitted the instant appeal on following substantial questions of law:

> "a. Whetherthe judgment/decree dated 26.4.2007 passed by the court below is perverse, as the findings are contrary to pleadings, evidence, admissions on record and the law, as the relevant material have been ignored and irrelevant/ inadmissible material/evidence have been taken into consideration, which has led to miscarriage of justice?
> b. Whether the first appellate court below misread, misconstrued, misinterpreted the provisions of the law and failed to appreciate the fact that the trial court by not framing the material issue have caused prejudice to the appellant, in law and the appellant have been deprived of just and proper opportunity to prove and contest the case, which procedure adopted by the trial court was perverse and illegal?

9. Before proceeding to decide the aforesaid substantial questions of law, it may be noticed that during arguments having been advanced by counsel representing the appellant-defendant, he was confronted with the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and Another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682,which was followed by this Court in RSA No.293 of 2006, titled as: Piar Chand & Others vs. Ranjeet Singh & Others, decided on 16.9.2016, whereby it has been categorically held that counter claim, if any, dismissed by trial court needs to be challenged by way of affixing separate requisite court fee.

10. Mr.C.N. Singh, learned counsel representing the appellant-defendant, after perusing the judgment, referred hereinabove, fairly stated that at this stage, he would not be pressing his appeal regarding counter claim. This Court, solely with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of arguments having been advanced by Mr.C.N. Singh, whereby he stated that there has been total mis-appreciation and mis-reading of evidence led on behalf of the respective parties by both the Courts below, perused the entire evidence, be it ocular or documentary, led on record by the parties.

11. After carefully perusing the material available on record, this Court finds it difficult to accept the aforesaid contention made by Mr.Singh that first appellate Court failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective and trial Court failed to frame material issues, as a result of which great prejudice is caused to the appellant-defendant.

12. Close scrutiny of the pleadings adduced on record by the parties nowhere suggests that learned trial Court failed to frame proper issues. Admittedly, plaintiffs-respondents filed a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction praying therein for restraining the defendant from causing any sort of interference in the peaceful possession and ownership of the plaintiffs. Plaintiffs in their plaint specifically averred that they are recorded as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land as per latest Jamabandi and they are owners in possession of the suit land as per law, whereas, appellant-defendant by way of written statement refuted the aforesaid claim by stating that the respondents-plaintiffs were never inducted as tenant over the suit land. In view of aforesaid pleadings, learned trial Court framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as claimed? OPP.
> 2. In case Issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, whether the plaintiffs are entitled for a decree of possession of the suit land as alleged ? OPP.

3. Whether the entry showing the plaintiffs as tenant over the suit land is incorrect, as alleged? OPD.

4. Whether the plaintiffs have no right, title or interest over the suit land as alleged? OPD.

5. Whether the defendant is entitled for relief of declaration that he alongwith other persons is owner in possession of the suit land as alleged ? OPD.

6. Relief."

13. Perusal of aforesaid issues framed by learned trial Court clearly suggest that all the material issues, which were required to be framed in light of pleadings available on record, were duly framed by Court and as such this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the appellant-defendant that no material issues were framed by the trial Court. Moreover, if at all defendant-appellant was aggrieved with non-framing of proper issues they had remedy under law to get the additional issues framed. Similarly, evidence led on record by respective parties, especially Ex.DX-1 and Ex.DX-2, i.e. Jamabandies for the years 1952-53 and 1956-57 suggests that predecessor-in-interest of appellant-defendant was recorded as owner, but revenue record placed on record by the plaintiffs-respondents in support of their claim is Jamabandi for the year 1960-61, perusal whereof clearly suggests that they were inducted as tenants over the suit land in the year 1960-61. Plaintiffs by way of placing on record ample evidence in shape of documentary evidence Ex.PW-1/A and Jamabandies Ex.PW-1/B to Ex.PW-1/D and copy of mutations Ex.PW-1/E and Ex.PW-1/F, have successfully proved on record that Shri Kirpa Ram, their predecessor-in-interest, was inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land by Shri Shonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of appellant-defendant and admittedly there is no document placed on record by the appellant-defendant to rebut the continuous entries showing the respondents-plaintiffs as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land. Similarly, this Court finds that in all these aforesaid revenue entries, plaintiffs have been shown to be paying rent @ Rs.80/- to the landlord till 1980.

14. At this stage, Shri C.N. Singh, counsel representing the appellant-defendant, stated that change in revenue entries was effected at the back of appellant-defendant and as such same are not binding upon the appellant-defendant. He also argued that since respondents-plaintiffs were unable to place on record any order, issued by revenue authorities, ordering the change in revenue entries, change made in revenue entries has no legal sanctity and same could not be looked into by the Courts below. Mr.Singh, in support of his aforesaid contention that change in revenue entries made at the back of appellant-defendant, who has been coming in possession continuously before effecting illegal change, placed reliance on the judgments passed by our own High Court in Tej Ali vs. Charag Deen & Others, RSA No.6 of 2002, decided on 9.9.2015, Desh Raj alias Deshi vs. Joginder Singh and another, RSA No.500 of 2002, decided on 27.3.2014, Smt.Nirmala Devi and Others vs. The Financial Commissioner (Appeals), & Others, CWP No.1312 of 2007, decided on 3.1.2013 and Shiam Singh and Others vs. Chaman Lal and Others, RSA No.261 of 1996, decided on 5.4.2010.

15. Mr.G.D. Sharma, learned counsel representing the respondents in both the appeals, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below. Mr.Sharma, while inviting the attention of this Court to the judgments passed by both the Courts below, strenuously argued that same are based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, of this Court in the present facts and circumstances of the case. He further stated that close scrutiny of the judgment passed by both the Courts below clearly suggests that Courts below have dealt each and every aspect of the matter meticulously and all the relevant material placed on record by the respective parties has been taken note of at the time of passing impugned judgment and as such this Court has no occasion, whatsoever, to interfere with the well reasoned concurrent findings returned on fact and law by both the Courts below. In this regard, to substantiate his aforesaid plea, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others,* (2015)4 SCC 264.

16. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case carefully.

17. In the instant case, after perusing documentary evidence led on record by respondents-plaintiffs, it clearly emerge that Shri Shonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the appellant-defendant, had inducted Shri Kirpa Ram as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land on the rent of Rs.80/-. It is also undisputed that Shri Shonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the appellant-defendant, was alive till the year 1999. It is not understood that why original owner i.e. Shonkia Ram did not lay challenge, if any, to aforesaid entries effected in favour of Kirpa Ramduring his life time. It stands duly proved on record that since 1960-61, predecessor-in-interest of the respondents-plaintiffs, has been coming in continuous possession of the suit land till filing of suit in 2001. There is no evidence led on record by appellant-defendant suggestive of the fact that at any point of time they had applied for correction of revenue entries in terms of provisions contained in H.P. Land Revenue Act. It is only after the death of original owner Shonkia Ram, appellant-defendant staked claim qua the suit land by refuting the claim put forth on behalf of respondents-plaintiffs.

18. At this stage, it needs to be taken note of the fact that prior to filing of instant suit by respondents-plaintiffs, appellant-defendant nowhere claimed himself to be owner in possession of the suit land. In the written statement filed to the plaint in the present suit, appellant-defendant denied the assertions made by respondents-plaintiffs that they were inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land. Interestingly, in the written statement appellant-defendant, while denying that the respondents-plaintiffs are owners in possession of the suit land, stated that on the basis of wrong revenue entries, respondents-plaintiffs are trying to dispossess the appellant-defendant. Defendant in thecounter claim having been filed by him claimed that by filing the suit, the plaintiffs-respondents have threatened the title of defendant qua the suit land and as such the defendant has a cause to prefer counter claim. But, interestingly in prayer clause appellant-defendant, while praying for dismissal of the suit also prayed that the entries in favour of the plaintiffs qua the suit land are wrong, illegal, null and void and plaintiffs have no right, title or interest over the same in any manner, whatsoever and consequently prayed that in case respondents-plaintiffs are found to have been in possession of the suit land, decree for possession in his favour and against the plaintiffs may be passed.Counter claims were dismissed and no independent appeal was preferred before first appellate Court and at this stage defendant has not pressed his counter claims.

19. At this stage, it may be noticed that subsequently, after one year of the filing of the instant suit by the plaintiffs-respondents, appellant-defendant filed another suit bearing Civil Suit 58-K/1 of 2002 on 23.12.2002 laying therein challenge to the revenue entries showing respondents-plaintiffs and their predecessor-in-interest to be in possession of the suit land, but, interestingly in that suit appellant-defendant, plaintiff therein, stated, "That the cause of action for filing the suit arose to the plaintiff against the defendants on 25.5.2002 when the defendants on the basis of wrong revenue entries in their favour in the column of possession, started interfering in the suit land and threatened to change the nature of the suit land and to cause damage to the same and also threatened to raise construction thereon and prior to it the cause of action arose when the wrong entries were incorporated in the revenue record and the cause of action is still continuing."

20. Aforesaid assertion qua the cause of action, having been accrued to the appellant-defendant, is totally contrary to stand taken by him in Civil Suit No.78-K/1 of 2001 filed by the respondents-plaintiffs in the present case. Apart from examination of aforesaid overwhelming evidence led on record by the plaintiffs suggestive of the fact that his predecessor-in-interest was inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" by Shri Sonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of appellant-defendant, this Court also perused oral evidence led on record by appellant-defendant to prove that respondents-plaintiffs were never inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant". Perusal of oral evidence led on record by the appellant-defendant nowhere rebuts the entries showing respondents-plaintiffs as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" of the suit land. None of the appellant-defendant's witnesses stated anything with regard to induction of Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-plaintiffs as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land, rather they all stated that Kirpa Ram was a spiritual person and he never used to cultivate the land and they saw appellant-defendant Baldev Singh in possession. Apart from above, there is nothing much in their statements/depositions which could persuade this Court that appellant-defendant by way of leading cogent and convincing evidence was able to rebut the entries made in the revenue record after 1960-61 showing predecessor-in-interest of the respondents-plaintiffs as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land. Rather, it emerged from the perusal of oral evidence led on record by the respective parties that suit land on which Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs-respondents, was inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant", situated at village Bhaget, whereas, Shonkia Ram original owner used to reside at village Dehar, which was 35 kilometers away from the suit land. None of the defendant witnesses stated that they are residents of village in which suit land is situated, rather they admitted that they belong to other village which is at far distance from village Bhaget. Though appellant-defendant termed the entry in favour of Kirpa Ram as a stray entry, but, as has been observed above, no cogent and convincing evidence was led on record to rebut the latest entries made in favour of respondent-plaintiffs. Moreover, Jamabandies placed on record for the years 1952-53 and 1956-57, Ex.D-X1 and Ex.D-X2, pertain to period prior to 1960-61, when Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-plaintiffs, was inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant". Once respondents-plaintiffs themselves claimed that they were inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land after 1960-61, it was incumbent upon the appellant-defendant to place on record entries, if any, in his favour after 1960-61 suggestive of the fact that they were shown as owners in possession of the suit land and as such any Jamabandi pertaining prior to 1960-61 was rightly not considered by Courts below.

21. True, it is that it is settled law that presumption of truth is attached to the latest entries and same are rebuttable if it is proved on record that entries, if any, were not effected in accordance with law. In the present case, respondents-plaintiffs by way of placing convincing evidence successfully proved on record that since they were owners in possession of the suit land after having been inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" by Shri Shonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-plaintiffs, they were rightly shown as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land in the Jamabandi for the year 1960-61. While going throughthe evidence on record, this Court could lay its hand to report of Patwari given at the time of Girdawari dated 2nd December, 1959, which clearly suggests that change in the revenue entries was effected in the subsequent Jamabandi for the year 1960-61 by Patwari after noticing the change of possession and as such there is no force in the contention put forth by Shri C.N. Singh that change in entry was made without any basis and without any authority. Apart from above, it stands duly proved on record that since 1960-61 respondents-plaintiffs were recorded as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land, they have acquired the status of owners by virtue of Section 104 of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972.

22. After carefully perusing the evidence led on record by respective parties, this Court sees no reason to differ with the judgment passed by both the Courts below that the respondents-plaintiffs were in possession of the suit land as tenants and they have become owners by operation of law. Hence, this Court really finds it difficult to conclude that Courts below misread and mis-appreciated and mis-construed the evidence led on record. Since there is proper appreciation of evidence, pleadings and law, by no stretch of imagination judgments passed by Courts below can be termed to be perverse. Substantial Questions of law are answered accordingly.

23. The suit out of which instant appeal arises was instituted by appellant-plaintiff Baldev Singh for declaration and injunction to the effect that revenue entries showing the respondents-defendants and their predecessor-in-interest in possession of suit land comprised in Khata No.20, Khatauni No.51, Khasra Nos.42 min, 101 min, 103 min and 118 min, measuring 4 bighas 6 biswas, situated at Mauza Tikkar, Pargana Chail, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan

(hereinafter referred to as the `suit land') are totally wrong, illegal, null and void ab-initio and are not binding on the rights of the appellant-plaintiff.

24. Since facts contained in the plaint in the present suit is virtually repetition of stand taken by appellant-plaintiff in the written statement filed by himin the Civil Suit No.78-K/1 of 2001, which was subject matter of RSA No.367 of 2007, this Court deems it not necessary to narrate the same here for sake of brevity. Similarly, respondents-defendants have taken same stand as they had taken in Civil Suit No. 78-K/1 of 2001 filed by them, whereby they claimed themselves to be the owners of the suit land being "Gair Maurusi Tenant" having been inducted by Shri Shonkia Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff-appellant.

25. By way of instant suit i.e. Civil Suit No.58-K/1 of 2002, which was admittedly filed after one year of filing of Civil Suit No. 78-K/1 of 2001, appellant-plaintiff prayed for decree of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants (respondents herein) from interfering in the suit land and changing its nature and raising any type of construction and to declare revenue entries showing defendants-respondents and their predecessor-in-interest Kirpa Ram in the column of possession ofthe suit land as wrong, illegal, null and void ab-initio and not binding on the rights of the plaintiff-appellant.

26. Learned trial Court on the basis of pleadings of the parties framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether the plaintiff is owner-in-possession of the land and the revenue entries are incorrect as alleged? OPP.
> 2. In case the plaintiff proves in issue No.1, whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as alleged? OPP.
> 3. Whether the status of the defendants is that of owner qua the land by operation of law as alleged? OPD."

27. Subsequently, learned trial Court vide judgment and decree dated 31.8.2006 dismissed the suit of the appellant-plaintiff by holding that plaintiff is neither owner nor in possession of the suit land and as such he was declined relief of permanent prohibitory injunction.

28. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree, appellant-plaintiff filed an appeal before learned District Judge, Solan, which came to be registered as Civil Appeal No.66-S/13 of 2006. However, aforesaid appeal preferred by appellant-plaintiff was dismissed.

29. In the aforesaid background, appellant-plaintiff approached this Court praying therein for decreeing the suit after setting aside the judgment passed by both the Courts below. This Court vide order dated 28.5.2008 admitted the instant appeal on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the first appellate court below was right in ignoring the law well settled that the revenue entries cannot be changed behind the back of owner i.e. the father of the appellant-plaintiff, that to in favour of late Shri Kirpa Ram, who was a sanayasi & the successors in-interest i.e. the respondent-defendants, have no right under law to claim any right, if any, on the basis of illegal revenue entries and such change is against, the law and the procedure to be adopted under HP Land Revenue Act and HP Lands Record Manual, 1992?
> 2. Whether the revenue entries which have been changed in an unauthorized manner carries no presumption of truth in the eyes of Law and are automatically replaced by previous entries, and if that being the legal position then all revenue entries in favour of late Sh.Kirpa Ram who was a sanayasi (Admitted position on record) and further to the respondents (predecessor-in-interest) was void-ab-initio and do not create any right, title or interest in favour of the respondents/Defendants?

3. Whether the first appellate court below acted contrary to the principles of law of evidence by giving its findings contrary to the evidence, and law which very well supported the case of the appellant/respondent/counter claimant?

30. Keeping in view the text and contents of questions No.1 and 2, this Court would be taking up these questions together for consideration. True it is that revenue entries cannot be changed behind the back of the owner and change, if any, can be effected in revenue record on the orders, if any, passed by the revenue authorities. In both the connected appeals facts are common and dispute is qua the suit land which is subject matter of both the appeals and parties had led similar evidence, as has been led in Civil Suit No.78-K/1 of 2001, which was subject matter in RSA No.367 of 2007. While deciding RSA No.367 of 2007, this Court minutely perused the evidence led on record by appellant-plaintiff to demonstrate that Shri Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants, was never inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land by Shri Shonkia Ram. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that appellant-plaintiff nowhere successfully proved by leading cogent and convincing evidence on record that entries made in favour of Shri Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants, showing himas "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land are wrong, illegal and void abinitio. Appellant-plaintiff only placed on record two Jamabandies pertaining to the years 1952-53 and 1956-57, suggestive of the fact that their predecessor-in-interest Shri Shonkia Ram was entered in the column of possession qua the suit land, but, as has been discussed in earlier RSA No.367 of 2007, decided by this Court, there is no document placed on record by appellant-plaintiff suggestive of the fact that Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants, was wrongly shown as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land. Since respondents-defendants specifically claimed that they were inducted as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" by Shonkia Ram in the year 1960-61, appellant-plaintiff ought to have placed on record documentary evidence, if any,suggestive of the fact that even after 1960-61 they were shown as owners in possession of the suit land. Similarly, this Court, while perusing the record of another case, could lay its hand to the document Ex.DX-3 i.e. Rapat Roznamcha made by Patwari concerned during Girdawari, perusal whereof clearly suggests that entry made in Jambandi pertaining to the year 1960-61 was not mere a stray entry, rather same was effected on the report of Patwari who vide Rapat Roznamcha for the year 1959-60 found Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants, in possession of the land and as such there is no force in the contention raised on behalf of appellant-plaintiff that change made in the revenue entry in the Jamabandi for the year 1960-61 is without any basis.

31. Similarly, in the present case also no sufficient oral evidence was led on record by appellant-plaintiff to demonstrate that Shri Kirpa Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants, was never inducted as a "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land because none of the plaintiff witness has stated anything with regard to induction of Kirpa Ram as "Gair Maurusi Tenant", rather they all have stated that since Kirpa Ram was a sanyasi, there was no occasion to induct him as a "Gair Maurusi Tenant". Moreover, as has been observed in earlier case also that original owner Shonkia Ram, who was alive till the year 1999, never laid challenge, if any, to the continuous entries in revenue record in favour of predecessor-in-interest of respondents-defendants. Apart from above, filing of present suit by appellant-plaintiff itself suggests that prior to filing of the instant suit he had not taken any steps to get the revenue entries corrected, hence it may not be open for him to file suit after 45 years for correction of revenue entries that too after filing the suit by respondents-defendants seeking permanent prohibitory injunction against the appellant-plaintiff from interfering in the suit land. Since there is evidence in shape of Ex.DX-3 suggestive of the fact that change in entries was made pursuant to Rapat Roznamcha made by Patwari, who found respondents-defendants in possession of the suit land, this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the appellant-plaintiff that change in revenue entries was made without any basis and at his back. Moreover, at this stage, this Court finds that counter claims, filed by the present appellant-plaintiff in the suit filed by the respondents-defendants, wherein challenge was laid to the revenue entries showing the respondents-defendants as "Gair Maurusi Tenant", were dismissed by the trial Court.

32. Appellant-plaintiff by way of common appeal laid challenge to the judgment passed by learned trial Court in favour of respondents-defendants decreeing their suit and dismissing counter claim of the appellant-plaintiff and the same was dismissed. Since there was no separate legally constituted appeal preferred by the appellant-plaintiff qua the dismissal of counter claim, no composite appeal could be entertained by the first appellate Court, as has been done in the present case. Moreover, in the present appeal since counsel representing the appellant-plaintiff has stated that he may not be pressing counter claim, finding already returned by trial Court qua counter claim has attained finality. Since there was already finding of trial Court qua the alleged wrong entries having been effected in the revenue record in favour of respondent-defendant by the trial Court in Civil Suit No.78-K/1 of 2001, while dismissing the counter claim, the Court belowought to have not entertained the instant suit preferred by present appellant-plaintiff, wherein he again laid challenge to the revenue entries showing respondent-defendant as "Gair Maurusi Tenant" over the suit land.

33. Hence, this Court, after carefully perusing/ examining the evidence led on record in both the cases, is fully convinced that respondents-defendants were able to show on record by leading cogent evidence that they were inducted as tenants by predecessor-in-interest of appellant-plaintiff and they had been paying regular rent to the original owner and thus relationship of landlord and tenant. As far as change in revenue entries is concerned, it has already been discussed in detail that those were changed on the basis of report submitted by Patwari in the shape of RoznamchaEx.D-3 to effect that he after seeing the possession of the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents-defendants over the suit land effected change in record. In view of the above, substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

34. This Court is fully satisfied that both the courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in the present matter, since both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings, which otherwise appear to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence, this Court has very limited jurisdiction/scope to interfere in the matter. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the relevant contents of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma's case supra, wherein the Court has held as under:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained." (p.269)

35. In the facts and circumstances discussed above, this Court is of the view that findings returned by the trial Court below, which were further upheld by the first appellate Court, do not warrant any interference of this Court as findings given on the issues framed by the trial Court below as well as specifically taken up by this Court to reach the root of the controversy appear to be based on correct appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence. Hence, both the aforementioned appeals fail and are dismissed, accordingly. There shall be no order as to costs.

36. Interim order, if any, is vacated. All the miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

For the Appellants: Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellants-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the `defendants') against the judgment and decree dated 29.12.2006, passed by learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala, District Kangra, H.P. affirming the judgment and decree dated 28.9.2002, passed by learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Court No.2, Dehra, District Kangra, H.P., whereby the suit filed by the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the `plaintiff') has been decreed.

2. Briefly stated facts, as emerged from the record, are that the respondent-plaintiff claimed himself to be owner in possession alongwith other co-owners of the suit land. It is averred by the plaintiff that the defendants have got no right or title over the land comprised in Khata No.13 min, Khatauni No.24 min, Khasra No.207, area measuring 0-07-02 hects. situated in Mohal Thal, Mauza Guler, Tehsil Dehra, District Kangra as per Jamabandi for the year 1991-92, (hereinafter referred to as the 'suit land'), but they are threatening to interfere in the peaceful ownership and possession of the plaintiff and are also threatening to throw the water of their water taps and rainy water in the suit land. It is further averred by the plaintiff that the defendants are also threatening to carve out a path to pass through the suit land without any right, title or interest. It is further averred by the plaintiff that during the pendency of the suit, defendant Ramesh Chand encroached upon part of the suit land comprised in Khasra No.207/1, area measuring 0-00-36 hects. and defendants No.2 and 3 have also encroached upon part of suit land i.e. land comprised in Khasra No.207/2, measuring 0-00-40 hects., which was also found during demarcation taken by the plaintiff on 7.2.1995 and this plea of possession was added by way of amendment to the plaint. It is further averred by the plaintiff that the defendants having encroached upon part of suit land and threatening to throw dirty water as well as rainy water towards his plaintiff, the suit be decreed.

3. Defendants by way of filing written statement raised various preliminary objections qua cause of action, maintainability, estoppel and limitation. It is averred by the defendants that allegations of the plaintiff regarding throwing of dirty and rainy water towards the suit land are wrong. It is further averred that there is no outlet for the natural flow of rainy water and that the parties are agriculturists and have got every right to use the passage on suit land from over the Maind (hedge) of suit land as per their custom and by way of easement of necessity. The defendants have also averred that they have neither cut nor removed any trees nor they have any intention to change nature of suit land. It is further averred by the defendants that they have got their own water tap for the last more than 20 years and no irreparable loss had ever been caused to the plaintiff. They have also denied the alleged encroachment upon the part of suit land and it has been averred that the report of the Local Commissioner, who was Field Kanungo, is not in accordance with rules. In the aforesaid background, the defendants prayed for the dismissal of the suit.

4. By way of replication, plaintiff while denying the allegations made in the written statement, re-affirmed and reasserted the stand taken in the plaint.

5. Learned trial Court on the basis of aforesaid pleadings, framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession ? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the present suit? OPD.

4. Whether the defendants are using the Meand of the suit land as per custom ? OPD.

4-a Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

5. Relief."

6. The learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, decided all the issues in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants and decreed the suit of the plaintiff for permanent prohibitory injunction.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment and decree dated 28.9.2002, passed by learned trial Court, respondents/defendants filed an appeal in the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala, i.e., Civil Appeal No.41/G/05/03, however fact remains that learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala vide judgment and decree dated 29.12.2006 dismissed the appeal preferred by the appellants-defendants and affirmed the judgment and decree, dated 28.9.2002, passed by learned trial Court.

8. In the aforesaid background, present appellants-defendants being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court as affirmed by learned appellate Court approached this Court by way of instant Regular Second Appeal, praying therein for quashing and setting-aside the judgment and decree dated 28.9.2002 passed by learned trial Court as affirmed by learned appellate Court vide judgment dated 29.12.2006.

9. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

"(1) Whether both the Courts below have committed grave error of law and jurisdiction in relying upon report Ex.PW-1/B and Tatima PW-1/C which was not proved in accordance with law by producing the Field Kanungo who allegedly carried out the demarcation and Patwari who prepared the Tatima. Merely the fact that the file of demarcation was consigned for want of presence of the defendants-appellants vide Order Ex.PW-1/A, could have been sufficient to hold the said documents admissible in evidence?

(2) Whether the Trial Court has wrongly dismissed the application filed by defendants-appellants for demarcation? Have not both the Courts below ignored the provisions of Chapter I-M of High Court Rules and Orders whereby it was imperative on both the Courts below to have appointed the Local Commissioner for demarcation of respective boundaries of the parties as the dispute between the parties in the suit was mainly the boundary dispute?

(3) Whether both the Courts below have wrongly rejected the plea of the customary right of using the maind of the neighbour for carrying out the agricultural production which fact has duly been acknowledged in the Judicial pronouncements of this Hon'ble Court?

10. Mr.Neeraj Gupta, learned counsel representing the appellants-defendants, vehemently argued that the judgment passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record. Rather, the same are based on mere conjecture and surmises and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

11. Mr.Gupta, further contended that both the Courts below have acted with material illegality and irregularity while placing reliance upon demarcation Report Ex.PW-1/B and its Tatima Ex.PW-1/C to conclude that appellant-defendant encroached upon the suit land as alleged in the plaint. Mr.Gupta strenuously argued that the bare perusal of demarcation report itself suggest that demarcation was not conducted in accordance with law and instructions of Financial Commissioner as well as High Court Rules and Orders and as such same could not be taken into consideration by the Courts below while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff.

12. Apart from above, Mr.Gupta, further contended that both the Courts below have miserably failed to take note of the fact that demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B and Tatima Ex.PW-1/C could not be read in evidence since Field Kanungo, who allegedly carried out demarcation, was never produced as a witness before the Court and as such by no stretch of imagination demarcation report placed on record by the plaintiff could be deemed to have been proved in accordance with law. Mr.Gupta also contended that since Ex.PW-1/B and Ex.PW-1/C were inadmissible evidence and as such order of Assistant Collector consigning the file to record room was of no consequence and as such both the Courts below acted beyond their jurisdiction while placing reliance upon inadmissible evidence to pass decree of possession against defendants-appellants and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

13. Mr.Gupta, while referring to the judgment passed by both the Courts below, invited the attention of this Court to the fact that on two occasions defendants-appellants had moved an application under Order 26 Rule 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as `CPC') praying therein for appointment of Local Commissioner, keeping in view the boundary dispute involved in the matter, but on both the occasions, Courts below, without assigning plausible reason, dismissed the same and as such great prejudice has been caused to the appellants. Mr.Gupta further stated that both the Courts below ought to have appointed Local Commissioner in terms of prayer made in application under Order 26 Rule 9 CPC, keeping in view the dispute being boundary dispute as defined under Chapter-IM of the High Court Rules and Orders so that controversy at hand could be determined effectively for all times to come. Learned lower appellate Court in mechanical manner proceeded to affirm the judgment and decree of the trial Court, which was solely based upon demarcation report placed on record by the plaintiff, which at no point of time was proved in accordance with law. While concluding his arguments, Mr.Gupta also argued that both the Courts below committed material illegality and irregularity while deciding the issue of easement of necessity as raised by the plaintiff, especially in view of various pronouncements made by this Court that agriculturists in order to cultivate their fields, to take their cattle and to carry out agricultural operations during the season are entitled to use maind of neighbourers.

14. Mr.Gupta, placed reliance on the judgments of our own High Courts in State of H.P. vs. Laxmi Nand and Others, 1992(2) Sim.L.C. 307, Kamal Dev and another vs. Hans Raj, 2000(1) Shim.L.C. 192, Shri Rattan Chand sn of Lachho Ram vs. Pushpa Devi widow of Shri Balwant Singh and others, 2014 ILR HP 145, and Krishan Singh alias Kishan Singh vs. Balram Singh, 2010(3) Shim.L.C. 548, to suggest thatdemarcation, if not carried out in accordance with law/rules, same cannot be read in evidence and this Court by molding relief can order for demarcation even at this stage for settling theboundary dispute between the parties.

15. In the aforesaid background, Mr.Gupta prayed for acceptance of the appeal after setting aside the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below.

16. Mr.Ajay Sharma, learned counsel representing the respondent-plaintiff supported the judgment passed by both the Courts below. Mr.Sharma strenuously argued that perusal of judgments passed by both the Courts below suggest that the same are based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff and as such there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, of this Court, especially in view of concurrent findings of fact and law recorded by both the Courts below. Mr.Sharma while referring to the judgment passed by both the Courts below, forcefully contended that there is overwhelming evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff suggestive of the fact that defendants encroached upon the suit land and caused nuisance/interference by throwing dirty water. While refuting the contention put forth on behalf of counsel representing the appellants-defendants that Courts below wrongly placed reliance on the demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B, Mr.Sharma vehemently argued that since defendants started encroaching upon certain portion of suit land during the pendency of suit, respondent-plaintiff applied for demarcation which was conducted on 7.2.1995 in the presence of the parties including appellants-defendants. While invitingattention of this Court to demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B, Mr.Sharma contended that bare perusal of the same suggests that demarcation of the site was conducted in accordance with law and instructions of Financial Commissioner as well as High Court Rules and Orders and as such there is no illegality and infirmity in the judgment passed by both the Courts below. To substantiate aforesaid arguments, he also invited the attention of this Court to the statement, especially cross-examination conducted on the defendant, who appeared as DW-1, wherein he himself admitted that demarcation was conducted in his presence by the Field Kanungo on the basis of Mussabi and before conducting demarcation, he ascertained/fixed three pucca points. Mr.Sharma further contended that after carrying out demarcation by Field Kanungo, same was confirmed by Tehsildar and no objection, whatsoever, at any point of time was ever filed by the appellants-defendants before Kanungo, as a result of which, same was confirmed by him.

17. Mr.Sharma, vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the fact that both the Courts below have meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. He also urged that scope of interference by this Court is very limited especially when two Courts have recorded concurrent findings on the facts as well as law. In this regard, to substantiate his aforesaid plea, he placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others*, (2015)4 SCC 264.

18. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record of the case.

Question No.1

19. In the present case, respondent-plaintiff filed suit for permanent prohibitory injunction and for possession claiming himself to be the owner in possession alongwith other co-owners of the suit land. Plaintiff also claimed that healongwith his brother Kashmir Singh is in exclusive possession over the suit land and defendants, whohave no right, title and interest over the suit land, were threatening to interfere in the peaceful ownership and possession of the plaintiff and were also threatening to throw the water from their water taps and rainy water in the suit land. During the pendency of the suit, defendant Ramesh Chand encroached upon part of suit land comprised in Khasra No.207/1, area measuring 0-00-36 hects., whereas defendants No.2 and 3 encroached upon part of suit land comprised in Khasra No.207/2, measuring 0-00-40 hects., therefore, plaintiff applied for demarcation which was carried out on 7.2.1995 by the Field Kanungo. After aforesaid demarcation having been carried out by Field Kanungo, plaintiff amended his suit, whereby he raised plea of possession by alleging that defendants have encroached upon part of the suit land and threatening to throw dirty water as well as rainy water towards the land of plaintiff. Plaintiff, with a view to establish his ownership and possession qua the suit land, tendered in evidence documents Ex.P-1 and Ex.P-2, which are the copies of Jamabandi for the year 1991-92 and Aks Sazra Kistbar. Similarly to prove encroachment over the suit land plaintiff placed on record demarcation report given by Kanungo i.e. Ex.PW-1/B. Learned Courts below, while placing reliance upon demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B, Tatima attached with the same Ex.PW-1/C as well as statement of parties, who were present on the spot, i.e.Ex.PW-1/D, came to the conclusion that the defendants were found to be in possession of part of the suit land i.e. some portion of the suit land bearing Khasra No.207/1 was encroached by defendant No.1, whereas land shown in Khasra No.207/2 was found to beencroached upon by defendants No.2 and 3.

20. Learned counsel representing the appellants-defendants vehemently argued that no reliance, whatsoever, could be placed upon aforesaid demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B and Tatima attached with the report Ex.PW-1/C by Courts below, while decreeing the suit especially in view of the fact that same was not proved in accordance with law. As per Mr.Gupta, since Field Kanungo, who had carried out demarcation, was not produced as a witness by the plaintiff, defendants had no opportunity, whatsoever, to cross-examine this witness as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the defendants. Had defendants got the opportunity to cross-examine the Field Kanungo, who had carried out the demarcation, the defendants would have got opportunity to prove on record that demarcation was not carried out in accordance with law as well as instructions of Financial Commissioner and High Court Rules and Orders.

21. The aforesaid argument, having been made by Mr.Gupta, needs to be rejected out rightly. It is undisputed that demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 was procured by respondent-plaintiff during the pendency of the suit. It is also undisputed that after procuring the aforesaid demarcation report, plaintiff amended his suit, whereby plea of possession was added by way of amendment to the plaint. It is not understood that if demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 was not in accordance with law what prevented the defendants from filing objection, if any, to the demarcation report allegedly not carried out in accordance with law by the Field Kanungo. Though defendants in reply to the amended written statement have stated that demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 is not in accordance with law but itnowhere suggest that in what manner demarcation report is not in accordance with law. Mere bald allegation that demarcation report is not in accordance with law may not be sufficient to conclude that demarcation was not carried out in accordance with law.

22. It is also not disputed, as emerged from the record, that at the time of demarcation wife of defendant No.1 as well as other defendants were present and their statements were also recorded by the Local Commissioner, who had carried out the demarcation. As has been noticed above, DW-1 in his cross-examination has admitted that demarcation dated 7.2.1995 was carried out by Field Kanungo on the basis of Mussabi after ascertaining three pucca points, which itself suggest that demarcation dated 7.2.1995 was carried out in accordance with law after summoning of the effected parties including all the defendants. It also emerge from the record that subsequent to demarcation carried out on 7.2.1995, the report was affirmed by Naib Tehsildar on 30.9.1995 Ex.PW-1/A.Perusal of Ex.PW-1/A i.e. order dated 30.9.1995, passed by Tehsildar, suggests that despite there being sufficient opportunities, nobody, including the defendants, came forward to file objection, if any, to the demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 and as such same was accepted by Tehsildar. Similarly, perusal of document Ex.PW-1/D suggests that the statement of parties, were recorded at the time of demarcation. Perusal of aforesaid document clearly suggests that defendants Mukesh Kumar and Inder Singh were present and the wife of defendant namely Vijay Guleria was also present.

23. This Court, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of submissions having been made by Mr.Gupta with regard to the correctness and validity, if any, of demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B, perused demarcation report dated 7.2.1995, which clearly suggests that same was carried in accordance with law in the presence of all the parties. Local Commissioner, who carried out demarcation, has categorically reportedthat demarcation is being carried out on the basis of Mussabi and there were three pucca points fixed before conducting the demarcation and hence this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the appellants-defendants that the demarcation was not carried out in accordance with law and as such same could not be considered in evidence by the Courts below.

24. As far as non-examination of Local Commissioner, who carried out demarcation, is concerned, it is settled law that party who assail the demarcation report is to examine the Local Commissioner. In this regard reliance is placed upon the judgment of the Punjab & Haryana High Court in Raja Ram vs. Ram Sarup, 1979 P.L.J. 12. Though, as has been discussed above, defendants had ample opportunity to file objection, if any, to the demarcation report after amendment of suit by the plaintiff whereby plea of possession was added while placing reliance upon the demarcation report dated 7.2.1995, but, despite that it is not understood what prevented the defendants-appellants for applying to the Court below to summon Local Commissioner who had carried out the demarcation dated 7.2.1995 Ex.PW-1/B. Defendants being effected party and dis-satisfied with the demarcation report dated 7.2.1995, were well within its rights to examine Local Commissioner by citing him as a witness by following theprocedure of law. In the instant case, plaintiff successfully proved on record demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B by placing reliance on other document Ex.PW-1/A i.e. confirmation order dated 30.9.1995, passed by the Tehsildar, which clearly suggests that despite various opportunities, defendants failed to file any objectionto the demarcation report.

25. Apart from above, PW-1 and PW-2, in no uncertain terms, proved that demarcation was conducted in accordance with law. Both the aforesaid plaintiff witnesses in their cross-examination categorically stated that demarcation was carried out on the basis of Mussabi by Field Kanungo after ascertaining the pucca points and there is nothing in their cross-examination, which could suggest otherwise.

26. Moreover, DW-2 himself in his cross-examination admitted that demarcation was obtained by plaintiff during the pendency of the suit and at that time he was present. He also stated that demarcation was conducted on the basis of Mussabi by Field Kanungo after ascertaining the pucca points and as such this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the conclusion drawn by both the Courts below that the demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B was carried out in accordance with law.

27. It is also settled law that once land is demarcated, no further demarcation can be carried out unless previous is set aside. In this regard reliance is placed on the judgment of this

High Court in Radha Soami Satsang Beas vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and another, 1984 S.L.J. 378.

28. After carefully examining the entire evidence and the reasoning given by the Courts below vis-à-vis documentary evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the findings returned by both the Courts below. This Court has no hesitation to conclude that Courts below have rightly appreciated the documentary evidence placed on record in the shape of Ex.PW-1/B by the plaintiff to conclude that defendants have encroached upon the suit land, admittedly, owned and possessed by the plaintiff-respondent. In view of above detailed discussion, substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

Question No.2

29. It emerges from the record that appellants-defendants had applied for appointment of Local Commissioner to carry out demarcation but the same was rejected by the Court below. At the cost of repetition, it may be reiterated that plaintiff had applied for demarcation during the pendency of the suit and Local Commissioner had carried out demarcation on 7.2.1995 in the presence of all the parties, including the defendants. By way of placing demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 Ex.PW-1/B, plaintiff successfully proved on record that demarcation in question was carried out in accordance with law by associating all the defendants.

30. In view of above, this Court is of the view that once trial Court had accepted the demarcation report duly submitted by Field Kanungo, it had no occasion to call for fresh demarcation report at the instanceof defendants. Moreover, as has been discussed hereinabove in detail, demarcation report Ex.PW-1/B, placed on record by the plaintiff, was carried out strictly in accordance with law, as per own admission of the defendant, and as such, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the rejection of application under Order 26 Rule 9 CPChaving been preferred by defendants by the trial Court.

31. True, it is that in the event of there being boundary dispute between the parties, Courts below should appoint Local Commissioner for demarcation of respective boundaries of the parties as per provisions of Chapter I-M of High Court Rules and Orders. In the instant case, as has been observed above, trial Court had no occasion to appoint Local Commissioner when demarcation report dated 7.2.1995 Ex.PW-1/B was already on record. Therefore, the substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

32. Now, adverting to the plea of customary right of using Maind of the neighbour for carrying out agricultural production, this Court finds that no evidence worth the name was led on record by the defendants to prove such right by way of easement of necessity as well as custom. Though defendants by way of written statement claimed that they have easementary right by way of easement of necessity but there is no evidence led on record by the defendants to substantiate the aforesaid plea having been taken in the written statement. To prove the plea of easementary right by way of custom or by the easement of necessity, it was incumbent upon the defendants to prove on record that the land of defendants is situated beyond the land of plaintiff and there is no alternative passage leading to their land except from the land of the plaintiff. In the present case, there is no site plan, whatsoever, attached with the written statement, suggestive of the fact that defendants had no alternative path to their land, save and except, the one that is from the land of plaintiff. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

33. As far asjudgments having been relied upon by the counsel representing the appellants, there can be no quarrel that if the demarcation is not carried out in accordance with law/rules, same cannot be read in evidence and Courts while adjudicating the boundary dispute, if any, between the parties can always order for appointment of Local Commissioner in terms of Order 26 Rule 9 CPC. But in the instant case, as has been discussed in detail, demarcation report placed on record by the plaintiff is in accordance with law and instructions of the Financial Commissioner and as such this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below. In view of above, judgments cited by learned counsel representing the appellants may not have any application in the present case.

34. This Court is fully satisfied that both the courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, in the present matter. Since both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings, which otherwise appear to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence, this Court has very limited jurisdiction/scope to interfere in the matter. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce the relevant contents of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma's case supra, wherein the Court has held as under:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."(p.269)

35. In the facts and circumstances discussed above, this Court is of the view that findings returned by the trial Court below, which was further upheld by the first appellate Court, do not warrant any interference of this Court as findings given on the issues framed by the trial Court below as well as specifically taken up by this Court to reach the root of the controversy appears to be based on correct appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence. Hence, present appeal fails and is dismissed, accordingly.

36. Interim order, if any, is vacated. All the miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

Decided on : 30.11.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 379 read with Section 34- Accused were found in possession of small pieces of aluminum wire, 6 blades, two hacksaw blades, bundle of aluminum wire and small pieces of ladder – they failed to account for the same- informant filed an application stating that one ladder was stolen – he identified the ladder as his own – the accused were tried and convicted by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was allowed and the accused were acquitted – held in appeal that the copy of seizure memo was not supplied to the accused- testimony of PW-8 was contrary to the contents of the seizure memo- the theft was reported by the informant after delay for which no explanation was given - the Appellate Court had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed.(Para- 9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondents: Mr. Divay Raj Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgment of 25.8.2008 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba Division Chamba (Himachal Pradesh) in Criminal Appeal No. 15/2008, whereby it while reversing the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court acquitted the respondents (for short "accused") for the offences charged.

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 3.11.2001 HC Raj Kumar, Incharge Police Post Holi was on patrolling at place Tiyari Bridge alongwith HHC Dharam Chand No. 91, HHC Prithi Chand No. 144 and B.O Sh. Makholi Ram, Jagdish Kumar Guard and Gian Chand forest worker. At about 5.00 a.m. when the police party was at Tiyari Bridge three persons came from Holi side, out of which two persons had been carrying on sack each in their hands and on seeing the police party they tried to fled away. Two persons were carrying sack and on seeing the police party they tried to flee away, but accused No.1 and 2, present appellants, were apprehended while one person fled away from the spot. On checking the sack of accused No.1, it was found containing pieces of aluminum wire in small pieces, six blades and two hacksaw blades while the sack of accused No.2 was found containing one bundle of aluminum wire and small pieces of ladder. The accused persons failed to account for the above-said articles which were taken into possession through a seizure memo. The investigating Officer prepared Rukka and sent the same to the police Station Bharmour on the basis of which FIR was registered. On 8.11.2001 the complainant had given an application to the police that one ladder which was kept by him behind his residence has been stolen and the complainant identified the pieces of ladder belonging to him. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court qua theirs committing offence punishable under Section 379/34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, they did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction qua the accused. However in an appeal preferred by the respondents herein before the learned Sessions Judge Chamba, the latter Court returned findings of acquittal in their favour.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Vide recovery memos comprised in Ex.PW-1/A and PW-1/B recovery of items/property allegedly stolen by the accused/respondents stood effectuated also with PW-1 a witness thereto testifying in corroboration to the contents which occur therewithin thereupon it stands canvassed by the learned Deputy Advocate General qua the aforesaid constituting formidable pieces of evidence for reversing the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba. The aforesaid submission for its standing construed to be holding immense potency it is enjoined to be read in conjunction with the testification of PW-8 besides in coagulation with the factum of the Investigating Officer concerned testifying qua his not purveying copies thereof to the accused though he stood enjoined to purvey them to the accused. A combined reading whereof purveys no conclusion than of their preparation standing engineered besides invented at the instance of the Investigating Officer hence his concert to hide them arouse-able from his not purveying them to the accused renders any reliance thereupon for nailing findings of conviction against the accused to be grossly inapt.

10. Moreover an allusion to the testification of the Investigating Officer who deposed as PW-8 is imperative for unearthing therefrom whether the relevant recovery memos aforesaid hold efficacy, conspicuously when recovery of the relevant stolen items stood effectuated thereunder from the accused on theirs standing nabbed by the investigating Officer concerned at the place and time enumerated therein. In the event of the investigating Officer hence omitting to underscore in his testification held in his examination-in-chief the trite factum of his effectuating recovery of the relevant stolen items from the possession of the accused in the manner reflected in the recovery memos, the invincible conclusion therefrom would be qua the contents reflected therein suffering erosion.

11. A close analysis of the testimony of PW-8 unveils qua in his testimony comprised in his examination-in-chief his though making a communication therein in tandem with the recitals occurring in the recovery memos yet his testification holding bespeakings therein qua his nabbing the accused at the place and time reflected therein gets blunted when analyzed in consonance with the hitherto erected inference qua the relevant memos being discardable. With the efficacy of Ex. PW-1/A and PW-1/B standing negated whereupon hence it has to be concluded of the best evidence in proof of the charge not acquiring any immense potency.

12. Be that as it may the veracity of recovery memos stands enfeebled by the factum of a disclosure occurring therewithin qua the recovery of stolen items standing effectuated from the possession of the accused on 3.11.2001 in the manner reflected therewithin even when the aforesaid factum stood detected by PW-6 on 2.11.2001 yet he omitted to promptly thereat lodge a complaint qua the case property standing stolen. The effect of recovery memos aforesaid standing prepared on 3.11.2001 whereas PW-6 despite detecting the relevant theft to occur on 2.11.2001 his belatedly on 7.11.2001 lodging a report qua the relevant theft with the police station concerned constrains a conclusion qua the preceding effectuation of recovery of the relevant items from the possession of the accused under the memos aforesaid arising not in sequel to the lodging of the apposite complaint rather hence their preparation not holding any connectivity with the alleged theft which occurred at the relevant site whereat the relevant stolen items were kept, conspicuously when their preparation occurred not subsequent to the lodging of the report rather contrarily occurred prior thereto. The inference qua Ex.PW-1/A and PW-1/B for reasons afore-stated remaining unproven by the prosecution nor thereupon hence the begetting any connectivity vis-à-vis the theft of the relevant items from the relevant site whereat they stood kept or stored stands enhanced by the factum of the prosecution witnesses acquiescing to the suggestions put to them by the learned defence counsel while he held them to cross-examination qua all the items which stood purportedly recovered thereunder being easily available in the market besides strength to the aforesaid inference stands garnered by the factum of PW-6 besides other relevant prosecution witnesses not making any vivid disclosure in their respective testifications qua any mark existing on the relevant property/items whereupon they stood rendered to be distinguishably the property of the complainant also thereupon the factum of the relevant items/property standing owned by the complainant standing emphatically established remains unproven rendering hence the relevant charge to which the accused stood subjected to founder.

13. A wholesome analysis of evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned Appellate Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned Appellate Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court merit interference.

14. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned Appellate Court is maintained and affirmed. Records be sent back forthwith.

Decided on : 30.11.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 341,323 and 325 readwith Section 34- Accused B gave blow of chain on the nose of the informant due to which he suffered injuries on his eyes- accused S caught hold of the informant from his neck- the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court – held in appeal that PW-1 had improved upon his previous version- the person who had rescued the informant from the accused was not examined – there are contradictions in the testimony of PW-3- the blood on the clothes was not connected to the informant – the Trial Court had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 14)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondents: Mr. Lovneeesh Kanwar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgment of 8.4.2008 rendered by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sarkaghat in Police Challan No. 185-II/2002, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondents (for short "accused") for the offences charged.

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 30.3.2002 at about 9.30 p.m. complainant Hem Chand alongwith his brother Krishan Chand was going to his house from the house of one Sukh Ram at village Gharwasra. On the way both the accused met to the complainant. Accused Bakshi alias Inder Singh gave blow of chain on the nose of the complainant due to which complainant suffered injuries on his eyes. Accused Sant caught hold of the complainant from his neck. The complainant was rescued from the clutches of the accused by Krishan Chand and Ananat Ram. Report to this effect was made to the police on the next date by the complainant and FIR was registered. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court qua theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 341,323 and 325 readwith Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, they did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal qua the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The prosecution case would succeed only when the prosecution witnesses depose a version qua the genesis of the prosecution case bereft of any taint qua theirs rendering a version qua it holding underscorings qua each of them while testifying in Court not either improving or embellishing upon their previous statements recorded in writing nor theirs while standing subjected to cross-examination theirs contradicting their respective testifications occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief besides when the testifications of the prosecution witnesses underscore qua theirs rendering a version qua the prosecution case with utmost consistency besides intra-se harmony. Contrarily when the testifications of the prosecutions witnesses unveil qua theirs therein not rendering a version qua the genesis of the prosecution case with intra-se corroboration thereupon the prosecution would not succeed in proving the relevant charges qua the accused/respondents.

10. In testing whether the prosecution witnesses testify qua the genesis of the prosecution version bereft of any taints afore-stated, an allusion to the testimony of PW-1 is imperative. In his testification PW-1 apparently has embellished besides improved upon his previous statement recorded in writing comprised in the factum of his communicating therein qua one Sukh Ram also accompanying the accused at the relevant time whereupon his testification visibly acquires a taint of his improving and embellishing upon his previous statement recorded in writing rendering hence thereupon the genesis of the prosecution case is construable to be incredible. However PW-1 has testified qua accused Bakshi Ram delivering a blow of chain upon him in sequel whereto he suffered injuries on his nose and eyes. The communication aforesaid echoed by PW-1 in his testification occurring in his examination-in-chief though is neither improved nor embellished vis-à-vis his previous statement recorded in writing given the aforesaid factum also standing embodied in the apposite FIR yet thereupon it would not be apt to conclude qua his rendering a truthful version qua the aforesaid facet significantly when in the apposite MLC comprised in Ex.PW-6/A there is no reflection therein qua the complainant begetting injuries on his eyes in sequel to his purportedly standing delivered a blow of chain thereon by accused Bakshi Ram. In sequel thereto his testification qua the aforesaid facet holds no probative sinew also the testification of the complainant qua accused Bakshi Ram delivering a blow of chain on his person though is neither an improvement nor an embellishment vis-à-vis his previous statement recorded in writing conspicuously when the factum aforesaid stands also narrated in the apposite FIR yet with the Investigating Officer not effectuating recovery of chain renders the ascription by the complainant qua accused Bakshi Ram delivering its blow on his eyes and nose to not hold any creditworthiness.

11. Moreover PW-1 testifies qua his at the relevant site standing rescued by one Sh. Ananat Ram from the belaborings perpetrated on his person by the accused yet the said Ananat Ram neither stood cited as a witness nor stands examined whereas this witness was an un-interested witness also thereupon when he would lend an unbiased besides un-interested version qua the prosecution version. In sequel his non-examination is fatal to the success of the prosecution case. Also his non-examination by the prosecution is fatal to the emergence of truth qua the genesis of the prosecution case.

12. Be that as it may the prosecution examined PW-3 the brother of the complainant for meteing corroboration to the testification of the complainant which for the reasons afore-stated is ridden with stark taints of embellishments besides improvements also it is un-creditworthy on account of dichotomy occurring intra-se his testimony vis-à-vis the apposite MLC also for non-effectuation of recovery of chain by the investigating officer concerned , chain whereof stood allegedly used by accused Bakshi Ram for delivering blows on his nose and eyes, yet the effect of the taints afore-stated gripping the testification of PW-1 may stand belittled if PW-3 brother of PW-1 stands concluded by this court to be an eye witness qua the occurrence. For determining the aforesaid factum, it is imperative to gauge from his testimony whether he was present at the relevant site of occurrence at the stage contemporaneous to its taking place thereat. In gauging the aforesaid factum this Court stands enjoined to on an incisive reading of his testification discern therefrom qua his rendering a version in conformity with the one rendered by PW-1. However when PW-3 testifies qua accused Sant Ram belaboring PW1 with kick and fist blows factum whereof remaining un-corroborated by PW-1 in his testification renders the testification of PW-3 to be in stark contradiction vis-à-vis the testification of PW-1 whereupon it cannot be concluded of his meteing corroborative vigor to the testimony of PW-1 wherefrom it is to be concluded of his being a concocted witness to the occurrence rendering his testimony to be incredible.

13. Furthermore the factum of PW-3 omitting to testify in his examination-in-chief qua the presence of Ananat Ram at the relevant site of occurrence whereas PW-1 testifies qua the presence of Ananat Ram at the relevant site of occurrence at the relevant time also begets an inference of PW-3 deposing contradictory qua the aforesaid factum vis-à-vis PW-1 whereupon it has also to be concluded with accentuated vigor qua his being an engineered witness to the occurrence whereupon no credence is imputable to his testification.

14. The learned Deputy Advocate General has contended with vigor qua with PW-1 a witness to recovery memo Ex.PW-1/A whereunder blood stained clothes of PW-1 were taken into possession admitting the factum of occurrence of his signatures on Ex.PW-1/A purveys sound and tangible proof qua the prosecution lending cogent proof qua effectuation of blood stained clothes of the complainant occurring thereunder yet the vigor of his submission wanes, for absence on the part of the prosecution to send the blood stained clothes of the complainant recovered under memo Ex.PW-1/A to the FSL concerned for eliciting therefrom an apposite opinion qua it holding the blood of the complainant. Contrarily the aforesaid omission rears an inference qua the blood occurring on the clothes recovered under memo Ex.PW-1/A not belonging to the accused wherefrom it is to be concluded qua their recovery not connecting the accused in the commission of the alleged offence.

15. A wholesome analysis of evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

16. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Union of India .....Appellant.
Versus
Vivek Bhardwaj & Another .....Respondents.

CMP(M) No. 284 of 2015 & RSA No. 532 of 2016.
Decided on: 30th November, 2016

Limitation Act, 1963- Section 5- An application for condonation of delay of 256 days was filed pleading that the matter remained pending before various authorities in the department – held, that the memo of appeal was returned by Assistant Solicitor General of India in the month of May, 2014 for signatures and was filed in the month of January, 2015 – no explanation for the delay was given – no sufficient cause exists for condonation of delay- application dismissed.

(Para-5)

For the appellant : Mr. Ashok Sharma, ASGI with Mr. Angrej Kapur, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Heard.

2. Main appeal, which has been filed against the judgment and decree dated 20.1.2014, passed by learned Additional District Judge-II, Una, District Una, is barred by 256 days. The explanation as set out in the application is bureaucratic style of functioning in the Government Offices as the matter allegedly remained pending for consideration before various authorities in the Department of Defence, Government of India for seeking approval. The District Attorney, Una has advised the applicant-appellant vide communication dated 10.2.2014 to seek opinion of the Law Department for filing of appeal in this Court against the impugned judgment and decree. The approval was finally received in the first week of May, 2014. The matter thereafter was processed in the office of learned Assistant Solicitor General of India and the memorandum of appeal drafted in the month of May itself. The same after obtaining the signature of the competent authority was sent to the office of learned Assistant General of India on 23rd May, 2014 for filing the appeal in this Court. The appeal along with this application, however, was filed on 19.1.2015 i.e. after about seven months. It is in this backdrop while hearing this application for sometime on 13.7.2016, the applicant, Union of India, was directed to file supplementary affidavit clarifying therein as to where the matter remained held up during the period 23.5.2014 to 18.1.2015. This order reads as follows:-

> "Heard for sometime. Interestingly enough the memorandum of appeal, in view of the averments in the application, was delivered in the office of learned Assistant Solicitor General of India on 23rd May, 2014 for being filed in the Registry of this Court. The same, however, has been filed on 19.1.2015 after a period over seven months. No explanation is forth coming as to why the memorandum of appeal, which was ready for being presented in this Court on 23.5.2014, has been filed on 19.1.2015. Learned Assistant Solicitor General of India to clarify the position in this regard in the rejoinder, which shall be filed within three weeks. List on 10th August, 2016."

3. Irrespective of 4-5 opportunities granted for the purpose, supplementary affidavit has not been filed. On the previous date, last and final opportunity was granted to the applicant-appellant to file the same with a rider that in case the affidavit is not filed even within the extended period also, the application shall be disposed of finally.

4. Learned Assistant Solicitor General of India, on instructions, submits that despite efforts made, no one has turned up to file the supplementary affidavit as directed by this Court.

5. It is seen that the memorandum of appeal returned by learned Assistant Solicitor General of India in the month of May, 2014 for signature on this application and also attestation of affidavit etc., was returned by the applicant-appellant in the month of January 2015. The affidavit filed in support of this application was got attested on 16.1.2015 at Delhi. The memorandum of appeal and this application, no doubt, was thereafter delivered in the office of learned Assistant Solicitor General of India and thereafter, it has been filed on 19.1.2015 in the Registry of this Court i.e. within 2-3 days, however, the fact remains that there is no explanation qua the delay as occurred in filing the appeal from 23.5.2014 to 18.1.2015. The applicant-appellant could have explained the same in the supplementary affidavit, however, failed to do so, irrespective of more than sufficient time granted for the purpose. True it is that in the case where the State Government or Central Government is a party, in the matter of condonation of delay, in view of the bureaucratic style of functioning, a pragmatic approach of the matter should be taken, however, in the case in hand the applicant-appellant has miserably failed to file supplementary affidavit and to offer explanation as to where the matter remained held up during the period 23.5.2014 to 18.1.2015. Therefore, sufficient cause has not been shown, which is paramount consideration, while considering an application of this nature. I, therefore, find no merit in this application and the same is accordingly dismissed. Consequently, the appeal does not survive and the same is accordingly disposed of, so also the pending application, if any.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge.

Victim of the occurrence and complainant in FIR No. 470/01 is in appeal before this Court. He is aggrieved by the impugned judgment dated 23.03.2009 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Una, District Una, H.P. in Sessions Case No. 18/06 having arisen out of FIR No. 470/01 and Sessions Case No. 19/06 out of the complaint he filed, whereby the respondents (hereinafter referred to as the accused persons) have been acquitted of the charge framed against each of them for the commission of an offence punishable under Section 447, 342, 506-II and 367 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code and the sentence awarded against each of them under Section 323 of the Indian Penal Code is also stated to be on lesser side.

2. The prosecution case as disclosed from the statement Ext. PW-11/A of the appellant-complainant shortly stated is that he had given the contract of construction of his house to accused Swaran Singh. The said accused in order to lay slab (lintel) of the house besides his own shuttering material used some planks and 'Ballies' belonging to the complainant also. On 8.09.2011 around 10.15 a.m. the said accused started opening the shuttering and to take the same to house. He noticed that the accused had been carrying shuttering material belonging to him also to his house. He objected to it. On this, accused Swaran Singh has called his co-accused Joginder Singh @ Dannu to identify shuttering. The said accused revealed that the shuttering being carried by accused Swaran Singh to his house was that of the said accused. On finding that accused Joginder Singh was telling lie, the complainant asked him as to why he did so. In the meanwhile, accused Mohinder Singh also arrived there though he had gone to the house and started interference in the conversation going on between complainant and accused Joginder Singh. Accused Mohinder Singh asked the complaint as to what he had to do with that 'Balli' which he was claiming to be his. On this, accused Swaran Singh made utterances that he had to take the same in his (sic.), to which obscene language according to complainant he objected to. On this, he was caught hold by both accused Joginder Singh and Swaran Singh. Accused Swaran Singh hit his left side buttocks with "Jhabbal" in his hand which he had been using to open the shuttering. Their co-accused Mohinder Singh administered beatings to the complainant. PW-3 and PW-4 were also present and not made any effort to save him from the clutches of the accused persons.

3. Not only this, all the three accused had dragged him from backside gate of their house to the adjoining 'Galli' (street). He was made to lie on the heap of grits there also. He was also beaten by them with kicks and fisty cuffs. He thereafter was taken by them to the house of accused Swaran Singh. There he was pushed and thrown on a cot. Due to the people gathered there, the accused did not administer further beating to him there. His mother Smt. Krishna Devi (PW-16) and his sister-in-law came for his rescue and saved him from the clutches of the accused persons.

4. The police was informed by PW-16. The investigation was conducted by PW-17 ASI Prem Chand, the then I.O. Police Post, Santokgarh. It is he who had recorded the statement Ext. PW-11/A of the complainant and also made the application Ext. PW-17/A for getting the complainant medically examined in the hospital. He prepared the spot map Ext. PW-17/B and recorded the statements of prosecution witnesses. He had taken into possession the iron rod, Ext. P-1 and shirt of complainant, Ext. P-2 vide recovery memo Ext. PW-12/A. He has also taken in possession two 'Ballies' Ext. P-3 and Ext. P-4 and one garder Ext. P-5 vide recovery memo Ext. PW-10/A. He got recorded the statements of PW-3 and PW-4 under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Una vide memo Ext. PW-17/C. Statement of Angad Singh Ext. PW-17/D, statement of Sonu Ext. PW-17/E, and that of S/Shri Ram Murti, Prem Lal, Usha Rani and Ashutosh, Ext. PW-17/F, PW-17/G, PW-17/H and PW-17/I respectively were also recorded as per version of the said witnesses. He has also recorded the statement Ext. PW-17/J of PW Moti Ram. The Medico Legal Certificate Ext. PW-1/A and Ext. PW-12/B were also collected from the hospital.

5. On the completion of the investigation, challan under Section 447, 342, 323, 506-II, 367 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code was filed against all the accused. In view of offence punishable under Section 367 of the Indian Penal Code is triable by the Court of Sessions, therefore, not only the challan but the complaint filed by the complainant was also sent to Sessions Court for trial.

6. As pointed out at the out set, learned trial Judge has framed the charge under Section 447, 342, 323, 506-II, 367 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code against each of the accused. Since they pleaded not guilty, therefore, the prosecution was called upon to produce the evidence in support of the charge so framed against the accused persons. The prosecution in turn has examined 17 witnesses in all. The material prosecution witnesses, however, are PW-12, the complainant, his mother Smt. Krishna Devi (PW-16), Sh. Ashutosh (PW-9) nephew of complainant, Sh. Hardeep Singh (PW-4), nephew of accused Swaran Singh, Swaran Kaur (PW-5), mother of the said accused whereas, Sh. Ram Murti (PW-6), Sh. Prem Lal (PW-7) (owner of the cart hired for carrying shuttering by accused Swaran Singh), Smt. Usha Rani (PW-8) and Sh. Moti Lal (PW-10), the eye witnesses. The remaining witnesses are PW-1 Dr. N.K. Angra and PW-15 Dr. Indu Bhardwaj. The remaining witnesses including the I.O. Prem Chand PW-17 are police officials.

7. On the other hand, the accused in their statements recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure have admitted that the complainant had given the contract of construction of his house to accused Swaran Singh, however, according to said accused not in a sum of Rs. 45,000/- but Rs. 60,000/-. It is also admitted that on 8.9.2001 in the morning, accused Swaran Singh started removing unfinished shuttering, however, according to them the said accused was accompanied by Mohinder Singh and not Sonu and Angad, his nephews. The rest of the prosecution case has either been denied by them being incorrect or for want of knowledge. In their defence, while answering second last question, it was stated that a false case has been registered against them at the instance of complainant who still owe a sum of Rs. 40,000/- towards the complainant.

8. As pointed out at the out set, learned trial Judge has acquitted all the accused of the charge framed under Section 447, 342, 506-II, 367 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code as was framed against each of them, however, convicted and sentenced to pay Rs. 1,000/- each as fine for the commission of an offence punishable under Section 323 of the Indian Penal Code.

9. The impugned judgment has been sought to be quashed on the grounds inter-alia that the same has been passed without application of mind. There was ample evidence on record to show the involvement of the accused persons in the commission of offence punishable under Section 342, 367, 451, 504, 506-II, of the Indian Penal Code, however, they were erroneously acquitted form the charge framed against each of them. The lesser sentence awarded against accused-respondents has caused more harm to the complainant as well as the society as a whole and thereby caused miscarriage of justice to him.

10. The complainant as appellant while in person has strenuously contended that all ingredients of commission of an offence punishable under Section 342 and 367 of the Indian Penal Code stand established. The statements of PW-3 and PW-4 recorded under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure itself demonstrate that the complainant was taken by the accused persons to their place, however, for settlement of accounts. Whereas according to the complainant, he was kidnapped by the accused. The explanation that he has received injuries on his person by way of fall on shuttering material is wrong. The lesser sentence of fine under Section 323 IPC awarded against the accused is also stated to be against the public policy.

11. We have carefully analyzed the oral as well as documentary evidence. As a matter of fact, as rightly pointed out by learned trial Judge, there are two sets of witnesses i.e. one set which includes the kith and kin of the accused, whereas, the other that of the complainant. PW-3 Angad Singh, PW-4 Hardeep and PW-5 Swaran Kaur, as noticed supra, are the nephews and mother of accused Swaran Singh. Their testimony amply demonstrates that the complainant and the accused quarreled at such a stage when accused Swaran Singh was in the process of removing the shuttering from the lintel of the house (under construction) of the complainant. Hot exchanges took place between the complainant and the accused on the issue of ownership of 'Ballie' (wooden plank meant for giving support to the shuttering). The statements Ext. PW-3/A and Ext. PW-4/A of PW-3 and PW-4 recorded by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure not at all implicate the accused persons and rather as per the same it is the complainant who assaulted accused Swaran Singh. It has also come on record by way of the testimony of PW-3 and PW-4 that the complainant though was taken by accused Swaran Singh to his house, however, for settlement of accounts. The close scrutiny of testimony of PW-3 to PW-5 lead to the only conclusion that some scuffle had taken place between the complainant and accused Swaran Singh. Subsequently, accused Joginder Singh and accused Mohinder Singh also joined that scuffle. Though it remained unexplained as to who was the aggressor, however, the fact remains that no injuries were there on the person of accused persons, whereas, the MLC Ext. PW-1/A and Ext. PW-12/B reveal that there were injuries corresponding to the time of occurrence in existence on the person of complainant. The nature thereof, of course, was simple in nature. The accsued as such were convicted under Section 323 of the Indian Penal Code. They have not assailed the findings of their conviction and sentence any further by way of filing an appeal may be because only the sentence of fine has been awarded against them.

12. Now if coming to the own testimony of complainant, who has stepped into the witness box as PW-12 and that of his mother PW-16, it is apparent that some fight between him and the accused had taken place on the spot. The prosecution case to this effect finds corroboration from the MLC Ext. PW-1/A. The accused, no doubt, have denied the prosecution story being wrong as according to them the complainant in order to avoid the payment of balance amount i.e. Rs. 40,000/- has engineered and fabricated this case against them falsely. The facts, however, remain that evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of two sets of witnesses as aforesaid, some scuffle had taken place on the issue of ownership of one 'Ballie'. Irrespective of there being no clinching evidence as to which of the party was aggressor, it would not be improper to conclude that it is the accused who had administered beatings to the complainant and caused thereby injuries simple in nature on his person. Being so, it is only a case under Section 323 IPC is made out against the accused persons and not under Section 342 or 367 read with Section 34 IPC, as no evidence cogent and reliable has come on record to show that the complainant was wrongfully confined by the accused persons within the meaning of Section 342 of the Code and that he was kidnapped by them within the meaning of Section 367 of the Code. He, no doubt, was taken by the accused to their home, however, to settle the accounts and not with malafide intention to harm him. It is for this reason, he himself has stated in his statement Ext. PW-11/A, which finds mention the very first version qua the manner in which the occurrence had taken place in their house, the accused had not administered beatings to him. Though, according to him, he was thrown on the cot, however, it seems that he was made to sit on the cot. Similarly, no evidence has come on record to show that he was threatened by the accused persons to do away with his life because independent witnesses PW-6 Ram Murti, PW-7 Prem Raj, PW-8 Usha Rani and PW-10 Moti Ram have not supported the prosecution case and rather turned hostile to the prosecution. The own testimony of complainant for want of corroboration from any independent source cannot be relied upon. His mother (PW-16) arrived at the place of accused and saved him from their clutches, therefore, her testimony that she witnessed the occurrence is also false. Even the complainant has also not said that the occurrence was witnessed by his mother. His testimony that she appeared on the scene of occurrence and tried to save him from the clutches of the accused rather reveals that PW-16 arrived there later on.

13. The ratio of the judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Ram Lochan Ahir V. State of West Bengal, AIR 1963 SC 1074, State of Maharashtra V. Annappa Bandu Kavatage, AIR 1979 SC 1410, Jamatraj Kewalji Govani V. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1968 S.C. 178, Raunki Saroop V. State, AIR 1970 Punjab and Haryana, 450 and Pannaand others V. State of Rajasthan, 1987 Cri.L.J. 997 (Rajasthan High Court) is not attracted in the given facts and circumstances of this Case, hence need not to be referred in detail in this judgment.

14. True it is that in view of the ratio of judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh V. Saleem @ Chamaru and another, 2005(3) Criminal Court Cases 330 (S.C.) and in Adu Ram V. Mukna 2005(2) RCR (Criminal) 64 inadequate sentence would do more harm and that the sentence should be in conformity with the atrocity and brutality with which the crime has been committed. One should also not lose sight of the fact that while determining the quantum of sentence against a convict, it is the magnitude of the crime committed, gravity and heinousness thereof as well as the manner in which it is committed, weigh in the mind of the Court.

15. In the given facts and circumstances, the complainant raised the issue of ownership of one 'Ballie' and it is on this both parties enraged and scuffled with each other and it is in that process, the complainant seems to have received injuries on his person. The offence cannot be said to be grievous in nature warranting for award of severe punishment to the accused. Otherwise also, for the commission of an offence punishable under Section 323 IPC, an offender can either be imprisoned for a term which may extend to one year or fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000/- or both. Since the accused/convicts have been sentenced by learned trial Court with fine of Rs. 1,000/- each, therefore, in view of there being no past criminal history in their credit, the sentence so awarded against each of them is just and reasonable. The law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgments (supra) is, therefore, distinguishable in the given facts and circumstances of this case.

16. In view of re-appraisal of the oral as well as documentary evidence on record, in our considered opinion, the trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while passing the judgment under challenge in this appeal. The same, as such, is affirmed and the appeal is dismissed. Personal bonds furnished by the accused persons shall stand cancelled and sureties discharged.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Budhi Singh ....Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P. and others ... Respondents.

CWP No. 4548 of 2009.
Decided on: 02.12.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Revision petition has been dismissed by a non-speaking order- no findings were recorded on the grounds raised in the revision petition- recording of reasons is necessary, in case of a decision affecting anyone prejudicially – the order set aside and case remanded to the revisional Court for afresh decision. (Para-2 to 5)

For the petitioner. Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents Mr. Vikram Thakur and Ms. Parul Negi, Dy. AGs for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Arvind Sharma, Advocate for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral)

By way of this revision petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following relief.

i) "That the order dated 27.10.2009 at Annexure P-7 passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi exercising powers of Director of Consolidation under the H.P.Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971 in case No. 1/2009 may very kindly be quashed and set aside.

ii) That the order dated 24.5.2007 passed by the Consolidation officer at Annexure P-5 in Revenue Apeal No. 75/2006, titled Parkash Singh v. Budhi Singh may also be quashed and set aside.

iii) That the respondent may very kindly be directed to produce the entire record pertaining to the case of the petitioner for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court."

2. The grievance raised by way of the writ petition is that feeling aggrieved by an order which was passed by Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur dated 24th May, 2007, the petitioner had preferred a revision petition under Section 54 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act, which revision petition stands dismissed by the Revisional Authority i.e. Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi by way of the impugned order which is not sustainable in the eyes of law as the impugned order is an unreasoned and non-speaking order and no findings have been returned in the said order on the grounds which were taken in the revision petition by the petitioner while assailing the order of Consolidation Officer.

3. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the pleadings of the case. A perusal of the impugned order demonstrates that it prima facie is a non-speaking order as no findings have been returned by the learned Revisional Authority on the grounds which were raised in the revision petition filed against order dated 24.05.2007 passed by the Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur. The only reasoning which has been assigned by the Divisional Commissioner to uphold the order passed by the Consolidation Officer is that Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur had visited the spot in the presence of parties and before passing the impugned order, the Consolidation Officer had gone through the record. In my considered view, this reasoning is not sufficient to uphold the order passed by the Consolidation Officer as the Revisional Authority after due application of mind should have had returned findings also on the grounds which were taken in the revision petition against the order passed by the Consolidation Officer.

4. It is settled law that recording of reasons is necessary if decisions affect any one prejudicially. Even a quasi-judicial authority has to record reasons in support of its conclusion and insistence on recording of reasons is meant to serve the wider principle of justice that justice must not only be done but it must also appear to have been done. Besides this, recording of reasons operates as a restraint of any possible arbitrary exercise of judicial and quasi judicial power. It can only be inferred from the reasons assigned in the order as to whether discretion has been exercised by the decision maker on relevant ground and by disregarding extraneous consideration. Besides this, reasons facilitate the process of judicial review by superior Courts and insistence of reasons is a requirement for both judicial accountability and transparency. These settled principles of law have not been taken into consideration by the Revisional Authority while passing the impugned order.

5. Accordingly, order dated 27th October, 2009 passed by the Revisional Authority in case No. 1/2009, dated 27.10.2009, is set aside and the case is remanded back to the said authority to decide the same afresh after affording an opportunity of being heard to the parties. It is made clear that said authority shall dispose of the matter by passing a reasoned and speaking order. Keeping in consideration the fact that the revision petition is pertaining to the year 2007, this Court hopes and expects that the Revisional Authority shall decide the same, as expeditiously as possible, but not later than six months from today.

6. With these observations, the writ petition is disposed of. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

Presence for the parties:

Mr.Deepak Bhasin, Advocate, for the insurer.

Mr.Suneet Goel, Mr.Y.K. Thakur and Mr.Lakshay Thakur, Advocates, for the claimants, owner and driver, in respective appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

All these appeals are the outcome of one vehicular accident, therefore, the same were clubbed and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

FAO Nos.239 & 379 of 20114

2. These appeals have been filed against the common award, dated 25th March, 2014, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Shimla, H.P., (for short, the Tribunal), in MAC Petition No.117-S/2 of 12/10, titled Ram Kali and others vs. Manohar Singh Thakur and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.10,58,440/-, with interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short, the impugned award).

3. Feeling aggrieved, the claimants have questioned the impugned award by the medium of FAO No.379 of 2014, while the insurer has challenged the same by way of FAO No.239 of 2014, on the grounds taken in the memos of appeals.

FAO Nos.476 & 577 of 2016

4. These appeals are directed against the common award, dated 1st July, 2016, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (II), Shimla, H.P., (for short, the Tribunal), in MAC Petition No.26-S/2 of 2014, titled Manorma Thakur and others vs. Manohar Singh Thakur and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.45,86,912/-, with interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short, the impugned award).

5. The claimants have questioned the impugned award by way of FAO No.476 of 2016 and the insurer has laid challenge to the impugned award by filing FAO No.577 of 2016, on the grounds taken in the memos of appeals.

6. In order to determine all the appeals, it is expedient to have a glance of the facts of the case. It has been averred that on 15th November, 2009, at about 6.30 p.m., deceased

Meena Ram was traveling as labourer, while deceased Narinder Thakur was traveling as owner of the goods, in Tipper bearing No.HP-63-2466, which met with an accident due to the rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending Tipper, namely, Bhupinder Singh, as a result of which both – Meena Ram and Narinder Thakur – lost their lives. The claimants filed two separate claim petitions. Claim Petition No.117-S/2 of 12/10, titled Ram Kali and others vs. Manohar Singh Thakur and others, was filed by the dependants of deceased Meena Ram and Claim Petition No.26-S/2 of 2014, titled Manorma Thakur and others vs. Manohar Singh Thakur and others, was filed by the legal heirs of deceased Narinder Thakur, claiming compensation to the tune of Rs.15.00 lacs and Rs.50.00 lacs, respectively, as per the break-ups given in the claim petitions.

7. The Tribunal determined both the claim petitions by the medium of two different awards, as detailed above, are the subject matter of instant appeals.

8. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the insurer/appellant in FAO No.239 of 2014 and FAO No.577 of 2016 argued that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in holding that, at the time of accident, the offending Tipper was being driven by Bhupender Singh. In fact, the offending Tipper was being driven by Narender Thakur. In support of his submission, he relied upon the FIR recorded in regard to the accident, which was lodged against Narender Thakur. The learned counsel for the insurer further submitted that the amount awarded by the Tribunal, in both the claim petitions, is excessive. He also argued that the claimants, in Claim Petition No.26-S/2 of 2014, filed the same after a long gap, i.e. after about seven years of the accident, therefore, the same is liable to be dismissed on account of delay. It was also submitted that the Tribunal has awarded interest at higher rate, is not commensurate with the prevailing rate of interest.

9. Mr.Suneet Goel and Mr.Lakshay Thakur, learned counsel for the appellants/claimants in FAO Nos.476 of 2016 and 379 of 2014, respectively, submitted that the amount of compensation awarded by the Tribunal is inadequate and needs to be enhanced.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

11. The claimants in claim petitions have specifically pleaded that the deceased Meena Ram and Narender Thakur were traveling in the offending vehicle as labourer and as owner of goods, respectively, which fact has been admitted by the owner in his replies filed to the claim petitions. Accordingly, there was no necessity to lead evidence to prove that the deceased were traveling as labourer and owner of goods in the offending Tipper. Still, the claimants in Claim Petition No.117-S/2 of 2012/2010, have examined PW-4 Mohan Singh, who was one of the occupants in the offending vehicle. He deposed that at the time of accident, the offending vehicle was being driven by Bhupinder Singh rashly and negligently. Further stated that in the FIR Ext.PW-1/A, it was wrongly mentioned that the offending vehicle, at the time of accident, was being driven by Narinder Thakur. This witness was cross-examined by the learned counsel for the insurer, but failed to extract anything and was not able to shatter his statement. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraphs 10 to 28 of the award impugned in FAO Nos.239 and 379 of 2014 and has rightly come to the conclusion that Bhupinder Singh was driving the offending vehicle at the time of accident.

12. The insurer has not led any evidence to prove that the driver Bhupinder Singh was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has failed to discharge the onus. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal, on the above issues are upheld.

13. To Deal with the next ground urged by the learned counsel for the insurer that the claim petition was filed after a long delay, it is apt to record herein that the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act), has gone through a sea change and rigours of Limitation Act have been taken away. Prior to coming into force the amended Act, limitation was prescribed for filing the claim petitions by the victims of a vehicular accident. However, after noticing that the prescribing of limitation was operating harsh and in many cases was likely to cause injustice, the Act was amended and Sub Section (3) of Section 166 of the Act came to be deleted, which amendment came into force w.e.f. 14th November, 1994. The consequence of the above said amendment was that the Claim Petition, in a vehicular accident, could be filed by the victim at any time.

14. The Apex Court in Dhannalal vs. D.P. Vijayvargiya and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2155, while examining the effect of omitting Sub-section(3) of Section 166 of the Act, has held that there is no limitation prescribed for filing claims before the Tribunal in respect of any accident. It was also held that where a claim petition was filed, while sub section (3) of Section 166 of the Act was operative, the same could not be dismissed on the ground that at the time of its filing it was barred by limitation under Sub-Section (3) of Section 166 of the Act:

> "6. Before the scope of sub-section (3) of Section 166 of the Act is examined, it may be pointed out that the aforesaid sub-section (3) of Section 166 of the Act has been omitted by Section 53 of the Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act, 1994, which came in force w.e.f. 14-11-1994. The effect of the Amendment Act is that w.e.f. 14-11-1994, there is no limitation for filing claims before the Tribunal in respect of any accident. It can be said that Parliament realised the grave injustice and injury which was being caused to the heirs and legal representatives of the victims who died in accidents by rejecting their claim petitions only on ground of limitation. It is a matter of common knowledge that majority of the claimants for such compensation are ignorant about the period during which such claims should be preferred. After the death due to the accident, of the bread earner of the family, in many cases such claimants are virtually on the streets. Even in cases where the victims escape death some of such victims are hospitalised for months if not for years. In the present case itself the applicant claims that he met with the accident on 4-12-1990, and he was being treated as an indoor patient till 27-9-1991. According to us, in its wisdom the Parliament, rightly thought that prescribing a period of limitation and restricting the power of Tribunal to entertain any claim petition beyond the period of twelve months from the date of the accident was harsh, inequitable and in many cases was likely to cause injustice to the claimants. The present case is a glaring example where the appellant has been deprived by the order of the High Court from claiming the compensation because of delay of only four days in preferring the claim petition.
> 7. In this background, now it has to be examined as to what is the effect of omission of sub-section (3) of Section 166 of the Act. From the Amending Act it does not appear that the said sub-section (3) has been deleted retrospectively. But at the same time, there is nothing in the Amending Act to show that benefit of deletion of sub-section (3) of Section 166, is not be extended to pending claim petitions where a plea of limitation has been raised. The effect of deletion of sub-section (3) from Section 166 of the Act can be tested by an illustration. Suppose an accident had taken place two years before 14-11-1994, when sub-section (3) was omitted from Section 166. For one reason or the other no claim petition had been filed by the victim or the heirs of the victim till 14-11-1994. Can a claim petition be not filed after 14-11-1994, in respect of such accident ? Whether a claim petition filed after 14-11-1994, can be rejected by the Tribunal on the ground of limitation saying that the period of twelve months which had been prescribed when sub-section (3) of Section 166, was in force having expired the right to prefer the claim petition had been extinguished and shall not be revived after deletion of sub-section (3) of Section 166 w.e.f. 14-11-1994 ? According to us, the answer should be in negative. When sub-section (3) of Section 166 has been omitted, then the Tribunal has to entertain a claim petition without taking note of the date on which such accident had taken place. The claim petitions cannot be thrown out on the ground that such claim petitions were barred by time when sub-section (3) of Section 166 was in force. It need not be impressed that Parliament from time to time has introduced amendments in the old Act as well as in the new Act in order to protect the interest of the victims of the accidents and their heirs if the victims die. One such amendment has been introduced in the Act by the aforesaid Amendment Act 54 of 1994, by substituting sub-section (6) of Section 158, which provides :

"As soon as any information regarding any accident involving death or bodily injury to any person is recorded or report under this section is completed by a police officer, the officer incharge of the police station shall forward a copy of the same within thirty days from the date of recording of information or, as the case may be, on completion of such report to the claims Tribunal having jurisdiction and a copy thereof to the concerned insurer, and where a copy is made available to the owner of such report, forward the some to such Claims Tribunal and Insurer".

In view of sub-section (6) of Section 158 of the Act the officer incharge of the police station is enjoined to forward a copy of information / report regarding the accident to the Tribunal having jurisdiction. A copy thereof has also to be forwarded to the concerned insurer. It also requires that where a copy is made available to the owner of the vehicle, he shall within thirty days or receipt of such copy forward the same to the Claims Tribunal and insurer. In this background, the deletion of sub-section (3) from Section 166 should be given full effect so that the object of deletion of said section by the Parliament is not defeated. If a victim of the accident or heirs of the deceased victim can prefer claim for compensation although not being preferred earlier because of the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed, how the victim or the heirs of the deceased shall be in a worse position if the question of condonation of delay in filing the claim petition is pending either before the Tribunal, High Court or the Supreme Court. The present appeal is one such case. The appellant has been pursuing from Tribunal to this Court. His right to get compensation in connection with the accident in question is being resisted by the respondents on the ground of delay in filing the same. If he had not filed any petition for claim till 14-11-1994, in respect of the accident which took place on 4-12-1990, in view of the Amending Act he became entitled to file such claim petition, the period of limitation having been deleted, the claim petition which has been filed and is being pursued up to this Court cannot be thrown out on the ground of limitation."

15. Having said so, the contention of the learned counsel for the insurer qua delay is negatived.

16. Now coming the plea whether the impugned awards are excessive or inadequate, deceased Meena Ram was a labourer. The Tribunal, after taking into account all the factors, assessed the income of the deceased at Rs.7,800/- per month and after deducting 1/3rd, the Tribunal has rightly held that the claimants lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.6,240/- per month. The deceased, at the time of accident, was 45 years of age. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120 read with the 2nd Schedule attached with the Act, the Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of 13.

17. Having said so, the amount of compensation awarded by the Tribunal vide award impugned in FAO Nos.239 of 2014 and 379 of 2014, is upheld.

18. As far as the award, impugned in FAO Nos.476 and 577 of 2016, is concerned, the Tribunal, after referring to the material on record, has rightly assessed the monthly income of the deceased Narinder Thakur, at Rs.42,902/-. After deducting 1/3rd amount towards the personal expenses of the deceased, the Tribunal has rightly assessed the loss of source of dependency to the claimants at Rs.28,602/-. The deceased, at the time of accident, was 48 years of age, thus, in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case (supra) read with the 2nd Schedule attached with the Act, the Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of 13.

19. Different rates of interest have been awarded by the Tribunal in both the claim petitions i.e. at the rate of 9% in one claim petition and at the rate of 7% in the other. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

20. Accordingly, it is held that the amount of compensation, in both the awards, shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petitions till realization.

21. In view of the above discussion, the impugned awards are modified, as indicated above. The Registry is directed to release the amount, alongwith interest as above, in favour of the claimants in FAO Nos.239 & 379 of 2014, forthwith, through their bank accounts, strictly in terms of the impugned award and the excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the insurer through payee's account cheque. In FAO Nos.476 & 577 of 2016, the insurer is directed to deposit the amount of compensation with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, within six weeks from today, and on deposit, the amount be released in favour of the claimants through their bank accounts forthwith, strictly in terms of the impugned award, after proper identification.

22. Both the appeals stand disposed of accordingly.

CMPMO No. 83 of 2013.

Decided on: 2nd December, 2016.

Limitation Act, 1963- Section 5- There was delay of 125 days in filing the appeal – an application for condonation of delay was filed, which was dismissed – held, that the counsel for the applicant had not obtained the copy from the copying agency – there is no requirement of intimating the counsel on the preparation of the copy – the time till the collection of the copy cannot be deducted – the delay was not explained properly- appeal dismissed.(Para-3 to 6)

For the Petitioners: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate.

For Respondent No.2: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Nishant Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The learned Civil Court decreed the apposite suit of the plaintiff. The defendants/petitioner herein made a endeavour before the learned First Appellate Court by belatedly instituting an appeal therefrom thereat to assail the verdict recorded by the Civil Court by appending therewith an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, wherewithin an espousal was made for condoning the delay of 125 days which occurred in the institution of an appeal therebefore by the defendants/petitioner herein. The application was contested by the plaintiff/respondent herein. On the contentious pleadings of the parties, the learned First Appellate Court struck issues whereupon in discharge of the onus cast on the relevant issues upon the contesting parties, each lead their evidence thereon. On a perusal of the evidence adduced before the learned First Appellate Court, it recorded a conclusion qua the application instituted therebefore under Section 5 of the Limitation Act for begetting condonation of delay which occurred in the institution of an appeal therebfore against the impugned judgment recorded by the Civil Court, warranting dismissal arousable from the relevant delay standing not satisfactorily explained.

2. I have heard the learned counsel for either sides at length and have also traversed through the entire record.

3. The defendants/petitioners herein stood represented before the learned Civil Court. The learned Civil Court had made a pronouncement upon the suit of the plaintiff/respondent No.1 herein on 10.09.2010 whereat also the counsel for the defendants/petitioners herein recorded his presence therebefore. The counsel for the petitioners/defendants within limitation applied on 18.09.2010 for a copy of the apposite verdict recorded by the Civil Court. As apparent from a perusal of the record, the relevant copy as stood applied for by the counsel for the defendants/petitioners herein, stood attested on 22.09.2010. However, despite the Copying Agency readying the relevant copies of the relevant judgment and decree as stood applied for by the counsel for the petitioners/defendants for their onward transmission to him yet the counsel for the defendants/petitioners herein did not thereat obtain the relevant copies from the Copying Agency, rather he upto 10.11.2010 inordinately procrastinated their collection from the relevant Copying Agency. The factum of the relevant copies standing collected on 10.11.2010 by the counsel for the petitioner herein evinces an inference of his being throughout since 18.09.2010 whereat he applied for the relevant copies upto 10.11.2010, his recording his presence in the premises of the Civil Court concerned, significantly, when no evidence stands adduced qua since his applying for the relevant copies on 18.9.2010 upto his collecting the relevant copies on 10.11.2010, his being unavailable in the premises of the relevant Court, whereupon a concomitant inference stands sprouted qua his deliberately omitting to make their collection therefrom despite theirs standing readied for their delivery to him. Also the learned counsel for the petitioner has not placed on record any document showing the existence besides prevalence of any rule enjoining the ministerial staff manning the Copying Agency concerned to on the relevant copies standing readied for their onward transmission to the counsel theirs holding an obligation to purvey information qua the aforesaid facet to him. Consequently, in the absence of prevalence of the aforesaid rule casting the aforesaid injunction upon the ministerial staff manning the Copying Agency, contrarily, a conclusion spurs qua an obligation standing cast upon the counsel for the petitioner herein to visit the Copying Agency for ensuring their timely collection therefrom, especially when he for reasons aforestated was throughout since the recording of the apposite pronouncement on 10.9.2010 by the Civil Court upto 10.11.2010 remained present in the premises of the Court concerned. Consequently, his omission to make a timely collection of the copies of the relevant documents from the Coping Agency concerned is concluded to stand gripped with a vice of deliberateness.

4. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioners/defendants submits before this Court qua the time spent in obtaining the copies from 18.09.2010 whereat he applied for delivery of copies of the relevant documents, upto 10.11.2010 whereat they stood collected by the counsel for the petitioners/defendants being amenable for its standing deducted for computing the relevant period of limitation. However, the aforesaid submission also holds no vigour, conspicuously when despite the counsel for the petitioner/defendant since his applying on 18.09.2010 for delivery of the relevant copies by the relevant Copying Agency concerned till their delivery on 10.11.2010 remained present in the Court premises, whereupon it is to be reiteratedly held qua his deliberately procrastinating their collection therefrom upto 10.11.2010. Also the aforesaid submission would find force with this Court if the counsel or the litigant seeking exclusion of period spent in obtaining the copies from the copying Agency was/were evidently evinced both diligence besides vigilance in not only making an apposite application within limitation before the quarter concerned, also his/theirs evidently making the relevant collection in prompt sequel to theirs standing readied for the relevant purpose also theirs by visiting the Copying Agency concerned ensuring the relevant fact of their readiness for transmission to him/them. However, since the aforesaid vigilance besides diligence by the counsel for the petitioners/defendants is evidently grossly wanting,hence, the petitioners/defendants are not entitled to seek exclusion of the period spent in obtaining the relevant copies from the relevant Copying Agency for thereupon the relevant computation of the period of limitation standing made.

5. The counsel for the petitioners/defendants submits that the attribution of negligence to the counsel for the petitioners/defendants cannot also stand fastened upon the petitioners herein. However, the aforesaid submission warrants it standing discountenanced arouseable from the petitioner(s) herein being a corporate entity also when the counsel representing them before the learned Court concerned was enjoined to hold constant interaction with the officials of the entity concerned besides when the officials concerned of the entity concerned stood also enjoined to hold constant interaction with the counsel representing them in the Court concerned yet contrarily, it appears qua the officials concerned besides their counsel representing the entity concerned before the relevant Courts omitting to maintain the relevant inter action intra se each other, in sequel thereto, with officials of the corporate entity, hence, holding an alike responsibility with their counsel qua the progress of the case, it appears of each derelicting on the aforesaid facet. Consequently, the sole aforesaid responsibility of the relevant counsel, if any, which stand canvassed by the counsel for the petitioner to not encumber the entity with any hardship is obviously meritless and is rejected. In aftermath, the aforesaid submission holds good only qua individual litigant(s) it does not for reasons aforesaid hold good qua a corporate entity hereat which stands manned by experienced and responsible staff.

6. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition, which is accordingly dismissed. IN sequel, the order impugned hereat is affirmed and maintained.

Date of decision: 02.12.2016

Employees Compensation Act, 1923- Section 12- Deceased was an employee of the contractor- H.P. Housing Board was principal employer- principal employer has to pay compensation at the first instance and it is at liberty to recover the same from the contractor – appeal allowed and order modified accordingly. (Para-2 to 4)

For the appellant: Mr.Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Ajit Jaswal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Gulzar Singh Rathour, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 5.
Respondent No.6 stated to have expired.
Mr.Narender Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award, dated 20th September, 2012, passed by the Commissioner, exercising powers under the Employees Compensation Act, 1923, (for short, the Act), in case RBT No.8-2 of 2011/2003, titled Giani Devi and others vs. Ashok Kumar and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.3,38,880/-alongwith simple interest at the rate of 12% per annum and costs of Rs.1,000/-, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the appellant was saddled with the liability (for short the "impugned award").

2. The learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellant argued that the appellant i.e. H.P. Housing Board is the principal employer and has to pay the compensation, but in terms of the mandate of law, the appellant is entitled to recover the same from respondent No.7 Ashok Kumar, contractor. In support of his submission, the Senior Advocate invited my attention to Sub Sections (2) and (3) of Section 12 of the Act, which are reproduced below:

> "(2) Where the principal is liable to pay compensation under this section, he shall be entitled to be indemnified by the contractor, [2] or any other person from whom the workman could have recovered compensation and where a contractor who is himself a principal is liable to pay compensation or to indemnify a principal under this section he shall be entitled to be indemnified by any person standing to him in the relation of a contractor from whom the workman could have recovered compensation,] and all questions as to the right to and the amount of any such indemnity shall, in default of agreement, be settled by the Commissioner.
> (3) Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing a workman from recovering compensation from the contractor instead of the principal."

3. It is admitted case of the parties that the deceased was an employee of the contractor and the principal employer was H.P. Housing Board, thus, has to pay the compensation at the first instance and recover the same from the contractor.

4. Having said so, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified by providing that the appellant has to pay the compensation, as awarded by the Commissioner, at the first instance, however, is at liberty to recover the same from the Contractor.

5. At this stage, the learned counsel for the claimants stated that claimant No.6 has died during the pendency of the appeal and prayed that the compensation in respect of her share be apportioned among other claimants. Prayer allowed.

6. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

For the appellant. : Mr. Bhupender Pathania, Advocate.

For the respondents. :Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of this appeal, the appellant/Himachal Pradesh State Forest Corporation has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 59 of 2005 dated 30.11.2007, vide which learned appellate court while allowing the appeal so filed before it by the present respondent, dismissed the suit filed by plaintiff-Corporation and decreed the counter claim of defendant for recovery of Rs. 60,031/- with pending and future interest @ 8% per annum from the date of institution of the suit till realization along with costs.

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that appellant/plaintiff-Corporation (hereinafter referred to as 'the plaintiff-Corporation') filed a suit for recovery of Rs.68,735/- on the ground that in the year 1997 tenders were invited for extraction of resin and its carriage up to the road side Depot, for Lot No. 30/97 which work was allotted to defendant, (Kahan Singh since deceased), vide agreement dated 20.3.1997. It was further the case of the plaintiff-Corporation that for the said work the target was fixed 126 quintal pure resin from 3140 blaze and the rate fixed was Rs. 600 per quintal for extraction of resin and transportation of the same upto Roadside Depot. The total value of the work as per plaintiff-Corporation was Rs. 75,600/- and per section yield in the said lot was fixed at 40 quintal and all these aspects of the matter were made clear in the agreement itself. It was further the case of the plaintiff-Corporation that earnest money in the shape of FDR for an amount of Rs. 7,000/- was deposited and pledged in the name of plaintiff-Corporation for the said lot by the defendant. It was further the case of the plaintiff-Corporation that against the target of 126 quintals, the entire pure resin which could be extracted by the defendant was 86.980 quintals which was 39.020 quintals less than the fixed target which had caused loss to the tune of Rs. 1,28,766 to the plaintiff-Corporation on account of less extraction of resin. It was further mentioned in the plaint that defendant had raised objection that during the said period there was heavy rain as well as other unfavourable circumstances and after taking into consideration his plea, the higher authorities had granted relaxation of 12.600 quintal in favour of the defendant and after giving the said relaxation, the defendant was still liable to pay to the plaintiff-Corporation an amount of Rs. 68,735/- as per calculations given in the plaint along with interest @ 18% per annum and costs of the suit.

3. The claim of the plaintiff-Corporation was resisted by the defendant who stated that reduction of yield was not on account of his acts of omission and commission. It was mentioned in the written statement that in fact the yield which was fixed by the plaintiff-Corporation qua Lot No. 30/97 was arbitrarily fixed in proportion to the yield of previous years and that yield had been reduced due to heavy rain which in fact was in the knowledge of the plaintiff-Corporation. As per defendant he extracted 86.980 quintals of resin and if the same was worked out on the basis of yield of previous years, the target so achieved was more than the target of the previous year.

4. Defendant simultaneously also filed counter-claim for recovery of Rs.60,031/- with costs and interest @ 18% per annum from November, 1997 onwards. As per defendant he had extracted 86.980 quintal of pure resin, value of which was Rs.52,188/- whereas he had only been paid Rs.1568/- by the plaintiff-Corporation. Defendant thus prayed for recovery of the said amount as well as the earnest money which was deposited by him with costs and interest.

5. On the basis of pleadings of the parties and material placed on record, the learned Trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff-Corporation is entitled to the suit amount, if so to what extent ? OPP

2. Whether the plaintiff-Corporation has no locus standi to file the present suit ? OPD

3. Whether the plaintiff-Corporation has no enforceable cause of action? OPD

4. Whether the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation is time barred ? OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff-Corporation is estopped by his own act and conduct to file the present suit ? OPD

6. Whether the defendant is entitled to the amount of Rs. 60,031/- by way of counter claim? OPD

7. Relief."

6. Learned Trial Court returned the following findings on the said issues:-

"Issue No.1 :No.

Issue No.2 :No.

Issue No.3 :No.

Issue No.4 :No.

Issue No.5 : No.

Issue No.6 : No.

Relief : Suit is partly decreed with costs and counter claim dismissed as per operative part of judgment"

7. Accordingly, learned trial court vide its judgment and decree dated 1.6.2005 partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation by holding the plaintiff-Corporation to be entitled to recover Rs. 27,155/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till its realization from the defendant. However, the counter claim filed by the defendant was dismissed by learned trial court.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the same, defendant filed an appeal before learned appellate court challenging the partial decree of the suit in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation as well as dismissal of his counter claim by learned trial court. The partial decree granted in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation and rejection of his counter claim was challenged by the defendant by way of a single appeal. In other words, no separate appeals were filed by defendant against the judgment and decree which was partly allowed in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation by learned trial court and against the judgment and decree vide which his counter claim was dismissed.

9. In appeal, learned appellate court while allowing the same, reversed the judgment and decree which was passed by learned trial court in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation and also allowed the counter claim of the defendant to the tune of Rs. 60,031/- against the plaintiff-Corporation with interest, which counter claim earlier stood dismissed by the learned trial court. Learned appellate court granted both these reliefs in favour of the defendant in the same appeal.

10. The said judgment and decree passed by learned appellate court has been assailed by the plaintiff-Corporation by way of this appeal which was admitted by this Court on 28.7.2008 on the following substantial question of law:-

> "Whether the appellate court below have erred in law in concluding that the contract/agreement exhibit PW-5/A had become impossible and became void when it became impossible. Have not the appellate court below wrongly construed the provisions of section 56 of the Indian Contract Act and have thereby wrongly applied the same in favour of the respondent/defendant. Had the contract become impossible and whether there was sufficient evidence to prove that the agreement had become impossible on record because of rain."

11. During the course of arguments this Court felt that another substantial question of law arose in the appeal i.e.:-

> "Whether learned appellate court erred in not appreciating that a single appeal against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial court vide which learned trial court partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation for recovery of Rs.27,155/- along with interest and costs and also dismissed the counter claim filed by the defendant for recovery of an amount of Rs. 60,031/- was not maintainable ."

12. Both learned counsel for the parties were heard on this substantial question of law at length.

13. Mr. Bhupender Pathania, learned counsel for the appellant argued that the judgment and decree passed by learned appellate court is not sustainable because learned appellate court erred in not appreciating that because learned trial court while partly allowing the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation-Corporation for recovery of an amount of Rs.27,155/- along with interest and costs had also dismissed the counter claim so filed by the defendant for recovery of an amount of Rs.60,031/-, in these circumstances the defendant could not have had filed one appeal against the partial allowing of the suit and against the rejection of his counter claim. According to Mr. Pathania, though both these adjudications were made by way of a single judgment and rightly so, however, the partial allowing of the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation as well as dismissal of the counter claim consist two decrees and they ought to have been separately assailed by the defendant before learned first appellate court by filing two appeals. In the absence of two appeals having been filed, as per Mr Pathania, one appeal so filed by the defendant was not maintainable, as both the findings returned acted as 'res judicata' vis-à-vis each other which necessitated the filing of two appeals. According to Mr. Pathania in this view of the matter as the appeal filed before learned appellate court was not maintainable, learned appellate court erred in entertaining and adjudicating upon the appeal so filed by defendant and thereafter in allowing the same.

14. Mr. G.R. Palsra learned counsel for the respondents on the other hand argued that the defendant could not have had filed two appeals because learned trial court had allowed the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation partially and dismissed the counter claim filed by the defendant by way of same judgment and same decree. Mr. Palsra further submitted that it is not as if two judgments and decrees were passed by learned trial court. According to Mr. Palsra in these circumstances the only option available with the defendant was to prefer one appeal against one judgment and decree which was done by defendant before learned first appellate court and no illegality was committed by learned appellate court in entertaining the same and deciding the same vide judgment and decree dated 1.6.2005. Mr. Palsra further argued that even in this Court appellate-Corporation had filed only one appeal against the judgment and decree passed by learned appellate court vide which leaned appellate court while dismissing the suit filed by the plaintiff-Corporation had allowed the counter claim. On this analogy also it was urged by Mr. Palsra that there was no merit in the contention so raised by learned counsel for the appellant.

15. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as judgments and decrees passed by both the courts below.

16. A three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramagya Prasad Gupta and others Vs. Murli Prasad and others, AIR 1974 Supreme Court 1320 has held:-

> "8. It is clear that where a suit has been tried and finally decided on the merits, if the defeated party wishes in another suit between the same parties relating to the same property to have the same questions re-agitated, he cannot be allowed to do so, because his cause of action has passed into a judgment, and the matter has become res judicata. Even where two appeals have been taken from the same judgment by two different parties to which all others are parties either as appellants or respondents and one of the appeals is dismissed either on merits or for any other reasons, it has been held by some of the High Courts, but we express no opinion thereon, that the other appeal has also to be dismissed, because it is barred by the principles of res judicata as otherwise there will be conflict in. the decrees. In the Lahore decision there were two cross suits about the same subject-matter filed simultaneously between the same parties and two decrees were prepared. An appeal being filed in respect of one decree and not in respect of the other, the question was whether the non-filing of the appeal against that decree creates an estoppel against the hearing of the other appeal. In Narhari's case (supra) what this Court held was, where there has been on.-. trial, one finding and one decision, there need not be two appeals even though two decrees may have been drawn up and consequently the fact that one of the appeals was time barred does not bar the other appeal on the ground of res judicata. In this case, these questions need not be considered. Nor is it relevant to consider whether there is any conflict between the decision in this case and Sheodan Singh's case (supra). In Sheodan Singh's case two suits were field in the Court of the Civil Judge, one for a declaration of the title to the suit property and the second for other reliefs and consequently two other suits were filed by the respondents in the Munsif's court against the appellant claiming joint ownership to the suit property and other reliefs. The four suits were tried together by the Civil Judge. Some of the issues were common to all the suits and one of the commons issues relating to the title of the parties was found in favour of the respondent. The Civil Judge dismissed the appellant's title suit, decreed his other suit partly, and decreed the two suits of the respondent. The appellant filed appeals against the decree in each suit. The High Court dismissed the two appeals arising out of the respondent's suits, one as time barred, and the other for failure to apply for translation and printing of the record. As the title of the respondent to the suit property had become final on account of such dismissal, the respondent prayed for the dismissal of the other two appeals also, as the main question involved therein was the same. The High Court agreed that the appeals were barred by res judicate and dismissed them. Against these order of dismissal, the appellant filed appeals to this Court and contended that-(1) title to the property was not directly and substantially it% issue in the respondent's suits (2) the Munsif's Court could not try the title suit filed by the appellant;(3) it could not be said that appeals arising out of the respondent's suits were former suits as such the bar of res judicata will be inapplicable; and (4) the two appeals which were dismissed-one on the ground of limitations and the other on the ground of not printing the records, could not be said to be heard and finally decided. This Court held that the High Court was right in dismissing the appeals as being barred by res indicate inasmuch as the issue as to the title was raised in respondent's suits and it was directly and substantially in issue in those suits also and did arise out of the pleadings of the parties, and further the High Court's decision in the two appeals arising from the respondent's appeals were undoubtedly earlier and, therefore, the condition that there should have been a decision in a former suit to give rise to res judicata in a subsequent suit was satisfied in that case. The decision in Narhari's case (supra) was distinguished by this Court in that case so that it could not be said that that decision was in any way in conflict with the decision in Narhari's case (supra). In appeals arising out of a subsequent suit and an earlier suit where there were common issues, common subject-matter and common trial and the appeals arising out of the subsequent suit were dismissed, a question would arise as to whether the appeals from the earlier suit which were pending arc barred by res judicata A question may also arise where the subject-matter is the same and the issues are common in the two suits but some of the parties are different in one suit, whether the bar of res judicata would operate against the parties who are common. All these aspects need not be considered in these appeals because, in our view, the subject-matter of Title Suit No.68 of 1954 and that of Title Suit No. 94 of 1956 are entirely direct. Even if the issues that are common in the two suits, and it has been admitted by the learned .Advocate for the appellants that some of the issues might be common to both the suits, issues Nos. 4, 9, 12, 13 and 14 at any rate survive, and consequently the bar of res judicata would not apply."

17. A three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Premier Tyres Limited Vs. Kerala State Road Transport Corporation, AIR 1993 Supreme Court 1202 while dealing with situation where suits are decreed by common judgment and appeal is filed against one judgment and decree whereas appeal is not filed in the connected case held that finality of finding recorded in the connected suit due to non filing of appeal precludes the Court from proceeding with appeal in other suit. It was held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that effect of non filing of appeal against a judgment or decree is that it becomes final and as this finality can be taken away only in accordance with law, therefore, same consequences follows when a judgment or decree in a connected suit is not appealed from.

18. In Ram Prakash Vs. Smt. Charan Kaur and another, AIR 1997 Supreme Court 3760, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held:-

"2. It would be obvious that since the claims of the petitioner and the respondents have arisen from the same cause of action and the finding of the appellate Court that damages had accurred to the respondents due to misfeasance or malfeasance having been allowed to become final, the decree which is subject matter of the special leave petition cannot be assailed. The self same question was directly in issue and was the subject matter of both the suits. The same having been allowed to become final, it cannot be gone into since the same had attained finality, the petitioner having not filed any appeal against the appeal dismissing the suit. In view of this situation, the High Court was right in concluding that the decree of dismissal of the suit against the petitioner would operate as res judicata under Section 11 CPC in the appeal against which the petitioner has filed the second appeal."

19. In Sri Gangai Vinayagar Temple and another Vs. Meenakshi Ammal and others (2015) 3 Supreme Court Cases 624, three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court has held:-

"27. Procedural norms, technicalities and processal law evolve after years of empirical experience, and to ignore them or give them short shrift inevitably defeats justice. Where a common judgment has been delivered in cases in which consolidation orders have specifically been passed, we think it irresistible that the filing of a single appeal leads to the entire dispute 30 Page 31 becoming sub judice once again. Consolidation orders are passed by virtue of the bestowal of inherent powers on the Courts by Section 151 of the CPC, as clarified by this Court in Chitivalasa Jute Mills vs. Jaypee Rewa Cement (2004) 3 SCC 85. In the instance of suits in which common Issues have been framed and a common Trial has been conducted, the losing party must file appeals in respect of all adverse decrees founded even on partially adverse or contrary speaking judgments. While so opining we do not intend to whittle down the principle that appeals are not expected to be filed against every inconvenient or disagreeable or unpropitious or unfavourable finding or observation contained in a judgment, but that this can be done by way of cross-objections if the occasion arises. The decree not assailed thereupon metamorphoses into the character of a "former suit". If this is not to be so viewed, it would be possible to set at naught a decree passed in Suit A by only challenging the decree in Suit B. Law considers it an anathema to allow a party to achieve a result indirectly when it has deliberately or negligently failed to directly initiate proceedings towards this purpose. Laws of procedure have picturesquely been referred to as handmaidens to justice, but this does not mean that they can be wantonly ignored because, if so done, a miscarriage of justice inevitably and inexorably ensues. The statutory law and the processal law are two sides of the judicial drachma, each being the obverse of the other. In the case in hand, had the Tenant diligently filed an appeal against the decree at least in respect of OS No. 5 of 1978, the legal conundrum that has manifested itself and exhausted so much judicial time, would not have arisen at all."

20. In Rajni Rani and another Vs. Khairati Lal and others, (2015) 2 Supreme Court Cases 682 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that keeping in mind the conceptual meaning given to the counter claim and the definitive character assigned to it, there can be no shadow of doubt that when the counterclaim filed by the defendants is adjudicated and dismissed, finality is attached to it as far as the controversy in respect of the claim put forth by the defendants is concerned. Hon'ble Apex Court further held that in that regard nothing survives as far as the said defendants are concerned and if the definition of a decree is appropriately understood it conveys that there has to be a formal expression of an adjudication as far as that court is concerned and the determination should conclusively put to rest the rights of the parties in that sphere. It was further held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that a Court may draw up a formal decree or may not, but if by virtue of the order of the court, the rights have finally been adjudicated, irrefutably it would assume the status of a decree. It further held that where a counter claim which is in the nature of cross-suit has been dismissed nothing else survives for the defendants who had filed the counterclaim and the order passed by learned trial Judge has the status of a decree and the challenge to the same has to be made before the appropriate forum where appeal could lay by paying the requisite fee.

21. Similar view has also been taken by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Piar Chand and other Vs. Ranjeet Sigh and others, in RSA No. 293 of 2006 decided on 16.9.2016.

22. Reverting back to the facts of this case admittedly learned trial court while partly allowing the suit for recovery filed by plaintiff-Corporation, dismissed the counter claim filed by defendant vide which the defendant had prayed for a decree for recovery of Rs. 60,031/-. In other words, learned trial court held that in lieu of the transaction subject matter of the civil suit, whereas the plaintiff-Corporation was entitled for recovery from the defendant, however, defendant was not entitled for any recovery from the plaintiff-Corporation. Defendant rather than filing two separate appeals, one against the decree which was passed in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation by learned trial court in its civil suit and second against the dismissal of his counter claim, filed only one appeal before the learned appellate court. In my considered view, the defendant erred in doing so because as the partial decreeing of the suit of the plaintiff-Corporation and dismissal of the counter claim of the defendant were two distinct adjudications though made by way of same judgment and decree by learned trial court, both these adjudications assumed the status of a decree and they required to be challenged separately and filing only one appeal against both the said adjudications was not permissible in law. As I have already discussed above, it has been categorically held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in such like matters that a Court may draw a formal decree or not but if by virtue of the judgment of the Court the rights have finally been adjudicated then the same would assume the status of a decree. As the adjudication on the suit filed by the plaintiff-Corporation and adjudication on the counter claim filed by the defendant assumed the status of two distinct decrees, they were required to be challenged by way of separate appeals by paying the requisite Court fee on each of them. Defendant having failed to do so he could not have been granted the relief which was granted by learned appellate court in one single appeal which was filed by defendant against the decree passed in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation by learned trial court as well as against the dismissal of his counter claim. Learned appellate court failed to appreciate that in the absence of two appeals, one appeal so filed was not maintainable, as the findings returned on plaint and counter claim acted as res judicata vis-à-vis each other which necessitated the filing of two appeals. Learned appellate court also failed to appreciate that non filing of two distinct and separate appeals amounted to having the same effect where no appeal was filed from a decree in connected case and the effect of non filing of appeal against judgment or decree that has become final. In other words because only one appeal was filed, therefore, finality of finding recorded in connected claim on account of non filing of appeal precluded the Court from proceeding with appeal in the other connected claim.

23. To give an illustration, 'A' files a suit for recovery of Rs.100/- against 'B' and 'B' also files a counter claim for recovery of Rs.50/- from plaintiff 'A'. Learned trial court partly decrees the suit of 'A" against defendant 'B' for recovery of Rs.70/- but dismisses the counter claim filed by defendant. In such like circumstance defendant cannot assail the dismissal of his counter claim as well as the partial decree of the suit of the plaintiff by one appeal. The defendant will have to file two separate appeals, one challenging the decree passed in favour of the plaintiff and other challenging the dismissal of his counter claim. However, if plaintiff wants to assail the factum of his suit not being decreed in totality, he is not to file two appeals but he can file only one appeal against the partial allowing of his suit.

24. It is settled law that counter claim has effect of a cross-suit and Court can announce a final judgment both on original claim and on the counter claim. Counter claim filed by defendant has to be treated as a plaint and the effect of counter claim is that even if suit of the plaintiff is stayed, discontinued, dismissed or withdrawn, counter claim can be decided independently on merits. In fact counter claim has to be treated as a plaint and is governed by the Rules applicable to plaint and similarly the reply filed in answer to counter claim is to be treated as written statement and is governed by Rules applicable to written statement.

In view of the findings returned above, this appeal is allowed and the judgment and decree passed by learned appellate court in Civil Appeal No. 59 of 2005 dated 30.11.2007 is set aside by holding that as defendant had not filed two separate appeals against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial court in favour of the plaintiff-Corporation and against the dismissal of his counter claim which findings acted as res judicata vis-a-vis each other, single appeal so filed by defendants was not maintainable before the learned appellate court. The Substantial question of law is answered accordingly. In view of findings returned in this appeal, in my considered view there is no necessity of adjudicating upon the other substantial question of law which was framed by the Court on 28.7.2008. No order as to costs. Miscellaneous application(s), if any stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

ICICI Lombard General Insurance Company Limited ...Appellant.

Versus

Parul Sharma and others ...Respondents.

FAO No. 366 of 2012
Reserved on: 25.11.2016
Decided on: 02.12.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 163-A- Deceased was the son of owner/insured, who died in the accident - the owner had specifically stated in the reply that the vehicle was parked in the garage due to some mechanical defect- the deceased had taken the vehicle in the absence of the owner – the deceased was not engaged as a driver but was driving the vehicle in the capacity of the son of the insured and will step into the shoes of the owner – the insured had paid extra premium insuring the owner to the extent of Rs.2 lacs - representative of the deceased are entitled to the compensation of Rs.2 lacs with interest @ 7.5% per annum.(Para-14 to 24)

Cases referred:

Ningamma and another versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd., 2009 ACJ 2020

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Rajni Devi and others, 2008 ACJ 1441

For the appellant:	Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 3. Nemo for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant-insurer has called in question award, dated 21st April, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-cum-Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 26/2010, titled as Parul Sharma and others versus ICICI Lombard Insurance Co. Pvt. Ltd. and another, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 4,48,900/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award"), on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

3. Deceased-Vijay Sharma, while driving the car, bearing registration No. HP-33 A-9112 on 19th January, 2010, met with an accident at about 10.00 P.M. near Tata Motors Lunapani, while going from Sundernagar to Mandi, due to which he sustained injuries, was taken to Harihar Hospital, Gutkar, from where he was referred to PGI Chandigarh, where he remained admitted and succumbed to the said injuries on 31st January, 2010.

4. The legal representatives of deceased-Vijay Sharma invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") and sought compensation to the tune of ₹ 20,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. The respondents in the claim petition resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 10th May, 2011:

> "1. Whether the petitioners being legal representatives/dependants of deceased Sh. Vijay Sharma, are entitled for grant of compensation, if so to what amount and from which of the respondents? OPP
> 2. Whether the petition is not maintainable and sustainable as alleged? OPR-1
> 3. Whether there is any violation of terms and conditions of insurance policy, if so its effect? OPR-1

7. In support of their claim, one of the claimants, namely Smt. Parul Sharma, stepped into the witness box as PW-1. The owner-insured, namely Shri Dina Nath Sharma, examined Shri Man Singh as RW-2 and himself stepped into the witness box as RW-1. The insurer has not led any evidence.

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, decided issue No. 1 in favour of the claimants and against the respondents. Issues No. 2 and 3 also came to be decided against the insurer on the ground that it has not led any evidence and compensation to the tune of ₹ 4,48,900/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization was granted in favour of the claimants.

9. The claimants and the owner-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

10. The appellant-insurer has called in question the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling it with liability.

11. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that deceased-Vijay Sharma, who was the son of owner-insured of the offending vehicle, was in possession and control of the offending vehicle, was driving the same at the time of the accident and had stepped into the shoes of the owner. Further argued that deceased-Vijay Sharma was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently at the time of the accident, thus, the claim petition was not maintainable.

12. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of claimants-respondents No. 1 to 3 argued that the claimants are the victims of the vehicular accident, the claim petition was maintainable and the Tribunal has rightly passed the impugned award.

13. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

14. The owner-insured of the offending vehicle has specifically averred in the reply that he had parked the offending vehicle in his garage due to some mechanical defect. Further averred that he had engaged the services of a mechanic, namely Man Singh (RW-2), who could not repair the same as he had to import some part of the vehicle from outside and had specifically directed not to ply the vehicle till the defect was removed. The owner-insured had gone to his village on 18th January, 2010 and had to return on 20th January, 2010.

15. The fact that deceased-Vijay Sharma had taken the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time without permission of his father, Dina Nath Sharma and was driving the same at the time when it met with an accident, in which he lost his life, is not denied.

16. The question is - whether deceased-Vijay Sharma can be treated as a third party?

17. Admittedly, deceased-Vijay Sharma was driving the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, which belonged to his father and was registered and insured in the name of his father. He was not engaged as a driver of the offending vehicle, thus, was driving the offending vehicle in the capacity of the son of the owner-insured and the vehicle was in his possession and control at the relevant point of time. Meaning thereby, deceased-Vijay Sharma had stepped into the shoes of the owner.

18. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Ningamma and another versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2009 ACJ 2020. It is apt to reproduce para 18 of the judgment herein:

> "18. In the case of Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rajni Devi, 2008 ACJ 1441, wherein one of us, namely, Hon'ble Justice S.B. Sinha is a party, it has been categorically held that in a case where third party is involved, the liability of the insurance company would be unlimited. It was also held in the said decision that where, however, compensation is claimed for the death of the owner or another passenger of the vehicle, the contract of insurance being governed by the contract qua contract, the claim of the claimant against the insurance company would depend upon the terms thereof. It was held in the said decision that Section 163-A of the MVA cannot be said to have any application in respect of an accident wherein the owner of the motor vehicle himself is involved. The decision further held that the question is no longer res integra. The liability under Section 163-A of the MVA is on the owner of the vehicle. So a person cannot be both, a claimant as also a recipient, with respect to claim. Therefore, the heirs of the deceased could not have maintained a claim in terms of Section 163-A of the MVA. In our considered opinion, the ratio of the aforesaid decision is clearly applicable to the facts of the present case. In the present case, the deceased was not the owner of the motorbike in question. He borrowed the said motorbike from its real owner. The deceased cannot be held to be employee of the owner of the motorbike although he was authorised to drive the said vehicle by its owner, and therefore, he would step into the shoes of the owner of the motorbike."

19. Now, the question is – whether the claimants, being the legal representatives of deceased-Vijay Sharma, are entitled to compensation?

20. The Apex Court in Ningamma's case (supra) remanded the matter for rendering the decision in accordance with law after determining certain questions of fact involved in the case including the applicability of the provisions of Section 147 of the MV Act, while holding that the MV Act is a beneficial and welfare legislation and in terms of Section 166 of the MV Act, the Court is duty bound to award just compensation irrespective of the fact whether any plea in that behalf was raised by the claimants or not. It is profitable to reproduce paras 21, 22, 25 and 26 of the judgment herein:

"21. Section 147 of the MVA provides that the policy of insurance could also cover cases against any liability which may be incurred by the insurer in respect of death or fatal injury to any person including owner of the vehicle or his authorised representative carried in the vehicle or arising out of the use of vehicle in the public place.

22. When we analyze the impugned judgment of the High Court in terms of aforesaid discussion, we find that the counsel for the insurance company himself contended before the High Court that the policy of insurance was an Act policy and the risk that is covered is only in respect of persons contemplated under Section 147 of the MVA. It is the finding of fact which we have also upheld in this Judgment that the deceased was authorised by the owner of the vehicle to drive the vehicle. When we examined the facts of the present case in view of the aforesaid submission made, we are of the opinion that such an issue was required to be considered by the High Court in the light of the facts and evidence adduced in the case. On consideration of the Judgment and Order passed by the High Court we find the same to be sketchy on the aforesaid issue as to whether the claim could be considered under the provisions of Section 166 of the MVA. In this connection, reference can be made to a judgment of this Court in the case of Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. v. Rajni Devi and Ors. (supra), wherein, it was held that where compensation is claimed for the death of the owner or another passenger of the vehicle, the contract of insurance being governed by the contract qua contract, the claim of the insurance company would depend upon the terms thereof.

25. Undoubtedly, Section 166 of the MVA deals with "Just Compensation" and even if in the pleadings no specific claim was made under Section 166 of the MVA, in our considered opinion a party should not be deprived from getting "Just Compensation" in case the claimant is able to make out a case under any provision of law. Needless to say, the MVA is beneficial and welfare legislation. In fact, the court is duty bound and entitled to award "Just Compensation" irrespective of the fact whether any plea in that behalf was raised by the claimant or not. However, whether or not the claimants would be governed with the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and whether or not the provisions of Section 147 of the MVA would be applicable in the present case and also whether or not there was rash and negligent driving on the part of the deceased, are essentially a matter of fact which was required to be considered and answered at least by the High Court.

26. While entertaining the appeal, no effort was made by the High Court to deal with the aforesaid issues, and therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the present case should be remanded back to the High Court to give its decision on the aforesaid issues. The High Court was required to consider the aforesaid issues even if it found that the provision of Section 163-A of MVA was not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case. Since all the aforesaid issues are purely questions of fact, we do not propose to deal with these issues and we send the matter back to the High Court for dealing with the said issues and to render its decision in accordance with law. The High Court will also consider the question of quantum of compensation, if any, to which the claimants might be entitled to, having regard to the earning capacity of the deceased and "Just Compensation", if any. Since the claim is a very old claim, we request the High Court to consider the matter as expeditiously as possible."

21. The Apex Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Rajni Devi and others, reported in 2008 ACJ 1441, held that where compensation is claimed for the death of the owner or another passenger of the vehicle, the claim of the insurance company would depend upon the terms of the insurance policy. It is worthwhile to reproduce paras 6 and 11 of the judgment herein:

"6. It is now a well settled principle of law that in a case where third party is involved, the liability of the insurance company would be unlimited. Where, however, compensation is claimed for the death of the owner or another passenger of the vehicle, the contract of insurance being governed by the contract qua contract, the claim of the insurance company would depend upon the terms thereof.

7 to 10. .....

11. According to the terms of contract of insurance, the liability of the insurance company was confined to Rs. 1,00,000 (rupees one lakh). It was liable to the said extent and not any sum exceeding the said amount."

22. Applying the test to the instant case, the insurance policy of the offending vehicle is on the record as Ext. R-1-E, the perusal of which does disclose that the owner-insured has paid extra premium covering the insurance of the owner to the extent of ₹ 2,00,000/-. As discussed hereinabove, deceased-Vijay Sharma had stepped into the shoes of the owner, thus, his risk was covered to the extent of ₹ 2,00,000/- and the claimants, being the legal representatives of the owner, are entitled to compensation only in terms of the conditions contained in the insurance policy.

23. Viewed thus, it is held that the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 2,00,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its finalization.

24. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is allowed, as indicated hereinabove.

25. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts after proper identification.

26. Excess amount, if any, be refunded to the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

27. Send down the record after placing copy of thejudgment on the Tribunal's file.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Offending vehicle was a tipper, the unladenweight of which is 3680 k.g. and it falls within the definition of light motor vehicle – copy of licence shows that driver was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident – it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy- insurer is to be saddled with liability – thus, the Tribunal had rightly saddled the insurer with liability – however, rate of interest reduced from 9 % to 7.5% per annum.(Para-8 to 21)

For the Appellant(s) : Mr. Jagdish Thakur Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Partap Singh Goverdhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 & 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

A vehicular traffic accident has given birth to both these appeals, thus I deem it proper to determine these appeals by this common judgment.

2. These appeals are outcome of the two awards made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan, District Solan, (HP) (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal') in two claim petitions filed by the claimants for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the respective claim petitions (for short 'the impugned awards').

3. FAO No. 319 of 2012 is directed against the award dated 24th May, 2012, passed in MAC Petition No. 62-S/2 of 2009, titled Gian Chand versus Dalip Singh & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 22,818/- with interest at the rate of 9% per annum was granted in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with liability.

4. By the medium of FAO No. 374 of 2012, the appellant-insurer has questioned the award dated 28th June, 2012, passed in MAC Petition No. 38-S/2 of 2010, titled Mohan Lal versus Dalip Singh & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 1,75,345/-with interest at the rate of 9% per annum was granted in favour of the claimant and the insurer-appellant herein was saddled with liability.

5. The claimants, the owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle-Tipper have not questioned the impugned awards, on any count, thus, have attained finality so far as the same relate to them.

6. The insurer has questioned the impugned awards on the grounds that the driver was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

7. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the vehicle involved in the accident was not a 'light motor vehicle'.

8. Admittedly, the driver was driving Tipper bearing registration No. HP-64-1289, the unladen weight of which is 3680 kilograms, as per the Registration Certificate, Ext. R-1, thus falls within the definition of "Light Motor Vehicle" as given in Sections 2 (21) and 2 (28) of the Motor Vehicles Act, for short "the Act".

9. The same issue was raised before the Supreme Court in case titled Ashok Gangadhar Maratha v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. reported in AIR 1999 SC 3181. It is apt to reproduce paras 10, 11 and 14 of the said judgment herein:

> "10. Definition of "light motor vehicle" as given in clause (21) of Section 2 of the Act can apply only to a "light goods vehicle" or a "light transport vehicle". A "light motor vehicle" otherwise has to be covered by the definition of "motor vehicle" or "vehicle" as given in clause (28) of Section 2 of the Act. A light motor vehicle cannot always mean a light goods carriage. Light motor vehicle can be non-transport vehicle as well.
> 11. To reiterate, since a vehicle cannot be used as transport vehicle on a public road unless there is a permit issued by the Regional Transport Authority for that purpose, and since in the instant case there is neither a pleading to that effect by any party nor is there any permit on record, the vehicle in question, would remain a light motor vehicle. The respondent also does not say that any permit was granted to the appellant for plying the vehicle as a transport vehicle under Section 66 of the Act. Moreover, on the date of accident, the vehicle was not carrying any goods, and thought it could be said to have been designed to be used as a transport vehicle or goods carrier, it cannot be so held on account of the statutory prohibition contained in Section 66 of the Act.
> 14. Now the vehicle in the present case weighed 5,920 kilograms and the driver had the driving licence to drive a light motor vehicle. It is not that, therefore, that insurance policy covered a transport vehicle which meant a goods carriage. The whole case of the insurer has been built on a wrong premise. It is itself the case of the insurer that in the case of a light motor vehicle which is a non-transport vehicle, there was no statutory requirement to have specific authorisation on the licence of the driver under Form 6 under the Rules. It had, therefore, to be held that Jadhav was holding effective valid licence on the date of accident to drive light motor vehicle bearing Registration No. KA-28-567."

10. This Court in FAO No. 54 of 2012 titled Mahesh Kumar and another vs. *Smt. Piaro Devi and others decided on 25th July, 2014, held that such type of vehicle is LMV. It is apt to reproduce paras 10,11,14,16,18 and 19 of the said judgment herein:

"10.I deem it proper to reproduce the definitions of "driving licence", "light motor vehicle", "private service vehicle" and "transport vehicle" as contained in Sections 2 (10), 2 (21), 2(35) and 2 (47), respectively, of the MV Act herein:

(10) "driving licence" means the licence issued by a competent authority under Chapter II authorising the person specified therein to drive, otherwise than a learner, a motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any specified class or description.

xxx xxx xxx

(21) "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road-roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7,500 kilograms.

xxx xxx xxx

(35) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage, and stage carriage.

(47) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage , an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle."

11. Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides that a "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus, the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7500 kilograms. Section 2 (35) of the MV Act gives the definition of a "public service vehicle", which means any vehicle, which is used or allowed to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage and stage carriage. It does not include light motor vehicle (LMV). Section 2 (47) of the MV Act defines a "transport vehicle". It means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage, an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle.

14. It mandates that the driver should have the licence to drive a particular kind of vehicle and it must contain endorsement for driving a transport vehicle. In this section, the words "light motor vehicle" are not recorded. Meaning thereby, this section is to be read with the definition of other vehicles including the definition given in Section 2 (47) of the MV Act except the definition given in Section 2 (21) of the MV Act for the reason that Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides, as discussed hereinabove, that it includes transport vehicle also.

15.My this view is supported by Section 10 of the MV Act, which reads as under:

"10. Form and contents of licences to drive. -

(1) Every learner's licence and driving licence, except a driving licence issued under section 18, shall be in such form and shall contain such information as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(2) A learner's licence or, as the case may be, driving licence shall also be expressed as entitling the holder to drive a motor vehicle of one or more of the following cases, namely:-

(a) motor cycle without gear;

(b) motor cycle with gear;

(c) invalid carriage;

(d) light motor vehicle;

(e) transport vehicle;

(i) road-roller;

(j) motor vehicle of a specified description."

15- …. ….. …..

16. Section 10 (2) (d) of the MV Act contains "light motor vehicle" and Section 10 (2) (e) of the MV Act, which was substituted in terms of amendment of 1994, class of the vehicles specified in clauses (e) to (h) before amendment stand deleted and the definition of the "transport vehicle" stands inserted. So, the words "transport vehicle" used in Section 3 of the MV Act are to be read viz-a-viz other vehicles, definitions of which are given and discussed hereinabove.

17. ….. ……. …….. …….

18. The purpose of mandate of Sections 2 and 3 of the MV Act came up for consideration before the Apex Court in a case titled as Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791, and after examining the various provisions of the MV Act held that Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on the driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle, which he intends to drive. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 and 23 of the judgment herein:

"19. Section 2(2) of the Act defines articulated vehicle which means a motor vehicle to which a semi-trailer is attached; Section 2(34) defines public place; Section 2(44) defines 'tractor' as a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load; Section 2(46) defines `trailer' which means any vehicle, other than a semi- trailer and a side-car, drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Section 3 of the Act provides for necessity for driving license; Section 5 provides for responsibility of owners of the vehicle for contravention of Sections 3 and 4; Section 6 provides for restrictions on the holding of driving license; Section 56 provides for compulsion for having certificate of fitness for transport vehicles; Section 59 empowers the State to fix the age limit of the vehicles; Section 66 provides for necessity for permits to ply any vehicle for any commercial purpose; Section 67 empowers the State to control road transport; Section 112 provides for limits of speed; Sections 133 and 134 imposes a duty on the owners and the drivers of the vehicles in case of accident and injury to a person; Section 146 provides that no person shall use any vehicle at a public place unless the vehicle is insured. In addition thereto, the Motor Vehicle Taxation Act provides for imposition of passenger tax and road tax etc.

23. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving license for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables the Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licenses for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said Section. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are 'goods carriage', 'heavy goods vehicle', 'heavy passenger motor vehicle', 'invalid carriage', 'light motor vehicle', 'maxi-cab', 'medium goods vehicle', 'medium passenger motor vehicle', 'motor-cab', 'motorcycle', 'omnibus', 'private service vehicle', 'semi- trailer', 'tourist vehicle', 'tractor', 'trailer' and 'transport vehicle'."

19. The Apex Court in another case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 906, has also discussed the purpose of amendments, which were made in the year 1994 and the definitions of 'light motor vehicle', 'medium goods vehicle' and the necessity of having a driving licence. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 14 and 16 of the judgment herein:

"8. Mr. S.N. Bhat, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that the contention raised herein by the appellant has neither been raised before the Tribunal nor before the High Court. In any event, it was urged, that keeping in view the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' as contained in Section 2(21) of the Motor vehicles Act, 1988 ('Act' for short), a light goods carriage would come within the purview thereof.

A 'light goods carriage' having not been defined in the Act, the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' clearly indicates that it takes within its umbrage, both a transport vehicle and a non-transport vehicle.

Strong reliance has been placed in this behalf by the learned counsel in Ashok Gangadhar Maratha vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [1999 (6) SCC 620].

9. .....

10. .....

11. .....

12. .....

14. Rule 14 prescribes for filing of an application in Form 4, for a licence to drive a motor vehicle, categorizing the same in nine types of vehicles.

Clause (e) provides for 'Transport vehicle' which has been substituted by G.S.R. 221(E) with effect from 28.3.2001. Before the amendment in 2001, the entries medium goods vehicle and heavy goods vehicle existed which have been substituted by transport vehicle. As noticed hereinbefore, Light Motor Vehicles also found place therein.

15. .....

16. From what has been noticed hereinbefore, it is evident that 'transport vehicle' has now been substituted for 'medium goods vehicle' and 'heavy goods vehicle'. The light motor vehicle continued, at the relevant point of time, to cover both, 'light passenger carriage vehicle' and 'light goods carriage vehicle'.

A driver who had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle, therefore, was authorised to drive a light goods vehicle as well."

11. Applying the ratio, the vehicle in question is a "Light Motor Vehicle".

12. Same principles of law have been laid down in FAOs No. 385 of 2007 & 388 of 2007 decided on 14.11.2014, FAOs No. 33 & 55 of 2010, decided on 17.10.2014 and FAO No. 293 of 2006 decided on 4.4.2014.

13. I have gone through the copy of driving licence (Ext. R-2), which does disclose that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

14. In view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in the judgments, supra, the Tribunal has rightly held that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence.

15. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner has committed willful breach, failed to do so. The owner has not committed any willful breach. Thus, the insurer is to be saddled with the liability.

16. The Apex Court in a case titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531, has also laid down principles, how the insurer can avoid its liability. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

> "105. .....
> (i) .....
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.
> (vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

17. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, hereinbelow:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

18. Viewed thus, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability.

19. The Tribunal has rightly awarded the compensation, but has fallen in an error in awarding interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petitions.

20. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281;Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738;Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053;Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982;Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010,titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

21. Having said so, I deem it proper to reduce the rate of interest from 9% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petitions till its realization.

22. Accordingly, the impugned awards are modified, as indicated above and the appeals stand disposed of.

23. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants, strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned awards, after proper identification.

24. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Madhu Tomar .... Petitioner.

Vs.

State of H.P. and another .... Respondents.

CWP No. 1172 of 2012.
Reserved on: 10.11.2016
Date of Decision: 02.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as anganwari worker – she was absorbed as Supervisor - she claimed the benefit of the service rendered by her asanaganwari worker for pensionary benefits - held, that appointment of the petitioner as anganwari worker is not against any civil post and cannot be counted towards the pensionary benefits- petition dismissed. (Para- 1 to 3)

For the petitioner: Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Shalini Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J.:

The petitioner stood appointed as an Anganwari Worker on 21.10.1982, in capacity whereof she rendered work under the respondents upto 30.08.2005 whereat in consonance with the relevant R & P Rules she stood absorbed as a Supervisor by the respondents. She claims qua the hitherto rendition by her of service under the respondents as an Anganwari Worker standing amalgamated with her subsequent rendition of service as a Supervisor under the respondents, for facilitating computation vis.a.vis her the pensionary benefits. Her initial engagement as an Anganwari Worker under the respondents, as visible from a pronouncement made the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Karnataka and others vs. Ameerbi and others reported in (2007) 11 SCC 681, relevant paragraph whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "Appointment made under a scheme and recruitment process being carried out through a committee, in our opinion, would not render the incumbents thereof holders of civil post. Our attention has not been drawn to any rule or regulation governing the mode of their recruitment. Some statements in this behalf have been made by the interveners but for the reasons stated hereinbefore, we cannot enter thereinto."

does not don the mantle of a civil post. Also she manifestly cannot in the aforestated capacity be construed to be holder of a civil post. The effect of the aforesaid pronouncement made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in its verdict reported supra holds a bearing upon the legitimacy of the claim of the petitioner qua the period of her rendition of service as an Anganwari worker under the respondents standing amalgamated with her subsequent rendition of service as a Supervisor under the respondents significantly when the latter capacity whereon she evidently stood absorbed by the respondents dons the mantle of a substantive post especially when she in consonance with the mandate of the relevant R & P Rules stood appointed thereon besides when her appointment thereon stood preceded by the respondents begetting compliance with the rigours of the mandate held in the apposite rules. Uncontrovertedly, the rendition of service by the petitioner against the substantive post of a Supervisor is to be construable to be rendition of service by her against a civil post since 30.08.2005 whereat she stood appointed as a Supervisor. However, reiteratedly her initial appointment since 21.10.1982 upto 30.08.2005 whereon she rendered service under the respondents as an Anganwari Worker does not, for reasons aforestated, hold any trait or characteristic qua her appointment thereon being made against a civil post nor she is to be construable to be since 21.10.1982 upto 30.08.2005 to hold a civil post. Now hereat the effect of the aforesaid inference erected by this Court qua the period from 21.10.1982 upto 30.08.2005 whereon she rendered service as an Anganwari Worker under the respondents being unamenable for it being construable to be rendition of service by her against a civil post is qua its tellingly adverselyimpinging upon her entitlement to seek amalgamation of the aforesaid duration of rendition of service by her under the respondents in the capacity of an Anganwari worker with the period of service subsequent thereto rendered by her under the respondents against the substantive post of a Supervisor, besides also her entitlement qua the facet aforesaid holding any tenacity warrants an allusion to Rule 13 of the CCS Pension Rules, 1972, wherewithin a mandate is held qua the commencement of the qualifying period of service of a Government servant for his standing entitled to therefrom seek computation of pensionary benefits by his employer qua him.

" Commencement of qualifying service

> Subject to the provisions of these rules, qualifying service of a Government servant shall commence from the date he takes charge of the post to which he is first appointed either substantively or in an officiating or temporary capacity :
> Provided that officiating or temporary service is followed without interruption by substantive appointment in the same or another service or post :
>
> Provided further that –
> (a) in the case of a Government servant in a Group `D' service or post who held a lien or a suspended lien on a permanent pensionable post prior to the 17th April, 1950, service rendered before attaining the age of sixteen years shall not count for any purpose, and
> (b) in the case of a Government servant not covered by clause (a), service rendered before attaining the age of eighteen years shall not count, except for compensation gratuity.
> (c) the provisions of clause (b) shall not be applicable in the cases of counting of military service for civil pension under Rule 19."

A circumspect reading thereof, unravels qua the occurrence of commencement of the relevant qualifying period of service occurring besides arising from the date a Government servant takes charge of the post to which he stands first appointed either substantively or in a temporary capacity. Also it holds a proviso qua the temporary besides officiating period of rendition of service by a Government servant if remains unbroken upto his subsequent regular engagement in the relevant capacity rather stands incessantly succeeded upto his standing appointed against a substantive post in the same or in another service, the hitherto period of rendition of service by a Government servant even in an officiating or in a temporary capacity being reckonable besides it being includable for the relevant computation of pensionary benefits standing made qua him. Obviously therefrom the imminent sequel is qua also the entire period of its duration standing enjoined to be amalgamated with the subsequent period of his rendition of service in a substantive capacity against a substantive post unless his preceding rendition of service in an officiating or temporary capacity stands interrupted by a break in service, thereupon the learned counsel for the petitioner contends qua the rendition of service by the petitioner in a non substantive capacity of an Anganwari worker being amenable to a construction of it falling within the ambit of Rule 13 of the CCS Pension Rules, 1972, it acquiring the trait of hers rendering service thereagainst under the respondents in an officiating or in a temporary capacity also with hers in an unbroken succession therefrom upto hers standing appointed against a substantive post of a Supervisor rendering service under the respondents besides when her previous rendition of service in a temporary or in officiating capacity of an Anganwari Worker under the respondents held incessant continuity in time upto her appointment against the substantive post of a Supervisor rendered her to satiate the mandate of Rule 13 of the CCS Pension Rules, 1972, whereupon she canvases of hence the rendition of service as an Anganwari worker by the petitioner under her employers while hence being construable to be rendition of service in an officiating or in a temporary capacity enjoined the respondents to amalgamate the aforesaid period of rendition of service by her alongwith the rendition of service by her against the substantive post of a Supervisor, for thereupon the relevant computation of pensionary benefits being made qua her. The aforesaid submission made before this Court by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not amenable for its standing countenanced by this Court as it stands canvassed unbereft of hers remaining mindful qua therewithin the imperative ingredient(s) warranting satiation is qua the relevant period of service even in an officiating or in a temporary capacity standing performed against a civil post.

2. Now conspicuously, when this Court has pronounced qua any appointment as an Anganwari worker standing not construable to be an appointment against a Civil post nor an appointee thereon being construable to be holder of a Civil post whereupon the inevitable sequel is qua the rendition of service by the petitioner in the capacity of an Anganwari worker, even if assumably it is construable to be qua her rendering service thereagainst in an officiating or in a temporary capacity not hence satiating the mandate of the relevant rules wherewithin the aforesaid manner of rendition of employment by her under her employer warrants rendition thereon against a civil post, civil post whereof for reasons aforestated stood unadorned by the petitioner at the stage whereat she rendered service as an Anganwari worker under the respondents. Consequently, with the petitioner while performing service as an Anganwari worker under the respondents hers not holding any civil post since 21.10.1982 to 30.08.2005, corollary whereof is qua with hers not throughout the aforesaid period neither performing service under the respondents against a civil post nor hence she being construable to be holder of a civil post whereupon the performance of service thereagainst by her even if construable to be in a temporary or in an officiating capacity does not befittingly render her to be construable to be falling within the ambit of Rule 13 of the CCS Pension Rules. In aftermath, the period of service performed by the petitioner in the capacity of an Anganwari worker since 21.10.1982 upto 30.08.2005 is to be concluded to be not constituting the relevant qualifying service for the purpose of attraction qua hers of the apposite rules nor it is enjoined to be amalgamated with the subsequent rendition of service by her under the respondent against a substantive post of a supervisor.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner has contended with force before this Court while relying upon a judgement rendered by this Court in Civil Writ Petition No. 8953 of 2013 qua Vidya Upasaks appointed by the respondents under the 'Himachal Pradesh Vidya Upasaks Yojna, 1998' wherein this Court had pronounced qua with the rendition of service on a contractual basis by Vidya Upasaks standing succeeded by theirs standing appointed in a regular capacity thereon also when hence the aforestated ingredients encapsulated in the relevant pension rules stood satiated thereupon this Court held qua the period of rendition of service on a contractual basis by Vidya Upasaks being amenable for reckoning besides being construable to be constituting qualifying service within the ambit of the relevant mandate of the pension rules for thereupon computing the relevant pensionary benefits qua them. However, the reliance as placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner upon the aforesaid verdict of this Court is inapt given the evident gross distinctivity inter se the factual matrix prevailing thereat vis.a.vis the factual matrix visibly prevalent hereat, contradistinction whereof is garnerable from the factum qua therein the engagement on a contractual basis of Vidya Upasaks standing preceded by theirs undergoing the rigours of selection by a duly constituted Board in sequel to the post aforesaid standing advertised whereupon their initial engagement in a contractual capacity by their employer did render their apposite initial engagement being construable to partake the trait qua theirs hence initially standing appointed thereon against a civil post also theirs being construable to be holders of a civil post whereas with an Anganwari worker(s) for reasons aforestated not standing appointed against a civil post nor the appointees thereagainst being construable to be holding a civil post conspicuously also when their engagement stood unpreceded by the relevant post standing advertised visibly renders the decision relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner to stand unattracted hereat. There is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed. The pending applications, if any, also stand dismissed. No costs.

Manoj Kumar .....Appellant

Versus

Himachal Road Transport Corporation & others .....Respondents

Decided on : 02.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant suffered permanent disability to the extent of 55% - medical evidence proved that the injured was victim of the motor vehicle accident and had sustained 55% disability – he remained undertreatment for about 3 months – hence, by guess work, Rs.2 lacs awarded in lump sum under the heads 'pain and sufferings', 'loss of amenities' and 'medical expenses' with interest @ 7.5% per annum. (Para-10 to 16)

For the Appellant : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. B.N. Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 & 2.
Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 & 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant-claimant-injured has questioned award dated 12th June, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 18 of 2009, titled as Manoj Kumar versus Himachal Road Transport Corporation & others,whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed (for short, "the impugned award").

2. The claimant-injured, being victim of the motor vehicular accident, had filed the claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of 10,00,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

3. Precisely, the case of the claimant-injured was that on 11.10.2006, at about 10.00 a.m., he boarded Bus No. HP-22-0379, which was being driven by its driver-respondent No. 3, rashly and negligently. When the said bus reached near Shivpuri Chowk, Ludhiana, at about 3.45 p.m., the claimant-injured fell down from the bus while alighting, due to the rashness and negligence of driver-respondent No. 3 and conductor-respondent No. 4. He sustained injuries and suffered permanent disability to the extent of 55%. He was taken to S. Nihal Singh, Pawha Charitable Hospital, Ludhiana (Punjab) and thereafter, he was treated at various hospitals at Hamirpur (HP).

4. The respondents resisted and contested the claim petition by filing replies.

5. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether on 11-10-2006 the petitioner was travelling in Bus No. HP-22-0379 being driven by respondent No. 3 and respondent No. 4 was conductor in the said bus, as alleged? .....OPP

2. Whether with the rash and negligent driving of HRTC Bus No. HP-22-0379 by respondent No. 3, the petitioner had suffered grievous injuries and has become disabled as alleged? ....OPP

3. Whether the respondent No. 4 conductor in HRTC Bus No. HP-22-0379 was also negligent in the performance of his duty as also responsible for the injuries on the person of the petitioner as alleged?....OPP

4. Whether the petitioner is entitled for compensation, if so, to what extent and from whom? ....OPP

5. Whether the petition is not maintainable as alleged?.....OPR-1 & 2

6. Whether the petitioner has no cause of action as alleged? .....OPR-1 & 2

7. Whether no such accident had taken place with Bus No. HP-22-0379? ...OPRs

8. Relief."

6. The claimant examined seven witnesses including himself. Respondents examined Parkash Chand, Superintendent of the Office of Himachal Road Transport Corporation as RW-1 and driver-Kehar Singh stepped into the witness box as RW-2.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that claimant has failed to prove that driver had driven the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, as such, dismissed the claim petition.

Issue No. 1.

8. I have gone through the entire record.

9. The claimant has specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the said accident was the outcome of the rashness and negligence of respondents No. 3 & 4, i.e. driver and conductor, respectively. There is no rebuttal to the said evidence except the statement of the driver. Copy of the daily duty register (Ext. RW-1/A), does disclose that driver-Kehar Singh was driver of the offending bus and as per copy of the accident register (Ext. RW-1/B), report of the accident was entered. All the doctors have proved that claimant-injured was victim of the motor vehicle accident. Copy of the Disability Certificate (Ext. PW-1/A) does disclose that the claimant-injured has suffered permanent disability to the extent of 55%. The copies of the Discharge Bills of Sri Krishna Hospital, Hamirpur (Ext. PW-3/A & PW-3/B) and the other documents placed on record, do prima-facie prove that the said accident was outcome of the rashness and negligence of respondents No. 3 & 4, i.e., driver and conductor, respectively. Thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in deciding this issue against the claimant-injured. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are set aside and is decided in favour of the claimant-injured and against the respondents.

Issues No. 2 & 3.

10. These issues are governed by the findings returned on Issue No. 1, supra. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issues No. 2 & 3 are set aside and the said issues are decided in favour of the claimant-injured and against the respondents.

11. Before I deal with Issue No. 4, I deem it proper to deal with with issues No. 5 to 7.

Issues No. 5 & 6.

12. It was for respondents No. 1 & 2 to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable and the claimant-injured had no cause of action.

13. In terms of the provisions of sub-section (4) of Section 166 and sub section (6) of Section 158 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for short 'the MV Act', Claims Tribunal can treat the report forwarded to it as an application for compensation. Accordingly, Issues No. 5 & 6 are decided in favour of the claimant-injured and against respondents No. 1 & 2.

Issue No. 7.

14. It was for the respondents to prove this issue, have failed to do so. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 7 are set aside and the said issues are decided in favour of the claimant and against the respondents.

Issue No. 4.

15. Keeping in view the fact that the claimant has suffered 55% permanent disability and remained under treatment for about three months, by guess work, it can be held that the claimant-injured is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,00,000/- in lump sum, under the heads, 'pain and sufferings', 'loss of amenities and 'medical expenses', with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization.

16. Accordingly, the impugned award is set aside, the appeal is allowed and the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,00,000/- in lump sum, with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

17. The respondents No. 1 & 2 are directed to deposit the compensation amount before the Registry within six weeks from today. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimant, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in his account.

18. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the file of the claim petition.

FAOs No. 434 & 435 of 2012
Decided on : 02.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was a house wife – her monthly income cannot be less than Rs.6,000/- / 1/3rd is required to be deducted towards personal expenses of the deceased and claimant has lost source of dependency of Rs.4,000/- per month- multiplier of 15 is applicable and claimant is entitled to compensation of Rs.4000 x 12 x 15= Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head loss of dependency – claimants is also entitled to Rs.10,000/- each under the heads loss of love and affection and funeral expenses- thus, total compensation of Rs.7,20,000 + 20,000= Rs.7,40,000/- awarded along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization. (Para-9 to 14)

Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120
Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, 2015 AIR SCW 3105

For the Appellant(s) : Mr. Dibender Ghosh, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Adarsh Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Claimant-Master Nitish Kumar had filed two Claim Petitions i.e. M.A.C. Petitions No. 17-S/2 of 2010 & 18-S/2 of 2010, both titled as Master Nitish Kumar versus Managing Director, HRTC and another, before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh, (for short 'the Tribunal), for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 20,00,000/- each, in both the claim petitions, on account of death of his parents.

2. The aforesaid claim petitions came to be allowed by the Tribunal vide two different awards dated 21.04.2012, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,00,000/- each in both the claim petitions, was awarded in favour of the claimant, for short 'the impugned awards'.

3. Both these appeals are outcome of the one accident, thus I deem it proper to determine both these appeals by this common judgment.

4. The respondents have not questioned the impugned awards, on any count. Thus, the same have attained finality, so far these relate to them.

5. The claimant has questioned the impugned awards on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

6. Thus, the only question to be determined in these appeals is-whether the amount awarded is adequate? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

FAO No. 434 of 2012

7. All the facts are not admitted. As per copy of the Pariwar Register (Ext. PW-3/A), the age of deceased Nisha (mother) was 31 years at the time of accident.

8. The claimant has pleaded in the claim petition that the monthly income of the deceased was Rs.15,000/-, but has failed to prove the same. The Tribunal has awarded compensation to the tune of Rs.2,00,000/- in lump sum, which is not legally correct for the following reasons.

9. Deceased was a housewife. By guess work, it can be safely held that the monthly income of the deceased would not have been less than Rs. 6,000/-.

10. 1/3rd is required to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased, while keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120. Accordingly, after deducting 1/3rd amount, it is held that the claimant has lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.4,000/- per month.

11. The multiplier of '15' is applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act, for short 'the Act' read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in view of the judgments, supra, read with the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

12. Thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 4,000 x 12 x 15 = Rs.7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

13. The claimant is also held entitled to a sum of Rs. 10,000/- each, i.e. Rs. 20,000/- , under the heads 'loss of love and affection' and 'funeral expenses'.

14. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to total compensation to the tune of Rs. 7,20,000/- + Rs. 20,000/- = Rs. 7,40,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

FAO No. 435 of 2016.

15. Admittedly, the deceased was 36 years of age at the time of accident, was an orchardist by profession.

16. The claimant has pleaded in the claim petition that the deceased was earning Rs. 20,000/- per month, but has failed to prove the same. The Tribunal has wrongly awarded compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,00,000/- in lump sum to the claimant for the following reasons.

17. By guess work, it can be safely held that the deceased would not have been earning less than Rs. 6,000/- per month.

18. 1/3rd is required to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased, while keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases, supra. Accordingly, after deducting 1/3rd amount, it is held that the claimant has lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.4,000/- per month.

19. The multiplier of '15' is applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's, Reshma Kumari's cases, supra and case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

20. Thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 4,000 x 12 x 15 = Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

21. The claimant is also held entitled to a sum of Rs.10,000/- each, i.e. Rs.20,000/-, under the heads 'loss of love and affection' and 'funeral expenses'.

22. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to total compensation to the tune of Rs. 7,20,000/- + Rs. 20,000/- = Rs. 7,40,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

23. The amount of compensation is enhanced in both the claim petitions and the impugned awards are modified, as indicated above.

24. The respondents are directed to deposit the award amount alongwith interest, within a period of six weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in his account.

25. The appeals are accordingly disposed of.

26. Send down the record after placing a copy of the judgment on each of the Tribunal's file.

For the Non-Applicant/Petitioner: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate.

For the Applicant/Respondent : Mr. V.D. Khidtta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral)

This order shall dispose of the application filed by the applicant/respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'respondent') under Section 17-B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947(for short 'Act').

2. It is not in dispute that the non-applicant /petitioner (hereinafter referred to as the 'petitioner') has filed the writ petition No. 2696 of 2016 assailing therein the award passed in favour of the respondent by the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla (for short 'Tribunal') on 18.6.2016. It is further not in dispute that even the respondent has filed a separate writ petition claiming full back wages with 9% interest throughout.

3. In terms of the award passed by the Tribunal, the respondent has been ordered to be reinstated in service along with back wages @ 25%. It is claimed by the respondent that he has been dragged into unnecessary litigation from October, 2009 and till date he is not gainfully employed in any establishment during this period and he has also filed a separate affidavit to this effect.

4. The petitioner has filed reply to this application raising therein preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the application on the ground that the order passed by the Tribunal on 18.6.2016 is not an award, but an order under Section 33-2 (b) of the Act and Rule 64(2) of the Industrial Dispute Rules, 1974 (for short 'Rules'). Whereas, Section 17-B of the Act only refers to an award. These contentions have been reiterated in the reply filed to the merits of the application.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

5. Section 17-B of the Act, reads thus:

> "17B.Payment of full wages to workman pending proceedings in higher courts.- Where in any case, a Labour Court, Tribunal or National Tribunal by its award directs reinstatement of any workman and the employer prefers any proceedings against such award in a High Court or the Supreme Court, the employer shall be liable to pay such workman, during the period of pendency of such proceedings in the High Court or the Supreme Court, full wages last drawn by him, inclusive of any maintenance allowance admissible to him under any rule if the workman had not been employed in any establishment during such period and an affidavit by such workman had been filed to that effect in such Court:
> Provided that where it is proved to the satisfaction of the High Court or the Supreme Court that such workman had been employed and had been receiving adequate remuneration during any such period or part thereof, the Court shall order that no wages shall be payable under this section for such period or part, as the case may be."

6. Evidently, the operative portion of the award passed by the Tribunal reads thus:

> "As a sequel to my above discussion and findings on issues No.1 and 2, the application of the applicant for seeking approval for dismissing the respondent from his service is dismissed. Consequently, the respondent is ordered to be reinstated in service along with back wages @ 25%. File, after completion, be consigned to records."

7. No doubt, the said award has been passed on an application filed by the petitioner under Section 33 (2) of the Act, read with Rule 64(2) of the Rules. However, the petitioner has not been able to show how the application under Section 17-B of the Act in an order for reinstating the respondent in exercise of the aforesaid provision is not maintainable.

8. Indisputably, the aforesaid provisions have been enacted by the Parliament with a view to give relief to a workman who has been ordered to be reinstated under the award of a Labour Court or the Industrial Tribunal during the pendency of the proceedings in which the said award is under challenge before the High Court or Supreme Court. The object underlying the provision is to relieve to a certain extent the hardship that is caused to the workman due to delay in the implementation of the award. (Refer:Dena Bank vs. Kiritikumar T. Patel (1999) 2 SCC 106).

9. Following the judgment of Kiritikumar's (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dena Bank vs. Ghanshyam (2001) 5 SCC 169 has held that Section 17-B provides that where the employer prefers any proceedings against an award directing the reinstatement of any workman, the employer shall be liable to said workman during the pendency of the proceedings in the High Court or the Supreme court full wages last drawn by him. Thus, it is obvious that by enacting such provision, the Parliament intended that the workman should get the last drawn wages from the date of the award till the challenge to the award is finally decided. The provision has been enacted so as to prevent the employer from entering into a long drawn battle with the employee i.e. without paying a penny so as to exhaust him and thereby succumb to the illegal demand or enter into unconscionable bargaining with the employee.

10. In Kiritikumar's case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme court has held that word "full wages last drawn" must be given plain and material meaning and that they cannot be given any extended meaning as given by the Karnataka High Court in Visveswaraya Iron and Steel Ltd. vs. M. Chandrappa (1994) 84 FJR 46 and Bombay High Court in Carona Sahu Co. Ltd. vs.A.K. Munafkhan (1995) 70 FLR 25.

11. The Karnataka High Court had taken the view that "full wages last drawn" take into their fold the wages drawn on the date of termination of the services plus the yearly increments and the DA to be worked out till the date of the award.

12. Whereas, the Bombay High Court had laid down that the expression "full wages last drawn" means the full wages which the workman was entitled to draw in pursuance of the award and the implementation of which is suspended during the pendency of the proceedings. However, it went further to observe that the proper construction of this section is that the workman is entitled not only to the full wages which the workman would have been entitled to draw but for the pendency of the proceedings in the High Court or Supreme Court. He would further be held entitled to every component of wages payable on the date of the award while determining the wages payable to the workman on the date of the award.

13. As observed earlier, the views taken by the Hon'ble Karnataka High Court and Hon'ble Bombay High Court, were not approved by the Hon'ble Supreme court and it was held that the payment which is required to be made by the employer to the workman under Section 17-B is in the nature of subsistence allowance which would not be refundable or recoverable from the workman even if the award is set-aside by the High Court or Supreme Court. It was further held that since the payment is of such a character, Parliament thought it proper to limit it to the extent of the wages which were drawn by the workman when he was in service and when his services were terminated and therefore used the expression "full wages last drawn". It shall be apt to reproduce the observations as contained in paras 20, 21 and 22 of the said judgment, which reads thus:

> "20. The first construction give to the words "full wages last drawn" their plain and material meaning. The second as well as the third construction read something more than their plain and material meaning in this words. In substance these construction read the words "full wages last drawn" as "full wages which would have been drawn". Such an extended meaning to the words "full wages last drawn" does not find support in the language of Section 17-B. Nor can this extended meaning be based on the object underlying the enactment of Section 17-B.

21. As indicated earlier Section 17-B has been enacted by Parliament with a view to give relief to a workman who has been ordered to be reinstated under the award of a Labour Court or the Industrial Tribunal during the pendency of proceedings in which the said award is under challenge before the High Court or the Supreme Court. The object underlying the provision is to relieve a certain extent the hardship that is caused to the workman due to delay in the implementation to the workman is in the nature of subsistence allowance which would not be refundable or recoverable from the workman even if the award is set aside by the High Court or this Court. Since the payment is of such a character Parliament thought it proper to limit it to the extent of the wages which were drawn by the workman when he was in service and when his services were terminated and therefore used the words "full wages last drawn". To read these words to mean wages which would have been drawn by the workman if he had continued in service if the order terminating his services had not passed since it has been by the award of the Labour of Industrial Tribunal, would result in so enlarging the benefit as to comprehend the relief that has been granted under the award that is under challenge. Since the amount is not refundable or recoverable in the even of the award being set aside it would result in the employer being required to give effect to the award during the pendency of the proceeding challenging the award before the High Court or the supreme Court without his being able to recover the said amount in the event of the awarded being set aside. We are unable to constitute the provisions contained in Section 17-B, to cast such a burden on the employer. In our opinion, therefore, the words "full wages last drawn" must be given their plain and material meaning and they cannot be given the extended meaning as given by the Karnataka High Court Visveswarya Iroon & Steel Ltd. [supra] or the Bombay High Court in Carona Sahu Co. Ltd. [supra].

22. Shri Jitendra Sharma has laid emphasis on the word "full" in the expression "full wages last drawn" and has submitted that the said word implies that the last drawn must be the was which the workman would have drawn under the award. We are unable to agree. In our opinion, the expression "full" only emphasis that all the emoluments which are included in "wages" as defined in clause [rr] of section 2 of the Act so as to include in "wages" as referred to in sub-clauses (i) to (iv) are required to be paid. In this context, it may also be mentioned that in Section 17-B Parliament has also used the words "inclusive of any maintenance allowance admissible to him under to him any rule". These words indicate that maintenance allowance that is admissible under any rule is required to be paid irrespective of the amount which was actually being paid as maintenance allowance to the workman. But with regard to wages Parliament has used the words "full wages last drawn" indicating that the wages that were actually paid and not the amount that would be payable are required to be paid."

14. However, the crucial question that arises for consideration is as to whether the order of payment of wages under Section 17-B of the Act should be from the date of award or from the date of filing of the application under Section 17-B by the concerned workman or there should be any other date i.e. date of filing etc.

15. The precise question with which this Court is confronted came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Division Bench of Delhi High Court in Municipal Corporation of Delhi and others vs. Santosh Kumari and another, LPA No. 165 of 2012, decided on 24.08.2012 and after quoting Section 17-B of the Act, it was observed as under:

19. This provision has repeatedly come up for interpretation in its various hues and facets before the High Courts as well as the Supreme Court. It may not be necessary to take note of all those judgments laying down the ratio and the various aspects which have been clarified in those judgments laying down certain specific principles. Since in these appeals, we are concerned with a limited issue, viz., the date from which the benefit under Section 17B of the ID Act is to be made available to the concerned workman, our discussion would revolve around this central issue. However, while considering an application under Section 17B of the ID Act, it is necessary to bear in mind that the spirit, intendment and object underlying the statutory provision of Section 17B is to mitigate and relieve, to a certain extent, the hardship resulting to a workman due to delay in the implementation of an award directing reinstatement of his services on account of the challenge made to it by the employer. The preliminary consideration for making available such a relief to a workman is to be found in the benevolent purpose of the enactment. It recognizes a workman''s right to a bare minimum to keep body and soul together when a challenge has been made to an Award directing his reinstatement. The statutory provisions provide no inherent right of assailing an order or an award by an industrial adjudicator by way of an appeal. The payment which is required to be made by the employer to the workman has been held to be akin to a subsistence allowance which is neither refundable nor recoverable from a workman even if the Award in favour of the workman is set aside by the High Court. In Dena Bank Vs. Kiriti Kumar T. Patel [(1999) 2 SCC 106], the Apex Court was of the view that the object under Section 17B of the ID Act is only to relieve to a certain extent, the hardship that is caused to the workman due to the delay in implementation of the Award.

20. Further, the statute requires satisfaction of the following conditions:

> (i) An award by a Labour Court, Tribunal or National Tribunal directing reinstatement of a workman is assailed in proceedings in a High Court or the Supreme Court;
> (ii) During the pendency of such proceedings, employer is required to pay full wages to the workman;
> (iii) The wages stipulated under Section 17B are full wages last drawn by him, inclusive of any maintenance allowance admissible to him under any Rule;
> (iv) Such wages would be admissible only if the workman had not be employed in any establishment during such period and an affidavit had been filed to such effect.

21. A Single Bench of this Court in Food Craft Instt. Vs. Remeshwar Sharma and Anr. [(2007) 2 LLJ 350 Del] culled out the following principles, from various judicial pronouncements touching upon various facets for grant of interim relief under Section 17B of the ID Act, in the following manner:

> "(i) An application under Section 17B can be made only in proceedings wherein an industrial award directing reinstatement of the workman has been assailed.
> (ii) This Court has no jurisdiction not to direct compliance with the provisions of Section 17B of the Industrial Disputes Act if all the other conditions precedent for passing an order in terms of the Section 17B of the Act are satisfied [Re : (1999) 9 SCC 229 entitled Choudhary Sharai v. Executive Engineer, Panchayati Raj Department & Anr.].
> (iii) As the interim relief is being granted in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the High Court can grant better benefits which may be more just and equitable on the facts of the case than the relief contemplated by Section 17B. Therefore, dehors the powers of the Court under Section 17B, the Court can pass an order directing payment of an amount higher than the last drawn wages to the workman [Re : (1999) 2 SCC 106 (para 22), Dena Bank v. Kirtikumar T. Patel].

(iv) Such higher amount has to be considered necessary W.P(C) No.11803/2005 Page 6 of 11in the interest of justice and the workman must plead and make out a case that such an order is necessary in the facts of the case.

(v) The Court can enforce the spirit, intendment and purpose of legislation that the workman who is to get the wages from the date of the award till the challenge to the award is finally decided as per the statement of the objections and reasons of the Industrial Disputes(Amendment) Act, 1982 by which Section 17B was inserted in the Act [Re : JT 2001 (Suppl.1) SC 229, Dena Bank v. Ghanshyam (para 12)].

(vi) An application under Section 17B should be disposed of expeditiously and before disposal of the writ petition [Re : 2000 (9) SCC 534 entitled Workman v. Hindustan Vegetable Oil Corporation Ltd.].

(vii) Interim relief can be granted with effect from the date of the Award [Re : JT 2001 Supplementary (1) SC entitled Regional Authority, Dena Bank v. Ghanshyam; 2004 (3) AD (DELHI) 337 entitled Indra Perfumery Company v. Sudarshab Oberoi v. Presiding Officer].

(viii) Transient employment and self-employment would not be a bar to relief under Section 17B of the Industrial Disputes Act [Re : 2000 (1) LLJ 1012 entitled Taj Services Limited v. Industrial Tribunal; 1984 (4) SCC 635 entitled Rajinder Kumar Kundra v. Delhi Administration; 109 (2004) DLT 1 entitled M/s. Birdhi Chand Naunag Ram Jain v. P.O., Labour Court No. IV & Others].

(ix) The Court while considering an application under Section 17B of the ID Act cannot go into the merits of the case, the Court can only consider whether the requirements mentioned in Section 17B have been satisfied or not and, if it is so, then the Court has no option but to direct the employer to pass an order in terms of the statute. It would be immaterial as to whether the petitioner had a very good case on merits [Re : 2000 W.P(C) No.11803/2005 Page 7 of 11(5) AD Delhi 413 entitled Anil Jain v. Jagdish Chander].

(x) A reasonable standard for arriving at the conclusion of the quantum of a fair amount towards subsistence allowance payable to a workman would be the minimum wages notified by the statutory authorities under the provisions of the Minimum Wages Act, 1948 in respect of an employee who may be performing the same or similar functions in scheduled employments. [Re: Rajinder Kumar Kundra v. Delhi Administration, (1984) 4 SCC 635; Sanjit Roy v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1983 SC 328;decision dated 3rd January, 2003 in Writ Petition (Civil) Nos. 3654 & 3675/1999 entitled Delhi Council for Child Welfare v. Union of India; DTC v. The P.O., Labour Court No. 1, Delhi & Ors., 2002 II AD (Delhi) 112 (para 12, 13)]

(xi) Interim orders directing payment to a workman can be made even on the application of the management seeking stay of the operation and effect of the industrial Award and order. Such interim orders of stay sought by the employer can be granted unconditionally or made conditional subject to payment or deposits of the entire or portion of the awarded amount together with a direction to the petitioner employer to make payment of the wages at an appropriate rate to the workman. Such an order would be based on considerations of interests of justice when balancing equities.

(xii) For the same reason, I find that there is no prohibition in law to a direction by the Court to make an order directing payment of the wages with effect from the date of the Award. On the contrary, it has been so held in several judgments that this would be the proper course [Re : Regional Authority, Dena Bank & Anr. v. Ghanshyam, reported at JT 2001 (Suppl. 1) SC 229 and Indra Perfumery Co. Thr. Sudershab Oberoi v. Presiding Officer & Ors., 2004 III AD (Delhi) 337].

(xiii) While passing an interlocutory direction for payment of wages, the Court may also secure the interests of the W.P(C) No.11803/2005 Page 8 of 11employer by making orders regarding refund or recovery of the amount which is in excess of the last drawn wages in the event of the industrial award being set aside so as to do justice to the employer.

(xiv) A repayment to the employer could be secured by directing a workman to given an undertaking or offer security to the satisfaction of the Registrar (General) of the Court or any other authority [Re : para 12, 2002 (61) DRJ 521 (DB), Hindustan Carbide Pvt. Ltd. v. Govt. of NCT of Delhi & Ors.(supra)]

(xv) In exercise of powers under Article 226 and Article 136 of the Constitution, if the requisites of Section 17B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 are satisfied, no order can be passed denying the workman the benefit granted under the statutory provisions of Section 17B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 [Re: 1999 (2) SCC 106, Dena Bank v. Kirtikumar T. Patel (para 23)].

(xvi) Gainful employment of the workman; unreasonable and unexplained delay in making the application by the workman after the filing of the petition challenging the award/order; offer by the employer to give employment to the workman would be a relevant factors and consideration for the date from which the wages are to be permitted.

(xvii) It will be in the interest of justice to ensure if the facts of the case so justify, that payment of the amount over and above the amount which could be directed to be paid under Section 17B to a workman, is ordered to be paid only on satisfaction of terms and conditions as would enable the employer to recover the same [para 13 of Regional Manager, Dena Bank v. Ghanshyam].

(xviii)The same principles would apply to any interim order in respect of a pendent lite payment in favour of the Workman." [emphasis supplied]

22. In respect of the issue, with which we are concerned, the learned Single Judge in the aforesaid judgment held that there was no prohibition in law to a direction by the Court to make an order directing payment of the wages with effect from the date of the Award. At the same time, it was also held that unreasonable and unexplained delay in making the application by the workman after the filing of the petition challenging the award/order; offer by the employer to give employment to the workman would be a relevant factors and consideration for the date from which the wages are to be permitted. Following this judgment, another Single Judge of this Court in the case of Delhi Transport Corporation Vs. Sh. Ramesh Chander [W.P.(C) No.11803/2005, decided on 09.1.2008] granted the wages from the date of application and not from the date of award.

23. Learned counsel for the appellant also referred to the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Uttaranchal Forest Development Corpn. and Another Vs. K.B. Singh and Others [(2005) 11 SCC 449] directing entitlement for wages under Section 17B of the ID Act from the respective dates of filing the affidavit in compliance with Section 17B of the Act.

24. However, as pointed out above by Mr. Anuj Aggarwal that this judgment was considered by a Division Bench in Delhi Transport Corporation Vs. Inderjeet

Singh (decided on 29.7.2008) holding that the aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court was a short order, which did not discuss other Supreme Court decisions. The Division Bench in this case also negated the contention that merely by filing delayed application, the workman should be given wages from the date of affidavit and not from the date of the Award. Following discussion contained in the said judgment was relied upon:

> "5. The decisions in Uttaranchal Forest Development Corporation as well as Raptakos Brett & Co. Limited are short orders that do not discuss either of the above Supreme Court decisions. A reading of the orders would show that they were peculiar to the facts of those cases and did not alter the law as explained in Dena Bank-I and Dena Bank-II. As regards the date from which the amount under Section 17- B ID Act would become payable, the following passage in the decision in Dena Bank-II is a complete answer (SCC p.174):
> > "12. We have mentioned above that the import of Section 17-B admits of no doubt that Parliament intended that the workman should get the last drawn wages from the date of the award till the challenge to the award is finally decided which is in accord with the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Industrial Disputes (Amendment) Act, 1982 by which Section 17-B was inserted in the Act. We have also pointed out above that Section 17-B does not preclude the High Courts or this Court from granting better benefits - more just and equitable on the facts of a case than contemplated by that provision to a workman. By an interim order the High Court did not grant relief in terms of Section 17-B, nay, there is no reference to that section in the orders of the High Court, therefore, in this case the question of payment of full wages last drawn" to the respondent does not arise. In the light of the above discussion the power of the High Court to pass the impugned order cannot but be upheld so the respondent is entitled to his salary in terms of the said order."
> 6. As regards the delay by the workman in approaching the Court for relief under Section 17-B ID Act, it requires to be recalled that the workman could have filed such an application only after the DTC filed its writ petition. The object of the provision is that the wages should not be denied to the workman when he has been able to state on affidavit that he has remained unemployed and the employer is unable to show anything to the contrary. In the circumstances, the benefit under Section 17B ID Act cannot be denied to the workman on the ground that he filed the application three years after the writ petition was filed by the DTC. The entitlement of the workman to wages under Section 17B hinges on whether in fact he remained unemployed since his termination. That it is a question of fact. In light of the unrebutted claim of the workman to that effect in the instant case, his application under Section 17B ID Act had to be allowed."

25. We would like to remark at this stage that there are many judgments cited by both the parties in support of their submissions. However, in none of those judgments, issue arises directly for consideration. In some cases, without discussion, the benefit of Section 17B of the ID Act was given from the date of application/filing of the affidavit as required under Section 17B of the ID Act in some other cases, it was given from the date of award, again routinely and without discussing as to whether in a given case, it could be given from the later date and not from the date of award. In this backdrop, we have to give answer to the issue that has arisen.

26. We may record, at the outset, that normally such a benefit of payment under Section 17B of the ID Act is to be from the date of award which is not only the plain language of the provision, but so recorded in the objects and reasons for enacting this Section. Therefore, when the application is filed by the workman with promptitude after the receipt of the notice of the filing of the petition by the Management, he would be entitled to the benefit of Section 17B of the ID Act from the date of the award. Problem arises when such an application is not filed for years together and by filing a belated application, still the claim is made from the date of the award, which is resisted by the management on the ground that it should be given, if at all, from the date of the application.

27. We are of the considered view that the Single Bench in Food Craft Instt. (supra) gave a balanced interpretation to the aforesaid provision taking into consideration the interest of both the workman as well as the employer. It is the most equitable. What follows from a conjoint reading of Para (xii) and (xvi) enumerated therein that normally, the workman would be paid wages with effect from the date of the award. It should be in those cases where application is filed with promptitude and immediately on notice of writ petition staying the operation of the order of reinstatement or proceedings against such an award. It should be within reasonable period. Thereafter, that would mean that such an application should normally be filed with the filing of the counter affidavit or reply to an application for interim relief and in the case of absence of such counter affidavit or reply, within the reasonable period from the date when workman has appeared himself or through counsel in the writ proceedings. This would be so even when the management has delayed in filing the writ petition challenging the award inasmuch as with such a delay, it cannot deprive the workman under Section 17B from the date of award. Thus, the expression "during the pendency of proceedings before the High Court" under Section 17B of the ID Act would not mean from the date of filing the writ petition. However, if there is a long or abnormal delay in filing application under Section 17B of the ID Act, we are of the opinion that in such an eventuality, it becomes an obligation of the workman to satisfactorily explain the delay. It would become relevant consideration for deciding as to whether the benefit is to be accorded from the date of application or the award. In case, it is unreasonable and unexplained delay, it would be within the discretion of the writ Court to direct payment of wages from the date of the application. There could be several reasons for adopting this course of action. One of us (Rajiv Sahai Endlaw, J.) had taken the justification by providing following reasons:

> A. Section 17B is in the nature of a subsistence allowance. It is intended to provide to the workman whose reinstatement has been directed by the Industrial Adjudicator, at least minimum wages, during the time that the judicial review of the award of the Industrial Adjudicator is pending consideration before this Court. The payment thereunder is a month by month payment and is not a payment of any lumpsum amount. Further, the said payment is subject to the workman, on affidavit, stating that he is unemployed and/or has been unable to find employment. The employer has a right to rebut the said averment of the workman and if succeeds in rebutting the same, the workman under Section 17B would not be entitled to payment.
> B. The payment under Section 17B is not an automatic payment which starts running immediately on institution of proceedings to challenge the award. For the workman to be entitled to such payment, he is required to file an affidavit. Thus, payment is dependent upon a positive act of the workman. The High Court is not empowered to make the payment till such affidavit has been filed by the workman.

C. Once payment/order requires a positive act of the workman, entitled to such payment of filing in court such affidavit, the ordinary rule of litigation is (as reiterated in Beg Raj Singh Vs. State of U.P. AIR 2003 SC 833) that the right to relief should be decided by reference to the date on which the party approaches the Court. The Supreme Court in Mukund Lal Bhandari Vs. U.O.I. AIR 1993 SC 2127, in relation to the pension of Freedom Fighters also held that the "benefit should flow only from the date of application and not from any date earlier". Thus but for Section 17B providing for payment during pendency of the writ proceeding (and which has been interpreted as not from date of institution of the writ petition but from the date of the award impugned therein) under general law, an order under Section 17B would have been only from the date of the application under Section 17B.

D. However such benefit given to the workman, of direction/order for payment from a date anterior to the filing of application should not be tilted against the employer by interpreting it to mean that the workman can apply under Section 17B at his whim and fancy and at any time. The workman cannot be permitted to apply under Section 17B when the writ petition matures for hearing and be held entitled to payment for several years together. To allow so, would be inequitable to the employer.

E. In most cases, it is impossible for the employer to verify whether the workman is employed in another establishment or not. It would be more so difficult if the employer is required to verify the employment, if any, for say the last 10 years, as the petitioner herein would be required to, to rebut the affidavit filed by the workman.

F. If the application under Section 17B is made within a reasonable time, the employer can make arrangements for the payment. However, non-filing of the application by the workman can reasonably entitle the employer to believe that the employee is employed in another establishment and will not make any claim under Section 17B. The employer may arrange its financial affairs accordingly. An employer who has acted on the basis of such a representation of the workman cannot after a long period, 10 years as in the present case, be burdened with the liability under Section 17B from a back date which as a lump sum may represent an enormous amount and wreck the employer. Moreover it will provide a bounty rather than subsistence.

G. The Supreme Court in Excel Wear Vs. U.O.I. AIR 1979 SC 25 held that principles of socialism and social justice cannot be pushed to such an extreme so as to ignore completely or to a very large extent the interests of the employer."

28. We are quite in agreement with this approach. Applying this principle, we proceed to state the outcome in each of the appeal."

16. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principles, it would be noticed that the award impugned in this writ petition was passed by the Tribunal on 18.6.2016, writ petition came to be filed on 16.9.2016 and whereas the application under Section 17-B of the Act came to be filed on 11.11.2016. Therefore, in the given facts and circumstances, I am of the considered view that the ends of justice would be subserved in case the petitioner is directed to pay the wages last drawn (as clarified above) to the respondent from the date of filing of this petition i.e. 16.9.2016.

The application is accordingly disposed of in the aforesaid terms.

Nemo for respondents No. 5 and 6.
Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No. 7 and 8.
Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate, for respondent No.9.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant has thrown challenge to the judgment and award dated 19.10.2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, District Solan, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC Petition No. 18-S/2 of 2009, titled Smt. Daljeet Kaur and others versus Hem Raj and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.12,74,000/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. The claimants, owners, drivers and insurer-respondent No.9, have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. The insurer/appellant has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the insurer-appellant argued that it is a case of contributory negligence. Both the drivers were negligent and at the best, the appellant has to satisfy 50% of the liability. He has further argued that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of motorcyclist.

5. Learned counsel for respondent No. 9, i.e., the insurer of motor cyclist, vide order dated 4.11.2016 was asked to seek instructions to satisfy the award to the extent of 50%. On 11.11.2016, he sought instructions and stated that he is under instructions to contest the lis.

6. In order to determine the controversy, it is necessary to give a flash back of brief facts, the womb of which has given birth to the instant appeal.

7. The claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident, have filed claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.25 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on account of death of Vikrant, who died in a motor vehicle accident which took place on 4.10.2007, near village Anji Tehsil and District Solan due to rash and negligent driving of driver of bus bearing registration No. HP-51-3651, as a result of which, the deceased, who was pillion rider on the motorcycle, bearing Registration No. HP-14-A-3841, sustained fatal injuries and succumbed to the injuries in the hospital.

8. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

1. Whether the deceased Vikrant had died in an accident caused due to rash and negligent driving of the respondents No. 2 and 5? OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP
3. Whether the vehicles were plied by the respondents No. 1 and 4 in violation of terms and conditions of the insurance policy and the respondents No. 3 and 6 are not liable to pay the amount of compensation? OPR-3 and 6.
4. Relief.

9. Claimants have examined as many as six witnesses and one of the claimants, namely, Daljeet Kaur also stepped into the witness box as PW4. Respondents have examined four witnesses and motor cyclist, namely, Harinder Grover stepped into the witness box as RW2.

10. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence held that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of bus driver and accordingly, decided issue No.1 in favour of the claimants.

11. I have gone through the record. The claimants have examined witnesses who have deposed that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of bus driver.

12. The official witnesses, namely, RW1 MHC Chander Mohan and Ramanand Sharma, Summary Clerk of the office of Civil Judge, (Senior Division) Solan have stated that FIR was lodged against motor cyclist Harinder Grover and final charge sheet was also presented against him in the court of competent jurisdiction and was facing trial.

13. While going through the statements of the witnesses, some of the witnesses have stated that bus driver has also not taken due care and caution while driving bus. In para 24 of the claim petition, it is specifically pleaded that the bus driver was rash and negligent in driving the bus. Bus driver and owner have filed the reply. It is apt to reproduce para 24 of the reply filed by respondents No. 1 and 2, i.e., bus driver and owner herein.

> "24.That the contents of para 24 of the petition are misleading in nature. It is denied that the deceased was sitting as pillion rider on the motor cycle. The manner in which the accident has occurred has not been explained properly in this para of the petition. The deceased himself was driving the motor cycle and the respondent No. 5 was sitting as a pillion rider on the motor cycle. As stated above the motor cycle was being driven by the deceasd himself and the accident had occurred when the diver of the motor cycle i.e. the deceased was over taking a standing truck on a sharp curve and while taking the pass from the stranded truck, the motor cycle being driven by the deceased struck against the bus and the deceased caused the accident. Thus, the stand taken in the petition to the effect that the deceased was pillion rider on the motor cycle is wrong, rather he was driving the motor cycle. It is emphatically denied that the accident had occurred due to sole rash and negligent driving of respondent No. 2 as alleged."

[Emphasis added]

14. Some of the witnesses have stated that motor cycle struck with the bus on a sharp curve and some of the witnesses have deposed that bus struck with the motor cycle. PW3 Saravjeet Singh stated that local bus came from Kumarhatti side was being driven in rash and negligent manner and struck with the motor cycle coming from the opposite direction over which there was one pillion rider alongwith motor cyclist, who fell down and suffered fatal injuries.

15. It is beaten law of the land that in claim petitions, the standard of proof is on different footings as compared to the standard of proof required in criminal cases. In a claim petition, only prima facie proof is required and strict pleadings and proofs are not required.

16. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Dulcina Fernandes and others versus Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of paras 8 and 9 of the judgment herein:

"8. In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Shila Datta, (2011) 10 SCC 509, while considering the nature of a claim petition under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 a three-Judge Bench of this Court has culled out certain propositions of which Propositions (ii), (v) and (vi) would be relevant to the facts of the present case and, therefore, may be extracted hereinbelow:

"10. (ii) The rules of the pleadings do not strictly apply as the claimant is required to make an application in a form prescribed under the Act. In fact, there is no pleading where the proceedings are suo motu initiated by the Tribunal.

(v) Though the Tribunal adjudicates on a claim and determines the compensation, it does not do so as in an adversarial litigation.....

(vi) The Tribunal is required to follow such summary procedure as it thinks fit. It may choose one or more persons possessing special knowledge of and matters relevant to inquiry, to assist it in holding the enquiry."

9. The following further observation available in para 10 of the Report would require specific note: (Shila Datta case, (2011) 10 SCC 509, SCC p. 519)

"10. .....We have referred to the aforesaid provisions to show that an award by the Tribunal cannot be seen as an adversarial adjudication between the litigating parties to a dispute, but a statutory determination of compensation on the occurrence of an accident, after due enquiry, in accordance with the statute." (Emphasis added)

17. This Court in FAO No. 530 of 2008 titled National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Jagtamba and others, decided on 27.11.2015 and in series of cases has laid down the similar principles of law.

18. It appears that both the drivers have not taken due care and caution while driving their respective vehicles.

19. The question is-what is contributory negligence? When two drivers have not taken due care and caution while driving their respective vehicles and have contributed in causing the accident, is contributory negligence.

20. The apex Court in case titled Kamlesh and others versus Attar Singh and others reported in 2015 AIR SCW 6158 in para 8 has held as under:

> "8. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused, inter alia, the evidence on record of Ram Parshad PW2 and Devender PW.3. The method and manner in which the accident has taken place leaves no room for doubt that it was a case of composite negligence of drivers of both the vehicles, that is the driver of Maruti car and driver of tempo. Though Police has registered a case against driver of the tempo Attar Singh and has filed a chargesheet but the same cannot be said to be conclusive. Though, Attar Singh has stated that it was in order to oblige the driver of the Maruti car, a case was registered against him. Be that as it may. It appears both the drivers have tried to save their liability. In such circumstances, the version of eye-witnesses, PW.2 and PW.3 assumes significance. The fact remains that car had dashed the tempo on the middle portion near footstep. Thus the method and manner in which the accident has taken place leaves no room for doubt that both the drivers were negligent. Man may lie but the circumstances do not is the cardinal principle of evaluation of evidence. No effort has been made by the High Court to appreciate the evidence and method and manner in which the accident has taken place. Both the aforesaid witnesses have stated Maruti Car was in excessive speed. However, it appears driver of tempo also could not remove his vehicle from the way of Maruti Car. Thus, both the drivers were clearly negligent. It appears from the facts and circumstances that both the drivers were equally responsible for the accident. Thus, it was a case of composite negligence. Both the drivers were joint "tort-feasors", thus, liable to make payment of compensation."

21. The apex Court in another judgment in case titled Meera Devi and another versus H.R.T.C. and others reported in 2014 AIR SCW 1709 has laid down the similar principles of law. It is apt to reproduce para 10 of the said judgment herein.

> "10.To prove the contributory negligence, there must be cogent evidence. In the instant case, there is no specific evidence to prove that the accident has taken place due to rash and negligent driving of the deceased scooterist. In the absence of any cogent evidence to prove the plea of contributory negligence, the said doctrine of common law cannot be applied in the present case. We are, thus, of the view that the reasoning given by the High Court has no basis and the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was just and reasonable in the facts and circumstances of the case."

22. The Apex Court in Khenyei versus New India Assurance Co. Limited & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3169 has laid down the same principles of law.

23. Applying the test, it can be safely held that both the drivers have driven the vehicles rashly and negligently and the accident was outcome of contributory negligence.

24. The factum of insurance of both the vehicles is not in dispute. The insurer of both the vehicle have failed to prove that the owners of offending vehicles have committed any willful breach in terms of the insurance policy and issue No. 3 rightly came to be decided in favour of claimants and against both respondents No. 3 and 6 in the claim petition.

25. The adequacy of compensation is not in dispute. Even the claimants have not questioned the adequacy of compensation.

26. Having said so, both the drivers have contributed in causing the accident in which deceased, a pillion rider, sustained injuries and succumbed to the same. Thus, the insurers of both the offending vehicles are saddled with the liability in equal shares.

27. The rate of interest, as awarded by the Tribunal is maintained.

28. Respondent No. 9, i.e., Bajaj Allianz Insurance Company Ltd. is directed to deposit the 50% of the awarded amount alongwith interest in the Registry of this Court within eight weeks from today. On deposit, Registry to release the same in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification.

29. Out of the amount already deposited by the appellant-insurer-Oriental Insurance Company, 50% be released to the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification and rest of the amount be refunded to the insurer/ Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. through payees cheque account.

30. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

31. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Both these appeals are outcome of one vehicular accident, thus, the same are being clubbed and decided by this common judgment.

2. Challenge in FAO No. 441 of 2012 is to award, dated 30th July, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 52-N/2 of 2007, titled as Sumitra Devi and others versus Ritesh Aggarwal and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹5,34,400/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (hereinafter referred to as "impugned award-I").

3. Subject matter of FAO No. 442 of 2012 is award, dated 30th July, 2012, made by the Tribunal in MAC Petition No. 15-N/2 of 2008, titled as Sunita Devi and others versus Shri Ritesh Kumar Aggarwal and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 5,01,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award-II").

4. The claimants, driver and owners-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned awards on any count, thus, have attained finality so far the same relate to them.

5. Appellant-insurer has called in question both the impugned awards on the grounds taken in the respective memo of appeals.

6. In order to determine both these appeals, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the cases, the womb of which has given birth to the appeals in hand.

7. The claimants in both the claim petitions invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal by the medium of respective claim petitions for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the respective claim petitions, on the ground that they became the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Yash Pal, while driving truck No. HP-51-3277, rashly and negligently on 5th August, 2007, at about 10.30 P.M., at Mandoli, in which deceased-Satpal and Hari Singh sustained injuries and succumbed to the said injuries.

8. The respondents in both the claim petitions resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

9. On the pleadings of the parties, a similar set of issues came to be framed by the Tribunal in both the claim petitions on 14th July, 2008. Thus, I deem it proper to reproduce the issues framed in one of the claim petitions, i.e. MAC Petition No. 52-N/2 of 2007 (subject matter of FAO No. 441 of 2012) herein:

> "1. Whether the deceased Satpal died in an accident which was the result of rash and negligent driving of the vehicle by respondent No. 3, Yash Pal, as alleged? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved, to what amount of compensation, the petitioners are entitled to and from whom? OPP

3. Whether the risk of the deceased was not covered under the Insurance Policy? OPR-4

4. Whether the deceased was an un-autorized passenger in the offending vehicle? OPR-4

5. Whether the driver of the vehicle was not possessed of a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-4

6. Whether the petition has been filed in collusion with respondents No. 1 to 3? OPR-4

7. Relief."

10. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, awarded compensation in favour of the claimants in the respective claim petitions and saddled the insurer with liability in terms of the impugned awards.

11. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling the appellant-insurer with liability in both the claim petitions on three counts:

(i) That the deceased were not labourer/employee or the pedestrian, but were travelling in the offending vehicle as unauthorized passengers;

(ii) That adequate opportunity was not granted to the appellant-insurer to lead evidence; and

(iii) That the amount awarded is excessive;

12. All these grounds are not tenable for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

FAO No. 441 of 2012:

13. The claimants have specifically pleaded in the claim petition that deceased-Satpal was working as a labourer with the offending vehicle and was travelling in the same as a labourer at the time of the accident, which stands admitted by the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle in their reply.

14. It is apt to reproduce para 11 of the joint reply filed by the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle herein:

"11. That the contents of para 23 & 24 of the claim petition are wrong hence emphatically denied except that the deceased was the labourer on the truck. It is also submitted that the accident took place due to the mechanical failure."

(Emphasis added)

15. Hence, it is admission on the part of the owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle that deceased-Satpal was employed by them with the offending truck as a labourer.

16. I have gone through the registration certificate of the offending vehicle, which is on the record as Ext. R-4, the perusal of which does disclose that the seating capacity of the offending vehicle including the driver is '3+1'.

17. The factum of insurance is admitted. The insurance policy is on the record as Ext. R-3. While going through the details of premium paid, which is contained in the Schedule of Premium of the insurance policy, it is crystal clear that premium has been paid for liability of employee/driver also. Thus, the risk of deceased-Satpal, being the labourer with the offending vehicle, was covered.

18. The insurer has not led any evidence to dislodge the evidence led by the claimants. It is apt to record herein that the claimants' evidence was closed in terms of order, dated 4th March, 2009. Thereafter, the file remained on the dockets of the Tribunal till 25th July, 2012, for recording the respondents' evidence, on which date also no RWs were present despite the fact that eight opportunities were already granted in their favour and the evidence was ordered to be closed. Thus, it cannot lie in the mouth of the appellant-insurer that adequate opportunities were not granted to it to lead evidence.

19. The claimants are seven in number. The Tribunal, after taking the income of deceased-Satpal to be ₹ 3600/- per month, has rightly deducted one-fifth towards his personal expenses in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

20. The deceased was 31 years of age at the time of the accident. The multiplier of '15' applied by the Tribunal is just and appropriate in view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "MV Act").

21. Viewed thus, the amount awarded cannot be said to be excessive in any way, rather, is meagre. But, the claimants have not questioned the adequacy of the compensation, thus, the same is maintained.

FAO No. 442 of 2012:

22. The claimants have specifically pleaded that deceased-Hari Singh was walking as a pedestrian by the side of the road when he was hit by the offending vehicle. They have also led evidence to substantiate their claim.

23. PW-1, namely Shri Shammi Kumar, has specifically stated that he was present on the spot at the time of the accident and when deceased-Hari Singh was walking alongside the road, he was hit by the offending vehicle. Thus, it can be safely held that deceased-Hari Singh was a third party and his risk was covered in terms of the insurance policy.

24. The insurer has not led any evidence in rebuttal despite various opportunities and the respondents' evidence was ordered to be closed by the Tribunal vide order, dated 25th July, 2012. Thus, it cannot be said that adequate opportunities were not granted to the insurer to lead evidence.

25. The claimants are six in number. The Tribunal, after taking the income of deceased-Hari Singh to be ₹ 3600/- per month, has rightly deducted one-fourth towards his personal expenses in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

26. The deceased was 32 years of age at the time of the accident. The multiplier of '15' applied by the Tribunal is just and appropriate in view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the MV Act.

27. Having said so, the amount awarded cannot be said to be excessive in any way, rather, is meagre. But, the claimants have not questioned the adequacy of the compensation, thus, the same is maintained.

28. All the three points raised and argued by the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer are answered accordingly.

29. Having glance of the above discussions, the Tribunal has rightly made the impugned awards, are well reasoned and legal one, need no interference.

30. Accordingly, the impugned awards are upheld and both the appeals are dismissed.

31. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants in both the claim petitions strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the respective impugned awards through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts after proper identification.

32. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on each of the Tribunal's files.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

In view of the divergent views in two judgments by the learned Division Benches of this Court, the first being CWP No. 1282/2014, titled as Ashok Dutt Sharmaversus Union of India and others, decided on 24.3.2014 and the second being CWP No. 4064/2015, titled as Bir Pal Singh versus Union *of India and others decided on 1.1.2016, a learned Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 16.3.2016 in CWP No. 9093/2014, referred the matter for consideration to a larger Bench.

2. The order of reference reads thus:

> "Mr. Ashok Sharma, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India, has placed on record photocopies of the two judgments passed by the two Coordinate Benches of this Court and stated that both the judgments, involving the same issue as has been urged in the instant writ petition, are contradictory to each other. We have gone through the judgments and are of the opinion that the instant writ petition is required to be heard by a larger Bench. The matter be processed accordingly on the administrative side."

3. The seminal question that emanates in all these writ petitions is: whether an employee, who is appointed purely on contractual basis for a fixed tenure in accordance with non-statutory Scheme, can claim that his appointment be made co-terminus with the scheme or in the alternative his services be continued till the age of superannuation or would his services be liable to be terminated on the expiry of the period of contract, as is provided for in the Scheme.

4. The Ministry of Defence, Government of India, in the year 2003, introduced the Ex-Servicemen Contributory Health Scheme (hereinafter referred to as the "Scheme"). This scheme aimed to provide medicare to ex-servicemen and their dependants through a network of polyclinics and service medical facilities spread across the country. The Scheme was a contributory Scheme and was to extend the earlier referred benefits on payment of contribution. The appointment of the staff was to be on contractual basis. Para 4 of the Scheme reads as under:

"4. When requisite percentage of ex-servicemen under the reservation quota are not available, specific certificate signed by GOC Area to that effect should be placed on record and thereafter the vacancies utilized by employing a suitable civilian. The GOC Area's sanction for employment of the civilian staff on contract will be valid for a period of twelve months only. During this period efforts will be made to appoint a suitable Ex-Serviceman."

Under the terms and conditions of the contractual appointment, para 8 (d) stipulates duration of employment which reads as under :-

"TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR CONTRACTUAL EMPLOYMENT

8. The detailed criteria are listed in Appendix-'A' and 'B'. The general terms and conditions for employment of the Medical/Para medical/Non medical staff under the ECHS are listed below:-

XXX XXX XXX

(d) Duration of employment. The employment of the staff will be entirely contractual in nature and will be normally for a period of two years at the maximum subject to review of their conduct and performance after twelve months."

Para 14 relates to contract, wherein tenure of contract appointment has been stated that it is for 2 years and review of appointment after 12 months. Extract of para 14 reads as under :-

"CONTRACT

14. Contractual agreements in the prescribed format will be signed by the Station headquarters with the individual candidates and the contracting agency as the case may be :-

(a) Contract with individual employee. The contractual agreement between the contractual employees and the Station Headquarters will include the following :-

(i) Designation of Appointment.

(ii) Place of appointment.

(iii) Contractual nature of appointment for period of two years.

(iv) Review of appointment after 12 months."

The Scheme also provides for procedure for disciplinary action. Para 15 to 17 reads as under :-

"PROCEDURE FOR DISCIPLINARY ACTION

15. In case an ECHS contractual employee is involved in any act of professional misconduct, unethical practices, medical negligence or administrative negligence, disciplinary action will be initiated against the employee and his contract may be terminated after giving a show cause notice without prejudice to any further action that may be deemed fit and initiated considering the nature of the offence committed.

16. The Station Commander will initiate the action for termination of contract on recommendations of the concerned O I/C Polyclinic. A show cause notice will be given to the employee detailing the nature of offences. An inquiry ordered by the Stn Cdr will go into details of the case including the replies to the show cause notice of the employee. The Station Commander may also take legal action under the existing laws of the land for any act listed in para 15 above.

17. The Appointing authority will be the authority for termination of contract."

5. It is not in dispute that it is in pursuance to the aforesaid Scheme that all the petitioners have been appointed on different dates on contractual basis and on cessation of their contractual service, their services have been dispensed with and aggrieved thereby have filed these writ petitions.

6. While construing the provisions of the Scheme, a Division Bench of this Court in Ashok Dutt Sharma's case (supra) dismissed the petition by observing as under:

> "Petitioner's appointment as Lab Assistant was on contract basis. We find that the period of contract has come to an end in the month of February, 2014 and as such we find no illegality with the impugned order dated 14.2.2014 (Annexure P-2), whereby petitioner's contractual employment stands terminated. Petition stands disposed of accordingly, so also pending application(s), if any."

7. Whereas another Division Bench of this Court in Bir Pal Singh'scase (supra), and earlier to that in case of Govind Ram and others vs. Union of India and others, CWP No.4446/2014 decided on 16.12.2015, allowed the petition by observing as under:

> 11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in a catena of decisions has deprecated the endeavours on the part of the employer to displace contractual appointees by substituting them with appointees alike to the petitioners herein. It appears that the diktat of the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court frowning upon the employer resorting to displace or dislodge the services of contractual appointees by concerting to substitute or replace them by appointees whose terms of appointments bear an affinity or are alike to the appointments on a contractual basis of the petitioner herein stands openly irrevered by the respondents herein. The irreverence meted by the respondents herein to the principle aforesaid encapsulated in verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court reproaching the employer against its substituting contractual appointees by concerting their replacement by appointments on an alike basis, has led the respondents herein to make an indefensible endeavour to by issuing advertisements elicit applications from desirous aspirants for being considered for selection and appointment against post on a contractual basis which hitherto on an alike contractual basis was or stand manned by the petitioner herein. The said endeavour warrants its being baulked especially when its being permitted to be carried forward would overwhelm the experience gained by the petitioner herein on the post whereon he stood/stand appointed on a contractual basis defeating the salutary purpose of skilled man power manning the polyclinics established under ECHS for hence purveying optimum medical care to the stakeholders."

8. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record carefully.

9. Mr. Dilip Sharma, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate would vehemently contend that ad hoc or temporary employee cannot be replaced by other ad hoc or temporary employee and would place heavy reliance upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Bench of three Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State ofHaryana and others etc. vs. Piara Singh and others etc., AIR 1992 SC 2130, more particularly, the following observations:

> "[25]. Before parting with this case, we think it appropriate to say a few words concerning the issue of regularisation of ad hoc/temporary employees in government service.
> Secondly, an ad hoc or temporary employee should not be replaced by another ad hoc or temporary employee should not be replaced only by a regularly selected employee. This is necessary to avoid arbitrary action on the part of the appointing authority.

10. The aforesaid ratio is not clearly applicable to the facts obtaining in the instant cases as it cannot be disputed that the petitioners herein were selected and thereafter appointed pursuant to an advertisement, which never envisaged appointment on permanent basis and were to be appointed only on contractual basis.

11. Once the appointments were purely contractual then by efflux of time as envisaged in the contract itself the same came to an end and the persons holding such posts can have no right to continue or renewal of contract of service as a matter of right, and therefore, such cases are clearly distinguishable from repeated and ad hoc appointments, which was adopted as a matter of practice by the State Government in case of Piara Singh's case (supra).

12. The difference in the fact situation obtaining in the instant cases vis-à-vis Piara Singh's case (supra) is stark and clear. In the instant cases, the petitioners were appointed on fixed term contract and after lapse of period of service are claiming continuity of the same, and therefore, their services cannot be equated with the ad hoc employment as was in the case of Piara Singh (supra). The ad hoc appointment against a vacancy by the State repeated with number of vacancies, one after another, was construed to be an unfair practice by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and it accordingly directed the State to frame a scheme for regularization of such employees consistent with the reservation policy, if not already framed. Therefore, the judgment in *Piara Sin*gh's case cannot be blindly applied to the facts of the present cases where the petitioners have been appointed on a fixed term contractual appointment and after lapse of the period of contract, are claiming the continuation of the term by excluding other persons from seeking similar term of appointment.

13. The fixed term contractual appointment, as envisaged under the Scheme, is not only to provide medical facilities to the ex-servicemen but at the same time is a mode of adjusting the personnel superannuating from the Army for a short period so as to enable them to adjust suitably even after the tenure with the ECHS Clinics. Thus, the avowed object is to engage such employment to a large number of persons, therefore, the persons, who are given fixed term service contract, cannot claim any right of renewal of such employment after the period of contract is over. The same can neither be equated with repeated ad hoc employment nor can it be termed as unfair practice. It lies best in the wisdom of the employer to grant such appointments on contract to various terms and unless the decision making process is established to be arbitrary on the face of it, the Court will be loath to exercise its extra-ordinary jurisdiction to quash such appointment of fixed term basis.

14. A careful reading of the letter of appointment as also the Scheme leaves no manner of doubt that the appointment offered to the petitioners was limited one. The respondents at any given time had never offered to the petitioners that they would continue in service till the existence of the Scheme or till the time they did not attain the age of superannuation. It is not even the case of the petitioners that there was any uncertainty or ambiguity in the appointments made by the respondents in so far as the tenure on the post to which they were appointed.

15. There is a clear distinction between public employment governed by the statutory rules and private employment governed purely by contract. No doubt with the development of law, there has been a paradigm shift with regard to judicial review of administrative action whereby the writ court can examine the validity of termination order passed by the public authority and it is no longer open to the authority passing the order to argue that the action in the realm of contract is not open to judicial review. However, the scope of interference of judicial review is confined and limited in its scope. The writ court is entitled to judicially review the action and determine whether there was any illegality, perversity, unreasonableness, unfairness or irrationality that would vitiate the action, no matter the action is in the realm of contract.

16. However, judicial review cannot extend to the Court acting as an appellate authority sitting in judgment over the decision. The Court cannot sit in the arm chair of the administrator to decide whether more reasonable decision or course of action could have been taken in the circumstances. (Refer Gridco Ltd. & Another vs. Sadananda Doloi & Ors, AIR 2012 SC 729).

17. The petitioners have failed to place before this Court any material to show that the action of the respondents is either unreasonable or unfair or perverse or irrational. As observed earlier, the scheme placed on record governing the service conditions of the petitioners makes it abundantly clear that petitioners in all these petitions had been appointed on contractual basis, that too, on a non-statutory scheme.

18. Faced with this situation, learned counsel for the petitioners would then contend that the action of the respondents in terminating and re-appointing the petitioners was required to be avoided as the petitioners were entitled to be continued as long as the scheme continued or till the time they did not attain the age of superannuation and as such the action of the respondents being contrary to the principles of service jurisprudence was liable to be quashed.

19. In order to buttress their submission reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohd. Abdul Kadir and another vs. Director General of Police, Assam and others (2009) 6 SCC 611 wherein it was held as under:

> 18. We are therefore of the view that the learned Single Judge was justified in observing that the process of termination and re-appointment every year should be avoided and the appellants should be continued as long as the Scheme continues, but purely on ad hoc and temporary basis, co-terminus with the scheme. The circular dated 17.3.1995 directing artificial breaks by annual terminations followed by fresh appointment, being contrary to the PIF Additional Scheme and contrary to the principles of service jurisprudence, is liable to be is quashed.
> [19] Before parting we may however refer to two aspects. One is with reference to the term of the scheme itself. Second is with reference to the pay.
> 20. The PIF Scheme has been in force for nearly five decades. PIF Additional Scheme has been in force for more than two decades. The object of the Scheme is detection and deportation of illegal immigrants/fresh infiltrators/re-infiltrators, establishment of second line of defence on Assam Bangladesh Border to man the areas not covered by Border Security Force and monitoring the occurrences on international border. The staff entrusted with such sensitive functions and duties can work wholeheartedly and with commitment in adverse and hostile conditions only if they have security of tenure, without having to constantly worry about their future. If the task under the scheme is perennial, there is no point in executing it as a "temporary" Scheme, though to start with it might have been thought that the task was a short term task.
> 21. Another aspect to be noticed is that duties discharged by the Border staff belonging to Assam Police Border Organization under the PIF Scheme is said to be somewhat similar or parallel to the duties discharged by regular forces like Border Security Force and Assam Special Peace keeping Force. Further, part of the very same Border Organization under PIF Scheme is manned by regular police personnel. Therefore, if those working as ad hoc or temporary staff for decades on, are converted to regular permanent staff, that would boost their morale and efficiency.
> 22. We are conscious of the fact that the issue is a matter of policy having financial and other implications. But where an issue involving public interest has not engaged the attention of those concerned with policy, or where the failure to take prompt decision on a pending issue is likely to be detrimental to public interest, courts will be failing in their duty if they do not draw attention of the concerned authorities to the issue involved in appropriate cases. While courts cannot be and should not be makers of policy, they can certainly be catalysts, when there is a need for a policy or a change in policy.

> 23. Another issue requiring consideration by the respondents is the question of pay. The order of appointment in the case of first appellant shows that he was appointed in a time scale of pay. First appellant and similarly placed will therefore be entitled to increments in terms of the pay scale. Second appellant was appointed on a fixed pay. But even in the case of second appellant and others appointed on fixed pay, it is alleged that the State Government had treated their appointments as being in a time scale of pay and claiming reimbursement from the Central Government on that basis.
> 24. If the State Government has treated the appointments on fixed salary as appointments on a time scale, and claimed reimbursement from the Government of India on that basis, the State Government should, in all fairness, pass on the benefit of such time-scale of pay to the employees concerned. When persons are engaged under the same Scheme, discriminatory treatment, that is extending benefit of increments to some and denying the said benefit to others, should be avoided.

20. We are unable to agree with the aforesaid contention for the reason already set out hereinabove. Apart from that, it is beyond cavil that the petitioners are contractual employees, and therefore, would have a right to remain in employment only for the period mentioned in the contract, that too, subject to other conditions contained in the Scheme, but in no manner would have a right to claim that their appointments now be treated as co-terminus with the project.

21. It may be noticed that the petitioners had voluntarily accepted the appointment granted to them subject to the conditions clearly stipulated in the scheme. These appointments subject to the conditions have been accepted with their eyes wide open, therefore, now the petitioners cannot turn around claiming higher rights ignoring the conditions subject to which the appointments had been accepted.

22. Indubitably, there is an age of superannuation provided in the Scheme; however, the same is only in the nature of providing outer limit to which the employment or contract could have been extended. It does not suggest that there was any specific or implied condition of employment that the petitioners would continue to serve till they attain the age of superannuation. The extensions given to the petitioners were subject to and in accordance with the terms and conditions stipulated in the scheme. The appointment letters, in favour of the petitioners, specifically stated that their services would be governed under the Scheme. The Scheme itself makes manifest that the appointments under the Scheme were only on contractual basis. That being so, it is difficult to see how the appointments could be continued beyond what was envisaged and provided for therein.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioners would then contend that having undergone a selection process, the petitioners had every right to continue in service as their appointments cannot be said to be backdoor appointments.

24. Indisputably, the Scheme under which the petitioners have been appointed does prescribe a mode of selection but looking to the nature of appointment, more especially, the tenure thereof, it cannot be said that the best talent would apply, and therefore, even though such appointments may not amount to backdoor appointments yet nevertheless they would be side door appointments and depend upon the contract service.

25. Moreover, advertising the posts, as fixed term contractual appointment initially and thereafter permitting the incumbents so appointed to continue and making their appointments co-terminus with the Scheme or permitting them to continue in service till the age of superannuation, would amount to playing fraud with those multitude of people, who would otherwise be eligible to apply and may have skipped the employment process thinking that it is only for a temporary period or a contractual period.

26. In addition to the aforesaid, in case the contention of the petitioners is accepted that their services be made co-terminus with the Scheme or they be continued till the age of retirement, then this would amount to rewriting the contract by way of interpretation, contrary to the terms and conditions, that are agreed by the parties to the contract, besides substituting the very Scheme under which they have been appointed. Obviously, such a course is legally impermissible.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioners would then argue that some of the petitioners have put in 8-10 years of service, and therefore, their services cannot be dispensed with. Even this contention cannot be accepted as the Hon'ble Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka and others vs. Uma Devi (3) and others, (2006) 4 SCC 1 had clearly held that the courts are not to be swayed by the consideration that the concerned person has worked for some time or for a considerable length of time as the person, who is engaged on such appointment is temporary or casual or contractual, is fully aware of the nature of his employment and having accepted such appointments with eyes open cannot turn around and claim permanency or continuation as this would create another mode of employment, which is not permissible. It is relevant to reproduce relevant observations as under:

> [45] While directing that appointments, temporary or casual, be regularized or made permanent, courts are swayed by the fact that the concerned person has worked for some time and in some cases for a considerable length of time. It is not as if the person who accepts an engagement either temporary or casual in nature, is not aware of the nature of his employment. He accepts the employment with eyes open. It may be true that he is not in a position to bargain not at arms length since he might have been searching for some employment so as to eke out his livelihood and accepts whatever he gets. But on that ground alone, it would not be appropriate to jettison the constitutional scheme of appointment and to take the view that a person who has temporarily or casually got employed should be directed to be continued permanently. By doing so, it will be creating another mode of public appointment which is not permissible. If the court were to void a contractual employment of this nature on the ground that the parties were not having equal bargaining power, that too would not enable the court to grant any relief to that employee. A total embargo on such casual or temporary employment is not possible, given the exigencies of administration and if imposed, would only mean that some people who at least get employment temporarily, contractually or casually, would not be getting even that employment when securing of such employment brings at least some succor to them. After all, innumerable citizens of our vast country are in search of employment and one is not compelled to accept a casual or temporary employment if one is not inclined to go in for such an employment. It is in that context that one has to proceed on the basis that the employment was accepted fully knowing the nature of it and the consequences flowing from it. In other, words, even while accepting the employment, the person concerned knows the nature of his employment. It is not an appointment to a post in the real sense of the term. The claim acquired by him in the post in which he is temporarily employed or the interest in that post cannot be considered to be of such a magnitude as to enable the giving up of the procedure established, for making regular appointments to available posts in the services of the State. The argument that since one has been working for some time in the post, it will not be just to discontinue him, even though he was aware of the nature of the employment when he first took it up, is not one that would enable the jettisoning of the procedure established by law for public employment and would have to fail when tested on the touchstone of constitutionality and equality of opportunity enshrined in Article 14 of the constitution of India.

28. It needs no reiteration that framing of Scheme by the respondents is a policy matter and it is more than settled that it is neither within the domain of the Courts nor the scope of judicial review to embark upon an inquiry as to whether a particular public Scheme is wise or better public policy can be evolved. Nor are the Courts inclined to strike down a policy at the behest of the petitioner merely because it has been urged that a different policy would have been formulated or more scientific or logical.

29. As a last ditch effort, learned counsel for the petitioners would then contend that they have legitimate expectation to continue in service.

30. As already observed earlier, appointment offered to the petitioners was limited one and the respondents had not at any given time offered to the petitioners that they would continue in service till the existence of Scheme or till the date they attain the age of superannuation. It is not even the case of the petitioners that there was any uncertainty or ambiguity in the appointments made by the respondents insofar as the tenure to which they were appointed. Therefore, the question of legitimate expectation to continue in service does not arise. The petitioners at the time of entering into contractual appointment were fully aware of the consequences of appointments being contractual in nature, therefore, such a person(s) cannot invoke the theory of legitimate expectation for being continued in the post.

31. Identical issue has already been considered by the Constitution Bench in Uma Devi's case (supra) and it was negated by observing as under:

> [46] Learned senior counsel for some of the respondents argued that on the basis of the doctrine of legitimate expectation, the employees, especially of the Commercial taxes Department, should be directed to be regularized since the decisions in dharwad (supra) , Piara Singh (supra) , jacob, and Gujarat Agricultural University and the like, have given rise to an expectation in them that their services would also be regularized. The doctrine can be invoked if the decisions of the Administrative authority affect the person by depriving him of some benefit or advantage which either (i) he had in the past been permitted by the decision-maker to enjoy and which he can legitimately expect to be permitted to continue to do until there have been communicated to him some rational grounds for withdrawing it on which he has been given an opportunity to comment; or (ii) he has received assurance from the decision- maker that they will not be withdrawn without giving him first an opportunity of advancing reasons for contending that they should not be withdrawn {see Lord diplock in Council of Civil Service unions v. Minister for the Civil Service, national Buildings Construction Corpn. v. S. Raghunathan, and Dr. Chanchal goyal v. State of Rajasthan. There is no case that any assurance was given by the government or the concerned department while making the appointment on daily wages that the status conferred on him will not be withdrawn until some rational reason comes into existence for withdrawing it. The very engagement was against the constitutional scheme. Though, the commissioner of the Commercial taxes Department sought to get the appointments made permanent, there is no case that at the time of appointment any promise was held out. No such promise could also have been held out in view of the circulars and directives issued by the Government after the dharwad decision. Though, there is a case that the State had made regularizations in the past of similarly situated employees, the fact remains that such regularizations were done only pursuant to judicial directions, either of the Administrative Tribunal or of the High Court and in some case by this court. Moreover, the invocation of the doctrine of legitimate expectation cannot enable the employees to claim that they must be made permanent or they. must be regularized in the service though they had not been selected in terms of the rules for appointment. The fact that in certain cases the Court had directed regularization of the employees involved in those cases cannot be made use of to found a claim based on legitimate expectation. The argument if accepted would also run counter to the constitutional mandate. The argument in that behalf has therefore to be rejected.

[47] When a person enters a temporary employment or gets engagement as a contractual or casual worker and the engagement is not based on a proper selection as recognized by the relevant rules or procedure, he is aware of the consequences of the appointment being temporary, casual or contractual in nature. Such a person cannot invoke the theory of legitimate expectation for being confirmed in the post when an appointment to the post could be made only by following a proper procedure for selection and in concerned cases, in consultation with the Public Service commission. Therefore, the theory of legitimate expectation cannot be successfully advanced by temporary, contractual or casual employees. It cannot also be held that the state has held out any promise while engaging these persons either to continue them where they are or to make them permanent. The State cannot constitutionally make such a promise. It is also obvious that the theory cannot be invoked to seek a positive relief of being made permanent in the post.

32. In view of aforesaid discussion, the question raised in these petitions is answered by holding that the petitioners who have been appointed purely on contractual basis for a fixed term, in accordance with the non-statutory scheme, have no right to claim higher right than what is envisaged in their contract of the appointment and the same would automatically come to an end by efflux of time in terms of the contract. The petitioners holding such posts have no right to continue or claim renewal of the contract, save and except, if so provided in the scheme itself. Therefore, they cannot lay claim that the appointments be made co-terminus with the scheme or in the alternative the services be continued till they attain the age of superannuation.

33. Moreover, the petitioners having accepted the offer of appointment with eyes open cannot turn around by claiming higher rights ignoring the conditions subject to which the appointments had been accepted. There was no uncertainty or ambiguity in the appointments made by the respondents insofar as the tenure to which they were appointed.

34. Evidently, the petitioners at the time of entering into contractual appointments were fully aware of the appointments being contractual in nature. Therefore, they cannot also invoke the theory of legitimate expectation for being continued in the posts.

35. Having said so, we are of the considered opinion that the view taken by the learned Division Bench in Bir Pal Singh's and Govind Ram's cases does not lay down the correct law and are accordingly over ruled and the view taken by Coordinate Division Bench in Ashok Dutt Sharma's case is affirmed.

36. Now that we have held that the petitioners have no right to continue beyond the period as stipulated in the contract, there is no need to refer these matters back to the learned Division Bench for deciding individual cases as none of these petitions are maintainable and accordingly are dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Date of Decision : December 2, 2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 7 Rule 14- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration challenging the revenue entries and the entry of date of birth of defendant No.3 – plaintiff filed an application seeking permission to place on record the date of birth certificate, which was dismissed – plaintiff filed a similar application in the suit after it was remanded by the appellate court, which was dismissed- plaintiff was fully aware of the date of birth of defendant No.3 – birth certificate is a public document and could have been obtained or proved without any difficulty- obtaining a certified copy is not the discovery of a new fact- plaintiff failed to prove as to why he had not placed the document on record with the plaint –no error was committed by the Court in dismissing the application- petition dismissed. (Para-8 to 14)

Cases referred:
Shalini Shyam Shetty & another vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil, (2010) 8 SCC 329
Jai Singh & others vs. Municipal Corporation of Delhi & another, (2010) 9 SCC 385
Braham Dass vs. Onkar Chand & another, 2009 (1) Shim. L.C. 339
Kapil Kumar Sharma vs. Lalit Kumar Sharma & another, (2013) 14 SCC 612

For the petitioner : Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate, for the petitioner.
For the respondent : Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Basant Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.
Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No. 6(a) and 6(b).

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J. (Oral)

The plaintiff (petitioner herein), claiming himself to be owner, filed a suit for declaration, challenging revenue entries recorded to the contrary, in favour of defendants No. 1 to 3 (respondents No. 1 to 3 herein) to be null and void as also entry of date of birth of defendant No. 3, in the record maintained by the school, to be illegal.

2. The contesting defendants resisted the suit inter aliaclaiming themselves to have perfected the title by way of statutory provisions.

3. Based on the pleadings of the parties, trial court framed several issues, including the one relating to the said entry of date of birth.

4. It is a matter of record that for establishing the factum of incorrect entry pertaining to the date of birth of defendant No. 3, plaintiff did not place any material, worthy of credence, alongwith the plaint. It is also a matter of record that for establishing such fact, plaintiff filed an application seeking permission to place on record birth certificate, which came to be dismissed by the trial Court vide order dated 9.8.2011, passed in CMA No. 138/11 (Civil Suit No. 78/98/96), titled as Piar Chand vs. Deepika & others, operative portion whereof, reads as under:

> "4. Perusal of the case file reveals that the photocopy of certificate of Sh. Vivek Mahajan (matriculation certificate) placed on record. Mere placing on record the photocopy of document cannot be held as perse admissible unless it is upon the applicant to show under which provision of law, it is perse admissible. Perusal of the case file reveals that the suit has been filed in the year 1996, more than fifteen years already stand lapsed. Perusal of the plaint reveals that it is within the knowledge of applicant to prove the said document being photocopy placed on record and the fate of the case is depend upon it. Applicant fails to show any "due diligence" upon his part. As per law laid down in a case titled as Madan Mohan Singh & Ors. vs. Rajni Kant & Anr. reported in 2010 (3) APEX COURT JUDGMENTS 196 (S.C.) "If a person wants to rely on a particular date of birth and wants to press document in service, he has to prove its authenticity in terms of S. 32(5) of Evidence Act, by examining the person having special means of knowledge, authenticity of date, time etc. mentioned therein".

5. Applying the ratio of this citation, by no stretch of imagination it be held that the photocopy of document is perse admissible and this court to exhibit in the statement of counsel.

6. In view of discussion above, application is not sustainable as applicant fails to show any due diligence on his part as well as photocopy of matriculation certificate cannot be tendered in the deposition being perse admissible. There is no force in the application accordingly, it is rejected. Application, after registration and its due completion be tagged with main case file."

Significantly this order has attained finality.

5. It is a matter of record that though the suit came to be disposed of in terms of judgment dated 31.12.2007, but it stood remanded back to the trial Court and at that stage, plaintiff again filed a similar application, seeking permission to place on record certified copy of the birth certificate so obtained under the provisions of the Right to Information Act, 2005.

6. It is this application which stands dismissed in terms of impugned order dated 17.11.2012, passed by Civil Judge, (Jr. Divn.), Chamba, in Civil Suit No. 78/98/1996, titled as Piar Chand vs. Deepika & others (Annexure P-9).

7. Bare reading of the impugned order is reflective of the fact that not only has the trial Court appreciated the statutory provisions but correctly applied the same to the attending fact situation.

8. Perusal of the application in question only reveals that plaintiff was fully aware of the date of birth of defendant No. 3. Birth certificate is a public document and could have been obtained or proved, without any difficulty, at the first opportune time. In any event, between the dismissal of the first application and passing of the impugned order, no new fact has emerged. Obtaining a certified copy is not a discovery of a new fact. The earlier application came to be dismissed not only for the reason that plaintiff had placed photocopy of the document but also for the reason that he had failed to exhibit exercise of due diligence, explaining the delay, in placing the document on record.

9. Even in the instant application, plaintiff has, prima facie, failed to establish as to why such document never came to be filed in the Court alongwith the plaint. Also no steps for summoning the record at the time of trial were ever taken by him.

10. It cannot be said that in the passing of impugned order, trial Court has either exceeded or failed to correctly and appropriately exercise jurisdiction so vested in it, warranting interference by this Court in a petition of the nature so filed by him, scope of interference with which, elaborately stands discussed in Shalini Shyam Shetty & another vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil, (2010) 8 SCC 329 and Jai Singh & others vs. Municipal Corporation of Delhi & another, (2010) 9 SCC 385, so referred to and relied upon by Sh. Ramakant Sharma, learned Senior Counsel.

11. In fact, parties have been litigating since the year 1996 and the first attempt to place on record the said document was made only in the year 2011. It is not that plaintiff is an illiterate rustic person, having no access to justice delivery system. It is also not that he was misguided or was under some misconception of law or fact. It is also not that he belongs to the lowest strata of the society, which prevented him from taking steps at the earliest. Also issues can be decided on the basis of evidence already led by the parties.

12. It is not the law that under no circumstance document can be taken on record, but then it has to be with the leave of the Court, exercise of which, in any case has to be within the settled parameters of law and unexplained delay, lack of due diligence and furnishing inadequate explanation, inter alia being certain factors not warranting favourable exercise thereof. Prejudice, if at all, is to be shown by the plaintiff and not the defendant for the statutory provisions under Order VII Rule 14 CPC, mandates plaintiff to prepare a list and produce all documents with the plaint. Now in the instant case, what prevented the plaintiff to do so and wake up from deep slumber after more than 15 years remains unexplained.

13. There is yet another reason for dismissing the plaintiff's application and that being, finality attached to the earlier order.

14. In support of the petition, reliance is sought on the decision rendered by this Court in Braham Dass vs. Onkar Chand & another, 2009 (1) Shim. L.C. 339. The said decision stands rendered in the given facts and circumstances, where the case was still at the stage of trial. To the similar effect, is the decision rendered by Hon'ble the apex Court in Kapil Kumar Sharma vs. Lalit Kumar Sharma & another, (2013) 14 SCC 612.

In view of the aforesaid discussions, present petition, devoid of any merit is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of accordingly.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Both these appeals are outcome of one vehicular accident and award, thus, I deem it proper to club both these appeals and determine the same by this common judgment.

2. Challenge in both these appeals is to award, dated 28th July, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Solan, Himachal Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in MACT Petition No. 1FTC/2 of 2007, titled as Smt. Radha Devi and others versus Shri Lala Ram alias Lal and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 5,10,000/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer of offending truck and motorcyclist and the owner of the offending motorcycle were saddled with liability in equal shares (hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award").

3. The motorcyclist, owner-insured, driver and insurer of the offending truck have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

4. Owner of the motorcycle, namely Shri Prit Pal Singh, has questioned the impugned award by the medium of FAO No. 449 of 2012 on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

5. By the medium of FAO No. 33 of 2013, the claimants have called in question the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

6. In order to determine both these appeals, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeals in hand.

7. The claimants filed claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 20,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the grounds taken in the memo of the claim petition, was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 1st March, 2008:

> "1. Whether Shiv Kumar @ Robin died in a motor vehicle accident which took place on 22-5-2006 due to negligence of respondents No. 1 and 5? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether petitioners are entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP
> 3. Whether driver of truck No. HP-11-4331 was not holding a valid driving licence on the date of accident, if so its effect? OPR-3
> 4. Whether vehicle i.e. truck No. HP-11-4331 was not having valid registration certificate, route permit and other documents on the date of accident and was being driven in breach of terms and conditions of policy, as alleged, if so its effect? OPR-3
> 5. Whether respondent No. 4 had sold motor cycle in question bearing No. HR-49-2397 to respondent No. 6 Sanjeev Kumar on 12-5-2006, if so its effect? OPR-4
> 6. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR-6

7. Whether the petitioners have no cause of action against respondent No. 6? OPR-6

8. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPR-6

9. Relief."

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, awarded compensation in favour of the claimants in terms of the impugned award. Hence, the instant appeals.

FAO No. 449 of 2012:

9. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant in FAO No. 449 of 2012 argued that the accident was not outcome of the contributory negligence, but was the result of the rash and negligent driving of the offending truck by its driver, namely Shri Lala Ram alias Lal.

10. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant is not tenable for the following reasons:

11. The claimants have specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the accident was outcome of contributory negligence, which fact has not specifically been denied by the respondents in the claim petition, thus, is held to be an admission on their part.

12. The final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as "CrPC") is on the record as Ext. RW-1/C, the perusal of which does disclose that the challan has been presented before the Court of competent jurisdiction against the diver of the offending truck as well as the motorcyclist, thus, is a case of contributory negligence.

13. The question is - what is contributory negligence? When the drivers of two vehicles involved in the accident have not taken due care and caution while driving their respective vehicles and have contributed in causing the accident, is contributory negligence.

14. The Apex Court in case titled as Kamlesh and others versus Attar Singh and others reported in 2015 AIR SCW 6158, in para 8 has held as under:

"8. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused, inter alia, the evidence on record of Ram Parshad PW2 and Devender PW.3. The method and manner in which the accident has taken place leaves no room for doubt that it was a case of composite negligence of drivers of both the vehicles, that is the driver of Maruti car and driver of tempo. Though Police has registered a case against driver of the tempo Attar Singh and has filed a chargesheet but the same cannot be said to be conclusive. Though, Attar Singh has stated that it was in order to oblige the driver of the Maruti car, a case was registered against him. Be that as it may. It appears both the drivers have tried to save their liability. In such circumstances, the version of eye-witnesses, PW.2 and PW.3 assumes significance. The fact remains that car had dashed the tempo on the middle portion near footstep. Thus the method and manner in which the accident has taken place leaves no room for doubt that both the drivers were negligent. Man may lie but the circumstances do not is the cardinal principle of evaluation of evidence. No effort has been made by the High Court to appreciate the evidence and method and manner in which the accident has taken place. Both the aforesaid witnesses have stated Maruti Car was in excessive speed. However, it appears driver of tempo also could not remove his vehicle from the way of Maruti Car. Thus, both the drivers were clearly negligent. It appears from the facts and circumstances that both the drivers were equally responsible for the accident. Thus, it was a case of composite negligence. Both the drivers were joint "tort-feasors", thus, liable to make payment of compensation."

15. The Apex Court in another case titled as Meera Devi and another versus H.R.T.C. and others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 1709, has laid down the similar principles of law. It is profitable to reproduce para 10 of the said judgment herein.

> "10. To prove the contributory negligence, there must be cogent evidence. In the instant case, there is no specific evidence to prove that the accident has taken place due to rash and negligent driving of the deceased scooterist. In the absence of any cogent evidence to prove the plea of contributory negligence, the said doctrine of common law cannot be applied in the present case. We are, thus, of the view that the reasoning given by the High Court has no basis and the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was just and reasonable in the facts and circumstances of the case."

16. The Apex Court in the case titled as Khenyei versus New India Assurance Co. Limited & others,reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3169, has laid down the same principles of law.

17. Applying the test and while going through the facts of the case and the record, it can be safely held that both the drivers have driven the offending vehicles rashly and negligently and the accident was outcome of contributory negligence.

18. The Tribunal, while making discussions in para 14 of the impugned award, has rightly decided issue No. 1, needs no interference.

19. Viewed thus, the appeal filed by the owner of the motorcycle, i.e. FAO No. 449 of 2012, merits to be dismissed.

FAO No. 33 of 2013:

20. The question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the amount awarded is inadequate? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

21. I have gone through the impugned award as well as the record and am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly assessed income of the deceased at ₹ 5,000/- per month, i.e. ₹ 60,000/- per annum, from all sources.

22. The deceased was a bachelor. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly made deductions to the extent of 50% towards his personal expenses in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

23. Admittedly, the deceased was 21 years of age at the time of the accident. The multiplier of '15' was applicable in view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "MV Act"). However, the multiplier of '16' applied by the Tribunal is maintained.

24. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 15 to 18 of the impugned award. The amount awarded cannot be said to be inadequate in any way, is upheld accordingly.

25. Having said so, the appeal filed by the claimants, i.e. FAO No. 33 of 2013, deserves to be dismissed.

26. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is upheld and both the appeals are dismissed.

27. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts after proper identification.

28. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

RSA No.4323 of 2013.
Reserved on: 25th November, 2016.
Date of Decision : 2nd December, 2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 5- Plaintiffs filed civil suit pleading that they are owners in possession of the shop – predecessor-in-interest of the defendants had asked the plaintiffs for one room – plaintiffs had permitted him to keep the material – he had not vacated the room – hence, the suit was filed seeking possession – the defendants pleaded that shop was joint family property and was allotted to the predecessor of the defendants – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court – an appeal was filed, which was also dismissed- held in second appeal that the suit land is recorded to be in the joint ownership of the parties in the revenue record - the land was not partitioned by metes and bounds – Hindi translation of the document in Urdu was not proved and reliance could not have been placed upon the same – however, in absence of partition, plaintiffs were not entitled for any relief – appeal dismissed.(Para-8 to 12)

For the Appellants: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For Respondent No.1: Mr.Sanjeev Bhushan, Senior Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

Under the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below, the suit of the plaintiffs stood dismissed, whereupon, theirs standing aggrieved, they through the instant appeal constituted herebefore concert to seek their reversal.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the land comprised in Khata No. 366min, Khatauni NO. 584 min, Khasra No.1724, measuring 0-02-56 hectares situated at Mohal and Mauza Haripur, Tehsil Dehra, District Kangra, H.P, is abadi deh and the plaintiff is also co-sharer of this land. The plaintiff Mangat Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the present appellants had his shop consisting of four rooms on the ground floor and two rooms on the first floor on the above said khasra No. 1724. Previously, it was only one shop single storied slate roofed which was owned and constructed by the father of the plaintiff, Shri Nathu Ram and after his death in family settlement, the shop was given to Mangat Ram, plaintiff. The total value of this shop was fixed as Rs.2400/- and the plaintiff paid Rs.800/- each to Hamir Chand and Minjroo, who were brothers of Mangat Ram. The plaintiff Mangat Ram became absolute owner of the shop in dispute. After getting the shop in the year 1980-81 the plaintiff converted the single storied shop in four rooms by giving partition walls and it was converted into four rooms and similarly second story was also raised where to rooms were constructed. Shri Hamir Chand was serving away and was residing with his family outside the State of H.P., who came back in the village in the year 1990 after his retirement alongwith his family and household articles. Since old joint house was small and was not having sufficient accommodation to keep the articles brought by Hamir Chand, predecessor-in-interest of the defendants, Hamir Chand requested the plaintiff to give the room in dispute to keep the material/articles brought by him after his retirement. The plaintiff agreed and allowed Hamir Chand to keep the material in disputed room i.e. in one room of the first floor as shown by letters 'CDEF' in the map. The said Hamir Chand had agreed to vacate the accommodation after constructing his own house. The said Hamir Chand constructed his house in the year 1994-95, but even then he did not vacate the accommodation provided to him by Mangat Ram. The decree for possession of the room in question that is mentioned as 'CDEF' in the map in the first floor of the house has been sought.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants by filing written statement wherein preliminary objections of maintainability, cause of action and estoppel have been taken. On merits, it has been submitted that the shop in question was joint family property of Mangat Ram, Hamir Chand and Minjroo Ram, which on 7.6.1982 along with other joint houses has been partitioned in family settlement by owners i.e. Mangat Ram, Hamir Chand, Minjroo Ram and Bishni Devi wife of Minjroo Ram with the help and intervention of respectables of village. The settlement was reduced into writing signed by co-sharers. This family settlement was made to keep peace and harmony among brothers and to enjoy the joint family property. The shop was valued and share of Minjroo Ram amounting to Rs.800/- was given to him which was received by him. Since, 7.6.1982 the plaintiff and defendants are owners of the shop. This shop was earlier having one room below and one room on the 1st floor which after settlement was converted into four rooms so it could be shared by the parties. The plaintiff and Hamir Chand are owners of the shop in equal shares. No amount of Rs.800/- was paid to Hamir Chand. It is the plaintiff who had taken the ground floor of the shop from Hamir Chand on request. Therefore, dismissal of the suit is sought.

4. The plaintiffs/appellants herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendants/respondents herein, wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of possession, as prayed for? OPP
2. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
3. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped by their act, conduct and acquiescence from filing the suit? OPD
4. Whether the joint family property including suit property has been partitioned on 7.6.1982, in family settlement by predecessor of parties, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiffs are absolute owners of suit property? OPD.
6. Whether the defendants are co-sharers in the suit property? OPD.
7. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/appellants herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the appellants herein/plaintiffs before the learned first Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed their appeal.

7. Now the plaintiffs/appellants herein have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgement and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 21.07.2014, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted herebefore by the plaintiffs/appellants against the judgment and decree of the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

1. Whether impugned judgments and decrees passed by Courts below in law stand vitiated on account of misreading and mis appreciating of oral and documentary evidence with special reference of the statements of PW-1 to PW-5 and DW1 to DW4 and further Exts. PW/1 to Ex.PW5/A and DW2/A to DW1/A, thereby vitiating the impugned judgments and decrees?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

8. One Nathu had three sons,namely, Mangat Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, Hamir Chand, predecessor-in-interest of the defendants and One Minjroo. The suit property stands located upon khasra No.1724. In the relevant revenue records, the suit property stands reflected to be in the joint ownership of the parties at contest, sequel, whereof is qua thereupon standing aroused the principle of joint tenancy wherewithin the trite legal nuance is held qua until its dismemberment occurs by metes and bounds, the recorded co-owners holding unity of title besides community of possession therein, whereupon any exclusive holding of possession by any of the co-owners of the jointly recorded suit property, renders his holding possession thereof to be construable to be possession also on behalf of the other recorded co-owners, thereupon he stands disabled to despite the factum of exclusivity of his possession, oust the legitimate claim qua joint possession thereof of other co-sharers besides any co-owner holding exclusive possession of joint property not holding any leverage to forestall other co-owners to beget its partition by metes and bounds.

9. Even if, assumingly, the defendants hold exclusive possession of the undivided suit property yet on anvil aforesaid with their possession thereupon in the capacity as co-owners along with the plaintiffs, would also frustrate the relief canvassed by them in their suit qua theirs holding entitlement to seek delivery of its possession vis-a-vis them unless of course on its standing partitioned by metes and bounds, it falls to their share whereupon on any resistance by the defendants to handover its possession to the plaintiffs, the latter would hold the facilitation to through the enjoined legal mechanism seek delivery of its possession from the defendants. The aforesaid inference visibly ousts the concert of the plaintiffs to through the instant appeal upset the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below. Nonetheless, the learned Courts below under their concurrently recorded renditions had declined relief to the plaintiffs on the anvil of the defendants successfully proving the factum of Ex.Dx comprising a family settlement holding recitals qua a partition occurring inter se the litigating parties hereat qua the hitherto undivided suit property , whereupon, they concomitantly pronounced qua with the defendants holding exclusive title qua the suit property, it thereupon, hence non suiting the plaintiffs.

10. The original of Ex. Dx stands scribed in Urdu. For Ex. Dx, scribed in Urdu whereupon its contents were unreadable, except by a person who is well conversant in Urdu, enjoined the defendants to obtain an authentic translation thereof from a person well conversant in Urdu also they stood enjoined to lead into the witness box, the translator of Ex. Dx, who carried its translation from Urdu to Hindi whereupon, the translated version of Ex. Dx wasboth readable besides admissible in evidence. The aforesaid injunction cast upon the defendants for theirs thereupon efficaciously proving Ex. Dx stands uncomplied by them. Contrarily only a photo copy of its Hindi translation stood adduced in evidence. The photostated copy of the Hindi translation of Ex. Dx neither discloses therein the name of the translator who carried its apposite translation nor obviously the person who carried the translation of Ex. Dx besides made its translation from Urdu to Hindi stood led into the witness box by the defendants, for facilitating him to during his testification on oath unravel qua his carrying out an authentic Hindi translation of Ex. Dx. The effect of the aforesaid omission of the defendants, in theirs thereupon efficaciously proving Ex. Dx besides its photostated Hindi translation rendered Ex. Dx besides its photostated Hindi translation to be both unreadable and inadmissible in evidence whereas both the learned Courts below visibly misdirected themselves in theirs concurrently imputing sanctity to Ex. Dx also to its photostated Hindi translation, whereupon they inaptly concluded qua with the suit property on its standing subjected to partition by metes and bounds inter se the parties at contest, its falling to the exclusive ownership of the defendants thereupon the suit the plaintiffs warranting dismissal.

11. Be that as it may, with efficacious proof not standing adduced by the defendants in the manner aforesaid qua the recitals embodied in Ex. Dx yet thereupon the suit property is to be construed to be joint besides undivided inter se the litigating parties whereupon exclusivity of possession thereon of the defendant would not till its dismemberment by metes and bounds, facilitate the plaintiffs to reclaim its possession from the defendants.

12. The upshot of the above discussion is though with this Court concluding qua both the learned Courts below not properly appraising the import of Ex. Dx also in theirs imputing sanctity to it, theirs committing a gross error, nonetheless, for reasons aforesaid the suit of the plaintiff would not succeed. Consequently, the substantial question of law is answered in favour of the plaintiffs/appellants herein and against the defendants/respondents herein.

13. Though, In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

RSA No.110 of 2005.
Reserved on: 23.11.2016.
Decided on: December 2, 2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff pleaded that he is owner in possession of the suit land- the defendants threatened to take forcible possession of the same – the suit was opposed by the defendants by pleading that a portion of the suit land was purchased by defendant No.1 vide agreement dated 14.11.1984- defendant No.1 is in possession of the portion of the suit land and has become owner by adverse possession- the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed – held in second appeal that the agreement shows that the father of the minor plaintiff had agreed to sell the suit land to the defendant No.1 for a sale consideration of Rs.2,000/- - the father of the plaintiff was not competent to alienate the property of the plaintiff and the agreement will not bind the plaintiff- Besides, it was established by the Revenue Record that plaintiff is in possession – defendants had not led sufficient evidence to rebut the presumption of the correctness attached to the revenue record- the suit was rightly decreed by the Appellate Court- appeal dismissed.(Para-7 and 8)

For the Appellants: Mr.Anand Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Ashwani K.Sharma, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Nishant Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned rendition recorded by the learned first appellate Court whereby the latter Court reversed the pronouncement made by the learned trial Court dismissing the suit for injunction preferred there-before by the plaintiff.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that the plaintiff is owner in possession of the land comprised in Khata No.13 min, Khatauni No.13 min, Khasra No.279, measuring 0-10-57 hectares as per missal hakiat for the year 2000-2001, situated in Tika Grond, Mauza Kanger, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, H.P. (herein-after referred to as 'the suit land'). The defendants have no right, title or interest in the suit land. They are strangers. On 17.5.2002 when the plaintiff was ploughing the suit land, the defendants appeared there and objected to it. They threatened that they will take forcible possession of the suit land and not allow him to plough the same. They also threatened to cut valuable trees from it due to which the plaintiff has filed the instant suit for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from interfering in the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land.

3. The suit of the plaintiff was resisted and contested by the defendants. In their written-statement they have taken preliminary objection inter alia of cause of action, maintainability, estoppel and the plaintiff having no locus standi to file the present suit. On merits it is alleged by the defendants that the total area of the suit land is 0-10-57 hectare and out of this land the defendant No.1 has purchased the land measuring 0-0768 hectares vide agreement of 14.11.1984 and since 14.11.1984 he is in continuous possession of the land purchased by him i.e. 2 kenals out of the suit land and now he has become owner of this 2 kanal of land by way of adverse possession. It is further alleged that after the agreement in question the father of the plaintiff had fixed a boundary on the spot with the help of a Patwari. On this ground it is alleged that the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable in the present form.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

(xi) Whether the plaintiff is the owner in possession of the suit land as alleged? OPP

(xii) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the injunction prayed for? OPP

(xiii) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for possession as claimed? OPP

(xiv) Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD

(xv) Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit by his act and conduct? OPD

(xvi) Whether the plaintiff has the locus-standi to sue? OPP

(xvii) Whether the plaintiff has a cause of action? OPP

(xviii) Whether the defendants are entitled to special costs u/s 35A CPC as claimed, if so, their quantum? OPD

(xix) Whether the defendant No.1 has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession as alleged. If so, its effect? OPD.

(xx) Whether the suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of the court fee and jurisdiction ? OPD

(xxi) Whether the defendant No.1 purchased the land vide agreement dated 14.11.84 as alleged. If so, its effect? OPD

(xxii) Relief.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff whereas the learned First Appellate Court proceeded to allow the appeal preferred before it by the plaintiff.

6. Now the appellants/defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 21.3.2005, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

6. Whether the findings recorded by the learned lower Appellate Court are absolutely perverse and based on complete misreading of the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court?

7. Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff was time barred?

8. Whether defendant/appellant was entitled to protect his possession under Section 53-A of the Transfer of Property Act more especially when the agreement dated 14/11/1984 had been duly proved on record an don the basis of this agreement the defendant/appellant had been put in possession over the suit land.

9. Whether the findings recorded by the learned Appellate Court are otherwise perverse being based on complete misreading and misappreciation of the pleadings and exhibited documents on record?

Substantial questions of law:

7. Ex.DW-2/A stood executed on 14.11.1984 qua the suit land inter-se father of the then minor plaintiff with the defendants. Thereunder the suit land stood agreed to be alienated to defendant No.1. Ex.DW-2/A also therewithin holds a recital qua the suit property standing agreed to be sold for a sale consideration of Rs.2,000/-by the father of the then minor plaintiff vis-à-vis the defendant No.1 also it holds recitals qua the sale consideration standing received thereat on behalf of the then minor thereat by the latter's father. A recital stands also encapsulated therein qua the father of the plaintiff undertaking therein qua on the plaintiff attaining majority the latter executing a sale deed qua the suit land besides it holds a recital qua his holding responsibility qua Julfi Ram on attaining majority his executing a sale deed with the defendant No.1 qua the suit land. In addition recitals stand embodied therein qua on the plaintiff refusing to execute the sale deed with defendant No.1 qua the suit land thereupon the father of the plaintiff undertaking to alienate vis-à-vis defendant No.1 3 kenals of land held in his ownership. The factum of formidable proof emanating qua occurrence of signatures of the father of the plaintiff and of the defendants on the relevant agreement to sell the suit land embodied in Ex.DW-2/A stands unflinchingly evinced besides unearthed from the relevant apposite material. However proof of occurrence thereon of signatures respectively of the father of the plaintiff and of the defendants would not ipso-facto beget an inference of devolution of interest of the minor in the suit property standing validly bestowed upon the defendant conspicuously when at the time contemporaneous to its execution the plaintiff thereat was a minor whereupon emanation stood enjoined to sprout of the relevant evidence holding vivid portrayals therein qua the father of the plaintiff while executing qua the suit property Ex.DW-2/A with the defendants his not thereby harming or jeopardizing the interest of the minor in the suit property rather in his executing DW-2/A with the defendants his ensuring qua thereupon the welfare besides the benefit of the minor standing facilitated. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss. In aftermath lack of the aforesaid evidence constrains a conclusion qua dehors proof standing adduced qua occurrence of signatures thereon of the father of the plaintiff and of the defendants not ipso facto proving the imperative factum of the father of the then minor plaintiff in his executing DW-2/A with the defendants his ensuring qua thereupon the benefit besides interest of the then minor plaintiff in the suit property standing facilitated. Significantly this Court while standing seized of DW-2/A which stood executed at a stage when the plaintiff was a minor stands enjoined to in the capacity of parens patriae vis-à-vis the then minor plaintiff ensure the paramount factum qua its execution not standing gripped with any vice of the minor's interest in the suit property at the relevant stage of its execution standing neither compromised nor adversely affected whereas for reasons aforesaid unflinching evidence for sustaining the aforesaid factum being amiss, prods this Court to reinforcingly with accentuated vigor conclude qua Ex.DW-2/A standing stained with a colour of invalidity whereupon no bestowment of title occurred thereunder vis-à-vis the defendant.

8. Be that as it may even if assumingly dehors the aforesaid inference as stands erected by this Court the defendants for repulsing the apposite endeavor of the plaintiff was enjoined to prove the factum of his holding possession upon the suit property. Even though the defendant No.1 canvasses that in pursuance to Ex.DW-2/A his holding possession of the suit property whereupon he concerts to canvass qua his holding entitlement to receive the benefit of section 53(A) of the transfer of the property Act, espousal whereof for the reasons afore-stated stands blunted yet dehors the vigor of his espousal qua the aforesaid facet getting smothered, nonetheless he stood enjoined to prove by emphatic evidence qua his holding possession of the suit property. However the relevant documentary evidence comprised in copy of missal hakiat bandobast borne on Ex.P-1, Exhibit whereof pertains to the suit land rather holds visible reflections qua the plaintiff holding possession of the suit property, reflections whereof when hold a presumption of truth hence enjoined the defendants to by adducing cogent evidence dislodge the aforesaid presumption. The defendants in making the aforesaid concert have merely relied upon oral evidence besides relying upon an acquiescence made by the plaintiff in his cross-examination qua his sighting the defendants ploughing the suit land. However therefrom it is unbefitting to conclude qua the presumption of truth carried by the apposite reflections occurring in the apposite revenue record standing dislodged especially when the plaintiff while making the aforesaid acquiescence has omitted to make therein a precise communication qua the defendants ploughing the suit land whereas for the aforesaid acquiescence to give capitalization to the espousal of the defendants qua thereupon theirs standing concluded to hold possession of the suit land an acquiescence holding a precise embodiment therein qua the defendants ploughing the suit land stood enjoined to emanate from the plaintiff whereas his deposing nebulously qua the aforesaid facet constrains an inference qua the nebulously worded acquiescence made by the plaintiff qua his sighting the defendants to plough land being un-relatable to the suit land rather it being relatable to some other land whereupon with hence the presumption of truth enjoyed by the apposite revenue records remained un-eroded rendering reliance thereupon for making a conclusion qua the plaintiff holding possession of the suit land being a tenable ensuing sequel therefrom.

9. Accordingly, there is no merit in the instant appeal and the same is dismissed. Substantial questions of law answered in favour of the plaintiff accordingly. Impugned judgment is maintained and affirmed. All pending application(s) shall also stand disposed of. No costs. The records be sent back forthwith.

Reliance General Insurance Company Ltd. .....Appellant

Versus

Smt. Shiv Rajia & others .....Respondents

Decided on : 02.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Monthly income of the deceased was Rs.4,500/- 1/3rd was to be deducted towards personal expenses and loss of source of dependency would be Rs.3,000/- per month- multiplier of 12 is applicable – thus, claimants are entitled to Rs.3000 x 12 x 12= Rs.4,32,000/- under the head loss of dependency- claimants are also entitled to Rs.25,000/- under the head 'loss of consortium and Rs.25,000/- under the head 'loss of love and affection' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs.4,82,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum. (Para-6 to 13)

Cases referred:

Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, AIR 2009 SC 3104

Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120

Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, 2015 AIR SCW 3105

For the Appellant : Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 & 2.
Ms. Neelam Kaplas, Advocate vice Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate, stated at the Bar that claimant-respondent No. 2 has attained the age of majority. His statement is taken on record. Accordingly, guardian is discharged. Registry to make necessary entries in the cause title.

2. Subject matter of this appeal is the award dated 21st April, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-1 Solan, Camp at Nalagarh, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal') in Claim Petition No. 12NL/2 of 2009, titled as Smt. Shiv Rajia & others versus Shri Munish Kumar & another,whereby compensation to the tune of 6,38,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition, came to be granted in favour of the claimants and the appellant-insurer was saddled with liability (for short, "the impugned award").

3. The claimants and insured-owner-cum-driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

4. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

5. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the factum of insurance is admitted and insurer is liable to pay the compensation, but the Tribunal has fallen in an error in assessing the compensation and applying the multiplier.

6. The claimants have specifically pleaded in para-6 of the claim petition that deceased was earning Rs. 4,500/- per month and as per the copy of Pariwar Register (Ext. P-A), his age was 47 years at the time of accident.

7. Accordingly, I deem it proper to hold that the monthly income of the deceased was Rs. 4,500/-.

8. 1/3rd is required to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased, while keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120. Accordingly, after deducting 1/3rd amount, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 3,000/- per month.

9. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of '14'. The multiplier of '12' was applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in view of the judgments, supra andthe judgment rendered by the Apex Court in case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

10. Thus, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,000 x 12 x 12 = Rs. 4,32,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

11. The compensation amount awarded by the Tribunal under the other heads is not challenged. Accordingly, the amount awarded under the other heads is maintained.

12. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to total compensation under the following heads:

1.	Loss of dependency	Rs. 4,32,000/-
2.	Loss of consortium	Rs. 25,000/-
3.	Loss of love and affection and funeral expenses	Rs. 25,000/-
	Total:	Rs. 4,82,000/-

13. The aforesaid amount of compensation shall carry interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

14. The Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

15. The excess amount, if any, be refunded in favour of the appellant-insurer through payees' account cheque.

16. Accordingly, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of.

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- Land of the petitioner was acquired for the construction of Karara-Chandi Road – land Acquisition Collector assessed the value of cultivable land as Rs.4,000/- per biswa and value of ghasni land as Rs. 500/- per biswa- a reference was made and the compensation was enhanced to Rs.10,000/- per biswa- held in appeal that the exemplar sale deed showed that one biswa of land was alienated for Rs.6,000/- large piece of land was acquired, whereas, exemplar sale deed was regarding one biswa of land, therefore, 20% deduction has to be made from the sale consideration shown in the exemplar sale deed – appeal partly allowed and the value assessed as Rs.6,000/- per biswairrespective of the category of the land-20% amount ordered to be deducted from this amount. (Para-2 to 5)

For the Appellants: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. R. G. Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge .

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the rendition recorded by the learned Reference Court on 23.08.2008 in Land Reference Petition No. 12-S/4 of 2006, whereby, it enhanced compensation amount at a uniform rate of Rs.10,000/- per biswa qua the lands of the respondents herein/landowners as stood brought to acquisition.

2. The land of the landowners stood brought to acquisition for construction of Karara Chandi road. The apposite notification for the aforesaid purpose stood issued on 1.09.2003. The land Acquisition Collector had in his relevant award assessed compensation qua the lands of the landowners/respondents herein as stood brought to acquisition in an amount computed at Rs. 4000/- per biswa qua cultivable land whereas he assessed qua ghasni land compensation amount @ of Rs. 500/- per biswa. However, the learned Reference Court under its impugned rendition assessed compensation amount at a uniform rate of Rs.10,000/- per biswa for all categories of land as stood brought to acquisition. In making the aforesaid assessment, the learned reference Court had relied upon a sale exemplar executed on 26.08.2002 whereupon land holding an area of one biswa stood alienated for a sale consideration of Rs.6000/-, significantly with the land embodied therein standing located in a Mohal/village akin to the location of the lands of the respondents herein as stood brought to acquisition. Also given the factum qua the issuance of the apposite notification for bringing to acquisition the lands of the landowners for the notified purpose occurring in the year 2003 whereas the sale deed aforesaid as stood relied upon by the learned Reference Court standing executed prior thereto, renders it to beget satiation of the relevant parameter of its execution occurring in proximity in time vis-a-vis the issuance of the apposite notification whereupon the reliance as stood placed thereupon is tenable. Also, with no evidence standing adduced by the respondents herein in portrayal qua the location of the land comprised in the sale exemplar of 26.08.2002 holding no proximity in location vis-a-vis the lands of the landowners as stood brought to acquisition begets the sequel qua hence the principle of proximity in location angle inter se the lands occurring in the apposite sale exemplar vis-a-vis the lands of the respondents herein standing satiated whereupon the reliance as stood placed thereupon was tenable. However, in the learned Reference Court contrarily computing the market value borne by the relevant lands at Rs.10,000/- per biswa merely for their relevant acquisition occurring a year subsequent to the execution of the relevant sale exemplar, is grossly unwarranted, significantly since the relevant sale exemplar satiated all the relevant parameters for reliance standing placed thereupon hence only the amount embodied therein constituted the figure wherefrom the relevant assessment of compensation qua the lands of the respondents stood enjoined to occur besides an exorbitant hike standing meted thereto bereft of any sound, firm and credible evidence warrants disapprobation from this Court.

3. Be that as it may, the learned Reference Court had assessed a uniform rate of compensation for all categories of land, assessment whereof does not hold any palpable display of it suffering any vitiation, imperatively when all the distinct categorizations besides classifications borne by all the lands as stood brought to acquisition evidently on theirs standing acquired are all put to common use also when on their acquisition all lands holding distinct classifications evidently stand utilized for a purpose common to each other whereupon their distinct categorization(s) looses its apposite significance.

4. However, the area of land comprised in the relevant sale exemplar as stood relied upon by the learned reference Court is minimal or holds an area of one biswa, whereas, the lands of the landowners holds vis-a-vis it immense tract(s) of land thereupon, it was incumbent upon the learned Reference Court to mete therefrom some percentum of deduction for its thereupon assessing compensation qua the lands of the landowners/respondents herein, yet with its making the relevant omission aforesaid has begotten the sequel of its committing an illegality, whereupon, this Court proceeds to mete a deduction of 20% from the sale consideration borne in the relevant sale exemplar of 26.08.2002.

5. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is partly allowed and the impugned award is modified to the extent that after meteing 20% deduction from Rs.6000/- per biswa, assessed as compensation amount qua all categories of land, thereupon qua all categories of lands as stood brought to acquisition, the sum arrived therefrom shall constitute the compensation amount qua all the categories of lands of the landowners/respondent herein as stood brought to acquisition. It is clarified that qua thereupon all the statutory benefits shall be levied in accordance with law. All pending applications stands disposed of.

Date of decision: 02/12/2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiffs sought declaration that they are owners in possession of the suit land and the entry showing the defendant to be the owner is wrong, illegal, null and void as the defendant was never inducted as a tenant – the defendant pleaded that he was inducted as a tenant on the payment of gallabatai and has become the owner on the commencement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act- the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was allowed – held in second appeal that the plaintiffs had purchased the land in the year 1966 from predecessor-in-interest of the defendant- defendant was a co-owner and therefore cannot be a tenant – the version the defendant was paying gallabatai was not proved – the order was passed in the absence of the plaintiffs and would not bind them – the suit was rightly decreed- appeal dismissed.(Para-7 to 10)

For the appellant: Mr. Anil God, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned Additional District Judge (III), Kangra at Dharamshala, Circuit Court at Baijnath, District Kangra, H.P., whereby she affirmed the rendition of the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Baijnath, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh. The defendant standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below, concert through the instant appeal constituted before this Court, to beget reversal of the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision in the instant appeal are that plaintiffs sought declaration to the effect that they are owners of land comprising Khata No. 204, Khatauni No. 275, Khasra No. 223, measuring 0-11-77 hectares, situated at Mohal Chogan, Mouza Bir, Tehsil Baijnath, District Kangra, as per Jamabandi for the year 2007-08 (hereinafter referred to as the suit land) and the entry showing the defendant as owner is wrong, illegal, null and void and not binding upon them as the same were recorded on the basis of mutation No. 486 of 18.08.1999 whereby he was declared to be owner under the H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. It is contended that defendant was never inducted as tenant over the suit land by the plaintiffs nor their predecessors. Hence, the defendant be restrained by way of permanent prohibitory injunction. Further it is contended that the suit land was purchased by the plaintiffs from father of the defendant to the extent of 333310/63906760 share from suit land out of total land measuring 05-54-59 hectares. It is contended that plaintiffs were living in Punjab due to his service and during settlement joint land was partitioned though they were never summoned and partition was conducted behind their back in which Khasra No. 467 was given to the plaintiffs and they were put in possession which is also evident from the jamabandi. Lateron in 1994-95 when Iatemaal was done and said Khasra No. 467 was given new Khasra No. 223 and the defendant was wrongly shown as tenant and on the basis of this wrong entry defendant got mutation No. 486 attested conferring proprietary rights under H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. It is contended that this fact came to their knowledge in the month of November, 2009. Thereafter, they asked the defendant to get the wrong entries corrected in the revenue record. He paid no heed to their request. Hence, the present suit.

3. The suit was contested by defendant. He filed written statement, wherein he raised preliminary objections about maintainability of the suit and cause of action, limitation, estoppel and locus standi. On merits, it is averred that he is coming in possession of the suit land even prior to 1971. However, his name was got deleted by the plaintiffs in the revenue record but he continued with possession over the suit land without any interruption. Thereafter, consolidation took place in the village in the year 1994-95 and on his application of 25.11.1995 he was recorded as gair marusi and he has been paying lagan in the shape of galla batai to the plaintiff and thereafter he was conferred with proprietary rights under H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act and mutation No. 486 dated 8.8.1999 was also attested in this behalf and as such he has now become absolute owner of the suit land. However, the factum of purchasing the land from his father is admitted. It is also averred that the plaintiff No.1 and father of plaintiff No.2 themselves inducted him as tenant over the suit land since 1971 and as such he has rightly been recorded as tenant in the revenue record, as such, the question of taking forcible possession of the suit land does not arise at all. All other contents of the plaint are denied and a prayer is made for dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are owners of the suit land comprised in Khata No. 204 min, Khatauni No. 275, Khasra No.223 leand measuring 0-11-77 hects situated at Mohal Chogan, Mauza Bir, Tehsil Baijnath, District Kangra, H.P., as prayed for? OPP.

2. Whether the revenue entry showing the defendant as owner in possession of suit land are illegal, null and void and is not binding upon to the plaintiffs, as alleged for? OPP.

2A. Whether the entry showing the defendant tenant over the suit land is made at the back of the plaintiffs and as such is wrong, null and void ? OPP.

3. Whether mutation No. 486 dated 18.08.1999 showing the defendant as tenant over the suit land is wrong, null and void, as alleged? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent and prohibitory injunction, as prayed for?

5. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the possession of the suit land, as prayed for? OPP.

6. Whether the defendant was conferred with proprietary rights under Section 104(3) as per H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, as alleged? OPD.

7. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

8. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action against the defendant? OPD.

9. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct to file the present suit? OPD.

10. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to sue? OPD.

11. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.

12. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned Additional District Judge, affirmed the findings of the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendant/appellant herein has instituted before this Court the instant Regular Second Appeal wherein he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 8.7.2015, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether both the learned Courts below failed to appreciate that the suit filed by the respondent/plaintiff is barred by limitation?

2. Whether the learned trial Court erred in allowing application under Order 14 Rule 5 CPC and issue No. 3 was amended and issue 2(A) was framed additionally without amending the original suit?

3. Whether the Court below has misinterpreted the oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record?

4. Whether the learned courts below has erred in disbelieving the defence as set up by the present appellant that by virtue of Section 104(3) of the H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, he has become owner of said land?

5. Whether the adverse inference was received to be inferred against the defendant, if the respondents/plaintiffs have failed to appear at the time of correction of revenue record and the Ld. Courts below have wrongly presumed that same is without jurisdiction and appellant/defendant was recorded as "Gair Marusi"?

6. Whether the learned trial Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit filed by the present respondents/plaintiffs?

Substantial questions of law.

7. Evidently, the plaintiffs purchased the suit land in the year 1966 from the predecessor in interest of the defendant whereupon they acquired co-ownership alongwith them qua the suit land. However, though with the plaintiffs' acquiring title qua the suit land as co-owners thereon alongwith the defendant, yet the latter on the anvil of revenue entries purportedly depicting him to be holding tenancie(s) upon the suit land hence canvassed qua his by statutory operation of the mandate of Section 104(3) of H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act acquiring absolute title thereto. With the factum of the plaintiffs' holding co-ownership qua the suit land alongwith the defendant thereupon they alongwith the defendant held unity of title besides community of possession with him qua every inch of land borne thereon. The espousal of the defendant qua his holding possession of the suit land as a tenant under the plaintiffs' would be erosive of the salient cannon embodying the principle of joint tenancy wherewithin a fiat aforesaid stands encapsulated. Even if assumingly the aforesaid salient nuance embodying the principle of joint tenancy may stand eroded by categorical depictions emanating from the apposite revenue records personificatory qua one of the co owners qua his rights as a co-owner in the undivided suit land inducting the other co-owner(s) as tenant(s) thereon personifications whereof would erupt from the apposite revenue records reflecting qua one of the co-owners vis-à-vis the other co-owner(s)' share holding it as a tenant on payment of rent in cash or in kind whereupon a construction would stand erected qua the apposite relationship of landlord and tenant standing established inter se co-owners'.

8. In the endeavour aforesaid the defendant has canvassed qua his tendering 'galla batai' to the plaintiff through Shesh Ram, tendering whereof stands espoused to hence connote qua its sustaining the factum of an apposite relationship of a landlord and tenant coming into existence inter se the parties at contest hereat yet with the defendant not adducing any receipt qua his tendering 'galla batai' to the plaintiffs through Shesh Ram does belittle his espousal qua his thereupon holding the share of the plaintiffs in the suit land as a tenant under them.

9. Be that as it may, the defendant had contended qua with an apposite affirmative order standing recorded vis-à-vis him on his application comprised in Ext.DX whereupon mutation No. 486 of 18.08.1999 stood attested in sequel whereto the apposite substitution(s) in the relevant records stood effected qua him rendering him hence to be construable to be holding the share of the plaintiffs' in the joint suit land as a tenant under them whereupon he espouses qua statutory vestment of title standing automatically bestowed upon him qua the suit land. However, the aforesaid submission would hold vigour only when the revenue officer concerned, preceding his recording the apposite order on the application of the defendant comprised in Ext.DX, his eliciting the participation of the plaintiffs'. However, evidently with the order pronounced upon Ext.DX remaining unpreceded by the revenue officer concerned eliciting the participation of the plaintiffs' in the relevant proceedings hence it is construable to stand pronounced behind the back of the plaintiffs also thereupon the plaintiffs are to be construed to stand condemned unheard whereupon an inference is erectable qua in the making of the apposite order recorded by the revenue officer concerned on the application of the defendant comprised in Ext.DX, it standing stained with a vice of its infracting the rule of audi alteram partem whereupon no sanctity is imputable thereto.

10. For reasons aforesaid this Court concludes with aplomb of the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below standing sequelled by theirs appraising the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom it is obvious that the analysis of material on record by the learned Courts below not suffering from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather they have aptly appreciated the material available on record. I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the concurrently recorded judgments and decrees of both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Substantial questions of law stand answered against the defendant. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly. No costs.

Arbitration Case No. 44/2008
Decided on: 2.12. 2016

Arbitration and Cancellation Act, 1996- Section 34- The Objector had received the entire amount awarded by the Arbitrator, therefore, objections to the arbitration award are not maintainable- objections dismissed. (Para-1 to 3)

Case referred:
Pooran Chand Nangia vs. National Fertilizers Ltd; (2003) 8 SCC 245

For the Petitioner: Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge(oral):

When the case was taken up for hearing today, learned counsel for the respondents, questioned the very maintainability of the objections against the award of the Arbitrator. He drew my attention to decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pooran Chand Nangia vs. National Fertilizers Ltd; (2003) 8 SCC 245, wherein it has been held that once the person concerned/contractor has received the amount, which was due to him under the award and thereby submitted to the award unequivocally and accepted the same without reservation, it is not open to him to challenge the same. If he desired to challenge the award, he should have reserved the right to do so. The relevant observation reads thus:

> "[3] So far as the first question is concerned, it is not disputed that the appellant had received the money which was due to him under the award and once the appellant had submitted to the award unequivocally and without reservation, it is not open to him to challenge the award. We have looked into the record and find that the appellant had submitted unequivocally to the jurisdiction of the Arbitrator. He also accepted the awarded amount without any reservation. Had the appellant desired to challenge the award, he could have reserved his right to do so, but no such reservation was made in the letters sent by him. In this view of the matter, there remains no manner of doubt about the fact that the appellant had submitted to the award and it does not lie in the mouth of the appellant to challenge the award. For these reasons, we reject the first argument of the learned counsel for the appellant."

2. In the instant case also, the parties are ad idem that the petitioner had received the entire amount before filing the instant petition/objections and has not reserved his right to challenge the award. Therefore, in such circumstances, he cannot be permitted to agitate that he is entitled to the claims, which have been disallowed by the Arbitrator after having accepted the money due under the award without demur or protest at the relevant time.

3. In the given circumstances and following the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pooran Chand Nangia's case (supra), the instant application under section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 is clearly not maintainable and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

(Para- 1 to 4)

For the appellants: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the respondent: Mr. Ranvir Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned award recorded by the Reference Court in Land Reference No. 11-S/4 of 2007 whereby the learned Reference Court assessed compensation qua the lands of the land owner in the manner as stands reflected therein. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has placed on record a judgement recorded by this Court in RFA No. 44 of 2009, verdict whereof stands submitted by him to arise from an award recorded by the learned Reference Court qua a notification analogous inter se the land owners therein vis.a.vis the respondent land owner herein besides he submits qua thereupon an award common to the land(s) of the land owners in RFA No. 44 of 2009 vis.a.vis. the respondent land owner herein standing pronounced by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, lastly he contends qua the learned Reference Court pronouncing a common award inter se the land owners therein vis.a.vis respondent land owner(s) herein whereupon he contends qua the verdict recorded in RFA No. 44 of 2009 while holding attraction with aplomb hereat warrants its standing revered by this Court. The aforesaid submission warrants its standing countenanced by this Court conspicuouslywith this Court, while standing seized of RFA No. 44 of 2009 which stood preferred herebefore by the land owners against the award pronounced by the learned Reference Court qua the lands of the appellants therein whose lands alike the land of the respondent herein stood acquired under a common notification also when thereupon a common award stood pronounced by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned besides when the learned Reference Court pronounced a common verdict on the apposite reference petition(s) constituted therebefore by the aggrieved land owners wherefrom amongst RFA No 44 of 2009 arose. As a corollary, with this Court while adjudicating RFA No. 44 of 2009 it enhancing compensation amount vis.a.vis. land owners therein in a sum higher than the sum which stood assessed as compensation by the learned Reference Court thereupon with conclusivity standing fastened qua the verdict recorded by this Court in RFA No. 44 of 2009 also thereupon the respondent herein, hence stands entitled to assessment of compensation qua his acquired lands at par therewith. Even if the respondent herein has not preferred cross-objection herebefore against the impugned award of the learned Reference Court nonetheless with the provisions of Order XLI, Rule 33 of the CPC clothing this Court with a plenary jurisdiction to pass or make such further and other decree or order as the case may require. In sequel thereof with the provisions engrafted in Order XLI, Rule 33 of the CPC vesting jurisdiction in this Court to, even in the absence of any of the respondents in the memo of parties herebefore omitting to file any cross appeal or cross-objections ventilating therein their grievance against the award impugned herebefore at the instance of the State, make an equitable befitting just pronouncement, inconsonance therewith this Court for bringing parity inter-se the pronouncement recorded by this Court in RFA No. 44 of 2009 qua the compensation amount assessed thereunder qua the land owners therein vis.a.vis the land of the respondent herein, lands whereof stood subjected to acquisition under a notification common to the appellants therein vis.a.vis the respondent herein, hence proceeds to alike the compensation amount assessed thereunder compute the aforesaid sum of money as compensation amount qua the lands of the respondent herein especially when hence parity inter-se the lands brought to acquisition under a notification analogous qua each stands begotten also when thereupon would stand assessed a just, reasonable and fair compensation amount vis.a.vis the land of the respondent herein whereupon the salutary purpose behind the engrafting of the aforestated provision in Order XLI, Rule 33 of the CPC would stand satiated.

2. Be that as it may when the apposite evidence forcefully portrays the factum qua the lands of the respondent herein and the lands of the appellants in RFA No.44 of 2009 existing in close proximity to each other whereupon this Court stands prodded to form a conclusion qua the rates as stand assessed as compensation qua the lands of the appellants in RFA No. 44 of 2009 being also the computable rates of compensation assessable by this Court qua the lands of the respondent herein, whereupon parity in computation of compensation amount would occur inter-se the verdict recorded in RFA No,. 44 of 2009 vis.a.vis the verdict which stands recorded hereat. Consequently, the award passed by the learned Reference Court, which stands impugned herebefore, stands modified in consonance with the verdict pronounced by this Court in RFA No. 44 of 2009.

3. With RFA No. 181 of 2009 which stood preferred herebefore by the State of Himachal Pradesh assailing therewithin the award of the learned Reference Court holding omnibus analogity on all relevant facets inter se the respondents therein vis.a.vis the respondent herein also when it stood adjudicated alongwith RFA No. 44 of 2009 besides when a perusal of the adjudication recorded therein unveils qua RFA No. 181 of 2009 standing dismissed by this Court, in sequel thereto with the rendition of the learned Reference Court as stood assailed therein holding omnibus analogity on all relevant facets vis.a.vis. the impugned rendition hereat the latter ought to suffer an alike fate of its also warranting dismissal. This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 16.11.2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MACP No.20-P/2006, titled Vikky Devi and others versus Kuldeep Bhatia and others, whereby the claim petition filed by the claimants came to be dismissed, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Insurer, owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. The claimants have questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident filed claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs. 12 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition which was resisted by all the respondents and following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal.

1. Whether the respondent No. 2 was driving the tractor No. HP-37-7665 owned by respondent No.1 in a rash and negligent manner on 19.12.2005 and had hit the said tractor against the deceased Kamaljeet Singh Bhatia, and caused his death? OPP.
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP.
3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form? OPR-1&2.

4. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties? OPR-1&2.

5. Whether the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger as alleged? If so its effect? OPR-3.

6. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence on the day of accident as alleged? OPR-3.

7. Whether the offending vehicle was being plied by respondent No. 1 in violation of the terms and conditions of insurance policy, as alleged? If so its effect? OPR-3.

8. Relief.

5. Claimants examined five witnesses and claimant No. 1 Smt. Vikky Devi herself stepped into the witness-box as PW1. Respondents, on the other hand examined three witnesses and respondent No. 2 Manjit Singh Bhatia driver of offending vehicle stepped into the witness-box as RW1.

6. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence determined issue No. 1 against the claimants and dismissed the claim petition. The Tribunal has held that the final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, for short "the Code" was filed against Manjit Singh driver in which accused Manjit Singh was acquitted vide judgment Ext. RW1/C and accordingly held that the claimants have failed to prove that the driver has driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently.

7. In civil cases, the parties have to prove their cases by preponderance of probabilities. In summary cases like granting of compensation, in terms of the mandate of Section 166, Chapter XII of the Motor Vehicles Act, for short "the Act", summary procedure has to be adopted, without succumbing to the niceties and technicalities of procedure. It is beaten law of the land that technicalities or procedural wrangles and tangles have no role to play.

8. My this view is fortified by the judgment delivered by the apex court in Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another,reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646, N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354 and Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, reported in AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81.

9. This Court has also laid down the similar principles of law in FAO No. 692 of 2008 decided on 4.9.2015 titled Cholamandlan MS General Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Smt. Jamna Devi and others, FAO No. 287 of 2014 along with connected matter, decided on 18.9.2015 titled Tulsi Ram versus Smt. Beena Devi and others, FAO No. 72 of 2008 along with connected matter decided on 10.7.2015 titled Anil Kumar versus Nitim Kumar and others and FAO No. 174 of 2013 decided on 5.9.2014 titled Kusum Kumari versus M.D. U.P Roadways and others.

10. Having said so, the Tribunal has wrongly returned the findings in para 18 of the impugned award.

11. It is apt to record herein that the learned Trial Court while dismissing the criminal case held that the prosecution has failed to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt, is not a clear-cut acquittal. It is apt to reproduce para 14 of the said judgment herein.

> "14. In view of the forgoing discussion, the prosecution has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that on the evening of 19.12.2005 around 9 p.m. at Rajpur Tanda, P.S. Palampur accused was driving Tractor No. HP-37-7665 on the public way rashly and negligently which resulted in causing death of Kamaljeet Singh when the aforesaid tractor rolled down into fields and the aforesaid tractor overturned on deceased Kamaljit Singh, rather the case of prosecution is shrouded under the shadow of doubt, the benefit of which deserves to be given to the accused. Thus, while giving benefit of doubt to the accused, point No. 1 is decided in negative."

12. I have gone through the record. Prima facie, it is established and proved that the driver had driven the offending tractor rashly and negligent and caused the accident, in which deceased lost his life. Accordingly, the claimants have proved issue No.1 and the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are set aside and this issue is decided in favour of the claimants/appellants herein and against the respondents.

13. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 to 7.

Issue No.3.

14. It was for the respondents to prove how the claim petition was not maintainable. Respondents have taken the pleas in the written statement. Parties had knowledge of their respective pleadings, understood their case, joined the trial and contested the case. It was for the insurer to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable or there was collusion, has not led any evidence to that effect. However, I have gone through the claim petition. The claimants are victims of a vehicular accident and the claim petition was maintainable.

15. In terms of mandate of Section 166 of the Act, an application has to be made by a person who has sustained injuries or by legal representatives where the accident has resulted into death of a person or by owner of property.

16. Section 166 of the Act mandates that the Tribunal has to treat report made by the police agency under Section 158 (6) of the Act as a claim petition. It is apt to reproduce Sections 158 (6) and 166 (4) of the Act herein.

"158 (1 to 5)..... ....."

"(6) As soon as any information regarding any accident involving death or bodily injury to any person is recorded or report under this section is completed by a police officer, the officer incharge of the police station shall forward a copy of the same within thirty days from the date of recording of information or, as the case may be, on completion of such report to the Claims Tribunal having jurisdiction and a copy thereof to the concerned insurer, and where a copy is made available to the owner, he shall also within thirty days of receipt of such report, forward the same to such Claims Tribunal and Insurer.

166 (1) to (3).... ...."

(4) The Claims Tribunal shall treat any report of accidents forwarded to it under sub-section (6) of section 158 as an application for compensation under this Act."

17. The mandate of the aforesaid provisions of the Act is that a police report can be treated as claim petition.

18. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly decided issue No. 3. Respondents have not questioned these findings, are accordingly upheld.

Issue No. 4.

19. It was for respondents No. 1 and 2 to show how the claim petition suffers from non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties. Driver, owner and insured have been arrayed as parties. It is not the case of non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly decided this issue. Accordingly, the findings returned on this issue are upheld.

Issue No.5.

20. It was for the insurer to prove that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger and onus was on it, has failed to discharge the same. Even the insurer has not questioned the findings returned by the Tribunal, on this issue in para 19 of the impugned award. The argument advanced by the learned counsel for the insurer that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger, is not tenable for the reasons that the Trial Court has held that the tractor has rolled down and deceased was crushed. There is not an iota of evidence on the record to show or prove that the deceased was gratuitous passenger. Having said so, findings returned on issue No. 5 are upheld.

Issue No.6.

21. It was for the insurer to prove that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence. However, I have gone through the driving licence Ext. RW1/A, which is valid and effective. Thus, the findings recorded on this issue merits to be upheld and are accordingly upheld.

Issue No.7.

22. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the insured has committed willful breach, has not led any evidence. Even the findings recorded on issue No. 7 have not been questioned by the insurer. Accordingly, the same merits to be upheld and are accordingly upheld.

Issue No.2.

23. The Tribunal has not determined issue No. 2. Claimants have pleaded that the deceased was earning Rs.15,000-20,000/- per month, was a green grocer and also selling milk. It can be safely held that the deceased was earning not less than Rs.6000/- per month. In view of the 2nd Schedule attached to the Act, read with Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporationand another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld in Reshma Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120., the multiplier applicable is "15" and is accordingly applied. The claimants are three in numbers and 1/3rd has to be deducted towards personal expenses of the deceased.

24. Thus, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.4000x12x15= Rs.7,20,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency.

25. In addition, the claimants are also held entitled to compensation under the following four heads:

(i)	Loss of love and affection:		Rs.10,000/-
(ii)	Loss of estate	:	Rs.10,000/-
(iii)	Funeral expenses	:	Rs.10,000/-
(iv)	Loss of consortium	:	Rs.10,000/-
			Total Rs.40,000/-

26. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.7,20,000+ Rs.40,000= Rs.7,60,000/- with interest @7.5% per annum, from the date of claim petition till its realization.

27. The factum of insurance is not in dispute. Thus, the insurer is saddled with the liability and has to satisfy the award.

28. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum, within eight weeks from today in the Registry. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification.

29. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is set aside, as indicated hereinabove.

30. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

FAO No.283 of 2014.
Reserved on: 23.11.2016.
Decided on : 5th December, 2016.

Employees Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Deceased was employed as a driver and died in a motor vehicle accident during the course of his employment – a claim petition was filed which was dismissed by the Commissioner for want of proof that the deceased was discharging his duties at the time of accident – held in appeal that the owner had specifically stated that the deceased was employed by him as a driver - it was also proved that he was discharging his duties at the time of accident -a claim petition was filed before MACT which was dismissed- hence, penalty of Rs.1 lac imposed upon the employer. (Para-5 to 11)

For the Appellants: Ms. Rita Goswami, Advocate.
For Respondent No.1: Mr. B.C. Negi, Senior Advocate with Mr. Pranay Pratap Singh, Advocate.
For Respondent No.2: Mr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The petitioners/appellants herein are the dependents and successors-in-interest of one Diwan Chand, who purportedly during the course of performance of his employment as a driver under respondent No.1 in motor vehicle bearing No. HP-07-3474 suffered his end in a motor vehicle accident involving the aforesaid vehicle.

2. The apposite claim petition constituted by the appellants herein before the learned Commissioner under the Employee's Compensation Act suffered dismissal. The learned Commissioner recorded disaffirmative findings on the issue qua the deceased at the relevant time performing employment as a driver under respondent No.1 in the vehicle aforesaid also it recorded disaffirmative findings qua the appellants herein qua his suffering his demise during the course of his performing employment under respondent No.1 in the ill-fated vehicle.

3. The appellants herein standing aggrieved by the rendition of the learned Commissioner hence concert to assail it by preferring an appeal therefrom before this Court.

4. When the appeal came up for admission on 18.11.2014, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted herebefore by the appellant against the order of the learned Commissioner, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

g) Whether the findings of the learned Court below is perverse on the ground that the deceased does not fall within the definition of the workman who despite the admitted fact of respondent No.1 is admittedly recruited as driver in connection with a motor vehicle?

h) Whether the courts below have misconstrued the pleadings as well as the evidences/documents produced by the appellants, in which it was proved that the deceased was died on 10.08.2005 during the course of his employment?

i) Whether the learned Commissioner has acted in violation of the provisions of the law contained under Section 108 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872?

Substantial questions of law No.1 to 3.

5. The disaffirmative finding recorded by the learned Commissioner on the issue qua the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants herein standing engaged by respondent No.1 as a driver in the relevant vehicle, apparently stands not founded on a wholesome appreciation of the relevant evidence on record, significantly, of the recitals embodied in Ex.RW1/A, comprising an affidavit tendered by the owner of the ill-fated vehicle during the course of his examination-in-chief wherewithin a loud communication stands echoed qua his engaging deceased Diwan Chand as a driver in the ill-fated vehicle. The aforesaid pronouncement occurring in Ex.RW1/A does clinch the factum of deceased Diwan Chand standing engaged by the owner of the ill-fated vehicle as its driver thereon whereupon the relevant issue No.1 warrants its standing answered affirmatively vis-a-vis the appellants. Moreover, with a candid pronouncement occurring in Ex. RW1/A qua also at the relevant time deceased Diwan Chand standing borne on the ill-fated vehicle as its driver does nurse a firm conclusion from this Court qua his demise occurring during the course of his performing employment as a driver under respondent No.1 in the ill-fated vehicle.

6. Be that as it may, the occurrence on record of the the apposite FIR comprised in Ex.PW1/B lodged with the police station concerned besides with the learned counsel appearing for respondent No.2 while holding respondent No.1 to cross-examination purveying suggestions to him qua in FAO's arising herebefore against the apposite renditions recorded by the MACT concerned upon the claim petitions preferred therebefore, stirring a verdict herefrom qua the liability qua compensation amount assessed qua the dependents of the deceased/occupants of the ill-fated vehicle standing fastened upon the owner whereto an affirmative elicitation stood purveyed by RW-1, does constrain a conclusion of the ill-fated vehicle whereon thereat the deceased evidently was performing employment as its driver under respondent No.1 rolling into the gushing waters of river Satluj whereupon the demise of its occupants also of its driver occurred. The erection of the aforesaid inference by this Court does oust the formidability of the findings recorded by the learned Commissioner qua in the absence of production of the death certificate of deceased Diwan Chand by the appellants herein thereupon a conclusion standing warranted qua there being abysmal lack of evidence in portrayal of his suffering his demise in an accident involving the ill-fated vehicle.

7. Be that as it may, the relevant accident occurred in the year 2005, whereas, the apposite petition stood preferred before the learned Commissioner as evident from a disclosure made in the impugned rendition belatedly on 21.01.2012 wherefrom the learned counsel appearing for the respondents contend qua their occurring a manifest inordinate unexplained delay in the institution of the apposite petition before the learned Commissioner. Conspicuously, with the apposite delay occurring beyond the appposite statutorily mandated period of two years, prescribed in Section 10(1) of the Employee's Compensation Act (hereafter referred to as the Act) also with the appellants not within the ambit of the relevant proviso purveying a tenable sound explanation in explication of the apposite delay renders the claim petition to suffer the illfate of its standing dismissed given its standing filed beyond the period of limitation. However, the submission addressed herebefore by the learned counsel for the respondents holds no tenacity as they proceed to make the aforesaid submission qua the facet aforesaid only on anvil of a reflection occurring in the impugned award qua the apposite petition standing instituted therebefore by the appellants herein on 21.01.2012, whereas, a perusal of the original claim petition preferred by the appellants before the learned Commissioner unravels qua its presentation occurring only within 50 days elapsing from the date of accident, whereupon its standing preferred therebefore within the statutorily mandated period of two years, rendered it to stand preferred thereat within limitation.

8. Be that as it may, before proceeding to adjudicate qua the appellants a just and fair compensation amount, it is imperative to determine from the relevant record qua the claimants not simultaneously along with the apposite petition laid hereat instituting before the MACT concerned a petition claiming compensation arising out of the demise of their predecessor-in-interest Diwan Chand in a motor vehicle accident involving the ill-fated vehicle whereon he stood engaged as a driver under respondent No.1, especially when the appellants herein enjoy the statutory leverage to claim compensation either under the Employee's Compensation Act or under the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, obviously not under both.

9. The relevant evidence for resting the aforesaid factum stand embodied in the testification occurring in the cross-examination of Devi Dass, the father of deceased Diwan Chand, wherein, he acquiesces to a suggestion put to him by the learned counsel appearing for the respondents while holding him to cross-examination qua his preferring a claim petition before the MACT concerned along with the co-appellants on occurrence of demise of their predecessor-in-interest Diwan Chand in the ill-fated accident involving the relevant vehicle, petition whereof he echoes therein to suffer the ill-fate of its dismissal. The aforesaid proclamation occurring in the cross-examination of co-appellant No.1 does beget an inference of his simultaneously alongwith the preferment of the apposite petition laid hereat, filing a petition under the Motor Vehicles Act before the MACT concerned wherefrom with his simultaneously prosecuting remedies under two compatible statutes whereas he stood enjoined to either avail his remedy under the Employee's Compensation Act or under the Motor Vehicles Act, renders the claim petition laid hereat to warrant it standing dismissed. Also it appears qua despite theirs preferring a claim petition before the MACT concerned in sequel to occurrence of demise of their predecessor-in-interest Diwan Chand theirs yet proceeding to canvass a relief similar to the one which stood canvassed in the aforesaid claim petition thereupon their extant endeavour warrants its standing negated conspicuously to obviate any belittling of conclusivity acquired by the previous rendition pronounced upon their apposite petition laid before the MACT concerned for a purpose akin to the one which stands embodied in the apposite petition laid hereat. Reiteratedly, for blunting the aforesaid eventuality also when the instant claim petition attracts the principle of res judicata besides with the operation of a statutory bar against conjoint relief under compatible statutes being unavailable, conspicuously, when an earlier pronouncement upon the apposite claim petition of the appellants herein has acquired conclusivity also when it was inter se akin litigants thereat vis-a-vis the litigants hereat, verdict pronounced thereon obviously holds an aura of reverence, whereupon, other Courts stand barred to adjudicate any compensation qua the appellants arising out of the demise of their predecessor-in-interest in the ill-fated accident.

10. The effect of the aforesaid diktat formed by this Court for declining vis-a-vis the appellants herein quantification of compensation under the Act would not oust the operation of the statutory mandatory provisions of Section 4A(3) of the Employee's Workman Compensation Act, which stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "4A. Compensation to be paid when due and penalty for default:-
> (1). Compensation under Section 4 shall be paid as soon as it falls due.
> (2). In cases where the employer does not accept the liability for compensation to the extent claimed, he shall be bound to make provisional payment based on the extent of liability which he accepts, and, such payment shall be deposited with the Commissioner or made to the employee, as the case may be without prejudice to the right of the employee to make any further claim.
> (3) Where any employer is in default in paying the compensation due under this Act within one month from the date it fell due, the Commissioner shall-
> (a) direct that the employer shall, in addition to the amount of the arrears, pay simple interest thereon at the rate of twelve per cent per annum or at such higher rate not exceeding the maximum of the lending rates of any scheduled bank as may be specified by the Central Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, on the amount due; and
> (b) if, in his opinion, there is no justification for the delay, direct that the employer shall in addition to the amount of the arrears and interest thereon, pay a further sum not exceeding fifty per recent of such amount by way of penalty;

The imminent reason for this Court erecting the aforesaid inference is dehors the factum of conclusivity acquired by the rendition recorded by the MACT concerned upon the claim petition preferred therebefore by the co-appellants also dehors qua thereupon the instant petition while obviously attracting the principle of res judicata it forestalling the appellants herein to canvass herebefore the relief which stood previously unsuccessfully canvassed by them. Nonetheless, with none of the statutory provisions engrafted in the Motor Vehicles Act holding any postulation therein akin to the one postulated in Section 10(a) of the Act, renders the relevant statutory expostulation embodied in Section 4A(3)(b) of the Act to warrant deference standing meted thereon, visibly, with this Court recording affirmative findings vis-a-vis the appellants herein on the relevant issues Nos.1 and 2 also visibly with respondent No.1 not revering the statutory mandate of sub Section (1) of Section 4 thereupon this Court is enjoined to impose upon the employer of deceased Diwan Chand statutory penalty quantified in a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One lac only) arising from of his demise occurring during the course of his performing employment under him in the relevant vehicle, dehors no compensation amount being assessable qua the appellants herein especially when the rigor of the relevant mandate occurring therein is inflexible besides when the instant petition has suffered dismissal merely on the ground of estoppel besides on anvil of res judicata whereupon this Court does not deem it unbefitting to compute in the aforesaid amount penalty payable vis-a-vis the appellants herein besides deems it also just to fasten the liability qua its defrayment to the appellants herein upon the employer, who merely on the principle of res judicata has escaped his relevant liability qua defrayment of compensation amount vis-a-vis the appellants herein.

11. For the reasons recorded hereinabove, the instant appeal is partly allowed. In sequel, the award rendered by the learned Commissioner is modified to the extent that the owner of the vehicle, respondent No.1 is held liable to pay penalty of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One lac only), to the appellants herein. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Dwarika Prasad Satpathy vs. Bidyut Prava Dixit and another, AIR 1999 SC 3348
Dhan Raj vs. Kishni and another, 1998 Cr.L.J. 1312

For Petitioner: Mr. H.S. Chandel, Advocate.
For Non-petitioner: Ms. Leena Advocate

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge

Present petition is filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against order dated 2.6.2014 passed by learned Sessions Judge Mandi District Mandi H.P. whereby learned Sessions Judge Mandi accepted revision petition filed under Section 397 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 by Smt. Shashi Kumari and enhanced maintenance allowance to the tune of Rs.2000/-(Rupees two thousand) per month from the date of order.

Brief facts of the case

2. Smt. Shashi Kumari filed petition under Section 127 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for enhancement of maintenance allowance. It is pleaded that Smt. Shashi Kumari is legally wedded wife of Girdhari Lal and their marriage was solemnised about 22 years ago according to Hindu rites and customs. It is pleaded that after solemnisation of marriage Girdhari Lal maltreated Smt. Shashi Kumari and also ousted Smt. Shashi Kumar from her matrimonial house. It is pleaded that maintenance allowance to the tune of Rs.500/- (Rupees five hundred) was granted to Smt. Shashi Kumari on dated 19.6.2007. It is pleaded that Girdhari Lal has constructed six shops and is earning Rs.10000/- (Rupees ten thousand) as rent from shops. It is pleaded that respondent is also employed in HPSEB and is earning Rs.5000/- (Rupees five thousand) per month. It is pleaded that total income of Girdhari Lal is Rs.32000/- (Rupees thirty two thousand) per month from all sources. It is pleaded that due to increase in price index it is not possible to Smt. Shashi Kumari to maintain herself. It is pleaded that daughter of Smt. Shashi Kumari is college going student. It is also pleaded that Smt. Shashi Kumari is at the verge of starvation. It is pleaded that Smt. Shashi Kumari is serving as Angan Wari worker and is earning Rs.1800/- (Rupees one thousand eight hundred) per month. Prayer for enhancement of maintenance allowance from Rs.500/- (Rupees five hundred) to Rs.5000/- (Rupees five thousand) per month sought.

3. Per contra response filed on behalf of Girdhari Lal pleaded therein that Girdhari Lal is daily waged employee and is earning Rs.110/- (Rupees one hundred ten) per day. It is pleaded that Smt. Shashi Kumari is working as Angan Wari worker and is earning Rs.3000/- (Rupees three thousand) per month. Prayer for dismissal of petition sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioner and also perused the entire record carefully.

5. Following points arises for determination in this petition:-

1. Whether petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be accepted as per grounds mentioned in petition?
2. Final Order.

Findings upon Point No.1 with reasons

6. PW1 Smt. Shashi Kumari has stated that Girdhari Lal is her husband. She has stated that her husband had beaten her. She has stated that her husband has turned her out from her matrimonial house. She has stated that she is residing in rented house and is paying Rs.1500/-(Rupees one thousand five hundred) per month as rent. She has stated that her husband is employed in Electricity board and further stated that her husband owned six shops at Bassi and is earning Rs.10000/- (Rupees ten thousand) per month as rent. She has stated that Girdhari Lal has also rented rooms and further stated that income of her husband is Rs.35000/- (Rupees thirty five thousand) per month from all sources. She has stated that Girdhari is also owner of five bighas of agricutural land. She has also stated that Girdhari also used to sell cow milk. She has stated that her daughter is residing with her. She has stated that Rs.500/- (Rupees five hundred) was granted to her as maintenance allowance on 9.6.2007. She has stated that due to increase in price index of necessary commodities she could not maintain herself. She has stated that she is employed as Angan Wari worker and is earning Rs.1500/- (Rupees one thousand five hundred) per month. She has admitted that her son Pankaj is residing with Girdhari Lal. She has stated that Pankaj is student of B.Tech. She has denied suggestion that Girdhari Lal is drawing Rs.3500/- (Rupees three thousand five hundred only) per month as salary. She has denied suggestion that she has filed present petition just to harass her husband.

7. RW1 Girdhari Lal has stated that Smt. Shashi Kumari is his wife. He has stated that he is regularly paying the maintenance allowance granted to his wife. He has stated that he is employed in Electricity board on daily wages and is earning Rs.3600/- (Rupees thirty three hundred) per month. He has stated that his wife is employed in Angan Wari and is earning Rs.3300/- (Rupees thirty three hundred) per month. He has stated that his son is student of engineering and his expediture is Rs.48000/- (Rupees forty eight thousand) per semester. He has stated that he has no other source of income. He has admitted that his daughter is residing with his wife. He has denied suggestion that his income is Rs.36000/- (Rupees thirty six thousand) per month.

8. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that as per Annexure P-3 placed on record Smt. Shashi Kumari is posted as Angan Wari worker and is drawing honorarium to the tune of Rs.3513/- (Rupees three thousand five hundred thirteen) per month as Angan Wari worker and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that in view of price index as of today and in view of the fact that one daughter is residing with Smt. Shashi Kumari it is not expedient in the ends of justice to interfere in order of learned Sessions Judge Mandi.

9. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that age of mother of Girdhari Lal is about 81 years and she is suffering from various ailments and requires continuous medical treatment and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that Smt. Shashi Kumari is legally wedded wife of Girdhari Lal and Girdhari Lal is under legal obligation to provide reasonable maintenance allowance to her legally wedded wife. It is well settled law that wife has legal right to live in society with honour and dignity.

10. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that petitioner is posted as helper in HPSEB and his salary is Rs.10707/- (Rupees ten thousand seven hundred seven) per month and petitioner has also domestic and social obligations and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Petitioner has himself admitted his income to the tune of Rs.10707/- (Rupees ten thousand seven hundred seven) per month in Cr.MMO No. 255 of 2014 in para 7 (c) of petition. It is well settled law that facts admitted need not be proved as per Section 58 of Indian Evidence Act 1872. It is well settled law that wife is entitled for reasonable maintenance allowance to the extent of 1/3rd income of husband. Hence it is held that order of learned Sessions Judge is not illegal and it is held that no interference is warranted.

11. It is well settled law that maintenance allowance can be enhanced under Section 127 Cr.P.C. as per changed circumstances. It is well settled law that rise in prices is changed circumstance as defined under Section 127 Cr.P.C. It is well settled law that object to grant maintenance allowance to married woman is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. See AIR 1999 SC 3348 Dwarika Prasad Satpathy vs. Bidyut Prava Dixit and another. It is well settled law that Court can take judicial notice of inflation and rising cost of commodities for enhancing maintenance allowance. See 1998 Cr.L.J. 1312 Dhan Raj vs. Kishni and another. In view of admission of petitioner in petition that monthly income of petitioner is Rs.10707/- (Rupees ten thousand seven hundred seven) per month it is held that maintenance allowance granted to Smt. Shashi Kumari is not excessive in nature. It is held that maintenance allowance granted by learned Sessions Judge Mandi to Smt. Shashi Kumari is reasonable maintenance allowance. It is held that order of learned Sesisons Judge Mandi H.P. is in accordance with law and based upon positive, cogent reasons. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra point No. 1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Final Order)

12. In view of findings upon point No. 1 above petition is dismissed. File of learned Sessions Judge Mandi and file of learned Judicial Magistrate Joginder Nagar District Mandi H.P. along with certify copy of order be sent back forthwith. Cr.MMO No. 255 of 2014 is disposed of. Pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

CWP No.1672 of 2010.
Reserved on : 21.11.2016.
Date of Judgment: 05.12.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Tampering was noticed by Flying Squad of H.P.S.E.B. – criminal proceedings were initiated and electricity connection was disconnected - ombudsman decided the dispute – aggrieved from the order, present writ petition has been filed – held, that ombudsman had decided the dispute only on the basis of acquittal recorded by Criminal Court, which is not correct- no other reason was given by the ombudsman – writ petition allowed and the case remanded to ombudsman for a fresh decision. (Para-9 and 10)

For the petitioner : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Priyanka Khenal, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Ankit Aggarwal, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Nemo for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner against the respondents praying therein for the following substantive reliefs :

> "a) That writ of certiorari may kindly be issued and the impugned order dated 15.3.2010 (Annexure P-4) may kindly be quashed and set aside.
> b) That the respondent may kindly be restrained from releasing the amount which is lying in deposit with the present petitioner."

2. As per the petitioner, respondent No.1-company has electric commercial connections bearing Account No.CGC-43-C and CGC-36-C having connected load of 16.4 KW and 58.24 KW. It is averred in the petition that on 4.2.1998, Flying Squid of HPSEB, headed by Assistant Executive Engineer (E), Sub Division, Idgah, Shimla and Executive Engineer, Flying Squid, inspected the premises of respondent No.1, allegedly found the tempering with the electric meter aforementioned. The Flying Squid found that the electricity was used directly from mains by bye passing the recording of consumption meters installed there. Thereafter, the Flying Squid started the proceedings against respondent No.1 for theft of energy and immediately disconnected the electricity of both the meters aforementioned. As per instruction No.206 of H.P Sales Manual Provisional assessment was made on 4.2.1998. Thereafter, the Flying Squid also registered the criminal case against respondent No.1 in Police Station, Shimla, after investigation filed a challan, under Section 39 of the Electricity Act, 1910 against respondent No.1. The final assessment was made on 24.2.1998 and after calculating the same a demand for a sum of Rs.

9,91,776.75 was raised from respondent No.1, for the alleged theft of energy. Respondent No.1 filed a Civil Suit before the learned Court below and later on before learned District & Sessions Judge, Shimla, to restore the electricity connection. The learned District & Sessions Judge, Shimla, vide its order dated 8.5.1998, directed the petitioner to restore the electricity connection of respondent No.1 after taking 50% of the assessed demand amount. Respondent No.1 deposited the half of the assessed amount with the petitioner on 8.5.1998. The electricity meters of respondent No.1 remained disconnected w.e.f. 4.2.1998 to 8.5.1998. Thereafter, respondent No.1 approached before this Court against the disconnection of the electrical meter bearing No.CGC-43-C and CGC-36-C, vide which the HPSEB will not disconnect the electric connection and respondent No.1 was ordered to deposit the remaining amount in four equal installments of rupees one lac. Respondent No.1 deposited the entire amount i.e. Rs. 9,99,775.76. Thereafter, criminal case was filed before Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, under Section 39 of the Electricity Act, 1910 against respondent No.1, the same was decided on 1.7.2002 and respondent No.1 was acquitted from the charges of theft after giving him benefit of doubt. Respondent No.1 filed an appeal before the Zonal Level Disputes Settlement Committee, Shimla. The Committee after taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances of the case decided the same on 4.1.2003 in favour of the petitioner and appeal of respondent No.1 was dismissed. Thereafter, respondent No.1 again approached this Court regarding his grievances, but in the meantime, the Government have created one Institution, namely, Himachal Pradesh Electricity Ombudsman (hereinafter referred to as 'Ombudsman'), to settle the electricity disputes. Respondent No.2 was directed to decide the dispute within a stipulated period and the parties were also directed to approach respondent No.2 within a time bound manner. Respondent No.2 after hearing both the parties, decided the case, vide order dated 15.3.2010, in which the appeal of respondent No.1 was allowed. Respondent No.1 involved in the theft of electricity from the aforementioned electric meters w.e.f. 6/1996 to 1/1998 and during this period even in few months his consumption of unit was Nil. This fact has not been taken into consideration by respondent No.2 while passing the impugned order dated 15.3.2010.

3. In reply to the petition, respondent No.1 has taken preliminary objections that the present petition is neither competent nor maintainable on account of the act and conduct of the petitioner. The order passed by the learned Ombudsman, suffers from no illegality and irregularity. On merits, it is submitted that the Executive Engineer, City Electrical Division, Shimla, is neither competent nor authorized to file the present writ petition. It has been further submitted that the commercial electricity meter bearing Account Nos. CGC-43-C and CGC-36-C, having connected load of 16.4 KW and 58.2 KW, HPSEB was billing respondent No.1 on the basis of actual consumption/minimum monthly charges whichever was higher. The actual consumption was less with the minimum monthly charges so invariably respondent No.1 was billed on minimum monthly charges. After September 2001, have done away with monthly minimum charges and started billing on the actual consumption basis. Respondent No.1 has further submitted that bill raised for an amount of Rs. 9,99,775.76, is without any basis and illegal. It is further submitted that the challan regarding the theft was put before the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, under Section 39 of the Electricity Act, vide which respondent No.1 was acquitted of the charges of theft, vide judgment dated 1.7.2002.

4. Heard.

5. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has argued that the impugned order dated 15.3.2010 passed by the learned Ombudsman, is without any reason and is based upon the judgment of learned Court below. He has further argued that the judgment is not binding upon the proceedings before the learned Ombudsman and the standard of proof in both is different. He has further argued that the order passed by the learned Ombudsman, is without any basis and unreasoned and so, the writ petition may be allowed and the case may be remanded back after taking afresh decision.

6. On the other hand, Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.1 has argued that no appeal was filed by the petitioner against the order of acquittal of respondent No.1 in the alleged electricity theft case and that order has attained finality. The order of learned Ombudsman, also suffers from no illegality and infirmity, as the same was passed after taking into consideration all the facts, which have come on record, to its true perspective. He has further argued that the writ petition may be dismissed.

7. In rebuttal, Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has argued that consumption of the Hotel of respondent No.1, is much lesser than the bills, which were being paid by respondent No.1 on the basis of minimum charges. He has further argued that hotel was vacant during those days and due to the mischief of the neighbourers, false case has been made out against respondent No.1, when he was out of station because of winter season and hotel was totally unoccupied.

8. To appreciate the arguments of learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

9. As far as the case, under Section 39 of the Indian Electricity Act is concerned, there is no dispute that Satish Chand Sood/respondent No.1 has been acquitted by the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, on 1.7.2002 and the judgment has attained finality. However, the Zonal Level Dispute Settlement Committee, has held respondent No.1 defaulter and raised demand of Rs. 9,91,776.75 paise against Account No.CGC-43-C and CGC-36-C. Thereafter, in appeal learned Ombudsman/respondent No.2, will gave its findings and has held as under :

> "As per record of the licensee, the petitioner has paid all the bills for supply of power to the licensee (including for the period when the meter in dispute remained disconnected from 4.2.1998 to 8.5.1998) and this amount of Rs. 9,91,776/- as raised by the licensee is a penal amount on account of theft as worked out on the basis of Instruction No.203 to 206 of the Sales Manual. As per demand notice dated 4.2.1998 & 24.2.1998, this amount has been raised by the licensee as additional penal amount on account of alleged theft which has not been proved as per decision of the Hon'ble Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, as referred above.
> Order of the Ombudsman :
> Keeping in view the foregoing deliberations, the amount of Rs. 9,91,776/- raised by the respondent Board through demand notice dated 4.2.1998/24.2.1998 is set aside and quashed and HPSEB is directed to refund this amount to the petitioner alongwith annual interest @ 9% as per orders of the Hon'ble High Court immediately but not later than one month from the date of this order. The compliance of the order may be reported to this office by both the parties i.e. petitioner and respondent Board after one month of the issuance of this order."

10. From the above, it is clear that the learned Ombudsman/respondent No.2 has decided the case against the petitioner simply on the ground that the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, has held that the petitioner has failed to prove the theft, hence the demand notice, raised by the petitioner was set aside and petitioner was directed to refund the amount. This Court finds that the learned Ombudsman/respondent No.2 has erred taking the findings of acquittal in favour of respondent No.1, a sole ground to set aside the demand notice, as respondent No.2 has not given his reasoning for setting aside the demand notice. So, the findings of the learned Ombudsman/respondent No.2, vide its impugned order dated 15.3.2010, is quashed and set aside and respondent No.2 is directed to decide Case No.3 of 2009, afresh, within a period of two months from the date of first hearing. Parties are directed to appear before the Ombudsman/respondent No. 2 on 22nd December, 2016. Needless to say that the party against whom learned Ombudsman/respondent No.2 gives the findings shall be at liberty to approach the competent Court, as per law.

11. The writ petition is disposed of accordingly alongwith all pending application (s), if any.

Decided on: 5.12.2016.

Employees Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Deceased was employed as a driver in a tractor – he died in an accident involving tractor – a claim petition was filed – Commissioner awarded compensation of Rs.2,03,850/- with interest @ 12% per annum- held in appeal that tractor falls within the definition of light motor vehicle (LMV) –however, it will become commercial vehicle when trolley is attached to it and goods are being carried in the same – the tractor was carrying sand and grit and was being used as a transport vehicle – the accident occurred on 2.6.2000- the licence was valid till 23.10.1997 and no application for renewal was received – there was no valid licence with the driver – the insurer was wrongly saddled with liability – appeal allowed and liability fastened upon the insurer.(Para-7 to 12)

Case referred:
M/S United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Chandigrh vs. Sh. Pritpal Singh, (1996-2) 113 P.L.R. 49

For the appellant: Mr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. Adarsh K. Vashisht, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J (Oral).

Respondent No. 2, Oriental Insurance Company before learned Commissioner below, being aggrieved by the award dated 20.3.2006, passed in case No. 5/2000, is in appeal before this Court. The perusal of the impugned award reveals that the learned Commissioner below while holding that Sh. Bikram Chand, the predecessor-in-interest of respondents No. 1 to 4 (hereinafter referred to as the claimants) was a workman and taking his monthly salary as Rs. 2500/- per month as well as applying 203.85 as relevant factor keeping in view the age of the deceased as 32 years, has awarded a sum of Rs. 2,03,850/- as compensation whereas Rs. 1,40,249/- towards pendente lite interest @ 12% as on 24.4.2006.

2. The deceased Bikram Chand, was admittedly deployed by respondent No. 5 (hereinafter referred to as the insured) as driver with ill fated tractor bearing registration No. HP-53-0905. Although the petitioners have claimed his monthly salary at Rs. 3,000/- per month, yet as per the admission made by the insured respondent No. 5, he was paying Rs. 2,500/- as wages per month to the deceased. The tractor met with an accident on 2.6.2000 due to sagging of danga. The deceased received multiple injuries on his person and later on succumbed to the injuries so received by him on his person.

3. The claimants, being his widow, minor children and widowed mother, hence dependent upon him had preferred the application under Section 22 of the Workmens' Compensation Act and claimed compensation to the tune of Rs. 5,00,000/- on account of loss they suffered in this accident.

4. The insured-respondent No. 1 before learned Commissioner below by way of preliminary objection has raised the objection qua maintainability of the petition, locus standi of the claimants to file the same as well as for non-joinder of necessary parties. On merits, he, however, has admitted that deceased Bikram Chand was driver of his tractor bearing registration No. HP-53-0905. When he was employed as driver, the deceased had valid driving licence and it is on the basis thereof, he was employed as driver. The accident, however, did not occur due to rash and negligent driving on his part and rather due to sagging of kutcha danga (retaining wall). The monthly wages of the deceased according to the insured was Rs. 2500/- per month.

5. The insurer-respondent No. 1, in addition to the preliminary objections raised by the insured, has also claimed in preliminary that the deceased driver was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. Rejoinder was also filed. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed:

> "1. Whether the deceased Bikram Chand was a workman as defined in the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923? OPP.
> 2. Whether the deceased died during course of his employment with respondent No. 1?OPP.
> 3. Whether the deceased was earning wages @ Rs. 3000/- per month? OPP.
> 4. Whether the applicants are entitled for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923? OPP.
> 5. Whether the application is not maintainable in the present form? OPR.
> 6. Whether the deceased was not holding a valid and effective driving licence in the time of accident? OPR.
> 7. Relief."

6. Learned Commissioner below, while answering issues No. 1 to 3 has concluded that the deceased was working as driver with ill fated tractor and that his wages were Rs. 2500/- per month. He died during the course of his employment. Being so, while answering issue No. 4, the claimants were held entitled to the award of just and reasonable compensation. The question of maintainability of the petition as raised was rejected while answering issue No. 5 against the appellant. On issue No. 6, though it has been held that the driving licence was not renewed beyond 23.10.1997, however, interpreting Section 15(4) of the M.V. Act, 1988, which provides for renewal of a driving licence up to a period of 5 years, it was held that the same has not become ineffective during the period i.e. 23.10.1997 when its validity had expired till the accident of the tractor i.e. 2.6.2000. The insured-respondent No. 1 has not assailed the impugned award. The same, however, has been assailed on behalf of insurer-respondent No. 1 on several grounds, however, mainly that since deceased was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident of the tractor, therefore, the liability, if any, to pay the compensation is that of the insured who allowed the ill fated tractor to be driven by an unauthorised person.

7. The appeal, though has been admitted, however, not on any substantial question of law. Anyhow, as per the settled legal proposition, substantial question of law can be framed at any stage, including at the time of final hearing. Otherwise also, the substantial questions of law arises according to the appellant-insurer for determination are at page 4 of the memorandum of appeal. Anyhow, it is only the substantial question of law at Sr. No. 3 which arises for determination in this appeal, which reads as follows:

> "3. Whether, the Ld. Commissioner below is justified to pass the amount of compensation along with interest against the appellant who has proved on the record that the insured has committed the material breach of Insurance Policy w.r.t. driving clause as well as the use of tractor for non-agriculture purpose although the tractor was insured under Kisan Package Policy and no passenger could be carried on the tractor?

8. In order to decide the legal question as has arisen for determination in this appeal, it is desirable to take note of as to what constitutes a legal and valid driving licence in legal parlance. Reference can be made in this behalf to Section 3(1) of the M.V. Act, which reads as follows:

> "3. Necessity for driving licence.—
> (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective driving licence issued to him authorising him to drive the vehicle; and no person shall so drive a transport vehicle [other than 1[a motor cab or motor cycle] hired for his own use or rented under any scheme made under sub-section (2) of section 75] unless his driving licence specifically entitles him so to do.—(1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective driving licence issued to him authorising him to drive the vehicle; and no person shall so drive a transport vehicle [other than 1[a motor cab or motor cycle] hired for his own use or rented under any scheme made under sub-section (2) of section 75] unless his driving licence specifically entitles him so to do."

9. It is thus safe to hold that no person can drive a vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective driving licence issued by the competent authority. Similarly, no person can drive a transport vehicle unless and until the driving licence he holds entitles him to do so. Be it stated that here the vehicle is tractor. When it is a tractor alone, it can reasonably be believed that the same falls in the category of light motor vehicle (LMV). Reference in this behalf can be made to Section 2(21) of the Act. However, when trolley is attached and goods carried therein, the same becomes a transport vehicle and in that event only a person whose driving licence authorizes him to drive the same can do so. In this regard, support can be drawn from the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in M/S United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Chandigrh vs. Sh. Pritpal Singh, (1996-2) 113 P.L.R. 49. The relevant text of the judgment reads as follows:

> "6. Definition of "Motor Vehicle" or "vehicle" is comprehensive so as to include any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads irrespective of the source of power and includes a trailer. "Trailer" has been defined separately but is also included in the definition of the "Motor Vehicle"/"Vehicle". Therefore, even though a trailer may be drawn by a motor vehicle, it by itself is a motor vehicle and both the tractor and the trailer taken together would constitute a transport vehicle. If the trailer/trolley is not driven by a tractor, it does not become a vehicle and does not have any independent identity. The very fact that the trailer has been included within the definition of "motor vehicle" clearly shows that the legislature did not intend to exclude a tractor together with a trailer/trolley from the definition of the "motor vehicle" and in our opinion, the findings recorded by the Tribunal about the liability of the appellant do not suffer from any illegality."

10. Although the insured respondent No. 1 has not said anything about the use of the tractor at the relevant time yet the suggestion given to PW-2 Kushla Devi on behalf of insurer-respondent No. 2 that at the time of accident, sand and grit was being carried in the trolley of the tractor, has been admitted by the said witness, therefore, it can reasonably be believed that the tractor was being used as a transport vehicle at the relevant time. Admittedly, the validity of the driving licence which was issued by Licensing Authority, Mandi was between 24.10.1994 to 23.10.1997. The accident has occurred on 2.6.2000. As per the testimony of DW-3 Anuj Kumar, no application for renewal of the driving licence was received after 23.10.1997, meaning thereby that at the time of accident, the deceased driver was not holding a valid and effective driving licence. Learned Commissioner below has erroneously pressed into service the provision contained under Section 15(4) of the Act because the driving licence which ceases to be effective, no doubt, can be renewed, however, only subject to undergoing and passing out the test of competence to drive in terms of Section 9 of the M.V. Act, i.e. like at initial stage when an application for issuance of driving licence is made and the driving licence issued subject to qualifying the test of competence. In the case in hand, deceased driver has never approached the Licensing Authority for renewal of the driving licence till his death.

11. The licence could have been renewed within 30 days as provided under Section 15(3) of the M.V.Act. No application, however, was made by the deceased driver within the prescribed period for renewal of the licence in question. Otherwise also, the licence admittedly issued for driving light motor vehicle, the deceased driver could not have driven the tractor loaded with sand and grit in its trolley. Therefore, there being breach of the contract of insurance, no liability could have been fastened upon the insurer-respondent No. 2. Since it is the insured who has allowed the tractor along with its trolley loaded with grit and sand to be driven by an unauthorized person, being responsible for breach of the contract of insurance, is liable to indemnify the claimants in the matter of payment of the compensation as awarded. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

12. Being so, the present appeal is allowed and the impugned award is though upheld, however, modified to the extent that the liability to pay the amount of compensation together with interest shall be that of the insured and not the insurer-appellant. The appeal is accordingly disposed of.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 47- Rent Controller ordered the eviction of the tenant on the ground of arrears of rent - the order was put to execution – objections were filed, which were dismissed – held, that an application for extension of time was filed, which was dismissed, this shows the liability to pay the amount – however, the general power of attorney admitted in subsequent rent petition that the tenant had paid the rent – the objections were wrongly dismissed by the Executing Court- revision allowed – order of the Rent Controller set aside.

(Para-2 to 4)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.
For Respondents: Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Judgment debtor/petitioner herein, tenant in the demised premises stands aggrieved by the pronouncement made by the learned Executing Court upon his objections constituted therebefore vis-a-vis the execution petition constituted thereat by the Decree holder/landlord, wherewithin the apposite unfoldments qua his resistance to the execution of the decree stood discountenanced by the learned Executing Court.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the judgment debtor/petitioner herein submits qua the impugned pronouncement made by the learned Executing Court upon the apposite objections preferred therebefore by the JD/tenant manifesting therein qua the decree put to execution therebefore not warranting recording of affirmative orders thereon, its standing fully satisfied, standing stained with a vice arising from the factum of its palpably slighting the factum of unfoldments occurring in the relevant record existing therebefore comprised in the testification recorded on 29.10.2004 in Rent Petition No. 10/2 of 2003 by the General Power of Attorney of the landlord wherein he made articulations qua all the outstanding arrears of rent qua the demised premises standing liquidated by the judgment debtor excepting conspicuously the one's pertaining to the period commencing from 1.9.2000 uptill 31.03.2003 whereupon he hence canvassed qua the executable pronouncement recorded in rent petition No. 1-2 of 1996 put to execution before the learned Executing Court embodying therein qua the Judgment debtor, falling into arrears of rent commencing from 1.9.1995 upto the date of payment standing fully satisfied, satisfaction whereof emanating from the factum of liability of rent fastened upon the tenant in a verdict recorded in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996, standing acquiesced to stand liquidated more so when the aforesaid verdict stood put to execution. However, the learned counsel appearing for the tenant/JD/petitioner herein cannot derive the fullest succour from the aforesaid acquiescence occurring in the testification of the GPA of the decree holder/landlord, given its sinew suffering partial dissipation from an imminent display occurring in the impugned pronouncement hereat wherewithin unravelments are held qua the rendition recorded by the learned Rent Controller in Rent Petition No.1-2/1996 standing assailed before the learned Appellate Authority by the tenant/JD by the latter preferring an appeal therebefore whereat he under an application constituted under Section 5 of the Limitation Act sought extension of time for depositing his statutory liability qua the arrears of rent determined by the learned Rent Controller in a pronouncement made by the latter on 6.11.1999, wherefrom an inference spurs of the JD acquiescing qua his not making the relevant deposit qua his liability towards arrears of rent within the statutorily prescribed period, application whereof suffered the ill fate of its dismissal by the learned Appellate Authority under the latter's order recorded on 16.12.2000. Of course, the inevitable ensuing sequel therefrom is qua the tenant/JD acquiescing to the factum of his not depositing the relevant computations of arrears of rent made by the learned Rent Controller concerned in Rent Petition No.1-2 of 1996 within the statutorily prescribed period for its deposit therebefore whereupon the apposite decree for his suffering eviction from the demised premises on account of his falling into arrears of rent became executable qua him, whereupon, he stands estopped besides forestalled to derive the fullest strength from any acquiescence made by the GPA of the decree holder/landlords, rather stands entailed with the misfortune of the learned Executing Court ensuring his eviction from the demised premises by ordering for issuance of warrants of possession qua him.

3. Even though, this Court has partially blunted the effect of the aforesaid communication occurring in the testification of the GPA of the decree holder qua the tenant/JD not holding any liability qua the landlord vis-a-vis liquidation qua him of rent for the period commencing from 1.9.1995 upto the date of payment, whereupon, this Court concludes qua its entailing the effect of the Executing Court ordering for issuance of warrants of possession upon the judgment debtor yet before ordering, the learned Executing Court to make the aforesaid pronouncement, this Court is enjoined to also not remain oblivious to the factum of the executable decree standing rendered in the year 1999 by the learned Rent Controller concerned in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996, also this Court stands enjoined to not remain unmindful to the factum of the landlord subsequent to his obtaining a verdict in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996 his also qua the demised premises instituting Rent Petition No.10/2 of 2003 before the learned Rent Controller concerned, during proceedings whereof the GPA of the landlord made a communication displaying his acquiescence qua the tenant liquidating his liability of rent qua the demised premises in sequel to the pronouncement made in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996. Though, the acquiescence of the GPA of the landlord would not erode the play of the dicktat of the relevant statutory mandatory provisions enjoining the tenant to within the time prescribed therewithin deposit his apposite judicially determined liability of arrears of rent before the Court concerned, whereas, evidently with the tenant not liquidating his apposite liability within the statutorily ordained period for its liquidation whereupon the statutory consequence qua the Executing Court ordering for issuance of warrants of possession qua him is an inevitable ensuing sequel therefrom. However, the acquiescence qua the relevant facet made by the GPA of the landlord in rent petition No.10/2 of 2003 which stood instituted subsequent to the pronouncement made in rent petition No.1-2 of 1996 holding bespeakings therein of the tenant making the relevant liquidation holds the sequel of the landlord accepting the attornment of rent to him by the tenant/JD other than the statutory mode for its deposit. The effect of the landlord personally/directly accepting attorning of rent qua the demised premises from the tenant in detraction of the statutory mode does hold the consequence of the landlord waiving his rights to seek eviction of the tenant, right whereof stood bestowed upon him under an executable decree pronounced in Rent Petition No.1-2 of 1996, inference whereof when stands construed in coagulation with the landlord subsequent to the pronouncement recorded by the Rent Controller in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996, his in the year 2003 instituting another petition seeking eviction of the JD from the demised premises, ultimately also when both the factum aforesaid stand construed in entwinement with the apposite execution petition constituted before the learned Executing Court by the landlord whereupon he sought execution of the executable decree rendered in Rent Petition No.1-2 of 1996 standing constituted therebefore belatedly on 30.08.2010 does foster an inference of with the landlord receiving rent directly from the tenant, he is to stand construed to not only create a fresh tenancy qua the demised premises upon the tenant besides is to stand construed to concomitantly hence, waive his rights to seek eviction of the JD under an executable decree recorded in Rent Petition No.1-2 of 1996. Contrarily, it has to be concluded of the landlord by procrastinating the execution of the executable decree rendered on 6.11.1999 in Rent Petition No. 1-2 of 1996 upto 29.09.2005 whereat a pronouncement in rent petition No. 10/2 of 2003 also occurred his also thereupon renewing the tenancy qua the relevant premises vis-a-vis the JD.

4. The summom bonum of the aforesaid discussion is that all the aforesaid material which existed before the learned Executing Court standing slighted besides their impact standing untenably undermined by him whereupon the ensuing sequel therefrom is of the learned Executing Court while pronouncing its impugned rendition overlooking the relevant and germane evidence besides its not appreciating its worth. Consequently, the order impugned suffers from a gross absurdity and perversity of mis-appreciation of material on record. Accordingly, the instant petition is allowed and the order impugned is quashed and set aside. In sequel, the apposite execution petition seeking execution of the verdict pronounced in Rent Petition No.1-2 of 1996 is dismissed, whereas, the objections instituted thereat by the JD/petitioner herein/tenant are allowed. All the pending applications also stand disposed of.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit seeking declaration that shamlat land was allotted to him – the allotment was cancelled but the order of cancellation was set aside in the civil suit- an appeal was filed, which was dismissed-representation was made subsequently by the residents of the area on which the allotment was cancelled – the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was also dismissed- held in second appeal that cancellation was set aside in the previous suit on the ground that Sub Divisional Magistrate had no jurisdiction to cancel the allotment and only Commissioner was empowered to do so – subsequent cancellation was made by the Commissioner – the land was never possessed by the plaintiff and the allotment was rightly set aside- appeal dismissed.(Para-10 and 11)

For the appellant Mr. N.K. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Addl. AG with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present Regular Second Appeal under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure is maintained by the appellant against the judgment and decree dated 1.6.2006, passed by the learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, in Civil Appeal No.144-P/XIII-2005, whereby the learned lower Appellate Court has affirmed the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.2, Palampur, District Kangra, H.P, in Civil Suit No.103 of 2000, dated 17.8.2005, with the prayer to set aside the same and decree the suit of the plaintiff.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present appeal are that appellant/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the plaintiff') filed a suit for declaration and possession of the suit land against the respondent/defendant (hereinafter referred to as 'the defendant') alleging that he was allotted 'Shamlat land' in the year 1976-77, comprised in Khata No.70 min. Khatauni No.241 & 245 Khasra No.218, 670 & 671/1 measuring 0-30-47 hectares, situated in Mohal Nawalkar, Mauza Naura, Tehsil Palampur, District Kangra, H.P. The allotment was cancelled by the SDO (C), Palampur, vide order dated 25.7.1981, without any rhyme or reason, the order was challenged in the Civil Court and the order of S.D.O (C) was quashed by the Civil Court while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff. Thereafter, the State of Himachal Pradesh, maintained an appeal before the learned District Judge, Dharamshala, the same was also dismissed and the judgment and decree passed by the learned Court below was affirmed. On 18.9.1996, Addl. District Magistrate, Kangra, entertained an application of some of the residents of Village Naura, Tehsil Palampur, for cancellation of the allotment cancelled the allotment made in favour of the plaintiff. The said order of Addl. District Magistrate, who was earlier impleaded as defendant No.2 (and whose name was deleted) is in clear disobedience of the decree of Civil Court and without jurisdiction. An application under Order 21 Rule 32 CPC, was also filed against the Addl. District Magistrate, but it was dismissed by the Civil Court.

3. The suit was resisted and contested by the defendant by raising preliminary objections that the Civil Court has no jurisdiction to try and decide the case, suit is not maintainable, plaintiff has no locus standi and cause of action to file the suit and the suit is bad for want of notice under Section 80 CPC. On merits, it has been contended that the suit land was allotted to the plaintiff during the year 1976-77, but its possession was not delivered to him. Thereafter, the said allotment was cancelled by Addl. District Magistrate, exercising the powers of Commissioner, as there was representation of Gram Panchayat, Naura, with a prayer for the cancellation of allotment. There was no bar for the competent Revenue Officer, for cancellation of the suit land. Moreover, the plaintiff was an employee at the time of allotment of land and no possession was ever delivered to him.

4. The learned trial Court framed following issues on 4.1.2003 :

"1. Whether the order dated 28.4.1997 passed by Addl. Dy. Commissioner, Kangra at Dharamshala, is wrong and without jurisdiction, as alleged ? OPP.

15. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession, as alleged ? OPP.

16. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction ? OPD.

17. Whether suit is not maintainable ? OPD.

18. Whether plaintiff has no locus standi ? OPD.

19. Whether plaintiff has no cause of action ? OPD.

20. Whether no notice under Section 80 CPC has been served on the State of H.P ? OPD.

21. Whether plaintiff has no cause of action ? OPD.

22. Relief."

5. The learned trial Court after deciding Issue Nos.1 and 2 against the plaintiff, Issue No.3 against the defendant, Issue No.4 in favour of the defendant, Issue Nos.5 to 8 against the defendant and dismissed the suit of the plaintiff. Thereafter, the appeal was maintained by the plaintiff before learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala and the same was dismissed. Hence, the present regular second appeal, which was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether in the face of the decree passed in the earlier suit declaring the appellant-plaintiff as owner in possession of the suit land and restraining the respondent-defendant from causing any interference in possession of the appellant-plaintiff, could the Additional Deputy Commissioner have passed an order for the cancellation of allotment of the suit land in favour of the appellant-plaintiff, under the scheme formulated in accordance with the provisions of H.P. Village Common Lands (Vesting and Utilization) Act ?"

6. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff has argued that the learned Courts below has not taken into consideration the fact that the judgment and decree passed in favour of the plaintiff in earlier suit has attained finality with respect to the same land and the Additional District Magistrate, was having no power to cancel the allotment after the decree has attained finality.

7. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the respondent has argued that the decree in the earlier suit was only to the extent that the Sub Divisional Magistrate, was having no jurisdiction to pass the cancellation order cancelling the Nautor land, but thereafter the order of cancellation was passed by the competent authority, as per law. There is no ground to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned Courts below. He has argued that the appeal deserves dismissal.

8. In rebuttal, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff has argued that the land is still lying vacant, as the plaintiff was entitled for Nautor land, he should be given Nautor land, as per Rules by the defendant and so the appeal may be allowed.

9. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

10. At the very outset, it is pertinent to discuss the evidence, which has been led by the plaintiff. The plaintiff Rattan Chand, appeared as PW-1, has stated that the suit land is about 8 ½ Kanals, which was allotted to him by way of 'Patta' in the year 1978, against payment of Rs. 184/- and thereafter Sub Divisional Magistrate, cancelled the same. The plaintiff has challenged the said order before learned Court below and the suit was decreed in his favour. The appeal was preferred by the defendant before the learned lower Appellate Court, Dharamshala, and the same was also decided in favour of the plaintiff. He has further deposed that the Panchayat people approached the Addl. District Magistrate and decided the matter against the plaintiff without any jurisdiction. In his cross-examination, he has stated that the suit land was allotted to him, being a land less person and that he joined services in the year 1990, on daily wages. He has denied that he was in service during the year 1976-77. He has denied that at the time of allotment, his annual income was Rs. 3000/- or that possession was not delivered to him by the Revenue Department stated that the possession was delivered and then Revenue Department again took possession of the suit land. He has denied that all the villagers use the suit land and the land is lying vacant and is possessed by the Government. He has admitted that after the allotment of suit land, the villagers complained against the witness and the allotment was cancelled. He has admitted that on the complaint of Panchayat before the Addl. District Magistrate, the allotment was cancelled, even after the decision of Civil Court. He has admitted that sufficient opportunity was given to the witness and Panchayat during the proceedings before Addl. District Magistrate. He has also admitted that decisions made by learned Court below and learned District Judge, pertained to the order of Sub Divisional Magistrate. He has also unaware if Addl. District Magistrate (Commissioner) was competent to cancel the 'Pata'. No appeal was preferred by the plaintiff against the order of cancellation of allotment made by the Addl. District Magistrate. He has also stated that Revenue Department had not handed over the possession to him. DW-1 Ranu Ram, Patwari Halqua Naura, has stated that the suit land belongs to the State Government and is in possession of Forest Department through 'Tabe'-Bartandaran'. The said land was allotted to the plaintiff in the year 1976-77, but the possession was not handed over to the plaintiff, because it was in possession of Forest Department through 'Bartandarans'. There is one water pond in the suit land, the water of which is used for irrigation by the 'Bartandarans'. In his cross-examination, he has denied that change in entry of the suit land was made in the year 2000 and such change was effected in the year 1995-96. DW-2 Baldev Singh, Clerk, has produced copy of the order dated 28th April, 1997, Ex.P-7, whereby the allotment of the suit land was cancelled on an application moved by the Gram Panchayat, Naura. He has also proved on record that the plaintiff was working as Mate in the Irrigation and Public Health Department. DW-3 Kashmir Singh, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Naura, has stated that the suit land is owned by State of Himachal Pradesh and is possessed by Forest Department through 'Bartandarans'. The suit land falls in village Naura and there is a water pond, the water is being used by the Villagers, that is, the 'Bartandarans'. He has also stated that earlier the suit land had been allotted to the plaintiff, but on the objections and keeping in view the utility of the 'Bartandarans', such allotment was cancelled, on the application of Gram Panchayat, Naura, moved before Deputy Commissioner and the same was duly signed by the Villagers. The plaintiff has no concern with the suit land nor there is any entry in favour of the plaintiff in Revenue record. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that suit land was allotted to the plaintiff in the year 1977, but he does not know, if earlier Sub Divisional Magistrate, had cancelled the same or that such order was challenged by the plaintiff and civil suit was decided in favour of the plaintiff. DW-4 Smt. Kanta Mehta, has deposed that the earlier to the allotment of suit land is being used by the 'Bartandarans', as there is also one water tank, which is hundred years old. The plaintiff has no concern whatsoever with the suit land. In her cross-examination, she has denied that the plaintiff has got the suit land by the order of the Court. She has denied that after decision of the Court, they have built a water tank on the suit land. She has also denied that being Pradhan, she connived with Villagers and got quashed the court orders from the Addl. District Magistrate. She has denied that Addl. District Magistrate, had no powers to quash such order. She has denied that plaintiff is owner-in-possession of the suit land.

11. From the perusal of record, it is revealed that the judgment as passed by the Civil Courts in the earlier litigation shows that the Civil Courts judgment and decree, which has attained finality has specifically held that Sub Divisional Magistrate, was having no jurisdiction to cancel the allotment made in favour of the plaintiff. It was held that in cases under the H.P. Village Common (Vesting and Utilization) Scheme, 1975 only the "Commissioner" is empowered to cancel the allotment made in favour of a particular person. Vide notification No.2-A (4)-3/78, dated January 6, 1979, issued by the State Government, all the Deputy Commissioners in the State of Himachal Pradesh, have been vested with the powers of the "Commissioner" within the meaning of clause 13 (4) of the Scheme of 1975 and vide subsequent notification No.2-A (3)-11/77 dated March 26, 1983, in addition to the Deputy Commissioners, Addl. District Magistrates of Kangra and Mandi, have also been vested with the powers of the "Commissioner" within the meaning of clause 13 (4) of the Scheme of 1975. So, the order of cancellation made by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Palampur, against the plaintiff was quashed. It was the sole ground on which the cancellation order was set aside by the Civil Courts. However, the Addl. District Magistrate, Kangra, thereafter exercising the powers of "Commissioner" has cancelled the allotment of the suit land in favour of the plaintiff, vide order Ex.D-7, its copy Ex.P-3, also on record. It is specifically admitted by the plaintiff in his cross-examination that he was given full opportunity to contest the cancellation case by the Addl. District Magistrate. It is also admitted by the plaintiff that the land is in the nature of water body and is still lying vacant. However, the defendant's case is that the land is being used by 'Bartandarans', is in occupation of the Forest Department, which also shows that the land being vacant throughout and it was never possessed by the plaintiff. So, substantial question of law is decided accordingly holding that the judgment and decree passed by the learned Courts below is not in derogation to the decree for Permanent Prohibitory Injunction in respect of the suit land. The learned Courts below has not misconstrued and misinterpreted the provisions of H.P. Village Common Land (Vesting and Utilization) Act, 1974. The order of competent authority is just, reasoned and properly appreciated by the learned Courts below.

12. From the above, it is clear that the findings arrived at by the learned Courts below are just, reasoned and after appreciating the evidence, which has come on record to its true perspective. Hence, needs no interference.

13. With these observations, the appeal of the appellant/plaintiff being without any merit deserves dismissal, hence the same is dismissed. Needless to say that if the plaintiff has a right in view of the order passed by the Additional District Magistrate, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P, Ex.P-3 dated 28.4.1997, he shall be at liberty to approach the authorities, as per law. However, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, parties are left to bear their own cost (s). Pending application (s), if any shall also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Balvinder Kumar .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 286 of 2008
Decided on: 05/12/2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 338- Accused was driving a van in a rash and negligent manner- Van hit the informant and caused him injuries – the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the informant had suddenly appeared before the vehicle - the contents of the FIR were not readover and explained to the informant – one prosecution witness had not supported the prosecution version- the accused was rightly acquitted by the Trial Court- appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Digvijay Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 2.1.2008 by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.4, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, in Police Challan No.255/I/04/255/II/04, whereby she acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 21.3.2004 at about 9.00 a.m. at Nerchowk accused Balvinder Kumar was driving a Maruti van bearing No.HP-02-6573 in a rash and negligent manner and at the same time complainant Parma Ram, alongwith Chavi Ram, was walking by the side of the road with his bullocks and the accused while driving the car rashly and negligently hit the complainant causing injuries to him. The injured/complainant was taken to hospital for medical treatment. A case was got registered against the accused, police visited the spot, prepared the site plan and took into possession the Maruti van bearing No. HP-02-6573 for its mechanical examination. After recording the statements of the witnesses and completion of the investigation, the accused was challaned under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigations into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 10 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, he did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

8. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Victim complainant PW-3 lodged F.I.R. qua the relevant occurrence which stands borne on Ext.PW-3/A. PW-6 in his testification while proving the apposite MLC prepared qua the victim embedded in Ext.PW-6/A has made an emphatic pronouncement therein qua the occurrence of injuries on the person of the victim being sequelable in a road side accident. The learned trial Court had pronounced a verdict of acquittal qua the accused respondent who stands alleged to commit the relevant charged offence comprised in his while negligently driving his vehicle his striking it with PW-3 who at the relevant time was occupying the road along with his bullocks whom he was thereat tending to. In sequel thereto the accused respondent carried the victim to hospital whereat he received treatment for the injuries suffered by him in a collision which occurred inter se the vehicle driven by him with PW-3. The ascription of penally inculpable negligence by the prosecution qua the accused respondent stands canvassed by the learned Deputy Advocate General to stand emphatically proven by the consistent testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3. He canvasses qua the veracity of the testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 not warranting theirs standing concluded as inaptly done by the learned trial Court to stand countervailed by the deposition of PW-4 also an eye witness to the occurrence merely for PW-4 omitting to lend support to the prosecution version comprised in his reneging from his previous statement recorded in writing. The espousal made herebefore by the learned Deputy Advocate General for seeking reversal of the verdict pronounced upon the accused/respondent enjoins this Court to incisively peruse the defence projected by the accused before the learned trial Court embedded in the factum of PW-3 occupying the road at the relevant time, road whereof also thereat evidently held a heavy congestion of vehicles besides thereat PW-3 was tending to his bullocks whereupon the defence has put apposite suggestions to the prosecution witnesses qua the bullocks on hearing the blaring sounds of sirens emanating from the vehicle occupying the road at the relevant time, theirs moving astray from their maneuvered direction by PW-3 whereupon they struck PW-3 whereafter on the latter abruptly appearing before the vehicle driven by the accused/respondent he suffered a collision with it, besides obviously on anvil thereof the defence espoused qua the striking of PW-3 by the vehicle driven by the accused respondent not being a sequel to any penally negligent act on the part of the accused respondent rather the collision which occurred inter se the vehicle driven by the accused respondent with PW-3 arising from PW-3 standing abruptly struck by the bullocks which he was tending to at the relevant time, who had for reasons afore-stated moved astray from their negotiated direction whereafter the abrupt appearance of PW-3 before the relevant vehicle not begetting the sequel of the vehicle driven by him directly striking PW-3 rather the reason for the relevant collision occurring with PW-3 being ascribable to after PW-3 suffering a jolt from the bullocks to whom he was tending to at the relevant time his thereafter begetting an abrupt collision with the vehicle driven by the accused. Consequently, the defence espouses qua theirs evidently not in the aforestated factual scenario surfacing any proven element of the accused respondent intentionally deviating from the standards of due care and caution nor any penal liability being fastenable upon him for the injuries suffered by PW-3.

10. Be that as it may, PW-1 and PW-2 who are the eye witnesses to the occurrence did lend corroborative succor to the testifications of PW-3 the victim/complainant. The vigour of the prosecution case qua PW-3 sustaining injuries in the manner manifested in F.I.R. embodied in Ext.PW-8/A primarily warranted emanation of taint free evidence of PW-3 qua the recitals borne thereon being free from any stain of compulsion or duress besides the contents embedded in Ext.PW-3/A arising from their volition making by PW-3 whereupon alone the genesis of the prosecution case embedded in Ext.PW-3/A would acquire probative sinew also thereupon the testifications of PW-1 and PW-2 in purported corroboration qua the testification of PW-3 would hold a concomitant vigour of tenacity. Contrarily if the testification of PW-3 holds therewithin the aforestated taints it besides evidence in purported corroboration thereto would fall apart rather reiteratedly the testifications of PW-1 and PW-2 in purported corroboration to the taint ridden testification of PW-3 would be construable to stagger besides the testifications of PW-1 and PW-2 would be construable to be a sequel of the Investigating Officer for meteing corroboration to Ext.PW-3/A his concerting to engineer the statements of PW-1 and PW-3. A close scrutiny of the deposition of PW-3 embodied in his cross-examination unveils qua the Investigating Officer suo motu recording the contents of Ext.PW-3/A also therein he communicates qua the contents of Ext.PW-3/A neither standing readover to him nor his reading its contents whereupon it is to be concluded qua without his dictating the recitals of Ext.PW-3/A to the Investigating Officer nor thereafter his comprehending its contents, his proceeding to append his signatures thereon whereupon it is to be concluded qua the recitals embedded in Ext.PW-3/A being not a voluntary making of PW-3 rather the recitals embedded therein standing engineered by the Investigating Officer. In aftermath, the genesis of the prosecution case which stands testified in purported corroboration thereto by PW-3 in his examination in chief stands eroded of its truth. The apt sequel thereof is qua the purported corroboration lent thereto by PW-1 and PW-2 standing obviously concluded to be a sequel to the Investigating Officer tutoring besides inventing their previous statement recorded in writing whereupon their testifications in corroboration thereto do not acquire any tenacity or vigour. Corollary of the aforesaid discussion is qua the genesis of the prosecution case embodied in Ext.PW-3/A standing benumbed.

11. Be that as it may hereat with PW-4 supporting the propagation of the defence, though he obviously reneged from his previous statement recorded in writing rather contrarily being construable for imputation of reliance thereon besides credence being placed thereupon significantly when on his reneging from his previous statement recorded in writing the learned APP on obtaining an affirmative permission of the learned trial Court to hold him to cross-examination though in course whereof he made a concerted bid therein to rip the tenacity of the disclosures made by him in his examination in chief yet the aforestated concert of the APP to rip the tenacity of his deposition embodied in his examination in chief wherein he had lent succor to the propagation of the defence did not yield any fruitful outcome to the prosecution. Consequently, even though PW-4 reneged from his previous statement in writing yet when he stood subjected thereafter to a rigorous examination by the learned APP whereat his testimony comprised in his examination in chief remained unscuttled constrains this Court to conclude qua thereupon his testimony in support of the defence acquiring credit besides tenacity being imputable thereupon. Even the testifications occurring in the examinations-in-chief of prosecution witnesses who therein renege from their previous statements recorded in writing are not per se thereupon rendered unreadable vis-à-vis the propagations articulated therein holding leanings qua the defence especially when the relevant echoings supportive of the defence occurring in the relevant examination-in-chief acquire succor from the factum of the testification of the victim besides of purported eye witnesses to the relevant occurrence standing ingrained with a taint besides blemish also when the testification of a hostile prosecution witnesses despite withstanding the rigors of an exacting cross-examination whereupon his espousal in his examination-in-chief supportive of the defence hence remain unshattered, contrarily thereupon his untaint ridden relevant testification warranting imputation of credence thereto.

12. The summum bonum of the above discussion is qua the depositions of PW-3 besides PW-1 and PW-2 in purported corroboration thereto not being amenable to imputation of reliance thereupon contrarily the deposition of PW-4 being amenable to imputation of credence besides reliance thereupon whereupon this Court concludes qua the defence succeeding in proving qua the injuries begotten on the person of PW-3 being a sequel to the latter while standing struck by the bullocks occupying the road at the relevant time his thereafter suo motu abruptly striking the vehicle driven by the accused respondent, in sequel whereof no penally inculpable negligence is ascribable to the accused/respondent. Also with the conduct of the accused respondent comprised in his carrying the victim to hospital when is conduct magnificatory of his innocence, hence it negates the charge.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

14. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Criminal Appeal No.478 of 2008
Date of Decision : 05.12.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376- Accused had subjected the prosecutrix to sexual assault – the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that testimony of the prosecutrix if found credible does not require any corroboration - the Court may look for corroboration in case of child witness to satisfy its conscience – Court should have no hesitation in accepting the testimony of the prosecutrix – minor discrepancy or variation in the statement of witness will not be fatal, whereas, contradiction will be – the prosecutrix was minor on the date of incident- the accused was on visiting terms with the family of the prosecutrix and is a close relative – the father of the prosecutrix was not at home and the accused had visited the house of the prosecutrix to spend the night – the prosecutrix supported the prosecution version – her credit was not impeached in cross-examination- absence of blood, rashes, sperms or bruises on the vital part of the prosecutrix is not sufficient to disbelieve her testimony – her version was corroborated by her mother – the matter was reported to police immediately- the prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court had wrongly acquitted the accused- appeal allowed- accused convicted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 376 of I.P.C. For the Appellant : M/s M.A. Khan and Varun Chandel, Additional Advocate Generals.

For the Respondent : Mr. N.S. Chandel with Mr.Dinesh Thakur, Advocate.
Accused in the custody of HHC Sant Ram No.1106 and HHC Ghanshyam No. 891, Police Line, Kaithu, Shimla.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, Judge

State has appealed against the judgment dated 26.4.2008, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, in Sessions Trial No.16 of 2007, titled as State v. Nanha, challenging the acquittal of respondent Nanha (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who stands charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. It is the case of prosecution that on 8.6.2007, Patto Devi (PW.2) lodged a complaint to the effect that accused Nanha had subjected her daughter, i.e. the prosecutrix (PW.3) to sexual assault. In relation to the said crime, on 8.6.2007 at 2.30 AM, FIR No. 238/2007 (Ex.PW.2/A) under the provision of Section 376 of IPC came to be registered at Police Station, Hamirpur. The alleged incident took place at about 1.30 AM, in the night intervening 7th& 8th June, 2007. Inspector Anjni Jaswal (PW.12), SHO of the concerned Police Station, who conducted the investigation, got the prosecutrix medically examined from Dr. Rajneesh Thakur (PW.1), who issued MLC (Ex.PW.1/B). Accused was also got medically examined from Dr. Rajesh Sharma (PW.4), who issued MLC (Ex.PW.4/B). For corroboration, certain incriminating articles so recovered, were sent for chemical analysis and report of the Chemical Analyst (Ex.PX) taken on record. Police also took on record proof with regard to age of the prosecutrix (Certificates Ex.PW.8/B and PW.9/B).

3. With the completion of investigation, which prima facie revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, challan was presented in the Court for trial.

4. Accused was charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code to which he did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

5. In order to establish its case, prosecution examined as many as 12 witnesses and statement of the accused, under the provisions of Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was also recorded, in which he took up the following defence:

> "I am innocent. A false case has been foisted against me at the instance of the prosecutrix and her mother. On the day of occurrence, Pato Devi had invited me to her residence in the absence of her husband. I treat Nitu as my cousin."

6. Trial Court has acquitted the accused on the following grounds: (a) testimony of the prosecutrix was highly improbable; (b) element of her tutoring was not ruled out; and (c) possibility of the accused having been falsely implicated on account of his having illicit relationship with the mother of the prosecutrix could not be ruled out.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties as also perused the record, we are of the considered view that the trial Court has seriously erred in coming to such conclusions and returning findings of acquittal of the accused. Reasoning adopted is bordering perversity, for it is not based on correct and complete appreciation of testimony of the prosecutrix as also other relevant/material witnesses. In fact, we are of the considered view that the trial Court adopted an extremely insensitive approach, in presupposing certain facts, while arriving at its conclusion. It presupposed that the prosecutrix had caught her mother and the accused in a compromising position, which resulted into concoction of false story and implication.

8. At this juncture, one may only observe the suggestion put by the accused, of his having alleged illicit relationship with the mother of the prosecutrix at least 3-4 years prior to the incident. It is not that the accused and the mother of the prosecutrix had allegedly developed physical intimacy/relationship on the night of the incident itself and as such, out of fear, or alleged threats, mother used her daughter to save herself.

9. It is a settled principle of law that if testimony of the prosecutrix itself is found to be inspiring in confidence, one need not look for corroborative evidence, medical or otherwise. However, it is also a settled principle of law, that in a case of child witness, only as a matter of abundant caution, Court may look for evidence, corroborative in nature and that too, only to satisfy its conscience and lend assurance to the otherwise inspiring version of the prosecutrix.

10. The law on this point is now well settled.

11. In State of Rajasthan versus Om Prakash, (2002) 5 SCC 745, the Apex Court has held that:-

> "Cases involving sexual molestation and assault require a different approach – a sensitive approach and not an approach which a court may adopt in dealing with a normal offence under penal laws."
> "Child rape cases are cases of perverse lust for sex where even innocent children are not spared in pursuit of sexual pleasure. It is a crime against humanity. In such cases, responsibility on the shoulders of the courts is more onerous so as to provide proper legal protection to these children. Their physical and mental immobility calls for such protection. Children are the natural resource of our country. They are the country's future. Hope of tomorrow rests on them. In our country, a girl child is in a very vulnerable position and one of the modes of her exploitation is rape besides other modes of sexual abuse. These factors point towards a different approach required to be adopted. It is necessary for the courts to have a sensitive approach when dealing with cases of child rape. The effect of such a crime on the mind of the child is likely to be lifelong. A special safeguard has been provided for children in the Constitution of India in Article 39."

12. Prosecutrix of a sex offence cannot be put on par with an accomplice. She is in fact a victim of the crime. If for some reason Court is hesitant to place implicit reliance on the testimony of the prosecutrix it may look for evidence which may lend assurance to her testimony short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. The nature of evidence required to lend assurance to the testimony of the prosecutrix must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. If the totality of the circumstances appearing on the record of the case disclose that prosecutrix does not have a strong motive to falsely involve the person charged, Court should ordinarily have no hesitation in accepting her evidence. [State of Maharashtra versus Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain, (1990) 1 SCC 550].

13. In Golla Yelugu Govindu vs. State of AndhraPradesh (2008) 16 SCC 769, the Apex Court has reiterated its earlier view and has held as under:-

> "11. 6.Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short the 'Evidence Act') does not prescribe any particular age as a determinative factor to treat a witness to be a competent one. On the contrary, Section 118 of the Evidence Act envisages that all persons shall be competent to testify, unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them or from giving rational answers to these questions, because of tender years, extreme old age, diseasewhether of mind, or any other cause of the same kind. A child of tender age can be allowed to testify if he has intellectual capacity to understand questions and give rational answers thereto. This position was concisely stated by Brewer J in Wheeler v. United States (159 U.S. 523). The evidence of a child witness is not required to be rejected per se; but the Court as a rule of prudence considers such evidence with close scrutiny and only on being convinced about the quality thereof and reliability can record conviction, based thereon. (See Surya Narayana v. State of Karnataka (2001 (1) Supreme 1).

14. In Dattu Ramrao Sakhare v. State of Maharashtra (1997 (5) SCC 341) it was held as follows:

> '5. .....A child witness if found competent to depose to the facts and reliable one such evidence could be the basis of conviction. In other words even in the absence of oath the evidence of a child witness can be considered under Section 118 of the Evidence Act provided that such witness is able to understand the answers thereof. The evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the Court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be a reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and there is no likelihood of being tutored'. The decision on the question whether the child witness has sufficient intelligence primarily rests with the trial Judge who notices his manners, his apparent possession or lack of intelligence, and said Judge may resort to any examination which will tend to disclose his capacity and intelligence as well as his understanding of the obligation of an oath. The decision of the trial court may, however, be disturbed by the higher Court if from what is preserved in the records, it is clear his conclusion was erroneous. This precaution is necessary because child witnesses are amenable to tutoring and often live in a world of make beliefs. Though it is an established principle that child witnesses are dangerous witnesses as they are pliable and liable to be influenced easily, shaped and moulded, but it is also an accepted norm that if after careful scrutiny of their evidence the Court comes to the conclusion that there is an impress of truth in it, there is no obstacle in the way of accepting the evidence of a child witness."

15. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Suresh Kumar (2009)16 SCC 697, the Apex Court was dealing with a case where the prosecutrix was ravished by the accused on 15.3.2000 which incident was narrated by the prosecutrix to her sister later during the day. She also narrated the incident to her parents the following day and to the Doctors after the incident. Court accepted the statement of the sister, the parents and the doctors while holding the accused guilty. Importantly, the Apex Court reversed the finding recorded by the High Court wherein it was held that the statement of the prosecutrix being minor was not worthy of credence.

16. Sarkar on Evidence (Fifteenth Edition) summarises the law relating to applicability of Section 6 of the Evidence Act thus :

> "1. The declarations (oral or written) must relate to the act which is in issue or relevant thereto; they are not admissible merely because they accompany an act. Moreover the declarations must relate to and explain the fact they accompany, and not independent facts previous or subsequent thereto unless such facts are part of a transaction which is continuous.
> 2. The declarations must be substantially contemporaneous with the fact and not merely the narrative of a past.
> 3. The declaration and the act may be by the same person, or they may be by different persons, e.g., the declarations of the victim, assailant and by-standers. In conspiracy, riot &c. the declarations of all concerned in the common object are admissible.
> 4. Though admissible to explain or corroborate, or to understand the significance of the act, declarations are not evidence of the truth of the matters stated."

17. This Court in Gentela Vijayavardhan Rao v.State of A. P. [(1996) 6 SCC 241] considering the law embodied in Section 6 of the Evidence Act held thus:

(SCC pp.246-47, para 15)

> "15.The principle of law embodied in Section 6 of the Evidence Act is usually known as the rule of res gestae recognised in English law. The essence of the doctrine is that a fact which, though not in issue, is so connected with the fact in issue "as to form part of the same transaction" becomes relevant by itself. This rule is, roughly speaking, in exception to the general rule that hearsay evidence is not admissible. The rationale in making certain statement or fact admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act is on account of the spontaneity and immediacy of such statement or fact in relation to the fact in issue. But it is necessary that such fact or statement must be a part of the same transaction. In other words, such statement must have been made contemporaneous with the acts which constitute the offence or at least immediately thereafter. But if there was an interval, however slight it may be, which was sufficient enough for fabrication then the statement is not part of res gestae."

18. In another judgment in Rattan Singh v. State of H. P., (1997) 4 SCC 161 this Court examined the applicability of Section 6 of the Evidence Act to the statement of the deceased and held thus (SCC p.167, para 16)

> ".....The aforesaid statement of Kanta Devi can be admitted under Section 6 of the Evidence Act on account of its proximity of time to the act of murder. Illustration 'A' to Section 6 makes it clear. It reads thus:
> '(a) A is accused of the murder of B by beating him. Whatever was said or done by A or B or the by-standers at the beating, or so shortly before or after it as to form part of the transaction, is a relevant fact.'(Emphasis supplied)
> Here the act of the assailant intruding into the courtyard during dead of the night, victim's identification of the assailant, her pronouncement that appellant was standing with a gun and his firing the gun at her, are all circumstances so intertwined with each other by proximity of time and space that the statement of the deceased became part of the same transaction. Hence it is admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act."

19. In Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan, AIR 1952 SC 54, the Supreme Court has held that the previous statement of the raped girl to her mother, immediately after the occurrence, is not only admissible and relevant as to her conduct, but also constitutes corroboration of her statement under the provisions of section 157 of the Evidence Act. In order to come to the aforesaid conclusions, illustration (j) to section 8 of the Evidence Act was relied upon. In that case, the victim, named Purni, was 7/8 years old. She was not administered oath, but was held to be competent witness and, therefore, duly examined and believed.

20. The Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Gurmit Singh and others, (1996) 2 SCC 384 has held that:-

> "... ...The Courts must, while evaluating evidence, remain alive to the fact that in a case of rape, no self-respecting woman would come forward in a Court just to make a humiliating statement against her honour such as is involved in the commission of rape on her. In cases involving sexual molestation, supposed considerations which have no material effect on the veracity of the prosecution case or even discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix should not, unless the discrepancies are such which are of fatal nature, be allowed to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. The inherent bashfulness of the females and the tendency to conceal outrage of sexual aggression are factors which the Courts should not overlook. The testimony of the victim in such cases is vital and unless there are compelling reasons which necessitate looking for corroboration of her statement, the Courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of a victim of sexual assault alone to convict an accused where her testimony inspires confidence and is found to be reliable. Seeking corroboration of her statement before relying upon the same, as a rule, in such cases amounts to adding insult to injury. Why should the evidence of a girl or a woman who complains of rape or sexual molestation, be viewed with doubt, disbelief or suspicion ?
> "21. Of late, crime against women in general and rape in particular is on the increase. It is an irony that while we are celebrating women's rights in all spheres, we show little or no concern for her honour. It is a sad reflection on the attitude of indifference of the society towards the violation of human dignity of the victims of sex crimes. We must remember that a rapist not only violates the victim's privacy and personal integrity, but inevitably causes serious psychological as well as physical harm in the process. Rape is not merely a physical assault - it is often destructive of the whole personality of the victim. A murderer destroys the physical body of his victim, a rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female. The Court, therefore, shoulder a great responsibility while trying an accused on charges of rape. They must deal with such cases with utmost sensitivity. The Courts should examine the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix, which are not of a fatal nature, to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case." ... ...

21. Discrepancy has to be distinguished from contradiction. Whereas contradiction in the statement of the witness is fatal for the case, minor discrepancy or variance in evidence will not make the prosecution's case doubtful. In order to ascertain as to whether discrepancy pointed out is minor or not or the same amounted to contradiction, regard is required to be had to the circumstances of the case by keeping in view the social status of the witnesses and environment in which such witness is making the statement.[State of H.P. versus Lekh Raj and another (2000) 1 SCC 247].

22. In the aforesaid decision itself the Court reiterated its earlier view taken in State of Punjab versus Jagir Singh (1974) 3 SCC 277 wherein it was held that:-

> "A criminal trial is not like a fairy tale wherein one is free to give fight to one's imagination and fantasy. It concerns itself with the question as to whether the accused arraigned at the trial is guilty of the crime with which he is charged. Crime is an event in real life and is the product of interplay of different human emotions. In arriving at the conclusion about the guilt of the accused charged with the commission of a crime, the Court has to judge the evidence by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic worth and the animus of witnesses. Every case in the final analysis would have to depend upon its own facts. Although the benefit of every reasonable doubt should be given to the accused, the Courts should not at the same time reject evidence which is ex facie trustworthy on grounds which are fanciful or in the nature of conjectures."

23. The Apex Court in State of Rajasthan versus N. K. THE ACCUSED (2000) 5 SCC 30 has held that:-

> "... ...It is true that the golden thread which runs throughout the cobweb of criminal jurisprudence as administered in India is that nine guilty may escape but one innocent should not suffer. But at the same time no guilty should escape unpunished once the guilt has been proved to hilt. An unmerited acquittal does no good to the society. If the prosecution has succeeded in making out a convincing case for recording a finding as to the accused being guilty, the Court should not lean in favour of acquittal by giving weight to irrelevant or insignificant circumstances or by resorting to technicalities or by assuming doubts and giving benefit thereof where none exists. A doubt, as understood in criminal jurisprudence, has to be a reasonable doubt and not an excuse for finding in favour of acquittal. An unmerited acquittal encourages wolves in the society being on prowl for easy prey, more so when the victims of crime are helpless females. It is the spurt in the number of unmerited acquittals recorded by criminal Courts which gives rise to the demand for death sentence to the rapists. The Courts have to display a greater sense of responsibility and to be more sensitive while dealing with charges of sexual assault on women."

24. In State of M.P. v. Dharkole alias Govind Singh and others, (2004) 13 SCC 308 the Apex Court has held that:-

> "9. ... Eye witnesses' account would require a careful independent assessment and evaluation for their credibility which should not be adversely prejudged making any other evidence, including medical evidence, as the sole touchstone for the test of such credibility. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witnesses held to be credit-worthy; consistency with the undisputed facts; the 'credit' of the witnesses; their performance in the witness-box; their power of observation etc. Then the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."
> "10. A person has, no doubt, a profound right not to be convicted of an offence which is not established by the evidential standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Though this standard is a higher standard, there is, however, no absolute standard. What degree of probability amounts to 'proof' is an exercise particular to each case?
> "The simple multiplication rule does not apply if the separate pieces of evidence are dependent. Two events are dependent when they tend to occur together, and the evidence of such events may also be said to be dependent. In a criminal case, different pieces of evidence directed to establishing that the defendant did the prohibited act with the specified state of mind are generally dependent. A junior may feel doubt whether to credit an alleged confession, and doubt whether to infer guilt from the fact that the defendant fled from justice. But since it is generally guilty rather than innocent people who make confessions and guilty rather than innocent people who run away, the two doubts are not to be multiplied together. The one piece of evidence may confirm the other."

"11. Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth. To constitute reasonable doubt, it must be free from an over emotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial doubts as to the guilt of the accused persons arising from the evidence, or from the lack of it, as opposed to mere vague apprehensions. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely possible doubt; but a fair doubt based upon reason and commonsense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case." [Emphasis supplied]

25. We shall now discuss the evidence in view of the aforesaid settled proposition of law.

26. Certain facts are not in dispute:

(a) That on 07.06.2007, the date of alleged incident, prosecutrix was minor. She was born on 03.01.1998, which fact, in any event, stands established through the testimony of PW.8 and PW.9, who have proved on record birth certificate (Ex.PW.9/B);

(b) Accused was not only known to, but was on visiting terms with the family of the prosecutrix. In fact, he is a close relative which fact also stands established through the unrebutted testimonies of PW.2, PW.3 and PW.6. He is the cousin of the prosecutrix.

(c) On the fateful day, father (PW.6) of the prosecutrix was not at home, for he had gone for some work to a nearby place.

(d) Same day, accused had come to spend the night in the house of the prosecutrix. Her younger brother and mother were also at home.

(e) After having meals at night, prosecutrix, her brother and mother slept on the cot and in the same room, accused also slept on the floor.

27. With these admitted and undisputed facts, we now proceed to examine the testimony of the prosecution witnesses.

28. Prosecutrix who was competent to understand the sanctity of oath, in Court, has deposed that on 07.06.2007, after having meals, she alongwith her brother and mother went off to sleep on the double bed (cot) whereas accused slept on the ground. Her brother was sleeping towards the side of the wall and she was sleeping towards the side of the accused, and in between was her mother. Sometime in the middle of night, when all were asleep, accused who afterapplying saliva on his fingers, inserted them in her private parts. This was so done twice. Also accused inserted his private part on her private parts, as a result of which she felt pain and cried. Hearing the same, her mother got up and switched on the lights. When enquired, accused ran away, stating that nothing had happened. Soon her mother went to the house of neighbour Manoj Gupta and telephonically informed her father. Thereafter, prosecutrix was taken to the Police Station, where the matter came to be reported.

29. From the cross-examination part of her testimony, we do not find credit of this witness to have been impeached in any manner. We also do not find her to have been tutored in making such a statement in Court. In fact, she has bravely withstood the test of cross-examination, which by all standards is extremely bold, if not shocking. She is categorical that her father was away for work and the accused, of his own came to their residence. After consuming meals he slept with them. Her mother had asked the accused to leave but he stayed over. When questioned, on her knowledge of the accused having applied saliva, she explained it to be on the basis of her observation, finding the body part to have salivary sensation. She is categorical that it was only on the second occasion that she woke up her mother. On first brush there appears to be little contradiction, but then, on a careful reading of testimony of both the witnesses, it is evidently clear that mother got up only when the child cried, which was at the time of the second attempt by the accused. She is also clear that prior to her mother having switched on the lights, accused had tried to insert his male organ into her vagina. Categorically she has denied, having noticed her mother and accused to be in a compromising position, on the fateful night. We do find that in cross-examination, she does state that "accused was trying to insert his male organ meant for urinating" but then in the examination in chief, she is categorical that accused had started "inserting" the same. Hence in our considered view offence under the provisions of Section 376 of IPC is clearly made out. It is not a case of attempt, but an act of rape. It is a case where the male organ came in contact with the vagina. On this count, our attention is invited to the medical record (Ex.PW.1/B). The version, so narrated by the prosecutrix stands recorded therein. No doubt, doctor did not find any injury on the vaginal part of the prosecutrix, but then he is categorical that there is no evidence to suggest that "rape has not been committed" and that "I finally opined that sexual intercourse has not taken place, but rape cannot be ruled out".

30. Absence of blood, rashes, sperms or bruises on the vital part of the prosecutrix, in itself, cannot be a ground for disbelieving her. We also find that the investigating agencies had been extremely cautious in coming to the conclusion, of involvement of the accused in the crime. They took opinion of the doctor thrice. On the last occasion, the doctor opined (Ex.DA) that even mere penetration itself would amount to sexual assault. Significantly, the doctor has not ruled its possibility.

31. We further find version of the prosecutrix to have been absolutely corroborated by her mother Patto Devi (PW.2). Even she is categorical that at about 1.30 AM, after hearing cries of her daughter, she got up and switched on the lights. The accused ran away from the spot and on her asking, the entire incident came to be narrated by the prosecutrix to her. Pants of the accused were down and the underwear of the prosecutrix was lying on the floor. Even she has withstood the test of cross-examination and we also do not find her to have either deposed falsely or falsely implicated the accused in the alleged crime.

32. It is not that the accused was not known to the family. He was cousin of the prosecutrix. Hence his presence in the house is totally explainable. It has also come on record, as also stands established through the testimony of Dr. Rajesh Sharma (PW.4) who has proved MLC (Ex.PW.4/B), that the accused was under the influence of alcohol.

33. It is contended that the story propounded by the prosecutrix "sounds to be unreasonable and improbable". Such contention only merits rejection. We find the room, where the parties were sleeping to be big enough. Even the cot was big enough to accommodate two adults and two children. Assuming hypothetically that the mother was caught in a compromising position by the child, even then, we see no reason for the mother to have falsely involved her children and that too her daughter, in the alleged crime, for it only tarnishes her image and mars her future prospects. One cannot isolate the socio-economic status of the parties.

34. The defence of the accused of false implication also stands falsified from the fact that the incident came to be reported to the police immediately after the occurrence of crime.

35. To impeach the credit of the prosecution witnesses, more particularly that of the prosecutrix and her mother, our attention is invited to medical record in MLC (Ex.PW-1/B). No doubt, it records that prosecutrix was got medically examined on 8.6.2007 at 11.45 a.m., however the fact of the matter, as is evident from the testimony of the prosecutrix as also police officials, is that prosecutrix was taken to the hospital immediately after lodging of the report. In fact, we also find the accused to have been arrested and medically examined, same day and that too in the morning hours. Hence, possibility of error in recording the exact timing in the MLC cannot be ruled out, attention of which, in any event, was never brought to the notice of the doctor.

36. Court below, seriously erred in correctly and completely appreciating the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses as also the law as aforesaid.

37. In our considered view, prosecution has been able to establish the guilt of the accused, beyond reasonable doubt, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence.

38. From the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution witnesses that the accused is guilty of having committed the offence charged for. There is sufficient, convincing, cogent and reliable evidence on record to this effect. The circumstances stand conclusively proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused stands proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt. It cannot be said that accused is innocent or not guilty or that he has been falsely implicated or that his defence is probable or that the evidence led by the prosecution is inconsistent, unreliable, untrustworthy and unbelievable.

39. Thus, in our considered view, findings returned by the trial Court cannot be said to be based on correct and complete appreciation of material on record, which are reversed. The appeal is allowed and we hold the accused guilty of having committed offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code, for having committed rape on prosecutrix.

40. For the purpose of hearing the accused-convict on the quantum of sentence, the appeal be listed on 06.12.2015, as jointly prayed for. He be produced in the Court on the said date. Copy of the judgment be supplied to the accused, free of cost.

41. No other point urged.

Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Suresh Kumar & others. ....Petitioners.

Versus

M/s Sunnox International & anr. ...Respondents.

CMPMO No.247 of 2015.
Reserved on : 21.11.2016.
Decided on : 05.12.2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 1 Rule 10- An application for impleadment was filed, which was allowed by the trial Court- held, that the interest of the applicant is involved in the present suit and applicant is a necessary party – therefore, the application was rightly allowed by the Trial Court – revision dismissed.(Para-8 to 11)

For the petitioners Mr. G.D. Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

For the respondents Mr. Dushyant Dadwal, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Priyanka Khenal, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, for quashing and setting the impugned order dated 30.5.2015, passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No.II, Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P, in CMA No.6 of 2015 (Civil Suit No.195 of 2012).

2. Brief facts giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioners/plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiffs') filed a suit for Permanent Prohibitory Injunction against the respondents/defendants (hereinafter referred to as the 'defendants') alleging that the plaintiffs are co-owners in joint possession of the suit land measuring 24 bighas, 1 biswa, Khasra No.71 (11-01) and 72 (13-00) comprised in Khata/Khatauni No.8/22, situated in village Ambwala, HB No.63, Pargana Plassi, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P (hereinafter refereed to as the 'suit land'). The defendants are stranger to the suit land having no right, title or interest in the suit land. The defendants are threatening to install electricity tower and to lay down/stretch overhead electrical wires in, over and through the suit land forcibly and illegally without any right, title or interest. It is averred that during the pendency of present suit, defendant No.1 filed application under Order 1 Rule 10 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for impleading them as defendant No.2. The application was contested by the plaintiffs on the ground that the application is not maintainable. Subsequently, the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No.II, Nalagarh, District Solan, vide impugned order dated 30.5.2015, has allowed the application of defendant No.1 and impleaded him as defendant No.2 in the suit. Hence, the present petition.

3. Heard.

4. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiffs has argued that the impugned order passed by the learned Court below is without appreciating the fact, which has come on record, as it is for the plaintiff to choose against whom he wants to maintain his suit.

5. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.1-defendant company has argued that the stay order was operating against newly added defendant, now defendant No.1 and so, the interest of defendant No.1 was involved, as he was rightly impleaded as a party.

6. Learned Senior counsel appearing on behalf of defendant No.2-HPSEB has argued that the impugned order passed by the learned Court below is just, reasoned and as per law.

7. In rebuttal, learned Senior counsel appearing on behalf of plaintiffs has argued that the newly added defendant has neither agent nor attorney of HPSEB and so, not required to be impleaded as defendant.

8. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail.

9. The suit was filed by the plaintiffs for Permanent Prohibitory Injunction. The Government of Himachal Pradesh has sanctioned the transmission of electricity transmission line of 66 KV from Sub-Station Nangal Upperala (Nalagarh) to Panjehra, the premises of M/s Sunnox International Limited, defendant No.1, vide its notification No.MPP-A (3)-3/2003-1, dated 18.9.2008, the said transmission line is being installed under the supervision of HPSEB Limited and its officials/Engineers under the provisions of The Electricity (Supply) Act, 2003. Defendant No.2-HPSEB under the aforesaid notification of the Government of Himachal Pradesh have almost completed the work of electricity transmission line of 66 KV from Nangal Upperla Sub-Station to Panjehra barring two small spans including one in the present suit. Defendant No.1-company and Defendant No.2/HPSEB have strictly carried out the work under the provisions of Electricity Act, 2003, as HPSEB being licensee has been conferred the powers of Telegraph notification under Section 164 of the Government has given vast powers to officials of HPSEB for laying of cables and plants for electrical transmission as per the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885. There is no mention of present notification. The mere fact that notification was published, keeping in mind the interest of the public and not as a prerequisite of laying the cables. The supply of power on 66 KV voltage level from 220/66 KV Sub-Station Uperla Nangal (Nalagarh) to premises of defendant No.1-company at village Panjehra, transmission line was to be set up by erecting the towers. Transmission line is to be set up on self execution basis under the supervision of defendant No.2/HPSEB. Defendant No.1-company with the help and supervision of defendant No.2/HPSEB has to set up the transmission line. Defendant No.1-company has invested huge amount in the project and due to the present suit, defendant No.1/company is not able to complete the project in the scheduled time resulting in huge financial losses to it. The disturbance at this site, if being created by persons with vested interest who are trying to exploit and arm-twist the company to extract money by creating obstacles in smooth laying of cables. There is no dwelling unit of any farmer/individual or anyone else is being transgressed or damaged in the process. Defendant No.1/company and defendant No.2/HPSEB has already compensated the villagers at rates much higher than those as per the norms of the revenue department whose lands are taken for laying the transmission line and defendant No.1-company even ready to compensate the villagers for the damage, if any, caused during the laying of transmission line.

10. The interest of defendant No.1-company is involved in the present suit and in these circumstances, defendant No.1 was impleaded as necessary party. So, this court finds that there is no illegality and infirmity with the impugned order dated 30.5.2015 passed by the learned Court below.

11. Accordingly, the petition is devoid of any merit and deserves dismissal, hence the same is dismissed. Parties are directed to appear before the learned Court below on 22nd December, 2016. However, the parties are left to bear their own costs. BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Ajay Kumar Sud and others .....Petitioners.

Versus

St. Bede's College and others .....Respondents.

CWP No.1803 of 2014.
Judgment reserved on: 18.11.2016.
Date of decision: 6th December, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioners are employees of respondent No.1- petitioners claimed that EPF contribution is payable to them in accordance with H.P. University Act, 1970, various statutes, ordinances and regulations as the college is affiliated to H.P. University – held, that as per the ordinance, every college or institute seeking affiliation with the University is required to satisfy the condition laid down in the statute – respondents No.1 and 2 had restricted the contribution to the one prescribed under EPF and MP, 1952, which is not permissible as ordinance has a force of law- no college can take a decision contrary to the provisions of H.P. University Act and Ordinances, Regulations and Statutes – the scheme framed by the Central Government does not prohibit the applicability of any other regulation or the scheme – petition allowed and respondents No.1 and 2 directed to contribute the provident fund in accordance with the Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers Contributory Provident Fund Rules.(Para-14 to 35)

Cases referred:

Marathwada Gramin Bank Karamchari Sanghatana and another versus Management of Marathwada Gramin Bank and others (2011) 9 SCC 620

State of Maharashtra versus Shashikant S.Pujari and others (2006) 13 SCC 175

Prabhakar Ramkrishna Jodh versus A.L. Pande and another 1965 (2) SCR 713

For the Petitioners Mr.Dilip Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr.Manish Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondents Mr.K.D.Sood, Senior Advocate with Ms.Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr.J.L.Bhardwaj, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Mr.Prince Chauhan, Advocate vice Mr.Rahul Mahajan, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge .

The excellence of the education provided by an institution would depend directly on the excellence of the teaching staff and in turn that would depend on the quality and the contentment of the teachers. Conditions of service pertaining to minimum qualifications of teachers, salaries, allowances and other conditions of service which ensure security, contentment and decent living standards to the teachers will consequently enable them to render better services to the institution and the pupils.

2. The St. Bede's College is one of the oldest and elite colleges of India having been established initially as an orphanage for the children of the British soldiers in 1864, however, thereafter in 1904 it started teachers training college. Though, till 1947 the College was meant primarily for Christian girls, however, thereafter its doors were open to students of all the faiths.

3. The St. Bede's College was affiliated to the H.P. University (respondent No.3) on 22.07.1970, whereas, respondent No.2 St. Bede's Educational Society is a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, which is administering respondent No.1-College.

4. The petitioners are the employees of respondent No.1-College. The moot question in this petition concerns the EPF contribution which according to the petitioners is payable to them in accordance with the H.P. University Act, 1970 and the various statutes, ordinances and regulations made under the said Act on account of respondent No.1 being affiliated with respondent No.3.

5. Respondents No.1 and 2 have opposed the claim raised by the petitioners on the ground that they cannot be compelled to contribute in excess of the statutory limit as contemplated and provided for in the Employees Provident Fund and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (for short 'Act').

6. It is not in dispute that respondent No.1 is affiliated to the H.P. University and as a consequence thereof has necessarily to abide by the provisions of the H.P. University Act, 1970 and all the statutes, ordinances and regulations made under the said Act.

7. It is also not in dispute that as per the Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provision Fund Rules, the contribution of the respondent-College as per rules 60 was initially 10% and thereafter 12% and the matching contribution was being paid by the Management.

8. However, it appears that respondents No.1 and 2 lateron took a decision whereby they decided to contribute only that amount towards its share as was prescribed under the EPF & MP Act.

9. This action of the respondents constrained the petitioners to approach this Court by filing CWP No. No.7655/2012 titled 'Mr.Ajay Kumar Sud and another versus Regional Provident Fund Commissioner and others' which was disposed of by this Court on 22.11.2012 by directing the parties to present themselves before the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner (respondent No.4), who after placing reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Marathwada Gramin Bank Karamchari Sanghatana and another versus Management of Marathwada Gramin Bank and others (2011) 9 SCC 620held that the Employer could not be compelled for contributing in excess of the statutory limit and accordingly dismissed the claim of the petitioners.

10. Aggrieved by the decision taken by respondents No.1 and 2 and thereafter aggrieved by the order passed by respondent No.4, the petitioners have filed the instant petition claiming therein the following reliefs:-

> "(i) That the impugned action of respondents No.1 and 2 whereby contribution to Provident Fund of the petitioners has been reduced to 12% of the pay of petitioners by taking their salary @ Rs.6500/- per month from June, 2012 may be declared to be illegal and ultra-vires the provisions of HP University Act, 1970, Statues and Ordinances of the HP University and the provisions of EPF&MP, 1952;
> (ii) That rejection of the claim of petitioners by respondent No.4 vide order dated 23.5.2013, Annexure P-9 may also be quashed and set aside;
> (iii) That the respondent No.3 may be directed to seek compliance of provisions of Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provident Fund Rules from respondents No.1 and 2;
> (iv) That the respondents No.1 and 2 may be directed to contribute to the Provident Fund of petitioners @12% of their salary with effect from June, 2012, in accordance with the provisions of Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provident Fund Rules, in the same manner in which it was being done prior to June, 2012, with all consequential benefits;
> (v) That respondents No.1 and 2 may be directed to deposit with respondent No.4 interest and also discharge other statutory liabilities which would arise on account of difference in payment of Provident Fund as a result of restoration of the same since June, 2012 as per the provisions of the Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provident Fund Rules."

11. Respondents No.1 and 2 have filed their common reply wherein it is averred that they had rightly taken the decision for being governed under the EPF and MP Scheme and their action is perfectly in tune with the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Marathwada Gramin Bank Karamchari Sanghatana and another versus Management of Marathwada Gramin Bank and others (2011) 9 SCC 620. On merits, the same plea has been reiterated while fling parawise reply to the petition.

12. The Himachal Pradesh University (respondent No.3) has in its reply clearly stated that the affiliated colleges are required to work in accordance with the Act, Statutes, Ordinances, Rules and Regulations of the H.P. University, though it can manage its college in a manner it so chooses without impinging upon the Rules etc.

13. The Regional Provident Fund Commissioner (respondent No.4) has filed its reply wherein it has obviously supported the order passed by it.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

14. Chapter 38 of the First Ordinance deals with the affiliation and recognition of the Colleges and Institutions and as per Ordinance 38.5, every College and Institution seeking affiliation with the University is required to satisfy the conditions laid down in Statute 16 of the University alongwith conditions contained in Ordinance 38.5, relevant portion where of reads thus:-

> "38.5. In addition to the conditions laid down in Statute 16 of the First Statues of the University, every college or institution for which affiliation is sought, shall also satisfy the following conditions:-
> B. In the case of a non-Government college or institution:

(b) that there shall be an endowment fund in cash, so long as the college or institution exists:

(iv) The endowment fund shall remain intact and shall not be used by the Management for current expenses or as a security for obtaining a loan or for any other purpose. A declaration to this effect by the President/Secretary of the Management shall accompany the endowment fund fixed deposit receipts or Government securities.

(d) that the Principal/teachers of the college or institution shall be appointed in the manner and on the terms and conditions of service as laid down in the rules in Appendix A to this Chapter."

15. Appendix-A appended with paragraph 38.5. B (b) (iv) (d) (supra) deals with the Provident Fund Rules which has been nomenclatured as "The Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provident Fund Rules" (for short Provident Fund Rules) and is applicable to all teachers holding non-pensionable posts in Non-Government Affiliated College. The conditions of rates of subscriptions are contained in Rule 58(iii)(b) which reads thus:-

"58. (iii) The amount of subscription shall be fixed by the subscriber himself subject to the following conditions:-

(b) It may be any sum so expressed, not less than 10% of his pay and not more than his pay."

The contribution by the Management has been provided for in Rule 60, the relevant part thereof reads thus:-

"60. Contribution by Management:- The Management shall make contribution every month to the account of each subscriber of an amount equal to 10% of his pay expressed in whole rupees;"

16. It is not in dispute that respondent No.1 is a Non-Government Affiliated College receiving 95% grant-in-aid from the Government.

17. It is further not in dispute that in the year 1990 the contributions standing to the credit of the petitioners and other employees alongwith shares of the management/employer were transferred to the respective accounts in the Employees Provident Fund Organization. However, thereafter, the respondent-College took a decision to contribute only that amount towards their shares that was contemplated in the EPF & MP Act whereby the contribution of the petitioners to the Provident Fund has been reduced to 12% of the pay of the petitioners by taking their salary at the rate of Rs. 6500/- per month from June, 2012.

18. In light of the what has been set out hereinabove, the seminal question that arises for consideration is whether respondents No.1 and 2 of their own and that too without the consent and concurrence of its affiliating authority (respondent No.3) could have taken the impugned decision to grant their contributions only to the extent of statutory limit as provided for under the EPF & MP Act and in addition thereto whether the order passed by respondent No.4 on 23.05.2013 upholding the action of respondents No.1 and 2 is legal in the eyes of law.

19. Adverting to the first question, the parties are ad idem with respect to the respondent No.1 being affiliated with respondent No.3-University and, therefore, there is no gainsaying that once it is so, then it is bound by the regulations framed by the University as the same have force of law.

20. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra versus Shashikant S.Pujari and others (2006) 13 SCC 175 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"26. The colleges affiliated to the University are bound by the Regulations. The Regulations have force of law. Terms and conditions of services of a university employee as also the employees of colleges affiliated to it are governed by statutory regulations....."

21. It has to be borne in mind that the Act, Regulations, Ordinances and Statutes control and regulate the service conditions of the teachers of the affiliated colleges independently of any terms that may have been agreed to between the teachers and the Management of an affiliated college.

22. In Prabhakar Ramkrishna Jodh versus A.L. Pande and another 1965 (2) SCR 713, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that such provisions are made by the University in exercise of its powers of affiliation granted by law and to protect the teachers of the affiliated college against any arbitrariness of the Management in terms of the efficiency in the field of education. When a college is admitted to the privilege of affiliation or association with the University, its Management is bound by the conditions of affiliation imposed by the University under the Act incorporating such University.

23. Therefore, the affiliating college cannot of its own take a decision which would be contrary to any provisions of the H.P. University Act and Ordinances, Regulations and Statutes framed thereunder and any such course adopted by the affiliated college would be fraught with danger of the affiliation itself being lost.

24. Therefore, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that unilateral decision taken by respondents No.1 and 2 without seeking approval and concurrence of the H.P. University to reduce its contribution to the provident fund cannot withstand judicial scrutiny and is consequently struck down and set aside.

25. Now, adverting to the order passed by the respondent-College, it would be noticed that the same is based upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Marathwada's case (supra), however, the moot question is whether the ratio laid down therein is applicable to the fact situation obtaining in the present case.

26. It is not in dispute that it was in the year 1990 that the provisions of EPF & MP Act were extended to the employees of respondent-College. By virtue of Section 15 of the Act, all the conditions standing to the credit of petitioners alongwith the share of the Management stood transferred to the respective accounts in the Employees Provident fund Organization.

27. It is also not in dispute that in exercise of powers conferred by Section 5 of the Act, 1952, the Central Government framed Employees' Provident Fund Scheme, 1952. It is only paragraphs 26 and 29 that are relevant for the purpose of adjudication of this case and are reproduced hereinbelow:-

"[26. Classes of employees entitled and required to join the fund.- (1)(a) Every employee employed in or in connection with the work of a factory or other establishment to which this scheme applies, other than an excluded employee, shall be entitled and required to become a member of the fund from the day this paragraph comes into force in such factory or other establishment.

(b) Every employee employed in or in connection with the work of a factory or other establishment to which this Scheme applies, other than an excluded employee, shall also be entitled and required to become a member of the fund from the day this paragraph comes into force in such factory or other establishment if on the date of such coming into force, such employee is a subscriber to a provident fund maintained in respect of the factory or other establishment or in respect of any other factory or establishment (to which the Act applies) under the same employer:

Provided that where the Scheme applies to a factory or other establishment on the expiry or cancellation of an order of exemption under section 17 of the Act, every employee who but for the exemption would have become and continued as a member of the fund, shall become a member of the fund forthwith.

(2) After this paragraph comes into force in a factory or other establishment, every employee employed in or in connection with the work of that factory or establishment, other than an excluded employee, who has not become a member already shall also be entitled and required to become a member of the fund from the date of joining the factory or establishment.

(3) An excluded employee employed in or in connection with the work of a factory or other establishment to which this Scheme applies shall, on ceasing to be such an employee, be entitled and required to become a member of the fund from the date he ceased to be such employee.

(4) On re-election of an employee or a class of employees exempted under paragraph 27 or paragraph 27-A to join the fund or on the expiry or cancellation of an order under that paragraph, every employee shall forthwith become a member thereof.

(5) Every employee who is a member of a private provident fund maintained in respect of an exempted factory or other establishment and who but for exemption would have become and continued as a member of the fund shall, on joining a factory or other establishment to which this Scheme applies, become a member of the fund forthwith.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in this paragraph, an officer not below the rank of an Assistant Provident Fund Commissioner may, on the joint request in writing, of any employee of a factory or other establishment to which this Scheme applies and his employer, enroll such employee as a member or allow him to contribute more than [six thousand five hundred rupees] of his pay per month if he is already a member of the fund and thereupon such employee shall be entitled to the benefits and shall be subject to the conditions of the fund, provided that the employer gives an undertaking in writing that he shall pay the administrative charges payable and shall comply with all statutory provisions in respect of such employee.]

[29. Contributions. (1) The contributions payable by the employer under the Scheme shall be at the rate of [ten per cent] of the [basic wages, dearness allowance (including the cash value of any food concession) and retaining allowance (if any)] payable to each employee to whom the Scheme applies:*

[Provided that the above rate of contribution shall be [twelve per cent] in respect of any establishment or class of establishments which the Central Government may specify in the Official Gazette from time to time under the first proviso to sub-section (1) of section 6 of the Act.]

(2) The contribution payable by the employee under the Scheme, shall be equal to the contribution payable by the employer in respect of such employee:

[Provided that in respect of any employee to whom the Scheme applies, the contribution payable by him may, if he so desires, be an amount exceeding [ten per cent] or [twelve per cent], as the case may be, of his basic wages, dearness allowance and retaining allowance (if any) subject to the condition that the employer shall not be under an obligation to pay any contribution over and above his contribution payable under the Act.]

(3) The contributions shall be calculated on the basis of [basic wages, dearness allowance (including the cash value of any food concession) and retaining allowance (if any)] actually drawn during the whole month whether paid on daily, weekly, fortnightly or monthly basis.]

(4) Each contribution shall be calculated to [the nearest rupee, 50 paise or more to be counted as the next higher rupee and fraction of a rupee less than 50 paise to be ignored].]"

28. Paragraph 26(6) starts with a non-obstante clause and states that an Officer not below a rank of Assistant Provident Fund Commissioner may on the joint request in writing of any employee of a factory or other establishment to which scheme applies and his Employer, enroll such employee as a member and allow him to contribute more than Rs. 6500/- of his pay per month.

29. Adverting to paragraph 29, it would be noticed that proviso to sub-para 2 of this paragraph clearly provides that the Employer shall not be under an obligation to pay any contribution over and above his contribution payable under the Act.

30. However, the said provisions in my humble opinion are not at all applicable to the case of the petitioners as the provident fund being paid to them is under the "Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers Contribution Provident Fund Rules and not strictly under the Employees Provident Fund Rules or Regulations.

31. Moreover, there is nothing in the EPF & MP Act or the Rules or even the Scheme framed thereunder to even remotely indicate that irrespective of there being any other beneficial scheme framed by the State Government, scheme framed under the Act shall have an over-riding effect. That apart, once respondents No.1 and 2 have themselves implemented the scheme, they cannot now turn around and question the scheme or deny the benefits available thereunder to the petitioners.

32. Even otherwise, the reliance being placed by the respondents on the Central Scheme is totally misplaced as the compulsion envisaged therein and thereunder upon the Employer is to pay atleast minimum wages fixed statutorily which is absolute and no Employer can say that he will not pay such minimum wages and if he does so, then he is liable to be prosecuted as in that event he would be committing an offence. As observed earlier, the scheme nowhere bars or prohibits the applicability of any other scheme which obliges the Employer to contribute a larger amount than the one envisaged and prescribed under the Act, Rules and Scheme framed under the Central Act.

33. Apart from the above, the Act itself provides for exemption from the operation of provisions of the Scheme to an establishment as a whole or its class of employees where the employee is in enjoyment of Provident Fund and the benefits of which are more favourable than the one available under the statutory scheme. The intention of the Legislature was not to reduce those benefits and bring them at par with the Central Legislature. On the contrary, the intention of the Act is, where better benefits are available they should be maintained and continued to be made available to the employees. The grant of exemption under the scheme is only a technical measure but the voluntarily scheme has got to be enforced under the control of the respective Provident Fund Commissioners. Not only the accounts must be maintained, but contributions must be according to credit under the appropriate account. Therefore, in the given facts and circumstances of the case, the ratio as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Marathwada's case (supra) is clearly not applicable to the facts of the instant case.

34. Lastly, it is settled that the scheme of contributory provident fund is a beneficial piece of legislation and confers retiral benefit and is in the nature of a substitute for old age pension for the employees because it was felt that in the prevailing conditions in India, the institution of a pension scheme could not be visualized in the near future and thus the same has to be interpreted in a manner so as to confer maximum advantage on the employees.

35. As a sequel to the aforesaid discussion, there is merit in this petition and the same is accordingly allowed and order passed by respondent No.4 on 23.05.2013 is quashed and set aside. The impugned action of respondents No.1 and 2 whereby the contribution to provident fund of the petitioners has been reduced to 12% of the pay of the petitioners by taking their salary @ Rs. 6500/- per month from June, 2012 is declared illegal and ultra vires to the provisions of the H.P. University Act, 1970, Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations etc. framed thereunder. Respondents No. 1 and 2 are directed to contribute the provident fund of the petitioners @ 12% of the salary with effect from June, 2012 in accordance with the provisions of the Non-Government Affiliated College Teachers' Contributory Provident Fund Rules in the same manner as it was being done prior to June, 2012 with all consequential benefits. The needful be done within three months from today, failing which respondents No.1 and 2 shall be liable to pay interest @ 9% on such amount from the time it fell due i.e. June, 2012 till the date of its actual payment.

36. The petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

LPA No. 162 of 2015
Reserved on: 22.11.2016
Decided on: 06.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Writ petitioner No.2 was appointed as anganwari worker – respondent No.5 questioned her appointment and sought cancellation of income certificate – it was found on inquiry that the income shown in the certificate was incorrect and the income certificate was cancelled – appeal was filed, which was dismissed- a writ petition was filed, which was also dismissed- held in appeal that the question of facts determined by the authority cannot be questioned in the writ petition unless it is shown that the findings recorded are perverse or are based on no evidence or inadmissible evidence – the authorities had thrashed all the facts – the orders are well reasoned and legal, which cannot be said to be erroneous, perverse or suffering from non-application of mind – writ petition was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 15)

For the appellants: Ms. Tim Saran, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and order, dated 4th September, 2015, made by the learned Single Judge/Writ Court in CWP No. 5535 of 2012, titled as Amar Nath and another versus State of Himachal Pradesh & others, whereby the writ petition filed by the appellants-writ petitioners, i.e. Amar Nath, father-in-law of Susheela Devi, and Susheela Devi, came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

3. Susheela Devi, i.e. appellant-writ petitioner No. 2, daughter-in-law of appellant-writ petitioner No. 1, came to be appointed as Anganwari Worker in Ward No. 2, Kharotta, P.O. Berthin, Tehsil Jhandutta, District Bilaspur in the year 2008. Respondent No. 5-Maya Devi questioned the appointment of appellant-writ petitioner No. 2 and also sought cancellation of the income certificate in terms of which the family income of appellant-writ petitioner No. 2 was stated to be ₹ 10,000/-.

4. The Additional District Magistrate, Bilaspur, directed for conducting the inquiry relating to the income certificate issued in favour of appellant-writ petitioner No. 1, i.e. Amar Nath, which was made basis for appointment of appellant-writ petitioner No. 2 as Anganwari Worker. The inquiry was conducted by the Naib Tehsildar, Jhandutta, (Annexure P-2 to the writ petition) who after examining the witnesses and the report submitted by the Patwari Halqa concerned, made the assessment and held that the income of appellant-writ petitioner No. 1 was ₹ 14,000/- per annum and the income recorded in the income certificate issued on 13th June, 2007, was factually incorrect. Further held that the income certificate was to be cancelled, which, resultantly came to be cancelled in terms of order made by the Executive Magistrate, Jhandutta (Annexure P-4 to the writ petition), constraining the appellants-writ petitioners to file appeal before the appellate authority, i.e. Sub Divisional Magistrate, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur.

5. The appellate authority framed three points for consideration and while holding that the inquiry was rightly conducted in terms of the mandate of H.P. Land Record Manual, upheld the order made by the Executive Magistrate, thereby cancelling the income certificate issued in favour of appellant-writ petitioner No. 1 and dismissed the appeal vide order, dated 2nd July, 2012 (Annexure P-6 to the writ petition).

6. Being dissatisfied, the appellants-writ petitioners invoked the jurisdiction of the Writ Court by the medium of writ petition seeking quashment of the inquiry report (Annexure P-2 to the writ petition), order made by the Executive Magistrate, Jhandutta (Annexure P-4 to the writ petition) and order, dated 2nd July, 2012, made by the appellate authority (Annexure P-6 to the writ petition) with a further prayer that the income certificate issued in favour of the appellant-writ petitioner No. 1 on 13th June, 2007, be declared as legal and valid, on the grounds taken in the memo of the writ petition.

7. The Writ Court, after examining the pleadings and the law applicable, dismissed the writ petition vide impugned judgment. Hence, the appeal.

8. The moot question is – whether the Writ Court can examine and determine the question of facts? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

9. The question of facts determined by the authorities cannot be questioned by the medium of writ petitions unless it is shown that the findings recorded are perverse or are based on no evidence or on the evidence, which is inadmissible. The Writ Court can interfere only where it is shown that the authorities have wrongly appreciated the facts and the evidence and the findings are illegal.

10. While going through the orders made by the authorities, it appears that the authorities have thrashed out all the facts, the orders are well reasoned and legal one, cannot be said to be erroneous, perverse or suffering from non-application of mind, in any way.

11. The Apex Court in the case titled as Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi versus M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3157, has held that question of fact cannot be interfered with by the Writ Court unless the findings are perverse, erroneous and without application of mind. However, such findings can be questioned if it is shown that the Tribunal/Court has erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence or has erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned findings. It is apt to reproduce paras 16, 17 and 18 of the judgment herein:

"16. ..... The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are passed by inferior courts or tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the court or tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the court exercising it is not entitled to act as an appellate court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened or questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the inference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised.....

17. The judgments mentioned above can be read with the judgment of this court in Harjinder Singh's case (AIR 2010 SC 1116) (supra), the relevant paragraph of which reads as under:

> "21. Before concluding, we consider it necessary to observe that while exercising jurisdiction under Articles 226 and/or 227 of the Constitution in matters like the present one, the High Courts are duty-bound to keep in mind that the Industrial Disputes Act and other similar legislative instruments are social welfare legislations and the same are required to be interpreted keeping in view the goals set out in the Preamble of the Constitution and the provisions contained in Part IV thereof in general and Articles 38, 39(a) to (e), 43 and 43-A in particular, which mandate that the State should secure a social order for the promotion of welfare of the people, ensure equality between men and women and equitable distribution of material resources of the community to subserve the common good and also ensure that the workers get their dues. More than 41 years ago, Gajendragadkar, J. opined that:
> > "10. ... The concept of social and economic justice is a living concept of revolutionary import; it gives sustenance to the rule of law and meaning and significance to the ideal of welfare State."(State of Mysore v. Workers of Gold Mines, AIR 1958 SC 923 p.928, para 10.)

18. A careful reading of the judgments reveals that the High Court can interfere with an Order of the Tribunal only on the procedural level and in cases, where the decision of the lower courts has been arrived at in gross violation of the legal principles. The High Court shall interfere with factual aspect placed before the Labour Courts only when it is convinced that the Labour Court has made patent mistakes in admitting evidence illegally or have made grave errors in law in coming to the conclusion on facts. The High Court granting contrary relief under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution amounts to exceeding its jurisdiction conferred upon it. Therefore, we accordingly answer the point No. 1 in favour of the appellant." [Emphasis added]

12. Our this view is also fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Iswarlal Mohanlal Thakkar versus Paschim Gujarat Vij Company Ltd. & Anr., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3298. It is apt to reproduce para 9 of the judgment herein:

"9. We find the judgment and award of the labour court well-reasoned and based on facts and evidence on record. The High Court has erred in its exercise of power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India to annul the findings of the labour court in its Award as it is well settled law that the High Court cannot exercise its power under Article 227 of the Constitution as an appellate court or re-appreciate evidence and record its findings on the contentious points. Only if there is a serious error of law or the findings recorded suffer from error apparent on record, can the High Court quash the order of a lower court. The Labour Court in the present case has satisfactorily exercised its original jurisdiction and properly appreciated the facts and legal evidence on record and given a well reasoned order and answered the points of dispute in favour of the appellant. The High Court had no reason to interfere with the same as the Award of the labour court was based on sound and cogent reasoning, which has served the ends of justice.

It is relevant to mention that in the case of Shalini Shyam Shetty & Anr. v. Rajendra Shankar Patil, (2010) 8 SCC 329, with regard to the limitations of the High Court to exercise its jurisdiction under Article 227, it was held in para 49 that-

> "The power of interference under Art.227 is to be kept to a minimum to ensure that the wheel of justice does not come to a halt and the fountain of justice remains pure and unpolluted in order to maintain public confidence in the functioning of the tribunals and courts subordinate to the High Court."

It was also held that-

> "High Courts cannot, at the drop of a hat, in exercise of its power of superintendence under Art. 227 of the Constitution, interfere with the orders of tribunals or courts inferior to it. Nor can it, in exercise of this power, act as a court of appeal over the orders of the court or tribunal subordinate to it."

Thus it is clear, that the High Court has to exercise its power under Article 227 of the Constitution judiciously and to further the ends of justice.

In the case of Harjinder Singh v. Punjab StateWarehousing Corporation, (2010) 3 SCC 192, this Court held that,

> "20. ..... In view of the above discussion, we hold that the learned Single Judge of the High Court committed serious jurisdictional error and unjustifiably interfered with the award of reinstatement passed by the Labour Court with compensation of Rs.87,582 by entertaining a wholly unfounded plea that the appellant was appointed in violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution and the Regulation."

13. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a series of cases.

14. We have gone through the record and are of the view that the appellants-writ petitioners have not been able to made out a case that the findings recorded by the authorities are perverse or based on no evidence or on inadmissible evidence or suffers from non-application of mind or the authority, which had conducted the inquiry, was not competent to do so.

15. Having said so, the Writ Court has rightly held that the findings of fact recorded by the authorities cannot be interfered by the Writ Court.

16. Viewed thus, the impugned judgment is upheld and the appeal is dismissed alongwith all pending applications.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent No. 3 permitted to hire accommodation for hostel purposes instead of creating own permanent built up structure – Chief Secretary directed to file a consolidated status report and to take appropriate action from time to time. (Para-6 & 7)

For the petitioner: Mr. K.B. Khajuria, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with M/s Anup Rattan and Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma, and Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals for respondents No. 1,2,4 and 6 to 18.

Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.3-Board.

Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India with Ms. Sukarma, Advocate for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

By the medium of this writ petition, the petitioner mainly has sought the following reliefs, on the grounds taken therein.

"A. That the records of the case may kindly be called for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court.

B. That the respondent Board may kindly be directed to place on record the decision dated 4.6.2014 with regard to the registration of the Building and other Constructions workers and the same may kindly be ordered to be quashed and set aside being in contravention of law.

C. That the respondent No.4 may kindly be directed to register the Building and other Constructions workers as beneficiary from the date of the submission of the application with all benefits.

D. That the impugned orders dated 31.1.2015 and 16.7.2014, may kindly be quashed and set aside."

2. Directions came to be passed by this Court from time to time and in compliance to the said directions, respondents have filed the status reports.

3. Respondent No.10- Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh has filed the status report on 21st November, 2016, which does disclose that what steps the respondents have taken and what follow-up action they have to draw, in order to comply with the Court directions, passed from time to time.

4. In para 17 of the said status report, it is prayed that the order dated 15.5.2015, may be modified and respondent No. 3 be permitted to hire the accommodation for hostel purpose instead of creating own permanent built up structures, for the reasons given in the said report.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have examined the entire record.

6. Respondent No.3- Board is at liberty to hire accommodation for hostel purpose, as prayed in paragraph 17 of the status report and accordingly, the order dated 15.5.2015, passed by this Court is modified.

7. Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh is directed to file a consolidated status report in compliance to the directions passed by this Court from time to time and follow up action drawn in terms of the status report filed on 21st November, 2016, quarterly before the Registrar (Judicial).

8. The writ petition is accordingly disposed of alongwith pending applications, if any.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff filed a civil suit seeking the specific performance of the agreement to sell the suit land – the defendant denied the claim of the plaintiff- the suit was decreed by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed – held in second appeal that plaintiff has to prove his continuous readiness and willingness to perform the contract from the date of agreement till hearing – plaintiff had pleaded that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, to pay remaining consideration and to bear the expenditure of execution and registration of the sale deed, which is not in accordance with Form 47 and Order 6 Rule 3 of C.P.C – plaintiff had only paid Rs.50,000/- out of Rs.4 lacs agreed to be paid – it was not proved that plaintiff was possessed of balance consideration and was ready to pay the same to the defendant- it was mentioned in the agreement that entire consideration was paid, which is not correct - plaintiff cannot be faulted for not executing the sale deed, in these circumstances – appeal allowed and the suit dismissed with the cost of Rs.20,000/- each.

For the Appellant(s):	Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Dilip Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Umesh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondent No.1, in both the appeals. Mr. G.D.Verma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. B.C. The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since common question of law and fact arise in both these appeals, therefore, they were taken up together for consideration and are being disposed of by a common judgment.

2. Both these regular second appeals have been filed against the judgment and decree dated 01.10.2015 passed by learned Additional District Judge (I), Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 73 of 2015 and Civil Appeal No. 75 of 2015, whereby he affirmed the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court on 16.6.2015 in Civil Suit Nos. 78 of 2008 and 79 of 2008 thereby decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent No.1 herein in both the appeals.

3. Briefly stated, the facts are that the plaintiff/respondent No.1 (hereinafter referred to as the 'plaintiff'), filed a suit for specific performance of the contract with the allegation that defendant No.1/respondent No.2 herein, was owner in possession of the land comprised in Khewat No. 51 min, Khatauni No. 116, Khasra No. 3467/1, measuring 517 sq.mtrs. situated in Muhal Sundernagar/26/8, Tehsil Sundernagar, District Mandi, H.P. He entered into an agreement of sale with the plaintiff on 15.12.2007 for sale of 244 sq.mtrs. of land out of Khasra No. 3467/1 for consideration of Rs. 3,00,000/- and had received Rs. 50,000/- as earnest money. It was averred that subsequently respondent No.2 again demanded more money and sale consideration was raised to Rs. 4,00,000/-, it was in pursuance to the agreement that sale deed was prepared on 7.1.2008 and was duly attested by the witnesses. However, before the same could be registered, respondent No.2 slipped from the office of Sub Registrar and resultantly the sale deed could not be registered. It was also averred that respondent No.2 out of evil intention thereafter executed a sale deed of entire khasra No. 3467/1 in favour of appellant and proforma respondent No.3 on 1.2.2008 out of Khasra No. 3467/1, 273/517 shares measuring 273 sq.mtrs in favour of proforma respondent No.3 (appellant in RSA No. 8 of 2016) and 2444/517 shares measuring 244 sq. mtrs in favour of appellant (proforma respondent No.3 in RSA No. 8 of 2016) for a total consideration of Rs. 9,38,000/- and in this way the agreement to sell was frustrated. It was averred that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform his part of contract and still ready and willing and therefore, the suit be decreed.

4. The appellant filed written statement denying the allegations in the plaint and it was maintained that the appellant was bonafide purchaser for consideration of the suit land under the law. Similar contention was raised by proforma respondent No.3.

5. The learned trial Court on 14.5.2012 framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff and defendant No.1 entered into an agreement for sale of the suit land on 15.12.2007, as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the sale deed dated 7.1.2008 was executed by the defendant No.1 in favour of plaintiff regarding the suit land, as claimed? OPP

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of the defendant No.1 being directed to register the sale deed regarding the suit land in favour of the plaintiff, as claimed? OPP

4. Whether alternatively, the plaintiff is entitled to recovery of Rs.4,00,000/- alongwith costs and interest against defendant No.1, as claimed? OPP

5. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD

6. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action and locus-standi? OPD

7. Whether the plaintiff is guilty of suppression of material fact? If so, its effect? OPD

8. Whether the defendant No.2 is a bonafide purchaser of part of the suit land? OPD2.

9. Whether the defendant No.3 is bonafide purchaser of part of the suit land? OPD3.

10. Relief.

6. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court vide its judgment and decree dated 16.6.2015 decreed both the aforesaid suits and the defendant No.1/respondent No.2 was directed to execute the sale deed in favour of respondent No.1/plaintiff, who in turn was directed to pay the balance sale consideration of Rs. 3,45,000/- within a period of 30 days in each of the cases.

7. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, the appellant filed first appeal in the Court of learned District Judge, Mandi, which ultimately came to be tried by learned Additional District Judge (I), Mandi and was dismissed vide judgment and decree dated 1.10.2015.

8. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned Courts below, the appellant filed the instant second appeal before this Court which was admitted on 10.8.2016 on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether the appellant is a bonafide purchaser for consideration without any notice and finding to issue No.9 is totally wrong?"

9. During the course of hearing, the record revealed that though the plaintiff/respondent No.1 had pleaded that he was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, however, the evidence in this regard appeared to be deficient and accordingly with the consent of the parties, the following additional substantial question of law was framed:

> "Whether the plaintiff/respondent No.1 has proved his continuous readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contact at all stages i.e. from the date of agreement till the date of hearing of the suit?"

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case carefully.

10. At the outset, it may be observed that it is more than settled that the plaintiff has to prove his continuous readiness and willingness to perform his contract at all stages i.e. from the date of the agreement till the date of the hearing of the suit.

11. In Jugraj Singh and another vs. Labh Singh and others AIR 1995 SC 945 the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 3 held that in a suit for specific performance of the contract, the plaintiff must prove continuous readiness and willingness at all stages from the date of the agreement till the date of the hearing of the suit. It is apt to reproduce para 3 of the judgment as under:

> "3. Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 provides that the plaintiff must plead and prove that he has always been ready and willing to perform his part of the essential terms of the contract. The continuous readiness and willingness at all stages from the date of the agreement till the date of the hearing of the suit need to be proved. The substance of the matter and surrounding circumstances and the conduct of the plaintiff must be taken into consideration in adjudging readiness and willingness to perform the plaintiff's part of the contract."

12. In N.P. Thirugnanam (D) by L.Rs vs. Dr. R. Jagan Mohan Rao and others AIR 1996, SC 116, the Hon'ble Supreme court in para 5 of the judgment observed that the plaintiff must from the date of the execution till date of decree prove that he is ready and has always been willing to perform his part of the contract. It is apt to reproduce para-5 of the judgment as under:

"It is settled law that remedy for specific performance is an equitable remedy and is in the discretion of the court, which discretion requires to be exercised according to settled principles of law and not arbitrarily as adumbrated under s.20 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 (for short, 'the Act'). Under s.20, the court is not bound to grant the relief just because there was valid agreement of sale. Section 16(c) of the Act envisages that plaintiff must plead and prove that he had performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than those terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant. The continuous readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff is a condition precedent to grant the relief of specific performance. This circumstance is material and relevant and is required to be considered by the court while granting or refusing to grant the relief. If the plaintiff fails to either aver or prove the same, he must fail. To adjudge whether the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, the court must take into consideration the conduct of the plaintiff prior and subsequent to the filing of the suit along with other attending circumstances. The amount of consideration which he has to pay to the defendant must of necessity be proved to be available. Right from the date of the execution till date of the decree he must prove that he is ready and has always been willing to perform his part of the contract. As stated, the factum of his readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contract is to be adjudged with reference to the conduct of the party and the attending circumstances. The court may infer from the facts and circumstances whether the plaintiff was ready and was always ready and willing to perform his part of contract."

13. Now, adverting to the pleadings with regard to the specific performance, there can be no denial that these have to be in conformity with the form as prescribed by Order 6 Rule 3 CPC in this regard i.e. as given in Clause 3 of Form 47 contained in Appendix 'A'.

14. A careful reading of para 10 of the plaint makes it clear that the averments as contained under Clause 3 is not in stricto sensu complied with by the plaintiff. The same is evident from the averments made in para 10 of the plaint, which reads "that the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract and to pay remaining consideration and to borne the expenditure of execution and registration of the sale deed."

15. The Form No. 47 of Appendix 'A' reads thus:

"No. 47

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE (No.1)

(Title)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:-

1. By an agreement dated the ….day of…..and signed by the defendant, he contracted to buy of [or sell to] the plaintiff certain immovable property therein described and referred to, for the sum of…..rupees.

2. The plaintiff has applied to the defendant specifically to perform the agreement on his part, but the defendant has not done so.

3. The plaintiff has been and still is ready and willing specifically to perform the agreement on his part of which the defendant has had notice.

[As in paras 4 and 5 of Form No.1.]

6. The plaintiff claims that the court will order the defendant specifically to perform the agreement and to do all acts necessary to put the plaintiff in full possession of the said property [or to accept a transfer and possession of the said property] and to pay the costs of the suit."

16. Upon a careful reading of para-10 of the plaint, I have no hesitation to hold that the plaintiff/respondent No.1 have not complied with the legal requirement which is mandatory as provided under Order 6 Rule 3 CPC of the Specific Relief Act.

17. Adverting to the oral evidence led by the plaintiff, while appearing as PW-1 the plaintiff has not even cared to make a whisper regarding his being still ready and willing to perform his part of the contract and it is really not understood as to on what basis have the learned courts below decreed the suit of the plaintiff without the mandatory requirement of law having been proved.

18. Apart from the above, is it really so simple for the plaintiff to allege that defendant No.1/respondent No.2 had fled from the spot in order to avoid performance of his part of contract?

19. Having gone through the records of the case, more particularly pleadings and oral evidence, I entertain no doubt in my mind that both the learned Courts below have failed to appreciate the real controversy in issue. The plaintiff while appearing as PW-1 has categorically admitted as against the sale consideration of Rs. 4,00,000/-, he had paid only a sum of Rs. 50,000/- each in both the cases.

20. There is no evidence led by the plaintiff, rather there is no whisper made by him while appearing as PW-1 that he on the date of registration of the sale deed was possessed of the balance sale consideration of Rs. 3,45,000/- and Rs. 3,45,000/- in each case total Rs. 6,90,000/- and was ready to pay this amount to defendant No.1/respondent No.2. Yet, when he got drafted the sale deed, he incorporated therein a clause to the effect that he i.e. respondent No.1/plaintiff had paid the entire sale consideration to defendant No.1/respondent No.2 and he in lieu of his having received the entire sale consideration had delivered the possession to the plaintiff. Obviously in such circumstances, the defendant No.1/ respondent No.2 had no option but to flee from the office of Sub Registrar or else executed the sale deed which itself was based on the fraud committed by respondent No.1/plaintiff.

21. At this stage, it would necessary to refer to the judgments rendered by both the learned Courts below whereby they came to the conclusion that the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract and the relevant portion of the judgment of the learned trial Court reads thus:

"24. The counsel for the defendants avers that the plea of specific performance is a discretionary relief. The counsel avers that the plea of readiness and willingness is not established by the plaintiff. The counsel further avers that without the plea of readiness and willingness as provided under Section 16 (C) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 no relief of specific performance can be granted in favour of the plaintiff. This plea set up by the counsel for the defendant is without merits. In para No.10 of the plaint, the plaintiff has clearly stated that he is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. Further, the readiness and willingness is more than established when the plaintiff executed the sale deed with defendant No.1, which is Ext.PW-1/B. The agreement to sell Ext.PW-1/A provided for sale consideration of Rs.3,00,000/-, whereas the plaintiff agreed to purchase the suit land for a consideration of Rs.4,00,000/- as per Ext.PW-1/B. Thus, the readiness and willingness of the plaintiff cannot be doubted in the present case. Rather, the plaintiff is more than willing to purchase the suit land as he agreed to higher price as compared to agreement to sell, which is evident from the sale deed Ext.PW-1/B."

Whereas, the relevant portion of the judgment of the learned first Appellate Court reads thus:

"18.....The plaintiff has stated that he is ready to perform his part of contract and he is ready to pay the amount of Rs. 3,50,000/- to the defendant No.1. The sale deed Ext.PW-1/B also shows that the land was sold for Rs. 4,00,000/-. There are signature of Shashi Kumar on sale deed Ext.PW-1/B and agreement Ext.PW-1/A. This Ext.PW-1/A shows that amount of Rs. 50,000/- was paid to the defendant No.1 by plaintiff as PW-1 has stated that he has paid Rs. 5,000/- (Five Thousand) on 1st day of the sale deed. He has also admitted that remaining amount of Rs. 3,50,000/- was to be paid to defendant No.1. The plaintiff is ready to pay the remaining amount to the defendant No.1. The plaintiff is ready to perform his part of the contract and defendant No.1 has not come in the witness box to rebut the evidence of the plaintiff. The plaintiff, therefore, has proved this fact that the defendant had executed the agreement to sell Ext.PW-1/A and sale deed Ext.PW-1/B in favour of the plaintiff. Though in Ext.PW-1/B it has been mentioned that whole amount has been received by the defendant No.1, but it is sincere admission of the plaintiff while coming in witness box and he is ready to pay remaining amount to the defendant No.1. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to the relief of Specific Performance of Contract and Ld. Lower Court has rightly held him entitled for this decree. The Ld. Lower Court has therefore rightly decreed the suit of the plaintiff. Therefore, I do not find any reason to interfere with the judgment passed by the Ld. Lower Court. Hence, this point is decided in affirmative."

22. I am really surprised how the learned Courts below extended time for the payment towards the balance sale consideration when it was not even proved on record that he had been ready and willing and was still ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. The learned Courts below appear to have been unnecessarily influenced and prejudiced because the defendant No.1/respondent No.2 had fled away from the office of the Sub Registrar, little realizing his compulsion and complications that would arisen in case he would have executed the sale deed without receiving the balance sale consideration.

23. Conversely, it was incumbent upon the plaintiff to have led sufficient evidence to indicate that on the day when the sale deed was to be registered and the defendant No.1/respondent No.2 had fled from the office of Sub Registrar, he was possessed of the balance sale consideration or that he had actually handed over the balance sale consideration and it was after receipt thereof that defendant No.1/ respondent No.2 had fled from the office of the Sub Registrar. Rather, it is admitted by the plaintiff that he had not paid the balance sale consideration of Rs. 3,45,000/- in each of the cases i.e. total Rs. 6,90,000/- to the defendant No.1/respondent No.2.

24. On the basis of the aforesaid discussion, it can conveniently be held that there was no subsisting contract between the plaintiff and defendant No.1/respondent No.2 which could be enforced in a court of law and obviously therefore, the appellants in both the cases are purchasers for valid consideration and question of their being bonafide in fact does not arise as there is neither any subsisting agreement or contract between the plaintiff and defendant No.1/respondent No.2, rather, it was the plaintiff/respondent No.1, who by dubious means wanted to get the sale deed executed, that too, without paying a single paisa of balance sale consideration of Rs. 3,45,000/- in each case i.e. total Rs. 6,90,000/-.

25. As a sequel to my aforesaid discussion, I have no hesitation to hold that the suits filed by the plaintiff were nothing but an abuse of the process of law and unfortunately both the learned Courts below did not apply their judicial mind to the real issue in controversy and decreed the suit and even the appeal filed against the same was ordered to be decreed. Even the bare provisions of the Specific Relief Act and the essential pre-requisites as are required to be proved in a case of specific performance of contract, were conveniently ignored. Even otherwise, the plaintiff has not approached the Court with clean hands which is pre-requisite for maintaining a suit for specific relief of agreement to sell.

26. Having said so, I find merit in both the appeals and the same are allowed with special costs quantified at Rs. 20,000/- each in each case to be paid by the plaintiff/respondent No.1 to the appellant(s).

Cr. Revision No. 219 of 2011
Decided on : December 6, 2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 338- Accused was driving the bus in a rash and negligent manner- bus rolled down in a gorge and the passengers sustained injuries – accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in revision that accident was not disputed – it was also not disputed that the accused was driving the bus – only one witness had supported the prosecution version – he admitted in cross-examination that it took about 50-55 minutes for the bus to cover the distance of 12 kilometers, which shows that bus was being driven in a normal speed- rash and negligence driving was not proved, in these circumstances- the accused was wrongly convicted by the Courts- appeal allowed- judgments of the trial Court and Appellate Court set aside and accused acquitted.

Present criminal revision petition filed under Sections 397 CrPC is directed against judgment dated 30.8.2011 rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi, HP in Criminal Appeal No. 45 of 2010, upholding the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.2, Mandi, HP in Police Challan No. 190-I/2003, 119-II/2003, holding petitioner-accused (herein after, 'accused') guilty of having committed offence under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC and convicting and sentencing the accused as per the description given herein below:

"1. To undergo simple imprisonment for six months and to pay a fine of Rs.500/- (five hundred only) and in case of non payment of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for one month for commission of offence under Section 279 of Indian Penal Code.

2. To undergo simple imprisonment for six months and to pay a fine of Rs.500/- (five hundred only) and in case of non-payment of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for one month for commission of offence under Section 337 of Indian Penal Code.

3. To undergo rigorous imprisonment for nine months and to pay a fine of Rs.1,000/-(one thousand only) and in case of non payment of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for two month for commission of offence under section 338 of Indian Penal Code.

4. It is however ordered and directed that sentences of substantive imprisonment shall run concurrently. The sentence in case of non payment of fine shall run independently."

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from the record are that the complainant namely Netar Singh made a statement that on 25.3.2003 at 5.45 pm, he boarded a private bus (Bharat Service) bearing No. HP-32-4140 in order to go to his house. There were 25-30 passengers. When at around 6.15, the bus reached near Bajeer Bain, it rolled down in a gorge, as a result of which, he as well as other passengers suffered injuries. Complainant, further complained that at the relevant time, vehicle in question was being driven by the accused in rash and negligent manner and in high speed. On the basis of aforesaid statement, police sent a Rukka, on the basis of which, FIR No. 96/2003 dated 25.3.2003 came to be registered at Police Station Balh, District Mandi. Police after completion of codal formalities, submitted challan in the Court against the accused under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC. Learned trial Court, on being satisfied that prima facie case exists against the accused, put notice of accusation to him, to which he pleaded no guilty and claimed trial. Subsequently, learned trial Court, on the basis of material adduced by the prosecution, convicted and sentenced the accused under sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC, as per description given above. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment of learned trial Court, accused filed an appeal before the Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi, under Section 374 CrPC, which was also dismissed. In the aforesaid background, accused has approached this Court by way of instant petition, praying therein for acquittal after setting aside the judgments of the Courts below.

3. Mr. Rohit Chauhan, Advocate, vehemently argued that the judgments passed by the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based on correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record and as such same deserve to be set aside. Mr. Chauhan, while referring to the judgments passed by the Courts below, strenuously argued that the Courts below have not appreciated the evidence in its right perspective, rather judgments are based on conjectures and surmises and as such same can not be allowed to sustain. Mr. Chauhan, during arguments having been made by him, made this Court to travel through the depositions have been made by the prosecution witnesses, to demonstrate that no conviction could be imposed by the Court below on the set of evidence having been adduced by the prosecution, because there were material contradictions and majority of prosecution witnesses had turned hostile. While referring to the statement of PW-1, Netar Singh, Mr. Chauhan, stated that even the complainant, nowhere stated with regard to specific speed of the vehicle at the relevant time, as such, Courts below erred in concluding that at the relevant time, vehicle in question was being driven in rash and negligent manner by the accused, that too at a high speed. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Chauhan, forcefully contended that the learned Courts below miserably failed to take note of the fact that at the relevant time, one cow had come before the bus, as a result of which, accused had to take sudden turn. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Chauhan prayed that accused may be acquitted of the charges framed against him by setting aside the judgments of the Courts below.

4. Mr. Ramesh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, supported the judgments passed by the learned Courts below. Mr. Thakur, while referring to the judgments passed by the Courts below, vehemently argued that there is no scope of interference, whatsoever by this Court, especially in view of the concurrent findings of facts and law recorded by both the learned Courts below. Mr. Thakur, while inviting attention of the Court to the judgments forcefully argued that each and every aspect of the matter has been dealt with meticulously by the Courts below while recording conviction of accused and as such there is no merit in the present petition and the same deserves to be dismissed. With a view to refute the contentions having been put forth on behalf of the petitioner, Mr. Thakur, stated that bare perusal of statement of PW-1 Netar Singh (Complainant) suggests that at the relevant time, vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently at a high speed by the accused, as such, there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgments passed by the Courts below, and as such, same deserve to be upheld. Mr. Thakur, while concluding his arguments reminded this Court of its limited jurisdiction under Section 397 as far as re-appreciation of evidence is concerned. Learned Additional Advocate General, has placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in case State of Kerala versus Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999)2 Supreme Court Cases 452, wherein it has been held as under:-

> " In its revisional jurisdiction, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceedings for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order. In other words, the jurisdiction is one of supervisory jurisdiction exercised by the High Court for correcting miscarriage of justice. But the said revisional power cannot be equated with the power of an appellate court nor can it be treated even as a second appellate jurisdiction. Ordinarily, therefore, it would not be appropriate for the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence and come to its own conclusion on the same when the evidence has already been appreciated by the Magistrate as well as Sessions Judge in appeal, unless any glaring feature is brought to the notice of the High Court which would otherwise tantamount to gross miscarriage of justice."

5. I have heard learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

6. True, it is that while exercising the power under Section 397 of Criminal Procedure Code, this Court has very limited power to re-appreciate the evidence available on record. But in the present case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced under Sections 279, 337,338 of the Indian Penal Code, this Court solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not perverse and the same are based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record, undertook an exercise to critically examine the evidence available on record to reach fair and just decision in the case.

7. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another*, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

8. During the proceedings of this case, this court had an occasion to peruse the entire evidence on record, perusal whereof suggests that the Courts below have erred in recording conviction against the accused that too on the basis of contradictory and inconsistent pleas having been taken by the prosecution witnesses. However, this court solely with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the submission having been made by the learned counsel for the respective parties, undertook an exercise to critically examine the evidence available on record to ensure that the judgments passed by the learned Courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record.

9. It is undisputed that on 25.3.2003, vehicle bearing registration No. HP-32-4140, in which 25-30 passengers were traveling, met with an accident, as a result of which, PW-1 Netar Singh (Complainant) and other persons suffered injuries. It is also undisputed that the vehicle at that time was being driven by the accused, who, while recording his statement under Section 313 CrPC, claimed himself to be innocent, though he did not lead any evidence in his defence. But careful perusal of the evidence available on record suggests that during the proceedings of the case, defence of the accused was that since one cow had suddenly emerged before the bus, he had to take a right turn, as a result of which, bus fell in a gorge. In the present case, prosecution has examined as many as 12 witnesses to prove its case. But careful perusal of judgments passed by learned Courts below as well as evidence available on record clearly suggests that except for PW-1 Netar Singh (complainant), none of the material prosecution witnesses supported the prosecution case. Apart from PW-1, Netar Singh, there are two material witnesses i.e. PW-2 Dhaneshwari Devi and PW-3 Durga Dass, who at the relevant time, were also traveling in the same bus alongwith complainant, Netar Singh, whereas PW-5 Pawan Kumar is a witness of recovery, PW-6 is Parvati, PW-7 Om Parkash has prepared challan, and PW-8 Dr. P.K. Soni, has examined the injured and rendered his opinion in the shape of MLC (Ext. PB). PW-9 Deepak Kumar is also a witness of recovery and PW-10 Dina Nath has conducted investigation. PW-12 Breastu Ram has conducted mechanical examination of the vehicle in question.

10. Close scrutiny of the judgments passed by learned Courts below suggests that the Courts below, while recording conviction against accused have placed heavy reliance on the statement of PW-1 Netar Singh as well as documentary evidence available in the shape of photographs and spot map adduced on record by the prosecution. PW-1 Netar Singh in his deposition before the Court stated that he was traveling in the bus. When it came near Bajir Bain, it fell down. It is stated that at the relevant time, accused was driving the vehicle at a high speed, which caused the accident. In his cross-examination, he stated that the bus started from Ner Chowk at 5 pm. He also stated that it took about 4-5 minutes to board the passengers. He also stated that the vehicle stopped for 3-4 minutes near Galma Pull, Kotlu and Lakhwan. It has come in his statement that the distance between Ner Chowk and Bajeer Bowri was about 12 Kms and bus took about 50-55 minutes to cover the distance. PW-1 Netar Singh has admitted in his cross-examination that it took about 50-55 minutes for the bus to cover a distance of 12 kms, meaning thereby that by no stretch of imagination, it can be concluded that at the relevant time, bus was being driven in a rash and negligent manner and at a high speed, rather this Court, after carefully examining the aforesaid aspect of distance as well as speed, as projected by PW-1 Netar Singh, in his statement, is of the view that vehicle in question was being driven at a normal speed at the relevant time. Similarly, PW-6 Parvati Devi, in her statement, stated that on hearing noise, she reached the spot. In her cross-examination, she denied the suggestion put to her that accused was driving vehicle at a high speed and vehicle fell down due to rash and negligent driving of accused. She, in her cross-examination, further stated that there is a Bowri near the place of accident, which certainly does not prove the case of the prosecution.

11. PW-2 Dhaneshwari Devi, has also not supported the case of the prosecution. She was declared hostile. In her cross-examination by the learned APP, she categorically denied that at the relevant time, accused was driving the vehicle at higher speed and vehicle fell down due to negligence of the accused. She stated that the vehicle had fallen towards its side. She also admitted that the accident had occurred due to colpase of Danga.

12. PW-3 Durga Dass has also not supported the case of the prosecution. Accordingly, he was declared hostile. In his cross-examination, he denied that accused was driving vehicle in rash and negligent manner and he was unable to control the vehicle due to high speed. He further stated in his cross-examination, that accident had taken place while saving some stray animal, which had come on road. As per record available, aforesaid prosecution witnesses were the only eye-witnesses, who witnessed the accident but interestingly, except PW-1 Netar Singh, none of the prosecution witnesses has stated that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of accused.

13. Similarly, none of the aforesaid prosecution witnesses has stated that at the relevant time, they saw accused driving bus at a high speed, rather, their cross-examination, if read in its entirety, suggests that vehicle was being driven at a normal speed.

14. PW-1 Netar Singh, complainant, on whose statement, Courts below have placed strong reliance, has also not supported the prosecution case because, in his own statement, as discussed above, he has categorically stated that the bus took almost 50-55 minutes to cover distance of 12 kms. If, for the sake of arguments, it is presumed that during these 50-55 minutes, bus had deboarded passengers at the stations as narrated by PW-1, at Galma Pull, Kotlu and Lakhwan, 10 minutes can be deducted from 55 minutes, meaning thereby that bus took 45 minutes to cover distance of 12 kms, which can be easily covered in 45 minutes. If bus took 45 minutes to cover distance of 12 kms, no man of ordinary prudence can say that vehicle was being driven in a rash and negligent manner.

15. Moreover, there is another aspect of the matter, which suggests that there was no specific evidence led on record by the prosecution suggestive of the fact that vehicle in question was being driven in a rash and negligent manner at a high speed. None of the prosecution witnesses has stated anything specifically with regard to the speed of the vehicle at the relevant time, which is essential for determining rashness and negligence on the part of accused. Though, PW-1 Netar Singh, who only supported the case of the prosecution, in his statement, stated that the vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently at a high speed but he himself stated/admitted that it took 50-55 minutes for the bus to cover a distance of 12 kms, which falsifies the stand of the prosecution that bus was being driven in a rash and negligent manner at that time.

16. True it is that the prosecution by way of leading convincing evidence on record was able to prove the injuries suffered by PW-1 Netar Singh as well as other passengers, who were traveling in the bus at that time, but same may not be sufficient to record conviction against accused, who at the relevant time was driving bus in question.

17. Since the prosecution has miserably failed to prove that the bus in question was being driven rashly and negligently and at high speed, this Court is unable to accept the findings of the learned Courts below, which are totally based upon the statement of PW-1 Netar Singh as well as documents i.e. photographs and spot map because once rashness and negligence on the part of accused has not been duly proved, no conviction could be recorded on the basis of material available on record.

18. Apart from above, none of the prosecution witnesses has specifically stated with regard to speed of the vehicle and as such, no finding could be returned by the court below on mere statement of complainant that at that relevant time vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently. Had any prosecution witness stated something with regard to specific speed, it could be the best piece of evidence for the Court to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the claim of the complainant with regard to rash and negligent driving of the petitioner-accused.

19. At this stage, reliance is placed on judgment rendered our own High Court in case titled Akshay Kumar v. State of HP, Latest HP LJ 2009 HP 72, relevant para of which reads as under:-

> "8. In fact, an injury shall be deemed to be negligently caused whomsoever it is willfully caused, but results from want of reasonable caution, in the undertaking and doing of any act either without such skill, knowledge or ability as is suitable to consequences of such act, or when it results from the not exercising reasonable manner of using them or from the doing of any act without using reasonable caution for the prevention of mischief, of from the omitting to do any act which is hazarding a dangerous or wanton act with the knowledge that it is so and that it may cause injury, but without an intention to cause injury or knowledge that it will be probably caused. The criminality lies in running the risk of doing such an act with recklessness or indifference as to the consequences. Rash and negligent act may be described as criminal rashness negligence. It must be more than mere carelessness or error of judgment."
> The courts below did not appreciate the above facts that there was debris on the side of the road on the curve due to the slip, while negotiating the curve, as stated above, some witnesses have admitted that the danga gave way to the bus which caused the accident and the rash and negligent driving by the petitioner is also denied, therefore, it find that the findings of quilt arrived at against the petitioner by both the courts below were not based upon legal and proper appreciation of evidence. In the circumstances aforesaid, the petitioner cannot be said to have criminal rashness or negligence, thus he is entitled for the benefit of doubt as two views were deducible from the evidence on record."

20. Reliance is placed upon judgment of this Court reported in Gurcharan Singh versus State of Himachal Pradesh 1990 (2) ACJ 598, the relevant paragraphs of which are reproduced here-in-below:-

> "14. Adverting to the facts of this case, it is in evidence that the truck in question was loaded with fertilizer weighing 90 quintals. Obviously, it cannot be said that the speed of the vehicle was very fast. Secondly, it is a State Highway and not a National Highway. Therefore, the speed on this account as well cannot be considered to be high.
> "15. Coming to the statements of witnesses on this aspect, it has been stated that the truck was moving in high speed but it has not been said as to what that speed actually was. To say that a vehicle was moving in a high speed is neither a proper and legal evidence on high speed nor in any way indicates thereby the rashness on the part of the driver. The prosecution should have been exact on this aspect as speed of the vehicle is an essential point to be seen and proved in a case under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code. Further, there are no skid marks which eliminate the evidence of high speed of the vehicle. In addition to this, it has been stated by the witnesses that the vehicle stopped at a distance of 50 feet from the place of accident. This appears to be exaggerated. However, it is not a long distance looking to the two points; viz, the first impact of the accident and the last tyres of the vehicle and the total length of the body of the truck in question. If seen from these angles, the distance stated by the witnesses cannot be considered to be very long and thus an indication of high speed. The version of the petitioner that he blew the horn near about the place of curve which frightened the child, cannot be considered to be without substance. This can otherwise be reasonably inferred that the petitioner would have blown the horn on seeing the child on the road as it is in evidence that the child had come on the pucca portion of the road while there is no evidence as to whether the witnesses, more particularly, Ghanshyam, PW7, Chander Kanta, PW8, mother, and a few other witnesses were there at that particular time. Rather the depositions of these witnesses indicate that they were coming from some village lane which was joining the main road in question. Children of this age, usually crafty by temperament, move faster than the parents and are in advance of them while walking. This appears to have happened in the present case. Minute examination of the circumstances of this case and the evidence brought on the record, discloses that the deceased had reached the pucca portion of the road much before the arrival of his parents and the witnesses. That is why in their deposition they have said that the child had been run over by the truck. On the other hand, the petitioner has stated that horn by him and started crossing the road which could not be seen by him and the result was the accident and the death of the child. In case some pedestrians suddenly cross a road, the driver of the vehicle cannot save the pedestrian, however slow he may be driving the vehicle. In such a situation he cannot be held negligent; rather it appears that the parents of the child were negligent in not taking proper care of the child and allowed him to come alone to the road while they were somewhere behind and they could have rushed to pull back the child before the approaching vehicle came in contact with him as it is in their depositions that the truck driver was at a distance coming at a high speed and in case the child wanted to cross the road, it could do so within the time it reached at the place of the accident. How the accident has actually taken place, has not been clearly and comprehensively stated by any of the witnesses. They appear to have been prejudiced by the act of the driver. Their versions are, therefore, coloured by the ultimate act of the petitioner and the fact that the child had been finished."

21. In the aforesaid case, Hon'ble Court while passing aforesaid judgment has observed that "prosecution should have been exact on this aspect as speed of the vehicle is an essential point to be seen and proved under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code". Definitely, there cannot be any quarrel with regard to the aforesaid observations made by the Court. But now question arises as to what can be the method/mode for measuring the exact speed of the offending vehicle at the time of accident, undisputedly, in the present case, engine of offending vehicle after falling in gorge must have stopped, no help at all could be taken from speedometer to ascertain the exact speed of the vehicle at the relevant time. To my mind, in the aforesaid situation, the eye witnesses of the accident could be the best persons to depose whether offending vehicle was in high speed or not. Apart from above, aspect of high speed can be gauged from the side/direction of the offending vehicle and certainly an inference of its being driven rashly and negligently on high speed can be drawn by perusing spot map, photographs and mechanical reports, which may point towards the force/impact, as supporting evidence. But obviously, in the absence of some specific mode to gauge the speed, only eye witnesses to the accident can be the best persons to depose the high speed/actual speed of the vehicle. In the instant case, as has been discussed in detail, none of the prosecution witness has stated anything with regard to specific speed of the offending vehicle, rather all the prosecution witnesses in one way or the other, have admitted that vehicle in question was being driven in normal speed by the petitioner accused and as such, no finding could be returned by the court below that vehicle in question was being driven at high speed by the petitioner accused at that relevant time.

22. Consequently in view of the detailed discussion as well as law referred to herein above, this Court sees substantial force in the contentions put forth on behalf of the petitioner and as such, present petition is allowed. Accordingly, judgments passed by the Courts below are set-aside. Accused is acquitted of the charges so framed against him. Bail bonds of the accused are discharged. Interim orders, if any, are vacated. All applications, if any, also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Smt. Khuri .....Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh and another .....Respondents

CWP No. 4742 of 2011
Decided on : December 6, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Land of the petitioner was used for the construction of the road without acquisition - assurance was made to acquire the land but no steps were taken for acquisition – the respondent stated that the road was constructed on the persistent demand of the Villagers- it was denied that any objection was raised by the petitioner – held, that the road was constructed in the year 1991 - no document was placed on record to show that the land was donated by the petitioner or that there was implied consent of the petitioner – the petition allowed – respondent directed to pay admissible compensation to the petitioner. (Para-8 to 13)

Case referred:
State of Maharastra Vs Digamber (AIR 1995) SC 1991 and 1995 4 SCC 683
K.B. Ramachandra Raje v. State of Karnataka, (2016) 3 SCC 422

For the petitioner : Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Senior Advocate with Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral):

By way of instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has prayed for following main relief(s):

> "It is therefore prayed that the writ petition may kindly be allowed and appropriate writ, order or direction be issued to the respondents for initiating acquisition proceedings in respect to land measuring about 3 bighas used for the construction of road bearing Kh no 411 and 413 kita 2, measuring 00-13-61 hecters, situated at Mohal / Mauza Madhole , Tehsil Jubbal, Distt. Shimla, H.P. used in the year 1995 and made functional in 2007 in the interest of justice and fair play."

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from record are that land belonging to the petitioner, description whereof is available in para-4 of the petition, has been used by the respondents for the construction of road namely Mandhol-Khara Pathar-Patsai road in the year 1993 and it was completed in 2007. Petitioner has specifically averred in the petition that for the construction of aforesaid road, land of the petitioner has been used by the respondents without there being any acquisition of land. Pleadings further suggest that the petitioner, at the time of construction of road, raised objection and prayed that before starting construction of road, steps may be initiated for acquiring the land in accordance with Land Acquisition Act (in short, 'Act'). It also emerges from the record that on the assurance having been given by the respondent Department, petitioner allowed department concerned to construct the road through the land without there being acquisition of the land in terms of the Act. Pleadings further suggest that petitioner was assured by the representatives of the Department that acquisition proceedings would be started and amount of compensation would be paid in accordance with law. In the aforesaid background, petitioner allowed road to be constructed through the land as described in the petition but after the construction of the road, where now vehicles ply, no steps, whatsoever, were taken by the respondents for acquiring the land, admittedly, having been used by them for the construction of aforesaid road. It also emerges from the record that the petitioner made several requests to the authorities for initiating process for acquisition of land and payment of compensation thereafter, but despite that, no action was taken and as such petitioner was compelled to file present petition, for the redressal of her grievances praying therein for reliefs as reproduced herein above.

3. Respondents, pursuant to issuance of notice by this Court, filed a detailed reply refuting therein the claim of petitioner. Respondents, in their reply, submitted that the rural link road namely Mandhol-Khara Pathar-Patsai from KM 0/0 to 10/0 was proposed to be constructed under State Head during 1985 to facilitate the public of the area upon their popular demand to take their horticulture produce to the market by providing road connectivity. Work of the construction of road was started in 1985 from Magawta side and completed upto KM 4/810 upto village Madot in the year 1990-91. Land of the petitioner falls between RD 4/500 to 4/810 and cutting work through this portion of land as per MB (Measurement Book) entries (JD No. 1318 Page 4 to 7) has been completed during 1990-91. Respondents also placed on record copies of MB's suggestive of the fact that land in question was actually used by the respondent Department for the construction of road. It also emerges from annexure R-1 that at the relevant time, entries were made by the concerned officer in the MB. However, respondents categorically denied the contentions having been put forth on behalf of the petitioner that he had objected to the construction of road through his land, rather, respondents have stated that the road in question was constructed on the 'persistent demand' of people of area. It would be apt to reproduced herein following para of the reply filed by the respondents:

> "2. That in this behalf it is respectfully submitted that rural link road namely Mandhol-Khara Pathar-Patsai road from km 0/0 to 10/0 was proposed to be constructed under state head during the year 1985 to facilitate the public of the area upon their popular demand to take their Horticultural produce to the market by providing road connectively. The work of construction of road was started in the year 1985 from Magawta side and completed up to K.M. 4/810 up to village Madot in the year 1990-91. The suit land of petitioner falls between RD 4/500 to 4/810 km and cutting work through this portion of suit land of petitioner as per MB entries (No. JD-1318 page 4 to 7) has been completed during 1990-91. The copy of MB entries is annexed as Annexure R-1. Needless to point out that none of the land owners including petitioner ever objected at the time of construction of road by the contractor through suit land. Thereafter, upon the persistent demand of the people of area, the remaining road i.e. from km 4/810 to 10/0 was started in the year 2002 and completed in the year, 2007. However, the work of construction of this road upto km 4/810 was completed during the year, 1990-91 and since then the villagers including petitioner has been utilizing the "usufruct" of this connectively upto 4/810 km by plying their vehicles. In fact, to provide connectivity to rural areas, the govt. of HP had formed a policy vide which land is to be donated by the land owners free of cost. Therefore, now the petitioner has raised dispute after an inordinate delay of about 30 years from the date of construction of road through her suit land i.e. in the year, 1990-91 when cutting work was done. Hence, the present writ petition is not maintainable as the petitioner has raised this highly disputed question of law and facts with respect to the land compensation on account of the use of suit land which otherwise cannot be adjudicated in a Civil Writ Petition having lost his remedy of filing a civil suit on the ground of limitation. As such at this belated stage the same being barred on the ground delay and latches as per the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case State of Maharastra Vs Digamber (AIR 1995) SC 1991 and 1995 4 SCC 683 and recently followed up by the majority verdict of full bench of our Hon'ble High court on 2.3.2013 in CWP No.

1966/2010 titled as Shankar Dass vs State of HP & ors connected matters. Hence, the present petition deserves its dismissal on this ground alone."

4. Perusal of aforesaid para of reply clearly suggests that the land of the petitioner was used for construction of road and entries were recorded in the MB. Aforesaid averments contained in the reply support the contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner that at the time of construction of road, concerned officer while recording measurements in MB, repeatedly assured the petitioner that the land in question would be acquired in accordance with law and she would be paid compensation in terms of measurement recorded in the MB. While praying for rejection of the claim of the petitioner, respondents in their reply have categorically stated that the claim at such a belated stage can not be accepted and as such present petition may be dismissed on the grounds of delay and laches.

5. Mr. B.S. Chauhan, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate, vehemently argued that perusal of reply of the respondents, clearly suggests that land of the petitioner was used by the respondents for the construction of the road in question that too without there being any payment of compensation. He, while placing reliance on annexure R-1, placed on record by the respondents, strenuously argued that it clearly suggests that at the time of construction of road, measurements were recorded in the MB and repeated assurances were given to the petitioner that let the road be completed and then steps would be taken for acquisition of land and due and admissible compensation would be paid. While refuting the contentions raised by the respondents, with regard to delay in filing the petition, Mr. Chauhan, placed reliance upon judgment passed by the Apex Court in Raj Kumar vs. State of H.P. and ors in SLP(C) No. 2373 of 2014 decided on 29.10.2015, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held that once user of land owned by the petitioner is not denied by the State in the counter affidavit filed before the High Court, plea of delay, may not be available to the respondents simply for denying legitimate claim of the person, who gave his land for the construction of road. Mr. Chauhan, further placed reliance on the judgment passed by this Court in a bunch of cases i.e. CWP No. 2067 of 2008 Birbal versus State of H.P. and others and connected matters, wherein, in the similar facts and circumstances, this Court directed the respondents to complete the proceedings under Land Acquisition Act for acquisition of the land of the petitioner, therein, within six months from the date of passing of the judgment and thereafter to pay due and admissible compensation.

6. Mr. Ramesh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, vehemently opposed aforesaid prayer having been made on behalf of the petitioner. Mr. Thakur strenuously argued that that no compensation as claimed in the present petition can be awarded to the petitioner at this belated stage because there is no document suggestive of the fact that after the construction of road, petitioner, at any point of time, made request to the authorities for the acquisition of land and payment of compensation. Mr. Thakur, while admitting that road in question was constructed through the land of the petitioner, stated that same was constructed on the popular demand of the people of area, who repeatedly requested the Government to construct road for their convenience and they themselves offered their land for the construction of road and as such, at this belated stage, petitioner can not be allowed to claim compensation qua same land. Mr. Thakur also placed reliance upon judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case State of Maharastra Vs Digamber (AIR 1995) SC 1991 and 1995 4 SCC 683, which was followed by a Full Bench of this Court on 2.3.2013 in CWP No. 1966 of 2010 Shankar Dass versus State of H.P. and another. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Thakur, prayed that the instant petition deserves to be dismissed on the ground of delay and laches.

7. I have heard learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

8. True, it is that in the judgment passed by the Full Bench of this Court in Shankar Dass versus State of H.P. and others, it was held that in cases where State has not taken steps under Land Acquisition Act for the purpose of construction of road on the ground that required land had been willingly surrendered, either orally or otherwise or with the implied or express consent of the owners at the relevant time, they can invoke jurisdiction refuting such express or implied consent or the stand of the State on voluntary surrender, only within the time within which such a relief can be claimed in a Civil Suit. Once such a question is thus raised in a Writ Petition, the same can be considered in the Writ Petition itself.

9. Careful perusal of pleadings as well as documents clearly suggests that land of the petitioner was used by the respondents for the construction of road in question in the year 1991 and it is also not disputed that no steps were taken by the respondents for the acquisition of land and thereafter for paying compensation in lieu of the land used by them for the construction of road. Interestingly, respondents in the present case neither in their reply nor in the oral submissions having been made at the time of hearing, disputed that the land of the petitioner was not used for the construction of road, rather, respondents took a very strange plea that since no objections were raised by the petitioner during construction of road, she can not be allowed to put forth claim for payment of compensation at this belated stage. Respondents, though have taken plea of delay and laches but no document worth the name has been placed on record to refute plea of petitioner that she had been repeatedly requesting the respondents to acquire land in question in accordance with law. As per the own case of the respondents, work of construction of road was started in 1985 from Magawta and completed upto KM 4/810 upto village Madot in the year 1990-91. Though respondents, in their reply, have taken stand that road in question was constructed upon the persistent demand of people of the area, but there is no document available on record suggestive of the fact that prayer for construction of road was ever made by the petitioner as well as other villagers, as is claimed by the respondents in their reply. Further, perusal of reply suggests that the construction of road in question though was started in the year 1985 but same was completed in 2007. Respondents have categorically stated in their reply that the work of construction of road upto KM 4/810 was completed in 1990-91 but since villagers including petitioner, had been utilizing 'usufruct' of the connectivity upto 4/810 by plying their vehicles, which was completed in the year 2007. Reply also suggests that there is a policy of the Government to construct road on land which may be donated by the owners. But it may be again stated that neither there is any pleading nor document available on record suggestive of the fact that land in question was donated by the petitioner for the purpose of construction of road. Averments contained in the writ petition suggest that the land of the petitioner as well as co-owners was used for the construction of road, which was completed in 2007. There is no rebuttal to aforesaid assertion having been made by the petitioner in the writ petition.

10. In the instant case, this Court, after carefully perusing the reply having been filed by the respondents, is of the view that respondents have not been able to make out a case that petitioner willingly surrendered her land either orally or otherwise, with implied or express consent, at the time of construction of road, as such with due respect, this Court is of the view that the judgments passed by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Shankar Dass (Supra), may not be applicable in the present case. In the present case, respondents have not stated anything in their reply, from where it can be inferred that land in question was either donated by the petitioner for the construction of the road or there was any kind of implied consent on her part for using her land for the construction of road in question. The Hon'ble Coordinate Bench of this Court while dealing with the similar issue in CWP No. 128 of 2003 decided on 25.7.2007, titled "Mathu Ram v. State of HP and Ors.", wherein land was used for construction of road and compensation was paid to the similar situate persons, directed the respondents to initiate acquisition proceedings for acquisition of land of the persons and to pay compensation in accordance with law. As far as contention put forth by the respondents with regard to the inordinate delay in maintaining the petition as well as compensation is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in case title Raj Kumar v. State of HP and Ors. in SLP(C) No 2373 of 2014 decided on 29.10.2015, held as under:-

> "There is in our opinion considerable merit in the submission made by Mr. Nag. It is true that the appellant had approached the High Court rather belatedly inasmuch the land had been utilized sometime in the year 1985-86 while the writ petition was filed by the appellant in the year 2009. At the same time it is clear from the pleadings in the case at hand that the user of the land owned by the appellant is not denied by the State in the counter affidavit filed before the High Court of that filed before us. It is also evident from the averments made in the counter affidavit that the state has not sought any donation in its favour either by the appellant or his predecessor in interest during whose life time the road in question was constructed. All that is stated in the counter affidavit is that the erstwhile owner of the land "might have donated" the land to the State Government. In the absence of any specific assertion regarding any such donation or documentary evidence to support the same, we are not inclined to accept the ipsit dixit suggesting any such donation. If that be so as it indeed it, we fail to appreciate why the State should have given up the land acquisition proceedings initiated by it in relation to the land of the appellant herein. The fact that the State Government had initiated such proceedings is not in dispute nor is it disputed that the same were allowed to lapse just because the road had in the meantime been taken under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojna. It is also not in dispute that for the very same road the land owned by Kanwar Singh another owner had not only been notified for acquisition but duly paid for in terms of Award No. 10 of 2008. In the totality of the above circumstances, the offer made by Mr. Nag to the effect that the appellant would be satisfied if he is paid compensation at the rate determined and paid to Kanwar Singh under Award No. 10 of 2008 appears to be reasonable. That is so especially when the compensation in terms of Award No. 10 of 2008 was determined by reference to a Notification issued nearly 10 years ago The fact that the appellant is giving up his claim for any compensation for wrongful utilization of land and to the payment of interest which is otherwise statutorily prescribed makes the offer still more attractive for the State."

11. Further, Mr. Chauhan, has relied upon judgment rendered by Apex Court in K.B. Ramachandra Raje v. State of Karnataka reported in (2016) 3 SCC 422, wherein it has been held as under:

"15. According to the learned counsels for the respondents the writ petition is inordinately delayed. The writ petition has been filed in the year 1994 though the acquisition of land was finalized in the year 1988 and, in fact, the possession of the land to the respondent No.28-Society was handed over as far back as on 26th September, 1988. It is further pointed out that the fact that the acquisition was being made, in part, for the respondent No.28-Society is amply clear from the recitals contained in the order dated 31st July, 1987, by which the objections of the appellant under Section 16(2) was rejected. In this regard, it is also pointed out that in the course of the objection hearing the appellant was represented by his counsel. It is therefore contended that the statement made by the writ petitioner – appellant that he came to know about the allotment of the land for the respondent No.28-Society when the said Society had made attempts to construct a wall on the land in the year 1994 is wholly incorrect and the entire premise on the basis of which the writ petition has been filed is false. Therefore, on the aforesaid twin grounds of delay and lack of bona fides of the writ petitioner, the present appeals are liable to be dismissed.

28. It has been vehemently argued on behalf of the respondents that the writ petition ought not to have been entertained and any order thereon could not have been passed as it is inordinately delayed and the appellant has made certain false statements in the pleadings before the High Court details of which have been mentioned hereinabove. This issue need not detain the Court. Time and again it has been said that while exercising the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the High Court is not bound by any strict rule of limitation. If substantial issues of public importance touching upon the fairness of governmental action do arise the delayed approach to reach the Court will not stand in the way of the exercise of jurisdiction by the Court. Insofar as the knowledge of the appellant – writ petitioner with regard to the allotment of the land to the respondent No.28-Society is concerned, what was claimed in the writ petition is that it is only in the year 1994 when the respondent No.28- Society had attempted to raise construction on the land that the fact of allotment of such land came to be known to the writ petitioner – appellant.

29. A mere recital of the fact that a part of the land proposed for acquisition is contemplated to be allotted to the Respondent No. 28 in the order dated 31st July, 1987 rejecting the objections filed by the writ petitioner – appellant in response to the notice issued under Section 16(2) of the 1903 Act, in our considered view, cannot conclusively prove that what was asserted in the writ petition has to be necessarily understood to be false and incorrect. At the highest, the fact claimed by the respondents that the appellant had previous knowledge may be a probable fact. The converse is also equally probable. Taking into account the above position and the contentious issues raised and the conduct of the State Authorities and the MUDA, we are of the view that the said fact by itself i.e. delay should not come in the way of an adjudication of the writ petition on merits. We, therefore, hold that the impugned acquisition by MUDA under the provisions of the 1903 Act is invalid in law and has to be so adjudged."

12. Accordingly, in view of the aforesaid observations/findings of the Hon'ble Apex Court, the plea of inordinate delay having been raised by the respondents deserves to be rejected outrightly. In the aforesaid judgment, Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that time and again it has been said that while exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the High Courts are not bound by strict rule of limitation. In the instant case, this Court would be failing in discharging its duties, in case appropriate directions are not issued to the respondents to pay due and admissible compensation to the petitioner, whose land has been used by the State for the construction of the road in question.

13. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion as well as law referred to herein above, this petition is allowed. Respondents are directed to pay due and admissible compensation to the petitioner in lieu of land admittedly used by them for the construction of road in question by resorting to the procedure as is envisaged in Land Acquisition Act. Since considerable delay has already occurred in initiation of proceedings under Land Acquisition Act, respondents are directed to complete the acquisition proceedings under Land Acquisition Act for the acquisition of land within six months from today and pay the compensation to the petitioner thereafter.

14. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of.

For the Appellant: Mr.N.K. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr.Aman Sood, Advocate.

For Respondents No.1 and 2(a): Mr.N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Ms.Jamuna, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellant-plaintiff against the judgment and decree dated 27.12.2005, passed by the learned District Judge, Chamba, District Chamba, H.P., affirming the judgment and decree dated 30.11.2004, passed by the learned Civil Judge(Junior Division), Chamba, whereby the suit filed by the appellant-plaintiff has been dismissed.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the appellant-plaintiff (herein after referred to as the 'plaintiff'), filed a suit for declaration to the effect that the plaintiff alongwith proforma defendants are owners of the land comprised in Khasra No.263, situated in village Tissa Kaswati (hereinafter referred to as the `suit land') and the entry in the revenue record in favour of the defendants qua the suit land are wrong and illegal. Plaintiff further prayed that the defendants be restrained permanently from raising any construction over the suit land and in the alternative for possession of the suit land.

3. It is averred by the plaintiff that he is recorded owner in possession of the land comprised in Khasra Nos.264, 265 and 267, measuring 205 square yards and one square feet, which is adjoining to the suit land, which was recorded in the ownership of the plaintiff and proforma defendants, but in possession of defendants Nos.1 and 2 without any status. It is further averred that at one point of time, the suit land was owned by one Sh.Dass son of Sh.Harkha and the same was acquired by the plaintiff and proforma defendants by way of gift vide mutation No.38. It is alleged by the plaintiff that the suit land was given to one Smt.Rukmani widow of Sh.Ram Singh for the purpose of living on 'Dharmarth', but defendants Nos.1 and 2, in connivance with the revenue agency on the basis of some forged Will allegedly executed by Smt.Rukmani, got themselves recorded in possession of the same, which entry is wrong, illegal and not binding upon the plaintiff and proforma defendants. It is averred by the plaintiff that Smt.Rukmani was not having any right, title or interest in the suit land, except that she was in permissive possession of the same and, as such, the defendants could not have inherited the suit land on the basis of Will. It is further averred by the plaintiff that the defendants, taking advantage of the wrong entry in connivance with the revenue staff, got attested mutation No.64 on 30.1.1976, according to which proprietary rights were conferred upon them qua the suit land without any lawful authority as the suit land, which is comprising of a house, could not have been the subject of acquisition of proprietary rights under tenancy or any other law. It is further averred by the plaintiff that the defendants were recorded in possession of the suit land, not as a tenant, but without any status. Thereafter, defendant No.1 on 27.1.1995 has dismantled the building situated over the suit land with a view to raise fresh construction to which he has no right, title or interest. In the aforesaid background the plaintiff filed a civil suit.

4. Defendants, by way of filing written statement, refuted the claim of the plaintiff on the ground of maintainability, estoppel, limitation and locus standi. They also filed counter claim against the plaintiff. On merits, the defendants have denied the claim of the plaintiff that he is recorded as owner in possession of the land comprised in Khasra Nos.264, 265 and 267. The possession of defendant No.1 on the suit land has been admitted, whereas it is denied that that the plaintiff and proforma defendants are either owners or in possession of the suit land. It is also denied that Sh.Dass executed a gift deed qua the suit land in favour of the plaintiff, but stated that one Sh.Ram Singh was a tenant of Dass, as he used to cultivate the land comprised in Khasra Nos.267 and 268 as a tenant and a house comprised in Khasra No.263 was gifted to Sh.Ram Singh by Sh.Dass and after the death of Shri Ram Singh, his widow Smt.Rukmani remained in possession of the suit land as owner. Smt.Rukmani, therefore, executed a Will in favour of defendant No.1. It is averred that Smt.Kunanu was not competent to dispose of the house situated over the suit land in favour of the plaintiff and proforma defendants as she was not in possession of the suit property. The possession of the suit property was never delivered to the plaintiff and, as such, revenue entry qua the suit land in favour of the plaintiff and proforma defendants are wrong and the same is not binding upon the defendants. It is further averred by the defendants that they have repaired the house in dispute and have also made improvement therein. It is further averred by the defendants that since Smt.Rukmani got the disputed house from her husband late Shri Ram Singh, she was competent to dispose of the same. It is denied that the Will executed by Smt.Rukmani is forged document. It is averred by the defendants that for the last more than 38 years Sh.Ram Singh, Smt.Rukmani and thereafter defendants No.1 and 2 are in possession of the disputed house to the knowledge of the plaintiff and profroma defendants and, as such, the defendants have acquired ownership rights over the disputed house by way of adverse possession as the defendants are in physical possession of the disputed house for the last more than 12 years. It is further averred by the defendants that they have also set up a counter claim seeking declaration that the suit property is in their possession as owners and entry in the revenue record qua the suit property in favour of the plaintiff and proforma defendants is null and void and not binding upon the rights of the defendants. In the aforesaid background the defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff and the proforma defendants are owners of the property comprised in Khasra No.263 as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the suit property was given to Smt.Rukmani for residence purpose as 'Dharmarth' as alleged. If so, its effect? OPP.

3. Whether the revenue entries existing in favour of the defendants Nos.1 and 2 are wrong and illegal as alleged? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff and the proforma defendants are entitled to decree for possession of the disputed property as claimed? OPP.

5. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit by his act and conduct? OPD.

7. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD.

8. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to sue? OPD.

9. Whether Smt.Rukmani was competent and validly willed away the suit property in favour of the defendants as alleged? OPD.

10. Whether the disputed property was gifted to Sh.Ram Singh as alleged. If so, its effect? OPD.

11. Whether mutation No.64 has been wrongly and illegally attested in favour of the defendants as alleged? OPP.

12. Whether the suit has been properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPP.

13. Whether the defendants have become the owners of the suit property by way of adverse possession? OPD.

14. Whether the defendants are owners in possession of the suit property as alleged? OPD.

15. Relief."

6. Learned trial Court vide common judgment and decree dated 30.11.2004 dismissed the suit of the plaintiff and decreed the counter claim filed by the defendants.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, whereby suit filed by the plaintiff was dismissed and counter claim by the defendants-respondents were decreed, appellant-plaintiff filed an appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short 'CPC') read with Section 21 of the H.P. Courts Act assailing therein judgment and decree dated 30.11.2004 passed by learned Civil Judge(Junior Division) in the Court of learned District Judge, Chamba.

8. Learned District Judge, Chamba vide judgment and decree dated 27.12.2005 dismissed the appeal preferred by the plaintiff by affirming the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. Learned first appellate Court also affirmed the decreed passed by the learned trial Court in the counter claim.

9. In the aforesaid background, the present appellant-plaintiff filed this Regular Second Appeal before this Court, details whereof have already been given above.

10. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law:

"(1) Whether the respondents/defendants No.1 and 2 could not have claimed title to the suit property both on the basis of the will from Rukmani, in whose favour a gift had allegedly been made by the original owner Dass, and also on the basis of plea of adverse possession at the same time?

2. Whether the finding that the respondents/defendants No.1 and 2 have acquired title by prescription, could not have been returned when it was also found that possession of Rukmani and prior to her that of Ram Singh, her husband, was permissive?"

11. At this stage, it may be noticed that on 15th November, 2016, the matter was listed before this Court, and attention of Mr. N.K. Sood, Senior Advocate, representing the appellant-plaintiff was invited towards the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and versus Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682 and Laxmidas Dayabhai Kabrawala vs. Nanabhai Chunilal Kabrawala and others, AIR 1964 SC 11, which was further followed by this Court while dismissing RSA No.293 of 2006, titled as Piar Chand & Others versus Ranjeet Singh & Others, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while dismissing the counter claim, Court may or may not draw a formal decree but if rights are finally adjudicated, it would assume the status of a decree and same needs to be laid challenge, if any, by way of filing separate appeal affixing required court fee.

12. In view of aforesaid law having been brought to the notice of Mr.N.K. Sood, learned Senior Advocate, representing the appellant-plaintiff, he sought time to go through the same. Thereafter, today i.e. on 6.12.2016, when the matter was listed before this Court, this Court in view of aforesaid law having been laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court deemed it fit to frame additional substantial question of law for proper adjudication of the case at hand. The additional substantial question of law is as under:-

1. "Whether the learned First Appellate Court has erred in entertaining the composite appeal having been preferred by the appellant-plaintiff against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court dismissing the suit of the plaintiff and decreeing the counter claim preferred by the defendants-respondents that too without affixing separate/ requisite court fee as far as counter claim is concerned.

13. Mr.Sood, learned Senior Advocate, vehemently argued that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Sood, further contended that bare perusal of the of the judgments passed by both the Courts below suggests that evidence led on record by the appellant-plaintiff has not been read in its right perspective and as such, great prejudice has been caused to the appellant-plaintiff against whom decree for possession has been passed.

14. Mr.Sood, while making his submission qua the additional issue having been framed by this Court, contended that genuine and legitimate claim of the appellant-plaintiff cannot be allowed to be defeated on mere technicalities and this Court has wide power to ignore such technicalities and can proceed ahead to decide the matter on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties to do substantive justice in the matter. Mr.Sood, further claimed that the learned trial Court decreed the counter claim of the defendants-respondents and appellant-plaintiff rightly preferred composite appeal against the same before the learned District Judge laying challenge therein to the composite decree passed in the suit as well as in the counter claim in favour of the defendants. He further contended that no appeal, if any, could be filed without there being any decree and as such, appellant-plaintiff had no option but to file composite appeal, whereby suit of the plaintiff was dismissed and counter claim of the defendants-respondents was decreed.

15. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Sood, strenuously argued that the counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents deserve to be dismissed after setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the Courts below. In support of his contention Mr. Sood, also placed reliance on the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in Narhari and others vs. Shanker and others, AIR 1953 S.C.419, Gangadhar and another vs. Shri Raj Kumar, AIR(1983) Supreme Court 1202, Tamilnad Mercantile Bank Shareholders welfare Association(2) versus S.C.Sekar and others (2009)2 Supreme Court Cases 784 and B.S. Sheshagiri Setty and others versus State of Karnataka and others (2016)2 Supreme Court Cases 123.

16. Mr.N.K. Sood, Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant-plaintiff, vehemently argued that the impugned judgment and decree passed by learned first appellate is not sustainable in the eye of law as the same is not based upon correct appreciation of evidence as well as law on point. Mr.Sood contended that bare perusal of impugned judgment passed by learned first appellate Court suggests that the same is based on conjectures and surmises and learned first appellate Court has fallen in grave error while affirming the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court that too on the very flimsy grounds.

17. Mr.N.K. Sood,Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant-plaintiff, vehemently argued that the learned court below has fallen in error of law as also on facts while holding that the defendants have perfected their title by adverse possession. He further contended that pleadings qua plea of adverse possession were not sufficient and adequate as required in law. It ought to have been specifically pleaded and proved how and at what time the hostile title started and began to be prescribed or on what date the defendants came into possession or that possession was open, peaceful and continuous. Mr.Sood forcefully contended that adverse possession does not begin to operate unless the plea of title is renounced and disclaimed and without renouncing and disclaiming the plea of acquisition of title on the basis of Will, the defendants could not have raised the plea of adverse possession. Mr.Sood further contended that the averment made by the defendants that the plaintiff and proforma defendants were not the owners of the suit property and that the title vested in Ram Singh and then Rukmani itself demolishes their case of adverse possession. Mr.Sood vehemently argued that once the courts below have conclusively held that the gift dated 1.12.1969 (Ex.D-1) in favour of plaintiff and proforma defendants of the suit property from Kunanoo widow of Sh.Dass was proper and legal, in that event, the very basic, essential and classic requirement of setting up hostile title against the true owner and further animus to hold suit property in denial to the title of the plaintiff and proforma defendants is missing.

18. Mr.Sood, forcefully contended that the courts below have wrongly and illegally held that the hostile possession of the defendants started from the year 1971. In the absence of such specific pleadings, the starting point could not have been presumed and thus the courts below have made out a case for the defendants on its own presumptions, assumptions, conjectures and surmises. Mr.Sood vehemently contended that even the oral evidence of the defendants was not sufficient to sustain and establish the plea of adverse possession. Statements of defendants as well as their witnesses have been misread and misconstrued which are contrary to the pleadings of adverse possession and the same not sufficient to constitute a lawful proof of adverse possession and the entire approach of the courts below on the question of adverse possession is illegal, unsustainable and has vitiated the findings.

19. Mr.N.K. Thakur, learned Senior counsel appearing for the respondents-defendants, supported the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court. Mr. Thakur, vehemently argued that bare perusal of the judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court suggests that the same is based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties and as such, there is no scope of interference, whatsoever, by this Court especially in view of the concurrentfindings of fact recorded by the Court below. He further contended that the present appeal is not maintainable in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015) 2 SCC 682, which was further followed by this Court while passing judgment dated 16.9.2016 in RSA No.293 of 2006.Mr. Thakur also placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidas Dayabhai Kabrawala vs. Nanabhai Chunilala Kabrawala and others, AIR 1964 SC 11.

20. Mr. Thakur, while concluding his arguments, further contended that apart from above, this Court has very limited power while exercising power under Section 100 CPC to re-appreciate the evidence and as such, he placed reliance on the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264, herein below:-

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the Courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that plaintiffs have established their right in 'A' schedule property. In the light of concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for re-appreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the 'A' schedule property for road and that she could not have full fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100

> C.P.C., concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the Courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."

21. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

22. Keeping in view the specific objection with regard to maintainability having been raised by the appellant-plaintiff in the light of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court deems it fit to take additional substantial question of law framed by this Court at first instance for adjudication.

23. Perusal of the counter claim filed on behalf of the defendants-respondents suggests that while filing written statement they asserted counter claim but fact remains that no requisite fee was paid on the aforesaid counter claim. The appellant-plaintiff denied the aforesaid counter claim of the respondents-defendants terming the same to be false and claimed that there was no negligence on the part of the appellant-plaintiff as claimed in the counter claim.

24. Careful perusal of the trial court record further suggests that appellant-plaintiff refuted the aforesaid counter claim of the respondents-defendants by way of replication as well as by filing separate written statement. However, the fact remains that learned trial Court after framing issues, as have been reproduced above, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff and decreed the cross-objection having been filed by the respondents-defendants. Operative part of the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court clearly suggests that the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the appellant-plaintiff for possession, whereas decreed the counter claim of ownership and possession preferred on behalf of the respondents-defendants. Careful perusal of the decree sheet available on record suggests that decree for possession was passed in favour of the respondents-defendants and against the appellant-plaintiff.

25. Careful perusal of the decree, as referred, hereinabove, suggests that it also stands mentioned, "in view of my findings on the aforesaid issues, the suit of the plaintiff fails and the same is, accordingly, dismissed, whereas, the counter claim of the defendants is decreed and the defendants are declared to be the owners in possession of the suit property." Perusal of aforesaid decree prepared by the learned trial Court while dismissing the suit and accepting the counter claim of the defendants, clearly suggests that proper decree was drawn as far as acceptance of the counter claim filed by the defendants is concerned.

26. Appellant-plaintiff, being aggrieved with the aforesaid judgment and decree, approached the learned District Judge by way of an appeal under Section 96 CPC laying therein challenge to aforesaid judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. At this stage, it would be appropriate to reproduce cause title/ head note of appeal preferred by the appellant-plaintiff before the learned District Judge, which reads thus:-

> "Civil appeal under section 96 CPC read with section 21 of the H.P. Courts Act against the judgment and decree dated 30.11.2004 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Jr.Division), Chamba in Civil Suit no.2 of 1995, titled as Mohan Singh-Versus-Inder Singh and others, with a prayer to set-aside the same."

27. Careful perusal of aforesaid cause title as well as relief claimed in the appeal clearly suggests that appellant-plaintiff before the learned first appellate Court prayed that the appeal filed by him be accepted with costs and the judgment and decree dated 30.11.20-4 passed by learned trial Court be set aside, but there is no prayer, if any, for setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, whereby counter claim filed by the defendants-respondents have been decreed and they were declared owners in possession of the suit property.

28. Before adverting to the submissions having been made on behalf of the learned counsel representing both the parties, it would be appropriate to refer to relevant provisions of law applicable in the present case i.e. Order 8 Rule 6A:

> "6A. Counter claim by defendant.- (1) A defendant in a suit may, in addition to his right of pleading a set off under rule 6, set up, by way of counter claim against the claim of the plaintiff, any right or claim in respect of a cause of action accruing to the defendant against the plaintiff either before or after the filing of suit but before the defendant has delivered his defence or before the time limited for delivering his defence has expired, whether such counter claim is in the nature of a claim for damages or not:
> Provided that such counter claim shall not exceed the pecuniary limits of the jurisdiction of the court.
> (2) Such counter claim shall have the same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original claim and on the counter claim.
> (3) The plaintiff shall be at liberty to file a written statement in answer to the counter claim of the defendant within such period as may be fixed by the court.
> (4) The counter claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the rules applicable to plaints."

29. Aforesaid provisions of law entitles defendant in a suit to set up counter claim against the claim of the plaintiff in respect of cause of action accruing to him against the plaintiff either before or after filing the suit, butdefinitely before defendant files his defence or before the time stipulated for delivering the defence is expired. Needless to say that aforesaid right of filing counter claim is in addition to his right of pleading as set up in Rule 6. Further perusal of aforesaid provisions of law suggests that counter claim, if any, filed on behalf of the defendant would be treated as a plaint and same would be governed by Rules applicable to the plaint. Similarly, counter claims filed on behalf of the defendant would have same effect as a cross suit so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original claim and the counter claim.

30. Similarly, Rule 6A(3) enables the plaintiff to file a written statement, if any, to the counter claim filed by the defendant. Rule 6D specifically provides that in case suit of the plaintiff is stayed, discontinued or dismissed, the counter claim filed on behalf of the defendant would nevertheless be proceeded with.

31. Similarly, Rule 6E provides that if plaintiff fails to file reply to the counter claim made by the defendant, the Court may pronounce judgment against the plaintiff in relation to the counter-claim made against him/her, or make such order in relation to the counter-claim as it deems fit. It would be relevant here to refer to Order VIII Rule 6F:

> "6F. Relief to defendant where counter-claim succeeds.- Where in any suit a set-off or counter-claim is established as a defence against the plaintiffs claim and any balance is found due to the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be , the Court may give judgment to the party entitled to such balance."

32. Perusal of aforesaid Order VIII Rule 6F clearly suggests that where in any suit a set-off or counter claim is established as a defence against the plaintiffs' claim and any balance is found due to the plaintiff or the defendant, Court may give judgment to the party entitled to such balance. Further perusal of Order VIII Rule 6G suggests that no pleadings, if any, subsequent to the written statement filed by a defendant other than by way of defence to set up a claim can be presented except with the leave of Court.

33. Under Order VIII Rule 10 when any party fails to file written statement as required under rule 1 or rule 9 within the stipulated time, the Court shall pronounce judgment against him, or make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit and on the pronouncement of such judgment a decree shall be drawn up.

34. Careful perusal of aforesaid provisions of law clearly suggests that counter claim, if any, preferred by the defendant in the suit is in nature of cross suit and even if suit is dismissed counter claim would remain alive for adjudication. Since counter claim is in nature of cross suit, defendant is required to pay the requisite court fee on the valuation of counter claim. It has been specifically provided in the aforesaid provisions that the plaintiff is obliged to file a written statement qua counter claim and in case of default court can pronounce the judgment against the plaintiff in relation to the counter claim put forth by the defendant as it has an independent status. As per Rule 6A(2), the Court is required to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit both on the original claim and also on the counter-claim.

35. In the present case, as clearly emerged from the judgment passed by the learned trial Court, learned trial Court effectively determined the rights of the parties on the basis of counter claim as well as written statement thereto filed by the respective parties and as such it attained the status of decree. It would be profitable here to reproduce definition of the term 'decree' as contained in Section 2(2) of CPC:-

> "2.(2) "decree" means the formal expression of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint and the determination of any question within [1][* * *] Section 144, but shall not include –
> (a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or
> (b) any order of dismissal for default.
> Explanation- A decree is preliminary when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and partly final;"

36. Close scrutiny of aforesaid definition of "decree" clearly suggests that there should be formal expression of adjudication by the Court while determining the rights of the parties with regard to controversy in the suit, which would also include the rejection of plaint. Similarly, determination should be conclusive determination resulting in a formal expression of the adjudication. It is settled principle that once the matter in controversy has received judicial determination, the suit results in a decree, either in favour of the plaintiff or in favour of the defendant.

37. In this regard, it would be appropriate to place reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani and Another vs. Khairati Lal and Others, (2015)2 SCC 682, wherein the Court has held as under:-

> "16. We have referred to the aforesaid decisions to highlight that there may be situations where an order can get the status of a decree. A Court may draw up a formal decree or may not, but if by virtue of the order of the Court, the rights have finally been adjudicated, irrefutably it would assume the status of a decree. As is evincible, in the case at hand, the counter-claim which is in the nature of a cross-suit has been dismissed. Nothing else survives for the defendants who had filed the counter-claim. Therefore, we have no hesitation in holding that the order passed by the learned trial Judge has the status of a decree and the challenge to the same has to be made before the appropriate forum where appeal could lay by paying the requisite fee. It could not have been unsettled by the High Court in exercise of the power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. Ergo, the order passed by the High Court is indefensible."

38. After perusing aforesaid judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court need not to elaborate further on the issue at hand because Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that if by virtue of order of the Court rights have finally been adjudicated, it would assume the status of decree. Hon'ble Apex Court has also stated that Court may or may not draw a formal decree but if rights are finally adjudicated, it would assume the status of a decree. Learned Apex Court has further held that in such like situation order passed by trial Judge has the status of decree and challenge to the same has to be made before the appropriate forum where appeal could lay by paying the requisite fee.

39. Apart from above, this Court viewed this matter from another angle also. Admittedly, appellant-plaintiff claiming himself to be the owner of the suit land, as recorded in Jamabandi for the year 1970-71, filed a suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction restraining defendants No.1 and 2 from changing the nature of the suit land. The aforesaid claim having been set up by the plaintiff in the instant Civil Suit was dismissed; meaning thereby that he was not declared as owner of the suit land entitling him to seek possession of the same. Whereas, in the aforesaid suit having been filed by the plaintiff, defendants filed written statement-cum-counter claim seeking declaration to the effect that they may be declared owners in possession of the suit property, which relief was extended by the trial Court by decreeing the counter claim of the defendants declaring them to be the owners in possession of the suit property.

40. Since, as has been observed above, no challenge has been laid to the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court decreeing the counter claim of the defendants, whereby they have been declared to be owners in possession of the suit property, composite appeal laying therein challenge to the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge in Civil Suit No.2 of 1995 was not maintainable. Moreover, relief as claimed in the appeal having been filed by the appellant-plaintiff could not be extended to him without setting aside the judgment and decree passed in the counter claim in favour of the defendants. Once defendants have been declared to be owners in possession of the suit property by the trial Court while decreeing their counter claim, it is not understood how relief as prayed for in Civil suit having been filed by the plaintiff can be extended without setting aside the judgment and decree passed in the counter claim.

41. Accordingly, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the counsel representing the appellant-plaintiff that in the absence of specific decree drawn by learned trial Court at the time of decreeing the counter claim filed by the defendants, plaintiff could not file separate appeal. Substantial question is answered accordingly.

42. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court is of the view that learned first appellate Court erred in entertaining the composite appeal having been preferred on behalf of the appellant-plaintiff laying challenge therein to the judgment passed by the learned trial Court dismissing the suit of the appellant-plaintiff as well as decreeing the counter claim preferred on behalf of the defendants-respondents. In view of the latest law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as provisions contained in the law as discussed above, appellant-plaintiff being aggrieved with the dismissal of the suit and decreeing the counter claim ought to have filed separate appeals by affixing separate court fee and composite appeal, as has been preferred in the present case, was not maintainable. In view of the aforesaid findings having been returned by this Court on the additional substantial question of law, other substantial questions of law have become redundant and as such, are not required to be answered at this stage.

43. As far as judgments relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant-plaintiff are concerned, this Court is of the view that the same are not applicable in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra).

44. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, as well as latest law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajni Rani's case *(supra), the present appeal is not maintainable and the same is accordingly dismissed. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

For the Petitioner : Mr. C. N. Singh, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

This writ petition involves the seminal question as to whether the construction equipment vehicles, more particularly, water tankers, heavy hyvas, farm tractors, transit mixtures and other heavy machines do not fall within the scope and purview of the definition of 'Motor Vehicles' and thus are exempted from tax?

2. The petitioner is executing the construction of Kol Dam Hydro Electric Power Project, main civil works Package 1 and has purchased different construction equipment vehicles. Being aggrieved by the imposition of tax on these vehicles, has filed the instant petition for the following substantive reliefs:

> (i) Issue a writ in the nature of certiorari, mandamus or other appropriate writ or directions quashing the notification dated 31.12.2003 being ultra vires (Annexure P-6) for all intents and purposes.
> (ii) Consequentially issue a writ in the nature of certiorari, mandamus or other appropriate writ or directions quashing impugned orders dated 20.4.2012 (Annexure P-4).
> (iii) Issue a writ in the nature of mandamus or other appropriate writ or directions to the respondents to refund the tax collected by the respondent authority under the aforementioned notification /order dated 20.4.2012 with 12% interest per annum.

3. It is averred that no tax is leviable on construction equipment vehicles as these do not fall within the definition of 'Motor Vehicles' in terms of Motor Vehicle Taxation Act, 1972 (for short 'Act of 1972').

4. The respondents filed the reply wherein it is averred that the tax levied on the vehicles in question is as per the provisions of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1972 (for short Act of 1972) and the notifications dated 24.12.2003 and 31.12.2003 issued under the Act of 1972. It is averred that the vehicles in question have in fact been registered as per the Motor Vehicles Act (for short 'M.V.Act') and, therefore, the petitioner is liable to pay tax on the same.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

5. The term "Motor Vehicle" has been defined in Section 2 (28) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 which reads thus:

> "(28) "Motor Vehicle" or "vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external or internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or a vehicle of a special type adapted for use only in a factory or in any other enclosed premises or a vehicle having less than four wheels fitted with engine capacity of not exceeding twenty-five cubic centimeters."

6. The term "Construction Equipment Vehicle" has been defined under Rule 2 (ca) of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules, 1989, which reads as under:

> "(ca) 'construction equipment vehicle' means rubber-tyred (including pneumatic tyred), rubber-padded or steel drum wheel mounted, self-propelled, excavator, loader, backhoe, compactor roller, dumper, motor grader, mobile crane, dozer, fork-lift truck, self-loading concrete mixer or any other construction equipment vehicle or combination thereof designed for off-highway operations in mining, industrial undertaking, irrigation and general construction but modified and manufactured with 'on or off or' on and off highway capabilities.
> Explanation.- A construction equipment vehicle shall, be a non-transport vehicle the driving on the road of which is incidental to the main off-highway function and for a short duration at a speed not exceeding 50 KMs per hour, but such vehicle does not include other purely off-highway construction equipment vehicle designed and adopted for use in any enclosed premises, factory or mine other than road network, not equipped to travel on public roads on their own power."*

7. It is clear from the aforesaid clause that the machineries like excavator, loader, dumpers have been included as 'construction equipment vehicle' and have been termed 'non-transport vehicle' under the explanation given to this clause.

8. Likewise, a 'non-transport vehicle' has been defined under sub rule (h) of Rule 2 as under:

> "2 (h): 'Non-transport vehicle' means a motor vehicle which is not a transport vehicle."

9. It is evident from the perusal of the above definition that the vehicles of special nature like dumpers, tippers and excavators are non-transport vehicles but nonetheless they are motor vehicles within the definition of Section 2 (28) of the Act. Even if the driving of the same on the road is incidental and for a short duration and its speed is 50 Kms per hour, even then, what has been excluded or not included in the definition is the equipments which are purely off-highway construction equipment designed and adopted for use in any enclosed premises, factory or mines, other than road work, not equipped to travel on public roads on their own power.

10. At this stage, we may refer to some of the opinions rendered by the various Hon'ble High Courts on the issue.

11. In M/s Kshardas & Co. vs. State of Maharashtra 1986 AIR (Bom) 348, a Division Bench of the Bombay High Court held that motor crane has mobility and is also suitable for use on a public road so far as its movement is concerned and mere fact that it had been used in the closed premises, cannot be said that it is not a motor vehicle as defined in Section 2 (28) of the Act.

12. In Poomani vs. Tuticorin Thermal Power Project, 1990 AIR (Mad), 372, the learned Single Judge of the Madras High Court held that crane driven on public road is a motor vehicle, though this was a case arising out of motor accident compensation claim.

13. Likewise, in M/s Chakkiat Agencies Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Kerala, 2001 AIR (Ker), 363 a Division Bench of the Kerala High Court held that trailers kept in the area of the Port Trust and which are used for transport inside the Port area can still be said to be motor vehicles kept for use in the State would nonetheless the motor vehicle as defined under the Act.

14. In M/s Birla Cement Works vs. State of Rajasthan, 2003 AIR (Raj) 25, a Division Bench of the Rajasthan High Court while going into the question whether dumpers would be amenable to tax since the same were being used in the factory premises came to hold that simply because it is the special type of vehicle that are being used in the factory premises will not bring dumpers within the exemption provided under Section 2 (28) as it is the user of the vehicle which determines its adaptability.

15. Similar issue came up before the Rajasthan High Court in Dinesh Mehta vs. Kaushikbhai K. Patel and others, C.W.P. No. 5373 of 2015, decided on 15.12.2015, wherein it was held as under:

> "6. The question posed before this Court is whether the Notification dated 1.1.2015 is beyond the competence of the State Legislature in so far as the State is only competent to levy tax as per Entry No. 57 of List II of Schedule 7 of the Constitution of India on such vehicles as are suitable for use on roads and whether NORMET MULTIMEC 6600 S.No. GB 821 equipment is to be treated as a construction equipment or whether it is to be treated as off-roading vehicle, as described under Section 2(p) of the Rajasthan Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1951.
> 7. The term "Motor Vehicle" has been defined in Section 2 (28) of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, which reads as under:-
> > " "motor vehicle" or "vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external or internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or a vehicle of a special type adapted for use only in a factory or in any other enclosed premises or a vehicle having less than four wheels fitted with engine capacity of not exceeding twenty five cubic centimetres."

8. The term "construction equipment vehicle" has been defined in Rule 2(ca) of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules, 1989, which reads as under:-

"2 (ca) "construction equipment vehicle" means rubber tyred (including pneumatic tyred), rubber padded or steel drum wheel mounted, self-propelled, excavator, loader, backhoe, compactor roller, dumper, motor grader, mobile crane, dozer, fork lift truck, self-loading concrete mixer or any other construction equipment vehicle or combination thereof designed for off highway operations in mining, industrial undertaking, irrigation and general construction but modified and manufactured with "on or off" or "on and off" highway capabilities.

Explanation.--A construction equipment vehicle shall be a non-transport vehicle the driving on the road of which is incidental to the main off-highway function and for a short duration at a speed not exceeding 50 kms per hour, but such vehicle does not include other purely off-highway construction equipment vehicle designed and adopted for use in any enclosed premises, factory or mine other than road network, not equipped to travel on public roads on their own power."

9. The contention raised by the counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner that the Notification dated 1.1.2015 issued by the State Government including the term of purely Off-road vehicle is beyond the scope and ambit of the power conferred upon the State vide Entry No. 57 of List II of Schedule 7 of the Constitution of India since the State has been conferred power to impose tax only on such vehicles as are suitable for use on roads (emphasis supplied) and furthermore section 2(28) of the Motor Vehicle Act 1988 specifies that a vehicle of a special type adapted for use only in a factory or in any other enclosed premises will not be included in the definition of a vehicle. This argument is without merit. A Division bench of this court in Birla Cement Works and Anr. Vs. State Of Rajasthan And Ors. AIR 2003 Raj 251 while going into the question whether dumpers would be amenable to tax since the same were being used in factory premises , came to hold that simply because it is the special type of vehicle and that they have been used in the factory premises will not bring dumpers within the exemption provided under Section 2(28). It is the user of the vehicle who determines its adaptability.

38. Thus, we are of the view that the definition of the Motor Vehicles Act under Section 2(28) is quite comprehensive. The exemption incorporated therein relating to the vehicle "all special type adopted or used only in a factory or any other enclosed premises significantly has used word 'adapted' and another word 'only'. The expression "adapted" for use on roads means that the vehicle should be fit and apt to use on roads. It does not mean "actually used on roads". By the use of rubber tyres it is evident that they have been adapted for use on roads, which means that they are suitable for being used on public roads. The dumpers can certainly be used for carrying loads even outside the factory premises. The dumpers are suitable for use on public or private roads. Simply because it is the special type of vehicle and that they have been used in the factory premises will not bring within the exemption provided under Section 2(28). It is the user of the vehicle who determines its adaptability. The test is if the vehicle is reasonably suitable for being used along with the public roads the mere fact that the manufacturer have made or intended a particular vehicle for one purpose or the other or the dealers have sold it for a particular purpose or that a particular vehicle is described by a particular name or description is no criteria to decide whether the vehicle is adapted for use upon the roads within the meaning of definition of Motor Vehicles Act under Section 2(28) of the M.V. Act. 1998.

Another word 'only' is also of a great significance. It clearly shows that the exemption is confined to only those kinds of vehicles which are exclusively designed for use in a factory or any enclosed premises, the actual use for particular purpose is no criteria to decide whether the vehicle is a motor vehicle. Thus, if the dumpers are suitable for use on public roads, it is a motor vehicle despite the fact they may have been used only in factory premises. Thus, we hold that the dumpers owned by the appellants/petitioners are motor vehicles within the meaning of Section 2(28) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 as it does not fall in the exempted category in spite of being a special type of vehicle, being adaptable or suitable for being used on roads (by the use of rubber tyres) even though actually used only within the enclosed premises of the appellants/petitioners' factory. Hence they are liable to be taxed."

10. Similarly in the present case, the equipment imported by the petitioner is suitable for being used on public roads and the petitioner has not been able to demonstrate otherwise. The equipment in question, though used and adapted for mining purposes, is mounted on four rubber wheels .The description in the invoice itself describes it as a utility vehicle and as per the technical details of the equipment, it is shown as an underground carrier having its use for logistics underground mines for scissor lift, personnel carrier with a diesel tank. Furthermore, it is a three gear vehicle with a reverse gear and is a four wheel drive. There is nothing available on record which would indicate that the said vehicle cannot be used on roads ,is not capable of being propelled mechanically, neither is it a vehicle running on fixed trails . Once it is a vehicle which is capable of being on the road , the State Government is competent to legislate and the notification dated 1.1.2015 is held to be valid."

16. Having considered the view taken by the various Hon'ble High Courts, we would now proceed to consider the judgments rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the subject.

17. One of the first judgment which otherwise has heavily relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner has been rendered in Bolani Ores Ltd. vs. State of Orissa, 1975 AIR SC, 17, wherein it was held that the water tankers, heavy hyvas, farm tractors, transit mixtures and other heavy machines do not fall within the scope and purview of the definition of 'Motor Vehicle' and it is apt to reproduce the relevant observations which reads thus:

"23. The meaning of the word "adapted" in s. 2(18) of the Act is itself indicated in entry 57 of List II of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, which confers a power on the State to tax vehicles whether propelled mechanically or not and uses the word "suitable" in relation to its use on the roads. The words "adapted for use" must therefore be construed as "suitable for use". At any rate, words "adapted for use" cannot be larger in their import by including vehicles 'Which are not " suitable for use' on roads. In this sense, the words "is adapted" for use have the same connotation as "is suitable" or" is fit" for use on the roads."

18. However, we find that not only has the Motor Vehicle Act undergone a sea change, but even the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bolani's case has been subsequently distinguished in number of cases and reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the decision in the case of Travancore Tea Co. Ltd. vs. State of Kerala, 1980 (3) SCC 619 wherein it was ruled that dumpers, rockers with rubber tyres, though used for transporting goods within the enclosed factory premises were nevertheless adaptable and suitable for use on public roads and were thus motor vehicles.

19. Likewise, in Union of India vs. Cowgule and Co. Pvt. Ltd. 1992 Supp 3 SCC 141 while distinguishing the decision in Bolani's case, it was held that dumpers and shovels used in mining activities were motor vehicles.

20. In Chief General Manager, Jagannath Area vs. State of Orissa (1996) 10 SCC 676, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that dumpers running on tyres and used within mining areas were motor vehicle within the meaning of Section 2 (28) of the Act even though it was contended that such vehicles exceeded the permissible restrictions laid down in Rules 92 and 93 of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules, the Hon'ble Supreme Court opined that once the vehicles which otherwise fall within the definition of Motor Vehicles, would not go out of definition the moment it exceeds the limit as provided in Rules 92 and 93 of the Rules and it was held as under:

> "7. The various restrictions contained in Rules 92 and 93 referred to by Mr. Shanti Bhushan, learned senior counsel are intended to lay down the outer limits for the vehicles to be plied or, the public road. But that does not mean that the vehicles which are otherwise motor vehicles within the definition clause go out of the definition the moment they exceed the limit as provided in Rules 92 or 93 of the Rules. the taxability of dumpers again came up before this Court in the case of Union of India & Ors. vs. Chowgule & Co. Pvt. Ltd. & Ors.- 1992 Sup. (3) Supreme Court Cases 141. In this case an argument had been advanced that the dumpers are used only in mining operation within the mining area and are not actually used on roads nor are suitable for use on roads and, therefore, are not taxable. The Judicial Commissioner of Goa, Daman and Diu accepted the contention and allowed the appeal. Union of India had come up in appeal to this Court. This Court reversed the decision of the Judicial Commissioner of Goa, Daman and Diu and relying upon the earlier decision of this Court in Central Coal Fields Ltd. vs. State of Orissa - 1992 Suppl. (3) SCC 133 held the mere fact that dumpers were used solely on the premises of the owner or that they were in closed premises or permission of the authorities was needed to move them from one place to another or that they are not intended to be used or are incapable of being used for general purposes or that they have an unladen and laden capacity depending on their weight and size is of no consequence for dumpers are vehicles used for transport of goods and thus liable to pay a compensatory tax for the availability of roads for them to run upon commission."

21. In Bose Abraham vs. State of Kerala and another (2001) 3 SCC 157, the Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically held that once the equipments like excavators and roadrollers are motor vehicles under the M.V. Act and further held that merely because a motor vehicle is put to a specific use such as being confined to enclosed premises, will not render the same to be a different kind of vehicle. It is apt to reproduce the following observations:

> "6. Section 2 (j) of the Act defines motor vehicle to mean a motor vehicle as defined in Section 2(28) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 [Central Act 59 of 1988]. Subject to the provisions of the Act, Section 3 of the Act enables the levy and collection of tax on the entry of any motor vehicle into local area for use or sale therein which is liable for registration in the State under the Motor Vehicles Act at such rate as may be fixed by the Government. Therefore, in order to attract tax under the provision of Section 3 of the Act, a motor vehicle must have entered into a local area for use or sale therein and secondly which is liable for registration under the Motor Vehicles Act.
> 7. We hold that the excavators and road rollers are motor vehicles for the purpose of the Motor Vehicles Act and they are registered under that Act. The High Court has noticed the admission of the appellants that the excavators and road rollers are suitable for use on roads. However, the contention put forth now is that they are intended for use in the enclosed premises. Merely because a motor vehicle is put to a specific use such as being confined to an enclosed premises, will not render the same to be a different kind of vehicle. Hence, in our view, the High Court has correctly decided the matter and the impugned order does not call for any interference by us. However, the question whether any motor vehicle has entered into a local area to attract tax under the Entry Tax Act or any concession given under the local Sales Tax Act will have to be dealt with in the course of assessment arising under the Entry Tax Act."

22. In M/s Natwar Parikh and Co. Ltd. vs. State of Karnataka, 2005 AIR (SC) 3428, the Hon'ble Supreme Court interpreted the term 'motor vehicle' in the broadest possible sense keeping in mind that the Act had been enacted in order to keep control over vehicles.

23. As a matter of fact, similar issue has been considered in detail by one of us (Justice Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J.) in National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Sharda Devi and others (2016) 3 ACC, 627 (HP) wherein the question posed before this Court was as to whether the JCB machine (excavator) is a motor vehicle and it was held as under:

"15. Section 2 (28) of the Act defines definition of a motor vehicle and while going through the said definition, it appears that JCB machine is a motor vehicle. It is apt to reproduce Section 2 (28) of the Act herein.

"2 (28) "motor vehicle" or "vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external or internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or a vehicle of a special type adapted for use only in a factory or in any other enclosed premises or a vehicle having less than four wheels fitted with engine capacity of not exceeding 4 [twenty-five cubic centimetres];"

16. It is also profitable to reproduce the definition of JCB given in Oxford dictionary at page 695.

"A powerful motor vehicle with a long arm for digging and moving earth."

17. The above quoted definition does disclose that the JCB is a powerful motor vehicle with a long arm for digging earth. In terms of the said definition, the JCB is a motor vehicle.

18. The same question arose before the Madhya Pradesh High Court in case titled New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Indore versus Balu Banjara and others reported in 2008 (2) MPHT 252*. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 8 of the said judgment herein.*

"8. …… ……In the present case the JCB machine is running on the roads and is being used for construction of the roads. Only because it is not being registered by the Regional Transport Authority as motor vehicle and no registration number is being given, it cannot be said that the JCB was not a motor under the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act. In the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the learned Tribunal has rightly held that the JCB machine is motor for the purpose of Motor Vehicles Act."

19. The apex Court in Bose Abraham versus State of Kerala and another reported in AIR 2001 SC 835 has discussed Section 2 (28) of the Act and held that the excavators and road rollers are motor vehicles. It is apt to reproduce para 7 of the said judgment herein.

> "7. We hold that the excavators and road rollers are motor vehicles for the purpose of the Motor Vehicles Act and they are registered under that Act. The High Court has noticed the admission of the appellants that the excavators and road rollers are suitable for use on roads. However, the contention put forth now is that they are intended for use in the enclosed premises. Merely because a motor vehicle is put to a specific use such as being confined to an enclosed premises, will not render the same to be a different kind of vehicle. Hence, in our view, the High Court has correctly decided the matter and the impugned order does not call for any interference by us. However, the question whether any motor vehicle has entered into a local area to attract tax under the Entry Tax Act or any concession given under the local Sales Tax Act will have to be dealt with in the course of assessment arising under the Entry Tax Act".

20. The apex Court in another judgment rendered in case titled Nagashetty versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd and others, reported in AIR 2001 SC 3356, held that the trailer attached with the tractor is a motor vehicle.

21. The apex Court in another judgment in case M/s Natwar Parikh and Co. Ltd. versus State of Karnataka and others reported in AIR 2005 SC 3428 discussed Sections 2 (28), 2 (14) and 2 (47) of the Act and held that tractor-trailer is a transport vehicle under Section 2 (47) of the Act. It is apposite to reproduce para 24 of the said judgment herein.

> "24. Section 2(28) is a comprehensive definition of the words "motor vehicle". Although, a "trailer" is separately defined under Sec. 2(46) to mean any vehicle drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle, it is still included into the definition of the words "motor vehicle" under Sec. 2(28). Similarly, the word "tractor" is defined in Sec. 2(44) to mean a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load. Therefore, the words "motor vehicle" have been defined in the comprehensive sense by the legislature. Therefore, we have to read the words "motor vehicle" in the broadest possible sense keeping in mind that the Act has been enacted in order to keep control over motor vehicles, transport vehicles, etc. A combined reading of the aforestated definitions under Sec. 2, reproduced hereinabove, shows that the definition of "motor vehicle" includes any mechanically propelled vehicle apt for use upon roads irrespective of the source of power and it includes a trailer. Therefore, even though a trailer is drawn by a motor vehicle, it by itself being a motor vehicle, the tractor-trailer would constitute a "goods carriage" under Sec. 2(14), and consequently, a "transport vehicle" under Sec. 2(47). The test to be applied in such a case is whether the vehicle is proposed to be used for transporting goods from one place to another. When a vehicle is so altered or prepared that it becomes apt for use for transporting goods, it can be stated that it is adapted for the carriage of goods. Applying the above test, we are of the view that the tractor-trailer in the present case falls under Sec. 2(14) as a "goods carriage" and consequently, it falls under the definition of "transport vehicle" under Sec. 2(47) of the M.V. Act, 1988."

22. The Gujarat High Court in case National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Baby Anjali & Ors*., reported in* AIR 2008 Gujarat 12, has discussed the definition in terms of Sections 2 (18) and 2 (19) of the Act and held that the trailer attached to the tractor falls within the definition of motor Vehicle.

23. The question arose before the Gujarat High Court in case titled State of Gujarat versus Danabhai Bhulabhai and Ors., reported in 1991 (2) G.L.H. 404*, whether the bulldozer is a motor vehicle and it was held that the same is a motor vehicle. It is appropriate to reproduce relevant portion of para 11 of the said judgment herein.*

> "11. .....Therefore, going by the definition of the expression 'Motor Vehicle' and keeping in mind the evidence on record, the submission that bulldozer cannot be said to be a motor vehicle must be said to have been rightly rejected by the Tribunal."

24. In case Kusum and others versus Kamal Kumar Soni and another reported in 2009 ACJ 1613, the Madhya Pradesh High Court held that the power-tiller is a motor vehicle.

25. The apex Court in a latest judgment in case titled Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & Ors versus Smt. Santosh & Ors. reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791 has discussed the object of the Motor Vehicles Act and also Sections 2 (28) and 2(44). It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 22 of the said judgment herein.

> "22. The Tractor is a machine run by diesel or petrol. It is a self-propelled vehicle for hauling other vehicles. It is used for different purposes. It is also used for agricultural purposes, along with other implements; such as harrows, ploughs, tillers, blade-terracers, seed- drills etc. It is a self-propelled vehicle capable of pulling alone as defined under the definition of Motor Vehicles. It does not fall within any of the exclusions as defined under the Act. Thus, it is a Motor Vehicle in terms of the definition under Section 2(28) of the Act, which definition has been adopted by the Act. So, even without referring to the definition of the Tractor, if the definition of the Motor Vehicle as given under the Act is strictly construed, even then the Tractor is a Motor Vehicle as defined under the Act. The Tractor is not only used for agricultural purposes but is also used for other purposes as stated above. Therefore, it cannot be said that the Tractor in its popular meaning is only used for agricultural purposes and, thus, is not a Motor Vehicle as defined under the Act. The Tractor is a Motor Vehicle is also proved by this definition under Section 2(44) of the Act. Different types of Motor Vehicles have been defined under the provisions of the Act, and the Tractor is one of them. Thus, considering the question from any angle, the Tractor is a Motor Vehicle as defined under the Act."

26. Viewed thus, it is held that the JCB is a motor vehicle."

24. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the question posed in this writ petition is answered by holding that the construction equipment vehicles, more particularly, water tankers, heavy hyvas, farm tractors, transit mixtures and other heavy machines definitely fall within the definition of 'Motor Vehicles' and thus cannot claim any exemption against the imposition of tax. Even otherwise, once these vehicles have been duly registered as Motor Vehicles under the Act, the petitioner can have no legitimate grievance for claiming that these vehicles do not fall within the definition of 'Motor Vehicles', that too, only on the ground that these machines are designed and adopted for use in an enclosed premises.

25. Having said so, we find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed alongwith pending application(s), leaving the parties to bear their costs.

Sebastiao Luis Fernandes (Dead) through LRs and Others vs. K.V.P. Shastri (Dead) through LRs and Others, (2013)15 SCC 161

For the appellant Ms. Ruma Kaushik, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General,

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

Instant regular second appeal filed under Section 100 CPC is directed against judgment and decree dated 27.4.2006 passed by learned District Judge, Sirmaur at Nahan in Civil Appeal No. 66-CA/13 of 2005 affirming judgment and decree dated 12.8.2005 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) Sirmaur District at Nahan, HP in Civil Suit No. 75/1 of 2003 whereby suit for possession having been filed by the present appellant-plaintiff (in short, 'plaintiff') was dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from the record are that the plaintiff filed a suit for possession claiming therein that he is owner-in-possession of the land comprised in Khewat Khatauni No. 10 min/ 24 min, Khasra Nos. 439 and 453 measuring 356-47 hectares situated at village and Mauza Nauni of Nahan town, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh as per Jamabandi for the year 1995-96 (hereinafter, 'suit land'). Plaintiff further claimed that in the year 1995, at the instance of officials of defendant No.2, the Irrigation and Public Health Department installed water pipe line under Nahan-Khairi pipe line scheme through the land of the plaintiff. Plaintiff claimed that aforesaid line was laid down by the authorities despite the resistance on the part of the plaintiff and the officials of the I&PH Nahan had assured him that land over which pipe line has been laid down, would be acquired by the State Government in accordance with law and he would be given reasonable compensation. Plaintiff further stated that he was induced by the then officers of the defendants that permanent job would be provided to his son. Since the defendants failed to fulfill aforesaid commitment having been made at the time of laying down pipe line through the land of the plaintiff, he was compelled to file suit bearing No. 42/1 of 97 titled as Rameshwar Dass versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others in the Court of learned Sub Judge, 1st Class, Nahan, for mandatory injunction for removal of aforesaid water pipe line from the suit land. Plaintiff further averred in the plaint that during the pendency of the suit, defendants provided job to his son therefore, plaintiff got the suit dismissed in default. Defendants after dismissal of the suit removed the son of the plaintiff from the job illegally and also backed out from their commitment. Plaintiff further claimed that he requested the defendants several times after aforesaid event to acquire the land and to pay compensation but no action was taken by them and as such he was compelled to file instant suit for possession.

3. Defendants by way of written statement, refuted the claim put forth on behalf of the plaintiff by stating that suit is not maintainable since plaintiff had earlier filed Civil Suit on same and similar cause of action, which was dismissed in default and suit is also not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction. On merits, defendants claimed that the pipe line in question was laid down in the year 1995 with the consent of the plaintiff and at no point of time, during laying of pipe line, objection was raised by him. Defendants further denied that the plaintiff at any point of time was given assurance by the officials of the respondent-Department that his son would be given permanent job and compensation would be paid after acquiring the suit land. Defendants further claimed in the written statement that there is no vegetation on the suit land and they have constructed one pillar of size 1.25x 1.25 metres and a pipe of 300 MM dia rests on this pillar and 4.20 RMT of pipe line falls in Khasra No. 453 and 17 RMT pipe line falls in Khasra Nno. 439, which is above the ground level. Defendants specifically pleaded in the written statement that civil suit No. 42/1 of 97 having been filed by the plaintiff was dismissed in default for non-appearance of the plaintiff, vide order dated 6.7.1998, passed by Sub Judge, First Class, Nahan. Defendants further averred that the son of the plaintiff was given appointment on daily wages but he himself abandoned the job voluntarily and thereafter, plaintiff approached the defendant for payment of compensation or removal of the water pipe line from suit land, because he had voluntarily given suit land for laying pipe line.

4. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court settled following issues on 24.6.2004

> "1) Whether plaintiff is entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction/possession directing the defendants to remove the water pipe line illegally laid by the defendants on the suit land? ...OPP
> 2) Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? ... OPD
> 3) Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction ..... OPD
> 4) Whether no cause of action has accrued to the plaintiff to file the present suit against the defendants? . OPD
> 5) Relief:"

5. Subsequently, vide judgment and decree dated 12.8.2005, learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the dismissal of the suit by the learned trial Court, plaintiff preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, which was also dismissed vide judgment and decree dated 27.4.2006, hence, this Regular Second Appeal.

6. Present regular second appeal was admitted on 27.5.2005, on the following substantial questions of law:

> "1. Whether non-consideration of oral as well as documentary evidence, which goes to the root of the matter has vitiated the findings of the ld. Court below?
> 2. Whether the suit of the plaintiff was barred under the law and as such was not maintainable?"

7. Ms. Ruma Kaushik, Advocate on behalf of appellant vehemently argued that the judgments and decrees passed by the learned Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based on correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, as such same are liable to be set aside. Ms. Kaushik, while referring to the judgments of the courts below, contended that bare perusal of same suggests that the evidence led on record by the plaintiff has not been read in its right perspective, as a result of which great prejudice has been caused to the plaintiff, whose land has been admittedly used by the defendants while laying water pipe lines. Ms. Kaushik further contended that both the learned Courts below miserably failed to appreciate that considerable portion of land has been used by the defendants for laying water pipe lines that too without there being any acquisition in accordance with law. She further contended that for the last 25 years, defendants have been using this land without awarding any compensation to the plaintiff and as such judgments passed by both the Courts deserve to be set aside. While concluding her arguments, Ms. Kaushik further contended that it is ample clear from the record that in lieu of land having been used by the defendants, son of plaintiff was offered appointment but subsequently, after dismissal of the suit having been filed by the plaintiff, he was illegally removed from service and as such impugned judgments and decrees passed by the Courts below deserve to be set aside. In the aforesaid background, Ms. Kaushik forcefully contended that the present appeal deserves to be allowed, after setting aside the judgments and decrees passed by the Courts below.

8. Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General duly assisted by Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, supported the judgments and decrees passed by the Courts below. Mr. Negi, while referring to the judgments passed by Courts below, strenuously argued that same nowhere suggest that the evidence led on record by the respective parties has not been dealt with in its right perspective rather as per perusal of judgments, it is revealed that each and every aspect of the matter has been dealt with meticulously by the Courts below and there is no scope of interference, whatsoever by this Court, especially in view of the concurrent findings of fact and law recorded by the Courts below. While referring to the statements having been made by the plaintiff himself, as PW-1, Mr. Negi strenuously argued that the plaintiff was unable to prove on record that at the time of laying of pipes over his land, any assurance was given to him that land would be acquired and he would be paid compensation. Similarly, he further argued that there is no evidence, be it ocular or documentary, adduced on record by the plaintiff suggestive of the fact that any assurance was given to the plaintiff for offering appointment to the son of the plaintiff, as such there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgments and decrees passed by the learned Courts below and same deserve to be upheld. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Negi contended that this Court has limited jurisdiction to re-appreciate evidence while exercising powers under Section 100 CPC, especially when both the Courts below have returned concurrent findings of facts and law.

9. Before adverting to the merits of the case, it would be appropriate to deal with the specific objection raised by the learned counsel representing the defendants with regard to maintainability and jurisdiction of this Court, while examining the concurrent findings returned by both the Courts below, learned counsel for the defendants had invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained."(p.269)

10. Perusal of the judgment, referred hereinabove, suggests that in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. There can be no quarrel (dispute) with regard to aforesaid observation made by the Court and true it is that in normal circumstances High Courts, while exercising powers under Section 100 CPC, are restrained from re-appreciating the evidence available on record, but as emerges from the case referred above, there is no complete bar for this Court to upset the concurrent findings of the Courts below, if the same appears to be perverse.

11. In this regard reliance is placed upon judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Sebastiao Luis Fernandes (Dead) through LRs and Others vs. K.V.P. Shastri (Dead) through LRs and Others, (2013)15 SCC 161 wherein the Court held:

"35. The learned counsel for the defendants relied on the judgment of this Court in Hero Vinoth v. Seshammal, (2006)5 SCC 545, wherein the principles relating to Section 100 of the CPC were summarized in para 24, which is extracted below : (SCC pp.555-56)

"24. The principles relating to Section 100 CPC relevant for this case may be summarised thus:

(i) An inference of fact from the recitals or contents of a document is a question of fact. But the legal effect of the terms of a document is a question of law. Construction of a document involving the application of any principle of law, is also a question of law. Therefore, when there is misconstruction of a document or wrong application of a principle of law in construing a document, it gives rise to a question of law.

(ii) The High Court should be satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law, and not a mere question of law. A question of law having a material bearing on the decision of the case (that is, a question, answer to which affects the rights of parties to the suit) will be a substantial question of law, if it is not covered by any specific provisions of law or settled legal principle emerging from binding precedents, and, involves a debatable legal issue. A substantial question of law will also arise in a contrary situation, where the legal position is clear, either on account of express provisions of law or binding precedents, but the court below has decided the matter, either ignoring or acting contrary to such legal principle. In the second type of cases, the substantial question of law arises not because the law is still debatable, but because the decision rendered on a material question, violates the settled position of law.

(iii) The general rule is that High Court will not interfere with the concurrent findings of the courts below. But it is not an absolute rule. Some of the well-recognised exceptions are where (i) the courts below have ignored material evidence or acted on no evidence; (ii) the courts have drawn wrong inferences from proved facts by applying the law erroneously; or (iii) the courts have wrongly cast the burden of proof. When we refer to "decision based on no evidence", it not only refers to cases where there is a total dearth of evidence, but also refers to any case, where the evidence, taken as a whole, is not reasonably capable of supporting the finding."

We have to place reliance on the afore-mentioned case to hold that the High Court has framed substantial questions of law as per Section 100 of the CPC, and there is no error in the judgment of the High Court in this regard and therefore, there is no need for this Court to interfere with the same." (pp.174-175)

12. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

13. Since both the substantial questions of law are interconnected as such are being taken up together to avoid repetition of discussion of evidence.

14. With a view to explore answer to aforesaid substantial questions of law, this Court carefully analyzed evidence adduced on record by the respective parties, perusal whereof nowhere suggests that there is non-consideration of oral as well as documentary evidence by the Courts below while dismissing the suit of the plaintiff. Similarly, this Court, after carefully examining the judgments passed by the learned Courts below, finds no illegality or infirmity in the findings returned by the learned Courts below that the suit of the plaintiff is barred in law in view of dismissal of earlier suit filed by the plaintiff on same and similar cause of action.

15. Perusal of pleadings available on record suggests that there is no dispute that in the year 1995, Irrigation and Public Health Department Nahan installed water pipe lines under Nahan-Khairi Scheme through the land of the plaintiff. It also emerges from the pleadings that apart from the land of the plaintiff, Department also used land of certain other persons. It is also not in dispute that no compensation was paid to the plaintiff at the time of laying of aforesaid water pipe lines through his land. Since land was never acquired in terms of the Land Acquisition Act, there was no occasion for the defendants to pay compensation to the plaintiff. Though the plaintiff in his pleadings claimed that at the time of laying of pipes, he resisted but later on, on the assurance of officials of the I&PH Department, he allowed to lay pipes through his land. Plaintiff has further claimed that he was assured by the officials of the Department that once work of laying water pipe lines is over, land would be acquired and he would be paid compensation and his son would be offered appointment in the Department.

16. Defendants by way of written statement has specifically denied the aforesaid claim of the plaintiff. It also emerges from the record that in the year 1997, plaintiff had filed Civil Suit on same and similar grounds, which was dismissed in default for non-appearance of the plaintiff vide order dated 6.7.1998, perusal whereof suggests that earlier suit filed by the plaintiff was dismissed in default for non-appearance of the plaintiff as such there is no force in the contention of the plaintiff that he had got his suit dismissed in default because his son was given appointment on daily wages by the Department. With a view to substantiate his case, plaintiff examined himself as PW-1 and also tendered in evidence copies of Jamabandi for the year 1995-96 (Ext. P1), copy of Aks Shajra (Ext. P2), copy of order dated 6.7.1998 (Ext. P3) and notice (Ext. P4). Perusal of Exts. P-1 and P-2 clearly suggests that the suit land is owned and possessed by the plaintiff and there is no dispute qua the same. It also appears from the pleadings that some portion of land has been used by the defendants for laying pipes rather, defendants have only constructed pillars of dimensions of 1.25 x 1.25 and a pipe of 300 mm dia has been rested on the raised pillar in Khasra No. 453 of suit land and a pipe of17 m in Khasra No. 439 of suit land. Remaining portion of suit land is in possession of the plaintiff.

17. This Court while sifting evidence, be it ocular or documentary, adduced on record by the plaintiff was unable to lay its hand on any document, suggestive of the fact that at the time of laying pipelines, assurance was given by the defendants that land would be acquired and plaintiff would be paid compensation. Similarly, there is no evidence suggestive of the fact that defendants at the time of laying pipes had assured to offer appointment to the son of the plaintiff. Though, it emerges from the record that son of the plaintiff was working on daily wages in the Department but admittedly no evidence has been led on record by the plaintiff that his son got appointment in lieu of land offered by him for laying pipe line. Though, there is no dispute regarding laying of pipeline over the suit land, which definitely belongs to the plaintiff but work of laying pipeline was started and completed in 1995 whereas, plaintiff at first instance filed Civil Suit bearing No. 42/1 of 1997 in the year 1997 i.e. after two years, seeking relief of mandatory injunction but admittedly, same was dismissed in default. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that though the plaintiff claimed that he got suit dismissed in default since his son was provided employment on daily wages by the defendants but aforesaid version of the plaintiff was not rightly accepted by the Courts below in the absence of cogent and convincing evidence adduced on record by the plaintiff, whereas as has been noticed above, perusal of Ext. P3 i.e. order dated 6.7.1998, clearly suggests that earlier suit filed by the plaintiff was dismissed in default for non-appearance of the plaintiff. In the written statement, defendant have admitted that the son of plaintiff was offered appointment in the Department but they stated that son, who was working in their Department, himself abandoned the job. Similarly, this Court finds no evidence in support of the claim of the plaintiff that at the relevant time, when pipe line was being laid by the defendants, he was assured by the officials of the Department that he would be paid adequate compensation after acquisition of land rather, this Court, after noticing that earlier suit was filed in the year 1997, is convinced and satisfied that water pipe line was laid through the land of plaintiff with the consent of the plaintiff. Had the plaintiff not consented for laying pipe through his land, he would have raised dispute immediately but in the present case, as has clearly emerged, dispute for the first time was raised after two years in 1997.

18. Interestingly, in the present case, earlier suit filed by plaintiff was dismissed on 6.7.1998. and thereafter no effort was made by the plaintiff to get that suit restored by moving application in accordance with law rather the plaintiff chose to wait for another five years to file another Civil Suit being Civil Suit No. 75/1 of 2003, which itself suggests that the plaintiff had no cause of action rather instant suit has been filed solely with a view to pressurize the defendants to either pay compensation in lieu of land or to offer employment to his son, who admittedly abandoned the job.

19. This Court, after carefully examining the entire evidence led on record by respective parties, sees no illegality or infirmity in the judgments passed by the Courts below and as such there is no force in the contentions raised by the plaintiff that there has been non-consideration of oral as well as documentary evidence, which goes to the root of the matter. This Court, with a view to answer aforesaid substantial question of law, minutely examined entire evidence led on record and found no reason to differ with the findings returned by the learned Courts below, which otherwise appear to be based on correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record. Similarly, this Court, after perusing Ext. P3 sees no illegality in the findings returned by the Courts below that instant suit filed by the plaintiff is barred in law.

20. Substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

21. Consequently, in view of aforesaid discussion above, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed.

22. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are also vacated.

23. This Court, after noticing the fact that the land of the plaintiff has been used by the defendants, that too without paying any compensation to the plaintiff, deems it fit to direct the defendants to consider the request, if any, made by the plaintiff for offering job to his son, who was working with the defendants as daily wager.

Decided on: 6.12. 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner is the sole surviving daughter of late J, who belonged to ST category – the petitioner performed marriage with the non-tribal – the application for grant of tribal certificate was rejected – aggrieved from the rejection, present writ petition has been filed – held, that in case of inter caste marriage or marriage between a tribal and non-tribal person, the status of children is a question of fact – there can be a presumption that children have the status of the father but the presumption is rebuttable – the children had received middle and higher education at Chamba – they had not suffered the disabilities suffered by other members of the scheduled tribe- the application was rightly rejected- appeal dismissed.

(Para-6 to 17)

Case referred:

Rameshbhai Dabhai Naika vs. State of Gujarat and others, (2012) 3 SCC 400

For the Petitioner: Mr. S.R. Chauhan, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Ms. Meenakshi Sharma and RupinderSingh, Addl. A.Gs with Mr. J.S. Guliera, Asstt. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge:

The seminal issue which arises for consideration in this writ petition is: as to whether the children of a tribal woman, who admittedly is married to non-tribal, can claim the status of Scheduled Tribe solely on the basis of their having resided for sometime with the mother (petitioner) in the tribal area, that too, not on account of compulsion, but on account of the petitioner being posted there while working as a Teacher in the Education Department.

2. The bare minimal facts, as are necessary for deciding the controversy in issue, are that the petitioner is alleged to be the only surviving daughter of late Sh. Jodh Singh, who belonged to the Scheduled Tribe category. The petitioner performed marriage with Madan Kumar, who admittedly, was non-tribal. The petitioner is admittedly working in the Education Department and chose to stay back at her native place while being posted there, when her husband was employed and posted elsewhere in SSB.

3. The petitioner has assailed the decision passed by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bharmour rejecting the application for the grant of tribal certificate to her children on the ground that he has not at all taken into consideration that not only did the children of the petitioner reside with her at her house at Ullansa, but even the Gadi community there had accepted these offspring in their folds and had unanimously passed a resolution in favour of the claim being raised by the petitioner.

4. The respondents have filed reply wherein it has been stated that the inquiry into the status of the community of the petitioner was got conducted through Tehsildar, Chamba, who found that in the year 1985, the petitioner had solemnized inter-caste marriage with Madan Kumar son of Prem Lal, resident of village and Post Office Mohal Mangla, Tehsil and District Chamba. He also found that Madan belonged to Rajput/Kashav caste, whereas the petitioner belonged to Scheduled Tribe caste (Gaddi Hali). Madan Kumar was living at Mohalla Obri, Sultanpur, Chamba on the property, which had been purchased by him, whereas the petitioner was reported to be a Government servant and was working as a Teacher in Government Primary School, Udaipur and presently residing at Mohalla Obri, Tehsil and District Chamba with her husband. It was also found that the children of the petitioner had not suffered any disabilities socially, economically and educationally either individually or cumulatively as the children remained with their mother in the tribal area only till their primary education and subsequently all these children got middle and higher education in non-tribal area while residing with their parents in Mohalla Obri, Chamba Town and were, therefore, not entitled to claim the status of Scheduled Tribe.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have perused the material placed on record.

6. At the outset, it may be observed that the petitioner has referred to various texts and judgments in support of the claim that her children are entitled to be considered as Scheduled Tribe.

7. However, I do not feel the necessity to go into the text and the judgments so relied upon, as the question posed in this petitioner has been elaborately and lucidly dealt with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rameshbhai Dabhai Naika vs. State of Gujarat and others, (2012) 3 SCC 400, wherein it was observed as under:

> "[54] In view of the analysis of the earlier decisions and the discussion made above, the legal position that seems to emerge is that in an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal the determination of the caste of the offspring is essentially a question of fact to be decided on the basis of the facts adduced in each case. The determination of caste of a person born of an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal cannot be determined in complete disregard of attending facts of the case.
> [55]. In an inter caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal there may be a presumption that the child has the caste of the father. This presumption may be stronger in the case where in the inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal the husband belongs to a forward caste. But by no means the presumption is conclusive or irrebuttable and it is open to the child of such marriage to lead evidence to show that he/she was brought up by the mother who belonged to the scheduled caste/scheduled tribe. By virtue of being the son of a forward caste father he did not have any advantageous start in life but on the contrary suffered the deprivations, indignities, humilities and handicaps like any other member of the community to which his/her mother belonged. Additionally, that he was always treated a member of the community to which her mother belonged not only by that community but by people outside the community as well."

8. The Hon'ble Supreme Court made a incisive study of the entire case law on the subject and it was thereafter held that any inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non- tribal the determination of the caste of the offspring is essentially a question of fact to be decided on the basis of the facts adduced in each case. The determination of caste of a person born of an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal cannot be determined in complete disregard of attending facts of the case. In an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal there may be a presumption that the child has the caste of the father. This presumption may be stronger in the case where in the inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non tribal the husband belongs to a forward caste. But by no means the presumption is conclusive or irrebuttable and it is open to the child of such marriage to lead evidence to show that he/she was brought up by the mother who belonged to the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe. By virtue of being the son of a forward caste father he did not have any advantageous start in life but on the contrary suffered the deprivations, indignities, humilities and handicaps like any other member of the community to which his/her mother belonged. Additionally, that he was always treated a member of the community to which her mother belonged not only by that community but by people outside the community as well.

9. As already observed earlier, it was on account of petitioner being an employee in the Education Department and having been posted in Government Primary School, Udaipur that she of her own volition and free will chose to remain in the tribal area in the house of her parents' and further it was only on this account that the children of the petitioner got the primary education in Government Primary School, Ullansa. There was no compulsion or even a pressing need for the petitioner to reside in her residential house and this choice was obviously based upon the convenience of the petitioner.

10. It would be noticed that on the transfer of the petitioner to Government Primary School, Gajnui, Kiani and Mehla Block-I/II, all her children came and resided with their parents in the property purchased by them in the Chamba town itself. It is thereafter at Chamba that the children then received their middle and higher education. Therefore, in such circumstances, the certificates produced by the petitioner in support of the claim that her children are recognized as members of the tribal community are of no avail.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner would then heavily rely upon the revenue record to claim that the children of the petitioner having been born and brought up and accepted by the tribal Gadi community at Ullansa Panchayat have to be recognized as Schedule Tribe.

12. It has to be borne in mind that it is on account of extreme socially and economic backwardness arising out of traditional practices of untouchability that is normally considered as a criteria for including a community in the list of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe. However, it does not mean that where a woman belongs to Schedule Tribe and decides to reside for sometime in tribal area with her parents more out of convenience than out of necessity or compulsion, she cannot be heard to claim that her children have been made to face disadvantages as once faced by her after birth.

13. Even otherwise, it has come on record that as per the local custom of the tribal area only the male members of the family has right to inherit the property. Female members of the family can acquire the right to inherit the property on the basis of Will and gift deed. Mere fact that the petitioner possessed a separate ration card would not support the claim of the petitioner as I find that most of the documents placed on record have been created with the sole aim of getting conferred the status of Scheduled Tribe conferred upon the children of the petitioner.

14. In the instant case, it has come on record that the petitioner has purchased the land from her father and thereafter became the owner thereof. Thus, the property has not been acquired by way of inheritance.

15. Before parting, it would be once again necessary to avert to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rameshbhai Dabhai Naika's case (supra), wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court did not accept the guiding principle that no person, who was not a Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe by birth would be deemed to be a member of the Scheduled Caste or Schedule Tribe merely because he or she had married a person belonging to Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe and further did not readily accept the presumption that the child has the caste of the father.

16. However, these findings were rendered in the peculiar facts and circumstances of that case where the High Court had not at all adverted to the fact that the mother of the appellant on the question of his upbringing as a member of the Nayak community and his acceptance in the community. It was in these circumstances that the Hon'ble Supreme Court held the presumption of caste to be rebuttable one.

17. However, this is not the fact situation obtaining in the instant case. Rather, it is a clear case where the petitioner has tried to get a Schedule Tribe certificate in favour of her children despite being disentitle to the same.

18. Having said so, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

CWP No. 3399 of 2014

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25-F- A was working on daily wages with I &P.H.- he was retrenched – he challenged his retrenchment- the Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order and directed the re-engagement with continuity in service except back wages – held, that employer had not complied with the provision of Section 25-H – the person who were junior to A were re-engaged – there is no limitation for making the reference- the award was rightly passed – petition dismissed.(Para-9 to 11)

Case referred:
Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301

For the petitioners: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG.
For the respondent: Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The petitioners, being aggrieved by the award of the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P., passed in Reference No. 367 of 2009, decided on 14.05.2013, maintained this writ petition to set aside and quash the same.

2. Brief facts of the case are that respondent Ashok Kumar had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie from 1995 to October, 2000 and he has worked for 64 days in 1995, 193 days in 1996, 276 days in 1997, 272 days in 1998, 316 days in 1999 and 261 days in 2000 (up to 13.11.2000). It is pleaded in the petition that all surplus workers were disengaged after complying with the provisions of Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") and after following the principle of "Last Come First Go". The respondent has challenged the retrenchment before the learned Labour Court by way of filing claim petition and the learned Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order of the respondent-workman and directed that respondent be re-engaged forthwith granting respondent continuity and seniority in service w.e.f. 13.11.2000, except back wages and further directed that case of the respondent would be considered for regularization from the date/month of the regularization of the services of the juniors.

3. The petitioners have prayed for the dismissal of the claim petition and averred that the order has been passed by the Tribunal below without appreciating the facts and law to its true perspective. It is averred that petitioner has complied with the provisions of Section 25(F), (G) & (H) of the Act and the award passed by the Court below is contrary to the law and the same be set-aside.

4. It is averred that respondent/workman had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie w.e.f. October, 1995 to 13.11.2000 and he has worked for 64 days in 1995, 193 days in 1996, 276 days in 1997, 272 days in 1998, 316 days in 1999 and 261 days in 2000 (up to 13.11.2000). It is further averred that due to shortage of funds and work in the Division, the petitioner was facing huge financial constraints and there being a large number of daily waged workers engaged in the Division, it had become impossible to adjust all the workers. It is further averred that due to less budget provision, the availability of work has decreased such as the service of the respondent, alongwith 363 number of workers were retrenched after complying with the provision of Section 25-F of the Act and by adhering to the principle of "Last Come First Go". It is further averred that the petitioner has duly issued a notice under Section 25-F of the Act to the respondent and similarly situated workmen and had paid the due compensation, preceding retrenchment. It is further averred while disengaging the respondent, the seniority of the Division has been taken into consideration. The seniority is maintainable at Divisional level and the principle of "Last Come First Go" has been strictly followed.

5. In reply, filed by the respondent, it is averred that the petitioners (employer) have challenged the award dated 14.05.2013 rendered by the learned Presiding Judge, Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, in Reference Petition No. 367 of 2009, which has attained finality after one month on 14.06.2013. It is further averred that the civil writ petition filed by the petitioner is not maintainable, without explaining the delay in filing of the civil writ petition. The petitioners have chosen to harass the respondent/claimant so that he may not perform his duties and earn his livelihood/remuneration, which action is in violation of various provisions of the Act.

6. It is further averred that the respondent-workman was working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie, from 1995 to 13.11.2000 and he has worked for 64 days in 1995, 193 days in 1996, 276 days in 1997, 272 days in 1998, 316 days in 1999 and 261 days in 2000 (up to 13.11.2000). It is further averred that he has clearly mentioned in his claim petition, rejoinder with affidavit and also in examination-in-chief, that his juniors were engaged by the petitioners after the retrenchment of the respondent.

7. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award of the learned Labour court is without appreciating the facts, which has come on record and is liable to be set-aside. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent has argued that the award passed by the Labour Court, Dharamshala is as per law and no interference is required and the jurisdiction of this Court is wrongly invoked and writ petition deserves dismissal. To appreciate the arguments, this Court has gone through the record of the case carefully and the law as settled by this Hon'ble Court. Admitted fact is that the respondent was engaged by the petitioners and he has worked with them from 1995 to 13.11.2000 and he has worked for 64 days in 1995, 193 days in 1996, 276 days in 1997, 272 days in 1998, 316 days in 1999 and 261 days in 2000 (up to 13.11.2000).

8. It is further case of the respondent that the petitioners have not re-engaged the respondent till date neither he was given opportunity for re-employment whereas his juniors were engaged. However, the petitioners have denied that any junior was engaged.

9. Seniority list relating to Shri Angrej Singh and others reveals that Smt. Sodha Devi was appointed by the State in the year 1999, whereas the services of Smt. Lata Devi engaged in the year 2000. However, a note has been given that both these ladies were appointed on compassionate grounds. The date of death of their husbands, namely, S/Sh. Ashok Kumar and Tarbeej Singh have not come on the file. The Court below has rightly held that the respondent (petitioners herein) has not complied with the provisions of Section 25(H) of the Act. Shri L.S. Thakur (RW-1) in cross-examination has admitted that Smt. Biasa Devi and Shri Hem Raj have been re-engaged. The names of these two workmen figure at serial No. 414 and 435 of the seniority list. Shri Hem Raj and Smt. Biasa Devi were juniors to the respondent. There is nothing on record that before engaging the freshers, opportunity of re-employment was afforded to the respondent.

10. As discussed above, the impugned award does not suffer from any perversity. The learned Additional Advocate General for the petitioners has canvassed before this Court with vigour that the reference is stale. However, the said submission is unacceptable given the fact that the said fact was not agitated by the employer/petitioner before the appropriate Government at the time Government proceeded to make a reference of the dispute to the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. It has been held in Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301 that there is no limitation for reference to Labour Court under Section 10 of the Act. It was held that words "At any time" mentioned in Section 10 of the Act clearly define that law of limitation would not be applicable qua proceedings of reference under Section 10 of the Act. Operative part of Section 10 of the Act is quoted in extenso:

> "Section 10 of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947:- Reference of dispute to Boards, Courts or Tribunals-(1) where the appropriate Government is of the opinion that any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended, it may at any time by order in writing, (a) Refer the dispute to a Board for promoting a settlement thereof, (b)

Refer any matter appearing to be connected with or relevant to the dispute to a Court for inquiry."

11. In view of the above stated facts it is held that award of learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal Dharamshala in reference No. 367 of 2009, decided on 14.05.2013, is in accordance with proved facts and is in accordance with law. It is further held that there is no illegality in award passed by learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala. Therefore, the writ petition is without any basis, requires dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs. All pending application(s), if any, also stand(s) disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The petitioners, being aggrieved by the award of the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P., passed in Reference No. 336 of 2009, decided on 12.08.2013, maintained this writ petition to set aside and quash the same.

2. Brief facts of the case are that respondent Ashok Kumar had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie w.e.f. July, 1994 to 16.11.2000, and he has worked for 147 days in 1994, 138 days in 1995, 267 days in 1996, 344 days in 1997, 342 days in 1998, 247 days in 1999 and 309 days in 2000 (up to 16.11.2000). It is pleaded in the petition that all surplus workers were disengaged after complying with the provisions of Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") and after following the principle of "Last Come First Go". considered for regularization from the date/month of the regularization of the services of the juniors.

3. The petitioners have prayed for the dismissal of the claim petition and averred that the order has been passed by the Tribunal below without appreciating the facts and law to its true perspective. It is averred that petitioner has complied with the provisions of Section 25(F), (G) & (H) of the Act and the award passed by the Court below is contrary to the law and the same be set-aside.

4. It is averred that respondent/workman had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie w.e.f. July, 1994 to 16.11.2000, and he has worked for 147 days in 1994, 138 days in 1995, 267 days in 1996, 344 days in 1997, 342 days in 1998, 247 days in 1999 and 309 days in 2000 (up to 16.11.2000). It is further averred that due to shortage of funds and work in the Division, the petitioners were facing huge financial constraints and there being a large number of daily waged workers engaged in the Division, it had become impossible to adjust all the workers. It is further averred that the civil writ petition filed by the petitioners is not maintainable, without explaining the delay in filing of the civil writ petition. The petitioners have chosen to harass the respondent/claimant so that he may not perform his duties and earn his livelihood/remuneration, which action is in violation of various provisions of the Act.

6. It is further averred that the respondent-workman was working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie, w.e.f. July, 1994 to 16.11.2000, and he has worked for 147 days in 1994, 138 days in 1995, 267 days in 1996, 344 days in 1997, 342 days in 1998, 247 days in 1999 and 309 days in 2000 (up to 16.11.2000). It is further averred that he has clearly mentioned in his claim petition, rejoinder with affidavit and also in examination-in-chief, that his juniors were engaged by the petitioners after the retrenchment of the respondent.

7. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award of the learned Labour court is without appreciating the facts, which has come on record and is liable to be set-aside. 8. It is further case of the respondent that the petitioners have not re-engaged the respondent till date neither he was given opportunity for re-employment whereas his juniors were engaged. However, the petitioners have denied that any junior was engaged.

9. Seniority list relating to Shri Angrej Singh and others reveals that Smt. Sodha Devi was appointed by the State in the year 1999, whereas the services of Smt. Lata Devi engaged in the year 2000. However, a note has been given that both these ladies were appointed on compassionate grounds. The date of death of their husbands, namely, S/Sh. Ashok Kumar and Tarbeej Singh have not come on the file. The Court below has rightly held that the respondent (petitioners herein) has not complied with the provisions of Section 25(H) of the Act. Shri L.S. Thakur (RW-1) in cross-examination has admitted that Smt. Biasa Devi and Shri Hem Raj have been re-engaged. The names of these two workmen figure at serial No. 414 and 435 of the seniority list. Shri Hem Raj and Smt. Biasa Devi were juniors to the respondent. There is nothing on record that before engaging the freshers, opportunity of re-employment was afforded to the respondent.

10. As discussed above, the impugned award does not suffer from any perversity. The learned Additional Advocate General for the petitioners has canvassed before this Court with vigour that the reference is stale. However, the said submission is unacceptable given the fact that the said fact was not agitated by the employer/petitioner before the appropriate Government at the time Government proceeded to make a reference of the dispute to the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. It has been held in Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301 that there is no limitation for reference to Labour Court under Section 10 of the Act. It was held that words "At any time" mentioned in Section 10 of the Act clearly define that law of limitation would not be applicable qua proceedings of reference under Section 10 of the Act. Operative part of Section 10 of the Act is quoted in extenso:

> "Section 10 of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947:- Reference of dispute to Boards, Courts or Tribunals-(1) where the appropriate Government is of the opinion that any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended, it may at any time by order in writing, (a) Refer the dispute to a Board for promoting a settlement thereof, (b) Refer any matter appearing to be connected with or relevant to the dispute to a Court for inquiry."

11. In view of the above stated facts it is held that award of learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal Dharamshala in reference No. 367 of 2009, decided on 14.05.2013, is in accordance with proved facts and is in accordance with law. It is further held that there is no illegality in award passed by learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala. Therefore, the writ petition is without any basis, requires dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs. All pending application(s), if any, also stand(s) disposed of.

Decided on: 06.12.2016

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25-F- A was working on daily wages with I &P.H.- he was retrenched – he challenged his retrenchment- the Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order and directed the re-engagement with continuity in service except back wages – held, that employer had not complied with the provision of Section 25-H – the person who were junior to A were re-engaged – there is no limitation for making the reference- the award was rightly passed – petition dismissed.(Para-9 to 11)

Case referred:

Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301

For the petitioners: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG.
For the respondent: Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The petitioners, being aggrieved by the award of the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P., passed in Reference No. 5 of 2010, decided on 03.07.2013, maintained this writ petition to set aside and quash the same.

2. Brief facts of the case are that respondent Ashok Kumar had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie w.e.f. November, 1995 to 01.09.2000, and he has worked for 44 days in 1995, 163 days in 1996, 218 days in 1997, 238 days in 1998, 132 days in 1999 and 146 days in 2000 (up to 01.09.2000). It is pleaded in the petition that all surplus workers were disengaged after complying with the provisions of Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") and after following the principle of "Last Come First Go". The respondent has challenged the retrenchment before the learned Labour Court by way of filing claim petition and the learned Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order of the respondent-workman and directed that respondent be re-engaged forthwith granting respondent continuity and seniority in service w.e.f. 01.09.2000, except back wages and further directed that case of the respondent would be considered for regularization from the date/month of the regularization of the services of the juniors.

3. The petitioners have prayed for the dismissal of the claim petition and averred that the order has been passed by the Tribunal below without appreciating the facts and law to its true perspective. It is averred that petitioner has complied with the provisions of Section 25(F), (G) & (H) of the Act and the award passed by the Court below is contrary to the law and the same be set-aside.

4. It is averred that respondent/workman had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie w.e.f. November, 1995 to 01.09.2000, and he has worked for 44 days in 1995, 163 days in 1996, 218 days in 1997, 238 days in 1998, 132 days in 1999 and 146 days in 2000 (up to 01.09.2000). It is further averred that due to shortage of funds and work in the Division, the petitioners were facing huge financial constraints and there being a large number of daily waged workers engaged in the Division, it had become impossible to adjust all the workers. It is further averred that due to less budget provision, the availability of work has decreased such as the service of the respondent, alongwith 363 number of workers were retrenched after complying with the provision of Section 25-F of the Act and by adhering to the principle of "Last Come First Go". It is further averred that the petitioners have duly issued a notice under Section 25-F of the Act to the respondent and similarly situated workmen and had paid the due compensation, preceding retrenchment. It is further averred that while disengaging the respondent, the seniority of the Division has been taken into consideration. The seniority is maintainable at Divisional level and the principle of "Last Come First Go" has been strictly followed.

5. In reply, filed by the respondent, it is averred that the petitioners (employer) have challenged the award dated 03.07.2013 rendered by the learned Presiding Judge, Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, in Reference Petition No. 5 of 2010, which has attained finality after one month on 03.08.2013. It is further averred that the civil writ petition filed by the petitioners is not maintainable, without explaining the delay in filing of the civil writ petition. The petitioners have chosen to harass the respondent/claimant so that he may not perform his duties and earn his livelihood/remuneration, which action is in violation of various provisions of the Act.

6. It is further averred that the respondent-workman was working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Dalhousie, w.e.f. November, 1995 to 01.09.2000, and he has worked for 44 days in 1995, 163 days in 1996, 218 days in 1997, 238 days in 1998, 132 days in 1999 and 146 days in 2000 (up to 01.09.2000). It is further averred that he has clearly mentioned in his claim petition, rejoinder with affidavit and also in examination-in-chief, that his juniors were engaged by the petitioners after the retrenchment of the respondent.

7. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award of the learned Labour Court is without appreciating the facts, which have come on record and is liable to be set-aside. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent has argued that the award passed by the Labour Court, Dharamshala is as per law and no interference is required and the jurisdiction of this Court is wrongly invoked and writ petition deserves dismissal. To appreciate the arguments, this Court has gone through the record of the case carefully and the law as settled by this Hon'ble Court. Admitted fact is that the respondent was engaged by the petitioners and he has worked with them w.e.f. November, 1995 to 01.09.2000, and he has worked for 44 days in 1995, 163 days in 1996, 218 days in 1997, 238 days in 1998, 132 days in 1999 and 146 days in 2000 (up to 01.09.2000).

8. It is further case of the respondent that the petitioners have not re-engaged the respondent till date neither he was given opportunity for re-employment whereas his juniors were engaged. However, the petitioners have denied that any junior was engaged.

9. Seniority list relating to Shri Angrej Singh and others reveals that Smt. Sodha Devi was appointed by the State in the year 1999, whereas the services of Smt. Lata Devi engaged in the year 2000. However, a note has been given that both these ladies were appointed on compassionate grounds. The date of death of their husbands, namely, S/Sh. Ashok Kumar and Tarbeej Singh have not come on the file. The Court below has rightly held that the respondent (petitioners herein) has not complied with the provisions of Section 25(H) of the Act. Shri L.S. Thakur (RW-1) in cross-examination has admitted that Smt. Biasa Devi and Shri Hem Raj have been re-engaged. The names of these two workmen figure at serial No. 414 and 435 of the seniority list. Shri Hem Raj and Smt. Biasa Devi were juniors to the respondent. There is nothing on record that before engaging the freshers, opportunity of re-employment was afforded to the respondent.

10. As discussed above, the impugned award does not suffer from any perversity. The learned Additional Advocate General for the petitioners has canvassed before this Court with vigour that the reference is stale. However, the said submission is unacceptable given the fact that the said fact was not agitated by the employer/petitioner before the appropriate Government at the time Government proceeded to make a reference of the dispute to the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. It has been held in Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301 that there is no limitation for reference to Labour Court under Section 10 of the Act. It was held that words "At any time" mentioned in Section 10 of the Act clearly define that law of limitation would not be applicable qua proceedings of reference under Section 10 of the Act. Operative part of Section 10 of the Act is quoted in extenso:

11. In view of the above stated facts it is held that award of learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal Dharamshala in reference No. 5 of 2010, decided on 03.07.2013, is in accordance with proved facts and is in accordance with law. CWP No. 4481 of 2013

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25-F- P was working on daily wages with I &P.H.- he was retrenched – he challenged his retrenchment- the Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order and directed the re-engagement with continuity in service except back wages – held, that plea of the employer that P had abandoned the service has not been established- merely because a workman had not reported for duty cannot lead to an inference of abandonment- a disciplinary inquiry should have been initiated against the workman for abandoning the service, which was not done- fresh hands were engaged and employer had not complied with the provision of Section 25-H –there is no limitation for making the reference- the award was rightly passed – petition dismissed.(Para-10 to 13)

Case referred:
Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301

For the petitioners: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.
For the respondent: Mr. Vinod Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The petitioners, being aggrieved by the award of the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P., passed in Reference No. 15 of 2010, decided on 13.09.2013, maintained this writ petition to set aside and quash the same.

2. Succinctly the key facts necessary for adjudication of the present petition are that the State Government referred the following reference to the learned Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P.:

> "Whether termination of services of Shri Partap Singh s/o Shri Lajju Ram, by The Executive Engineer, IPH division Padhar, Distt. Mandi, H.P. w.e.f. 12.12.2000, without complying the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 whereas junior to him are retained by the employer, is legal and justified? If not, what relief of service benefits and amount of compensation the above aggrieved workman is entitled to?"

3. As per the petitioners, respondent Partap Singh (workman) had been working on daily wage basis with the Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Padhar w.e.f. 21.06.1987 to 11.12.2000, and he did not complete 240 days in the years 1989 to 1992 and 1997. The workman also did not complete 240 days in the calendar year preceding twelve calendar months of his retrenchment. It is pleaded that after 11.12.2000, the workman himself abandoned the work. As the workman, did not complete 240 days during the calendar year preceding his retrenchment, there is break in service disentitling him the protection under Section 25F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"). As per the petitioners, the workman remained dormant for nine years and ultimately maintained the reference petition, which was hit by delay and laches, but the fact qua delay and laches was overlooked by the learned Tribunal below. The workman abandoned the job himself, thus he has no right to take benefit of the fact that his juniors have been retained. The workman has challenged the retrenchment before the learned Labour Court by way of filing the claim petition and the learned Labour Court set aside the retrenchment order of the respondent-workman and directed that he be re-engaged forthwith granting continuity and seniority in service w.e.f. 12.12.2000, except back wages and the order is thus against law and required to be set-aside.

4. As per the petitioners, the reference petition was hit by delay and laches, but the said fact was ignored by the learned Tribunal below. The petitioners have prayed for quashing and setting aside the impugned award and averred that the award has been passed by the learned Tribunal below without appreciating the facts and law to their true perspective. It is averred that award of the learned Tribunal below holding that the petitioners have not complied with the provisions of Section 25(G) and 25(H) of the Act is contrary to the evidence and the same also being contrary to law may be set-aside.

5. The workman did not file any reply to the petition. However, the stand of workman, as taken in the reference petition, was that he was engaged as daily waged beldar by the petitioners on muster roll basis w.e.f. 21.06.1987. On 12.12.2000 his services were illegally terminated without adhering to the mandatory provisions of the Act. As per the workman, he was given artificial breaks during employment and the same is required to be counted towards his continuous service. His services were terminated verbally and the persons junior to him were retained. Thus, the petitioners did not adhere to the principle of 'last come first go'. The action of the petitioners was highly illegal and unjustified, thus violative of Sections 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Act.

6. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award of the learned Tribunal below is without appreciating the facts, which have come on record and is liable to be set-aside. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent has argued that the award passed by the Labour Court, Dharamshala, is as per law and no interference is required and the jurisdiction of this Court is wrongly invoked and writ petition deserves dismissal.

7. In order to appreciate the arguments, this Court has gone through the record of the case carefully.

8. The workman, who tendered his affidavit, Ex. PW-1/A, has submitted that he joined the service in the year 1987 and was removed in the month of November, 2000. He has admitted that he raised the industrial dispute in the year 2010 and prior to that he had approached the H.P. State Administrative Tribunal. The workman has denied that he left the job on his own.

9. RW-1, Shri Arun Sharma, Executive Engineer, I&PH Division, Padhar, in his cross-examination has admitted that after the disengagement of the services of the petitioner, new labour has been employed and the workman was not afforded any opportunity of re-employment. The workman was not served with any notice to resume his duties.

10. Indisputably, the workman was engaged as a daily waged beldar on 21.06.1987 and he, with frictional breaks, worked upto 11.12.2000. As per the petitioners, the workman himself abandoned the job. It is settled that abandonment is not to be lightly presumed, but it has to be unequivocally proved by the employer. The workman did fails to report for duty does not in any way raise a presumption that the workman himself left the job. Admittedly, while analyzing the statement of RW-1, it is manifest that no notice was served upon the petitioner asking him to resume duties. Even if, it is presumed that the workman had abandoned the job himself and the same is a gross misconduct, in that case some disciplinary inquiry should have been initiated against the workman, but there is no evidence which reveals that the employer ever conducted any disciplinary inquiry. Therefore, the plea of willful absence, unestablished.

11. It has also come on record that fresh hands were engaged by the employer without affording opportunity to the workman. The seniority list, Ex. RW-1/B, if read in conjunction with statement of RW-1, clearly demonstrates that persons junior to the workman are serving with the petitioners, which is in defiance to the principle of 'last go first come'. Therefore, provisions of Sections 25-G and 25-H of the Act have been contravened and it is not obligatory for the workman to have completed 240 days in a block of 12 calendar months preceding termination to derive the benefit under these sections of the Act. As per the petitioners, Section 25-F of the Act, is not applicable as the workman did not complete 240 days in cumulative period of 12 calendar months preceding his termination.

12. The learned Additional Advocate General for the petitioners has canvassed before this Court with vigour that the reference is stale. However, the said submission is unacceptable given the fact that the said fact was not agitated by the employer/petitioner before the appropriate Government at the time Government proceeded to make a reference of the dispute to the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. It has been held in Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014) 10 SCC 301 that there is no limitation for reference to Labour Court under Section 10 of the Act. It was held that words "At any time" mentioned in Section 10 of the Act clearly define that law of limitation would not be applicable qua proceedings of reference under Section 10 of the Act. Operative part of Section 10 of the Act is quoted in extenso:

> "Section 10 of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947:- Reference of dispute to Boards, Courts or Tribunals-(1) where the appropriate Government is of the opinion that any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended, it may at any time by order in writing, (a) Refer the dispute to a Board for promoting a settlement thereof, (b) Refer any matter appearing to be connected with or relevant to the dispute to a Court for inquiry."

Further it has come on record that the workman, in the meantime, had also approached the H.P. State Administrative Tribunal, thus, it cannot be said the workman has delayed the proceedings.

13. In view of the above stated facts it is held that award of learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal Dharamshala in reference No. 15 of 2010, decided on 13.09.2012, is in accordance with proved facts and is in accordance with law. It is further held that there is no illegality in award passed by learned Presiding Judge Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala. Therefore, the writ petition is without any basis, requires dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs. All pending application(s), if any, also stand(s) disposed of.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P. S. Rana, J.

Present civil revision petition is filed under section 115 Code of Civil Procedure 1908 against order dated 02.07.2016 passed by learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division) Dehra Distt. Kangra (H.P.) whereby learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division) allowed the application filed under order I Rule 10 read with section 151 CPC by Ms. Sudesh Kumari.

Brief facts of the case:

2. Sh. Sunil Kumar and others filed civil suit for declaration to the effect that plaintiffs are owners in possession of suit land. It is pleaded that suit land is ancestral coparcenery property. It is further pleaded that co-defendant No.1 got no right for alienation creating any charge or mortgaging or disposing of the suit property. It is further pleaded that mortgage deed dated 12.03.2014 executed by co-defendant No.1 in favour of co-defendant No.2 is without consideration, collusive and has been fraudulently got executed to defeat the legal rights of plaintiffs. It is further pleaded that same be declared as null and void.It is further pleaded that mutation No.235 dated 10.06.2014 be also declared as illegal. Additional relief of perpetual and prohibitory injunction also sought restraining defendants from dispossessing plaintiffs or raising any construction or alienating suit land or creating any charge, mortgage or cutting or removing trees. Additional relief of mandatory injunction also sought directing defendants to restore the land to its original position. In alternative relief of possession of suit land also sought.

3. Per contra written statement filed on behalf of co-defendant No.1 pleaded therein that suit is not maintainable and plaintiffs are estopped by their act conduct and acquiescence to file present suit. It is pleaded that plaintiffs have no cause of action to file suit. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have no locus standi to file present suit. It is further pleaded that suit is not properly valued for purposes of Court fee and jurisdiction and suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties i.e. Sonu Sharma and Sudesh. It is further pleaded that suit land is not ancestral joint Hindu coparcenery property. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have no cause of action to file present suit and prayer for dismissal of suit sought.

4. Per contra separate written statement filed on behalf of co-defendant No.2 pleaded therein that suit is not maintainable and plaintiffs have no cause of action to file suit and plaintiffs have no locus standi to file present suit and suit is not properly valued. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs are estopped by their act conduct and acquiescence from filing present suit. It is further pleaded that entry of mortgage in favour of co-defendant No.2 relating to suit land is in consonance with law. It is further pleaded that co-defendant No.1 took loan from co-defendant No.2 to the tune of Rs.12 lacs for education of his children and for repair of his shop. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs are not entitled for any decree as prayed and prayer for dismissal of suit sought.

5. During pendency of suit Ms. Sudesh Kumari filed application under Order I Rule 10 CPC pleaded therein that she is co-owner of suit land and her ownership is recorded in record of rights prepared by revenue officials. It is pleaded that ad-interim injunction has been granted by learned Trial Court and she being co-owner of suit land is not in a position to alienate her own share. It is further pleaded that Ms. Sudesh Kumari is necessary party in civil suit and prayer for acceptance of application filed under Order I Rule 10 CPC sought.

6. Response filed on behalf of plaintiffs to application filed under Order I Rule 10 CPC. Plaintiffs contested the application pleaded therein that application is not maintainable. It is pleaded that Ms. Sudesh Kumari is not necessary party in present civil suit. It is further pleaded that present suit is filed for declaration and mortgage executed by co-defendant No.1 in favour of co-defendant No.2 has been challenged in present civil suit. It is further pleaded that Ms. Sudesh Kumari has no concern with share of co-defendant No.1. It is further pleaded that present application is filed in collusion with other co-defendants and prayer for dismissal of application sought.

7. Learned Trial Court impleaded Ms. Sudesh Kumari as co-defendant No.3 in civil suit under Order I Rule 10 CPC. Feeling aggrieved against order passed by learned Trial Court plaintiffs have filed present revision petition.

8. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-revisionists and Court also perused entire record of case carefully.

9. Following points arises for determination:

1) Whether civil revision petition filed by revisionists is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of revision petition?

2) Relief.

Findings upon Point No.1 with reasons.

10. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that Ms. Sudesh Kumari is not necessary party in present civil suit and no relief is claimed against her by revisionists in civil suit and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Name of Ms. Sudesh Kumari is recorded as one of co-owners of suit property in jamabandies prepared by revenue officials under H.P. Land Revenue Act 1954. Jamabandies have been prepared by public official in discharge of their official duties and are relevant fact under section 35 of Indian Evidence Act 1872. It is well settled law that in suit for declaration all the co-owners are necessary parties because all the co-owners in joint property have direct interest in suit property till joint land is not partitioned in accordance with law. Following are the rights of co-owners in the suit property: (1) A co-owner has an interest in the whole property and also in every parcel of it. (2) Possession of one co-owner in joint property is possession of all. (3) A mere occupation of a larger portion or even of an entire joint property does not necessarily amount to ouster because possession of one is deemed to be on behalf of all. (4) The above rule admits of one exception when there is ouster of a co-owner by another. But in order to negative the presumption of joint possession on behalf of all on the ground of ouster the possession of a co-owner must not only be exclusive but also hostile to the knowledge of the other. (5) Passage of time does not extinguish the right of the co-owner who has been out of possession of the joint property except in the event of ouster or abandonment. (6) Every co-owner has a right to use the joint property in a husband like manner. (See AIR 1961 Punjab 528 Sant Ram Nagina Ram Vs. Daya Ram Nagina Ram and others.

11. It is well settled law that Court can direct impleadment of parties at any stage of civil suit under Order I Rule 10(2) Code of Civil Procedure 1908 whose presence before Court is necessary in order to effectively and completely adjudicate and settled all questions involved in suit property and concept of dominus litis would not apply upon necessary parties in civil suit. See (1992) 2 SCC 524Ramesh Hirachand Kundanmal Vs. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay. See (1994)1 SCC 402 New Redbank Tea Co.Pvt Ltd. Vs. Kumkum Mittal and others. It is held that Ms. Sudesh Kumari is necessary party in civil suit because Ms. Sudesh Kumari is one of co-owners of suit land and she has direct interest in the decision of present civil suit of declaration. It is held that interest of Ms. Sudesh Kumari will be adversely effected in a declaratory suit if Ms. Sudesh Kumari is not impleaded as co-defendant in civil suit being co-owner in suit property because plaintiffs have sought relief of declaration to the effect that plaintiffs are owners in possession of suit land with specific shares. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra it is held that order of learned Trial Court is in consonance with law. It is held that there is no illegality in the order of learned Trial Court. In view of above stated factspoint No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Relief).

12. In view of findings upon point No.1 present civil revision petition is dismissed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

United India Insurance Co. Ltd. .....Appellant.
Versus
Smt. Teji Devi & others ....Respondents.

FAO No. 416 of 2016 along with Cross Objection No. 122 of 2016.
Decided on : 6th December, 2016.

Employees Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Deceased was a conductor in a truck- he died in an accident- compensation of Rs.9,05,520/- was awarded – held in appeal that the monthly wages of the workmen have to be taken as Rs.4,000/- in view of the statutory provisions – the Commissioner had wrongly taken the income as Rs.8,000/- - after deducting 50% amount and taking the factor as 225.22, compensation of Rs.4,50,440/- (2000 x 225.22) awarded- along with interest @ 12% per annum. (Para-5 to 8)

For the Appellant: Mr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.
For respondents No.1 &2: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For Respondents No.3 and 4: Ms. Archana Dutt, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal arises from the impugned order rendered on 16.02.2016 in W.C. Petition No.66 of 2011 by the learned Commissioner, Employees Compensation, Civil Judge (Senior Devision) Mandi, District Mandi, H.P., (for short the "Commissioner"), whereby he allowed the petition preferred thereat by the claimants/respondents No.1 & 2 for the grant of compensation under the Workmen (Employee's) Compensation Act (for short the "Act").

2. The predecessor-in-interest of respondents No.1 and 2 herein during the course of his employment as a conductor in truck bearing No. HP-38-F-8529 owned by respondent No.3 herein suffered his end in a motor vehicle accident involving the aforesaid vehicle. Under the impugned award the learned Commissioner assessed compensation in a sum of Rs.9,05,520/- vis-a-vis the successor-in-interest of deceased Bhimi Singh, liability whereof for its defrayment qua them stood fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

3. Uncontrovertedly, in the accident involving truck bearing No. HP-30F-8529 owned by respondent No.4, whereon the deceased stood engaged as a conductor by its owner, the truck aforesaid suffered a mishap on 2.11.2009, in sequel whereof, deceased Bhimi Singh met his end, obviously when thereat he was performing thereon his relevant employment as a conductor under respondent No.3 herein.

4. After hearing the learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer also the counsel for the Cross-objector, the instant appeal as also the cross-objections instituted by the Cross-objector stand admitted by this Court on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

FAO No. 416 of 2016.

"1. Whether the Commissioner is justified to conclude the salary of the deceased Bhimi Singh for Rs.8000/- per month without there being any evidence and whether the Commissioner is competent to ignore the maximum ceiling of salary of a workman for Rs.4000/0 per month as contemplated in Section 4(a)(a)(b), Explanation II of The Employees Compensation Act, 1923, where the monthly wages of a workman exceeded 4000/- rupees, his monthly wages for the purpose of Clause (a) and (b) shall be deemed to be 4000/- rupees only?

2. Whether the Commissioner below is justified in to apply relevant factor of 226.38 in the instant case especially when the age of deceased was 19 years and as per schedule IV under Section 4 of the Employees Compensation Act, 1923 the relevant factor is 225.22?

Cross Objections No.122 of 2016.

3. Whether the objectors/respondents No.1 and 2 are entitled to interest on the compensation amount awarded @ 12% per annum in terms of Section 4 of the Employees Compensation Act?

Substantial Question of law No.1.

5. Given the uncontroverted factum qua the accident involving the vehicle aforesaid occurring on 2.11.2009 warranted the learned Commissioner to in his proceeding to assess compensation qua the claimants/successors-in-interest of deceased Bhimi Singh to mete deference to the apposite statutory provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, apposite provisions whereof stand encapsulated in Explanation-II occurring in Section 4 of The Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, Explanation-II whereof stood incorporated therein by a legislative Enactment brought into force by the Act of 46 of 2000 besides under the amendment aforesaid carried vis-a-vis Section 4 of the Act whereby Explanation-II stood incorporated therein, the apposite Explanation-II embodied therein acquired force on 8.12.2000. The currency of the aforesaid Explanation-II, added to Section 4 of the Workmen Compensation Act, 1923 by the legislative amendment aforesaid remained in existence upto 17.01.2010 therewithin a mandate stands cast upon the learned Commissioner to in sequel thereof imminently with the accident hereat occurring on 2.11.2009, hence, during the currency of the provisions of Explanation-II added to the statute by way of an amendment effectuated on 8.12.2000, to where evidently the monthly wages of a workman exceed Rs.4000/-, his monthly wages for the purpose of applying thereon the relevant statutory factor standing circumscribed in a sum of Rs.4000/-, hence, mete deference thereto. Contrarily, the learned Commissioner has inaptly drawn a conclusion qua with the evident factum of the deceased drawing from his relevant employment as a conductor under respondent No.3 herein in the ill-fated vehicle herein monthly wages in a sum of Rs.8000/, whereupon he by applying the inapposite statutory provisions circumscribed his wages in a sum of Rs.4000/-, for the relevant computation standing made therefrom, he thereafter made an erroneous computation of compensation amount payable to the claimants. The inherent fallacy ingraining the factum of the learned Commissioner inaptly proceeding to mete deference to the amended provisions of Section 4 of The Employee's Compensation Act, 1923, whereupon under an apposite legislative amendment brought into force with effect from 18.01.2010, Explanation-II incorporated therein by an amendment which previously occurred in the year 2000 stood omitted, visibly arises from his fallaciously meteing retrospective effect thereto, whereas with the ill-fated accident involving truck bearing No. HP-38-F-8429, whereupon, deceased Bhimi Singh stood employed as a conductor under respondent No.3 herein occurring on 2.11.2009 whereat the provisions of Explanation-II occurring in Section 4 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 enjoyed force besides sanctity warranted deference standing meted thereto by the learned Commissioner, reiteratedly his conspicuously proceeding to revere or mete deference to the provisions of Section 4 of the Employee's Compensation Act, 1923 whereby in the year 2010, explanation-II which hitherto occurred therewithin stood deleted is grossly unwarranted. Consequently, the learned Commissioner has fallen in gross error while computing the reckonable salary of the deceased at Rs.8000/- per month, whereas, by applying the rigors of the apposite Explanation-II of Section 4 of the Workmen's Compensation Act it is to stand statutorily restricted in a sum of Rs.4000/- per month whereon after meteing thereto the apposite statutory deduction, the apposite factor for computing compensation vis-a-vis the claimants/respondents No.1 and 2 is to be applied. Accordingly, substantial questions of law No.1 is answered in favour of appellant and against the respondents.

Substantial question of law No.2.

6. The learned Commissioner while applying the relevant statutory principle/factor for computing compensation qua the claimants/respondents No.1 and 2 herein has slighted the age of the deceased workman which indisputably at the time of accident was 19 years, whereupon, the relevant factor for application vis-a-vis the compensation amount prescribed in Schedule-II is 225.22, whereas, his applying the inapposite factor of 226.38 has resulted in his computing an unfair or an erroneous compensation amount vis-a-vis the successors-in-interest of the deceased workman. Consequently, for the reasons aforestated, when explanation-II of The Workmen's Compensation Act was applicable at the relevant time of occurrence of the ill-fated mishap, thereupon with this Court concluding qua the deceased workman uncontrovertedly at the relevant time of his employment under his employer earning a salary exceeding Rs.4000/- per month, whereupon with the apt Explanation-II mandating qua his salary standing pegged in a sum of Rs.4000/- per month, whereupon after meteing 50% deduction thereto, the apt reckonable amount per mensem comes to Rs.2000/-, on application thereon of the relevant statutory factor of 225.22, the compensation amount assessable vis-a-vis the claimants/successor-in-interest/respondents No.1 and 2 is computable in a sum of Rs.4,50,440/- (Rs. 2000X225.22). Accordingly, substantial question of law No.2 is answered in favour of the appellant and against the respondents.

Substantial Question of Law No.3.

7. The learned counsel appearing for respondents No.1 and 2/cross-objectors submits that the learned Commissioner erroneously awarded interest @ 6% per annum on the compensation amount. The aforesaid submission warrants it being accepted as the levying of interest by the learned Commissioner on the compensation amount is beyond the statutory prescription held in clause (a), sub-section (3) of Section 4-A of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 wherewithin a mandate is held qua interest @ 12% being leviable since the elapse of one month since the accident. Consequently, the aforesaid compensation amount assessed at Rs. 4,50,440/- qua the claimants/ respondents No.1 and 2 shall carry interest at the rate of 12% per annum from one month elapsing since the date of accident till its realization. Accordingly, substantial question of law No.3 is answered in favour of the cross-objectors/respondents No.1 and 2 and against the appellant. Liability qua the aforesaid compensation amount shall be borne by the insurer.

8. For the reasons recorded hereinabove, the instant appeal as also the cross-objections are both allowed. Consequently, the impugned award is modified in the manner aforestated. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Civil Revision No. 158 of 2011.
Reserved on 25.11.2016.
Decided on: 7.12.2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 21 Rule 32- Civil suit was decreed for specific performance of the agreement – the decree was put to execution – Court ordered the execution of the sale deed and directed the vendee to join J.D. for completing the sale – held, that decree was passed for specific performance of the agreement relating to Khasra No.508 – the Court had directed the execution of the sale deed in respect of Khasra No.508/8- the Executing Court cannot go behind the decree – revision allowed and the Court directed to execute the sale deed in accordance with the decree. (Para- 5 to 9)

For the petitioner. : Mr. G.C. Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Meera, Advocate.
For respondent. : Mr. H. C. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of this revision petition, the petitioner/judgment debtor has challenged the order passed by executing Court i.e. the Court of learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division), Karsog, Distt. Mandi in Execution Petition No. 16-10/2010 dated 6.9.2011, vide which executing Court has directed the petitioner/judgment debtor to execute sale deed in favour of respondent/decree-holder out of the land comprised in khasra No. 508/8 to the extent mentioned in the decree.

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that in Civil Suit No. 41/2008 filed by the respondent/decree-holder against petitioner/judgment debtor, the following judgment and decree was passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Karsog dated 27.8.2009:

> "It is ordered that suit filed by the plaintiff is decreed to the effect that plaintiff is entitled to specific performance of agreement dated 15.2.2007 in respect of the land comprised in khata/khatauni No. 486/669 khasra No. 508, measuring 6-16-13 bighas situated at muhal karsog/416, Tehsil Karsog, Distt. Mandi, HP to the extent of 0-1-16 bighas out of the share of defendant total measuring 0-18-15 bighas. The defendants are also directed to execute the sale deed of the suit land measuring of 0-1-16 bighas as per agreement dated 15.2.2007 on payment to him or depositing of remaining sale consideration amount in the Court within three months. Keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, parties are left to bear their own costs."

3. It is also pertinent to refer to the prayer clause of the plaint, on the basis of which the said judgment and decree was passed by learned trial court which is quoted herein below:-

> "It is, therefore, prayed that a decree for specific performance of agreement dated 15.2.2007 may kindly be passed in favour of the plaintiff while directing the defendant to execute the Registered sale deed of his share to the extent of 33 x 22 feets i.e. measuring about 0-1-16 bighas in the land comprised in Khata/Khatauni No. 486/669 Khasra No. 508 measuring 6-16-13 bighas situated in muhal

Karsog/416, Tehsil Karsog, Distt. Mandi H.P. in which the defendant has got 0-18-15 bighas and the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of contract i.e. to pay the balance sale amount of Rs. 25000/- to the defendant and it is the defendant who has failed to perform his part of contract i.e. the defendant has failed to execute the sale deed of the suit land in favour of the plaintiff in stipulated period i.e. upto 15.8.2007 and a decree to this effect may kindly be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant together with cost of the suit and in spite of it the double amount to the tune of Rs. 1,42,000/- as agreed may also be decreed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant and any other relief to which the plaintiff be found entitled to in the circumstances of the case be passed in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant for which the plaintiff shall ever pray."

4. It is not a disputed fact that the judgment and decree passed by learned trial court has attained finality.

5. In the execution petition filed by respondent/decree-holder for execution of the judgment and decree passed in his favour by learned trial court, executing court passed the following order:-

> "I have heard ld. Counsels for the parties. Ld. Counsel for the D.H. argues that respondent/J.D. has tried to frustrate the decree passed in his favour by selling a portion of land to Bihar Lal which was agreed to be sold to D.H. To the contrary, ld. Counsel for the J.D. argues that J.D. is ready and willing to execute sale deed as per decree but D.H. cannot demand specific property as he had purchased the land from the joint land.
> The trial Court has specifically ordered that J.D. shall execute the Sale deed to the extent of 0-1-16 bighas as per agreement dated 15.2.2007. Now this agreement clearly reads that J.D. had agreed to sell 33x22 feet land adjoining to Karsog-Gharatha Road towards upper side for Rs.96,000/-. Now the contents of this agreement do not leave any doubt that D.H. is entitled to get sale deed executed in his favour of the land which is adjoining to Gharatha-Karsog road.
> Now it is emerging from the oral as well as written contentions of the parties before the court that J.D. has got only one Khasra number adjoining to the road i.e. 508/8. Now J.D. is duty bound to execute the sale deed in favour of D.H. out of that land and any sale made by him in violation of the directions given in the decree cannot sustain and accordingly vendee shall be bound by the decree in view of Section 52 of T.P. Act. Accordingly, it is direct5ed that J.D. shall execute the sale deed in favour of the D.H. out of the land comprised in Khasra No. 508/8 to the extent of mentioned in the decree. The vendee Bihari Lal shall join the J.D. in completing the sale deed in favour of the D.H. within 45 days.
> Let file be fixed for consideration on 21.10.2011."

6. Mr. G.C. Gupta learned Senior Counsel appearing of the petitioner/judgment debtor argued that the impugned order passed by executing Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law as executing Court while passing the order under challenge has failed to follow the well settled principle of law that an executing Court cannot go behind the decree. Mr. Gupta argued that the decree passed by learned trial court entitles plaintiff for specific performance of agreement dated 15.2.2007 in respect of land comprised in khata khatauni No. 486/669 khasra No. 508, measuring 6.6.13 bighas situated at Muhal Carsog/416, Tehsil Karsog, Distt. Mandi to the extent of 0-1-16 bighas out of the share of the defendant/judgment debtor and rather than executing the said decree, executing Court has directed the decree-holder to execute sale deed out of land comprised in khasra No. 508/8 to the extent mentioned in the decree. This direction as per Mr. Gupta passed by executing Court was beyond the decree. According to Mr. Gupta the judgment-debtor was still ready and willing to execute sale deed as per decree but decree-holder cannot demand specific property as he had purchased land out of the joint holdings. Accordingly, Mr. Gupta has prayed that the impugned order passed by executing Court be set aside.

7. Mr. H.C. Sharma, learned counsel for the respondent argued that there is no infirmity or perversity with the order passed by executing Court because after the passing of the judgment and decree by learned trial court, the judgment debtor in fact had sold portion of suit land in favour of one Bihari Lal, therefore, executing Court had rightly directed the decree holder to execute sale deed out of land comprised in khasra No. 508/8 to the extent mentioned in the decree.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as plaint, agreement to sell, judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court and the impugned order.

9. In my considered view, there is error and perversity in the order which has been passed by executing Court whereby it has issued directions to the judgment debtor to execute the sale deed in favour of decree holder out of land comprised in khasra No. 508/8 to the extent mentioned in the decree. While passing the said order, executing Court has erred in not appreciating that as executing Court cannot go behind the decree, therefore, it was not having any jurisdiction to direct the judgment debtor to execute a sale deed in favour of decree holder out of land comprised in khasra No. 508/8 as it was not so contemplated either in the agreement to sell or in the plaint or in the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Karsog dated 27.8.2009. The judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Karsog held plaintiff entitled for specific performance of agreement dated 15.2.2007 in respect of land comprised in khasra No. 508 to the extent of 0-1-16 bighas. There is no decree in favour of decree holder for specific performance of agreement dated 15.2.2007 out of khasra No. 508/8. This very important aspect of the matter has lost sight of the matter by executing court while passing the impugned order.

Therefore, in view of the above discussion this revision petition is allowed and order dated 6.9.2011 passed by executing Court i.e. Court of learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division), Karsog, in case No. 16-10/2010 is set aside and the case is remanded back to the executing Court to pass appropriate order in the execution petition filed by the decree holder strictly taking into consideration the judgment and decree which has been passed in favour of the decree holder. Parties through their learned counsel are directed to put in appearance before executing Court on 26.12.2016. Registry is directed to forthwith send back the records of the case to the executing Court.

Date of order: 7th December, 2016.

Contempt of Courts Act, 1971- Section 12- It was pleaded that the Court had directed the respondents to consider the case of the petitioner for placement as S.P.- respondents stated that they had adopted sealed cover procedure and had complied with the directions – held, that the respondents were directed to consider the case of the petitioner for placement as S.P. and release all consequential benefits - the respondents are in breach – they are directed to comply with the directions and report compliance.(Para-5 to 9)

Present: Mr. Onkar Jairath, Advocate, for the petitioner.
Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with M/s Anup Rattan, Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

It is stated at the Bar that Shri P. Mitra, Chief Secretary, to the Government of H.P., has retired and his successor has taken over in his place. We deem it proper to substitute Principal Secretary (Home) to the Government of H.P. and Director General of Police, H.P. as party respondents in this petition in place of Sh. P.Mitra, Chief Secretary to the Government of HP, shall figure as respondents No. 1 and 2 respectively in the petition. Registry to carry out necessary correction in the memo of parties. Petitioner to file fresh memo of parties within one week.

2. Issue notice to the newly substituted respondents. Mr. Anup Rattan, learned Additional Advocate General waives notice on behalf of the said respondents.

3. Petitioner, by the medium of this Contempt Petition, has invoked the jurisdiction of this Court for drawing contempt against the respondents in terms of the provisions contained in the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, for short "the Act".

4. It is specifically averred in the contempt petition that the respondents have not complied with the directions contained in the Judgment delivered by the learned Single Judge dated 30.4.2015, in CWP No. 9954 of 2011, titled Mahinder Singh versus State of Himachal Pradesh.

5. Precisely, the case of the petitioner is that he has earned the judgment dated 30.4.2015 in CWP No. 9954 of 2011 made by the learned Single Judge of this Court, whereby respondents were directed to consider the case of the petitioner for placement as Superintendent of Police. It is apt to reproduce operative portion of the said judgment herein.

> "8.In view of the settled position, this Court is left with no option but to allow the petition. Ordered accordingly. The respondent is directed to consider the case of the petitioner for placement as Superintendent of Police within a period of six weeks and in case the petitioner is found entitled for such placement, he shall be released and given all actual consequentialbenefits within another period of eight weeks. The petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their costs."

6. Respondents have filed the reply and have stated that they have invoked the sealed cover procedure and the directions contained in the aforesaid judgment have been fully complied with, in letter and spirit.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that it is utter disregard to the Court directions and respondents are in breach. Learned Single Judge has categorically held that the action of respondents was not in accordance with law and directed them to consider the case of the petitioner for placement as Superintendent of Police and release all actual consequential benefits. Thus, it cannot lie in the mouth of respondents at this stage that the enquiry is pending against the petitioner and he is facing trial in FIR No. 13/2009. At the relevant point of time, petitioner had neither been served with the memo of charge in the departmental inquiry nor was charge-sheeted in the criminal case.

8. Having said so, it appears that the respondents are in breach, are directed to appear in person and explain why they be not dealt with in terms of the provisions of the Act.

9. In the meantime, respondents to comply with the Court directions contained in the judgment dated 30.4.2015 in CWP No. 9954 of 2011, and report compliance. List on 5th January, 2017. Copy dasti.

He has stated that thereafter he was again elected as legislature in the year 2007. He has further stated that thereafter he was appointed as Health Minister in H.P. Government w.e.f. 9.1.2008. He has stated that he belongs from reputed family and his father used to pay income tax. He has stated that accused is his political rivalry. He has stated that accused contested the assembly elections against him in the year 2003 but he was defeated. He has stated that accused started giving defamatory statement against him in the media. He has stated that defamatory statement was also published in newspaper against him. He has stated that accused uttered false defamatory statement against him with intention to defame him in general public. He has further stated that his reputation was effected in general public due to defamatory statement given by accused in press. He has tendered into evidence news items Ext.P1 to Ext.P86 placed on record. He has stated that thereafter he issued notice Ext.PX to accused. He has also stated that postal receipt is Ext.PY and reply of notice is Ext.PZ. He has stated that accused be punished in accordance with law.

8.2 CW2 Lokeshwar has stated in preliminary evidence that complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal is known to him and accused namely Mohinder Nath Sofat is also known to him. He has stated that doubt has created in his mind about integrity of Dr.Rajiv Bindal after allegations of corruption levelled by accused Mohinder Nath Sofat against Dr.Rajiv Bindal. He has stated that after allegations of corruption he did not generally meet Dr.Rajiv Bindal. He has stated that Dr.Rajiv Bindal was not called in social functions due to allegations of corruption levelled against Dr.Rajiv Bindal in press and media by accused Mohinder Nath Sofat.

8.3 CW3 Kanti Sarup has stated that he remained as Pardhan of Gram Panchayat continously for two times and remained Up-Pardhan of Panchayat for one time. He has stated that complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal is known to him. He has stated that Dr.Rajiv Bindal complainant is honest person and he has great reputation in society. He has stated that complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal has won assembly elections due to good reputation. He has stated that accused Mohinder Nath Sofat levelled false allegations against Dr.Rajiv Bindal relating to acquirement of property in illegal manner. He has stated that defamatory statements were published in papers and media. He has further stated that Mohinder Nath Sofat accused visited village to village and spread defamatory statements against Dr.Rajiv Bindal. He has stated that when he read defamatory statement against complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal in newspaper he stopped meeting with Dr.Rajiv Bindal. He has stated that reputation of Dr.Rajiv Bindal effected due to defamatory statements published in newspaper.

8.4 Complainant also tendered into preliminary evidence news publications Ext.P1 to Ext.P86.

9. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that there is no sufficient ground for summoning the accused under Section 500 IPC in present case is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimonies of CW1 Dr.Rajiv Bindal, CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup recorded under preliminary evidence and Court has also carefully perused documentaries evidence Ext.P1 to Ext.P86 placed on record. After careful perusal of testimonies of CW1 Dr.Rajiv Bindal, CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup in preliminary evidence and after careful persual of documentaries evidence Ext.P1 to Ext.P86 annexed with complaint Court is of the opinion that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against accused under Section 500 IPC.

10. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that accused did not commit any offence punishable under Section 500 IPC and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that judicial findings whether accused committed criminal offence punishable under Section 500 IPC or not cannot be given at this stage of case and judicial findings relating to fact whether accused has committed criminal offence or not will be given by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunities to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case. It is well settled law that at the time of summoning accused learned Trial Court is not under legal obligation to weigh evidence in meticulous consideration. It is held that at the stage of summoning the accused Magistrate is mainly concerned with allegations made in complaint and preliminary oral evidence and documentaries evidence adduced in support of complainant. It is well settled law that Magistrate should not enter into detailed discussion of merits and demerits of case and Magistrate should primafacie satisfy whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against accused or not at the summoning stage of case. See AIR 1976 SC 1947 Smt. Nagawwa vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi. See AIR 1963 SC 1430 Chandra Deo Singh vs. Prokash Chandra Boase. See AIR 2016 SC (Weekly) 122 Madan Razak vs. State of Bihar.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that complainant did not examine publisher or auditor in preliminary evidence and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that oral testimonies of CW1 Dr.Rajiv Bindal, CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup are prima facie sufficient grounds to proceed against accused under Section 500 IPC because CW2 Lokeshwar has specifically stated when he appeared in witness box that after publication of defamatory statement in newspaper reputation of complainant CW1 Dr.Rajiv Bindal lowered down in his eyes and he ceased his links with Dr.Rajiv Bindal. Similarly CW3 Kanti Sarup has also stated that after publication of defamatory statement against complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal in press reputation of Dr.Rajiv Bindal lowered down in his eyes and he stopped meeting Dr.Rajiv Bindal. It is held that oral testimonies of CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup are sufficient to proceed against accused Mohinder Nath Sofat under Section 500 IPC.

12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that testimonies of CW1 Dr.Rajiv Bindal, CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup are not sufficient to proceed against accused because none of witnesses has stated that they have seen the petitioner issuing statement in press or public and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup have specifically stated in preliminary oral evidence that when they read the news in newspaper that complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal has acquired illegal property by way of corruption after becoming Health Minister of H.P. Government then reputation of Dr.Rajiv Bindal lowered down in their eyes. There are direct allegations against accused Mohinder Nath Sofat that news were published in newspaper at the instance of accused Mohinder Nath Sofat. It is held that in view of above stated facts primafacie there are sufficient grounds to proceed against accused under Section 500 IPC.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that dcouments were released to media on behalf of H.P. Lokhit Paty a breakaway group of BJP and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Accused Mohinder Nath Sofat at the time of release of news item was member of Lokhit party a breakaway group of BJP and Mohinder Nath Sofat had released the documents to media directly and direct active participation of accused is primafacie proved at this stage of case as per testimonies of CW2 Lokeshwar and CW3 Kanti Sarup and as per documents Ext.P1 to Ext.P86 adduced in preliminary evidence.

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that complainant did not implead Lokhit party as co-accused in present case and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. There are direct allegations against accused Mohinder Nath Sofat that accused Mohinder Nath Sofat directly took active part and used defamatory statement against complainant. It is well settled law that learned Trial Court can implead a person as co-accused at any stage of case if learned Trial Court comes to conclusion that other persons have also committed criminal offence.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that complainant Dr.Rajiv Bindal has also filed civil suit for damage to the tune of Rs.fifteen lacs and parallel civil and criminal proceedings relating to similar facts cannot continue is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that suit for damage to the tune of Rs.fifteen lacs and criminal complaint under Section 500 IPC are two distinct civil and criminal offence. It is well settled law that harm to reputation of person defamed is common ground in both civil and criminal proceedings and truth of imputation is defence in both civil and criminal proceedings. It is well settled law that damage is granted in civil defamation proceedings and conviction and sentence of imprisonment are granted in criminal proceedings of defamation. It is well settled law that defamation is of two kinds. (1) Libel (2) Slander. It is well settled law that libel is by way of (1) Writing (2) Printing (3) Picutres (4) Effigies. It is well settled law that slander defamation is always made by spoken words. See AIR 1967 Calcutta (DB) 178 Ashok Kumar Sarkar vs. Radha Kanto Pandey and others. It is well settled law that if two remedies are distinct then notwithstanding the fact that allegations of facts into two remedies are substantially similar then two parallel civil and criminal proceedings would be continued. See AIR 1961 SC 578 State of Bombay vs. S.L. Apte and another.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that accused is innocent person and he has been falsely implicated in present case and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Judicial findings whether accused is guilty or not cannot be given at this summoning stage of case. Judicial findings about absence of mensrea or actus reus would be given by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunities to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case. Accused would be at liberty to take all defences available to him as provided in exception first to tenth exception provided under Section 499 of Indian Penal Code during trial of case. It is held that at the stage of summoning the accused the Magistrate has to simply see whether primafacie there are sufficient grounds to proceed against accused or not. It is held that at the stage of summoning the accused Magistrate is not under legal obligation to meticulously discuss merits and demerits of case. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2 (Final Order)

17. In view of findings upon point No. 1 above petition is dismissed. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 20.12.2016. Observations made in this order will not effect merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for disposal of petition. File of learned Trial Court and learned Additional Sessions Judge-I Solan District Solan H.P. be sent back forthwith along with certify copy of order. Learned Trial Court will dispose of petition expeditiously within three months because private criminal complaint is pending since 2012 and requires expeditious disposal. Cr.MMO No. 10 of 2016 is disposed of. Pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

CWP No. 2544 of 2016
Reserved on: November 11, 2016
Decided on: December 7, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner participated in tender process for the supply of tools and equipments for vocational laboratories/workshop – petitioner was recommended for grant of contract by Tender Evaluation Committee- however, the tender process was cancelled- respondent pleaded that complaints were received regarding discrepancies in the tendering process- hence, a decision was taken to cancel the whole process- held, that it was not disputed that the petitioner was the lowest tenderer – tender was cancelled on the ground of discrepancies and the shortcomings – all purchases beyondRs.50 lacs were to be carried out by e-tender but in the present case this procedure was not adopted – there was no infirmity in the cancellation of the tender – Court can interfere in the tender or contractual matter only when the process adopted or the decision taken is malafide or intended to favour some persons – no such circumstances were established in the present case- writ petition dismissed.(Para-8 to 30)

For the petitioner : Mr. Rajnish Maniktala, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. Varun Chandel, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Instant petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed seeking following main reliefs:

"(i) That the orders of cancellation of tenders dated 19.09.2016 (Annexure P-16) issued by respondent No.2 may be quashed and set aside.

(ii) That the respondents may be directed to finalize the present tendering process issued vide tender documents placed on record as Annexure P-13."

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case, as emerge from the record are that petitioner is a proprietor firm having its office at Ambala Cantt. Petitioner participated in tender process for the supply of the tools and equipments for vocational laboratories/ workshops of functional trades in National Skill Qualification Framework (NSQF) which was floated by respondent No.2. Petitioner was found to be lowest bidder and petitioner firm was recommended for grant of contract by the Tender Evaluation Committee. However, on 19.9.2016, tendering process was cancelled.

3. The respondents-State by its reply stated that a tender notice was published in three leading newspapers dated 1.6.2016, for the supply of tools and equipment for establishing vocational laboratories in various Government Senior Secondary Schools on the basis of technical specifications finalized by a Technical Committee constituted for this particular purpose by the Government of HP. 8 Firms participated in the pre-bid meeting, wherein all the points about the technical specifications were addressed. Technical bids were opened on 23.6.2016 by the Technical Evaluation Committee and four participating firms including petitioner were found qualified. Financial bids were opened on 19.7.2016 and rates quoted by the petitioner firm were found to be lowest and same were announced. However, various complaints were received by respondents regarding discrepancies in the tendering process and pointed out shortcomings in the specifications. On the direction of State Government to conduct tendering process as per Rules, respondent No. 2 took decision to cancel the tendering process. It was specifically averred in the reply that the tendering process was cancelled on following shortcomings, i.e. (a) That e-tendering process was not followed as the department did not have e-tendering Platform, and (b) that specifications of some of the items were found lengthy and exaggerated. These errors crept in due to lack of technical know-how of the Committee constituted for the purpose. It was further stated that petitioner was free to compete in e-tendering process as it would be much fair and transparent.

4. During the course of proceedings, petitioner filed an application for placing on record additional documents suggestive of the fact that despite there being aforesaid decision of cancellation on the ground of e-tendering, respondent department is still continuing with the procedure of inviting offline/manual tender. Petitioner also placed on record documents to demonstrate that objections with regard to e-tendering in the instant case were also overruled by the Joint Controller (Finance) and thereafter department proceeded ahead by inviting offline/manual tender, in which petitioner emerged as the lowest bidder.

5. Mr. Rajnish Maniktala, Advocate appearing for the petitioner, vehemently argued that action of the respondents in cancelling the tender for the supply of Tools and Equipments for Vocational Laboratories/Workshops of Vocational Trades/Subjects under National Skill Qualification Framework in 300 Government Senior Secondary Schools of Himachal Pradesh, is illegal and colourable exercise of power, especially in view of the fact that entire process was completed and bids furnished by petitioner were duly accepted by the Technical Committee constituted in this regard by the Department. While referring to the cancellation order, annexure P-16, Mr. Maniktala, strenuously argued that it suffers from legal malafides especially when petitioner had furnished all requirements and after valuation of Technical Committee, he was found to be successful bidder, respondents had no authority to cancel the same that too without assigning any reason in the cancellation order. He further argued that cancellation of tender dated 19.9.2016, is a non-speaking order because, save and except, "due to administrative reasons", no other plausible reason has been assigned, which itself suggests unreasonableness, arbitrariness of the action taken by the respondents in haste. He further invited attention of the Court to the reply filed by the respondents to demonstrate that the decision to cancel the order has been taken at the behest of those firms, which had participated in the tender process and had failed to procure the tender, since their specifications and rates were not found suitable by the respondent department. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Maniktala forcefully contended that no action could be taken on the complaints having been filed by the other competitors, who had admittedly participated in the tender.

6. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General, duly assisted by Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General, supported the decision of cancellation of tender passed by the authorities and stated that since entire process initiated by the Department for inviting tender in question was in violation of the policy of procurement framed by the Government of Himachal Pradesh, wherein material/ specifications provided in the tender in question could only be procured through e-tender, there is no illegality in the cancellation order passed by the respondents. Mr. Dogra, strenuously argued that before any final decision could be taken in the matter, after valuation of the bid by the Technical Committee, respondent-State received certain complaints with regard to procedure adopted by the department while inviting tender, as a result of which matter traveled upto the Minister in-charge i.e. Hon'ble Chief Minister, who after verifying the records directed the authorities concerned to take decision in accordance with rules. He further invited attention of the Court to clause 15 of the tender document, to suggest that decision with regard to acceptance of tender entirely vested with the State Project Director, Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan (RMSA), and he has right to accept or reject the tender without assigning any reason. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Dogra also invited attention of the Court to the procedure of procurement i.e. FM&P manual prepared in accordance with the provisions of GFR-2005 and as per latest CVC guidelines, required to be adopted, especially under RMSA, wherein it has been specifically provided that procurement of all goods, work and consultancy services under RMSA project is required to be carried out in accordance with principles, rules and procedure contained in Chapter 8 i.e. 'procurement under RMSA'. Table 6, Annexure XXV, column No.5 suggests that any procurement above Rs. 50.00 Lakh is required to be done through open tender for civil works, goods and services. Mr. Dogra while referring to the documents having been annexed by the petitioner alongwith petition as well as application for placing on record additional documents, contended that, true it is that petitioner firm was found to be lowest bidder but that can not be the sole ground to award work in its favour, especially in view of non-compliance of procedure as prescribed under the provisions of "FM&P manual). The material advertised in the Notice Inviting Tender could only be procured through e-tendering.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records.

8. This Court, after perusing documents available on record and after hearing submissions having been advanced by the counsel representing the petitioner, at the stage of issuance of notice, called for the original record of the case from the respondent-State, which was produced and same was perused by this Court at the time of final hearing of the case. After carefully perusing the pleadings as well as documents annexed thereto, it is undisputed that petitioner firm was found to be the lowest bidder and it was recommended for grant of contract by the Tender Evaluation Committee. Aforesaid factum of petitioner firm having been found to be the lowest bidder has also not been disputed by the respondent-State. Vide order dated 19.9.2016, respondent-State took a conscious decision to cancel tender process invoking clause 15 of the tender document, which empowers the State Project Director, RMSA to cancel any tender without assigning any reason.

9. True it is, perusal of annexure P-16 i.e. cancellation order nowhere stipulates specific reasons for cancellation of tender in question. Respondents have simply cancelled the tender citing administrative reasons, which may not be sufficient to justify cancellation. However, perusal of reply filed by respondents No.1 and 2, which is supported by affidavit of State Project Director, RMSA, suggests that after completion of evaluation by the Technical Evaluation Committee, wherein petitioner alongwith four other participating firms was found to be qualified as per specifications, complaints were received regarding discrepancies in the tendering process and tender document. It would be appropriate to reproduce following portion of the reply filed by respondents No.1 and 2:

> 1. That, the tender was issued for the supply of tools & equipment for establishing vocational laboratories in various Government Senior Secondary Schools on the basis of technical specifications finalized by a technical committee constituted for this particular purpose by the Government of HP through a tender notice published in three leading newspaper on dated 1/6/2016 and 8 firms participated in the pre bid meeting wherein all the points raised by the participating firms about the technical specifications were addressed. Subsequently eight firms submitted their bids.
> 2. The technical bids were opened on 23/6/2016 by the technical evaluation committee and four participating firms including that of the petitioner were found to be qualified as per the specifications. As a result financial bids were opened on 19/7/2016 and the rates quoted by the petitioner firm were found to be lowest and the same were announced. On finding the rates of the petitioner firm lowest in all the tendered items, various complaints were received in the office of the Respondent No. 2 regarding discrepancies in the tendering process and tender document .
> 3. That one firm Science and Surgical House averred that there were some faulty specifications which are not common in the market and hence prejudiced. The firm namely Amco Industries and Export Corporation stated that there was fixing with the party and the process was not fair. It further stated that there was big difference in lowest and highest bid and the foul play was apprehended.
> 4. That the same firm namely Amoco Industries stated that the specifications were manipulated and rigid in nature. On examination of the complaints it was found that the averments made by the complainants were just an after thought and same were designed to somehow > stall the process and press for retendering. However, demand for E-Tendering and some infirmities in specification were found to be a fair demand. The demand for e-tendering was examined in lien with the procurement plan as suggested under Rashtriya Madhyam shiksha Abhiyan (RMSA) manual RMSA Manual has prescribed that for procurement over 50 lakh , e-procurement should be followed.
> 5. That considering the urgency of vocational LABS IN 300 Government senior secondary schools in wchich vocational streams have been started during 2015-16 , the matter was referred to the Government for relaxation of e-tendering process as the incumbent office does not have e-tendering platform as on date and in anticipation of that a fair and transparent tendering process had been adopted for the captioned procurement. The Government however, directed that the entire procurement must be done as per rules.
> 6. That, the Respondent no. 2 took the decision to cancel the tender on dated 19/09/2016 by invoking clause 15 of the tender document and decided to go for e-tendering as per the RMSA framework.
> 7. That in addition to E-tendering the decision was also taken in view of the various discrepancies such as item No. 6,9,11,12,13,14,34,38, 40, 41,35,52 in the specification of the 'Telecom Lab', item no. 29,30,63 in 'Agriculture' item no. 15, 21 in 'Retail' and item No. 21,22,23,24,26,42, in the specification of security. These specification were either lengthy or not common in market and are being amended for E-tendering and the decision to cancel the tender was taken in public interest as there was a point in the complaint of some firms, who approached the Chief Minister/ DGP (Police), HP/Secretary Education, HP Government/ Anti-Corruption Bureau, HP/Finance Secretary, HP Government/ DGP Vigilance regarding infirmities in tendering process. After consulting different agencies it was decided to float the E-tender and rectify the discrepancies in the tendering process.

8. That, the petitioner firm has not been unfairly treated since tender was initially awarded to them and there was no malafied intention on the part of respondents. The reason for cancellation was mainly the discrepancies in tendering process.

9. That, the petition may be dismissed and the department may be allowed to float e-tender in the interest of justice. The respondent has no grudge or bad intention against the petitioner who has still the opportunity to complete in the e-tendering process."

10. Close scrutiny of the aforesaid averments contained in the reply suggests that since there were certain discrepancies in the items/specifications given in the Notice Inviting Tender, participant firms were unable to quote rates and apart from above, a few items /specifications were not common in market. Most importantly, decision to cancel the tender was taken at the level of Hon'ble Chief Minister specifically on the ground that procurement of specifications as quoted in the tender was required to be done through e-tendering. Accordingly, respondent Department after obtaining approval of the Minister in-charge i.e. Hon'ble Chief Minister, decided to adopt e-tendering by canceling the present tender.

11. Perusal of documents placed on record by the petitioner alongwith CMP No. 8780/2016, also suggests that the financial/commercial bids submitted by the petitioner qua all the specifications were found to be lowest. Accordingly, Committee proposed that L-1 (lowest bidder) identified for six vocational labs could be directed to establish sample lab for each sector so that same could be inspected by the Technical/Expert Committee of RMSA. Proceedings of the meeting conducted for opening financial/commercial bids dated 19.7.2016 i.e. annexure C (page 216) also suggests that letter of award/supply order to the lowest bidder could only be issued after inspection and satisfaction of Technical Committee. Similarly, perusal of meeting of Technical Committee suggests that five representations were received from different parties regarding discrepancy in the tender. Out of these five parties, four had participated in the bids. The Committee with a view to meet the objections having been raised by the representationists, gave point-wise reply. It would be apt to reproduce relevant paras of meeting of the Committee:

"Keeping in view the above facts the committee has proposed that the L-1 i.e. lowest bidders identified for 6 Vocational Labs maybe directed to establish sample lab for each sector so that the same could be inspected by the technical/expert committee of RMSA. After the inspection & satisfaction of the technical committee we may issue letter of award/ supply order to the lowest bidder for 6 Vocational Sectors/Labs so that the Lab equipments could be procured by September 2016.

Accordingly the proceeding of the meeting held for opening of financial bids alongwith comparative statements are being placed below approval/signature.

However 5 representations have been received from different parties regarding discrepancy in these tenders. Out of these 5 parties 4 have participated as competitor in the bids. All these firms have raised different issues regarding the tendering process. In this regard it is submitted that the issues raised by the different firms seems to be biased and baseless because there has been complete transparency throughout the tendering process. The pre-bid meting was also conducted before the opening of the technical bids and all the bidders including 4 complainants were present in the pre-bid meeting also. The amendments suggestions given by the bidders regarding technical specifications during pre-bid meeting were also incorporated and a corrigendum was issued to this effect.

The point wise reply is as under :-

I. Regarding opening of price bid without scrutiny of technical bid: -

There was thorough scrutiny of the documents in technical bid and it took nearly 25 days (23.06.2016 to 18.07.2016) to check the papers submitted in technical bid. There after the price bids were opened in the presence of the tenderers without any objection.

II. Regarding manual tender:-

The SPO Office is not yet on E-Tendering platform. Therefore manual tenders were invited. There was no objection regarding manual tender from any corner during the tendering process at all.

III. Regarding preponement of opening of price bid.

The opening of price bid was preponed to 10 AM on 19.07.2016, as SPD RMSA was to proceed on tour later in the day. All the parties were duly informed about the change of time through e mail as well as telephonically.

IV. Regarding manipulation in specifications/ terms & conditions: -

A pre bid meeting was held on 16.06.2016 to discuss about the specifications/ terms & conditions and a number of firms (7 out of 8) participated in the meting. The suggestions given by the participants were duly incorporated in the tender document by issuing a corrigendum on dated 16.06.2016."

12. Further, perusal of the noting placed on record by the petitioner itself available at page 225 suggests that representations were received by the Department and Secretary concerned approached the Hon'ble Chief Minister and informed him that their office did not have e-tendering platform and as such manual tendering process was followed. But careful perusal of noting given by the Secretary for the consideration of the Hon'ble Chief Minister i.e. Minister In-charge, itself suggests that there was a provision of e-procurement under the RMSA procurement manual for all purchases beyond Rs. 50.00 Lakh. The noting given by the Secretary (Education) is reproduced below:

"Regarding the representations on Tender Process, detailed replies have been made as per N-14 & 15. Also Hon'ble CM has called me in person and I had briefed him that our office does not have e-tendering platform. However, complete tendering process has been followed.

It is further brought in the notice of the Govt. that the proposed vocational labs are to be set up in 300 phase III Schools in which vocational classes have already commenced wef academic session 2015-16. If e-tendering process is to be followed, the same would take long time and result in inordinate delay in setting up vocational labs in The state. However, there is a provision of e-procurement as per RMSA procurement manual (Flag-A) for all purchases beyond 50 lacs. Submitted for further directions and order pl.

13. This Court, after carefully examining the aforesaid noting having been given by the Secretary, perused the original record produced by the Department to ascertain the views of the Hon'ble Chief Minister, who, in no uncertain terms, directed the concerned quarters to take decision as per Rules.

14. It is amply clear from the note given above by the Secretary, which was further approved by the Hon'ble Chief Minister that as per RMSA procurement manual, all purchases beyond Rs. 50.00 Lakh, especially under RMSA were to be done through e-procurement but in the instant case, as is evident from the records, procedure of e-procurement was not followed by the authorities while proposing purchase of items/ specifications contained in the tender document, rather same were proposed to be procured through open tender. It also emerges from the record that at the time of initiation of process of issuance of tender, Joint Controller(Finance) had noted in the concerned file that the process of e-tendering may be adopted for award of contract, but his objection was overruled and process for physical tender i.e. paper tender was adopted on the ground that the Department has no platform for e-tendering. However, it clearly emerges from the reply filed by the respondents that now the Department has the platform for e-tendering. Learned Advocate General specifically informed the Court that at present Department is well equipped with e-tendering platform and now procurement in question would be solely made through e-tendering process strictly in terms of procurement plan as suggested in the RMSA Manual.

15. This Court also perused Chapter-8 i.e. procurement under RMSA of FM&P Manual prepared in accordance with GFR-2005 which provides as under:

"CH 8

Procurement

8.1 Procurement in RMSA

8.1.1 The provision of the FM&P manual has been prepared in accordance with the provisions of GFR-2005 and as per latest CVC guidelines. However, in case of further changes in rules & regulations notified from time to time by said bodies, shall prevail and would be incorporated accordingly.

8.1.2. the cardinal principle of any public buying is to provide the Works /Goods/ services of the specified quality, at the most competitive prices, in a fair, just and transparent manner. To achieve this end, it is essential to have a uniform and well documented policy guidelines in RMSA scheme so, that this vital activity is executed in a well coordinated manner with least time and cost overruns.

Procurement of all works, goods and consultancy services under the project would be carried out in accordance with principle, rules and procedures outlined in this chapter. These principles, rules and procedure need to be understood and followed by the central and State Governments so as to enable them to procure 'Works', 'Goods' and 'Consultant Services" under the project. Compliance with these procedures will ultimately result in efficiency, economy, fairness and transparency in procurement.

8.1.3 The implementation of the national programme of Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan (RMSA) entails procurement of teaching and learning equipment and materials, furniture, school equipment, materials required for ..

1.	No Tender or Direct Purchase (Certificate to be furnished as per rule under 145 of GFR 2005)	Up to Rs.15,000/-

2.	Three member committee (Certificate to be furnished as per rule 146 of GFR 2005)	Above Rs.15,000/- and upto Rs. 1.00 Lakh
3.	Limited Tender	Above Rs. 1 lakh and upto Rs. 10.00 Lakh
4.	Open tender	Above Rs.10.00 Lakh and below Rs.50.00 Lakh
5.	Open tender using e-procurement process for Civil works, goods and services	Rs.50.00 Lakh or above
6.	Service Contracts
6(a)	Direct Contracting (with three quotations)	Upto Rs.1.00 Lakh
6(b)	Limited tender	Above Rs.1.00 Lakh and upto Rs.10.00 Lakh
6(c)	Open tender	Above 10.00 Lakh

For different methods of procurement, MHRD may change these limits by a separate communication as and when required from time to time."

16. Aforesaid Chapter clearly suggests that any procurement under RMSA scheme for civil works, goods and services can only be by open tender by using e-tendering. It is undisputed that the procurement in the present case is more than Rs. 50.00 Lakh and respondent Department had floated the physical tender, for the supply of Tools and Equipments for Vocational Laboratories/Workshops of Vocational Trades/Subjects under National Skill Qualification Framework, in 300 GSSS in HP under RMSA.

17. Hence, in view of detailed discussion herein above, we see no illegality or infirmity in the decision taken by the respondent department for canceling the tender especially in view of the fact that no final decision, if any, was taken by the competent authority pursuant to recommendation of the Technical Evaluation Committee, which admittedly had found petitioner firm to be the lowest bidder. Since no final decision by the competent authority was taken in favour of the petitioner, no right could be stated to have accrued in its favour entitling it to the award of work. No doubt, there is substantial force in the contentions having been made by Mr. Maniktala that no complaint/representation could be entertained by the Department, made on behalf of those firms, which had participated in the tendering process, because they, after having failed to procure tender, had no right to point out discrepancy, if any, in the tender document. But in the present case, very basis of issuance of Notice Inviting Tender is in violation of procurement policy under RMSA and as such this Court sees no reason to interfere with the decision taken by the competent authority, which is in its wisdom and strictly in accordance with the policy framed by the Ministry of HRD, with regard to procurement, has decided to cancel the tender due to administrative reasons.

18. Further, by no stretch of imagination, court can assume the role of technical expert, who in their wisdom have cancelled the tender on account of technical /administrative reasons. Since respondents have already taken a conscious decision to recall the tender, this Court sees no occasion to grant relief as prayed for in the petition.

19. It is well settled by now that respondents can withdraw /recall tender at any time, if it is convinced that same is not in accordance with the requirements as indicated in Notice Inviting Tender. Though, in the present case, petitioner claimed himself to be lowest bidder on account of his financial bid but there is no document suggestive of the fact that pursuant to opening of his financial bid, he was awarded work, as such no right has accrued in his favour which would have entitled him to claim the relief as prayed for in the petition.

20. The Apex Court in State of Jharkhand v. M/s. CWE-SOMA Consortium reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3366, has held that:

> 13. The appellant-state was well within its rights to reject the bid without assigning any reason thereof. This is apparent from clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD which reads as under:-
> > "Clause 24 of NIT: "Authority reserves the right to reject any or all of the tender(s) received without assigning any reason thereof." Clause 32.1 of SBD: "…the Employer reserves the right to accept or reject any Bid to cancel the bidding process and reject all bids, at any time prior to award of Contract, without thereby incurring any liability to the affected Bidder or Bidders or any obligation to inform the affected Bidder or Bidders of the grounds for the Employer's action." In terms of the above clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD, though Government has the right to cancel the tender without assigning any reason, appellant-state did assign a cogent and acceptable reason of lack of adequate competition to cancel the tender and invite a fresh tender. The High Court, in our view, did not keep in view the above clauses and right of the government to cancel the tender.
> 14. The State derives its power to enter into a contract under Article 298 of the Constitution of India and has the right to decide whether to enter into a contract with a person or not subject only to the requirement of reasonableness under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In the case in hand, in view of lack of real competition, the state found it advisable not to proceed with the tender with only one responsive bid available before it. When there was only one tenderer, in order to make the tender more competitive, the tender committee decided to cancel the tender and invited a fresh tender and the decision of the appellant did not suffer from any arbitrariness or unreasonableness.

21. That Apex Court in Bakshi Security & Personnel Services Pvt. Ltd. V. Devkishan Computed P. Ltd. reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3385, has held that:

> 13. First and foremost, under tender condition 2.5.5, commercial bids have to strictly conform to the format provided in Annexure 2 of the tender document. Annexure 2 which contains the format for the price bid makes it clear that the salary paid to deployed manpower should not be less than the minimum wage. It further goes on to state in paragraph 3 thereof that if the component of salary quoted is less than the minimum wage prescribed, the bid is liable to be rejected. On this ground alone, Respondent No.1's bid is liable to be rejected inasmuch as, vide its letter dated 3.9.2015, Respondent No.1 stuck to its original figure of Rs.2,77,68,000/- which is way below the minimum wage fixed by the Government. Secondly, Shri Raval is also right in stating that the without prejudice offer of Rs.3,00,92,346/- is an offer which is not fixed, but open ended. This is clear from the fact that it was up to the Government then to pick up either figure by way of acceptance. This is clearly interdicted by clause 2.5.6 of the tender which states that prices quoted by the bidder have to be fixed, and no open ended bid can be entertained, the same being liable to be rejected straightaway. Such condition is obviously an essential condition of the tender which goes to the eligibility of persons who make offers under the tender.
> 14. Unfortunately, even though the High Court noticed the open ended nature of Respondent No.1's bid, it went on to add that the offer of Respondent No.1 shall be treated as matching with the revised minimum wage calculation and that it is nowhere envisaged by the tender conditions that rejection of an offer which may have the potential of causing loss to the tenderer is present. It is not for the High Court to revisit a condition contained in Annexure 2 read with 2.5.5 of the tender in the manner aforesaid. Once the tender condition states that the tender must strictly conform to the format provided in Annexure 2, and Annexure 2 in turn clearly states that if the component of salary quoted is less than the minimum wage prescribed, the bid is liable to be rejected, and the High Court cannot hold otherwise. The High Court's further finding that Respondent No.1's offer was "clear" is wholly incorrect. It was a without prejudice offer which muddied the waters and rendered the price quoted by the bidder as variable and not fixed.

22. The Apex Court in Central Coalfields Limited v. SLL-SML (Joint Venture Consortium) reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3814, has further held that:

> 44. On asking these questions in the present appeals, it is more than apparent that the decision taken by CCL to adhere to the terms and conditions of the NIT and the GTC was certainly not irrational in any manner whatsoever or intended to favour anyone. The decision was lawful and not unsound.
> 55. On the basis of the available case law, we are of the view that since CCL had not relaxed or deviated from the requirement of furnishing a bank guarantee in the prescribed format, in so far as the present appeals are concerned every bidder was obliged to adhere to the prescribed format of the bank guarantee. Consequently, the failure of JVC to furnish the bank guarantee in the prescribed format was sufficient reason for CCL to reject its bid.
> 56. There is nothing to indicate that the process by which the decision was taken by CCL that the bank guarantee furnished by JVC ought to be rejected was flawed in any manner whatsoever. Similarly, there is nothing to indicate that the decision taken by CCL to reject the bank guarantee furnished by JVC and to adhere to the requirements of the NIT and the GTC was arbitrary or unreasonable or perverse in any manner whatsoever."

23. Admittedly, Court can go into the question of mala fides raised by a litigant, but in order to succeed, much more than a mere allegation is required. Bald and unfounded allegations of mala fides are not sustainable and that mala fides must be specifically pleaded and proved and such allegations of mala fides should be made with all sense of responsibility, otherwise, the maker of such allegations should be ready to face consequences.

24. It is equally well settled that the burden of proving mala fides is on the person making the allegations and the burden is 'very heavy." Reliance is placed upon E.P. Royappa Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (1974) 4 SCC 3.

25. There is every presumption in favour of the administration that the power has been exercised bona fide and in good faith. It is to be remembered that the allegations of mala fides are often more easily made than proved and proof of high degree is required to prove the same. Reliance is also placed on Gulam Mustafa Vs. State of Maharashtra (1976) 1 SCC 800 wherein it is held, "It (mala fides) is the last refuge of a losing litigant."

26. Reliance is also placed on Union of India and others Vs. Ashok Kumar and others, (2005) 8 SCC 760, whereby it is held by the Apex Court that seriousness of allegations of mala fides demands proof of high order of credibility and the Courts should be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts placed before them by a party, particularly when the imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office having high responsibility. It was held:

> "21. Doubtless, he who seeks to invalidate or nullify any act or order must establish the charge of bad faith, an abuse or a misuse by the authority of its powers. While the indirect motive or purpose, or bad faith or personal ill- will is not to be held established except on clear proof thereof, it is obviously difficult to establish the state of a man's mind, for that is what the employee has to establish in this case, though this may sometimes be done. The difficulty is not lessened when one has to establish that a person apparently acting on the legitimate exercise of power has, in fact, been acting mala fide in the sense of pursuing an illegitimate aim. It is not the law that mala fide in the sense of improper motive should be established only by direct evidence. But it must be discernible from the order impugned or must be shown from the established surrounding factors which preceded the order. If bad faith would vitiate the order, the same can, in our opinion, be deduced as a reasonable and inescapable inference from proved facts. (S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab AIR1964 SC 72). It cannot be overlooked that burden of establishing mala fides is very heavy on the person who alleges it. The allegations of mala fides are often more easily made than proved, and the very seriousness of such allegations demand proof of a high order of credibility. As noted by this Court in E. P. Royappa v. State of Tamil Nadu and Another (AIR 1974 SC 555), Courts would be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts placed before it by a party, particularly when the imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office which has a high responsibility in the administration. (See Indian Railway Construction Co. Ltd. v. Ajay Kumar (2003) 4 SCC 579)."

27. Courts can interfere in tender or contractual matters in exercise of power of judicial review only in case the process adopted or decision made by the authority is malafide or intended to favour someone or the process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached and lastly in case the public interest is affected. If the answers to these questions are in the negative, then there should be no interference by this Court in exercise of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

28. Principles of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would apply to the exercise of contractual powers by the Government only in case the process adopted or decision making process of the authorities is wrong and illegal and in order to prevent arbitrariness or favoritism.

29. Reliance is further placed on Tata Cellular versus Union of India (1994) 6 SCC 651, whereby Apex Cout has laid down the limitations in relation to the scope of judicial review of administrative decisions in exercise of powers awarding contracts:(SCC pp 687-88, para 94)

30. In the instant case, the decision regarding cancellation of the tender is a bonafide one and is otherwise in the larger public interest because by not adhering to e-tendering, rules were violated and as such for a fair and transparent tendering, e-tendering is necessary. Further, e-tendering would increase healthy competition amongst the participants, thereby saving the public exchequer. It is not a fit case to exercise powers of judicial review as there is no violation of the provisions of law and further there is no procedural aberration or error in assessment. It is more than settled that power of judicial review will not be permitted to invoke to protect private interest at the cost of public interest and reliance is placed on a judgment delivered by the Apex Court in Jagdish Mandal versus State of Orissa and others(2007) 14 SCC 517 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that before interfering in tender or contractual matters in exercise of judicial review, Courts should ascertain whether process adopted or decision made by the authority is mala fide or intended to favour some and whether process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that the Court can say that the decision is such that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached, and also whether public interest is affected.

31. Applying the aforesaid test to the instant case, the writ petition merits to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Shri Neeraj Naiyar and others .....Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. and another. .....Respondents.

Cr.MMO No. 163 of 2009 &
Cr.M.P No. 1222 of 2016
Date of decision: 7th December, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- An FIR was registered against the petitioners for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 447 and 506 read with Section 34 of I.P.C – petitioners have sought the quashing of FIR on the ground that the disputed land is located adjacent to the land of the petitioners – the land is in possession of the petitioners – held, that Civil Court had also found the petitioners to be in possession- continuation of criminal proceedings will be abuse of the process of the Court – petition allowed, FIR and consequential proceedings quashed. (Para-4 to 8)

For the petitioners:	Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Rajeev Sood, Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocates.
For the respondents:	Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs for respondent No. 1. Mr. Vikas Rathore, Advocate for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral).

The petitioners are accused in FIR No. 245/08 registered under Section 447, 506 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, Police Station, Sadar, Chamba with the allegations that they entered upon the land belonging to Smt. Saristha Devi wife of complainant Madan Singh entered in Khasra No. 9422/9056 and 9422/9054 situated at mauza Chamba town-II, Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. Not only this, they allegedly started construction of a tin shed thereon unlawfully. The accused-petitioners allegedly encroached upon the suit land to occupy the same by raising construction of tin shed thereon. The complainant and his wife when intervened and asked the accused-petitioners not to raise any construction over the land in question, they threatened them with dire consequences including to do away with their lives.

2. On the basis of the complaint made by Madan Singh aforesaid, FIR came to be registered and the investigation conducted by the police. The police has filed the challan in the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba. On perusal of challan and findings sufficient grounds to proceed further against the accused-petitioners, process was issued against them vide order dated 15.05.2009. The notice of accusation has also been put to the accused-petitioners under Section 447, 506 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. The case presently is at the stage of recording prosecution evidence.

3. The FIR and consequential criminal proceedings have been sought to be quashed on the grounds inter-alia that the land in dispute is adjoining to own land of the accused-petitioners bearing Khasra No. 10359/90/55/7211, Khata Khatauni No. 90/93 measuring 4426.07 square yards situated at Mauza Chamba town-II, Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. The owner thereof to the extent of half share is Sagar Chand Naiyar, the predecessor-in-interest of the accused-petitioners. He has constructed road in the year 1966 over a portion of the land in dispute. The shed was constructed in the year 1970. No one objected to it. Smt. Sarishtha Devi wife of complainant after registration of sale deed got conducted the demarcation of her land on 04.10.2008. In the report, the revenue authorities have made mention of existence of metalled road and one iron shed over the land allegedly entered upon by the accused-petitioners. Their predecessor Shri Sagar Chand Naiyar had filed Civil Suit No. 4/2008 along with an application under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In the interim, learned District Judge, Chamba had directed the parties to maintain status quo qua the possession, nature and construction of the land in question till further orders. The interim order was made absolute on 27.11.2009 vide order, Annexure P-8. It has, therefore, been claimed that there is no question of the accused-petitioners having entered upon the land in question. The same rather was in their possession since time immemorial.

4. The civil suit which was instituted by deceased Sagar Chand Naiyar now stands decided vide judgment dated 29.09.2016. The certified copy thereof is annexed to the application, Cr.M.P No. 1222/2016 filed with a prayer to place the same on record. The application is allowed and the judgment is ordered to be taken on record. The perusal of the judgment reveals that learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Chamba District at Chamba has held the plaintiffs (accused-petitioners herein) in possession of land in question, which is measuring 68.08 square yards. True it is that Smt. Srestha Devi, wife of complainant has been declared to be owner thereof, however, in view of the accused-petitioners are in possession of the land in dispute, she has been restrained from dispossessing them except in due process of law. Said Smt. Srestha Devi, wife of complainant may have preferred an appeal as argued by Mr. Rathore, learned counsel representing her, however, the fact remains that learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) on appreciation of the evidence available on record has arrived at a conclusion that it is the accused petitioners (plaintiffs in the suit) are in possession of the suit land.

5. Now if coming to the essential ingredients required to constitute the commission of an offence punishable under Section 447 of the Indian Penal Code, the provisions contained under Section 441 which defines criminal trespass reveals that in order to infer the commission of such an offence, the accused must have entered upon the property in the possession of another person (complainant) intentionally to commit an offence or to intimidate, insult or annoy such person in possession of the property. True it is that Smt. Srestha Devi has been held owner of the suit land may be on account of she having acquired the same from its previous owner by way of sale. The judgment passed in the civil suit by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Chamba, however, reveals that she is out of possession thereof. Learned Civil Jduge in para 20 and also 24 of the judgment has observed that metalled road is in existence over a portion of the land in question since the year 1970 to the notice and knowledge of the then owner of the suit land and retaining wall as well as one shed is already constructed by the plaintiff thereon.

6. Said Smt. Srestha Devi, the defendant in the civil suit may or may not succeed in the appeal, however, keeping in view the dispute civil in nature, allowing the criminal proceedings to go on further against the accused-petitioners would amount to abuse of process of law, when in view of the position discussed hereinabove, ingredients of commission of an offence punishable under Section 447 are not established. This Court has every doubt qua likelihood of the accused-petitioners to be ultimately held guilty for the commission of alleged offence. As a matter of fact, there is no likelihood of their's being convicted or sentenced in view of such material available on record and to the contrary, allowing the criminal proceedings to continue against them would amount to their harassment mentally and also financially. Therefore, there is no question of the accused-petitioners having entered upon the same within the meaning of Section 441 and thereby the commission of an offence punishable under Section 447 of the Indian Penal Code made out against them.

7. Now if coming to the offence the accused-petitioners allegedly committed under Section 506 of the Indian Penal Code, the allegations that the threatening to do away with the lives of complainant and his wife were held out at such a stage when the accused party requested not to raise any construction over the land in dispute also seems to be not genuine for the reason that as per the findings now recorded by the Civil Court on appreciation of the evidence not only the shed but the road was constructed over a portion thereof long back. The wife of complainant has acquired the land in dispute by way of sale on 07.01.2008. The previous owner thereof was someone else. As per record the road and the shed were constructed by deceased Sagar Chand Naiyar in the year 1966 and 1970 respectively. Therefore, it is difficult to believe that the shed has been constructed recently by the accused-petitioners. Even if the evidence collected by the investigating agency is taken as it is i.e. without cross-examining the complainant and other witnesses, the present is a case where to allow the criminal proceedings to continue would not only amount to abuse of process of the law but also harassment of the accused-petitioners. The petition as such is allowed. Consequently, FIR No. 245/2008 and the consequential proceedings i.e. case No. 207-I/2009 titled State of H.P. versus Neeraj Nayyar and others in the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba are quashed and set aside. The record be returned to learned trial Court.

8. The petition is according allowed and stands disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the appeal filed against the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Chamba and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.
Versus
Subhash Chand .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 288 of 2008
Decided on : 7.12.2016

Punjab Excise Act, 1914- Section 61(1)(a)- Accused was found in possession of 5 cartons of Indian made foreign liquor each containing 12 bottles and one carton of country liquor 'Patiala' brand- the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that independent witnesses were available but were not associated –the link evidence was missing – the case property was not bearing any seal when it was produced before the Court- the view taken by the Trial Court was reasonable- appeal dismissed.(Para-9 to 15)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondent: Mr. N.S Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgment of 15.2.2008 rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Barsar, District Hamirpur, in Excise Case No. 1-III-2007, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondent (for short "accused") for the offences charged.

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 28.2.2006 at about 12.45 a.m. in the night HC Purshotam Dass No. 41 alongwith HHC Ajit Singh No. 149 and HHG Rakesh Kumar No. 10-5/101 was on patrolling duty at place Mehre vide Rapat Ex.PW-4/B. At the relevant time one Maruti car bearing No. HP-23A/2680 came from Dandru side at a high speed which was stopped by the police officials and on the basis of suspicion the aforesaid vehicle was checked. The police official recovered 5 cartons of Indian Made foreign liquor "Bagpiper whisky" each containing 12 bottles and one carton of country liquor "Patiala brand". The police extracted out 2 bottles from two cartons of "Bagpiper whisky" and 1 bottle of country liquor "Patiala brand", separately for sample purpose and thereafter sample bottles and remaining liquor were sealed and were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ex.PW-1/B. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court qua his committing offence punishable under Section 61(1)(a) of Punjab Excise Act as applicable to the State of H.P, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 4 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, he did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal qua the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The seizure of liquor borne on the relevant seizure memo embodied in Ex. PW-1/B occurred at a place reflected in the site plan comprised in Ex. PW-3/B. The recovery of illicit liquor stood effectuated from vehicle bearing No.HP23A-2680 which at the relevant time stood driven by the respondent. The prosecution for proving the genesis of the occurrence embodied in the FIR depended upon the testimonies of official witnesses. All the official witnesses in their respective testifications occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief rendered a version qua the prosecution case bereft of any stain of any inter-se contradictions occurring therewithin vis-à-vis their respective communications articulated in their respective cross-examinations. Also their respective testifications are free from any taint of any intra-se contradictions, in sequel thereto their taint free testifications warranted imputation of credence thereto.

10. The learned trial Court had pronounced an order of acquittal upon the respondent merely for non-association by the investigating Officer concerned of independent witnesses who despite evident availability in proximity to the relevant site of occurrence remained omitted to be associated by him in the relevant proceedings. Though formidable evidence does exist on record qua availability of a thickly inhabited colony in close proximity to the site of occurrence yet the factum of a heavily populated colony occurring in close proximity to the relevant site of occurrence would not constrain an inference qua any omission on the part of the investigating Officer concerned to solicit their participation in the proceedings which occurred at the site of occurrence begetting a sequel of his thereupon concerting to smother the truth of the prosecution case or his inventing the effectuation of recovery of illicitly carried liquor bottles in the relevant car which at the relevant time stood driven by the respondent. Conspicuously also the aforesaid inference stands forbidden to be drawn by the evident factum of the relevant occurrence taking place in the morning at about 12.45 a.m. on 28.2.2006 whereat the inhabitants of homesteads occurring in close proximity thereof would not accede to any request of the investigating officer or of any official deputed by the investigating officer for soliciting their participation in the relevant proceedings. In sequel thereof the reason propounded by the learned trial Court qua non-association of independent witnesses in the relevant proceedings by the Investigating Officer despite their evident availability in close proximity thereof ingraining the prosecution case with a pervasive stain of vitiation cannot warrant it standing accepted by this Court.

11. Even though on an incisive scanning of the evidence adduced by the prosecution, it is evident qua the aforesaid witnesses in their respective testifications voicing a taint free version qua the genesis of the prosecution case yet also when in their respective testifications they bespeak qua at the time contemporaneous to the relevant occurrence vehicles besides the vehicle wherefrom the relevant seizure occurred making their appearance at the relevant site of occurrence, nonetheless the afore-stated bespeakings occurring therewithin also cannot facilitate the defence to make any espousal qua non-association of their occupants by the Investigating Officer as independent witnesses qua the relevant proceedings making pervasive inroads qua the efficacy besides the tenacity of the prosecution case unless compatible suggestions unveiling the factum of the investigating officer in making the aforesaid omission(s) hence concerting to smother the factum of his despite effectuating the relevant recovery from the aforesaid vehicles, his proceeding to introduce the carton of liquor onto the vehicle driven at the relevant time by the accused. In absence of the aforesaid apposite suggestions the mere factum of vehicles arriving at the site of occurrence in contemporarnity to the relevant proceedings occurring thereat would not stain the vigor of the prosecution case.

12. The learned counsel for the accused has contended with force qua the prosecution standing enjoined with a solemn obligation under law to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. He also submits qua the testifications of the official witnesses not holding any element of creditworthiness. However his submission holds no force as this Court has concluded qua the testimonies of the official witnesses while making echoings therein in proof of the genesis of the prosecution case their relevant articulations qua the relevant factum probandum when free from any taints aforesaid hence enjoining this Court to thereupon proceed to impute credence to their respective testimonies. In face thereof yet with the prosecution thereupon succeeding in proving the genesis of the prosecution case, the defence contrarily was under an obligation to belittle its creditworthiness or also was under an obligation to by putting apposite suggestion to the prosecution witnesses make a concerted attempt in portrayal of the entire genesis of the prosecution case voiced by the prosecution witnesses standing engulfed in a pervasive shroud of doubt whereupon this Court would stand facilitated to conclude of the prosecution failing to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. However the defence has omitted to make the apposite endeavor. Significantly when the eminent principle of criminal jurisprudence though is held in the canon of the prosecution standing enjoined to prove its case to the hilt nonetheless for eroding the efficacy of propagations made by the PWs they are enjoined to be held to an exacting cross-examination for relevant unearthings therefrom standing elicited qua doubt hence seeping the genesis of the prosecution case whereupon alone on doubt standing reared qua the genesis or efficacy of the prosecution case would the apposite benefit accrue to the defence. Consequently when the aforesaid concerts are wholly amiss hereat nor any doubt qua the aforesaid facet hence is gripping the prosecution case, ensuing sequel wherefrom is qua its benefit being undrawable by the defence.

13. Though the defence had made a feeble attempt to by putting suggestions qua availability of a liquor vend in close proximity to the site of occurrence to unveil vaguely therefrom qua the investigating officer concerned after collecting the liquor therefrom his introducing it onto the vehicle driven at the relevant time by the respondent wherefrom the relevant seizure occurred. However the aforesaid feeble attempt is also bereft of any specificity especially when it does not hold therewithin any suggestion unveiling the aforesaid factum. Also with both PWs 1 and 3 wheretowhom the relevant suggestion stood put by the learned defence counsel while holding them to cross-examination qua the availability of a liquor vend in close proximity to the relevant site of occurrence though while meteing their respective answers thereto they acquiesced qua the relevant factum yet with both the aforesaid prosecution witnesses while meteing answers thereto also conveying qua its closing at 12.30 p.m. whereas the relevant seizure occurring 15 minutes thereafter whereupon the learned defence counsel was under an obligation to also put further suggestions to them qua at the relevant time whereat the relevant seizure occurred the liquor shop also remaining open thereat yet he omitted to put the aforesaid suggestion to them wherefrom it has to be concluded qua at the relevant time, the liquor shop occurring in close proximity to the site of occurrence not being open thereat. In aftermath it has to be concluded qua the defence even if it has feebly attempted therefrom to convey of the Investigating Officer after making the relevant collection therefrom his introducing the liquor bottles onto the car of the respondent/accused yet its attempt also standing wholly enfeebled, corollary whereof is qua the concert made by the defence to belittle the creditworthiness of the prosecution case propagated through the un-tainted testimonies of the prosecution witnesses also its concert to prove qua a pervasive doubt seeping into the genesis of the prosecution case wherefrom it has concerted herebefore to constrain this Court to make a conclusion qua the prosecution failing to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt apparently has to suffer the ill fate of its suffering outright rejection from this court.

14. Be that as it may the entire vigor of the prosecution case was held in the relevant factum of it succeeding in proving qua the relevant seizure of the liquor bottles, seizure whereof stands embodied in Ex.PW-1/B, on their production before the Court for theirs standing shown to the relevant PWs theirs thereat standing invincibly connected with the seizure of liquor bottles embodied in the apposite recovery memo. Efficacious proof qua connectivity existing qua the seizure of liquor bottles held in the relevant seizure memo vis-à-vis the ones which stood produced in Court stood constituted in the trite factum of liquor bottles on standing produced in Court for theirs standing shown to the relevant PWs theirs standing held in sealed cartons/boxes. However with PW-1 in his cross-examination testifying qua on the case property on standing shown to him in Court it not holding seals thereon, constrains this Court to conclude qua efficacious proof qua existence of an imminent connectivity occurring inter-se the liquor bottles embodied in seizure memo comprised in Ex.PW-1/B vis-à-vis the ones which stood produced in Court standing not unflinchingly proven by the prosecution. In sequel thereof the ensuing deduction therefrom is qua the prosecution not thereby proving the factum of liquor bottles which stood produced in Court standing connected or related qua the bottles borne on Ex.PW-1/B or theirs standing related to the opinion of the FSL concerned. Concomitantly with the aforesaid link qua the relevant trite factum aforesaid standing not effectively proven obviously a doubt seeps qua the vigor of the prosecution case benefit whereof ought to go to the accused.

15. A wholesome analysis of evidence on record portrays that except qua the aforesaid parameters the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court not suffering from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit any interference.

16. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Records be sent back.

Ram Kishan ... Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 264 of 2012
Reserved on: 22.11.2016
Date of decision: 7.12.2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found in possession of 1 kg. 550 grams charas- the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the accused was travelling in the bus, however, no independent witness was associated- one police official was not examined – there are material contradictions in the testimonies of police witnesses – the testimonies of the police officials are not cogent or trustworthy and cannot be made basis for convicting the accused- appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 21)

For the appellant: Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Deputy Advocate Generals.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajay Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

By way of this appeal, State has challenged judgment passed by the Court of learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, in Sessions Trial No. 54/2010 dated 29.09.2011, vide which, the accused has been acquitted for commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act.

2. The case of the prosecution in brief was that on the intervening night of 26/27th December, 2009, ASI Satish Kumar, Investigating Officer, Police Station Jogindernagar alongwith other police officials had set up a Naka at Cinema Chowk, Jogindernagar. HHG Amar Singh and HHG Kali Dass, were on patrolling duty in beat No. 2. They were also associated in the Naka by the Investigating Officer. At around 12.45 A.M., one HRTC bus of Keylong Depot bearing registration No. HP-66-1307 came from Manali which was on its way to Dharamshala. This bus was stopped for checking. Accused was found sitting on Seat No. 37. As soon as he saw the police party, he got perplexed, as a result of which, the police party became suspicious. During his personal search, he was found to have tied some material with Cello Tapes to both his legs. He was alighted from the bus. The Cello Tapes tied to his legs were removed and some material of black colour in the shape of chapattis and sticks was recovered from the accused, which he had tied to his legs. On smelling, this material was found to be Charas and when weighed it was found weighing 1 kilogram 550 grams. Biri Chand was the driver of the bus and Duni Chand was conductor of the said bus. When asked, conductor Duni Chand disclosed that the accused had boarded the bus from Kullu to Baijnath. The bus ticket of the accused was attested by Duni Chand which was taken into possession by the police. Recovered Charas was packed in a cloth parcel which was sealed with six seals of 'S'. The socks of the accused and Cello Tape used for tying the Charas in legs, were put in another cloth parcel, which was also sealed with seal 'S'. NCB form was filled on the spot. The seal after its use was handed over to Constable Inder Dev. Recovered case property was taken into possession by the police vide seizure memo Ext.PW1/B. Constable Inder Dev and HHG Rvainder Kumar put their signatures on the seizure memo as witnesses and accused also put his signatures on it. Rukka Ext. PW-8/B was scribed and sent to the Police Station through HHG Amar Singh on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-8/A was registered. Site plan etc. were prepared. Accused was arrested and after completion of formalities, the case property as well as the accused were taken to the Police Station. Case property was produced before the then S.H.O. Police Station Jogindernagar for resealing, which was resealed with three seals of 'N'. Case property was thereafter deposited with MHC Mangat Ram. The same was sent to the laboratory vide R.C. No. 213/09 through Constable Karam Singh. The recovered contraband on chemical examination was found to be Charas as per report of the Expert certificate Ext. PX.

3. After completion of the investigation, challan was filed in the Court and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, he was charged for commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, to which, he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. On the basis of evidence led both ocular as well as documentary, learned trial Court held that in view of non-association of independent witnesses coupled with the contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses who were police officials, the alleged recovery of Charas from the possession of the accused from his personal search was doubtful. It further held that the evidence adduced by the prosecution could not be said to be sufficient to prove beyond reasonable doubt that 1 kilogram 550 grams Charas was recovered from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused during his personal search. It was further held by learned trial Court that there was non-compliance of the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act and as such, the prosecution could not be said to have proved the guilt of the accused. On these basis, learned trial Court acquitted the accused.

5. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned trial Court, the State has filed this appeal.

6. Mr. Vikram Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, has strenuously argued that the judgment of acquittal returned by learned trial Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law as learned trial Court erred in not appreciating that the prosecution had proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and learned trial Court had erred in discarding the well reasoned and consistent testimonies of the prosecution witnesses on material points. It was further argued by learned Deputy Advocate General that learned trial Court failed to appreciate and take into consideration the statements of PW-1 HC Inder Dev, PW-6 HHG Amar Singh and PW-10 ASI Satish Kumar in its correct perspective. According to Mr. Thakur, a perusal of the statements of these three witnesses clearly demonstrated that the prosecution had proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt, however, learned trial Court had erred in returning the conclusion to the contrary. It was further argued by Mr. Thakur that learned trial Court had erred in not appreciating the testimony of the Investigating Officer to the effect that the statement of conductor could not be recorded for valid reasons that had been given by him. It was further argued by Mr. Thakur that the conclusion arrived at by learned trial Court that the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act were not complied with was totally a wrong conclusion in the facts and circumstances of the case as it was a 'chance recovery'. On these grounds, it was urged by Mr. Thakur that the judgment of acquittal passed by learned trial Court was perverse and was liable to be set aside and the accused was liable to be convicted for commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act.

7. Mr. Ajay Chandel, learned counsel for the respondent, on the other hand, argued that the judgment passed by learned trial Court was neither perverse nor the findings of acquittal returned by learned trial Court were incorrect. Mr. Chandel argued that learned trial Court after taking into consideration the entire evidence placed on record by the prosecution held that the prosecution had failed to prove its case against the accused. Mr. Chandel argued that in fact non-compliance of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act was done by the prosecution because in fact no contraband was recovered from the accused by the prosecution and the accused had been framed in a false case. He further argued that no cogent explanation was there from the prosecution that as to why independent witnesses were not associated with search and seizure when it was the case of the prosecution that the alleged recovery of the Charas was made from the accused who was travelling in the bus. He further argued that contradictions and inconsistencies in the statements of the official witnesses were not minor but were major contradictions and they created serious doubt over the story of the prosecution and in this background, it could not be said that learned trial Court had erred in acquitting the accused. On these basis, it was argued that the judgment of acquittal returned by learned trial Court do not warrant any interference.

8. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as judgment passed by learned trial Court.

9. As per the prosecution, the contraband was seized from the person of the accused on the intervening night of 26/27th December, 2009, while he was travelling in a bus which was proceeding from Manali to Dharamshala. The contraband was so seized when the said bus was stopped for checking at Jogindernagar at Cinema Chowk at around 12.45 A.M. Further, as per the prosecution, the accused was found sitting on Seat No. 37 and as he got perplexed when he saw police party. The police party became suspicious and during his search, it was found that he had tied some material with Cello Tapes in both of his legs. Taking the story of the prosecution as it is, we fail to understand as to when the police found that the accused had tied some material with Cello Tapes in both of his legs and he was alighted from the bus why no independent witness was associated with the search and seizure of the contraband. Not only this, admittedly, when the search and seizure was conducted by the prosecution on suspicion being raised by the conduct of the accused, no cogent explanation is there as to why the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act were not complied with. Incidentally, it is not a case where the alleged recovery of the contraband was made by the prosecution from the accused either at an isolated place or secluded place. Though the prosecution has tried to explain non-joining of the independent witnesses and non-recording of the statement of the conductor on the ground that it was a cold night and the passengers were raising hue and cry, but according to us, the explanation which has been so given by the prosecution, does not seem to be creditworthy because it belies prudence that the police party did not record the statement of the conductor or the driver of the bus neither did it associate any independent witness from amongst other passengers present in the bus simply because it was a cold night or the passengers were raising hue and cry. It has come in evidence even otherwise that it is not as if immediately after the accused was nabbed by the police party, the bus was allowed to go. On the contrary, PW-6 has stated that bus remained at the spot during entire proceedings on the date in issue.

10. Besides this, even otherwise, story as has been put forth by the prosecution does not inspire confidence. The testimony of official witnesses is neither cogent or trustworthy nor does the same appear to be believable. The contradictions and inconsistencies in their statements have not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution.

11. As per the prosecution, the Investigating Officer had associated Constable Inder Dev and HHC Ravinder Kumar as witnesses of search and seizure. HHC Ravinder Kumar was not examined by the prosecution and in fact he was given up by the prosecution on 13.06.2011 as being repetitive.

12. Inder Dev entered the witness box as PW-1 to corroborate the case of the prosecution and he has stated in his cross-examination that when the accused saw them (police party), he got frightened and they (police party) became suspicious that he must be possessing some contraband. He further stated that the search of the accused was carried out inside the bus. He also stated that the police officials did not give their personal search to the accused. He also stated that the Investigating Officer after having become suspicious that the accused was in possession of narcotic substance, did not give any option to the accused to be searched before Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. In our considered view, testimony of this witness creates a serious doubt over the version of the prosecution that it was a case of 'chance recovery'. It has come in his cross-examination that the bus was almost full except 3-4 seats and only three persons out of the police party went inside the bus.

13. HHG Amar Singh, who entered the witness box as PW-6 stated that when the police party entered the bus, accused who was sitting on seat No. 37 got frightened when he saw the police party and ASI Satish Kumar became suspicious. He further deposed that during checking, legs of accused were found to be swellon and when his pent was lifted, it was noticed that under the socks accused had tied something. He further deposed that thereafter the accused was taken out of the bus and on search, the tied material was found to be in shape of sticks and chappati of black colour which was charas. In his cross-examination, this witness stated that when accused became frightened, the police party became suspicious that he was possessing some narcotic substance. He also stated that there were 2-3 passengers sitting on the same bench alongwith the accused. He also stated that on suspicion, accused was alighted from the bus by the police and thereafter, his search was taken. He also stated that HHG Ravinder Singh and Constable Inder Dev had brought weight and scale from nearby vegetable shop. He also stated that bus remained at the spot till the completion of entire proceedings and the entire proceedings were completed at about 1:45 a.m. He also stated that none of the passengers were associated as witness at the time of search and thereafter self stated that driver and conductor were associated as witnesses. He also stated that no file was taken by him from Police Station. He also stated that during the course of proceedings, he never visited the Police Station. Incidentally, in his examination-in-chief, PW-6 stated that Investigating Officer gave him ruqua which he gave to MHC and thereafter he handed over case file to Investigating Officer in the Police Station.

14. The Investigating Officer entered the witness box as PW-10. When we peruse the statement of PW-10 ASI Satish Kumar Investigating Officer, there is no mention in his examination-in-chief that while they were checking the bus in question, the accused was sitting on Seat No. 37 got perplexed when he saw the police party or raised a suspicion on account of his conduct. He has deposed in the Court as under:-

> "During the checking of the bus one person was found sitting on seat No. 37. During the checking of that person, it was found that he had tied some material in both his legs below knee. He was taken out of the bus. During the checking, it was found that he had wrapped a tape around his both legs."

15. It has further come in the testimony of PW10 that he brought weights and scale from a vegetable shop of Chota Walla alias Krishan from his servant Kripal Singh. While Kripal Singh has not been examined by the prosecution, the testimony of Investigating Officer that he brought weights and scale from a nearby shop is belied by the statement of PW-6 who has stated that the weights and scale were brought from the nearby shop by Ravinder and Inder Dev.

16. Moreover, while it has come in the cross-examination of PW-10 that the accused was sitting alone on the bench of Seat No. 37, whereas it has come in the statement of PW-6 that 2-3 persons were also sitting on the same bench.

17. Not only this, while as per PW-10 ASI Satish Kumar, there were 15-20 passengers in the bus, however, it has come in the statement of PW-1 that the bus was almost full except 3-4 seats.

18. Further, whereas in his cross-examination PW-10 has stated that the case file was brought from Police Station by HHG Amar Singh and handed over to him at around 03.00 A.M. Amar Singh (PW-6) on the contrary has stated that he did not bring any file from the Police Station to the spot. Not only this, whereas PW-10 has stated that the file was handed over to him at the spot at around 03.00 A.M. PW-6 has deposed that the entire police party had left the spot at around 01.45 A.M.

19. In our considered view, these are major contradictions and inconsistencies in the testimony of main prosecution witnesses on the strength of whose testimonies prosecution wants the conviction of the accused. Statements of these official witnesses are neither cogent nor trustworthy at all and these cannot be made basis for convicting the accused. The contradictions and inconsistencies in their statements cannot be terms as minor but are major and these contradictions create very serious doubt as to whether any contraband was in fact recovered from the accused by the police party on the date, time and place as the prosecution wants this Court to believe.

20. As we have already discussed above, apparently it does not seem to be a case of 'chance recovery' and the prosecution has made it a case of 'chance recovery' just to get out of the rigors of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, which are mandatory. Neither the driver of the bus nor the conductor of the bus has been examined by the prosecution nor other passengers travelling in the bus has been examined by the prosecution to substantiate its case that the contraband was recovered from the accused in the mode and manner in which the prosecution wants this Court to believe. Non-joining of independent witnesses with the search and seizure on the pretext that it was a case of 'chance recovery' also does not seem to be believable. It has clearly come in the deposition of PW-1, PW-6 as well as in cross-examination of PW-10 that before the search of the accused, police party had become suspicious that he was possessing some narcotic substance. Whereas PW-1 has stated that the accused was searched inside the bus, it has come in the statements of PW1 and PW-10 that he was searched after being alighted from the bus.

21. Therefore, in our considered view, it cannot be said that on the basis of evidence both oral as well as documentary prosecution had proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. A perusal of the judgment passed by learned trial Court also demonstrates that it has exhaustively taken into consideration the entire evidence produced on record by the prosecution and after appreciation of the same has held that the prosecution was not able to prove its case against then accused on the strength of evidence placed on record. We concur with the findings so returned by learned trial Court. The findings so returned by learned trial Court are neither perverse nor it can be said that the same are not borne out from the records of the case.

22. Accordingly, in view of the above discussion, we do not have any reason to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by learned trial Court in favour of the accused and while upholding the judgment so passed by learned trial Court, we dismiss the present appeal being devoid of any merit. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

Date of decision: 8.12.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for the post of Part Time Water Carrier on the ground that her father had donated land for the construction of the school in the year 1964 – respondent No.3 was selected by the Government under Rule 12 of Recruitment Scheme for the appointment of Part Time Water Carriers – held, that Rule 12 empowers the State to make the appointment on compassionate ground without following the selection process amongst widow, women deserted by their husbands, or otherwise destitute, handicapped persons, if such candidate falls below the poverty line - the petitioner had applied for recruitment under this Rule – the Rule was subsequently quashed but the appointment was made prior to the quashing – respondent No.3 falls within the criteria laid down in Rule 12 and her appointment cannot be said to be bad – writ petition dismissed.(Para-7 to 10)

Case referred:
Mangla Devi Vs. State of H.P. and others, Latest HLJ 2015 (HP) 902,

For the Petitioner: Ms.Sheetal Kimta, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Varun Chandel, Additional Advocate General with Mr.Pankaj Negi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr.B.B. Vaid, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur J. (Oral).

By way of present petition, petitioner has challenged appointment of respondent No. 3 as Part Time Water Carrier (herein after referred to as PTWC) in Government Primary School, Baghthal Madhana, District Sirmour, H.P. on the ground that petitioner is more deserving candidate to be appointed on compassionate ground under Rule 12 of Recruitment Scheme for the appointment of Part Time Water Carriers in Schools of Education Department (herein after referred to as 'Scheme').

2. During course of arguments, learned counsel for respondent No. 3 has adopted reply filed by respondents No. 1 and 2. As per reply of respondents No. 1 and 2, appointment of respondent No. 3 was approved by Government under Rule 12 of the Scheme for the post of Part Time Water Carrier (PTWC) in Government Primary School, Baghthal Madhana and was sent to Deputy Director, Elementary Education, Sirmour on 8.4.2013 for further action and after completing all formalities, President School Management Committee, Government Primary School, Baghthal Madhana was directed to appoint respondent No. 3 on 16.4.2013 as PTWC in the said school and in pursuance to her appointment, she joined her duties on 18.4.2013. It is further stated in reply that approval of petitioner was also received under Rule 12 of the Scheme for the same post in the same school, but said approval was sent to Deputy Director, Elementary Education on 16.4.2013, who had referred back the case of petitioner with remarks that post of Part Time Water Carrier (PTWC) was not vacant in Government Primary School, Baghthal Madhana.

3. I have heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

4. Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme empowers respondent-State to make appointments of PTWC on compassionate grounds without following the selection process amongst widows, women deserted by their husbands or otherwise destitute, handicapped persons if such candidate falls below the poverty line as defined by Rural Development Department from time to time. Copy of Scheme has been placed on record as Annexure P-8.

5. Petitioner claims that she is permanently disabled to the extent of 45%, having academic qualification of +2, belongs to below poverty line family with income of Rs. 6,000/- per annum from all sources and an unemployed person also registered with Employment Exchange. She further claims that she has lost her father and there is none to look after her and because of permanent disability, she is unable to do any kind of manual work. Being an eligible candidate, she had applied to respondent No. 2 for the post of PTWC vide application (Annexure P-6) on the ground that her father had donated land for construction of aforesaid school long back ago, somewhere in the year 1964. She has also placed copy of mutation dated 21.3.1964 on record as Annexure P-7. It is also averred that her village is situated at a shorter distance from the school premises in comparison to respondent No. 3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that respondent No. 2 has not adopted procedure for appointment of respondent No. 3 and swayed only by the fact that she is a widow. Competence of respondent No. 2 to appoint any candidate on compassionate ground has also been disputed by stating that respondent No. 3 had been appointed by respondent No. 2 and not by Government, as power to appoint on compassionate ground vested only with the Government.

6. Respondents No. 1 and 2 have clarified in their reply that appointment of respondent No. 3 was approved by the Government and sent to respondent No. 2, who only completed the codal formalities in pursuance to approval of Government.

7. Petitioner has not rebutted averments of reply filed by respondents No. 1 and 2 and no rejoinder has been preferred to be filed. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon judgment of Division Bench of this Court in Mangla Devi Vs. State of H.P. and others, Latest HLJ 2015 (HP) 902, vide which Rule 12 of the Scheme has been quashed and set aside, being ultra virus and thus she has prayed for quashing and setting aside of the appointment of respondent No. 3 made exercising powers under Clause/Rule 12 of the Scheme.

8. In judgment rendered by Division Bench in Mangla Devi's case (supra) Rule 12 of the Scheme has been struck down by declaring the said Rule ultra virus. In present case, petitioner herself is also harping upon Rule 12 of the Scheme and it is not case of the petitioner that appointment of respondent No. 3 made under Rule 12 of the Scheme is bad for unconstitutionality of Rule 12, but on the basis of her family circumstances, petitioner is also claiming appointment on the basis of power of the State under Rule 12 on compassionate ground. It is not case of the petitioner that post in question should have been advertised, rather she herself had applied vide Annexure P-6 for compassionate appointment by the Government. Moreover, Rule 12 of the Scheme was struck down on 15th May, 2015 without any direction with respect to appointment made before striking down of Rule 12 of the Scheme and rightly so, as appointments made prior to 15th May, 2015 under this Rule were neither in question nor the candidates appointed prior to that date were party in that petition. Therefore, candidates appointed under Rule 12 of the Scheme prior to striking down of the said Rule will not be liable to be ousted automatically on the basis of ratio laid down by Division Bench in the aforesaid judgment, unless their appointment is assailed on that ground.

9. In present case, petitioner herself is claiming right under Rule 12 of the Scheme, therefore, striking down of Rule 12 of the Scheme subsequent to the appointment of respondent No. 3 is not having any advantage to petitioner, rather it has adverse effect on her claim, as except claiming her entitlement for appointment under provisions of Rule 12 of the Scheme, there is no other ground for asserting her claim for appointment to the post of PTWC against which respondent No. 3 has been appointed.

10. At the time appointment of respondent No. 3, Rule 12 of the Scheme was in force and she was found within the criteria fixed for appointment under the said Rule and petitioner has not questioned the power of respondent-State to appoint candidate under Rule 12 of the Scheme at relevant point of time, but has claimed her right to be appointed in the same manner in exercise of powers under Rule 12.

11. In view of above discussion, I find no merit in this petition and the same is dismissed accordingly, along with pending application(s), if any.

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Instant Letters Patent Appeal under clause 10 of the Letter Patents of Delhi High Court as applicable to the Himachal Pradesh High Court has been filed against judgment dated 23.6.2010 passed in CWP No. 1861 of 2009 by a learned Single Judge of this Court, with the following main relief:

> "It is, therefore, prayed that this appeal may kindly be accepted and the judgment dated 23.6.2010 passed in CWP No. 1861/2009 (sic 1861/2010) by Hon'ble Single Judge, whereby writ petition filed by the present appellants stand may kindly be set aside in the interest of law and justice."

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case, as emerge from the record are that the petitioners were appointed as Inspectors Grade-I in the year 1998, in accordance with Rules, Annexure P-1 of the writ petition. Mode of recruitment under Rule 10 of the relevant Rules, notified in 1986, is as under:

10% by direct recruitment,

50% by promotion from Sub Inspectors/ Sub Inspectors (Audit), 30% by promotion from amongst Clerks, and,

10% by promotion from amongst Gram Sewaks.

3. On 1.6.1996, a notification (Annexure P-2 of writ petition) was issued, merging 147 posts of Inspectors Grade-II in the Cooperation Department in the cadre of Inspector Grade-I (General and Audit), i.e. the cadre to which the appellants were appointed by direct recruitment in 1998. Consequently, respondents No. 3 to 156, who were working as Inspectors Grade-II, on the date of issuance of that notification in the Cooperative Department, became Inspectors Grade-I. Aforesaid respondents were initially appointed as Sub Inspectors but later redesignated as Inspectors Grade-II. Annexure P-2 of the writ petition besides merging two cadres also provided for regulating the seniority of the incumbents of the posts of two cadres in the integrated cadre. It was provided that the persons already working as Inspectors Grade-I would rank senior, en bloc, to the persons, who became Inspector Grade-I, by virtue of the order of merger. Appellants, who were appointed in 1998 and 1999 challenged the tentative seniority list of Inspectors Grade-I, (Annexure P-5 of the writ petition), by filing CWP No. 1861 of 2009, seeking following main relief(s):-

> "(b) That the Hon'ble court may kindly be pleased to issue a writ of certiorari or any other appropriate writ, direction or order in favour of the petitioners and against the respondents to the effect that the provisional tentative seniority list, i.e. from Sr. No. 58 to 211, contained in Annexure P-5, be quashed and set aside as there is an error apparent on the face of record in drawing up the seniority list.
> (c) That the Hon'ble court may be pleased to issue a writ or mandamus or writ in the nature of mandamus to the effect that the respondents may kindly be directed to draw up seniority list as per the Recruitment and Promotion Rules and the Notifications, which have been issued by the respondents from time to time."

4. Respondents No.1 and 2 filed reply to the writ petition, which was also adopted by the private respondents. In the reply, locus standi of the appellants to assail Notification Annexure P-2, which was admittedly issued prior the date of their appointment to the cadre in question was questioned.

5. The writ Court, after hearing the arguments of both the sides, dismissed the petition mainly on the ground that the persons (appellants), who were not even in service on the date of integration of different cadres, can not seek seniority above the persons, who are/were already borne on the integrated cadre and as such they have no locus standi to assail the order of integration.

6. Now, feeling aggrieved by aforesaid judgment rendered by the writ Court, appellants-petitioners have approached this Court, by way of present appeal, seeking reliefs as have been reproduced above.

7. Crux of the arguments having been made by Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Yudhbir Singh, Advocate, is that notification, vide which two cadres were ordered to be merged deserves to be quashed and set aside being contrary to the Rules framed by the respondents. As per Mr. Shreedhar, there could not be any merger of cadres merely by issuance of a notification, without there being amendment in the Rules. Apart from above, Mr. Shreedhar also contended that learned Single Judge failed to appreciate that the mergerists could not claim status of promotees and as such in no situation, they could be placed above direct recruits in the seniority list, especially when it stands duly proved on record that the petitioners being direct recruits had joined as Inspector Grade-I in 1998/1999, whereas respondents, though became Inspector Grade-I pursuant to notification issued on 1.6.1996, for all intents and purposes, they assumed charge of the post of Inspector Grade-I in the year 1998/1999 i.e. after the appointment of the petitioners in the cadre of Inspector Grade-I. While inviting attention to the notification of merger issued by the respondents, Mr. Shreedhar further contended that the judgment passed by learned Single Judge is also vitiated because it failed to take note of the stipulation contained in the notification, wherein it was specifically provided that after merger, Inspector Grade-2 shall rank junior to the Inspector Grade-I i.e. General and Audit and after merger, they shall not claim seniority over and above the already appointed Inspectors Grade-I.

8. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General, duly assisted by Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General, supported the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge. As per Mr. Dogra, there is no illegality or infirmity in the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge and the same is based on correct appreciation of Rules as well as notification issued in this regard by the appropriate authority. While refuting arguments having been advanced by Mr. Shreedhar, Mr. Dogra while inviting attention to the Notification of merger issued by the respondents, stated that two cadres of Inspector Grade-I and Inspector Grade-2 were ordered to be merged with effect from 1.7.1995. Mr. Dogra, further contended that the State Government on 1.6.1996 vide notification No. Coop.A(1)-1/95 merged entire cadre of Inspector Grade-2 with existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995 and thereby enhanced total sanctioned strength of the cadre of Inspector Grade-I from 388 to 535. Mr. Dogra also invited the attention of this Court to the subsequent orders passed by learned Single Judge in another set of cases i.e. CWP(T) No. 2162/2008, CWP(T) No. 3189/2008 and CWP(T) No. 4244/2008, filed by the Himachal Pradesh Cooperative Department Inspector Grade-2 Union, Roshan Lal and others and Association of Inspector Grade-2, Cooperative Societies, whereby placing reliance upon the supplementary affidavit of the Joint Secretary (Cooperation) dated 7.7.1997, petitions were disposed of on the basis of 'working formula', suggested as per supplementary affidavit. Mr. Dogra, further contended that in terms of aforesaid judgment passed by the learned Single Judge, aforesaid notification of merger dated 1.6.1996, merging Inspector Grade-2 with existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I, was made effective with effect from 1.8.1995 instead of 1.7.1995. While refuting the contentions raised on behalf of the learned counsel for the petitioners that as per Notification of merger dated 1.6.1996, Inspectors Grade-2 were to rank junior to the Inspector Grade-I, General and Audit, after merger, Mr. Dogra, strenuously argued that no benefit can be drawn by the appellants from para (iv) in the aforesaid notification, because same relates to the Inspector Grade-I, who were already working in the Department as such, at the time of issuance of notification i.e. 1.6.1996, appellants who were admittedly appointed as direct recruits in 1998-99 can not claim any benefit on the basis of aforesaid stipulation. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Dogra forcefully contended that after notification of merger, all the consequential benefits of pay scale and arrears of pay were given to both the employees, direct and merged with effect from 1.6.1996, as a result of which promotees and merged inspectors acquired status of Inspector Grade-I from that date and as such there is no illegality in the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge and same deserves to be upheld.

9. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records.

10. Before proceeding to decide the present appeal, it would be appropriate to refer to order dated 31.8.2010 passed by this Court in the present appeal, which is reproduced below:

> "No notice needs to be issued to private respondents at this stage. There will be direction to second respondent to file an affidavit as to whether any person, who has been promoted to the cadre of Inspector Grade-I after the petitioners joining duty, have been given a place above the petitioners in the seniority list and if so what is the reason thereof. The affidavit, as above, shall be filed by the second respondent within a period of six weeks. There will also be a direction to respondents No.1 and 2 that in case any promotion is made during the pendency of LPA, it shall be made clear in the proceedings that promotion is subject to the outcome of the LPA. Post on 25.10.2010."

11. Pursuant to aforesaid direction issued by this Court, Additional Registrar Cooperative Societies, Himachal Pradesh filed affidavit stating therein as under:

> "2. That in compliance of the directions of the Hon'ble High Court referred in para 1 supra it is submitted that the Department had circulated the final seniority list of Inspector Cooperative Societies on 03-04-1998 showing the seniority position of Inspectors appointed/ promoted prior to 31-12-1995. It is further submitted that after the petitioners joining duty as Inspector Grade-I in the Department, no seniority list of the cadre of Inspector Grade-I could be finalized till date due to the complications that arose on account of merger of the cadre of Inspector Grade-2 with the cadre of Inspector Grade-I on 01-06-1996 and the promotion orders of Inspector Grade-I issued on same date. The detail submissions with regard to merger and promotion order dated 01-06-1996 have been made in succeeding paras. However, this department has prepared a tentative/provisional seniority list of Inspector Cooperative Societies showing the seniority position as on 31-12-2007 and circulated vide this office letter No. 4-64/2003 Coop.(Estt.) dated 22-2-2008. In this tentative/provisional seniority list, no incumbent who has been promoted to the cadre of Inspector Grade-I after the petitioners joining duty has been given place over and above the petitioners.

3. That it is worth stating here that on 01.06.1996, 38 Inspector Grade-2 and 23 Junior Assistants/Senior Clerks were promoted as Inspector Grade-I vide this office order No. 4-91/87-Coop.(Estt.) dated 01.06.96. The State Government on the same date i.e. 01.06.96 vide Notification No. Coop.A(1)-1/95 dated 01.06.96 merged entire cadre of Inspector Grade-2 with existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I, w.e.f. 01.07.95 and thereby enhanced the total sanctioned posts of Inspectors (General/Audit) from 388 to 535.
4. That due to the retrospective effect of the merger notification dated 01.06.96 some administrative complications arose and O.A. No. 879/96 was filed in the Hon'ble Administrative Tribunal by the promoted Inspectors from amongst the cadre of Clerks against the Notification of merger with effect from 01.07.95. The erstwhile Tribunal clubbed above-mentioned O.A. with O.A. No. 1369/93 and O.A. No. 533/97 which were filed by the Association of the Inspector Grade-II for merger of cadre of Inspector Grade-II with Inspector Grade-I on Punjab pattern. Subsequently, the Government of Himachal Pradesh vide Notification No. Coop.A(1)-1/96 dated 09.03.99 modified the date of merger w.e.f. 01.06.96 instead of 01.07.95 with the condition that this decision as well as inter-se-seniority of all the parties to this dispute shall be subject to the decision in O.As No. 1369/93, 879/96 and 533/97 and promotions orders issued on 01.06.96 were also implemented w.e.f. 01.06.96 vide this office order No. 4-109/92-Coop.(Estt.) dated 17th March, 1999. As such the merger orders as well as the promotion orders issued on 01.06.96 could not be implemented till 9th March, 1999 and 17th March, 1999 respectively.
5. That after the modification of merger date i.e 01-6-1996 instead of 01-07-1995 all the consequential benefits of pay scale of Inspector and arrears of pay were given to both the set of employees i.e. the promoted and merged Inspectors w.e.f. 01-06-1996. Accordingly, the promotees and merged Inspectors have the status of Inspector Grade-I w.e.f. 01-06-1996. Therefore, 23 Clerks promoted on 01.06.96 and 147 Inspector Grade-II merged with the cadre of Inspector Grade-I on 01.06.96 have been placed above the petitioners in the tentative/provisional seniority list circulated on 22-02-2008.
6. That all the O.As No. 1369/93, 879/96 and 533/97 referred above were transferred to the Hon'ble High Court after scrapping of the erstwhile Tribunal and listed before the Hon'ble High Court as CWP(T) No. 2162/08 in O.A. No. 1369/93, CWP(T) No. 4244/2008 in O.A. No. 533/1997 and CWP(T) No. 3189/2008 in O.A. No. 879/96. The above referred CWPs have been disposed off by the Hon'ble High Court on 07.08.2009 by a common judgment. This Hon'ble High court in its judgment dated 07-08-2009 has relied upon the supplementary affidavit of Joint Secretary (Cooperation) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh filed in O.A. No. 879/96 on 07-07-1997. For the sake of brevity, operative portion of the affidavit is reproduced as under: -

"6(i) The Government notification No. Coo.A(1)-1/95, dated 01.06.96 merging the Inspector Grade-II with that of Inspector Grade-I shall be effective w.e.f. 01.08.95 instead of 01.07.95. In this way, the promotion orders issued on 24.07.95 whereby the services of 12 Inspectors were regularized shall remain intact.

(ii) The present applicants in O.A. No. 879/96 as well as other similarly situated persons promoted on 01.06.96 will not reverted and they will be entitled for benefits available under F.R. 22-C while fixing their pay.

(iii) That the inter-se- seniority of the applicants (Clerks) promoted on 01.06.96 and the merged Inspector cadre will be based on the length of service of the concerned Clerks and Inspectors. This will be done in relaxation of the exiting provision of the R&P Rules for the post of Inspector Grade-I.

(iv) That the State Government contemplates framing of new R&P Rules for the category of Inspector Grade-I wherein we are proposing to increase the promotion to a reasonable level of Clerks against 30% quota as available at present."

Consequently, the Hon'ble High Court has directed the respondent State to do the needful as per the supplementary affidavit in O.A. No. 879/1996 converted to CWP(T) 3189/2008. Copy of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Court on 7.08.2009 is enclosed herewith as Annexure A-I.

7. That Sh. Roshan Lal and others have filed an LPA No. 10/2010 before this Hon'ble Court against the judgement dated 7.08-2009, which is pending adjudication."

12. Perusal of aforesaid affidavit having been filed on behalf of the respondent-State suggests that vide notification dated 1.6.1996, 38 Inspector Grade-II and 23 Junior Clerks/Senior Clerks were promoted as Inspector Grade-I. State Government on the same date merged entire cadre of Inspector Grade-II with that of existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995. OA No. 1369/93 and OA No. 533/97 were filed for merger of cadre of Inspector Grade-II with Inspector Grade-I on Punjab Pattern and State Government issued notification merging cadre of Inspector Grade-II with Inspector Grade-I, with effect from 1.8.1995, on 1.6.1996. Another set of employees being aggrieved by issuance of notification dated 1.6.1996, also approached Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal by filing OA No. 879/96. Aforesaid decision of the Government of merging cadre of Inspector Grade-II with Inspector Grade-I in the State of Himachal Pradesh, was stayed by the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal in OA No. 879/1996 at the stage of admission, as a result of which, merger order as well as promotion order issued on 1.6.1996 could not be implemented till 9.3.1999 and 17.3.1999, respectively. It also emerges from the record that the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal clubbed aforesaid Original Applications i.e. OA No. 879/1996 and 1369/1993. During the pendency of the aforesaid Original Applications, which later came to be heard by the learned Single Judge of this Court, after abolition of Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, Government of Himachal Pradesh, vide notification No. Coop.A(1)-1/95 dated 9.3.1999 modified the date of merger from 1.7.1995 to 1.8.1995, subject to the condition that this decision as well as inter-se seniority of all the parties to the petition shall be subject to decision of OA No. 1369/93, OA No. 533/1997 and OA No. 879/1996 and promotion orders issued on 1.6.1996 were also implemented from 1.6.1996 vide office order dated 17.3.1999.

13. At this stage, it may be noticed that later on aforesaid Original Applications (CWP(T)'s) came to be decided by the learned Single Judge of this Court on 7.8.2009, wherein learned Single Judge while placing reliance upon supplementary affidavit of Joint Secretary (Cooperation) filed on 7.7.1997, disposed of the petitions by recording the statement of the counsel for the parties, on the basis of working formula suggested in the supplementary affidavit.

It would be apt to reproduce herein the operative portion of judgment passed by the learned Single Judge:

> "The judgment was reserved by this Court on 10.7.2009. The learned counsel for the parties have failed to point out the supplementary affidavit dated 7.7.1997 in OA No. 879/1996 to the Court. It is in these circumstances the matters have been listed for speaking to the minutes to permit the learned counsel for the parties to assist the Court after the filing of this affidavit. The Court has ascertained from the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties whether these petitions can be disposed of on the basis of the working formula suggested as per the supplementary affidavit. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties in all the three petitions have fairly submitted that the formula evolved by Mr. V.C. Katoch by way of his affidavit is acceptable to the parties.
> The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner in CWP (T) 2162/2008 and CWP (T) No. 4244/2008 have submitted that their clients are stagnating on the same post for more than two decades. It is settled law by now that there should be two to three promotional avenues available to every category of employees to remove the stagnation and to improve the efficiency in public service.
>
> Accordingly, the interest of justice will suffice by directing the respondent-State to consider this plea of the petitioners in accordance with law laid down by their Lordships in A. Satyanaryana and others versus S. Purushotham and others, (2008) 5 SCC 416 within a reasonable period.
>
> Consequently, the respondent-State is directed to do the needful as per the supplementary affidavit filed by Mr. V.C. Katoch in O.A. No. 879/1996 converted to CWP (T) No. 3189/2008.
> In view of the observations made hereinabove, the petitions are disposed of. No costs."

14. The working formula as mentioned in the aforesaid judgment is as under :

> "6(i) The Government notification No. Coo.A(1)-1/95, dated 01.06.96 merging the Inspector Grade-II with that of Inspector Grade-I shall be effective w.e.f. 01.08.95 instead of 01.07.95. In this way, the promotion orders issued on 24.07.95 whereby services of 12 Inspectors were regularized shall remain intact.
> (ii) The present applicants in O.A. No. 879/96 as well as other similarly situated persons promoted on 01.06.96 will not reverted and they will be entitled for benefits available under F.R. 22-C while fixing their pay.
> (iii) That the inter-se- seniority of the applicants (Clerks) promoted on 01.06.96 and the merged Inspector cadre will be based on the length of service of the concerned Clerks and Inspectors. This will be done in relaxation of the exiting provision of the R&P Rules for the post of Inspector Grade-I.
> (iv) That State Government contemplates framing of new R&P Rules for the category of Inspector Grade-I wherein we are proposing to increase the promotion to a reasonable level of Clerks against 30% quota as available at present."

15. This Court after carefully examining the affidavit filed by the Additional Registrar Cooperative Societies as well as judgment delivered by the learned Single Judge dated 7.8.2009, is of the view that cadre of Inspector Grade-II existing as on 1.6.1996 was actually merged with cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995 but in view of pendency of litigation before the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, notification of merger could be given effect on 9.3.1999 and 17.3.1999, respectively.

16. True it is that the learned Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal while taking cognizance of the averments contained in OA No. 789/1996 (CWP(T) No. 3189/2008) filed by a set of employees aggrieved by notification dated 1.6.1996, stayed the operation of notification at the stage of admission but as has been discussed above the Original Application having been preferred by the affected parties including those employees, who were aggrieved by issuance of aforesaid notification, were later on disposed of by the learned Single Judge of this Court on 7.8.2009, on the basis of working formula suggested in the supplementary affidavit of Joint Secretary (Cooperation) on 7.7.1997, reproduced herein above. As per working formula, all the parties including those who were aggrieved by issuance of notification of merger, agreed that notification dated 1.6.1996 merging cadre of Inspector Grade-II with that of Inspector Grade-I shall be effective from 1.8.1995 instead of 1.7.1995, as a result of which, promotion orders dated 1.7.1995, whereby services of 12 Inspectors were regularized, were to remain intact.

17. Crux of the working formula suggests that all the parties, who had filed Original Application before the Court, agreed to abide by notification of merger, merging cadre of Inspector Grade-II with Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.8.1995. Since, in the final adjudication of the Original Applications, wherein Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal had stayed operation of notification of merger dated 1.6.1996, was upheld with minor modifications of date of application i.e. 1.8.1995 instead of 1.7.1995, it can be safely concluded that respondents, who were Inspector Grade-II had merged with the cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995 in terms of notification of merger for all intents and purposes. Perusal of affidavit having been filed by Additional Registrar Cooperative Societies, clearly suggests that immediately after issuance of notification dated 1.6.1996, entire cadre of Inspector Grade-II had merged with that of existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995, which was later on ordered to be modified with effect from 1.8.1995, in terms of judgment dated 7.8.2009 passed by the learned Single Judge in aforesaid Original Applications/CWP(T)'s. It may also be noticed at this stage that judgment dated 7.8.2009 passed by the learned Single Judge in CWP(T)'s No. 2162, 3189 and 4244 of 2008 was further upheld by this Court in LPA No. 10/2010, vide judgment dated 6.9.2016. Further perusal of appointment letters issued to the appellants at the time of their joining as Inspector Grade-I, which were made available to this Court, during the hearing by the learned Advocate General, clearly suggests that their appointment was subject to final decision of OA No. 1369/1993 filed by the State Cooperative Inspectors Grade-II Association. Appointment letter further suggests that in case offer of appointment, wherein aforesaid stipulation with regard to final decision of OA No. 1369/1993 was incorporated, was acceptable to the appointees, they were directed to report for duty to the Assistant Registrar Cooperative Societies Solan, on or before 21.9.1998, meaning thereby that present appellants were fully conscious about the pendency of OA No. 1369/1993, wherein issue of notification of merger was involved. Since appellants were fully aware that in terms of notification of merger dated 1.6.1996, Inspector Grade-II would be merged into cadre of Inspector Grade-I and they would be placed en bloc below Inspector Grade-I already working in the Department, on the basis of notification, in seniority, they can not be allowed to rake up the issue at this belated stage. But despite above, no steps were ever taken by the appellants to lay challenge to the notification of merger and as such there is no force in the contentions put forth by Mr. Shreedhar that respondents who were Inspector Grade-II, could not be placed above the appellant in seniority by virtue of notification of merger.

18. Perusal of writ petition preferred by the appellants nowhere suggests that the appellants laid any challenge to notification of merger which was effective from 1.6.1996 and as such they can not be allowed at this stage to state that respondents could not be placed over them in the seniority on the basis of notification of merger issued in 1996 i.e. prior to their direct recruitment. This Court, after perusing documents available on record has no hesitation to conclude that for all intents and purposes, respondents were merged with the existing cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from 1.7.1995 and during the pendency of the Original Applications having been filed by affected parties before Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, merger orders as well as promotion orders issued on 1.6.1996 were implemented on 9.3.1999 and 17.3.1999, respectively. Moreover, appointment of the appellants was subject to outcome of OA No. 1369/1993, wherein notification of merger dated 1.6.1996 was upheld vide judgment dated 7.8.2009, on the basis of working formula suggested by the Government, which was acceptable to all the parties.

19. There is no force in the contention of the appellants that merging of cadres could not take place by issuance of notification without there being any amendment in the rules, because perusal of Rules, Annexure P-1, nowhere prohibits merger of cadres. Apart from above, it is the prerogative of the State Government to merge two or more cadres into one cadre or to disintegrate cadres into different cadres or to abolish a cadre exercising powers under Article 162 of the Constitution of India. In the present case, though this Court is of the view that notification of merger was issued prior to the appointment of the present appellants as Inspector Grade-I and appellants had no occasion to lay challenge to aforesaid notification admittedly issued in 1996 i.e. prior to their appointment but as emerges from the record, matter with regard to notification of merger remained pending in the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal and thereafter in this Court, as noticed above, till August, 2009 yet, it is not understood that if appellants were aggrieved with the issuance of notification of merger, what prevented them to lay challenge to the same either by becoming party in the pending proceedings or by way of a substantive petition before the competent court of law, and as such this Court sees no force in the contention put forth on behalf of the appellants that there could be no merger of cadres.

20. It is amply clear from the facts and circumstances above that on the date of appointment of the appellants, as direct recruits (Inspector Grade-I), respondents were already borne on the integrated cadre of Inspector Grade-I in terms of notification of merger dated 1.6.1996 and as such this Court sees no illegality or infirmity in the judgment passed by the learned Single Judge which appears to be based on correct appreciation of facts as well as law and as such same deserves to be upheld.

21. Now, this Court would be dealing with case law referred by the learned counsel for the appellants, in support of his arguments. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the following case law in support of his contentions:

1. P. Sudhakar Rao & Ors Vs U. Govinda Rao and Ors reported in (2013) 8 SCC 693
2. State of Uttaranchal and Another Vs Dinesh Kumar Sharma reported in (2007) 1 SCC 683
3. A.P. Manchanda Vs State of Haryana reported in 1994 Supp (2) SCC 44
4. State of Bihar Vs Akhouri Sachindra Nath & ors reported in 1991 Supp (1) SCC 334
5. National Agricultural Coop. Marketing Federation of India Vs Union of India reported in (2003) 5 SCC 23
6. Uttaranchal Forest Rangers' Assn (Direct Recruit) & Ors Vs State of U.P. & Ors reported in (2006) 10 SCC 346
7. Chairman, Railway Board Vs C.r. Rangadhamaiah reported in (1997) 6 SCC 623
8. S.P. Shivprasad Pipal Vs Union of India & Ors reported in (1998) 4 SCC 598

22. This Court carefully perused aforesaid law having been cited by the learned Senior counsel for the appellants, perusal whereof clearly suggest that retrospective seniority can not be given to the employees from a date, when they were not borne on the cadre. Similarly, aforesaid judgments suggests that seniority needs to be counted against promotion/appointment in the cadre from the date of issuance of order of substantive appointment. Judgment passed by Apex Court in National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India vs. Union of India (supra) further lays down that legislative power either to introduce enactment for the first time or to amend the enacted law with retrospective effect is not only subject to the question of competence but is also subject to several judicially recognized limitations.

23. There can be no quarrel with the aforesaid law having been laid down by the Apex Court in aforesaid judgments that seniority can be given only from the date of substantive appointment. There can be no automatic promotion or appointment to a post on the recommendations of Public Service Commission unless the Government sanctions such promotion and appointment. Similarly, there can be no dispute that promotees not borne on the cadre at the time when direct recruits came to be appointed, can not be given seniority in service over direct appointees. This Court sees no dispute that retrospectivity while giving effect to any notification must not adversely trench upon the entitlement of seniority of others. Retrospective seniority can not be given to employee from the date when he was not even borne in the cadre.

24. This Court, with due respect to aforesaid judgments having been passed by Apex Court, is of the view that the same are not applicable in the present case, for the reasons detailed herein above. In the present case, all the respondents were Inspector Grade-II prior to issuance of notification dated 1.6.1996 and subsequent to issuance of notification of merger, they were merged with the cadre of Inspector Grade-I from 1.7.1995 for all intents and purposes and as such, by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that at the time of appointment of the appellants as direct recruits, against the posts of Inspector Grade-I, respondents were not even borne on the cadre of Inspector Grade-I. Rather, in the present case, after modification of notification dated 1.6.1996, all consequential benefits of pay scale and arrears of pay were given to the respondents with effect from 1.6.1996.

25. True it is that aforesaid notification of merger could not be implemented till 9.3.1999 and 17.3.1999 due to pendency of the Original Applications having been filed by affected parties before Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal and thereafter before this Court, but the fact remains that in the aforesaid proceedings, notification of merger was upheld, as a result of which all the respondents stood merged with the cadre of Inspector Grade-I with effect from issuance of notification dated 1.6.1996.

26. As far as issue of retrospectivity is concerned, notification of merger dated 1.6.1996 was initially made applicable with effect from 1.7.1995, but later on respondent-State with a view to balance equities between the parties, took a conscious decision to make notification of merger effective from 1.8.1995 instead of 1.7.1995, that too with a view to protect promotion of 12 Inspectors ordered on 24.7.1995. Aforesaid decision was also taken by the respondent-State to avoid reversion of similarly situated persons, who were promoted on 1.6.1996, to ensure that they get benefit of FR-22 while fixing their pay. In the instant case, there is no question of retrospective operation of notification of merger but same was only made applicable from 1.8.1995 for the reasons stated above to protect interests of a few employees, who could be adversely affected by the issuance of notification of merger.

27. The Apex Court in S.P. Shivprasad Pipal vs. Union of India and others reported in (1998) 4 SCC 598, held that decision to merge cadres is essentially a matter of policy. The power to regulate recruitment and conditions of service is wide and includes the power to constitute a new cadre by merging the existing cadres. The Apex Court has held as under:

> "5. However, when different cadres are merged certain principles have to be borne in mind. These principles were enunciated in the case of State of Maharashtra and Anr. V. Chandrakant Anant Kulkarni & Ors. (1982 1 SCR 665 at page 678) while considering the question of integration of government servants allotted to the services of the new States when the different States of India were reorganised. This Court cited with approval the principles which had been formulated for effecting integration of services of different States. These principles are: In the matter of equation of posts, (1) where there were regularly constituted similar cadres in the different integrating units the cadres will ordinarily be integrated on that basis but (2) where there were no such similar cadres, the following factors will be taken into consideration in determining the equation of posts:-

(a) Nature and duties of a post;

(b) Powers exercised by the officers holding a post the extent of territorial or other charge held or responsibilities discharged;

(c) The minimum qualifications, if any, prescribed for recruitment to the post and;

(d) the salary of the post.

This court further observed that it is not open to the court to consider whether the equation of posts made by the central Government is right or wrong. This was a matter exclusively within the province of the Central Government. Perhaps the only question the Court can enquire into is whether the four principles cited above had been properly taken into account. This is the narrow and limited field within which the supervisory jurisdiction of the Court can operate.

15. A decision to merge such cadres is essentially a matter of policy. Since the three cadres carried the same pay scale at the relevant time, merging of the three cadres cannot be said to have caused any prejudice to the members of any of the cadres. The total number of posts were also increased proportionately when the merger took place so that the percentage of posts available on promotion was not in any manner adversely affected by the merger of the cadres."

28. Viewed thus, the impugned judgment is upheld, accordingly, there is no merit in the present appeal, as such, same is dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P. S. Rana, J.

Present petition is filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India against order dated 01.04.2015 passed by learned District Judge Solan Distt. Solan (H.P.) in Civil Misc. Appeal No.14-S/14 of 2014 wherein learned District Judge Solan set-aside order dated 01.07.2014 passed by learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division) Solan announced in CMA No.10/6 of 2012 filed under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC in C.S. No.13/1/2012 title Smt. Santosh and others Vs. Sh. Sanjeev Kumar.

Brief facts of case:

2. Smt. Santosh and others plaintiffs filed civil suit for declaration to the effect that plaintiffs are co-owners in possession of suit land and house situated over suit land and co-defendant No.1 has no right, title and interest in and over suit land in any manner whatsoever and revenue entries showing co-defendant No.1 as absolute owner in possession of suit land are wrong, illegal and null and void. It is further pleaded that mutation No.746 dated 11.04.2002 sanctioned in favour of Smt. Kamlesh wife of co-defendant No.1 behind the back of plaintiffs and on the basis of oral Will is wrong, illegal and null and void and is not binding upon plaintiffs. It is further pleaded that mutation No.939 dated 29.09.2007 sanctioned in favour of co-defendant No.1 after demise of Smt. Kamlesh on the basis of Will dated 22.02.2007 is also wrong, illegal and null and void. It is further pleaded that revenue entries showing co-defendant No.1 as absolute owner in possession of suit land are wrong, illegal and inoperative qua right, title and interest of plaintiffs. Additional relief of permanent prohibitory injunction also sought restraining co-defendant No.1 from causing any interference in the ownership and peaceful possession of plaintiffs and from dispossessing the plaintiffs from suit land and from selling and alienating suit land and also from claiming any compensation from suit land either himself or through his agents servants or family members.

3. Per contra written statement filed on behalf of defendants pleaded therein that suit of plaintiffs is time barred as mutation No.746 was sanctioned on dated 11.04.2002 in favour of deceased Kamlesh. It is further pleaded that in mutation proceedings both plaintiffs have given their statements. It is further pleaded that present civil suit after ten years is not maintainable. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs are estopped to file present suit against defendants due to their act, conduct and acquiescence. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs did not approach civil Court with clean hands. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have no cause of action against defendants. It is pleaded that suit of plaintiffs is not properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs are guilty of suppressing the material facts from the Court. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have no locus standi to file present suit. It is further pleaded that co-defendant No.1 is absolute owner in possession of suit land on the basis of Will dated 22.02.2007 executed by deceased Kamlesh in favour of co-defendant No.1. It is further pleaded that house over suit land is constructed by co-defendant No.1 and his deceased wife by obtaining loan from State Bank of Patiala Solan Branch. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs are not co-owners of suit property. It is further pleaded that on the basis of Will mutation No.939 dated 29.09.2007 was legally sanctioned in favour of co-defendant No.1. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have knowledge about all the mutations and Wills from the beginning. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have filed present suit without any cause of action. Prayer for dismissal of suit sought. Plaintiff filed replication to written statement and re-asserted the allegations mentioned in plaint.

4. Learned Trial Court framed following issues on dated 23.07.2014:

1) Whether plaintiffs are entitled to decree for declaration to the effect that plaintiffs are owners in possession of suit land and co-defendant No.1 has no right, title and interest over suit land? ….OPP.

2) Whether revenue entries of suit land are illegal and null and void? ….OPP.

3) Whether mutation No.746 dated 11.04.2002 sanctioned in favour of Smt. Kamlesh wife of co-defendant No.1 is illegal, null and void and not binding upon plaintiffs? ….OPP.

4) Whether mutation No.939 dated 29.09.2007 subsequently sanctioned in favour of co-defendant No.1 on the basis of Will dated 22.02.2007 is illegal, null and void? ….OPP.

5) Whether plaintiffs are entitled to decree for consequential relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as prayed for? …OPP

6) Whether suit is time barred? …OPD

7) Whether plaintiffs are estopped to file present suit due to their own act and conduct? …….OPD

8) Whether plaintiffs have no cause of action to file the present suit? ..OPD

9) Whether plaintiffs have not properly valued suit for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? …OPD

10) Relief.

Learned Trial Court listed civil suit for plaintiffs witnesses for 14.03.2016.

5. During pendency of civil suit plaintiffs have filed application under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC and sought interim relief of ad interim injunction restraining co-defendant No.1 from causing any interference in the ownership and peaceful possession of plaintiffs and sought ad interim injunction restraining co-defendant No.1 from selling and alienating suit land and claiming any compensation qua suit land till disposal of civil suit. Application under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 read with section 151 CPC was contested before learned Trial Court by co-defendant No.1. Learned Trial Court allowed the application filed under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC by plaintiffs and directed parties to maintain status quo qua nature, user, possession, construction and alienation of suit land till disposal of main suit.

6. Feeling aggrieved against the order passed by learned Trial Courtco-defendant No.1 and proforma defendants No.2 & 3 filed Civil Misc. appeal No.14-S/14 of 2014 before learned District Judge Solan Distt. Solan (H.P.). Learned First Appellate Court allowed the appeal and set-aside the order of learned Trial Court dated 01.07.2014. Learned District Judge Solan dismissed the application filed under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC by plaintiffs. Feeling aggrieved against the order of learned District Judge dated 01.04.2015 plaintiffs filed present petition under Article 227 of Constitution of India.

7. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners and non-petitioners and Court also perused the entire records carefully.

8. Following points arises for determination:

1) Whether petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of petition?

2) Relief.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons:

9. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners that petitioners namely Santosh and Sharda Devi are daughters of deceased Rattan Dass and Sh. Rattan Dass did not execute any oral Will in favour of Smt. Kamlesh and on this ground petition be allowed is decided accordingly. Judicial findings whether deceased Rattan Dass has executed any oral Will in favour of Smt. Kamlesh or not cannot be given at this stage of case. Judicial findings will be given by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

10. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners that even Smt. Kamlesh did not execute any Will on dated 22.02.2007 in favour of co-defendant No.1 and on this ground petition be allowed is decided accordingly. Judicial findings whether Smt. Kamlesh has executed any Will in favour of co-defendant No.1 or not cannot be given at this stage of case. Judicial findings will be given by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners that dispute inter se parties in civil suit is about legality of oral Will alleged to be executed by Sh. Rattan Dass in favour of deceased Kamlesh and further dispute inter se parties is about legality of Will dated 22.02.2007 executed by deceased Kamlesh in favour of co-defendant No.1 and both facts will be adjudicated by learned Trial Court during trial of case and till disposal of civil suit prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss are in favour of petitioners is decided accordingly. It is prima facie proved on record that Santosh, Sharda Devi and Kamlesh are daughters of deceased Rattan Dass and falls in Class-I heirs. It is also prima facie proved on record that deceased Rattan Dass did not execute any written testamentary document in favour of deceased Kamlesh qua suit property. Smt. Kamlesh one of the daughters of deceased Rattan Dass has claimed legal right over entire suit property on the basis of oral Will. It is well settled law that oral Will will be proved in accordance with law during trial of civil suit. It is also prima facie proved on record that co-defendant No.1 is brother-in-law of petitioners. It is also prima facie proved on record that co-defendants No.2 & 3 are daughter and son of co-defendant No.1. In the present case both parties have claimed ownership and possession rights over suit property as of today. Dispute inter se parties is about title. Adjudication about title will be decided by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead oral as well as documentary evidence in civil suit. As per section 46 of H.P. Land Revenue Act 1956 suit for declaratory decree by persons aggrieved by entries in record of rights prepared under H.P. Land Revenue Act 1956 can be filed.

12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioners that in revenue record entire property was recorded in the name of deceased Kamlesh on the basis of oral Will and thereafter recorded in the name of her husband namely Sanjeev Kumar co-defendant on the basis of Will and mutation No.746 dated 11.04.2002 and mutation No. 939 dated 29.09.2007 also sanctioned and on this ground petition be dismissed is decided accordingly. It is well settled law that mutation in revenue record is not evidence of title. It is also well settled law that jamabandi entries are only for fiscal purpose and they do not create or extinguish any title. See AIR 1994 Apex Court 1496 Nawalshankar Ishwarlal Dave and another Vs. State of Gujarat,SeeSLJ 94(1) SC 68 Jattu Ram Vs. Hakam Singh and others,SeeAIR 1994 Apex Court 227 Guru Amarjit Singh Vs. Rattan Chand. SeeAIR 2015 SCW Apex Court 3482 H. Lakshmaiah Reddy Vs. L. Venkatesh Reddy.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioners that civil suit is not filed within limitation and on this ground petition be dismissed is decided accordingly. It is well settled law that issue of limitation is mixed issue of fact and law. Learned Trial Court has framed issue No.6 relating to limitation in civil suit. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to give judicial findings upon issue No.6 at this stage of case. Learned Trial Court will give judicial findings upon issue of limitation after giving due opportunities to both parties to lead oral and documentary evidence upon issue of limitation.

14. In the present case both parties are asserting their title and possession over suit property. Dispute inter se parties would be resolved in civil suit. Complicated questions of rights, title and interest of parties in suit property are yet to be decided by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case. Court is of opinion that in order to avoid multiplicity of judicial proceedings inter se parties order of status quo is essential in the ends of justice in the present case till disposal of civil suit. See AIR 2015 Apex Court 826 Transport Corporation of India Ltd. Vs. Ganesh Polytex Ltd.,See AIR 1994 Apex Court 1837 Satyabrata Biswas & Others Vs. Kalyan Kumar Kisku & Others,See AIR 2005 Apex Court 104 Maharwal Khewaji Trust Vs. Baldev Dass.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioners that mutation in the name of deceased Kamlesh qua suit property was sanctioned with the consent of Smt. Santosh and Smt. Sharda Devi and on this ground petition be dismissed is decided accordingly. Learned Trial Court has framed issue No.7 in civil suit relating to estoppel. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to give judicial findings upon issue of estoppel at this stage of case. Judicial findings relating to estoppel will be given by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunities to both parties to adduce oral and documentary evidence. In view of law that zamabandis entries and entries of mutations are not proof of title it is held that prima facie case and balance of convenience are in favour of petitioners. It is held that petitioners will suffer irreparable loss if ad interim injunction under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC is not granted. It is held that in order to avoid multiplicity of judicial proceedings inter se parties grant of ad interim injunction under order XXXIX Rules 1 & 2 CPC is essential in the present case in the ends of justice. Point No.1 is decided accordingly.

Point No.2 (Relief).

16. In view of findings upon point No.1 present petition filed under Article 227 of Constitution of India is allowed. Order of learned District Judge Solan (H.P.) dated 1.4.2015 announced in Civil Misc. Appeal No.14-S/14 of 2014 title Sanjeev Kumar and others Vs. Smt. Santosh and others is set-aside and order of learned Trial Court dated 1.7.2014 affirmed. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner and will be strictly confined for disposal of present petition. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 23.12.2016. File(s) of learned First Appellate Court and learned Trial Court alongwith certified copy of order be sent back forthwith. CMPMO No.426/2015 is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 341, 323, 325, 307 and 506 of I.P.C – the petitioners sought bail – held, that there are two versions regarding the manner of incident- the injuries do not show that they could have been caused by stick, kicks or fist blows – petition allowed- petitioners ordered to be released on bail of Rs.25,000/-. (Para-3 to 7)

For the petitioners : Mr. I.S. Chandel and Mr. S.S. Rathore, Advocates.
For the respondent : Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

This order shall dispose of all the three petitions arising out of FIR No. 188/2016 registered under Section 341, 323, 325, 307, 506 of the Indian Penal Code against the accused-petitioners in Police Station, Theog, District Shimla, with the allegations that on 5.11.2016 around 8.30 p.m. complainant Babloo (Narinder Kumar) met them at Kufri. They stopped him and administered beatings. The accused-petitioners allegedly beaten him with 'danda' whereas his co-accused Lalit and Pradeep with kicks and fisty cuffs. The complainant received injuries on his person. He also apprehended danger to his life at the hands of accused-petitioners.

2. The injured was taken to Civil Hospital, Theog for treatment. He was referred to I.G.M.C. Shimla and there remained hospitalized from 9.11.2016 to 23.11.2016 in Orthopedics Department under the supervision of Professor Orthopedics Dr. Manoj Thakur. Initially, the case was registered against the accused-petitioners only under Section 341, 323, 506 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. Later on, after obtaining the case summary from the department of Orthopedics I.G.M.C. Shimla and the opinion of the Medical Officer, Civil Hospital, Theog as well as keeping in view the hospitalization of the complainant during the period 9.11.2016 to 23.11.2016, the injury i.e. subluxation C5-C6 was found to be grievous in nature. In view of the opinion so obtained a case under Section 325 and 307 of the Indian Penal Code has also been registered against the accused-petitioners.

3. The investigation conducted at this stage is not suggestive of as to what was the cause of administering beatings to the complainant by the accused-petitioners. Now if coming to the contents of these petitions, the complainant allegedly teased the wife of accused-petitioner Sohan Lal. The said accused asked the complainant as to why he had teased his wife when she was in the 'Ghasani' (pasture). The reply of the complainant was that only a person who has muscle power can do such type of act. Not only this but he allegedly started pelting stones on accused-petitioner Sohan Lal. On noticing the quarrel at the place of occurrence other villagers attracted to it and on this the complainant ran away through 'Ghasani'. There being dark, he fell down on his person and received injuries.

4. Being so, at this stage, there are two version qua the manner in which the occurrence took place. The complainant has not disclosed the cause of administering beatings to him by the accused-petitioners, whereas, as per the explanation set-forth by the accused-petitioners, he was only asked as to why he had teased the wife of one of the accused-petitioners and it is on this he enraged. They had not administered beatings to him and rather the injuries were received by him by way of fall while fleeing away from the place of occurrence on seeing the other villagers coming there. Nothing, however, at this stage can be said about the manner in which the incident sparked off.

5. Much has been said about the nature of injuries on the person of complainant and the opinion obtained from the Medical Officer, Civil Hospital, Theog. That opinion cannot be treated to be conclusive proof, particularly when not obtained from the doctor incharge under whose supervision the complainant remained admitted in I.G.M.C. Shimla or from either of the associates of that doctor. Looking to the nature of injuries as reflected in the MLC, it cannot also be said that the same could have been caused by danda or kicks and fisty cuffs. The accused-petitioners are local residents and residing within the local limits of Police Station, Theog. There is no complaint that they were not available for the purpose of interrogation as and when called upon to do so. The apprehension of the investigating agency that they may hamper the investigation of the case and tamper with the prosecution evidence is also without any substance as the accused-petitioners seem to be not such an influential person so as to indulge in such activities. Otherwise also, they may not hamper the investigation of the case and tamper with the prosecution evidence, this Court can impose suitable conditions upon them on their failure to do so, the investigating agency will be free to approach this Court for cancellation of the liberty of bail granted to them.

6. Learned counsel representing the accused-petitioners has produced the certified copy of order passed by learned Sessions Judge, Shimla in similar applications, which were filed by the accused-petitioners for grant of bail. Perusal thereof reveals that the said applications were not dismissed on account of accused-petitioners absconded from the Court premises as argued by learned Additional Advocate General and rather on merits.

7. In view of what has been said hereinabove, all the three petitions succeed and the same are accordingly allowed. Consequently, it is directed that in the event of arrest of the accused-petitioners in connection with FIR No. 188/2016 registered in Police Station, Theog, they shall be released on bail subject to their furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs. 25,000/- each with one surety each in the like amount to the satisfaction of arresting Police Officer/Investigating Officer.They shall further abide by the following conditions:-

(a) make themselves available for interrogation as and when called upon to do so;

(b) not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever.

(c) not make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer.

(d) not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

8. It is clarified that if the petitioners misuse their liberty or violate any of the conditions imposed upon them, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

9. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of these petitions alone. Petitions stand disposed of accordingly. Dasti copy.

For the Appellant: Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondent: Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Mr. Divya Raj Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the defendant/appellant herein against the impugned rendition of the learned District Judge, Chamba, Himachal Pradesh, whereby he dismissed the appeal of the defendant/appellant herein and affirmed the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Chmaba, District Chamba, H.P., whereby the latter Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff. The defendant/appellant herein stands aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Chamba. His standing aggrieved, he has therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court an order reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff has filed the suit for permanent prohibitory and mandatory injunction against the defendant from interfering and raising the construction over the land comprised in khasra No.2648/210, khata/khatauni No.172/226, measuring 0-9 biswa, situated in Mohal Rajnagar, Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. The claim of the plaintiff is that he is owner in possession of the suit land. The defendant is stranger to the suit land, having no right, title or interest in it. The defendant has started collecting construction material with intent to raise the construction over the suit land. The defendant was requested to desist from his illegal designs, but of no avail. It has also been pleaded that in case the defendants succeeds to raise the construction over the suit land during the pendency of the suit, in that eventuality, the construction so raised be ordered to be demolished.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections qua the plaintiff having not come to the Court with clean hands and has suppressed the material fact that the suit land was exchanged by the father of the plaintiff namely Raju with one late Smt. Gauri, who in lieu of it, parted with the land comprised in Khasra No.2114 in his favour in the year 1978, and thereafter Smt. Gauri Gave the suit land to the defendant, who got the electric meter installed in the year 1981. On merits it is pleaded that the plaintiff is not owner in possession of the suit land. The suit land was given in exchange by the father of the plaintiff to Smt. Gauri. Since, the said Gauri gave this land to the defendant, as such, he raised the construction of three shops and one house over the suit land in the presence of the father of the plaintiff. Mutation No.850 qua the exchange of the suit land with the land comprised in khasra No.2114 was entered but the same was rejected on 18.2.1986 due to non appearance of the parties. The possession of the defendant is adverse and hostile to the knowledge of the plaintiff, as such, the replying defendant has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession.

4. The plaintiff/respondent herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendant/appellant herein, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPP

2. Whether the defendant is raising illegal and unlawful construction over the suit land, as alleged? OPP

3. If issues No.1 and 2 are proved in affirmative, whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction? OPP

4. Whether the plaintiff has not come to the court with clean hands? OPD

5. Whether there was any exchange of land between Smt. Gauri and Raju in respect of the suit land, as alleged? If so its effect? OPD.

6. Whether the plaintiff is debarred by his own act and conduct to file the present suit?OPD.

7. In the alternative, whether the defendant has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession, as alleged? OPD.

8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the respondent herein/plaintiff. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the appellant/defendant before the learned first Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal.

7. Now the defendant/appellant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgement and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 04.03.2005, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted herebefore by the defendant/appellant against the judgment and decree of the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether a person in possession of exchanged land through a written document (Exhibit DA) can challenge the title of the mutually exchanged property of the other party and seek injunction?

2. Whether the learned Courts below could have discarded the document Exhibit DA only on the ground that it was not registered without taking into consideration that the said document could be relied upon for collateral purpose for proving the factum of possession as per Section 49 of the Registration Act?

Substantial Questions of Law No.1 and 2:

8. Jamabandis borne respectively on Ex. DB and on Ex.DD pertaining respectively to the years 1974-75 and 1979-80 make unequivocal depictions therein qua the father of the plaintiff standing recorded thereat as co-owner of the suit land. Under Ex. DA, executed inter se the father of the plaintiff with one Smt. Gauri, an exchange of their respective lands occurred inter se both, whereupon, Gauri acquired the interest in the suit land from Raju also thereupon the latter acquired the apposite interest in the land owned by Gauri. Also therein a recital is borne qua Gauri transferring her interests qua the suit land as stood acquired by her under the relevant exchange occurring with the father of the plaintiff vis-a-vis the defendant. In consonance therewith the defendant raised construction upon the suit land in the year 1978. Uncontrovertedly, the defendant/appellant herein holds possession of the suit land upon which he raised construction in the year 1978.

9. Both the learned Courts below had countervailed the vigour of Ex. DA on anvil of (a) it effecting alienation besides conveyance of title thereunder qua the father of the plaintiff and Smt. Gauri besides also upon the defendant/appellant whereupon its registration under the apposite statute was compulsory, whereas, it remaining unregistered no valid conveyance of title qua the suit land stood bestowed upon the defendant/appellant herein; (b) non occurrence of any depiction therein with specificity qua the specific area delineated to stand transferred vis-a-vis the defendant/appellant and (c) Ex. DA remaining unproven.

10. The efficacy of the aforesaid concurrently recorded pronouncements made by both the learned Courts for enfeebling the vigour of Ex.DA stands extinguished in the face of construction upon the suit land in pursuance to Ex. DA, standing raised by the defendant/appellant in the year 1978 whereat the father of the plaintiff stands displayed in the apposite jamabandi to hold its ownership. Also when thereon he did not protest the raising of construction upon the suit land by the defendant/appellant, he is to be construed to acquiesced to the factum of land whereon construction stood raised by the defendant/appellant in the year 1978 constituting the land qua which an exchange occurred inter se the executants of Ex.DA, whereupon, the non marking therein with specificity the area with respect whereto it occurred is wholly insignificant. Furthermore, the factum of the father of the plaintiff also accepting the valid execution of Ex.DA stands spurred by PW-2 in his cross-examination testifying qua the father of the plaintiff also raising construction upon a part of the land owned by Gauri in Village Rupani also his cultivating the other part thereto, significantly, when the apposite quid pro quo for the exchange which occurred inter se the executants of Ex. DA comprised in the father of the plaintiff therein alienating the suit land to Gauri, who thereunder alienated the suit land to the defendant/appellant, whereas, Gauri in lieu thereto alienating her property in village Rupani vis-a-vis the father of the plaintiff, stood hence fully consumated. In aftermath, with aplomb it can stand concluded qua the executants of Ex. DA acting upon the recitals manifested therein dehors any non marking therein with specificity of khasra numbers along with their dimensions where with respect whereto an exchange occurred also when the executants of Ex.DA without any remonstrance or demur raised at the earliest by each against the other respectively raising construction on the lands respectively brought to exchange under Ex. DA, spurs an inference qua the land(s) whereon they hold possession by raising construction thereon standing accepted by each of the executants of Ex. DA, embodying the corpus of the relevant exchange. Therefore, the conclusion recorded by both the learned Courts below qua for lack of enunciations with specificity in Ex.DA qua the area besides the dimensions of land(s) brought to exchange thereunder it hence lacking in efficacy warrants, its standing foundered.

11. The relevant document whereunder the relevant exchange occurred inter se the parties thereto stood tendered into evidence by the defendant /appellant whereat it stood exhibited as Ex. DA. At the stage contemporaneous to its tendering besides exhibition thereat no protest emanated from the plaintiff qua the recitals occurring therein standing ingrained with a vice of fictitiousness besides with a stain of falsity nor at the time of its standing tendered into evidence by the defendant whereupon it stood exhibited no protest stood evinced thereat at the instance of the plaintiff qua the occurrence of signatures thereon holding no authenticity, whereupon obviously, with the defendant discharging the onus of proving Ex.DA, corollary whereof is qua it being wholly inapt for both the learned Courts below to merely on anvil of DW-2 testifying qua his not knowing the name of the person who scribed Ex.DA, conclude qua, hence, the factum of, for the reasons aforesaid qua the onus of proving it standing discharged by the defendant, standing repelled. Moreover, at no stage it stands unraveled of the plaintiff making any concert to either challenge the occurrence of signatures thereon of the executants of Ex.DA nor obviously when no concert in pursuance thereto stood assayed by the plaintiff qua the occurrence of markings/signatures thereon of the executants thereto standing transmitted to the expert(s) concerned for his holding a comparison with the markings/signatures of the executants occurring thereon with their admitted markings/signatures, for thereupon his rendering an opinion qua their authenticity, fillips an inference qua Ex. DA standing proven to stand validly executed by its respective executants.

12. The effect of the aforesaid discussion holding unfoldments qua the father of the plaintiff, who stands displayed in the jamabandi(s) contemporaneous to the period whereat Ex.DA stood executed to hold exclusive title qua the suit property also thereupon his concomitantly holding an exclusive right to enter into an exchange qua the land(s) enumerated in Ex. DA besides when the aforesaid discussion brings to the fore qua the relevant exchange standing acted upon in the year 1978 by the respective executants of Ex. DA also since at the relevant stage especially when in quick succession to the execution of Ex. DA construction stood raised by the defendant/appellant on the suit land besides also stood raised by the father of the plaintiff upon the land of Gauri, renders the effect, if any of Ex.DA though standing enjoined by the apposite statute to be compulsorily registered whereas its evidently not coming to be registered to not either pale the effect of the aforesaid inference nor the factum of its non registration would render belittled the effect of the aforesaid acquiescence whereupon the concomitant effect is of the plaintiff standing estopped merely for want of registration of Ex. DA to assail qua no valid title thereunder standing conveyed vis-a-vis its executants. In making the aforesaid conclusion this Court anchors it on the statutory doctrine of part performance standing positioned on a pedestal of equity thereupon the sequel emanating therefrom is qua equity supporting transactions alike the one hereat though clothed imperfectly in those legal forms to which finality attaches conspicuously when the bargain has been for the reasons aforestated acted upon hereat, also this Court draws succor from a decision reported in Mohamed Musa and others versus Aghore Kumar Ganguli and others, AIR 1914 Privy Council 27. The aforesaid decision of the Privy Council stands referred to in a subsequent decision reported in Dada Vaku Nikam v. Bahiru Hingu Nikam and others, AIR 1927 Bombay 627, wherewithin the principle of equity postulated in the decision of the Privy Council reported in AIR 1914 Privy Council, 27 besides standing alluded to therein stood also followed, significantly when it stood pronounced therein qua it standing founded upon the principle of natural justice also it aborting perpetration of fraud in land transactions. The decision reported in AIR 1927, Bombay, 627 wherewithin the aforesaid principle stood propounded emanated from the Bomaby High Court on its standing seized with an oral exchange,whereupon, with evidently the contestants thereat acting thereupon, prodded the Bombay High Court to proceed to apply thereon the principle of part performance despite obviously no scribed exchange interse the contestants thereat stood executed nor obviously it stood registered, though contradistinctively hereat a statutory mandate is cast upon the executants of Ex. DA for it to hold completeness of legal form also for it to complete the vestment of title vis-a-vs its respective executants, to compulsorily register it, whereas, it standing evidently not registered may yet not denude its sanctity qua its thereunder vesting title respectively upon its executants, conspicuously, when in a pronouncement recorded by the Bombay High Court in Dada Vaku Nikam's case*supra* reported in AIR 1927, Bombay, 627, the latter Court therein invoking qua also an oral agreement of exchange the doctrine of part performance, in sequel whereof, this Court likewise when evidently hereat Ex. DA for reasons aforestated stands acted upon by the parties thereto, stands constrained to conclude qua the benefit of the doctrine of part performance standing available to be derived by the defendant/appellant.

13. Be that as it may, the Madras High Court in its decision reported in Putta Chelamiah and another versus Venkata Kumara Mahipati Suryarao Bahadur Garu and another, AIR 1930 Madras 1, had even attracted the applicability of the statutory doctrine of part performance vis-a-vis an oral exchange even when obviously the latter remained unscribed whereupon obviously the invincible conclusion is of the statutory doctrine of part performance when apposite evidence in consonance therewith stands adduced as for reasons aforestated stands adduced hereat, it warranting attraction vis-a-vis Ex, DA, rendering thereupon the want of registration of Ex. DA to be wholly inefficacious rather wholly insignificant.

14. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court stand not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court have both excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Consequently, substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the appellant/defendant and against the respondent/plaintiff.

15. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is allowed and the suit of the plaintiff is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are set aside. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

(Para- 14 to 17)

For the petitioner(s) : Mr. Amit Singh Chandel, Advocate, in all the petitions.
For the respondents : Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K.

Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.1, in all the petitions.
Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate, for respondents No.2 to 4, in all the petitions.
Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr. Dhananjay Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5, in all the petitions.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Since common questions of law and facts are involved in all these petitions, and same and similar relief(s) has/have been sought, all were taken up together for disposal. The petitions have been filed on same and similar facts and circumstances. However, for the sake of clarity, facts of CWP No. 2082 of 2016 are being discussed herein below. Main relief(s) prayed for in CWP No. 2082 of 2016 (as also in other connected petitions), are as follows:

"(i) That impugned annexure P-12 dated 19-5-2016, regarding delisting the trucks number HP24-2617 & HP 24-6217 issued in view of the Division Bench Judgment passed in CWP No. 2402/2008 titled as Baldev Singh VS H.P. Ex-servicemen corporation and Others (as annexure P-4) may be quashed and set aside, by reconsidering the judgment passed in CWP No. 2402/2008 titled as Baldev Singh vs H.P. Ex-servicemen corporation and Others (as annexure P-4), in light of the scheme/ legislative intent of the H.P. Ex-servicemen Corporation Act, 1979, by referring the same to the larger Bench of this Hon'ble court, in the interest of law, equity, justice and fair play;

(ii) That regulations made in 102nd meeting of Board of Directors of respondent no. 2 on dated 27th April, 2011 vide issue no. 102/9 as well as clause 10 of the bye laws of H.P. Ex-Servicemen Truck Operators welfare Working Committee (as annexure P-5/B) may be held violative of Article 14 & Article 21 of the Constitution of India as well as in violation of Legislative intent of the H.P. Ex-servicemen Corporation Act, 1979 & Himachal Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1968, therefore, may kindly be quashed and set aside, in the interest of law equity and justice.

(iii) That the appropriate directions may kindly be given to the respondents to allow the petitioner the attachment of his truck with the respondent Nos. 2 and 5 in light of the scheme/ legislative intent of Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen corporation Act, 1979, in the interest of Law, Equity and Justice;"

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case, as emerge from the record are that the petitioners are aggrieved by the issuance of order dated 19.5.2016 passed by the respondent, Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen Corporation (for short, 'Corporation') pursuant to the representation submitted by the petitioner in terms of judgment dated 26.4.2016 passed by this Court in LPA No. 10 of 2016 and other connected petitions, whereby trucks owned by the petitioners were ordered to be de-listed as per directions issued by the learned Single Judge of this Court on 6.1.2011 in CWP No. 2402 of 2008 titled Baldev Singh vs. Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen Corporation & ors. Petitioner claiming himself to be Ex-serviceman in terms of Section 2 (f) of the Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen Corporation Act, 1979 (in short, 'Act'), applied in the year 2012 for the transfer of attachment of truck in his name being legal heir of his father, who was originally enlisted with the Corporation as Ex-serviceman for transporting cement from Associated Cement Company Limited (in short, 'ACC'). It also emerges from the record that respondent No.2-Corporation has entered into an agreement with ACC, wherein 40% of transportation work of cement is/was allocated to the Corporation. Under the Act, State Government established the Corporation. Chapter IV, "FUNCTIONS AND FUND OF THE CORPORATION", of the Act provides for welfare and economic upliftment of the Ex-servicemen in the State. It would be apt to reproduce Chapter IV as under:

CHAPTER IV

FUNCTIONS AND FUND OF THE CORPORATION

15. Function of the Corporation. – (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the functions of the Corporation shall be to provide for the welfare and economic uplift of the ex-servicemen in the State.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions the Corporation may take such steps, as it may think necessary, --

(i) to plan, promote and undertake on its own or in collaboration with or through such ex-servicemen organizations or other agencies as may be approved by the Corporation, programmes of agricultural development, marketing, processing supply and storage of agricultural produce, small scale industry, building construction, transport and such other business, trade or activity as may be approved in this behalf by the Government;

(ii) to provide financial assistance to ex-servicemen or their organisations by advancing to them in cash or in kind loans including loans under hire-purchase system and/or loan towards margin money for any of the purposes specified in clause (i) either directly or through such agency, organisation or institution as may be approved by it;

(iii) to give on hire agricultural or industrial machinery or equipment to ex-servicemen or their organisation;

(iv) to give grants and subsidies to and to guarantee loans taken by the ex-servicemen or their organisation;

(v) to discharge such other functions as may be prescribed or as are supplemental, incidental or consequential to any of the functions conferred on it under this Act.

(3) In discharging its functions, the Corporation shall have due regard to public interest, its solvency and welfare of ex-servicemen.

16. Capital of the Corporation and its power to borrow or issue bonds and debentures, etc.—(1) For the purpose of carrying out its functions under this Act, the Corporation may—

(a) be provided with capital by the Government on such terms and conditions as the Government may specify, or by any person, or association of persons or association of persons interested in or dealing with the welfare of ex-servicemen on such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed, upon between the Corporation and such person or association of persons;

(b) with the previous approval of, and subject to the directions of the Government, borrow money from any bank or other financial institution or any other authority or organisation;

(c) issue bonds and debentures or draw, make, accept, endorse, discount, execute and issue promissory notes, bills of exchange, hundies, bills, warrants, debentures and other negotiable instruments.

(2) The Government may guarantee the repayment of the moneys borrowed by the Corporation under sub-section (1) and the payment of interest thereon.

17. Ex-servicemen Corporation Fund. – (1) The Corporation shall maintain a Fund called the Ex-servicemen Corporation Fund (hereinafter referred to as the Fund) to which shall be credited --

(a) all moneys received by it from the Government or from any person or association of persons interested in or dealing with the welfare of ex-servicemen;

(b) such sums of moneys as may from time to time, be realized by way of repayment of loans made from the fund or from interest on loans;

(c) all moneys borrowed under section 16; and

(d) all moneys received by it from any other source.

(2) The moneys in the Fund shall be applied by the Corporation for carrying out its functions under this Act.

(3) All moneys in the fund shall be deposited in the bank for the time being included in the Second Schedule to the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (2 of 1934), or in a government Treasury, as may be decided by the Corporation;

Provided that the Corporation may invest or deposit its surplus funds in the Government secureties or in such other manner as it may decide.

3. With a view to achieve aforesaid objectives as mentioned in clause 15 of aforesaid Chapter, Corporation entered into aforesaid agreement with the ACC and secured 40% of transportation work of cement. Since the Corporation did not have its own fleet of trucks, it entered into agreement with the individual ex-servicemen truck operators, for fulfilling the obligation regarding transportation of cement pursuant to the agreement entered between it and the cement company. It also emerges from the record that the Corporation with a view to provide better and transparent management to ex-servicemen truck operators of the State engaged by it through ex-servicemen Welfare Working Committee, for carrying cement to different destinations from Barmana cement factory, framed Bye-Laws providing therein that the Welfare Working Committee shall work under overall supervision and direction of Chairman-cum-Managing Director (for short, 'CMD'). The Welfare Working Committee (in short, 'Committee') comprises of Project Manager as President, one of the District Presidents as Vice President and all the District Presidents as Members of the Committee. In bye-law 4 of the Bye-Laws i.e. 'Detailment of Trucks for Cement Lifting' , following provisions were made: handle

"Detailment of Trucks for Cement Lifting

4. (a) It will be the sole responsibility of District Presidents to ensure that the trucks of Ex-Service are registered with H.P. Ex-Servicemen Corporation, Camp Office Barmana for transportation of cement. The trucks owned by civilians/unauthorized persons will not be attached.

(b) Trucks will be registered with the approval of CMD H.P. Ex-Servicemen Corporation and decision taken by CMD in this regard shall be final.

(c) The list of unauthorized trucks attached will be put up in the quarterly meeting of Welfare Working Committee, on which firm decision will be taken.

(d) District wise list of trucks attached will be prepared separately.

(e) District Presidents will ensure that trucks owned by re-employed ex-servicemen are not attached. One person cannot get double benefit at the cost of others who are on waiting list and awaiting their turn for attachment of trucks.

(f) The trucks will be detailed for lifting of cement according to the seniority and no preference will be given to any District in consideration of the location of the consignee. Impartial detailment of the trucks will be supervised by the President and he will ensure that demand of the trucks is correctly taken from the ACC Factory according to the Corporation share and if there is any variation then he shall report this matter to the Distribution Manager of ACC Barmana under the information to the Chairman-cum-Managing Director.

(g) It will be mandatory for the Welfare Working Committee to implement the decision of Senior Sub Judge Bilaspur dated 19.05.2003 that the carriage work needs to be rationalized and the President Welfare Working Committee is directed to give due and proper work to all the truck operators of all the Districts. Every truck operator should be given work to carry cement to longer as well as shorter distance/destinations so that all truck operators earn almost equal profit."

4. Perusal of aforesaid bye-law suggests that trucks owned by ex-servicemen can only be registered with the Corporation at Barmana for transportation of cement. It further suggests that the most of them are owned by ex-servicemen can not be enlisted. Similarly, Bye-Laws provide that one ex-serviceman can not get double benefit at the cost of others, who are in the waiting list and awaiting their turn for attachment of trucks. It also emerges from the pleadings/records that aforesaid Bye-Laws were amended from time to time and even widows and legal heirs of deceased ex-servicemen were allowed to attach their trucks for transportation of cement.

5. In the year 2011, one ex-serviceman namely Baldev Singh approached this Court by way of CWP No. 2402/2008, with a prayer that the Corporation may be directed to attach his truck with it. Petitioner in that case claimed that since his truck was stolen as such he was entitled to get another truck attached with the Corporation in place of stolen truck. The Corporation instead of attaching his new truck, de-listed the truck which was originally enlisted with the Corporation earlier. Corporation informed the Court in those proceedings that in the year 2002, keeping in view larger interest of ex-servicemen, it was decided that only one truck of one ex-serviceman would be attached with the Corporation. Corporation further claimed that aforesaid resolution of the year 2002 was reiterated in the year 2005 and endeavour of the Corporation is/was to ensure that largest number of ex-servicemen gets the benefit of attachment of their trucks with the Corporation. But it appears that during the pendency of the aforesaid writ petition, petitioner submitted a list of few persons, who were permitted to attach more than one truck, even after passing of aforesaid resolutions in the years 2002 and 2005. In the aforesaid background, Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 7.8.2009 directed the CMD of the Corporation to file an affidavit specifically giving therein details of the members of the Corporation, who were permitted to attach more than one truck with the Corporation after the resolution passed in 2002. Court also asked for information, whether any truck of any member has been delisted on account of the fact that not more than one truck can be attached with the Corporation. Though respondent Corporation filed an affidavit in terms of aforesaid order passed by the Court annexing therewith complete list of members, who were permitted to attach more than one truck even after passing of resolutions dated 17.1.2002 and 6.1.2005 but the fact remains that the Court after noticing the plea of the learned counsel for the petitioner, further discovered that more than 185 ex-servicemen were permitted to attach more than one truck and in some cases as many as four trucks were allowed to be attached, after passing of aforesaid resolutions. Accordingly, Division Bench of this Court was constrained to observe as under:

"The Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen Corporation virtually has the monopoly of transporting cement from the A.C.C factory at Barmana in Bilaspur. In certain cases, as per the Policy, only one truck is being attached with the Corporation while in the cases of other persons as many as 4 to 5 trucks have been attached. Though in the affidavit of the Corporation, it is mentioned that there are 185 persons having more than one truck attached with the Corporation but in the counter-affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioner, it is mentioned that there are other persons such as Ex-Sipahi Roop Singh whose name is not in the list but has more than two trucks attached.

The Corporation has been formed by the State Government for the welfare of the ex-servicemen. The purpose is to provide some means of livelihood to the ex-servicemen after their retirement from the Armed Forces at a young age. There is a massive scope for doing good work by the Corporation. But if the Corporation continues to act in the manner in which it has been acting till now, i.e., in a totally arbitrary and capricious manner, the entire purpose of setting up the Corporation will be set at naught. In such eventuality, we are of the considered opinion that it would be better to wind up the Corporation itself.

From the material placed on record, it is apparent that it is the office bearers of the Corporation who are deriving the maximum benefit of having more than one truck attached. When these District Presidents or other office bearers apply for attachment of trucks then the Corporation does not raise the objections that under the resolutions of 2002 and 2005, not more than one truck of an individual can be attached. Even as per the Corporation, there are 192 persons who were permitted to attach more than one truck after the resolution was passed in the year 2002. It is, therefore, apparent that no sanctity is attached by the Corporation to its own resolutions. However, we do not want to turn the clock back since people who have already made investments and spent huge money on purchase of trucks should not be put at loss all of a sudden.

To put an end to the entire dispute, we want to issue certain directions which must be obeyed in letter and spirit. While issuing these directions, we are taking into consideration the fact that the Himachal Pradesh Ex-servicemen Corporation has been constituted for the benefit of the ex-servicemen. The interest of the ex-servicemen will be served if each ex-serviceman is allowed to attach only on truck with the Corporation. This way, the maximum number of ex-serviceman can be accommodated. This does not in any way debar an ex-serviceman from purchasing or plying the second truck but he cannot get it attached with the Corporation but can ply it in his individual capacity. If the maximum number of ex-servicemen are to be helped and assisted in getting livelihood after retirement, it would be in the interest of justice, if each ex-serviceman is permitted to attach only one truck with the Corporation. We would like to make it clear that the right of the ex-serviceman to get his truck attached can be inherited only by his widow and not by his children unless there are minor children. We would also like to make it clear that in case an ex-serviceman is re-employed in a Government/public sector undertaking, he shall loose his right to have his truck attached with the Corporation."

6. In the aforesaid background, Division Bench of this Court vide judgment dated 6.1.2011 directed the respondent-State as well as Corporation to ensure that Bye-Laws, Rules and Regulations of the Corporation are amended in line with the directions issued by the Court. The Division Bench of this Court passed as many as 15 directions, which were required to be strictly followed by the Corporation for regulating transportation business amongst its members but in the facts and circumstances of present petition, directions No. 9 and 10 would be material, which are as under:

"9. In case an ex-serviceman dies, his widow shall be entitled to inherit the right to have a truck attached till her life time.

10. In case there is no widow or the widow voluntarily gives up her right, the attachment can be transferred to one son/daughter of the ex-serviceman but in such eventuality, the right to ply the truck shall only be for a period of 5 years. After the death of the widow or on expiry of 5 years, the attachment shall cease to exist and the slot shall be given on the basis of seniority."

7. Aforesaid judgment having been passed by the Division Bench of this Court was accepted in toto by the Corporation, because no further appeal was preferred before the Apex Court by it, rather the Corporation suitably amended its Bye-Laws in its 102nd meeting held on 27.4.2011 and incorporated following provisions: -

"10. Inclusion of Directions /orders given by Hon'ble High court vide CPW -2402/2008 dated 06 Jan 2011.

(a) In future only one truck of an ex-servicemen shall be attached with the Corporation.

(b) As far as the attachments already made are concerned, if there are more than two trucks of any ex-serviceman attached with the Corporation after 1.4.2011 only two trucks will be attached and the remaining trucks shall not be attached.

(c) The Corporation shall ensure that on and w.e.f. 1.4.2012, only one truck of each ex-servicemen shall be attached. Thus, an ex-servicemen will have a period of one year to either dispose of the excess trucks or to make alternate arrangement for their plying.

(d) The Corporation shall invite applications from all ex-servicemen of Himachal Pradesh by publishing advertisements in two English and two Hindi newspapers having wide circulation in the State. The advertisements be published on or before 31.1.2011 and last date for receipt of applications shall be 28.2.2011.

(e) The ex-servicemen who are desirous of plying and attaching their truck with the Corporation shall file their application latest by 28.2.2011.

(f) The Corporation shall draw up a list of candidates and seniority shall be given in order of retirement, i.e., a person who has retired earlier shall be placed senior in the seniority. If two candidates have retired on the same date then the candidate who has put in longer service in the Armed Forces shall rank higher in seniority. Henceforth all attachment shall be made strictly in accordance with the seniority list, so maintained. This list be drawn up latest by 25.3.2011. The list shall be displayed on the Notice Board of the respondent No.1-Corporation and shall be open for inspection to all ex servicemen. The ex-servicemen can file their objections with the Corporation to the said list.

(g) For the future every year, the respondent-Corporation shall invite applications from ex-servicemen for including their names in the list by issuing advertisement as aforesaid. These advertisements shall be published by 31st December of each year and applications shall be invited latest by 31st of January and the list shall be prepared by 28th of February of the subsequent years. These lists shall be applicable from 1st April of the subsequent years.

(h) The vacant positions for the trucks which are detached only after 1.4.2011 will be offered to the ex-servicemen who are next in the waiting list.

(i) In case an ex-servicemen dies, his widow shall be entitled to inherit the right to have a truck attached till her life time.

(j) In case there is no widow or the widow voluntarily gives up her right, the attachment can be transferred to one son/daughter of the ex-servicemen but in such eventuality, the right to ply the truck shall only be for a period of 5 years. After the death of the widow or on expiry of 5 years, the attachment shall cease to exist and the slot shall be given on the basis of seniority.

(k) No transfer of any attachment with the Corporation shall be permitted. Any ex-servicemen who does not want to ply the truck will have to surrender the attachment to the Corporation who shall offer it to the next person in the seniority list.

(l) In case the ex-serviceman is reemployed, his truck will not be attached and if his truck has been already attached and the Ex-servicemen re-employed in Government service/public sector undertakings, Banks etc. then he shall have to surrender his right to get the truck attached and the vacant slot shall be given to the Ex-servicemen next in the waiting list.

(m) In case of truck of an Ex-servicemen is stolen or meets with an accident then the Ex-servicemen shall have a right to replace his stolen/ unserviceable truck and get it attached with the Corporation. However, only one truck shall be attached one time.

(n) That when a truck of any Ex-servicemen is attached with the Corporation, the Corporation shall give a distinctive year-wise number to every attached truck and on the body of the truck, the Ex-servicemen shall ensure that the following information is depicted:-

"This truck No._____ is attached with the H.P Ex-Servicemen Corporation vide attachment No._____ of the year _____."

(p) That if there are more than one Society for different cement plants, the Ex-servicemen shall have a right to attach one truck with only one Society and it shall not be open for an Ex-servicemen to become a member of more than one Society and thereby attach more than one truck."

8. At this stage, it may be noticed that a few members of the Corporation being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgment, filed an SLP before the Apex Court i.e. Y.K. Awasthi & Ors versus H.P. Ex-Servicemen Corp. & Ors, which came be dismissed, in limine, on 10.10.2011.

9. Pursuant to aforesaid insertion of bye-law 10 in the Bye-laws of H.P. Ex-servicemen Truck Operator Welfare Working Committee, show cause notice was issued to those persons, who were not held entitled by the Court to attach their trucks with the Corporation. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the issuance of show cause notice by the Corporation, present petitioner alongwith others approached this Court by way of CWP's No. 4141/2015, 488/2016, 624/2016, 625/2016 and 626/2016. In the aforesaid petitions, having been filed by the present petitioners, they claimed that prior to passing of judgment dated 6.1.2011 in CWP No. 2402/2008, respondents No.2 and 3 had already issued permission to attach their trucks, which was valid upto 21.10.2017 and as such no show cause notice could be issued to them in terms of aforesaid judgment. Petitioners in those cases also claimed that in the aforesaid judgment since Section 2 (f) of the Act was not taken into consideration, judgment passed in that case can not be made applicable in their case, especially when under the Act, they have been held to be ex-servicemen for all intents and purposes. Petitioners in those cases, further claimed that they are deemed to be ex-servicemen under Section 2 (f) of the Act and a right in their favour accrued immediately after enactment of aforesaid Act and their right of attachment of truck could not have been taken away by subsequent amendment in the Rules, Regulations or Bye-Laws of Corporation, because that would be against the basic Act, which was enacted strictly for the welfare of the families of the ex-servicemen.

10. However, the fact remains that all the aforesaid petitions were dismissed as withdrawn on 26.4.2016 (Annexure P-10) with liberty reserved to the petitioners to file representations to the authority concerned seeking redressal of their grievances. Pursuant to dismissal of the aforesaid petitions, petitioner herein preferred representation (Annexure P-11) before the Corporation. The Corporation vide Annexure P-12, rejected the claim of the petitioner by stating that action of de-listing truck(s) was taken in compliance of directions passed by the Division Bench of this Court. In the aforesaid background, petitioner approached this Court by filing the instant petitions, laying therein challenge to communication dated 19.5.2016 (Annexure P-12). Petitioner in CWP No. 2082/2016 alongwith petitioners in connected matters is claiming attachment of his truck with the Corporation being the legal heir(s) of the deceased ex-serviceman, who prior to death was allowed/permitted to attach his truck with the Corporation for transportation of cement.

11. Mr. Amit Singh Chandel, Advocate, learned counsel for the petitioner(s), vehemently argued that order of de-listing of trucks issued by the Corporation deserves to be set aside being contrary to the provisions contained in the Act as well as Bye-Laws. He further contended that the Corporation has illegally issued notices for delisting the trucks of present petitioners by misreading and mis-interpreting the ratio decidendi of the judgment passed by Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 2402/2008. He further contended that while passing certain directions in the aforesaid judgment, Division Bench had specifically directed respondents No.1 and 2 to ensure that Bye-Laws, Rules and Regulations are amended in line with the directions contained in judgment dated 6.1.2011 but the Corporation, without effecting any amendment in Bye-Laws, Rules and Regulations, directly incorporated the directions issued by the Court in their Bye-Laws. He further argued that since Division Bench, while passing aforesaid judgment had only issued certain directions and had actually not struck-down the legality or validity of Rules and Regulations already contained in the earlier Act and Bye-laws and it can not be stated that statutory provisions which govern vested rights of the petitioners in the Corporation, from where rights of the petitioners original were created, were declared to be illegal. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Chandel further argued that the observations made by the Court in CWP No. 2402/2008 are obiter observations and as such they are per incuriam and no law has been declared by way of such directions so as to take away the vested rights of the petitioners with retrospective effect, more particularly, when claim of Scheme of the Act is prospective. He further argued that while incorporating any amendment in the Bye-Laws in terms of judgment passed by Division Bench of this Court, it was incumbent upon the respondents to adhere to Sections 31 to 34 of the Act. He further contended that in order to further amend Rules, Bye-laws of the Corporation, respondents No.1 and 2 ought to have incorporated amendment by adhering to the provisions of the Act as well HP General Clauses Act, 1968, as amended from time to time, but since, in the present case, aforesaid provisions were not followed and amendments carried out in the Bye-Laws being in violation of the Scheme, deserve to be quashed and set aside. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Chandel, prayed that judgment passed in CWP No. 2402/2008 requires to be reconsidered by this Court and amendment in Bye-Laws deserves to be declared null and void.

12. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General duly assisted by Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General and Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate, vehemently opposed the aforesaid prayer having been made on behalf of the petitioners by stating that there is no illegality or infirmity in the decision taken by the respondent-Corporation pursuant to the directions passed by this Court in CWP No. 2402/2008. They further argued that the aforesaid judgment has attained finality because the SLP filed by a member of the ex-servicemen Union, was dismissed in limine. Mr. Mukul Sood, learned counsel representing respondent-Corporation further contended that the directions passed in CWP No. 2402/2008 by this Court are in the interests of the ex-servicemen community and as such same were immediately accepted by the Corporation by effecting amendment in its Bye-laws.

13. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

14. After perusing pleadings as well as submissions having been made by the respective parties, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the instant petitions are wholly misconceived and sheer abuse of process of law. Prayer(s) as made in the present petitions have already been considered and rejected by this Court in earlier set of petitions filed by the present petitioners {CWP's No. 4141 of 2015 (Ajaib Singh v. State of HP and others), 488 of 2016 (Puspa Lata versus State of H.P. & others), 624 of 2016 (Thakur Singh versus State of H.P. & others), 625 of 2016 (Vinod Kumar versus State of H.P. & others) and 626 of 2016 (Sham Ved Versus State of H.P. & others)}. In the instant petitions, petitioners, who are legal heirs of the deceased ex-servicemen, are aggrieved by the action of the Corporation, whereby their trucks have been de-listed, in terms of Bye law 10 inserted in the Bye-laws by way of amendment pursuant to directions passed by a Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 2402/2008. The Division Bench of this Court has already held that in the event of death of ex-serviceman, his widow would be entitled to inherit right to have attached till her life time. This Court has rightly held that in case there is no widow, or widow voluntarily gives up her right of attachment, said right could be transferred to one son/daughter of the ex-serviceman but in that eventuality, right to ply truck would be restricted to five years after the death of widow or on expiry of five years, attachment would cease to exist and slot would be given on the basis of seniority to other ex-servicemen in the list. On the basis of aforesaid direction, Corporation has carried out amendment in the Bye-laws in its general meeting by incorporating directions issued by this Court, in the Bye-laws and as such all the ex-servicemen are bound by the same. It can be taken note of that aforesaid directions issued by this Court in CWP No. 2402/2008, were accepted by the Corporation without any demur, because same were issued in larger interests of the ex-servicemen, more particularly, aforesaid judgment has attained finality after dismissal, in limine, of SLP, filed against the same.

15. Hence, this Court sees no occasion /reason to accept the contentions raised in the instant petitions. It is not understood how the judgment passed by Division Bench of this Court, which has attained finality, can be reconsidered by this Court, as has been prayed in the instant petitions.

16. Though this court, does not deem it proper to say over and above what has been observed in the judgment in CWP No. 2402/2008, but, definitely, sees no force in the contentions raised by the counsel for the petitioners that the Corporation had no authority to carry out amendment in the Bye-laws, on the basis of directions issued by the Division Bench of this Court. No reliefs, as have been prayed for in the present petitions, can be granted in the present proceedings by this Court, in view of the directions already issued in CWP No. 2402/2008, because that would amount to overreaching the judgment of this Court, which has been further affirmed by the Apex Court.

17. In light of the detailed discussion above, the petitions are without any merit and same are dismissed. Pending applications, if any are also disposed of.

Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Ltd. .....Appellant

Versus

Shrimati Ram Kali and others .....Respondents.

FAO (MVA) No. 379 of 2012.
Date of decision: 9th December, 2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants specifically pleaded that deceased was travelling in the vehicle after loading the goods – this fact was not denied in the reply- the plea taken by the insurer that the deceased was travelling in the vehicle as a gratuitous passenger was not proved- the insurer was rightly saddled with liability- appeal dismissed. (Para-3 to 5)

For the appellant: Mr. Aman Sood, Advocate.

For the respondents: Ms. Sheetal Kimta, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Ms. Kamlesh Shandil, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Mr. O.P. Negi, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 29.3.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan District Solan, H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC Petition No. 2-S/2 of 2009, titled Shrimati Ram Kali and another versus Shri Bala Ram and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,66,000/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Claimant, Owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. The positive case of the claimants before the Tribunal was that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle bearing registration No. HP-14-B-0567 Canter, after loading the goods. In paras 10 and 24 of the claim petition, the claimants have taken this specific plea, which has not been denied by the respondents-owner and driver. In reply to paras 10 and 24, owner and driver have admitted that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as owner of the goods. The Tribunal has discussed in para 10 of the impugned award that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as owner of the goods. Deceased being third party, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

4. The insurer has pleaded and taken the ground that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger, has not led any evidence. Thus the evidence led by the claimants has remained un-rebutted. Even the insurer has failed to discharge the onus. The factum of insurance as well as the validity of driving licence is not in dispute.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the son of the deceased was owner of the vehicle. It is immaterial for the reason that the deceased was third party and insurer has failed to lead any evidence to the effect that there was collusion between the owner and deceased or any willful breach was committed by the owner. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly made the discussion.

6. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has rightly made the award, needs no interference.

7. Accordingly, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

8.. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, after proper verification.

9. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

CWP No. 3503 of 2015-A

Date of Decision : December 9, 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A road was constructed by the State under PMGSY – acquisition proceedings were initiated but were allowed to lapse- State on its own took decision to initiate fresh proceedings for acquisition of the land but did not do anything- held, that no person can be deprived of his property save and except by following due process of law- right to property is not only constitutional or statutory right but also a human right- the petition allowed and the respondents directed to initiate proceedings for acquisition of the land.(Para-3 to 7)

Cases referred:

Tukaram Kana Joshi & others vs. Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation & others, (2013) 1 SCC 353

K. B. Ramachandra Raje Urs (Dead) by Legal Representatives vs. State of Karnataka & others, (2016) 3 SCC 422

For the petitioner	:	Mr. C. N. Singh, Advocate, for the petitioners.
For the respondent	:	Mr. R. S. Verma, Addl. Advocate General for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J. (Oral)

It is rather unfortunate that after having taken a decision to initiate proceedings for acquisition of land over which Jhiknipul – Bhamta Road came to be constructed, now the respondents/State by taking a somersault are contesting the claim of the writ petitioners.

2. Record reveals, as is also evident from the response filed by the State, that the road in question came to be constructed by the State under the PMGSY Scheme. It is a Central Government sponsored Scheme and the road stands constructed by the State. It is not a case where the residents of the area themselves constructed the road or prior to its construction, land owners surrendered their rights therein. In fact, at some point in time, acquisition proceedings were initiated but for unexplained reasons, allowed to lapse. Even thereafter the State on its own, or may be on the asking of land owners, did take a decision to initiate fresh proceedings for acquisition of the land in question. Correspondence dated 30.10.2013 (Annexure P-4) and 19.07.2014 (Annexure P-5) is evidently clear in this regard. Yet it did not do anything, forcing the petitioners to approach this Court for redressal of their genuine grievances. Petitioners had been continuously pursuing their remedies before different authorities.

3. Right of property is enshrined in the Constitution. It is a settled principle of law that no person can be deprived of its property, save and except by following due process of law. Under these circumstances the writ petitioners legitimately canvass infringement of violation of such right.

4. Further right to property is now considered to be not only a constitutional or a statutory right but also a human right. Such principle stands fully reiterated and explained by Hon'ble the Supreme Curt of India in Tukaram Kana Joshi & others vs. Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation & others, (2013) 1 SCC 353, as under:

> '8. The appellants were deprived of their immovable property in 1964, when Article 31 of the Constitution was still intact and the right to property was a part of fundamental rights under Article 19 of the Constitution. It is pertinent to note that even after the Right to Property seized to be a Fundamental Right, taking possession of or acquiring the property of a citizen most certainly tantamounts to deprivation and such deprivation can take place only in accordance with the "law", as the said word has specifically been used in Article 300-A of the Constitution. Such deprivation can be only by resorting to a procedure prescribed by a statute. The same cannot be done by way of executive fiat or order or administration caprice. In Jilubhai Nanbhai Khachar v. State of Gujarat & Anr., 1995 Supp (1) SCC 596: AIR 1995 SC 142, it has been held as follows: -
> > "48. In other words, Article 300-A only limits the power of the State that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. There is no deprivation without due sanction of law. Deprivation by any other mode is not acquisition or taking possession under Article 300-A. In other words, if there is no law, there is no deprivation."
> 9. The right to property is now considered to be, not only a constitutional or a statutory right, but also a human right. Though, it is not a basic feature of the Constitution or a fundamental right. Human rights are considered to be in realm of individual rights, such as the right to health, the right to livelihood, the right to shelter and employment etc. Now however, human rights are gaining an even greater multi faceted dimension. The right to property is considered, very much to be a part of such new dimension.

(Vide: Lachhman Dass v. Jagat Ram & Ors., (2007) 10 SCC 448; Amarjit Singh & Ors. v. State of Punjab & Ors., (2010) 10 SCC 43; State of Madhya Pradesh & Anr. v. Narmada Bachao Andolan, 2011 AIR (SC) 1989; State of Haryana v. Mukesh Kumar & Ors., 2012 AIR (SC) 559 and Delhi Airtech Services Pvt. Ltd. v. State of U.P & Anr., 2012 AIR (SC) 573)

10. In the case at hand, there has been no acquisition. The question that emerges for consideration is whether, in a democratic body polity, which is supposedly governed by the Rule of Law, the State should be allowed to deprive a citizen of his property, without adhering to the law. The matter would have been different had the State pleaded that it has right, title and interest over the said land. It however, concedes to the right, title and interest of the appellants over such land and pleads the doctrine of delay and laches as grounds for the dismissal of the petition/appeal.

11. There are authorities which state that delay and laches extinguish the right to put forth a claim. Most of these authorities pertain to service jurisprudence, grant of compensation for a wrong done to them decades ago, recovery of statutory dues, claim for educational facilities and other categories of similar cases, etc. Though, it is true that there are a few authorities that lay down that delay and laches debar a citizen from seeking remedy, even if his fundamental right has been violated, under Article 32 or 226 of the Constitution, the case at hand deals with a different scenario altogether. Functionaries of the State took over possession of the land belonging to the appellants without any sanction of law. The appellants had asked repeatedly for grant of the benefit of compensation. The State must either comply with the procedure laid down for acquisition, or requisition, or any other permissible statutory mode. There is a distinction, a true and concrete distinction, between the principle of "eminent domain" and "police power" of the State. Under certain circumstances, the police power of the State may be used temporarily, to take possession of property but the present case clearly shows that neither of the said powers have been exercised. A question then arises with respect to the authority or power under which the State entered upon the land. It is evident that the act of the State amounts to encroachment, in exercise of "absolute power" which in common parlance is also called abuse of power or use of muscle power. To further clarify this position, it must be noted that the authorities have treated the land owner as a 'subject' of medieval India, but not as a 'citizen' under our Constitution."

5. Significantly in the very same decision, Court has dealt with the concept of delay and laches and the manner in which Court has to exercise discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

6. Contention that the petition is delayed by laches needs to be rejected not only on account of factual matrix as noticed hereinabove but also in view of latest decision rendered by the apex Court in K. B. Ramachandra Raje Urs (Dead) by Legal Representatives vs. State of Karnataka & others, (2016) 3 SCC 422, wherein it came to be observed as under:

"28. It has been vehemently argued on behalf of the respondents that the writ petition ought not to have been entertained and any order thereon could not have been passed as it is inordinately delayed and the appellant has made certain false statements in the pleadings before the High Court details of which have been mentioned hereinabove. This issue need not detain the Court. Time and again it has been said that while exercising the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the High Court is not bound by any strict rule of limitation. If substantial issues of public importance touching upon the fairness of governmental action do arise, the delayed approach to reach the Court will not stand in the way of the exercise of jurisdiction by the Court. Insofar as the knowledge of the appellant-writ petition with regard to the allotment of the land to Respondent 28 Society is concerned, what was claimed in the writ petition is that it is only in the year 1994 when Respondent 28 Society had attempted to raise construction on the land that the fact of allotment of such land came to be known to the appellant-writ petitioner."

7. Under these circumstances, petition is allowed and the respondents directed to initiate proceedings for acquisition of the land in terms of communications dated 27.7.2005 (Annexure P-1), dated 30.10.2013 (Annexure P-4) and dated 19.7.2014 (Annexure P-5). Steps shall positively be taken within a period of twelve weeks from today.

Petition stands disposed of accordingly, as also pending applications, if any.Copy dasti.

For the respondents: Mr.Pardeep Kumar Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 4.
Mr.Vikrant Chandel, Proxy Counsel, for respondents No.5 and 6.
Nemo for respondent No.7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Both these appeals are directed against the common award, dated 15th September, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P., (for short, the Tribunal), in case MAC No.70 of 2007, titled Dolma Devi and others vs. Mohinder Kumar Goel and others, whereby the claim petition was allowed and compensation to the tune of Rs.17,83,640/- was awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short, the impugned award).

2. Feeling aggrieved, the claimants have filed appeal i.e. FAO No.168 of 2012 for enhancement of compensation and the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of FAO No.334 of 2012 on the ground that the Tribunal has wrongly saddled it with the liability.

3. Heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

4. Admittedly, the deceased was a Constable in the Police Department and was drawing Rs.13,064/- per month as salary. Salary certificate of the deceased was proved on record as Ext.PW-4/A. The deceased was 37 years of age at the time of accident. The Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of 15. Keeping in view the number of claimants i.e. 4, the Tribunal has rightly deducted 1/4th from the monthly income of the deceased towards his personal expenses.

5. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraphs 16 and 17 of the impugned award and awarded compensation, which, by no stretch of imagination, can be said to be meager or excessive.

6. The insurer has questioned the impugned award by the medium of FAO No.334 of 2012 on the ground that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence and that the owner had committed willful breach. Copy of the driving licence has been proved on record as Ext.R-2, which does disclose that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. The insurer has not led any evidence to prove that the owner had committed willful breach or violation of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. The Tribunal, while determining issues No.3 and 4, has made detailed discussion and has rightly decided the said issues against the insurer.

7. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in both the appeals and the same are dismissed. Consequently, the impugned award is upheld. Pending CMPs, if any, also stand disposed of.

8. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants strictly in terms of the impugned award, through their respective bank accounts, after proper verification.

CMP No.10100 of 2016 in FAO No.334 of 2012

9. This application has been moved by respondents/claimants No.2 and 3 with the prayer that they may be proceeded in the appeal in their individual capacity, since, during the pendency of the appeal, they attained the age of majority. The application is allowed and the factum of claimants No.2 and 3 of their having attained majority is taken on record.

Per Sandeep Sharma, Judge

Instant petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed seeking following main reliefs:

> "i) That the impugned order dated 26.9.2016 may kindly be quashed and set-aside.
>
> ii) That the respondents may kindly be directed to issue award letter in favour of the petitioner within time bound period as he fulfill all the conditions including the experience certificate as one o the condition.
> iii) That the respondents may kindly be restrained from inviting fresh tender in the matter."

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the petitioner-society i.e. Krishna Sanitation Society Jatroon, which is registered under Societies Registration Act, 2006, pursuant to Short Tender Notice (Annexure P-2) issued by the Secretary, Nagar Panchayat, Chowari, submitted its tender for the following works:

Sl. No.	Name Of Work	Man Power Required	Earnest Money	Time Limits
1.	Cleanliness area Ward No-01 Sudali Chownk to Hanuman Chownk, , Hanuman Chownk to Puran Chand Secretary House , Hanuman Chownk to Referral Hospital Chowari , Main Nazar alongwith All Drains and Roads. Ward No-05:- Sadwan Raipur Road to Senior Secondary School.	10 Nos + 01 Supervisor	22000-00	One year

	Ward No-07:-Sh. Surnder Sharma Shop to Saran Dass Verma House , Vidya Sagar Shop to Mahila Mandal, Chharmari area. Ward No-06:-Complete Ward The Drains/Path and Street of above said wards alongwith Loading and unloading of Garbage. Rehan Basera and Office Building
2.	Door to Door Garbage collection in Ward No-01 and Ward No-07	02 Nos	5000-00	One year

3. Petitioner claimed that its tender being the lowest was accepted by the respondents on 29.6.2016 and as such it was expecting that award letter would be issued to it immediately, but when it was not issued, petitioner made inquiries from the respondents. On inquiry, petitioner was informed that one M/s J.S. Constructions had filed a complaint to the respondents (Annexure P-4) alleging therein that the tender submitted by the, Krishan Pal Singh, President of the petitioner-Society was faulty because the experience certificate submitted by it prima facie appeared to be fictitious and as such work in terms of Short Tender Notice could not be awarded to the petitioner-Society. In the complaint, complainant alleged that Sulabh International had actually issued certificate of experience of work till 2008 but there is over-writing. Similarlly, complainant alleged that there is contradiction in the PAN card and experience certificate having been furnished by the petitioner society. On the basis of aforesaid complaint, respondents decided not to award work in favour of the petitioner-society. Petitioner being aggrieved of the aforesaid action of not awarding tender in its favour, despite its being lowest bidder approached this Court by way of CWP no. 2492 of 2016, which came to be listed before this Court on 26.9.2016. This Court, on the basis of averments contained in the petition, directed the respondents to seek instructions on 27.9.2016. On 27.9.2016, this Court was informed that the respondents have already passed order dated 26.9.2016 (Annexure P-6), whereby decision has been taken to cancel the tenders on administrative and technical grounds. Perusal of letter dated 26.9.2016 further suggests that decision was taken to invite tender through e-tendering process in terms of instructions issued by the Government. In view of aforesaid, petitioner sought permission to withdraw the petition with liberty to file afresh laying therein challenge to order dated 26.9.2016. In the aforesaid background, present petitioner approached this Court by way of present petition, praying therein for the reliefs as reproduced above.

4. Mr. Nipun Sharma, learned counsel representing the petitioner, vehemently argued that cancellation order issued by the respondents is not tenable as it does not disclose any reason, much less sufficient reason, to cancel the tender on administrative/ technical grounds. Mr. Nipun Sharma, while inviting attention of this Court to the experience certificates purportedly annexed by the petitioner alongwith tender document, (pages-22 and 23 of the paper-book) vehemently argued that reasons cited in the cancellation order (Annexure P-6) are not tenable, rather tender has been cancelled by the respondents to favour other contractors, who were unable to succeed in the bidding process.

5. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General appearing for the State and Mr. Anup Rattan, Advocate appearing for respondent No.2, supported the cancellation order (Annexure P-6) and stated that in view of reasons cited in the cancellation order, petitioner has no right to claim work in terms of tender notice because it stands duly proved on record that petitioner had failed to submit experience certificate in sanitation work for the last two years, in the name of the firm alongwith PAN and EPF number. Mr. Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate General and Mr. Anup Rattan, Advocate, with a view to refute the contentions having been put forth by Mr. Nipun Sharma, Advocate, specifically referred to the experience certificate allegedly annexed with tender documents by the petitioner (page 23) to demonstrate that same was not issued in favour of the petitioner, rather same was issued individually in favour of Shri Krishan Pal Singh son of Shri Sagar Singh, resident of Chowari, District Chamba, who, undisputedly, happens to be the President of the petitioner-society. Mr. Thakur further argued that bare perusal of experience certificate issued by International Institute of Sulabh System Delhi clearly establishes the allegations of the complainant M/s J.S. Constructions that the same is fictitious because perusal of same clearly suggests that there is over-writing on date. While concluding his arguments, Mr. Thakur stated that since decision has been taken to cancel the tender, present petition deserves to be dismissed having been rendered infructuous.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records.

7. It is undisputed that pursuant to Short Tender Notice admittedly issued by the respondents i.e. Nagar Panchayat, Chowari, petitioner society applied for work in question and it was found to be the lowest bidder. Similarly, terms and conditions as contained in Short Tender Notice are reproduced herein below:

"TERM AND CONDITIONS FOR CLEANLINESS OF TOWN FOR 2016-17

9. The contractor will ensure to cleanliness of town i.e. Cleanliness of Town Ward No.1, 05, 06, 7, alognwith all drains and streets, Rehan Basera and N.P. office.

10. The contactor has to submit experience Certificate in sanitation work at least 2 years. Alongwith PAN Number, EPF Number.

11. The whole area will be inspected by the Sanitary Supervisor with the contractor/Supervisor daily.

12. No negligence regarding cleanliness of the town will accept. If the cleanliness work of the area affected the tenders will be cancelled within 24 hours without any notice.

13. No gagbage should be visible in the area slop area if visible the area will be cleaned by the workers, f the contractor.

14. The conservancy material viz. shawls, Brooms, Wheel Barrows, Buckets, Phynile, Acid and other material which will be essential for cleanliness will be provided by the contractor.

15. Polythene bags of the area should be collected by the contractors staff and no polythene bags should be visible any where.

16. Since the sanitation work is essential services as such the garbage/refuse removed through Municipal agency. In case of emergency will be done at the cost of the contractor.

17. The contractor will supply the detail of employees i.e. Name of employee, Complete address Identy of employee and location of work place alongwith their Mobile numbers.

18. The next month payment will only be release on the receipt of previous month EPF return and on the basis of daily attendance of workers after the satisfaction /verification of the Sanitary Supervisor."

8. The aforesaid conditions suggest that contractor was required to submit experience certificate for two year in sanitation work alongwith PAN and EPF number. In the instant case, as has emerged from the record, respondents, after completion of bidding process, received complaint from M/s J.S. Contructions and Maharishi Enterprises (Annexure P-4) that the experience certificate submitted by the petitioner-society are fictitious and same can not be taken into consideration while considering the bid of the petitioner-society.

9. True, it is that aforesaid complainants also participated in the tendering process and as such there can be every possibility of lodging false complaint by it against petitioner being competitor but perusal of reply having been filed by the respondents clearly suggests that the petitioner failed to submit two years experience certificate in the name of petitioner-society as was required in terms of Short Tender Notice. Perusal of experience certificate tendered by the petitioner with the tender document clearly suggests that one of the certificate was not in the name of the petitioner-society, which had actually applied in terms of Short Tender Notice, rather the experience certificate purportedly issued by International Institute of Sulabh System Delhi is/was in favour of Krishan Pal singh son of Sagar Singh, in his individual capacity and not in the name of petitioner-Society i.e. Krishna Sanitation Society. Since tender was submitted in the name of petitioner-Society, it was incumbent upon the petitioner society to place on record certificate, if any, in its favour and not in the name of Shri Krishan Pal singh, who happens to be the President of the Society. Moreover, perusal of experience certificate (page 23) shows that there is over-writing on date as such this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the action of the respondents in rejecting the tender of petitioner for non-compliance of terms and conditions of Short Tender Notice.

10. Similarly, perusal of certificate (Annexure P-7), which has been issued by Senior Medical Officer, Chowari suggests that same has been issued in the name of Sh. Krishan Pal Singh and not in the name of petitioner-society and same is of no help to the petitioner-society.

11. Apart from above, perusal of impugned order dated 26.9.2016 (Annexure P-6) clearly suggests that tender in question was opened on 29.6.2016 in the office of Nagar Panchayat, Chowari in the presence of applicants i.e. contractors. Five contractors submitted tenders and out of five, three contractors failed to produce the experience certificate as such their bids were not considered. So far as remaining two contractors are concerned, though the petitioner-society was found to be lowest but since it did not furnish certificate as per terms and conditions of tender notice, same was also rejected. Impugned order clearly suggests that petitioner-society had submitted experience certificate of only one year, which was issued by Secretary, Nagar Panchayat, Chowari available at page 22, perusal where suggests that M/s Krishna Sanitation Soceity worked with Nagar Panchayat for one year i.e. November, 2013 to October, 2014 for cleaning and sweeping of Nagar Panchayat area. Since aforesaid certificate in the name of petitioner-society was only for one year, no fault can be found with the decision of respondents in rejecting tender of the petitioner-society for violation of terms and conditions of Short Tender Notice.

12. Similarly, since another tenderer M/s J.S. Constructions though was second lowest but it also did not furnish experience certificate, as such its tender was also rejected. Perusal of aforesaid communication clearly suggests that none of the contractors, who had actually submitted bids in terms of tender notice fulfilled the terms and conditions, accordingly, respondents decided to cancel the tender on administrative and technical grounds and decided to initiate tender process through e-tendering system, in terms of instructions issued by the Government.

13. This Court, after carefully examining the impugned order passed by the respondents, sees no force in the contentions having been raised on behalf of the petitioner that action of the respondents is discriminatory and is the result of colourable exercise of power. Rather, this Court after perusing impugned order, is satisfied and convinced that since all the bidders failed to fulfill the conditions of tender notice, respondents rightly decided to cancel the tender. As such, there is no merit in the petition.

14. Further, by no stretch of imagination, court can assume the role of technical expert, who in their wisdom have cancelled the tender on account of technical /administrative reasons. Since respondents have already taken a conscious decision to recall the tender, this Court sees no occasion to grant relief as prayed for in the petition.

15. It is well settled by now that respondents can withdraw /recall tender at any time, if it is convinced that same is not in accordance with the requirements as indicated in Notice Inviting Tender. Though, in the present case, petitioner claimed himself to be lowest bidder but there is no document suggestive of the fact that pursuant to opening of his tender, he was awarded work, as such no right has accrued in his favour which would have entitled him to claim the relief as prayed for in the petition.

16. The Apex Court in State of Jharkhand v. M/s. CWE-SOMA Consortium reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3366, has held that:

> 13. The appellant-state was well within its rights to reject the bid without assigning any reason thereof. This is apparent from clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD which reads as under:-
> > "Clause 24 of NIT: "Authority reserves the right to reject any or all of the tender(s) received without assigning any reason thereof." Clause 32.1 of SBD: "…the Employer reserves the right to accept or reject any Bid to cancel the bidding process and reject all bids, at any time prior to award of Contract, without thereby incurring any liability to the affected Bidder or Bidders or any obligation to inform the affected Bidder or Bidders of the grounds for the Employer's action." In terms of the above clause 24 of NIT and clause 32.1 of SBD, though Government has the right to cancel the tender without assigning any reason, appellant-state did assign a cogent and acceptable reason of lack of adequate competition to cancel the tender and invite a fresh tender. The High Court, in our view, did not keep in view the above clauses and right of the government to cancel the tender.
> 14. The State derives its power to enter into a contract under Article 298 of the Constitution of India and has the right to decide whether to enter into a contract with a person or not subject only to the requirement of reasonableness under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In the case in hand, in view of lack of real competition, the state found it advisable not to proceed with the tender with only one responsive bid available before it. When there was only one tenderer, in order to make the tender more competitive, the tender committee decided to cancel the tender and invited a fresh tender and the decision of the appellant did not suffer from any arbitrariness or unreasonableness.

17. That Apex Court in Bakshi Security & Personnel Services Pvt. Ltd. V. Devkishan Computed P. Ltd. reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3385, has held that:

> 13. First and foremost, under tender condition 2.5.5, commercial bids have to strictly conform to the format provided in Annexure 2 of the tender document. Annexure 2 which contains the format for the price bid makes it clear that the salary paid to deployed manpower should not be less than the minimum wage. It further goes on to state in paragraph 3 thereof that if the component of salary quoted is less than the minimum wage prescribed, the bid is liable to be rejected. On this ground alone, Respondent No.1's bid is liable to be rejected inasmuch as, vide its letter dated 3.9.2015, Respondent No.1 stuck to its original figure of Rs.2,77,68,000/- which is way below the minimum wage fixed by the Government. Secondly, Shri Raval is also right in stating that the without prejudice offer of Rs.3,00,92,346/- is an offer which is not fixed, but open ended. This is clear from the fact that it was up to the Government then to pick up either figure by way of acceptance. This is clearly interdicted by clause 2.5.6 of the tender which states that prices quoted by the bidder have to be fixed, and no open ended bid can be entertained, the same being liable to be rejected straightaway. Such condition is obviously an essential condition of the tender which goes to the eligibility of persons who make offers under the tender.
> 14. Unfortunately, even though the High Court noticed the open ended nature of Respondent No.1's bid, it went on to add that the offer of Respondent No.1 shall be treated as matching with the revised minimum wage calculation and that it is nowhere envisaged by the tender conditions that rejection of an offer which may have the potential of causing loss to the tenderer is present. It is not for the High Court to revisit a condition contained in Annexure 2 read with 2.5.5 of the tender in the manner aforesaid. Once the tender condition states that the tender must strictly conform to the format provided in Annexure 2, and Annexure 2 in turn clearly states that if the component of salary quoted is less than the minimum wage prescribed, the bid is liable to be rejected, and the High Court cannot hold otherwise. The High Court's further finding that Respondent No.1's offer was "clear" is wholly incorrect. It was a without prejudice offer which muddied the waters and rendered the price quoted by the bidder as variable and not fixed.

18. The Apex Court in Central Coalfields Limited v. SLL-SML (Joint Venture Consortium) reported in AIR 2016 SCW 3814, has further held that:

> 44. On asking these questions in the present appeals, it is more than apparent that the decision taken by CCL to adhere to the terms and conditions of the NIT and the GTC was certainly not irrational in any manner whatsoever or intended to favour anyone. The decision was lawful and not unsound.
> 55. On the basis of the available case law, we are of the view that since CCL had not relaxed or deviated from the requirement of furnishing a bank guarantee in the prescribed format, in so far as the present appeals are concerned every bidder was obliged to adhere to the prescribed format of the bank guarantee. Consequently, the failure of JVC to furnish the bank guarantee in the prescribed format was sufficient reason for CCL to reject its bid.
> 56. There is nothing to indicate that the process by which the decision was taken by CCL that the bank guarantee furnished by JVC ought to be rejected was flawed in any manner whatsoever. Similarly, there is nothing to indicate that the decision taken by CCL to reject the bank guarantee furnished by JVC and to adhere to the requirements of the NIT and the GTC was arbitrary or unreasonable or perverse in any manner whatsoever."

19. Admittedly, Court can go into the question of mala fides raised by a litigant, but in order to succeed, much more than a mere allegation is required. Bald and unfounded allegations of mala fides are not sustainable and that mala fides must be specifically pleaded and proved and such allegations of mala fides should be made with all sense of responsibility, otherwise, the maker of such allegations should be ready to face consequences.

20. It is equally well settled that the burden of proving mala fides is on the person making the allegations and the burden is 'very heavy." Reliance is placed upon E.P. Royappa Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (1974) 4 SCC 3.

21. There is every presumption in favour of the administration that the power has been exercised bona fide and in good faith. It is to be remembered that the allegations of mala fides are often more easily made than proved and proof of high degree is required to prove the same. Reliance is also placed on Gulam Mustafa Vs. State of Maharashtra (1976) 1 SCC 800 wherein it is held, "It (mala fides) is the last refuge of a losing litigant."

22. Reliance is also placed on Union of India and others Vs. Ashok Kumar and others, (2005) 8 SCC 760, whereby it is held by the Apex Court that seriousness of allegations of mala fides demands proof of high order of credibility and the Courts should be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts placed before them by a party, particularly when the imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office having high responsibility. It was held:

> "21. Doubtless, he who seeks to invalidate or nullify any act or order must establish the charge of bad faith, an abuse or a misuse by the authority of its powers. While the indirect motive or purpose, or bad faith or personal ill- will is not to be held established except on clear proof thereof, it is obviously difficult to establish the state of a man's mind, for that is what the employee has to establish in this case, though this may sometimes be done. The difficulty is not lessened when one has to establish that a person apparently acting on the legitimate exercise of power has, in fact, been acting mala fide in the sense of pursuing an illegitimate aim. It is not the law that mala fide in the sense of improper motive should be established only by direct evidence. But it must be discernible from the order impugned or must be shown from the established surrounding factors which preceded the order. If bad faith would vitiate the order, the same can, in our opinion, be deduced as a reasonable and inescapable inference from proved facts. (S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab AIR 1964 SC 72). It cannot be overlooked that burden of establishing mala fides is very heavy on the person who alleges it. The allegations of mala fides are often more easily made than proved, and the very seriousness of such allegations demand proof of a high order of credibility. As noted by this Court in E. P. Royappa v. State of Tamil Nadu and Another (AIR 1974 SC 555), Courts would be slow to draw dubious inferences from incomplete facts placed before it by a party, particularly when the imputations are grave and they are made against the holder of an office which has a high responsibility in the administration. (See Indian Railway Construction Co. Ltd. v. Ajay Kumar (2003) 4 SCC 579)."

23. Courts can interfere in tender or contractual matters in exercise of power of judicial review only in case the process adopted or decision made by the authority is malafide or intended to favour someone or the process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached and lastly in case the public interest is affected. If the answers to these questions are in the negative, then there should be no interference by this Court in exercise of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

24. Principles of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would apply to the exercise of contractual powers by the Government only in case the process adopted or decision making process of the authorities is wrong and illegal and in order to prevent arbitrariness or favoritism.

25. Reliance is further placed on Tata Cellular versus Union of India (1994) 6 SCC 651, whereby Apex Cout has laid down the limitations in relation to the scope of judicial review of administrative decisions in exercise of powers awarding contracts:(SCC pp 687-88, para 94)

26. In the instant case, the decision regarding cancellation of the tender is a bonafide one and is otherwise in the larger public interest because none of the bidders including the petitioner fulfilled the tender condition and as such for a fair and transparent tendering, Department cancelled the tender and decided to resort to e-tendering. Further, e-tendering would increase healthy competition amongst the participants, thereby saving the public exchequer. It is not a fit case to exercise powers of judicial review as there is no violation of the provisions of law and further there is no procedural aberration or error in assessment. It is more than settled that power of judicial review will not be permitted to invoke to protect private interest at the cost of public interest and reliance is placed on a judgment delivered by the Apex Court in Jagdish Mandal versus State of Orissa and others(2007) 14 SCC 517 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that before interfering in tender or contractual matters in exercise of judicial review, Courts should ascertain whether process adopted or decision made by the authority is mala fide or intended to favour some and whether process adopted or decision made is so arbitrary and irrational that the Court can say that the decision is such that no responsible authority acting reasonably and in accordance with relevant law could have reached, and also whether public interest is affected.

27. Applying the aforesaid test to the instant case, the writ petition merits to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 27th December, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C.T. Petition No. 36-S/2 of 2009, titled as Mahesh versus Prince and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 2,98,805/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-injured and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The respondents in the claim petition, i.e. the insurer, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle, have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The claimant-injured has questioned the impugned award only on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

4. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the amount awarded is inadequate? The answer is in the affirmative for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

5. The claimant-injured invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that he became the victim of the motor vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Rajinder Kumar, while driving vehicle, bearing registration No. HP-01B-0320, rashly and negligently, on 30th September, 2008, at about 5.00 P.M. near Shalaghat, Tehsil Arki, in which the claimant-injured sustained injuries.

6. The claim petition was resisted by the owner-insured and the insurer of the offending vehicle on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections. It is apt to record herein that the driver of the offending vehicle was proceeded against ex-parte.

7. The entire controversy involved in this appeal relates to adequacy of compensation, thus, there is no need to reproduce the issues framed by the Tribunal herein.

8. The Tribunal has made discussions to this effect in paras 13 to 19 of the impugned award.

9. The perusal of the record does disclose that the claimant-injured remained admitted at IGMC, Shimla, with effect from 30th September, 2008 to 20th November, 2008. The disability certificate is also on the record as Ext. PW-4/A, in terms of which the claimant-injured has suffered 40% permanent disability qua left leg.

10. The claimant-injured has examined Dr. Sandeep Kashyap as PW-4, who was one of the members of the Medical Board, which has issued the disability certificate, has specifically stated that the injury suffered by the claimant-injured, which is permanent in nature, has resulted in shortening his left leg.

11. It is beaten law of land that in an injury case, the compensation is to be awarded under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

12. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others,reported in AIR 1995 SC 755,Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another,reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085,Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited,reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787,and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in2012 AIR SCW 4771.

13. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

14. Admittedly, the claimant-injured was ten years of age at the time of the accident and was a student. Because of the disability, he will not be able to seek appointment in armed forces or get the job of his choice after attaining the age of majority. The Tribunal has assessed his income to be ₹ 40,000/- per annum, which is not legally and factually correct.

15. By guess work, it can be safely held that the claimant-injured would have been earning not less than ₹ 5,000/- per month even as a labourer after attaining the age of majority. The claimant-injured has suffered 40% permanent disability. Thus, it is held that he has suffered loss of income to the tune of ₹ 2,000/- per month.

16. The Tribunal has applied the multiplier of '18', which is just and appropriate in view of the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") read with the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporationand another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, and upheld in Reshma Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

17. Having said so, the claimant-injured has lost source of future income to the tune of ₹ 2,000/- x 12 x 18 = ₹ 4,32,000/-.

18. The Tribunal has rightly awarded compensation to the tune of ₹ 42,805/- under the head 'medical expenses' and ₹ 12,000/- under the head 'transportation charges', is maintained.

19. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding compensation under the heads 'future pain and suffering' to the tune of ₹ 50,000/- and 'permanent disability' to the tune of ₹ 50,000/-.

20. The Apex Court in its latest decision in the case titled as Jakir Hussein versus Sabir and others, reported in (2015) 7 SCC 252, while discussing its earlier pronouncements, observed that in injury cases, the compensation would include not only the actual expenses incurred, but the compensation has to be assessed keeping in view the struggle which the injured has to face throughout his life due to the permanent disability and the amount likely to be incurred for future medical treatment, loss of amenities of life, pain and suffering to undergo for the entire life etc. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 11 and 18 of the judgment herein:

> "11. With regard to the pain, suffering and trauma which have been caused to the appellant due to his crushed hand, it is contended that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal was meagre and insufficient. It is not in dispute that the appellant had remained in the hospital for a period of over three months. It is not possible for the courts to make a precise assessment of the pain and trauma suffered by a person whose arm got crushed and has suffered permanent disability due to the accident that occurred. The appellant will have to struggle and face different challenges as being handicapped permanently. Therefore, in all such cases, the Tribunals and the courts should make a broad estimate for the purpose of determining the amount of just and reasonable compensation under pecuniary loss. Admittedly, at the time of accident, the appellant was a young man of 33 years. For the rest of his life, the appellant will suffer from the trauma of not being able to do his normal work of his job as a driver. Therefore, it is submitted that to meet the ends of justice it would be just and proper to award him a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- towards pain, suffering and trauma caused to him and a further amount of Rs.1,50,000/- for the loss of amenities and enjoyment of life.
> 18. Further, we refer to the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., 2013 8 SCC 389 wherein this Court examined catena of cases and principles to be borne in mind while granting compensation under the heads of (i) pain, suffering and (ii) loss of amenities and so on. Therefore, as per the principles laid down in the case of Rekha Jain & Anr. and considering the suffering undergone by the appellant herein, and it will persist in future also and therefore, we are of the view to grant Rs.1,50,000/- towards the pain, suffering and trauma which will be undergone by the appellant throughout his life. Further, as he is not in a position to move freely, we additionally award Rs.1,50,000/- towards loss of amenities & enjoyment of life and happiness."

21. In view of the ratio laid down by the apex Court in the judgment (supra), I am of the considered view that the claimant-injured is entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 1,00,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings' and ₹ 1,00,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

22. Having glance of the above discussions, the claimant-injured is held entitled to total compensation to the tune of ₹ 4,32,000/- + ₹ 42,805/- + ₹ 12,000/- + ₹ 1,00,000/- + ₹ 1,00,000/- = ₹ 6,86,805/-.

23. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in awarding interest at the rate of 9% per annum, which was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates.

24. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281;Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738;Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053;Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982;Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010,titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

25. Having said so, I deem it proper to reduce the rate of interest from 9% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

26. In view of the discussions made hereinabove, the amount of compensation is enhanced, impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of, as indicated hereinabove.

27. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced awarded amount before the Registry within eight weeks. On deposition, the same be released in favour of the claimant-injured strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in his bank account after proper identification.

28. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and another. ...Respondents.

CWP No. 2358/2011
Decided on: 9.12. 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner is a registered dealer for manufacturing and trading of drugs and medicines – the petitioner has set up a factory for manufacturing drugs at Baddi – a notice was issued to the petitioner – penalty of Rs.84,44,838/- was imposed – an appeal was filed, which was dismissed- the matter was carried before H.P. Tax Tribunal, which set aside the orders passed by Assessing and Appellate Authority but imposed a cost of Rs. 20 lacs for the reason that petitioner could not be permitted to take the benefit of technicalities of law and wrong committed by the Assessing Authority- held, that statutory Tribunals must function within their bound and their decisions should not be arbitrary, fanciful or based on irrelevant consideration- fiscal statute must be strictly interpreted – there is no equity in tax matter – once it was concluded that the orders passed by Assessing and Appellate Authority were not sustainable in the eyes of law, costs could not have been imposed- the purpose of imposing cost is to indemnify the party for the expenses incurred – writ petition allowed and the order passed by the Tribunal set aside.(Para-10 to 21)

Cases referred:
Rajasthan and others vs. Basant Agrotech (India) Limited, (2013) 15 SCC 1
Vinod Seth vs. Devinder Bajaj, (2010) 8 SCC 1

For the Petitioner: Mr. Goverdhan Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Rupinder Thakur, Addl. A.G. with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral):

The instant case is rather an unusual one where the Himachal Pradesh Tax Tribunal (for short 'Tribunal') though had quashed all the proceedings against the petitioner but then proceeded to burden it with Rs. 20 lakhs, as costs, that too, only on the ground that "it should not be allowed to get the benefit of technicalities of law and the wrongs committed by the Assessing Authority".

2. However, before we proceed to determine the question on merit, it would be necessary to recapitulate few facts, which are as under:

3. The petitioner is a registered dealer under the Himachal PradeshValue Added Tax Act, 2005 (for short 'VAT Act, 2005') and also under the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956) for manufacturing and trading of drugs and medicines in the State of Himachal Pradesh. The petitioner in the year 2005 has set up a factory for manufacturing of drugs at Baddi.

4. The assessment for the year 2005-06 framed by the Assessing Authority was reopened under the VAT Act, 2005 and the petitioner was issued notice in Form Vat-XXXIX.

5. These proceedings culminated in the imposition of penalty upon the petitioner to the tune of Rs. 84,44,838/-. Though an appeal against the same was filed before the Appellate Authority, however, the same was dismissed vide order dated 7.5.2009.

6. The petitioner thereafter filed second appeal before the Tribunal, which was registered as Appeal No. 70/2009 and came up for consideration on 18.9.2010, and as already observed earlier, the Tribunal though set aside the order passed by the Assessing Authority as also the Appellate Authority, however, at the same time proceeded to impose costs of Rs. 20 lakhs on the petitioner only for the reason that it could not be permitted to take the benefit of technicalities of law and the wrongs committed by the Assessing Authority.

7. This would be clearly evident from the operative portion of the order, which reads thus:

> "Therefore, keeping in view the above circumstances it is not necessary to discuss each and every item and attending circumstances of all the items. This court comes to the conclusion that the penalty imposed is in violation of statutory provisions and liable to be quashed and is hereby quashed alongwith order of Appellate Authority but the dealer should not be allowed to get the benefit of technicalities of law and wrongs committed by the Assessing Authority and, therefore, I feel it necessary in the interest of justice and as well as in the interest of revenue also that the dealer must be burdened with heavy cost while allowing its appeal and costs are quantified as Rs. 20,00,000/- (Rupees twenty lakhs) which I feel is necessary and expedient and the appeal is accordingly disposed of and records of the lower authorities be sent back."

8. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

9. We are appalled to see the manner in which the appeal has been disposed of.

10. It is more than settled that the statutory Tribunals must function within their bound and their decisions should not be arbitrary, fanciful or based on irrelevant consideration.

11. It is equally settled that fiscal statutes must be strictly interpreted and in determining liability of a subject to tax one must have regard to the strict letter of law and not merely spirit of the statute or the subsistence of the law. If the Revenue satisfies the Court that the case falls strictly within the provision of the law, the subject can be taxed. On the other hand, if the case is not covered within the four corners of the provisions of the taxing statutes, no tax can be imposed by inference or by analogy or by trying to probe into the intentions of the legislature and by considering what was the substance of the matter.

12. Apart from the above, there is no equity on either side in tax matters and nothing can be read which is not provided for in the statute.

13. The fundamental principle that serves as guidance to understand the fiscal legislations and the duty of the Court while dwelling upon the interpretation of the taxing statute has been construed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan and others vs. Basant Agrotech (India) Limited, (2013) 15 SCC 1, and it shall be apt to reproduce the relevant paras as under:

"[12] Before we appreciate the controversy that has travelled to this Court, we think it necessary to state the fundamental principles that serve as guidance to understand the fiscal legislations and the duty of the Court while dwelling upon the interpretation of taxing statutes.

[13] In A.V. Fernandez v. The State of Kerala, 1957 AIR(SC) 657, Bhagwati, J. referred to a passage from Partington v. The Attorney General,1869 4 HL 100 at p. 122(B) which is as follows: -

"As I understand the principle of all fiscal legislation it is this : if the person sought to be taxed, comes within the letter of the law he must be taxed however great the hardship may appear to the judicial mind to be. On the other hand, if the Crown, seeking to recover the tax, cannot bring the subject within the letter of the law, the subject is free, however apparently within the spirit of the law the case might otherwise appear to be."

[14] The said passage, as has been stated in the said pronouncement, was quoted with approval by the Privy Council in Bank of Chettinad v. Income-tax Commr., 1940 AIR(PC) 183 and the Privy Council had registered its protest against the suggestion that in revenue cases "the substance of the matter" may be regarded as distinguished from the strict legal position. Proceeding further the learned Judge stated that:

"It is no doubt true that in construing fiscal statutes and in determining the liability of a subject to tax one must have regard to the strict letter of the law and not merely to the spirit of the statute or the substance of the law. If the Revenue satisfies the Court that the case falls strictly within the provision of the law, the subject can be taxed. If, on the other hand, the case is not covered within the four corners of the provisions of the taxing statute, no tax can be imposed by inference or by analogy or by trying to probe into the intentions of the legislature and by considering what was the substance of the matter."

[15] In Commissioner of Salex-tax, U.P. v. Modi Sugar Mills Ltd., 1961 AIR(SC) 1047, Shah, J., speaking for the majority in the Constitution Bench, has observed thus: -

"In interpreting a taxing statute, equitable considerations are entirely out of place. Nor can taxing statutes be interpreted on any presumptions or assumptions. The Court must look squarely at the words of the statute and interpret them. It must interpret a taxing statute in the light of what is clearly expressed : if cannot imply anything which is not expressed; it cannot import provisions in the statutes so as to supply any assumed deficiency."

[16] In Commissioner of Income-tax, Madras v. Kasturi and Sons Ltd., 1999 AIR(SC) 1275, a two-Judge Bench has approvingly quoted a passage from the book "Principles of Statutory Interpretation" by Justice G.P. Singh, Sixth Edition 1966, which is as follows: -

"The well established rule in the familiar words of LORD WENSLEYDALE, reaffirmed by LORD HALSBURY and LORD SIMONDS, means :

"The subject is not to be taxed without clear words for that purpose; and also that every Act of Parliament must be read according to the natural construction of its words". In a classic passage LORD CAIRNS stated that the principle thus: "If the person sought to be taxed comes within the letter of the law he must be taxed, however great the hardship may appear to the judicial mind to be. On the other hand, if the Crown seeking to recover the tax, cannot bring the subject within the letter of the law, the subject is free, however apparently within the spirit of law the case might otherwise appear to be. In other words, if there be admissible in any statute, what is called an equitable, construction, certainly, such a construction is not admissible in a taxing statute where you can simply adhere to the words of the statute." VISCOUNT SIMON quoted with approval a passage from Rowlatt, J. expressing the principle in the following words:

"In a taxing Act one has to look merely at what is clearly said. There is no room for any intendment. There is no equity about a tax. There is no presumption as to tax. Nothing is to be read in, nothing is to be implied. One can only look fairly at the language used." Relying upon this passage Lord Upjohn said : "Fiscal measures are not built upon any theory of taxation".This passage presently finds place at page 826, Twelfth Edition 2012 of "Principle of Statutory Interpretation" by G.P. Singh."

14. Adverting to the facts, what we find more intriguing is that once the Tribunal had come to the conclusion that the orders passed by both the authorities below, i.e. Assessing Authority and Appellate Authority, were not sustainable in the eyes of law and there was merit in the appeal filed by the petitioner, then how it still proceeded to not only impose costs but exorbitant costs.

15. As regards costs, the accepted principle is that the costs shall follow the event. Unless the successful party is guilty of misconduct or there is any other good cause or reason for depriving the party of it.

16. However, imposing costs upon the successful party, that too, only on the ground of it being legally entitled to benefit of a statute is totally unheard of. After all, the object of awarding costs is to indemnify a party against the expenses of the successful party incurred during the process of vindicating its rights before the Court.

17. In Vinod Seth vs. Devinder Bajaj, (2010) 8 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the following goals, which were intended to be achieved by imposing costs:

(a) expenditure incurred for the giving of any notice required to be given by law before the institution of the suit;

(b) expenditure incurred on any notice which, though not required to be given by law, has been given by any party to the suit to any other party before the institution of the suit;

(c) expenditure incurred on the typing, writing or printing of pleadings filed by any party;

(d) charges paid by a party for inspection of the records of the court for the purposes of the suit;

(e) expenditure incurred by a party for producing witnesses, even though not summoned through courts; and

(f) in the case of appeals, charges incurred by a party for obtaining any copies of judgments and decrees which are required to be filed along with the memorandum of appeal."

18. It is a trite if a person had not been brought within the ambit of charging section of a taxing statute by clear words; he could not be taxed at all, directly or indirectly. What the learned Tribunal in fact has done is virtually nullify the provisions of the statute by indirectly taxing the petitioner by imposing exorbitant costs of Rs. 20 lakhs.

19. It needs no emphasis that no person can be persecuted only for having resorted to a legal remedy, that too, which has ultimately concluded in his favour.

20. In view of the reasons stated hereinabove, we find merit in this petition and the same is allowed and order passed by the Tribunal on 18.9.2010 is quashed and set aside.

21. Normally, in such like cases, matter would be required to be remitted back to the Authority whose order has been set aside, however, in this case, there is no necessity of doing so for the simple reason that the State has not chosen to assail the order passed by the Tribunal whereby the orders passed by the Assessing Authority and thereafter Appellate Authority have been ordered to be set aside. It is only the petitioner, who is aggrieved by the impugned order and has approached this Court by filing the instant petition, whereas, the respondent has remained contended with the order passed by the Tribunal, and the same insofar as the State is concerned, has attained finality.

22. The petition is allowed in the aforesaid terms leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Decided on : 09.12.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal awarded compensation of Rs.86,000/- with interest – claimant had stated in the claim petition that he was sitting in the tractor as Labourer with the contractor but it was stated in the affidavit that the claimant was hit by the Tractor on the road – hence, the award set aside – however, Rs.25,000/- awarded under no fault liability.(Para-6 to 9)

For the Appellant : Ms. Shilpa Sood, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Soma Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Maan Singh, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award dated 20th August, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, District Solan, H.P., Camp at Nalagarh (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal') in Claim Petition No. 6NL/2 of 2008, titled as Nand Lal versus Nanak Chand & another,whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 86,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short, "the impugned award").

2. The claimant and insured-owner have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far the same relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the pleadings and proof on the file are at variance and the claim petition ought to have been dismissed. Further argued that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and the offending vehicle, i.e Tractor-Trolley bearing registration No. HP-12A-5274 was meant for agriculture purpose.

5. I have gone through the impugned award and the entire record.

6. In para-8 of the claim petition, claimant has specifically pleaded that he was sitting in the offending tractor as Labourer with the Contractor. But in his affidavit (Ext. PW-1/A) tendered before the Tribunal, he has stated that he was hit by the said tractor on the road, while he was working with the Contractor.

7. The factum of insurance and permanent disability suffered by the claimant is admitted, but the factum of accident is in dispute.

8. Having glance of the aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered view that it is a case of remand, but keeping all the facts in view, I deem it proper to award compensation to the tune of Rs. 25,000/- under the head 'no fault liability', as per the mandate of Section 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

9. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs. 25,000/- under the head 'no fault liability', with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

10. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in his account.

11 The excess amount, if any, be refunded in favour of the appellant-insurer through payees' account cheque.

12. Accordingly, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of.

13. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the file of the claim petition.

Mr. G.S. Rathore, Advocate, for respondent No. 2 in FAO No. 127 of 2013.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral).

These appeals are directed against the judgment and award dated 28.5.2012, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Shimla H.P. hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal", for short, in MAC No.53-S/2 of 2008, titled Inder Singh versus Sh. Navdeep Singh and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.53000/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum with cost assessed at Rs.5000/- came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and owner and driver were saddled with the liability, for short "the impugned award", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Both these appeals are outcome of a common award thus, I deem it proper to determine both these appeals by this common judgment.

3. Owner Navdeep Singh and driver Jagdish Kumar, by the medium of FAO No. 459 of 2012 has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling him with the liability and exonerating the insurer and claimant Inder Singh, by the medium of FAO No. 127 of 2013, has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation, on the grounds taken in their memo of appeals.

4. The factum of accident, rashness and negligence is not in dispute. Thus two points arise for determination in these appeals.

(i) Whether the Tribunal has rightly discharged the insurer from the liability?

(ii) Whether the amount awarded is adequate?

5. Both these points are to be answered against the insurer for the following reasons.

6. The driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence which was also renewed. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in making discussion in paras 25 and 26 of the impugned award. This Court has already determined the issue in FAO No.172 of 2006 decided on 7.3.2014 titled Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Shakuntla Devi and others.

7. Ext. RW1/A is driving licence, perusal of which does disclose that it was renewed on 13.6.2006 up to 11.6.2009 thus, was valid one.

8. Even otherwise, if a licence was not valid or was otherwise not effective, it was for the appellant-insurer to plead and prove that the driver was not having a valid licence and the owner has committed willful breach.

9. My this view is fortified by the Apex Court judgment in the case of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"105. .....

(i) .....

(ii) .....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

10. It is also profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 hereinbelow:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

11. Having said so, the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

12. The factum of insurance is admitted. Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

13. Accordingly, the appeal filed by the owner and driver being FAO No. 459 of 2012 is allowed and the impugned award is modified as indicated hereinabove.

FAO No. 127 of 2013.

14. Adverting to the appeal filed by the claimant, the amount though appears to be adequate and just but the Tribunal has fallen in an error in not awarding compensation for three months during which the claimant remained for bed rest. The income of the claimant has been assessed at Rs.3000/- per month by the Tribunal and thus is entitled to Rs.9000/- in addition to the amount already awarded. Thus, the claimant in all is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.53,000/-+Rs.9,000/-= Rs.62000/- alongwith costs of Rs.5000/-as awarded by the Tribunal.

15. Accordingly, the appeals are allowed, compensation is enhanced and impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

16. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today in the Registry alongwith interest as awarded by the Tribunal. The Registry, on deposit, is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account, or by depositing the same in his bank account, after proper verification.

17. The statutory amount of Rs.25,000/- stands deposited by the appellant-owner in the Registry. Out of Rs.25,000/- a sum of Rs.10,000/- is also awarded as costs in favour of the claimant, be released to the claimant as and rest of the amount be refunded to the appellant/owner.

18. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Cr.Revision No. 104 of 2013.
Reserved on: 24.11.2016.
Decided on : 09/12/2016.

Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881- Section 138- Accused issued two cheques of Rs.4 lacs and Rs.3 lacs for carrying out construction of a set on the slab purchased by the accused- cheques were dishonoured with the remarks 'insufficient funds' – the accused failed to make payment despite the receipt of the notice – the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held in revision that the complainant had not produced the earlier cheques issued by the accused and had not given their serial numbers- he had not produced the bills of the material used by him to complete the construction of the flat- statement of wife of the complainant also made the version of the complainant doubtful - revision allowed- judgments of the trial Court and Appellate Court set aside and the accused acquitted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act. (Para-9 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Varun Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Amrender Singh Rana, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

The accused revisionist stands concurrently convicted by both the learned Courts below for hers committing an offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, in sequel whereof a sentence of simple imprisonment of one year besides qua hers defraying compensation to the complainant in an amount of Rs.4,00,000/- stood imposed upon her. The accused standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded findings of conviction by both the Courts below has concerted through instituting the instant revision herebefore beget its reversal.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the accused executed cheque comprised in Ext.CW-1/B in favour of the complainant in the sum of Rs.4,00,000/-. The said cheque was drawn on the State Bank of India, Shimla. The accused executed and advanced the aforesaid cheque in favour of the complainant for carrying out the construction of a set on the slab purchased by the accused. The accused had also issued another cheque worth Rs.three lacs in favour of the complainant for the aforesaid purpose of construction to be carried out by the complainant. Both of these cheques got dishonoured and another complaint regarding the second cheque was also filed by the complainant. The cheque was drawn by the accused in favour of the complainant for discharge of the legally enforceable debt and liability outstanding against the accused in favour of the complainant. The cheque was dishonoured by the banker of the accused with the remarks of insufficient funds. The information of the dishonour of the cheque was given to the banker of the complainant by the banker of the accused and the complainant sent a notice of demand of the amount intimating the accused in the event of her failure to pay the cheque amount within 15 days of the receipt of the notice, legal action for her criminal prosecution under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act shall be taken by the complainant. The notice was received by the accused on 15.08.2007 but till date she failed to make the payment. Hence, this complaint.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for hers committing offences punishable under Sections 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act to which she pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the complainant examined 5 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which she pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. She herself appeared as witness in her defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, both the Courts below returned findings of conviction against the accused/petitioner herein.

6. The accused stands aggrieved by the judgement of conviction recorded by both the Courts below. The learned counsel for the petitioner/accused has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by both the Courts below standing not based on a proper appreciation by it of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction and being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned counsel for the complainant has with considerable force and vigour, contended that the findings of conviction, recorded by the Courts below, standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and hence theirs not necessitating interference rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Cheque comprised in Ext.CW-1/B stood issued by the convict/revisionist to the respondent/complainant. It holds therewithin an amount of Rs.4,00,000/-. On its presentation before the bank concerned whereupon it stood drawn it suffered the ill fate of its refusal qua encashment by the bank concerned, refusal whereof sprouted from non occurrence of sufficient funds thereat in the account of the convict/revisionist.

10. The mere factum of its issuance by the petitioner, though arouses a statutory presumption qua thereupon the petitioner/convict acquiescing qua its standing issued vis-à-vis the complainant in discharge of her apposite liability qua the complainant yet the aforesaid statutory presumption garnerable from the mere factum of its issuance is rebutable by cogent evidence in dislodgement thereof standing adduced by the petitioner/convict, holding unfoldments therein qua in the issuance of Ext.CW-1/B by the petitioner vis-à-vis the respondent/ complainant, she in the amount embodied therein not concerting to discharge any liability vis-à-vis the respondent complainant whereupon the respondent complainant would not be construable to its lawful drawee, contrarily the statutory presumption marshable from its issuance qua its thereupon begetting an inference qua its standing issued by the petitioner convict vis-à-vis the respondent complainant in discharge of her contractual liability qua its drawee would stand dislodged, corollary whereof would be the penal inculpability fastened upon the petitioner/convict arising from its on its presentation before the bank concerned its begetting the ill fate of its for lack of sufficient funds in the accounts of the convict suffering refusal qua its encashment, would stand negated.

11. The petitioner/convict had under a sale deed comprised in Ext.CX/II borne on the file Com.Case No. 169/3 of 2007 purchased properties as stand displayed therein from the wife of the complainant. In sequel to the registered deed of conveyance comprised in Ext.CX/II standing executed inter se the wife of the complainant with the petitioner herein, a civil suit embodied in Ext.DW-1/A stood subsequently instituted by the vendor of Ext.CX/II before the Civil Court concerned wherewithin a declaratory relief qua Ext.CX/II being quashed and set-aside stood ventilated. When the aforesaid factum stands conjunctively construed with the factum of the respondent complainant throughout in his complaint also in his testification espousing qua the RCC slab purchased thereunder by the petitioner convict from his wife standing completed by him under an agreement arrived at inter se him with the petitioner convict whereas the amount expended thereon by him remaining not fully liquidated by the petitioner convict, the latter in liquidation of her apposite contractual liability towards him thereupon issuing cheque Ext.CW-1/B qua him whereupon he espoused qua the issuance of cheque comprised in Ext.CW-1/B standing issued to him by the convict in discharge of her apposite liability aforesaid. In the aforesaid backdrop, the relevant best evidence is enjoined to emanate qua in the issuance of cheque Ext.CW-1/B by the petitioner/convict purportedly vis-à-vis the respondent complainant, its issuance standing generated by hers thereupon concerting to discharge her liability towards the wife of the complainant arising from hers purchasing property from the vendor of sale deed Ext.CX/II or evidence was enjoined to surface to succor the espousal of the respondent qua its standing issued by the petitioner/convict vis.a.vis him in discharge of her liability qua him arising from hers not liquidating qua him the entire expenditure incurred by him for completing the construction of a flat which hitherto stood purchased from his wife in an incomplete condition. Only an advertence to the apposite evidence qua the aforesaid factum would clinch the trite factum qua whether the respondent was a lawful drawee of Ext.CW-1/B also would clinch the factum qua the statutory presumption arousable from its mere issuance by the petitioner convict vis.a.vis. the respondent complainant qua hers thereupon acquiescing qua hers in issuing it hence assaying to liquidate her contractual liability vis.a.vis the respondent complainant, hence standing strengthened or standing dislodged.

12. The testification of the respondent complainant manifested in his cross-examination wherewithin he has made an assay to propagate therein qua previous to issuance of Ext.CW-1/B by the petitioner qua him the latter also issuing 5 to 6 cheques to him, cheques whereof stood encashed, some whereof being account payees whereas others being payee cheques yet he has been unable to adduce before the learned trial Magistrate the serial numbers borne by the cheques which previous to issuance of each stood issued by the petitioner accused to him, cheques whereof begot encashment. His omission to produce the details or serial number of cheques which stood previous to the issuance of each stood issued by the petitioner convict qua him, cheques whereof stood purportedly encashed begets a sequel of his smothering the best evidence for succoring his testification qua earlier to issuance of Ext.CW-1/B, the petitioner/convict also issuing cheques which stood purportedly encashed whereupon the inevitable inference warranting erection is qua his strategizing the factum of issuance of Ext.CW-1/B by the accused qua him arising from discharge of the afore-echoed purported contractual liability of the petitioner convict towards him. Furthermore, during the course of recording of his testification embodied in his cross-examination his not adducing before the learned Magistrate concerned the apposite bills personifying the material purchased by him to complete the construction of the incomplete flat purchased from his wife by the petitioner convict, is a vivid display of his in the garb of holding cheque bearing Ext.CW-1/B contriving the factum of its issuance spurring from the petitioner convict thereupon concerting to liquidate her liability towards him arising from his completing the construction of an incomplete RCC slab purchased by her from his wife. Now, hereat with the wife of the complainant who alienated RCC slab qua the petitioner convict under Ext.CX-II, subsequently thereto instituting a suit before the civil Court concerned wherein she made a prayer for quashing of sale deed embodied in Ext.CX-II also assumes significance whereform an inference stands aroused qua the issuance of cheques comprised in Ext.CW-1/B spurring from the petitioner convict thereby discharging or liquidating her liability towards the wife of the complainant qua the sale consideration of the property which she purchased from the vendor of Ext.C-2 whereupon it would be inapt to conclude qua in its issuance the petitioner convict concerting to discharge her liability qua the respondent complainant arising from his purportedly completing construction of an incomplete slab purchased by her from his wife. It also appears from a perusal of Ext.D-2 existing on file of Com.Case No. 169/3 of 2007 qua the entire financial liability arising from sale of property by the wife of the respondent complainant to the petitioner convict standing discharged. The date whereon the relevant discharge occurred stands displayed therein to be 11.4.2007 whereas Ext. CW-1/B stood issued in close proximity thereof on15.7.2007. Though Ext.D-2 is a photocopy yet the signature of the respondent complainant occur therein also the signatures of his wife occur therein besides when on the document aforesaid making the aforesaid disclosures standing tendered into evidence its exhibition remaining un-protested by the respondent complainant also the respondent complainant not disputing the occurrence of his signatures thereon nor is disputing the occurrence of signatures of his wife thereon wherefrom it is to be concluded qua the manifestations held therein holding probative sinew. It appears qua in the issuance of Ext.CW-1/B by the petitioner convict especially when it bears a date holding close proximity, to Ext.D-2 it not standing issued in discharge of any purported contractual liability of the petitioner/convict qua the respondent/complainant. The aforesaid inference garners immense formidability from a statement recorded by the wife of the complainant in Civil Suit Ext.DW-1/A existing on file Com.Case No. 169/3 of 2007 wherein in her cross-examination to which she stood subjected to by the learned counsel for the convict she despite stating in her pleadings qua an incomplete slab standing purchased by the petitioner from her she yet feigning ignorance qua the person who completed its construction wherefrom the espousal of the respondent complainant qua his completing construction of the incomplete RCC slab purchased by the petitioner convict from his wife gets fully blunted, conspicuously also when the property purchased by the accused from the vendor of sale deed embodied in Ext.CX/2 exists in the same building the apposite portion whereof is in the occupation of the wife of the complainant.In aftermath, when the testification of the respondent complainant occurring in his cross-examination wherewithin he has omitted to portray the best evidence comprised in bills/receipts displaying the expenditure incurred by him for completing the construction of the incomplete RCC slab purchased by the petitioner from his wife, for his thereupon sustaining his espousal qua the petitioner convict not defraying to him the expenditure incurred thereon non adduction whereof when stands coagulated with an inference standing erected by this Court on a reading of the testification of his wife occurring in her cross-examination, ensuing sequel therefrom is qua in his holding Ext.CW-1/B his being not its lawful drawee nor also it can be concluded qua in its issuance the petitioner convict acquiescing qua hers thereupon concerting to liquidate her liability vis.a.vis. the respondent complainant. In aftermath, the respondent complainant does not become a lawful drawee of Ext.CW-1/B nor also on its standing dishonoured any penal inculpability stands attracted qua her, contrarily the statutory presumption arousable from its issuance qua thereupon the petitioner convict acquiescing qua hers concerting to liquidate her contractual liability qua the respondent/complainant, stands wholly effaced.

13. In view of the above, I find merit in this revision, which is accordingly allowed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is set-aside. Fine amount be refunded to the petitioner. Personal and surety bonds stand cancelled and discharged. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

All these appeals are outcome of a motor vehicular accident, thus are being clubbled and disposed of by this common judgment and order.

2. 30 claim petitions were filed before various Motor Accident Claims Tribunals, for short 'the Tribunals' and separate awards came to be passed, whereby compensation was granted to the claimants and insurer came to be saddled with liability.

3. The owner and driver have not questioned the impugned awards on any count, thus, all the impugned awards have attained finality, so far the same relate to them.

4. The insurer has questioned the impugned awards on the grounds taken in the memo of appeals.

5. Some of the claimants, by the medium of FAO No. 4119 of 2013, Cross-Objections No. 183 of 2013 in FAO No. 493 of 2012, Cross Objections No. 4001 of 2013 in FAO No. 115 of 2013 and Cross Objections No. 29 of 2014 in FAO No. 67 of 2014, have sought enhancement of the compensation.

6. Three questions arise for determination in these appeals:

(i) Whether the Tribunals have rightly held that Driver Sunil Kumar was driving the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, at the time of accident?

(ii) Whether the risk was covered?

(iii) Whether the amount awarded is adequate?.

7. All the claimants in their claim petitions have pleaded and proved that driver-Sunil Kumar was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident.

8. The Tribunals after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that driver-Sunil Kumar has caused the accident, while driving the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently.

9. On the last date of hearing, learned Counsel for the insurer stated that one Rajesh Kumar was convicted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lahaul-Spiti at Kullu, H.P., vide judgment dated 30.12.2014, passed in Criminal Case No. 17-1/2007, whereby it was held that Rajesh Kumar was driving the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, at the relevant time. He has produced photocopy of the said judgment, made part of the file.

10. Learned Counsel for the owner and driver stated that the aforesaid judgment was set aside by the Additional Sessions Judge, Kullu, vide judgment dated 05.10.2016, passed in Criminal Appeal No. 9 of 2015, whereby Rajesh Kumar was acquitted and it was held that Sunil Kumar had driven the offending vehicle at the time of accident. He has also produced photocopy of the said judgment, made part of the file.

11. I have gone through both the aforesaid judgments. Learned Additional Sessions Judge in the judgment dated 05.10.2016, passed in Criminal Appeal No. 9 of 2015, has held that Sunil Kumar was driving the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time. It is apt to reproduce 32 of the aforesaid judgment herein:-

> "32. From the perusal of statement of PW-28, Dr. Paljore that in the prescription slip the name of driver of the bus in question was written as Sunil Kumar and the same was written after due inquiry since he was the driver of the vehicle in question and was mentioned in the MLC by the doctor.

12. Learned Counsel for the insurer was asked whether any appeal has been filed against the judgment passed in Criminal Appeal No. 9 of 2015, supra? He answered the said question in negative.

13. The Tribunals have rightly made the discussion and returned the findings in all the impugned awards that Sunil Kumar had driven the offending vehicle, rashly and negligently, are accordingly upheld.

14. Admittedly, the seating capacity of the offending vehicle is 42 and 30 claim petitions have been filed. Thus, the risk of all the claimants was covered.

15. It is beaten law of land that the insurer has to satisfy the award to the extent of the risk covered and if the claim petitions are more than the risk covered, then it is for the insured-owner to satisfy the same.

16. My this view is fortified by the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as United India Insurance Company Limited versus K.M. Poonam & others, reported in 2011 ACJ 917. It is apt to reproduce para 24 of the judgment herein:

> "24. The liability of the insurer, therefore, is confined to the number of persons covered by the insurance policy and not beyond the same. In other words, as in the present case, since the insurance policy of the owner of the vehicle covered six occupants of the vehicle in question, including the driver, the liability of the insurer would be confined to six persons only, notwithstanding the larger number of persons carried in the vehicle. Such excess number of persons would have to be treated as third parties, but since no premium had been paid in the policy for them, the insurer would not be liable to make payment of the compensation amount as far as they are concerned. However, the liability of the Insurance Company to make payment even in respect of persons not covered by the insurance policy continues under the provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 149 of the Act, as it would be entitled to recover the same if it could prove that one of the conditions of the policy had been breached by the owner of the vehicle. In the instant case, any of the persons travelling in the vehicle in excess of the permitted number of six passengers, though entitled to be compensated by the owner of the vehicle, would still be entitled to receive the compensation amount from the insurer, who could then recover it from the insured owner of the vehicle."

17. It is also apt to reproduce para 15 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as National Insurance Company Limited versus Anjana Shyam & others, reported in 2007 AIR SCW 5237, herein:

"15. In spite of the relevant provisions of the statute, insurance still remains a contract between the owner and the insurer and the parties are governed by the terms of their contract. The statute has made insurance obligatory in public interest and by way of social security and it has also provided that the insurer would be obliged to fulfil his obligations as imposed by the contract and as overseen by the statute notwithstanding any claim he may have against the other contracting party, the owner, and meet the claims of third parties subject to the exceptions provided in Section 149(2) of the Act. But that does not mean that an insurer is bound to pay amounts outside the contract of insurance itself or in respect of persons not covered by the contract at all. In other words, the insured is covered only to the extent of the passengers permitted to be insured or directed to be insured by the statute and actually covered by the contract. The High Court has considered only the aspect whether by overloading the vehicle, the owner had put the vehicle to a use not allowed by the permit under which the vehicle is used. This aspect is different from the aspect of determining the extent of the liability of the insurance company in respect of the passengers of a stage carriage insured in terms of Section 147(1)(b)(ii) of the Act. We are of the view that the insurance company can be made liable only in respect of the number of passengers for whom insurance can be taken under the Act and for whom insurance has been taken as a fact and not in respect of the other passengers involved in the accident in a case of overloading."

18. This Court in batches of appeals, FAO No. 257 of 2006, titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Sumna @ Sharda & others, being the lead case, decided on 10.04.2015, and FAO No. 224 of 2008, titled as Hem Ram & another versus Krishan Chand & another, being the lead case, decided on 29.05.2015, has laid down the same principle.

19. By the medium of FAO No. 4119 of 2013, the claimants have questioned the award passed in M.A.C Petition No. 32 of 2008, titled as Fata Chand & others versus Shri Gauri Dutt & others,whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 3,99,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants on the ground of adequacy of compensation and sought for enhancement of compensation.

20. Cross-Objections No. 183 of 2013 in FAO No. 493 of 2012, Cross Objections No. 4001 of 2013 in FAO No. 115 of 2013 and Cross Objections No. 29 of 2014 in FAO No. 67 of 2014, have also been filed for enhancement of compensation.

21. In Claim Petition No. 58 of 2008, titled as Shri Ved Prabhat versus Shri Gauri Dutt & others, subject mater of FAO 493 of 2012, the claimants have been granted compensation to the tune of Rs. 15,62,022/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

22. In Claim Petition No. 43 of 2008, titled as Shri Jagdish Chand versus Shri Gauri Dutt & others, subject mater of FAO 115 of 2015, the claimants have been granted compensation to the tune of Rs. 5,15,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

23. In Claim Petition No. 40 of 2011/2007, titled as Jhalu Devi & another versus Gauri Dutt & others, subject mater of FAO 67 of 2014, the claimants have been granted compensation to the tune of Rs. 4,52,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition.

24. I have gone through the record and the impugned awards and am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly made the assessment and it cannot be said that the compensation is excessive or meager, in any way. Accordingly, it is held that the just and appropriate compensation has been granted by the Tribunals in the aforesaid claim petitions.

25. Having glance of the above discussions, all the appeals and the cross-objections are dismissed and the impugned awards are upheld.

26. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the respective impugned awards through payees' cheque amount or by depositing the same in their respective accounts.

27. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on each of the Tribunal's files.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Oriental Insurance Company Limited ...Appellant.
Versus
Smt. Krishna Kumari and others ...Respondents.

FAO No. 384 of 2012
Reserved on: 02.12.2016
Decided on: 09.12.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 173- Insurer had not sought permission under Section 170 and it cannot question the award on the ground of adequacy of compensation- however, the Appellate Court can pass an order, which should have been passed by the Tribunal, even without any appeal/cross-objections- the age of the deceased was 47 years at the time of accident- monthly income of the deceased was Rs.31,510/- as per the salary certificate – after deducting the contribution towards income tax the annual income of the deceased is Rs.3,50,000/- - claimants are seven in numbers and 1/5th amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses – thus, the claimants have lost Rs.2,80,000/- towards source of income – multiplier of 11 is applicable and claimants have lost Rs.2,80,000 x 11= Rs.30,80,000/- towards the source of the income- compensation of Rs.20,000/- awarded under the heads funeral expenses, loss of love and affection and loss of consortium - the claimants are entitled to the compensation of Rs.30,80,000 + 20,000= Rs.31,00,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum.(Para-22 to 54)

Mr. Vinod Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 29th May, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba Division, Chamba (HP) (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. Petition No. 16 of 2011, titled as Krishna Kumari and others versus Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 34,00,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the facts of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

3. The claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 40,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition on the ground that they became the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by the motorcyclist, namely Shri Subhash Kumar, on 29th May, 2011, at about 1.30 P.M., at place Rath near Ballu, Tehsil and District Chamba, while riding motorcycle No. HP-48-6520, in a rash and negligent manner, in which deceased-Bensu Ram, who was the pillion rider, sustained injuries and succumbed to the said injuries.

4. The respondents in the claim petition resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 20th October, 2011:

> "1. Whether deceased Bensu Ram died because of rash or negligent driving of vehicle bearing registration No. HP-48-6520 by respondent No. 3 Subhash Kumar on 29th May, 2011 at place Rath as alleged? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled to compensation. If so, how much and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR
> 4. Whether the driver of the vehicle in question was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question, if so, its effect? OPR-1
> 5. Whether the vehicle in question was being driven against the terms and conditions of Insurance Policy, if so, its effect? OPR-1
> 6. Relief."

6. In support of their claim, the claimants examined Dr. Dushyant Thakur as PW-1, MHC Pawan Kumar as PW-2, Sh. Somesh Kumar as PW-3, Shri Khem Raj as PW-5 and one of the claimants, namely Smt. Krishna Kumari, stepped into the witness box as PW-4. The motorcyclist has examined HC Ashok Kumar as RW-1. The owner-insured and the insurer of the offending vehicle have not led any evidence.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, awarded compensation to the tune of ₹ 34,00,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization in favour of the claimants and saddled the insurer with liability in terms of the impugned award.

8. The claimants, motorcyclist and owner-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

9. The appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

10. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-insurer argued that the accident had not occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the motorcyclist, was due to falling of the stones from hillside, thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling the insurer with liability.

11. The argument of the learned Senior Counsel is not tenable for the reasons to be recorded hereinafter.

Issue No. 1:

12. The claimants have specifically pleaded in para 24 of the claim petition that the motorcyclist was driving the offending vehicle in a rash and negligent manner, could not keep control over the vehicle while negotiating the curve due to which the vehicle skidded and deceased-Bensu Ram was thrown into River Ravi.

13. The owner-insured of the offending vehicle has evasively denied the averments contained in para 24 of the claim petition. But, the motorcyclist, while filing reply to para 24 of the claim petition, has admitted the factum of the accident and has averred that he was not driving the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner.

14. It is apt to reproduce para 24 of the reply filed by the motorcyclist, i.e. respondent No. 3 in the claim petition, herein:

> "24. That para No. 24 of the petition is incorrect hence denied. It is incorrect that driver was driving the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner. It is submitted that driver of the vehicle was driving the vehicle very cautiously and in a safe manner and all of sudden stones fell from uphill which hit the deceased and as a result of which deceased fell in the Ravi River."

15. The owner-insured of the offending vehicle has not led any evidence. The motorcyclist has denied the rash and negligent driving on his part and has examined HC Ashok Kumar as RW-1, to prove the said factum. He himself has not stepped into the witness box to prove the said factum, thus, adverse inference has to be drawn against him. Viewed thus, the Tribunal, while deciding issue No. 1, has rightly held that the motorcyclist was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently at the relevant point of time and caused the accident in which deceased-Bensu Ram lost his life.

16. It was for the motorcyclist to question the said findings, has not questioned the same, meaning thereby, has accepted the findings returned by the Tribunal. Thus, it cannot lie in the mouth of the insurer that the accident was not outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by the motorcyclist.

17. Even otherwise, the factum of accident is not in dispute. It was for the motorcyclist to take all precautions and exercise due care and caution while riding the offending vehicle, which he has not done. FIR was also lodged against the motorcyclist. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 19 to 21 of the impugned award, need no interference. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

18. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 to 5.

Issue No. 3:

19. It was for the respondents to prove how the claim petition was not maintainable, have not led any evidence to this effect, thus, have failed to discharge the onus. Even otherwise, the claimants are the victims of the vehicular accident in which they lost their sole bread earner, thus, were well within their rights to maintain the claim petition and the claim petition was maintainable. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issues No. 4 and 5:

20. It was for the insurer to prove that the motorcyclist was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the offending vehicle and the same was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus.

21. However, I have gone through the record. The driving licence of the motorcyclist is on the record as Ext. R-3, the perusal of which does disclose that the motorcyclist was having a valid and effective driving licence. The factum of insurance is not in dispute. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly decided issues No. 4 and 5 against the insurer. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 4 and 5 are upheld.

Issue No. 2:

22. Admittedly, the insurer has not sought permission in terms of Section 170 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act"), thus, is precluded from questioning the adequacy of the compensation.

23. I deem it proper to record herein that the appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act is alike the appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short, "CPC"). Therefore, the Court is under obligation to decide all issues arising in a case both on facts and law after appreciating the entire evidence.

24. The Apex Court in U.P.S.R.T.C. vs. Km. Mamta and others, reported in AIR 2016 Supreme Court 948, held that Section 173 of the MV Act and the first appeal under Section 96 CPC are alike and, therefore, the High Court is equally under legal obligation to decide all issues arising in the case. It is profitable to reproduce paragraph 24 of the said judgment hereunder:

> "24. An appeal under Section 173 of the M.V.Act is essentially in the nature of first appeal alike Section 96 of the Code and, therefore, the High Court is equally under legal obligation to decide all issues arising in the case both on facts and law after appreciating the entire evidence."

25. It is apt to record herein that Part VII of the CPC provides for filing of appeals arising out of decrees and orders. Section 96 CPC provides for appeals from original decree. It is apt to reproduce Section 96 CPC hereunder:

> "96. Appeal from original decree. - 1) Save where otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie from every decree passed by any Court exercising original jurisdiction the Court authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of such Court.
> (2) An appeal may lie from an original decree passed ex parte.
> (3) No appeal shall lie from a decree passed by the Court with the consent of parties.
> (4) No appeal shall lie, except on a question of law, from a decree in any suit of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Cause, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed three thousand rupees."

26. Section 107 CPC deals with the "Powers of the Appellate Court" and sub-section (2) thereof, provides specifically that the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed on the trial Court. It is apt to reproduce Section 107(2) CPC as under:

> "107. Powers of appellate court.-
> (1) .....
> (2) Subject as aforesaid, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein."

27. Section 176 of the MV Act empowers the State Government to make rules for the purpose of implementing the provisions contained in Sections 165 to 174 of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce Section 176 of the Act, hereunder:

> "176. Power of State Government to make rules.
> A State Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of sections 165 to 174, and in particular, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:--
> a) The form of application for claims for compensation and the particulars it may contain, and the fees, if any, to be paid in respect of such applications;
>
> b) The procedure to be followed by a Claims Tribunal in holding an inquiry under this Chapter;
>
> c) The powers vested in a Civil Court which may be exercised by a Claims Tribunal;
>
> d) The form and the manner in which and the fees (if any) on payment of which an appeal may be preferred against an award of a Claims Tribunal; and
> e) Any other matter which is to be, or may be, prescribed."

28. In terms of the mandate of Section 176(c) of the MV Act, the Claims Tribunals are vested with the powers of Civil Court.

29. In a Claim Petition, summary procedure is to be adopted and all provisions of Civil Procedure Code are not applicable, rather only some provisions have been made applicable in terms of Section 169 of the MV Act read with Rule 232 of the Himachal Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 1999 (for short "MV Rules"). It is apt to reproduce Rule 232 of the MV Rules herein:

> *"232. The Code of Civil Procedure to apply in certain cases:-
> The following provisions of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall so far as may be, apply to proceedings before the Claims Tribunal, namely, Order V, Rules 9 to 13 and 15 to 30; Order IX; Order XIII; Rule 3 to 10; Order XVI, Rules 2 to 21; Order XVII; Order XXI and Order XXIII, Rules 1 to 3."

30. Now, the question is - whether the Appellate Court while hearing an appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act can pass such an order which ought to have been passed by the Tribunal, without there being any appeal/challenge or cross objections from the person against whom the order has been made? The answer is in the affirmative for the reasons given hereinabove read with the mandate of law laid down by the Apex Court and the High Courts.

31. Part VII and Order 41 CPC deals with the powers and the scope of the Appellate Court in appeal proceedings.

32. The Apex Court in Sharanamma and others vs. Managing Director, Divisional Contr., North-East Karnataka Road Transport Corporation, reported in (2013) 11 SCC 517, has held that there are no fetters on the powers of the appellate Court to consider the entire case on facts and law, while hearing an appeal under Section 173 of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 10, 11 and 12 of the said decision hereunder:

"10. When an Appeal is filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 (hereinafter shall be referred to as the 'Act'), before the High Court, the normal Rules which apply to Appeals before the High Court are applicable to such an Appeal also. Even otherwise, it is well settled position of law that when an Appeal is provided for, the whole case is open before the Appellate Court and by necessary implication, it can exercise all powers incidental thereto in order to exercise that power effectively. A bare reading of Section 173 of the Act also reflects that there is no curtailment or limitations on the powers of the Appellate Court to consider the entire case on facts and law.

11. It is well settled that the right of Appeal is a substantive right and the questions of fact and law are at large and are open to Review by the Appellate Court. Thus, such powers and duties are necessarily to be exercised so as to make the provision of law effective.

12. Generally, finding of fact recorded by Tribunal should not be interfered with in an Appeal until and unless it is proved that glaring discrepancy or mistake has taken place. If the assessment of compensation by the Tribunal was fair and reasonable and the award of the Tribunal was neither contrary nor inconsistent with the relevant facts as per the evidence available on record then as mentioned hereinabove, the High Court would not interfere in the Appeal. In the case in hand, nothing could be pointed out to us as to what were the glaring discrepancies or mistakes in the impugned Award of the Tribunal, which necessitated the Appellate Court to take a different view in the matter."

33. The Apex Court in the case titled as Giani Ram vs. Ramjilal, reported in 1969 (1) SCC 813, held that Order 41 Rule 33 CPC empowers the appellate Court to pass any decree which justice may require. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 8 and 9 of the judgment herein:

"8. Order 41, Rule 33 of the CPC was enacted to meet a situation of the nature arising in this case. In so far as it is material, the rule provides:

"The Appellate Court shall have power to pass any decree and make any order which ought to have been passed or made and to pass or make such further or other decree or order as the case may require, and this power may be exercised by the Court notwithstanding that the appeal is as to part only of the decree and may be exercised in favour of all or any of the respondents or parties, although such respondents or parties may not have filed any appeal or objection.

The expression "which ought to have been passed" means "which ought in law to have been passed". If the Appellate Court is of the view that any decree which ought in law to have been passed, but was in fact not passed by the subordinate court, it may pass or make such further or other decree or order as the justice of the case may require.

9. If the claim of the respondents to retain any part of the property after the death of Jwala is negatived, it would, be perpetrating gave injustice to deny to the widow and the two daughters their share in the property to which they are in law entitled. In our view, the case was one in which the power under Order 41, Rule 33, CPC ought to have been exercised and the claim not only of the three sons but also of the widow and the two daughters ought to have been decreed."

34. The Apex Court inthe cases titled as Narayanarao (dead) through LRs and others vs. Sudarshan, reported in 1995 Supp.(4) SCC 463; Mahant Dhangir and another vs. Madan Mohan and others, reported in 1987 (Supp.) SCC 528, and T.N. Rajasekar vs. N. Kasiviswanathan and others, reported in AIR 2005 SC 3794 held that the High Court, in order to do complete justice to the parties, can invoke the powers under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC and pass orders accordingly.

35. The Apex Court in another case titled as Delhi Electric Supply Undertaking vs. Basanti Devi and another, reported in JT 1999 (7) SC 486, while relying upon its earlier decision in Mahant Dhangir (supra), held in paragraph 19 as under:

> "19. Conditions as laid in provision of Order 41, Rule 33 are satisfied in the present case. When circumstances exist which necessitate the exercise of discretion conferred by Rule 33, the Court cannot be found wanting when it comes to exercise its powers."

36. This Court in H.P. Road Transport Corporation vs. Pt. Jai Ram and etc. etc., reported in AIR 1980 Himachal Pradesh 16, held that under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC, wide powers have been given to the appellate Court and once it is seized of a matter in its appellate jurisdiction, it is within its power to do complete justice between all the concerned parties. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of paras 39 and para 40 of the judgment herein:

> "39. .....Moreover, theme of Order 41 and especially the wide powers given to the Court under Rule 33 of Order 41 suggests that the intention of the Legislature is to see that 'once the Court is seized of a matter in its appellate jurisdiction, it is able to do complete justice between all the concerned parties. To us, therefore, it is very clear that the provision enabling a respondent to file cross-objections made in Rule 22 is a procedural provision under which even if a respondent has not preferred any appeal, the Court is enabled to do complete justice to the parties by allowing the respondent concerned to prefer cross-objections within the period of limitation. Under these circumstances, with great respect to the learned Judges of the Allahabad High Court, we find ourselves unable to accept their view that provision enabling a respondent to file cross-objections is a substantive provision and not a procedural one.
> 40. In view of our finding that provision for filing cross-objections contemplated by Order 41, Rule 22 is a procedural provision, the ratio of the above referred two decisions of the Supreme Court would at once be attracted, and this Court being seized of an appellate jurisdiction conferred by Section 110-D of the Motor Vehicles Act, It has to exercise that jurisdiction in the same manner in which it exercises its other appellate jurisdiction allowing the respondents in such appeals to prefer cross-objections."

37. Keeping in view the ratio of the judgment supra, it can safely be held that the appellate Court is competent to pass any order in the interest of justice.

38. The High Court of Rajasthan, while dilating upon the powers of the Appellate Court under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC, in the case titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Dama Ram and others, reported in 1994 ACJ 692, held that the appellate Court can rectify the error invoking Order 41 Rule 33 CPC even in the absence of Cross Objections or appeal by the claimants. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 7 of the said decision hereunder:

> "7. The Tribunal has not passed award in any case against the owner (insured) of the vehicle. It has passed awards against the appellant insurance company only. It is not in dispute that the Tribunal has categorically held that the said accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the truck by its driver. As such his employer, namely, Mohd. Rafiq, owner of the said truck, was liable for his negligent act. Thus the Tribunal committed a serious error in not making liable the owner and driver of the offending truck to pay the said amounts of compensation. This error can well be corrected by this court by invoking the provisions of Order 41, Rule 33, Civil Procedure Code, even if no cross-objection or appeal has been filed by the claimants-respondents. It has been observed in Kok Singh v. Deokabai AIR 1976 SC 634, paras 6 and 7, as follows:
> > (6) In Giani Ram v. Ramji Lal AIR 1969 SC 1144, the court said that in Order 41, Rule 33, the expression 'which ought to have been passed' means 'what ought in law to have been passed' and if an appellate court is of the view that any decree which ought in law to have been passed was in fact not passed by the court below, it may pass or make such further or other decree or order as the justice of the case may require.

(7) Therefore, we hold that even if the respondent did not file any appeal from the decree of the trial court, that was no bar to the High Court passing a decree in favour of the respondent for the enforcement of the charge. Reference of Murari Lal v. Gomati Devi 1986 ACJ 316 (Rajasthan), may also be made here. Similar view has been taken by me while deciding United India Ins. Co. Ltd. v. Dhali 1992 ACJ 1057 (Rajasthan)."

39. The High Court of Orissa at Cuttack in the case titled as M. Adu Ama vs. Inja Bangaru Raja and another, reported in 1995 ACJ 670, has laid down the same principle of law.

40. This High Court in Himachal Road Transport Corporation vs. Saroj Devi and others, reported in 2002 ACJ 1146, held that appellate Court is not precluded from passing order which it considers just in the facts of the case, without there being any cross objection or cross appeal. It is profitable to reproduce paragraph 15 of the said decision hereunder:

"15. Keeping in view the aforesaid decisions of Supreme Court and different High Courts including this Court , we feel that there being no prohibition in law, i.e., either under Motor Vehicles Act or under the provisions of Civil Procedure Code, this Court is not precluded from passing order which it considers just in the circumstances of a case without there being either cross-objection or cross-appeal. As such we are further of the view that Order 41, Rule 33 is fully applicable to the appeals under the Motor Vehicles Act."

41. In the case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Mast Ram and others, reported in 2004 ACJ 1039, the question arose before this High Court was – whether the appellate Court can modify the award in the absence of cross-appeal. This High Court answered in the affirmative. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 13 of the said judgment hereunder:

"13. Because of what has been held in this judgment, it is felt necessary to exercise power vested in this court under Order 41, Rule 33 of the Civil Procedure Code to set aside the findings in the operative portion of the award requiring the appellant to pay the amount and then to recover it from the 'insurer' (it should have been 'insured'?). This is a direction in the impugned award that needs to be set aside. On this aspect, Mr. Sharma had argued that there is no cross-appeal by the owner of the vehicle. To meet such a situation, legislature had enacted Order 41, Rule 33 in the Civil Procedure Code even in cases where an appeal is not filed by a party, like the owner in the present appeal. As such, this plea cannot be accepted."

42. This High Court in another case titled as LAC Solan and another vs. Bhoop Ram, reported in 1997(2) Sim.L.C. 229, modified the awards in exercise of powers under Order 41 Rule 33 CPC.

43. Faced with the similar situation, the Jammu and Kashmir High Court, in a case titled as State Bank of India vs. M/s Sharma Provision Store and another, reported in AIR 1999 J&K 128, held that a High Court can pass a decree which ought to have been passed by the trial Court. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of paragraph 7 of the said decision hereunder:

"7. .....This is an exceptional situation which authorises this Court in the present appeal to pass such decree as ought to have been passed or as the nature of the case demands. Similarly discretion vested in this Court under the aforesaid provision of law will not be refused to be exercised simply because respondents have not either filed an appeal or cross-objections."

44. This Court in FAO No.203 of 2010, titled as Nati Devi and another versus Maya Devi and others, decided on 20th May, 2016, FAO No. 448 of 2011, titled as Sarita Devi & others versus Ashok Kumar Nagar & others, decided on 17th June, 2016, and FAO (MVA) No. 599 of 2008, titled as Shri Raj Pal Yadav and another versus Smt. Jamna Devi and another, decided on 24th June, 2016,has taken the similar view.

45. Thus, it can easily be deduced that the mandate of Section 96, Section 107(2) and order 41 Rule 33 CPC is just to rectify the errors and achieve the aim and object of the legislation. The purpose of Order 41 CPC, as discussed hereinabove, is to enable the appellate Court to do complete justice between the parties and to pass order which ought to have been passed while keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case.

46. Admittedly, the age of the deceased was 47 years at the time of the accident. The monthly income of the deceased assessed by the Tribunal at ₹ 31,510/-, as per the salary certificate, Ext. PW-3/A, is also not in dispute. After making deductions towards the income tax, the Tribunal has rightly assessed the annual income of the deceased to be ₹ 3,50,000/-.

47. The claimants are seven in number. Thus, the Tribunal has also fallen in an error in deducting one-fourth towards the personal expenses of the deceased, one-fifth was to be deducted in terms of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120,. Thus, the claimants have lost source of income to the tune of ₹ 2,80,000/- per annum.

48. The Tribunal has wrongly applied the multiplier of '13'. In view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma's case and Reshma Kumari's case (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, multiplier of '11' is just and proper.

49. Viewed thus, it is held that the claimants have lost source of income/dependency to the tune of ₹ 2,80,000/- x 11 = ₹ 30,80,000/-.

50. The amount of compensation to the tune of ₹ 20,000/- awarded under other heads, i.e. 'funeral expenses', 'loss of love and affection' and 'loss of consortium' is maintained.

51. Having said so, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 30,80,000/- + ₹ 20,000/- = ₹ 31,00,000/- with interest as awarded by the Tribunal.

52. The factum of insurance is admitted, thus, the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with liability.

53. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove, and the appeal is disposed of.

54. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts after proper identification.

55. Excess amount, if any, be refunded to the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

56. Send down the record after placing copy of thejudgment on the Tribunal's file.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Punnu Ram & ors. .....Appellants.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh. .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 69 of 2007
Date of decision:December 9, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 353 and 333 read with Section 34- Accused assaulted and used criminal force to deter the informant posted as AddaIncharge, HRTC from discharging his duties - they were convicted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that the genesis of the occurrence is change of route of bus- it can be believed that accused being Pardhan of Gram Panchayat may have questioned working of HRTC functionary – the accused P had also sustained injuries- the possibility of informant and other staff members being assailants cannot be ruled out- there is contradiction regarding the name of accused who inflicted injuries – the witnesses had contradicted themselves regarding other aspects of prosecution case – appeal allowed and accused acquitted.(Para-8 to 13)

For the appellants Mr. Rajendra Kishore Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Anita Parmar, Advocate.

For the respondent Mr.Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Appellants herein are accused in a case registered against them in Police Station, Chamba vide FIR No. 333 of 2002, under Sections 353 and 333 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code with the allegations that on 19.12.2002 around 3:30 P.M. at Chamba Bus Stand they in furtherance of their common intention assaulted and used criminal force to deter the complainant Krishan Chand (PW10), the then Adda Incharge HRTC Region Chamba, a public servant from discharging his duty as such public servant. They allegedly caused grievous hurt to said Shri Krishan Chand.

2. Learned Sessions Judge, Chamba has tried the appellants and convicted them under Section 353 and 333 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. They all have been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year and pay Rs. 5000/- each as fine under Section 353 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, whereas to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and to pay Rs. 10,000/- each as fine under section 333 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code.

3. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds, inter-alia, that irrespective of no case for the commission of the alleged offence is made out against either of the convicts they have erroneously been convicted. The contradictions in the prosecution evidence which materially affects its case have been wrongly ignored. The testimony of PW2 Jaiwant Ram that the injury in the hand was caused to the complainant by convict Raj Kumar, whereas as per that of the complainant by convict Punnu Ram, however, such contradictions have not been taken into consideration in its right perspective. The contradictions in the statements of PW2 and complainant i.e. as per the version of PW2 convict Punnu Ram who had made the utterances that "BUS ADDA INCHARGE USKE JUTE KE BRABAR NAHI HAIN" whereas as per that of the complainant "YOU ARE EQUAL TO MY SHOE" have also not been considered by learned trial Judge. It has also been pointed out that the statement of PW2 Jaiwant Ram was not recorded on the day of occurrence rather on the next day. The testimony of PW12 Daulat Ram, the Investigating Officer, however, reveals that the statement of the said witness was recorded on the same day. Therefore, this aspect of the prosecution case is also contradictory in nature.

4. According to PW2, he was conductor on duty with the bus enroute Chamba to Gagla, however, as per the version of PW10 the complainant it is one Bhupinder who was the conductor of the bus bound for Gagla from Chamba. As per the testimony of PW2 convict Punnu Ram, had caught hold the complainant from his shirt, however, the complainant has not said so while in the witness box as PW10. While as per the testimony of the complainant, the scuffle continued for about 5-6 minutes, whereas as per the version of PW2 for about ten minutes. According to PW1 Surinder Kumar he asked Shiv Kumar Conductor to inform the police, however, the complainant while in the witness box has stated that it is Surinder Kumar who was asked to do so. PW8 Dr. Vinod Sharma being a resident of Bharmour, the native place of PW10 was also interested witness. Therefore, according to the appellants/convicts his testimony could have not been relied upon. Being so, the findings are stated to be recorded on the basis of the evidence highly contradictory in nature and as such the impugned judgment has been sought to be quashed and set aside.

5. Mr. Rajender Kishore Sharma, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Anita Parmar, Advocate has argued that nothing of the sort as alleged by the prosecution happened on the spot. According to Mr. Sharma, convict Punnu Ram the Pradhan of Gram Pachayat at the relevant time simply asked the complainant Krishan Chand as to how the route of a bus bound to a particular place could have been changed like this. Neither the said accused nor his co-accused assaulted the complainant and it is rather the later who himself scuffled with them and also administered beatings to them. It has also been urged that the material prosecution witnesses are the employees of HRTC and as such, they being interested witnesses, their testimony could have not been relied upon. It is also pointed out that place of occurrence, the bus stand and the drivers-conductors working there in HRTC always present at a bus stand, how the convicts could have dared to assault the complainant or prevent him from discharging his duties as a public servant.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, learned Deputy Advocate General while repelling the arguments addressed on behalf of the accused persons has pointed out from the evidence that the accused had consumed liquor and accused Punnu Ram being Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat at that time scolded the complainant for changing the route of the bus bound to Gagla and his co-accused joined hand to beat the complainant and prevent him from discharging his official duties.

7. Learned trial Judge while recording the findings of conviction against all the accused seems to have swayed with passion and has take into consideration the one side version of the episode. Learned trial Judge has not made any effort to find out from the evidence available on record the manner in which the incident sparked off.

8. Admittedly, the genesis of occurrence is change of route of the bus which initially was detailed for Sach from Chamba. Before the departure of the bus to Sach, the bus had to depart for Gagla, however, the bus detailed for Gagla was got struck-up somewhere and the complainant may have taken a decision to detail the bus bound for Sach to Gagla. In this bus the passengers who had to travel to Sach were already sitting. On announcement of change of its route the passengers who had to travel to Gagla had also boarded the same. Accused Punnu Ram and his co-accused had to travel to Gagla, therefore, they had also boarded the said bus. In this manner the passengers going to Sach and towards Gagla side seems to have boarded the same bus. The complainant deployed at that time as Adda Incharge seems to have intervened to see that the passengers of Sach side occupying the bus are made to alight therefrom. The incident as such had sparked off at the spur of moment. It can reasonably be believed that convict Punnu Ram being Pradhan of Gram Panchayat at that time and in public life may have questioned such type of working of HRTC functionaries. It is on this the occurrence seems to have taken place.

9. The medical evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW8 Dr. Vinod Sharma that not only the complainant had received injuries on his person in the occurrence but injuries were also there on the nose left side and lip of accused Punnu Ram. This witness has even noticed swelling in left cheek of accused Raj Kumar. No injury, however, could be detected on the person of accused Surinder Kumar. The place of occurrence being bus stand which generally remained over crowded that too in the evening time because the incident had occurred 3:30 P.M. the accused would have not dared to assault the complainant none else but Adda Incharge for the reasons that there was every likelihood of they being beaten up by the HRTC staff, drivers, conductors and for that matter the passengers also on their indulging in an activity of this nature. As already noticed, accused Punnu Ram being in public life may have put question mark on the working of the HRTC and others and this has enraged complainant Krishan Chand. The possibility of Krishan Chand and other staff members including the drivers/conductors present there being the assailants cannot be ruled out.

10. Cogent and reliable evidence as to which of the accused had inflicted the injuries on the person of the complainant is lacking on record. On the other hand, the so called independent witness Jaiwant PW2 while in the witness box has stated that the injury in the hand of complainant was inflicted by accused Raj Kumar. However, as per own version of the complainant such injury inflicted to him by accused Punnu Ram. In view of such evidence, no liability can be fastened upon either of the accused qua causing such injury in the hand of the complainant. It cannot also be believed to be true that accused Punnu Ram made utterances that ""BUS ADDA INCHARGE USKE JUTE KE BRABAR NAHI HAIN" for the reasons that as per the own testimony of the complainant said accused had not made any such utterances but made utterances that "HE WAS EQUAL TO HIS SHOE". Therefore, very foundation of the genesis pressed in service by the prosecution turns highly doubtful. Though the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of PW2 Jaiwant Ram is shown to have been recorded on the day of occurrence itself i.e. 19.12.2016 however, as per his version while in the witness box the same was recorded on the next day. Though it is not an important circumstance, however, such contradiction casts cloud qua the manner in which the investigation has been conducted in this case. Even there are contradictions as to who was the conductor deployed with the bus in question and the duration of the occurrence continued on the spot. The other contradictions pointed out by Mr. Sharma, learned Senior Advocate though are minor in nature, however, when the prosecution story not inspire confidence also falsify the prosecution case against the accused.

11. True it is, that all the three accused had consumed alcohol. However, as per the medical evidence they were not under the influence thereof. On this score also, it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that being under the influence of alcohol they assaulted the complainant and prevented him from discharging his duties as a public servant.

12. For all the reasons hereinabove, and also the inconsistencies and contradictions occurred in the prosecution evidence, no findings of conviction could have been recorded against the accused persons. The present rather is a case where the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubts. The reappraisal of the evidence available on record reveals that on the basis thereof two views emerges on record and as per the settled legal principles in the criminal administration of justice the view favouring the convicts has to be accepted and the benefit of doubt given to them. This Court, therefore, finds the present a fit case where the accused are entitled to the benefit of doubt and consequently acquittal of the charges framed against each of them.

13. In view of the findings as recorded hereinabove, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly accepted. Consequently, the impugned judgment is quashed and set aside and the accused acquitted of the charge framed against each of them. The personal bonds executed by each of them shall stand cancelled and the surety bonds discharged. The appeal is accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Sh. Ram Lal ...Appellant.
Versus
Sh. Bishan Singh and others ...Respondents.

FAO No. 135 of 2012
Decided on: 09.12.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant pleaded that accident was caused by the negligence of the driver of the vehicle – FIR was registered against the claimant – acquittal was recorded on the ground that case was not proved beyond reasonable doubt and not on the ground that the accident was caused by the negligence of other driver- the statement of PW-1 was shattered in the cross-examination – negligence was not proved and the claim petition was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed.(Para-6 to 11)

For the appellant: Mr. Ashok K. Tyagi, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rajesh Verma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Nemo for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to award, dated 25th February, 2012, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 62-N/2 of 2008, titled as Shri Ram Lal versus Shri Bishan Singh and others, whereby the claim petition filed by the appellant-claimant-injured came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned award").

2. The Tribunal has specifically held that the appellant-claimant-injured was himself driving the scooter rashly and negligently at the time of the accident and dismissed the claim petition in terms of the impugned award.

3. The appellant-claimant-injured has called in question the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in dismissing the claim petition.

4. Thus, the sole question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the Tribunal has fallen in an error in dismissing the claim petition? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

5. It was for the appellant-claimant-injured to prove that the accident was caused by the driver, namely Shri Dharmatam Singh, who was driving vehicle bearing registration No. HP-18 A-1368 rashly and negligently, has failed to do so.

6. Admittedly, FIR No. 5/2007, Ext. RW-1/A, was lodged against appellant-claimant-injured, which culminated into final report in terms of Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "Cr.P.C"), was presented before the Court of competent jurisdiction. The trial was conducted by the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Rajgarh, Camp at Sarahan, District Sirmaur, H.P. (for short "the trial Court"). During trial, the statement of the accused, i.e. appellant-claimant-injured, was recorded under Section 313 CrPC. In the said statement, he pleaded not guilty, but had not led any evidence to prove that the FIR was wrongly lodged against him and the accident was caused by the driver of another vehicle.

7. The trial Court, vide judgment, dated 17th July, 2010 in Criminal Case No. 21/2 of 2009/07, titled as The State of Himachal Pradesh versus Ram Lal (Annexure PX) has acquitted the accused, i.e. the appellant-claimant-injured, while holding that the prosecution had failed to prove the case beyond the reasonable doubt and not on the basis that the accident was not caused by the appellant-claimant-injured, but, by the driver of the another vehicle, namely Shri Dharmatam Singh.

8. It is apt to record herein that the accused, i.e. the appellant-claimant-injured, has not moved an application during the trial before the trial Court for re-investigation or further investigation in terms of Section 173 (8) Cr.P.C. in order to establish that the accident was caused by the driver of the another vehicle, namely Shri Dharmatam Singh and not by him. He contested the case, undergone the trial and earned acquittal from the trial Court, as discussed hereinabove, on the ground that the prosecution had failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

9. The appellant-claimant-injured filed the claim petition much later before the Tribunal for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, was resisted by the respondents and the issues were framed.

10. It was for the appellant-claimant-injured to plead and prove, prima facie, that Shri Dharmatam Singh, i.e. the driver of another vehicle involved in the accident, had driven the same rashly and negligently and caused the accident, in which he sustained injuries, has not led any evidence to that extent except PW-4, Shri Hari Mohan. But, the statement of the said witness has been shattered during his own cross-examination and also by HC Jaswant Singh (RW-1), who had conducted the investigation of the case. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly made the discussion right from paras 9 to 21 of the impugned award.

11. Having said so, the impugned award is well reasoned and legal one, needs no interference.

12. Viewed thus, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

13. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Ashwani Kumar .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 220 of 2007.

Date of Decision: 9th December, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279 and 337- Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 187- Accused was driving a vehicle in a rash and negligent manner- the vehicle hit the informant and caused injuries to him- the accused was tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal that testimonies of the prosecution witnesses corroborated each other – medical evidence also corroborated their version – the identity of the accused was also established – minor contradictions in the testimonies of witnesses are not sufficient to doubt them- appeal allowed- accused convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of I.P.C. and 187 of M.V. Act.(Para-9 to 16)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. .A.G.

For the Respondent: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P. rendered on 15.07.2006 in Crl. Case No. 36-I-2003, RBT No. 381-II-2003, whereby, she acquitted the accused/respondent herein for his allegedly committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 of the IPC and under Section 187 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that the injured/complainant was standing near Inder Pal Chowk on 3.4.2000 at about 9.30 a.m. along with Rajinder Kumar and Mohan Singh. In the meantime, a Van bearing NO. HP-02-6265 came from Hoshiarpur side which was being driven by the accused in a rash and negligent manner as a result of which he struck it with the complainant and caused injuries to him. On the aforesaid facts, FIR was registered in the police station concerned. The police started the investigations in the case and completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the competent Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the IPC and under Section 187 of the Motor Vehicles Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 10 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-1 Hoshiar Singh besides PW-5 Rajinder Kumar and PW-6 Mohan Singh, all of whom at the relevant time were standing at the relevant site of occurrence, all depose in unison bereft of any intra se inconsistency qua the genesis of the prosecution case embodied in the relevant FIR borne on Ex.PW1/A. A close circumspect reading of their respective testifications unveil qua therein not occurring any inter se contradictions vis-a-vis their narrations qua the occurrence embodied in their respective examinations-in-chief vis-a-vis the apposite communications qua it articulated in their respective cross-examinations nor also their respective testifications convey qua theirs testifying with any vice of any intra se contradictions. Significantly, the learned trial Court was enjoined to mete deference to their unstained testifications qua the relevant occurrence, whereas, it has for grossly perverse or absurd reasons emanating from it grossly mis-appraising the creditworthy testifications of PW-1, PW5 and PW-6, proceeded to record an order of acquittal vis-a-vis the accused.

10. The MLC qua the victim borne on Ex.PW8/A underscores qua the doctor concerned, who held the victim/complainant to medical examination, noticing occurrence of injuries on his left foot, mouth, right shoulder and on his right hand.

11. The injuries as stand borne therein unfold qua not only the left foot holding injuries but injuries on other portion of the body of the victim also standing begotten thereon, in sequel to a collision occurring inter se the vehicle driven by the accused with PW-1. With PW-8 disclosing in the apposite MLC qua the victim qua there occurring bruises on his left foot weighed with the learned trial Court to underscore the worth of his testification qua the vehicle colliding with his person arousable from the factum qua with the victim evidently standing by the side of the road, thereupon the position occupied thereat by him warranting his suffering an injury on his right foot, injury whereof yet remained omitted to stand underscored in the apposite MLC. However, the aforesaid reasoning as stands propounded by the learned trial Court to belittle the creditworthiness of the testification of PW-1 besides the testifications of other ocular witnesses, who deposed as PW-5 and PW-6 is bereft of any tenacity given the learned trial Court omitting to revere the factum qua injuries other than the one(s) occurring on the left foot of the victim also standing pronounced in the apposite MLC borne on Ex.PW8/A also with the sanctity of the testifications rendered by PW-1 besides by other ocular witnesses to the relevant occurrence, who testified as PW-5 and PW-6 as occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief remaining for reasons aforestated uneroded thereupon they warranted imputation of credence thereon significantly when on theirs standing subjected to the ordeal of a rigorous cross-examination by the learned defence counsel they remained unscathed in the ordeal nor any communications occur therewithin in portrayal qua theirs at the relevant time not eye witnessing the occurrence, thereupon contrarily it was inapt for the learned trial Court to dis-impute credence to their relevant testifications qua the occurrence.

12. Furthermore, PW-4, the owner of the relevant vehicle in his examination-in-chief deposed qua since 2000, the accused/respondent his brother manning the driver's seat of the relevant vehicle. With the aforesaid manifestations occurring in the testification of the owner of the relevant vehicle besides with the learned defence counsel while holding him to cross-examination, his not putting apposite suggestions to him to rip his aforesaid testification of its tenacity wherefrom the inevitable sequel is qua the accused/respondent herein at the relevant time manning the driver's seat of the relevant vehicle also with the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C., his not making communications therein qua his at the relevant time not manning the driver's seat of the relevant vehicle rather some other person, specifically named by him driving the relevant vehicle at the relevant time, wherefrom, a conclusion can stand erected qua the defence acquiescing qua the accused manning the driver's seat of the relevant vehicle at the relevant time.

13. Be that as it may, delay, if any, occurring in the lodging of the FIR at the instance of the complainant/victim, who stood at the relevant time accompanied by his collegiates PW-5 and PW-6 stands sufficiently explained conspicuously arising from the defence counsel while holding PW-1 to cross-examination his putting an affirmative suggestion to him holding echoings therein qua the college whereto the aforesaid were to proceed standing located at a distance of 10 kilometers from the relevant site of occurrence whereto an affirmative answer stood purveyed by PW-1 besides with the defence counsel while holding PW-5 to cross-examination, putting an affirmative suggestion to him qua on the relevant day PW-1, PW-5 and PW6 standing enjoined to appear in the English paper scheduled to commence from 10 a.m. and lasting upto 1.00 pm., whereto an affirmative answer stood purveyed by PW-5, is an evident disclosure qua the defence thereupon acquiescing qua given the relevant accident occurring at 9.30 a.m., whereas, when for reasons aforesaid PW1 besides PW-5 and PW6 stood enjoined to take their examination scheduled from 10 a.m. to 1.00 p.m. at a place located at a distance of 10-12 kilometer from the site of occurrence qua theirs thereupon standing constrained to not promptly lodge an FIR qua the occurrence with the police station concerned, wherefrom a conclusion can stand drawn qua the delay in the lodging of the FIR standing satisfactorily explained. In sequel, it was inapt for the learned trial Court to conclude qua the delay as has occurred in the lodging of the FIR standing not satisfactorily explained by the prosecution.

14. The contention of the learned counsel appearing for the accused/respondent herein qua with the Investigating Officer in the site plan borne on Ex.PW8/A describing the site of occurrence to be triangular whereas in his testification his contradicting the aforesaid factum by voicing qua it being circular, would not erode the efficacy nor the credibility of the testifications of PW-1, PW-5 and PW-6, as it appears to arise only for want of inapposite geometrical knowledge of the investigating officer concerned.

15. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court suffers from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

16. Consequently, for the foregoing reasons, the the instant appeal is allowed and judgment of the learned trial Court is set aside. Accordingly, the accused/respondent is convicted for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279 and 337 of the IPC and under Section 187 of the Motor Vehicles Act. Accused/respondent be produced before this Court on 28th December, 2016 for his being heard on the quantum of sentence.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Versus

Maharaj Kumar and others .....Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 434 of 2007
Reserved on: 22.11.2016
Decided on : 09/12/2016.

Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954- Section 16(1)(a)(i)- Sample of Vanaspati was taken, which was found to be adulterated on analysis- the accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held in appeal that the sample was analyzed by Central Food Laboratory after three years- mere failure to pass Baudouin test is not sufficient to convict a person – appeal dismissed.

(Para-10 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.

For the Respondents: Mr. Nimish Gupta, counsel, for respondent No.2.
Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Mr. K.D.Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr.Sanjeev Sood & Mr.Ankit Aggarwal, Advocates for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 25.07.2007 by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba, District Chamba, Himachal Pradesh, in Complaint No. 80(A)-III of 2000, whereby he acquitted the respondents (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that Food Inspector went to village Sahoo and purchased three packets of Bhoj Vanaspati on 25.2.2000 from accused Maharaj Kumar after disclosing her identity and showing her intention to take the sample for the purpose of analysis. The Food Inspector has paid Rs.45/- to the accused in the presence of witnesses. The sample of Bhoj Vanaspati packets so purchased were wrapped in three wrapping papers and thereafter pasted with gum and paper slip bearing code No.1334. The signatures of accused and witnesses were taken in such a manner that paper slip and wrapping paper both carried the part of the signatures according to the procedure. One sealed packet of the sample of the Bhoj Vanaspati was sent to the public/chemical analyst for analysis in a sealed wooden box with Form-VII under registered parcel. A copy of Form VII alongwith the specimen impression of the seal used to seal the packets of the sample was sent separately to the Public Analyst vide separate registered letter and remaining two parts of the sample alongwith two copies of Form-VII with seal impression were also handed over to the Local Heath Authority, Chamba. The Public Analyst, Kandaghat found the sample to be adulterated vide report No. 80 dated 6.4.2000. The Food Inspector submitted all the documents concerned of the case in the office of Chief Medical Officer, Chamba and obtained written consent to launch the prosecution against the accused under the Act. The Chief Medical Officer accorded the sanction. The Local Health Authority was informed separately regarding the launching of prosecution and accused was informed through registered post alongwith the copy of Public Analyst Report. The accused persons were summoned and supplied the copy of complaint and documents in compliance of Section 207 Cr.P.C. Upon consideration of complaint and documents there existed a prima facie case against accused No.1. So notice of accusation was put to the accused under Section 16(1)(a)(i) read with Section 7(1) of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (hereinafter for short referred to as 'the Act') and also read over and explained to the accused in Hindi, to which the accused person pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The accused No.1 moved an application under Section 20A of the Act for impleading M/s K.V.Trading Company, Damtal as co-accused. The application of the accused was allowed by the Court on 7.10.2002 and M/s K.V.Trading Company Damtal was impleaded as co-accused in the present case to whom notice of accusation under Section 16(1)(a)(i) was put and this accused has also moved an application under Section 20-A of the Act to implead M/s Suraj Industries Sansarpur Terrace as co-accused who has moved an application as co-accused and the application was duly allowed on 30.04.2003 and accused No. 3 and 4 were impleaded as co-accused in the present case to whom notice of accusation was put on 7.4.2004, under Section 16(1)(a)(i) read with Section 7(i) of the Act to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The nominee of Suraj Industries Shri S.K.Uppadhaye moved an application under Section 13(2) of the Act for sending the second sample for analysis to Central Food Laboratory on 26.6.2003 which was duly allowed and the second sample was sent to Director Central Food Laboratory, Mysore along with a memorandum containing specimen seal impression and the report of the Central Food Laboratory, Mysore was received by the Court on 28.10.2003. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused a complaint was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Section 16(1)(a)(i) of the Act to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 4 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They chose to lead evidence and examined two witnesses in their defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by it of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsels appearing for the respondents have with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record by it hence theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The accused respondent No.1 Maharaj Kumar died during the pendency of the appeal before this Court. Hence, the prosecution case against him stands abated.

10. Sample of Bhoj Vanaspati comprised in Ext.PW-3/A stood collected by the Food Inspector concerned from the premises of accused/respondent No.1. On its standing dispatched for analysis to the public analyst concerned whereat it stood subjected to analysis, the public analyst concerned in his opinion comprised in Ext.PW-1/A recorded therein the hereinafter extracted conclusions:-

"Examination of label:- All the required particulars are mentioned.

2. Appearance on melting: Clear, free from suspended and other foreign matter.
3. Taste and smell unobjectionable.
4. Staleness or rancidity absent.
5. Added colouring matter- Absent.
6. Moisture=0.024%
7. Melting point=38
8. Butro refractometer reading at 60=40.5.
9. Unsaponifiable matter =0.99% by weight.
10. Free fatty acids (calculated as oleic acid)=0.11%
11. Test for argemone oil= Negative.
12. Baudouin test for sesame oil= negative
13. Test for mineral oil= negative. And I am of the opinion that the contents of the sample give negative baudouin test for sesame oil whereas it should be positive. The vanaspati should contain seasame oil in sufficient guantity to produce at least 2 red unit in a 1 cm. cell on a Lovibond scale as tested by the prescribed procedure. The sample of vanaspati is therefore adulterated."

11. Thereafter the relevant sample stood also dispatched to the Central Food Laboratory, Mysore, whereat on its standing subjected to analysis, its apposite opinion embedded in its apposite report encapsulated in Ext.PA displays qua its standing positive for rancidity besides negative for baudouin test also therewithin a portrayal exists of its holding therewithin fatty acids beyond the permissible limits. Significantly, the retailer besides the manufacturer on the latters' subsequent impleadment alongwith the retailer stood acquitted for the charges whereagainst they stood subjected to face trial before the learned CJM concerned. The legality of the findings recorded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate qua the sample of the relevant Food Item on its initially standing subjected to analysis before the Public Analyst, Himachal Pradesh, Kandaghat besides subsequently to analysis before the Central Food Laboratory, Mysore, at the latter laboratory whereat on its standing subjected to analysis, an opinion emanated therefrom qua its standing tested positive for rancidity besides its holding fatty contents beyond the permissible limits do not entail upon this Court for pronouncing their reversal, significantly when the aforesaid demerits occurring in the relevant sample as stand unveiled in the opinion embedded in Ext.PA stood noticed to exist therein after three years elapsing since the collection of the sample of the relevant food item by the Food Inspector concerned from the retail outlet of respondent No.1 besides when the relevant demeritorious occurrence therein or the occurrence therein of fatty acids beyond the permissible limit(s) remained unmanifested in the previous report of the public analyst concerned, opinion whereof embodied in Ext.PW-1/A stood pronounced in prompt sequel to its collection by the Food

Inspector concerned from the retail outlet of respondent No.1 also when therewithin no presence therein of fatty acids beyond permissible limit(s) stands displayed therein whereupon obviously it stood aptly concluded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate qua its occurrence therein hence spurring from a delay of three years occurring on its analysis standing made by the Central Food Laboratory, Mysore. The learned Deputy Advocate General has yet with much force and vigour contended qua with the report of the public analyst concerned also the subsequent report of the Central Food Laboratory, Mysore consistently besides with inter se harmony spelling therein qua the sample of the relevant food item on standing subjected to baudouin test begetting the sequel of the relevant sample of the relevant food item displaying negativity qua its reaction vis.a.vis. baudouin test to which it stood subjected to whereupon on anvil of Section 2 sub section (l) and (m) of the Act, which stands extracted hereinafter:

> (l) if the quality or purity of the article falls below the prescribed standard or its constituents are present in quantities not within the prescribed limits of variability but which renders it injurious to health;
> (m) if the quality or purity of the article falls below the prescribed standard or its constituents are present in quantities not within the prescribed limits of variability but which does not render it injuries to health;

He canvasses qua even if penal culpability on invocation of clause (l) thereof is unfastenable qua the accused/respondents arousable from the factum qua the presence of an imperative food ingredient standing detected therein to hold its presence therein in a quantum beyond permissible limits also thereupon it rendering the relevant food item to be injurious to health, significantly when hereat the relevant presence beyond permissible limits of fatty acids in the relevant food item stands pronounced by this Court for reasons aforestated to not invite the inculpability of the accused/respondents qua infraction standing begotten qua the mandate of Section 2(l) of the Act yet dehors the aforesaid penal inculpability constituted in Clause (l) of Section 2 of the Act not warranting attraction vis.a.vis the accused/respondents, nonetheless the apt penal inculpability encapsulated in clause (m) of Section 2, provisions whereof arouse penal inculpability qua the accused/respondents dehors want of presence therein beyond permissible limits of a prohibited food item besides dehors its presence therein not being injurious to health rather conspicuously when the factum of it's occurrence therein spurs from its being a statutory imperative constituent therein also when thereupon the quality or purity of the relevant food item besides its not falling upto the prescribed standards gets substantially affected, thereupon also the relevant statutory penal inculpability of the accused/respondents stands attracted. Nowat when hereat with 'sesame' specifically standing displayed in Appendix A.19(x) of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules, (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules') provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "It shall contain raw or refined sesame (til) oil in sufficient quantity so that when the Vanaspati is mixed with refined groundnut oil in the proportion of 20:80, the colour produced by the Baudouin test shall not be lighter than 2.0 red unit in a 1 cm cell on a Lovibond scale."

to imperatively mark its presence therein i.e. in 'Vansapati' in a quantity sufficient for facilitating the holding of an efficacious/affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon whereupon the sample of 'Vanaspati' on standing tested would portray qua its quality or purity not falling below the prescribed standards enjoins its manufacturer to add 'sesame' in 'Vanaspati' within the mandate of the afore extracted provisions. Before proceeding to adjudicate the aforesaid submission addressed herebefore by the learned Deputy Advocate General, reliance as stands placed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate upon the mandate recorded by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in a judgment reported in Municipal Committee Amritsar Vs. Mehar Singh 1972 page 604 wherein the Punjab and Haryana High Court, has on anvil of the statement of the public analyst concerned which existed therebefore unraveling therein qua 'sesame' imported from the mediterranean region evincing no reaction to baudouin test, whereupon it blindfoldedly straightaway bereft of any evidence for sustaining the aforesaid factum recorded a conclusion qua the 'baudouin test' as stood carried hereat upon the relevant food item by the public analyst concerned in sequel whereto he opined qua its begetting the sequel of its standing tested negative qua yet thereupon no penal culpability standing attracted qua the accused herein. Consequently, the aforesaid reason meted by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate to hold of the relevant food item on standing subjected to baudouin test its begetting the sequel of its testing negative thereto by merely anvilling it qua hence with 'sesame' occurring in the sample of 'Vanaspati' hereat also standing imported from the mediterranean region by its relevant manufacturer hereat thereupon it too on facing the relevant baudouin test, a result in the negative ensuing therefrom is palpably per se highly surmisal, conspicuously when hereat neither any articulation stood bespoken by the accused/respondents in their respective statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C qua the manufacturer hereat importing 'sesame' from the mediterranean region nor also any suggestion in consonance therewith stood put to the prosecution witnesses.

12. Apparently the reasons recorded by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Municipal Committee, Amritsar (supra) while making an interpretation of clauses (l) and (m) of Section 2 of the 'Act' qua with sesame merely being a facilitator for holding the baudouin test upon the relevant sample of 'Vanaspati' whereas it not evidently standing displayed by the echoings made therebefore by the expert concerned thereat qua it being injurious to health thereupon it concomitantly concluded qua the sample of 'Vanaspati' would hence stand unrendered to be an adulterated food item reiteratedly merely on the holding of 'baudouin test' on the sample of 'Vanaspati' bespeakings emanating therefrom qua its begetting the sequel of its testing negative thereto also visibly stand generated from its misconstruing the import of Appendix A.19(x) of the Rules whereupon the aforesaid reason propounded therein does not constitute a binding adhereable rule nor a ratio decidendi contrarily its overlooking the provisions engrafted in Appendix A.19(x) of the Rules, renders hence the verdict of the Punjab & Haryana High Court (supra) holding therewithin the aforestated reasons for nullifying qua sample of 'Vanaspati' failing the 'baudouin test' being visibly per incuriam.

13. The aforestated Appendix A.19(x) of the Rules casts a statutory obligation upon the manufacturer to while manufacturing 'Vanaspati' to add therein 'sesame' in a quantity sufficient for thereupon its efficaciously/affirmatively facilitating the holding of "baudouin test" thereon for thereupon within the ambit of clause (m) of Section 2 of the Act, the purity besides quality of 'Vanaspati' standing efficaciously/affirmatively tested, reiteratedly when thereunder besides in the afore extracted relevant portion of the Rules 'sesame' stands statutorily constituted to be an apt facilitator for the public analyst concerned for an apt determination standing recorded by him qua the quality or purity of Vanaspati also thereupon the mere factum of its presence therein in a quantum defacilitating an efficacious/affirmative holding of baudouin test upon the relevant sample of 'Vanaspati' dehors its minimal inapt statutorily prescribed presence therein not begetting any injury to the health of the consumers would yet invite penal inculpability vis.a.vis. the accused respondents.

14. Be that as it may, the prosecution stood enjoined to adduce cogent evidence in display of the relevant manufacturer in his manufacturing 'Vanaspati' his prior thereto eliciting an opinion from the expert qua the quantum of presence of 'sesame' therein also evidence stood enjoined to be adduced by the prosecution qua the manufacturer of 'Vanaspati' despite eliciting the report of the expert concerned qua the quantum of sesame standing added therein besides its addition therein being construable to be in a quantity sufficient for its hence facilitating the holding of "baudouin test" thereon for thereupon its quality besides purity standing tested, his yet infracting the mandate of the apposite expert besides the prosecution stood enjoined to adduce material comprised in its placing on record the 'label' borne on the relevant parcel of 'Vanaspati' displaying therein the quantum of presence of 'sesame' therein also thereupon it would prove the trite factum qua the quantum of presence of sesame therein holding a quantity insufficient whereupon obviously the holding of an efficacious/affirmative 'baudouin test' thereon stood defacilitated. However, the prosecution has abysmally failed to adduce the aforesaid relevant best evidence. In aftermath, the effect of the aforesaid omission(s) is qua an inference standing enjoined to be erected by this Court qua the manufacturer hereat of 'Vanaspati' not infracting the opinion obtained by him from the expert concerned qua the quantum of sesame to be added to
